DAVIDSON'S RESIGNATION

RETIREMENT OF COUNTY COMMISSIONER

Valued Public Official Gives Up Position For Business Reasons—Is Succeeded by C. A. Wharton—Road Matters Considered—Jurors Drawn For Three Terms of Court—Township Commissioners to be Elected Monday.

When the board of county commissioners met Monday for the March meeting the resignation of Mr. J. A. Davidson as chairman and member of the board was the first business brought before the attention of the board. The resignation was not unexpected, as Mr. Davidson had previously served notice that he should be forced to resign for business reasons. Following is a copy of Mr. Davidson's letter of resignation:

"Gentlemen:—It has been my purpose to meet with you on the first Monday in March and present my resignation as a member of your body in person, but I am busily engaged here at this time and it is not convenient for me to meet with you. Owing to my business connections, it will be impossible to give such time to the demands of the county as may be necessary, and for this reason I request that you accept my resignation, making it effective at once. With kind personal regards for each member of the board and best wishes for your success in all county matters, good roads especially, I am,

Very sincerely,

J. A. DAVIDSON."

The resignation was accepted with expressions of regret on the part of the members of the board and it was ordered that the clerk of the court be notified of the vacancy, in order that he might name a successor to Mr. Davidson.

The board unanimously adopted the following concerning Mr. Davidson's resignation:

"Whereas, This board has just received the resignation of its chairman, J. A. Davidson, as chairman and member of the board; and

"Whereas, The other members of the board in accepting his resignation desire to express their regret at parting with him, their appreciation of his uniform courtesy to them while chairman, and their estimate and the estimate of the people of the county of his valuable services;

"Resolved, That we deeply regret that Mr. Davidson has found it necessary on account of business engagements to sever his connection with the board.

"That we tender to him our thanks and our appreciation for his uniform kindness and courtesy to every member of the board while acting as chairman.

"That while member and chairman of this board he gave his time, and his unusual ability as a business man to the county's every interest, sparing no effort or labor that would tend to the upbuilding of the county and the betterment of her citizenship.

"That he was peculiarly fitted for the proper organization of the affairs of the county by business experience and training and was successful in establishing more thorough organization and efficiency in all the departments of county business under the control of the board.

"That he rendered services especially valuable and lasting in supervising the improvement of the public roads of the county, the organization of its auditing department and the system of bookkeeping adopted in that department.

"That speaking for the people of the county at large, we know they will sincerely regret to hear of his resignation because of their regard for him personally and for his peculiar fitness and efficiency as a public officer."

Mr. W. C. Tucker was requested to act as chairman until the vacancy on the board should be filled and a permanent chairman elected.

Superior Court Clerk Forbis later announced the appointment of Mr. Cyrus A. Wharton, of Rock Creek township, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Davidson. The new member will probably be sworn in at an adjourned meeting of the board to be held next Monday, but it is probable that a new chairman will not be elected until the regular April meeting.

Township Commissioners.

The adjourned meeting Monday will be for the purpose of electing township commissioners to look after the road work in the several townships, in accordance with the provisions of Guilford's new road law. The new law stipulates that the county commissioners shall appoint three road commissioners for each township, these commissioners to have entire charge of the repair work on the roads in their respective townships. The county board will be vested with power to designate and macadam roads as formerly, the power of the township commissioners being simply to keep the roads in repair.

Upon request of officials of the Central Carolina Fair Association, the sheriff was instructed not to issue license to any circus or menagerie to exhibit at any point in Guilford county between the dates of September 15 and October 28, this action being taken as a measure of protection to the fair.

C. W. Orrell was relieved of the payment of polltax on account of physical infirmity.

The board ordered that a voucher for $50 be forwarded to the captors of Mos's Speaks, the High Point murderer, as soon as their names and addresses might be obtained, this being the amount of the reward offered by the county for the arrest of Speaks.

Representatives of the company owning the auditorium in this city submitted a proposition for the county to take over the property and use it for county purposes, the commissioners declining the proposition after consideration.

Road Matters.

The petition previously filed asking for a public road in Monroe township, leading from a point 200 yards north of Mrs. E. T. Lambeth's tobacco barn and running west through the lands of Mrs. Lambeth, J. W. Schoolfield, Thomas E. James and others to the macadam road at Wilam Dossett's home, was granted, the road to be 25 feet wide and to be opened according to law. A good delegation was present to present the claims of the new road.

A petition was filed asking for the discontinuance of a portion of the public road in Kentress township beginning at the intersection of the new macadam road and running north by the Thomas Taylor place to the intersection of the new road, a distance of about one-quarter of a mile. The petition was received and ordered advertised.

Mr. E. D. Steele, of High Point laid before the board a proposition of Mr. George Gould to donate to the county $5,000 towards the cost of macadamizing the road from High Point to the Randolph line, this road running through Mr. Gould's property. On account of the fact that the commissioners have mapped out work for several other roads, no action was taken, but it is probable that the proposition will be accepted and the work done as early as possible.

A voucher for $1,801 was issued to the Indan Refining Company, this being the balance due for asphalt for the Greensboro and High Point road. The voucher was issued with the understanding that if, after further investigation the work be found not to be according to contract, the amount found to be in excess of the amount actually due shall be deducted from payments to be made on other contracts. The total cost of the work was $3,504.

The company is now at work on the Spring Garden street extension from the city limits to Lindley park, and when this is completed the same treatment will be given the Alamance church road from the city limits to the top of the hill at the South Buffalo school.

Is Your Money Safe?

Nearly everybody saves more or less money for the inevitable "rainy day," and very often you ask yourself the all important question, "Is my money safe?" Well, this depends on where you have it. If you have it put away in your house, it is not safe, for thieves break through and steal and fires sometimes come and burn up everything, giving the inmates barely time to escape with their lives, and forcing them to leave both clothes and money behind.

The Home Savings Bank has a burglar proof safe in which to keep its money; a fire proof vault in which to keep the safe, and carries fire insurance, burglar insurance, and is protected by the Pinkerton National Detective Agency. So you can readily see that your money is absolutely safe if you have it in the Home Savings Bank, Greensboro, N. C. This is an old-school exclusive savings bank, which invests its money not for today or tomorrow, but to stand the test of time, investing mainly in such securities as first mortgages on select real estate at not over half its value, and in government, state, county and municipal bonds of unquestionable character. When your money is deposited in an exclusive savings bank that does this class of business, you go to bed at night, and the eagles on your honest dollars turn to nightingales and sing your weary body sweetly to sleep.

Since writing the above, we notice from today's paper that at Lake View, N. C., near Carthage, the hotel was destroyed by fire and two people lost their lives, while about twenty-five other guests barely escaped in their night clothes without time to save either their money or clothing, some of them losing large sums of money.

A NEW COURT ESTABLISHED.

Will Have Civil and Criminal Jurisdiction Over the County.

Perhaps the most important law affecting Guilford county enacted by the legislature that adjourned yesterday was an act abolishing the Municipal court of Greensboro and establishing the Guilford county court. The new court is established contingent upon the county commissioners accepting it as a part of the judicial machinery of the county, but inasmuch as it is in line with a recommendation of the grand jury made during the recent criminal term of Superior court, it is not to be doubted that the county commissioners will concur.

The act gives the court exclusive original jurisdiction in all matters in which the present Municipal court has jurisdiction, this including all petty misdemeanors. This applies to the entire county, with the exception of High Point, which has a recorder's court for the trial of such cases.

The new court will have concurrent jurisdiction with justices of the peace and exclusive original jurisdiction in all civil matters triable in the Superior court of Guilford county up to and including the amount of $1,000. Upon request any case may be tried before a jury, the same rule applying as in a jury trial before a justice of the peace.

An appeal can go up to the Superior court only upon written evidence, and this means that very few cases will be carried up. The new court will be governed by the same rules that are in effect as to rules of procedure and practice in the Superior court.

The new court is to become operative the first Monday in April, and the act names Judge N. L. Eure, judge of the present Municipal court, judge until the next election, when the judge will be chosen by the voters of the county. The salary of the judge is placed at $1,800 a year.

The bill provides that the county commissioners are to elect a prosecuting attorney for the court and fix his salary.

It is believed that the new court will reduce the work of the Superior court much more than it has been decreased by the city courts in Greensboro and High Point and that the saving in court expenses will be considerable.

FOR COMMISSIONERS.

Score of Those Who Will and May Be Candidates for Positions.

So far very little interest is being taken in the approaching campaign for the nomination and election of commissioners to govern Greensboro under the new city charter, but as the general primary is over six weeks in the distance there is an abundance of time for candidates to declare themselves.

Mayor Stafford and Mr. T. J. Murphy are in the race for mayor and commissioner of accounts, and doubtless there will be others. For a time ex-Mayor Brandt had under serious advisement the matter of becoming a candidate, but a new business connection he has formed prevents him from entering the race. Mr. E. H. Merrimon, a member of the water and light commission, and who has been a member of the board of aldermen, may decide to become a candidate. The name of ex-Sheriff Jordan is also mentioned.

Mr. E. A. Brown has formally declared his candidacy for commissioner of public safety. Mr. J. R. Cutchin, chairman of the street commission, has declared his intention of becoming a candidate for this position also.

A petition was put in circulation yesterday afternoon requesting Mr. W. T. Sergeant, chairman of the water and light commission, to announce his candidacy for commissioner of public works, but he has not indicated what action he will take in the matter. Mr. J. Ed. Albright, a member of the board of aldermen, and Mr. J. G. Foushee, Jr., are candidates for this office.

Preparing to Build Country Club.

At a largely attended and enthusiastic meeting of Greensboro business and professional men in the dining room of the old Benbow hotel Tuesday night, the Scales property situated a mile and a half north of the court house on the extension of North Elm street, was selected as the site for the country club, which will be formed here at once. The North Carolina Public Service Company has given assurance of a street car line within three or four hundred yards of the property. As soon as one hundred members are obtained the property will be purchased and work on the grounds and the club house will be commenced. The following committee on permanent organization and securing the site was appointed: E. J. Justice, E. C. Deal, J. E. Latham, Paul W. Schenck, G. S. Ferguson, Jr., A. P. Kimball, A. L. Brooks, R. H. Brooks, R. C. Hood, Carter Dalton, H. R. Bush, A. W. McAllister, C. W. Banner, C. D. Cunningham and W. L. Clement.

Death of Mrs. M. A. Halladay.

