GRASSES.

The New York Tribune has an essay, by J. M. McMin, on the indigenous and introduced grasses of Pennsylvania, which conveys information, in perspicuous style, of the nature and history of the grasses, including wheat, corn, rye, oats, barley and rice, which afford to man his chief aliment. The essayist remarks, that the same law operates with equal force in reference to inferior animals. Our domestic animals require a variety of grasses in their hay and pastures, and nature having established this law makes ample provision for its condition.

We propose to present the essay to our readers, in pieces of convenient length, commencing with the general remarks on the grasses proper:

"The term grasses, in our language, is exceedingly vague. We speak of clover, lucerne, rushes, sedge grass, and cyperaceae, as well as true grasses as though they all belonged to one family of plants, and some writers seem to ignore all distinctions of these several tribes. The true grasses are a very comprehensive family, embracing about 225 genera, and a little over 3,000 species, of which about 600 are American.

The grasses are mostly herbs of humble growth, destitute of bark, with solid roots, and hollow or pithy stems, except at the joints. The root grows slowly, while the stem grows rapidly. In the beginning the stem is solid, but in consequence of its rapid growth the cellular tissue forms more slowly than the woody vascular bundles which it connects, and in consequence a separation takes place between the stem and the root, except at the joints, where, by the action of the leaves and their axillary buds, a network of vessels is formed, which grows as rapidly as the stem distends, and therefore does not separate in the joints. The leaves never issue from the joints alternately, and embrace the stem. They have nearly parallel veins running through them, and the edges are never cut or notched. The construction of the flowers is various, but they have no calyx nor corolla. They are protected by two pieces called glumes, and these are covered by two other chaffy pieces called glumes. The number of stamens is usually three or some multiple of that number, and each fertile flower produces a seed, which is principally composed of albumen. It is this principle that renders the cultivated grains of such great value, and whenever this albumen is found mealy the grain is always nutritious. The value of the stem and leaves of grasses is chiefly estimated for pos-ure and for hay, according to the amount of saccharine matter they contain, and the period of preparing them for fodder is when the nutritious juices are the most perfectly diffused through the plant. A large portion of the grasses are harmless, and almost worthless; a few are poisonous. The Lolium temerarium, called Lolium of Virgil, called in England Darnel, is alleged to be poisonous, but some assert that this poison is a parasite fungus in the seed, similar to the ergot in rye. The Festuca quadridentata of Quito, there called "Pignon," with a third, said to grow in Asia, are the only grasses known to be poisonous. The Darnel is slightly introduced into this country. It is distinguished from the other species of the genus by its two-sided spikes, and one valved glumes, with its florets shorter than the glumes.

As before intimated the number of valuable grasses is not very large, although agricultural and geographical societies, everywhere, have been zealous to extend the list as widely as possible. Every now and then an effort is made to introduce a new grass, or revive the cultivation of an old one, and hence we have had "Bengal grass," "Manna grass," "Guinea grass," and "Grass of the Andes," over and over again, but they, with many other new varieties introduced with a flourish have not received general favor, and oft repeated experiment has not confirmed their reputed value. The same may be said of the higher order of farinaceous grasses. From the earliest times voyagers and cultivators have sought to introduce new grains, and at this period the different Governments are vying with each other in introducing the seeds of different countries, and under their national patronage, are endeavoring to improve their excellence, and extend their cultivation, and perhaps no government has exceeded our own in this laudable enterprise. We will now proceed to examine a few of the esteemed plants of this family as we find them in our own soils.

This will be followed by descriptions of the six grasses—wheat, corn, rye, oats, barley and rice.

The remarks on cheat, which will also be given, seem to set at rest the question whether cheat is degenerated wheat, or a distinct species of grass by itself.

Important discovery.—There are in the caves of Lookout Mountain, Tennessee, immense deposits of bat guano, which analysis has proved to be superior to Peruvian. These caves (of which there are eleven in number) have been infested probably for hundreds of years by millions of bats, which hatched, lived, and died there without ever seeing the light. The deposits that have accumulated from them are said to be almost inexhaustible. One of these caves alone is twenty-one miles in length. This guano has been tested on vegetation with the happiest effect. Besides stimulating the plant, it is said to act as an effectual safeguard against worms and bugs. It contains a large per cent. more of ammonia than the Peruvian article, and is pronounced more valuable by those who have tried both.—Lyceum of Virginia.

BED TIME.

