

TOBACCO MEN GET TOGETHER

National Co-operative Exchange Formed

STONE CHOSEN HEAD

M. O. Wilson, of Raleigh, Named Secretary of New Body Which Will Concentrate Strength of Individual Organizations

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 25.—The American Tobacco Growers' Co-operative exchange was brought into being at a meeting here Tuesday of representatives of co-operative associations of tobacco growers of the United States and Canada. Formation of the federation came at the annual session of a two-days' conference.

Concentration of the strength of the individual tobacco co-operatives under a common head for the protection and profit of each member association was declared to have been the aim of the representatives of the various leaf organizations in forming the exchange.

James C. Stone, of Lexington, Ky., president and general manager of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Marketing association, was elected president of the exchange. M. O. Wilson, of Raleigh, N. C., field service director for the Tri-State Tobacco Growers' Co-operative association, was named secretary.

Exchange headquarters were placed at the headquarters of the Burley Growers' association at Lexington.

Formation of an executive committee composed of the president of each co-operative tobacco association represented, with Mr. Stone as chairman and Aaron Sapiro, nationally known co-operative marketing expert, as general counsel, was authorized by adoption of a resolution offered by J. V. Joyner, of Lexington, N. C. This committee was authorized to function until the next meeting of the exchange.

In addition to the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Marketing association, and the Tri-State Tobacco Growers' Co-operative association, there were represented at the meeting the Canadian Tobacco Growers' Co-operative association, the Connecticut Valley Tobacco Growers' association, and the Northern Wisconsin Tobacco Growers' Co-operative pool.

A co-operative marketing association in process of formation among the dark tobacco growers of Kentucky also was made eligible to membership in the exchange upon completion of the organization.

Possibility of a joint personnel in the operation of the tobacco co-operatives, particularly with reference to the Burley and Tri-State associations was considered and was said to have been favorably received.

Greensboro Bank and Trust Company Named

The Greensboro Bank and Trust company will serve as trustee in execution of the station project agreed upon by the city and the Southern railway, selection of the bank for that task having been made at a meeting of the city council Monday afternoon. The vote was four to three on the second and final ballot. At first three votes were cast for the Greensboro Bank and Trust company and three for the American Exchange National bank and one for the Atlantic Bank and Trust company.

L. E. Jeffers, general counsel for the Southern railway, had previously advised Mayor Claude Kiser that any of the three banks would be acceptable to the Southern. The trusteeship is considered a relation of immense importance in the development of the new railroad station here.

Terrorists in Thrace

Constantinople, Oct. 24.—Bands of organized Comitatdjis and armed irregulars are operating throughout Eastern Thrace, according to British information. They have entered largely through the neighborhood of Tirnove and Midia and are terrorizing the local populations everywhere.

STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Former Official in Trouble
Asheville, Oct. 25.—Zade V. Sprinkle, former register of deeds of Madison county, is under bond to answer a charge of violation of the prohibition law. It is said that officers have been on his trail for over a year. He was very prominent in politics.

Children Burned to Death
Winston-Salem, Oct. 25.—Two children, one four years old and the other 18 months, were burned to death Monday when the home of their father, Granville McCullough, farmer, in Davie county, caught fire and burned to the ground.

Coleman Case Transferred
New Bern, Oct. 24.—Federal Judge Henry G. Connor today transferred the case against Captain Arthur Coleman, owner of the famous liquor ship, Message of Peace, charging perjury, to the Raleigh District court and set Tuesday, December 12, as the date for trial.

Millard F. Mastin Dead
Winston-Salem, Oct. 24.—Millard F. Mastin, a well known citizen and for many years one of the leaders of the Republican party in Forsyth, died at his home early this morning after two months' illness, his age being 69 years. He is survived by one daughter, Miss Kate Mastin, and one son, Henry W. Mastin, besides a number of other relatives.

Bloody Results of Raid
Asheville, Oct. 25.—One dead, another dying and three wounded are the results of a raid made near Bakersville by officers hunting stills.

Concrete Highway Completed
Thomasville, Oct. 24.—The concrete highway leading to High Point from here has just been completed and traffic went over it Sunday. All hands and machinery have turned to the link leading from here to Lexington, starting two miles below, and are grading back this way, following in quick succession with the mixing and pouring of concrete. Very short spaces of the old road-bed are being used for the new.

Baby With Four Toes
Durham, Oct. 24.—That scientists who insist sharp-toed shoes will bring about the elimination of fifth toes, know whereof they speak, is the contention of Dr. George H. Ross, local physician, who today announced that he has delivered the first new style baby. It is minus the fifth toe. Otherwise the feet are in perfect shape.

Found Dead In Bed
Mount Airy, Oct. 24.—Alfred W. Fogleman, aged 61, for 40 years in the employ of the Southern railway as section foreman, found dead in his bed at his home here, was buried today. He went to bed in apparently good health, and his little grandson, who slept with him, did not know when he died.

Attempted Suicide Bound Over
Durham, Oct. 25.—Leo Emlock, of Syracuse, N. Y., who early in the week attempted suicide in his city jail cell, has been bound over to Superior court by Recorder P. C. Graham under $200 bond on charge of picking pockets.

Judgment Against Wake Farmers
Raleigh, Oct. 25.—Because they refused to pay for fertilizer which they alleged injured their tobacco crops, L. N. Rouse and C. C. Talley, Wake county farmers, today were defendants in civil suits brought against them in City court by E. B. Uiley for amounts aggregating $1,025.60. Judge Harris rendered judgment in favor of the plaintiff and the defendants promptly took an appeal to Superior court.

Alderman Ignores Threat
Fayetteville, Oct. 25.—J. R. Harrison, a city alderman, who last week announced receipt of a letter signed "The Ku Klux Klan" threatening him with death unless he left Fayetteville by Monday, October 23, was still in the city today and declared that he intended to stay. The Ku Klux Klan has offered a reward of $500 for establishment of the identity of the author of the letter.

Mrs. S. C. Penn Dead
Reidsville, Oct. 25.—Mrs. S. C. Penn died at her home on South Main street Sunday night at 10:40 o'clock from a stroke of apoplexy. Her death is a great shock to the community, though her health had been poor for several months past.

More Roads and Bridges
Raleigh, Oct. 25.—Seventy-two miles of road and two large bridges were added to the list of projects under construction by the State Highway commission when bids were opened for 10 projects this morning, and a million and a half more of the state's fifty million dollar bond issue was obligated for construction.

Governor Orders Appeal
Columbia, S. C., Oct. 25.—Governor Harvey has ordered an appeal to the South Carolina Supreme court in the case of Reed Shaw, young white man, who at Anderson, S. C., successfully resisted through habeas corpus proceedings the efforts of the chief executive to revoke his parole from the state penitentiary, where he was serving a seven-year sentence for manslaughter. It was announced today by the governor that he had instructed Solicitor H. H. Harris, of Anderson, to file an appeal without delay.

PLEASANT GARDEN HIGHWAY MATTER DETERMINED HERE

At Joint Session County Commissioners and County High Commission Decide to Hard Surface Spur Connection and Topsoil Two Miles of Old Pleasant Garden Road—Say It Means Big Saving of Money

Decision to hard surface the spur connecting the Pleasant Garden road and the proposed state highway to Randleman was reached at a joint meeting of the Board of County Commissioners and the County Highway commission at the courthouse yesterday afternoon. At the same time it was agreed that two miles of the old Pleasant Garden railroad, paralleling the railroad tracks would be topsoiled.

Under this plan commissioners estimate that the county will save not less than $62,000 based upon present road construction costs. It was stated that if it had been decided to hard surface the entire Pleasant Garden road and topsoil the spur connection the cost to the county would have been $115,012.22.

Those figures were reached in this manner: To topsoil the spur, 1.6 miles, $1,200; to erect a bridge on the spur, $3,250; to hard surface 4.1 miles to the Tabernacle road, $100,062.22; to grade 4.1 miles to the Tabernacle road, $10,500, the total being $115,012.22.

On the other hand, county officials calculated the cost of the adopted program as follows: To hard surface the spur, 1.6 miles, $40,048.67; to re-surface 1.1 miles of old macadam, $1,650; to topsoil 1.1 miles of old road, $325; to grade and topsoil two miles of old road, $7,000; to erect a bridge on the spur, $3,250, the total cost being $52,773.67.

It was stated that the old Pleasant Garden road, route for which many citizens had asked would be entirely hard surface with the exception of two and a half miles. Greensboro will have two excellent highways leading from that section. It was pointed out; much traffic would be diverted to the proposed state road to Randleman from the Pleasant Garden road.

