"LINES CAST IN PLEASANT PLACES."

Starting a little apart the other day from the densely thronged campus of the Mount Airy celebration, we could but meditate upon the abundant mercies of God to a favored people and a favored land. Assembled together from a section of the State embracing an area of thousands of square miles, not to place in the estimate the hundreds of what might be termed stranger guests from distant cities and towns and from other States, were the best representatives of a thrifty, contented, law-abiding, god fearing people.

True, to them large fortunes, lives of luxury and affluence and the concomitants of an effeminate civilization are things unknown—only heard of now and then, as echoes coming from a strange world, strange men and strange customs and manners; true, splendid cities and the great centres of commerce are to them but the pictures of imagination, with their vast opportunities and advantages, and their fearful temptations to forgetfulness of virtue and morality; true, the hum of the loom and spindle and the smoke of the busy foundry break not the silence of sleeping valleys, or mingle with the mists which cling to their mountain sides—but with them life is peace, tranquillity, contentment. The homestead knows no splendor, but it never lacks comfort; the family board is spread with no dainties which pamper the appetites of the world's sybarites, but it feeds parent and child with the wholesome bounties of God, and there is enough and to spare always for the stranger at the gate; true, the family hearthstone bears only the ruddy glow of the fuel from the mountain forest, but it shines upon the family altar, and no taint of the far away world's atheism has defiled it, no shadow of skepticism has fallen upon it.

The pleasant vales, the fields of golden grain, the "rock-ribbed hills," the mountain's foaming torrent and the mountain's cloudy cap, have taught them to "look through nature up to nature's God," and they pass their days in the homest round of toil, never faltering in reverence to the Creator of all. The district school and the village academy have taught their youth, and sent them forth to the duties of good men and women in the realities of life, and the walls of their churches have heard from generation to generation their simple worship of the Most High.

After all, is wealth, is the acquisition of money, the be all and end all of existence? Is it not possible that with these people is the true "philosopher's stone"? May it not be that simplicity of life constitutes the true happiness of life?

THE ELEPHANT'S TRICK.—The elephant of the Jardin des Plantes at Paris used to play his visitors a trick which could not have been thought of but by an animal of much intelligence. His house opened upon an inclosure called the elephant's park, containing a pond in which he would lay himself under the water, concealing every part of himself except the very end of his trunk—a mere speck that would hardly be noticed by a stranger to the animal's habits. A crowd would often assemble around the enclosure, and not seeing him in it, would watch in expectation that he would soon issue from the house. But, while they were gazing about, a copious sprinkling of water would fall upon them, and ladies and gentlemen, with their fine bonnets and coats, would run for shelter under the trees, looking up at the clear sky, and wondering whence such a shower could come. Immediately afterwards, however, they would see the elephant rising slowly from his bath, evincing an awkward joy at the trick that he had played. In the course of time, his amusement became generally known, and the moment the water began to rise from his trunk the spectators would take flight, at which he appeared exceedingly delighted, getting up as fast as he could to see the bustle he had caused. Strange as it may seem, a huge animal like the elephant has a ridiculous fear of certain small objects. The keeper of the Zoological Garden in Philadelphia says that he has seen an elephant nearly scared into a fit at the sight of a mouse. And one warm day, for the amusement of the spectators, a dozen inflated bladders were thrown into the pond when the animal went in to swim. At first they were greatly frightened. The Empress struck at one with her trunk, and when it bounded into the air both she and her companion trumpeted and scrambled out of the pond. Finally, she fished one of the bladders out of the water, and kicked at it with her hind foot. No serious result followed, and the sport was continued until Empress happened to step on the bladder. It exploded with a loud report, and the elephants scampered home.

A GENTLE HINT.—It was nearly midnight, and she was gazing dreamily into the fire.

"A penny for your thoughts, Miss Clara," he said, airily.

"I was thinking, Mr. Sampson," she replied, "how very much annoyed papa was to day over the amount of last month's gas bill."

And then presently he left without giving her the penny.

