ROSADALIS

THE GREAT SOUTHERN REMEDY for the cure of Scrofula, Syphilis, Scrophulous Taint, Rheumatism, White Swelling, Gout, Gravel, Consumption, Bronchitis, Nervous Debility, and all diseases arising from an impure condition of the blood, skin or scalp.

They were once Democrats and helped to crush out Radicalism, which was their enemy then and is now.

An American commander with his fleet was in a Chinese port when the Chinese attacked the crew of an English vessel. The American looked on for a moment and exclaimed, "By G—d, men, blood is thicker than water!" and turning his guns on the Chinese put them to flight.

We don't apprehend the defeat of our candidates by the loss of Greenback votes, but we want to see united action of all those who are opposed to the principles and practices of the Radical party, so that its defeat may be so overwhelming that the organization will be utterly destroyed. In this effort all good men can unite and should unite.

Text-Book on Agriculture Wanted.

The American Agriculturist has taken a step in the right direction, its publishers Orange Judd & Co., have offered a prize of one hundred dollars for the manuscript of the best elementary work that will give children an idea of the principles underlying the practice of Agriculture that is suited to the United States.

It is their hope to get something that will suit the common schools.

The Beacon is right; the only obstacle in the way of the success of Greenback principles is the impediment of the Republican and Democratic parties. Rather serious impediments it would seem to us.

Fighting on the Wrong Line.

The political editor of the Beacon wants to know "why has not a Greenbacker as much right to advocate his principles as Democrats or Republicans?" Why, of course he has. Nobody disputes that. It is not a question of right at all, it is simply one of sound sense and good judgment. There is not a Greenbacker in North Carolina or anywhere else who has not a perfect right to do a thousand things which he would be called very foolish for doing, and Greenbackers who have heretofore voted with the Democratic party have a right if they see fit to throw their votes away and thus help the Republicans in the day of their greatest need. Do not misunderstand us to say that they mean to aid the Republicans for we do not think they do, but that is the effect of their action. While they are disseminating their principles, the Republicans are united, and inspired with the knowledge that nine out of ten Greenback votes polled in this section of the State will come from the Democratic party, are working with renewed energy and increased hopes of success.

Southern Greenbackers know they have nothing to expect from the Republican party, which if it had the power would hold the Democrat and Greenbacker alike under the iron heel of despotism, but they have something to expect from the Democratic party, which is the champion of popular liberty, and the protector of the people whom the Republican party, if its leaders could carry out their purposes, would reduce to a condition of thralldom. The history of Radical rule in the South should not so soon be forgotten by the Greenbacker who was once a Democrat and as such struggled against and helped to throw off that party despotism.

It is only a question, then, of wisdom whether our Greenback friends who have heretofore acted with us shall continue so to act, or by persisting in voting for candidates of their own, whose election by their votes is an impossibility, aid in the success of the Radicals who have not one particle of sympathy with them. The Democratic party, even when only in partial possession of the Government has done much to ameliorate the financial condition of the country and break the power of the despotism which was throwing its mighty coils around us. They can do more and will, more than the Greenbackers could reasonably hope to do within the lifetime of any man who now affiliates with them.

They were once Democrats and helped to crush out Radicalism, which was their enemy then and is now.

An American commander with his fleet was in a Chinese port when the Chinese attacked the crew of an English vessel. The American looked on for a moment and exclaimed, "By G—d, men, blood is thicker than water!" and turning his guns on the Chinese put them to flight.

Coming Over.

Scarcely a Northern newspaper comes to hand, that does not record the name of some prominent Republican who has abandoned the Republican party and joined the Democratic party. Republican partisan sheets, of course, do not publish news of this kind—for they would rather conceal it. Never within our political experience has there been so many changes from one party to another within so short a time, and never so many men prominent and influential in the party which they abandoned.

Whilst we are willing to do these men the justice to admit that they are actuated by patriotic motives it is still a sign of the times, and an evidence of the change in public sentiment which has taken place within the past few years.

As a rule politicians rather follow than lead public sentiment, and when we see old politicians abandoning the party to which they have adhered for years, it is pretty good evidence that they consider that party in a bad way.

And when they endorse the candidate of the party they have just joined as enthusiastically as they are now endorsing Hancock, it is indicative of a popularity that makes his election almost a foregone conclusion. Among the most ardent and tireless advocates of the success of the Democratic party to-day are men who have just recently joined it, like John W. Forney, Ben F. Butler, Gen. Dan. Sickles, who in the past were amongst the hardest fighters the Democracy had to encounter. As hard as they fought us then they are fighting as hard for us now, and on the stump and in the press are doing good and gallant work for Hancock.

On the other hand we do not, remember to have seen the name of a single Democrat who has announced himself for Garfield.

Under these circumstances, and the change in popular opinion as shown in the elections recently held we regard the defeat of Gen. Hancock as almost among the impossibilities, and it is should occur would be among the inconceivable events of the age.

