Guilford County Politics.

The County Democratic Convention will be called to order to-morrow at noon precisely. At that hour an organization will be perfected by the election of a Chairman and Secretary. Nominations for the various positions will then be in order—after they are made, a recess will probably be taken in order to give the delegates from the townships time for consultation, &c. This we believe is in accordance with the Democratic plan of holding Conventions heretofore.

Township Committees.

The Democratic Township Committees of Guilford are requested to meet in the Court House at 11 A. M. to-morrow. A full attendance is desired.

—Who will be the Democratic nominee for Sheriff? Will it be Mr. Stafford, the present incumbent who it is said has made a very excellent officer—or Mr. Cunningham, another very worthy aspirant. Then we have Mr. Hanner, Mr. W. P. McLean, and probably others, all said to be good men. Let the Convention nominate the best man.

John A. Barringer for House Representatives.

Editor Patriot:—We desire to endorse and urge upon the Convention which meets in this city to-morrow, the claims of Mr. John A. Barringer for the House of Representatives. Mr. Barringer is a young man, energetic and able and thoroughly devoted to the cause of the Democracy. He can stir up the voters vigorously and enthusiastically. He will be a bold, strong candidate and make a lively campaign.

Besides all this, he will know what to do in the Legislature and will ever be ready and anxious to serve the people of Guilford, for he is identified with their interests. Nominate him and the election will be carried, and a most excellent representative secured.

MANY VOTERS.
Greensboro, Aug. 20, 1880.

For Treasurer of Guilford County.

Editor Patriot: A large number of our people want to see Mr. A. P. Eckel nominated for Treasurer. We look upon him as a sound man, well qualified to do the duties of the position, and a man with whom the county funds would be safe. We have nothing against the other candidates, personally, they are all good men, but the Treasurer ought to be centrally located where he will be accessible to the people, and when they come for their money they can get it, and not have to look around for him and in case they can't find him have the county orders to get them cashed. I am for the ticket; but we all have our preferences.

GUILFORD.
Gilmer's Store, Aug. 16, '80.

Capt. Ralph P. Buxton,

Late

Of the Confederate Army.

[Raleigh News.]

It will be remembered that in the reports of the speeches of Judge Buxton during the campaign, he has had a great deal to say about the war, who brought it on, about fighting against the Union, the destruction of a million of lives, &c. It was unknown to the Governor, and probably to the people generally, until last Saturday, at Carthage, that the Judge had ever taken any part in fighting against the Union, but information came in possession of the Governor that early in the war Judge Buxton was engaged in raising a company for service in the Confederate army, but before his company was ready for a fight, he resigned his Captaincy, turned his command over to his nephew and went to Greensboro and engaged in the manufacture of saltpetre to make gunpowder for the boys to shoot the Union with.

In consequence of this valuable service rendered the Confederacy, in trying to destroy the Union, Governor Jarvis turned to the Judge and introduced him to the audience as CAPTAIN RALPH P. BUXTON, late of the Confederate army, but more recently of the Saltpetre Bureau.

It is utterly impossible to describe the effect this announcement made upon the audience. The applause was tremendous, the Captain simply smiled one of those peculiar smiles, when the Governor gets the dead wood on him.

The Governor urged the Captain to continue his joint canvass and not to leave him, but he said his Executive Committee had made other and different arrangements and he had to obey.

It was Great Pity, So it Was.

[Raleigh News.]

It was great pity, so it was, that villainous saltpetre was digged out of the bowels of the harmless earth which many good tall Yankees had destroyed.

So cowardly, for the mere mention of it at Carthage has made that consistent Union man, Judge Buxton, fly from before the face of his foe. Thus conscience does make cowards of us all, and the Captain who would have been a soldier, or a conscript father, but for that villainous saltpetre up at Greensboro, flies from the ghosts of Union soldiers by his means sent

To sulphurous and tormenting flames, 'E'en in the blossoms of their sins, Unhous'd, disappointed, unanell'd With all their imperfection on their heads.

Special Notice.

W. C. Phillips of Randolph County is authorized to solicit business for the PATRIOT.

—Mr. Henry Willis will receive and receipt for subscriptions to the Patriot.—Delegates and others in attendance upon the County Convention, to-morrow, can hand their names to Mr. Willis—or call at the Patriot Office. For the Campaign, or until 1st of January, 1881—The Weekly Patriot will be sent to subscribers, postage paid, for 50 cents. The Daily Patriot 3 months for $1.

