

SUE FARMERS OF GUILFORD

For Alleged Breach of Co-op Contract FROM COLFAX SECTION

Reported That Two Defendants Offered to Settle Out of Court. Growers Must Bring Particular Receipts for Payment

Civil action has been instituted against Milton Donaldson, J. E. Gray and T. P. Farrington, all of the Colfax section of Guilford county, for alleged breach of the contract of the Tobacco Growers' Co-operative association, according to a representative of the association.

These are the first suits started against Guilford county tobacco growers by the association and their progress will be watched with keen interest. It appears probable that they will be tried early in December.

However, it is reported, seemingly on good authority, that two of the three Guilford defendants have offered to compromise, wishing to settle the cases outside of the courts if practicable. At this time an authoritative statement as to whether compromises are likely cannot be made.

In this connection it is said that the question of motive plays a highly important part. If a breach of contract is largely due to lack of funds on the part of the growers, the chances of a settlement outside of the courts are much better than if the breach is due to a desire to break the contract.

It is stated, were starting the suit, which is headed by the association in this state. The hearing is expected to be held in court. The association claims to have paid a pound as a penalty for all tobacco delivered to the association by growers who did not also bring other damages. It is expected that the amount will be determined by a jury in Superior court.

On every hand there is evidence of the association's determination to prosecute vigorously contract-breakers. In various sections of the state a large number of suits have been started.

Tentative arrangements for the second cash advance to members of the co-operative in the old belt, which includes Guilford county and central North Carolina generally, are now being discussed. It now seems probable that the second payment will be made in the old belt about the 15th of January. According to announcement from Raleigh headquarters, the second payment will be made as soon after December 24 as the arrangements can be perfected. The second payment will be made to all tobacco delivered up to and including December 20.

Officials of the association emphasize the importance of growers bringing their participation receipts with them to the warehouses when they come for the second payment. "It is absolutely necessary," one official announces, "that the grower bring his participation receipt with him to the warehouse when he comes for his second payment, in order that it may be properly endorsed and that no hitch in the payment be encountered."

STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Great Losses In Forest Fires Asheville, Nov. 29.—Forest fires which had been raging in numerous places throughout Western North Carolina the past few days, are reported for the most part under control. C. H. Burrage, district forest warden of the State Geological survey, estimates that between 15,000 and 20,000 acres have been burned over the past few weeks. Officials agree that the destruction of timber has been the greatest since the fall of 1916.

Jesse Lindsay Patterson Dead Winston-Salem, Nov. 29.—Jesse Lindsay Patterson, a prominent citizen of Winston-Salem, one of the state's leading lawyers, died in a sanatorium in Statesville Sunday night after several weeks' illness, at the age of 64. He was a graduate of Davidson college. Mr. Patterson was a member of a distinguished family, being a son of the late Rufus L. Patterson, who moved from Greensboro to this city in 1864.

Capital Stock Increased Charlotte, Nov. 29.—The Highland Park Manufacturing company, textile manufacturers of Charlotte, on Monday filed an amendment to its charter with the clerk of court which authorized an increase in capital stock to $2,200,000. Officials refused to discuss the increase but stockholders stated it was voted to declare stock dividends.

Gaston's 102nd Mill Gastonia, Nov. 29.—Plans for the construction of a second cotton textile mill with a capacity of 15,000 pounds by the Groves interests are announced here. The new mill will make the 102nd for Gaston county. It will manufacture fine combed yarns. The new project will be erected on a site adjoining the present Groves institution.

Unmasked Men Beat Farmer Lillington, Nov. 29.—A tenant farmer named Green, living on the farm of Tom West, about 10 miles from Lillington, was taken from his home last Friday night by four unmasked men and given a severe whipping, according to information reaching the authorities here. Sheriff McCarden said information reaching him today was that the men accused Green of stealing some whisky belonging to them.

Centenarian Is Honored Raleigh, Nov. 29.—A birthday cake with a hundred and one glowing candles and stretching out in the past a hundred birthdays—not all of them with candles, much less cake—sponsored the eyes of Captain George Leonidas Cathey, veteran of the War Between the States at the Soldiers' home Monday when students of Meredith college, headed by Col. Fred A. Olds, swooped down on the home and gave a birthday party in honor of the centenarian.

Snow In Two States Charlotte, Nov. 29.—Snow again fell Monday night and Tuesday in Western North Carolina and Eastern Tennessee and while it was light in most places, enough was left here to give roofs a white coating until about noon. Slight snowfall was reported also from Asheville, Winston-Salem, and Johnson City, Tennessee.

Fatally Hurt In Explosion Henderson, Nov. 28.—R. L. Turner, aged 62, died at a local hospital Tuesday of injuries he sustained when the acetylene tank in the private lighting system at his home, three miles north of the city, exploded.

Fire At Chimney Rock Rutherfordton, Nov. 29.—Fire destroyed the garage, cafe, store, post office and the residence of S. S. Hunsinger at Chimney Rock Tuesday morning. The flames were beyond control when discovered. The garage was owned by William Cunningham. Three automobiles were destroyed.

Baldwin Named Forsyth Judge Winston-Salem, Nov. 29.—Governor Morrison has named Frank T. Baldwin, an attorney, of Winston-Salem, judge of the Forsyth county court to succeed Judge H. R. Starbuck, whose term expires next Monday, December 4th. The appointment by the governor was made yesterday.

Condemned Negro Gets Respite Raleigh, Nov. 29.—Willie Hardison, negro, who was scheduled to have been electrocuted at the state prison here this morning, was granted a respite of 60 days late yesterday by Governor Cameron Morrison.

Foresees "Glorious" Victory North Baltimore, Ohio, Nov. 29.—That the elections of 1922 will result in a "glorious victory" for the Democratic party is the prediction of former President Wilson in a letter to Mrs. Jay W. Borroughs, local Democratic worker, made public. "It is my belief that if all the party workers will keep steadily at it for the next two years the fight will be well begun on November 7 will result in a glorious victory in 1924," the former President wrote.

Great Democratic Victory Is Celebrated BANQUET IN RALEIGH

Chairman Norwood Presents Interesting Analysis of Results of November Election In Which 85,000 Majority Was Attained

Raleigh, Nov. 29.—Chairmen and vice-chairmen of the Democratic executive committees of half the counties in the state, the guests of the state committee in a post-election dinner at the Yarrowburgh hotel on Monday night, cast their eyes backward over the past campaign, and rejoiced with one another in the unprecedented victory.

With Chairman M. Dave Norwood toastmaster and Miss Mary Henderson, state vice-chairman, holding a place of honor, the Democrats who led the forces in the last campaign to a majority of 85,000 for the state ticket and virtually wiped out all save a trace of Republican representation in the legislature, were disposed to agree with T. C. Bowie, of Ashe county, that the women of the party had no small share in the round-up.

A. W. McLean, the only widely discussed prospective candidate for the gubernatorial nomination present at the dinner last night, paid a glowing tribute to the work of Chairman Norwood, which he stated has brought enthusiastic commendation from the national chairman.

After a five-course dinner, Chairman Norwood started the talking features of the meeting with the reading of a statement on the results of the campaign, a sort of analysis of Democratic gains.

Afterwards there were talks by S. McCall, of Henderson; P. W. Hildreth, of Redville; C. A. Hines, of Greensboro; T. C. Bowie, of West Jefferson; and S. C. Brawley, of Durham.

"For the first time since 1885," said Mr. Bowie, "Ashe county has voted a solid Democratic ticket."

The analysis of the vote as read by Chairman Norwood follows: "Although the official count has not yet been made it is known that Hon. W. T. Lee, who headed the Democratic state ticket, has a majority of 85,000 and that Judges Adams and Crammer, who had opposed him, have been defeated."

And now for the boon of abundance and golden increase. And immured peace. Shall we thank God? Beshink us, amid His indulgence, His terrible rod?

Shall we be as the maple and oak. Strew the earth with our gold, giving only bare boughs to the sky? Nay, the pine stayeth green while the Winter grows sullenly by, And doth not revoke.

For soft days or stern days the pledge of its constancy. Shall we not be Also the same through all days. Giving thanks when the battle breaks on us, in toil giving praise?

O Father who saw at the dawn. That the folly of Pride would be the lush weed of our sin. There is better than that in our hearts, O enter therein. A light burneth, though vain And weak be the flame, yet it gloweth, our Humility! Ah, how can it be Trimmed of the wick.

And replenished with oil to burn brightly and golden and quick? For deep in our hearts We wish to be thankful through lean years and fat without change. Knowing that here Thou hast set for the spirit a range: We would play well our parts. Making America throb with the building of souls and the glory of good;

Yea, and we would Build a temple from ocean to ocean where deeds never still Melodiously shall proclaim Thanksgiving forever that Thou hast set here to our hand So wondrous a mystical harvest, that Thou dost demand Sheaves bound in Thy name.

