POPULAR VOTING CONTEST.

THE PATRIOT WILL GIVE AWAY $1,150 IN PRIZES.

An Announcement of Interest to the Readers and Friends of the Paper.—The First Prize, a Magnificent Grand Piano, Will Go to the Person or Institution Receiving the Greatest Number of Votes.—It Costs Nothing to Enter This Great Contest.—Get in the Game Early and Stay Until the Finish.

Beginning with this issue, The Patriot opens the greatest popularity voting contest ever attempted in this part of the country. Eleven hundred and fifty dollars worth of prizes will be given to the winners in this contest, which is free to every one and open to any white person.

First Prize.—The first prize will consist of a magnificent Cote upright grand piano and will be awarded to the person, church, lodge, society or other contest obtaining the greatest number of votes in the contest. These votes are only to be obtained by clipping the "Free Voting Certificate" from each issue of the paper and by securing subscriptions to The Patriot. Further down we give a schedule of the votes that will be allowed for subscriptions.

The piano offered for this prize, which retails for $400, has the automatic extension front, with a music rest the length of the piano; hand-carved panels and mouldings. Has folding fall board, hardwood back. The sounding board is of the best known material for retention of sound waves and the wrist plank is constructed of compound rock maple. Has the double French repeating action, the German imported strings, three unisons with over-strung bass, nickel-plated trimmings, three pedals with muffer, ivory keys, is quadruple veneered, and is fully guaranteed for ten years against any deficiency in workmanship or material. The piano was purchased from the American Music Company, a highly responsible music house of Jacksonville, Fla.

The Second Prize.—The second prize will consist of a rebate certificate entitling the winner to a rebate of $200 on any piano sold by the American Music Company. In other words, the winner may buy a $400 piano exactly similar to the one given away as the first prize by surrendering the certificate and paying $200.

Third prize—Rebate certificate for $175.

Fourth prize—Rebate certificate for $150.

Fifth prize—Rebate certificate for $125.

Sixth prize—Rebate certificate for $100.

Rebate Certificates.—The rebate certificates given as prizes are acceptable as part payment on a piano like the first prize given in the contest and will be accepted for their full face value by the American Music Company, of Jacksonville, Fla. In other words, if the contestant shall win the second prize of a $200 certificate, this certificate shall entitle the purchaser to a four hundred dollar piano for two hundred dollars. These certificates are transferable, but not more than two hundred dollars worth of certificates shall be allowed to apply on the purchase of one piano.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found the rules governing this contest. They are so simple that a child can follow them (and we hope the children will). Let every one join in the fun. This is to be a lively rivalry for first place, and a spirit of wholesome, friendly competition will reign throughout the entire contest.

Enter at once. All you have to do is to cut out the "Nomination Coupon" published elsewhere and fill it out in your name or the name of a friend and mail it to The Patriot office. The nomination blank entitles you to one thousand free votes.

Get your nomination in and begin hustling for certificates and subscriptions right now. Get a good start while the game is young; it will be too late to hustle when the leaders in the contest will have turned into the home stretch. All you have to do is to cut out the free voting certificates from each issue and solicit subscriptions from your friends and turn them all over to the contest manager. The value of each free certificate is indicated on it. Vote subscriptions will be governed by the following table:

Subscription 1 year ..... 1,000 votes
Subscription 2 years ..... 2,500 votes
Subscription 3 years ..... 4,000 votes
Subscription 5 years ..... 7,500 votes
Subscription 10 years ..... 20,000 votes
Subscription 25 years ..... 50,000 votes

The above refers only to new subscriptions to The Patriot. For delinquent and renewal subscriptions the vote will be only one-half of what is recorded above.

The Joy of Rivalry.

"Of all the pleasures which nature has given man the power to enjoy the keenest, is that derived from fair contest. To the winner in any fair rivalry where wit is pitted against wit, effort against effort, endurance against endurance, there is a satisfaction not to be found in any other pleasure. The sense of superiority thus acquired is the only sense of superiority that is laudable, and it bears no resemblance to vanity which is engendered by wealth or mere success of physical strength or charm. The loser in a fair contest is yet winner by the mental development acquired through contesting gallantly against keen opposition. To the winners in this popularity contest the pleasure of the strife will be equal to the magnificence of the prizes.

We are making an earnest effort to represent the people of Guilford and surrounding counties in an adequate manner, reflecting through The Patriot's columns the progressiveness of our citizens, and we trust that our readers will co-operate with us in our efforts by joining actively in the contest.

GASOLINE STORAGE SYSTEM.

Greensboro Man Has Sales Agency For Splendid Appliance.

Mr. A. M. Lindau, of this city, recently became sales agent for this territory for the Hydraulic Oil Storage Company, which controls the Snell patents on the hydraulic system on gasoline and oil storage. He is making a specialty of introducing the gasoline storage system and has installed quite a number of tanks. This is the only gasoline storage system in which the gasoline is not exposed to the air and combines the full tank and top feed—two vital principles.

Mr. Lindau has a miniature tank on exhibition at his office in the Southern Life and Trust Company building and will be glad to demonstrate the superiority of the system to any one interested. There is no vent pipe on the system to allow gases to escape and there are no bothersome pumps, valves or parts to get out of order. Among other superior qualities guaranteed for this system are the following:

Cannot be exploded by fire, lightning or electricity.

Delivers the clean gasoline, with no dirt nor water in it, from top of tank.

No air in the storage tank at any time. It is always full of liquid, being all gasoline, gasoline and water, or all water. (Gasoline and water do not mix.)

Positively no loss from evaporation.

There is no gas forced out when the storage tank is refilled.

Gasoline will not deteriorate, no matter how long it is in storage.

Gauge always in view, shows the quantity of gasoline in the storage tank.

Storage tank can be located outside of building and underground, or inside of building on the floor. It is perfectly safe wherever located under any and all conditions.

All goods guaranteed for three years, both as to material and workmanship.

The system is approved and recommended by fire insurance authorities.

Mr. Lindau will be glad to answer all inquiries and explain the merits of the system to all persons who may be interested.

CRIMINAL COURT NEXT WEEK.

The Docket Includes Several Important Cases of Public Interest.

The September term of Guilford Superior court for the trial of criminal cases will convene Monday, with Judge C. C. Lyon on the bench. The docket is a heavy one and it is hardly probable that it will be cleared. About 75 cases under bond were continued from the last term of court, and there are about 25 new cases in which the defendants are under bond, to say nothing of the jail cases. There are 16 prisoners in jail awaiting trial.

The most serious and interesting case to be tried is the indictment against Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Vestal, of High Point, who are charged with causing the death of Bessie Thompson, a young woman from Statesville, by means of a criminal operation in July.

The case against R. W. Pegram, charged with setting fire to his store in Stokesdale several months ago and causing a disastrous conflagration, is also set for trial next week. Many witnesses have been summoned and the case will be hotly contested. The prosecution was instituted by the state insurance department.

Management of Tuberculosis Sanatorium Exonerated.

The state board of internal improvements, which recently investigated charges made by Dr. John Roy Williams, of this city, against the management of the state sanatorium for the treatment of tuberculosis, located at Montrose, Cumberland county, has filed a report with Governor Kitchin completely exonerating Dr. J. E. Brooks, the superintendent, and the board of directors. The board visited Montrose and made a careful investigation of the plant and surroundings and later held a three-day session in Greensboro to receive testimony.

Those who attended the hearing were prepared for the report that has been filed, for really there was nothing else to expect.

John Robinson's circus exhibited here Monday, but did not draw the usual circus crowd, probably due to the fact that many people in the country were too busy to come to town and others feared they might be "flimflammed" if they did come. The show attracted no far from the center of town to attract any considerable number of city folks, the performances being given beyond the southern corporate limits. It was one of the smallest circus crowds ever seen in Greensboro, though doubtless the show took in enough of the "needful" to pay expenses. The circus is exhibiting in High Point today.

WILL BUILD BITULITHIC ROAD.

County Commissioners Also Order Horsepen Creek to be Drained.

The county commissioners held a special meeting Monday to receive a report from the committee appointed to investigate the Horsepen creek drainage matter and consider the question of repairing the Greensboro and High Point public road with bitulithic. It was ordered that Horsepen creek be drained by the property owners and a contract was made for ten miles of bitulithic highway between this city and High Point.

The committee appointed to investigate the drainage matter—Messrs. L. A. Noah, L. F. Bennett and N. F. Ballinger—made the following report: "We, the undersigned, freeholders appointed and summoned to make an examination of the drainage district on Horsepen creek from the property of J. A. Odell to the William Smith bridge, on the Guilford College and Oak Ridge road, report that in our opinion the complaint is well founded, the flow of the creek being obstructed in many places and for part of the way there being no channel, the old channel having filled up entirely. In our opinion the channel of said creek can be opened, and where there is no channel a new one opened, so as to drain the surrounding lands and allow them to be cultivated. We recommend that, before this work is done, the county have a complete survey of the creek along said territory made so that, when the work shall be done, there will be a complete system with proper fall and properly connected.

"We also recommend that, in cleaning out said creek after the survey shall be made, all the property owners throw out the sand in said creek as the work progresses, so that the sand from the property owner above will not be allowed to flow down upon the property owner below and partially fill the channel after it is opened.

"We also recommend that the growth for ten feet on each side of the channel be cut and removed, so that the flow of the creek hereafter can be kept open and unobstructed."

In adopting the report the county commissioners made the following order: "The board, after hearing the report and a discussion of the matter, decided that the property owners within the drainage district be notified to clean out the channel of said creek under the drainage district law, or the county would do the work at their expense."

The Bitulithic Highway.

The bitulithic highway between Greensboro and High Point will give Guilford a road as fine and durable as any city street. This road is used more than any other one in the county and the macadam is wearing away. The bitulithic will last indefinitely.

The contract price for the work is 12 cents per square yard, making the cost of the ten miles $7,000. The work will begin at the city limits of Greensboro and will be carried to within five miles of High Point. The top layer of the macadam will be scraped off, the bitulithic being placed on the hard surface.

The contract was awarded to the Indian Refining Company and work will begin as soon as the materials can be placed on the ground, probably within 20 days. It is expected that not more than a month's time will be required to complete the contract.

It is the intention of the commissioners to apply bitulithic to the remainder of this road as early as practicable, and it is possible that the work will be done upon the completion of the present contract.

Saturday, Sept. 17, at $12.50 Each.

We will place on sale fifty coat suits. These are $20 and $25 values at $12.50 per suit. This is the greatest coat suit sale ever put on in Greensboro. They are the very newest and most up-to-date styles on the market. Don't take our word, but come and see. You will save $10 to $12.50 on your suit this fall and get the prettiest suit you ever owned, at Sapp's, the Original Racket Store.

Remember, no matter what you want to buy, A. V. Sapp "sells it cheaper."

Good Sales at Farmers' Warehouse.

We have had fair sales every day for several weeks, consisting chiefly of primings, with scattering loads of cut tobacco. Prices on primings are considerably better than last season. In fact, for three days last week the average for everything sold was over eight cents, while on Saturday our average was nine cents. We think prices will be fairly good and early sales advisable. We will take care of you if you sell with us.

Your friends,
FULTON & HEDGPETH.

Home Savings Bank Opening Week.

Miss Lizzie McDonald, who had been seriously ill for some time, died at her home at Pleasant Garden Monday morning. The funeral and interment took place at Pleasant Garden Tuesday afternoon.

BAD AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT.

Mr. A. J. Klutz and Party of Friends Have Narrow Escape.

Mr. A. J. Klutz, manager of the Fariss-Klutz Drug Company, is a patient in the Whitehead-Stokes sanitarium, in Salisbury, suffering from injuries received in a frightful automobile accident Monday afternoon that came near resulting fatally for himself and a party of friends.

Mr. Klutz, Mr. and Mrs. C. Guy Ferguson and Miss Bessie Rankin spent Sunday in Charlotte, making a trip in Mr. Klutz's handsome Maxwell touring car. On the return they were accompanied by Mr. John W. Ferguson, of Charlotte, and the trip was made without incident until they reached a point on the fine macadam road between Concord and Knapolis. In approaching a curve in the road at a railroad crossing about two miles north of Concord Mr. Klutz attempted to reduce the speed of the car, but the brakes refused to work, and in an instant the heavy machine skidded and turned turtle, pinning the occupants beneath.

