Greensboro from Aug. 5th to 21st.The Civil Right's Bill—What it Means.The Chicago Inter-Ocean—one of the most prominent Radical papers in the North-west—expresses its views upon the Civil Rights bill in the following plain terms. There surely can be no ground to doubt what is meant. It says:Parson Brownlow says this bill will array one race against the other.
Of course this is the old story, but what does he expect to do?
Will he go on educating the races separately, teaching the black to hate the white, and the white to despise the black, as they necessary-ly must do under such a system?Does he expect peace and unity to grow out of a practice like this?
There is a sign in the Southern heavens that Southern men and Northern men, too, may as well observe.
All over the South, in spite of this attempts to degrade and retard the race, the colored men are slowly creeping toward the front. They are temperate, frugal, and are contracting habits of industry which will tell more strongly for them every year. The coming planter will be black. Adapted by nature to the climate, they will be long monopolize the cotton, rice and sugar growing of the South, and will constitute the wealthy class of our Southern States. The richest man in Mississippi to-day is a negro who in 1800 was a slave. Wealth brings refinement, education, influence; and the colored men of the Carolinas and the Gulf States are just as certain to wield the power there in the future as they are to inhabit those States.With these facts staring us in the face, that folly, as well as injustice, would it be to say that the doctrines of caste shall be perpetuated, estranging the races and intensifying the bitterness which is beginning to be already displayed. The assertion that this is but another act of revenge on the part of the North is the sheerest nonsense. It is for the purpose of ending the long continued strife and forever settling this question that the measure is proposed. We but give to the South what we accept for ourselves, and we ask them to submit to no humiliation that we do not share. Shall this idle, foolish prejudice forever blind the people of that section?
Do they not see the utter impossibility of continuing this system of inequality? The negro has been made a citizen. This is the highest honor which can be conferred. Being such, the minor privileges must be granted, and there can be no settlement of this question until this is done. We reiterate what we have before remarked, that, however strong the opposition, there must and will be an end to all distinctions, on account of color, in the privileges of American citizens.
Until this comes there can be no peace on this question.Deaths from hydrophobia, in New York, are becoming frequent.

The Great Bridge of the World

By the completion of the great bridge across the Mississippi, at St.
Louis, the United States can claim the honor of having designed and constructed the greatest bridge structure of the world, and compared with which all others sink into comparative insignificance.It spans the river from East St.
Louis to St. Louis, with three great arches, measuring in all 1,728 feet, the longest measuring 515 feet in the clear. This immense arch is constructed with what is known as the "double rib," enabling it to preserve its shape under all circumstances of unequal pressure, and obviating the necessity of a spar-ding bracing. The rests for the spans are solid piers of granite and concrete, sunk firmly in the bedrock of the river. There are two roadways, one above the other, the upper being adapted for carriages and pedestrians, and the lower for railroad trains. The top roadway is fifty feet wide, divided into two foot-paths, each eight feet wide, and a carriage road of thirty-four feet. The railway passages each measure thirteen and a half feet in the clear, and are sixteen feet high, extending through arched openings of the same size in the piers and abutments. At each end of the bridge trains are carried over the streets and levees on brick and stone arches, and on the St. Louis side they are conducted into a tunnel, over which the carriage way is run on a level. The tunnel extends from the street to union depot, at some distance from the river. On the Illinois side the trains descend by a grade of one foot in every hundred for three thousand feet, where they reach the regular level of the tracks. The lowest arch of the bridge is fifty feet above the high water mark, and the height from the water level to the upper roadway is nearly a hundred feet.
The tallest mast on the Mississippi has not reached enough to brush the culverts from the arches. The arches are composed of four series of tubes, starting from ponderous skewbays in the solid masonry of the piers. These tremendous butresses, against which the arches rest, are secured by cast-steel bolts, which pass twenty-eight feet through the solid masonry. They are each ten inches in diameter, and are therefore strong enough to bear any possible strain to which they can be subjected. There are two series of these arch tubes springing from the arch at a distance of twelve feet one above the other, thus making the arches twelve feet deep. A thus from each pier the arch springs out with eight cast steel tubes, each eighteen inches in diameter. These are strengthened and firmly united by ponderous truss bars of vertical supporters of steel, extending from the lower to the upper chords of the arch, adjusted in such a manner as to secure the equal distribution of the weight of the bridge and the load it may carry. By this arrangement of the tubes each railway track will in fact be supported by four of these ponderous chords of crucible cast steel.
The cost of the structure, with its approaches, was about eleven millions of dollars.The famous Waterloo bridge across the Thames measures but 1, 250 feet total length, with nine arches each of 120 feet span and 32 feet in height. The new London bridge, though an elegant structure and much praised for its architectural beauty, has but a few feet more span than the Waterloo bridge.— The Southwark iron bridge, also across the Thames, which at the time of its construction a few years ago was called the finest metal bridge in the world, has three arches, like the St. Louis bridge, the longest or middle arch measuring only 240 feet, with a height of 24 feet. Other bridges in our own country, notably the St. Lawrence bridges, the new bridge at Omaha, and the great bridges of the Ohio and the Hudson, are of small account in size by comparison with this St. Louis monster. The prospective East River bridge is out of the catalogue, belonging to the order of suspension bridges, of which it promises to be par excellence the chief. Of this order American bridge builders claim two other of the most celebrated structures in the world, that of Niagara Falls and at Cincinnati.The largest suspension bridge in Great Britain is that over the Menai Strait in North Wales. The total span of this enormous structure is 560 feet, only 45 feet longer than the middle arch of the pride of St. Louis.—Baltimore or animal food of any kind for ment, antagonism, ferocity of my nature has dried out, and yet I am pose the new religion of evolution has helped to make the change. I am either incubating some gigantic power to develop love and truth in mankind, or I have culminated in ed for centuries.Laconic funeral oration by an reason for it, and when he stocked tiest way you ever seen: I'll shoot the man that says he hasn't gone

