NORMAN IS DEFEATED IN HIS CASE AGAINST BOREN

JURY DECLARES BOREN DID NOT TRESPASS SO NORMAN GETS NO DAMAGES

A verdict in favor of R. B. Boren, concluding the trial of the $100,000 suit against him, brought by his brother-in-law, Dr. G. W. Norman, was returned by a Guilford Superior court jury Saturday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock.

The jury, which deliberated on the case from 10:45 a. m. until 5:30 p. m., answered only the first issue, which was "Did the defendant trespass upon the land of the plaintiff as alleged in the complaint?" The answer was no.

It was not necessary to answer the second issue, which was, "What damages, if any, is the plaintiff entitled to recover?" Since the jury declared that Mr. Boren did not trespass upon the lands of Dr. Norman, the latter does not get any part of the damages sought.

Immediately after the verdict was announced, Judge R. C. Strudwick, one of the attorneys for Dr. Norman, asked that the verdict be set aside and a new trial granted. Judge B. P. Long, presiding, set Monday, March 20, as the date for a hearing on that motion.

Dr. Norman alleged that Mr. Boren was guilty of improper relations with his wife, Mrs. Maggie Norman, and that he had alienated her affections, those charges being the bases of the suit.

The jury was composed of W. W. Hunter, foreman; R. A. Sockwell, J. W. Scott, M. D. Taylor, J. H. Lee, C. M. Cook, M. M. Southerland, C. C. Johnson, W. W. Morrison, C. F. Loman, S. F. Johnson and W. Y. Bevil.

Big crowds attended the case which began Monday afternoon.

Mr. Boren testified Thursday that he told John N. Wilson, a local attorney, that he thought Dr. Norman was trying to blackmail him. He said that he went to Mr. Wilson's office in response to a telephone call in November, 1920, and Mr. Wilson told of the accusation against him and also told him that Dr. Norman wanted him to pay him enough money to buy a home in another city and for the support of his family until he could build up a practice. He would fight to the last dollar he had, Mr. Boren said he told Mr. Wilson. He denied ever having any improper relations with Mrs. Norman or ever making any improper proposals or even of thinking about such a thing. He said he attended Muir's chapel Sunday school every Sunday morning in May, 1920.

Mrs. Boren testified that she and her husband agreed to fight the suit no matter what it cost.

Rev. L. L. Carpenter, former pastor of Forest Avenue Baptist church here, testified that Dr. Norman came to him and told him such a matter could be settled only by a suit or a gun. He also testified that he wrote a letter to Mrs. Norman and received a reply in which she stated that God had forgiven her and she expected to lead a better life.

A large number of character witnesses were put on the stand, giving Mr. Boren a good character.

The case went to the jury a little before noon Saturday. A night session was held Friday in order to get through with the argument of attorneys. The argument started Thursday afternoon. P. W. Glidewell, of Reidsville; W. M. Hendren, of Winston-Salem; and F. P. Hobbins, Judge R. C. Strudwick and Judge W. P. Bynum spoke for Dr. Norman and A. L. Brooks, O. L. Sapp, E. D. Broadhurst and R. R. King for the defense.

Judge Long charged the jury at length. He reviewed the evidence closely and charged the jury that it must be the judge as to the truthfulness of witnesses.

CURB MARKET ENDORSED BY FARM BUREAU AND UNIFORM COUNTY TAX FOR SCHOOLS ALSO MEETS FAVOR

In Session Here the Farmers Go on Record as Opposed to Proposed Changes in Federal Farm Loan Law—Mr. McGill Advocates Sweet Potato Storage Houses—Secretary Payne Speaks.

Adoption of resolutions endorsing the proposed establishment of a curb market in Greensboro for farm products, passage of another set of resolutions in advocacy of the county unit of school taxation, and adoption of a motion providing for vigorous opposition to certain proposed changes in the federal farm loan bank system—these were notable features of the meeting of the Guilford County Farm Bureau in the courthouse here Saturday.

Much attention also was devoted to the question of production, storage and marketing of sweet potatoes. An unusually interesting and instructive address was delivered by W. W. McGill, of Raleigh, of the state department of agriculture. Mr. McGill explained in detail ways and means of storing sweet potatoes.

Discuss Several Problems.

While the attendance at the meeting was not large, those present exercised a very lively interest in the various problems which were considered and leaders of the bureau are confident that the session will prove a profitable one. The meeting was called to order by County Farm Demonstrator E. B. Garrett. John A. Young, who lives a short distance east of Greensboro and who is president of the bureau, presided, while the secretarial work was performed by M. R. Doggett, of Brown Summit, secretary of the bureau.

One of the most interesting speakers was I. N. Payne, of Statesville, secretary of the State Federation of Farm Bureaus, who called attention to the proposed changes in administration of the federal farm loan act. Under these suggested changes, Mr. Payne feared, the farmers would have little influence in the affairs of the farm loan organization. It is proposed to vest the federal farm loan board with greater power and to curtail the authority of the farmers themselves, it was stated. The secretaries of the local association, if the changes become effective, could be removed by the federal board. Provision also would be made for discontinuing the business of various local associations and a number of other changes which Mr. Payne thought would prove inimical to the best interests of the farmers are proposed.