The Messrs. Ferguson managed to crawl from beneath the car, and with the assistance of several people who were working near the place, managed to extricate the other passengers. Mr. Klutz lay under the front seat, the heavy machine resting squarely across his neck and breast. He was apparently dead when taken out and did not recover consciousness for three hours. Miss Rankin was thrown partially across the road and was also unconscious, but soon recovered. Mrs. Ferguson was painfully bruised, but did not lose consciousness.

Mr. Klutz and the two ladies were carried to a farm house near the road and medical aid summoned from Concord. A northbound train that passed a short time after the accident was flagged down and carried the party to Salisbury, where the injured received treatment at the hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson and Miss Rankin were able to return to Greensboro on the evening train.

While his injuries are of a serious nature, it is believed that Mr. Klutz will be able to leave the hospital in a short while, unless complications should develop. No bones were broken, but it is feared that he was injured internally. The automobile was badly damaged, but not beyond repair.

BIG LUMBER DEVELOPMENT.

Greensboro Men at the Head of a Promising Corporation.

One of the largest and most promising corporations formed in North Carolina recently is the Delta Land and Lumber Company, which was organized in Greensboro and chartered by the secretary of state a few weeks ago with an authorized capital of $250,000. The company has purchased 3,000 acres of original growth hardwood timber land in East Carroll parish, La., and will proceed immediately to the development of the property, first marketing the timber and then putting the rich land into cultivation.

The stockholders of the company include many prominent business men in North Carolina and other Southern states. The officers, all prominent citizens of Greensboro, are: C. E. Holton, president; L. J. Brandt, vice president; Dr. J. T. J. Battle, treasurer; Ernest Clapp, secretary.

The property purchased by the company lies on Macon bayou, one of the navigable arms of the Mississippi river, and adjacent to three railroads. Insuring splendid transportation facilities. Arrangements are being made to put into operation a sawmill with a capacity of not less than 50,000 feet of lumber, and it is conservatively estimated that the property acquired by the company will yield not less than 80,000,000 feet of hardwood timber. It is probable that the timber will be cut for export to Europe, where it can be sold at higher prices than in this country. The lumber will be shipped from New Orleans.

It would appear that the purchasers of this property are in a fair way to reap a rich harvest. The hardwood timber on it is equal to the best to be found anywhere, and it is said that there is no more fertile land in the United States. The soil is specially adapted to the growth of cotton, producing from one to two bales per acre without the use of any fertilizer whatever.

Opening of Pomona Graded School.

The Pomona graded school will open Monday, September 19. All new pupils above the first grade wishing to enter the school will please see me at the school building on Friday morning, September 16, between the hours of 9 and 12. All delinquent pupils who have had the promise of an examination this fall and all those who failed to take final examinations last spring on account of sickness will please report at the school building Thursday morning, September 15, at 8.45 o'clock.

MISS BESSIE HOWARD, Principal.

Attention, Farmers.

I have a complete line of fertilizers—Rawbone Meal, Muriate Potash, Kanit, Acid Phosphate, Try Lee's Agricultural Lime. It assists you in growing clover and grass. Prices are lower. See me before you buy. J. F. FULTON, Prop., Farmers' Warehouse.

Mr. E. J. Justice has an appointment to address the Democratic voters of Madison and vicinity Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. He will speak under the auspices of the Madison Democratic Club.

A FAIR INCOME

There is no more satisfactory investment for savings or idle funds than an account with this bank. Security for the money is absolutely assured by reason of the conservative management of the bank and the rigid requirements observed in the handling of all its funds. While United States Bonds yield only 2 1/2 per cent. or 3 per cent, this bank pays 4 per cent. compounded four times a year. Your checking account cordially invited.

CONCORD SCHOOL LOCATED.

Overflow Attendance at Pleasant Garden and Jamestown.

A meeting of the county board of education was held Saturday to receive a report from the committee on the location of the Concord school, in Sumner township. The board adopted the recommendation of a majority of the committee and ordered the school located on the land of the Stephenson heirs, this being considered the best location in the new special tax district.

A petition is being circulated asking for the opening of a public road from the northeastern part of the district to the new school building. The school committeemen for this district are: Messrs. A. E. Davis, N. F. Anthony and Oscar Little.

Mr. John C. Kennett, a member of the county board of education, was in the city Tuesday and reported that the enrollment of pupils in the Pleasant Garden high school is the largest in the school's history. The primary department is so overcrowded that it will be necessary to provide more room and employ an additional teacher.

County Superintendent Foust reports that a similar condition of affairs prevails at the Jamestown high school. Conditions at both schools will be remedied as early as possible.

STEDMAN AT GIBSONVILLE.

Makes Speech to People of Eastern End of County.

Maj. Charles M. Stedman, the Democratic candidate for Congress in this district, made his second speech of the campaign in Gibsonville Saturday afternoon, when he addressed a crowd of about 100 voters. He received a cordial welcome at the hands of the good people of Gibsonville and was listened to with close attention while he discussed some of the leading issues of the present campaign in a speech a little less than an hour in length.

The meeting was held in Bowman's hall and was presided over by Mr. M. L. Foshman, the active and energetic chairman of the precinct committee. Mr. Berry Davidson, the oldest citizen of Gibsonville and mayor of the town, introduced the speaker in a few well chosen and aptly expressed words.

In opening his speech Maj. Stedman called attention to the fact that, in the campaign in North Carolina this year, the Republican forces are controlled by Marion Butler, who is seeking to regain a position of power and influence in the politics of the state. Prior to the recent Republican state convention, when the fight between Mr. E. C. Duncan and Congressman Morehead for supremacy was bitter, the Greensboro Daily News, the only Republican daily paper in North Carolina, asserted that the success of Morehead would mean that the Republican party would have this for a campaign slogan: "Butler, Boodle, Booze and Bonds."

Maj. Stedman consumed a few minutes in discussing the speech made in Greensboro Friday night by United States District Attorney Holton in opening the Republican campaign in this county, calling attention to the fact that the usually astute district attorney had displayed either a woeful ignorance or a bald disregard of the facts in discussing political conditions in North Carolina. In answering Mr. Holton's charge of extravagance on the part of the Democratic administration, Maj. Stedman asserted that no administration could be charged with extravagance for spending money for the good of all the people—the public schools, the Confederate soldiers, the asylums, etc.

A good portion of the speech was devoted to a discussion of the present tariff law, which was declared to be the most burdensome and inequitable ever enacted. Maj. Stedman asserted that unequal laws, among which the present tariff act is included, always produce extremes of wealth and poverty, and in illustration of the blighting effects of commercial monopoly he cited the nations of India, China, Mexico and Spain. Referring to the argument of the Republicans to the effect that the tariff benefits the laboring man, he referred to conditions in England over 50 years ago, when the government was forced to adopt a free trade policy to avert a revolution. He asserted that the condition of the British workingman has greatly improved since that time, and at this juncture Mr. Berry Davidson, who is a student as well as a philosopher, came to the aid of the speaker by remarking that wages in England have increased over 80 per cent. since the abolition of a protective tariff.

Before closing his speech Maj. Stedman exposed the duplicity of the Republicans in inserting what they call a local self-government plank in their state platform, declaring that every Republican speaker is expected to construe it according to the temper of the community in which he is speaking. If the crowd be "wet," the speaker is expected to say that the plank is directed against the prohibitionists; if the speech is to be delivered in "dry" territory, the orator is to tell his hearers that it applies only to the election of magistrates, school committeemen, etc.

The Gibsonville Democrats were glad to have Maj. Stedman with them and say they will do their part toward increasing the Democratic majority in Rock Creek township in November.

DEATH OF DR. GREGORY.

Aged Physician Answers Final Summons After Long Illness.

Dr. R. K. Gregory, an aged and well known citizen of Greensboro, who had been critically ill for several weeks, died Saturday afternoon at his home on West Market street. He was 74 years old, having been born in Brewer's Bluff, Va., in 1836. He had resided in Greensboro for 40 years. He is survived by his wife and two children, a son living in Emporia, Va., and a daughter, Mrs. Lou Reid, of Atlanta, Ga.

Dr. Gregory was a surgeon in the Confederate army during the civil war, and through his ministrations relieved the pains of many a sufferer on the battlefield. Soon after the close of the war he came to Greensboro, where he built up quite a reputation both as a physician and as a surgeon.

Rev. Melton Clark conducted a funeral service at the residence Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, after which the remains were carried to Statesville for interment. A brother of the deceased, Col. W. H. Gregory, resides in Statesville.

BIG AUCTION

Sale of Land

Saturday, Oct. 1st, 1910

At 12 o'clock, we will sell our farm of 529 acres, the old home place of our father, the late John R. Caveness, near Col. J. R. Lane's mill, in eastern part of Randolph county, North Carolina. This valuable tract of land has been divided into nine tracts. The shape of these tracts of land is good, having good outlet for roads and with timber and water on all of them. The land is well adapted to farming, stock raising, and also has a good supply of oak and pine timber. One tract is all timber. This sale is at public outcry on the premises to the last and highest bidder.

TERMS OF SALE

Are $100 down on each tract and $100 each year and the interest on the balance due, the land to stand good for the balance due. This sale will positively be held at or near the late residence of John R. Caveness, on the premises of this land, Saturday, October 1st, rain or shine, at 12 o'clock. This land is ten miles southwest from Siler City, ten miles southeast from Ramsuer, eight miles west from Ore Hill, four miles southeast from Coleridge, and five miles north from Bennett, N. C., the new railroad station on the Bonlee & Western, which is being built to Coleridge. When this road is extended from Bennett to Coleridge this will bring the road in two miles of this land. At present not much of this land is in cultivation, most all of it grown up in briars and timber, it having been ten years or more since the land has been cultivated to any amount. Yet during the late war and since some 200 acres were cultivated; and now all idle and getting better each day. We will now give a brief description of each lot of this land:

TRACT NO. 1

This tract of 68½ acres is oblong in shape, is the original old home place, has fair buildings, a fine everlasting spring of excellent water, some good meadows, good orchard, considerable timber, and the general lay of the land is reasonably level. This would make a nice farm, has public road running through, a large branch also runs through the tract, on which are some good bottoms, also affording water for a good pasture.

TRACT NO. 2

This tract lays just west of Tract No. 1. This is all woodland, has some timber and the general lay of the land is well suited for farming purposes. The shape of the tract is good—nearly square. On the west it is bounded by Big Brush creek. This tract is good strong land and will make good wheat or corn without fertilizers. It has 44 acres and would of itself make a nice little farm, and has good road outlet.

TRACT NO. 3

This tract of 63 acres is almost level, and nearly every foot of the tract can be cultivated. It has also a lasting spring of water and one of the best meadows in the county, a fair amount of timber, and a public road forms the eastern boundary. On this eastern end is a most beautiful place to build on the public road. This tract would make a beautiful little farm, some twenty acres could be quickly and easily put in cultivation and is the very best of wheat land.

TRACT NO. 4

This is a choice tract, has two country roads running through it, has some fine oak and forest pine, the land lays well to farm on, has fine spring water, and the shape of the tract is oblong. The western boundary is Big Brush creek. A fine mill site is on this and the land crosses the creek, giving ample room for water power development; good power could be had on this large creek. This is strong land and would make a fine corn farm. It contains 62½ acres.

TRACT NO. 5

This tract is almost level, would make splendid wheat farm, it has some timber, mostly forest pine, some oak as well. The shape of this tract is almost perfect oblong. A public road makes the eastern boundary. There are 71½ acres in this and would make an ideal wheat and stock farm.

TRACT NO. 6

While this tract is small, only has 44 acres, on it is to be found some splendid farm land. This land touches both Little and Big Brush creeks, and some fine bottom land is on these creeks where they come together. There is plenty lasting spring water and good country roads run through it affording ample outlet, and could be used to a very decided advantage for farming and stock raising. The shape is fair—nearly oblong—has some timber, especially fine cedar.

TRACT NO. 7

This has 80½ acres a farm by itself—has timber, plenty water, some ten acres of meadow. This tract is also oblong and nearly every acre on this tract could be cultivated as it lays so well. This would make a splendid wheat, corn and stock farm. A public road makes the eastern boundary and a good place on the road to build.

