CHAPTER I.

I have worked up many hard cases and have cornered many no-torious criminals, but never before or since have I been engaged in a case so complicated, or one which was so hard to clear up as that Stuart-Firstone murder case.

You know that the Stuarts were only two sons, Cecil and Gilbert; do this I saw some marks on the outlandish names they had, to be wall that appeared to have been sure but they were had, to be very wealthy, and the old man had them, at least the younger one. As some kind. While I was examin-I said, he had only two to bother ing these, Gilbert Stuart and Alhim, and to these of course he gave bert Firstone entered. I was about the bulk of his property. Cecil to call their attention to the marks was a cripple, the result of being when a sudden thought caused me dropped by a careless nurse in his Gilbert, the younger of the two, was early known to all the sports as a jolly good fellow, partly because he would always stand treat, and would play billiards and such games; and yet he was never known to win them when playing for a wager. In this manner he sustained his reputation of being a free and easy fellow. But in the mean time his property was steadily decreasing until, at last, his share-which, in the first place, would have been more than enough for men like you and me-dwindled down to an insignificant sum, and he had to look in some other direction for money to pay his gaming debts. He had often applied to his brother for aid, and had often obtained it, together with good advice, which he promised to heed, but never did.

Cecil was always very studious, and had surrounded himself with all the old-fashioned books that he could hear of or obtain. And on of company had a charm for him that we in good health would not turn, and was now nominally acting as a jockey for Gilbert Stuart, but was in reality his confederate in schemes of robbery, and, as the sequel will show, of murder. These two friends were closeted together for a long while, and time showed the result of their conference, Come over the bright seas, my Colin, to though I would not spoil my story by revealing too soon their nefarious designs. Of course you remember the excitement in the up-town circles when the news of Cecil Stuart's murder was circulated and the astonishment of every one when it was known that his body had been found in the coal-cellar of Roger Lyon's brown-stone palace. As tonishment was increased manifold by the intelligence that RogerLyon was arrested and charged with the crime of murder.

Although but a few were intimately acquainted with Cecil Stuart, and a scarcely large circle barely knew him as a very eccentric man, yet the crime being committed at the very door of their mansion, made it seem the most startling one in the records of our city; and as there were many influential persons who loved Roger Lyon better than all their friends besides, and many a poor washer-woman who blessed the day that he saved her bit of ground from the auctioneer's hammer-to have him, the people's favorite, charged with such a deed, seemed to be an outrage upon all classes of our citizens.

I well remember when Lansing, Lyon's lawyer, called upon me and begged me to try my best to clear up the mystery. At this time I had been in the detective force nearly four years, and, of course, knew the ropes pretty well. But for a month I confess that at times

I was nearly baffled. But I will come directly to my story. As a first step, I went to the cellar where the body was found, and, as I had ordered it to be left there after the inquest till I could examine everything myself,it still remained there. Being something of a doctor, I naturally examined the wounds, and was satisfied that they would not cause instant death. But I did not rely on my own medical skill in this, but sent for a physician. He came-a sharp fellow by the name of Denningand probed the wounds. One of the wounds went close to the heart, but the other two were in the lungs, evidently intended to cause hemorrhage, which had followed, but sufficient to cause death immediately. Roger Lyon's knife, with which the deed had evidently been committed, a silver-mounted affair-a present from some one-lay near the wall. The doctor soon finished his work, and giving me a look that I interpreted instantly, went out,taking Lansing with him, to whom he communicated the result of his ex-amination. When they had gone I walked over to the wall and picked up the knife. As I stooped over to addition of the part deciphered, to close my mouth upon the words that were on my tongue's end. After obtaining permission they took the body over to his late residence. As soon as they were gone again examined the marks, and I found that they were a combination of letters and figures arranged like

S-1225-D.

I copied them upon paper, and then, taking the knife with me, went to my office, down town, to study out, if possible, the cipher I had discovered. I had no doubt that it was made by Cecil, probably after he had been stabbed; and I was convinced that the cause of its being in cipher was, that no one would be apt to notice it enough to obliterate it. But by what means could I obtain a key was now the puzzle.