Sold Too Infrequently.

It was stated by Mr. Payne that the closing of the federal farm loan banks was due to the fact that the government would not market federal farm loan bonds often enough. The farmers should control the organization, he felt, and he was earnestly opposed to the proposed changes.

In accordance with the provisions of resolutions unanimously adopted by the bureau Saturday the county farm demonstrator will write to the United States senators and congressmen from North Carolina, asking them to use their influence to defeat the proposed changes in the administration of the federal farm loan law.

The bureau also adopted resolutions in opposition to the proposed levying of a sales tax as a means of (Continued on Page Two.)

GIRL KILLED BY AUTO DIES IN AUTO SMASH

Miss Lena Farrington, of High Point Dead After Crash

Miss Lena Farrington, of High Point, died a few minutes after a car in which she and Miss Ethel Brown were being driven at a high rate of speed by W. F. Everhart, of Thomasville, on the High Point-Winston-Salem road was wrecked Saturday night. Miss Farrington's neck was broken. Miss Brown was painfully but not seriously injured.

Everhart was arrested and placed in jail at High Point, spending the night there. He was released Sunday morning under a $2,500 bond. He will be given a preliminary hearing some time this week.

From information obtained by Deputy Sheriff J. F. Wagner, who reached the scene of the accident a short while after the car was wrecked, it appears that Everhart was driving at excessive speed and in turning a curve he lost control of the automobile, which ran into the yard of George Penny and struck a fence. The two young women were thrown from the car. Everhart clung to the steering wheel.

It is said that Everhart and Miss Brown had been out riding and meeting Miss Farrington, invited her to ride with them. She had been in the car only a few minutes when it was smashed.

Miss Farrington, who was 18 years old, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Farrington. She was buried this afternoon at High Point. Everhart is the son of S. L. Everhart, a well known farmer, who lives about five miles west of Thomasville.

OFFICERS ARE CHOSEN BY PARENT-TEACHER COUNCIL

MUCH SENTIMENT FOR COUNTY UNIT OF SCHOOL TAXATION SHOWN AT JAMESTOWN.

With a large number of representatives from various clubs in attendance the Guilford county council of the parent-teacher clubs in session at Jamestown high school last Saturday elected officers for the new year, heard reports as to the progress of the work, listened to several most interesting addresses and made tentative plans for development of the work along increasingly ambitious lines.

The following officers were elected: Mrs. C. O. Burton, of Pomona, president; Mrs. Alice Simpson, of South Buffalo, vice-president, and Mrs. W. G. Ragsdale, of Jamestown, secretary. Mrs. B. N. Mann, formerly of Guilford county but who is now teaching in Wilson county, is the retiring president, while Miss Ida Mills formerly served as secretary.

Morning and afternoon sessions were held and at noon members of the domestic science department of the Jamestown school served an excellent lunch.

Mrs. W. G. Ragsdale, president of the Jamestown parent-teacher club, presided. At the morning session reports from the various local clubs were submitted, showing that gratifying progress had been made in the work during the past year. One point, however, which Mrs. Ragsdale emphasized was that the attendance at the council meetings should be larger. In that way even better results could be obtained.

Mrs. R. W. Sinclair, of Salisbury, president of the state federation of parent-teacher clubs, spoke at the morning session, which began at 11 o'clock. She talked interestingly of the relationship between parents and teachers, making a plea for harmonious work. Their interests are largely mutual and through concerted effort maximum good may be accomplished, she pointed out. Mrs. Sinclair also stressed the importance of close co-ordination of the work of the state and local organizations.

Superintendent Thomas R. Foust, of the county school system, delivered a timely and instructive address concerning problems which confront the parent-teacher clubs. He was confident that they would prove of great value in promoting the welfare of the schools and of the people generally. Mr. Foust answered a number of questions.

Marked interest in the proposal to allow the people to vote upon the question of a uniform system of taxation for the schools of the county was evidenced. The people of the Jamestown section appear to be heartily in favor of the proposal, which would provide for the payment of the same amount of tax in the various districts, exclusive of the cities of Greensboro and High Point, and equal sharing of the benefits. It was indicated that the patrons would like to have an opportunity to vote for the county unit system of school taxation in the early future.

Officers were elected in the afternoon. Mrs. Burton, the new president, took the chair and expressed her appreciation of the honor conferred upon her. She predicted constantly expanding usefulness for the organization and invoked the whole-hearted co-operation of all members of the organization. Mrs. Burton expressed the hope that four meetings of the county council could be held this year.

The next meeting will probably be held before the schools close and at that session a definite program of future activities will be outlined.