TRACT NO. 8

This tract, though small, having 25 acres, is all well timbered, lays on Little Brush creek. This has oak, poplar and pine, some cedar. The pine, though old field, is very fine—not short scrubby pine, but tall, yellow pine with slick bark, and will make fine lumber. When the timber is cut off, the land is strong and will make good corn or wheat. The creek has good bottom on it, and saw mill men will make no mistake to look well after this tract.

TRACT NO. 9

The last tract to describe is one of the best, if not the best. A public road forms the eastern boundary, and Little Brush creek runs through this 70-acre tract. A fairly good farm house and barn are about the center of the tract. Some eight good springs are on this. The hill land is red and will grow clover or almost anything, while the bottoms on the creek and branches will just make all the corn you would need. A beautiful place on the eastern boundary to build and right on a public road, in one-fourth mile of Col. J. R. Lane's mill.

We are selling this land because we don't need it. We live to far away too cultivate it ourselves, and such valuable land needs to belong to people who will cultivate and improve it. The brief description we have given of each tract does not at all do them justice. Come and see them yourself or write us for any information you want and we will take pleasure in answering any question we can about the land. With modern, up-to-date plans of farming no telling what amount of grain could be made on the land. Under the old plans 2000 bushels of corn have been made and 1300 bushels of wheat, when people did not know how to farm. The title is as good as can be—we, our father and grandfather have held the title continuously for 100 years. Before we forget, will say a rural free delivery mail route runs through the entire tract, giving daily mail, a thing we all need and fully appreciate. Remember, this sale will be held rain or shine on the premises, near the late residence of John R. Caveness, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 1ST, 1910. Come everybody—men, women and children—and see this valuable land sold a tract at a time to the highest bidder. This land has been surveyed right recently and all corners and lines are as plain as they need to be.

If additional information is wanted write or come and see us.

WORKING FOR A BIG FAIR.

Secretary Garland Daniel Talks Enthusiastically of the Outlook.

One of the busiest men in town these days is Mr. Garland Daniel, secretary of the Central Carolina Fair Association, who is devoting all his thoughts by day and his dreams by night to the big fair to be held in Greensboro October 11-14. There is an old saying to the effect that, when you see one circus you have seen them all, and in the minds of many people the same belief obtains as to fairs, but a talk with Secretary Daniel will convince one that all fairs are not alike.

For instance, this year several new departments have been added to the Central Carolina fair that will interest many people in different ways, and the premium list has been changed in such a way as to show that the fair of 1910 is to be more of an educational and industrial exhibition than a mere pastime with an ordinary midway.

A new feature that is attracting much attention this year is the boys' corn-growing contest department, and it is hoped that all the boys who have entered the contest in this county will compete for the prizes that are offered.

The premium list is more attractive than ever, premiums being offered for what the farmers of this locality actually produce. Secretary Daniel has carefully revised the departments of field and garden, horse, cattle, sheep, swine, horticulture, poultry, and painting, education and home industries. It will be observed that he has said nothing of the poultry department, but this was intentional, for the reason that the fair this year has cut out all foreign exhibitors, confining the poultry exhibits to Virginia, North and South Carolina. Thus all professional poultry exhibitors are barred and the people will be given an opportunity to see what is being done in the poultry line here at home.

Referring to the midway, Mr. Daniel said: "This, of course, will be the best ever. We have succeeded in securing Darling's dog and pony show, the finest in the United States; Rollins' animal show, the largest animal show on the road today; George M. Burk's Wild West show, which is a clean, nice, up-to-date show in every respect; St. Gaude, the world's greatest educated horse; the little Russian prince, and many others too numerous to mention. Such a midway has never been exhibited before in North Carolina."

Mr. Daniel says he has cut out the girl shows, the "Soul Kiss" and "The Girl From Rector's."

The free attractions are far superior to anything ever offered here before. Madam Sundy will be on the fair grounds every day and will loop the loop in an automobile. This is a death-defying act. Coleman, who is now giving balloon ascensions at the Appalachian exposition, will be here and give a balloon race with three balloons. The association is also on a trade for the great flying machine man, Curtis.

Educated dogs and ponies will perform in front of the grand stand for the amusement of the children, and for the entertainment of the grown folks there will be all kinds of acrobatic work, etc.

The directors of the association have set aside the sum of $5,000 as purses for the horse-racing. There will be about 17 stakes represented on the program and the horses are expected to be the finest ever seen in this section. There is no doubt that the racing will be fast, spicy and attractive—and all in all, it appears that this is to be the best fair ever held in the state—"a fair that never disappoints," as Mr. Daniel says in his advertisement in this week's Patriot.

PROF. PEARSON SCORES.

Has Plank Inserted in Platform of National Conservation Congress.

Prof. T. Gilbert Pearson, of Greensboro, secretary of the North Carolina and the National Audubon Societies, was a conspicuous figure in the national conservation congress in St. Paul, Minn., last week. The congress adopted a plank in its platform he offered for the protection of wild birds, and in speaking of it to reporters Professor Pearson said:

"The wild birds constitute one of the most valuable natural assets of our country." He stated that the loss to the agricultural and forestry interests of the United States annually amounts to one million dollars through the ravages of insects and that this per cent. is on the increase owing to the decreasing number of birds which constitute one of the chief natural enemies of injurious insects. The association of which he is secretary interested Colonel Roosevelt while he was president in setting aside by executive order 61 national reservations as bird refuges, and these reservations are today guarded by the wardens of the Audubon Society. It has also secured the enactment of laws in thirty-seven states prohibiting the killing of insect-eating birds. "The great stumbling block in our way of securing better laws for the protection of birds is the great influence wielded by certain monied interests in the country who have large sums invested in the handling of game and in the sale of feathers for women's hats. We can never hope for the protection that the birds rightly deserve until these great corporate interests can be controlled by statutory enactment."

The Methodist Protestant Orphanage.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of the North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Protestant church, has established and opened a orphanage under the direction of Miss Mabel Williams, of the Greensboro, as principal. The orphanage is the result of a move made at the last annual meeting of the society in Greensboro. The first children to enter the institution were three small girls from western North Carolina, and others are expected to follow soon. A school building has been fitted up for the orphanage, and the outlook for the future is promising.

TO DISCUSS NEW CITY CHARTER.

Commission Form of Government Recommended For Greensboro.

A public meeting will be held in the county court house next Monday night, when the draft of a new city charter providing for a commission form of government will be submitted and discussed. The proposed charter was drafted by a special committee appointed by the Chamber of Commerce and has been passed on by the directors of that body.

The proposed charter abolishes the board of aldermen and places the executive and administrative affairs of the city in the hands of four commissioners, one of whom shall be mayor. The mayor will be in charge of the department of finance and public accounts and will act as tax collector and purchasing agent for the city, always under the authority of his fellow commissioners. A commissioner of public safety will have charge of the health, police and fire departments. The water and light commissioner will have charge of the affairs of those two departments, and the fourth commissioner will be in charge of the streets, cemeteries, parks and public buildings.

The commissioners are to be nominated in a primary to be held eight days preceding the election, and any citizen qualified to hold office can become a candidate upon the payment of $5 as a registration fee. Only the two highest candidates for any office voted for in the primary will be eligible to enter the election.

The charter has the recall provision, under which any commissioner may be recalled upon petition of 25 per cent. of the registered voters. In this event the recalled commissioner will be required to enter another primary along with any other person or persons who may aspire to his office.

The right of granting franchises is vested in the voters of the city, and the expense of a franchise election must be borne by the person or corporation applying for the franchise.

All ordinances, except those of an emergency nature, must be published for 29 days before becoming effective, and if 25 per cent. of the voters protest against any ordinance it must either be repealed or submitted to an election of the people for ratification or rejection. Upon the petition of 25 per cent. of the voters for the passage of any particular ordinance, the commissioners are required to either enact it or submit it to an election.

The salaries to be paid the commissioners and other minor details will be worked out later, but it is understood that a salary of $2,600 a year will be recommended for the mayor and $2,400 a year for each of the other commissioners.

While there is a decided sentiment here in favor of a commission form of government, it is hardly probable that a charter generally acceptable can be agreed upon without considerable discussion. The most serious objection heard so far against the draft of the charter as prepared by the Chamber of Commerce committee is against the recall provision, those who oppose it pointing out that it is unfair to give 25 per cent. of the voters power to force an officer elected by a majority vote to enter another election.

Republican Campaign Opened.

The Republican campaign in Guilford was formally opened Friday night, when United States District Attorney Holton addressed a small crowd in the county court house. The major portion of his speech was an appeal to the laboring man to vote the Republican ticket. He extolled the alleged virtues of a protective tariff and attacked the Democratic administration in North Carolina for selling bonds to the American Tobacco Company. It is fair to Mr. Holton to say that the speech was not up to his usual standard. His audience was composed of 105 men.

The meeting was presided over by Judge W. P. Pynum, and announcements were made by the following nominees of the county convention: Messrs. J. G. Frazier, for the state senate; W. M. Perdue, for sheriff; S. H. Hodge, for superior court clerk, and J. H. Davis, for treasurer.

Mt. Airy Woman Dies of Pellagra.

Mrs. A. E. Smith, of Mt. Airy, died in this city last Thursday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. J. Patterson. She had been ill for the past two years and a few months ago her ailment was diagnosed as pellagra. She was treated by specialists at Johns Hopkins hospital, in Baltimore, and St. Leo's hospital, in this city, having been removed to the home of her parents a few weeks prior to her death.

Mrs. Smith is survived by her parents, nine brothers and three sisters, her husband and three children. The funeral took place in Mt. Airy Friday morning, the services being conducted from Central Methodist church, of which Mrs. Smith was a member.

THE WORLD IN BRIEF REVIEW

"Standpat" Republicans Routed.

The most important and interesting happenings of the past week were the results of Republican primary elections held in the middle West and the verdict of the people at the polls in other parts of the country. Wherever the progressives and the standpatters met in determined conflict—and they met in most of the states holding primaries—the result was decided, clean-cut victory for the opponents of Cannonism and high tariff and for the followers of Theodore Roosevelt.

Never, perhaps, have "the interests" made a harder fight than to prevent the endorsement of United States Senator Robert M. La Follette in Wisconsin. Money, organization, administration influences and everything else that could be brought to bear against this flaming insurgent were worked to last call, and yet the Republican voters of Wisconsin stamped their approval of La Follette and his policies by a majority of 50,000.

In Michigan the result was even more striking. Julius C. Burrows, supposed to almost own the state, was a candidate for a new term in the United States senate, after service there of many years. He is a standpatter of the most pronounced sort and a regular of the "old guard." In the recent fight he was opposed by Congressman Charles E. Townsend, virulent progressive, and Townsend won out by something like 25,000.

Nor was this all to discourage the Republican regulars. In New Hampshire the progressives nominated their candidate for governor by a vote of nearly two to one—this in spite of rock-ribbed, protection-bound New England. Vermont held a state election, and while it was conceded that the Republican ticket would win, it was also conceded that any considerable falling off from the usual majority would look bad for the controlling party, and to a certain extent indicate the drift of sentiment throughout the country. Instead of over 29,000 majority, as it had two years ago, the Republican ticket won by something over 17,000—and this was not comforting.

The Democrats Sweep Maine.

Maine furnished the greatest political surprise of the year Monday, when the state went Democratic by a good majority. The Democrats elected a governor, at least two of the four congressmen in the state, and possibly three, and carried the legislature by an overwhelming majority, thus insuring the election of a Democrat to succeed United States Senator Eugene Hale. The result of the election has enthused the Democrats all over the country and brought greater consternation to the Republican forces.

The last Democrat that represented Maine in the United States senate was James W. Bradbury, who was elected 63 years ago, and the last Democratic governor was elected 30 years ago.

The Future of Roosevelt.

All of which has led to renewed discussion of the political future of Theodore Roosevelt since his remarkable swing through the West. President Taft was through part of the West while Roosevelt was there, and while his reception was cordial, it did not compare with that accorded the former president. Both spoke before the National Conservation Congress at St. Paul, Mr. Taft dealing with the subject of conservation mildly and upholding the states' rights idea, while Mr. Roosevelt boldly pronounced for a broad and effective national policy. The latter added planks to his platform of "new nationalism" and even intimated that he might again be found in official life.

