What for a few minutes threatened to be a serious fire was discovered in the new dormitory at the State Normal and Industrial College at 10.30 o'clock Tuesday night. Fortunately the blaze was discovered early and extinguished with a loss estimated at about $300, this being principally confined to one room, where a number of cement sacks and some lumber was stored. No cause is known for the fire, the theory being that a spark from some nearby chimney fell among the sacks. The building is practically completed and will be ready for occupancy in a short while.

ORPHANAGE DAY OBSERVED.

Special Services Held in Methodist Protestant Churches Sunday.

Sunday was observed as orphanage day throughout the Methodist Protestant denomination, and at Grace church, in this city, the exercises were of a specially interesting nature. The regular morning service hour was given over to the orphanage cause, and a number of short talks and encouraging reports were made.

An interesting paper prepared by Mr. J. M. Millikan, one of the leaders in the movement for the establishment of the orphanage to be built near High Point, was read in his absence. In this paper Mr. Millikan recited various historical facts in connection with the beginning and successful results of the movement for a Methodist Protestant children's home, and told of the purposes of the home, once its doors are open. He especially called attention to the fact that "its doors would not be closed to any worthy child, regardless of the religious faith of its parents."

Enthusiastic talks were made by the pastor, Rev. T. J. Ogburn, J. Norman Wills, H. A. Garrett and Miss Frances Sutton, all of whom have been active in the campaign for funds.

T. A. Hunter, another local member of the orphanage committee, went to Oak Ridge to speak of the orphanage and its proposed work during the exercises in the church at that place.

Preliminary work for the construction of the main building of the orphanage is now under way and Methodist Protestant's from all sections of the state and many other states will gather around its foundation on October 17 to take part in exercises commemorating the laying of the corner stone. For this occasion many notable men of the church will be present, including, besides a score of pastors in the state, such men as Dr. Lyman Davis, president of the general conference, and Dr. T. H. Lewis, president of Western Maryland College. Mayor Tate, of High Point, will also make an address during the ceremonies. A basket picnic is planned as one of the features of the day.

TO UNVEIL STATUE.
Memorial to Charles D. McIver at State Normal College.
Exercises of an interesting and impressive nature will take place at the State Normal and Industrial College Saturday, when a bronze life-size statue of the late Dr. Charles D. McIver, the founder and first president of the college, will be unveiled with appropriate ceremonies. The statue is a replica of the one erected on the capitol grounds in Raleigh by the teachers of the state.

The formal exercises will take place in the students' building and will begin at 11 o'clock. An address will be made by Hon. P. P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education and for some years a member of the faculty of the State Normal and Industrial College. Following this, Dr. J. Y. Joyner, state superintendent of public instruction, will make the speech of presentation. The statue will be accepted by Dr. Julius I. Foust, president of the college. The unveiling of the statue will follow.

Preliminary to the exercises of Saturday, Mr. F. W. Ruckstuhl, designer of the statue, will deliver an address at the State Normal College tomorrow evening at 8.30 o'clock.

Handsome Souvenir Coming.
Mr. C. A. Bray, president of the Home Savings Bank, showed the editor a very handsome souvenir which the Home Savings Bank proposes to give its customers in the near future, so it will pay you to watch these columns and see when the souvenir is put on to the general public.

We have seen a good many souvenirs, but this is one of the nicest ones we have ever seen given away to customers of an institution. adv.

Mr. and Mrs. Odell have taken apartments at the McAdoo hotel temporarily and later will go to Florida for the winter. It is understood that Mr. Odell will build a new home on a portion of his property on West Market street, between Greensboro Female College.

BIG BULL MOOSE HERE.

Col. Roosevelt Makes Brief Speech to Large Crowd.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt, the Bull Moose candidate for president, made a short stop in Greensboro Monday, in the course of his trip through the state, and delivered a brief address to a large crowd that had assembled at the Southern passenger station. The special car in which he was traveling was attached to northbound train No. 36, which arrived at 1.30 o'clock.

Col. Roosevelt spoke from the rear platform of his car for about 20 minutes. He made no reference to President Taft, Governor Wilson or the so-called Chicago steal, confining himself mainly to a discussion of the principles of the Progressive party. After paying a tribute to the people of North Carolina for their love of liberty and self-government, the speaker told of some of the things he would do if elected president again. He would guarantee justice to every man, both political and industrial justice. In doing this he would see that the trust magnate had his political rights—the privilege of casting one vote, his own and that of no individual or representative of the people. He would see that the trust magnate had his rights industrially, giving him protection when his wealth was built upon public service and constructive labor and granting him no quarter when he got his wealth by swindling the people. To all classes would justice be done, said Mr. Roosevelt.

The crowd gave Col. Roosevelt mild applause, but there was nothing approaching a demonstration. If the Bull Moose noted the absence of the "wild enthusiasm" with which he was greeted when he was in Greensboro prior to the Republican national convention, he did not comment on the fact.

Col. Roosevelt and his party left Greensboro at 2 o'clock on a special train for Raleigh, making stops at Burlington and Durham.

Committee on Freight Rates.

At a meeting of representatives of chambers of commerce, boards of trade and other business organizations of a number of cities and towns in the state held in this city last week, Mr. R. D. Douglas, president of the Greensboro Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the meeting, was directed to name a state freight rate committee to study the freight rate problem, and suggest to a meeting to be held in Raleigh at a later date ways and means for a successful conduct of a campaign for better service and more equitable rates. Mr. Douglas announces that he has appointed the following to compose the committee: F. N. Tate, High Point; L. E. Tufts, Durham; W. G. Creighton, Charlotte; R. C. Hoed, Greensboro; W. L. Gilbert, Statesville.

Popular Woman Leaves Greensboro.

Mrs. Lula B. Carr left Monday night for Ashland, Ore., to join her son, Wilfred, who has been making his home in that place for several months. It is the intention of Mrs. Carr and her son to make their future home on the Pacific coast, and it is probable that they will reside in Ashland. Mrs. Carr's friends here—and they include the entire population—regret to see her leave Greensboro, where she was prominently identified with the business, social and religious life of the community for a number of years.

On Writing for the Papers.

The Patriot received this week a report of a singers' convention that we are unable to print for the reason that portions of the article were written so dimly that no one in the office could read them. People who write for the newspapers should remember that editors and printers possess no occult power in reading manuscript. Many an article fails to see the light in print on account of carelessness on the part of the writer that could have been avoided just as well.

Another point that it is well to remember: It is always preferred in his office that the author of a communication intended for publication in these columns sign his own name instead of the name of some other person.

Miss Annie Davis has entered a Bible training school in New York.

SHOOTING AT MADISON.

Jesse Shelton Seriously Wounded by Dr. R. C. Mathewson.

Jesse Shelton, a young white man of Madison, is in a serious condition at St. Leo's hospital as the result of being shot Saturday afternoon by Dr. R. C. Mathewson, a well known physician of Madison. Immediately after the shooting the young fellow was placed in an automobile and hurriedly brought to Greensboro for surgical treatment at the hospital. It was feared at first that the wound might prove fatal, but Shelton has rallied and his condition now is considered favorable.

According to a report of the affair brought to Greensboro, both Dr. Mathewson and Shelton were under the influence of whiskey at the time. It is said that Dr. Mathewson and a friend were out driving and that the physician held up a negro at the point of a pistol near Madison. Returning to Madison, Dr. Mathewson is said to have fired his revolver while passing Webster's warehouse. Shelton walked out of the warehouse and called to the doctor to "shoot again." The command was obeyed and the reckless youth fell to the ground with a bullet in his back.

Dr. Mathewson was placed under arrest, but later was released by the mayor of Madison under a bond of $1,000.

It is reported that another Madison physician took a statement from Shelton before the young fellow left for the hospital. In this statement Shelton is said to have declared that Dr. Mathewson was his friend and didn't mean to shoot him; that the physician had treated him and given him things from time to time and was one of the best friends he had. The victim, according to the story, is a pauper and helpless, depending upon the charity of the public for his livelihood.

Tobacco Higher on the Greensboro Market Than It Has Been in Years.

We noticed among the spectators on the Greensboro tobacco market yesterday Mr. C. A. Bray, president of the Home Savings Bank, and knowing that he was better posted on the tobacco business than any other Greensboro banker, we ventured to ask him a few questions.

On being asked what he thought of the prices, Mr. Bray said that he had been closely identified with the tobacco business for 20 years, but that he had never seen prices as high as they were on this market yesterday.

Mr. Bray said further that he was glad to see prices high, as the farmers in this section made a light crop, owing to the dry season, and they needed good prices to make their crops yield them a good profit.

We notice that many of the farmers from whom Mr. Bray used to buy tobacco are now patronizing him at the Home Savings Bank and leaving their surplus money with him for safe keeping, being aware of the fact that there is nothing safer than an exclusive savings bank. adv.

Congressman Stedman in Rockingham.

Congressman Charles M. Stedman delivered what is pronounced a splendid campaign speech at a big Democratic rally at New Bethel, Rockingham county, Tuesday. The Democracy of Rockingham was out in force and Maj. Stedman was at his best. The Democratic county candidates were also present and briefly addressed the people. A barbecue was a feature of the occasion.

The Democratic leaders in Rockingham say the party in that county is in better shape than it has been for years and that the majority this year will be larger than it was two years ago, when the party made a clean sweep of everything 'n sight.

Miss Nettie Brooks, a well known young lady of this city, and Mr. E. L. Boand, of Burlington, were married Tuesday evening at 8.30 o'clock at the home of Rev. E. K. McLarty, the officiating minister. The bride is a daughter of Mrs. W. H. Brooks and is a young woman of splendid attainments. For several years she has been one of the most valued employees of Meyer's department store. Mr. Boland is engaged in the dry goods business at Burlington.

Mrs. J. D. Arnold has returned to her home in Waynesville after spending several days in the city on a visit to her sister, Mrs. J. W. Nicholson.

LARGE SUM INVOLVED.

Greensboro Concern Suing For Recovery of Over $100,000.

Arbitration proceedings have been instituted in the case wherein the Hunter Manufacturing and Commission Company, of this city, is suing the Ocean Accident and Guaranty Company, of London, England, for the recovery of damages sustained when the Randleman Manufacturing Company and the Naomi Falls mills, both of Randleman, went into bankruptcy in December, 1910. The policies held by the plaintiffs were for credit insurance, and the failure of the two companies left them owing the Hunter Manufacturing and Commission Company a large amount of money, a sum which is said to have been approximately $116,000, including monies advanced and commissions due.

The suit is contested over the payment of certain commissions that were owing the plaintiffs at the time of failure and which the insurance company claims that the policies do not cover. The total amount which the Hunter Manufacturing and Commission Company asks for is much less, it is understood, than their loss by the bankruptcy of the mills, as the credit insurance policies were limited ones.

It has been agreed to leave the amount to be paid to a board of arbitration consisting of Judge J. S. Manning, of Durham; Clement Manley, of Winston-Salem, and Hon. Hugh R. Scott, of Reidsville. The case has been postponed until October 15, when the arbitrators will sit as a board.

The attorneys in the case are ex-Judges W. P. Bynum and R. C. Strudwick and Mr. Catlin, the latter of New York, for the defendants, and King & Kimball and A. L. Brooks, for the plaintiffs.

County Farmers' Union Meeting.

The next regular meeting of the Guilford County Farmers' Union will be held in Greensboro Saturday, October 12, at 10 o'clock A. M. Every local in the county is urged to send a good delegation to this meeting, for there is business of importance to be transacted. Among the matters to come before the meeting will be the election of a new set of officers.

The secretary and treasurer of the union sent The Patriot a more extended notice of the meeting, but it was received too late for insertion.

There is no longer any question that the mosquito is a serious menace both to health and life. Until the Government finds a means of completely eradicating them it is up to the individual to protect himself.

You can't tell where the mosquito that bites you tonight has come from. He may have just left some smallpox patient, or someone afflicted with some other loathsome disease. Do you want to take the chance? Do you want him to infect you with death-dealing germs?

We know of no better way to suggest immunity from mosquitoes than the use of Rexall Skeeter Skoot. It is pleasant to use, but it keeps the mosquitoes away. The use of wood as fuel at the county court house is at an end, the open fireplaces in the offices having been fitted with coal grates. It is the purpose of the change to make the coal grates provide all the heating necessary for the court house until real winter arrives, when the steam heating plant will be fired up.

