PEOPLE'S CHOICE FOR GOVERNOR

ALFRED M. SCALES, OF GUILFORD.

—The adjutant general of Kansas is Thomas Moonlight. No wonder the girls adore him.

—When last heard from she was riding in a fashionable "drag" with a pay master in the U. S. N.

—Gen Crook has been heard from. He has routed the Apaches and driven them from their mountain stronghold.

—We are invited to "a grand picnic" at Great Falls, near Washington City. Thanks. Too many loose army and navy paymasters lying around W. to make the affair at all enjoyable.

—We acknowledge an invitation to attend the commencement exercises of the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college, June 24. J. R. Cole, formerly of Greensboro, is president of the college.

—Fifty million people in the United States to-day drink no more whisky than 25,000,000 did 30 years ago. This is encouraging to temperance folks, but the beer guage would give them a set back.

—Washington, just now, is redolent with the speculations and domestic infelicities of army and navy officers. Nothing so captivates the Washington maiden as brass buttons and shoulder straps.

—The fact that the Czar took Sunday as the day for his coronation will cause a great many people to be indifferent as to whether he was crowned or blown up by nihilist dynamite. We infer that the coronation took place from a telegram received to-day.

—Only a little while ago the Star would see the Democratic party in North Carolina d—d before it would swallow the "splinters" in its anti-revenue platform. Now it says, "rather than retain the present and unpopular system" of collection it "would favor the abolition of the tax."

—Does the Wilmington Star remember how sharply it cracked the party whip over the late editor of the Charlotte Observer? Did it then occur to the Star that the Observer was only kicking against a "little office-holders' concern," known as the Democratic party?

—The State Episcopal convention adjourned Saturday night. The diocese is divided as follows: Commencing at the Virginia line at the intersection of the Virginia line and the eastern line of Northampton county, and following the eastern lines of Northampton, Halifax, Edgecombe, Wilson, Johnston, Harnett, Moore and Richmond. This puts the counties of Northampton, Halifax, Edgecombe, Wilson, Johnston, Harnett, Moore and Richmond and all the counties to the west of them in the diocese of North Carolina. The Eastern diocese will be the new diocese. Its name is not yet announced. The consent of the general convention now follows as a matter of course. The general convention meets in October. The following were elected delegates to the general convention: Rev. Dr. Watson, Rev. Dr. Huske, Rev. Dr. Marshall, Rev. W. C. Hughes, Maj. John Hughes, Dr. DeRosset, John C. Henderson, Esq., and Col. J. W. Atkinson. The State convention meets next year at Asheville.

—The Wilmington Star repudiates the Democratic organization in North Carolina as "the little office-holders' concern."

The Star repudiates the platform made by "the little office-holders' concern" committing the party to the sound Democratic doctrine of abolishing the internal revenue laws.

With this record the Star will cut a ridiculous figure when it masquerades in the next campaign as a Democratic paper.

—We copy elsewhere from the Raleigh Observer a suggestive and timely article on the tariff policy of the Democratic party. It is worth all the twaddle of hair-splitting theorists and visionists who delight in parading their erudition before a thoroughly nauseated public. All that the Observer article lacks is a reference to the manufacturing interests in North Carolina. From an agricultural State we are rapidly developing into a manufacturing State, and so soon as the next election the manufacturing interest here will poll a vote larger than Jarvis' majority for Governor. It is not only suicidal policy to ignore these facts, but our struggling manufacturing interests demand the fostering care of the Democratic party.

THE INDUSTRIAL REVOLUTION.

The New York Public recently drew attention to southern progress and flatly declared that the cotton manufacturers of this section can and do undersell the best northern mills in western markets. It is inclined to think "that, as the southern manufactures become more developed, so that employers acquire the capital and machinery, and the laborers the skill for the manufacture of finer goods, the margin of advantages in the lower cost of transportation will become wider and more effective, and one cannot now set the limits beyond which southern spinners may not be able hereafter to compete with northern."