Observers of events are more strongly convinced than ever that the colonel will be in the presidential race in 1912. One of the sensational incidents of his trip was his refusal to sit at table in Chicago with Senator Lorimer and his denunciation of crookedness in Illinois politics.

Governor Patterson Withdraws From Race.

Governor Malcomb R. Patterson, who has been a political storm center in Tennessee for some time, has withdrawn from the race to succeed himself as governor. He was the nominee of the regular faction of the Democratic party and has been bitterly opposed by the independent statewide prohibition Democrats, who in coalition with the Republicans elected a state judiciary last month, defeating a ticket for which Governor Patterson made a special campaign of the state. Governor Patterson, in his address announcing his withdrawal, declares he will not be an obstacle in the way of his party's success at the polls nor will he willingly contribute in any way to the possibility of success of the Republicans in Tennessee. He withdraws in the interest of harmony and that Democratic factions may get together to prevent the loss of the state in November. In an interview following the issuance of the statement, Governor Patterson declares that he has no personal preference in the matter of a Democratic nominee and that he will take the stump for him, whoever he may be.

Patterson's political career has been a stormy one, including his defeat of former Senator E. W. Carmack for the gubernatorial nomination in a sensational campaign, followed by the killing of Carmack by the Coopers, their trial, which attracted national attention, and Patterson's pardon of D. B. Cooper within a few minutes after his conviction was sustained by the Supreme court.

Food Supplies and Crop Conditions.

In an address at Portland, Ore., James J. Hill said: "In the last five years our exports of meat and dairy products fell from $211,000,000 to about $130,000,000, and of cattle, sheep and hogs from $43,500,000 to about $13,000,000. This illustrates the swift decline in all our exports of food products; a trade change so sudden and so tremendous that the country may well take alarm. Unless we change our industry we must soon cease to be self-supporting as far as food is concerned. Food consumption in the United States is increasing more rapidly than food production."

The census bureau reports a big decrease in the cotton crop, the number of bales ginned to September 1 from the growth of 1910 being 356,824, as against 388,242 bales to the same time last year and 402,229 bales in 1908. At the same time the South got more money from its cotton during last season than ever before, showing the prevalence of better prices.

The September crop report of the Department of Agriculture, showing the average condition of various crops as compiled by the crop reporting board, says the average condition of corn on September 1 was 78.2, compared with 79.3 last month, 74.6 a year ago and 79.5 the 10-year average; spring wheat, when harvested, was 63.1, compared with 61 last month, 88.6 a year ago and 78 the 10-year average; barley, when harvested, was 69.3, compared with 70 last month, 80.5 a year ago and 83.1 the 10-year average; the oat crop, when harvested, was 83.3, compared with 81.5 last month, 83.6 a year ago and 79.5 the 10-year average. The average condition of tobacco on September 1 was 77.7 against 78.5 last month, 80.2 a year ago and 82.3 the 10-year average.

On Trail of Pellagra Germ.

Word has been received at the marine hospital laboratory in Washington that Dr. C. H. Lavinger, of the public health service, who has been in Europe studying pellagra, has sailed for this country. He has had a hard but interesting summer's work. He is very conservative and careful in making predictions, so that he has not ventured any additional suggestions as to the source of pellagra, but it is believed by the physicians of the service that they are on the track of the disease and will be able soon to determine its origin. It is fairly well established that these conclusions will not agree with those published by Dr. Sobone, of Paris, who recently announced that he had discovered the carrier of the disease in a night-flying insect.

It is also said at the laboratory that there is no truth in the statement that the scientists are tracing bookworm in pasteurized and condensed milk. No work in this line has been done, and the circumstances are not such as to justify spending time in looking for what does not exist.

This is My Birthday.

Lindsey Hopkins is thirty years old today. Break the news gently. He looks older, but he says he feels younger than he did at twenty. Events have crowded into his life like sardines are packed into the can. From printer's devil to presiding elder of the oil territory; from a salesman of one automobile in a year to the sale of eight hundred; from sailing around the world in thirty days to climbing Mount Blanc and scaling the top of Mount McKinley, these only are a few of the many things he has done. Writing the Declaration of Independence at the age of six; discovering the fact that vaccination would destroy smallpox at eight; raising an army of seventy thousand men to subdue an invading foe during the Mexican war, and fighting singlehanded four thousand Aztec warriors when but eleven years old, these, too, are suggestions that he went some. Finally drifting into commerce he associated himself with the Atlantic Refining Company, Cleveland, Ohio, and is today Southern representative of that great oil concern and directs a dozen salesmen in his territory; he is also president of the Overland Southern Motor Company, Atlanta, Ga., and so far this year has sold some eight hundred of those swift-gliding cars—who is the man, or did any man say Lindsey Hopkins hasn't lived more years than he has been among us?

Utah's Unique Criminal Law.

Utah is the only state in the union where a man may be shot instead of hanged for the crime of murder under the civil law.

An adherence to the old scriptural idea of blood atonement on the part of the Mormons in Utah has given that state a unique law by which a man condemned to die for taking the life of another may choose between being shot or being hanged.

The provision of the Utah statute regarding election as to a criminal's manner of death is as follows: "The punishment of death must be inflicted by hanging the defendant by the neck until he is dead, or by shooting him, at his election. If the defendant neglect or refuse to make the election the court at the time of rendering the sentence must declare the mode and enter the same as a part of this judgment."

Eleven legal executions have taken place in Utah since it was admitted as a territory in 1890. All of these have been by shooting except one, since the condemned men on being given their choice naturally prefer shooting.

A New Book by a Southern Author.

"Gates of Twilight" is the title of a new book of poems by H. E. Harman, of Atlanta, to be issued early in October by Stone & Barringer Co., of Charlotte, N. C. The same publishers brought out last fall Mr. Harman's "In Love's Domain," which has had a remarkable sale throughout the country.

"Gates of Twilight" will be the most pretentious book of verse issued in the South for many years, containing the best work of its author, whose rise in the world of letters has been rapid.

The work will be illustrated in the most artistic manner and the publishers will spare no expense in making it a triumph of the printer's craft. The appearance of Mr. Harman's new book will be one of the literary surprises of the autumn.

CAN ROOSEVELT COME BACK?

Editor of Louisville Courier-Journal Asks Pertinent Question.

Under the caption, "Can He Make the Landing?" Col. Henry Watterson, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, wrote the following suggestive editorial a few days ago:

"It does look as though the grand old party 'is up against it.' If Theodore Roosevelt be not a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1912, there is nothing in outer signs and tokens. That he is a practical politician of the first order will be readily allowed; to his great popularity the circumstances of his western journey fully attest; but just how he expects to 'make the landing' two years hence we confess we are unable to divine. The evil conditions which the colonel exorcises have sprung up under the hand and rule of the Republican party. Every word he utters is an arraignment of that party. The more salient of the abuses which draw his fire have come into being within the life of the present Republican administration. There can be no escape for the Republicans short of setting Taft aside and of placing Roosevelt again in command. In short and fine, we do not believe he can catch the Republican ferry boat, even with two jumps, but if he should, it is our opinion that he and those who rally about him with such unthinking enthusiasm would sink her before she could get across the stream of Republican sentiment, which is still wide and deep, and well within the banks of the constitution and the law.

"In case Taft refuses to stand aside, the steam roller would be for Taft, not Roosevelt, in the national Republican convention. The commissary stores, the quartermaster's supplies, the heavy artillery, would be with the administration. Wall street proper is not so much concerned as the ex-president would have the hayseeds of the wild and woolly West believe. The stock gamblers want Taft, and all the rest of them. But the old and honest wealth of the country is hardly yet sentimentalized. With Theodore Roosevelt back in the White House, it might reason, 'no man's property would be safe.' 'The money would be poured out freely for Taft, and in default of Taft, for some other representing the warp and woof of old-fashioned Republicanism.

"We may well believe that there is still a great deal of Republicanism in the Republican party. Having Theodore Roosevelt for the Republican nominee, the issue of life-tenure is unescapable. The 'back from Elba' crowd may deride the man-horseback and laugh to scorn the suggestion of Caesar and Caesarism. But all the rest of those will not stand in the popular mind; especially in the Republican mind; for precisely as Roosevelt will propose to come back have all the men of history and destiny got there. The identification in all points would be perfect. The sole argument, the only reason which could be put forward for the return of Theodore Roosevelt to power, would be the claim that representative government is a failure, and that the strong arm of a man rising above constitutional checks and balances is indispensable to the cleansing of the Augean stables.

"Mr. Roosevelt may succeed in splitting the Republican party wide open. Judge Douglas did that for the Democrats; in another way; so did Mr. Cleveland. Parties are not immortal. They are made of flesh and blood, and what has happened may happen. The crying need of the time is a change of parties."

The Delineator for October.

In the Delineator for October Erman J. Ridgway uses the words, "Meln Freund," spoken by the Kaiser to Mr. Roosevelt, as a text for editorials that reveal the strong personality which is shaping the magazine on broader lines each month.

The leading article of the month is a description of "Woman's Fight Against Graft in San Francisco," by Elizabeth Gerberding, who was one of the leaders of the Women's League of Justice. Mrs. Gerberding's startling story of what happened to the California reformers is really a tale of a modern inquisition in which many an advocate of civic righteousness suffered social and commercial martyrdom. Such a daring and circumstantial arrangement of corrupt government never has been published in any magazine that makes a direct appeal to women.

"The State Fair," by E. W. Randall and William Kirkwood, is a study of the development of the educational possibilities of the annual events that once meant a combination of vegetable exhibits and horse races. The second installment of Anne Forsythe's experiences while "Seven Times a Servant," sets forth what happened to the college girl when she tried to be a waitress in a New York apartment. Emily Post answers the question, "What Makes a Young Girl Popular?" and Gwendolen Overton writes of "The Exclusive Society of Mexico."

The fiction includes "Each in His Own Tongue," by Louise M. Montgomery, a tale of rare quality; "The Harnessing of Pegasus," by Grace MacGowan Cooke, one of the author's best short stories, and "Mrs. Bankhurst to Dinner," a charming bit of comedy. "The Unforeseen," a serial by Mary Stewart Cutting, reaches a climax of compelling interest. "The Man's Magazine" page is, as usual, amusing and original, a clever bit of burlesque that persons of every class will enjoy.

Don't Break Down.

Severe strains on the vital organs, like strains on machinery, cause stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels or nerves break-downs. You can't over-tax stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels or nerves without serious danger to yourself. If you are weak or run-down, or under strain of any kind, take Electric Bitters the matchless, tonic medicine. Mrs. J. E. ## THE SONG OF THE NIGHT.

Ye shall have a song, as in the night when a holy solemnity is kept; and gladness of heart, as when one goeth with a pipe to come into the mountain of the Lord, to the mighty One of Israel.—Isaiah, xxxi, 29.

In the solemn, holy sweetness of the night,
In that hour of rest and refuge from the strife,
I shall hear a son of beauty on the lily lips of light,
A song across the hills of light and life.
One upon the mountain with a pipe shall go his way
And I shall hear the echoes of that pipe until the day.

The battle goes against me in the field,
And I'm weary with the struggle and the care;
But over me the heavens lift a shield
And wings of holy refuge will be there.
Enough for me that singing where the stars have sung of old,
Enough the silver music on the harps of heavenly gold.

The shadows may surround us through the day,
And hearts may ache with interludes of pain;
But when the night has come on wings of gray
The singing of the night shall cheer again.
We shall not see the singer and his voice we may not know,
But piping o'er the mountains we shall hear the music flow.

Ah, let them list to thunder of the tide
And joy in blare of bugles in the fight,
But give me from the starry heavens wide
The song of mystic beauty in the night.
The song of far-off wonder that we listen to in sleep
As voices of the shadows to our ears of dreaming creep.

Dies the roaring of the spindles in the mill,
Peace is folding all the weary day to rest;
Tonight there shall be song upon the hill,
Tonight there shall be peace within the breast.
A holy, solemn music, like a strain of morning breeze,
Its lips shall kiss our tumult with its tender melodies.

A Gentleman's Religion

Rev. B. A. Abbott in the Baltimore Sun.

All things, therefore, whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, even so do ye also unto them: for this is the law and the prophets.—Matthew vii, 12.