FARM BUREAU FAVORS CURB MARKET AND ALSO UNIFORM SCHOOL TAX

paying the bonus to ex-service men. Such action was counselled by State Secretary Payne. It was agreed that North Carolina representatives in Congress would be urged to work against such a sales tax, which, it was held, would bear especially oppressively against people of moderate means and poor people, while proving unduly preferential to the wealthy interests.

The resolutions indorsing uniform taxation for schools in Guilford were read by Secretary Doggett. Under this plan the various sections of the county, exclusive of the cities of Greensboro and High Point, would pay the same amount of school taxes and share equally in school benefits. Speakers agreed that there is now much sentiment for such a plan and it was believed that the voters would sanction the proposition if given an opportunity to do so.

Ask For Election.

Under the resolutions adopted the county educational authorities are asked to provide for an election on the uniform school taxation question, the preponderant idea being that next May would be the ideal time for such an election.

The resolutions set forth the conviction of bureau members that a uniform tax of not more than 15 cents for maintenance and not more than 10 cents for buildings should be provided for the support of the schools, the total school tax not to exceed 25 cents. Under this plan the special local taxes in various districts, except in Greensboro and High Point, would be repealed. The proposition was enthusiastically supported by a number of members of the bureau who spoke at Saturday's meeting. Among those speakers were John A. Young, Z. L. Groome, of Groometown; S. E. Coltrane, of Route 2, Guilford College, and W. A. Bowman, of Greene township.

Only one voice was raised in opposition to the central curb market resolutions presented by County Agent Garrett. The lone dissenter was Z. T. Groome, who feared that the producers under that plan would not receive as much for their products as under the present plan calling at the various homes. He also thought that much more time would be required for marketing produce under the curb market plan.

County Agent Garrett spoke in favor of the establishment of a central curb market in Greensboro. There the farmers would bring their produce and the consumers would go to the designated places to buy such commodities. He felt that the farmers will profit most by working in intimate co-operation with representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and other organizations here. Largely similar sentiment was expressed by President Young, former Sheriff J. A. Hoskins, of Summerfield, and others. When the vote was taken the only vote cast against the measure was that of Mr. Groome. The proposition already has been indorsed by the Chamber of Commerce and the Woman's club of Greensboro.

Big Per Cent. Damaged.

County Agent Garrett, in introducing Mr. McGill said that from 5% to 60 per cent of the sweet potato crop of Guilford county is damaged before it can be marketed. He felt that there was a fine opportunity to develop the sweet potato as a money crop in Guilford.

Crops in this state are too much localized, according to Mr. McGill who considers the sweet potato industry one destined to become tremendously important in this part of the country. In 1909 in this state 60,000,000 bushels of sweet potatoes were produced, while in 1919 the production totaled 103,000,000 bushels. Now about 1,000,000 acres are devoted to sweet potato production in North Carolina, the average production per acre ranging from 105 to 107 bushels. The average price per bushel in this state is about $1.20. Thus an idea of the value of the crop may be obtained.

Former Secretary Meredith, of the federal department of agriculture, estimated that the south annually loses $25,000,000 through sweet potato rot. Poor banking is the chief cause of that great shrinkage. The south produces 85 per cent of the sweet potatoes of the United States and ships 26 per cent of the amount shipped while the other states, producing 15 per cent, ship 71 per cent of the total shipments. That was a sad commentary on the south's marketing of potatoes.

Home markets for sweet potatoes were advocated by the speaker, who thought at least 30,000 bushels of potatoes should be purchased each year by the people of Greensboro and suburbs. All those potatoes should be produced by Guilford people, he thought. With a population of about 10,000 Rocky Mount annually consumes approximately 15,000 bushels of sweet potatoes.

Proper storage facilities constitute one of the chief reasons for Rocky Mount's large consumption of the tubers.

Need Disease-Free Potatoes.

First, said Mr. McGill, the farmers must produce clean, disease-free sweet potatoes. Farmers desiring to secure disease-free potatoes, he said, should write to the Tar River Sweet Potato Growers' association, at Rocky Mount.

Second, the potatoes must be carefully matures. "Don't wait too late to harvest them," said Mr. McGill. "Don't wait until frost strikes the potatoes, for you will then lose." The frost is an agent of discoloration and hastens decay.

The third thing to remember, according to the speaker, is proper handling. Don't "treat 'em rough," for that means loss, too. Mr. McGill felt that excellent results could be obtained by harvesting the potatoes with two-pronged potato diggers. Crates are preferable to bins as receptacles for the potatoes, it was said, although the bins are all right. Crates of the right type will probably cost about 25 cents each and contain one bushel or more. The larger sizes are best.

Saving the potatoes is of tremendous importance. It was at that point that Mr. McGill discussed the storage houses. These may be individual houses or community storage houses.

The government type of storage house is much like the refrigerated car, with dead walls. Double walls are provided, also building paper, sheathing and studs. Dead air between the walls is better than any filling, such as sawdust, for example.

