LIQUOR IS CUT OUT.

No Drug Stores to be Licensed to Fill Physician's Prescriptions.

In an effort to make the state prohibition law more effective in Greensboro, the city commissioners have passed an ordinance repealing all previous ordinances authorizing drug stores to sell intoxicants, on physicians' prescriptions. The ordinance becomes effective March 1, when the licenses held by the two drug stores in the city authorized to sell intoxicants expire, but the drug stores will be allowed a reasonable length of time in which to dispose of the stock on hand.

By this action the city commissioners put the prohibition lid on a little tighter in Greensboro, for, with the passing of the prescription privilege, no liquor can be sold legally in this town. Even plain alcohol, which is used by physicians quite extensively in fever and other ailments, is placed under the ban. In other words, Greensboro is to be a "light" town, so far as the procuring of liquor is concerned.

When the matter was brought before the commissioners, it was shown from statistics that the two licensed drug stores of the city last year filled 5,439 prescriptions for 7,134 pints of whiskey, about 892 gallons; 573 prescriptions for 400 dozen (40 barrels) of beer, and four prescriptions for four gallons of wine, making a total of 6,016 prescriptions. (The number of drunks produced was omitted for the lack of statistical information.) The prescription record for the months during 1911 is as follows:

January, 488 prescriptions for 620 pints of whiskey; 28 prescriptions for 17 dozen bottles of beer.
February, 423 prescriptions for 526 pints of whiskey; 22 prescriptions for 18 dozen bottles of beer.
March, 423 prescriptions for 550 pints of whiskey; 38 prescriptions for 33 dozen bottles of beer.
April, 398 prescriptions for 487 pints of whiskey; 37 prescriptions for 33 dozen bottles of beer.
May, 416 prescriptions for 487 pints of whiskey; 60 prescriptions for 66 dozen bottles of beer.
June, 412 prescriptions for 522 pints of whiskey; 78 prescriptions for 73 dozen bottles of beer.
July, 485 prescriptions for 615 pints of whiskey; 95 prescriptions for 81 dozen bottles of beer.
August, 357 prescriptions for 630 pints of whiskey; 73 prescriptions for 63 dozen bottles of beer.
September, 379 prescriptions for 488 pints of whiskey; 65 prescriptions for 47 dozen bottles of beer.
October, 568 prescriptions for 787 pints of whiskey; 34 prescriptions for 27 dozen bottles of beer.
November, 558 prescriptions for 719 pints of whiskey; 20 prescriptions for 17 dozen bottles of beer.
December, 500 prescriptions for 690 pints of whiskey; 23 prescriptions for 17 dozen bottles of beer.

Neither Medicine Nor Food.

Following the adoption by the city commissioners of the ordinance prohibiting the sale of liquor by prescription, Dr. J. W. Long, one of the most eminent physicians and surgeons of the city and state, gave the press the following statement:

"Our city commissioners are to be congratulated on the passage of the ordinance abolishing the ordinances granting license for the sale of whiskey by the drug stores.

"The provision in the state prohibition law allowing the drug stores to sell whiskey under the belief widely prevalent that whiskey not only is a good medicine, but is necessary also in certain cases. I am prepared to say that whiskey is neither a medicine nor a food in the true sense of the word, and this statement can be easily established.

"I have practiced medicine 32 years and I do not believe I ever saw a life saved by whiskey. I do my share of the surgical work in this section and there are no cases more desperate than in surgery, yet I have not written a prescription for whiskey in over two years.

"In many counties in the state, as Surry, the counties do not license drug stores and in some counties, as in Lenoir, the physicians voluntarily have agreed not to write whiskey prescriptions.

"There seems to be a disposition to put all the blame for the 6,000 prescriptions on the physicians of Greensboro. I want to say that none of the members of the Guilford County Medical Society that whiskey is not to be sold in Greensboro.

"In the first place, with one or two unfortunate exceptions, there is not a more sober set of men in the county than the physicians. In the second place, the whiskey prescription they write are largely due to the almost universal popular demand

Carload of Babcock buggies, the best on earth, just received by M. G. Newell Company.

I have for sale cheap a mule colt nine months old, Robert W. Winchester, Summerville N. C., R. D. 2. 8-21.

For sale at a bargain, 25 Plymouth Rock hens; also a few nice White Orpington cockerels. Brightwood Poultry Yards, Brown Summit, N. C.

We are selling all winter clothing left in stock at cut prices. We want to close out the entire line before spring opens. Come to see us if you want to save money in the purchase of clothing. Johnson, Hinkle & Co.

coming from the laity that sick folks must have whiskey.

"In addition to this insistence for whiskey for the sick coming, I am sorry to say, from the church members as well as the sinners, there is a constant clamor from those who, under one pretext or another, want whiskey, and this class dog the footsteps of our busy physicians. I know of one office in Greensboro, where, the physicians tell me, the request for whiskey prescriptions, which is usually not great, will average from 10 to 12 per day.

"Another point to be remembered is that if you will scan the list of physicians who wrote the 6,000 prescriptions, you will see the names of physicians from far and near, some entire strangers to Greensboro and their citizens, not to speak of the prescriptions written by dentists, veterinary surgeons and others.

"Please remember that the doctors who write the prescriptions do so for the people and the people are the ones who drink the liquor. The vast majority of the best physicians in Guilford will rejoice with me that no more whiskey is to be sold in Greensboro."

KITCHIN MEN ORGANIZE.

To Wage Vigorous Fight in Guilford Democratic Circles.

Governor W. W. Kitchen, one of the aspirants for the seat in the United States senate now held by Hon. F. M. Simmons, has named Messrs. S. Glenn Brown and E. D. Kuykendall, two well known young lawyers of this city, as managers of his campaign in Guilford county. In addition to these two young attorneys, the following have been named as members of an executive committee to plan and wage the fight for Kitchen in this county: Messrs. T. C. Hoyle, S. Glenn Hudson, H. L. Coble, T. S. Beall, E. G. Sherrill, E. E. Bain, F. N. Taylor, E. B. King, D. P. Stern, W. H. Swift, John A. Barringer, R. M. Rees, W. J. Sherrod, R. A. Gilmer, C. A. Hall, M. C. Stewart, W. R. Land, W. E. Phipps and S. J. Stern.

The initial meeting was held Monday night, in the Southern Life and Trust Company building, when there was a general discussion of plans for an aggressive campaign. All the members of the executive committee are ardent supporters of Governor Kitchen for the senatorship and will leave no stone unturned to gain an advantage for their favorite.

While no public announcements have been made, it is presumed that the supporters of the other candidates for the senatorship will organize in the near future. All four of the candidates have friends and supporters among the Guilford Democrats, and it is only natural to presume that the different forces will organize and do what they can for their favorite candidates.

To Operate Big Roller Mill.

Mr. George G. Hendricks, formerly one of the most prominent citizens of Randolph county, and who recently moved his family to Greensboro from his farm at Friendship, is at the head of a company that will build and operate a big roller flour mill in this city. Application has been made to the secretary of state for a charter and a site for the mill has been purchased on the corner of South Elm and Bragg streets. Arrangements have been made with the Southern Railway to run a side track to the mill, which will be built and put in operation as soon as possible. In addition to Mr. Hendricks, the incorporators of the company are Messrs. J. M. Millikan, T. A. Hunter, John A. Hodgins, J. P. Sanders and Miss Hattie Causey, of Greensboro; W. P. Knight and Mr. A. S. Morris, of Burlington. The mill will have a capacity of 100 barrels of flour daily and will afford a good market for the surplus wheat grown by the farmers of Guilford and adjoining counties. It is an enterprise that will be worth much to this city and territory.

Death of Mr. F. G. Chilcutt.

Mr. Frank G. Chilcutt, an aged and well known citizen of the county, died at the home of his sister, Mrs. Green, on Keogh street, Sunday afternoon. He had been in a serious condition for some time and the end was not unexpected. His two brothers, Messrs. Branch and R. L. Chilcutt, of Brown Summit, were with him at the end. The funeral and interment took place Tuesday at Fairgrove church, on the boundary of Guilford and Rockingham counties, the services being conducted by Rev. G. F. Milloway.

Mr. Chilcutt was a volunteer in the ranks of the Guilford Grays, 27th North Carolina regiment, during the Civil war. In the engagement at Sharpsburg he was severely wounded, losing his right arm. He was well known in Guilford county and had amassed some property. Mr. Chilcutt was never married, but spent most of his life in the homes of his brothers and sisters. He was 75 years old.

Ed McEntire, a white man of Rutherford county, was arrested in Tampa, Fla., a few days ago and brought to Rutherford county and committed to jail to answer the crime of murder. McEntire, who was formerly engaged in the illicit manufacture and sale of liquor, is charged with the murder of three white men in Rutherford county between the years of 1906 and 1908.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF FORM.

Matters of Interest to Readers of The Patriot Far and Near.

Messrs. H. C. Perkins and R. H. Milton, who recently organized the Perkins-Milton Electric Company, are in Richmond and Baltimore this week purchasing supplies for their company, which will open for business in the Fisher building March 1.

It is announced that Rev. Frank Anderson, of Johnston, N. Y., treasurer of the world-wide Baraca and Philathea Union, will be in Greensboro next Wednesday night and deliver an address at West Market Street Methodist church.

A masquerade party will be given at the Bessemer high school tomorrow evening, beginning at 7.30 o'clock. The ladies are requested to bring boxes of candy or lunch. Other refreshments will be served. The attendance of the public is cordially invited.

Jeanetta, the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Fordham, died at St. Leo's hospital Sunday afternoon. The funeral was held from the family residence on Walk-er avenue Monday afternoon and interment made in Greene Hill cemetery, the services being conducted by Rev. E. K. McLarty.

We carried over from last season several dozen pairs girls' and women's oxfords and pumps, and before the spring trade opens in earnest we want to close these out at a big reduction. First come, first served. There are some genuine bargains in this lot, especially in the girls' and misses' shoes. Thacker & Brockmann.

Mr. James A. Holmes, of Effland, Orange county, was Saturday adjudged a bankrupt in the United States court here, upon a voluntary petition filed by his attorney, Mr. John S. Cook, of Graham. The matter was referred to Referee G. S. Ferguson. The liabilities were estimated at $3,618, with assets of $2,158.

Mr. John M. Ross, a highly esteemed citizen of the Battle Ground neighborhood, died at his home Friday, following an illness of a complicated nature. He was in the sixtieth year of his age and had been in feeble health for some time. The funeral and interment took place at Guilford College Saturday morning.

The election on the question of the municipal ownership of the city meat market is to be held next Tuesday, and from present indications it will be a very tight affair. Practically no interest is being shown in the matter. The registration books closed Saturday, very few names having been added to the list of qualified voters.

A compromise has been effected in the suit of J. A. Bevil, administrator of his son, Robert Bevil, against the Seaboard Air Line Railroad for $20,000 damages for the death of the younger Bevil, who was killed by a train on the Seaboard nearly two years ago. By the terms of the compromise, the plaintiff recovers $2,000.

The foreign mission board of the Baptist denomination in North Carolina held a meeting in this city Friday to consider plans for the prosecution of the work of the board in North Carolina during the ensuing year. A feature of the meeting was an address by Rev. Dr. R. J. Williamson, of Richmond, Va., secretary of the foreign mission board of the Southern Baptist Convention, on "The Holy Spirit and Missions."

The taking over of the Greensboro Ice and Coal Company by the Arctic Ice and Coal Company has been announced, and with this absorption the one company gains control over the market of Greensboro in the sale of ice and its capital stock will be increased to $500,000. No change has been made in the officers of the company. Mr. W. C. Boren remains president, Mr. J. W. Landreth, vice president and general manager, and Mr. H. E. Cartland, secretary and treasurer.

The Chamber of Commerce entertained the traveling men of Greensboro at a delightful smoker at the Elks' Club Saturday night. Palatable refreshments were served and a number of short speeches were made. Among the speakers being: E. J. Justice, R. M. Phillips, W. B. Morrison, E. E. Mendenhall, Henry Morrison, H. E. Gilliam, E. C. Caldwell, C. H. Taylor, W. O. Burgin, C. C. McLean, O. C. Klingman, F. L. Page, Norman Willis, L. J. Brandt and Judge James E. Boyd.