If you are going to buy anything in the way of matings, carpets, rugs, curtains, druggets, art squares, linoleums, or floor oil cloths this winter, it will pay you to go up on the second floor at Thacker & Brockmann's and see what they have in this line. They carry a big stock of these things and sell them at rock bottom cash prices. adv.

Congressman Claude Kitchen and Hon. A. L. Brooks will speak in the court house tonight, and since they are among the strongest and most popular Democratic speakers in the state, it is to be expected that they will be heard by a large crowd. They are fresh from a campaign trip in the eastern part of the state.

Thacker & Brockmann are going to give the farmer who makes the best average on tobacco sold on the Greensboro market during November fifteen dollars worth of shoes, dry goods or merchandise of any kind to be selected from their stock by the winner. One of the most enjoyable events ever given in the annex of West Market Street Methodist church occurred there Friday night, when pupils of the primary department of the Sunday school gave an entertainment, the principal feature of which was a Tom Thumb wedding. The little folks acquitted themselves in an admirable manner and won the hearts of the large audience present. The entertainment was given under the direction of Mrs. S. L. Alderman, superintendent of the primary department of the Sunday school.

We placed our orders very early and bought an immense stock of footwear at old prices, so that we shall not have to ask you any more for shoes than we did last year as long as the present stock holds out. We should have to pay more now and later in the season we will have to advance prices. Let us supply you now with your winter shoes. You will be obliged to have shoes and you can save money by laying in a supply now. Thacker & Brockmann. adv.

THE PROGRESSIVE TICKET.

Bull Moose Name Their Candidates For County Offices.

Representatives of the Progressive party in Guilford county held a mass convention in the court house Saturday afternoon and adopted a platform and nominated a ticket. The attendance was small, numbering about 30 members of the Bull Moose party. Mr. W. C. Shaw presided as chairman and Mr. R. C. Chandley acted as secretary. The work of the convention was done by committees on resolutions and no nominations, the reports submitted being unanimously adopted.

The following ticket was nominated: D. J. Hendricks, sheriff; Virgil M. Kirkman, register of deeds; J. G. Hodgins, treasurer; W. B. Trogon, surveyor; J. A. Hoskins, W. L. Huffines, J. A. Hodgins, Charles E. Starr and Edwin Clodfelter, commissioners; W. C. Shaw, senate; E. E. Farlow and Edwin S. Wilson for the house of representatives.

The convention also endorsed the candidacy of Delos E. Hammer, of High Point, who had previously announced himself as an independent candidate for the house of representatives. Mr. Hammer was present and thanked the convention for its endorsement.

The platform adopted contains an even dozen planks. The first section provides that the Progressive legislative candidates, if elected, shall divide the county into five commissioners districts, each of the five districts being entitled to one county commissioner elected by the electors of his district and not by the electors of the whole county.

The second paragraph calls for the creation of a reserve fund for the payment of state bonds as they become due, while the third voices contempt for any person who attempts to revive or make valid any state bonds heretofore repudiated by our state.

Touching the county road laws, the fourth plank of the platform says: "We favor the repeal of the law requiring enforced labor on the public roads of our county, and hereby pledge our candidates for the legislature, that if elected, they will advocate and vote for the repeal of this last relic of feudalism."

The fifth section calls for a change in the present system of hired labor for all construction work, asking that such be put on the basis of competitive sealed bid. The sixth declares for the use of convict labor for repair work on all public roads, while the seventh simply says: "We favor the Austrian ballot law."

Section eight voices approval and demands the adoption of the Torrens system of land titles. The ninth plank in the platform calls for a more strict and stringent law regulating marriages, as a preventive of the causes of divorce, while section 10 voices approval of the national and state Progressive platforms.

Section 11 calls for "a system of loans to farmers of the state to enable them to purchase bonds; to aid in the raising of crops; to foster agriculture, which is the basis of all our wealth, to reduce the cost of living and put the prosperity of our great state on a solid basis." The twelfth and final plank declares for free or co-operative school text books for the public schools and pledges the candidates for the legislature, if elected, to vote for and secure, if possible, a law putting in operation the above laws.

A feature of the convention was an address by Jake F. Newell, Esq., of Charlotte, one of the Progressive candidates for elector at large. Mr. Newell spoke for an hour or more, paying his respects to the Democratic party, giving President Taft and the Republicans a few knocks and praising Roosevelt and the issues advocated by him.

It is said that Mr. Newell, who is still a young man, has been affiliated with more political parties than any other man of his age in the state. He was born and reared a Democrat, joined the Populists, later went over to the Republicans, and when the opportunity came hit the Bull Moose trail.

Mr. Iredell Meares, of Wilmington, the nominee of the Progressive party for governor of North Carolina, delivered a lengthy address before a small audience in the court house Friday night. In the beginning of his speech Mr. Meares paid his respects to the report which had been circulated that there was in the planning the coalition of the Republican and the Progressive forces in the state and the throwing of the united vote for one ticket. He attacked the North Carolina Democracy in the matter of the disposition of the railroads built by state bonds, declaring that these roads should have been retained by the state and developed.

BRIEF ITEMS OF GENERAL NEWS

A Week's Events of More or Less Interest to the Public.

William J. Harahan, of New York, has been elected president of the Seaboard Air Line Railway Company.

Col. Henry Watterson, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, has been quite ill for several days in New York, but is improving. He is 72 years old.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson says there is no relief in sight for those who want cheaper beef, and he advises the people to go to eating mutton, which is less than half the price of beef.

Otto McKnelly, aged 21 years, is under arrest at Wellington, Kan., on the charge of murdering his father, Theodore McKnelly, his mother and his sister Gretta, whose bodies were found in a tent on the outskirts of Wellington.

The New York Republican state convention has nominated Job E. Hedges for governor and James W. Wadsworth, Jr., for lieutenant governor. The convention strongly condemned Roosevelt and the Progressive party movement.

Officers and enlisted men in the army absent from duty on account of disability resulting from drunkenness or any other form of dissipation will forfeit pay during their absence. The disciplinary measure is provided in the army appropriation bill passed at the last session of Congress.

At Athens, Ga., Preston Arthur and Gerline Phelps were rivals for the hand of Miss Grace McKinnon. She chose Phelps and Arthur stood in front of her home and sent a bullet into his body. He was carried into the girl's home; she is helping to nurse him and says if he gets well she will marry him.

A bronze tablet "to commemorate the noble life and the heroic death" of Major Archibald Willingham Butt, United States army, one of those who went down with the Titanic, was unveiled in All Saints' chapel, University of the South, at Sewanee, Tenn., last week. Major Butt was an alumnus of the Sewanee institution.

Two more lives were sacrificed to aviation at the United States Army aviation field at College Park, Md., near Washington, Saturday, when an army aeroplane suddenly fell thirty-five feet to the ground, instantly killing Corporal Frank S. Scott and so seriously injuring Second Lieutenant Lewis C. Rockwell that he died a few hours later.

Frederick A. Cleveland, chairman of President Taft's economy and efficiency commission, in a statement outlining the plan that will be followed in submitting to Congress a budget of public estimates and expenditures, declared that "by ten years of continuous persistent effort" the government could reduce its running expenses nearly $300,000,000 a year.

Practically 12,000 textile operatives at Lawrence, Mass., have been affected by the great strike inaugurated by Industrial Workers of the World to show their sympathy for Joseph J. Ettor and Arturo Giovannitti, leaders of that organization, and as a protest against their trial in connection with the killing of Anna Lopinzo, during the strike last winter.

Hugh Long, mayor of Wagner, S. C., and the nominee for the legislature in his county, shot Pickett Gunter, president of a bank, at Wagner Saturday night. When the sheriff reached Wagner he found Long barricaded in his office surrounded by a mob. The sheriff called for troops but later got Long out of his office and took him to jail at Aiken without the intervention of troops.

Police authorities of Chicago a few days ago dumped into the waters of Lake Michigan a tugload of weapons and explosives confiscated by the police department within the last year. The load included 800 revolvers, 200 knives and razors, 23 rifles, 4 shotguns, 40 pounds of dynamite and 22 pounds of nitroglycerin, as well as several bushels of blackjacks, loaded canes and other crude weapons.

In Atlanta Saturday night Col. Roosevelt charged Governor Wilson with making statements in regard to his position which were "not merely an untruth, but the direct reverse of the truth." The colonel did not get a quiet hearing in Atlanta. When he mentioned Governor Wilson's name there was cheering for the governor and quite a tumult reigned for some time before Roosevelt could obtain a hearing.

President Taft and Governor Wilson met for the first time since the campaign started at a hotel in Bos-

Mrs. T. A. Town, 107 6th street, Watertown, S. D., writes: "My four children are subject to hard colds and I always use Foley's Honey and Tar Compound with splendid results. Some time ago I had a severe attack of la grippe and the doctor prescribed Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and it soon overcame the la grippe. I can always depend upon Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and am sure of good results." Howard Gardner. adv.

ton Thursday night. They greeted each other heartily and chatted for several minutes. The president inquired of the governor how his voice was holding out and the Democratic candidate in answering said: "Very well, considering the way campaign committees impose upon the personal comfort of the candidate."

Charges that both the spirit and letter of the decree dissolving the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey are being violated have been sent to the department of justice at Washington by S. W. Fordyce, Jr., counsel for the Waters-Pierce Oil Company. The charges are based on testimony adduced at hearings in New York and elsewhere in the litigation involving the right of the Standard Oil to name officers and directors of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company.

The recent decision of President Taft that Catholic teachers employed in Indian public schools may continue to wear their religious garb or insignia while engaged in the work applies only to teachers now employed. The privilege is denied to those who may hereafter enter the service. This ruling will enable the government to fulfill its obligations, the president says, to the teachers who were taken into the government service when religious schools were taken over bodily as government institutions. Only 51 teachers are involved.

Eight damage suits for a total of $85,000 have been filed in the Circuit court in Chicago against 30 owners and managers of saloons and persons owning the property in which the saloons are situated. The suits were brought by 40 wives and children who declare their incomes have become impaired through the shortcomings of their husbands and fathers, which in all cases are traced to the saloon. The suits were filed by counsel for the Citizens' League of Chicago, which has for its purpose the enforcement of the state dram shop act.

The Germ Fight.

The Patriot would not discourage for a single moment any campaign waged against the fly; against germs; against disease. But it would suggest that the country is going daft on several things concerning germs. The back yard should be cleaned; the fly should be swatted; the well should be examined—but these things can all be done in an ordinary tone of voice. There is no use to distract the public; there is no use to climb to the house tops and yell bloody murder at the expense of all other things. The fight as waged by municipalities; by individuals has been all right—but when disease fighters are becoming plentiful as reformers in other lines—people out exclusively for occupation and the passing of the hat of easy money, then it is time to swat fewer flies and see who is who and why. Let us wage a conservative fight; let us try to keep our homes and cities clean; let us not forget that disease breeds in dirty places—but suppose we have but one lecture a day and see how it comes out.

Almost a Miracle.

One of the most startling changes ever seen in any man, according to W. B. Holclaw, Clewiston, Texas, was effected years ago in his brother. "He had such a dreadful cough," he writes, "that all our family thought he was going into consumption, but he began to use Dr. King's New Discovery, and was completely cured by ten bottles. Now he is sound and well and weighs 218 pounds. For many years our family has used this wonderful remedy for coughs and colds with excellent results." It's quick, safe, reliable and guaranteed. Price 50 cents and $1. Trial bottle free at Fariss-Klutznick Drug Company. adv.

Taft Lays Down the Law.

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 30.—"Some of the people now posing as third party men will wake up after the election and find themselves alone. We would be glad to welcome them back to the Republican party, but they must come back as whole Republicans—they must support the national, state and local tickets."

This was the substance of President Taft's message tonight to the Republican Club of Beverly. The president continued by advising against a policy of temporizing. "It's time to quit temporizing," he said. "If a man is a Republican let him say so and let him support the ticket. If he is not throw him out of the party."

FORECAST OF THE ELECTION.

Wilson in the Lead and Roosevelt Running Second.