Yea, substantial sheaves of strong souls that have grown Pain to be known As the corn of Thine occident field: O Yielder of All, can America worthily thank Thee till such be her yield?

In the mellowing light Of the golden days that precede the gray days of the year. We sing Thee our harvesting song and we pray Thee to hear, In the midst of Thy might: Labor is given to us, Let us give thanks! Power worketh through us, Let us give thanks! Not for what we have (So might speak a slave), Not for the garnering, Gratefully we sing, But for the mighty thing We must do, travelling! For our task and for our strength; For the journey and its length; For our countless easiness; For our unending weariness; For these, for these, O Father, Let us give thanks! For these, O Mighty Father, Take Thou our thanks! —SHAMAS O. SHELL in The Forum.

RAILROADS TO PAY 1922 TAX

Federal Judges Write Chapter In Tax Case STAY DISPUTED SUM

Judges Leave Amount Claimed As Basis For U. S. Supreme Court Ruling—Means About Million Dollars for the State

Orders allowing the collection of 1922 ad valorem taxes against the Southern, Seaboard, Atlantic and Norfolk and Southern railroads were sent to Raleigh Tuesday, having been signed by Judge James E. Boyd, Judge H. G. Connor and Judge Edmund Waddill, three federal jurists who have handled the tax controversy between the railroads and the state of North Carolina since its inception back in October, 1921.

However, a stay is granted on that part of the tax in dispute, that is, on the valuations over which the railroads admit is fair. Their whole contention as to the ad valorem taxes levied against them is that the amounts are discriminatory and excessive, contending that in 47 of the counties of the state the 1920 valuations on realty were reduced in 1921 while those on railroad property were left at the 1920 figure.

The stay against the collection of the amount in dispute continues until the Supreme court of the United States will have settled the matter. Collection of the franchise tax is also stayed, in its entirety, as the franchise tax is sought as unconstitutional by the five railroads, in its entirety, and the United States Supreme court will have to pass upon that issue.

About one million dollars is involved in the contest, which now becomes available for the counties, school districts and municipalities of the state, which receive all ad valorem taxes.

In October, 1921, the railroads fought the collection of the tax, lost and appealed to the United States Supreme court, where the case has been lately argued. They agreed to pay on the appraisals they admitted as fair, that is, to pay the ad valorem taxes, not the franchise, and income taxes. The income tax fight was lost by them; they appealed and secured a stay until final ruling by the highest court shall be made.

TWO KILLED AT CROSSING

Mrs. Mabel Moran and J. W. Gould Victims TRAIN STRIKES AUTO

Young Woman Killed At Dean's Alley Crossing, Mrs. Mabel Moran and J. W. Gould Victims

Mrs. Mabel Moran was killed instantly at 12:05 yesterday at Dean's alley crossing, this city, and John W. Gould sustained injuries which resulted in his death in the Wesley Long hospital at 1:30 yesterday afternoon, both being victims of a wreck in which the automobile in which they were riding was struck and demolished by Southern Passenger Train No. 51.

The tragic wreck occurred a few yards from the office of the Indian Refining company. Mr. Gould, manager of the Greensboro Dental Laboratory company, was en route with Mrs. Moran, who was employed at the office of the Indian Refining company, to the home of Mrs. Minora Patterson, 322 West Gaston street. He purposed taking her to lunch at Mrs. Patterson's where she was making her home.

Mr. Gould and Mrs. Moran were to have been married during the Christmas holidays, according to information obtained yesterday. Almost every day, it was stated, it was the custom of Mr. Gould to take his fiancée to lunch by automobile.

While the front wheels of the automobile had crossed the middle tracks of the Southern railway at the crossing, the passenger train, arriving from Raleigh, crashed into the car and dashed it against a freight car, standing on the north side of the track, west of the crossing. Mrs. Moran's body was hurled against the freight car and she was dragged about 50 feet, death resulting instantly. Her right temple and back of her skull were terribly crushed, her right shoulder and hip were broken, the left side of her head was severely cut and elsewhere about the head and face were bruised.

The body of Mr. Gould was found about 10 yards from that of Mrs. Moran. He was bleeding freely, the ligaments on the left side of his face and arm were torn and other injuries about the head and body were noted, but for a very brief time he was conscious. "What happened?" Mr. Gould inquired, and a moment later he became unconscious. He was rushed to the Wesley Long hospital where his death occurred about two hours later.

The automobile was completely destroyed by the force of the crash. The framework of the machine was carried about 200 feet from the Macon street crossing, while parts of the automobile were strewn about the track. Pools of blood were found where the two accident victims were thrown. The train was not brought to a stop until the last car had passed to a point about 80 feet from the crossing.

On the east and west sides of the crossing, also on the north and south sides of the track were a number of freight cars. On the east side of the crossing and on the north side of the track were four gondolas. Railroad officials declared that those cars would not obstruct the view of an approaching train going west; they said the train could be seen over the tops of the cars. On the other hand, friends of the accident victims said the gondolas obstructed the view of the approaching locomotive.

The train was in charge of Conductor J. W. Angle, of this city, while J. A. Albright, of Greensboro, had charge of the engine which crashed into the automobile. Mrs. Moran was 35 years of age and she had been with the Indian Refining company six months engaged in stenographic work.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Dikeman, live in Somerset, Ky. She leaves a son, Lawrence, 11 years old, who lives in Somerset. She had many friends here. Mr. Gould, a native of Zebulon, had lived in Greensboro two years, and was well known here. He was 37 years of age. His wife died in 1913, it is said.

The body of Mrs. Moran was sent today to Somerset, for interment. Mr. Gould's remains were shipped this morning to Raleigh, where the funeral will be held tomorrow.

Clear Victory For Co-ops Raleigh, Nov. 29.—Complete victory on all points at issue was won yesterday by the Tobacco Growers' Co-operative association when Judge C. C. Lyon, sitting as a court of equity in Wake county Superior court, where the association has instituted suits against 125 of its members, denied all motions for removal of the actions to the home counties of the defendants and continued until the final hearing all temporary restraining orders enjoining defendants from making further deliveries outside of the association. Association officials interpret the victory as meaning that there will be no further breaches of contract in the delivery of the 1922 crop.

JESUS SENDING MISSIONARIES

The International Sunday School Lesson,
By REV. E. P. HILLIUPS,
Assistant Pastor West Market Street Methodist Church.

Lake 9

Last week we studied the work of Jesus as the world's greatest missionary. Today we see the inauguration of a great missionary program, the sending of His disciples into every place and city. "Whither He Himself would come." The end of our Lord's ministry was rapidly approaching and there was still much to be done. Jesus saw the great harvest ripe and waiting to be gathered, and it grieved Him that laborers were so few; so with the view of making the best of the remaining weeks which remained, He called them forth as heralds of the coming of His kingdom. "The kingdom of God is come nigh unto you," was the message which they were to proclaim.

Preparing for Service. Although the work to which Jesus had commissioned the 70 was great, and there was urgent need for laborers, they were not to go forth without preparation. A call to service is always a call, first for preparation. Young men and young women who are called to service in His kingdom today are called first to spend days of toil in preparation for their work, and hours of prayer in making themselves spiritually fit to "carry on." These men who were commissioned were followers of Jesus; they had spent much time with Jesus, listening to His words, helping in His work, all the time preparing themselves for continued work in His kingdom. And for the immediate task Jesus said unto them: "Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he would send forth laborers into His harvest." Prayer is at the bottom of all missionary work. The spirit of prayer leads men and women to the mission fields and wins victories for them there. Dr. A. J. Gordon says: "You can do more than pray after you have prayed, but you can not do more than pray until you have prayed." It is important to put prayer in the forefront of all missionary endeavor, whether it be in the foreign fields or in the homeland: First, because the missionaries themselves need our prayers; secondly, prayer widens our view of world needs, and strengthens the bond of sympathy between Christian peoples; thirdly, it deepens our own consecration, and sends us forth as more worthy workers in our Lord's kingdom.

The Evangelist on the Road. Jesus showed an understanding of the deep principles underlying human relationships, and his sympathy with their work in sending them out "two by two." "Two are more than twice one" in all Christian work, and we profit more by the influence of a companion than by the inspiration of a crowd. Jesus did not say, "We'll call a great conference, put before those attending the weighty matters of the kingdom." He put upon the 70 the responsibility of bearing one another's burdens, and by a mutual interchange of heart problems they were better enabled to bear personal messages throughout the places and villages whither they were sent. We can do no better today than to adopt Jesus' method of missionary work. The world is not to be saved by sermons alone; it is to be saved by Christians who are willing to assume the personal responsibilities of the work of the kingdom and go forth as heralds of peace. Evangelistic preaching is not to be disparaged where it is devoid of sensationalism; but evangelistic preaching of the highest type will accomplish very little unless it is backed by personal work.