YOUNG MAN DISAPPEARS.

Lacy Hines Play Suicide Game and Leaves the Country.

Mr. Lacy D. Hines, a well known young man of this city, has suddenly disappeared in a mysterious manner, and the circumstances surrounding the case are the occasion of great distress to his relatives and friends. It was at first reported that he had committed suicide by jumping into the Yadkin river, from the toll bridge on the Rowan and Davidson county line, but later developments seem to set this rumor at rest. The suicide was supposed to have been committed Saturday night or early Sunday morning. A suit of his clothing, with a gold watch and several trinkets, was found on a pier of the bridge Sunday afternoon. Pinned to the clothing was a note signed by Mr. Hines and stating: "I have decided to end it all. Wish to thank my friends for their kindness."

A message announcing the supposed suicide was received in Greensboro Sunday night by Mr. Charles A. Hines, a brother, who left on the first train Monday morning to assist the officers of Rowan and Davidson counties joined in the search and the river was dredged for quite a distance. Mr. C. A. Hines returned to Greensboro on a late train Monday night under the conviction that his brother had not committed suicide.

It is the belief of the friends and acquaintances of the missing man that he is suffering from a mental aberration and that he is fleeing from imaginary troubles. He was the representative in this territory of the American Art Works, of Coshocton, Ohio, and is supposed to have been meeting with success in his business. It develops however, that in the recent past he had secured several loans from a number of friends in Greensboro and elsewhere, amounting to several hundred dollars. The proprietor of a hotel in Reidsville cashed a draft on his house for $50, and on a visit to High Point Mr. Hines had a draft for $100 cashed. He made ineffectual efforts to have drafts cashed in Salisbury and Spencer.

It is believed that the missing man, after leaving his clothes on the pier of the Yadkin river toll bridge, returned to Salisbury, and after remaining there all day Sunday, boarded a southbound train. An acquaintance in Salisbury asserts that he saw him board a train about midnight Sunday night, and Monday afternoon a Greensboro man who is acquainted with Mr. Hines recognized him in the lobby of one of the principal hotels in Atlanta.

The missing man is a son of Mrs. Belle Hines, of McLeansville, and a brother of Mr. Charles A. Hines, one of the most prominent young members of the Greensboro bar.

LITTLE PROGRESS MADE.

Two Cases Disposed of in Superior Court During Past Week.

Only two cases have been disposed of in the Superior court during the past week—the suit of Mrs. Sarah E. Lowe, of Spencer, W. Va., vs. the Greensboro Life Insurance Company and the action brought by J. R. Moorefield against the Greensboro Boiler and Machinery Company, the latter attaining fame under the name of the "trip-hammer" case. The defendants lost in both cases.

Mrs. Lowe sued for the proceeds of an insurance policy of $6,000 carried by her late husband in the Greensboro Life Insurance Company, the claim being contested on the allegation that the deceased violated the terms of the policy contract by committing suicide within a year after the policy had been issued. Soon after the death of her husband, Mrs. Lowe accepted the return of the premium money paid by her husband and signed a release of all claims against the company. In the trial of the case it was alleged that this release was obtained by fraudulent means. The insurance company will carry the case to the Supreme court.

The "trip-hammer" case came to an end yesterday afternoon, when the jury returned a verdict awarding the plaintiff damages to the amount of $2,500. The plaintiff, whose home is situated near the plant of the defendant company, alleged that the noise of the trip-hammer was a nuisance, in which position he was sustained by the jury. A notice of appeal will be given before the adjournment of court and the case will be fought out in the Supreme court. Many intricate questions of legal procedure are involved and the litigation will be watched with interest by the legal fraternity.

The court is now engaged in trying the case of Mrs. Minnie B. Hill vs. J. H. Neese, the action involving the title to seven feet of land on East Washington street, it being contended by the plaintiff that the building of the defendant occupies a part of her land.

Miss Annie Kirkman, the daughter of Mr. W. C. Kirkman, of the Pleasant Garden section, was seriously burned Tuesday, when her clothing became ignited from an open fire. While her condition is serious, the attending physician does not anticipate fatal result.

Floods in Portugal, which recently subsided, destroyed many villages and portions of towns. The financial loss is estimated at $10,000,000 and many persons are reported destitute.

BRIEF ITEMS OF GENERAL NEWS

A Week's Event of More or Less Interest to the Public.

Conditions in Mexico are unpromising. The rebellion against Madero is fast waxing strong and he will soon be in the position of Diaz, whom he ousted by a revolution. Rebels are now operating in 18 states.

The corner stone of a monument which will be erected to the men who lost their lives in the destruction of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor, was laid in New York Thursday, the fourteenth anniversary of the destruction of the Maine.

Virginia negroes have complained President Taft and his campaign manager, Congressman McKinley, that the white Republicans of Virginia have cabined all the offices and are disposed to ignore the colored contingent in electing delegates to the national convention.

Senator LaFollette and some of his supporters maintain that the senator is still in the race for the Republican presidential nomination, but the LaFollette followers are deserting to the Roosevelt standard. Gifford Pinchot, conspicuous as a supporter of LaFollette, announces the transfer of his allegiance to Roosevelt.

Deputy Collector Shepherd and other revenue officers who recently engaged in a battle with George Wagner, a blockader, in Franklin county, Va., in which Wagner was killed, were exonerated after a hearing before two magistrates at Martinsville, Va. The evidence was that the officers did not fire on Wagner until he opened fire on them.

At Macon, Ga., last week George W. Mann was granted a divorce on unusual grounds. Mann married a young widow. He says his wife had promised her dead husband that she would not marry again and after she violated the pledge she was haunted by the shade of her former husband. The woman's life, it is averred, was made so miserable that she consented to the divorce decree as a relief.

The Republican convention of the first Tennessee district, held at Greenville Saturday, was a reminder of old times. There was fighting and bloodshed between factions and two candidates for Congress were nominated—Sells, the present member from the district, and Z. D. Massey, former congressman. Spencer Blackburn, who was announced to appear in this connection as a dark horse, did not figure in the proceedings.

Senator Overman has introduced an amendment to the immigration law which, if adopted, would collect $10 from every immigrant entering this country. The present law provides for a fee of $4. It is estimated that it takes about $2,000,000 to run the immigration bureau. Senator Overman's idea is to take the remaining $8,000,000 and divide it among the 48 states to be used for farm life schools. It is provided, however, that before any state can have access to this money, an equal amount must first be appropriated by the state.

RE-SALE OF VALUABLE LAND.

By virtue of authority in the undersigned, vested by a decree of the Superior court of Guilford county, in the special proceedings entitled J. Lee Bishop, administrator of Elizabeth A. Curtis, deceased, and others, against Banner Bishop, Harlan Bishop et al., they will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, at the court house door in the city of Greensboro, in said county, on SATURDAY, MARCH 23, 1912,

Ladies: to put the radiance of sunshine into your hair, to eradicate dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp, use Parisian Sage. Fariss-Klutzn Drug Company and the Greensboro Drug Company guarantee it. 50 cents.

The inclement weather caused a postponement of the advertised sale of the personal property of the late Jere Highfill. The sale will take place at the home place at Summerfield at 10 o'clock A. M. on Thursday, March 7.

For catarrh, deafness caused by catarrh breathe Hyomiel and end all misery. Fariss-Klutzn Drug Company and the Greensboro Drug Company guarantee it. Complete outfit including inhaler $1; extra bottles if needed 50 cents. (Pronounce it High-o-mie.)

Mr. D. R. Huffines has just opened the Keystone hotel, which is located on the corner of South Ashe street and Walker avenue, and will operate it on the European plan. It was formerly conducted as an annex to the Huffine hotel.

Upon the petition of creditors, the millinery business of Mrs. Rosa Hamner Carter has been placed in bankruptcy, the Greensboro Loan and Trust Company being named as receiver. The business will be continued for the present under the receivership.

Paul Jones, the 16-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Deviney, of Julian, died at the home of his parents Saturday morning and was buried Sunday in Shiloh cemetery. Mr. and Mrs. Deviney have the sympathy of many friends in their sore bereavement.

Mr. Charles A. Hines has been elected trustee of the bankrupt Spearman Shoe Company. The election was made at a meeting of creditors before Referee Ferguson a few days ago. Another meeting will be held March 5, when the officers of the bankrupt company will be examined.

Mr. W. G. Simpson, who was connected with Blackmon's South Greensboro department store for several years, is now with the Brown-Bell Company. He is one of the best salesmen identified with the mercantile life of Greensboro, and he has many friends who wish him well in his new position.

The Friendship public school will close Saturday, March 2, with an entertainment. The exercises will consist of songs, recitations, plays, drills and pantomimes. Prof. E. J. Coletrane, principal of the Jamestown high school, will deliver the literary address. The exercises will begin at 10:30 A. M. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Workmen are busily engaged in remodeling the building formerly occupied by Blackmon's South Greensboro department store, which was badly damaged by fire recently. When the work is completed, the building will again be occupied by Mr. Blackmon, who purposes to run a bigger and better store than ever before.

Mr. Ashley Horne, of Clayton, one of the largest stockholders in the Dixie Fire Insurance Company, has retired from the presidency of the corporation on account of the press of other business matters. He is succeeded by Mr. Harry R. Bush, formerly first vice president and general manager. The Dixie is the strongest fire insurance company in the South and does an extensive business over the entire country.

Beware of Catarrhs for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure to get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists, price 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Reidsville Review: We understand that Mrs. Mollie C. Edwards, of Guilford College, has entered suit in the Superior court of Guilford county against Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Roach, of Madison, for injuries sustained last summer in an automobile accident near Salem church, on the Reidsville-Wentworth road. Mrs. Roach was driving the car. John A. Barringer has been employed by the plaintiff and McMichael & Sainsbury will represent the defendants.

That is a very attractive advertisement the Vanstory Clothing Company is running in this week's Patriot. Tomorrow and Saturday you have an opportunity to buy any winter suit or overcoat in the house at $15. No matter if it be a $25 or $30 suit or overcoat, $15 will take it. As the winter season is drawing to a close, this astounding offer is made in order that the firm may be able to offer only new goods next season.

That one cannot be too careful in seeing to it that his property is insured was demonstrated a few days ago, when two buildings owned by Rev. S. E. Klapp, of this city, and situated at Virginia, were destroyed by fire, entailing a loss of nearly $5,000. The insurance on the buildings expired only a few days previous to the fire. The loss falls heavily upon Mr. Klapp, who has the sympathy of all his friends in his misfortune.

The Guilford County Farmers' Union meeting at McLeansville will be held on Saturday, March 2, instead of March 22, as was inadvertently stated in the last issue of The Patriot. The meeting will convene at 10 o'clock in the morning and will continue through the day. An interesting program is being arranged and it is desired that every local union in the county be well represented. A number of short addresses will be made on the work of the Farmers' Union and agricultural topics of general interest.

Mr. T. A. Wilson, who made a splendid race for the nomination for county commissioner in the Democratic primaries two years ago, has stated to friends that he will be a candidate again this year. His formal announcement will appear in due time. Mr. Wilson is a live and progressive citizen and hails from a section of the county that feels it is entitled to representation on the board of commissioners. We understand also that Mr. Levi Walker, of Center Grove township, who served acceptably as a commissioner for two terms, will be a candidate again this year.

Mr. Archie B. Joyner and Miss Ruth Reinhardt, well known and popular young people of this city, were quietly married last Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock, the ceremony taking place at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Joyner, on West Gaston street. Rev. Thomas J. Faulkner, rector of Holy Trinity Episcopal church, was the officiating clergyman, and the vows were taken in the presence of only relatives and a few close friends of the bride and groom. Mr. Joyner is city editor of the Daily News, and while he has been engaged in newspaper work only a few years, he has made for himself an enviable reputation and is recognized as one of the most capable and talented young newspaper men in the state. His bride is a daughter of Dr. D. B. Reinhardt, of Wisconsin, but for several years has made her home in this city with her grandmother, Mrs. H. W. Reinhardt. She is a young woman of splendid attainments and wide popularity.

JOINT MEETING HELD.

School Officials Consider Agricultural and Domestic Science Work.