After making a canvass of the political situation throughout the country, the New York Herald has published a comprehensive forecast of the result of the presidential election in November. The Herald's canvass indicates a strong lead for Woodrow Wilson, a great loss to the Republicans and a heavy Progressive vote. The Democrats are reported as united in all sections, the Progressives as fighting desperately and the Republicans in a state of apathy. A portion of the article follows:

"It is too early to make an iron-clad prediction. The Herald will not at this time attempt to do so. Conditions in many parts of the nation are very much unsettled. Chaos only describes the situation in a few sections. Furthermore, it has been demonstrated many times that only the most daring would venture a prophecy as to the result of a presidential contest more than a month in advance of the election. Conditions can change overnight. Whole presidential canvasses have, in fact, changed overnight. Anyone of many, many factors might unexpectedly enter into the situation, setting at naught all opinions and deductions.

"Straw votes point to the election of Governor Wilson. They indicate that President Taft will run third in many states. Personal canvasses made by the Herald's experienced political correspondents in every corner of the country indicate that sentiment at the present time favors Governor Wilson. They show keenest activity on the part of the Democrats and Bull Moose campaigners and in many sections listlessness and indifference on the part of the Republicans.

"Most interesting shifts in the vote from 1908 are shown by the test ballots. These ballots, by the way, were taken with the utmost care. All possible safeguards were used to prevent ballot box stuffing. All voters were asked especially to fill out their ballots accurately—to tell truthfully just how they voted four years ago and how they intend to vote this year. In practically every canvass made the voters approached displayed great interest in the balloting and expressed an eagerness to participate.

"In the 11 states where these straw votes were taken—New York, Connecticut, Delaware, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia and Wyoming—Governor Wilson ran first in nine. The Bull Moose candidate was first in Connecticut and Pennsylvania. President Taft was third in all but Ohio and Wyoming. In Ohio he polled 32 votes, as against 818 for the Bull Moose ticket. Governor Wilson received 1,914. The fight in Ohio is a lively one. Herald reports show that if the Bull Moose candidate can draw as much strength in November as he developed at the recent primaries President Taft will lose his native state. It is stated also that if the president polls fewer votes in November than he received four years ago he will be beaten. While at the present time Ohio should be placed among the doubtful states it appears that Governor Wilson has the better of the contest there. All the Democrats are pulling shoulder to shoulder for victory. There are no defections. There, as in all states near the northern border line, the factors are very hostile to the president.

"In Pennsylvania, one of the pivotal states in the great contest, there are indications of a close fight. Indications are that President Taft is stronger now than he was a short time ago. The Bull Moose candidate has a very strong following. Governor Wilson is holding the entire Democratic vote, at all appearances.

"New Jersey and New York are, through the straw votes and the special canvasses made by a large corps of men, placed in the Wilson column. It seems fairly certain at the present time that the Democracy is sure of carrying both states.

"Figures obtained in the voting contest show that the Bull Moose candidate is pulling the great bulk of his strength from the Republican. They show that Governor Wilson is winning more from the Republican than he is losing to the Bull Moose ticket. Should the ratio thus far shown in the voting contests continue it would indicate that Governor Wilson would carry more states than were ever before carried by a presidential candidate.

"In many sections are found indications that Republicans will swing over to Governor Wilson's standard in the closing hours of the campaign. This tendency is due to a possible fear on the part of the Republicans that President Taft cannot possibly be elected and a belief that they can insure the election of Governor Wilson and the defeat of the third term candidate, whom they regard as a menace. This feeling was found in many sections of New York state. Here some of the leaders in talks with Herald correspondents practically conceded the empire state to Governor Wilson. He is holding all the regular Democrats, or the great majority of them, and is drawing to his stand many young Republicans.

"Staid old New England is wobbling. Maine shows a tendency to be for Wilson. Connecticut seems at the present moment almost certain for the New Jersey governor. Vermont and Rhode Island are in the balance, both with Wilson tendencies. Massachusetts is placed by the Herald's canvassers in the Wilson column. New Hampshire alone of the New England states is given to the president. None is accredited to the Bull Moose candidate.

"Indiana and Illinois are witnessing spectacular fights. In Indiana the Herald's investigators place Wilson in the lead, with the Bull Moose running second. Illinois is a veritable hotbed of uncertainty. First inquiries would place it for the present in the Wilson column, but the situation is far from certain. The Bull Moose leads in straw ballots thus far taken. Governor Wilson does not appear to be stronger than he was during the primaries.

"In the four great states between the Dakotas and the coast—Montana, Wyoming, Idaho, Oregon and Washington—the situation is found to be most interesting. The great army of 'new' voters, numbering more than 200,000, will determine the result in Washington. They are regarded as friendly to the Bull Moose candidate."

Picking Cotton by Machinery.

The Charlotte Observer says: Mr. Theodore H. Price is this week at Laurinburg with five of his cotton picking machines, representing the more recent improvements. He will pick a few fields of cotton in that vicinity and will then move to Newton and establish headquarters for the balance of the season. It is a recognized fact that the day is at hand, or nearly so, when the cotton crop of the South must be picked by machinery. It looks like Price and his machines will be the pioneers in the machine picking industry. The demonstration of cotton picking near Charlotte, last fall, made it clear to the farmers that if Price did not then have the machine to do the work, he would have it. That he will eventually put a machine at the service of the farmers that will pick cotton on the same basis that a threshing machine does wheat, the Observer, which has personally watched the progress of the machine from its crude state, has not the slightest doubt.

Right Way to Pack Apples.

Mr. S. B. Shaw, assistant state horticulturist, accompanied by A. B. Cooper, of Hood River, Ore., are making a trip through the mountain counties of North Carolina giving demonstrations in packing apples in barrels and boxes. The state agricultural department last spring gave practical demonstrations in pruning and spraying fruit trees, and the demonstrations this fall will be for the purpose of showing the growers how to market their fruit. Mr. Cooper comes from the famous apple-growing section of Oregon; but Mr. Shaw says he will show him as fine fruit as ever grew in the West. They will visit during the next two weeks Wilkes, Surry, Watauga, Haywood, Swain, Buncombe and Polk.

Mr. Shaw will at once begin collecting apples for the exhibit at the state fair.

Mrs. Peter Holan, 11050 Buckeye road, Cleveland, O., says: "Yes indeed I can recommend Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. My little boy had a bad case of whooping cough, some times he was blue in the face. I gave him Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and it had a remarkable effect and cured him in a short time." Contains no harmful drugs. Howard Gardner. adv.

No Dixie State For T. R.

Washington, Sept. 29.—Theodore Roosevelt will not break the solid South. Tidings have come to Washington ahead of him making it clear that he himself does not hope to wear the Southern states away from the Democratic standard. His trip through that section has removed any illusions he may have entertained as to the strength of Governor Wilson below the Mason and Dixon line.

That Colonel Roosevelt has been given a warm welcome in many Southern cities is no surprise. He can be guaranteed that in any part of the United States, whether the section he visits is hostile to him politically or not. But that he has piled apart the South and will gain a larger vote than Wilson in any Southern state is not believed for a minute by any political prophet in this city.

STUDENTS EXPELLED.

Participants in Hazing Dismissed From the University.

A press dispatch from Chapel Hill, under date of September 27, conveys the gratifying intelligence that, as a result of investigations by the faculty of the University of North Carolina, started since the death of freshman Rand, four students have been dismissed and 12 suspended for a year. The dismissed students are A. K. Blakeney, Kershaw, S. C.; H. A. Martin, Asheville; J. L. Horton, Farmville; D. L. McWhorter, Rocky Mount. Those suspended are: J. H. Burke, Bessemer City; D. G. Kelley, Clarkton; R. B. McKnight, Charlotte; I. R. Strayhorn, Durham; J. C. Tyson, Goldsboro; J. C. Dickson, Raeford; T. A. Harper, Greenville; J. B. Hughes, Black Mountain; E. L. Keesles, Jr., Charlotte; O. C. McQuage, Salisbury; W. W. Thomas, Charlotte; A. R. Parsley, Hertford.

Seven of these men were not punished for participation in the Rand affair; but for hazing last year, evidence of which came out in the faculty's investigation. These are: McWhorter, Horton, Burk, Kelley, McKnight, Strayhorn and Tyson, all members of the junior class. The remainder are sophomores.

The faculty has been conducting rigid investigations for past several weeks, and is not through yet. President Venable states that the work will go on until every clue has been followed up. The sophomores were all present while young Rand was being hazed, though they were not of the party that took the freshmen from their rooms; nor did they participate actively in the hazing.

The juniors were punished for another "ense. Last March, after the banquet of the present junior class, a number of men tried to enter freshmen's rooms, threw rocks in the windows and even shot into the rooms. Investigation was made at that time by the students' council and by the faculty, but not enough evidence was accumulated. The faculty has been working steadily on the case, and only recently found the necessary evidence.

Gives His Leg to Save Girl's Life.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—William Rugh, a crippled newsboy, who volunteered some days ago to give his useless leg that its skin might be grafted to save the life of Miss Ethel Smith, made the sacrifice today. Rugh and Miss Smith lay on adjoining cabs in the operating room of the Gary, Ind., hospital while the young man's leg was amputated and the still living cuticle applied to the burns on Miss Smith's body.

One hundred and fifty square inches of skin was transferred from the boy's useless leg, after which it was amputated.

The sacrifice of a limb in such a case is said to be without a precedent in the annals of surgery. Fifty pieces of skin were burned from Miss Smith's body in an explosion of gasoline in a motorcycle accident several weeks ago. The burns were so extensive that healing would not start, and it became known that Miss Smith would die. Rugh immediately offered his leg, but it was only yesterday that Miss Smith's parents and physicians consented to accept the sacrifice.

Mrs. Paul Wehling, 316 Smith street, Peoria, Ill., had kidney and bladder trouble, with terrible backache and pain across the hips. Just imagine her condition. She further says: "I was also very nervous, had headaches and dizzy spells, and was fast getting worse when I took Foley Kidney Pills, and now all my troubles are cured. Foley Kidney Pills have done so much for me I shall always recommend them." Howard Gardner. adv.

Christening Develops Into Riot.

The christening of a babe at the home of S. R. Suber, a wealthy Syrian of Gaffney, S. C., had a decidedly riotous turn. Suber and two of his kinsmen were thrown into jail after a hard struggle with the policemen of Gaffney.

Sunday was the day set aside for the celebration of the christening, and the Suber home was the scene of much merrymaking. Everything went lovely throughout the day until late in the afternoon, when it is thought that liquid joy, which seemed to have been partaken of by those who were joining in the festivities, began to make itself felt. Finally pistol shots rang out, and Chief of Police Lockhart, together with Patrolman Webb and Officer Hudson, rushed into the house, where the occupants stoutly resisted arrest, and some outside help was necessary to subdue them. By combined efforts three of them were locked up, while a fourth was forced to put up a cash bond.

NATURE'S CURE FOR CHRONIC ULCERS

Only by removing the cause can any chronic Ulcer or Old Sore be cured. No one will question the truthfulness of this statement. The cause is always from an inward source, never an outward influence, and therefore the only possible way to get rid of these places is to take internal treatment. Pure blood is the one unfailing cure for chronic ulcers; just as long as the circulation is allowed to remain in an impure condition the place will be kept open from the constant discharge of impurities into it from the blood. But pure blood will change this condition and the flesh tissues will be nourished and made healthy, and then nature will promptly and permanently heal the ulcer. S. S. S. is recognized as the greatest of all blood purifiers and therein lies its power to cure old ulcers and sores. It goes into the circulation, and removes every trace of impurity or infectious matter, and so enriches this vital fluid that it nourishes all flesh tissues instead of irritating them with impurities. When S. S. S. has cleansed the blood and the place has healed over it is not a surface cure, but the entire ulcer is filled in with healthy flesh. Book and medical advice free. S. S. S. is for sale at drug stores.

WHAT HEALTH FACTS DO.

How Such Facts Woke Up Rocky Mount.

No one doubts that he lives in a healthy community. We always think it is the other fellow or some other country that has plague or cholera and a high death rate. The facts in the case sometimes show startling conditions to the contrary. Then there follows some prompt, vigorous action, and it is surprising to see such wonderful results accomplished in a short time with such little effort.