Pleasant Garden people will have two good routes leading to Greensboro; instead of one, officials pointed out.

Topsoiling the Pleasant Garden road will begin immediately and should be completed within a month. It was announced. Two miles of the old Pleasant Garden highway will be hard surfaced, 1.1 miles of the old macadam road will be re-surfaced and topsoil will be built on one side, a distance of 20 feet, intersecting the Tabernacle road.

Already the spur connection has been graded and the hard surface work will begin at once.

For a long time the question of the routes of the Pleasant Garden and Randleman roads has been a source of controversy. Final decision had been delayed because of absence from the city of W. C. Boren and J. Elwood Cox, of the County Highway commission.

FIND BODY OF WOMAN COVERED WITH LEAVE

Murdered Woman Discovered in Lonely Wood, Identification Being Made By Her Husband In Ohio

Cleveland, Oct. 25.—The body of Mrs. Henry J. Burns, 35, of this city, partially clothed, was unearthed from a newly dug grave, covered with dead leaves, in a lonely wood five and one-half miles northwest of Painesville late today.

Discovery of the grave was made by two Cleveland dentists, Dr. D. C. Campbell and Dr. W. R. Beattie, who were chesnutting in the woods, when they came across a hat with splashes of blood on it. They notified deputy sheriffs at Painesville, who dug up the body.

Identification was made by Mrs. Burns' husband here after he had seen a necklace, wrist watch and keys found on the body of the murdered woman. "Why, they belong to my wife," he told officers. He was then told of the murder. Shortly after the two dentists had discovered the bloody clothing they saw a man with a basket hurrying through the woods. They called to him, police said, but he refused to stop. The two men, however, ran to the road past the woods and saw the license number of the machine in which he drove away.

Examination of the body showed that Mrs. Burns had been shot through the left eye. The back of her head was crushed, while her face was marred by long scars and scratches. No other wounds were on the body. Her wrist watch had stopped at three minutes past 42 and deputy sheriffs believe that was the time when the murder was committed.

Educational Matters Considered By Synod

Lincolnton, Oct. 25.—Educational matters engaged much of the time of the Presbyterian Synod of North Carolina here today. The committee on schools and colleges reported a gratifying year, marked by increased attendance and higher standards. The burning of Chambers hall at Davidson college was a tragic development of the year, but the situation was being met in resourceful manner. The need of greater equipment and endowment of the four colleges for women was emphasized. President W. J. Martin, of Davidson, made a forceful plea for Christian education.

The committee on stewardship submitted a most gratifying report. Excellent progress in the various spheres of activity is reflected in reports to the synod. An interesting feature this afternoon was an address by Dr. H. H. Sweets, of Louisville, Ky., relative to the general assembly's work in various departments.

Convention In Favor of Near East Action

Burlington, Oct. 25.—Resolutions urging the United States government to exercise moral influence with a view to ending "atrocities against the minorities in the Near East" were adopted at the closing session of the American Christian convention here last night.

The following were appointed on the international relief committee: F. R. Beach, A. B. Kendall, J. O. Atkinson, J. M. Kaufman, E. R. Caswell, W. P. Minton, A. M. Kerr, J. F. Burnett and W. H. Martin. A vast amount of important business was transacted during the eight days of the convention's activities.

NEWS OF THE NATION

M. G. Craig Suicides

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 25.—M. G. Craig, former general passenger agent of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, shot himself Tuesday while seated on the rail of the Puget Sound passenger steamer Bremerton, according to officers of the steamer. The body toppled into Puget sound and was not recovered. Mr. Craig, who was a brother-in-law of the late Major General Henry W. Lawton, U. S. A., had come to Seattle recently from Louisville, Ky.

Mack Granted Allowance

White Plains, N. Y., Oct. 25.—Supreme Court Justice Morehauser on Tuesday awarded John E. Mack, guardian of baby Guy Stillman, $25,000 for his services in defending the infant against the charge of illegitimacy brought by James A. Stillman, millionaire banker in his suit for divorce from Mrs. Annie U. Stillman. He also allowed Mack $4,901.11 which the guardian reported he had expended in Guy's behalf.

Justice Day Resigns

Washington, Oct. 25.—The resignation of William R. Day, as associate justice of the Supreme court Tuesday was tendered to President Harding and was accepted. It will be effective November 14. The justice submitted his resignation primarily in order to permit him to assume the duties involved in his appointment as umpire on the American-German claims commission.

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 24.—James R. Lennox, former United States commissioner at Sentinel, Ariz., was taken into custody at Indianapolis, Ind., yesterday on an indictment charging complicity in an alleged "soldier" land fraud in which former service men and disabled soldiers were alleged to have lost approximately $2,500,000, according to word received here by federal officials.

Returns 48 Indictments

Marion, Ill., Oct. 25.—The special grand jury, which on Monday resumed its investigations of the Herline killings after a month's recess, late Monday afternoon returned an indictment for murder, naming 48 persons and announced it had completed its work. This makes 434 persons the grand jury has indicted in connection with the rioting in which 23 men were killed.

Earthquake Recorded

Washington, Oct. 24.—An earthquake of "moderate intensity" estimated to be about 5,200 miles south of Washington was recorded this afternoon on the seismograph at Georgetown university. Father Tondorf, director of the observatory, stated that the tremors began at 4:34 p. m. and continued until about 5:30.

Negro G. O. P. Candidate

Boston, Oct. 25.—Matthew W. Bullock, negro Republican candidate for the Massachusetts house of representatives, has filed with the clerk of the house a bill to prohibit the organization of the Ku Klux Klan in this state as "a menace to the public peace."

Prefer Manslaughter Charge

Fresno, Cal., Oct. 25.—George T. Harlow, whom a coroner's jury held to have committed "justifiable homicide" when he clubbed his 19-year-old wife to death after he had found her with a young man in their home early Sunday, will be tried for manslaughter, District Attorney Dailey announced today.

Former Trustees Begin Sentences

Chicago, Oct. 25.—James Reznay, former school board trustee, Hart Hanson and Dr. B. Larkowski, present trustees, sentenced to jail in the school board contempt case started to serve their sentences Tuesday night. Mrs. Florence Thomson and Mrs. Lulu M. Snodgrass, former trustees, paid fines of $750 and $500 respectively, while Dr. Sadie B. Adair, trustee, paid a $750 fine and escapes jail sentences.

Delivers Curse On Body

Kansas City, Kans., Oct. 25.—The body of Frank Espy, a white man, was buried Tuesday in Huron cemetery in the heart of the business district here, while Helena Conley, descendant of Wyandotte Indians, stood at the head of the grave and delivered the Wyandotte Indian curse on the dead man's soul and on those responsible for the burial in the Indian cemetery. The curse was delivered in a low tone, most of it in the Indian language.

Found Dead In Hotel

Doylstown, Pa., Oct. 25.—Lieut. Col. Percy B. Musgrave, 52, was found dead in his room at the Court inn here today with a bullet hole through his heart. The officer's 44-caliber revolver was reported to have been found on the floor beside his body by a hotel attendant. The lieutenant colonel was fully dressed and had been dead only a short time. It was stated.

Mal Talks of League

Greenville, S. C., Oct. 25.—"America could have made Europe stop fighting and go to work" if she had entered the league of nations, United States Senator Nat B. Falgout the South Carolina Cotton Manufacturers' association in an address Tuesday at the opening session of the annual convention of the organization. He declared that it was time that the United States "quit being the treasury of the world."

BIG SWINDLE NOW ALLEGED

Say Tar Heels Fleeced Out of $38,000

ARRESTS ARE MADE

For Alleged Violation of "Blue Sky" Law To Men Bound Over to Randolph Superior Court—Three Other Warrants Issued

Point, Oct. 25.—Proceedings started here Tuesday in the trying of an alleged violation of Carolina's "Blue Sky" law by it is said people of the state were swindled out of $38,000. C. D. Peebles, of Mocksville, and D. E. Koonce, of Coolidge, were bound over to Randolph Superior court in the sum of $500 each when they were given a preliminary hearing Tuesday afternoon before Squire T. S. Bouldin, at Trinity, Randolph county, on charges of selling stock without first having obtained license from the State Department of Insurance.

L. G. Rabe, a transient resident, J. B. Pegram, of Winston-Salem, and W. G. Chandler, of Baltimore, are also charged with selling stock without first having obtained licenses. Warrants have been served on Rabe and Pegram, but when called to appear before Squire W. G. Brown here Tuesday morning, the two men failed and forfeited $1,000 bond each. A warrant has been issued for Chandler, but it has not been served, his whereabouts being unknown.