Acting according to a suggestion of Lansing, I went to the public li brary, and for a week I rummaged its shelves for any work that menaccount of his lameness this kind tioned cipher.writing. I continued bringing home books until my den looked more like a reading-room than a detective's office, while in Cecil was always very lenient to their midst sat Lansing, searching ward his erring brother, but at every page, and occasionally jotting last, hearing from every source of down something in a book by his

In this way nearly three weeks had passed since the murder, when received a telegram from Lausing informing me of his return to the city. All this time I had been the announcement was made, and shut up in my office, working—it as the eyes of the court were turnmust be confessed with little hope of success.

The day that I expected Lansing's that he should be taken into custoreturn I went to the place where dy the poor fellow fell over in a the body had been found, and examined carefully the marks on the wall, but I could find none other than the ones I had seen before, so concluded that those were the ony ones. As I stood looking at them, however, I saw what seemed to be a piece of stone lying on the floor of the cellar. As a detective sees a clue in everything, I picked it up, and found, to my surprise, that it was a piece of putty. As soon as I discovered this I searched the whole wall to find where the piece came from, and at last I discovered that some marks near the others were filled with putty. I scraped the putty away, and whole cryptogram appeared as follows:

Throughout the interior of Africa, and indeed in some parts of Asia, a woman is prized for fatness. Beauty is associated with excessive obesity; and such being the public sentiment, mothers seasonably commence a system of diatetic treatment that makes their daughters irresistible. > The Laughing Plant-An Arabian Curiosity.

A singular vegetable phenome non was discovered during recent explorations in Arabia. It is called the laughing plant, from the effect produced by the seeds. When they are pulverized and eaten in small quantities the person eating them will soon begin to laugh loud ly, then to dance and do all manner of absurd things. This lasts for an hour, after which he goes to sleep, and having slept another hour, wakes up utterly unconscious of what has occurred. It has been suggested that this plant might be made a substitute for alcohol, and that it would have the advantage of being cheaper, until the govern-ment should see through the trick and commence to tax it. But it is scarcely probable that the Arabian plant could in fact be made popu lar in that capacity, for it does not appear that it inspires the person who partakes or it with a desire er or to indulge in any of the little pleasantries that the alcohol of the period moves one to perpetrate.

Worth Knowing. One pound of green copperas, costing seven cents, dissolved in one quart of water, and poured down a water-closet, will effectually concentrate and destroy the foulest smells. On board ships and steamboats, about hotels and other public places, there is nothing so nice to purify the air Simple green copperas, dissolved under the bed in anything that will hold water, will render a hospital, or other places for the sick, free from un pleasant smells. In fish-markets, slaughter-houses, sinks and where ever there are offensive putrid gasses, dissolve copperas and sprinkle it about, and a few days the smell will pass away. If a cat, rat or nouse dies about the house and sends forth an offensive gas, place some dissolved copperas in an open vessel near the place where the nuisance is, and it will purify the atmosphere. New Tobacco Regulation .- The Internal Revenue Commissioner, in reply to a question as to whether tobacco stamped at 32 cents per pound under the old law is entitled, when exported, to a drawback of 20 cents per pound, and whether it makes and difference in what district the tobacco is stamped, says that under the provisions of the act of last June a drawback for such tobacco will be allowed the full extent of stamps affixed without regard to the district in which the tax was paid. This ruling is very favorable to tobacco dealers, espe cially that class known as jobbers, as under it they will have the privi lege of disposing of their old tobac-co and receive the drawback of 32 cents, and lay in their stock at the 20 cents tax .- Petersburg Index.

part of the people, and the people's representatives at Raleigh, to make some arrangement about our State debt that will relieve us from the onerous burdens under which we are now struggling.