Installation of Gov. Brogden.

On Tuesday, the 14th inst., at 12 o'clock, M., the oath of office was administered to Governor Brogden in the Hall of the House of Representatives by Associate Justice Edwin G. Reade, in presence of the members of the Supreme Court and quite a number of citizens.After subscribing to the oath and the reading of a short certificate by Judge Reade setting forth the cause of the installation, Governor Brogden delivered the following address:Fellow Citizens:—By the lamented death of our worthy and eminent Governor Tod B. Caldwell, the Constitution devolves upon me the powers and duties of the office of Governor of North Carolina.— And while I feel sensibly the great loss the State has sustained by the death of Governor Caldwell, and the responsibility thus suddenly and unexpectedly imposed upon me by the Supreme Ruler of the universe, I shall place my hope and trust in Him as my rock of defence, my shield and my strength, to enable me to discharge my official duties according to the constitution and the laws, and to properly represent the interest and majesty of the people and the character and honor of the State. With a clear conscience and upright intentions, I shall try to discharge the duties of the high office to which I have been called, honestly and faithfully as a true and loyal son of North Carolina.I desire the promotion of education, morality and virtue, that the people may become more prosperous and happy under a wise and liberal government, administered fairly and impartially by just and equal laws, thus insuring the full enjoyment of civil and religious liberty. I desire that honest industry and labor may be justly protected and rewarded, and the vast and varied resources of the State may be more fully developed. I desire that free public schools may be established and supported in every town and country in the State. We all know that free government must repose and must exist on the basis of intelligence and virtue. One of our first duties is to educate all our citizens so that they may understand and appreciate their duties, and cherish feelings of respect and affection for our country, her rights, her laws and institutions.Proud of the historic fame of North Carolina, and of that patriotic feeling which has ever marked the devotion of her people to free institutions, I am anxious to perpetuate and increase that fame by such legislation and such a system of improvement as will lead to the gradual and safe development of all our resources, and of zealously encouraging whatever shall render the people of the State contented and prosperous, her character respected and her institutions prosperous, solid and permanent.In all matters of administration, I shall adhere to the maxim of the fathers, of economy and simplicity, and of rigid accountability to the people of all public functionaries, and I shall endeavor to illustrate this maxim in my own official conduct. Having spoken thus briefly with profound sense and with bounty devoted upon me, and with an unflinching trust in Almighty God for help and guidance, I now assume my duties as Governor of the State.

Worthy to be a Judge.