The Roanoke and Southern.
The Winston Daily says a number of its citizens returned from Roanoke, Va., Wednesday, where the annual meeting of the Roanoke and Southern Railroad Company was held. The meeting was a large one. Proposals for contracts were considered from different parties, but the contract was closed with the Virginia and North Carolina Construction Company, of which Mr. F. M. Fries is president, for the construction of the first division from Winston to Martinsville, a distance of sixty miles, with an option on the second division from Martinsville to Roanoke, and on the third division from Winston southward. It was stipulated that work should begin promptly and be pursued with diligence, and we are assured that active operations will begin at Winston within a few weeks and be vigorously pushed. The construction company is composed of our own citizens, every one of whom, with President Fries, has taken a keen interest in this enterprise, and will see no effort wanting to bring the work to a speedy completion.

BE INVENTIVE.—There are few expressions we hear more frequently than that feeble wail of the cowardly or lazy mind, "I can't!" Every day we see people who permit their progress to be stopped by trifles which, instead of retarding them, should spur every faculty up to the resistive, conquering point. "I can't!" and "I forgot!" are two fatal phrases which should be scratched from the vocabulary of every young man or woman who is ambitious of being or doing anything in this world that shall deserve to be recorded.

Be inventive. Cultivate the creative side of your brain. Don't be stumped. When you seem to be cornered is the very moment to stir yourself and devise some way of making things work.

The Chicago Herald, a little while ago, printed some remarks of a drummer descriptive of a certain Yankee's ingenuity, which are pertinent to our present theme:

"Talking about ingenuity," said the drummer, "I want to tell you what I saw last winter out West. I was on a train that was snowed in for three days. The company sent us food but they didn't send us any cigars, and the train boy's stock was exhausted the first day. In the express car we found and confiscated a box of smoking tobacco, but there wasn't a pipe on the train. Among the passengers was a Connecticut Yankee who was dying for a smoke. He got out in the snow and looked around for a weed, or something of that sort, which he might use in making a pipe, but he couldn't find a thing. 'I'm going to have a pipe, anyhow,' he said. So he took a lead pencil, opened the wood, took out the lead, and, placing the two strips together again, wound them tightly with the tin foil which came off the package of smoking tobacco, making them air-tight. Then he took an apple, hollowed a bowl out of it, stuck his lead pencil stem into it, and had one of the nicest pipes you ever saw. If you don't believe it, make one for yourself some time and try."

This was a common trick in the army, when we could get neither reeds nor corn cobs, and sweet pipes they, made in every sense. When apples were unobtainable, which was not seldom we fell back upon potatoes.—Amer. Art Printer.

BEN BUTLER ANSWERED.—While Butler was Governor of Massachusetts he was retained as counsel for a young man whose wife had sued him for a divorce on grounds of cruelty. The wronged wife's sister, a young girl of twenty, was the principal witness for the prosecution, and Gen. Butler succeeded in robbing her story of its desired effect by a sharp and irritating cross examination. After many interruptions the witness said that the defendant had been seen to "shy a book at his wife's head."

"Shy! Shy a book? What do you mean by that? Will you explain to the Court what the word 'shy' means?"

The young girl leaned over the railing and asked her sister's counsel for a copy of "Cushing's Manual," which lay on the desk before him. She hurled the volume at Gen. Butler's head with all the force she could command. It was a good shot, and had not the Governor divined her purpose in time it would undoubtedly have hit the mark.

"I think the Court now understands the meaning of the word 'shy,'" said the Judge, and the girl was allowed to finish her testimony without further interruption.

ONLY A LITTLE TIME.—They were at the front gate in the moonlight, and he asked her to be his wife. With outstretched hands and a throbbing heart he awaited her answer.

"George," she said, in a nervous whisper, "you must give me time—you must give me time."

"How long," he hoarsely asked, "a day, a week, a month, a year?"
"No—no, George," as she quickly scanned the sky, "only until the moon gets behind a cloud."

LOVE THAT MAKES THE WORLD MOVE.

When Love had kissed fair Beauty's cheek, And Beauty, waking in surprise, Turned not away her glances meek From the full splendor of his eyes, Then, heart to heart and lip, Awoke that passion pure and bright, To make the days like moments slip, To banish all the shades of night.

And was this all? O Love! Love! Love! The world was dead until you came—Dead, cold, inert—below, above— Till kindled by your generous flame, You made the very mould to speak, With tender leaf and flower to thrill, When kisses soft met Beauty's cheek— With frolic-life teemed vale and hill.

And man? That dull, insensate clod, Like one in fetters firmly bound, Now walks in spirit like a god: 'Tis Love that makes the world go round.

