"MAKING IT TOO HOT FOR THEM."

There is nothing merely temporal which is dearer to our hearts than the success of the Democratic party, because we feel assured that with it are indissolubly linked the prosperity and well being of all classes and conditions of the people of North Carolina; there is nothing which we more deeply regret than the ill-advised and futile course of the Prohibition Democrats, by which they will end in such a diffusion and distraction of their political strength at the ballot box as may bring about the triumph of the Radical party. But "blood is thicker than water;" white Democrats are North Carolinians with us, "bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh," and we have for them no floods of abuse, no terms of vituperation. Arrogating to ourselves no superior vantage-ground for advice and dictation, we shall do the best we know how in argument and reasoning until the election, "nothing extenuating and setting down naught in malice."

There are, however, insidious, dangerous leaders and advisers in the Third Party. During the proceedings of a political meeting held in this city a few weeks since, one of the speakers, a minister of the Gospel, announced his intention of "making it too hot" for those members of his church who declined to espouse the cause of the prohibition party, and place themselves in accord and affiliation with it.—Let it be remembered that the great question of the best means of promoting the cause of temperance has been an unsettled question, not for years but for centuries; that while few sane men question the gigantic evils of the vice, the world is divided as to the instrumentalities for their suppression; that people have accepted local option and prohibition by whole counties and States, and that people have rejected local option and prohibition by whole counties and States; that men whose vital piety and humble, genuine christianity the tongue of slander dare not attack, in every religious denomination throughout this broad land, are yet in doubt on this momentous subject, and have refused to endorse the sweeping measures proposed by the prohibition party.

But here, in the peaceful homes and the law-abiding communities of Guilford county, it is to be made "too hot" for the poor sinners who are honestly striving to be christians, if they dare exercise the right of free born people, in thinking and acting in accordance with their judgment and conscience.

How is it to be "made too hot" for them? By ex-communication from the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper? By ostracism from the social circle? By boycotting in the concerns of daily life?

Why is it to be "made too hot" for them? Because they are wine bibbers and debauchees? Because they are bringing reproach upon the church by excess and dissipation? Because they notoriously violate the decalogue day by day? Because they break their obligations to their fellow men, and lower the standard of honor and morality in their secular and business dealings? Because, in a word, they are unworthy members of the church? Not so. The dire pains and penalties flowing forth from that Pandora's Box of "making it too hot" for them are to be visited upon their devoted heads because they are unwilling to concede the fact that a hundred of their fellow citizens possess all the wisdom in legislation, all the justice in the theory and practice of government, all the virtue and all the morality, leaving the vast majority of millions in this country plunged in hopeless ignorance.

Prohibition is to be a matter of compulsion, not of free agency.

Legend of the Weeping Willow.

Just where the path disappeared into the copse that skirted the great dark forest, where all day long the shadows hid, and out of which the night seemed to come when the sun went down, a man came, bearing an armful of firewood. As he jogged along, he caught a protruding twig and tossed it away. Quickly a little slip of a girl, with sun-kissed hair and eyes of divinely blue, ran and picked it up.

"May I have it?" she asked.

"Ye may have it without the asking, if ye'll take the trouble to stoop for it," he returned.

"I am going to plant it," declared the tiny maiden, lightly holding the twig between her soft fingertips.

"What will you do that for?" said the man. "It will never grow."

"Oh, it will if I tend it," confidently returned the lassie.

With another look at the wind-blown curls and the eyes like heaven, the man went on his way, and the wee one planted the twig.

Every day she watered and tended and watched the little wisp, with its pointed, slender leaves of green hue and silvery lining. Day by day it grew larger and sturdier, and swayed more and more gracefully in the summer wind; and the little maiden clapped her hands in glee, as she cried: "I knew it would grow!"