It is alleged in the warrants issued for the five men that they unlawfully and wilfully sold certain stocks while representing the High Point Springless Shade company, a corporation of the state of North Carolina, and L. G. Rabe and J. B. Pegram, possessors of a certain patented springless shade, without first obtaining licenses from the State Department of Insurance.

The cases came up before Squire W. G. Brown here Tuesday morning, but were transferred to Randolph county. It is reported that the majority of the alleged "watered stock" was sold in Randolph and Davie counties. Authorities say that the alleged "Blue Sky" law violators misrepresented the concern for which they were selling stock.

Name Bond of $7,000 For Alleged Slayer

Salisbury, Oct. 24.—H. H. Cheatham, federal prohibition officer, charged with the murder of Doug Dunham, a young white man, of this city, was allowed a bond of $7,000 in Federal court here this morning. The bond was immediately given and Cheatham released.

Hayden Clement, solicitor for Superior court in this district, announced that he will ask the grand jury in the state court for a true bill against Cheatham charging first degree murder. This indictment will be made returnable in Federal court at the April 1923 term.

Cheatham is alleged to have fatally shot Dunham on the night of October 14 while making a liquor raid.

Governor Wants Line of Steamships Going

Raleigh, Oct. 25.—A North Carolina owned steamship line operating from coast towns to northern centers of commerce is the proposal Governor Cameron Morrison will lay before the general assembly when it meets here in January and to this end, the governor has asked the state corporation commission to secure data on the subject.

This, in the opinion of the governor, will tear "freight rates all to pieces and build half a dozen cities on the waterways of Eastern North Carolina."

Clyde Hoey's Address Feature For Tonight

Former Congressman Clyde Hoey, of Shelby, will deliver an address at the county courthouse here at 8 o'clock tonight, speaking in the interest of Democracy. It is expected that a large number of voters will hear Mr. Hoey, who has the reputation of being one of the most forceful orators in the state.

Speeches are being made in various sections of the county by Democratic candidates, discussion of public issues proving very interesting.

Sues For $10,000

"LEST WE FORGET"

The International Sunday School Lesson,
By REV. E. P. BILLUPS,
Assistant Pastor West Market Street Methodist Church.

(Isaiah 61:1-9)

In the lesson this week we pause in the midst of our studies of the life of Christ, giving attention to one of those lofty utterances in the prophecy of Isaiah, interpreting it in the light of present day affairs, and calling especial attention to national prohibition and the benefits which have come to the nation since its inception.

It has been four years since the constitutional amendment went into effect—and these four years have shown marked improvement over the so-called "good old days." There are some, of course, who find complaint and never cease to make mention of what they call the infringement of their rights—charging that one section of the country voted something over on another section, or that "while the boys were in France the people back home 'put one over' on them." And, strange to say, some people of intelligence have been duped into believing some of these charges. This is the sly work of the unregenerate liquor traffic. It has been busy propagating these infamous lies, striving to disparage the prohibition amendment and by its flagrant disregard of all law, attempting to undermine the very fundamentals of our government. The members of Congress that submitted the prohibition amendment, and the members of the legislatures that ratified it, were elected before a single "doughboy" stepped his foot upon French soil. The prohibition amendment was legislated by the express will of the people of these United States; that fact cannot be denied. It has come to stay. This age-long enemy died hard—but it is dead.

Benefits.—Even in these few months that prohibition has been in force, there have been many benefits. The "broken hearted" have been bound up, liberty has been proclaimed to the captives, and we have witnessed literally the "opening of the prison to them that are bound." There are many "former desolations" which are being restored. The lives that have been wrecked, alas!—some are past restoration. But everywhere fathers and sons and brothers are freed from temptation, and are now walking with steady footsteps and clear eyes, earning and spending their money in worthy ways. Children that have gone hungry are now being fed; wives that were once scourged and beaten as slaves are now contented in their home life. Prohibition is proving a national purifier. Then we are much richer, for we are saving annually two billion dollars, the cost of alcoholism to us before the amendment—and that represents only a small part of the great economic benefit. I am firm in the conviction that not since the days of the reformation has anything served to advance the cause of Christianity more than the stand of Christian America on the prohibition question.

Drawbacks.—There are certain phases of this question which call for vigilance on the part of the Christian citizen. We have, it must be admitted, the "bootlegger," the law violator, the "thug," and "assassin," all of them backed by liquor money of material wealth in their flouting of the law in their attempt to make the amendment a failure. Then we have the "good citizen" who willfully violates the law when he buys from the "bootlegger" his private stock. He is not a good citizen, but an enemy to law and order, just as much so as is the "bootlegger" himself. The public conscience must be educated to respect and reverence for the sacredness of the law. Then since prohibition has come into effect, the tobacco evil has increased to such an amount as to be alarming. It is the personal privilege of a man to smoke if he wishes. And to legislate against it would be silly, unless smoking, like whiskey, would cause a man to beat his wife and starve his children. But there is this situation to be faced. The cigarette evil is a menace to the youth of our land. Emblazoned upon thousands of beautifully colored billboards of our nation are subtle appeals to the American boy to take up the tobacco habit. What temptations come to the red-blooded American boy today! This is one that he must be saved from, and that by means of earnest agitation and thorough education.

"The Acceptable Year of the Lord."—Out of the turmoil and strife and struggle of today there must come a better day. The complete annihilation of alcoholism will greatly hasten "the glory of the world that is to be." Already there is strong sentiment among the nations against this arch enemy of the race. A few months ago a prominent anti-alcohol leader in Europe said: "Convince Europe that prohibition is a good thing, and nothing can prevent Europe's adopting it." England's great hero, David Lloyd George, said: "A wet England cannot compete industrially with a dry United States." Here is America's opportunity. She has a distinct function to perform in the coming century of the nations. We cannot yield an inch to the opposition. Never can we tolerate light wines and beer. A nation of wine bibbers and beer bloats cannot lead the world in high spiritual endeavor and moral ideals. "Only a nation that has been freed from its own sins and slaveries can hope to lead others. May we be worthy of our high calling as 'priests of the Lord,' and the world yet rightly appraise us as 'the ministers of our God.'"

"America—if thoroughly Christianized—still has the opportunity of world leadership which Israel of old so sadly missed.

"Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet
Lest we forget, lest we forget."

Hides a Fortune in a Shoe

Read the above news story, it tells of a woman who hid jewelry worth a small fortune in the toe of a shoe. In the twinkling of an eye it disappeared when her husband took her shoe to the cobbler to be sewed and tapped. What a misfortune, all because the family did not keep their valuables in a safe deposit box. Hundreds of thousands of valuables are lost or stolen every year. FARM DEMONSTRATION

Outdoor Wintering of Bees

Providing a Windbreak.—It is well established that a windbreak of evergreens is superior to a solid windbreak such as a house or solid fence. The beekeeper can readily determine whether his bees are located in a place where the wind rarely or never blows more than five miles an hour in winter. If the apiary is not so located, it should be moved during the summer to a place in the woods, in a gully, or in some other sheltered place. Bees should never be moved in winter. If it is not practicable to move the apiary, a high fence, perhaps eight feet high, should be constructed on the exposed sides. The more compact the apiary, the easier it is to construct a windbreak, which is an argument for placing colonies in groups of four. Evergreens are slow growing, and a high fence may be used until the permanent windbreak is sufficient. If the apiary is practically surrounded by buildings, this may be adequate protection, but such a location is usually not the most convenient for the apiary. A southern exposure is usually recommended as best for winter, for it is claimed that the heat of the sun is beneficial. Since the sun shines only a small fraction of the time in winter in most localities, especially in the east, where there is much cloudy weather, this feature should not be unduly emphasized.

Providing Adequate Winter Stores.—The amount of honey that a colony will need from the time it is packed until it is unpacked can not be closely estimated. The aim of the beekeeper in winter should be to save bees rather than honey, and he can make no more profitable investment than to give his bees more than they can possibly use. Some beekeepers claim that it is best to have the old bees die soon, so as to save stores. The actual consumption in such badly wintered colonies is probably not at all decreased.

If the bees do not have sufficient stores, they may be given combs of honey, but these should always be given before cold weather, so that a proper clustering space may be formed by the moving of honey, since bees always cluster in empty cells of the comb adjacent to stores.

If honey in combs is not available, the bees may be fed extracted honey, but the usual practice is to feed a thick sugar sirup made of 2 or 2 1/2 parts of sugar to 1 part of water by volume. To this sirup 1 ounce of tartaric acid should be added for each 40 to 60 pounds of sugar while the sirup is being heated to the boiling point to dissolve the sugar crystals. The sirup should be boiled 15 minutes.