This is just what has happened in the town of Rocky Mount about a year ago. Vital statistics plainly showed that among a certain class of citizens in that town, living in unsewered districts, the death rate during fly season was over four times the normal. These were very disagreeable facts, but they had to be faced. A correspondent in telling the state board of health how they did it, comments as follows: "We forced the erection of hundreds of surface closets and have improved the sanitary conditions of all the old closets. I am glad to say that the mortality records this year show marked improvement over last year. A part of the change may be accidental, still it is reasonable to assume that a large part of the improvement was due to improved conditions."

The correspondent then gives a few significant figures on the number of deaths during the first eight months of 1911 as compared with the first eight months of 1912.

Eight months 1911: Total deaths 96—Diphtheria 2, pneumonia 14, tuberculosis 19, diarrheal diseases 11, whooping cough 7, typhoid fever 8.

Eight months 1912: Total deaths 51—Diphtheria 0, pneumonia 6, tuberculosis 4, diarrheal diseases 6, whooping cough 0, typhoid fever 4.

What a wonderful saving in human lives! Granted that only a part of this tremendous reduction was due to the health work in that town, the cost of the effort has been repaid many times over.

When North Carolina has statewide registration of all births and deaths, many other towns and communities will do the same thing and at the same time other places will become noted as health resorts.

Let's know the facts.

It is of very little importance simply to know that the death rate from typhoid fever in one's town or county is .50 per 1,000 population. But it becomes of vital importance to know this when we also know that the average death rate in the United States from this disease is only .23 per 1,000. When we have our own figures to compare with some standard or an average we can begin to find out where we stand. So it is with all the other diseases. When we once find out which diseases have high death rates and which have low death rates, we know what to provide against. When we have statewide registration of vital statistics we will know all this and more.

Great interest was manifested in the International Congress on Hygiene and Demography, which convened last week in Washington. North Carolina was well represented in this congress by a number of our ablest men and women, and our state will certainly gain much thereby through the increased interest in health and hygiene.

American Public Health Association.

The American Public Health Association met last week in Washington. The association is composed of the leading health officials of Canada, Mexico, Cuba and the United States. North Carolina was represented by Dr. R. H. Lewis, former secretary of the North Carolina state board of health; Dr. W. S. Rankin, secretary North Carolina state board of health; Dr. J. A. Ferrell, assistant secretary state board of health for hookworm disease; Col. J. L. Ludlow, sanitary engineer state board of health, Winston-Salem; Dr. L. B. McBrayer, health officer, Asheville; Warren H. Booker, assistant secretary state board of health, and Miss Mabel Massey, clerk in charge of vital statistics in the state board of health office. North Carolina was honored by the appointment of Dr. W. S. Rankin chairman of the section of vital statistics. Our state was the first in the South to pass a law requiring the registration of vital statistics, and, though the law relates only to towns of five hundred or more population, it has proven of inestimable value in estimating the health conditions existing in our towns. We now need a law requiring the registration of deaths in the entire state, so that the health authorities of a town may at any time know the exact condition of their town and direct their work accordingly.

The vast majority of cases of summer diarrhea among infants are caused by improper feeding or over-feeding. The child may be given too much; the milk may be too strong for its age; it may be dirty and unsanitary. Food should be given at regular and not too frequent intervals; avoid giving solid food too soon; don't give candy, sugar, cakes or like sweets.

Man has in his ingenuity added many things to water, but as a rule these additions are useless if not harmful. No drink ever devised by man has been more effective for the slaking of thirst than pure water. Drink nothing but good, pure, undiluted Adam's ale, not less than two quarts a day.

It is to the glory of Kansas that she was the first to abolish the public drinking cup in schools, railroads and hotels. Will North Carolina be next?

The Danger After Grip

Lies often in a run-down system. Weakness, nervousness, lack of appetite, energy and ambition, with disordered liver and kidneys often follow an attack of this wretched disease. The greatest need then is Electric Bitters, the glorious tonic, blood purifier and regulator of stomach, liver and kidneys. Thousands have proved that they wonderfully strengthen the nerves, build up the system and restore to health and good spirits after an attack of grip. If suffering, try them. Only 60 cents. Sold and perfect satisfaction guaranteed by Fariss-Klutz Drug Company. adv.

Farmers' Union Lecture.

I shall lecture on the Farmers' Union at Glendale school house, a mile southwest from Greensboro, October 4, at 7.30 P. M. All interested in this movement are cordially invited. A large number of ladies is desired also. A good opportunity to learn about this great movement.

Pure End to Bad Habit.

Things never look bright to one with "the blues." Ten to one the trouble is a sluggish liver, filling the system with bilious poison, that Dr. King's New Life Pills would expel. Try them. THE BULL MOOSE CONVENTION.

The Bull Mooseras held a convention in Greensboro last Saturday—a widely advertised meeting of the faithful who are battling for the Lord, and it is said by those disinterested and truthful that not over thirty politicians were present. It seems strange that in a highly civilized community; in a county where the public school has wrought wonders; in a community where law and order prevail and where a Christian spirit is ever manifest, that when a party organizes and battles for the Lord, as the Unspotted Kernel claims he is doing, that but thirty pie bunters and hope-to-be pie eaters would assemble to assume the responsibility of conducting such a meeting.

There seems to be some mistake. Roosevelt has a following of what may be called the Weary Willies of politics, who march under a gonfalon of despair; a crowd, and a small crowd, of so-called erstwhile Republicans who have voluntarily exiled themselves and repudiated the party they helped make odious in the South—and with noise and bluster and pretense imagine they have a procession, when indeed it is an individual enterprise of solitary politicians, meeting as it were by chance and resolving that "we, the people" propose this and that—the proposition having in view the punishment of Republicans who cabbaged the pie and left an empty cupboard for the belated patriots who sought a hand-cut. The Bull Moose convention is a joke; a burlesque—an exhibition of Quixotic encounter staged by ambitious Sancho Panzas, who, unlike the original, would all like to be governors or "jecs-tise of the peace"—and to get office would repudiate the party that is as vicious as it always was and which once, in their eyes, was the embodiment of all the virtues which earth or heaven holds. The Republican party has not changed; it is the same in intent and purpose; it is as it was in the days of reconstruction; in the days when trusts were born; in the days when it gave protection and immunity to the robber barons who pillaged and plundered labor. It is the same today; changing not one iota from its habits and desires which it displayed in the days of Russell and Butler—and because the members of that party temporarily drop their mask and put on another false face and pretend to espouse the cause of the one perfect man in all the world—the same perfect man who, as president seven years, did nothing to accomplish what he now proclaims as his heart's desire, is no reason why any Democrat should vote its ticket or why any honest Republican, and a few such there be, should desert Taft to boost a pretender to the throne.

And take away the lure of office; let it be understood that a vote for Roosevelt ended when the ballot was cast, with no pie in sight, and the thirty patriots who rallied last Saturday would have been reduced to the floor manager and the janitor of the building where the battle-scarred warriors of the Armageddon did assemble to the tune of thirty souls.

The Kitchen-Simmons fight or the Simmons-Kitchen fight goes merrily along, and the thoughtful man still wonders why there should be a change—while the politician cannot see, to save his soul, how any Democrat can oppose the trust-buster who never busted a trust. But then, it was ever thus—there are none so blind as those who will not see.

PRICES GOING UP.

Mr. Reed Smoot, that delightful Republican Mormon senator who held his seat by reason of Republican grace, has made about a dozen speeches in the senate, and he sends us one, showing that the high cost of living has been going on for many years and that people have stood for advances and that it will be the same story all the time.

For instance, Mr. Smoot shows that in 1896, when he first took figures, all the things the farmers raised had a certain value—eggs, wheat, rye, hogs, butter, steers, flax-seed, hops, hay, barley, oats; cotton, corn, had advanced tremendously—and the farmer has no cause to complain if prices for what he buys seem high to him.

To illustrate:
Ten bushels of corn equaled in value 46 pounds of Rio coffee in December, 1911, and 23 pounds in December, 1896.

Ten bushels of corn equaled in value 16 gallons of New Orleans molasses in December, 1911, and 7 gallons in December, 1896.

Ten bushels of corn equaled in value 7 barrels of salt in December, 1911, and 4 barrels in December, 1896.

Ten bushels of corn equaled in value 123 pounds of granulated sugar in December, 1911, and 56 pounds in December, 1896.

Ten bushels of corn equaled in value 110 yards of Amoskeagingham in December, 1911, and 48 yards in December, 1896.

Ten bushels of corn equaled in value 85 yards of Fruit of the Loom shirtings in December, 1911, and 48 yards in December, 1896.

Ten bushels of corn equaled in value 74 gallons of refined petroleum in December, 1911, and 23 gallons in December, 1896.

The actual advance on certain articles, a few of which we mention, was as follows: Corn 46 cents a bushel; wheat 40 cents a bushel; oats 29 cents a bushel; rye 53 1-2 cents a bushel; barley 92 cents a bushel; timothy hay advanced $11.91 a ton; potatoes advanced 62 cents a bushel; steers $3.16 a hundred pounds and hogs $3.22; butter advanced 17 cents a pound and all other things in like manner.

Of course a section of the country has something to do with it, but these figures carefully prepared show what has been done in the country—and therefore if the farmer must pay more for his sugar he must understand that his ten bushels of whatever he sells buys more sugar than ten bushels did in 1896.

The high cost of living seems to be still advancing; labor is demanding more wages; farm lands are going up; everything is getting higher and higher.

Supply and demand seem to make but little difference. This year we are told that the crops will exceed by several millions in money the crop of any other year in the history of the country. Irrigation in the west has made crops always certain, and while some sections have suffered from drouth, the entire country produces more than ever before and prices still soar upward.

So it seems that no matter what happens we are finally going to pay about six dollars a dozen for potatoes. Of course that will not happen in our time. Our grandfathers remember when potatoes rotted in the field; no one wanted to buy them, while our children's children will enjoy the pleasure of paying six dollars a set for Irish potatoes—and three will constitute a set. So the pessimist, if he will search his heart, must find that in reality he has no reason to complain at the present high cost of high living.

Senator Simmons wonders why it is that Collier's is so popular just now when it is edited by a white man who defended the negro Manly. But then the negro incident is another story. Collier's knows that Kitchen is a white man.

The Socialists are very mad with Roosevelt, claiming that Teddy has stolen all their thunder. It is too bad that Teddy took the hand baggage of Debbs.

ROOSEVELT AND THE WORD LIAR

The word liar has been used by Theodore Roosevelt more times than by any other public man. He calls every man who disagrees with him a liar. No one is ever mistaken—no one honestly disagrees with him—the one making the fatal error of not agreeing or of stating his view point is just a common, every-day liar. Of course Mr. Roosevelt is the only perfect man this age has ever had the happy satisfaction of knowing. George Washington, who never told a lie, was of another generation—but had George lived in these days of mendacity, with Roosevelt at large, the Ananias club would have had the walls of its meeting place adorned with a lithograph of Mr. Washington—and there would have been no way out of it.

The fact, however, that Roosevelt himself has been branded as a conscienceless and unmitigated liar by hundreds of reputable persons suggests that he sees all men in his own mirror, measures them by his own yard-stick, so to speak, and knowing himself to be a liar presumes that all men, as David remarked, are also liars.

The question comes in, did the young Psalmist, who remarked in his haste, that all men were liars, include himself? If he did, then Roosevelt is different from David, because Roosevelt proclaims himself the one unspotted, the one holy, the one perfect man in all the world.

But even a perfect man is liable to be skinned, and if Roosevelt's hide isn't hanging on the political clothes-line for keeps, after November 5, then we will be the most mistaken observer in all the world.

His recent utterance that he would carry North Carolina is simply an exhibition of his sublime and unequalled egotism. He will not carry a county in North Carolina—and Taft will come along for at least thirty-five per cent. of the Republican votes in this state.

WHERE THEY ARE NOT STRONG.

Gen. Julian S. Carr, of Durham, comes out in a big advertisement calling on the Democrats of Durham county to come across with subscriptions to the Wilson-Marshall campaign fund. He says Democrats are not responding—and insists that he has made now his last call.