The radicals and negroes of Wilson county not being able to beat Thomas J. Eatman, who had been nominated by the conservatives to the Legislature, received the following note from Mr. Eatman:WILSON COUNTY, N. C., June 30, 1874.Dr. R. W. King, Chairman of the Executive Committee.Dear Sir: I have received reliable information concerning the action of the Convention of the Republican party, held in the town of Wilson, Saturday last, endorsing me for their candidate for the House of Representatives. While I would feel thankful for the support of any gentleman in the coming election, I cannot for a moment or for any consideration think of accepting any endorsement or nomination from that party, knowing that in so doing I should compromise the true principles of Democracy. I have received no official intelligence of the endorsement; yet I drop you this note in advance of any such intelligence, that my friends may know my true position.Yours respectfully, THOS. J. EATMAN.If Col. Ruffin had written such a note to the Kirk-Holton Convention at Graham, who refused to nominate in order that he, Col. Ruffin, might be voted for by them, it would have added much to his reputation.
We thank Mr. Eatman for the letter, and commend it to all independent candidates. Who will say Eatman is not worthy to be a Judge —Raleigh Sentinel.A lady of Providence, Rhode Island, who is 90 years old, remembers that a short time before the year 1800, Walter Allen, of Union Village, Rhode Island, was married to Lucy Bufum. The bride wore a silk dress entirely of her own make. She fastened the silk worms, spun it, dyed it, wove it, and made the dress. It was a heavy-ribbed dark brown silk. Pieces of it are carefully treasured by members of the family, and it was said to have been the first silk manufactured in this country.

The National Finances.

According to a semi-official statement, the revenue of the National Government for the fiscal year ended June 30, has been $290,000,000, of which $163,500,000 were derived from customs, $101,300,000 from internal revenue, and $25,200,000 from miscellaneous sources. The estimates in Mr. Richardson's annual report, added to the ascertained receipts for the first quarter of the year, gave $160,200,000 from customs, $91,600,000 from internal revenue, and $19,500,000 from miscellaneous sources. It thus appears that the receipts from customs have exceeded the official estimate $3,300, 000, and the internal revenue shows a like excess of $9,700,000. Nevertheless we still think our estimate of six months ago a fair one. At that time there was no justification for the opinion that before the close of the fiscal year our imports would exceed the totals for the corresponding months of 1873. Yet, strange as it may seem, such has proved to be the fact. Nothing but extraordinary luck could have prevented a deficit for the year. Extraordinary luck the Government has had, but to have staked everything on having that luck we cannot count as a wise and safe financial policy unless the person becomes of age on that day. No device allowed on tickets. Any ticket with too many names on it will be thrown out.The Election Law—Abstract from its Provisions.Nor the information of the public we give the following abstract of the law governing the election to be held Thursday, the 6th day of August, 1874:

REGISTRATION.

Registrars are to be appointed by the County Commissioners, who shall revise the registration list so as to be accurate. Every elector mand of any citizen and the voter may be required to prove, by some person known to the judges of election, the fact of the residence of said voter in the county thirty days previous to the day of election.County Commissioners shall, on or before the first Monday in July, appoint two judges or inspectors of election, two of whom shall be of different political parties where possible. The judges of election are to be notified by the sheriff.

VOTING.

Separate boxes must be used for each class of officers to be elected, to be furnished by the county. No registration allowed on election day
names on it will be thrown out.

Rev. G. William Welker—He

Brands Himself and Publishes His Own Perfidy.

It is the exultant boast of the Radicals that this is a "New North State," that "old things have passed away and all things have become new." Whatever ground there may be for exultation, passed away with the old regime, which the good men of all political parties will never cease to regret. In the "good old days" ministers of the gospel, having pastoral charges, were for-bidden both by law and public opinion from taking seats in Legislative Assemblies. Our Fathers regarded them as ministers at that sacred fount, from whose crystal stream alone could issue good order, good morals, all the sweet social and domestic virtues and as a consequence of those good government itself. Hence they were peculiarly jealous of the purity and cleanliness of the ministry. Hence the State Constitution from 1776 to 1868—when changed by Radical hands—closed the political arena to ministers of the gospel, and they and the public said it was right. But the propriety of this law and the evils of its repeal, were never more forcibly illustrated than in the man whose name heads this article. He and his intimate friend, Judge Tourgee, were influential members, and indeed the controlling spirits, of the Convention which made this change, and who shall say it was not made for his benefit! Be that as it may, endowed by Heaven with more than ordinary intellect—this pastor of a prosperous and thriving church, in a happy and peaceful community, with a splendid opportunity of becoming eminent in his Master's cause, the advancement of the Redeemer's Kingdom; since the change was made, he has dragged the loftiest calling on earth into the political mire, and befouled its pure robes of office with its filthiest slime.

A happy church has been rent into bitter factions—its affairs dragged into the secular courts and the demon of discord and hate introduced into a peaceful community.