A joint meeting of the county board of education, the principals of the county schools, Mr. K. H. McIntyre, director of the agricultural work in the county high schools, and the chairman and secretary of each committee of the county high schools having a department of agriculture and domestic science, was held in the court house annex Saturday. The object of the meeting was to review the work of the past in these special branches and to discuss and form plans for the future.

After a general discussion of the situation, two plans were formed, tentatively, and the matter left for the further closer investigation and consideration by a committee especially appointed for the purpose. This committee is composed of Dr. J. R. Gordon, of Jamestown; H. W. Lambeth, of Monticello; J. G. Hodgins, of Pleasant Garden; Mr. McIntyre and Prof. T. R. Foust.

This committee is authorized to study the plans for further work and to report its recommendation to the farm life school board the second Saturday in March. This board of final disposition is made up of the board of education and the chairman and secretaries of the school committees of the high schools having classes in agriculture and domestic science. The board is composed of nine members.

To Address Colored Teachers.

Mrs. C. A. Smith, head of the teachers' department of the National Religious Training School at Durham, is to address the Colored Teachers' Association of the county next Saturday at 11 o'clock in the court house annex. The colored teachers are looking forward to a rare treat in having her speak to them on the subject, "The Mission of the Teacher."

W. H. JONES, Pres., Guilford County Colored Teachers' Association.

The Sound Sleep of Good Health

Is not for those suffering from kidney ailments and irregularities. The prompt use of Foley Kidney Pills will dispel backache and rheumatism, heal and strengthen sore, weak and ailing kidneys, restore normal action, and with it health and strength. Mrs. M. F. Spaulsbery, Sterling, Ill., says: "I suffered great pain in my back and kidneys, could not sleep at night, and could not raise my hands over my head. But two bottles of Foley Kidney Pills cured me." Howard Gardner.

OFFICERS OF THE FAIR.

Those Elected at a Recent Meeting of the Directors.

The directors of the Central Carolina Fair Association have elected the following officers for the ensuing year: John L. King, president; S. L. Gilmer, first vice president; T. D. Sherwood, second vice president; F. C. Boyles, third vice president; Garland Daniel, secretary; Capt. Nell Ellington, treasurer. The board of directors is composed of Messrs. W. C. Boren, J. E. Tomlinson, F. N. Taylor, W. A. Watson, E. E. Bain and C. M. Vanstory.

The directors have decided to have less racing in the future and pay more attention to other free attractions, since it has been demonstrated that these other free attractions are appreciated more by the patrons of the fair than the horse-racing. There will be fewer trotting races and more running races. The mass of the people who witness a racing event enjoy a running race more than a trotting race, probably for the reason that there is not the opportunity for jockeying and juggling in a trotting race.

The directors have also decided to thoroughly revise the premium list. The $300 in cash offered to the farmers for the best displays of farm products will be divided into five prizes instead of two, as heretofore. This is done in order that the interest in the exhibition might be more general and that more competitors might be brought into the contest for prizes. It is believed that the effect of this change will be to add materially to the fullness of the display from the agricultural sections of the county.

The directors also decided to make an effort to get the county to offer prizes in corn growing, tomato growing and other agricultural exhibits. The promoters of the fair with good reason figure that because of the recently aroused interest along scientific agricultural lines in the county, Guilford has a debt to pay to the fair association.

TO STUDY THE BIBLE.

Important Conference to be Held in First Presbyterian Church.

Beginning next Monday night and continuing through March 5, a conference on the study of the Bible will be held in the First Presbyterian church of this city. Under the direction of Rev. Louis S. Chafer, of Northfield, Mass., Services will be held twice daily—at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon and at 8 o'clock in the evening. The pastor and the session of the church extend a cordial invitation to the public to attend these services.

Mr. Chafer is the author of important books on fundamental Bible themes which are highly commended by Bible students in England and America. But in addition to this, he is a teacher of ability and magnetism. This conference is for the purpose of definite teaching of the great truths of the Christian faith. It is not sectarian, but stands for the truth "once and for all delivered to the saints," as that truth is interpreted by evangelical Christendom.

A special invitation is given to Sabbath school superintendents and teachers to attend and enjoy the benefit. It is suggested that Bible class teachers endeavor to bring their classes to these conferences. Mr. Chafer is an unusually able expositor of the scriptures. His addresses will be connected and form an invaluable series of Bible studies.

May be Brought to Greensboro.

"Prof." Earl Vautare, an alleged clairvoyant, who swindled many Greensboro people out of money and jewelry five years ago, may be brought back to Guilford county for trial. At present he is under arrest in Terre Haute, Indiana, and according to news from there to the chief of police here, he will not be prosecuted because his victims refuse to appear against him. The situation is different in Greensboro, it seems, and a case might be made out in the local court.

The Terre Haute police chief advises that if an officer be sent from Greensboro after Prof. Vautare, he should be armed not only with a requisition from the governor of North Carolina, but he should be accompanied by some one who could positively identify the prisoner as the right man. Vautare operated in Indiana as "Clayde McClure" and was arrested under that cognomen.

President Finley's Wise Advice.

Washington Herald. President W. W. Finley, of the Southern Railway, who is also chairman of the executive committee of the American Association for Highway Improvement, has issued an appeal to farmers to improve the roads which radiate from market towns or shipping centers.

Mr. Finley does not minimize the importance of trunk line highways, which attract automobile tourists, but he says that the greatest good for the greatest number can be secured by first developing the roads which lead from the farm to the point where produce can be carried to the markets. Not only will the farmer be materially benefited by this improvement, but the trade of retail dealers will be enlarged, the work of the rural mail carriers facilitated, and the limits of circulation of the newspapers be extended.

With his usual keen business sense Mr. Finley has approached an important subject from the right angle. If the minor roads are improved, the construction of trunk line highways will follow as a matter of necessity, and thus a complete network of excellent thoroughfares obtained.

No Backache or Kidney Pains.

If you have pains in the back, urinary, bladder or kidney trouble, dizziness and lack of energy, try Mother Gray's Aromatic-Leaf, the pleasant herb remedy. As a system regulator it has no equal. At druggists, or by mail, 50c. Ask today. Sample free. Address The Mother Gray Co., Le Roy, N. Y. 5-4t.

WHITSETT.

Prof. Wilson and the Whitsett orchestra went to Burlington Friday and on Friday evening furnished music for the banquet of the Chamber of Commerce. They report a delightful trip, and a successful occasion in every way.

C. C. Barnhardt, Esq., of High Point, was here Sunday and made a pleasant talk before the Y. M. C. A.

Both Mr. and Mrs. John H. Rankin have been quite sick the past week. Their daughter, Mrs. J. V. Dick, of Gibsonville, is with them.

Mrs. J. B. Whitsett, who fell on the ice and hurt her arm recently, is much better. Her arm still gives her much pain.

The monument to be erected at the grave of the late D. P. Foust has arrived and will be placed in Springwood cemetery at once. It is a very handsome piece of work.

Rev. J. C. Cox will preach in the Reformed church here March 3. He is now a minister of the Reformed church, but was formerly a preacher in the Friends' church.

Rev. J. D. Andrew will conduct a memorial service at Prick church the first Sunday in March in memory of the late Mrs. Michael Clapp.

The recent rains and freezes have left all the roads in the community in a fearful condition of mud and slush.

Rev. J. D. Andrew preached here Sunday on "The Responsibility of Words," and spoke eloquently for a careful use of pure speech and kind words. He will preach soon on "The Young Woman and Leap Year."

Dr. James A. B. Scherer, who was reared in this community, is now president of Thorpe Polytechnic Institute, at Pasadena, California. Several million dollars have been secured recently for his work, and he is meeting with much success in his new field. His father, Rev. Simon Scherer, died while pastor of Frieden's Lutheran church and is buried in Frieden's cemetery.

Both Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Wilson, of Bethel church, are in a hospital in Richmond, and he has resigned as pastor. The sympathy of many friends in this community goes out to these good people in their severe afflictions. They are both well known and greatly liked here. He is advertising his home in Greensboro for immediate sale.

Mrs. J. D. Oldham carried her little daughter Margie to Greensboro Friday to consult a specialist about a throat trouble. An operation will likely be necessary.

E. B. Wheeler has secured the government contract for the Whitsett-Gibsonville mail route for the next four years. Two trips each day will be made, connecting with both east and west mail trains, except on Sunday, when only the morning trip will be made. It is understood that there were five bidders for the contract.

Prof. C. C. Wimbish returned from Greensboro Sunday, where he had been for a day or two on business.

The Washington birthday exercise on Thursday promises to be quite an interesting occasion.

On Monday Mr. James Donnell, of R. F. D. 4, Greensboro, was down visiting his brother, Mr. W. H. McLean, and paid the school a very pleasant call.

The fine days of this week have drawn out the boys in full force for baseball, and much interest is being taken in the great American game. The boys now have two diamonds, and opportunity is thus afforded a large number to play each afternoon.

MILL POINT.

Owing to the unusually severe winter very little work has been done on the farms in this section.

Mrs. Robert Stewart, who has been on the sick list, is able to be out again.

Mrs. T. A. Rankin has returned home after spending several weeks in Greensboro.

Messrs. C. E. Glass and D. M. Gladson were in our community the first of the week.

Mr. Avery Phipps killed a wild turkey last Saturday evening weighing 18 pounds.

Mr. M. C. Gresson left last Monday for Alabama, where he is working in the interest of the Colcord nursery, of Georgia.

A visitor in our community last Sunday evening was Mr. Ross Weatherly.

Mrs. J. M. Phipps entertained at her home last Tuesday night at a flinch party a number of young people. Excellent music rendered by the M. P. string band added much to the occasion.

A mad dog that recently passed through this section was killed near here last Thursday. Several dogs were bitten, among them a valuable shepherd dog belonging to Mr. R. B. Andrew. All have been killed.

There will be preaching at 11 o'clock by Rev. R. L. Gress. There will also be a meeting of the elders.

Miss Lottie Stewart, a music pupil of Miss Lillian Weatherly, of Greensboro, attended a piano recital last Saturday in Greensboro, given by Miss Lillian at her studio.

Next Friday night, February 23, at this place, beginning at 7.30, there will be an old fashion spelling match and a pie sale. In addition to that, the Woman's Betterment Association will sell a quilt. The public is most cordially invited.

This is an Easy Ttest.

Shake Allen's Foot-Ease in one shoe and not in the other, and notice the difference. Just the thing to use when rubbers or overshoes become necessary, and your shoes seem to pinch. Sold everywhere, 25c. Don't accept any substitute. Sample Free. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

SUMMERFIELD.

Miss Mattie Florence, one of the high school girls, visited Miss Effie Johnson from last Saturday till Monday.

Miss Hettie Burton and Mr. Kiser spent last Saturday night at the home of Miss Wall, at Rural Hall.

Mr. McIntyre, of Greensboro, spent last Saturday night and Sunday with friends here.

Miss Lucy Hoskins has been on a visit here with her sister Mrs. N. W. Ogburn and is now visiting relatives in your city.

Prof. Hosford, principal of the Flat Rock school, will have his commencement exercises on the night of March 1. We think Mr. Hosford has given satisfaction in teaching.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather the 15th of this month the sale at Mr. Jere Highfill's was postponed until the 7th of next month, beginning at 10 o'clock A. M.

Mr. Cary Johnson has returned from Atlanta, where he spent a week of pleasure and is now at Mr. McLamb's grocery store in Greensboro.

Mr. Lineberry, of Raleigh, who is working the Merideth and Wake Forest Colleges, occupied the Baptist pulpit in Mr. Sheets' place last Sunday. His talks both Sunday morning and night were very good on education and the rearing of children. Everybody appreciated the talks very much.

Mr. Ira Johnson has returned home from Florida, where he spent a week or two of sightseeing.

The Betterment Association gave an entertainment and box party at the school house last Saturday night. The entertainment was enjoyed by all, and the boxes sold reasonably well. We realized $17.45, which will go toward seating the auditorium. We have enough now for the sea's with what the county is going to give us. If you want anything to "move out," just put the Woman's Betterment Association behind it and it is sure to go. It has been said that the Betterment Association were the most determined set of women that ever was. Well, we are not a faint-hearted kind, that's true. We never let bad weather back us down. We want to accomplish some good, for it is badly needed and we have been a dead people long enough.