Properly constructed, a storage house will last as long as a barn or a residence. The houses should be built two or three feet above the ground, preferably with a foundation of concrete. The roof may be of tar paper, galvanized iron or other materials. The double-floor plan is best. Ventilators should be provided in the floor and cupola ventilators also are desirable, while windows should be provided, too. The house should have sloping roofs. Wooden floors should be used; concrete floors are conducive to harmful dampness. A house 12 by 16 feet would hold 500 bushels of potatoes. Other types contain 1,000 bushels, 2,500 bushels, 5,000 and 15,000 bushels. The cost would probably be about 40 cents per bushel; in other words, $400 for a house that would hold 5,000 bushels.

Over-heating Dangerous.

Black rot and other potato diseases were discussed. Temperature is a very important matter and the farmers were advised to secure the right kind of thermometer. Producers should guard against over-heating. While curing—a process usually requiring from 12 to 14 days—the temperature should be from 85 to 90 degrees; after curing, about 50 degrees. Weather conditions often are a largely determining factor. By all means do not place diseased potatoes in the storage houses, the speaker advised. Incidentally, canned fruit may well be kept in the sweet potato storage houses, but they are not well adapted to the storage of Irish potatoes.

Probably not more than 3 per cent of the potatoes thus stored would be damaged, Mr. McGill estimated. The houses would soon pay for themselves, he thought.

Blueprints, giving detailed plans for construction of sweet potato storage houses, may be obtained from the state department of agriculture, at Raleigh, it was pointed out. If application be made hereof. The department stands ready to assist potato producers in any way, the year around, Mr. McGill said.

Eventually, Mr. McGill believes, the co-operative plan of marketing sweet potatoes will be adopted in this state.

MAY GET FREE SEED AT PATRIOT OFFICE.

The Patriot has secured from the federal department of agriculture at Washington, through the efforts of Major Charles M. Stedman, of this city, congressman from the Fifth district, a considerable quantity of garden seed to be distributed among the farmers of this section.

It is believed that the supply of seed on hand at this office is sufficient to fill the needs of subscribers who may call for them. In view of the fact that the planting season is near, many people from Guilford and adjoining counties doubtless will be glad to take advantage of this opportunity to secure an adequate supply of seed free of charge. The package contains five kinds of vegetable seed, beet, lettuce, onion, tomato and watermelon.

Canadian Judge and Morrison Are Clashing Over Negro.

Hamilton, Ont., Feb. 24.—"I am going to stick to my guns."

This was the answer which Judge Snider made tonight to the declaration of Governor Morrison, of North Carolina, that this state would not "send witnesses to have a trial before any Canadian court" and that if Canada would not honor "in the regular way" a request for extradition of Matthew Bullock, a negro charged with attempted murder in connection with a race riot in Norlina, N. C., he hoped the American state department would not request North Carolina or any other self-respecting state to honor a Canadian request.

Interviewed at the Hamilton club, after having in the day refused to honor the American warrant, unless witnesses were brought from North Carolina within a week to testify as to the nature of the charge, Judge Snider said:

"When the case was first opened I told the United States consul that he must produce oral evidence. I refuse to take affidavits."

Canadian officials asserted that the customary procedure would be followed and that Bullock's fate would not be affected by the fact that international interest had been aroused.

Morrison Warm.

Raleigh, Feb. 24.—Governor Cameron Morrison today telegraphed acting Secretary of State Fletcher at Washington stating that he will not send witnesses to testify at the extradition trial of Matthew Bullock at Hamilton, Ont., which was suggested in a message from the acting secretary yesterday. Bullock is wanted in this state on a charge of attempted murder in connection with a race riot at Norlina, N. C.

"North Carolina will not make an appearance through attorney in any Canadian court," Governor Morrison said in his telegram. "It will not send witnesses to have a trial before any court there."

"If Canada will not honor our requisition in the regular way and you cannot through diplomatic channels convince them they should do so, then I hope you will not hereafter request North Carolina or any other self-respecting state of the union in any way to honor a request from Canada."

Fight Over Negro.

Hamilton, Ont., Feb. 24.—Hamilton negroes are ready today to wage a strong fight in resistance of renewed efforts of Norlina, N. C., authorities to extradite Matthew Bullock, a negro, on a charge of attempted murder. Counsel has been retained by the combined negro forces to defend Bullock, who is also being given the assistance of the society for the advancement of colored people, an American organization.

FINED $50 AND COST FOR STRIKING GIRL WITH AUTO.

Jesse Langley, white, tried in Municipal court here Friday, was convicted on a charge of having struck a little girl, Frances Dick, on West Lee street on February 18. Langley was fined $50 and the costs. It was testified that Langley was driving 40 miles an hour and that his machine skidded over 80 feet before and after striking the little girl. Langley said that he was not going over 10 or 15 miles an hour and that the girl ran in front of the car.

HOME DEMONSTRATION

This week will be largely given over to poultry work, organization of more clubs among the school children of the county and plans for increasing the work where clubs have already been formed.

The home demonstration agent, Mrs. Oia S. Wells, will make several trips to schools in the county. In addition, plans for gardening work will be discussed and made.