As we look the future in the face to-day we feel as sanguine of the triumphant election of the "superb" soldier, and statesman, too, though the Radical politicians tell us he is no statesman (as we ever did of the realization of anything which was not already an accomplished fact. It is written among the decrees of fate; the people feel it to be so, and are moving with an irresistible power to register that decree.

A Mean Dodge.

About as mean a political dodge as has come under our observation yet in this campaign is a form of application for a U. S. pension by a South Carolina Confederate soldier, copies of which have been struck off and are now being extensively circulated among the faithful by Federal office holders. The object is, of course, to make people believe that if the Democrats get into power, the Confederate soldiers will be applying for pensions. Whether such an application was ever made we don't know, but the probabilities are that it is a fraud, gotten up to do campaign duty; or it is possible that some Confederate soldier might have been employed by some Radical politician to make the application, in order that it might be used as a campaign document, as it is now being used. Whether it be genuine or bogus it is, to say the least of it, a contemptible dodge, and shows the calibre of the men who resort to it.

The Yorktown Centennial promises to be a very distinguished affair. President Greely, of the French republic, has written to Dr. Duhamel, of Washington, one of the sub-committee on the celebration appointed by the congressional committee, to say that the French cabinet has favorably considered the invitation to take part in the celebration. The note is very polite, and encourages the prospect that a French regiment and a detachment from the French navy will be detailed to represent France on the occasion.

So it seems that Mr. Weaver introduced his Soldier bill to please the soldiers, not that he expected to pass it. It was very accommodating to the Republicans, if one-half they say about him be true.

Politically, matters are quiet within the town, but in the surrounding country the people are moving.

Judge Black on Garfield.

How Garfield thinks Treachery to his Country Fidelity to his Faction.

[New York World, Sept. 25, 1880.]

The following letter from the Hon. J. S. Black of Pennsylvania, sent in reply to an invitation to attend the great Democratic mass meeting of Thursday evening, but not received in time to be read that evening, will command the attention of thinking men of all shades of political opinion:

BROCKTON, PA., Sept. 22, 1880.

Gentlemen: I cannot attend the meeting of the Democratic Republicans at the city of New York on the 23d inst. But I can assure you of my concurrence in its object, and if time and space permitted I could give you a reason for the faith that is within me.

In public affairs General Garfield does not act upon his convictions; when he passes into the domain of politics his conscience loses its grip; and for his party he is willing to do any wrong which will promote their interests, or play any card, how false soever, which will win them power. This surrender of his moral and mental integrity is the condition upon which he holds his high place in the affections of the party he belongs to. Treachery to his country is fidelity to his faction.

If at any time in the last fifteen years he had supported the constitution and laws in a spirit of pure justice, refused to defile himself with election frauds, withheld his countenance from executive corruption or denounced the forcible installment of thieves in state offices, he would have converted himself into a Democrat and been expelled from the communion of the anti-constitutional party.

General Garfield's public career furnishes more striking examples of moral prostitution than the history of any individual I have known.

Mr. Tilden was elected in 1876. A false return was the only resource against him. General Garfield went down to Louisiana and there found it absolutely certain that the Tilden electors had been "duly appointed" at a legal and fair poll, so peaceably conducted that there was not even a squabble about it in the whole state. And the appointment so made was attested by and recorded upon the certificates and the oaths of election officers adverse to the appointment in all their feelings and wishes. There was no earthly excuse for denying this; no contradiction of it could be honest. To count the state for Hayes was a thing that could be done only by impudent and unmitigated fraud. General Garfield gave his active assistance in that great crime. His judgment as a member of the Electoral Commission was a thing to be expected, for he must long before that have convinced himself that a fraud was as good a way as any other of electing a President. In a political game he did not think that anybody had moral sense enough to abstain from throwing a die which he himself had loaded to win the stake.

The Credit Mobilier stock distributed by Oakes Ames was distributed to influence the legislation of Congress corruptly. He and the company who put it into his hands meant business, and that business was bribery. General Garfield agreed to take the stock, and did actually take dividends upon it.

They had but one answer, and that was a positive denial of the fact that any stock had ever been taken by them; and on that line they expected Mr. Ames to swear them through. General Garfield united in making this false defense. Their witness failed them, and they were all convicted.

Faithfully and hopefully yours,
J. S. BLACK.

The Hon. Augustus Schell, chairman, and members of committee.

The Truth in a Nut Shell.

[N. Y. Truth, Ind., Sept. 25, 1880.]

As sure as the sun rises to-morrow William S. Hancock is the next President of these United States.

Good Advice.

[Milton Chronicle.]

Col. Winston had better come out for Hancock before Gen. Weaver declares himself for him. The greenbackers are coming over to Hancock by platoons.

Buying up Democratic Votes.

[Raleigh News-Observer.]