—Rev. J. E. Pinnix, of Reidsville, was in the city to-day.

—Please hand in church notices for Sunday services by noon to-morrow.

—Don't fail to attend the interesting meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association at their Hall, in this city to-night, at 8 o'clock.

—Mr. C. J. Wheeler's name will be urged for the House of Representatives, from Guilford, before the County Democratic Convention to-morrow.

—The preliminary line of the Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Railway, up the Yadkin Valley will be commenced in a few days. Col. L. C. Jones, chief engineer, and Dr. Nereus Mendenhall, one of his assistants are now preparing to examine the line and make an instrumental survey as soon as possible.

—The engineer of the shifting engine at the depot seems to have had bad luck to-day. We are told that he is a very faithful employee—be that as it may, we are called on to print another "run-over" by his engine. At 4 P. M., in backing his engine, it partially ran over a buggy containing a lady and gentleman from the country—names not known. One of the buggy wheels was smashed up; but little injury was done to the lady or gentleman.

Might Have Been a Serious Accident.

About 3 o'clock this afternoon while one of Houston & Bros' wagons was crossing the Railway track at the depot, the engineer of the shifting engine, intentionally or the driver says, backed his engine on the wagon, upsetting it on the horse and driver, tearing a sack of flour to pieces, and damaging the wagon. The driver was also badly bruised about the shoulders, side and legs.

The Heaviest Freight Train Yet.

Engine "No. 5," one of the new ten wheel engines of the Richmond & Danville Railroad, in charge of engineer, A. W. Smith, reached this city yesterday morning from Richmond with a train of twenty-five loaded cars. This is claimed to be the heaviest train ever brought over the road.

A Horse Thief Captured.

Some days ago we reported the arrest of one Peter Dewberry (negro) on suspicion, for horse stealing. The horse which he had in his possession proved to be the property of P. D. Leonard, of Lexington, N. C. Mr. Leonard came down this morning and got his horse, and took the thief back to Lexington.

Justice Mendenhall's Court.

Justice Mendenhall had two cases before him this morning. The first—State vs Thomas Kirkman and John Oakley—for breaking into the house of one Sarah Lee, near the corporate limits, about three weeks ago, at night.

Judgment against the defendants: fined $5 and costs.

Second case—State vs John Oakley for throwing rocks at the house of Edward Thomas in February last. Defendant plead guilty. He was fined a penny and costs.

A Penitentiary Convict Caught.

A negro convict from our State Penitentiary was caught at the depot of the Piedmont Air Line in this city about 3 o'clock this morning—while trying to steal a ride on the truck of a freight train car—which had just come in from the West. He was discovered by Mr. Holt, an employee of the Railroad Company, and was at once arrested by Mr. Holt with the aid of the Conductor, Mr. Watson. He resisted at first, but was finally captured and taken to the County jail. The rascal gave his name as Lewis Miller and says he was sentenced for 15 years. Up to the time of his escape he had served only one month of his sentence—working on the Western North Carolina Railroad.

The Walking Match To-Morrow.

The walking match which has been gotten up for the benefit of the Greensboro Fire Company, will positively come off to-morrow at Benbow Hall—beginning at 9 A. M., and continuing until 10 P. M. There will be three contestants.

Sack races will come off between 3 and 4 P. M., and 8 and 9 P. M.

The entertainment is for a very worthy object, one that should be encouraged. The price of a single admission is only 25 cents, children 15 cents.

The ladies are asked to patronize the entertainment. Good order will be preserved. Go—we know you will not regret it.

Personal Intelligence.

Dr. Nereus Mendenhall has accepted a position on the C. F. & Y. V. R. R., on the survey up the Yadkin Valley.

Capt. C. H. Scott, of Raleigh, who formerly occupied the same position having resigned to accept a place in Raleigh.

Rev. Mark S. Gross, who was offered by the Pope the bishopric of North Carolina last spring, has finally concluded to decline the appointment. He will retain his position as pastor of St. Thomas's Church, Wilmington. He announced the fact of his declination to his congregation last Sunday, giving as a reason therefor that he was not physically equal to the labors of a diocese, and was fully occupied in his present charge. Rev. Mark S. Gross is a brother to the Bishop of Savannah, and both are natives of Baltimore.