Probably no other word of the Master is so well known, so often quoted or so much loved as this one. It is popularly known as "The Golden Rule." That it has met with such universal approbation is altogether creditable to man. It shows a natural idealism and a love of justice in the race which gives us the right to hope that some day, near or far away, the golden age will come with the practice of this golden rule. With all his faults—and they seem at times to be numerous and serious enough to make angels weep—there is a deep and true best in man that makes him believe in the right of right and desire to see it the power that controls in the affairs of men. However much we may fall below the good, none of us is in love with the bad.

Each one carries in his bosom a lamp that may be kept lighted so that he will not stumble. Religion is an interior principle, not an exterior rule. The hope of final justice between man and man depends upon this. The longer one lives the less he believes in the efficacy of law and force and the more in religion and education. The former are but the scaffolding of character, while the latter are the bread of life. The wisdom and the church are greater than legislative hall or hustings. The nature of man is such that he can never be driven to do right. He must be led or guided. The Gospel is not force, but a sweet persuasion.

This "golden rule" may be said to be the religion of a gentleman, and we feel that in the practice of it man would discharge all his social obligations and help to create a safe, happy and ideal community. For one thing, the practice of it would put away all harsh judgments of our fellow-men. For the man of this golden heart will be too great to be unjust even in his thoughts about others. It would silence all unkind criticism and hush the thoughtless gossip which is so unbecoming to him who utters it and so unkind to him about whom it is spoken. Gossip is the lynch law of society. It discusses and condemns people without giving them a chance of defense and often tortures with a cruelty which is only equaled by stake and flame. In cases of mistake in life this is a charity of the heart which always gives the erring one the benefit of the doubt and never fails to offer the second or the seventh chance even to those who have willfully chosen the wrong way. When men make mistakes in life they may suffer remorse, but they are not likely to be too hard on themselves and seldom let the memory of them blight their lives. And in this they are right. Remorse is no doubt part of life's discipline, but there must come a time when it ceases. Otherwise man ruins himself and stands in the strange attitude of refusing to believe in the mercy of God. The man of the golden rule wishes no mercy for himself but would not how to others. But the practice of the golden rule is not merely negative. It is positive. It says "do." It not only removes from the pathway of others stumbling blocks that they may pursue their way without hurt or hindrance, but it seeks to give them aid on the way. Its motto is not "Live and let live," but "Live and help live." The introduction of this principle into business, political life and the social circle is no iridescent dream. To trade not to hoard money but to give every one his daily bread, to seek a position not to adorn a career but to render a service, and to live and sing and laugh not as one who plays a harp only to delight his own heart but to flood the world with music is to live by these golden words of Jesus Christ.

It must be noted that this principle of conduct is not based upon the emotional, sentimental, nor quixotic. This is the mistake of many well-meaning reformers who ardently desire to see the unfortunates blessed and the world made better. This altruistic why our good deeds performed with the best intentions often function so poorly in society and why we are such blunderers when we try to bless. Jesus Christ based His ethics upon the soundest principles. Emotion and sentiment were always controlled by reason and reason warmed and tempered by the persuasions of the heart. Jesus does not say do unto men as "ye want them to do unto you," nor "as it would be pleasant to have them do unto you," nor "as ye expect that they will do unto you," but as ye would that men should do unto you do ye also unto them." To do right in this world requires clear thinking as well as correct feeling. The difference between right and wrong is not always apparent at a glance. The religion of Jesus Christ demands the educated heart.

This means that we do not come to the fine chivalry of soul here set forth by mere natural growth nor wandering evolutionary forces. The education of the conscience is a delicate task, and is not achieved by fortuitous concurrence of influences. Nature may tell us much and history writes many impressive lessons. Philosophy kindles a kindly light, which is something, and the longings in the soul of man are hints and prophecies that help, but the experience of mankind shows that we must have a revelation. Divine revelation is God's answer to the uttered and unuttered of the race to be shown the way to light and truth. The Bible is the great source of moral and spiritual education. The words of Jesus are sacramental. They flow through the heart like a cleansing river. Whenever they are read they dispel all moral confusion, cultivate spiritual insight and awaken every beautiful impulse of which the heart of man is capable. In the Bible we are taught all the precepts of right conduct, and we see them illustrated in the lives of men whose only passion was for God. In the light of this revelation we learn how to commune with God. Religion is the personal influence of God on the soul of man. With the spell of the Great Presence upon him, man will not be tripped up in this checkered life nor lose himself on the long journey upon which he must enter at its close.

A Warning to Mr. Roosevelt.

Richmond Times-Dispatch.

The incident at Fargo yesterday, when a crazy fool insulted Mr. Roosevelt by calling him a liar, will do the cause of socialism no good. If the fellow is really a Socialist, as reported, which we very much doubt. It was a most unpleasant incident, and is to be greatly deplored. It does not matter how much Mr. Roosevelt has indulged, or may indulge, in this sort of argument, it is wholly indefensible in others. There ought to be some very severe punishment provided by statute for offenses of this kind. The question asked by the mar was impudent, and, when he was answered truthfully by Mr. Roosevelt, his characterization of Mr. Roosevelt's answer was little short of criminal. But, Mr. Roosevelt, this is the mob spirit which you have been arousing by your own intemperate speech, the spirit from which we should all pray that our country shall be spared.

Death of a Good Woman.

Alamance Gleaner, September 8.

Last Saturday morning at her home near Graham depot Mrs. Kate Wood passed away, aged nearly seventy years. She was a daughter of the late Austin Whitsett and the widow of J. J. Wood, who died nearly 35 years ago. She is survived by one son, John Wood, two sisters, Mrs. Jos. C. Holt and Mrs. J. W. Holt of Burlington, and three brothers, Mess. Joseph R., Alfred T. and Dr. Geo. W. Whitsett, all living in Guilford county, the last named in Greensboro. During the diphtheria epidemic in the 70's six of her children died in ten days and some months later her husband. She was a most estimable Christian. The funeral took place at New Providence at 11 o'clock Sunday, conducted by Revs. Drs. P. H. Fleming and Daniel Albright Long in the presence of a large congregation of friends and acquaintances.

DEMOCRATIC KEYNOTES OF THE CAMPAIGN.

Concrete Examples of How the Republican Tariff Increases the Cost of Living—What Will Happen Unless There is a Change in the Membership of Congress.

By Clyde H. Tavenner.

Correspondence of The Patriot.

Washington, Sept. 12.—When a woman purchases $10 worth of woolen dress goods, $4.87 represents the value of the goods and $5.13 the amount of the tariff. This is because of the Payne-Aldrich ad valorem tariff of 105 per cent. Or in other words, on each $1 worth of woolen dress goods imported, the Payne-Aldrich law levies a tax of $1.05. The consumer must pay the $1 value and the $1.05 tariff, or $2.05 for one dollar's worth of goods. This is but one of a thousand illustrations that could be submitted to show how the tariff affects the cost of living.

Here is another sample illustration for the tariff arithmetic class, which is composed of some 90,000,000 American consumers, all of whom are more or less dissatisfied with the awful increase in prices:

A suit of clothes having an import price of $10, and which costs an Englishman $10 when ready to put on, all wool and tailor made, pays at the custom house an ad valorem tariff of 80 per cent, or $8 per suit, making the suit cost the American when it is put on $18, disregarding transportation and retail profits.

Another comparison: An English woman carpeting a room 18 feet square with ingrain carpet two ply would use 36 yards at a dollar a yard flat, or would pay $36. An American woman using the same carpet would pay $23.76 tariff at the custom house, which would make the carpet cost her $59.76.

Those who approve of the sentiments of such genuine progressives as Victor Murdock, of Kansas, will be disappointed if they expect that the Republican party proper has any intention of carrying out such ideas. This is made plain in the Republican text book just issued by the Republican congressional committee. The campaign book emphatically does not recognize insurgent Republicans as Republicans, and thereby tacitly serves notice to the public that if the next house is Republican the people need not expect the ideas of progressives to be carried out. The Republican textbook, however, officially indorses sentiments of the Aldrich-Cannon-Guggenheim type of Republicans as being simon-pure Republicanism. As the Democratic campaign book accepts the sentiments of many of the genuine progressive Republicans as being truly Democratic, it would seem that the surest way to secure progressive legislation, would be by voting the Democratic ticket.

In spite of anything the progressives can do or say, Cannonism and Republicanism are synonymous. The record of the last Congress proves this beyond successful contradiction. Page 3490 of the Congressional Record shows that on March 19 a resolution was reported providing for unseating Cannon as speaker. Of the entire Republican membership only the following nine voted to unseat Cannon as speaker: Murdock, of Kansas; Cooper, Cary, Republican membership only the following nine voted to unseat Cannon: Murdock, of Kansas; Cooper, Cary, Nelson and Louroot, of Wisconsin; Lindburgh and Davis, of Minnesota; Poinexter, of Washington, and Gronna, of North Dakota. Thus it is indisputable that Cannonism dominates all but one twenty-fourth of the Republican party. This is the answer we get by dividing 219, the total Republican membership of the house, by 9, the number of Republicans who voted to unseat Cannon.

Even if every one of the genuine progressive Republican congressional candidates is elected, Cannonism will reign in the house of representatives if that body has a Republican majority. As the regulars in Republican caucus, "Uncle Joe" or some one satisfactory to the old guard will be nominated for the speakership. The only sure way to kill Cannonism is to deprive the Republican membership of Congress of the balance of power, and to replace a Republican president with a Democrat.

"The Republican party," declares the Republican textbook, "stands for the imposition of such duties as will equal the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad, together with a reasonable profit for American industries."

It is true the Republicans promised such a revision in the 1908 platform, but it is safe to predict no Republican candidate for office will declare that the tariff was ever revised on that basis. All genuine progressive Republicans are on record as stating that the promise was ignored as completely as if it had never been made. Revision of the tariff on the basis indicated would have been a big downward revision, while the Republicans revised it upward by 1.71 per cent.

A $5,000,000 ship subsidy grab and a central government bank are two good bets in the event of the next house of representatives retaining its present Republican majority. If the house is Democratic it is an equally good bet that special privilege will be disappointed on both propositions.

SWATTING THE STANDPATTERS.

Four members of the Republican congressional campaign committee, responsible for the conduct of the current contest and responsible for the campaign textbook of the Republicans, have already been retired into public life. They are Messrs. Ham-mert, of Idaho; Miller, of Kansas; Hinshaw, of Nebraska, and Pearre, of Maryland. Not one was renominated for Congress.The Republican textbook has been out only a few days, but has already kicked up a dust—not among Democrats, who are grinning, but among Republicans, who see in it nothing but the gasps of dying "standpatters" vainly endeavoring to save a lost cause. Criticism of the book is almost universal among candidates, not only for what it contains, but more especially for its sins of omission. The tariff is relegated to the position of a secondary issue, while "past performances" are crowded to the fore.The regulars and many of the political "has-beens" of Congress are given front position in its pages, while there is not a single quotation from the vivid utterances of the insurgents, who, with the Democrats, are mainly responsible for what good came out of the recent session of Congress.The Republican insurgents and their friends—who prefer to be styled "progressive" rather than "insurgent"—are particularly displeased with the compilation which the campaign committee labels "textbook."
They dislike it because it contains no texts from which they may preach to their thoroughly aroused constituencies. They claim that more than half the book is but a reprint of official reports, and in the enumeration of "great acts" of legislation no reference is made to one of the greatest acts in 50 years—the modification of the rules which had bound and gagged the house and the legislation which has robbed the speaker of much of his autocratic power and ended the way for the downfall of Cannonism.The Democrats are smiling over the discomfiture of Republicans over their own campaign book. Professor Shinn, statistician of the Democratic committee, has furnished a list of standpaters already discredited by Republican primaries and retired by Republican voters. This makes a list of 23 members and one senator who have already been sent to the political boneyard, so far as the present campaign is concerned. The Republican membership of the house numbers 217 in a full membership of 391. It will thus be seen that 11 percent. of the Republican membership —all "standpaters" and divorcees of Cannon—have been turned down, mainly in primary elections, discredited and retired. Only about half of the congressional nominations have thus far been made, but the political butchery today exceeds 11 per cent., and "the worst is yet to come."The news comes from Washington that, unless Ballinger, President Taft's notorious secretary of war, resigns or is removed from office by the president, he will be impeached.
Four Democratic members and one insurgent Republican member of the congressional committee appointed to investigate the Ballinger-Pinchot matter have signed a report declaring their belief that Secretary Ballinger should be removed from office, a sufficient number of standpat Republican members having bolted the meeting when they saw what was coming to be able to present a party claim that a quorum was not present.
But there is no doubt of the fact that Mr. Taft will have trouble, and lots of it, to face as long as Ballinger remains in his cabinet.When rock-ribbed Republican Main goes Democratic it really looks as if there was no hope for the Republicans in this year of grace. There is a nation-wide revolt against the Republican party for its failure to revise the tariff downward and on account of its rule o' bossism, Cannonism and standpatism. It is conceded by practically everybody familiar with political conditions throughout the country that the next house of representatives will be Democratic by a good majority, and the feeling is growing stronger every day that a Democratic president will be elected in 1912. Hope never sprang higher in the Democratic breast.