In western North Carolina they say gaugers have been appointed in excess of the demand. Men who have heretofore voted the Democratic ticket are given commissions, and are told that they will be given four dollars a day if they can find a still to locate with. In order to get their pay, they offer to give two dollars a day to any man who will start a still, so that they can locate as gauger and draw the per diem. And thus it seems that Uncle Sam's liberality in the matter of commissions has the effect of multiplying stills. It also has the effect of buying up a few Democratic voters for the Garfield ticket, to be paid for out of the Federal treasury.

Names of our New Legislators

God Bless our Wives!

There are no times like the old times—
they shall never be forgot!
There is no place like the old place—
green the dear old spot!
There are no friends like the old friends—
May Heaven prolong their lives!
There are no loves like the old loves—
Bless our loving wives!

A portable engine from Canton, O., was among the freight received at the depot Friday, billed for Cedar Falls, Randolph county, to E. J. Jennings, who is going to run a steam cabinet shop.

The dog catcher is out with his pole
and rope, hunting for dogs without medals on. We saw him yesterday for half an hour trying to persuade a country dog to walk into his noose, but that dog was poised and declined.

One tablespoonful of clean pure, one pint new milk; stir well; let stand two hours; pour off the milk; let the child drink it every hour.
It will effect a cure in three days.

A Good Layer.
Mr. Doggett, who resides a few miles north of the town, at the old Pritchett Mills, has a turkey which has laid the past season 100 eggs. He counts on that trial.

Dried Fruit.
Messrs N. A. Hanner & Co., one of the most successful firms in Guilford county, brought to the city last week five wagon loads of dried fruit—something over eight thousand pounds; J. W. Scott & Co., were the purchasers.

Dog Medals.
The Chief of Police has issued 10 dog medals up to date, which is doing pretty well considering that there are not more than a thousand or two dogs within the corporate limits. Only one application by any party for more than one medal.

Public Debate.
The Executive Debating Society of Pines-and Garden, Guilford county, met in the Academy at Pleasant Garden on Friday night, Sept. 24th, and after the usual preliminaries; Rev P. L. Grooms, W. P. Hardin and H. B. Wolfe were appointed as a committee to decide the question to be discussed.

The Secretary then read the Query as follows:
"Resolved, That the walk of the Israelites was more inconsistent according to the light they possessed than the people of the present day."

The speakers were announced on the affirmative as follows:
Messrs. J. C. Kennett, W. E. Pentecost.
Negative: Kennett, Flavius Mc-Colloch.

Though young they ably discussed this question of gigantic parts. They displayed great research bringing from the archives of antiquity, "things new and old."

The attendance was large and the attention showed their appreciation of the rising lights of our community.
After discussing from their several standpoints for about two hours, the committee unable to agree decided the question had been equally debated by both sides and begged the President to refer the subject to the house, which agreed with the committee.

Public debate from Friday night on October 6th. Doubtless the school which opens in a few days will furnish other orators. Mr. Editor, with the public are invited to attend. J. C. K.

The Campaign in Davidson

THOMASVILLE, N. C., Sept. 28th, 1880.

Editor PATRIOT: The campaign of 1880 opened hereon last Saturday, Sept. 25, but owing to the speaking at Bush Hill at the same time the attendance here was not as large as expected. The candidates for Gen. Seale did not reach here, but promised a day in the near future. The candidates for the Legislature were on hand and did good service. They were responded to by two of their radical opponents,
though their efforts were ineffective
and flat.

Maj. F. C. Robbins, Democratic
Electoral for the 5th district, next appeared on the stand, and at once attracted the attention of all addressed: the audience at some length in an able, zealous, eloquent and most effective speech, dealing in facts too plain for the most illiterate
to misunderstand, and the sensible to perceive. At the conclusion of Maj. Robbins' address, the citizens of the township organized a Hancock, Jarvis and Seale club with a membership at present of one hundred and twenty-five (125).

Telegraphic Tribulations.

[The New York Hour.]

Not long since a message came to the principal of a business house in this city from a traveling agent,
who had reached Philadelphia: "Am at Continental Hotel. Send some cash by mail." The agent did not intend to reflect on the food
at the hotel, but wanted "cash" sent by mail. A delectable uncle was informed by telegraph: "Mary is to be buried on Wednesday. Come,
sure," Mary, who lived in Chicago,
was his favorite niece, and, as he had not heard of her illness, the sad intelligence gave him a severe shock. He dressed himself in a hurried manner, and made a hurried journey to the West, to find a joyful party as usual at Mary's wedding. The wires had arranged for her to be "buried" instead of "married." Probably the worst blunder ever made was one that occurred in the case of a St. Louis merchant, who, while in New York, received a telegram informing him that his wife was ill. He sent a message to his family doctor, asking the nature of the sickness and if there was any danger, and received promptly the answer: "No danger.

Your wife has a child. If we can keep her from having another tonight she will do well." The mys-tification of the agitated husband was not removed until a second inquiry revealed the fact that his indisposed lady had had a "chill."