Tuesday trips will be made to Jamestown and Concord schools for the organization of poultry clubs. Wednesday afternoon the Gibsonville school will be visited. Children of the Gibsonville school already are organized into a club, but it is planned to increase the work and of course, with spring nearly here, the club members want to get busy.

Thursday afternoon poultry and gardening will be discussed at the Brightwood school. At Brightwood, too, the children have a poultry club.

Friday afternoon will find the home demonstrator at Monticello school. There, too, is a poultry club. Friday night a poultry club will be organized at Alamance school.

With poultry time and gardening time here, this work is expected to prove increasingly popular and the various meetings this week are for the purpose of stimulating the work. All of the meetings scheduled will be held at the school houses.

The home demonstrator wants all the boys and girls of the county who desire to enter into the work to get in touch with her.

Good Stock.

The value of pure-bred stock can not be overestimated. Quality tells in chickens as in other things, perhaps more. The scrub is a loser, the pure-bred a winner. It is a waste of money to fool with scrubs and a waste of time.

A few sittings of pure-bred eggs provide the means for a pure-bred flock, a flock that will pay.

It is important, too, to get one breed and stick to that. There are several good breeds of chickens, but it is best to have just one kind. Results have proved more satisfactory in that way.

The boy or girl and the man and woman, too, who goes at poultry work determinedly, is bound to make it pay. It takes head work, of course, and there is need of careful work, but many people have made money with chickens, and have got much pleasure from it, too.

It is understood that the Standard Oil company has not filed a formal protest against Judge Landis' retirement from the federal bench.

A WOODROW WILSON STATE

It is gratifying to learn that North Carolina leads all other states of the union in raising its proportionate share of the Woodrow Wilson Memorial Foundation fund. It is an indication of how highly he is regarded by North Carolinians.

That is not a reflection on his "standing" in other states, for in all parts of the country men and women are contributing to this fund, not through pressure of any sort, but there is no semblance of a "drive" or "canvass," none of the collection methods of the typical campaign for funds. Those who give to this fund do so because they want to, not because they are afraid not to, or wonder what the neighbors will say if they do not.

But in this state, especially, is the great ex-President warmly regarded. The principles for which he strove are well recognized here and the people are in sympathy with them. The sanity of the man, though his enemies may delight in calling him a visionary, it is understood by the people of North Carolina.

There is another distinction that this state, through one of its citizens, enjoys. The oldest contributor to the foundation is a North Carolinian, R. B. Joyner, a resident of Statesville. We venture the prediction that, to match this distinction, it will be announced before long that the youngest contributor is also a Tar Heel.

The people of the state compliment themselves in thus complimenting Mr. Wilson.

NOT ENOUGH TO EAT?

The milk campaign people who were here last week assisting local people in inducing the people of Greensboro, High Point and the mill villages to drink more milk had two rather astonishing statements to make. One was that children in the rural districts are not as well nourished as those in the cities; the other that there is, in Piedmont North Carolina, only a little more than one cow to the farm.

The statement that in spite of the fresh air, the exercise and the fresh food that one would ordinarily think would be found on the farm, the rural child is not up to the mark physically was made in the light of statistics, figures on weight, etc. The assertion that cows are so few was also based on cold figures.

Why should not the rural child be as healthy as his cousin in the city? Does the rural child lack enough to eat? Is not food abundant on the farms, where food originates?

People can eat enough to satisfy hunger and still not get enough to eat, dietitians point out. They call such a condition malnutrition. It means that they do not get enough of the right sort of food. That is either not produced on the majority of farms or if it is it is not eaten there.

It is probably a combination of the two. There is no doubt that there is not enough food raised on North Carolina farms. Meat and flour and the many dairy products are all shipped into the state. The farmers buy a considerable part of this shipped stuff. Some farmers even buy butter and eggs; many of them buy meat. A farmer buying butter! That is disgraceful.

Then, many of those who produce these things sell too heavily of them. A noted will lawyer died a few days ago without leaving a will. The shoe maker's children, we have always heard, have the poorest shoes, go barefooted most. Is it not true that in North Carolina some farmers sell practically every egg their hens lay considering it a crime to eat one and would cut off a right arm soon or than use cream on their own tables?

The thing to do would be to produce enough to eat and still have a comfortable surplus for sale. That one cow to a farm is a disgrace, and how many people have a real flock of hens, good reliable birds that know it is a hen's duty to lay more than a few weeks in the spring? Undernourished people at the center of what should be the center of food production! We still have a long way to go.

NOT ALL THE SOUTH.

A New Yorker, Archer Wall Douglas, chairman of the committee on statistics and standards of the United States Chamber of Commerce, taking a trip "through the south," finds that "the first impression you get of the south is that of prevailing thrift and self-denial, especially among the farmers." Let's see what part of the south he has been traveling through. "In many a little town I saw farm wagons hauling from three to six bales of cotton, with harness of the mules bound together with cotton rope and pieces of wire, rather than buy a new outfit."