They Don't Do It That Way

"Who's dead?"
"Rufus is dead."
"No—no. Don't tell me Rufus is dead."
"Sure, I tell you. You don't think we're having a rehearsal, do you?"

VALUABLE FARM AND HOME FOR SALE

By virtue of authority in the undersigned vested by an order of the Superior court of Guilford county, in the special proceedings entitled Jennie L. Wilson, administratrix of James N. Wilson, et al., vs. Bessie M. Wilson, et al., the undersigned will sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, on Monday the 11th day of December, 1922, at 12:00 o'clock M., at the east door of the courthouse of said county, the following tract or parcel of land bounded as follows:

Beginning at a stone (formerly a cedar) Levi Wilson corner, now Raymond Winfrey's corner, thence south 72 west 31 poles to a pine, Wilson's corner (formerly Bradshaw corner), thence south 78 1-2 west with Brookbank line 56 1-2 poles to a stone on west bank of old road (formerly a chestnut oak), in Sherrill's line; thence north 5 1-2 east with Sherrill's line 147 1-2 poles to a post oak; thence south 84 east 52 poles to a stone in L. Miles' line; thence south 5 west 15 1-4 poles to one-third of width of road to a black gum; thence with old road 579 1-2 west 33 poles to a stone; thence south 55 west 14 1-2 poles to a stone; thence south 17 west 29 1-2 poles to an iron stake, Wilson corner; thence north 84 east 59 1-2 poles to a stone in Raymond Winfrey's line; thence south 10 1-2 east 73 poles to first station, containing 45 acres, more or less.

This is a valuable farm with a nice home, seven-room bungalow, well watered and adapted to farming, located four miles east of Summerfield, on the public highway. This Nov. 10, 1922. 32-981
G. S. BRADSHAW,
Commissioner.
Bradshaw and Koonz, Atty's.

In sending forth the 70 Jesus gave them some specific instructions which are worthy of note. "I send you forth as lambs among wolves." There is no purpose path of ease for these evangelists on the road; they braved dangers seen and unseen, being courageous in executing the Master's commands. They were to make no provision for the journey as if dependent upon their own resources, for "the laborer is worthy of his hire." Neither were they to waste time in long salutations, bowing and scraping and asking questions after the custom of the East, though they were not to be discourteous. They were messengers of the King, and must rid themselves of all impediments, for the King's business required haste. They, in other words, were to be tremendously in earnest about their commission, as we indeed ought to be.

Christ's Royal Commands. There are no limits to Christ's commands. What He spoke to the apostles He spoke to the church. He spoke to all; and what He spoke He speaks today with the same compelling authority. Just as He sent the 70, so He sends us as His evangelists. There is great missionary work to do, whether in the foreign fields, or among the needy in the homeland. The Master says, "Go." We heed this command when it is reduced to generalities, implying our obligations to those in distant lands. To many people missionary work three thousand miles away and missionary opportunities in their own street seem to have little in common. As Dr. Thomas says: "Many missionaries at long range are little better than missionaries in the chances and calls nearby. Sometimes we hear all cries except those which arise from our very doors. We are interested in the negro in Africa, and oftentimes fail to give the negro here our help and sympathy. The same is true with reference to many foreigners who are in our midst. Then there are hundreds of our own people who are sick, in prison, poverty-stricken, without Christ or any religious influence. In our own county there are hundreds who have no religious influence whatsoever in their lives. Their need is our opportunity, and our solemn obligation. God will not hold us guiltless if we, His evangelists, fail to go to them and minister to their needs. It is a missionary opportunity that we cannot fail to overlook.

The Joy of Work. "The 70 returned with joy," we are told. They had been abundantly successful, so they came back rejoicing. There is no joy like that which comes to the heart as a result of Christian service. Many men and women are seeking new and strange experiences. They say: "I want peace, I want joy." They are doomed to disappointment unless they are willing to serve. Too many people, when asked to do some Christian service, ask in their own minds, "What advantage will that be to me, or what am I going to get out of it?" This is a wholly selfish spirit which is keeping many people from abundant joys in Christian service. May we have the spirit that Kipling describes in the following lines:

"And only the Master shall praise us, and only the Master shall blame. And no one shall work for money, and no one shall work for fame. But each for the joy of working, and each in his separate star Shall draw the thing as he sees it, for the God of the things as they are."

Humane
The village constable was exceedingly kind; but even the kindest man becomes stern sometimes, and one day it came to pass that he had to lock up three tramps.

An hour or two afterward the local J. P. met him hurrying down the main street and said:

"Where are you hurrying, constable?"
"Oh," explained the kind-hearted one, "those three tramps I've locked up want to play whist, so I've come out to look for a fourth."—

HOW WAS YOUR CROP THIS YEAR?

In the spring you sowed or planted the seed; in the fall you reaped the harvest. We trust it was a bountiful harvest. We are interested in your welfare and want you to be interested in us. Many of our interests are so strongly mutual that we should co-operate in the most hearty fashion. We are always glad to co-operate with you. We trust that you will permit us to continue to serve you and that the ties of friendship will become more and more intimate with the passing of the months and years. Come to see us.

Are You Looking for a Bag of Gold at the End of the Rainbow?

Many lurid tales have been told of that proverbial bag of gold at the end of the rainbow, but no one of course has ever found it, for it exists only in imagination. Some fellow may paint an equally rosy picture of sudden riches to be acquired by this or that bold stroke of genius. But such things usually belong to the fairy books. There is, however, one sure, definite method of accumulating a substantial competence, a safeguard against possible misfortune in the years to come. That method is the making of steady deposits in our savings department. Try it and see how steadily the amount will grow. We pay 4 per cent. interest on savings deposits and it is compounded every quarter.

FARM DEMONSTRATION

C. M. Foy, who lives four miles from Trenton in Jones county, has found that it pays to use a legume in building up his crop yields. In a demonstration conducted in co-operation with County Agent E. F. Fletcher this past season, an acre of land which was planted to corn gave some interesting results. This acre was fertilized with 125 pounds of an 8-3-3 fertilizer before the corn was planted on May 16. All of the land in the acre was the same type. On one-fourth of the acre, crimson clover was plowed under before the corn was planted; on another fourth the clover grazed and the stubble plowed under; one-fourth was given a top dresser of two pounds of an 0-9-2 and one-fourth was used as a check plot with nothing added except the regular fertilizer used over the whole acre when the corn was planted.

Here are the yields:
Plot with clover—41.5 bushels per acre.

Plot with clover stubble—37.7 bushels per acre.

Plot with top-dresser—34.6 bushels per acre.

Plot used as check—26.4 bushels per acre.

This demonstration proves that clover will help to increase the average yield because the plot which was fertilized with an 8-3-3 mixture gave only 26.4 bushels, while the plot on which the clover was plowed under before the same fertilizer was added gave a yield of 41.5, an increase of 15 bushels per acre. E. C. Blair, of the Division of Agronomy, assisted Mr. Fletcher and Mr. Foy in conducting this demonstration and the results show that the farmers of this section should begin the practice of using more legumes in their crop building and land building operations.

Ben T. Ward City Clerk

The resignation of Walter L. Murray as city clerk was accepted by the city council Monday afternoon and Ben T. Ward was elected as Mr. Murray's successor. Mr. Ward's qualifications for the post are generally recognized. He is a graduate of Wake Forest college and has been practicing law here two years. Regret because of the resignation of Mr. Murray was expressed by councilmen, who said that he had rendered highly efficient service. He goes to High Point to engage in the furniture business.

NOTICE

North Carolina, Guilford County, In the Superior Court, November Term, 1922

Greensboro Bank and Trust Company and H. C. Gresh, W. P. Gresh and P. C. Clements, the last three named partners, trading and doing business under the style and firm name of W. K. Gresh and Sons, all creditors of the defendant J. B. Leathers and company, who sue hereby in behalf of themselves and all other creditors of said defendant similarly conditioned, who will come in and make themselves parties to this action and contribute to the cost of same, plaintiffs.

J. B. Leathers and company, Defendant

In pursuance of an order of the Superior Court of Guilford County, North Carolina, made in the above captioned case, the undersigned as Receiver of the defendant, J. B. Leathers and company hereby notifies you and all other creditors and claimants of said company to file in writing with the undersigned on or before the 18th day of December, 1922, a statement of your several and respective claims, showing, among other things, the amount thereof, the consideration therefor and when contracted; and further that your failure to so file your claims will be attended with a denial of your right to participate in the distribution of the assets of the defendant company.

This notice is given under said order of the court and the provisions of Section 1212 of the Consolidated Statutes of North Carolina, and of all this you will take due notice.

HOME DEMONSTRATION

Poultry Production

In order to obtain an abundance of eggs it is necessary to have healthy, vigorous stock, properly fed.

The following are good grain mixtures for the laying stock, the proportions being by weight:

Ration 1.—Equal parts of cracked corn, wheat, oats.

Ration 2.—Three parts cracked corn, 2 parts oats, 1 part wheat.