Summary and Conclusions.—Bees need protection from cold and wind in winter in practically all parts of the United States. The beekeeper should give abundant insulation, since it is impossible to give too much and since most beekeepers give too little. Great care should be exercised to protect colonies from wind. Every colony should be strong in the fall, so that heat may be generated and conserved economically. To reach the proper population a good queen is necessary.

Many colonies die of starvation in winter. This can easily be avoided.

The beekeeper can make no better investment than to give his colonies proper care for winter.

If the excessive winter losses are prevented, commercial beekeeping will be greatly benefited. Such a condition is entirely possible when beekeepers come to understand the fundamental principle of wintering.

Feeding Hens For Egg Production

Green feeds should be supplied to hens confined in small yards and also to all hens during the winter, when no green feed is available in the yards. Free range or large yards kept in grass will furnish ideal conditions for green feed, and where smaller yards have to be used they should be divided into two parts and used alternately, planting the vacant section two or three times yearly with a quick-growing green crop, such as rape, oats, wheat, rye or barley. This method furnishes green feed and also helps to keep the yards sweet and clean, which is a very important consideration.

Good kinds of green feeds are sprouted oats, alfalfa meal, chopped alfalfa and clover hay, cabbages, and mangold beets. In ordinary cellars cabbages do not keep so well as mangold beets, so they should be used up first. Cabbages may be hung up in the poultry house; the beets are usually split and stuck on a nail on the side wall of the pen about a foot above the floor. Vegetables which have been frozen can be thawed out and fed to fowls, but do not keep well after thawing. Clover and alfalfa may be fed as hay cut into one-quarter or one-half inch lengths, or they may be brought in the form of meal.

Oats for sprouting are soaked overnight in warm water and then spread out from one-half to one inch thick on trays having perforated bottoms and put into an oat sprouter. Water the oats thoroughly and turn the trays around once daily to promote even sprouting. Artificial heat should be supplied in cool weather by the use of a kerosene lamp or by other means. Use a good grade of oats and allow a square inch of sprouted-oat surface per hen daily, feeding these sprouted oats on the floor of the poultry house or in the yard. Feed at any time after the sprouts are well started, which usually takes from five to seven days. Keep the sprouts clean and spray it occasionally with disinfectant to prevent the growth of mold spores.

Keep oyster shells and grit before the hens all the time. These substances are an inexpensive but quite necessary part of the ration. Hens will eat about two pounds of oyster shell and about one pound of grit each in a year.

Use home-grown grains and their by-products, supplemented with meat and fish scrap or milk.

Mix these feeds to make a properly balanced ration.

Feed a scratch mixture of whole or cracked grains twice daily.

Feed a mash, either dry or wet, made of ground grains and meat scrap.

Supply more than one kind of grain.

Make the hens exercise for their feed.

Give a light feed of grain in the morning, only supplying what the hens will clean up in a half hour. Always give a full feed in the afternoon, especially in cold weather.

County Agents Work

Reports received by the United States Department of Agriculture indicate that 2,215,000 farmers, or an average of about 1,100 per county, adopted methods introduced by the county extension agent in handling their livestock or crops in 1921.

PROGRESS NOW MADE BY SOUTHERN FARMER

President Fairfax Harrison, of Southern Railway, Points to Increase in Truck Crops

Washington, Oct. 25.—“The Southern farmer is making hopeful progress in his journey from dependence upon a single money crop, with its one payday per year at market time for cotton or tobacco, toward the independence to be obtained by the operation of his farm to yield cash returns throughout the year from the sale of truck crops, cattle, hogs, poultry and dairy products,” says Fairfax Harrison, president of the Southern Railway company, in his annual report which goes on to say:

“One proof of this progress is found in a report by the United States Bureau of Markets that from January 1, 1922, to August 19, 1922, there were shipped from the states of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Tennessee 107,298 carloads of cabbage, cantaloupes, lettuce, onions, strawberries, sweet potatoes, tomatoes, watermelons, Irish potatoes, peaches and mixed vegetables, compared with 83,629 carloads for the same period of last year, an increase of 23,669 carloads or 28.30 per cent., and this showing was made in spite of the fact that there was a substantial decrease in production of watermelons and peaches because of unfavorable weather conditions.

“Other bits of evidence of the same character are the establishment of 26 new creameries in the territory served by Southern railway system, a large increase in the production of butter, the raising in South Georgia of milk fed poultry along the lines for many years profitably practiced in East Tennessee, the placing on farms throughout the territory of more purebred poultry than in any previous year, and the growing of high-grade tobacco in South Carolina and Georgia.

“The movement of farm settlers into the South, comparatively light for several years past, shows signs of increasing. Sound and conservative colonization projects are being launched in several localities served by Southern Railway system. Lands will be prepared for farming and offered on terms which should attract a desirable class of farmers from parts of the United States where land prices, measured by productive value, relatively are much higher than in the south.”

Skin Ablaze with Eczema Constant Itching Almost Unbearable!

We know there is one thing that stops eczema, and that is more red blood cells! S. S. S. builds them by the million! You can increase your red blood cells to the point where it is practically impossible for eczema to exist. We know that as blood-cells increase in number, blood impurities vanish! We also know that night follows day. Both are facts! But have you, eczema sufferers, ever actually taken advantage of this wonderful fact? Thousands just like you have never thought about it! Skin eruptions, eczema with all its fiery, skin-digging torture and its soul-tearing, unrelenting itching, pimples, blackheads and boils, they all pack up and go, when the tide of blood-cells begins to roll in! Blood-cells are the fighting-giants of nature! S. S. S. builds them by the million! It has been doing it since 1898! S. S. S. is one of the greatest blood-cell builders, blood-cleansers and body builders known to us mortals! When you put these facts together, then to continue to have eczema and skin eruptions looks more like a sin than a disease. Mrs. Arthur N. Smith, Pearl St., Newark, Ohio, writes:

“My little girl had a very bad case of eczema. She began taking S. S. S. and is well now. I thank you very much. I tell my friends what a good medicine it is. I cannot talk too much about it, for I know it is O. K.”

Here is your opportunity. S. S. S. contains only vegetable medicinal ingredients. Because S. S. S. builds red blood-cells, it rids the system of all impurities, fills out hollow cheeks, beautifies the complexion, builds you up when you are run-down. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores, in two sizes. The larger size bottle is the more economical.

MOORE MOTOR SEMAPHORE

The Moore Motor Semaphore has several distinct advantages as a motor heat indicator. In addition to its simplicity of construction, having only two working parts, it is very accurate and can be instantly read, day or night, while driving. It is a well constructed instrument, attractive in design, and the workmanship and the material are guaranteed.

Positive in action. Mechanical, not chemical or electrical. Only two working parts, the Thermo-static element and the Semaphore arms. Temperature changes produce a movement of the Thermo-static element which is directly applied to the Semaphore arms, which move and clearly signal the result. Condition of overheated motor speedily indicated.

ACCURATE---No Adjustments to Make.

DURABLE---Nothing to Break or Get Out of Order.

Most beauty shows seem to be pretty good.

As a stump speaker Hoover is easily stumped.

Who checks up the work of efficiency experts?

There is a bumper crop of political handshakes.

The German mark continues to have sinking spells.

Is the Republican tariff act a get-rich-quick scheme for Big Business?

Presumably Bonar Law will try to lay down the law to the political enemies.

Sometimes the difference between radicalism and radicalism appears to be slight.

The people seem disposed to sit down hard on large standing army proposals.

Strangely enough, the Republicans did not levy tariff duties on short skirts.

Germany likes the budget system so long as it can make out its own budget.

Some emotional motion picture actresses must not be far from emotional insanity.

With all his get-rich-quick schemes Ponzi traveled faster to jail than to wealth.

Some people wouldn't grieve if the ship subsidy bill were sunk without a trace.

There is a lot of difference between The Congressional Record and the congressional record.

Practice makes perfect is an adage which probably will not stand the test with home brewers.

Like members of the Debt Refunding commission, butchers have a lot of work cut out for themselves.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has gone to Battle Creek to rest, but Standard Oil is not on the superannuate list.

It's a safe bet that Lloyd George has had more fun than his critics during the seven years of his service as prime minister.

New Yorker recently used a pistol to collect an account of 80 cents. He was evidently determined to keep collections up to normalcy.

If voters thought that a ballot for Mr. Harding meant a ballot for normalcy, it now appears to have been a case of mistaken identity.