Mrs. John Medearis is right sick, we are sorry to learn. Hope she will soon be out again.

Mrs. James Burton is slowly improving. She has been very feeble for some time.

Miss Claud Medearis spent a few days at Wake Forest College last week.

Mrs. Delap, of Midway, spent several days with her daughter, Mrs. Harris, last week.

This weather for the last few days makes one feel like spring is almost in sight.

In Memoriam—Jere Highfill.

Sad indeed and lonely is our home
Since father's face we no longer see;
Other loved ones, though often they come,
Can never fill the vacancy.

'Twas hard to witness his suffering
As he lingered from day to day;
And harder still was the parting,
When quietly he passed away.

How we miss him since he has no share
In the work when too hard is the task,
And when our table we prepare
He's not there the blessing to ask.

And when the evening shades appear,
And our work for the day is done,
Near the hearthstone an empty arm chair
Reminds us of the missing one.

Everywhere is loneliness and gloom,
While he's calmly sleeping out of sight
In a coffin in the silent tomb,
By kind hands lined throughout with white.

But 'tis comforting to remember How he talked of the home of the blest,
Where the wicked troubleth never,
And the sick and weary are at rest.

A short while before his sickness came,
Which ended in his peaceful death,
He saw a bright being in a dream Carrying him high up above this earth.

And just before the end had come
To his companion who was standing near,
In tender tones he said, "Let's go home,"
Seeming unwilling to leave her here.

And our feeble, heartbroken mother, Lours to unite with him over
there;
Living sixty-five years together,
The parting is hard indeed to bear.

But 'tis sweet to know that he now
dwells
With the band of loved ones gone before,
In a land where there are no sad
farewells;
And he waits for us on the golden shore.

Surprise Birthday Dinner For J. A. Kirkman.

A surprise birthday dinner was given Mr. James A. Kirkman, who lives about three miles south of the city on L. F. D. No. 1, Sunday, the event being in honor of his 63rd birthday. Mr. Kirkman was not aware of the event until his friends and relatives commenced arriving. They were ushered into the sitting room by Mrs. Lacy Kirkman, where they spent a very pleasant time until the hour for dinner, when they were invited into the dining room, where a table was spread with all good things to eat. After dinner was served the company returned to the parlor, where they were entertained by some very fine music.

As the day grew to a close all expressed their great pleasure in being present on this occasion, and with the many beautiful presents they left with Mr. Kirkman they expressed a slight degree of the esteem in which he is held by his many friends and as they went away each one expressed the desire that he might live to enjoy many more happy birthdays.

Those present were: Col. W. H. Osborn, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Ramseur and son, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Dorsett, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Witty, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Armfield, Miss Blanche Armfield, Cecil Moser, J. C. Kirkman, Norman Kirkman, H. T. Kirkman, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Kirkman and children, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Kirkman.

Sunday School Meeting.

The executive committee of the Guilford County Sunday School Association met Saturday afternoon at 2.30 in the McAdoo hotel and attended to various items of business. All but three townships have held conventions since the last state convention. An effort will be made to hold a convention in each of these three townships in the next few weeks. Plans were made for the spring county convention, which will be held in Greensboro on Thursday, March 28. President R. A. Merritt, Secretary Shuford Peeler, Mrs. E. R. Michaux and Mrs. Charles D. Melver were appointed on the program committee. It is desired that all the schools in the county will plan to attend this convention. Blanks have been sent out for the reports and it is hoped each school will send in the report in a few weeks. The state Sunday school convention will be held in Asheville on April 23, 24, 25. Each township is entitled to one delegate.

The record price for tame hay on the Kansas City market was registered the other day, when $23.50 per ton was paid for a carload of hay shipped from Rupert, Ida.

Roughly speaking, it takes a depth of from twelve to fifteen inches of snow to make one inch of water. Again, one inch of rainfall will moisten the earth to the depth of about twelve inches.

Switzerland has 2,100 dairies, which employ on the average four people each. Of the total number of dairies 1,400 are engaged in the production of Emmenthal cheese, a brand that constitutes a large share of the cheese exports of the little country.

Probably the highest price ever bid for a calf was $6,000, which a Wisconsin breeder bid at auction the other day for a month old calf of the famous Dolly Dimples, a prize winning Jersey that is owned on the Ames stock farm near Boston and rated as one of the most valuable cows in the world.

The Japanese sugar cane, which has lately been introduced into some sections of the south, gives promise of being a valuable forage crop. While it will produce more sirup than any other cane, its chief value is for forage, as the stalks are small. However, the variety is hardy, grows to twelve or thirteen feet in height and produces many stalks to the hill. It yields from fifteen to twenty-five tons of green forage per acre.

The Black Giant is the name of a breed of poultry that is making a good record in several eastern states, few if any having as yet been brought west of Pennsylvania. The cock birds weigh nine or ten pounds and the hens from seven to eight. Unlike some other black feathered breeds, they are yellow skinned and have black legs free from feathers. The breed is hardy and easily kept. The Black Giants are favorites in several eastern markets for caponizing and usually top the market in this class.

One breeder of Jersey cattle whom the writer is personally acquainted with is following a plan in the improving of his herd of some forty or fifty fine cows that has much to commend it. Recently there was shipped to him by the owner, on terms that were mutually satisfactory, a prize winning $1,000 Jersey bull, with which some thirty of his cows are to be mated. This arrangement will cost the owner of the herd mentioned a snug sum, but there is little question that it will pay him a handsome return on the investment.

During the closing days of 1911 grapes were taken from cold storage in some eastern markets that had been shipped from California six weeks before and held there during the interval. They were found in prime condition—practically as good as when put in storage—but the other important feature connected with the experiment was that when put on the market annually these grapes brought more than twice as much as they would had they been sold at the time of shipment from the west. The experiment is likely to have quite an effect upon the grape-growing business.

Dynamite is queer stuff, and there are a whole lot of things about it that are difficult to understand. Unlike a good many other substances, there does not seem to be much uniformity in the laws which govern its ignition and explosion. Often the slightest jar or the application of heat to it is sufficient to set it off. In a case related to the writer the other day a chunk of the stuff fell off a wagon on which it was being hauled and a few minutes later was run over by a disk pulverizer without exploding. Again, a chunk of it put in a fire will burn quietly without exploding. We would not advise making this experiment, however.

The writer had the pleasure last winter of spending a day aboard a dairy special which made some eight or ten stops on a given line of road. He was fully persuaded at the close of the day that no farmer living within a radius of twenty miles of the town where the stops were made and who was at all interested in the subject of dairying could afford to miss the practical and instructive lectures and demonstrations which were given. If such a dairy special should during the coming weeks make a stop within reaching distance by team or trolley of any readers of this department it would be decidedly to their advantage to attend and get all the information possible out of the men in charge of the train.

All too often it is the same horse that receives scant feed in the stall that is left without a blanket on the village street in cold weather. Probably the chap who owns him gets three square meals a day and when in town warms his shins by the grocery fire.

Texas raises the largest number of turkeys of any state in the Union, but Rhode Island raises the largest number of large birds—the forty pound milk and chestnut fed kind—which grace the president's holiday board and which fetch 40 cents per pound.

While many parents are loath to have their children wear glasses, the fact remains that glasses properly fitted and worn by children while they are in school will often correct eye defects so that they will not be needed in later years. Many cases of chronic headache while in school, as well as other ills, are traceable to weak eyes that should have the aid of glasses.

There is good reason for believing that much of the damage charged to wolves, along the line of killing sheep and small calves is quite often not the work of wolves at all, but tramp dogs or those that bear a very respectable canine reputation during daylight hours. This seems to be proved by the fact that a good many so called wolf-hunts do not result in scaring up any wolves.

Those in charge of the practical farm demonstration work which is being carried on under the supervision of the federal department of agriculture in a number of southern states credit the boys' corn clubs of Georgia with the increase of nearly two bushels per acre in the corn crop of the past year. It is estimated that this increase has added $7,000,000 to the value of the state's output of this cereal.

If there was ever a winter season when a man could thank his lucky stars that he has a silo it is the one we are just in the midst of. And it is the more appreciated by the fellow who has one when he sees his neighbor mining shock corn from drifts of snow all the way from two to five feet deep if he has been so lacking in forethought as to not make a compact stack of the fodder near the barn.

Roquefort cheese, which is held in high esteem by connoisseurs as a food delicacy, is produced in 510 dairies scattered throughout the department of Aveyron and neighboring districts in France. In 1909 4,000,000 cakes were exported, equal to 20,725,000 pounds, the production of which required 42,267,000 quarts of sheep's milk. The cheese is cured slowly in caves and fetches a fancy price on the market.

It is an odd streak of human nature which makes a good many folks who let bills run for a year feel offended when they are notified with a courteous statement from the persons to whom the obligation is due that they would like to have a settlement of the account. If there are injustice and imposition in such a situation at all the person who allows such an account to run is responsible for them, not the one who asks a settlement.

Not since the period of inflated currency just after the civil war has butter reached the price level at retail quoted recently. In some large market centers this retail price was 50 cents, which means that the fellow who owns the cows was getting from 40 to 42 cents per pound for his butter fat. The unusual price seems to be in part due to the excessive cold which has prevailed for weeks past through the northern dairy states and in part to shortage and high price of feeds. The result of the high prices is that a good many folk are doing without butter on their flapjacks, while others are giving butterine a tryout.

That man is mighty little short of a heartless fiend who lives in a latitude where blizzards and way below zero weather are common and will not provide shelter of some crude kind for his horses and cattle. A case was reported to the writer by the neighbors of a fellow of this stripe the other day, who not only does not give his stock any protection from storm or cold, but makes this matter frightfully worse by keeping them in a half starved condition. His neighbors should put a stop to this brutal business by making a united protest to the township trustees or county attorney. If there is a hot place or a mighty cold one in the hereafter reserved for anybody it ought to be for bipeds who have treated dumb brutes in this manner.

Within a few weeks the Carlsted brothers, living near Dassel, Minn., have been awarded the prize for growing the most bushels of corn per acre in a widely advertised interstate contest. Notwithstanding the fact that the average yield of corn for the Gopher State is only 29.3 bushels, these brothers produced an average yield of 106.8 bushels of shelled corn per acre from their field. The variety grown was the Minnesota No. 13, a type developed by the state experiment station, while the seed used in the production of the prize winning field was the result of very careful selection of breeding ears. Beginning with 1907, the field in question produced consecutively wheat, rye, barley, clover, corn. In 1909 it was given a dressing of barnyard manure and seeded to clover. It was spring plowed a year ago, harrowed and double disked—once three days after planting—was cultivated when two inches high and given three other cultivations later at intervals with a ten shovel riding cultivator.

AN ILLINOIS INQUIRY.

A reader of these notes who lives near Edinburg, Ill., not far from Springfield, writes stating that he lives on a sixty acre farm especially well suited for a dairy farm and makes inquiry as to the wisdom of going into the dairy business. He states that he knows practically nothing of the dairy business, wants to know how many cows a sixty acre farm would support, whether it would be better to sell milk or cream and what would be a reasonable estimate of the amount of milk a cow would give per day during the year and what per cent of it would be cream. While it would be impossible in the limits of such an article as this to give a novice in the dairy business as full directions as he desires, nevertheless a few suggestions may be made that will prove helpful.

A suggestion which our correspondent makes in his letter is excellent—namely, visiting and inspecting for himself some of the most successful dairy farms in the section in which he lives. Here he can make inquiries as to a hundred and one details knowledge of which would be helpful to him if he is going into the dairy business, while the visual impressions he will take away with him from a shipshape dairy farm will be a decided advantage to him. Were we in our correspondent's place we would secure ten or a dozen tested grade cows of the breed which seems to be most numerous in the section in which he lives. He might handle more, but this would do for a start. These cows will cost all the way from $50 to $200 apiece, depending upon their ability to deliver the goods. And in this connection it is well to remember that it is far better in the long run to pay $100 for a cow that the other fellow would rather keep than $40 or $50 for one that he is quite willing to sell.