Ration 3.—Two parts cracked corn, 1 part oats.

Either of the following suggested dry-mash mixtures should be fed in a dry-mash hopper, allowing the fowls to have access to it at all times.

Mash No. 1.—Two parts corn meal, 1 part bran, 1 part middlings, 1 part beef scrap.

Mash No. 2.—Three parts meal, 1 part beef scrap.

When fowls do not have access to natural green feed, sprouted oats, cabbage, mangels, cut clover, etc., should be fed.

When wet mashes are fed, be sure they are crumbly and not sticky. Plenty of exercise increases the egg yield.

Fresh, clean, drinking water should be always provided. Charcoal, grit, and oyster shell should be placed before the fowls so that they can have access to them at all times.

For additional information on feeds and feeding, request "Farmers' Bulletin 287," "Poultry Management," and "Farmers' Bulletin 528," "Hints to Poultry Raisers," from United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Relative Losses of Fertile Compared With Infertile Eggs

Produce the infertile egg. Infertile eggs are produced by hens that have no male birds with them.

Marketing the Product

The hen's greatest egg-producing periods are the first, second and third years, depending upon the breed. The heavier breeds, such as Plymouth Rocks, may be profitably kept for two years; the lighter breeds, such as Leghorns, three years.

Market white-shelled and brown-shelled eggs in separate packages. Eggs irregular in shape, those which are unusually long or thin-shelled, or which have shells otherwise defective, should be kept by the producer for home use, so that breakage in transit may be reduced as much as possible.

Extremely large, small, and soiled eggs should not be marketed; use them at home.

For additional information on packing and shipping eggs by parcel post, request Farmers' Bulletin 830, "Marketing Eggs by Parcel Post," issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Big Corn Exports

Exports of corn from the United States during the calendar year 1922 promise to exceed those of any year since 1900, when the exports reached 190,386,489 bushels, according to the United States Department of Agriculture.

THE ELEMENTS OF SUCCESS!

START A SAVINGS ACCOUNT HERE WE PAY 4 PER CENT INTEREST COMPOUNDED QUARTERLY

What are the elements of success? Industry is undoubtedly one of them. It was Emerson, we believe, who said, "Genius is 98 per cent. hard work." Then sound judgment is an important factor. The faculty of embracing a real opportunity when it presents itself plays an essential part in the lives of successful men and women. But one of the most important elements is Thrift—the ability and readiness to save a part of one's earnings. Ask the next outstanding successful man you meet what he thinks of the importance of saving. Without Thrift, no man, no community, no state, no nation can be great. Let us help you to help yourself through systematic saving. Our facilities are at your service. Come in and talk it over with us the next time you are in town.

HELP OTHERS TO BE THANKFUL.

It is not necessary to enumerate the list of blessings for which we all should feel thankful this Thanksgiving. They are many, one upon another. In all the world there is none so fortunate as the person who lives in America. He may have what he considers ill fortune; perhaps it is ill fortune of a certain sort, but it is a small thing compared to that of some others, living the long years under the blackest of clouds, with the sunlight apparently gone forever.

It is a good antidote for one's own troubles. In the dumps one may get out, get his own mind off his concerns for a while, by looking around him, seeing the troubles of others.

He may ease his mind by going further and doing something for others. Most of us at some time or other have had people to do something for us, something when it counted and counted big. It makes people feel good of course, when they know there is some person who thinks enough of them to lend a hand in trouble. But great as is the satisfaction of knowing that, it is greater to give a hand to some other. The glow that comes over the heart when that is done is quite unlike any other feeling of satisfaction.

There are plenty who are in the dumps, all around. Something done for them, even some little thing, may make a great difference with them, greater than the person doing it can know. It may be the difference between the cloud and the sunshine, the difference between despair and hope.

The human being has the desires of the animal; the blood in his veins calls for the satisfaction of those desires. We move toward a fire. We must have food. Self-preservation is deep in all our bones —man was built that way. But he has something that can rise above that. He can take a pleasure in self-sacrifice, in doing good for the sake of doing good. Men and women can touch noble heights; millions of them have touched them.
They can cherish high ideals, high aims; disassociate from themselves the mere animal-like attributes common to human clay. When they do that they are men and women in the truest, noblest sense of the word.

Let the human being show his thankfulness by giving others cause for thanks. Let all enjoy the day, gaining from it as much pleasure as possible, sane delights, calm observance of the day. It is not a day for mourning or fasting. But in the midst of one's pleasures there should be in one's mind consideration of the fact that the highest good is found in the observance of the principles of brotherhood of man. All should so conduct themselves in their relations with their fellow men and women that they can give thanks with a good conscience.

CHILDREN'S QUARRELS

Wise men and women have a saying to the effect that it is foolish to further children's quarrels. A terrible example of indulging in hatred because of children's quarrels is brought to mind with the sentencing to death in the electric chair in South Carolina of a man who took the childish quarrels of his children and his neighbor's children so seriously that he got his shotgun and killed four of his neighbor's children.

Perhaps at some time or other many people with children living next to other people with children have felt annoyed at those children.
Children have not lived long enough to be wise at all times. Childish friction arises over small things.
But it is smaller for the adults to take it up. They have lived long enough to know that furthering abilities is foolish. They know that things like that will blow over, they know that with the passage of a few years those same children will be fast friends.

It doesn't pay to get angry. The man who has his days numbered until he sits in the death chair said at the trial, at York, South Carolina, that he was so angry he didn't know what he was doing. That is the way with anger. It destroys reason, caution, kills common sense.

Anger is a luxury that no one has any right to indulge in. It is costly. It prevents straight thinking.
Should one go back to the starting point of the quarrels that will end with the death of the child person in the tragedy, it is very likely that it would be found in something of practically no matter. Perhaps one child spoke slightly of another, or threw a rock at it. Foolish people magnify such things; the wise one laughs at them or keeps his children away from the other.
Should a person and he can not get along with another, the thing to do is to avoid him; have nothing to do with him. There is plenty of room for that.

It is natural to "take the part"
of one's own children; to shield them from harm. But it can be done without killing people, or living in such a state of ill will or hatred that it leads to things not pleasant. For that reason people with common sense do not run for the shotgun when children disagree.

"GENERAL" COXEY HAS QUIT
WALKING

Times certainly do change. "General" Coxe, who once led an army of unemployed to Washington, as a demonstration, to show the men in charge of affairs at the national capital that many men were in deperate plight, rides now, in an automobile. He is through with walking. Then he didn't have the price of anything.

Furthermore, it seems that he rides fast. A few days ago he was arrested and fined $15 for speeding.
Gone are the days when all the power he had was shank's mare, trudging along at the head of "Coxey's army." Why, he couldn't ride in a buggy then, not in an ox cart.

Yet some folks say that these are "not like the good old days." Indeed they are not. In the old days
"General" Coxe could not have paid any $15. That much money would have seemed like a million dollars to him. The good old days are gone.

"TWO GOOD COWS"

"I can take two good cows and nearly make a living for my family," a man living in town said lately. He was not talking in a speech but an ordinary conversation. The other man doubted that a family could live off two cows.
"I said nearly make a living," was the answer and he proceeded to show how much milk two good cows would give, what money would be received for it, and what the expense would be.

He had kept one good cow and he seemed to know what he was talking about. Of course, as he pointed out, the cows would have to be good cows, not scrubs. They would have to pour down the milk.

Now we do not know that he could do that. But milk retails for nine cents a pint and there are eight pints in one gallon and people milk cows twice a day and from a good cow get several gallons. Still,
a great deal depends upon the man, as well as the cow. It must be a good man as well as a good cow, a man who knows how to manage and who is willing to take a great deal of pains.

We use this just to bring to the attention of some one who may not have thought it, that some people properly appreciate the cow, know her value, and regard her as more than an ordinary animal to roam over the hills and hollows and keep the blackberry bushes cleaned around.

Of course some persons are stupid
in a spelling bee.

Perhaps Clemenceau could solve that New Brunswick double murder mystery before returning to France.

MOSTLY NONSENSE

By Gee Gee Dee.

RECENTLY THERE HAVE BEEN
a number of instances of men impersonating war heroes in order to obtain monetary aid. Greensboro had its "Captain" McKenzie and various other "Major" Paul Kaye. Such stories as the grafters posing as veterans of the World war really are usually wildly improbable. As a rule the man who saw service doesn't make a practice of telling about it. These impostors, however, play their parts no better and no worse than many persons posing in other lines.

For instance, we have known political candidates who posed as public servants, as champions of the people, when, as a matter of fact, they were thinking only of their private preferment. Many a man who has struck such a pose has resorted to reprehensible methods, but in spite of all that, they sometimes have attained a measure of success.
Generally a man has to convince himself that he is a real public servant before he can convince others, and even then the popular conviction is likely to come as a result of what he actually does, not because of what he says. Perhaps there are cases in which men begin by posing and their pose is so nearly perfect that later they actually find themselves more or less unconsciously trying to render meritorious service.