Receivership for the American Cotton exchange has been created and we wonder how Dr. H. Q. Alexander would like to have a job as receiver for that organization.

Miss Reddish, of Jasper, Fla., and Mr. Green, of Raleigh, were married the other day. Reddish-Green, and we wonder if the color scheme at the wedding was appropriate.

AT IT AGAIN

President Harding has a big heart for the farmers at times. One of those times is now—just before election.

President Harding says that prosperity is about to hit us all but especially the farmers. He wrote a letter to the secretary of agriculture and said that in this prosperity the farmer is going to be one of the first to get a big slice.

That certainly sounds fine. But Mr. Harding said that just before the 1920 election, talking about how the Republicans, including himself, should be elected so prosperity could have a clear track.

He ought to explain how it is that the prices of farm products have been low. In the very letter that he wrote to the secretary of agriculture he wrote that the prices of the things the farmer have had to sell have been too low. Surely he has not forgotten that prosperity, that "normalcy," he talked about in 1920 that was coming if only the Republicans would get the votes.

It is the same old song. Elect us, he says, speaking for the Republicans, and we will make you prosperous. Vote for us and put money in your pocket. It will pay you to vote for us; you will have more to spend; people will pay you more.

The President must excuse people if they stop to snigger a little over that.

How long does it take the Republicans to bring that prosperity? Are two years nothing? If the people put back the Republicans will they have the next Republican nominees to come out and say the same little piece, about prices being too low for farm products but an era of prosperity being at hand if the people will only vote for the Republicans and let them bring prosperity?

Mr. Harding must really excuse people if they stop to break out into a loud laugh.

People get tired of waiting all the time. They want a little action, when action is promised.

Mr. Harding will have to excuse people if they fail to take that sort of stuff seriously, coming just before election time. Two years have passed since the last election, and there should have been something done if the Republicans were to bring that prosperity. There should have been some taste of better prices at least a year ago.

Of course the Republicans would like to bring prosperity if they could but they can't, except for a favored few. They are so busy bringing prosperity to a few that there is not time nor means to accomplish measures of an economic nature that permit prosperity for the many.

THE POLICIES

"Tax revision for the bucaniers."

"A tariff for the profiteers."

"A ship subsidy for the privateers."

"Senate seats for the auctioneers."

Those are "four Republican policies" found on the back of the North Carolina Democratic Handbook. A great deal is said in those four phrases. Talk about hitting the nail on the head—those four phrases hit the nail and jam the head up into the wood.

Now let us come to four Democratic policies. They are as listed in the same place.

"Honest and scientific tax revision with taxes equitably levied, so that the bulk of taxes is paid by the people best able to pay them."

"A complete tariff to provide revenue for the government and stimulate domestic and foreign trade."

"A merchant marine policy with out subsidies, that will restore the American flag upon the seas, promote American commerce and prevent monopoly of ocean tariff."

"A clean United States senate nominated and elected by the people under a drastic corrupt practices act to prevent the purchase of senate seats."

Make your choice of the two tickets.

FAIRER

It seems strange, but the big fairs, in an effort to become greater, to eliminate the objectionable features, are taking a leaf from the book of the little community fairs.

They are driving out the gambling joints and questionable shows, the places where a man would not dream of taking his wife or children and would also lower himself by going inside alone.

The North Carolina state fair did that very thing, and was pronounced the best yet held. Here in Greensboro the Central Carolina fair did the same thing, having a warm dispute over it with the carnival people. Now the South Carolina state fair is doing the same thing. The governor of South Carolina has given orders to arrest not only the people who are caught selling whisky but also not to permit any drinking.

The big fairs are laying more and more stress on the agricultural, educational exhibits, just like the community fairs. In time the big fairs will be as clean as the community fairs.

Perhaps it is self-preservation that is putting the big fairs to cleaning up. Fortunately, the people have got so that they will not stand for questionable shows, with painted women, more paint than clothing, being big attractions. The painted women do not attract much. They repel. As for the education, in paying money to spin a wheel that is a little too much; a child could tell who was going to win the most at that; that can well be left out of the course. Innocent amusement and entertainment there can be in plenty, but the old days when the way one was expected to have a good time was by cutting loose and cutting up or watching other cut-ups are gone.

The outlook from now for the fairs seems fairer.

ATTRACTIVE OR REPELLANT

"The hope of the rural district is in bringing to it the things which draw its population to the cities," the Religious Telescope declares, quoted by the University of North Carolina News Letter. It goes to considerable length to show that those things are not unattainable.

"The boy or girl on the farm has the same right to whatever is desirable or helpful as the young people of the cities have. And if the rural community does not meet their needs, we can scarcely blame them if they seek their fortunes in the centers of population," The Telescope states.

That is, if the young folks of a community leave it is the fault of the older ones.

Fault is a rather hard word. We resent it when people talk about our faults. We excuse ourselves. For every fault we have at least a dozen excuses and can easily multiply the number. But we might as well acknowledge them.

When a man's children tell him that they have decided they do not care to live any longer on the farm he should not quarrel with them. Rather, he should find out why they do not care to live there any longer. It may be that in the city they may find better opportunities in every way, in particular cases, in which case he would be foolish to restrain them, but on the other hand it may be that they are not going to anything particularly attractive, just going to get away from something unattractive.

It is the business of the older people in the community, as individuals and co-operating, to make the rural community so attractive that their children prefer to stay there. In the schools, as schools and as community centers; in the churches, in good roads, in modern methods of farming lie the chief ways to make the rural sections attractive. As individuals and co-operating, the older people have it in their power to keep their children satisfied, in the rural sections.

It is no easy thing to do, but men and women have done it.

MOSTLY NONSENSE

By Gee Gee Dee.

ONCE UPON A TIME a man was remodeling a house. It had been badly damaged as a result of an upheaval in that section. A neighbor stopped and watched the remodeling job. "Let me have the tools," quoth the neighbor, "you don't know how to remodel that house. I'll show you how it should be done." A majority of the members of the family finally agreed to give the neighbor a chance and the first remodeler was compelled to stand aside. But the more nails the neighbor drove and the more planks he sawed, it was subsequently discovered, the less attractive the structure appeared. Every time the officious neighbor placed a tariff plank the building shook to its very foundations. Whenever the self-laudatory workman devised a new financial scheme the apprehension of members of the family who had expected to occupy the house increased. In fact, practically every move of the fellow added to the general uncertainty and distress. "We can't put a bonus bay window in this residence because of the fact that we haven't the funds," said the alleged artisan, forgetting that only a short time prior to that utterance he had boasted of the vast sums of money which he had saved the family by practicing rigid economies here, there and everywhere.

The remodeling job continues to be bungled and many members of the family are painfully aware of that fact. On Tuesday, November 7, the family will have an opportunity to express its opinion of the work, and at the same time deliver an opinion as to whether the original artisan should be given the assignment of completing the task. The original artisan may for purposes of identification be designated Democracy and his successor may be set down as Republicanism. Citizens privileged to vote are members of the family observing the job. And it is betraying no secret to state that many of them are disgusted with the latest remodeling activities.

Will they continue to call Chicago the Windy City after the retirement of Mayor Thompson?

Health authorities in one state recently advised against promiscuous handshaking, declaring it would tend to increase the number of bad colds. Now the desire of political candidates for bad colds may reasonably be expected to reach fever heat within the next ten days.

Since Columbus discovered America 875,000,000 fine ounces of gold, valued at $18,000,000,000, have been produced by the world, according to The New York World. Approximately $8,000,000,000 of that amount is in circulation as money or in banks and public treasuries of the world. $2,000,000,000 is in the United States treasury, while the other $10,000,000,000 has been used up in the industrial arts or has disappeared in the 430 years since the keeping of accurate gold statistics began. Perhaps somewhat less than a billion will be extracted from the Consumer Family in this country through the agency of the Republican tariff act. As to the value of the gold brick schemes we suppose the calculations might readily be made on the fingers of one hand.