Mrs. M. A. Halladay died at an early hour Monday morning at the home of her son, Mr. M. L. Halladay, in this city, at the age of 71 years. She had been ill for quite a while and her death was not unexpected. The funeral and interment took place Tuesday at Zion church, near Staley. Mrs. Halladay is survived by five children: Mr. J. H. Siler, of Staley, a son by her first marriage; Mr. E. M. Halladay, of Guilford Station; Mr. A. W. Halladay, of Staley; Mr. M. L. Halladay and Mrs. F. L. Albright, of Greensboro.

THE LEGISLATURE ADJOURNS

NOTABLE SESSION CAME TO END YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

Was in Session 64 Days and Passed 1,460 Bills and 53 Resolutions—The Anti-Trust Measure Emancipated—State Primary Bill Killed—Over $1,000,000 Appropriated Various State Institutions.

The legislature adjourned yesterday afternoon after having been in session 64 days. During the session 1,460 bills and 53 resolutions were passed.

The substitute for the Turlington house anti-trust bill as it came from the senate committee on judiciary, and passed the senate was concurred in by the house, and is now ratified in materially different form from the Turlington bill as it passed the house. So much so that Mr. Turlington says he could scarcely recognize it in that its teeth are, he claims, completely extracted. As passed, the bill has the feature eliminated that required officers of corporations to take oath that their corporations are not violating the state anti-trust law; the feature prohibiting use of coupons, prizes and such in aiding sale of merchandise; the feature that would enable solicitors or the attorney general to require books and papers for examination without order of court; the requirement to be for a judge to make such order and for examination to be made in the presence of the judge; it cuts out that feature that would award triple damages against trusts in civil cases, and reduces the fund that the governor is to have at his command for working up the case for the prosecution in impending cases from $10,000 to $5,000.

Senator Hobgood led the fight in the senate for the Turlington bill.

The house passed by a vote of 95 to 15 the senate bill providing for the establishment of farm life schools.

The Koonce bill providing for an investigation of fire insurance companies in North Carolina, which was passed by the house, was killed in the senate.

The house tabled the McPhaul bill to prohibit the manufacture and sale of cigarettes in North Carolina and the Battle bill to improve the administration of the criminal law in this state by a change in drawing juries for trial of capital offenses, reducing the challenges, allowing judges to order special venire from adjacent counties and changing the practice as to plea of insanity.

The bill for the establishment of a school for the feeble-minded was passed by both houses. It carries an appropriation of $60,000.

Senator Hobgood's bill for statewide primaries to be held on the first Tuesday of August each election year passed the senate, but met defeat in the house.

The governor's salary was increased from $4,000 to $5,000 a year. The increase, with the extras the governor receives in the way of traveling expenses, upkeep of the mansion, etc., makes the salary equivalent to about $9,000.

A bill was passed making Jefferson Davis' birthday, June 3, a legal holiday in this state.

A bill was passed increasing the salaries of judges of the Supreme court to $4,000 and the salaries of Superior court judges to $3,500, with an allowance of $750 a year for expenses.

Senator Ivie's bill prescribing 60 hours as a week's work in factories was passed, to become effective January 1, 1912.

The house resolution to investigate the sale of the Atlantic and Yadkin Railroad to the Atlantic Coast Line and its dismemberment in division with the Southern was voted down by the senate over the strenuous protest of Senator Hobgood.

After much debate, the bill to prohibit the sale or handling of intoxicating liquors by any club or association was passed, an amendment being adopted that eliminates the clause that would prohibit members of clubs having liquor in their personal lockers and specifying that this act shall not interfere with any local law regulating the control of the keeping of liquors. The greatest opposition was to the feature that interfered with lockers in clubs and Devin, of Granville, offered an amendment striking out the words "or where members allowed to keep intoxicating liquors in lockers or in storage devices of any kind shall be guilty of a misdemeanor." This was adopted 65 to 32 and on the final vote for the passage of the bill the vote was 83 to 16.

Agriculture is Making Great Strides

The time was when the farmer scoffed the idea of reading from a newspaper an article on farming. They called it book farming, but since the intelligent farmer has learned the value of agricultural papers, like The Progressive Farmer and others, and that these papers are edited and contributed to by practical farmers—sure enough men that till the soil—they've gotten busy and read and work accordingly.

The same intelligence has been put into the manufacture of men's clothes. The farmer wears good clothes—clothes that fit and look well,—and right now if he wants an ALL-WOOL suit at a reduced price, see us and see us quick.

IMPORTANT CASES TRIED

CRIMINAL TERM OF SUPERIOR COURT CLOSED SATURDAY.

Oliver Mills Given 15 Years For Second Degree Murder—Claude Gilmer Sent Up Three Years For Manslaughter—Co. aine Seller Sentenced to Roads For Three Years—Grand Jury Makes Exhaustive and Critical Report.

Guilford Superior court for the trial of criminal cases adjourned Saturday afternoon to meet again the first Monday in April. The last case heard was that of Oliver Mills, a young white man, who was charged with the murder of Jesse Farrington, at Revolution, about two months ago. The jury found him guilty of a second degree murder and Judge Daniell gave the defendant a sentence of 15 years in the state penitentiary.

Both Mills and Farrington were employed in the Revolution mills and the defendant had boarded at the home of the deceased. Mills had been accused of too intimate relations with Farrington's wife, and this and whiskey were the causes of the crime. The defense was temporary insanity. It was shown that Mills was at-minded, and this no doubt saved him from the electric chair.

Claude Gilmer, colored, who shot and killed Connie Garrett, also colored, one night a few weeks ago, submitted through his counsel to the charge of manslaughter and was sentenced to the penitentiary for three years.

Jim Suits pleaded guilty to the charge of blockading and prayer for judgment was continued until the April term. The defendant was held under a bond of $250.

Paul Mullin was found guilty of larceny and sentenced to the workhouse for 12 months.

Fletcher Farrington was given a road sentence of four months for carrying concealed weapons.

Eva Hall was sent to the workhouse six months for re-selling.

Ed. Coltrane, a young negro convicted of re-selling cocaine, was sentenced to the roads for three years.

Grand Jury Makes Sweeping Report.

The report of the grand jury was one of the most thorough and sweeping that has been made in this county in quite a while. Judge Daniels ordered the report spread upon the court records and instructed the clerk to furnish the county commissioners with a copy. The report follows:

The county home is in good condition, clean, comfortably warm, and the inmates are well cared for. There are 44 persons in the home, 26 white and 18 colored. We commend the work that is being done there.

There are 26 people in the workhouse. The place is well kept. The management is efficient. The work of the place is handicapped by a very small crock stove, there being only four holes on top with a small oven inside. The oven is too small to bake bread for 26 people without repeating the process several times at each meal. Much valuable time is lost, especially in the mornings, waiting on this small stove. We think this should be remedied at once.

An other matter of very great importance is the sending of persons to the workhouse afflicted with loathsome diseases of a more or less contagious character. There are four or five of these people there now, both men and women, who are unable to work. These unclean people are living daily in the same quarters with other inmates. It is the sense of the grand jury that if these afflicted people are to be sent to the workhouse, separate quarters should be provided for them. The four inmates there now, and the one sent down by this court, are unfit to live among people, though they are of the criminal class, and should be removed, even if a commutation of the sentence is necessary. This is a very grievous matter and should be remedied at once.

The convict quarters are in good condition, the men seem to be well cared for, and the whole working force is well organized. The stock is in good condition.

The jailer has been sick about two weeks, and is still confined to his bed. We did not see that a deputy jailer was in charge; in fact a boy and a trusty convict who works about the jail were the people in active charge of the jail March 2, 1911. Although snow lay on the ground more or less, and the weather was cold, there was no heat on the second floor of the jail, and moreover several windows were down from the top for lack of cords and other fixtures. We were told that it was the duty of the trusty convict to keep up the fire, but when questioned about the furnace, he did not know what the steam gauge was. It is a clear case of inefficiency. Some prisoners tore up the plumbing fixtures February 24 under the bath tub, and this damage had not been remedied March 2. Of the eight cells on the first floor, the white men's floor, only one of these cells could be locked at night, the locking arrangement of the other seven being out of order.

The sanitary condition of the jail, especially about the plumbing, was not good. The stool on which the men get with their feet, is not of the proper type, and a change of the style of stool would be an improvement. The window glass are broken out of the basement. The general appearance of the jail is one of lack of care. One room only of the women's department had heat, necessitating the whites and blacks mingling together during the day.

The Southern Power Company has recently built a reservoir, covering several acres of land, touching the public road inside the city limits, and running along the side of the road two or three hundred feet. The roadbed has been raised several feet, the main elevation being from 10 to 15 feet in height. This road should be protected with a good, substantial fence.

The court room of the county is not properly ventilated. With steam already in the building, it would be an easy matter to install a ventilating system of modern type, and we recommend that this be taken under consideration.

The men's toilet room on the second floor of this building is too small for the demands constantly made upon it. Some of the fixtures are out of date. Some improvements should be made here. It is also recommended that a younger and more energetic man be employed as janitor in this building.

A visit was made to the register of deeds office, the county treasurer, the sheriff and the county superintendent of public instruction, and the clerk of the court. These offices are in good condition, and seem to be accomplishing the purposes for which they were created. We note with pleasure the adoption of modern and time-saving forms in many, if not all, the offices.

There were appointed by the governor in 1907 35 magistrates whose terms expire in 1913 and in 1909 20 additional, whose terms expire in 1915. In 1900 41 magistrates were elected by popular vote—at least 41 have qualified—making a total of 56. Some of these appointed by the governor possibly may not have qualified. Only seven of the magistrates of Guilford county made reports to this court, which we construe to mean that 49 magistrates did no business since December 22, 1910, the last term of the criminal court. But inasmuch as the funds coming into the hands of the magistrates form an important part of our county accounting system, and since the county of Guilford has gone to the expense of employing an auditor to look after these matters, it is the opinion of the grand jury that all magistrates in the county, whether they do business or not, should report to each term of the criminal court; and to bring about this reform in the county, the county auditor should send proper forms to all magistrates, asking their concurrence and co-operation.

We made some inquiry into the investment of the sinking fund, and so far as we are able to judge, it is properly and safely managed. We have examined a list, furnished by the clerk, of only five guardians now in existence in Guilford county; but we append a list, as part of this report, published in The Greensboro Patriot, February 9, 1911, taken from "Report of the clerk's office, December 1, 1910," showing money due to sundry persons, amounting to $3,297.78. We have not been able to examine this matter.

Again, published in the same report, are sundry assets and liabilities, amounting to $11,048.04, due to the clerk's office, which amounts have not been turned over to the present clerk. The lord of the late retiring clerk was $10,000, we understand.