Why are people so suspicious nowadays? Why are they so eager to impugn the motives of other people? Well, you may say that is exactly what we have been doing in the preceding paragraphs and we shall have to plead guilty. It is true that often there is every reason to be suspicious as to the character of motives behind certain things, but we must constantly guard against giving unduly free rein to our suspicions. Distrust can become a terrible thing. Distrust today is responsible, more than any other one thing, for the chaotic condition of international affairs. France distrusts Great Britain and Great Britain distrusts France; America
distrusts Italy and we suppose Italy distrusts America; Germany and most of the other nations distrust each other. If Senator Borah and former Premier Clemenceau should spend two or three days in conference with each other, quietly—if this can be imagined—discussing the international situation and each honestly trying very hard to understand the other's viewpoint, they might not come out of the conference in complete harmony, but they would doubtless be much nearer unity than will be possible with them yelling at each other through the newspapers.

Greater faith and greater trust are vitally needed if we are to make the most of this Thanksgiving day.
Through many a period of turbulence Divine Providence has brought us and if we are to continue the journey trust will prove of tremendous aid. We are really convinced that it is a fine old world, after all.
Of course no one expects Utopia on this earth. We shall always have our troubles so long as we remain on this planet; without troubles and problems we would not be able to develop real character. Certainly we have much for which to be thankful. Let us have stout hearts and willing hands and as we really attack our problems from time to time we shall often be agreeably surprised to learn that they are less complex than they may now appear.

Liberia wants to borrow a mere trifle of $5,000,000 from the United States, but the outlook for success of this project is rather dark.

NEIGHBORHOOD

PLEASANT GARDEN

There is much sickness throughout this community. Lee Cranford, of Greensboro, visited relatives here Sunday. "Ann" Titia Ross, who has been quite sick, improves very slowly. Spencer Sillmon is recovering rapidly after an attack of pneumonia. The revival which has been in progress at the M. E. church for the past 10 days closed Wednesday at 11 o'clock. Rev. Jim Green has been occupying the pulpit at these services. Percy King, of Greensboro, visited relatives and attended church here Sunday. Mrs. Hearne, who has been very sick for the past week, is improving. Rev. A. G. Loftin will fill his appointment at the M. E. church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Miss Kate Hunt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hunt, of this place, and Bernard Kirkman, of Greensboro, were married at the home of the bride's parents, Wednesday evening, November 29, at 6 o'clock. The ceremony took place in the living room before an improvised altar of palms and white chrysanthemums, and was performed by Rev. A. G. Loftin, pastor of the church. Only the relatives and a few close friends were present. Immediately after the ceremony an informal reception was held in which the bride's parents celebrated the 25th anniversary of their wedding.

GUILFORD COLLEGE

Mrs. Priscilla B. Hackney, who has been critically ill for several weeks, died at her home last Monday at 6:30 o'clock. She was married at Guilford college for a number of years, and a life long member of the Friends church. She was 82 years of age and leaves a host of relatives and friends to mourn her departure. Funeral services were conducted in the Friends church by Rev. Kirby V. Bowen, of Greensboro, assisted by Joseph H. Peele, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, after which interment was made in the cemetery at this place. J. Rountree Gillette, a prominent English friend, attended the meeting here last Sunday morning and preached a very interesting sermon. Esther Baird, who has spent several years as missionary in India, is visiting at the home of Dr. Williams. Mrs. Williams at one time was associated with her in the mission work. The high school at this place closed on Wednesday at noon, to open again next Monday morning. Some of the teachers are attending the assembly at Raleigh.

The Dramatic council of the college presented "Daddy Long Legs" last Saturday evening to a large and appreciative audience. Survivors have been at work on the road from the college to the West Market street road which has been hard surfaced for about three miles out from Greensboro. People hope to see the work begun on this road before many more weeks. This week has been characterized by regular Thanksgiving weather, cold, windy, cloudy and just enough of snow to be seen while falling through the air, but not enough to show on the ground.

City Sells $400,000 of Securities Here

The city council on Monday afternoon sold a batch of bonds issued in the sum of $400,000 to the Atlantic Bank and Trust company, of Greensboro, the Wachovia Bank and Trust company, of Winston-Salem, and the Harris Forbes company, of New York, for a premium of $2,888. That bid, made jointly by the three concerns, was the highest submitted. In fact, there was only one other bid in proper form for consideration, the latter having been made by A. B. Leach and company, of New York and the First National company, of St. Louis, carrying a premium of $2,124. The bonds, which are of long-term type, will bear 5 per cent. interest. The proceeds will be used to finance city school developments, water, street and sewer improvements.

Road Open to Traffic
The High Point-Winston-Salem highway was opened for traffic yesterday, according to information obtained here. The formal dedication of the new road is scheduled for December 5. At that time a barbecue will be staged in High Point and a number of speakers will be heard.

Fake Stock Broker Sentenced
New York, Nov. 29.—Alfred E. Lindsay, South Nyack, broker who pleaded guilty last March to swindling prominent society women of New York out of $500,000 through fake stock selling schemes, on Tuesday was sentenced to state's prison at hard labor for five to 10 years.

TUBERCULOSIS SEALS ARE PLACED ON SALE

Christmas Seals Will Find Their Way Into Every Part of State, Providing Much Needed Funds

The following appeal is issued by the North Carolina Tuberculosis association:
The annual tuberculosis Christmas seal sale begins Thanksgiving day in every town and hamlet in North Carolina. The little seals will find their way by mail into the most remote corners of the state. Everyone is asked to purchase and use these seals to provide funds for the tuberculosis cause.

Just what does one buy when one makes an annual purchase of Christmas seals? Surely the purchase includes more than paper and printing, more even than the charm of color and design the seal may possess. It is pointed out.

Perhaps you think first of relief work, and picture milk and other necessary food for consumptives. Perhaps your mind turns to the doctor's bills. There is also the sanatorium where the flushed cheeks of the tuberculous grow rosy as health is restored by proper treatment. Possibly you have been reading of the need for popular education in health and the seals you buy represent to you tuberculosis clinics and health lectures. As a matter of fact, in most communities some part of your seal money is expended in each of these ways.

But along with this investment in the machinery of community improvement you have invested in properties less tangible but quite as valuable. You have made yourself a sharer in the human faith, love and courage that have secured for the tuberculosis movement whatever success it has known.

Very properly, sentiment has little place in tuberculosis work or in any other social health work. And yet the purchaser of seals has the right to see the human value in his purchase.

The seal is more than a gay sticker, bought of a pretty girl. It is more, even, than a rational means of protection for the purchaser and those he loves. It is a witness to love that seeks out the miserable everywhere to heal them; to faith that can dream of a better day; to will that is staunch enough to move to bring that day.

It is in these qualities that the buyer of seals makes his ultimate investment.

Woman Sues For $5,000 For Alleged Slander

Suit for $5,000 has been instituted in Guilford Superior court against Charles Robertson, Benjamin Ellison and Samuel Allen by Ida McKee, of this county, who alleges that she was slandered by the defendants. On November 24, the plaintiff declares, the defendants circulated in the presence of worthy persons false and malicious statements to the effect that she had immoral relations with a man whose name was mentioned. It is asserted that the alleged slanderous remarks were made at Hillsboro; that as a result of the consequent impairment of her reputation she was discharged by the defendant Charles Robertson, from her employment in the Eno Cotton mills at Hillsboro. Col. John A. Baringer, of Greensboro, is legal counsel for the plaintiff.

Disastrous Forest Fire

Chapel Hill, Nov. 29.—F. B. Merrill, recently attached to the forestry division of the North Carolina Geological and Economic Survey as district forest warden for eastern North Carolina, reports that a disastrous forest fire swept western Harnett county from November 22 to November 25, burning over 15,000 acres of land and resulting in a loss estimated at $20,000 through the destruction of young tree growth, lightwood and soil humus.

Chances Favor King

Burlington, Nov. 29.—Of the names placed on the eligible list for the local postmastership it appears that J. C. King has the better chance of securing the endorsement of the Republican county executive committee. The other two eligibles, C. H. Cates and John C. Jones, are not thought to stand any great chance because Cates is a Democrat and Jones is said to have at times voted the Democratic ticket.

PERSONAL MENTION

J. E. Chadwick, of Jamestown, was a visitor in Greensboro Tuesday.

P. C. Shepherd, of Route 3, High Point, spent some time in the city on business Monday.

Miss Mamie Ferguson and Miss Berta Ferguson spent Saturday night and Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Ferguson, near Liberty. Another guest of the Ferguson family was R. C. Coble.

Thomas Foust, of Route 2, Greensboro, was a visitor here Tuesday.