Sundry propositions have been made at different times during the sittings of the last and present Legislature, and all made in good faith, no doubt. Among these propositions is one which is up again, which suggests the disposing of the State's interest in her internal improvements-taking her out-standing bonds in payment for the same.

This question has two sides to it: its advantages and disadvantages, and it should meet with due and deliberate consideration before any action be taken. We know we are restive under the burdens that oppress us, but we should not act hastily, and for temporary relief do that which we may ever have cause to regret.

The object of the State in making appropriations to these internal improvements was a good one; it was to develop our resources and utilize our vast powers, and if the object had been carried out in good faith we would to-day have one of the most flourishing and inviting States over which the American flag floats. But sharpers, speculators and thieves got hold of the helm and of the mud we shouldn't rush into the quick-sand.

To illustrate with a case in point we take the Favetteville Railroad, which was intended to be construct ed from Fayetteville to Greensboro. The building of this road would develop one of the finest coal, iron and other mineral sections in the known world, and at once bring it into the market. To give our readers an idea of the importance and the immense wealth locked up in the bosom of the section referred to ache. we quote a brief part of the report made by Geo. H. Elliott, Chief or the Corps of Engineers appointed by the government in 1871, to make a survey of the Cape Fear and Deep

"The entire country drained by the Deep River comprises an area of 1000 square miles, affording an slack-water navigation, and for mill purposes. It is subject to extensive freshets, which overflow the banks of the lower portion, at times to a depth of 10 or 12 feet, doing much injury to the crops and farms in the immediate vicinity of the riv er. The portion of the Deep River country which came within the scope of the survey contains some fine farms, yielding a surplus of grain, which is manufactured into flour and transported to Fayetteville or

The principal claim of this country to notice, however, is its wealth in minerals, particularly in coal and iron, which are very abundant, but, owing to a want of transportation, the mines have, up to the present time remained almost entirely undeveloped. The extent of the coalfields has been accurately defined by Prof. E. Emmons, in a geological survey made under authority of the State of North Carolina. In his report of 1852, he estimates them to cover an area of ninety square miles, and to contain, at th very lowest estimate, 258,000,000 tons easily workable. The coal is bituminous in character, and has been proved by analysis and actual trial to be of superior quality. Previous to 1850 a shaft was excavated at Egypt to a depth of 460 feet, and a considerable quantity of coal taken out, but the proprietors having no means of getting it to market were compelled to suspend operations -By the recent completion of the Chatham Railroad from Raleigh, there is now continuous railroad communication between Egypt and the sea-board at Norfolk, and the company who own the shaft have made preparations to resume operations, but it is doubtful whether the high rates of freight on the railroad will admit of the mine being worked profitably.

The principal deposit of iron-ore is found about nine miles from the Gulf, in a hill known as Ore Knob. which is elevated some 300 feet above the surrounding country, and covers about 300 acres. A massive vein of valuable ore appears to bisect it. Valuable seams of black band ore are also found, accompanying the coal-seams. Nine miles below Haywood, at Buckhorn, on the east bank of the Cape Fear, is acres, which is said to contain a New York.

This will give some idea of the immense resources of this Deep River valley which would be opened to enterprise and capital by the completion of this road. The interest the State has in it, about one million dollars we believe, is a mere shadow when compared with the princely profit to be realized from the completion of the work Unless we are misinformed there

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 18, 1873. THE ELECTORAL COLLEGE Secator Morton made his promised speech yesterday on the defects of the present electoral system, and had his resolution passed instructing the committee on privileges and elections to examine the subject and submit a remedy. So far as abolishing the cumbersome machinery of electoral colleges there is a general hearty concurrence; but with regard to the direct vote for President there is considerable doubt as to its wisdom notwithstanding its seeming fairness. As Mr. Trumbull remarked, "this is not a Democracy; it is a Republic, and it never

Trumbull remarked, "this is not a De-mocracy; it is a Republic, and it never was intended that the majority should rule in everything; if this was once com-menced it would end in despotism."