An Idea Worth Developing.

Charlotte Chronicle.

The Carolina Union Farmer is urging the farmers to equip their homes with water-works. Some of the Mecklenburg farmers have already done this, but the Union Farmer tells how, by a co-operative system, the work can be accomplished so cheaply that almost every farmer can afford it. In explaining its plan it says that a well-boring machine can be bought for four or five hundred dollars. Ten men in a local union could put in $50 each and buy a well-boring machine and after you get the machine you can bore wells at an average cost of about seven cents a foot and at that price you can afford to have more than one well on your place. With a two-inch tubular well 75 or a hundred feet deep you can get pure water and there will be no typhoid germs in it. Then you can erect a tank and with a $75 two-horse power gasoline engine you can pump water into the tank, and thus have a supply of water ready at all times to turn in through pipes to your residence and barns. But it would, perhaps, be better to expend $125 for a five-horse power engine so that you can have power enough to also run your wood saw, feed cutter, grindstone, churn, etc. These home conveniences can be had at comparatively small cost if farmers can get several members of their local union to co-operate with you. It is a good idea and one worth developing.To make the punishment fit the crime, it is suggested by the Pittsburg
Sun that all the makers and sellers of impure foods should be compelled to eat them.Independent Democrats Endorse Republican.The Independent Democrats of Tennessee held a convention in Nashville yesterday and endorsed the candidacy of Captain Ben W. Hooper, Republican nominee for governor, and further cut loose from the regular wing by referring the latter's harmony resolution to the new independent state executive committee without a discussion.
Thus was organized a formidable looking triumvirate to campaign for a Republican governor, the triumvirate consisting of Republicans, independent Democrats and state-wide prohibitionists. The independents and prohibitionists are so closely allied as to largely overlap in their membership.

"Ten Years of Fidelity and Love."

A wedding ring whose scratched and dulled surface bespoke years of hard service at washtub and dishpan lay on the jeweler's work table."Why has it been laid up for repairs?" a visitor asked. Has marriage proved a failure?
"On the contrary, it has turned out a great success and the ring has been brought back to bear witness," said the jeweler. "See this new inscription, 'Ten years of fidelity and love.'
That sounds pretty good, doesn't it?
No failure there. Five or ten years from now, if they are both alive, somebody will probably add another postscript, and so on at regular intervals to the end of the chapter.
Jewelers meet more of these little romances than the unsentimental person would dream of."Mrs. E. R. Tucker, of Pleasant Garden, underwent an operation at St.
Leo's hospital Friday and is reported as getting along nicely.

ANOTHER WARNING.

That the greatest caution should be used in the purchase of land in sections of the country with which one may not be acquainted was brought to the writer's attention most forcibly the other day in the case of an elderly woman who has seen a deal of hard work and has not been able to lay by a large store against the rainy day, who has invested a snug sum of money in an irrigated land proposition 2,500 miles from where she lives, the enterprise being backed by men whose headquarters are still farther removed from the land which they are selling to confiding investors. The writer does not know enough of the proposition in question to feel that he is justified in labeling it a skin or shell game proposition, but the fact that the tract is eighty miles from a railroad and that the specifications as to the water rights are on the hazy order leads to the conclusion that the purchase of the land is not a wise one. It is a pretty safe rule to follow to purchase no land anywhere—not even in the most favored sections of the country—without a careful and painstaking first hand investigation touching the character and fertility of the soil, climate, water right, neighbors, etc., or a verdict on these points from a friend who has made such investigation and in whose integrity and veracity one can place full confidence. If a person does not have the money to defray the expense of such inspection, there is no question that he is entirely too poor to run the risk of losing his all in a dubious land investment. Plenty of good land is being offered for sale by responsible men who live and will continue to live in the locality where their holdings are located, but notwithstanding this there are tens of thousands of acres of land here and there that are advertised as "great bargains"—take "em quick," which are not worth a continental, never were and never will be. In view of everything, caution and good horse sense should be given a little more healthy exercise. This may not save a world of trouble or get rich quick, but it is reasonably sure it will save a world of futile and bring regrets in the long run.

BIRD STUDY.

Many a wide awake country school-teacher has inaugurated a course of systematic nature study for her pupils, and this may or may not include a study of the habits and economic value of the different kinds of birds common in the locality. If it does not include this it certainly should. There is no class of people who are more indebted to bird life than the tiller of the soil, and if the boys and girls as they first take up their work in school were encouraged to make a study of bird life and to distinguish between those birds which are useful to man and those which on the whole are harmful a very practical good could be accomplished. They would learn that the varieties of hawks are all really the farmers' friends, except the Cooper's hawk and sharp shinned hawk, whose bill of fare consists largely of bird life and poultry, doves and game birds; that the hen hawk or red shouldered hawk subsists almost entirely on rabbits, mice and other destructive rodents, while the red tailed hawk is equally a benefactor. In the study of owls they would learn that all are voracious consumers of rodents and that very rarely do any except the great horned owl raid the poultry yard and that there would be slight loss from this species if the poultry were securely housed at night. Were such instruction given boys would not continue killing hawks and owls and priding themselves on the fact that they were rendering the neighborhood a service, while a wide, varied and most interesting realm of study would be opened to them.

A NEEDED INNOVATION.

One or two of our leading state agricultural colleges have finally awakened to the importance of the good work they are engaged in to the extent of arranging two year courses in agriculture which shall be available for farm boys who have been denied the educational advantages which would make it possible for them to take up the longer and more advanced regular courses. This plan is to be heartily commended, for it will mean placing within reach of those who are thus handicapped simple and practical courses of study which will open new doors of learning and give a zest and interest to the life and practical work on the farm to a degree which could hardly be effected in any other way. It is very desirable, if one can, to take the longer course of study in such schools, but where this is impossible the two year course fills a long felt void. Such courses should be available in every agricultural school in the land.

Sheep will kill out iron weeds, but it takes several seasons to do the job, and it will not be done in that time if other forage is too abundant.

The hollow block is not only a cheaper building material than the common solid brick, but the air spaces which it contains mean a lighter and at the same time a warmer structure.

Title to the land which one buys as well as to water rights which may be guaranteed should be inspected with great caution before one turns over hard earned coin for the closing of the deal.

Not infrequently it is the farmer who owns the runtiest and scrabbiest bulls who keeps his fences in such miserable repair that his animals are an all around nuisance to all of his neighbors.

It usually takes a spell of rainy weather in spring or fall to cause teamsters to be sufficiently public spirited to take the center of the road and work down the dirt and gravel put there for grading purposes.

In no case is it truer that "the best is the cheapest" than in the purchase of tile for permanent systems of drainage. What is true of the tile applies with equal force to the kind of help which is secured for laying out and putting in such a system.

Every stack of straw set afire to prevent its cumbering the ground means a loss of a good deal of humus, an element present in none too large quantities in the most fertile sections of the country and greatly deficient in sections where a grain selling type of farming is largely in vogue.

It doesn't make much difference whether one goes into the poultry business, sheep raising, beekeeping or the productive of new crops on an intensive scale; the best way to proceed is to take up the new work or occupation on a small scale, so that instruction in the school of experience will not entail such heavy tuition fees.

The best evidence that a town is not on the downhill road toward the municipal graveyard is the appearance in the columns of the local paper of advertisements of the merchants and business men there residing. It is a better index of enterprise than Fourth of July doings or bulletin boards put up at the depots.

In a case we read of the other day a bunch of lambs were turned into a field of rape from which the small grain had just been cut, and three were shipped to market without having received any other feed. They had made a good gain, sold at a high price and gave the owner a handsome profit for the rape and weeds on which they had foraged.

It has often been noticed when timber has been cleared from a piece of land and a tilled crop planted that weeds put in an appearance which do not usually grow in wooded tracts. An easier way of explaining this than confounding that the seed has been lying dormant in the soil is that birds deposited the weed seeds in their droppings after the land was broken and planted.

A lot of folk in town and country are pretty regular takers of booze tonics and invigorators and are breeding blear eyes and red noses when what they need is not slop of this kind, but more corn fed beef, more pure milk and fresh eggs, more sunshine during the day and fresh air at night. This last prescription doesn't cost anything, but it will take the kinks out of a disordered stomach or liver quicker than any dope on the market.

An effective quietus can be put on the several varieties of worms that affect pigs by the use of turpentine, which is best given in ground feed at the rate of a teaspoonful to 100 pounds of pig after the afflicted porkers have been without food for about twelve hours. A few pigs should be fed at a time so that each animal will be sure to get the amount of medicine needed. The treatment should be repeated at intervals until three doses have been given.

The present season is no exception to the quite general rule that, while seasons of drought cut down yields of small grain and corn in sections where it is most severe, there is matured during such dry seasons a quality of grain that is plump, well filled and heavy. In a good many sections where the rainfall was not too short the growers are this season getting both yield and quality, while prospective market conditions promise them excellent returns for their season's operations.

Not in years has the damage from the corn root worm been so great as it is proving to be during the present season. In the state of Iowa alone it is estimated that the damage from this one source will aggregate close to $20,000,000. Fields that early in the summer gave promise of yielding sixty bushels per acre will be thought to do pretty well if they husk out fifteen. This pest is the legitimate result of a continuous corn after corn system of cropping and seems to be nature's protest at a very prevalent agricultural abuse. The only effective remedy is a system of crop rotation in which some legume and the small grains shall have a prominent place, as the pest subsides when there are no more corn roots in which it may breed and feed.

A Colorado rancher is said to have recently completed harvesting 125 bushels of grasshoppers and to have hit upon the idea of drying and sacking them and using them for hen feed.

It is truly inspiring to note the resignation with which the average resident of the corn belt views the many days of sweltering heat which are necessary to bring this great staple crop to a proper maturity.

Not infrequently the man who complains that those who live near him are not neighborly will be found, if his case is looked into closely, to be himself lacking in some of the essential qualities which characterize a good neighbor.

The Shropshire sheep is moderate in size, hardy and is probably more raised for general purposes than any other single variety. Like Poland-China or Duroc-Jersey hogs, they are first class debt payers and mortgage lifters, and every farm should have a few of them.

It is interesting to note that, while many a tabby cat may keep pretty well away from the house in her state of single blessedness, she seems to understand human nature enough to know that when her little ones are presentable she will be accorded a friendly reception.

While the western poultryman gets 50 per cent more for his eggs and poultry, he has to pay just about the same per cent more for the ration he feeds his hens, and, while he gets more eggs in winter, he has to fight lice and mites harder in summer. So all in all it is about a standoff.

The chief advantage of fall plowing, aside from the fact that the work is done in good season, is due to the exposure of the soil to air and moisture and the disintegrating effect of frost. The beneficence of the service rendered is immense, yet often disregarded and too seldom taken advantage of.

We have made the observation before, but it is nevertheless worth repeating, that on every farm where there are a hayfork and a manure spreader at the barn there should be lineoleum on the floor in the kitchen and a drainage system for the kitchen sink which will do away with the necessity of emptying pails.

Carbonic acid gas or carbon dioxide is the chief chemical agency which is operative in the crumbling of rock formations and the loosening of compact masses of earth. It is this same agency, by the way, which causes the crumbling and disintegration of poorly made cement tile within a comparatively short time after they have been put in the ground.