Without attempting to clear away the ruin around him, he enters the General Assembly of the State, becomes a companion and employee of the notorious Littlefield, receives from him in the grand swindle of the honest tax-payers of the State, by the corrupt and bribed Legislature of 1868—twenty shares of Rail Road stock, at the very time that thousands of such stock were circulating among its members, to induce them to vote millions of the public money into the pockets of Littlefield and Swepson. When he ignores and incompetency and bad moral character to be a disgrace to the party and such as absolutely to forbid any decent man with any sense of self respect from giving him his support and as the Chairman of the committee of the Convention issues 5,000 copies of its address to the people of the State, thus denouncing him. In this perhaps there was some sign of returning reason, for all men cried amen to the address and said it was the part of a good citizen to draw down vice and prevent such a man being forced upon a virtuous people, by the ignorant votes of irresponsible negroes. For six years Billy has on his character this black mark of moral deformity—and no mental incapacity, and no voice is raised in his defence. On the contrary this action of theirs, was held up by those men, and justly too, as evidence of their higher love of virtue and patriotism than for party.

But Mr. Welker becomes a candidate and it will not do to offend Henderson's negro friends. A change comes over the spirit of his dream and the letter in the New North State of the 15th inst., is written. In this he says he then believed "the crusade to destroy Henderson slanderous and "the fruit of partisan bitterness" and the charges against him "a vile fabrication."—

And yet, so believing he publishes 5,000 copies of his slander to the world; so believing, this minister of the Gospel, whose high and holy office it is, to follow in his Master's wake and uphold and strengthen virtue and to condemn vice and wrong wherever found, permits a slander framed into words and published to the world by himself, to run unchecked for six long years that his party might not be injured. He stamps upon bleeding virtue, when not mistaken as to her identity, and for six years offers no hand to lift her from the dust, into which his own calumnies had trampled her. We are forced to repud of Mr. Welker what we said of Mr. Stipe last week, that he stands before the world a self-confessed slanderer. To vindicate Billy, or rather to get votes, he has slain himself. Indeed so firmly is the public mind convinced of the truth of the charges preferred by the Republican Convention of 1868, that ruining himself he has utterly failed to help his friend. The contemplation of this picture (what pen can do it justice!) is farther saddened by the reflection that Mr.

Welker's letter appears in print on the 15th, after Henderson had publicly in the court house of Guilford on the 9th inst., laughingly! yes laughingly! confessed his own infamy as the seducer of a brother Mason's sister. Again, shame! that the Rev. gentleman, in the interests of party and to hide his own inconsistencies, should attempt to cast a slur upon a branch of Christ's church. Referring to the membership of Henderson in a church at Lexington, he says, "I must believe him an innocent man or this church unfaithful and corrupt." Before his conscience had been seared by political life, would he have thus ranged himself on the side of scoffers and the enemies of Christ's church, using at once their most common and most purile weapons?

Can churches look into man's heart to judge if it is corrupt? How often does man flee to the church as a cloak for his corruption and professing regeneration, compel the church, even while doubting, to leave the matter between him and the only searcher of hearts?—

Is Mr. Welker's own church corrupt because one of its members recently fled to parts unknown with another man's wife, leaving his own family upon the cold charities of the world?

Was the blessed company of the Apostles corrupt, because one of their number, Judas, was a thief and finally a traitor? Such sentiments are a disgrace to Mr. Welker and a fool slander upon the church. But to return to the starting point, they only show the corrupting influence of politics upon preachers—the excellence of the law which forbid them from entering its arena, and that the people owe it to themselves, to peace, good order and good morals of their communities to frown down and vote down the minister who attempts it. The law having been taken out of the Constitution—let them revive the law of public opinion and at the ballot box say to every such recreant,

"you cannot serve God and Mammon."

Withdrawing.

We are glad to see that after the sober second thought and the strategy of the Radical leaders has become so fully understood, that the independent candidates in many portions of the State have withdrawn their names rather than stay in the field and contribute thus to the success of our enemies. The people will appreciate this patriotic action on their part and not be slow to remember their claims in the future. Now it is a contest between right and wrong, civil rights and the white man, and no good man can afford to be a stumbling-block in the way of the success of sound principles and good government.

About a hundred voters assembled to hear the discussion between the county candidates and nominees for the Legislature, at Gilmer's store, last Saturday. About one o'clock the county candidates led off briefly announcing themselves, leaving the discussion to the legislative candidates. Before this opened, how-opposing candidates for the office