Again and again the seasons came and went. The castaway twig had grown into a beautiful tree, and the slip of a girl stood on the verge of a beautiful womanhood. Then it was that the hand of the death angel touched the lovely maiden, chilled the warm life in her tender frame, and put out the light in her beautiful eyes. They made her a grave beneath the tree she had planted and fostered, because she had wished it, and they mourned for her long and deeply. But now the tree seemed to droop and languish, and on the breeze there came a sound as if of sobbing and sighing, which shook the tree through all its branches to the very core, and quivered and trembled in each pointed leaf. They said it seemed as if the insensate thing grieved just as they did, and still it languished, until every upward turning branch with every twigh hung down, and every leaf from its twig depended; and each night and morning the dew dripped like a tear from each slender point and fell on the grave.

Then they said: "The tree truly grieves for her." The "Willow," she had named it, and now they call it "Weeping willow."

SMITH HAD MISJUDGED HER.—There were half a dozen of them holding down as many chairs in a drug store the other evening, when the talk changed to tramps, thieves and burglars, and Smith said:

"Well, now, but I'd like to try an experiment. I am a little skittish about these desperadoes, and Mrs. Smith knows it and takes advantage to brag about her own courage. She says she'd just like to find the tramp on the door step who refused to dust when she ordered him to."

"Well," asked one.

"Well, suppose one of you rig up and go to the front door and demand something to eat, and be mighty impudent about it! It will give her a scare and stop her bragging."

The crowd fell in with the idea, and one of the men donned an old hat and coat and fixed up as a tramp. Ten minutes later he was knocking at the side door, while Smith and his friends were posted across the street.

It wasn't two minutes after the tramp's knock before he came out of the yard. He came over the fence. He was in such a hurry that he ran thirty rods before he could bring up. When Smith and the others reached him he had his hat off and was feeling of his head and gritting his teeth to keep back a groan.

"Well," said Smith, "what did you do?"

"Told her that I wanted a hot supper pretty quick."

"And what did she say?"

"She asked whether I would have boned turkey or fricassee chicken, and while I was trying to make up my mind she kicked me on the shin, struck me on the head with a club and pushed me off the steps all at the same time."

And every one of the group looked back and saw Mrs. Smith on the walk in front of the house apparently waiting for somebody's return, and each man gasped out:

"Well, I'll be kazoosed!"

NOCTURNE.

In perfect rest the garden lies;
The heavy tree that fills the skies
Is silent as the tiniest flower;
And only on the stillness dies
The honeyed chime that tells the hour.

Ah! would at yonder easement bright
That shade might flit, so dear to me,
Or swiftly glance athwart the night,
To give me greeting tenderly,
Here in the dark where none could see.

Alas! those pines but strangely glow,
Nor cast my soul a cheering ray;
The eyes of distant friend or foe
Are cold and comfortless as they,
While she I love is far away.

The impelling power must be ascribed to the geographical location which nature has planned for a large city, being centrally located and the natural market for nine counties. Rich in mines, forest and farm, and having enough untapped water power to drive the machinery of the entire State. To see the stupendous scenery when the mountain peaks and pinnacles loom up before the eye, and the airy atmosphere of more than 2,000 feet above the sea level, and to enjoy the invigorating air and health-giving climate, one will not be surprised at the rapid growth of Mount Airy. ## Local News.

—The train from the North, via the Richmond & Danville R. R., was several hours late to-day.

—We commend Mr. E. A. Graham, traveling agent of this paper, to the good offices and kind consideration of the people along the line of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway, from Bennettsville to the "jumping-off place." Mr. G. has an eagle eye for an item, and if "sum'n happens" anywhere in that country he'll be apt to know of it.

IN STORE FOR US.—A pleasant and novel entertainment is promised us for next week—Wednesday evening, 15th inst.—for which we shall thank the Episcopalians.

UNPRECEDENTED.—This is not generally the hottest season of the year in this section of the country, but the first week of this August has "covered itself with glory"—and perspiration.