The "reasonableness" of an estimate as to how much milk a cow would give would depend quite largely upon the amount paid for her and also upon the feed and care given her. A cow that gives 5,000 pounds of 5 per cent milk in a year will produce 250 pounds of butter fat, approximately equal to 312 pounds of butter, worth at an average of 30 cents per pound, $93. Subtracting cost of feed, about $38, leaves a net return of $55 per year. A Holstein to give the same return would have to produce not far from 9,000 pounds of milk containing 3 per cent of butter fat. While she would give more milk, her feed bill would also be larger. If one is willing to pay the price he can reasonably expect as good results as these or better. While the writer is not acquainted with the local conditions, it would be his offhand judgment that selling the cream would be the better proposition, for, while he might not get any more for it than he would for the whole milk, he would have the skim milk left on the farm for his hogs, calves and chickens, which would be natural byproducts of his dairy operations. If there is not already a silo on our friend's farm he should have one or two, depending upon the number of cows he will ultimately keep. If he does not have them already he should subscribe for a couple of good dairy papers, and by reading them carefully and making inquiries of his neighbors who are most successful in the dairy business he will gather information which will be most helpful to him. If he can so arrange it it would give him a good return on the money invested if he would take a short course in dairying at the state agricultural college.

A COSTLY FIATCO.

If some of the would be statesmen that are representing or misrepresenting us down at Washington would get their hands off the political wires long enough to pass a law which will provide for the rigid federal inspection of all imported nursery stock at port of entry and the immediate destruction of all consignments found diseased or infested with the eggs or nests of destructive insects they would confer an inestimable benefit upon the vast horticultural interests of the country. Secretary Wilson is authority for the statement that the United States is practically the only civilized country having horticultural interests of any importance which does not require rigid inspection of imported nursery stock. For lack of the protection which such laws would have given our orchards are infested with various imported scale insects, while the brown tailed moth is another pest which has been imported into the country regularly through lack of federal inspection laws and which is doing untold damage to orchards and shade trees in eastern states. It may not be impertinent to inquire how long this fiasco that Secretary Wilson refers to is going to continue.

$2,500 A YEAR NET.

An Iowa farmer who bought a quarter section farm five years ago at $80 an acre has in the meantime kept an accurate account of all receipts and expenditures. He finds that besides keeping his family in comfortable circumstances he saved $2,500 a year in cash. He figures that there has been an average increase in the value of his land per year of $5 per acre, which, added to his net revenue, means that his income from the place has been net $3,300 yearly. Quite likely this is a good deal better than owners of 100 acre farms will average, but it shows what can be done. It would be interesting to know how many husky boys this farmer had helping him with the farm operations.

BARGAINS

A bargain is something which you buy at less than its value to you. In looking through our stock, we find a great many articles which are good and are in every-day use in many homes throughout the country. They have been pushed to the rear by newer goods, and for this reason cannot be counted as good sellers at the regular prices. It is to our interest to move these goods, and we have put them on our bargain counter. Call and look them over. You may find just what you are needing, and the price will be 'way down. A GENUINE BARGAIN!

MINER IS RESCUED FROM LIVING TOMB

MISSOURIAN IMPRISONED FOR THREE DAYS SEVENTY-FIVE FEET UNDER GROUND.

RACKING ORDEAL IN THE PIT

Long Wait in Darkness, Counting Strokes of Drill as Relief Approaches, Trics Victim's Nerves—Throws Himself into Arms of Deliverers.

Jefferson, Mo.—Buried beneath 75 feet of rock and earth, without food, without drink, without light, unable to sleep and surrounded by constantly rising waters, Joseph Clary, a miner, spent 82 hours of dread uncertainty, almost as acute as despair, waiting for the first message which might announce to him from his friends on the surface that relief was near and that the gate of his prison would soon be opened. This message finally reached him, after tireless workers had drilled hole after hole through the envelope that covered him until at length a small opening was made into the chamber where he was held a prisoner; but it was not until the third day had passed that the debris in the shaft was removed and Clary was rescued from what almost had proved to be his tomb.

Clary, who was employed in the White Oak lead and zinc mine, was caught in a cave-in, which filled the shaft and sealed him in a small drift, or passageway, 75 feet below. Efforts to release him were at once begun and while men in short shifts worked unceasingly to clear the shaft and line it with timbers to guard against another cave-in, others began drilling a five-inch hole through the debris so that communication could be established between the surface and the prison chamber. The first three holes, driven by men who worked madly in 30-minute shifts, missed the chamber, so far as opening up communication was concerned; but the fourth hole pierced it and a faint "hello" from the imprisoned miner brought to the rescuers the first flash of hope.

While those on the surface were alternating between the hope and despair during the long work of rescue, what of the miner shut up in his living tomb? That his friends would try to rescue him he well knew, but that they would succeed he could only hope. As the long hours passed in the dampness and gloom of his prison the strain on his nerves was terrible. About him the water was rising—slowly, but constantly rising—confronting him with an alternative possibility, death by drowning. He was already face to face with death by starvation. And then came to his ears a steady "thump," "thump," "thump"—the noise of the drill at work after it had passed through the soft earth and began cutting into the rocks. He knew he would be rescued.

After a time the noise of the drill ceased and again all was silence. It was when the drill was withdrawn after having failed to pierce his chamber. It was immediately reset in a fresh spot and the work of boring resumed. But Clary could not hear it and now he believed that he would be abandoned to his fate. Twice again he went through the same emotions, as the noise of the drill reached his ears and again died out. In the long, dark hours of physical privation despair and hope alternately were battling in his heart.

But at noon on the second day the "thump," "thump," "thump" of the drill came to him again. It sounded nearer, clearer than ever before. There was a note of triumph in its sound. It stopped. An eternity of silence passed and then down the long five-inch hole a man shouted: "Hello, there, hello!" Clary heard the greeting and faintly shouted, for his strength was waning: "Hello."

The voice from the tomb was heard. To pass down food and drink to the imprisoned miner was the work of only a few minutes. Then, when the last spadefuls of earth were removed by workmen in the shaft and they dropped through into the drift, Clary threw himself into their arms and wept, while the shouts of thousands cheering at the mouth of the pit echoed down the shaft.

TABLE WITH A HISTORY

NOW STANDS IN THE PRIVATE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT.

Relic of an Old Warship Was Presented to Hayes by Queen Victoria When Vessel Was Broken Up.

In President Taft's private office at the White House is a table made from the timbers of an old English ship,
the Resolute.

It was presented to President Rutherford B. Hayes by Queen Victoria, and since that time has not only held an honored place among the furniture of the White House, but has been used by each successive president. It can also lay claim to fame from the fact that it is the table on which the peace treaty between this country and Spain was signed during President
McKinley's administration.

Attached to the table is a plate bearing the following inscription:

"H. M. S. Resolute formed part of the expedition sent in search of Sir John Franklin in 1852, was abandoned in latitude 74 degrees 41 minutes north and 101 degrees 11 minutes west, May 14, 1854. She was discovered and extricated September 10, 1855, in latitude 67 north by Capt.
Budington of the United States whaler George Kenny. The ship was purchased, fitted out, and sent as a gift to her majesty Queen Victoria by president and people of the United States as a token of good will and friendship."

"This table was made from her timbers when she was broken up, and is presented by the Queen of Great Britain and Ireland to the president of the United States as a memorial of the courtesy and loving kindness which dictated the offer of the gift of the Resolute."

The table was presented to President Hayes Nov. 29, 1880, and forms the last chapter in a story of more than twenty-five years' duration. But the inscription, although of a comparatively descriptive nature, falls far short of telling the entire history of the table, and gives but a scant idea of the suffering attendant upon the ship's desertion in arctic seas and the ceremony and rejoicing upon its return to England.

The story begins with the sending out of four vessels, including the Resolute, by the British government in 1852, under Sir Edward Belcher, in search of Sir John Franklin, the noted English explorer, and his party.
The Resolute was commanded by Captain Kellett, and during the winter of 1852-53 was held fast in the pack at Melville island. In the autumn, while on a sledge ride, one of the Resolute's party found trace of another ship, which was also fast in the ice. A rescue party was dispatched from the Resolute, the ship located and those on board transferred to the Resolute. The following winter the Resolute was also forced to winter in the pack, and the following year, fearing a similar occurrence, Sir Edward Belcher ordered that the ship be abandoned. The officers and crew were taken to England on the North Star, while the Resolute was believed to be inextricably embedded in the ice. This rescue on the part of the Resolute made the ship of added value to England.

It was in the following year, 1855,
that Captain Budington of New London, Conn., in command of the American whaler George Kenny, while on a whaling voyage sighted the Resolute, about twenty miles from Cape Mercy in Davis strait, and about 1,200 miles from her original location when abandoned. Captain Budington took possession of her, and dividing his crew, put ten men aboard the Resolute, and abandoning his cruise returned to the United States with her.
The British government, when notified of the rescue, generously waived all claims to recover and repossess her in favor of those by whom she had been found.

The vessel was taken to New London, Conn., and it was in June, 1856, that Senator Foster of that state offered a resolution inquiring into the expediency of issuing an American register to the Resolute. This was dropped, however, at the suggestion of Senator Mason of Virginia, who stated that he intended to offer resolutions for the restoration of the vessel to England. This he did in the same month, proposing that $40,000 be appropriated for the purchase of the ship from her present owners and for repairing her.

The vessel was purchased and fully repaired at the New York navy yard, Commander Henry J. Hartstene being placed in command of her on the return trip to England. On November 13, 1856, the Resolute sailed from New York, and after a bad voyage reached Spithead on the 12th of December, with the United States and British ensigns flying at her peak.

Queen Victoria expressed a wish to visit the Resolute and requested that the vessel be towed to Cowes near her private place. Commander Hartstene immediately complied with her request and the Resolute was towed there by a government steamer escorted by two other steamers and H.
B. M. frigate Retribution.

The Resolute remained in the British navy for a number of years, and when she finally was broken up it was the occasion when Queen Victoria had the desk make and present ed to President Hayes.

GIRL ELOPES WITH HER PA'S PRISONER

DAUGHTER OF SHERIFF WEDS
"MOONSHINER," WHO RETURNS
TO COMPLETE SENTENCE.

IS FORGIVEN BY HER FATHER

Clandestine Distiller of Georgia Corn
Juice is Shocked by Cupid Whirl Awaiting Trial for Violating the Revenue Laws.

Dalton, Ga.—A real life romance of the kind rarely found has been consummated here by the runaway marriage of Tom Manley, a "moonshiner," serving a sentence in the Whitfield county jail, to Miss Lizzie Gilbert, the daughter of Sheriff J. H. Gilbert.

Making "moonshine" whisky and, incidentally, eluding the United States revenue officers involves no moral turpitude in this part of Georgia. Between the makers of illicit whisky and the agents of the government who seek to break up this hillside industry there has been ceaseless warfare for 100 years. The capture and imprisonment of a "moonshiner" is classified as the "fortunes of war," and public sympathy is likely to be with the man who is caught.

Over in Murry county Tom Manley made whisky in the mountains of which the family farm was a part.
He made it partly because he and his kinfolk preferred their corn prepared so it could be taken out of a bottle instead of having it made into ponies, and partly because the Manleys had been making their own liquor for one generation after another, in defiance of laws to the contrary, and young Tom Manley believed, as did his ancestors, that he had an inalienable right to do anything he pleased with his own corn.

With due precautions the revenue officers crept up close to Manley's primitive whisky factory and when he turned to respond to a friendly greeting he was looking into the barrels of repeating rifles.

Although a federal prisoner, it was decided there was no use of sending

Mrs. Gilbert-Manley.

Manley to Atlanta, where there is always a delegation of moonshiners serving sentences. There was a good jail in Dalton, in which he might as well serve his sentence, so it was decided to keep him here. Here is where Cupid scored his first point, for while Manley was waiting for trial Lizzie,
the sheriff's daughter, became greatly interested in him.

After he had been sentenced, Manley became a trusty, which jail distinction is attained by nearly all moonshiners, for their word is a matter of honor with these mountaineers, and any sheriff feels safe in allowing them to have a reasonable amount of liberty. In this particular case the sheriff was doubly safe—though he didn't know it—in letting Manley have the freedom of the premises, for by the time his trial was over Manley couldn't have been driven away from the joy of basking in Miss Lizzie's smiles.