What the co-operative gathered cream butter factories have to contend with in their effort to make a strictly high grade product is illustrated in the remark of a patron of one of their who, when he was buying a milk pail the other day, wanted one with a coarse strainer so that he wouldn't have to wash it so often to keep it in running order.

We have a more adequate appreciation of the age of the old world geologically when we have the opinion of scientists that for water to wear a channel in solid limestone to a depth of forty inches would require 728,000 years. There are erosions worn by water and glacial action which are a mile deep and a mile or miles wide. The time required to effect which being well nigh incomprehensible.

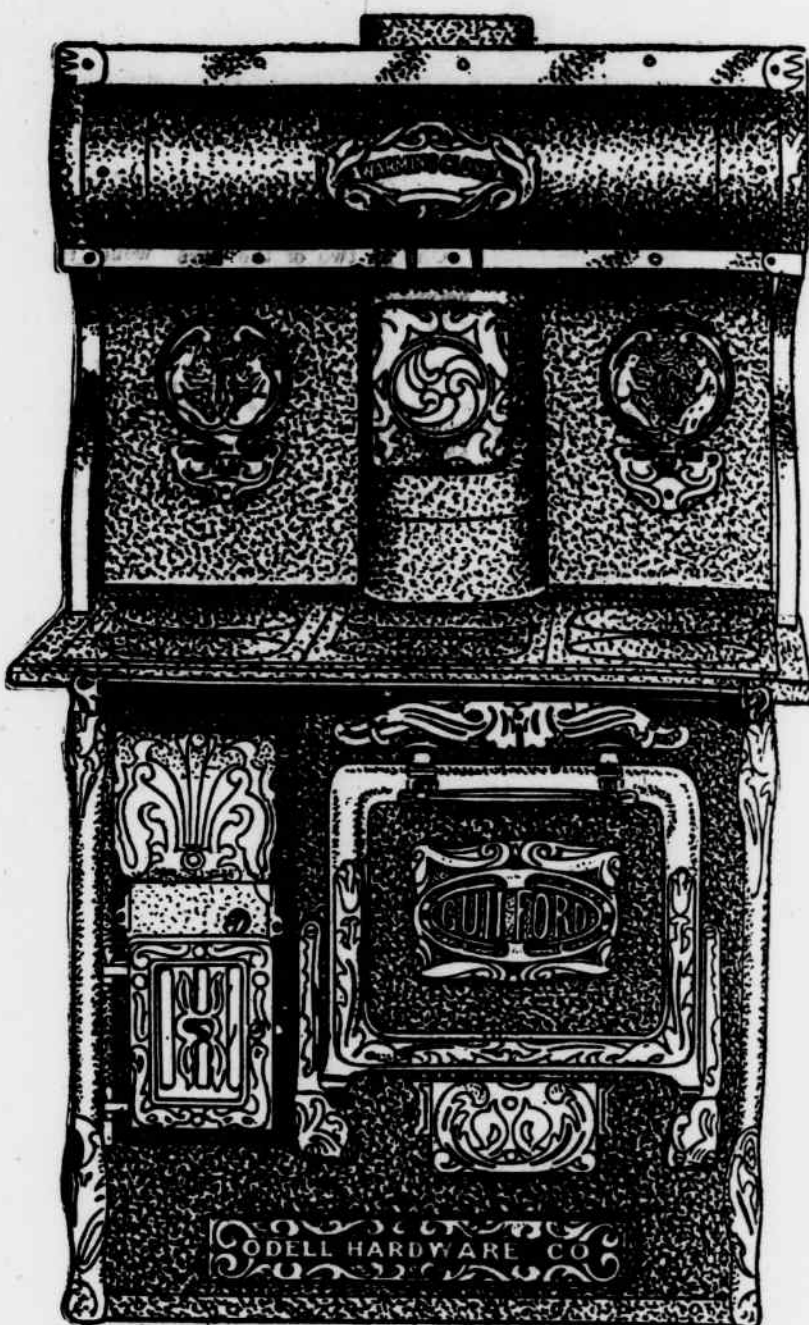

Much can be done in the way of achieving a larger success in an agricultural way if the individual tiller of the soil will exercise his own good horse sense and judgment unaided. But he can do just as well and a whole lot better if he takes two or three up to date agricultural journals, which will keep him in touch with the best thought and achievement along the lines in which he is most interested. Many a fellow has turned his farming operations from failure or mediocrity to success simply by getting hold of a paper which gave him new ideas and set him to thinking.

There is many a boy who for one reason or another is not making satisfactory progress in school, but nevertheless is compelled to attend by his parents, who would be vastly better off, as would also the other pupils of the school, if he were taken out and put at some job which would keep his hands busy, occupy his mind and furnish an outlet for a whole lot of pent-up physical energy. As a general rule, there is no time that a boy can put in that will give larger or more satisfactory returns than that spent in school. Occasionally, however, the time thus spent is worse than wasted, breeding idleness, inattention and disrespect for constituted authority.

It is a commentary both on the character of some of the lands which the federal government has disposed of and the various methods by which they have been distributed that of the first 8,000 winners in the land drawing of the Cheyenne River and Standing Rock reservations, in North and South Dakota, less than 2,000 have completed their filings to date, while of the 12,000 who have the right to file after Sept. 2 it is hardly likely that a larger percentage will complete their contracts. It would seem high time for devising some less expensive and more effective way of disposing of the public domain which does not have in so large a degree the earmarks of the shell game and gold brick swindle.

A HAPPY OCCASION.

Mr. and Mrs. Starr Celebrate Their Thirty-fifth Wedding Anniversary.

The residence and surrounding lawn of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Starr, near Alamance church, on Saturday, September 3, presented a scene that will be happily remembered by all who were present. It was evident that this energetic household had spared no pains to make this a happy occasion to all. Among the invited guests were all of their married daughters, with their husbands and children—Mr. and Mrs. James Starr, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Starr, Mr. and Mrs. William Gresson, Mr. and Mrs. William Friddle, Mrs. D. M. Glass and daughter, Mr. R. E. Foust and daughter, and Mrs. Foster, the aged mother of Mrs. Starr. In addition to these near relatives were Rev. James A. Wilson and sister and many of the intimate friends of the host and hostess of the surrounding community.

The earlier part of the day was spent in social intercourse, all seeming desirous to contribute their utmost endeavors to make it a joyous event.

At 1 o'clock the dining room doors were thrown open and a dinner was served consisting of such tempting viands that are not found in such profusion and abundance save in a substantial country home like this.

During the afternoon the children engaged in a game of ball, in which many of the older guests took part, making it more interesting to the children.

Mr. and Mrs. Starr were the recipients of many useful and appropriate presents.

As the sun began to sink toward the western horizon the happy company assembled in the parlor and united in singing the familiar old hymn, "Blest be the tie that binds our hearts in Christian love," after which a touching and fervent prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Wilson. As the guests departed for their several homes each extended to Mr. and Mrs. Starr most hearty congratulations and wished for them many returns of this happy reminder of the occasion when they plighted their lives together in the holy bonds of matrimony 35 years ago.

MONEY IN PEANUTS.

Last Year's Crop Was Marketed for
About $36,000,000.

Detroit News-Tribune.

The person who buys a nickel's worth of peanuts to munch at the ball game, to feed to the squirrels in the park, to gladden the hearts of the kiddies at home, scarcely realizes that he has contributed to an industry that last year farmed a $1,000,000 crop, which, placed on the market in various forms, reached the enormous sum of $36,000,000. But it is a

This little seductive nut—a resolution to "eat just one" is soon forgotten—whose birthplace is America, was, until comparatively recently, unappreciated, either as to the "money in it" or as a really nutritious product. Today the peanut plays an important part in pleasure, from the swell dinner party to the ever-present democracy of the circus, ball game or picnic.

By far the largest part of the crop is consumed from the peanut stand, yet there are millions of bushels that go to the fattening of hogs throughout the South and the feeding of poultry, while the vines, often cured as hay, feed thousands of head of cattle, and even old Mother Earth is nourished by the roots of the plant, which furnishes nitrogen from the air.

The result of all this is, the scientists claim that the peanut, which in the past was not very highly regarded, is the only food staple that will at once nourish man, beast, bird and field. It is the most nutritious of the whole nut family, rich in tissue-building properties, containing glucose and carbohydrates—and is the cheapest. Beyond the shadow of a doubt it is first from both a dietary and economic standpoint.

The fact of the matter is, the peanut is about every way in a class by itself as regards price, average number in pounds, edible part, waste and fat. Peanuts average about 350 to a pound, at a cost of 10 cents; the edible portion is 73.6, waste 26.4, and the amount of fat is placed at 80 per cent. of the edible portion.

IN MEMORIAM.

Blondie Low.

Miss Blondie Low died at the home of her parents Saturday, September 3, after a short illness, having been confined to her bed since August 26. The funeral and interment took place at Friedman's church Sunday, September 4, the services being attended by the largest crowd that had been called to that place on any occasion in a long while.

Blondie was loved by all who knew her. She was always prompt at her place in Sunday school, and her parents say she was the same at home. A father, a mother, three brothers, three sisters and numerous friends are left to mourn her death.

Unreasonable Howling.

Inspector E. B. Heiberg of the State Food department was talking about a certain restaurant in St. Paul. "Why, it's as bad as the hotel up at—" naming a middle-sized town in the iron range.

"The landlord up there does not come out and say 'Dinner is ready,' as they do at ordinary places," he said. "He comes out with a big hand bell and rings it so it can be heard all over town."

"I was sitting in the front room one day when he came out with the bell. The ringing made the dog set up a howl."

"Shut up!" said the traveling man to the dog, "you don't have to eat here."

GUILFORD COLLEGE ITEMS.

Guilford College never began a year under more favorable circumstances. The various dormitories are well filled with students, the teaching force well equipped and ready for the term's work.

Prof. Clement O. Meredith, who spent the past year in the University of Berlin, is again at his post as professor of Latin. Professor Hodgins, who recruited himself by a visit to Indiana, is arranging his courses in English. Miss Osborn, too, is on hand to direct the movements in such activities as devolve upon the strenuous life she leads. In the chemical laboratory is Miss Ada Field, who took advanced work in this department at Bryn Mawr College and the University of Washington, and is a woman of rare endowment.

In biology Guilford this year is fortunate in securing the services of Mr. W. H. Kibler, a graduate of the University of North Carolina and a student at the marine station in Beaufort. A. Wilson Hobbs is again at his post after three months spent at the University of Chicago, and Mr. D. D. Carroll is back from Columbia University.

Archdale hall has been thoroughly overhauled; the bath rooms rearranged and made more convenient. Repairs have also been made in the Y. M. C. A. hall.

Mrs. Anna Couch, who a few years ago proved herself such a competent and satisfactory matron for the boys' club, is again in charge of that establishment.

The whole premises were never in better shape, nor did the campus look more attractive and lovely. Mr. Henley has been leveling the grounds back of King hall and the library and soon this side of Guilford lawn will be as pretty as any place on the grounds.

The annual reception of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. was held on Saturday evening and was largely attended both by students and members of the faculty.

Professor Jay and family have again located in the cottage near New garden hall, which has been much improved both in external and internal appearance.

Miss Alice Woody goes to Knoxville, Tenn., to take a course in domestic science. Mrs. Mary C. Woody is to spend a month there visiting her son, J. Waldo Woody, who is located in that city as pastor of the Friends' church. Mrs. Woody goes for a much needed rest.

Miss Margaret Davis left Friday night for her post as teacher in the Friends' school at Lansdowne, Pa. She had a very pleasant and profitable year at Bryn Mawr and became greatly interested in Semitic language and literature and proposes to do work in these branches as opportunity offers. Miss Gertrude Holts is accompanied Miss Davis and will attend Westtown Boarding School, preparatory to entering Guilford College at some future date.

An Old Tale.

In 1852, the friends of Stephen A. Douglas set him up for the Democratic presidential nomination. He was just turned forty years of age. Old Jack Dade, an all-around character of the Washington City of those days, was asked whether he was not for the Little Giant.

"Why, yes," he said, "I am. But Douglas is a d— fool, sir, a fool!"

"How so?"

"Why, sir, he's only forty, sir—can't hope to stay more'n eight years in the White House—have to come out before he's fifty, sir, and behave himself the balance of his life. I wouldn't take the job on any such terms."