THE INSTITUTE.—An interesting session was held to-day, embracing very instructive lectures from Profs. Blair, McNeill and others. The interest in the meetings continues unabated, and the attendance is always large.

HIGH WIND.—A very high wind struck the city this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, sending the dust whirling in clouds, tossing the leaves in wild confusion, and rattling roofs and windows as with a volley of musketry. Up to the hour of going to press, we have heard of no damage.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—The other day a colored blacksmith a few miles in the country, while trimming sills with a large adze, had the misfortune to cut off two of his toes with the implement, seriously wounding a third. An application was made to the wound as soon as possible of Waggoman's liniment for cuts, rheumatism, etc., and the relief given has been wonderful.

A PLEASANT ENTERTAINMENT.—We are glad to know that the "Dime Sociable," held at the residence of Mr. A. Hagan, proved exceedingly pleasant. The beautifully adorned and lighted residence and grounds made a very attractive scene, while the entertainment furnished delighted all who were so fortunate as to be present.

REDUCED RATES.—The Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway will sell tickets to the Farmers' State Alliance and to the Inter-State Convention at the same reduced rates as those granted by other roads throughout North Carolina. Alliance Convention tickets on sale the 13th and 14th insts.; good to the 19th inclusive. Inter-State Convention tickets on sale the 10th and 20th insts.; good to the 31st inclusive.

CLUB MEETING.—The regular weekly meeting of the Democratic Club was held last evening, Hon. D. F. Caldwell in the chair and Mr. S. S. Mitchell acting as secretary. It being deemed unnecessary to organize township clubs, on motion of Mr. B. H. Merrimon the committee for that purpose was discharged from the further consideration of the same. Messrs. Merrimon, Balsley and Forbis were appointed a committee to make proper arrangements for the speaking of Col. Waddell next week. On motion of Mr. J. W. Forbis Mayor Barringer was authorized, during his visit to Washington City, to see if Senators Voorhees, Daniels and others can be secured to speak here during the campaign.

Mr. J. W. Forbis moved that the club adjourn to meet on the first Tuesday night in Sept., subject to a call of the President, motion carried.

SAVINGS AND DEPOSIT BANK.

—At a meeting of the Commissioners for the Savings and Deposit Bank of N. C., held at the Benbow House, Aug. 4th, 1888, a committee was appointed and directed to proceed at once to secure a suitable building and purchase safes, and all necessary equipments for the said Bank. It was also ordered that the balance due on one half of the stock subscribed to the said Bank, and which is to be paid by January 1, 1889, be paid in four (4) equal monthly installments, viz:—1st of September, October, November and December.

HON. A. M. WADDELL.—To-day week the Democrats of this section of the State will have an opportunity of hearing Hon. A. M. Waddell, Elector for the State-at-large, who has an appointment at Greensboro on the 15th inst. While Col. Waddell is a very prominent North Carolinian, whose unquestioned ability and distinguished public services make him a man of note, there are doubtless many here to whom he is a stranger. The writer's acquaintance with the eloquent elector has been intimate for eighteen years, and it has been his fortune to share with him the arduous struggles and rejoice with him in the splendid victories of many hard-fought political campaigns. The Democrats of the Cape Fear country thrill with pride of Waddell this day when they recall the gallantry with which he led the "forlorn hope" against Dockery, and routed the redoubtable Radical champion, "horse, foot and dragoons." Come and hear Waddell next Wednesday, let come what may.

"WAYS THAT ARE DARK."—Mr. John Nichols, "Independent" member of Congress in the Raleigh District, has been in the city for the past day or two; and it is said that, although most people want about now to get in the middle of a ten-acre lot, with mighty broad cracks in the fence for the wind to come through, more than one caucus of the anxious and troubled Republicans has been held with closed doors and darkened windows in a room of the McAdoo House—and the thermometer away up in the nineties! Whew!