Rosebud lay on her trundle bed,
With her hands folded above her head,
And fixed her innocent eyes on me,
While a thoughtful shadow came over her glow.
"Mamma," said she, "When I go to sleep,
I pray to the Father my soul to keep;
And he comes and carries it far away;
To the beautiful home where his angels stay;
I gather red roses, and lilies so white,
I sing with the angels through all the long night;
And when in the morning I wake from my sleep,
He gives back the soul that I gave him to keep.
And I only remember the beautiful dreams,
The garlands of lilies, the wonderful streams."

For the Patriot.

OUR STATE.

Messrs. Editors:—In your criticism on Mr. Lassiter's speech on the late Rail Road system of N. C. you will excuse me in saying I fear you will rather too much in the line of opposition. You are correct in saying that the lands in the West and N. West are rich. But you must remember what an improved farm is worth out West now. By an improved farm I mean one with buildings and fences. Up-land farms are not considered high at 100 dollars per acre in a large portion of that country. Those lands are farther than ours from the ocean, with harder winters and fewer desirable concurrent circumstances which make a permanent home. The Connecticut river bottoms are considered to be worth 500 dollars per acre. Even here in South Western Va. farms are worth from 50 to 200 dollars per acre. The wild lands of the West, except in the remote and uninhabitable wilderness, are advancing in price very rapidly, or else held in large bodies by capitalists. Why are these things so? The farming lands here are not high priced, never have been. They are and have been low priced in the greater portion of the cotton country. Texas is offering a considerable bonus to every immigrant—lands there are not so high priced. A great deal of money was made by raising cotton last year, yet the lands, though increasing the value, are and probably will remain, at a comparatively low figure. Why is there such a difference? The first reason I shall give is: Grass and clover with lime and plaster and cattle improve the soil cheaply. Whenever you can make or retain fertility cheaply, with good air and water, there you will see a demand for land and a rich flourishing country, where no strong cause prevent. I fear it is too sandy and hot for the artificial grasses in much of the South. It requires labor in gathering fertilizers or else money in getting concentrated manures for much of the sandy hot country. A grass country "grows with its growth and strengthens with its strength" but you must have lime and plaster.

Cheap transportation, or a near market for bulky agricultural products is another very important cause for the high price of lands, indicative of a flourishing prosperous country. Sandy soils, I mean soils with no substratum of clay, are kept up in fertility and high money value, near large manufacturing and commercial towns and cities. This is done by exchanging the products of the soil for the refuse of the cities. A great portion of N. C. is suited for the cultivation of the grasses—Guilford, Stokes, Surry, Yadkin, Rockingham, may be mentioned. In these counties and in many more, there is a clay foundation; with Rail Roads to bring in the lime, plaster, guano, immigrants and capital, the land would soon be regarded as desirable in most cases as those high priced lands spoken of above. The country needs men acquainted with the correct mode of farming on lands susceptible of being made a stock country. We need enterprise and capital. And for a near market for bulky products we have the water power for manufacturing towns and healthy climate and cold spring water. These things favor large populations. In Rockingham, Stokes, and Surry, for instance, are exhausted deposits of anthracite coal and iron in close juxtaposition—which would give employment to thousands of consumers of agricultural products—thus increasing the value of real estate—increasing the taxpaying capacity of the State and increasing the credit of the State—and the value of the State Bonds—but you cannot develop the mineral, manufacturing and agricultural resources of a country without Railroads.

Then let us have faith—let us sustain the credit of the State by manifesting a cheerful, hopeful spirit. Let us lay aside politics and in time when prosperity comes we can then indulge in that luxury.

Yours truly,
R. H. S.

A change for the better.—The act of Congress just passed provides that the returns of the elections to be held soon in Virginia shall be made as prescribed by the reconstruction acts. The original bill provided that they should be made as prescribed by the Underwood constitution, which required them to be sent to the infamous Underwood himself. We know not who caused this change to be made; but in the name of the people of Virginia we thank him for relieving us from the power of this bad man.—Richmond Dispatch.

Caution!
We desire to warn the dealers in, and consumers of, certain tobacco manufacturers, who have been obliged to counterfeit the general appearance of our packages, and to issue the same, so that a close inspection is necessary to detect the spurious article from the genuine, and others sold so far as to assert that "Lorillard's is no longer made."

In making this publication, we desire to warn the public against the impositions practiced upon them; as they are the losers thereby. It will be found upon comparison that "Lorillard's" is the "purest" of all others, being made of the best stock, after an original and secret process known only to ourselves, besides possessing great strength and pungency, and is warranted not to contain any dangerous or deleterious substances, which cannot be sold by the many worthless articles put on sale by others. The best is the cheapest in the end. A circular will always be mailed on application. In ordering please state if Salt Snuff (High Toast), or Fresh Snuff (extra Scotch) is desired.