—Our worthy townsman, Mr. W. H. Hill, came near being seriously injured by jumping from a moving freight train at Jamestown yesterday. It seems that the freight which leaves here early in the morning was a little behind time. Mr. Hill was a passenger, and on reaching Jamestown where he wished to get off the train did not stop, but slackened speed only. Mr. Hill jumped from the car, and was very badly hurt: his face was cut by the fall, and his shoulder considerably bruised, to say nothing of scratches and bruises elsewhere on his person. Dr. Cooke, of Jamestown dressed Mr. Hill's wounds. He returned home last evening, and is now confined to his room.

—The attention of the ladies of Greensboro, is called to the fact that Levi Houston has just received at his Harness and Saddle establishment (over Houston & Bros store,) a nice lot of Webbing for ladies' belts, which can be made up in the very latest styles, and on short notice. All the different colors can be supplied. Call early.

GREENSBORO, N. C.

Friday Evening, Aug. 20, 1880.

—Col. William McWilliams, of Baltimore, a Republican, will stump Indiana and Pennsylvania for Hancock, having resigned his office under the Government to do so.

—Chicago has 716 miles of sidewalks, 322½ miles of public sewers and 443 miles of water-mains. The commissioner of public works there estimates that the city wastes $1,000,000 annually on political loafers as public employees.

—Dr. Tanner left New York for a visit to his father, at Litchfield, on the 18th inst. He expects to regain his strength fully by the first of next month, and will then return home to arrange for a lecturing tour. He confines himself to three meals a day, as his intense craving for food has ceased. He eats much less now than the majority of men in good health.

—A young man named Phillips married Miss Jane E. Howard, an heiress, in Brooklyn, in 1835, and in 1841 disappeared, leaving his wife and one child. In 1850 Mrs. Phillips, believing herself to be a widow, married Mr. Henry Wiggins, of Parkville. Last year she died, leaving a valuable estate, but no will. A few weeks ago Mr. Phillips reappeared, after an absence of forty years, and the property is likely to be the subject of some interesting litigation.

—The Statesville Landmark says: The name of Rev. Calvin H. Wiley, of Winston, N. C., has been suggested in connection with the agency of the Peabody Fund, recently made vacant by the death of Rev. Dr. B. Sears. The suggestion is a most excellent one. Mr. Wiley has had long and valuable experience in educational matters, and no man would fill the office more capably or discharge its duties more conscientiously than he.

—Dr. Michael Steck, of Lyeomington county, who was the Republican candidate for Senator in the Twenty-fourth District four years ago, and, in 1878, the Greenback candidate for Lieutenant Governor, has come out for Hancock. He gives as his reasons that: "General Hancock is both a Statesman and a soldier. General Garfield, though a well-educated man, is neither. General Hancock is a patriot. Gen. Garfield, like many other would-be Statesmen in both parties, is nothing but a politician or a very ignorant man for the reason that, if his course with reference to Credit Mobilier and the De Golyer pavement contract was not corrupt, venal, then he is one of the most unsophisticated and ignorant of men."

—An enterprising citizen of Elgin, Ill., has embarked in the business of frog farming under the most brilliant auspices and with signal success. For the first time in the history of new enterprises all the croakers have united their voices to give the undertaking warranty of success. The frog farmer intends to supply the markets of St. Louis, Cincinnati and Chicago with the monstrous green "goaling" frogs, well fattened, and he has planted an acre and a quarter of ponds and swamps, which otherwise would have served no higher purpose than that of a cranberry bog, with a crop that literally jumps up to grow.

Stating the Case Fairly.

From the North American (Rep.)

The stories are in circulation to the effect that frauds have been systematically committed in the compilation of the Southern census returns may safely be set down as falsehoods. Under Gen. Walker's supervision the census throughout the country has been conducted on purely business principles. Honest and competent men have been employed, and the results they announce are worthy of implicit confidence. We may expect the cry of frauds to rise louder as the political campaign proceeds, but it does not deserve any attention.

Guilford County Democratic Convention.

To-morrow the good and true men of Guilford county who stand opposed to the doctrines, practices and spirit of the party which manages the administration of the Federal government, will assemble in the Court House, in person and by representatives, for the purpose of naming suitable men for the General Assembly, and for the several county offices.