Thirty-five cases came before the grand jury for action during the present term, resulting in 29 true bills, and six not true bills.

In Explanation.

It appears that there is a difference of opinion, or rather a misunderstanding, as to the number of guardians mentioned in the report, and considerable comment was caused about the sum of $11,048.04, mentioned as not having been turned over to the present clerk. Regarding these matters, Superior Court Clerk Fariss made the following statement:

"My understanding was that the retiring clerk had an understanding with the county commissioners for a 60 or 90 days' time in which to collect moneys he had loaned out that came into his hands while clerk, especially as receiver, and I suppose this is the cause of the delay. It seems to be reasonable. As for the number of guardians spoken of by the grand jury, the question they asked the present clerk was 'How many guardians have qualified during your term of office?' We found in the guardian book only five, and so reported in full response to the question asked. There are a great many guardians who have been appointed from time to time during a long period of years and it would take considerable time to find out all still acting who have not made their final report."

County Auditor Abbott says the item of $3,297.78 mentioned in the report is included in the $14,048.08, and that of this amount about $2,000 has been paid, leaving outstanding notes amounting to something like $9,000. Mr. Abbott says it was understood that Mr. Clapp was to have time to collect the loans, as it was not the duty of the commissioners to work a hardship upon any one by enforcing a hasty collection.

Referring to the criticism of the jail, Sheriff Jones stated that he had no connection with that institution further than to see that the jailer kept the prisoners safely and comfortably and supplied them with plenty of wholesome food. He stated that the regular jailer had been ill for about ten days and since that time he had had a night guard on duty; that the boy referred to was not allowed to go inside unless accompanied by a deputy sheriff. As for the heating arrangement, he said it was difficult to keep the second floor heated and that the prisoners frequently pulled the windows down in order to talk with persons on the street.

As to the plumbing, the sheriff said, while he had nothing to do with this, that it had been found that the plumbers would have to cut a hole through the cement floor and dig under the walls of the jail, consequently it was thought best to wait until after court to do the work.

Avoid Frauds.

A paint fraud is paint that looks fair for a year or so, and then makes repainting necessary. Don't waste your money and injure your property.

The L. & M. Paint has been in use for thirty-five years.

You make one-half of it by adding 3-4 of a gallon of Linseed Oil to each gallon. It then costs about $1.60 per gallon, and is the best paint that can be made.

SERIOUS BUSINESS FAILURES.

Haw River Cotton Manufacturers Go Into Bankruptcy.

The failures of Messrs. B. S. Robertson and J. W. Trolinger, of Haw River, and the filing by them of voluntary petitions in bankruptcy in the United States court here Friday created quite a surprise in business circles in this section of the state. At the same time, their petitions were filed, the Trolinger Manufacturing Company also filed a petition. The total liabilities of the two men are given in the petitions in bankruptcy at more than half a million dollars. They were engaged in the cotton manufacturing business and were among the leading business men of Haw River.

The liabilities of Mr. Robertson are estimated at $280,000, with on y $2,500 of assets. Mr. Trolinger's assets are scheduled at $23,000 and his liabilities at $430,000. The Trolinger Manufacturing Company, which was controlled by these gentlemen, has assets of $17,000 and liabilities amounting to $53,000.

The petition in bankruptcy was filed by Mr. E. S. Parker, Jr., of Graham, attorney for the bankrupts, and Mr. J. R. Young was named as receiver. Judge Eoyd designated King & Kimball as attorneys for the receiver.

The failure of Messrs. Robertson and Trolinger and the Trolinger Manufacturing Company caused the Granite Savings and Trust Company, a bank at Haw River, to close its doors. Mr. Charles A. Scott, of Graham, was appointed receiver of the bank, which has a capital of $5,000 and deposits in the neighborhood of $30,000. It is announced that the depositors will probably be paid in full.

Another Veteran Answers the Final Summons.

Mr. J. Robert Paisley, one of the county's best citizens, died at his home in the Mt. Pleasant church neighborhood, east of the city, Wednesday night of last week. Mr. Paisley was 67 years old and is survived by his widow and four children—two sons and two daughters.

The funeral and interment took place Friday morning at 11 o'clock at Alamance Presbyterian church, of which Mr. Paisley had been a faithful and consistent member for many years. The services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. A. Wilson. Mr. Paisley was a member of a well known and prominent Guilford county family and held a high place in the esteem of his friends and neighbors. He was a brave Confederate soldier, and in the walks of civil life exemplified the virtues of the brave men who followed Lee and Jackson. He will be missed by his comrades of the "Lost Cause," as well as by those who were privileged to call him friend and neighbor.

Royster, of Raleigh, was present as the special guest of the meeting and made an address on "Present Day Views on the Management of Lone Tuberculosis." The reading of the papers and Dr. Royster's address were followed by a general discussion.

It was decided to hold the April meeting in High Point and throw it open to the public. Contagious diseases will be the subject for consideration at this time.

Burghaw Traction Company's Property Sold at Graham Saturday.

Burlington, March 5.—The property of the Burghaw Traction Company was resold by Receiver C. A. Scott at the court house in Graham yesterday and was bought by Mr. J. W. Murray, of Burlington, and associates, the purchase price being $26,030. The property of the traction company consists of franchises and right-of-way of the incomplete electric railway system extending from Burlington to Graham and Haw River, over which grading has been practically completed and rails laid about two-thirds of the distance; power house, which has been almost completed; car barn, the foundation of which has been built; practically enough 70-pound rails, angle bars, bolts, etc., to finish the road; a large tract of land known as the Park site; four hundred suburban building lots and other property of less value.

Mr. Murray, the purchaser, was the original promoter of the enterprise, and it is understood that with court confirmation of the sale construction work on the line will be resumed. The work on this road stopped during the recent financial stringency.

Adulterated Whiskey Shipped into North Carolina.

Winston-Salem Journal.

District Attorney A. E. Holton, at the request of the United States department of agriculture, on Thursday sent to Washington for analysis a sample of the cheap whiskey that is being shipped into North Carolina from Virginia and other states. This particular sample came from Virginia and was retailed at $1.50.

So particularly vile is this whiskey said to be that it is thought to have actually killed three men in this city. Similar requests, it is said, have been sent to all the prohibition states, and it is understood that this is the beginning of a crusade against impure whiskey being shipped under the interstate commerce laws. This comes under the head of the pure food and drug act.

It is claimed that a great deal of the whiskey that is shipped into North Carolina is adulterated, and it is the purpose of the department of agriculture to put a stop to this. Especially is it true that the cheaper grades of whiskey are adulterated, though it is stated, that upon examination recently a shipment of what was supposed to be the finest sort of Kentucky liquor, costing $8 per gallon, was found to be very much adulterated.

THE FARM LIFE SCHOOLS.

Bill Enacted by Legislature For Guilford County.

We are publishing in this week's Patriot a copy of a bill which has passed the legislature to promote the teaching of agriculture and domestic science in the public high schools of the county. We are publishing this in order that the people of the county may see just what the law is, and we bespeak their co-operation in aiding the board of education to carry out the provisions of this law. We feel that this is a step in the right direction in the progress of educational work in Guilford county.

The addition of a department of agricultural instruction and a department for training in domestic science and home economics will round out our present high school course, give to our boys and girls a better training, because there is in the school curriculum work in which they are more directly interested, and better prepare them for their life work.

The bill referred to follows:

The general assembly of North Carolina do enact:

Section 1. That there shall be maintained in one or more of the public high schools of Guilford county complying with the provisions of this act, as hereinafter set forth, a department of agricultural instruction and a department of training in domestic science and home economics in order to better prepare the boys and girls of said county for farm life and home-making.

Section 2. That the said school or schools shall be under the control and management of a board of trustees consisting of the members of the board of education of said county and the chairman and secretary of the board of trustees of each high school in which such departments are established.

Section 3. That, after due advertisement inviting bids from the public high schools of said county now in existence or hereafter created, the county board of education of Guilford county shall designate the place or places at which such agricultural or domestic science work shall be established. In designating a school, the said county board of education shall take into consideration the financial aid offered for maintenance and equipment, desirability, and suitability of location; provided, however, that no such department shall be established in a school which is located in a town of more than one thousand inhabitants, nor within two miles of the corporate limits of any city or town of more than five thousand inhabitants.

Section 4. That, for the maintenance of said school or schools, the county shall provide annually out of the public school fund, or by donation, or local tax not exceeding twenty-five hundred dollars; provided, however, that the present average school term of the county shall not be shortened by the appropriation herein designated. Any school applying for this benefit shall first provide a building with recitation rooms, laboratories, and apparatus necessary for efficient instruction in the prescribed subjects of study, and such dormitory buildings as the county board of education of said county may require, and a farm of not less than ten acres of good arable land, said land to be situated not more than one mile from the school building; provided, however, that, before the county board of education of Guilford county shall designate any school as a place at which the agricultural and domestic science work shall be established, it shall first submit to the state superintendent of public instruction for his inspection and approval the equipment provided for said school.

Section 5. That the purpose of said school or schools is to give to the boys and girls such preparation as is now given in the said county public high schools, and, in addition to that, to give to the boys training in agricultural pursuits and farm life, and to prepare the girls for home-making and home-keeping.

Section 6. That the teacher or teachers of the public high school, the teacher of agriculture, and the teacher of domestic science shall constitute the faculty of the county high school, who shall arrange the weekly schedule of work and submit such weekly schedule to the county superintendent of Guilford county for his approval.

Section 7. That, upon its being made to appear to the state board of education that Guilford county has complied with all the provisions of this act for establishment, maintenance, and equipment of an agricultural department, and a domestic science department in connection with one or more of the public high schools of the said county, it shall appropriate and pay to the county board of education of Guilford county for such purpose an amount equal to that appropriated and furnished for the county of Guilford for said work; provided, however, that said appropriation by the state board of education shall not exceed the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars annually for the maintenance of said work in said county. That any money that is now or may hereafter be appropriated by the general assembly of North Carolina, the state board of education, or other state authority for agricultural or domestic science education, a part of which appropriation would, except for this act, be appropriated to Guilford county absolutely, or upon contingency or condition, shall then, and in that event, such appropriation shall go to Guilford county to aid in the carrying out of the provisions of this act. That compliance with the provisions of this act by the authorities of Guilford county shall be sufficient to entitle the county of Guilford to its proportion of any appropriation of money already made or which may hereafter be made for training in the science of agriculture or domestic science. The state superintendent of public instruction shall issue a requisition on the state auditor for the amount so appropriated to Guilford county, and he shall issue his warrant to the county treasurer of said county, and the money shall be placed by the said treasurer to the credit of the school or schools of Guilford county in which such agricultural or domestic science work is being conducted; provided, however, that all money thus placed to their credit shall be used exclusively for the purpose of instruction in agriculture and domestic science.