But it is not only in cotton manufacturing that the South has progressed, and the Public recognizes the fact, and goes on to say:

"But this is not an isolated change. It is in fact but a single incident in the industrial revolution which has apparently commenced. Southern iron, for instance, is already sold in Boston and Providence, as well as in Cincinnati and Chicago. Southern lumber begins definitely to take the place of northern for many uses in northern markets. Instead of buying from the Northwest most of the wheat and even some of the corn consumed, the southern States begin to produce some excess for exportation. The advantage of a milder climate have recently been turned to account by some considerable wool-growers, who are sending lambs to northern butchers and wool to northern millers. In short, the South has clearly commenced that diversification of industry which the system of slave labor so long prevented and for want of which that section was so long improverish and retarded in its developments.

The editor of the Public adds: "Within the past two weeks we have personally seen number one foundry iron produced in western Virginia at a cost not exceeding $10.50 per ton. Very few concerns have attained so low a cost as this, it is probable, but in Virginia, West Virginia, Alabama, Tennessee there are already many that produce iron costing less than $15, which can be and is sold at a good profit in northern markets, in competition with the best iron of northern furnaces."

Referring to this statement, the Cleveland (Ohio) Trade-Review asks: "If this is to continue, what will be the end? It looks as if a revolution in iron-making brewing, comparable with which previous advances will appear insignificant." Verily, does it. Nor will the revolution be confined to the iron and cotton industries, but will include nearly every form and subject of manufacturing. The South has at last entered into a contest in which nature fights with it—a contest in which the heavy battalions and inexhaustible armories of her late antagonist in another field will not avail against her. In this fight she is bound to win.

A New Political Factor.

(Raleigh Observer.) California in 1880 was barely Democratic. She has 77,657 males over 16 years of age engaged in agriculture and 109,069 engaged in manufacturing industries, which include mining.

Connecticut has 42,722 engaged in agriculture and 85,437 engaged in manufacturing.

Colorado has 13,127 engaged in agriculture and 46,299 in manufacturing and mining.

Illinois has 405,798 agriculturists and 174,243 males over 16 years of age engaged in manufacturing.

In Indiana there are 304,201 engaged in agriculture and 96,846 in manufacturing.

Maryland 83,666 in agriculture and 68,653 in manufacturing.

Michigan 232,161 in agriculture and 116,579 in manufacturing.

New Jersey 56,941 in agriculture and 126,534 in manufacturing.

New York 366,186 in agriculture and 478,960 in manufacturing.

In New York city there are 152,744 males over 16 years of age engaged in manufacturing, and in Brooklyn 70,635.

In Ohio 378,391 in agriculture and 204,256 in manufacturing.

In Pennsylvania 283,768 in agriculture and 432,091 in manufacturing.

Philadelphia has 123,104 engaged in manufactures.

Pittsburg, Reading and Scranton have 31,000.

West Virginia has 99,036 engaged in agriculture and 24,313 in manufacturing and mining.

These figures indicate that it would be dangerous for the Democrats to array against them the solid manufacturing vote in California, Connecticut, Colorado, Maryland, New Jersey, New York and West Virginia. The Republicans are not going to forsake their party on this issue, for there are many Republican leaders who are not favorable to protection. If the persons engaged in manufactures were to turn against the Democrats in Ohio, we could not possibly carry that State. The same is true in regard to the States just named and to Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan and Pennsylvania. It is well for the situation to be seen exactly as it exists. These figures have never before been printed in this connection and they are worthy of very serious consideration on the part of those who suppose that the agricultural element possesses all the political power of the country. Those voters who are connected with manufactures should be brought to realize that the Democratic party will so administer public affairs as not to jeopardize their interests.

Twenty-Four O'clock.