Any exhortation from us in favor of harmony were perhaps useless; for we think that our people are deeply imbued with a sense of the necessity of giving up all mere personal preferences, in order to make our counsels harmonious and efficient on this occasion so important to the interests of our country.

The success of 1876, in the restoration of a wise, honest and frugal administration of our State government, must be reassured in 1880. The people of all classes and conditions should be unmistakably assured by our action this year, that, beyond all peradventure, the intelligence and public virtue of the State, must, and will control the affairs of the State. A lapse into the policy and practices spawned by reconstruction in North Carolina would work ruin, such as a generation of good government could not repair.

The proceedings of the day will also have their national significance. For if, by the prudence and activity of our political organization, we secure such popular majority and endorsement of our public policy as we did in 1876, we shall have a National Executive to carry it out.

If Winfield Scott Hancock receives a quarter of a million majority of votes in the United States, he will be inaugurated President of the United State. There will be no dodge behind a fraudulent count, nor menace of bayonets this time!

Now let us, fellow citizens, do our duty manfully, faithfully, fairly at home in our own county, for the accomplishment of these great ends. The counsels of to-morrow should be governed by the maxims of the good old lady you may have heard of, who, when asked how her husband, herself and children got along so quietly and harmoniously together, said it was because they kept two bears in the house. Two bears! yes, two bears,—"bear and and forbear;" and it was wonderful what harmony these two well-trained creatures maintained in the family. Let these bears be turned loose to-morrow in the court house.

The PATRIOT has its favorites for all the places to be filled—particular favorites, which it proposes to stand by through thick and thin. We will let you know to-morrow evening who they are.

A Dirty Fling.

[Wilmington Star.]

George B. McClellan contemplates retiring from politics at the expiration of his present term of office. George can always find employment. For instance, he can hire out as a patent ditch-digger.—Baltimore American.

If he were a "patent" fool-killer he might find work in Baltimore. He is a Democratic soldier, hence the dirty fling.

The Late Tragedy at Danville, Virginia.

A Letter From DeJarnette.

[Danville News, Aug. 17.]

We published to-day a letter from this unfortunate man, addressed to a well-known gentleman in North Carolina. A few words in the letter are left out, as they did not effect the sense at all, and were too strong in their application to the life led by his sister in her latter days. With this exception, the letter is a fac simile of the original:

DANVILLE, VA, August 3, 1880.

DEAR SIR:—Several days after my incarceration I wrote you a letter soliciting a little aid at sometime. I have no earthly claim on you, nor did I expect you or any other sensible being to approve of what I had done. I confess that my treatment of my sister was brutal and barbarous, but my love for her was as wonderful as my cruelty was shocking.

When several years ago I found she had formed an attachment for the man Edwin Deebert, who she claims seduced her, I wrote you a letter asking you to take her again, and notwithstanding she left your house under the cover of night, you consented to receive her again into your family. As soon as your letter reached me she was sent some funds to pay railroad fare and asked by me to go to your residence at Haw River, where arrangements had been made for her, I suppose, but instead of doing as you expected she would, she went with the family of this low fellow to Harrisonburg, and I so informed you. After she had visited several points in Maryland and other States with Col Deebert's family, they closed their doors upon her and she was in the streets cold, naked and friendless. I had her brought back, a pleasant home was provided for her, and it was my opinion that she was thus safe for a time anyway, but the next time I heard from her was that she was living in a family of no standing. When I heard of this I came to Danville and after hunting for her some time I found her in a suspicious looking place, the family in which she lived made a considerable fuss over her, but I managed to rescue her with her trunk. I put her at Mrs. Lawson's till train time and then carried her to Brown Summit from here. I sent her to school at Reidsville where she remained for sometime.

I sold my gold watch, and gave the money to her. I then found it necessary to take her from school for a short time, any way, and sent her home. She was soon at Mrs. Lawson's again, and after some time elapsed Mrs. Lawson thinking she would suit her invalid daughter at Charlotte, made her a proposition to go there. I sent her, and was only too happy to be able to think I had once more put her in a proper channel. But again I was informed by Mrs. Harding of her being in a family of probably questionable character, and although I had a long correspondence with her, I was unable to do anything with her. Several months ago I had a telegram from Charlotte, saying that she was on the train that day. I met her in Greensboro, she was too feeble to walk. I gave her some refreshments and $5, and sent her home, feeling hopeful. The next I heard of her she was in a disreputable house. She wrote me to this effect herself. When I read the letter, Oh! my God; what were my feelings? None but He who made me can ever know. My darling sister!