He's been through the cotton country, where, right now, the farmer who is able to have a piece of "cotton rope"—that's a funny name for a plow line—is some times lucky. Even plow lines cost some money.

It is very true that farmers practice thrift. They always have. That is the way many a boy starting out with nothing but his hands and a clear, thrifty head, acquired a good farm. But none of them ever did it keeping his harness together with plow lines and pieces of wire.

But it was not thrift that the New Yorker saw. Those fellows patching their harness were not patching because they are thrifty but because they are hard-up, flat on their backs, without money.

Wise thrift is wise buying. That is not a fling at the poor devils who cannot buy, for when they get a little money they will buy some real harness. They can't do it right now, but they will some time. They can not always be held down.

It was probably an eye opener to the statistician. All the rest of his life when some person mentions the word "south," somebody will have to choke him off from his reminiscences. Probably he gives thanks every night before he goes to bed that he is a statistician and not a farmer in the south. He never knew that people could live under such conditions before.

If the rest of the country had the grit that the farmer has, even the one who does not have to tie his harness together, there would be less complaining and weeping about things being so out of joint. Mr. Farmer goes ahead and grimly works on, sticking to his job. He does not talk about turning bolshevist when he gets a hard touch of tough luck. He is game if he is nothing else.

If the New Yorker will stick around a while he will pass through a country where the farmers are not in such desperate want even though they are passing through a period of low priced farm products. If he will keep his eyes open he will find some of them pretty well fixed, eating about as much as he does a day, and about as good rations. He will find them working, too. He will then be buying things, spending the real cash.

He will render a valuable service if he succeeds in persuading his own people and the people of the big cities that following the example of the farmer will help the whole country. He can perhaps understand why they are forming co-operative marketing associations. They want some real harness.

SCHOLARSHIPS FOR VETS' DESCENDANTS

Interesting information regarding scholarships in state colleges which are to be awarded to descendants of Confederate veterans has been furnished members of the local chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy by Mrs. Peter Gorrell, of Winston-Salem, chairman of the educational department of the U. D. C. in North Carolina.

Three of these scholarships, of the value of $75 each, will be honored by the North Carolina College for Women, in Greensboro, while the fourth one, a $45 scholarship, is at the A. & E. college, West Raleigh. The first three bear the names of James J. Meigs, H. D. Higgins and Orrin Randolph Smith, while the one at the West Raleigh institution is designated simply as the A. & E. scholarship.

Application blanks may be obtained upon request to Mrs. Peter Gorrell, 609 West Fifth street, Winston-Salem. All applications must be received not later than April 1st.

MOSTLY NONSENSE

By Gee Gee Dee.

Efforts of Republicans to displace Paul Schenck as commissioner of the Guilford Battleground property with a Republican represent the ultimate degree of cussedness in the apolis system. If such political reasoning as that which prompted those efforts is to be followed to its logical conclusion every mail sorter in every postoffice in the country should be required to furnish documentary evidence of his Republicanism. The same tests then should apply to the pages in the house and senate at Washington and to thousands of other jobs as well as positions. Then there would be no limit to the buttonholing for the pay-rolling privileges.

The Greensboro Automobile Show is getting into high gear.

It is difficult to prognosticate as to the success or failure which will attend Will Hays' activities as director of the motion picture industry, but it will surely be generally agreed that he is an expert in cheap theatricalism.

Of course the Republicans really favor a tariff for revenue only—provided the revenue lines the pockets of Big Business.

How utterly shocking to the aesthetic sensibilities of Senator Newberry must have been the senate's reprimand of vote-buying! Now, in this day of "Buy Your Own Home" movements, someone may suggest a new slogan for Republican senatorial aspirants: "Buy Your Own Senatorial Seat."

Sometimes we are strongly inclined to the opinion that Hiram Johnson would like to organize a Society for the Suppression of All Diplomacy. Senator Johnson is a PUBLIC SERVANT who mistakes his own sciatia or bad liver or something of that kind for the VOICE OF THE PEOPLE. Perhaps some day the people will really speak to him—and then California will have another senator.

Such weather as that which has prevailed during the last few days cannot fail to have its effect upon the Ancient Order of Spring Poets. Soon the mountain laurel will bend to kiss the dew as affectionately as possible, the potato bugs will begin to commence to prepare to fix to get ready to assault the new crop, umpires will be formulating plans for limitation of armament and profanity on the diamond. Along about this time of the year many persons conclude that a fellow's education has been sadly neglected if he did not spend at least a few years on the farm in his boyhood days. The sight of one "streakfield" sometimes seemed to mean more to the seekers after knowledge than intimate acquaintance with quadratic equations. At any rate, that's what one was inclined to think on some of those spring days, but the young lady who presided over the school-room and knew where the most substantial hickory saplings grew—well, she had a will of her own. And, after all, she must have known best: but sometimes the pupils could detect a faraway look in her eyes, a look which may have signified that she was thinking of how clear the water was in the creek. On the other hand, she may have been meditating on her engagement for the following Sunday afternoon with that pretty doggone well-to-do young man who had recently purchased a brand new rubber-tired buggy.