Burlington man, C. H. Vanderford, has been exhibiting a potato "about 28 inches in length." We shall await a report from our good friend, Percy Highfill, Esq., as to his own potato-raising before acclaiming Mr. Vanderford the champion raiser of big potatoes.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS

ROUTE 1, KIMESVILLE

John G. Kirby died at his home northeast of Liberty on October 16, at the age of 62 years, 10 months and 22 days. Mr. Kirby had been in feeble health for more than a year. Everything was done for him to restore his health that human hands could do, but proved of no avail. He was a member of Mount Zion Baptist church 22 years. He leaves three sisters, his devoted wife, four children and three grandchildren and many friends. His remains were laid to rest near his father, mother, two brothers and four of his children in Richland cemetery. The funeral was conducted by his pastor, Rev. Mr. Frazier. Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Spoon's children met at their home sometime ago and gave the old folks a surprise in the form of an enjoyable birthday dinner and an attractive bed. The occasion was greatly enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Soots will move on this route soon. "Sam-soots" is being welcomed back. Eugene Holt and family will move to the A. G. Amick place. Lawrence Bowman is making some improvements on his barn. Miss Musette Alexander is attending the Oakdale school which opened October 16 with three teachers. Mrs. Joe Swing, who has been in feeble health for some time, is much improved. A. R. L. L., F. L., and F. M. Spoon joined hands and teams and snuck corn as a neighborly surprise.

CENTER

The rain Monday evening stopped, clearing away, which had already been delayed. The farmers who have been gathering corn report that it is better than they expected. Mrs. Edna Potter, of High Point, was here for services Sunday. "Uncle" Elwin Osborne is somewhat indisposed with a cold, but was able to be out to attend his Sunday school class Sunday. He seldom is absent unless providentially hindered. Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Hodgins, of Greensboro, visited home folks Sunday, attending services here also. Edwin Rockett visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Rockett, the week-end. Mrs. J. F. Gossett improves rather slowly. On last Sunday afternoon there was a roll call of the membership of the church here. A large crowd was present; about 93 members answered to their names and quite a number of absentees sent scripture verses to be read in response to their names.

ALAMANCE

Mrs. C. M. Pritchett spent a few days in Raleigh last week with her daughter, Mrs. Paisley Hines. Lacy Fogleman, of Virginia, spent last week-end with his mother. Miss Bessie Phipps, a student at Guilford college, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Phipps. Miss Swannie Troxler delightful-ly entertained the following members of the Alamance faculty at supper one night last week: Misses May Fields, Martha Caudle, Gladys Beaman and Cora Allred. The high school at this place is progressing nicely. The farmers are very busy in this section sowing wheat.

A fine son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Jas. E. Kirtz last Tuesday. John R. Rightsell, one of the most successful farmers of this township, won first prize for an exhibit of ten ears at the Randolph county fair at Asheboro this fall. Joseph O. Forrester won second prize. The Duroc breeders, H. V. Cox, C. T. Henson and R. W. Bray, captured a good number of premiums at the State fair last week. Mr. Bray won the junior championship prize, which was a very coveted one. Revival services began in the Baptist church Sunday. The pastor, Rev. S. L. Morgan, is ably assisted by Rev. Mr. Wheeler, of Benson.

Big Haul of Whisky In Columbia Suburb

Columbia, S. C., Oct. 24.—Two automobiles, carrying nearly 400 quarts of whisky, were captured by officers early this morning at New Brookland, a suburb of Columbia. Two men and a woman were in one car, while the other car was occupied by two men. In the first car captured with 213 quarts were Mr. and Mrs. R. E. August, of Savannah, Ga., and Barnett Woods, of Savannah, according to the names given officers. The second car, with 180 quarts seized about two hours later at the same point was occupied by men giving their names as Henry Paul and C. B. Shelton, of Evansville, Ind. The four men were charged with violating the prohibition law. No charge was made against Mrs. August. Henry Paul secured his release on bond, while the other men are still prisoners in the New Brookland jail.

Contracts Made For School Construction

Contracts for construction of the new West Lee street and Asheboro street schools were awarded Tuesday by the city board of education. Joe W. Stout and company, of Sanford, will build the Asheboro street school for $142,833. Contract for the West Lee street job was let to Hunt and Sadler, of Greensboro, at $174,269. W. Drummond Marrow, of Norfolk, Va., was awarded the contracts for the electrical work in both schools, the figure being $14,000, and W. W. Dick, of Greensboro, secured the heating contracts for both at $42,325.

BIG DEMOCRATIC GAINS PROPHESED BY WALSH

Washington, Oct. 25.—Predictions of "substantial Democratic gains" in the elections for both senate and house in states west of the Mississippi river were made in a statement Monday night by Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, chairman of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee, upon his return from a tour through the west. The results on November 7, Senator Walsh said, "would be 'Democratic victories in unexpected places, and in very sweeping proportions.'"

PUBLIC HEALTH

By Wm. M. Jones, M. D.

Resolved: Not to Worry

It is never too late to make a good resolution, especially when the resolution is, "Not to worry." Worry is abnormal, and is therefore injurious to health. It weakens the mental forces by tiring them out by doing nothing. It never gets anywhere. It is mental labor for nothing. The effect of chronic worry on health is almost that of poison. It not only disturbs the mind and perverts mental vision, but it disturbs the natural functions of the body, causing indigestion, poor nutrition, and neurasthenia. It often produces a condition of the bowels that favors constipation with all of its attendant evils. It undermines health, and is at all times a great menace to both mental and physical health. For most people, worry is largely a habit that can be avoided. Often-times when reason is applied to worry, worry vanishes, which is to say that there is seldom a reason for worry. Strange to say, the things that people should worry over most worry them least. However, people can, by firmly resolving not to worry, and by looking at the physical and mental results of worry, do much towards living a saner, happier, healthier life.

Postmaster, Greensboro, N. C. Will you please make inquiries in regard to the whereabouts of any of Mr. John Powell's relatives or friends. He and Mr. George Welton, (a cousin of his) and Mr. Joe Harris came to this state about 50 years ago, I suppose. Mr. Welton later returned to Virginia, where they came from, somewhere near Richmond or Petersburg, Va., and will anyone of Mr. Branch Vincent's children please write to me if Cousin Branch himself is not living, or any one of the Welton family. Either in the year 1892 or 1893 I carried on a correspondence with both families, also my aunt, Mrs. Emma Sledge, whose address was Branchville, Va., would like so much to hear from either one. You will do me quite a favor if you will have this published in your county paper and send me a copy. You will find stamps enclosed for same, also self-addressed envelope for reply. Yours, MRS. THE NEW TARIFF

Editor of The Patriot: Who is benefited by the new tariff and who pays for it? The users of sugar, rice and all woolen goods, flour, etc. But for the efforts of our noble Senators Simmons, Underwood and others in getting amendments on potash, sugar, wool and so on, it would have been much worse. All ladies should read the tax on lace and imported notions. All voters should read the tariff act and then vote for their own interest. The bill was drawn to get the votes of the West—protect them at the expense of the East and South. So vote for your own section. Why should the South help the rich western states? This is business, not politics. Citizens, see that you register and vote with your section and personal interest. S. W. H. SMITH, Guilford College, N. C., Oct. 18, '22.

RAINBOW'S END

Synopsis

The wife of Don Esteban Varona, rich Spanish planter in Cuba, dies giving birth to twins, Esteban, Jr., and Rosa. Shortly after Varona's second marriage the secret hiding place in an old well of his great store of gold, jewels and deeds to land passes when he is killed by his favorite slave, Sebastian, crazed by cruel treatment after Varona lost Evangelina, Sebastian's daughter, the twins' nurse, at cards, Sebastian is shot. Varona's second wife, hunting the treasure, is killed by falling in the well. Pancho Cueto, plantation overseer, informs the authorities young Varona is involved in the Cuban insurrection. The twins, now grown, flee to the hut in the hills of Evangelina and her husband, Asensio, now freed. Johnnie O'Reilly, American, Rosa's fiancé, is called back to New York by his company and for some time can hear nothing from her.

O'Reilly, back in Cuba to try to find Rosa, arrested with another American, Leslie Branch, is sent to New York. Cobo, brutal Spanish chieftain, burns Asensio's hut. Esteban returns just in time to rescue Rosa from Cobo. Esteban, Rosa, Asensio and Evangelina seek refuge in the hills. Esteban and his band attack Cueto's place, killing Cueto. Esteban, terribly wounded in a skirmish followed with Cobo's troops, at Cueto's, is lost in the jungle. Asensio, Evangelina and Rosa, starving, go into Matanzas. O'Reilly, Branch and Norine Evans, rich American nurse, evading detectives, plan to sail for Cuba.

They reach Cuba and are told that Esteban and Rosa are thought dead, and O'Reilly joins a force of Cuban troops, finding Esteban very ill in a Spanish dungeon after an attack on a town. Esteban is taken to the Cuban camp. O'Reilly goes into Matanzas to hunt Rosa.

He finds Rosa nearly dead of starvation, and with her and Jacket finds the Varona treasure in the well. Jacket kills Cobo at the well. The three, disguised, escape from Matanzas in a fishing boat, taking all the gold and jewels they can with them. They leave money for the support of Asensio and Evangelina.