It took my heart, and next it took my reason. If I had not been overruled by a higher hereditary power than any at my command, could I have taken her life when it was as dear to me and as sacred as my own? I ask the press of the country and the public, whether a human being capable of such unparalleled love and affection can, when he is himself, take the life of his own sister whose welfare and pleasure had cost him many sleepless nights. The report that it was done for family honor is an assumption, NOT A FACT.

Where, with my limited means, could I have taken her, from that place? Could I have stood by and seen that brutal, ungodly treatment of her which is the lot of such women? Ah! no; rather give me death than for my own dear sister to be the recipient of the sinful glances and illicit embraces of the immoral young men of the day. Had I not infinitely rather my sister who died by a brother's hand, could return now to this cold and unfeeling world, visit the desolate neighborhood or my narrow chamber in gowns of silk bought with the wages of her sin and shame, and in company with her associates drink wine and break the death-like stillness which should reign, with her songs of licentiousness and lust, than to know that she was not a pure, sweet woman. Ah! yes, the deed solemn as eternity is done. For her the storm is past, but ere a few more weeks shall have passed, I shall experience some of the most awful storms to be encountered on the sea of life, and if my friends desert I can but perish amid the bustle and confusion of the world, and be forgotten.

Very truly, T. DEJARNETTE.

The Assassination of General Bryan Grimes.

Further Particulars of the Great Crime.

Funeral of the Deceased.

New Berne Net Shell, Aug. 19.

WASHINGTON, N. C., Aug. 18th, 1880.—The following are the particulars of the assassination of Gen. Grimes: He left Washington on Saturday evening about six o'clock and was shot about two miles from his home, just as his horses were going out of Bear Creek Branch, one buckshot striking his left side and severing the subclavian artery, death taking place in about two minutes. Bryan Satterthwaite, a lad about 19 years old, was with him in his buggy and when the General was shot and fell forward he gathered his reins and drove to Mr. Stickney's.

When the gun fired Gen. Grimes asked, "What are you doing there?" and then turned to young Satterthwaite and said: "I am shot." The lad asked: "Will it kill you?" and he answered, "Yes, I am dying." These were his last words.

The murderer stood behind a large tree not more than ten steps from the buggy, and it is wonderful that the entire load did not take effect. But this was a mere accident that hit him, as it was a little forward, and had the deceased not been leaning forward the assassin would have been foiled.

It was a custom of Gen. Grimes' to lean very much backward or forward when riding and always on the left hand side of the buggy. This was known to the murderer. The act was well planned and no clue so far is known, although suspicion points to certain parties. It was one of the most deliberate and cold-blooded murders ever heard of in this country.

The funeral was attended by an immense number of both white and colored, and his old war-horse "Warrior," which went through the entire war with his brave master, followed him to his grave; bearing his uniform of gray, his broken sword, spurs, holster, etc. Ah! this was a sad picture to behold, and one could almost believe that the war-worn charger knew and felt his sad task as he solemnly trod along in the procession of mourning.

He was buried on his farm, in the family burying ground.

Gen. Grimes leaves a widow and ten children. He will be sadly missed by his neighbors, where he always proved a friend to the needy.

Chairman Barnum's Hancock Hurricane

Chairman Barnum was in Muletown, Indiana, Wednesday last, August 18th, personally inspecting some fine specimens of Kentucky mules, and while looking around in a business way, he incidentally remarked that the only doubtful Hancock State now was Vermont but that he had made such disposition of political persuasions in the Green Mountain State, that Hancock would certainly carry it in November. He counts Indiana as certain for the Democrats in October by 40,000; Ohio by 20,000 and Massachusetts in November by 15,000. Connecticut he says will be practically unanimous for Hancock. Several of the Congressional districts of Iowa he considers doubtful, but the State will vote for Hancock, with all the hitherto Republican States of the West and Northwest. He regrets that the election of Hancock is to be so nearly unanimous, as he regards a vigorous opposition as beneficial for the country.

Pretty Good.