Obliged to stop a minute and enjoy the exquisite funniness of calling in John Nichols to "save the country," we may take it for granted that they have been gathered about that "pretty kettle of fish" which Mr. Brower has set before them. Oh, Johnnie Morehead! thou naughty, obstreperous Johnnie! You have not only broken the eggs in your own basket, but you have played the wild with the wares of your political friends. Well may Col. Boyd, whose position of elector makes him emphatically the leader of his party, sigh in despair as he surveys the field of fair hopes wrecked by the self-stultification of Mr. Brower, and exclaim, in the words of Denmark's unhappy prince:—

The time is out of joint; O cursed spite, That ever I was born to set it right!

THE UTTERANCE OF THE LEADER.—The Washington Progress states as a fact which can be established that W. T. Walker, the gubernatorial candidate of the Third Party, has given utterance to the following language and sentiments:

"We are going to win some day, if not to-day. If one had said twenty years before the civil war that slavery would have been wiped out from the face of these United States, it would have been hoisted at; yet it came. It was a struggle attended with sorrow and with blood, but it came, and God was in it; the side of right triumphed. Just so in prohibition. We are going to win; if we can not by fair means, then we will by foul. And if we do not triumph there will be one of the bloodiest wars that ever blackened the pages of history."

Now, the truth of this should be ascertained, and at once. If Mr. Walker has been misrepresented, he has been cruelly misrepresented, for it would be difficult to conceive of a worse temper and a more dangerous spirit animating any man. If he really did give expression to the sentiments above quoted the fact should be in the possession of every voter in the Third party throughout North Carolina, that he may follow his leader with his eyes open to the ulterior objects of that leader.

JURORS.—The following good men and true were drawn as jurors at the last meeting of the board of county commissioners, to serve at the next term of Guilford Superior Court:

First Week.—James Whitt, Geo. W. Clapp, L. M. Hawkins, Mebane Apple, G. W. Long, William Morgan, D. C. McPherson, J. M. Ross, John M. Andrew, J. A. Wilson, Samuel Wheeler, William Shaw, John M. Bowling, J. A. Hoskins, G. W. Christopher, John Edwards, R. C. Bryan, E. A. Ledbetter, David Christman, J. G. Causey, David L. Greeson, Thomas L. Gossett, William Dennis, John H. Bowman, J. K. Ozment, Lewis O. Heath, John O. Little, John S. Brookbank, T. A. Sechrest, Peter Wilson, David Shelley, Addison M. Bradshaw, W. W. Shields, E. T. Lindon, John T. Brittain, Julius C. Neelley, —36.

Second Week.—J. H. Johnson, E. T. Corbit, Allen W. Pegram, Asa Knight, J. W. Winchester, G. H. Royster, N. D. Woody, Wm. J. Hines, John E. Isley, Moses L. Willard, J. M. Anthony, B. W. Johnson, Thomas Hayes, A. G. Jones, Z. T. Melvin, Thomas B. Donnell, Geo. Huffman, L. A. Carmon, —18.

Prompt.

Mr. J. S. Jones, General Agent of the Provident Savings Life Insurance Company, of New York, was in town last Tuesday and paid to Mrs. Annie Foard $2,000 the amount of the policy held by her late husband, Mr. Robert Foard in the above named company.

The amount was not due until 90 days after proof of death had been filed, but the company issued the check the day the proofs were received.

This promptness must be a source of gratification to the many policy holders of the Provident in Salisbury.—Salisbury Watchman.

TO THE PUBLIC.

On Saturday night, when the Buchanan and McDonald block was destroyed by fire, I had one of Ferrell & Co.'s Herring Safes in my office, on second floor. It fell to centre of main floor and was subject to the hottest part of the fire. Upon having it opened I found all valuable papers, books and monies preserved, and in as good condition as when I put them in.

I cheerfully recommend Herring Safe to the public.

Respectfully,
THOMAS BAILEY.

The undersigned is agent for the above Safes, and solicits orders which will be promptly filled, with satisfaction guaranteed.