Section 8. That nothing in this act shall be construed to lessen the power and authority of the principal of the high school, but the instructors in the various departments shall be considered members of the faculty of which the high school principal is head.

Section 9. That no person shall be employed as teacher in agriculture or domestic science in the school or schools herein provided for unless the applicant has furnished to the trustees satisfactory evidence of a liberal English education, and, in addition thereto, special preparation and fitness for the specific branches to be taught, said qualification to be passed upon by the county superintendent of Guilford county, and, if approved, submitted to the state superintendent of public instruction for his approval. In addition to the above requirements, the said person shall hold a high school teacher's certificate on all required subjects except Latin, Greek and modern languages.

Section 10. That the board of trustees of the school or schools herein provided for is authorized and empowered to admit students from other counties of the state to said school or schools upon payment of such tuition charges as said board of trustees may fix, but all students who are residents of Guilford county shall be admitted to any of said schools without charge for tuition; provided, however, that there shall be no discrimination against students coming from other counties in the charges fixed for board and incidentals.

Section 11. That it shall be a part of the duty of the teachers of agriculture and domestic science to conduct agricultural farm-life and extension work in Guilford county in co-operation as far as possible with such work carried on in said county by the state department of agriculture, the North Carolina College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, and the United States department of agriculture; to hold townships and district meetings in various parts of Guilford county from time to time for farmers and farmers' wives; to co-operate with the county superintendent of education of said county, and with the commissioner of agriculture, if such officer exists, in stimulating, directing and supervising practical farm-life work in the public high schools and the elementary schools of said county, and in providing instruction through the teachers' association, and through a special short course of study at the schools where agriculture and domestic science instruction is given for the public school teachers of said county.

Section 12. That this act shall apply only to Guilford county.

Section 13. That this act shall be in force from and after its ratification.

Commendable Action.

We wish to commend the action of the chairman and secretary of the Fentress township school committee in publishing a complete statement showing how the school money of that township was spent last year. Frequently dissatisfactions and talk originate because people do not exactly understand the situation, and we are always glad to see the school committee or others charged with public affairs make a statement to inform the public as to how business has been managed.

If those in authority did more of this and the public would inform themselves carefully, we feel that a great many misunderstandings would be obviated. The management of public affairs is a public trust, and the people are entitled to know just how things have been done.

Costs Champ Clark $9,000.

Small wonder that Champ Clark has not been the most enthusiastic of the advocates of an extraordinary session is the remark heard just now in the Democratic cloakroom.

The story is this: By reason of the extra session Champ Clark stands to lose $9,000 in lecturing fees. Early in the winter, when prospects for a special call were far from bright, Clark made a contract. He was to tour the United States, beginning with a lecture in Philadelphia, March 6. He was to lecture for 10 weeks, at an average of $900 a week. Now, with the promise of the extra session a certainty and an early call of the new Congress imminent, Clark is wondering whether the statesman business is all that it is cracked up to be.

Fever—Its Cause (Continued.)

Ideas to be presented—(a) Relation of places of filth through the fly to the kitchen and dining room. (b) The number of people capable of depositing typhoid germs promiscuously. (c) Experience at Chickamauga.

Fly Route.

Remember, that in the open privy—the chief landing place of the fly—between meals—the germs of typhoid fever and other intestinal diseases are deposited. A patient usually remains up and about a week or ten days before going to bed with typhoid. During this time the patient passes, in his stools, millions of typhoid germs. Again the Germans have shown that about 3 per cent. of recovered cases still continue to harbor in their intestines and pass in their stools typhoid germs. Who can tell when some one in the early stages of the disease, or some one who has recovered from the disease and still carries the poison, will deposit in the open privy of your own back yard or in your neighbor's privy? If you live in town, some of these seeds of disease and death which the flies carry will enter into your home.

When the United States concentrated her troops at Chickamauga in 1898, preparatory to the invasion of Cuba, some of the men arriving at camp were in the early stages of typhoid fever. Before going to bed with the disease, these soldiers deposited their infected stools in open ditches or latrines. Soon typhoid began to develop rapidly among the soldiers. The water supply of the camp was examined and found pure. The milk supply was likewise found above suspicion. It was noticed that the disease occurred almost exclusively in the soldiers who took their meals in the mess-halls that were unscreened. It was further noticed that the disease was most prevalent among the soldiers who ate in the mess-halls closest to the open latrines. As flies were abundant at the same time, this incriminating evidence pointed more and more clearly to that pest. Flour and lime were sprinkled upon the excreta in the latrines and a short time thereafter flies covered with white powder were found in the mess-halls. This strongly circumstantial proof was made conclusive when bacteriological examination of captured flies found myriads of typhoid germs both in and on their bodies.

Among 107,000 American soldiers there were 20,100 cases of typhoid and 1,580 deaths as a result of fly infection. Since the study of fly in connection with this outbreak, numerous and independent works have placed beyond question the deadly role of the fly in this disease.

A GRACIOUS ACT.

Tribute to Judge Schenck and Major
Morehead.

Raleigh News and Observer.

No two men who ever lived in North Carolina loved the state and her history better or rendered more patriotic service in the preservation of her history than the late Judge David Schenck and the late Major Joseph M. Morehead. Their splendid work in the preservation of Guilford Battle Ground and in converting that historic field into a beautiful historical park was a work of truly national significance. It is impossible to say that greater credit is due to either than to the other, for they worked in perfect harmony and unselfish friendship. How perfectly harmonious were they in spirit and in work was well illustrated by a humorous reply made by the end man in an amateur minstrel given once in Greensboro. Asked "Who discovered the Guilford Battle Ground?" he replied, "Marse Judge Schenck he disklivered it, but Marse Joe Morehead he seen it fust."

It was therefore a beautiful and gracious act in the general assembly of North Carolina, now in session, in view of the recent death of Major Morehead, to adopt unanimously the following appreciative resolutions:

"Whereas, David Schenck and Joseph M. Morehead, as presidents of the Guilford Court House Battle Ground Association, gave largely and devotedly of their time and means to the preservation of Guilford Court House Battle Ground, and rendered distinguished service to the state and nation by arresting the attention of mankind and fixing it upon the heroic deeds of the American patriots upon that historic scene of conflict between the American Revolutionary and British forces; and,

"Whereas, the untiring efforts of the said David Schenck and Joseph M. Morehead made possible the fulfillment of the wish cherished by many, that at Guilford Court House Battle Ground their children and their children's children might throughout all time read in bronze and marble the deeds of valor and self-sacrifice of their ancestors, and tread the soil made sacred by the blood of martyrs to the cause of freedom; and,

"Whereas, said services merit public recognition and an expression of appreciation of a grateful people; now, therefore, be it

"Resolved by the senate, the house concurring:

"First, That the state of North Carolina, through its general assembly, give public acknowledgement of its debt of gratitude for the services of these distinguished dead; and,

"Second, That a copy of these resolutions be furnished to the respective families of the deceased."

THE "GOOD OLD TIMES."

Booker T. Washington, the leading negro educator of the country, is authority for the statement that during the Civil war, when every white man in the South who could carry a musket was in the army, and the women and children were left to the protection of the negroes, the black man proved loyal to their trust, and not an outrage was committed by a negro upon a white woman. Judge Emory Speer, of Georgia, in a Federal District court, in a recent case in which he discussed the meaning of the term "dependent female," as used in a statute exempting a certain amount of property of every person having the care and support of dependent females, is reported as saying:

"Now, can it be denied that in our Southern country a woman of any age who lives in the country needs the constant care of a man? Those who disregard that necessity realize very little of the dangerous condition of society here."

The debauchery of the negro by the carpet baggers, his subsequent excitement to abnormal self-assertion by ruthless Republican political exploiters in the South and the sense of self-exaltation which it has produced in him is largely responsible for the racial difficulties which have arisen since the war. Left to himself, with proper environment and uninfluenced by the sinister motives of political intrigue, the present generation of the black race would never have presented the phases of political and social embroilment that are peculiar to the Southern centers of negro population and which not infrequently manifest themselves in the North.

Fortunately, the great problem is being gradually worked out to a fair solution in the South, with full justice to the enfranchised colored man. The work of such men as Booker T. Washington is helping much in this, though it is now and again hampered by the political jingoes who have no earthly use for the negro except to influence his vote by reviving, or rather fostering, race animosities and cultivating an imaginary sense of abuse and unfairness on the part of the Southern whites. The South is solving a delicate problem, under immense difficulties, with much credit to its patriotism and sense of justice.

The old times may well be termed the "good old times."

The sixty-first Congress adjourned Saturday at noon, and within an hour thereafter President Taft called a extra session to convene April 4, the failure of the late session to pass the Canadian reciprocity bill being the occasion of the call for the extra session. When the new Congress convenes the Democrats will be in overwhelming control of the house and the senate will be closer than it has been for years. After disposing of the Canadian reciprocity matter, Congress will very probably take up the tariff question, without waiting for the regular session next December. With the big majority in the house and with the assistance of the insurgent Republicans in the senate, the Democrats ought to be able to handle the situation in a fairly satisfactory manner.

Mr. Cyrus A. Wharton, who has been designated to succeed Mr. J. A. Davidson as a member of the board of county commissioners, is a leading citizen of eastern Guilford and one of the best men in the county. He is well equipped for the duties of the position and we predict the public will have no fault to find with the manner in which he discharges those duties. We also predict that he will not find the position of county commissioner a bed of roses.

The resignation of Mr. J. A. Davidson as chairman and a member of the board of county commissioners is a distinct loss to Guilford county. Splendidly equipped with a wide knowledge of business affairs and possessing fine executive ability, Mr. Davidson has rendered the county services upon which no estimate can be placed in dollars and cents. He has given ungrudgingly of his time, often to the hurt of his private business, to advancing the best interests of Guilford county. Mr. Davidson leaves the county's business in the hands of good and capable men, who will carry forward without interruption the work that has brought Guilford to the forefront of North Carolina counties in all progressive matters.

A distinguished native of Guilford county was sworn of great political power last Saturday when "Uncle Joe" Cannon, for the last time, rapped the gavel as presiding officer of the house of representatives. We have seldom been able to agree with this distinguished Guilfordite, but whatever may be said of his political meanness, it cannot be disputed that he is a daring man unafraid. We trust that "Uncle Joe" may be spared for many years, but pray that his politics and policies may be buried forever.