The Railway Reporter says that the Cleveland, Akron, and Columbus Railroad company have recently issued a new time card, based on the twenty-four hours—that of numbering the hours of the day from one to twenty-four, instead of making two divisions of twelve hours each designated or distinguished as Ante Meridian and Post Meridian—A. M. and P. M. At present still another designation is used, that of 12 M. when 12 midday is to be distinguished from 12 P. M. The Reporter says that this company is the first to employ this continuous system; but in reality the method is a very old one, coeval with the history of clocks, and is still in use in some parts of southeastern Europe. The Reporter adds, that "the day begins at midnight, as under the common system, but there is no possibility of confusion between forenoon and afternoon hours. The great advantage of this scheme in a railroad time table will be seen at once: 7 A. M. and 7 P. M. are frequently misprinted or misunderstood, while no one will confound 7 o'clock with 19 o'clock. Any watch or clock can be adapted to the system by simply putting the extension of the hours in a circle just inside of those already on the face. The exterior numbers will then be consulted up to 11 o'clock (noon), and the interior ones for the remainder of the day.

The Business Outlook.
[New York Herald, 27th.]

There seems to be in business and financial circles a feeling of uncertainty regarding the course of affairs in the immediate future. Business failures continue numerous, and during the week just ended traders were indisposed to purchase more goods than were necessary to meet immediate demands. This was particularly noticeable in the line of dry goods. The sales of domestic fabrics were exceedingly light and expensive foreign commodities were reduced in price. The quantity of foreign goods of this class entered for consumption was only equal to one-half the amount for the corresponding week of last year. In the iron trade prices are declining and a feeling of deep distrust is created by the suspension of one very large company, the blowing out of many furnaces and the threatened strike throughout the iron producing districts in the West. The grain markets are strong, and early in the week the frosts in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois causing fears for the wheat crop, led to a sharp advance in prices. In the South the temperature fell so low as to threaten the young cotton crop, but it appears to have escaped injury. There is little of this staple moving and prices have been about steady in the markets.

Perhaps, on the whole, the situation generally is somewhat better than it was a week ago, since so very much depends upon the nature of the coming harvest and every day that passes without mishap increases the chances of a fair yield.

Interesting Disclosures.
[New York World.]

In the classical and now popular language of the prize-ring, ex-Congressmen Dezen-dorf "counters" on Secretary Chandler and "gives him as good as he sent." Secretary Chandler charged in substance that under President Hayes and President Garfield Mr. Dezen-dorf had been enabled to use the Norfolk Navy Yard as a political machine to promote his own Congressional aspirations, and that he only discovered the iniquity of such action after he found that he had made all he could out of it.

Mr. Dezen-dorf replies that Secretary Chandler's memory needs "readjusting," and insists that during his Congressional term he repeatedly called the Secretary's attention to the scandalous abuses in the Norfolk Navy Yard, but his complaints were disregarded by both the President and the Secretary of the Navy because they were "committed to the support of Senator Mahone by an arrangement which could not be violated."

Really the controversy increases in interest. Here is a Republican ex-Congressman, who knows whereof he speaks, making the assertion that President Arthur and Secretary Chandler had made an "arrangement" with a United States Senator which they did not dare to violate, and which bound them to sanction "grave abuses and wrongs" in a Government office for political purposes.

This is in reality a charge of bribery and corruption brought against the President and a Cabinet officer. A money bribe is not the only one recognized as criminal by the law. If the President and Secretary influenced a Senator's official action by the valuable consideration of the control of the navy-yard at Norfolk for political purposes, they committed an offence against the law. And this is just what Mr. Dezen-dorf charges.

When Republicans fall out honest men get at the truth. There is no reason to doubt Senator Chandler's veracity when he says that under Presidents Hayes and Garfield the Republican Dezen-dorf was permitted to "work" the Norfolk Navy-Yard in his own political interests. There is no reason to question Mr. Dezen-dorf's truthfulness when he charges that President Arthur and Secretary Chandler did not dare to violate an "arrangement" they had made with Senator Mahone by which they were bound to hand over the navy-yard to him for purposes of political terrorism and blackmail.

Instead of feeling tired and worn out, instead of aches and pains, wouldn't you rather feel fresh and strong? If you continue feeling miserable and good for nothing you have only yourself to blame, for Brown's Iron Bitters will surely cure you. Iron and cinchona are its principal ingredients. It is a certain cure for dyspepsia, indigestion, malaria, weakness, kidney, lung and heart affections. Try it if you desire to be healthy, robust and strong and experience its remarkable curative qualities.