The committee to which this question has been referred is composed of Morton, chairman; Carpenter, Anthony, Logan, Alcorn, Hill and Trumbull. In the pros-cution of the matured and sattled plan ecution of the matured and settled plan of centralization determined on by the Administration and endorsed by the Rad-ical party, the first four of the committee will go to any extreme, and we may be sure that any measures recommended by them will be, directly or indirectly, the means of perpetuating Radical rule. SLOOPS OF WAR.

From the vote yesterday on taking up the House bill for building six sloops of war on Mouday, the indications are, that the bill will pass, though it is thought that the Seffate will amend it by increasthat the Semate will amend it by increasing the number to ten as originally reported from the House Naval Committee.

POSTAL TELEGRAPH. The very important question of the union of the telegraph with the posta service will be considered in the Senate next week, upon a bill and report that received the unanimous vote of the Sen-ate Post Office Committee. It is claimed that the beneficial results of this union that the beneficial results of this union are that facilities will be greatly increased by making all post office on or near telegraph circuits, postal telegraph offices. This will give from 5,000 to 8,000 new offices without discontinuing any old ones. The rates will be reduced one-half, and the length of the message increased over 80 per cent. and for 25 cents a message of 25 words can be sent at night 1,000 miles. The rates to the press will be reduced to as great an extent, and for 75 cents 100 words can be sent 500 miles. The system will be in harmony with the mail service, letters and telegrams being received and delivered through the post office, transmitted between effices by contractors, owning and through the post office, transmitted be-tween offices by contractors, owning and operating lines of railroad or telegraph, at rates fixed by Congress. This plan will give chesp telegraphy without cost to the Government, as the postage of five cents, to be paid on each telegram, will cover all expenses. I find that many Democratic members of Congress favor this measure—some on its own merits, and others because they believe, if this plan is not now adopted, Government telegraph will be forced upon the couniry next year, and every Democratic member prefers this plan to that. From present indications this bill will be acted on and passed in a short time, and on ac-count of its being a stopper of Creswell's will most probably receive the almost en-tire Democratic vote.

CREDIT MOBILIER This investigation still continues, but This investigation still continues, but has not as yet developed any direct complicity on the part of members nor any thing that will fasten an attempt at bribery on Oakes Ames, though the public are well aware that he never sold Credit Mobilier Stock at par to Members of Congress simply for love of them, but the old fox was too smart to be caught by an investigation deserved. fox was too smart to be caught by an investigation drag net. A number of Members of Congress have been before the committee and told their little Credit Mobilier stories. Hon. James Brooks bought stock for his son-in-law. Hon. John A. Bingham bought for himself, as did Ex-Congressman Boyer, of Pennsylvania, who claims that he did what he had a right to do. If Col. McComb does not fasten the charges down more clearly, as he Las promised, there will be no member expelled nor probably even censured, the point in their favor being that legislation had not been influenced by the sale of the Credit Mobilier Stock, or at least so proven.

SENATOR HARLAN has been a persistent advocate of the Union Pacific Railread and has greatly belittled the charges made by Colonel McComb. The secret of all this has leaked out through the statement of Dr. Thos. C. Durant, who states that he gave $10,000 to assist Harlan, at that time Secretary of the Interior, to be elected United tary of the Interior, to be elected United States Senator. The Chronicle, Harlan's gray Fox, paper, has been making spacious defences of the Senator for the past two days, while the Republican, the rival Grant buckets. gle, has gone for him in a lively manner and proves that the money was furnished and proves that the money was furnished by the Railroad Company, and says: "Men are creeping into the Senate as the mere agents and servants of corrupt and selfish corporations, whose only object is to rob and plunder the people, and that "the thieves and plunderer must be lashed out of the Capitol."

If clover is sown with oats, when the latter are ripe they should be cut as high as possible, so that enough straw will be left standing to shed the clover from the sun's scorening rays.