—The colored Methodist Sunday School went out to the Guilford Battle Ground on a picnic today.

—We were out a figure in yesterday's edition, which caused an error of 18,000 in the total count. Messrs Jackson and Barnes sold 20,000 instead of 2,000 lbs. of ice on Wednesday and Thursday.

WIDENING.—The Fayetteville Journal announces a change from tri-weekly to daily issuance hereafter. We congratulate its editor on this evidence of vim and enterprise—predicated, we sincerely hope, on guarantees of additional patronage.

LARGE SHIPMENTS.—We were informed to-day by Capt. Potts that over 400 crates of peaches were shipped from the depot in this city last Tuesday night—all raised in this immediate vicinity and along the line of the railroad toward Salem.

"LOVE'S LABOR LOST."—The irrepressible boy, with bell and bunting, announces the flag raising and speech by our third party friends to night. We admire devotion, pluck and energy, and will always give our hearty support to such, when applied in the right direction; but this breeze can blow no good to any, and is truly labor lost.

A FEW DAYS' RECREATION.—Mr. Z. W. Whitehead, accompanied by Mrs. Whitehead and infant daughter, left by the Raleigh train this morning, for a visit to the eastern part of the State. Mr. Whitehead, after a few days of needed rest, will return to the duties of the paper, while Mrs. Whitehead will spend some time with relatives and friends.

PROTRACTED MEETING.—Rev. Alex. Sprunt, of Henderson, arrived in this city this morning, and will assist Rev. E. W. Smith in the protracted meeting which will commence in Westminster Presbyterian Church this evening at 8:30 o'clock. The services will doubtless be interesting and edifying, and the public are cordially invited to attend.

DEGREE CONFERRED.—Davidson College last week conferred the degree of D.D. upon Rev. J. M. Lynch, of Lynchburg, Va., and Rev. S. M. Smith, of Washington, N. C., the latter being a son of the gifted pastor of the 1st Presbyterian church of this city. Upon another son, Prof. H. L. Smith, of Davidson College, the degree of A. M. has been conferred.

THE MARKET.—The truckers and green-grocers are now supplying the housekeepers of the city with fruits and vegetables in variety and quantity. Peas, beans and potatoes have been moderately abundant, tomatoes, melons and cucumbers are coming in from the South, while a sufficient supply of peaches are retained for home consumption, notwithstanding the large quantities shipped abroad.

CALLING FOR A WASH.—The Fayetteville Observer is clamoring for public and private baths. Let the "unterrified, unwashed Democracy" alone, friend Haigh, until the close of this campaign. They have some dirty work before them in dealing with Radicalism, and they can have a general cleaning up after the 1st Tuesday in November.

RENOVATING.—Mr. T. D. Pitts is overhauling, repairing and renovating his store on South Elm street, and putting it in fine order for business.

HIGH PRAISE.—At the interesting commencement exercises of that sterling old institution, Davidson College, the Valedictory address was delivered by Mr. C. M. Martin, to which response was made, in behalf of the Junior Class, by our gifted young townsman, Mr. J. E. Thacker, whose effort is spoken of in the highest terms by all who had the pleasure of hearing it, as admirably put together and beautifully delivered, being received with great applause.

SCHEDULE CHANGED.—On and after next Sunday, 24th inst., the Richmond & Danville R. R. will run with changed schedule, the mail train coming west leaving Raleigh at 5 p. m., and making close connection at this point with Richmond, Washington, Baltimore and New York; also connecting with all points South and with the resorts of Western North Carolina. Night passengers by this train take sleepers, and make close connection with Knoxville, Louisville and all points West.

TRUE FRIENDS.—During the celebration at Mt. Airy on Wednesday last—while those thousands of happy people were assembled in merry, animated, chattering groups, where old friends held reunion and new friendships were formed; where the promise-light of the future caught the uplifted eye and thrilled the expectant heart, and one might say, that a whole people were pulsating under one universal burst of congratulation—our thoughts carried us back to the past of thirty years ago, when we stood on the same spot, and looked forth over the same country, rich in nature's resources, but untouched by the hand, unawakened by the spirit, of progress. How many far-seeing men have appreciated the real value of the "North Carolina system" of internal improvement, have longed for the development of to-day, and have passed away before the fulfillment of their dreams! Some are with us yet, thank God! whose voices were heard from the grand stand the other day—and among them all not one had better right to the glow of honest pride which doubtless filled his heart than D. F. Caldwell, of Guilford. His time, his energies, his talents and his means have been devoted with unselfish generosity to the promotion of this great work, and in its splendid consummation he may well take to himself a crown of honor in his old age.