Now that the aspirants for political office are about to take the stump, it may be well enough to print the speech of Mr. Cox, who is running for Congress in the fourth Georgia District, and against whom it was alleged that he was a young man. He said:

If you see fit to send me to Congress, I will go to the best of my ability. I believe I would like to go. In fact, I know I want to go. I have heard that the salary is ample, and, as I have a small family, won't insist on its increase. As I am fond of vindication I want to vindicate myself. It has been hurled at me like a thunderbolt that I am too young. In answer to this I say first I can't help it, and it is not my fault. Second, I am trying to grow older every day. Third, I am succeeding. Fourth, I am afraid I will be much older than I am before I get to Congress.

Little Foxes.

One little fox is 'By-and-by'; if you track him, you come to his hole. Never. Another little fox is 'I Can't'; you had better set on him an active, plucky little thing. 'I can't', by name; it does wonders. A third little fox is 'No use in trying'; he has spoiled more vines and hindered the growth of more fruit than many a worse-looking enemy. A fourth little fox is 'I Forgot'; he is very provoking; he is a great cheat; he slips through your fingers like time; he is seldom caught up with. A fifth little fox is 'Don't Care'; oh the mischief he has done! A sixth little fox is 'No Matter'; it is matter whether your life is spoiled by small faults.—Good News.

Five New Anecdotes.

Philadelphia Times.

Lonfellow is so good-natured that he sometimes allows himself to be bored. He relates that a person who visited him recently—a regular talking-machine—exclaimed with impressive earnestness:—"Sir, every night of my life I fall asleep over one of your works."

General Bob Toombs was asked by a friend a few days ago whether Mr. Alexander Stephens would be returned to Congress. "Returned?" said Toombs, "Why, damn it, his district'll keep him in Congress as long as he lives, and when he dies they'll run his executor."

Not long ago the convicts from Galveston county, Ala., were removed to the penitentiary at Huntsville to serve out their terms. One of the convicts seemed to be very much worried about something, and finally he asked the guard "If there was no danger between Galveston and Huntsville." "Danger of what?" "Of being robbed and murdered. I read in the papers about there being so many escaped convicts from the penitentiary prowling about the country that I won't feel perfectly safe until I am inside of the walls."

They send anything by wire out West. Here is a dispatch from Zanesville, Ohio, to the Cincinnati Commercial: "The B. and O. train from the East pulled out of the depot this morning bearing a large number of Knights for Chicago. Having a few minutes to stop a gentleman resembling General Hancock appeared on the platform of the rear car and was introduced with great gravity as the Democratic candidate for President. The crowd cheered lustily and when the noise had subsided the gentleman spoke as follows: "Fellow-Citizens: I am delighted at this demonstration. I am glad to see so many Democrats in Ohio who are going to vote for me. I passed through West Virginia yesterday and similar scenes greeted my eyes at every station. At one place they presented me with a number of chickens in the shell and—" Here the crowd saw the joke and began to laugh and yell, in the midst of which the train pulled out.

A correspondent writing from Lewisburg, W. Va., tells the following anecdote of the Rev. John McIlhenny, the famous itinerant, who never announced any stated hour for evening service, always saying: "Brethren and sisters, we'll meet at early candle-light." "He was preaching the funeral sermon of an aged member of his flock, whom we will call Mrs. Smith. After a few introductory remarks he was possessed of the strange idea that it was Mr. Smith whose remains were before him. Having known him intimately for years, he delivered a glowing eulogy of his character, his Christian conduct, his benevolence, charity, kindness of heart and possession of all those virtues which make up a well-rounded Christian life. As he closed his remarks one of the elders quietly entered the pulpit and whispered to him: "Doctor, you have made a mistake; it is Sister Smith who is dead. Brother Smith, her husband, is sitting in the front pew." "Well, replied the old minister, in tones of thunder, "It makes no difference. All I have said about Brother Smith is equally applicable to her whose inanimate body is before us."

Fifty Thousand Barrels Oil on Fire.

[By telegraph to the Patriot.]
BRADFORD, Pa., Aug. 20.—During the heavy storm at 5 P. M., yesterday, lightning struck two 25,000 barrel iron tanks of oil at Dallas city, six miles northeast of Bradford. There are 50,000 barrels now burning; one tank belongs to the United Line and the other to the Tidewater pipe line, and both companies have summoned a force of men to the scene to dig trenches and prevent a spread of the fire. The Village is not in danger nor are other iron tanks in the vicinity.