Democrats are often too busy to take time to send a dollar; some are too indifferent. What the campaign needs in the North and West is money—money for legitimate purposes. The Democratic party is trying to avoid big contributions; it does not want to feel under obligations to trusts and interests—and therefore it must appeal for dimes and dollars to all the Democrats in the United States.

The national committee has issued a lithograph, big enough for framing, which it sends to the person remitting an amount of money—one dollar secures the lithograph. This may be the means of getting a few dollars, but a Democrat should not care about getting his name in the paper or about getting a picture of Wilson and Marshall in his home—what he should do is to come across and help elect these two gentlemen.

And the day is drawing to a close. Only one more month—not quite that before it is too late. Get busy now, send your dollar today—see that you help in the worthy cause of putting out of business the Republican party and giving the nation a Democratic administration. Let us all give something; no matter how small your donation, but give it and give it freely.

The good road work in the county is progressing, but there must be more haste else the fall rains will take the foundation. The macadam is going to pieces very rapidly and the commissioners must get larger forces to work or the county will lose thousands of dollars.

Judge Clark gives it out that he is in the running and his friends insist that his vote will be a surprise. But it is so long until November—and the yellow sheets have so much white space to fill.

W. J. Thompson returned the first of last week from New York city much improved in health. He went there for a course of treatment.

Saturday last was set as the day of sale for a certain part of the lands of the late J. W. Foust, but the sale was called off because of suit now in the Superior court in which James D. Oldham is suing to compel the making of a certain deed. J. W. Foust has been dead nearly three years and his estate is still undivided.

J. S. Cox, a graduate of some years ago, was last week promoted to be chief dispatcher of the N. & W. railway system.

Charlie Carroll, well known as one of the best baseball players in the south, will be a member of this year's graduating class.

Several new instruments were received last week for the band and the boys are improving rapidly. They will give a concert soon.

Z. F. Perrett returned the first of last week from a short trip to Raleigh.

J. F. Swift is putting in a large stock of new goods. He is doing a splendid business and there is not handsomer store room in the county.

The building is 50 by 75 feet, with glass front, lighted by gas, with all conveniences. In a few days he will install an elegant up-to-date soda fountain.

Among those here for the services today we recall Onnie Whitsett and Margaret Whitsett, of Greensboro; Misses Eugenia and Espie App, of Brick church, and many others, making one of the largest crowds seen here in a long time.

Early Rising in Kansas.

"I reckon," said the first farmer "that I get up earlier than anybody in this neighborhood. I am always up before 3 o'clock in the morning."

The second farmer said he was always up before then and had part of the chores done. The first farmer thought he was a liar and wanted to find out. A few mornings later he got up at 2 o'clock and went to the neighbor's house. He rapped on the back door and the woman of the house opened it.

"Where is your husband?" asked the farmer, expecting to find the neighbor in bed.

"He was around here early in the morning," answered the wife, "but I don't know where he is now."

The Wealth of One Church.

A public statement by the trustees of Trinity church, New York, confirms the impression as to its primacy in wealth. It holds the estate which at open market prices would sell for seventy-five million dollars. Of this, forty-five millions are estimated as unproductive for the present. The income last year from pew rent, as well as from house rents and other sources, was a little short of one million. The income was expended in the following way: The sum of $354,000 for the maintenance of the church and its Sunday and day schools; $150,000 for missions and cemeteries; $169,000 for taxes; $225,000 for repairs and improvements, and $92,350 for interest.

Admonition.

The widower had just taken his fourth wife and was showing her around the village. Among the places visited was the churchyard, and the bride paused before a very elaborate tombstone that had been erected by the bridegroom. Being a little nearsighted, she asked him to read the inscriptions and in reverent tones he read:

"Here lies Susan, beloved wife of John Smith, and Mary, beloved wife of John Smith."

He paused abruptly and the bride, leaning forward to see the bottom line, read to her horror:

"Be Ye Also Ready."

Albanian Soldiers' Duel.

London Chronicle.
The Albanians used to practice a form of duelling well-nigh as fatal as that advocated by Sir Charles Napier. Sir Richard Burton, who once commanded a corps of Bashibazouks, writes that "the Albanian contingent, who generally fight when they are drunk, had a peculiar style of manumachy. The principals, attended by their seconds and by all their friends, stood close opposite, each holding a cocked pistol in the right hand and a glass of raki, or spirits of wine, in the left. The first to drain his draught had the right to fire, and generally blazed away with fatal effect. It would have been useless to discourage this practice, but I insisted on fair play."

J. G. Criswell, a painter living at 540 North Mulberry street, Hagerstown, Md., states: "I had kidney trouble with a severe pain across my back, and could hardly get up after sitting down. I took Foley Kidney Pills and soon found the pain left my back. I can get up and down with ease, and the bladder action was more regular and normal." Try them. Howard Gardner, adv.

YOU CAN'T MATCH

The "Imperial" Chilled Plow on this market with a Plow which runs as light, cuts as smooth, cleans as well, is as easy to manage or costs as little for repairs. There are more "Imperial" plows in use in this county for the length of time they have been sold here, than any plow we know of. There is a reason for this. Ask your neighbor who has an "Imperial"—he'll tell you. Before you buy a new plow, we want you to see the line of "Imperial" plows. You can find just the size you need—just the style you ought to have. While the "Imperial" plow is worth more it sells for less than some other makes. You get the advantage of low prices and the saving in freight as well. We want to see you in our store and will make it amply worth your while to come.

"ON THE CORNER"

[This matter must not be reprinted without special permission.]

Doing the work that is enjoyed is never a drudgery, and most people enjoy the work which makes a profit.

An antitoxin has been developed which is effective in curing or relieving about 50 per cent of the hay fever cases in which it is used.

We never realized until the other day how pretty a bouquet of bright red blossomed balsams make. While they are short lived, both leaves and blossoms make an effective combination.

The consumption of veal calves is said to be two or three times greater today than it was ten years ago, and this is given as one of the chief contributing causes of the present high price of beef cattle.

The largest mule in the world is said to have been burned in a fire which destroyed a livery barn at Trenton, Mo., the other day. The animal was four years old, weighed 2,010 pounds and was valued at $1,000.

Glance at the trees just outside your lot on the roadway and see if limbs hang down so low from them as to scratch the head of the fellow who goes by on a load of hay. There are lots of just such limbs that need trimming.

None of the flowering plants are easier to propagate than the phlox. Simply take pieces of a vigorous stalk containing dormant buds and put in moist earth or sand. In a short time the rootlets will start and the new plant will grow vigorously.

The railroads are not making a very loud noise these days about their yards and sidetracks being encumbered with empty freight cars. A bumper grain crop is being moved to market, and everything on wheels will have to be called into service to handle it.

There has been considerable increase lately in the cultivation of the ever bearing strawberry. This variety, instead of having a single fruiting season in June or thereabouts, begins to bear at about that time, but continues to produce a succession of blossoms from that time until frost.

In Argentina the supply of beef animals is controlled and regulated by a law which prohibits the killing of the females of the species before they have reached a certain age. It is the killing of better calves for veal—a practice followed extensively in this country—that is said to be in large measure responsible for the present shortage in beef animals.

There are too many homesteads where a day's work might be done in trimming up trees whose lower branches sag and shut the sunshine from the house. A little of this trimming work should be done every year if possible. Shade is a fine thing, but too much of it is a bad thing, and too much of it is a bad thing, and too much of it is a bad thing.

An interesting feature of several state fairs this fall will be Guernsey and Jersey bulls—usually excitable and dangerous—broken and hitched to carts and driven by children. This is an excellent stunt for such occasions, but better still when put into every day practice on the farms. Working him in the manner indicated not only begets a more equable and gentle disposition in the herd sire, but will insure greater vigor in his offspring. Besides this, the life insurance of those about the place doesn't need to be quite so high.

Estimates which have lately been accepted by the postoffice department put at $125,000,000 the amount out of which eagle and gullible investors have been swindled during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912. The fake and blue sky enterprises in which the hard cash of these victims has been sunk have been of almost limitless kind and variety. And the great pity of it all is that the bulk of this money that was stolen was taken from people of modest savings who nethered the delusive hope that they could play a game and get something for nothing.

A short time since the writer spent a week in a suburb of Chicago, and he was impressed with the remarkable vigor and thriftiness, as well as glossiness, of foliage of the cottonwood trees that were growing on the borders of the streets and boulevards. Their condition was in very marked contrast to the elm, box elder, ash and maple, which under rural conditions are usually very thrifty. Just why the cottonwood does so much better under the conditions to be found in the gas and coal cities we cannot say, but it is clear that it does.

There is nothing the flock of hens enjoy more on being turned out of their yard a little while before going to roost than scratching in the soft earth of the vegetable patch. While their scratching may do a little damage, this is more than made up by the worms and insects devoured.

Luther Burbank, the California plant wizard, is said to have developed a spineless cactus that has yielded at the rate of 400 tons per year from plants two and a half years old. If they should yield proportionately at ten years old the prospect would seem good that the stuff would be so thick it would be impossible to get at it to harvest it.

For the flock of hens that are now in process of moulting the nitrogenous element should predominate in the feed given them. This will hasten the process of feather making and will the sooner bring the flock to a laying condition. Wheat, bran, beef scraps, ground bone and oil meal are all high in protein content and will help the moulting process along.

There has been considerable discussion in horticultural journals within the past year touching the merits of the Himalaya blackberry, some speaking in high praise of it and others pronouncing it practically worthless. The chief criticism of it seems to be that it will not stand severe winter cold and that it is not as prolific a bearer nor its fruit of as good quality as was claimed.

There has been an unusual demand for carrots at one New England summer resort following the alleged discovery that they have a tendency to make the complexion clear and the eyes bright. The recipe for getting these much desired results is to eat three raw carrots between meals and three before going to bed. This is a brand of cosmetic that won't rub off on a fellow's coat or get streaked with rain or emotion.

Electricity is so cheaply produced in some sections of the west that it is used for heating houses and offices as a substitute for hot air and steam. At Twin Falls, Ida., this plan is carried out, and it has been found that six room houses can be heated for eight months at a cost of $100. Not only is the electric heating system preferable to other methods from the standpoint of cleanliness and convenience, but it is more economical, with soft coal costing $8 or $9 per ton and hard coal from $16 to $18.

If there is a mole burrowing around in the flower bed the chances are that he is doing a great deal more good than harm, for the little animal's bill of fare consists largely of earthworms and white grubs, both of which do much damage to flowering plants and vegetables. If in its search for grubs and worms the mole should tunnel beneath the plants the latter should be pressed down to keep their root systems from drying out. Very rarely do moles gnaw plant roots and then only when worm and insect food is scarce.

The preliminary August report issued by the government bureau of crop statistics puts the 1912 corn crop at 2,811,636,000 bushels on the 108,110,000 acres which is this year devoted to the crop. In spite of the fact that we hear so much about a bumper crop a glance at the estimated yield and acreage shows that the average yield for the country is but a trifle more than twenty-seven bushels per acre. And think of the yield some fellows must get to offset the millions of acres that produce all the way from fifty to a hundred bushels per acre!

The conscious effort of every member of every family, whether living in town or country, should be directed so far as possible toward making the dwelling place a home instead of a mere place to eat and sleep. To secure results that are worth while along this line there is needed something besides household furniture and a fullarder, though these will contribute to the physical comfort. What is needed more is an atmosphere of kindness, sympathy and helpfulness, and these ideals can be realized in the humblest homes to be found anywhere.

A bulletin published by the department of commerce and labor places the value of the fruits and nuts exported from the United States last year at $20,153,123. These figures do not indicate much in themselves, but do have considerable significance when it is known that the figures for 1901 for similar exportations were but $8,279,213. That the exports in these two lines are still increasing rapidly is shown in the fact that the exports of fruits and nuts for January of the present year were 50 per cent more than those of the corresponding months of 1911.

The common little black bats are unobtrusive, whose service is wont to be underestimated because it is performed between twilight and sunrise and therefore little observed. During the daylight hours they rest, coming forth just as darkness approaches to feed on flying insects. While they roost or hang suspended by a claw in old buildings and sometimes in trees, a favorite resting place for them in and about small towns is in the corners of store buildings, from which they can be seen filing forth in an almost steady procession as night comes on. Bats are voracious feeders, a fact that is shown in the very large deposits of bat manure in the lofts of buildings and in the bat caves, and are therefore among the best of insect destroyers.