THAT THEY ARE!—The German Times smooths out its feathers, and struts about in the following style:

The young ladies of our town were highly complimented by the excursionists last Wednesday. They were called daisies, violets and roses in the superlative degree. Of course, no one ever doubted that.

And it was just the same on the following Wednesday. As we returned from Mt. Airy on the 20th inst., and neared the German station, the "gloaming" was creeping over the landscape, with its quiet village and charming picture of still life. There were three of us sitting together—grizzled of hair, wrinkled of front, and bald of crown; but the sight from the car window "warmed up the cockles of our withered hearts," and almost took our breath away: three graces grouped upon the platform, with bright eyes, ravishing faces and forms of sculptured perfection. Well, God bless good, pretty women!—and almost all that we have ever run up with in this world are both good and pretty.

YOUR GAIN—OUR LOSS.—Yesterday's Fayetteville Observer has the following:

The through daily trains to Mt. Airy will give us back several families who have heretofore resided in Greensboro. Mr. Alexander Campbell and wife, and Mr. John McLauchlin, both conductors on this road, will hereafter make Fayetteville their home. They will make the round trip and lie over here 24 hours, and will be enabled to spend their Sundays at home. We are glad to get them back and they seem glad of the change.

Up here we are certainly sorry to lose them—even if they are "glad of the change." This is natural, as it is a return to their old home, but we are glad to know that they were much pleased with our city.

AN EPIDEMIC.—The Carthage Blade breaks forth into woful complaint, as follows:

In the last few days a most deadly, ravaging, virulent and contagious disease has broken out in our town. From here it has spread, until almost every portion of our county has been infected. It has baffled all science, learning and medical skill. The disease is what is generally known by the medical profession as the "office fever."

It's chronic up here with us, Brother—not a matter of the last few days. Through the chilling blasts and piled-up snows of winter, when the buds of spring-time burst, through summer's heat and autumn's "sere and yellow leaf"—proof against morning's cooling dews or evening's refreshing, fluttering breeze—it rages in the system, and the old-time, regular season office-seeker may be depended upon to put in his appearance with the undeviating regularity of the tax-collector or the man with the gas bill.

PROMOTED.—The last issue of the Fayetteville Observer has the following:

We are glad to know that Mr. A. M. Campbell, Jr., who has been acting as fireman on the C. F. & Y. V. Railway, has been promoted to the position of engineer on the Wilson Short Cut. The appointment is a capital one, for he is one of the most reliable young men we have.

We cordially reccho all the commendations which our contemporary may see fit to make of the young gentleman above mentioned. Mr. Campbell is a man of cool, unflinching courage, fine physique and high character. There will be no better official on the Wilson Short Cut R. R. While we regret to lose him from the force of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway, we rejoice in his promotion, which we feel sure has not yet reached its limit.

HARMLESS THUNDERS.—A stranger was standing on the corner of court-house square, when he heard the strange, rapid rumbling of the machine, as at Irvin's or some one of the drug stores near by the presiding genius of the Arctic fountain was ministering to the wants of the thirsty customer. He asked what the noise was; and, on being informed that it was only "somebody fixing up a 'milk-shake'," he responded in stirring, rhythmic jingle that almost overwhelmed the reporter:

"Milk-shake? 'Milk-shake?'
Oh, yes sir! Now I take,
Thought it was an earthquake
Instead of snowy, creamy flake
Of Nectar and Ambrosia,
Fit for the gods!"

TO THE PUBLIC.

On Saturday night, when the Buchanan and McDonald block was destroyed by fire, I had one of Ferrell & Co.'s Herring Safes in my office, on second floor. It fell to centre of main floor and was subject to the hottest part of the fire. Upon having it opened I found all valuable papers, books and monies preserved, and in as good condition as when I put them in.

I cheerfully recommend Herring Safe to the public.

Respectfully,
THOMAS BAILEY.

It is pleasant to the taste, cool, and light as air itself. Many cures in Dyspepsia have been effected by the use of the water, and Catarrhs, Bile, and other ailments of the stomach have yielded to it.