As a trusty he was often sent on errands to the store, and he was meekly obedient in sitting around and waiting for something to do, the sitting around being mostly done in the vicinity of the kitchen door, where glimpses of Miss Lizzie were easily to be had.

One morning Sheriff Gilbert missed
his daughter, but he did not worry, thinking she had probably gone to spend the day with relatives in the country. During the day he did not notice Tom Manley, but Tom was such a trusty fellow the sheriff did not worry until time came that evening to lock him up for the night.
Even then he did not pay much attention to his absence.

The next morning the situation appeared differently to the sheriff, for a telegram came from Murry county, the home of Manley. It was from the sheriff's daughter, and read: "Tom and I are married. He wants to come back and make his word good."

Now, as has been said, "moonshin-ing" in Georgia involves no moral turpitude, and, as that was the only thing against Manley, the sheriff accepted the situation philosophically.

Manley was accompanied back to jail by a cavalcade of 50 kinfolk and friends, all of them proud of him for winning a wife under adverse circumstances, and proud of the bride for stealing her father's prisoner.

Mourning Hats

THREE widely different but equally excellent hats are shown here, designed for "first mourning," and therefore they are made entirely of crape or trimmed with it. As this beautiful fabric has been so perfected by its manufacturers that it is now very durable, it is within the reach of people of moderate means and is extensively used in dress trimmings and dress accessories.

The hat with drooping brim and moderately tall crown is covered with crape and has a facing of white crape. The moderately high dome crown is trimmed with a collar and spirals of crape, very cleverly made. It is a fine example of the exactness and neatness which should always characterize workmanship in mourning millinery, and is finished with a veil hanging straight from the back.

A beautiful turban of grenadine having its draperies edged with double folds of crape, demonstrates the ingenuity of the milliner who designed it. It is soft and light on the head and uncommonly becoming. It is a model suited to almost all faces and ages. A small veil may be worn with it. For first mourning a veil of net bordered with crape would be a good choice for this particular hat.

The little toque with body and trimming made entirely of crape is a shape with which we are all familiar because it is always good style. The form is covered with folds of soft, dull-finished crape. Three "wings" or loops covered with the crape are bordered with a narrow plaiting of the fabric. They are mounted at the back with a big soft knot of crape. In the early days of mourning a crape veil is suspended from the back of the toque and replaced later with a short veil of coarse-meshed Brussels net, bordered with crape. This hat is designed for matrons or older women who prefer a toque to a bonnet.

It is a simple matter to test crape and other fabrics designed especially for mourning wear to see that they are waterproof. Immerse a small piece in a glass of water before purchasing. If the dye runs and the "rib" or crinoline comes out, the fabric has not been waterproofed and should be immediately rejected.

Crape may be easily renovated and freshened to look like new. A veil which has grown limp and dusty looking, should be thoroughly brushed and shaken, removing the dust. It should then be rolled about a broom handle (without stretching) and pinned so that it will stay rolled. Place the rolled crape over a boiler and keep it there an hour if necessary, until it has become thoroughly steamed through with the steam from boiling water. Set it to dry and allow it to remain on the roller for 24 hours. The result will be entirely satisfactory, the crape looking like new.

WOMAN'S FOOT GROWS LARGER

Shoe Manufacturers Say Number Two Shoe Is Now Almost Obsolete.

Shoe manufacturers claim that the American woman's foot is growing larger. The number two shoe is almost obsolete, they say, and sizes four and five are much commoner than three. The explanation seems to be that the phenomenon is due to the increased use of the feminine foot as a means of locomotion. The constantly increasing number of women engaged in industry and the growth in popularity of tennis, golf and walking have had their inevitable result, and common sense has done much to abolish the wearing of pinching shoes. The tradition that small feet are an excellent thing in women has persisted long and will not die without a struggle. Conservatives need not fear that women will carry this matter too far; they know when to stop.—Success Magazine.

SILK AND EMBROIDERY

The lower part of this waist is of embroidery, bordered with a band of the same. The upper part and the sleeves are of silk, the sleeves finished with band of embroidery.

The waist fastens prettily on one side with gold buttons.

Most of the costumes of this season have large revers or as to show the jabot with side frills.

Taffeta Jackets.

Little coats or jackets of changeable taffetas are worn with voile or mull lingerie frocks. They show the high line and the plaited frill on the lower edge.

To the Rescue

Mrs. Yarp is an extremely light sleeper. Moreover, the night was hot. The fact that Yarp was fathoms deep in a noisy slumber, utterly undisturbed by her restless wakefulness, was an added annoyance.

It was extremely unfeeling and brutal of him, to say the least, to be storing up freshness and energy for the morning, while she most decidedly was doing nothing of the sort. Repressing a desire to smite him, Mrs. Yarp arose and got a drink of water. Then she wandered to the open front windows in the hope of finding a breeze.

Suddenly all the mists in her brain were dissipated in one illuminating flash. She had seen a light in the Bargar's house across the way!

The Bargar's had gone two weeks before to their summer home in Wisconsin and had carefully boarded up all the downstairs windows and doors, leaving no caretaker.

It was a flickering light, and Mrs. Yarp could see it move through the second floor hall into a bedroom. Then it came out and evidently wandered downstairs. Again it discreetly and flickeringly came up.

Mrs. Yarp with two bounds reached the side of her slumbering husband and shook him violently. "Henry! Henry!" she cried.

"Lemme be!" murmured Henry. There was really nothing else for her to do, so she pulled his hair violently. Thereupon Yarp sat up with a rush. "Have you gone crazy, Evalinda?" he inquired.

"There are burglars in the Bargar's house!" Mrs. Yarp hissed at him. "Burglars!"

"Burglars at the Bargar's?" Yarp repeated with alliterative relish. "It sounds like a vaudeville sketch."

"Henry," interrupted his exasperated wife, "if you don't get up this minute and do something, I'll—Pretty sort of neighbors we'd be, wouldn't we, if we let them carry off all the Bargar's things? Get up!"

Yarp obeyed and scrambled into some clothes. He regarded with rising excitement the light which was still flickering about.

"Id better telephone the police station," he said. "Maybe we can catch them!"

"They must have broken in at the rear somewhere," said Mrs. Yarp as she feverishly put on a kimono and one black and one brown shoe. "Now, don't you go and get shot, Henry! Why can't you stand outside and shout at them?"

Yarp's reply to this was a combination of snort and howl. Already he was down the stairs and Mrs. Yarp was following.

The patrol wagon soon stopped a block away and the three policemen and Yarp conversed in a dark mass under the big oak tree in front. Leaving one man to guard the boarded up front of the Bargar house the others made a sortie to the rear.

On the Yarp's front porch Mrs. Yarp clung to a post and strained her eyes in the semi-darkness. Back to the Bargar's house Yarp and the two officers prowled carefully. They found that the boarding on the basement door had been removed. Yarp and one policeman stole inside, leaving the other on guard in the rear. Yarp's knowledge of the house was a help, though occasionally the policeman flashed his lantern. Up into the silent kitchen and the stuffy dining room they prowled. Apparently nothing had been disturbed.

"They must be beginning upstairs," whispered the officer.

Yarp's heart thumped as they crept up the stairs, pausing at every step. Once a board creaked. Yarp could hear his companion's heavy breathing. They gained the top. There was no light visible. Yarp did not dare whisper. The sudden awful thought that the intruders had discovered them coming, and were waiting in ambush to pounce upon them paralyzed him. Perspiration was streaming from his brow. A shut up house on a hot night is extremely warm.

As they walked into the front bedroom something heavy hurtled at them, and the policeman and Yarp went down in a crash, while simultaneously shrieks arose. They could hear the racket below as the man on guard in the rear stumbled to their rescue. Mrs. Yarp across the street added her voice to the excitement. "Henry's killed! He's killed!" she wailed. The man in front was beating on the boarded door, there being nothing else for him to do.

When the second policeman reached the scene and turned on the light of his bull's-eye lantern it disclosed Yarp, policeman No. 1 and Barger himself giving an imitation of the Lincoln statue tangle. Cowering in a corner was Mrs. Barger. Barger and Yarp blinked at each other dazedly.

Barger came to first. "We ran in town today for some new furniture for the cottage," he said, "and after the theater we thought it would be cooler out here than in a downtown hotel. The gas was shut off for the summer, so we used candles. I heard you coming up just as we went to bed, and I thought you were burglars!"

Yarp staggered to the open front window. "Keep still, Evalinda, for goodness' sake!" he called. "We've got to draw lots to see which of us gets arrested."

The KITCHEN CABINET

A GOOD deal of the trouble of this world arises from the fact that some folks like to have gardens, while others prefer to keep hens.

COOKING HINTS.

For dainty little cakes to serve with tea, one busy woman has an idea worth passing along. She buys a few of several kinds of wafers, vanilla, chocolate and ginger, and puts two together with a cake frosting or filling, and with others she puts a little frosting on top of each and dots with nuts or bits of candied fruit.

Sweet sandwiches take the place of cakes and are much more acceptable to many a palate.

Grated maple sugar and chopped nut meats, moistened with a little cream, makes a very dainty filling. Angel cake is much better served the day after it is baked. It is better flavored and more tender.

A valuable hint for the users of linoleum where it is necessary to place it, is to put a strip of oilcloth, spread with a good glue, on the cloth side. Put under the two edges, being careful that the linoleum edges are well shoved together, press down firmly and put under heavy weights for twenty-four hours. The seam will hardly be noticed.

The serving of afternoon tea is becoming quite a national custom and also a fine art. Instead of using loaf sugar, some hostesses make their own fondant for the sweetening, flavoring it with lemon or orange, coloring it to suit the taste or fancy.

A cup of hot tea will relieve fatigue, and is said to clear the complexion if drunk slowly and not too strong.

Save a box of parsley from the garden supply for winter use. It will be an ornament in the kitchen or will keep equally well in a lighted cellar window. Parsley, if dried, may be used in soups and as flavoring in many dishes.

When poaching eggs, whirl the water with a spoon and drop the egg into the center of the whirl. The motion will keep it round.

Put a few stalks of celery into the duck before roasting, instead of stuffing. It will be better seasoned.

A paper cone for piping whipped cream or frosting may be easily made by twisting a piece of notepaper in the form of a cornucopia.

How Cold Affects the Kidneys.

Avoid taking cold if your kidneys are sensitive. Cold congests the kidneys, throws too much work upon them, and weakens their action. Serious kidney trouble and even Bright's disease may result. Strengthen your kidneys, get rid of the pain and soreness, build them up by the timely use of Foley Kidney Pills. Tonic in action, quick in results. Howard Gardner.

Facts for Weak Women

Nine-tenths of all the sickness of women is due to some derangement or disease of the organs distinctly feminine. Such sickness can be cured—is cured every day by

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

It Makes Weak Women Strong, Sick Women Well.

It acts directly on the organs affected and is at the same time a general restorative tonic for the whole system. It cures female complaint right in the privacy of home. It makes unnecessary the disagreeable questioning, examinations and local treatment so universally insisted upon by doctors, and so abhorrent to every modest woman.

We shall not particularize here as to the symptoms of those peculiar affections incident to women, but those wanting full information as to their symptoms and means of positive cure are referred to the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser—1008 pages, newly revised and up-to-date Edition, sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only; or, in cloth binding for 31 stamps.

AN OLD REMEDY FOR BLOOD POISON

For more than forty years S.S.S. has been curing Contagious Blood Poison in all its forms and stages, and is today, as it has always been, the safest as well as most reliable remedy for this disease. One reason why S.S.S. is so successful in curing Blood Poison is that it strengthens and builds up the stomach and digestive members while eradicating the poison from the blood. The greatest of all reasons however is because this medicine possesses just the proper ingredients, blended and compounded in such scientific proportion, as to make it the most perfect blood purifier ever placed upon the market. S.S.S. is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, and in addition to its value as a remedy, is the one blood medicine which may be used without any bad effect, no matter how delicate the system. Not a particle of strong mineral or other harmful drug enters into its composition, and you can take it assured that it will cure you and at the same time build up your system. S.S.S. cures permanently and perfectly, removing every symptom of the trouble by nature's true way—removing the inward cause. S.S.S. is sold at drug stores. Home Treatment book free to all.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

Notice of Election.