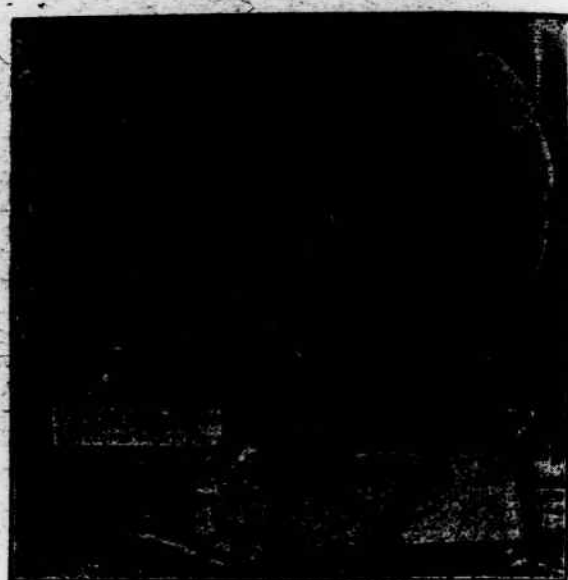

Some people don't know whether to reform the dance or choreograph the dance.

IS YOUR HEALTH GRADUALLY SLIPPING?

Interesting Experience of a Texas Lady Who Declares That if More Women Knew About Cardui They Would Be Spared Much Sickness and Worry.

Navasota, Texas.—Mrs. W. M. Peden, of this place, relates the following interesting account of how she recovered her strength, having realized that she was actually losing her health:

"Health is the greatest thing in the world, and when you feel that gradually slipping away from you, you certainly sit up and take notice. That is what I did some time ago when I found myself in a very nervous, run-down condition of health. I was so tired and felt so listless I could hardly go at all.

"I was just no account for work. I would get a bucket of water and would feel so weak I would have to set it down before I felt like I could lift it to the shelf. In this condition, of course, to do even my housework was a task almost impossible to accomplish.

"I was . . . nervous and easily upset.

I couldn't rest well at night and was . . . just listless.

"I heard of Cardui and after reading I decided I had some female trouble that was pulling me down. I sent for Cardui and began it . . .

"In a very short while after I began the Cardui Home Treatment I saw an improvement and it wasn't long until I was all right—good appetite, splendid rest, and much stronger so that I easily did my housework.

"Later I took a bottle of Cardui as a tonic. I can recommend Cardui and gladly do so, for if more women knew, it would save a great deal of worry and sickness."

The enthusiastic praise of thousands of other women who have found Cardui helpful should convince you that it is worth trying. All druggists sell it.

ADAM AND EVE MAY HAVE RUN A MODEL FARM ONCE UPON A TIME BUT THEY MISSED A LOT OF JOYS AND A LOT OF PROFITS WHICH ARE EASILY OBTAINED IN THE 20th CENTURY

HUMAN nature really is wonderful, as has been remarked some thousands of times ever since Adam and Eve first ran their model farm. What Adam didn't know about fig culture in those early days would have filled many volumes, but he was determined to learn something about it---and he did. Eve doubtless experienced a lot of trouble in starting fires to cook their breakfast on wash-days, but if she had lived long enough she would have familiarized herself with the modern Fireless Cooker. She, too, would have had at least a speaking acquaintance with an up-to-the-minute Electric Washing Machine. And when Adam went to market, had he lived until after the advent of modern transportation facilities, instead of depending upon camels he would have buzzed down the pike in a vehicle equipped with six cylinders, not six holding-back-straps. Of course the first family would have found the modern methods infinitely easier than those in vogue some six thousand years ago.

NOW it is generally agreed that such tasks as fruit production, cooking breakfast, washing and marketing, once extremely difficult, have, thanks to Automotive Development and other advanced methods, become comparatively simple and far easier than when the forests primeval constituted so much of the world's potential wealth. Families who now live forty miles apart are nearer each other than families who formerly lived ten miles apart. In this age of Automobiles a man may go where he pleases, when he pleases, in a small fraction of the time formerly required. Production, marketing and other problems which once were so difficult to solve are now handled far more expeditiously and with far less effort. If Adam and Eve were living to-day and tilling the soil, it is virtually certain that their equipment would include Automobiles, Trucks, Tractors and other great time-saving, labor-saving, money-making Automotive Products. Well, they cannot be present at the great Greensboro Automobile Show next month, but we can, and let us all resolve that we will be present and profit thereby!

EVENTS 80 YEARS AGO

It is the purpose of this paper to publish at frequent intervals comparatively brief references to events chronicled in The Greensborough (as it was then) Patriot of eighty years ago. In this enterprise valuable assistance is rendered by members of the staff of the Greensboro Public Library.

(March 1, 1842.)