A telegram to the Daily Era from Dallas at midnight gives the opinion that the fire can be possibly confined to the tanks now burning. The tanks were not expected to overflow before six o'clock this morning, and the spread of fire depends on the result of the overflow. If damps can be made and trenches dug of breadth and depth sufficient to hold the inflamed oil, the fire will be checked. If they cannot, much additional property must be consumed. Being a very dark night, the spectacle was terribly grand.

LATER.
BRADFORD, Pa., Aug. 20.—Noon.—Tank No 41, of the United Line, and tank No 6, of the Tidewater Line, at Dallas City, are still burning and both have overflowed.

The united lines have had their pumps and engines moved to a place of safety. No further damage is anticipated, although there are now strong prospects of a heavy thunder shower.

Tramp, Tramp—The Great Greenbacker is Marching.

By Telegraph to the Patriot.
MEMPHIS TENN., Aug. 20.—Gen J. B. Weaver, the National Greenback candidate for President, passed through this city last night.

In an interview, Gen Weaver expressed some hopes of carrying the State of Arkansas. He has been in that State since the 9th inst., and made ten speeches.

The division in the Democratic party on the Fishback amendment to the constitution, he thinks, insures a free ballot and fair count. Large crowds attended his meetings, and the party is well organized throughout the State.

The Democracy in Colorado.

[By telegraph to the Patriot.]
LEADVILLE, COLORADO, Aug. 20.—In the Democratic Convention at a late hour yesterday, the Plank concerning Declaration of martial law was passed, by a vote 225 to 90.

The platform was then adopted as a whole.

Hon. Adair Wilson was unanimously nominated for Governor but declined. The Convention then adjourned until 9 o'clock A. M. to-day.

A Much Needed Sidewalk Improvement at the Depot.

GREENSBORO, N. C., August 20th.
Editor Patriot: Please allow me to suggest an improvement much needed, as you know, on one of our principal sidewalks, viz: From the corner of Capt E & Small's to the railroad crossing, the sidewalk is uneven, flat, soft, uninviting, and yet one of the most frequented of all the streets in town.

Now sir if the Commissioners, would plow and throw up the dirt, make a gutter on the east side of said walk, and make a wide sidewalk there, a very large floating population (besides strangers) would be very greatly accommodated.

Locked in a Cage with Hyenas

A Terrible Struggle for Life.

The Winchester (Va.) Times gives a graphic description of the experiences of Charles Drayton, connected with W. C. Coup's show, in a den of hyenas, in that place Monday morning, Aug. 16. The street procession being ready to move, the den of spotted hyenas was placed in position, and Drayton entered the cage as usual, to take his place as master, the door was locked and the key taken back to the tent. As he entered Gabriel, the largest and most ferocious animal, refused to retire to his accustomed place, and Drayton ordered the outside attendants to procure some iron bars, but before they returned Gabriel made an attack on his master, and the struggle was something terrible to witness. The young animals seemed inclined to befriend their master, but Gabriel was determined to have his life. Drayton had nothing but a common cowhide whip, which he saw was of no avail, and he grasped his terrible antagonist by the throat and threw him bodily to the floor of the den. This for a moment seemed to subdue the animal, but for a moment only. Regaining his feet he waited a moment, and then with a bound seized Drayton. Up to this moment the other animals had only taken a passive interest in the struggle, but at the sight of blood their rage knew no bounds, and they attacked each other, rolling and leaping with lightning-like activity over, under and around the man and his antagonist, snarling, howling and tearing indiscriminately, adding greatly to Drayton's peril. This terrible scene continued in the presence of the terrified spectators for full two minutes, Drayton in the meantime, with his naked hands, fighting the ferocious beast which had attacked him, and, with wonderful strength and presence of mind, preventing him from seizing a vital part or pulling him to the floor. In the meantime the attendants had not been idle, and finally with the aid of crowbars and pitchforks, succeeded in breaking the hold of the beast. Drayton had fought his way to the door of the den, and the instant it was opened he fell into the arms of his friends. He was taken to a hotel, when physicians were summoned and the wounds dressed. The flesh was stripped from his right arm from the shoulder to a point below the elbow, his right thigh was badly torn, and the ankle and calf of his right leg were also badly lacerated. His physicians express a belief that Drayton will recover.