Three Travelers Come Home
Esteban Varona made slow progress toward recovery. In the weeks following O'Reilly's departure from Cubitas his gain was steady, but beyond a certain point he seemed unable to go. Then he began to lose strength. Norine was the first to realize the truth, but it was some time before she would acknowledge it, even to herself. At last, however, she had to face the fact that Esteban's months of prison fare, the abuse, the neglect he had suffered in Spanish hands, had left him little more than a living corpse. It seemed as if fever had burned him out, or else some dregs of disease still lingered in his system and had all but quenched that elusive spark which for want of a better name we call vitality.

Esteban, too, awoke to the fact that he was losing ground, and his dismay was keen, for a wonderful thing had come into his life and he spent much of his time in delicious contemplative day dreams concerning it, waiting for the hour when he would dare translate those dreams into realities. It seemed to him that he had always loved Norine; certainly she had enshrined herself in his heart long before his mind had regained its clarity, for he had come out of his delirious wanderings with his love full grown. There had been no conscious beginning to it; he had emerged from darkness into dazzling glory, all in an instant. Not until he found himself slipping backward did he attempt to set a guard upon himself, for up to that hour he had never questioned his right to love. He found his new task heavy, almost too much for him to bear. That he attempted it spoke well for the fellow's strength of character.

The time came finally when he could no longer permit the girl to deceive herself or him with her brave assumption of cheerfulness. Norine had just told him that he was doing famously, but she smiled and shook his weary head.

"Let's be honest," he said. "You know and I know that I can't get well."

Norine was engaged in straightening up the interior of the bark hut in which her patient was installed; she ceased her labors to inquire with lifted brows:

"Tut! Tut! Pray what do you mean by that?"

"There's something desperately wrong with me and I realized it long ago. So did you, but your good heart wouldn't let you—"

Norine crossed quickly to the hammock and laid her cool hand upon the sick man's forehead. "You mustn't be discouraged," she told him, earnestly. "Remember this is a trying climate and we have nothing to do with. Even the food is wretched."

Esteban's smile became wistful. "That isn't why my fever lasts. If there were any life, any health left in me you would rekindle it. No, there's something desperately wrong, and we're wasting time."

"You simply mustn't talk like this," she cried. Then at the look in his eyes she faltered for the briefest instant. "You'll undo all that we've done. Oh, if I had you where I could take proper care of you! If we were anywhere but here you'd see."

"I believe you. But unfortunately we are not elsewhere."

"I'm going to take you away," she exclaimed, forcefully. Esteban stroked her hand softly. "You can't do that, Miss Evans. You have been wonderful to me and I can't begin to express my gratitude—" Norine stirred, but he retained his grasp of her fingers, gaining courage from the contact to proceed. "I have been trying for a long time to tell you something. Will you listen?"

Norine possessed a dominant personality; she had a knack of tactfully controlling and directing situations, but of a sudden she experienced a panic-stricken flutter and she lost her air of easy confidence. "Not now," she exclaimed, with a visible lessening of color. "Don't bother to tell me now."

"I've waited too long; I must speak."

Norine was amazed at her own confusion, which was nothing less than girlish; she had actually gone to pieces at threat of something she had long expected to hear.

"I know how tired of this work you have become," the man was saying. "I know you're eager to get back to your own work and your own life."

"Well?"

"You have stayed on here just to nurse me. Isn't that true?"

She nodded somewhat doubtfully.

"Now then, you must stop thinking about me and—make your arrangements to go home."

Norine eyed the speaker queerly. "Is that what you have been trying so long to tell me?" she inquired.

"Yes."

"Is that—all?"

There was a moment of silence.

"Yes. You see, I know how tired you are of this misery, this poverty, this hopeless struggle. You're not a Cuban and our cause isn't yours. Expeditions come from the United States every now and then and the government will see that you are out safely aboard the first ship that returns. I'll manage to get well somehow."

Norine's color had returned. She stood over the hammock, looking down mistily. "Don't you need me, want me and more?" she inquired.

Esteban turned his tired eyes away, fearing to betray in them his utter wretchedness. "You have done all there is to do. I want you to go back into your own world and forget—"

A sudden impulse seized the girl. She stooped and gathered the sick man into her young, strong arms. "Don't be silly," she cried. "My world is your world, Esteban dear. I'll never, never leave you."

"Miss Evans! Norine!" Varona tried feebly to free himself. "You mustn't—"

Norine was laughing through her tears. "If you won't speak, I suppose I must, but it is very embarrassing. Don't you suppose I know exactly how much you love me? Why, you've told me a thousand times."

"Please! Please!" he cried in a shaking voice. "This is wrong. I won't let you—you, a girl with everything—"

"Hush!" She drew him closer. "You're going to tell me that you have nothing, can offer me nothing. You're going to do the generous, noble thing. Well! I hate generous people. I'm selfish, utterly selfish and spoiled, and I don't propose to be robbed of anything I want, least of all my happiness. You do love me, don't you?"

Esteban's cry was eloquent; he clasped his arms about her and she held him fiercely to her breast.

"Well, then, why don't you tell me so? I—I can't keep on proposing. It isn't ladylike."

"We're quite mad, quite insane," he told her after a while. "This only makes it harder to give you up."

"You're not going to give me up and you're not going to die. I shan't let you. Think what you have to live for."

"I—did wrong to surrender."

"It was I who surrendered. Come! Must I say it all? Aren't you going to ask me—"

"What?"

"Why, to marry you, of course."

Esteban gasped; he looked deeply into Norine's eyes, then he closed his own. He shook his head. "Not that," he whispered. "Oh, not that!"

"We're going to be married, and I'm going to take you out of this miserable place."

"What happiness!" he murmured. "If I were well— But I won't let you marry a dying man."

Norine rose, her face aglow with new strength, new determination. She dried her eyes and readjusted her hair with deft, unconscious touch, smiling down, meanwhile, at the man. "I brought you back when you were all but gone. I saved you after the others had given you up, and now you are mine to do with as I please. You belong to me and I shan't consult you—"

She turned, for a figure had darkened the door; it was one of her English-speaking convalescents who was acting as a sort of orderly.

"Senorita," the man said, with a flash of white teeth, "we have another sick man, and you'd never guess who. It is that American, El Demonio—"

"Mr. Branch?"

"Si! The very same. He has just come from the front."

"Is he sick or wounded?" Esteban inquired.

"Shot by a Spanish bullet. He asked at once for our senorita."

"Of course. I'll come in an instant." When the messenger had gone Norine bent and pressed her lips to Esteban's. "Remember, you're mine to do with as I please," she said; then she fled down the grassy street.

"Why, to marry you, of course."

Esteban gasped; he looked deeply into Norine's eyes, then he closed his own. He shook his head. "Not that," he whispered. "Oh, not that!"

"We're going to be married, and I'm going to take you out of this miserable place."

"What happiness!" he murmured. "If I were well— But I won't let you marry a dying man."

NOTICE OF SALE

North Carolina, Guilford County

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed made by F. M. Hines and wife, Eva Hines, and dated March 30th, 1922, to J. R. Oettinger and E. M. Oettinger, trading as the Oettinger Lumber company, mortgagee, which is duly recorded in the register of deeds office of Guilford county in book 378, page 382. Default having been made in the payment of money secured by said mortgage deed, as therein provided, the undersigned will, on Saturday, November the 25th, 1922, at 12 o'clock noon, at the east door of the Guilford county courthouse, in the city of Greensboro, North Carolina, offer for sale to the highest bidder for cash two certain tracts of land lying and being in aforesaid county and state, in Morehead township, and more particularly described and defined as follows:

First Tract.—Beginning at a point on the west side of Elam avenue 335 feet north of the north margin of Lake street; thence running north 2 deg. 17 min. east with Elam avenue 15 feet to Fred M. Hines' southwest corner; thence with said Fred M. Hines' line 343 feet to a stake in the Lindley Nursery company old line; thence south 1 deg. west with said Lindley Nursery company old line 15 feet to a stake; thence eastwardly parallel with the second line 343 feet, more or less, to the beginning.

Second Tract.—Beginning at a point 350 feet from the north margin of Lake street, and 250 feet from Holden's northeast corner; thence north 2 deg. 17 min. east with Elam avenue 55 feet to a stake and 115 feet from Holden's corner; thence parallel with and 115 feet from said Holden's south line 343 feet, more or less, to a stake, Lindley Nursery company's old line; thence south 1 deg. 4 min. west with said Lindley Nursery company's old line 85 feet to a stake; thence eastwardly 343 feet, more or less, to the beginning.