In 1842, even as in 1922, the question of taxation was an absorbing thing. In that issue of The Patriot the following taxes were announced:

County tax—forty cents on each and every poll, and ten cents on each hundred dollars' valuation of land and town property.

Poor tax—five cents on each poll, and three cents on each hundred dollars' valuation of land and town property.

School tax—ten cents on each poll, and five cents on each hundred dollars' valuation of land and town property.

It was announced that the following gentlemen had been appointed superintendents of common schools "for the present year": Jesse R. Lindsay, Jas. R. Gilmer, Robert S. Gilmer, Daniel Clapp, Wm. Reynolds, Nathan Hunt, Edmund W. Ogburn, Andrew Lindsay, James Brannock and Ludwick Summers.

On February 24, 1842, according to an account appearing in The Patriot, Miss Julia H. Tatum, daughter of Rev. Henry Tatum, and William Conrad, were married in Guilford county by Rev. E. W. Caruthers.

D. P. Weir proudly proclaimed as follows: "Teeth! Teeth!! Comp. Chlorine Tooth Wash, Orris's Tooth Wash, Rose Tooth Powder, Calbo Liquepulv. Tooth Brushes, Ivory and Tortoise Shell Tooth-Picks."

"We are requested," ran an article, "to give notice that on next Saturday evening, at candle lighting, the first quarterly meeting of Greensboro Washington Temperance Society will be held in the courthouse. All the members in town and county are expected to attend, together with all other persons who may feel an interest in the society." Temperance sentiment then was undoubtedly in the making.

TO START ELM STREET WORK IN NEAR FUTURE.

Contract for the paving of Elm street from the O. Henry hotel to the Southern railway station will be let within the next 30 days, according to City Manager Painter. Work will start a few weeks after that date. It is expected that it will be completed within about 60 days. One side of the street will be paved at a time.

WOMAN VIOLENT.

Slaps Face of Mrs. Sterne at Home In High Point.

When Mrs. Blanche Carr Sterne, Guilford county welfare officer, went to the home of Mrs. Belle Steed, at the Highland Cotton mill, High Point, Thursday to find why Mrs. Steed had not sent her children to school, Mrs. Steed declared that she lived by the Bible and that nowhere in the Book is she commanded to send her children to school. Furthermore, Mrs. Steed defied the man-made law and declared she simply had no intention of sending her children to school. Then, forgetting one Biblical injunction, she finished by slapping Mrs. Sterne smartly on the cheek.

Mrs. Sterne, back Friday from the Furniture City admits that she did not turn the other cheek.

That makes two charges the Biblically minded woman must answer, in a man-made court, assaulting an officer of the law and failure to obey the compulsory school attendance law.

She was warned, Mrs. Sterne said, when she reached High Point, that she had better take a policeman along with her to the Steed home. But she had been so warned before in other cases and does not believe in taking a cop along everywhere she goes in the accomplishment of her duties. She knocked at Mrs. Steed's door and, explaining the reason for her visit, said she had come in a friendly manner. A storm of vituperation greeted her, winding up in the face slapping. Mrs. Steed said that if she had a pistol she would have used it, Mrs. Sterne said.

When Mrs. Sterne returned to the main part of High Point she obtained a warrant on the school delinquency charge and officers there tried to get her to have the assault warrant issued. She refused to do however. But when she returned to Greensboro county officials told her that one should be issued, and were going to do so without Mrs. Sterne's consent, so she finally consented.

PUBLIC HEALTH

By Wm. M. Jones, M. D.

MEASLES.

This is one of the most common of all the communicable diseases, and very few escape it. Almost every year we have a few cases scattered over the county, then we have a year when it becomes epidemic, and great numbers have the disease. Measles, like the other eruptive diseases, begins with a cold, eyes are inflamed and general chilly feeling, due to fever. About the fourth day the rash makes its appearance on the body, generally appearing first on the forehead and sides of the neck and rapidly spreading. In scarlet fever, which is some times confused with measles, the rash appears earlier and the general condition of the patient is worse than before the attack of measles and the color of the eruption is different.

Measles is generally considered as a mild, harmless disease. However, if you will note the number of deaths that occur each year from the disease you will at once come to the conclusion that it is not so harmless, after all, and especially to children under two years of age. Here is where we have our high death rate, and it is especially high among children who are not strong. It is no so much the measles, per se, but the complications that carry off these little ones.

One of the most common complications is that of the eyes. How many people do we see who are wearing glasses, and when asked for how long they have had to wear them, answer "ever since I had the measles!" So the room should be kept dark on account of the eyes. Another common complication is ear trouble, with breaking of the drum and a discharge from the ear. Here also we find many deaf people who tell us that their deafness is due to measles. But the complication that causes the death rate to be so high is pneumonia. For young children do not stand pneumonia very well and weak ones almost always die.

All parents are required by law to report measles to the health officer if the cases have not been reported by the physician.

Search for missing writer, Irving R. Bacon, is being conducted, and doubtless his wife hopes the detectives will bring home the Bacon.