It is gratifying to note the interest being shown throughout the county in the organization of township good roads clubs. These local organizations can be of great value in stimulating public interest in the improvement and maintenance of the public roads. Guilford does not now lead all the counties of the state in good roads mileage, but she excels them all in the excellence of her good roads. In a few years she will lead in mileage.

The Patriot hereby offers to bet—betting pardon of the law against gambling—that no district in the United States has sent to Congress a courtier or handsomer man than the distinguished gentleman who will represent the imperial Fifth district of North Carolina in the house of representatives of the sixty-second Congress.

BALLINGER STEPS DOWN.

Secretary of the Interior Resigns From the Cabinet.

Washington, March 7.—The resignation of Richard A. Ballinger, of Seattle, as secretary of the interior, was accepted today by President Taft, and Walter L. Fisher, of Chicago, was appointed as his successor. It appears in the correspondence between Mr. Ballinger and the president, which was given out in full at the White House, that the secretary's resignation has been in the president's hands since January 19 last; that it was held in suspense at the urgent request of the president and that the latter at last accepted it only at the urgent request of Mr. Ballinger. In his letter of resignation Mr. Ballinger gives the condition of his health as the reason for retiring.

In giving his consent to the secretary's retirement, Mr. Taft takes occasion to declare with marked emphasis his unchanging faith in the integrity, the motives and the official standards of Mr. Ballinger, and his unmeasured indignation at the methods of those who assailed him, declaring that he has been "the subject of one of the most unscrupulous conspiracies for the defrauding of the government that has ever been known."

The secretary late today, in a written statement given out at the interior department, expressed his intention to return forthwith to Seattle and after a rest resume the practice of law. He says that his defense has cost him not less than $27,000 and that he is now a poor man. At the same time he declares it his purpose now "to prosecute the architects of the conspiracy who have been following me with the assassin's knife."

IN MEMORIAM.

Willie Vance Summers.

PLEASANT GARDEN ITEMS.

The farmers of this section are busy preparing to sow spring oats. The Cravenian literary society is doing nice work this term. They elected new officers last week: Miss Lura Hockett, president; Miss Flora Jones, secretary; Miss Ada Michael, treasurer.

There will be an old-time fiddlers' convention here March 23. There will be a public debate between Pleasant Garden high school and the Jamestown high school the night of March 10. The speakers from Pleasant Garden are Messrs. Basom Field and Samuel Hodgkin. The speaking begins at 7.30 promptly.

Those not here when the speaking begins will not be allowed to enter while a person is speaking.

Forest fires during the past few days have destroyed much valuable timber in the vicinity of Newbern.

SOLDIERS ARE MOVING.

Twenty Thousand Men Ordered to the Mexican Border.

Washington, March 7.—The most extensive movement of troops and war vessels ever executed in this country in time of peace is now under way by order of the president as commander-in-chief of the army and navy, the objective being the country north of the Mexican boundary and the waters of the two oceans at either end of it.

Twenty thousand soldiers—more than one-fourth of the army of the United States—of all arms of the service, are moving toward the Mexican border; four armored cruisers, comprising the fifth division of the Atlantic fleet, have been ordered from northern waters to the naval station at Guantanamo, Cuba, and most of the Pacific fleet is, or shortly will be, on its way to assemble at San Pedro and San Diego, Cal., and 2,000 Marines are preparing to make the Guantanamo station their headquarters.

It was officially announced at the White House and at the War and Navy departments today that the purpose of this great mobilization, unprecedented save in war time, is the retaining of officers and men under service conditions and practice in co-operation between the land and naval forces. Unusual pains were taken to allay official concern in the matter to give this color to the sudden activities; but these statements were accepted with increasing reserve.

The real significance of these activities which have been confined apparently to the last forty-eight hours or less, is thought to relate very directly to the condition in Mexico, and to the growing belief that the situation there is by no means so satisfactory as the Mexican government would have it believed to be. There are persistent reports that the physical condition of President Diaz has lately become such as to alarm his adherents and that momentous developments are to be prepared for.

Correspondence of The Patriot.

The citizens of Stokesdale, and the farmers in that community, will have a meeting in the Junior Order hall at Stokesdale on Saturday, March 11, at 2 o'clock P. M. for the purpose of organizing a company to build a tobacco warehouse at that place. There is no town in this section that needs a tobacco warehouse more than Stokesdale. It is centrally located in the best tobacco belt in North Carolina or Virginia, being in the center of the section that produces what is known as Rockingham fillers and wrappers.

Every farmer in that community is cordially invited to attend the meeting. Come prepared to take some stock in the warehouse, and let's every one pull together for a good tobacco market. Don't forget the date, Saturday, March 11, at 2 o'clock P. M.

A SUGGESTION TO LAND BUYERS

In view of the millions of dollars, literally, that are being spent by oftentimes greedy and glibble investors in various land promotion schemes it would be a good idea if it would be purchasers of land in localities of which they do not possess first hand reliable information would take a little more pains to find out whether the glittering, golden story narrated by the zealous real estate agent needs toning down somewhat to make it tally with actual facts. One of the best ways of securing the desired information would be to address a letter of inquiry to the agricultural college of the state in which the land to be bought is located asking definite questions as to soil, climate, water supply, rainfall or possibility of irrigation, adaptability of the soil to produce the kinds and quantities of fruit, grain or vegetables claimed by the real estate agent, and last, but not least, some queries should be put as to the reliability and integrity of the individual or company backing a given land promotion scheme, upon which perhaps more than anything else depend the safety and advisability of purchasing. The would be buyer may say: "Oh, shucks! This is too much red tape. The agent is genial and gentlemanly, gives me a free ride and a fine Havana cigar, and I think I can believe what he tells me and also save time." We have known of fellows who have thought if not spoken in substance as above and have had an awakening not many months after buying on the real estate agent's representations or misrepresentations who went out into the tall brush, thick dust or deep ooze on the back end of their places and metaphorically kicked themselves every morning at sunrise for being such big suckers and easy marks.

"DRY FARMING" EXPERIENCE.

A friend related to us the other day the experience of a Mississippi valley farmer who went out into eastern Montana a year ago last spring and took up or bought a farm in the "dry" country. The first season, owing to inadequate preparation of the soil, he raised barely enough to carry his few animals through the winter. However, this experience was valuable, and last spring after reading all the government and state bulletins he could get hold of on the subject of dry farming he went at it again. In the fall he came into our friend's office and plunked down a sheaf of oats from a field which he said yielded him at the rate of sixty-four bushels per acre, which is just about twice the average yield of oats the country over. The success of this young fellow was not exceptional, we think. It was the direct result of the application of energy and brains and an open mindedness which did not cause him to view with contempt the labors of agricultural college farmers. In fact, he attributes his success largely to the help got from the bulletins.

WATER PIPES EXPLODE.

Several householders of whom the writer has read within the past few weeks have had some narrow escapes as a result of the bursting by steam pressure of water pipes connected with their kitchen ranges. In one case the man of the house had a hand blown off at the wrist, while in another the housewife had a close call from a fragment of the stove which was hurled by the force of the explosion through the panel of the door just back of her. Accidents of this kind are directly due to the freezing of the water in the pipes and a consequent shutting off of any avenue of escape for the steam formed in the stove water front after the starting of the fire in the morning. And in a majority of cases the obstruction will be found in the lead pipe running from the stove to the tank. If water in the receptacles in the kitchen is found frozen in the morning it is a very safe precaution to hold a burning paper or lamp under this connecting pipe to thaw it out before a fire is started in the stove.

THINGS ON A BIG SCALE.

The impression left upon the mind of one who for the first time travels in the west is pre-eminently one of vastness. This is made by the horizon limited plains of Wyoming, the towering peaks and mighty chasms of the Rockies, the unbroken and monotonous deserts of Utah and Nevada. Added to this are the wonderful feats of engineering whereby man tunnels through mountains of solid rock, spans abysses at dizzy heights and triumphs over seemingly impassable barriers; the all but superhuman projects undertaken to transform hundreds of thousands of acres of desert lands into veritable garden spots and homes. These are the factors which make one realize that he is indeed in a land of vastness where vast enterprises are undertaken and accomplished. And in such a country the incentive to individual effort and achievement is correspondingly large.

In Colorado, of mining fame, agriculture today outstrips the mines.

Many daughters—of capable mothers is this especially true—do not accept household responsibilities because they are neither expected nor allowed to do so.

In latitudes where the cotton plant is not killed by annual freezing it attains an age of several years. It bears freely, sometimes two crops in the long tropical season.

Dry farming has its place doubtless, but the hope of many sections of the west lies in irrigation. By it alone can a number of the states attain greatness agriculturally.

In the majority of cases it is the early hatched pullets—March or early April—that make the best winter layers. They begin laying in October and November and get the habit before the cold weather sets in.

The 1910 imports of silk into the United States totaled 25,000,000 pounds and were valued at $70,000,000. It is estimated that from this amount of silk the mills of the country will turn out products valued at $150,000,000.

Whole hearted appreciation of the service which those about us render, whether in business life or the home circle, doesn't cost a red cent, yet meets a longing which every one has and which money alone cannot satisfy.

If your liver is out of whack, instead of paying a fancy price for some booze stimulant and regulator try a sprig of green parsley now and then and tone your system up still further with a daily draft of clean, fresh buttermilk.

The Roosevelt dam on the Salt river, Arizona, to be dedicated by Mr. Roosevelt next March, is a mass of masonry 240 feet high, built at a cost of $6,000,000, which will retain the waters of a lake covering 17,000 acres. This water will be used to irrigate 200,000 acres, with an additional 40,000 acres to be supplied by pumping.

With hog prices at the present level and likely to continue the same or better for some time to come, it is a mighty shortsighted policy for the man who is in the pig raising business seriously not to provide his brood sows with proper shelter, which will keep them dry and comfortable. Tens of thousands of farmers are able to raise but three pigs per sow when they might raise six if they would provide the sows with proper shelter.

It is well to keep market facilities in mind in buying land in a new locality. We learned of an instance not long ago in which the purchaser failed to do this. The land bought was recommended by the agents as especially adapted to fruit raising when the tract being sold was all of eighty miles from a railroad. It makes one smile to think what apples, pears or peaches would look like after they had been "packed" over that distance. The pulp might be good for marmalade, but little else.