The aforesaid two tracts of land will be sold subject to a prior deed of trust for Four Thousand Dollars ($4,000.00) and accrued interest, made by the said F. M. Hines and

Mr. Patterson Slain In His Barn In West

W. D. Patterson, who formerly lived in Alamance county, was murdered in his barn in Cascade, Idaho, on October 14, according to information received here. L. L. Hoagland, who had worked for Mr. Patterson three years, is charged with the killing. He is reported to have confessed to slaying Mr. Patterson after lying in ambush for some time in the barn. The murdered man was born in Alamance county on August 4, 1867, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. J. Patterson, who were at his home when he was killed. He leaves many relatives in this section.

Richard Lloyd Jones tells About Our New Crop, Culture.

IN 1847 a play by an American author was produced in a New York theatre. It was the custom then, as long since, for Americans themselves to believe that that which represented purest culture must come from overseas.

Before the curtain rose on this new play, the leading actor stepped before the footlights and read a poem-prologue which scoffed at the idea that an American could write a drama, and then rebuked the sneer by emphatically declaring that an American can. The audience greeted the patriotic plea and the play with cheers.

Since that day many Americans have written many great plays. An American culture has expressed itself as well in the field of fiction, poetry and philosophy; in art, music and in science.

Culture is just as much a crop as corn. It is the refinement of the product of the cultivated field. Growing great crops, producing great bulk, we have refined our output into the best makes of food and clothes the world has ever known. From the earth we dig both gold and iron ore, and through the refining processes we produce the delicately intricate watch.

The genius that can dig out the hillside and convert it into a watch can find the melody of the brook in the string of the violin.

An American pianist who had acquired international note went abroad to play. With the skill of 1922 she had the frail faith of 1847, and had to go abroad to discover America.

In her first performance only once, and then for an encore, did she play a composition penned by an American composer. The critics rebuked her.

"We know what European music is," they said. "We came to get your message. We came to rejoice over the harvest of your crop of culture. Give us not that which is ours; give us that which is yours."

America is developing an architecture as distinct and as secure as that of Ancient Greece or Rome. One of our greatest sculptors found his art on the parched plains of Utah. One of our greatest painters came from a little town hidden in the foothills of the Adirondacks. He has pictured for the future historian the romance of the opening West.

O. Henry, the master artist of short-story writing in the English language, found his fiction in the ranch life of Texas.

When a $10,000 prize was recently offered for the best contributed movie scenario, it went to an unknown writer from Apalachicola, a small town with a big name. Brains are found on Main Street as well as on Broadway.

The phonograph, the radio and the moving picture screens are building, not only appreciation, but the creative genius to which appreciation responds.

We need no longer look east for the finer things. That east is looking westward for that which we have to give.

We are ripening a crop of culture just as surely as we are ripening a crop of corn.

poem by UNCLE JOHN

I love to talk with fellers, with a glitter in their eye, in defiance of the panic that is slowly passin' by. . . I love to see 'em swagger, an' to elevate their chin—an' to hear 'em speak of pluggin' till their ship comes in. . .

I like to run across 'em, as we travel on our way. . . I take a lot of stock in what they do, an' what they say. . . I get my inspiration, and the firm desire to win, from the feller that's a-pluggin' till his ship comes in.

I ain't got time to listen at the bird of grim despair,—that doles on disappointments, till they get him by the hair,—but you'll see my spirit quicken, like you'd attack me with a pin—when my neighbor speaks of pluggin' till his ship comes in!

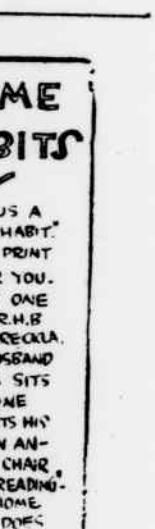

For your Uncle John.

HOMIE PHILOSOPHY for 1922

WHAT a wonderful boy they say he is—David Gladstone, fifteen years old, four feet tall, and yet a freshman in the College of Arts and Pure Sciences of New York University. He plans to enter law school as soon as he has completed his college requirements. Education? A prodigy, one of the seven wonders of the world. Ain't it a funny idea, those who see the setting of the sun know that a boy of seven—the age of reason—always has a much better education than Gladstone when he is taught, and really learns that happiness comes from making the other fellow happy. That's the meat. Why fuss over the trimmings?

PERSONAL MENTION

Mrs. P. T. Highfill and Mrs. A. C. Case, of Route 1, Summerfield, were visitors in the city this morning.

Mrs. Andrew Joyner, Jr., has returned from a visit to Chapel Hill and Raleigh. At Chapel Hill she visited her husband, who is a law student at the State University, and at Raleigh she was the guest of her aunt, Mrs. E. C. Brooks, also attending the State fair.

D. W. Ellington, of Route 2, Summerfield, spent some time in the city on business Monday.

Dr. J. H. Barnhardt and Rev. E. P. Billups, pastor and assistant pastor, respectively, of West Market Street Methodist church, have returned from Monroe, where they attended the sessions of the annual conference.

N. T. Pegrum, of Route 3, Kernersville, was a visitor in Greensboro this morning.

Baby Smothered to Death

Goldboro, Oct. 25—Coroner Baker decided it was unnecessary to hold an inquest over the body of Elizabeth King, three weeks old, who was smothered to death by bed clothes early this morning at the home of the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott King, on Daisy street.

Convict Preacher On Charge of Seduction

Goldboro, Oct. 24—I. T. Stroud, Baptist preacher, of Duplin county, is under bond of $1,000 to appear in Wayne Superior court to answer to a charge of seduction, the victim being Matilda Kennedy, a 15-year-old girl, it is alleged.

Practically all yesterday was taken up with the preliminary trial in Recorder's court here, the decision of the judge being that Stroud is guilty and a six months' road sentence was given. Stroud appealed.

The girl was on the stand for three hours.

It was charged that Stroud brought the girl to a hotel here on September 29 and registered as J. B. Green and wife.

The United States of America, in the District Court of the United States for the Western District of North Carolina.

In the matter of I. L. Ferree, trading as Southern Feather and Pillow Co., bankrupt. In Bankruptcy No. 567.

To the Honorable James E. Boyd, Judge of the District Court of the United States for the Western District of North Carolina:

I, L. Ferree, of Greensboro, in the county of Guilford, and state of North Carolina, in said district, respectfully represents:

That on the 10th day of July, last past, he was duly adjudged a bankrupt, under the acts of Congress relating to bankruptcy; that he has duly surrendered all his property and rights of property, and has fully complied with all the requirements of said acts, and of the orders of the court touching his bankruptcy.

Wherefore he prays that he may be decreed by the court to have a full discharge from all debts provable against his estate under said Bankruptcy Acts, except such debts as are excepted by law from such discharge.

Dated this the 12th day of Aug., A. D. 1922.

(Signed) I. L. FERREE.

Bankrupt.

Order of Notice on Petition for Discharge

It is ordered by the court that a hearing be had upon the above petition on the 23rd day of November, 1922, before Clifford Frazier, special master, at Greensboro, North Carolina, in said district, at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, and that notice thereof be published in the Greensboro Patriot, a newspaper published in said district, and that all creditors and other persons in interest may appear at the said time and place and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of the said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered by the court that the clerk shall send by mail, to all known creditors, copies of the said petition and this order addressed to them at their place of residence as stated.

This October 20, 1922. 86-90t

KEEP ON THE SAFE SIDE

Your generator is designed to keep the battery up to full charge, but it is important to remember that the elements of winter conspire to deplete your battery. In cold weather it is advisable to take gravity readings daily. If you are not familiar with the proper method of taking gravity readings, consult us; we will be glad to assist you. We want to help you to avoid battery trouble this winter. We're at your service—no matter what make of battery you have. But remember that THE VESTA STORAGE BATTERY "Costs Less Per Month of Service."

OWN YOUR HOME

"The man who assists his fellow townsman to own his own home is a public benefactor."

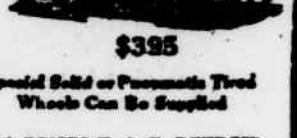

Every time a renter becomes a home-owner the entire community is benefited.

Nearly every one must borrow to build, and money loaned for home building, right here, where the loan can be selected and looked after, is an excellent investment.

The best thing that can be said of any county is that it is a place of homes. It means good schools, prosperity and public improvements.

We shall be glad to talk with you about your building problem and assist you to get started—without obligation, of course.