W. B. Gray, of Route 1, Greensboro, spent some time here on business Wednesday.

J. A. Wilson, of Route 1, Sumnerfield, was a visitor in Greensboro Wednesday.

No Indictments Returned

New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 29.—Following the hearing of evidence for a number of days the grand jury failed to return any indictments in the investigation here of the Hall-Mills double murder mystery. The decision was reached Tuesday. The case may possibly be reopened later.

sition, have slightly larger majorities. This is the largest majority North Carolina ever gave any party in all her history.

"We elected all 10 congressmen by majorities from 7,000 to 12,000, gained two senators, eight senators and 19 representatives in the General Assembly, and the county officers in about 20 counties.

"Only four counties—Mitchell, Surry, Wilkes and Yadkin—will be represented in the next Legislature by Republicans in both houses. The Republicans carried majorities for their entire ticket in only six counties—Graham, Mitchell, Sampson, Watauga, Wilkes and Yadkin. In all the others, the entire Democratic ticket had majorities, ranging from 3,731 in Buncombe to 37 in Swain for the head of the state ticket, or some Democrats were elected.

"Gains in Democratic or reductions in Republican majorities were made in the following counties in the order named:

"In the remaining counties the losses in majorities were occasioned by the fact that the Republicans put out no local tickets and the Democrats felt that neither the state nor any of their districts were in any danger.

"Buncombe gave the largest majority for the state ticket and Wilkes made the greatest gain. Burke gave the largest majority, 1,029, of any county which gave a Republican majority in 1920, while Henderson overcame the largest Republican majority, 1,079, in 1920 of Skin Ablaze with Eczema Constant Itching Almost Unbearable!

We know there is one thing that stops eczema and that is more red-blood-cells! S. S. S. builds them by the million! You can increase your red-blood cells to the point where it is practically impossible for eczema to exist. We know that as blood-cells increase in number, blood impurities vanish! We also know that night follows day. Both are facts! But have you, eczema sufferers, ever actually taken advantage of this wonderful fact? Thousands just like you have never thought about it! Skin eruptions, eczema with all its fiery, skin-digging torture and its soul-breaking, unrelenting itching, pimples, tearing, unrelenting itching, and body build-up, when the tide of blood-cells begins to roll in! Blood-cells are the fighting-giants of nature! S. S. S. builds them by the million! It has been doing it since 1890! S. S. S. is one of the greatest blood-cell builders, blood-cleansers and body builders known to us mortals! When you put these facts together, then to continue to have eczema and skin eruptions looks more like a sin than a disease. Mrs. Arthur N. Smith, Pearl St., Newark, Ohio, writes:

"My little girl had a very bad case of eczema. She began taking S. S. S. and in a few days it was all over. I tell you, eczema is a disease that can be cured. I cannot talk too much about it, for I know it is S. S. S."

Here is your opportunity. S. S. S. contains only vegetable medicinal ingredients. Because S. S. S. builds red-blood-cells, it cures rheumatism, builds firm flesh, lifts out hollow cheeks, beautifies the complexion, builds you up when you are run-down. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores in two sizes. The larger size bottle is the more economical.

S.S.S. makes you feel like a new man.

any county which gave our state ticket a majority this year. For the first time since the redemption of the state in 1898 the five western congressional districts gave a larger Democratic majority than the five eastern districts. However, the east has 100,000 Democrats in reserve against the time of need."

Admits Sending Poisoned Candy
Reading, Pa., Nov. 29.—Mrs. Seneca Board, in jail here on Monday admitted to a postal inspector and two city detectives, according to the police, that she sent the box of poisoned candy received by Mrs. Amos Chamurs, a neighbor, last week. The motive, she is charged to have said, was the fact that she had lost most of the petty lawsuits which she and the Chamurs and others had engaged in. She finally concluded that the law was against her and decided to seek revenge along her own lines.

"MADAME WHO"

By HAROLD MacGRATH, Author of "The Man in the Box," "The Millionaire Burglar," etc.

WHO'S WHO—

Jeanne Beaufort, beautiful daughter of a Virginia planter, has lost her father and two brothers in the Civil war. (The year is 1864.) She swears to

Mrs. Wetmore, her aunt, that she will carry out the Biblical injunction for vengeance—"an eye for an eye!" While at Richmond she meets

Henry Morgan, a debonair young officer, who falls in love with her. She repels his advances. She is engaged as a spy for the Confederate government and urged to use all the wiles and power of her sex to find one Parson Kennedy and bring him within the Southern lines. It is planned to have her make headquarters with a family of southern sympathists in Washington. Jeanne learns telegraphy and other technical branches of her new calling. And clad as a boy, often in the Blue of the North, she makes her way through the lines. She learns of an organization of eleven Union spies and of their meeting place in a Richmond loft. As she overhears the leader address the masked men seated about a table, Jeanne is discovered and dragged into the room. The leader unmasks as he threatens her with death, but is dissuaded from shooting her by the suggestion from one of the men that one of their number marry her. She consents and when one of the masked men volunteers to marry her, she refuses and claims the right to choose.

She rejects the volunteer and selects the one who suggested the marriage. Him she names "Irony." To her surprise the leader is no other than Parson John Kennedy. He performs the ceremony. "Irony" says his name is among those who sign as witnesses. (How before they leave her bound.) In the following code form:

John Kennedy, D. D.

C-WG-L H-RO-M

A-NK-S P-PA-G

G-RD-A J-NK-F

J-WG-A F-RN-S

F-WG-S W-RE-H

Later Jeanne learns that Morgan is a spy.

To her surprise she receives a letter bearing the curious device she had seen tattooed on her husband's arm. The letter, ironical in its tone, shows that her unknown husband is still in Richmond and knows the name and identity of his wife! She cuts her hair, stains her face and, going to Baltimore, assumes the name of Alice Trent, not knowing such a person lived in Baltimore.

An intoxicated man accosts Jeanne and she is rescued by Captain John Armitage, a young Union officer whom she tells her assumed name.

Installment No. Five

Jeanne's hostess gave a reception in September to one of the South American ministers; and it was at this affair that Morgan was presented to "Alice Trent" while she was engaged in animated debate with Captain Armitage. She made room for the new arrival, and for a while divided her attention and attractions between the two men. She was called away presently.

"Charming young woman," was Morgan's comment. "Where is she from?"

"Baltimore, I believe," Armitage turned in inquiring eye upon Morgan. "Where do you keep yourself?"

"Under the Senator's thumb. I am beginning to weary of the position."

"Going?"—as Armitage rose.

"Work." With a curt nod Armitage departed.

When he was sure that Armitage had left the house, Morgan went in search of Jeanne.

"I haven't been to see you because I dared not. I fancy I'm being watched—for what purpose I don't know as yet. I am mailing you a diagram of a certain house. There will be a secret passage to the attic. You will find a table there. In the drawer you will place once a week—preferably Thursdays—whatever important facts you pick up. I'll attend to the rest of it."

"If you will be at the Capitol at nine tomorrow morning, I'll give you something to do for me personally."

"I am always and ever at your service. Good-by, then until tomorrow."

He went away with the old enigmatical smile on his lips; and Jeanne fell to comparing the two men. When a young woman begins to compare two men of her acquaintance, it is a danger-signal for one of them; she is about to place in her permanent regard one above the other.

Promptly at nine the next morning Jeanne stopped her carriage before the Capitol. Morgan was waiting, apparently, engaged in studying the cracks in the sidewalk.

"Mr. Morgan!" she called.

He looked up, paused and raised his hat.

"Good morning, Miss Trent."

"Step in and I'll drop you wherever you say."

"That is very good of you. I was going to one of the recruiting stations. The work is slow."

All this was of course for the benefit of the driver. When they were on the way, when the noise drowned their voices, she handed him a note. He opened it.

"What's this?"

"I want you to find out who these men are. They belong to the Secret Service, or an arm of it. One of them will have a tattooed mark on his left forearm. Have you ever run across a man named Parson Kennedy?"

"The Parson? Frequently."

"I want that man where I can talk to him without being disturbed. He can tell me what those letters mean."

"Would an abduction serve?"

"It would."

"Then everything falls out nicely. And the reward?"

"We'll talk that over later."

"Well, you shall see Parson Kennedy twice tonight—once at Sumner's and again in a certain hut by the Potomac. I'll give you the directions. But what's in the air?"

"That is my affair." But she softened the retort with a smile.

"You are wearing a wig; you have dyed your skin. If I did not know you with the eyes of love, I'd have some difficulty in recognizing you. Please pardon my asking you a question: your arms and shoulders?"

"I have not neglected them. You saw that last night. But if you think this is a good opportunity to make love to me, you are mistaken. In this game of espionage we are partners; but beyond that, nothing."

"Who can say? Do you think I will ever give you up?"

"Here is your recruiting station. I had best drop you. What is that soldier tacking up? 'Dead or Alive! Read it—then come and tell me.'"

He came back, smiling with his lips but covertly warning her with his eyes.