This winter season is just the time to let mother take that much thought of and long delayed visit to the "home folks." It will do her more good than may be imagined to get out of the old ruts and will prove the needed tonic, while the responsibility of the household is the very thing needed to develop the latent ability of Mary, who has no opportunity to show what she can do so long as mother is at home and "knows how to do it so much better," and mother's absence will show plainly to father and the boys what her presence means to them.

There are sections in northern Wisconsin where cut-over pine lands can be had at as low as $5 per acre, and for those who are looking for a home on the land they ought to be worth looking into. The soil is for the most part sandy, and while small grains do not thrive crops of early corn, potatoes, clover and fruits do well. The country is one in which dairying could be carried on with advantage and profit. Usually the land in question can be got for $1 per acre down, the balance in five years. The railroad lands in the same locality usually sell for $5.50 per acre and may be got on easy terms.

In view of the fact that it is an enterprise undertaken by a single state the New York large canal bids fair to be one of the big transportation enterprises of the present generation. When completed the canal will have a length of 412 miles and will extend from the Hudson river at a point 125 miles from the sea to Tonawanda, near Buffalo, on Lake Erie, where the last stretch of the canal will have an elevation of 565 feet. The masonry structures will require 4,250,000 cubic yards of concrete and 113,000,000 cubic yards of earth and silt, while 11,000,000 cubic yards of rock will have to be moved before the canal is completed.

Many of the abandoned farms of New England are being bought up by Slav immigrants, in some cases whole communities being settled by these people. While the native New Englander is inclined to be prejudiced against his foreign born neighbors, he cannot deny that they make honest, thrifty citizens. The Slav farmer usually has a large family, and each member has his or her work to do. Even the mother brings her baby into the field. With so many hands working and no help to hire economic independence is assured. Another generation will see these people thoroughly Americanized and valuable citizens.

Firm heads of cabbage which are crisp and tender, chopped and served raw or cooked and dressed with milk, make a very acceptable substitute for the variety of vegetables which can be got from the garden during the summer season.

While the chances are that if the seed corn is found spoiled before planting time the damage has already been done, it is just as well to postpone the careful and systematic testing of the seed until some three or four weeks, when the likelihood of subsequent deterioration will be reduced to a minimum.

Cornstalks left to bleach and whiten in the field have a fodder value of from 70 cents to $1 per acre. Put into the silo at the proper time they are worth $14. It is because of the somewhat tardy recognition of this fact that so many farmers put in silos last season and that a good many more will install them the coming year.

Any reader of these notes who may be planning to raise celery on a more extensive scale than needed for family use should have for ready reference a bulletin issued not long since by the agricultural department at Washington under the caption "Farmers' Bulletin No. 123 on Celery Growing." The subject is handled in a direct and practical way, and the most successful methods at present in use by market gardeners are explained in detail.

A friend has a flock of forty fine, thrifty looking hens that are laying about two eggs a day when they ought to be producing two dozen. While we have not inquired into the cause, we rather think the trouble is in the feed and because of a lack of exercise. If instead of the largely corn diet tanlage and bran or skim-milk were substituted and the small grain fed was scattered in straw so that the hens would have to dig it out it is a fair guess that there would be a whole lot more doing in the egg line.

Cotton, flax and wheat are soil robbers. On this account a rotation of the crops with some legume is necessary to a maintenance of soil fertility. As a result of the adoption of such a system of rotation many an exhausted cotton plantation in Dixie land that was producing a scant one-third of a bale per acre is now yielding a bale and a half. There has been not only this gain, but the growing of other crops and the raising of more live stock have made the section in which the rotation is practiced more independent and self sustaining.

If you have been the victim of an out and out misrepresentation and lost good money on some land promotion scheme and want to get even just drop a few lines to the postoffice department at Washington, narrating the main features of the swindle and giving the name of the firm that perpetrated it, together with a sample of the literature which it sent out. This is sufficient evidence, and the chances are that the firm will be promptly rounded up, for the department has been gathering in a whole lot of fakers of this kind of late—been giving 'em striped clothes and a diet of bread and water with slim trimmings.

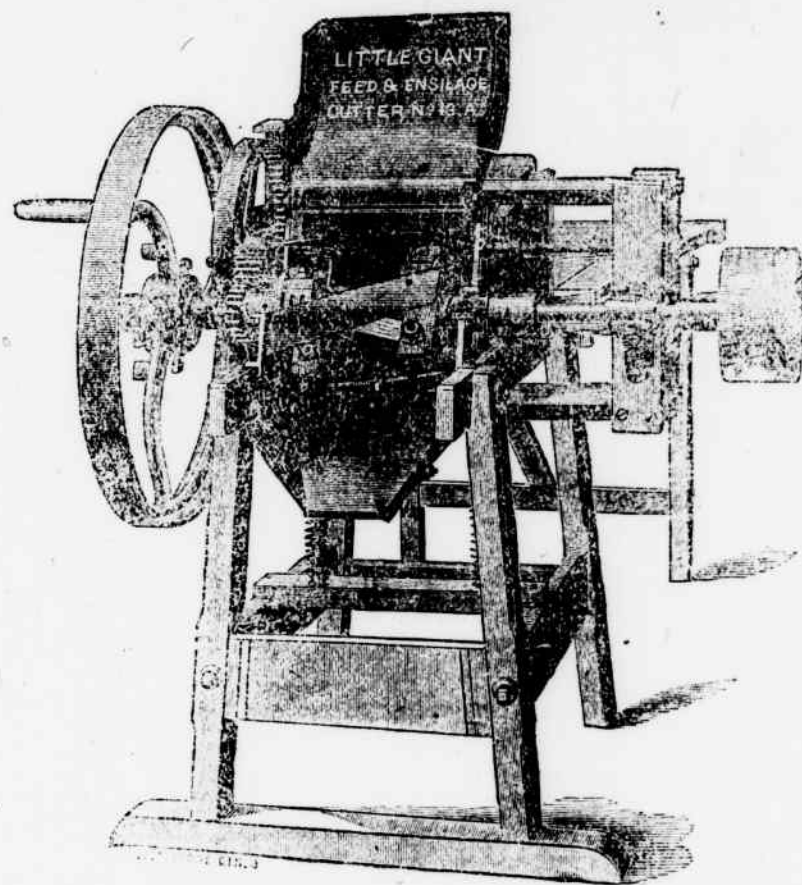

There is a splendid opportunity in many fruit growing valleys of the west for a limited class of men who have no taste for fruit growing, but who would prefer dairying, poultry or the growing of alfalfa and the raising of horses. Owing to the almost exclusive use of the land in these valleys for orchard purposes the products mentioned are not only at a high price now, but bid fair to go still higher. Land lying several miles from market centers could be got at a reasonable figure, and, while the haul for some of the products might be long, there would not be injury in transit, as in the case of tender and soft skinned fruits.

Because of a new interest that is from time to time manifested along this or that line of agricultural production many mad contrivances are put on the market, but this charge cannot be laid against the seed corn grader. One of these machines worthy of the name not only eliminates shrunken, broken and misshapen kernels, but separates good kernels of different shapes into grades by themselves so that they can be planted separately, with plates that will give the desired stand. In many instances the past season where these grades were used growers estimated that their yield of corn was increased from eight to twelve bushels per acre.

Not long ago it was stated in some quarters that only those ears of corn should be selected for seed in which the kernels cover the tip as fully as possible, and this theory is followed quite closely today in the selection of seed. Recently, however, one authority of the corn plant expresses the opinion that an ear that is not filled within an inch or so of the tip means that the plant was from seed of exceptional vigor and laid large plans for corn production, but that the conditions of soil fertility, moisture or both were such that the plant was not able to bring these plans to completion. This theory would seem to have considerable to commend it. In any case its truth can be easily demonstrated by any corn grower if he will plant seed from the two types of ears in rows side by side under the same conditions of soil.

THE PINIONS OF OUR PEACE.

Behold upon the mountains the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that published peace! — Nahum, I, 15.

We who have led in the battles, this land that won the fleece, Turns now to the leading of counsels beneath the broad pinions of peace; The broad-spreading wings of its glory, the ripple and glow of its form, Like a light in the darkness is uttered, like a calm in the storm. Our flocks take the seas with their wonder, But our guns, they are speaking no more In the palpitant throb of the thunder Through the militant lightning of war.

We who have mounted the ramparts, there's a cry and a call that we hear, Far sweeter than ever the battle brought by on the wind to our ear; And we in the high heavens o'er us, and we're glad to behold it again, That broad-spreading pinion of beauty with its message of peace unto men.

We have guarded our far-flung dominion, And our sentinels walk on the hills, But, above them we've set the white pinion Of peace that uplifts us and thrills.

We were first to behold on the mountains the feet bringing tidings of this,

And onward we lead with the banner, to publish its message of bliss; To the old, indestructible places, to the monarchs, empires and thrones, We are chosen to carry the fruitage of peace to the limitless zones.

From the ships on our seas it is speaking, From the forts on our hills it is heard, And the four winds of Heaven scatter shrieking To the militant races its word.

Unchangeable, onward, unhalting, a certain, imperative thing, It strikes at the sabres of tyrants, it shatters the sceptres of kings; It quells the old hate and injustice, the evil of envy and greed; Humanity's chosen evangel—spread, wide, noble pinions, and speed!

The dawn that they cleave burns with glory, The noon that they trace shall be won To a new and more beautiful story To be told when the long day is done.

We must drop the old thought of great battles in the thought of the spreading of peace—

This nation now leading the counsels that are teaching the sabres to cease.

Those wide-sweeping pinions above us, with the rose in the place of the sword,

Let us bring to the mountains our tidings, let us publish the peace of the Lord!

Not the rampart for us, but the valley,

Not the shield, but the sunburst of love,

While around us the great nations rally—

And God smiles as he looks from above!

The Place Jesus Would Have Before Men.

Rev. C. F. Thomss in the Baltimore Sun.

I am "the way, and the truth and the life."—John, xiv, 6.

Our Lord presented Himself to the world as its only hope of salvation; as St. Peter declared: "There is given to men under heaven no other name by which they may be saved." Christ affirmed: "No man cometh to the Father save through Me." He gave His hearers to understand that His words were spirit and life, and that if anyone believed in Him, he should live. "Amen, amen, I say unto you; the hour cometh and now is when the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of Man, and they that hear shall live." "He that cometh to Me shall never hunger, and he that believeth in Me shall never thirst." No clearer words than these could be adduced to show the attitude which all men should attain and preserve toward Him, the light in which they should regard Him and the hold which they should have on Him.