One story is good till another is told. Col. Roosevelt is not a philosopher as Col. Dade was. It remains for the future to disclose whether he made a mistake in choosing the strenuous part instead of the part of the walking gentleman. But it is dollars to doughnuts he never asks anybody's pardon, or regrets it.

"BACK TO THE FARM"

IX.—The City Man as a Farmer.

By C. V. GREGORY.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

THE "back to the land" movement is not confined merely to keeping the people on the farms who are already there, although this is the most important part of the problem. The boys and girls born and reared in the country have a better appreciation of its problems and its possibilities than a city-bred man or woman could ever have. Yet there are many country boys born with a taste for machinery that nothing but a factory can ever satisfy. There are many born with the ability to handle men that might make them the head of a great mercantile establishment. The city needs men of this kind, and the country can well afford to spare them, for it is for the good of the nation that they should go.

At the same time there are many city-bred boys and girls to whom the air of the crowded streets seems stifling. They love the country, and they belong there. There are others who through no fault of their own have never been able to get higher than the first round of the ladder. The fierce competition for places has left them well nigh stranded. With them it is a question of staying in the city at a pittance that scarcely suffices to maintain life in decency or of going to the country and making a comfortable living.

The fable of the daisy who tried to change places with the rose is often quoted to discourage such people from casting their fortunes in with the country. The cases where the city man and his family have been successfully transplanted to the country are too numerous to warrant the assumption that it cannot be done. At the same time it must be admitted that there are difficulties in the way. The easiest transition is made by the country boy who has grown tired of city life. He is used to the ways of the farm, and it will be a short task for him to learn the new methods and take up the furrow at the point where he left it a few years ago.

For the man who has lived all his life in the city the proposition is altogether different and much more difficult. He has all the ways of the new life to learn. He is unused to country life and country customs. Worst of all, he is unused to country methods. If a man listens too credulously to the land shark who tells him that on the farm he proposes to sell conditions are all so perfect that a gentle tickling of the soil will bring forth bountiful results disappointment is almost sure to follow. The real estate men are in the business for money, and if they can make a sale by minimizing the need of training for farming they are going to do it.

Farming is composed of three parts—the art, the science and the business. Of the three the latter is the only one that the average city man knows anything about. The same business principles that apply to any line of business hold good on the farm. Common sense and a fair amount of business ability comprise the chief essentials to success in handling the business end of farming.

There remain the art and the science. For a young man undoubtedly the best place to learn the science of farming is in a school or college. The agricultural college offers the most complete course of instruction along this line. A considerable share of the enrollment at the agricultural college is made up of city boys who are there to learn the science of farming. I have known many of these college-made city farmers—a combination of the practical man of the past generation into insensibility. I have known many of them to go to farming or to follow some line of work closely related to farming, and I have yet to see the first failure.

A college education means a considerable cost in both time and money. The city man who wants to turn farmer seldom has a very large supply of the latter. To such men the secondary courses in agriculture, or "short courses," make a special appeal. A short course of a year or two years in one of these schools will go a long way toward grounding the city farmer in the principles of scientific agriculture. Even such a course is impossible for the greater share of the city men who see the opportunities of farm life and would like to become farmers. The next best thing is a course of home study. A number of agricultural colleges offer correspondence courses in agriculture, by means of which the science of agriculture can be learned quite thoroughly. Then there are a great number of experiment station and government bulletins which may be had for the asking. There are many good books on agriculture in its various branches. Last, but by no means least, there is the agricultural press. Much of the advancement that has been made in agriculture is due to the agricultural papers. They stand for all that is best and most progressive in rural life, and they contain a fund of information on methods of farm practice that are invaluable to a beginner.

Yet remains the art of farming—that is, the art of handling the plow, of caring for the horses, of feeding the cows, of regulating the machinery and the thousand and one other things that the farmer must know how to do. The only way the art of farming can be learned is by practice. The best way for the city man with limited capital to learn is to hire out to some good farmer by the month. Farm help is scarce, and farmers are always glad to get faithful men at fair wages. They prefer skilled men, but these are often impossible to obtain. It is not at all difficult for a sober, industrious city man who really wants to learn farming to get a job with a good farmer. In such a place he can learn how to meet all the emergencies that come up on a farm. It is even easier for a married man to get this sort of job than it is for a single man. Farmers have a theory, which is generally correct, that married men are more to be depended upon. Many of them are willing to furnish a house and garden to a man for the sake of getting one with a family.

After spending a year or two working for some one else the would-be farmer will have a fairly good idea of the art of farming. If he has been putting in his spare moments studying he will have a fair understanding of the science of farming. His own common sense and the training he has received in town will fit him to handle the business end. He is now in a position where he can plan on going to work for himself. He will have saved something from his wages while on the farm, and he probably had a little money saved up before. Then comes the question of whether to buy or to rent. A good many beginners in farming make the mistake of trying all their capital up in land and having nothing left for stock and equipment. In order to make the farm pay the farmer must have plenty of working capital. It is usually better to rent for a few years until enough money has been saved to make a fair payment on the land. Then a farm can be bought without robbing the equipment fund.

The question of where to locate is an important one and one which the conflicting mass of evidence makes hard to decide. The irrigated districts of the west offer some of the best opportunities to be found anywhere. The country is new, and settlers are welcome. Land is high, but it does not take much of it to yield a good living.

The dry farming districts of the west have been loudly boomed. This dry farming land can be bought very cheaply. It costs little to get a start. At the same time the man who goes on a dry farm must remember that only half of his land will yield a crop each year, sometimes not more than a third of it. The principle of dry farming is to cultivate the land for a year or two without sowing a crop. This prevents the rain which falls from evaporating, and by the second or third year enough moisture will have been stored up to raise a crop. No one should think of going on a dry farm without having enough money laid by to pay expenses for two or three years without any income. Dry farming means many losses and much discouragement, but the success of many dry farmers proves that it offers opportunities to the man who has the courage to stick.

The fertile lands of the middle west have been little advertised of late, and many people are of the opinion that this part of the country is already fully settled. This is far from being the case. The Mississippi valley could support four or five times its present farming population with ease. Land is high, but it is worth the price. The middle west offers the advantage of progressive neighbors, good churches, schools and colleges and modern conveniences of every sort. There are thousands of chances for the city man in this section.

In the east probably the best opportunities are found in truck farming. Only a small tract of land is required, and the returns are large.

The abandoned farms of New England can be purchased very cheaply. They can never be made as productive as the lands farther west, but under proper treatment the fertility can be restored and a very comfortable profit secured from them.

The agricultural opportunities of the south have been little advertised, yet there is no section of the country where the opportunities of the small farmer are greater. Diversified farming and stock raising are a comparatively new thing in this section. The men who are growing less cotton and more corn and hogs and dairy cows are getting ahead. Land is cheaper here than in many parts of the country and can be made very productive.

ITEMIZED.

THE skeeter brought his bill to me And asked me for his pay. He did the thing so cheerfully I bade him with me stay. "What is the service you have done To place me in your debt? You've brought no items, not a one, To my attention yet."

"Last night upon the sands," said he, "I found you with a maid. I lighted on her cheek, and she Her tribute straightway paid. And you, if you remember right, With dulcet murmuring, Laid over in the soft moonlight And kissed away the sting."

"And later on when others came, A bold, intrusive tide, 'Twas I perceived their little game The while you sat and sighed. And so to aid you in your quest I sought your chaperone And did my little level best To have you left alone."

"So well did I perform the task They one and all gave up And left you two in love to bask And drain love's sugared cup. I pestered them until they went, And then I nipped her wrist, The which you held to some extent, And like her cheek 'twas kissed."

"Enough!" I cried. "I'll pay the bill. I don't care what it is. I'll settle with a right good will For service such as this. And, what is more, my billesome friend, If you will stay with me I'll pay you to the happy end A handsome salary."

And that is why I did not kill That little skeeter with his bill And also why, where'er I trek, You find him browsing on my neck. —John Kendrick Bangs in Harper's Weekly.

The Family.

See the family! Ah, yes, it is, indeed, a large and happy family.

What is the family doing? The family is talking together in considerable heat. It sounds much like quarrelling.

What do they say? They are calling each other names and accusing each other of insincerity and other high crimes and misdemeanors.

Are the accusations true? Oh, no, indeed.

Then why does the family do these things?

Because they love one another. What a beautiful idea! And does the family show its love for the outside world in the same way?

Oh, no, indeed. Outside the bosom of the family its members are very polite and gentle and circumspect and considerate and amiable.

The family would not dare to talk to any one else in the same way that they talk to each other. Other people simply would not submit to it.

It must be delightful to be surrounded by those you love.

Yes, it is a great relief when your temper chafes you and clamors for utterance.—Ellis O. Jones in Life.

Tongue Slip.

Representative Washburn, toastmaster at the prologation dinner of the legislature recently, told a story of a pastor who, coming to a new parish, got his words slightly twisted in his announcement. Said he, "I have come here to heal the dead, cast out the sick and raise the devil."

Another ministerial friend of Washburn's, speaking to a congregation, remarked, "I am sorry to see so many absent faces I used to shake hands with."—Boston Record.

Weather Suits Him.

Fairy Queen—Oh, the good old summer time! We all love it. Don't you? Crochety Bach—Yes, I do. That's when everybody goes away.

One Regret.

The survivor of Thermopylae was describing the immortal defense. "There was only one thing that annoyed us," he said.

"And what was that?" inquired the star-reporter of the Daily Peloponnesian.

"The pass was so narrow," replied the hero, "that the moving picture machine couldn't be operated to advantage."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Prophetic.

"And what are we to understand by the Biblical expression 'the four corners of the earth'?" asks the instructor in theology.

"Rockefeller's corner in oil, Havemeyer's corner in sugar, Carnegie's corner in steel and Patten's corner in wheat," answers the new student.—Saturday Evening Post.

A Pointer.

"I am a poor man."

"When we are married I can learn to cook."

"Haden't you—er—better begin practicing," suggested the thrifty suitor, "while your father is yet supplying the raw material, so to speak?"—Stray Stories.

The One Great Trouble.

"There's one great trouble with our jury system."

"What's that?"

"So many of us are becoming able to read, write and think."—Chicago Record-Herald.

S.S.S. CURES OLD BLOOD TROUBLES

Contagious Blood Poison is at the bottom of a great many old blood troubles. The disease may have been contracted years ago and some treatment used that removed the outward symptoms and shut the virus up in the system to slumber in the blood, but it only awaited a favorable opportunity to break out in some form again.

Certain forms of catarrhal troubles, especially where the bones are affected, scrofulous affections, non-healing sores, ulcerated membranes, etc., are due to this specific poison. Perhaps many who are afflicted in this way are ignorant of the fact that the seeds of this mighty poison are still hidden in the blood. Like the deadly serpent, which is dangerous as long as the faintest spark of life is left to enable it to sink its poisonous fangs, this powerful disease will corrupt and debase while the least particle of its insidious virus remains in the blood.

The best time to get rid of Contagious Blood Poison is when the disease is first contracted, and before its virus so penetrates the blood as to cause ulcerated mouth and throat, copper-colored spots, falling hair, etc. Then of course the victim is saved much humiliation and suffering; but even after the poison has become established in the system it can be removed and a cure effected if the blood be thoroughly purified with S. S. S.

S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers. It possesses penetrating powers that enable it to go down into the blood, and remove the last trace of blood poison. It cures all blood troubles simply and solely because it removes the cause from the circulation. Not only does S. S. S. cure Contagious Blood Poison when first contracted, but reaches it in any of its stages, even where the trouble has been inherited. S. S. S. is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, and does not contain the slightest trace of mineral in any form. You cannot rid of your old blood trouble if you will take S. S. S. and allow it to purify the blood. Book on the blood and any medical advice free.

A PERFECT CURE. Some eight years ago I was inoculated with poison by a nurse who infected my babe with blood taint. I was covered with sores and ulcers from head to foot. No language can express my feelings of woe during these long years. I was advised by friends who had seen wonderful cures made by it, to try S. S. S. We got some and I improved from the start, and a complete and perfect cure was the result. S. S. S. is the only blood remedy which reaches desperate cases of old blood troubles. MRS. T. W.