DRYING POTATOES.

Within the past few years an important industry has developed in Germany along the line of drying potatoes for use as stock and human food. Germany grows nearly five times as many potatoes as the United States, and the need was realized some time ago of devising a method whereby they could be treated so as to extend the period of their use beyond the few months in which they are usable when kept in their natural state. Two general drying processes have been adopted. In one the potatoes are cooked by steam, mashed and dried by being passed between rollers heated by steam. By these it is pressed into a thin sheet, and knives scrape it off the rollers. In this form the dried potato is called "flocken," or flakes, and is in the form of a potato meal. In the second method the potatoes are shredded while raw and subjected to very high temperatures, being carried through long chambers in which the temperature gradually decreases. The finished product is known as "schnitzel." The growth in the industry is shown in the fact that there were but 118 factories in operation in 1907, while last year there were 408. Both these forms of the dried potato are used chiefly as a substitute for corn in feeding hogs. As a result of breeding experiments the starch content of some varieties has been increased from 12 to 25 per cent, but often at the expense of size and yield.

THE OFFICIAL RECIPE.

We have heard a good deal in days gone by about Boston baked beans, and a good many of us have had beans from cans bearing this label that were as hard and tasteless as bullets. Apparently for the purpose of rectifying some of these wrong impressions Mayor Fitzgerald of the "bean city" has recently given out the official recipe for Boston baked beans. Perhaps some of the good wives and mothers who read this department will be interested in fixing a batch as per directions for the purpose of determining whether they are "as good as mother used to make." It may be bad manners to make the suggestion, but the writer is inclined to believe that the beans would better be left in that second water instead of pouring it off just after the skins burst. However, the official formula is as follows: Pick one quart of beans, cover with cold water and let soak over night. In the morning drain, cover with fresh water, heat slowly and cook on back of range until skins burst. Then drain water off. Scald three-fourths of a pound of fat pork, place in beans, then mix one tablespoonful each of salt, molasses, sugar and one teaspoonful of mustard. Mix in a quart of boiling water and add to beans. Bake slowly from six to eight hours. Uncover during last hour and add water as needed.

A REMINISCENCE.

The writer had an experience with a balky horse a couple of years ago that he is able to appreciate the value of in retrospect in fuller measure than at the time the broncho was acting up. Usually there was a spell each morning that had to be eased off a bit by letting the team trot twenty or thirty rods hooked to the riding cultivator. And even after this spin the pressure had to be put on gradually, first one set of shovels being let down, then the other. Usually things would go all right after this preliminary, but it makes the writer smile to think of the amusement furnished the neighbors by the maternal spin across the ranch. This team—both were more or less inclined to contrariness—could not be surpassed on the road, would blink an automobile off the highway and would not break a lively trot for miles. But they went into other hands, and some fellow—city on him!—is trying to work 'em and maintain his church standing. Speaking from experience, we are inclined to think he has a job of considerable size on his hands.

A GOOD FALL FEED.

Unless the price of beef cattle should slump sharply from present high levels—and the word of those well posted on the cattle situation is to the effect they will not—the coming months would seem to be particularly favorable for feeding cattle for a future market. Not only are unheard of prices being paid for the best grades of steers on central markets, but feeders, while higher than usual, can be bought in thin flesh for about $5.50. The two factors mentioned, coupled with a bumper corn crop which will likely give a price of between 40 and 45 cents a bushel, would seem to make the prospect excellent for realizing a good return on the money invested in the enterprise in the shape of feeders and feed.

PLOW EARLY.

There is no sure way of getting entirely rid of worm and insect pests, but it is well for the husbandman to remember that plowing his fields as soon as possible after the grain or other crop is removed tends to break up the nests and thus expose to birds and other enemies, as well as to the elements, all worms and insects that seek a fall and winter shelter in the surface soil. This fact was commented upon in these notes some weeks ago, but it is worth repeating. If early fall plowing had no other argument in its favor the one mentioned would be sufficient to justify it.

REPUBLICANS' EXTRAVAGANCE

Government Cost More Than Doubled Under Roosevelt.

DEMOCRATS' GREAT RECORD

Startling Figures Which Show That the Cost of Our National Existence and the High Cost of Living Must Be Reduced.

Under a proper downward revision of the Republican tariff schedules the people of the United States would save $2,000,000,000 each year, or over $100 per family on manufactured goods alone.

President Taft's vetoes of the wool tariff bill and the steel tariff measure passed by a Democratic house COST THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES ABOUT $650,000,000 PER ANNUM.

The cost of conducting the federal government MORE THAN DOUBLED between the close of President Cleveland's second administration (Democratic) and the beginning of President Roosevelt's second administration (Republican).

As the DIRECT RESULT OF HIGH REPUBLICAN TARIFF SCHEDULES the people of the United States pay a tax FROM NINE TO SEVENTY-EIGHT PER CENT on food and ordinary household articles used in the home by every family, rich and poor.

The total cost of running the federal government in 1860 was $55,000,000.

The amount appropriated at a single session of the Sixty-first congress for the fiscal year 1911—$1,027,133,446.44—was more than double the amount—$504,496,055.13—appropriated for the fiscal years 1897 and 1898 at both sessions of the Fifty-fourth congress, the last congress of the second Cleveland administration.

Only eight years elapsed between the close of the second administration of President Cleveland and the beginning of the second administration of President Roosevelt and yet the amount appropriated during the four years of the latter—$3,842,203,577.15—was more than double that appropriated in the four years Mr. Cleveland was at the helm—viz., $1,871,59,857.47.

For 1910, the last fiscal year provided for in congress under President Roosevelt, the highwater mark in appropriations—$1,044,401,857.12—was reached.

President Taft's estimate to the last session of congress for government support for the fiscal year was $1,040,648,026.55.

In other words, governmental expenses for the FOUR YEARS of President Cleveland's administration (Democratic) were only $309,861,551.92 more than President Taft's (Republican) estimate of the amount necessary to cover the expenses of ONE YEAR of President Taft's administration.

Congressman John J. Fitzgerald of New York, a Democrat and chairman of the committee on appropriations, in addressing the house Aug. 26, 1912, on the subject of appropriations said, "Thoughtful men have watched with alarm the rapid increase in the cost of government in the United States." He further said that two causes seem responsible for many present evils:

"One, the UNFAIR AND UNJUST SYSTEM OF TAXATION by which an undue share of income by those whose circumstances in life are not considered more than reasonably comfortable is taken through our customs laws for the support of our government; the other, the difficulty or inability to readjust our system of taxation and to remove many taxes from the necessities of life, so long as the GOVERNMENT IS EXTRAVAGANTLY CONDUCTED, or the instrumentalities provided for the conduct of the public service are either inefficient or are not utilized so as to render the most effective and comprehensive results."

Mr. Fitzgerald then called attention to the fact that the Democratic party pledged itself if intrusted with power to do two things—REDUCE TARIFF DUTIES AND RETRENCH PUBLIC EXPENDITURES by eliminating waste in administration and the abolition of useless, inexcusable offices.

The Republicans talk about tariff revision, and yet when a Democratic house in fulfilling Democratic promises to the people reduced the tariff, a Republican president vetoed the measure. By their works shall ye know them."

Democrats in every state of the Union should organize and prepare for polling a record breaking vote Nov. 5. Be it remembered that no matter how certain victory seems, overconfidence is always dangerous.

Is there any reason why the Democratic party should go out of existence simply because Mr. Roosevelt has taken up the Progressive measures adopted by the Democrats eighteen years ago?—W. J. Bryan.

Mr. Roosevelt stood as a guarantor for Mr. Taft. Mr. Bryan says, "Now, when Roosevelt has failed so utterly in his judgement of men, I ask can he make correct judgment on himself?"

ing terms with the State Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations, and the State officials will no longer be regarded as inferior beings, living only on the largess of a Washington cabal. I ask all who want honesty and faithful service in the Department of Agriculture, the promotion of public health, and executives who have grown to manhood and lived in an environment favorable to that which makes for the public welfare, to vote for Wilson and Marshall.

TAXING POOR MAN'S COAT OFF HIS BACK

Concrete Illustration of What a Republican Tariff Really Means Causes Workers to Think.

Concrete examples of how a protective tariff operates are causing the working man, the "poor man," to do a lot of thinking nowadays. He is beginning to understand whether it is not about time to call a halt on the Republican practice of taxing the coat off his back and threatening him with the loss of his shirt and his socks if he does not submit.

All through the present tariff law, passed by a Republican congress and endorsed by a Republican President as THE BEST TARIFF BILL EVER PASSED, are to be found discriminations, the higher duty on the cheaper article, the lower on the shoulders of those least able to bear it the greater burden of the protective system. Here are some illustrations:

The cheapest wool blankets bear a duty of 165.42 per cent.; the dearest, 104.55 per cent.

Flannels, not more than 40 cents a pound, are taxed at 143.67 per cent.; over 70 cents a pound, 76.37 per cent.

Wool plushes, cheapest, 141.75 per cent.; dearest, 95.33 per cent.

Knit fabrics, cheapest, 141 per cent.; dearest, 95.53 per cent.

Stockings, worth from $1 to $1.50 a dozen, 76.37 per cent.; from $2 to $3, 59 per cent.

Hats and bonnets, worth not over $5 a dozen, 62 per cent.; over $20 a dozen, 35 per cent.

Carpets, highest priced, 50 per cent.; that used for mats and rugs, 126.88 per cent.

Women's gloves, unlined, 49 per cent.; lined, 34 per cent.; longest gloves, unlined, 42 per cent.; lined, 29 per cent.

Men's gloves, worth less than $3 a dozen, 66.28 per cent.; costliest gloves, 14.45 per cent.; leather, unlined, 44.58 per cent.; lined, 29.50 per cent.

Buckles, cheapest, 77.48 per cent.; dearest, 26.3 per cent.

Uncut diamonds bear a 10 per cent. duty; imitation diamonds, 20 per cent.

The humble firecracker bears a 97.02 per cent. duty, while elaborate fireworks bear but 70 per cent.

Mattings, smaller and cheaper grades, 43 per cent.; costlier, 24 per cent.

Watch movements, seven jewels, 66.02 per cent.; 11 jewels, 40.41 per cent.; 17 jewels, 31.45 per cent.

Underwear, cheapest, 56.90 per cent.; dearest, 50 per cent.

Dress goods of wool, cheapest, 105.42 per cent.; dearest, 94.13 per cent.

Velvets, cheapest, 105.22 per cent.; dearest, 49.55 per cent.

Silk handkerchiefs, cheapest, 77.44 per cent.; dearest, 59 per cent.

Scissors, worth 50 cents a dozen, 52.21 per cent.; worth $1.75 a dozen, 46 per cent.

Table knives, fancy grades, 57.40 per cent.; bone handled, 69.43 per cent.

Butcher knives, best grades, 52.10 per cent.; cheapest grades, 93.55 per cent.

Piles, smallest, 81.29 per cent.; longest, 36.81 per cent.

Shot guns, worth from $5 to $10, 47.67 per cent.; worth over $10, 45.46 per cent.

These are only a part of the discriminations, gleaned from a swift conning of some of the schedules. Reduced to simplest terms, they mean that the poor man is taxed higher than the rich man.

The Third Term candidate's favorite reply to the telling, unanswerable arguments of Gov. Wilson is that the latter's opinions are based "not on actual knowledge and experience but by reading musty books on political economy." The Colonel himself at a tender age was put at hard labor! It is not often that a man whose whole life has been given up to politics and office-holding gets as horny-handed as Mr. Roosevelt in the ranks of labor and high finance!

Wonder if Emerson was gazing upon a Moose calf when, several decades ago, he wrote: "I am the owner of the sphere, Of the seven stars and the solar year."

President Taft congratulates the Republicans of Maine on what Chairman Hilles describes as "an old-fashioned victory." Another such and Vermont and Rhode Island would go Democratic in November.

The card-stacking at Armageddon goes merrily on. Eight Taft electors in Missouri announce that if elected they will vote for the Third Term candidate.