The writer is well aware that there are sections that are now conaidered worthless where clover will not grow, and it will be necessary to bring such soil up by other fertilizers to a certain standard at see, portions of Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia and Georgia. Should the yield be not more than one and a half bushels per acre it would pay better than raising wheat, while the yield may reach 7½ bushels per acre. If the season is such that it will not fill well, it can be be used for pasturage or hay, while instead of sucking up the life of the soil it gives it 95 per cent. of that which is gathered from the atmospere.— G. S. RUBLE, Chattanooga, Tennes-

Raising Onions From Sced .- First rate onions may be raised from seed anywhere in our country, if the seed are planted now as soon as possible in a rich, mellow soil—a sandy loam is best. Be sure that the soil is fine and well broken. Buy the best seed. Import it from Massachusetts. Soak it for twenty four hours before sowing. Sow in drills eighteen inches apart, dropping the seed from four to six inches from each other, and cover not more than half an inch, pressing the soil firmly with a roller above the seed. When the plants come up and are large enough, thin to about a foc apart. Keep the soil loose and mellow, and when the stalks become as large as a penbolder, be very careful to cultivate shallow, as the roots have occupied all the space between the rows, and if they are wounded or cut the consequence is the destruction of the young plants. By midsummer, if the bed is dress ed once with land plaster, onions of very respectable size will be made. which to my taste are much more palatable than those that are imported, or the large bulbs raised from buttons. At all events, even if we like "big inguns" we can raise the sets in this way to grow them instead of sending North every year some to buy the sets at the drug store, but it is more expensive and not as satisfactory as home produc

The best manure for onions if the soil is not naturally rich enough, is a mixture of ashes, bone-dust, plas ter and salt. Peruvian guano and dissolved bones mixed with plaster or charcoal dust, make an excellent fertilizer for them.

Live Stock Matters .- Not long since one of our correspondents ask-ed the best method of relieving a choked cow. To this we replied but here comes another mode from a correspondent of the Country Gentleman: To relieve a choked ox or cow, give at once one-half pint melted hog's lard, and exercise the animal. It sickens the stomach. and the obstruction will pass immediately either up or down, as the animal will cough and swallow at once, and thus get relief. Put the warm lard in a junk bottle and raise the animal's head-it will run down easy. This is the surest and satest remedy known, and never fails it administered soon after the accident

Boiled Corn in the Ear for Hogs-An experienced man in Illinois says that he finds much economy in boiling corn in the ear, and so feeding it to his hogs. He supposes that the alkalies contained in the cob act upon the flinty covering of the grain and soften it, while they also grain and soften it, while they also loosen the attachment of the kernel loosen the attachment of the kernel occurred by J. Lice on cattle may be removed by pouring a small quantity of ker-osene on the card with which they are carded. The application should be frequent, though in small quantities, till the lice all disappear. The lousiest herd I ever saw was completely relieved of them in ten days by this application alone.

TOBACCOL

Morehead's Warehouse

WILL BE OPEN

EVERY DAY

For the Sale of heaf Tobacco.

Those who consign with me are assured of the best prices. If the sales do not give satisfaction, the Tobacco may be "taken in," and shipped elsewhere. No charge for storage.—Warehouse fees the same as at Danville. Liberal advances will be made. The Warehouse has a first class prizery attached. In the handling, ordering and assorting of your Tobacco, too much care cannot be taken. Ample camping grounds are offered to planters. I'll do my best for consignors; they can't ask more. I refer every man to his neighbors, that the good news may spread.

Very Respectfully,

Eugene Morehead.

TOBACCO, Cotton, Wheat, Corn, Vegetable, &c. Guaranteed first-class and "simon-pure." We no longer go to mill with "a rock in one end of the bag and a grist in the other." Every one, in this advanced age, confesses the value of FERTILIZERS, and uses the m, because they increase the yield from 50 to 200 per cent. and improve the land every year, while the quality of the crop is improved. Home made manures will do well, but they do not return to the land the proper proportion of substances removed from the ground by a crop. Hence the land will wear out. Call for a circular.