Notice is hereby given that in pursuance of a petition filed with the Board of Commissioners of the City of Greensboro, on the 13th day of January, 1912, signed by more than twenty-five per cent. of the qualified registered voters as provided by the charter of the city of Greensboro, an ordinance was adopted by the Board of Commissioners of said city providing for an election to be held on the 27th day of February, 1912, in the city of Greensboro, for the purpose of submitting to the qualified registered voters of said city, the question of the adoption of the following proposed ordinance:

"Be it ordained by the Board of Commissioners of Greensboro: That the City of Greensboro shall, on and after the first day of January, 1912, establish, maintain, and operate a meat market for the sale of beef, pork, mutton, fish, oysters, poultry, game, and such other products as are usually and ordinarily handled in a meat market."

"And that the selling price to the consumer of all articles handled and sold in said meat market, as mentioned in section one hereof, shall be at the actual cost price of the same to the City of Greensboro."

"And that the City Commissioners shall purchase, or otherwise secure, pasture and a slaughter-house for the carrying out of the foregoing, on the most economical and sanitary plan."

For the purpose of holding said election, the city was divided into two precincts. All territory lying west of Elm street to be known as Morehead precinct, and all east of Elm street to be known as Gilmer precinct. That the polling place in Morehead precinct is City Hall and the polling place in Gilmer precinct is Eagle Hose Company.

That W. W. Wood was appointed registrar, and J. A. Coppedge and Y. M. Westmoreland, judges of election for Morehead precinct, and J. E. Minor, registrar, and E. B. King and F. A. Brooks, judges of election for Gilmer precinct; and that said registrars shall keep the said registration books open for the registration of voters at a convenient place at least for twenty days previous to said election, and shall close said books at sunset on the second Saturday before said election, same to be held as provided by the charter of said city and laws of North Carolina.

That all qualified voters who registered at the last election for mayor and commissioners, and who shall register for this election, shall be entitled to vote, if otherwise qualified.

That those favoring the passage of the said ordinance shall vote in ballot boxes provided for that purpose, a ballot on which is written or printed, or partly written and partly printed, the words, "For the Ordinance," and those opposing the passage of said ordinance shall vote in said ballot boxes provided for that purpose, a ballot on which is written or printed, or partly written and partly printed, the words "Against the Ordinance."

By order of the Board of Commissioners of the City of Greensboro. This January 18, 1912.

JOHN S. MICHAUX, City Clerk.

Executor's Notice.

Having qualified before the clerk of the Superior court of Guilford county, N. C., as executor of the will of Jeremiah Highfill, deceased, late of Guilford county, N. C., this is to notify all parties indebted to the estate to come forward and make immediate settlement, and all parties having claims against the estate to file the same with proper proof with the undersigned before the 1st day of February, 1913, or this notice will be pleaded in bar of their recovery.

Miss Minerva and William Green Hill

By FRANCES BOYD CALHOUN

(Copyright, by Reilly & Britton Co.)

She willingly consented, as she was through with her ironing and thought to snatch a few winks of sleep herself.

The little boy slipped quietly through the house, noiselessly across the back yard and into his father's big garden, which was separated from that of his neighbor by a high board fence. He quickly climbed the fence, flew across Miss Minerva's tomato patch and tipped up her back steps to the back porch, his little bare feet giving no sign of his presence. Hearing curious noises coming from the bath room, where Billy was bumping the chair up and down in his efforts to release his mouth, he made for that spot, promptly unlocked the door and walked in. Billy by scuffling and tugging had freed his mouth from the towel that bound it at that moment.

"Hush!" he whispered as Jimmy opened the door, "you'll get eat up alive if you don't look out." His tone was so mysterious and thrilling and he looked so scared tied to the chair that the younger boy's blood almost froze in his veins.

"What you doing all tied up so?" he asked, in low, frightened tones.

"Mr. Algernon Jones done it. I spec' he's a robber an' is jes' a-roberin' right now," answered Billy.

"I'll untie you," said his chum.

"Now, you better not," said Billy bravely. "He might git away. You leave me jes' like he fixed me so's you can try to ketch him. I hear him in the dinin' room now. You leave me right here an' step over to yo' house an' phone to some mens to come an' git him quick. Shet the do' ag'in an' don't make no noise. Fly, now!"

And Jimmy did fly. He again took the garden route and in a minute was at the telephone with the receiver to his ear.

"Hello! Is that you, Miss Central? This is me," he howled into the transmitter. "Gimme Miss Minerva's beau. I don't know his number, but he's got a office over my papa's bank."

His father being out of town, the little boy shrewdly decided that Miss Minerva's beau was the next best man to help capture the robber.

"Miss Minerva what lives by me," he shrieked.

Fortunately Central recognized his childish voice and was willing to humor him, so as she too knew Miss Minerva's beau the connection was quickly made.

"Hello! Is that you, major? This is me. If you don't want Mr. Algernon Jones to be robbing everything Miss Minerva's got you getter get a and secure for the next hour and having partaken of a light lunch, was in the act of transferring some silver spoons from the sideboard to his pockets when a noise at the dining room door caused him to look in that direction. With an oath he sprang forward, and landed his fist upon the nose of a plump gentleman standing there, bringing a stream of blood and sending him sprawling to the floor. Mr. Jones overturned a big-eyed little boy who was in his way, and walking rapidly in the direction of the railroad, the erstwhile plumber was seen no more.

Jimmy quickly recovered himself and sprang to his feet. Seeing the blood streaming down the white shirt front of Miss Minerva's unconscious beau, he gathered his wits together and took the thread of events again into his own little hands. He flung himself over the fence careless of Sarah Jane this time, mounted a chair and once more rang the telephone.

"Hello! Is that you, Miss Central? This is me some more. Gimme Dr. Sanford's office please."

"Hello! Is that you, doctor? This is me. Mr. Algernon Jones done kilt Miss Minerva's beau. He's on her back porch bloody all over. He's 'bout the deadead man they is. You'd better come torecky you can and bring the hearse, and a coffin and a clean shirt and a tombstone. He's wounded me but I ain't dead yet. Goodby."

Dr. Sanford received Jimmy's crazy message in astonishment. He, too, rang the telephone again and again, but could hear nothing more, so he walked down to Miss Minerva's house and rang the door bell. Jimmy opened the door and led the way to the back porch, where the injured man, who had just recovered consciousness, was sitting limply in a chair.

"What does all this mean? Are you hurt?" asked the doctor as he examined Mr. Jones' victim.

"No, I think I'm all right now," was the reply; "but that scoundrel certainly gave me a severe blow."

Billy, shut up in the bath room and listening to all the noises and confusion, had been scared nearly out of his senses. He had kept still as a mouse till now, when thinking he heard friendly voices he yelled out: "Open the do' an' untie me."

"We done forgot Billy," said the little rescuer, as he ran to the bath room door and opened it. He was followed by the doctor, who cut the cords that bound the prisoner.

"Now, William," commanded Dr. Sanford, as they grouped themselves around the stout, plump gentleman in the chair, "begin at the beginning, and let us get at the bottom of this."

"Mr. Algernon Jones he come to the gate," explained the little boy, "an' he say he goin' to fix the water pipe an' he say he's a plumber. He's a very 'greeable man, but I don't want Aunt Minerva to marry him, now. I was plump tickled at him an' I tuck him to the bath room an' fust thing I knowed he grabbed holter me an' shuck me like what you see a cat

Sarah Jane's huge form loomed up in the back hall doorway, and she grabbed Jimmy by the arm.

"Yaas," she cried, "you gwine take you a nap is yuh, yuh 'celful caterpillar. Come on home dis minute."

"Lemme go, Sarah Jane," protested the little boy trying to jerk away from her. "I got to stay here and perter' Billy and Miss Minerva's beau, 'cause they's a robber might come back and tie 'em up and make 'em bleed if I ain't here."

"Did Mr. Algernon Jones make all that blood?" asked the awe-stricken little boy gazing in admiration at the victim of Mr. Jones' energy. "You sho' is a hero to stan' up an' let him knock you down like he done."

"Yes," cried Jimmy, as the black woman dragged him kicking and struggling through the hall, "we's all heroes, but I bet I'm the hercest hero they is, and I bet Miss Minerva's going to be mad 'bout you all spillin' all that blood on her nice clean floor."

"Lemme see yo' big toe what was shot off by all them Yankees and Injuns what you killed in the war," said Billy to Miss Minerva's beau.

The major smiled at the little boy; a man-to-man smile, full of good comradeship, humor and understanding. Billy's little heart went out to him at once.

"I can't take off my shoes at present," said the veteran. "Well, I must be going; I feel all right now."

Billy looked at him with big, solemn eyes.

"You couldn't never go 'thout yo' pants, could you?" he asked, "cause Aunt Minerva jest natchelly despises pants."

The man eyed him quizzically.

"Well, no; I don't think I could," he replied; "I don't think I'd look any better in a Mother Hubbard or a kimono."

The little boy sighed. "Which you think is the fittestest name," asked he, "Billy or William?"

"Billy, Billy," enthusiastically came the reply.

"I like mens," said William Green Hill. "I sho' wisht' you could come and live right here with me and Aunt Minerva."

"I wish so, too," said the major.

PIES GALORE.

The time draws near when the mince meat for the time-honored day of Thanksgiving must be prepared. In each family the cherished recipe is carefully read and materials gathered, and, strange to say, there is no mince meat which tastes quite like that "mother used to make." Here are a few which are handed down, and those who have no cherished one, may perhaps find one which sounds good:

Mix all the following ingredients together and cook slowly two hours: Three pounds of lean beef cooked and finely chopped; two pounds of suet chopped; three quarts of good, tart apples finely chopped; three pounds of raisins, seeded; two pounds of currants, three pounds of citron cut in pieces, half a cup each of candied lemon and orange peel chopped, a half cup of lemon juice, the same of orange juice, two tablespoonfuls of salt, four cups of brown sugar, one cup of coffee (liquid), two cups of sweet cider, a teaspoonful each of cloves and allspice, two teaspoonfuls of cinnamon and a cup of jelly and three cups of the liquor in which the meat was cooked.

Mince Pie Meat.—Cook together four pounds of lean beef and two pounds of suet cooked; chop and take twice the amount of chopped Baldwin apples. Add three chopped quinces, three pounds of brown sugar, two cups of molasses, two quarts of cider, four pounds of raisins, three pounds of currants, half a pound of citron finely cut, a quart of stock in which the meat was cooked, a tablespoonful each of cinnamon, mace and cloves, two grated nutmegs and salt to taste. Cook all together two hours, except the cider, which is added at the last.

Mock Mince Pie.—Roll four milk crackers, add one and a half cups of sugar, a cup of molasses, a third of a cup of lemon juice, one cup of raisins, half a cup of butter and two well-beaten eggs; salt to taste. Bake with two crusts. This makes two pies.

Woman is an institution to which a man pays homage during courtship and indemnity after marriage.

First La Grippe, Then Bronchitis.

That was the case with Mrs. W. S. Bailey, McCreary, Ky. "My wife was taken down with a severe attack of la grippe, which run into bronchitis. She coughed as though she had consumption and could not sleep at night. The first bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound gave her so much relief that she continued using it until she was permanently cured." Howard Gardner.

You are the Loser if You Drink

CONSIDER the matter anyway you care to. You lose the confidence of business associates—you lose your friends, and finally you lose all respect for yourself. You are a derelict—you simply drift.

You're on the wrong road my friend! The Keeley Institute at Greensboro, N. C., will set you right. It will take away your desire for drink—it will kill your appetite for liquor. It will make a new man of you.

The treatment as administered by the Keeley Institute of Greensboro, N. C., is more than a cure for alcoholism. There is a personality behind the institution that will make you a new man morally, healthful environments that will build you up physically, and put you back into the same good condition you enjoyed before you started drinking. Four weeks of treatment here at Greensboro will give you new ideals and inspirations—the strength, the energy—the will to maintain your proper place in the world.