Those who know and feel for Chairman Hilles say he really isn't to blame for the Republican presidential candidate's announcement that he "is out of politics."

A Western Third Termers regrets that Roosevelt will not have time before election day to say half he means. He'll have plenty of time following it.

WHY DR. WILEY IS FOR WILSON

He Says Taft and T. R. Are Soldiers of Fraud.

ENEMIES OF PURE FOOD LAW

Famous Chemist Believes the Health of the Nation Demands Election of the Democratic Ticket.

By HARVEY W. WILEY.
(Former Chief Chemist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.)

My appeal is chiefly to those who, like myself, have been lifelong Republicans. I believe that no kind of an administration is going to ruin the country. I have a high personal regard for each one of the candidates for president and vice-president on all the tickets. All the political platforms are mainly sound and all promise effort in behalf of the whole people. My choice is not based on a platform. It was determined by my impressions of the real attitude of the candidates respecting the public welfare. We are creatures of heredity and environment. In our attitude towards great public questions we are almost altogether creatures of environment.

What two men are by environment least likely to be swayed by special interests and most likely to be guided by devotion to public welfare? Two of the candidates have already been tried in the presidential chair and we know by experience what may be expected if either of them resume his former seat on March 4, 1913. Mr. Roosevelt by reason of his attitude towards the food and drug act abandoned the consumers of the country to the rapacity of a few mercenary manufacturers. Under authority of congress I had carried on extensive experiments with my so-called poison squad and found that certain substances, viz., benzoic compounds, sulphurous compounds and sulphate of copper (blue stone), were injurious to health.

The law conferred upon me, as chief of the bureau of chemistry, the duty of acting as a grand jury and determining whether foods and drugs were adulterated or misbranded. Instead of appealing from my decisions to the courts as the law requires, the users of these poisons appealed to President Roosevelt. He not only listened to them, but he abrogated the plain provisions of the law, appointed a board not contemplated by the law, and directed that these predatory interests might continue their attacks on the health of the people until this board, unknown to the law, should decide otherwise.

Can we safely trust the campaign for public health to Mr. Roosevelt? I cannot believe that to be the proper course. Mr. Taft inherited this exceedingly bad condition of affairs from his predecessor and has not only continued this illegal board under whose patronage adulterators are still poisoning the people, but he did worse. In the matter of the adulteration of distilled beverages in which Roosevelt upheld the legally constituted authorities, Mr. Taft reversed that policy and threw the mighty weight of the executive office to the support of the worst lot of adulterators that ever disgraced a country.

Mr. Wilson and Mr. Marshall by their strenuous efforts in behalf of the food laws of their respective states, have given a positive promise to end such a threatening state of affairs. They will support to the utmost the officials under the law who are trying to protect the public health and will make short shrift of those who have brought about these present unbearable conditions.

Wilson and Marshall by their education and environment are free from bias in favor of predatory interests and are inspired by true patriotic zeal in behalf of public welfare.

I support the Democratic nominees in full knowledge that many of the prominent Democrats in congress have been in full sympathy with the paralysis of the food law in behalf of the unholy dollar. But when the Democratic president and vice-president lend the aid of their powerful sympathy in behalf of the public health those of their own party not in sympathy with them will be robbed of their power for evil. If Roosevelt or Taft be chosen the soldiers of fraud and adulteration will be impregnably entrenched for another four years and benzoates, sulphites and adulterated alcoholic beverages will have a new lease of life.

I believe also that President Wilson will renovate the department of agriculture, reeking, as it has been for the past twelve years, with scandals and favoritism. He will see to it that the bureau of animal industry will protect the public health instead of the efforts of the packers to sell diseased meats under the deceptive phrase "U. S. Inspected and Passed." Under President Wilson no more Pinchots will be kicked out of the service, no more unspeakable McCabes will exercise dictatorial powers. There will be no more cotton leaks and jungle atrocities, no more Everglade swindles. Bucaeneering, boasting and buncombe will give place to sane efforts for the promotion of real agriculture and the public health.

Under Wilson the department of agriculture will be restored to speak

Historic Blackguards

By Albert Payson Terhune

The Press Publishing Co. (The New York World)

Blackbeard, Pirate "for Revenue Only"

IN a Virginia family a gruesome heirloom is still cherished. It is a huge drinking cup, barred with silver and resting on a silver base. The cup itself is made of a polished human skull.

BLACKBEARD The skull of Blackbeard, the pirate. Nor was Blackbeard's head less fantastic in life than it is in death. He wore an immense beard, jet black, braided and tied into a dozen fantastic strands. And each strand was fastened with a gaudy ribbon. To add to his ferociously ludicrous appearance he had all his teeth blackened and filed to a sharp point. But though in dress and shape he looked like a comic opera brigand, there the comic opera element ended. He was a shrewd business man—a pirate "for revenue only."

Blackbeard's real name was Edward Teach (or "Thatch"). He was born in England in the last part of the seventeenth century, and is said to have shipped as a youth aboard a privateer vessel bound for the West Indies during the war of the "Spanish Succession." Privateering in those days was not very different from piracy. It was almost as profitable and it had the advantage of being strictly legal.

The blackguard with the fewest scruples, least conscience and greatest store of brutal courage, craftiness and ferocity was certain of quick promotion among the sea rangers—unless he was first killed. And Blackbeard had all these qualities. He had also, a daredevil manner, which (coupled with his odd dress and odder face) led many people to believe him insane. But he seems never to have been too roaring crazy to keep an eye on every "business" chance that came his way.

In 1713 peace was declared and the privateers found themselves out of work. This did not trouble Blackbeard. From privateering to piracy was the shortest kind of step. He turned pirate. For a year or so nothing was heard from him by the outside world. But in 1716 he all at once became famous—or infamous. In his armed sloop Queen Anne's Revenge (at the head of a murderous crew that feared nothing but himself) he began ravaging the Spanish Main.

Then, leaving that happy hunting ground to the freebooter folk, Blackbeard headed northward and scoured the Virginia and Carolina coasts, fighting, capturing, pillaging, burning. For two years he kept this up, eluding capture and making his name a terror to planters and sailors alike.

Then, in June, 1718, Queen Anne's Revenge was wrecked off the North Carolina coast. Blackbeard, instead of fighting on land or waiting to be captured, surrendered himself and 30 of his best men to Gov. Charles Eden of North Carolina. The pirate, in spite of his eccentricities, was a shrewd judge of human nature. He had good reason to know what manner of man Eden was. He went to the governor, secured from him a royal pardon and calmly proposed a business partnership. It was arranged between them that Blackbeard was to go back to his pleasant piratical labors and that Eden (in return for a fair percentage of the plunder) should protect him from legal interference.

This was a safe and profitable arrangement for both. For a few months it prospered finely. But such a state of affairs aroused sharp comment from the planters on whose rich estates Blackbeard was now levying a heavy toll. One local legislator, Edward Mosley, complained publicly that while Eden could easily raise an armed force to arrest honest men, he did not seem able to do anything toward capturing Blackbeard. Eden punished this plain speech by fining Mosley $500 and by prohibiting him from holding office for three years.

But the people's discontent could not be so easily silenced. The colonists, unable to stir their own governor into action, appealed to Gov. Spotswood of Virginia. Spotswood was a very different sort from the profit-loving Eden. He promptly fitted up two ships and, with Lieut. Robert Maynard in command, sent them against the pirates.

The Virginian force found Blackbeard in Pamlico bay on November 18, 1718. A fierce battle ensued. Blackbeard knew what defeat would mean to him, so he ordered one of his men to stand by the powder magazine with a lighted match and to blow up friends and enemies alike at a signal from him. But the signal was not given. For in the thick of the turmoil Blackbeard and Maynard met on deck in a hand-to-hand fight. It was a duel whose fame lived long in Virginia—this deadly sword clash between a dapper young officer and a giant pirate. At length skill in swordsmanship prevailed against mere savage strength, and a blow of Maynard's cutlass stretched Blackbeard dead on his own deck. The career of America's most picturesque sea rover was at an end. The survivors of the crew surrendered. Thirteen of them were hanged. And coast dwellers and marines alike breathed easier.

Indications of Long Life.

It seems to be generally agreed that every person affords physical indications of his prospects of a long or short life. A long-lived person, it is said, may be distinguished at sight from a short-lived one. In many cases a physician can glance at the hand of a patient and determine whether he will live or not.

The primary conditions of longevity are that the heart, lungs and digestive organs, as well as the brain, shall be large. If these organs are large the trunk will be long and the limbs comparatively short. The person will appear tall while sitting and short while standing. The hand will have a long and somewhat heavy palm, with short fingers. The brain will be deeply placed, as shown by the low position of the orifice of the ear. The blue, brown or hazel eye is a favorable indication.

The nostrils, if large, open and free, indicate large lungs. A pinched and half-closed nostril indicates small or weak lungs. These are general points of distinction, but are, of course, subject to the usual individual exceptions.

What Makes a Nation.

John Bright.

I believe there is no permanent greatness to a nation except it be based upon morality. I do not care for military greatness or military renown. I care for the condition of the people among whom I live. Crowns, coronets, mitres, military display, the pomp of war, wide colonies and a huge empire are, in my view, all trifles, light as air, and not worth considering, unless with them you can have a fair share of comfort, contentment and happiness among the great body of the people. Palaces, baronial castles, great halls, stately mansions do not make a nation. The nation in every country dwells in the cottage; and unless the light of your constitution can shine there, unless the beauty of your legislation and the excellence of your statesmanship are impressed there on the feelings and condition of the people, rely upon it, you have yet to learn the duties of government.

SYNDICALISM IS NEW WEAPON OF LABOR

FERNAND PELLOUTIER

ARTURO LABRIOLA
ITALIAN SYNDICALIST LEADER

SYNDICALIST CENTER IN VICO

NEW methods of warfare and new aims have been introduced into the industrial world by syndicalism. In the United States most people made their first acquaintance with it through the strikes at Lawrence, Mass., and at Paterson, N. J. Even then they learned little of its principles. Yet many students of the labor questions believe that those principles will have to be reckoned with more and more. Therefore an account is given here of syndicalism up to date.

In an address delivered before the Sociological society in England a few days ago A. J. Balfour declared that syndicalism has been brought into being by the apparent failure of the parliamentary system.

"It is a pathetic fact," he said, "but many of the most earnest men of Europe regard the representative system as almost played out. It is pathetic when you think with what high hopes each successive development of the representative system has started out."

Syndicalists have given up all hope of attaining their ends through parliamentary or legislative action and look to other means for securing social reforms.

Direct action is the epitome of the syndicalist platform: You want something? If you are strong enough to compel the people to give it to you, take it. Syndicalists do not preach plunder, neither do they say: If you want something, ask for it. No. You must demonstrate that unless a certain thing you desire is given to you, you are in a position to destroy "passively" property equal or superior in value to that certain thing.

How the Idea Works Out.

Every striker knows that and the idea is not original. What is original, however, is the application of this principle to every act of civil life.

Syndicalists are modern if anything.

They do not believe in a millennium in which love and brotherhood will be the only motives of human action. On the other hand, they refuse to share the anarchist's scorn for modern civilization and his hankering for a return to nature. They are practical and businesslike. The past is dead and the future is unknown. The immediate needs of the present hour are to them the sole object of interest.

Consider now the application of the syndicalist theory.

The primary aim of labor unions is to have the work of the world done by their members only; secondly, they are trying to keep out of their ranks as many workmen as possible, so that their members will find employment all the year round; finally, they wish to secure for their members the highest possible salary for the shortest possible day's work.

When fighting for recognition of their unions or for higher pay union men confer and sign agreements with their employers, thereby recognizing them formally.

Work for All, No Employers.

Syndicates, on the other hand, wish to secure employment for every human being willing to earn a livelihood. Their primary aim is so to shorten the working day so that there shall not be any workers out of employment.

Secondly, regarding the employers as mere parasites, they aim at driving them out by demanding a steadily higher wage until the workers receive the full value of their labor. They never confer with employers and never sign any agreements with them.

One labor union can only admit men belonging to one craft. Locomotive engineers, telegraph operators and ticket agents may be working for the same railroad, but cannot belong to the same union.