"It is a dodger for the apprehension of Jeanne Beaufort, dead or alive—medium weight, slender, handsome, dark eyes, very pale, dull copper-colored hair; wears boy's clothes successfully."

"A woman spy? How interesting!"

"Before God, you are a gallant woman!" he whispered. Aloud he said: "Thanks for the lift, Miss Trent."

She smiled back at him as she drove off.

Dead or alive. But she went shopping. Jeanne Beaufort, dead or alive! How small she was, how helpless—and how long that arm suddenly reaching out for her! So, after all these months, they had found out who she was? Slender, handsome, very pale. Immediately everything became eyes.

Dead or alive! She was a coward. She wanted to run away and hide; she wanted the strong, commanding arms of her Aunt Della; she wanted her room at home.

Dead or alive! The wheels clattered; the hoofs of the horses beat time to it.

But her indomitable spirit did not long remain crushed.

She traced this catastrophe to the man who had entered her room. She knew now that he had been hunting for her photograph. Well, he hadn't found it. She possessed but one, and that was at home. After all, she had been expecting this. She had known that she could not go on forever, indefinitely, without leaving some positive trace of her individuality. Let them catch her if they could; forewarned and forearmed.

She reached home at noon, at the precise moment Parson John Kennedy entered the private office of the chief of the Secret Service bureau.

"Kennedy, we've found the name of your scorpion, as you call her. We've sent out dodgers, 'dead or alive' stuff. The description is meager because G-RD-A is a bumpkin where women are concerned. A number found on a dead man and signed opened up the war for G-RD-A. He has seen her but once, and this description is from memory."

"The name?"

"Wait a moment. You told me a remarkable tale the other night, part of one. I have every reason to believe that the young woman and your scorpion are one and the same. Her name is Jeanne Beaufort; and she is particularly good in assuming boy and young men roles."

"He has set out to find a photograph of her, and if there is a 'he'll get it.'"

"Jeanne Beaufort—if we find her, it will be in Washington, mark my words."

"The man you suspect goes nowhere."

"Smells a rat, likely."

"They have hanged poor Fogarty."

Kennedy bent his head. "He was a brave young man. I came to ask or Armitage. I want him to follow me for the next twelve hours and never let me slip out of his sight. I've been threatened again."

"You shall have Armitage. I'm glad you spoke as you did. He was about to rejoin his regiment."

There were several arms to the Secret Service in those days, and the most important was of course the military.

The war office and the Secret Service bureau had authority to draw a man from his regiment in all cases except when he was under fire. A good spy had to be a ready thinker, of flash-impulses, of swift invention—and above all, young. It was the middle-aged who carefully weighed everything and then started forward just a little too late. Parson Kennedy was the exception.

When he left the Sumner place that night, he dismissed his hired carriage. The hired coachman drove off, muttering into his beard, while the two men cowering inside swore softly chagrined.

But they in turn had for once looked farther ahead than Parson Kennedy; and before he had walked two blocks, three men fell about of him. Strong as he was, he was not superhuman. They forced some pungent liquid through his teeth, and a cloth was held over his nose.

When he came out of his stupor he found himself securely bound to a chair. Nearby was a common table, and on this a single candle burned.

A cabin—but where? How far was he from the city? Where was Armitage?

When the last phase of dizziness left his eyes he dimly saw two shadowy forms by the cabin door. The smaller spoke in a half-whisper. "Send the men away, and you guard the door from the outside."

"He is a dangerous man."

"Not at this moment. Do as I say."

The taller man went out reluctantly to obey orders. A boyish figure approached Parson Kennedy and stood with folded arms. Kennedy could not see the face, for the hat was drawn down too far; but he wondered where he had seen that figure before, that attitude.

"Parson Kennedy, look at this carefully." The speaker drew out a folded sheet of paper, opened it and held it out for his inspection. The Parson strained at his bonds, his eyes protruding.

"You remember that, then?" asked the boyish one.

"Aye!"—in a half-roar.

"Tell me the names of each of these men, and you shall go free. Refuse, and you shall be carried to Richmond, where they will hang you by your neck."

"Hanged by the neck!" Kennedy laughed—laughter that had the infection of a baited tiger snarling at his iron. "Yes, I know you, you little viper! Carry me away and hang me, but never a word will you get out of me. That's final. You'll suffer, wonder always who the man was. I know. But think you to dig it out of my lips?"

A face appeared at the side window and vanished hastily.

"I will say this much, Jeanne Beaufort—ah, you start! I regret that I did not shoot you out of hand when I had the opportunity."

Jeanne returned the paper to her pocket. She turned toward the door, only to pause in alarm. She heard a curse, some muffled blows—a body crashed against the rotting boards. A moment later a revolver cracked; two shots followed; then came a trampling of feet, and then swept the candle from the table, overturned that and flew to the door, unerring, banishing it after her.

"Armitage?" bellowed Kennedy.

"Quick! The others will be coming back."

They groped hurriedly for the door, stumbling out and ran toward the grove, throwing themselves down into the thicket.

"Do you know who that was?" whispered Kennedy.

"God knows, I shall never cease to remember that night!"

"Pah!"

"She got away."

"You speak as if you were glad of it."

"I am."

"Milkop! That woman is Jeanne Beaufort; and you have let her go!"

"Jeanne Beaufort!"

"Aye! And through your maudlin sentiments you have freed her!"

In the small hours of that morning, in a mean room, a man sat wearily at a table, his bare left arm stretched across it. At the other side was a tattooer. He was putting on the finishing touches of a circle with the Greek-like letters in the center.

Tells President of Klan's Activities

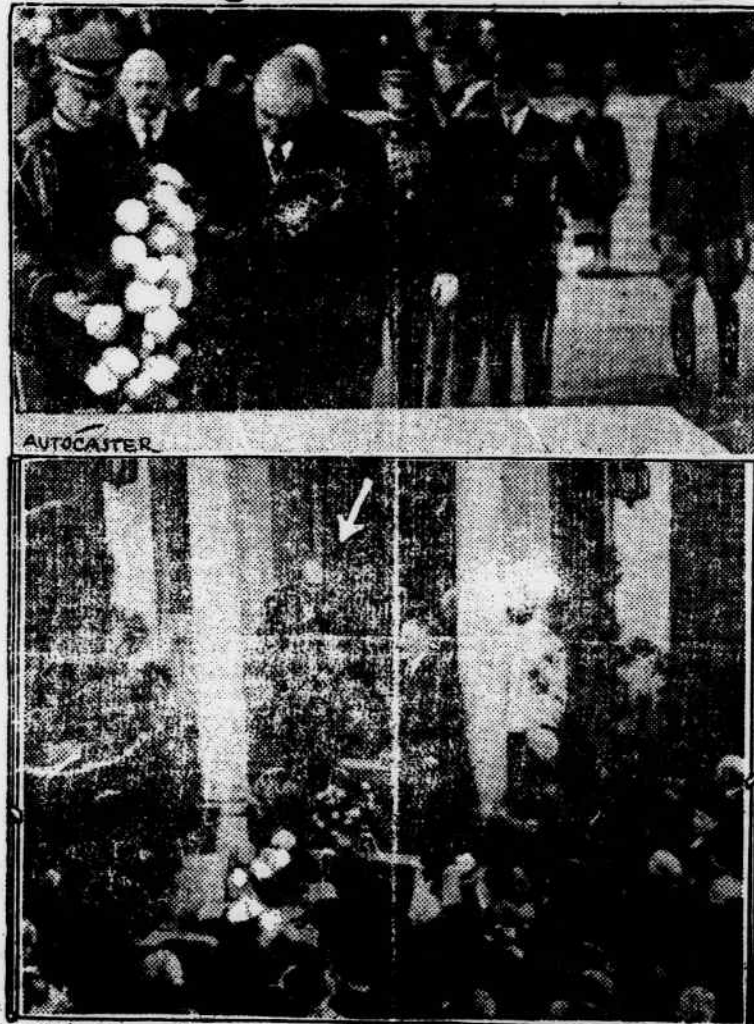

This picture of Gov. John Parker of Louisiana was taken as he left the White House after telling President Harding of the Ku Klux Klan's amazing growth in his state and intentions to control through political power.

Mother Arrives in Congress.

Mrs. Winifred M. Huck, of Illinois, mother of three, is the first elected to Congress. As shown here on the right, she is receiving flowers from Congresswoman Alice Robertson of Oklahoma, who is for re-election to the House.

Honoring Our Yankee Heroes.

President Harding and former President Woodrow Wilson were the principals in impressive Armistice Day activities at Washington, D.C. In simple ceremony Pres. Harding visited the grave of America's Unknown Soldier, to place a huge floral wreath, as shown in the upper picture.

Former President Wilson broke his long silence when more than 3,000 admirers marched to his home in Washington to pay tribute. His tribute was to our soldier boys who made the supreme sacrifice.