The hopes of the human race were strong and deep, far-reaching and universal, ineradicable and instinct with the tenderest and sweetest yearning. Souls were struggling out of the darkness and misery that enveloped mankind, seeking to loose themselves from the fetters of a regressive slavery to nature and natural inclinations, to cut themselves from the inheritance of ignorance and depravity which they deplored, longing to diffuse themselves in truth and virtue, in the immensity of a divine or superhuman goodness, in the infinity of a supernatural light and knowledge, to attain solid peace and amid the harrowing miseries of human existence, a supreme confidence amid the distressing uncertainties of earthly sophistries, a sweet and holy calm amid the storms and terrors of an unsettled universe—almost despairing of any happy issue for their most legitimate aspirations—their inmost crushed down by heavy burdens. He announced: "All ye that labor and are heavy-laden, come to Me and I will give you rest." "Learn of Me and ye shall find rest for your souls."

His salvation through Christ alone is the reason of His coming, and this salvation is not to be limited to the saving of men's bodily lives by feeding them, healing their diseases, and raising the dead, but is infinitely wider in its application. It is the salvation of their souls by imparting to them a life which in its nature and scope, in its principles and effects, is very much higher. For feet, is very much urged Him when His disciples once urged Him to take food He said: "I have meat to eat which you know not of." "My meat is to do the will of Him who sent Me and to finish His work." "I am come that they might have life and have it abundantly." And again: "I came not to judge the world, but to save the world. For the Son of Man is come to seek and to save that which was lost. For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life. For God sent not His Son into the world to condemn the world, but that the world through Him might be saved."

How was He to save the world? By teaching men: "To this end I am come that I should bear witness unto the truth. Everyone that is of the truth heareth My voice." "I am come a light into the world that whosoever believeth in Me should not abide in darkness." One day in the synagogue at Nazareth He was preaching to the assembled people and He read to them this prophecy from Isaiah: "The spirit of the Lord is upon me, because He hath anointed me to preach the Gospel to the poor; He hath sent me to heal the broken-hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, to set at liberty them that are bruised, to preach the acceptable year of the Lord." Then closing the book, He subjoined: "This day is this Scripture fulfilled in your ears."

But chiefly was He to bring about this salvation by His death. Pertinently He declared: "The hour is come that the Son of Man should be glorified. Amen, amen, I say to you, except a grain of wheat fall to the ground and die, it abideth alone; but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit." Here He undoubtedly makes a comparison with Himself and His ending. In view of His approaching death, He said: "Now My soul is troubled, but what shall I say? Father, save Me from this hour. But for this cause came I unto this hour—even as the Son of Man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister not to give His life a ransom for many." In ways many and various He constantly directed men to that great end of His on the cross, by which all glory would accrue to Him and all grace to men, by which He would be delivered into the hands of His enemies, but by which all men would be delivered from the bondage of sin and the empire of Satan, and by which and on which He would draw all things to Himself. Therefore does St. Paul pointedly ascribe all beneficial effects from Christ to the sufferings and death on the cross, and content that "Christ was offered once to exhaust the sins of many." And he declares that "by His own blood He entered once into the holy of holies, having attained eternal redemption." And therefore "He is the mediator of the New Testament, by means of His death, for the redemption of those transgressions which were under the former testament, they that are called may receive the promise of eternal inheritance." All joy, all happiness, all good, are proclaimed; all solid hopes are in Christ; all faith and reverence go out to Him, because of the infinite efficacy of His atoning act of sacrifice on Mount Calvary He blotted out the original decree of banishment from divine favor and union which the Most High and just Creator had issued against the human race on account of its disobedience and disloyalty.

No other view, no lower view of Christ will suffice or can be accepted. It is the strict Scriptural view, the apostolic view; it is the historic view. When it is a question of divine truth or light, of eternal life or energy, of supreme happiness or peace, He is the only being to be considered. There is and can be no other. If we seek the solution of the most absorbing human attention, or foundation for the intensest longings and deepest hopes of the human race, the highest principles of human conduct, it is in Him, by Him and through Him alone that we can attain what will satisfy mind, heart and soul. "By Him were all things made that were made," and "in Him hath God reconciled all to Himself." Now, against all this we cannot but proclaim that Christ is not the best among the good men who have dwelt on earth, not even the greatest of the great who have won merit and distinction, not the foremost of those who have received the applause and favor of men, and His religion not one among the many that is either worked good for the race. It is either Christ or no one—either His religion or no religion, either the hopes He inspires and the faith He inculcates, or misery untold and unbelief extreme. There is no truth outside the revelation He taught, no happiness outside the life He unfolded, no peace save that consequent upon obedience to the laws He promulgated and practice of the principles He left us. No other alternative is given us. By His own words and by the claim He Himself makes. And all this peace and happiness and hope flow from the knowledge that through Him Heaven is opened, our sins are washed away, our souls purified, and our Heavenly Father will welcome us in an abode of joy and love and divine union.

WHAT IS SOIL FERTILITY?

Important Factors in Measuring the Productive Power.

Progressive Farmer.

What is soil fertility? What does the term mean to you? What is your standard of measurement? What are the conditions or factors which control or constitute soil fertility?

It appears that, to some, the quantity of the so-called plant foods, nitrogen, potash and phosphoric acid, which are applied to or contained in the land, is the most important factor in measuring the fertility of productive power of a soil. To others the proper amount of humus, or decaying organic matter in a soil, is the measure of its fertility, or at least, is the first essential of soil fertility. Still others believe that tillage determines more largely than any other factor the productive capacity of soils. And still others, ever certain scientists and investigators, have claimed that soil fertility is almost or entirely a question of a proper supply of moisture in the soil, independent of its chemical composition, except as this chemical composition affects its power to furnish a proper water supply.

That all soils contain sufficient plant foods for the production of large crops, or that the supply of water is the sole measure of soil fertility, will be accepted by few; but if any one factor could be singled out as the most important in determining the fertility of any soil, it would certainly be the one of a proper supply of water. The lesson which must first be learned is, that soil fertility is dependent upon many different factors, and that if we neglect any one of the factors, or if we greatly exaggerate another, we shall most likely fall short of that grasp of the subject necessary to the best soil management.

If we admit that good tillage, sufficient plant foods, organic decay and bacterial life and a properly regulated supply of moisture are all essential to large crop production, or maximum soil fertility, it is not quite proper or accurate to state that any one of these is, in the true sense, the most important; but since all others of these are more or less dependent upon one, water, it may be placed first in consideration.

Most soils contain much more plant foods than would be required to produce scores of maximum crops; but these are useless for crop production until dissolved in the soil water. Organic matter decays through bacterial activities, which break down and render soluble plant foods in the soil; but an equally important function of decaying organic matter in the soil is its value in preserving a proper water supply. If, then, sufficient plant foods in the soil, decaying organic matter and a proper water supply are the three most important factors in soil fertility, it is entirely proper to place the water supply as first in importance. Organic matter would be placed second because its decay tends to render the plant foods already in the soil available to crops and to regulate the water supply in which the plant foods are dissolved and carried to the growing plants.

These, then, are our problems: (1) To control the water supply by drainage and the introduction of organic matter, and (2) to furnish soluble plant foods by introducing organic matter which in its decay will supply substances to dissolve the plant foods already in the soil, and by the addition of other supplies of plant foods in commercial fertilizers.

AN ENJOYABLE OCCASION.

Flag and Bible Presentation at Gold Hill School.

Correspondence of the Patriot. The Jr. O. U. A. M., Stokesdale Council, No. 91, presented a flag and Bible to the Gold Hill school, Rockingham county, February 25. Following is an outline of the feast that was served to both mind and body: Being the close of school, Prof. J. M. Sharp was present to deliver an address. The theme was, "The Child." His remarks were to the point, and we are satisfied will stimulate parents to study the child as never before.

Song, "Upi Dee," by school. Announcement for dinner, carrying with it an invitation for all Juniors to partake of the good things the hospitable ladies had prepared to make the occasion home-like.

After dinner the people assembled in the large and commodious school building, which is a credit to any progressive community, and in a few words Mr. J. Wright Pegram, of Guilford College, stated the object in view and purpose of the order.

Mr. Paul Kennett, a student at Guilford College, presented the flag in an oratorical and impressive manner, which was enjoyed by all present.

Song, "The Star Spangled Banner," by school.

Prof. R. P. Crumpler, of the Bethany high school, accepted the flag with due appreciation.

Song, "The Flag of Our Nation," by school.

Rev. W. F. Kennett presented the Bible with appropriate and well chosen remarks.

Superintendent Hickerson accepted the Bible in an enjoyable and impressive talk.

The audience assembled in front of the building to see the raising of the flag, while the school sang, "Our Flag."

The occasion will be remembered with pleasure.

BIG SENSATION IN DANVILLE.

Chief of Police Found to be Escaped Life Convict.

Danville, Va., March 2.—The man who has for five years held the position of chief of police of Danville, under the name of E. Morris, was shown this afternoon to be Edgar Stripling, a murderer and an escaped prisoner from Harris county, Ga., who gained his liberty while serving a life term. Tonight he is being taken back to Georgia to begin again the sentence pronounced against him fourteen years ago.

Without warning, he was confronted by an officer armed with requisition papers to carry him back, and he at once acknowledged his identity, making no effort to deny that he was the man wanted. Never for a moment did he lose his nerve as he replied: "Yes, I am the man you want; I am guilty."

He was in full uniform when arrested. In a steady voice he was heard to say to his wife over the phone, "I won't be home tonight. Mr. Smith has come for me. You know; down in Georgia."

The arrest of Morris or Stripling occurred on the eve of the expiration of his term of chief of police of this city.

The board of police commissioners have a meeting scheduled for tomorrow night for the election of a chief. Morris was a candidate for re-election and although, he was being opposed, every indication pointed to his re-election.

While living in Harris county, Ga., in 1897, Stripling shot and killed William Cornett, the motive for the crime being the alleged improper attentions on the part of Cornett to Stripling's sister. Stripling and his brother-in-law were tried for murder, and were convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. While confined in jail, pending the outcome on a motion for a new trial, Stripling with several other prisoners escaped. He left in a buggy and began life anew, living in a number of places under the name of Morris.

He had a wife and a child at the time of the escape, and they joined him in the meantime. Stripling's brother-in-law was granted a pardon. Stripling came to Danville about six or seven years ago and was employed as a night watchman for the Southern Railway Company.

About a year ago he broke his leg while stopping a runaway team, the horse falling on him while he had the animal by the reins. No one in the community had the slightest information of his past record. He had friends and supporters among the best people of the city, and was a church attendant.