VERY AFFECTING.—The Western Sentinel says the following beautiful and pathetic hymn was sung by the Legislative hands, with full chorus, just prior to the adjournment:

We would not sit away—we ask not to stay,
Though sweet the period, seven dollars a day,
The few paltry pickings left by us here
Are not worth the taking. So ends our career.
We would not sit away, though needing the tin,
Temptation without and corruption within,
A people self-ruling, their traitors will spurn,
We would not sit away—we move to adjourn.

This here that scallagons of all colors meet;
The white and the black in communion sweet,
But we would not sit away at seven dollars a day,
Though "my people are able and willing to pay."

Answer to Enigma last week.—The Desolated South.

Mrs. Dolly Chandler and 194 other woman have sent a remonstrance to the Massachusetts Legislature against woman suffrage. They claim that it would diminish the purity, the dignity and the moral influence of women, and bring into the family circle a dangerous element of discord, without securing additional strength, efficiency, or wisdom to the Government of the nation, and ask to be let alone in the condition allotted to women by nature, by custom, and by religion.

MEDICINAL.
TO THOSE SUFFERING
with PULMONARY DISEASES.
Dr. Thos. H. Miles continues to treat Thoracic diseases by Topical Medication, or Catarrhs of the air passages, combined with the proprietary general remedies, as practiced by the late Prof. Green, of New York. The success attending this method of treating diseases of the lungs is unparalleled, and the feasibility of the operation generally conceded. This treatment is almost a specific in chronic Bronchitis, Catarrhs, incipient Tuberculosis and Asthma. Numerous testimonials can be adduced from those who have been entirely relieved by the operation. His address is: Mount Carmel, Baltimore, Md.

Near Yonkersville, Caswell co., N. C., April, '93.
This is to certify that I have been suffering for several years with chronic Bronchitis, attended with all the symptoms of incipient Consumption, during this period, I had frequent hemorrhages from the lungs. I also suffered greatly from enlarged Throat. I tried the usual remedies in such cases, but without satisfactory results. I finally concluded to try Dr. Miles' treatment of Catarrhs of the air passages by injection. I remained under his treatment for six weeks, and to say that I believe my lungs are entirely relieved, I will say that the condition of the lungs, as indicated by the color of the sputum, is now normal. I feel much better, and am able to perform my usual duties. I am, Sir, very respectfully,

TO PHYSICIANS.
NEW YORK, August 15th, 1892.
Allow me to call your attention to my preparation of COMPOUND EXTRACT BUCHU. The component parts are BUCHU LONG LEAF, CUBEBES, JUNIPER BERRIES, MEXICAN PEPPERS, &c. BUCHU, in various Juniper Berries, by distillation, to form a fine oil. Cubes extracted by displacement with liquor obtained from Juniper Berries, contains every little valuable property of the plant, and is more palatable than any now in use. The active properties are by this mode extracted.

Buchu, as prepared by Druggists generally, is so dark in color, that it is hard to detect its fragrance; the action of a flame destroys this (its active principle) leaving a dark and glutinous decoction. Mine is the color of ingredients. The Buchu in preparation preserves its natural color, and is free from all adulterations. It is a very valuable remedy for all the diseases arising from the liver. I believe they are the best medicine offered to the public.

HELMHOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU, for weakness arising from indigestion. The exhausted powers of Nature which are accompanied by so many alarming symptoms, among which will be found, Indigestion to Excretion, Loss of Appetite, Headaches, Irritability, Nervousness or Forebodings of Evil; in fact, of all the various Laetudine, Prostration, and inability to enter into the enjoyment of society.

The Constitution, once affected with the weakness of Nature, has a perfect cure. In my family they have been used frequently with eminent success. Among my acquaintances many cases of indigestion, nervousness, and loss of appetite, have been cured by the use of this medicine. I regard them as an invaluable remedy, and of the greatest value in forwarding the recovery of the patient.

A. W. D. TAYLOR, Esq., Petersburg, Va., (Jan. 12, 1893) says: "In the Spring of 1888, I was attacked with Dyspepsia to such an extent that all my food was thrown up, and I was unable to eat. I was so weak that I could not get out of bed. I was so nervous that I could not sleep. I tried one or two physicians, and took a good deal of medicine, but found no relief. I purchased one box of the Helmholt's Fluid Extract Buchu, and the next day I felt better. I continued to use it, and in a few days I was able to get out of bed.