THE NEXT GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Only 13 Republicans were elected to the North Carolina General Assembly on November 7, records compiled by H. M. London, legislative reference librarian, show. At the last session there were 29 Republicans; there will be only 10 in the 1923 House. In the Senate the voters leave three Republicans instead of 11 in the last Senate.

Figures compiled at Raleigh disclose that Corporation Commissioner W. T. Lee, who headed the Democratic state ticket, received 225,615 votes, while his Republican opponent, Charles M. Hoover, obtained only 140,557, a majority for Mr. Lee of $5,058. All 10 congressmen were elected by the Democrats with majorities ranging from 7,000 to 12,000. Major Charles M. Stedman, of Greensboro, securing the largest majority.

The Democrats gained eight senators, only one Republican solicitor being left. Several counties went Democratic for the first time in 20 years and Henderson county for the first time since organization of the Republican party. Among the notable turnovers from Republicanism to Democracy were the following counties: Davidson, Randolph, Catawba, Burke, Davie, and Stokes. Surry elected a Democratic sheriff.

The list of members of the next General Assembly as compiled by Mr. London follows:

Agricultural Agents
Over 2,100 of the 2,850 agricultural counties in the United States employ at least one agricultural extension worker, who acts as a joint representative of the United States Department of Agriculture and the state agricultural college in conducting demonstrations of farm and home practices found most successful by experiments of these institutions. They also give advice and assistance in farming matters by personal visits, correspondence, telephone messages, community meetings, and articles in the local press.

RECENT DEATHSMrs. Elizabeth Stout

Mrs. Elizabeth Stout, aged 76, died Monday night at her home, three miles east of Ramseur. She had been ill for about two years. She was the wife of W. A. Stout. She leaves two sons, J. E. Stout and A. R. Stout, and one daughter, Mrs. G. H. Hodgins, all of Ramseur. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at Parks Cross Roads church and interment was made in the church cemetery.

William Houchins

William Houchins, aged seven years, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Houchins of Pleasant Garden, died at their home there Monday morning. He had been ill only a short while. He attended school Friday, came home Friday afternoon saying that he was not well and gradually sank. Funeral services were held at Pleasant Garden Methodist church Tuesday morning, conducted by Rev. A. G. Lottin and Rev. Jim Green. Interment was made in the church cemetery. He leaves, in addition to his parents, five brothers and three sisters.

Mrs. Mary Sockwell

Mrs. Mary Catherine Sockwell, aged 76, died Tuesday night at the home of her son, Robert A. Sockwell, Jr., about two miles east of McLeansville. Bright's disease was the cause of her death. She had been in bad health for about a year and lately her condition had become critical. Funeral services were held this morning at Peace Lutheran church, near McLeansville, conducted by Rev. G. W. McClanahan. Burial was made in the church cemetery.

Mrs. Sockwell was well known and loved. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Boone, who lived near Gibsonville. On January 23, 1868, she was married to David Sockwell, who died about eight years ago.

The union was blessed with seven children, six of whom are living. They are W. T. and John E. Sockwell, of this city; Mrs. H. E. Carmon, who lives near Gibsonville; Mrs. L. R. Cobb, of Burlington; Miss Belle Sockwell and Robert A. Sockwell, Jr., who live at the home place. James L. Sockwell, the other child, died in infancy.

Thomas Rankin Gresson

Thomas Rankin Gresson, prominent Guilford county farmer, died at 9 o'clock Monday night at his home in the Tabernacle section of the county. He was 79 years old and leaves his wife, Mrs. Hannah Harden Gresson; a son, John Gresson, and four daughters, Mrs. J. H. Bowman, Mrs. W. A. Bowman, Mrs. Charles W. Kirkman and Mrs. D. A. Neece.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at Tabernacle church. Rev. G. F. Milloway and Rev. J. A. Burgess officiating. Interment followed in the church cemetery.

PUBLIC HEALTH

By Wm. M. Jones, M. D.

Thousands Saved

Major General Wood, governor general of the Philippine Islands, gives the following interesting information regarding elimination of smallpox:

"Wherever vaccination has been carried out carefully in the Philippine Islands, smallpox has practically disappeared. Wherever it has been neglected or insufficiently done, we have had frightful loss of life. The people, who are familiar with the situation, are keenly appreciative of the benefits of vaccination."

"After effective vaccination had been established in the city of Manila there were no deaths from smallpox for seven years. It is also interesting to observe that before the days of systematic vaccination in the Philippine Islands that there were approximately 40,000 deaths per year from smallpox. As effective vaccination was carried out the disease disappeared province by province."

It is apparent, therefore, that the foregoing information makes concrete proof of the value and desirability of vaccination when it is factually applied.

GROWERS PLEASED BY FIRST CASH ADVANCE

Those in Old Belt of Virginia and North Carolina Will Receive Second Payment Early in January

Raleigh, Nov. 29.—First cash advances running from $18 to $23 per hundred on loads of tobacco brought to the warehouse floors of the Tobacco Growers' Co-operative association in the past two weeks have given many organized farmers of Eastern North Carolina the assurance of a merry Christmas.

Association officials have announced that all growers of Eastern Carolina will receive second payments equal to their first cash advances upon tobacco delivered up to December 1. It is expected that this payment will be made not later than December 20.

Bright tobacco growers of the old belt of Virginia and North Carolina, which includes Guilford county, will double their cash receipts upon all tobacco delivered up to December 20 as soon thereafter as some 50,000 checks can be made out, signed and mailed to the members. Payment will probably be made early in January.

The increasingly high advances paid to co-operative growers are causing enthusiasm among association members at many points. At the co-operative warehouse in Smithfield last week one load of tobacco brought over $23 per hundred cash advance. N. T. Oakley, of Prospect Hill, received an average first payment of $21.35 per hundred on 1,268 pounds of tobacco delivered at Apex and K. Johnson received $167.45 for a load of 836 pounds at the same market. R. E. Aikens, of Cardenas, was paid a first advance of $197.08 for 976 pounds recently delivered at Fuquay Springs and D. B. Andrews averaged $20.70 as first cash advance on the same market.

Cash advances to co-operative growers of from $15 to $18 per hundred have been frequent at Danville and other co-operative markets of Virginia and mental arithmetic has become a popular pastime with some 80,000 growers of three states as they look forward to their second and third cash payments from the association.

Seeking Part of Fortune

Taylorsville, Nov. 29.—Arch Fox, of East Gastonia, a native of Alexander county and formerly a resident of Taylorsville, was here this week making an investigation of the register of deeds' files at the courthouse in the interest of discovering his father's ancestral relationship after marriage. Fox hopes to secure positive proof whereby he may be in position to proclaim himself an heir to part of the huge Baker estate in Los Angeles, Calif., which is valued at $135,000,000.

BUILD BETTER BARN

By "The Barn Man"

The big thing to remember in putting a good barn on a good farm is that the barn adds more to the value of the property than the barn costs. This is always true within reasonable cost limits. It is frequently easier to sell a farm with good buildings at $200 an acre than an unimproved one at half that price.

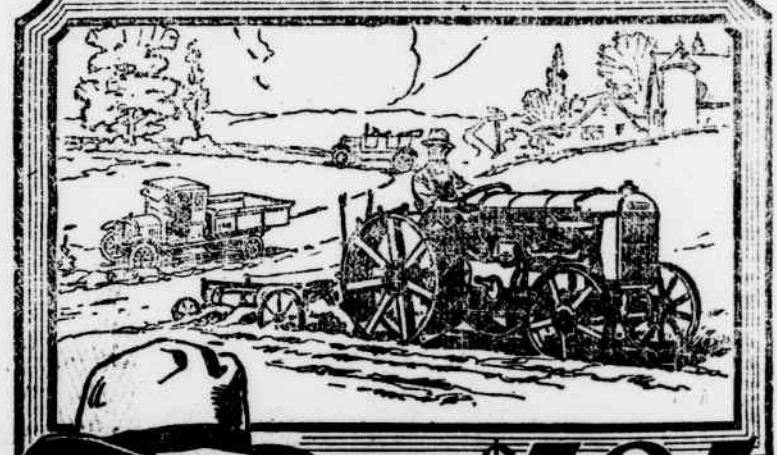

Everyone likes a well improved farm, but many have not the energy and judgment to make the improvements. A well built barn will last a lifetime and is every day a source of profit and satisfaction.

Put the hay carrier track up before you shingle—use the sheathing boards for scaffolding—that makes a hard job easier.

We will be pleased to show you some barn plans and consult with you about your building.

Fordson

THE UNIVERSAL TRACTOR

Reduce Your Production Costs

Farming, like every other business, must cut down the overhead.

It is not a question of being able to afford a Fordson; it is a question of being able to continue farming on the old too-costly basis.

The farmer's problem is not all a sales problem; it is also a production problem. He must cut down the cost of production.

The Fordson does more work at a lower cost and in less time than the old hand methods.

Let us give you the proof. Write, phone or call today.