We have helped thousands of men in a worse plight than you are. We have brought joy into thousands of homes. We can help you. Write us today. Don't let anything deter you. Now is the time and your communication will be treated in strictest confidence.

"Cardui Cured Me"

For nearly ten years, at different times, Mrs. Mary Jinks of Treadway, Tenn., suffered with womanly troubles. She says: "At last, I took down and thought I would die. I could not sleep. I couldn't eat. I had pains all over. The doctors gave me up. I read that Cardui had helped so many, and I began to take it, and it cured me. Cardui saved my life! Now, I can do anything."

TAKE The CARDUI Woman's Tonic

If you are weak, tired, worn-out, or suffer from any of the pains peculiar to weak women, such as headache, backache, dragging-down feelings, pains in arm, side, hip or limbs, and other symptoms of womanly trouble, you should try Cardui, the woman's tonic. Prepared from perfectly harmless, vegetable ingredients, Cardui is the best remedy for you to use, as it can do you nothing but good. It contains no dangerous drugs. It has no bad after-effects. Ask your druggist. He sells and recommends Cardui.

NEWS OF THE OLD NORTH STATE

A Survey of What is Transpiring in the Commonwealth.

James H. Tucker, a prominent lawyer of Asheville, died suddenly Thursday.

Mrs. Ewart, wife of Judge H. G. Ewart, died last week at her home at Hendersonville.

Mr. Wiley Klutz, a Rowan farmer, 78 years old, was found dead in bed Thursday. He had been ill but was not thought to be seriously sick.

James Houchins, 40 years old, was killed Friday by the fall of an elevator in the leaf tobacco warehouse of the Whitaker-Harvey Company at Winston.

Congressman Gudgeon has introduced a bill providing that the summer term of the United States Court of Appeals, held at Richmond, shall be held in Asheville.

Governor Kitchin was the orator at a memorial service held by the Knights of Pythias of Winston-Salem Monday afternoon, and it goes without saying that he made an entertaining and eloquent address.

J. D. Misenheimer, aged 35 years, a farmer of the Rockwell neighborhood, Rowan county, died Saturday from the bursting of a blood vessel in his head during a fit of coughing. He had been sick several days with grip.

H. W. Jennings, who has resided near Rural Hall for several years, has fallen heir to a fortune of $80,000 left by a deceased uncle in Idaho. Mr. Jennings has sold his farm and left Monday to make his home in Idaho.

Deputy Sheriff Johnson, of Cumberland county, was found dead in the road in western Cumberland Saturday. He was seen driving along the road a short time before he was found dead and there is no intimation of foul play.

Mrs. Charlotte Gamble, of Benham, Wilkes county, is 84 years old and never took but one dose of medicine in her life—that to allay pain when a tooth was extracted. A few weeks ago she walked a distance of six miles and didn't complain of fatigue.

A. E. Burgess, who last summer poisoned the stock of his landlord, J. A. Whitaker, in Surry county, so that a horse and cow died, and tried to poison the family by putting Paris green in the spring, was convicted in Surry Superior court last week and sentenced to six years on the roads.

The chemical analysis of the stomachs of the three men from Benson, Johnston county, found dead in a room in Raleigh recently, disclosed that they died from gas poisoning, the gas being turned on in the room where the bodies were found. There is still some suspicion of foul play, but the basis for it is not apparent.

Luther Williams, a young white man of Durham, is in jail on a capital charge. It is alleged that he forcibly entered the home of A. S. Tyndall, of Durham, and criminally assaulted Tyndall's 13-year-old daughter. Tyndall is a night watchman and the girl was at home with the younger children, her mother being dead.

Final action on the adoption of United States histories for the public schools of North Carolina will be taken April 18 by the text book commission and sub-commission, and all briefs, criticisms and other matters to be submitted by representatives of publishing houses must be submitted by April 1. The adoption of histories was postponed when other text books were adopted last summer.

At New Bern last week Baker Bryan, white, was acquitted of the murder of a young white man. The verdict was generally denounced. Solicitor Abernethy presented affidavits charging two of the jurors with improper conduct. The affidavits were not sustained, but when the solicitor denounced the verdict as "one of the grossest miscarriages of justice ever perpetrated in North Carolina" the spectators in the court room applauded.

The Raleigh Times says so far none of the state officers have any opposition for re-nomination except Mr. E. L. Travis, who is filling an unexpired term on the corporation commission. The friends of S. G. Daniel, of Warren county, have announced Mr. Daniel a candidate to oppose Mr. Travis. The officers who have no announced opposition indulge in the comfortable hope that they will be re-elected, but they may find a different situation later.

John Ross, colored, who was to have been electrocuted in Raleigh Friday for the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Dixon, in Cleveland county, was respite until April 12. Ross still sticks to his story that the murder of Mrs. Dixon was committed by Frank Gladden, a white man, who was tried on the charge and acquitted. While this story is not believed the respite was granted in the hope that Ross may later tell the whole truth or that there may be new developments.

P. H. Thrash, a wealthy citizen of Asheville, was convicted in the Superior court of Buncombe county last week of violating the prohibition law and sentenced by Judge Long to 20 months on the roads. An appeal was taken and a bond of $4,000 required of the defendant. Later the sentence was changed to a fine of $2,000, the defendant being required to give bond in an equal amount for his appearance at every term of court for the next twelve months to show that he has not violated the prohibition law. In addition to the fine, Thrash was given the option of spending thirty days in jail or paying $500 to the support of the reform school of Buncombe county. As he is a man of wealth, being rated between $75,000 and $100,000, he naturally chose to pay the $500 in preference to spending a month in the Buncombe county jail.

AN OFFICIAL SIGN LANGUAGE.

Symbols and Abbreviations Used by the United States Government.

If you were making a reconnaissance of a large area of greatly diversified country and were taking copious notes of the various natural characteristics observed as well as the many works of man, your notes would consist to a large extent of discussions of constantly recurring types which might well be expressed by symbols. The printed or written sign language is far older than the alphabet, and there is in common use today in the United States an official sign language which so far as geographic features are concerned is sufficient to describe fully, without the use of a single word, the most unusual area within the country or any of its outlying possessions. This is the collection of symbols and abbreviations adopted by the United States Geographic Board and published, with their significance, on a large sheet by the United States Geological Survey. By the use of these symbols everything of the nature mentioned can be described by an amateur map maker, or can be read on any government map, and anyone who has the key to the symbols can read the map and learn the character of the area so far as the map depicts it.

Thus a rock in the ocean whose exact position is doubtful is represented by a simple sign the size of a pin head, and an oil well or a telegraph station is indicated by another symbol no larger. If a lake or pond is intermittently wet and dry it is represented by a symbol slightly different from that used for a regular lake, and if a section of country is covered with pines or other conifers the symbol employed to show these trees is slightly different from that used in indicating an oak forest. Some 70 symbols are used to portray the various works and structures erected by man, from suspension bridges to mine shafts or windmills; about 20 symbols are used to indicate different classes of land, ranging from sugar-cane areas to cactus patches; aids to navigation and hydrographic features of all kinds are represented by many devices, and other general subjects covered are boundaries, marks, and monuments and many special military features.

This sheet of conventional signs is much in use by schools and field organizations. It can be procured from the director of the geological survey, Washington, D. C., for 10 cents or if purchased in lots of 50 or more for 6 cents, which simply covers the cost of paper and printing.

A RICH FIELD.

Livestock Raisers Invited to Locate in the South.

Washington, Feb. 19.—"The South offers over $100,000,000 yearly to livestock raisers who will locate in that section and supply the demand for meats. The South consumes more meat per capita than any other section of the country. Fifty Southern cities are offering over $22,000,000 yearly to dairymen who will supply their demand for dairy products."

These startling statements are made in an unusually attractive booklet devoted to stock-raising in the Southeast which has just been issued by the Southern Railway system for distribution among stockmen and farmers of the West and Northwest in an effort to induce them to move into this region and take up the raising of cattle, horses, mules, sheep and hogs, thereby enriching themselves and keeping in the South the vast sums now being paid other sections for meat and dairy products. Attention is also given to the great opportunities for profit in raising poultry.

So important to the interests of the people of the South does the Southern Railway feel the live stock and dairy industry, that in addition to advertising to the outside world the great field open for profitable development in this direction, it is now operating a "dairy instruction card" over its lines in the states served by it for the purpose of giving all possible information to the people at home about raising live stock and the production of milk, cream and butter.

The booklet is filled with splendid illustrations of stock, forage crops, ideal dairies and pasture lands, and live reading matter telling of the exceptional advantages awaiting the practical dairyman and stockman in the Southeast. The wide circulation which this handsome booklet will be given by the Southern Railway and affiliated lines should prove an effective boost for the South.

The Great Famine in China.

Three millions of people in central China are on the verge of starvation. Last summer the worst floods in 40 years destroyed the crops in an area of 50,000 square miles. Many have already died of hunger, and unless prompt relief is given multitudes of men, women and children must perish.

During the last few weeks the political and military news from China has absorbed the attention and interest of the world to the exclusion of the needs of the hungry millions. No harvest can be expected until May. Until then the famine will be growing daily more acute. The people to be relieved are chiefly hard-working and honest farmers.

A Matter of Direction.

Governor Emmett O'Neal, of Alabama, met Private John Allen in New Orleans, says the New Orleans Times-Democrat.

"John," said the governor, "this cotton market looks right good to me. I think I'll buy a little this morning and make some money." "Emmett," cautioned Allen, "don't do it! It's hazardous. Whenever I buy any cotton I always feel as if I did when I was in the army. When we were chasing the Yankees I thought we surely should land in New York or Philadelphia; but when they were chasing us, I was sure they would run us into the Gulf of Mexico."

NEW COUNTIES NOT NEEDED.

A Fad That Should Not be Encouraged Further.

Thomasville Charity and Children.

The creation of new counties has become a fad. It ought to be checked. We have an even one hundred counties in North Carolina now. This is a good place to stop for at least ten years. Where a railroad penetrates a county and people can reach it by driving 8 or 10 miles it is folly to pitch in and make a new county in order to make it still more convenient. The truth of the business is the people who are suffering most because of remoteness from the court house are having the least to say about it. Several of the communities now clamoring for a new county are at present in easy reach of the court house—too easy, it may be, for their own good. The legislature ought to grant a new county only for the most serious reasons. The enlargement and growth of a town, or the political complexion of the new county ought never for a moment to have a feather's weight with the legislature. There are many advantages in having counties of a considerable size. It is less expensive for one thing. Our judges complain now of being overworked; new courts will not lessen but increase their labor, for it means more judges and heavier court expenses. It is with counties a good deal like it is with school districts. It was the fashion a while to make a new district to suit the fancy of every half dozen families. The multiplication of these little districts have been a great hindrance to the progress and efficiency of our public school system, and for years past the policy of our educational leaders has been to merge the districts and make one strong school where before there were two or three weak ones. It will be an easy matter to have too many counties in North Carolina, and unless the present tendency is checked we are going to sadly overdo the thing. Let us stop at old hundred. It sounds well and it is well. One hundred and one or two would destroy the harmony, and turn the lobbyists loose.

Doctor Chloroforms Man Doomed by Fire.

Portland, Me., Feb. 17.—Pinioned beneath wreckage of freight cars, following a head-on collision of two freight trains on the Grand Trunk road at North Yarmouth this morning, Arthur Corliss, a fireman, realized that the efforts to rescue him from the flames, which were directly over his body, would fail, and he pleaded for an hour and a half for physicians to give him something to put him out of his agony.

After all efforts to remove the heavy timbers from the man's body had failed, Dr. Edgar E. Barker, of Portland crawled through a tunnel of grain and wreckage to Corliss' side and passed him a handkerchief saturated with chloroform. By that time flames were lapping the lower part of Corliss' body.

"I did the only thing a man could do," said Dr. Barker tonight. "I did not want to give the man chloroform, and I did not give it to him until I knew that it was impossible for him to be taken out of the wreckage alive. He pleaded for more than an hour for us to give him something to put him out of his agony, and I decided that it was the right thing to do."

"When I passed him the saturated handkerchief he did not hesitate a second, as he knew that he would be burned almost by inches. "It was the last resort to relieve a doomed man."