Strange to say, instead of avoiding it, he has sought publicity, and his picture has been published in a number of newspapers. Recently a traveling man of Georgia is said to have seen him on the streets here and suspected his identity. He notified the authorities, with the result that a detective was sent here to investigate.

Once Lived in Greensboro.

Stripling resided in Greensboro for a time, moving from this city to Danville seven or eight years ago. He formed many acquaintances here and was regarded as a good citizen. He worked for a while as an agent of the Virginia Life Insurance Company and later engaged in the sewing machine business. Previously he was employed at the Pomona terra cotta works, and he also resided in Reidsville for a while.

Petitions are in circulation for the pardon of Stripling, and it is believed the man will be given his liberty. A report from Atlanta says the governor of Georgia may grant the pardon without waiting for a formal request to do so.

The Wills Boys' Addition to Grace Church.

Methodist Protestant Herald.

These resolutions in relation to the offer of the Wills brothers to erect a Philathea class room as an addition to Grace church (which room has been built and is now in use, and a splendid room it is) were presented to and approved by the quarterly conference:

Resolved, That we tender our sincere thanks to the Messrs. Wills for their generous offer.

Resolved further, that we count this church very fortunate to have members whose devotion and loyalty to every interest of the church, no less than to those whose memory they loved and cherish, should move them to erect, at their own expense, enlarged facilities for the development and training of young men and women in our Sunday school work.

More appropriate memorials to these noble Christian women, charter members of Grace church, could not be established. We rejoice that the gentle uplifting influence exemplified in the lives of Mrs. R. H. Wills and Miss Pettie Norman is to be perpetuated in the lives of young men and young women who go out from the church and Sunday school they loved so much. We rejoice also that the noble sons and nephews who honored them while living are now honoring their memory as well as their church in the establishment of enduring memorials from which Grace church will be substantially benefited.

Resolved further, that a copy of these resolutions be furnished to each of the brothers.

Forged to Get Funds For Theological Course.

Richmond, Ind., March 2.—Jesse Seaver, twenty, a former theological student, arrested at Lima, O., last night and brought to Richmond to answer to a charge of passing a forged check on Earlham College, was today sentenced to the state reformatory for from two to fourteen years on a plea of guilty.

Seaver said he did it to get funds to pursue religious studies, and that he had obtained about $600 from various colleges during the last few months. He had a complete record of his transactions.

Seaver said he had appealed recently to Andrew Carnegie to assist him in order that he might pay back moneys he had obtained unlawfully. His home is in Scott county.

Calls Taft Slanderer.

New Orleans, March 2.—In a sixteen-page pamphlet bearing the title "Refutation of Statements of President Taft," received here today from Brussels, Jose Santos Zelaya, exiled president of Nicaragua, indulges in bitter denunciation of President Taft and this government's policy of aggression in Latin America.

He brands our chief executive as a slanderer, accuses the United States government of having shamelessly aided the rebellion in Nicaragua, of having bought consciences in order to further its scheme of aggrandizement, and warns all Latin Americans that the purpose of the Taft administration is to seize all of the Central American republics.

NORTH CAROLINA LAND.

The big discussion over "surplus" and "deficit" counties is causing much attention to be paid to assessments and to taxation, and there is a feeling that some strong legislation must be enacted to secure more equitable valuation of property in the state. How Reading Pays.

Progressive Farmer.

Reading pays in dollars and cents, and this is not a flow plate upon which to make an appeal for more reading among the farmers of the South. We need nothing at this time more than more money. Indeed, we must have more money to run the farms on a business basis; to educate our boys and girls; to build good roads and schools, and equip better farm homes. This money must come from the farms, but to make the farms yield more abundantly more knowledge of farming is necessary. The material and moral progress of a people is in direct proportion to the reading they do. On these facts we make our appeal for more reading on the farms. It pays.

The printing press alone has made education of the masses possible. Reading matter is now so cheap and so easily obtained by the poorest that knowledge and power to do better work is within the reach of all in this Southland of ours.

The need of the South today is knowledge of agriculture, a knowledge of those useful facts and principles underlying our chief occupation, which will give greater power in forcing from the soil the means for improving rural conditions.

The man who reads thinks; and the man who thinks has power.

The best clubbing offer we have ever been able to make is The Patriot and the Progressive Farmer one year for $1.25. The offer is made only for a limited time and applies only to those who are not now taking the Progressive Farmer.

GOOD ROADS MEETING.

Washington Township People Called to Meet Saturday afternoon.

I would be glad to meet every person in Washington township that is over the age of 18 years on Saturday, March 11, at Summers' school house. The school gives an entertainment in the morning. Then at 2 o'clock P. M. I want to organize a good roads association. The purpose of the association shall be the improvement of the roads of this township and of Guilford county in general, the arousing of public sentiment on the question of good roads and the investigation of the best and cheapest means of improving and caring for public roads.

I think the road question is one that ought to interest every citizen in the township. If he will reflect back a few years on the conditions of our roads in Guilford county and now take in consideration what has been done, I think it ought to inspire every one to try to push forward and try to see what can be done in the next 10 years.

I attended a good roads association in Greensboro 20 years or more ago, with J. Van Lindsey, president, with about 50 persons. I suppose present. I had the privilege of attending the mass meeting of February 18, with the same man chairman, but instead of fifty or less, there were hundreds of the best men that our county affords. So now I hope all will come out and let old Washington be represented by a good organization. Don't every body stay at home and not take an interest and then blame the commissioners or some one else that we have not got anything done on our roads.

REGISTRARS AND JUDGES.

Those Who Will Conduct General Primary and City Election.

At an adjourned meeting of the board of aldermen Monday night registrars and judges were appointed for the general primary to be held April 24 and the election to be held under the new city charter May 2. The new charter divides the city into two precincts, Elm street being the dividing line. J. H. Rankin was elected registrar for the west side, to be known as Morehead precinct, and J. W. McNairy for the east side, to be known as Gilmer precinct. A judge was elected from each ward for each of the precincts, as follows: Morehead—J. W. Coppedge, J. B. Minor, J. R. Donnell, J. T. Hunt, J. R. Pitts, R. A. Gilmer, Gilmer—A. A. Chandler, H. W. Wharton, Frank A. Brooks, L. M. Clymer, A. F. Troxler, Henry Phipps.

The first named judge in each ward will serve in Morehead precinct and the second named in Gilmer precinct. The city hall was selected as the voting place in Morehead precinct and the Eagle Hose Company's hall in Gilmer. The registration, which will be a new one on account of the dividing the city into two precincts, will be at the polling places and the books will be opened on the last Monday in March and each succeeding day, Sundays excepted, until the second Saturday before the election. The registrars must keep separate books for white and colored voters.

BRIEF ITEMS OF GENERAL NEWS

A Week's Events of More or Less Interest to the Public.

While cutting timber near Bonsal, Chatham county, last week, Mabe Johnson was killed by a falling tree. The shock of her husband's death caused the death of Mrs. Johnson two days later.

During the session of Congress which came to an end Saturday 33,001 bills were introduced. Of course not all of them passed; in fact, many of them never came from the committee room.

Jesse Burleson, who killed Melvin Thomas in McDowell county in 1907, escaped to the West, was captured and returned to the state last fall, was acquitted in McDowell Superior court last week on the plea of self-defense.

While preparing to take a train out of the railway yards at Spencer last Thursday night, E. T. Gausney, the conductor, was caught under the train and his leg crushed off. At High Point the same night W. P. Smith, of Spencer, was caught under the wheels of his train and his leg crushed off.

Admirers of Senator William Lorrimer to the number of several thousand greeted him Sunday on his return from Washington to his home in Chicago. Two hundred and fifty automobiles, forming a parade headed by two bands, escorted the senator from the station to his home, where an enthusiastic reception followed.

They have a hard time in Virginia with the cadets in the military schools. The other day 70 were dismissed in a bunch from the school at Lexington. A dispatch from Richmond, dated Saturday, says the entire cadet corps of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute was under guard as a result of the expulsion of three students for insubordination and disrespect to cadet officers.

The twin children of Mrs. W. P. McDowell, a boy and a girl aged eight months, were so badly burned in their home at Spartanburg, S. C., Friday night, that they died in a short time. The children were asleep in a cradle, alone in the room, and it is supposed the fire started by a spark falling on the cradle clothes. Their mother was seriously burned while trying to extinguish the flames.

Mr. Brandt Forms New Business Connection.

Mr. L. J. Brandt, who has been engaged in the cotton business in Greensboro for the past ten or twelve years, having charge of the Greensboro office of the Piedmont Cotton Company in the capacity of secretary and treasurer of that corporation, has formed a connection with George H. McFadden & Bro., of Philadelphia, the biggest cotton merchants in the United States. He will in the future have charge of all that firm's business in Virginia and in all of North Carolina north of Concord, with headquarters in this city. The Greensboro office of the Piedmont Cotton Company will be discontinued, all the business of that firm being handled by the Charlotte office.

Mr. Ernest W. Stewart, who has been with the Piedmont Cotton Company for several years, will remain with Mr. Brandt.

"I Know Nothing About My Life-Work."

Mrs. F. L. Stevens, in Progressive Farmer.

Only a day or two ago, I met a little woman and a sick baby. With the utmost complacency this woman admitted that the baby's illness was brought on by improper feeding, ending up with a sigh of excuse, saying, "Oh, I know nothing about house-keeping or babies!" Fancy, if you please, what would happen if a doctor, lawyer, merchant, or teacher were to presume to enter upon a career for which he had given no time or preparation. Hasn't the time come when the home-makers of today and the home-makers of tomorrow should "set to" and endeavor to face this question of household management in its various phases, to master some of its problems? It is not enough that we be well intentioned, since even then we may be painfully or harmfully extravagant, through ignorance. We need to know not only that pure food, hygienic clothing, and tasteful, durable furnishings are well, but we must know what constitutes each and how to secure them.

Spring is just around the corner and by the time you read this we will have the store full of bright fresh new spring goods. But perhaps the way the weather has been this week you may be more interested in winter goods and we take occasion to tell you that we have plenty of stout shoes and rubbers still on hand to supply all your needs, even if the cold weather lasts a good while longer. We are selling men's tan shoes at reduced prices, and as tans are going to be worn a great deal this spring and summer it will pay you to investigate these special values in high grade shoes. We still have too many shoes for sun II girls in stock and are selling them off at a considerable reduction. Housekeepers are reminded that we carry a big line of matings, carpets, rugs, squares, hall curtains and window shades. As we buy for cash and sell for cash, you will find we can afford to sell the goods in this department at very reasonable prices. Come and see the new spring goods at your earliest convenience.