Syndicates, on the contrary, bind all workers in one solid union, divided up for local convenience into groups of more closely allied interests. Take, for instance, the employees of a steel mill. According to the union system steel workers, machinists, truckmen, stationary engineers, blacksmiths, should belong to different groups. A syndicate would admit every one employed in the mill, from the janitor to the foreman, from the office boy to the stenographer.

Finally the labor unions have reduced to the strictest minimum the number of apprentices. Syndicalists of France, Italy, England and America agree on calling this a crime against the rights of the individual. As Haywood put it:

See Evil of Trade Union Rules.

"The penitentiaries of this country and of Europe are filled with young boys whom unions have prevented from learning an honest trade."

The antagonism between syndicalists and union laborers is well illustrated by the fact that in Scranton, Pa., union men have been helping the police in breaking a strike organized by syndicalists.

It can easily be seen what tremendous power syndicates may wield owing to this system of organization. Should only one class of employees, say the spinners, walk out of a woolen mill, production would be at a standstill until the strike was over. Whether the strike was won or lost, however, it would only take a few days to put the whole plant once more in good working order. On the other hand, should the truckmen, watchmen, stenographers and bookkeepers also strike in sympathy and stay out until the spinners had won their point the whole plant would be absolutely disorganized.

The recent strikes in England have not only been stimulated by this gospel and led by its chief representatives, Tom Mann, Ben Tillett and others, but from the very first they have been an actual application of the new idea and have marked a long step toward the complete reorganization of the British unions.

They were started with the seamen's strike in June, 1911, when the dockers in many places struck in sympathy, at the same time adding demands of their own. When the seamen won their strike they refused to go back to work at several places until the dockers received what they were striking for. With the dockers were involved teamsters. The railway strike was largely due to the fact that the railway unions decided to co-operate with this federation.

It Invented Sabotage.

If the syndicate is not strong enough to win a strike, or if as it has happened several times in France the government interferes and fills with soldiers the places left vacant by strikers, the workingmen are directed to give in, resume work and begin a new form of strike, sabotage.

The word "sabotage" was coined in 1894 by Pouget, the most powerful French organizer. Sabotage never was generally or effectively applied until a year ago, when the French railroad men lost their big strike. The strike only lasted three days. Then Premier Briand issued an order making every railroad a reservist, and all went back to work as soldiers, some 3,500 of them were discharged and then the silent strike began; sabotage was kept up until every one of the 3,500 employees had been reinstated.

Every man began to discharge his duties in strict accordance with the letter of the rules. Railroad men acted like the Chinese tailor who had been commissioned by a foreign consul to make a duplicate of a suit of clothes given him as a model and who carried out his instructions exactly—so exactly, in fact, that a patch on the trousers, a torn belt on the waistcoat and two grease spots on the coat were carefully duplicated on the new garment.

Station men would work faithfully until the precise minute when they were supposed to quit, and then allow a freight car they had been moving to crash to the bottom of an incline or to obstruct the path of incoming trains. Repair gangs would keep on repairing the track in front of a limited, delaying it for an hour and disorganizing the schedule, or else let it pass over a stretch of unfastened rails, and consequently sink into the roadbed.

What distinguishes syndicalists from unionists and socialists is their absolute internationalism. Socialists are naturally supposed to be citizens of the world, but whenever there appears a war cloud on the horizon French and German socialists will very speedily under the pressure of public opinion and join the bellicose chorus of patriots.

Would Abolish War.

Syndicalists, on the contrary, try to get together and to avert the war peril by threatening their governments with reprisals in the form of a strike or a civil war.

A good example of this method of proceeding was the syndicalist meeting held in Paris last August, when France, Germany, England and Spain seemed on the point of drawing swords over the Moroccan imbroglio. Schmidt, Bauer and Silberschmidt speaking in behalf of the German, Barris and Negre of the Spanish, Koltheck of the Dutch, Tom Mann of the English, Yvetot, Saviole and Merheim of the French syndicalists, declared that their constituencies were absolutely opposed to war, and proclaimed the brotherhood of European workingmen.

A month before Yvetot, the secretary of the Associated Labor Council of France, had been invited to address the Berlin syndicalists. His speech, the importance of which was fully appreciated by the imperial government, which ordered him to be immediately expelled, contained among other things the following remarks addressed to the French and German governments:

"Just try once, you blockheads, to stir up one people against the other; to arm one people against the other; you will see if the people won't make an entirely different use of the weapons you put into their hands. Wait and see if the people don't go to war against an entirely different enemy than you expect."

Fight Militarism.

The French and Italian syndicalists are fighting militarism with tooth and nail, for a standing army is an ever present danger in case of strikes.

As early as 1903 the government of Holland broke a general strike by the use of the army to operate the railroads, and the same thing was done in Hungary in the following year. Indeed, these measures had such success that the Hungarian government went further two years later and took away the right of organization from the agricultural laborers, while at the same time it used the army as strike breakers in harvest time and made permanent arrangements for doing this in a similar contingency in the future.

Syndicates conduct in all barracks an active underground propaganda by means of small pamphlets easily concealed in the pocket. As a result of this agitation there were last year 13,500 desertions; 53,000 men refused to answer their call to military service. At the time of the wine growers' riots in France several regiments sent to put down the revolt refused to obey their officers and joined the wine growers' parades.

For The Nervous Woman,

Or the woman who experiences hot flashes nothing is so good to soothe, quiet and calm the nervous system as a pure glyceric extract of native medicinal plants, and made without alcohol, which has been sold by druggists for the past fifty years, and most favorably known as Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. In younger years some women suffer from dizziness, or fainting spells, hysteria, headache, bearing-down feelings and pain. All these symptoms of irregularity and female disturbance are relieved by the use of this famous "Prescription" of Doctor Pierce.

As a powerful, invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system, and in particular to the organs distinctly feminine. For over-worked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, it is an excellent appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

"My disease was called retroversion," writes Mrs. LYDIA McDONALD, of Meosco, Mich., Route 1. "I had nervous chills and numb spells and they would leave me very weak. Then I had inflammation and the doctor said I had a floating kidney. I doctored seven months with our family physician. He said I would have to have an operation. Then I stopped taking his medicine. After taking three bottles of Dr. Pierce's medicine I have not had any nervous chills or weak spells. I am better than for years."

"My daughter is now taking the 'Prescription' and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, also the 'Pellets' for nervousness and weak, tired feeling. These remedies have helped her ever so much in a short time. We have great faith in your medicines for female troubles."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets induce mild natural bowel movement.

Gave Up Hope

"I suffered five years, with awful pains, due to womanly troubles," writes Mrs. M. D. McPherson, from Chadbourne, N. C. "They grew worse, till I would often faint. I could not walk at all, and I had an awful hurting in my side; also a headache and a backache."

I gave up and thought I would die, but my husband urged me to try Cardui, so, I began, and the first bottle helped me. By the time the third bottle was used, I could do all my work. All the people around here said I would die, but Cardui relieved me."

TAKE The CARDUI Woman's Tonic

For more than 50 years, Cardui has been relieving woman's sufferings, and making weak women strong and well. During this time, thousands of women have written, like Mrs. McPherson, to tell of the really surprising results they obtained by the use of this purely vegetable, tonic remedy for women.

Cardui strengthens, builds, restores, and relieves or prevents unnecessary pain and suffering from womanly troubles. If you are a woman, begin taking Cardui, today.

NEWS OF THE OLD NORTH STATE

A Survey of What is Transpiring in the Commonwealth.

Ex-Judge W. B. Council, of Hickory, has been nominated for the state senate by the Democrats of the thirty-first district.

The three-year-old child of A. M. Harris, a farmer living near Wake Forest, was drowned in a watering trough Saturday afternoon.

R. W. Herring, of Cumberland county, has been named by the Republicans to oppose Congressman Godwin in the sixth district.

Near Peachland, Anson county, Saturday, the 13-year-old son of Julian Horn fell from a tree while gathering hickory nuts and broke his neck, dying instantly.

W. E. White, of Mebane, nominated by the Republican state convention for corporation commissioner, has declined. He wants the Republicans to get together on one ticket.

A six-year-old girl fell from a second story window in Winston and dropped on the shoulder of a colored man who was passing. The fall thus being broken, the child escaped with slight injuries.

Fred H. Fowler, who conducted a meat market in Concord, committed suicide Saturday by shooting himself through the head. He left a note in which he intimated that despondency over a love affair was the cause of his rash act.

Some time ago a dredge boat was placed in the Catawba river near Morganton to dredge for gold, which it was believed would be found in paying quantities in the sand of the river. A report from Morganton says the results have exceeded expectations.

Lawrence Wakefield, of Caldwell county, one of the Democratic candidates for the state senate in the district composed of Alexander, Burke, Caldwell and McDowell counties, will have as his opponent his brother, E. F. Wakefield, who is the Republican candidate.

Judge Howard A. Foushee, who has been ill since he collapsed during the Hawkins trial at Hendersonville last summer, has returned to his home in Durham from Atlantic City. He has about recovered and expects soon to resume his work on the Superior court bench.

Two old negroes, Sam Meredith, aged 92, and his wife, Millie, aged 82, got lost in a swamp in Sampson county some days ago and wandered two days and two nights before they were rescued, existing on an ear of corn and berries. The old woman was insane when found.

Blind Blackwell, of Blakely, S. C., who last May fatally stabbed Dr. Fred Misenheimer in a drunken rage in a room in a Charlotte hotel, was tried in Mecklenburg Superior court last week and convicted of manslaughter. He was sentenced to the penitentiary for two years. An appeal was taken to the Supreme court.

Must Send Wife to School.

Philadelphia, Sept. 29.—"You must send your wife to school until she is 14 years of age or you will be arrested and fined," warned Magistrate Boyle today after imposing a fine upon the father-in-law of John Palasis, whose wife, Annie, is only 13 years old. The young wife and her father were arrested on a warrant charging them with failure to comply with the compulsory education law. When asked why she did not attend school Mrs. Palasis, who wore short dresses, said she had to come to go to school, as she had to get her husband's meals and look after other household duties.

Dr. J. V. Churchill, 90 Wall street, Auburn, N. Y., has been bothered with serious kidney and bladder trouble ever since he left the army, and says: "I decided to try Kelley Kidney Pills as they had cured so many people and I soon found they were just the thing. My kidneys and bladder are again in a healthy condition. I gladly recommend them." Howard Gardner, adv.

Bleasde Declared the Nominee.
Columbia, S. C., Oct. 1.—Gov. Cole L. Bleasde was today declared the Democratic nominee for governor by the state executive committee. This action was taken after a subcommittee had reported that its investigation of the recent primary had disclosed irregularities in voting, but not sufficient to alter the result. On the face of the returns of the recent primary Governor Bleasde defeated Judge Ira B. Jones in the gubernatorial race by about 3,000 votes.

Dr. Alfred J. Morrison, grandson of Dr. Hall Morrison, whose name is so well known in this state, has edited the minutes of the board of trustees of Hampden-Sidney College, Va., from 1776-1876, presenting them in a paper bound book of 188 pages.

During our college days this was the center of orthodoxy, yet we read an extract from the Virginia Gazette, July 25, 1777, advertising the Hampden-Sidney Lottery, authorized by the general assembly of Virginia, "for the purpose of raising 1,260 pounds to be laid out in erecting additional buildings to the academy of Hampden-Sidney, in the county of Prince Edward."

In 1785 Mr. Mahon, a tutor, complains to the board that the students have insulted him by throwing stones at his person and house. One of these incidents is proof that the world is growing better, for no college now would dare have a lottery. The other one shows that, though the world has advanced in many ways, and has become much improved morally, human nature embodied in the college student was just as mean and uncontrollable in those days as it is now—and that there is no amusement equal to that of badgering a college tutor, and making his life miserable.

Tax Stamp Required on the Dead.

The Austrian government must have its dues, even if it has to attach the coffin in which a man takes his last sleep. An undertaker in a little town near Prague failed to pay $2 taxes a few weeks ago. The tax collector sent an official to attach anything that he could find. He found but one coffin, which the undertaker said was valued at $14, and without looking into it pasted the government seal on the lid. In the coffin was a corpse. When friends came to bury it, an hour later, the undertaker pointed to the tax seal. It required several hours to raise the $14 tax and penalty. The funeral then proceeded.
