GREENSBORO TOBACCO MARKET.

Big Sale Marked Opening of New Warehouse Saturday.

Saturday was a big day for Greensboro and for tobacco growers in this section, the formal opening of the New Center Brick warehouse being the occasion of a large and interested crowd of farmers, buyers and spectators who had gathered to witness and participate in the initial sale.

On the floors of the old and new warehouses over a hundred loads of tobacco were sold, bringing prices eminently satisfactory and ranging from $5 to $61 per hundred, averaging about $13. These offerings came from Alamance, Rockingham, Forsyth, Stokes and Guilford, and the ten or twelve buyers representing the large tobacco manufacturers in and out of the state, made the bidding spirited and enthusiasm was at its height.

The new warehouse is located at the corner of Sycamore and Forbis streets, and was built through the efforts of the local Retail Merchants Association, it being the purpose of the live business men belonging to the association to make Greensboro one of the leading loose leaf tobacco markets in North Carolina. At the opening Saturday a number of merchants and representatives of leading business firms were present to welcome the farmers and see to it that they were made to feel at home. The entire day was in the nature of a holiday and thoroughly enjoyed by all present. Those who sold were much pleased with prices and the courtesies shown them. It was generally admitted that prices were unusually high for this season of the year, but auctioneers E. R. Aiken, of the Center Brick, and C. R. Cole, of the Farmers, explained that that was what they were there for.

Among the out-of-town visitors was Mr. A. B. Carrington, of Danville, Va., member of the firm of Dibrell Brothers, large exporters, who was there simply as an interested spectator. He declared the prices extremely high.

The warehouses will alternate with first and second sales, and tobacco raisers are advised to sell in Greensboro if they want the very best prices their crops will bring.

Street Paving.

People living in the country will be glad to learn that the city is making contracts for the paving of some of the streets, and the hope is that they will make the long connections between the county macadam and the city mud holes.

Farmers come to town with wagons and often find that it is impossible to pull into the city. This was noticeable all last winter on the Battle Ground road—near and on cemetery hill. This we understand, as well as some other heretofore impassable roads will be looked after. And we rejoice with the farmer in this result.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF FORM.

Items of Interest to Readers of The Patriot Far and Near.

Reedy Fork has been on a rampage all week—but no water fell within gun shot of Greensboro.

The big Central Carolina Fair is the next great attraction and the people must get busy to come and see it.

Mr. Walter W. King, of Danbury, is visiting his sons, Messrs. Everett B. and Walter W. King, Jr., in this city.

Mrs. A. L. Rankin has gone to Oxford, Ala., to visit her brother and sister, Mr. J. H. Hall and Mrs. L. T. Grogan.

Mrs. J. R. McClamrock and children have returned from a visit to relatives and friends at Newport News, Va.

Dr. G. W. Whitsett has gone to Washington, D. C., to attend the annual meeting of the American Dental Association.

Capt. J. G. Quimby, U. S. N., accompanied by Mrs. Quimby, is in Greensboro on a visit to the family of Mr. C. G. Wright.

Misses Lynn Richardson, Mary Watson Vaughn and Elizabeth Scales will leave this week for Charlotte to attend the Presbyterian College.

Mr. W. A. Greeson, of Greensboro R. F. D. 3, found his way to The Patriot office Tuesday and talked about dry weather and other things.

Mrs. C. H. Dorsett and daughter, Miss Maie Dorsett, and Mr. and Mrs. H. B. "atum left Tuesday night for Richmond, Va., to visit friends for a few days.

Dr. J. G. Ector, of Guilford College, Route 2, was among the many callers to The Patriot office the past week. We always have a vacant chair for the genial doctor when he comes.

Mr. James R. Apple, living near Gibsonville, Route 2, dropped in to see us one day this week, and talked about a few things, incidentally making arrangements for The Patriot to continue his way.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Tomlinson, Silver Run avenue, Tuesday night, their daughter, Miss Annie, was married to William E. Pike, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Eli Reece.

Roy, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Hannibal Gillie, of Summit avenue extension, died at 5 o'clock Tuesday morning. The body was carried to Reidsville where the funeral was held and interment made.

Miss Martha Dozier has gone to Canton to spend some time. She has given up her work as secretary of Greensboro Female College, a position which she has held for several years.

A quiet but impressive wedding was solemnized Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Blaylock, on West Lee street, when their daughter, Annie Lee, was united in marriage to Albert M. Matlocks, of New Bern.

The annual picnic of the Salvation Army corps was held last Friday at Lindley park, and it proved a complete success. A large number of the children of Greensboro who have not been on any of the other picnics of the summer were present, and a big dinner and the other features of the outing were greatly enjoyed by the party. Capt. L. F. Bott was in charge of the program for the day and proved an excellent entertainer of the young people. A good dinner was served, with watermelons, soda water and ice cream as side dishes.

To Place Milestones at Every 10 Mile Point.

Auditor J. A. Davidson, for the county, has let a contract to J. M. Jones & Co., for placing milestones in Guilford county on every important road 10 miles from Greensboro. These posts will be of good pine material, painted with two coats, lead and oil, and the part in the ground will be creosoted. They will last from 12 to 15 years.

The measurements will be accurate and made in the same manner as the government measures for the R. F. D. routes. A post will be placed every mile. The posts will stand seven feet above the ground and will be 12 inches square.

Senator Simmons says the fight on now is between Roosevelt and Wilson, which behooves the Democrats to stand shoulder to shoulder and see to it that all vote and all vote straight.

DEATHS IN GUILFORD.

Sudden Summons Comes to Mr. C. Rufe Harris.

Friends in Greensboro were shocked Sunday to learn of the sudden death at his home near Summerfield of Mr. C. Rufe Harris, a well known and respected citizen who had spent his life in Guilford. Mr. Harris was found dead in his bed by a member of his family early Sunday morning. Heart trouble is given as the cause. Saturday he was up and about his work, eating a hearty meal at supper and sitting with his family until bedtime. He made no complaint of illness and when he failed to arise at his accustomed hour nothing was thought of it. When one of the children went in to wake him he was found cold in death.

Deceased was 69 years of age and leaves a widow and ten children besides a host of relatives throughout that section of the county. He was a member of Hopewell church, from which place the funeral service was held, conducted by Rev. Mr. Goode. Interment was made in the church burying grounds.

William R. Smith Dead.

Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Lena Dick, in Greensboro, Mr. William R. Smith died after an illness that extended over several years. Mr. Smith was 79 years of age, and is survived by one son, W. A. Smith, of Raleigh, and several grandchildren. The funeral was held from Moriah Methodist Protestant church Wednesday afternoon.

Lowe-Truitt Marriage.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Tuesday night at the First Reformed church, Greensboro, when Miss Esther Pearl Lowe was united in marriage to Mr. William Brooks Truitt. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Shuford Peeler, of the First Reformed church, assisted by Rev. L. E. Smith, of the First Christian church.

Just before the ceremony Mr. Dan Fields sang "Because" in a beautiful, clear tenor voice.

To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march played by Miss Annie Jones the wedding party entered. First came the ushers, Dr. W. E. Trolxer and J. D. Schofield, A. N. Still and J. W. McLennon. Next came Miss Lillian Langston, bridesmaid, and P. D. Kerner down opposite aisles. The bridesmaid was dressed in pink satin, with lace trimmings, with black picture hat, carrying a bouquet of pink roses. Then followed the maid of honor, Miss Effie Lowe, sister of the bride, dressed in white marquisette, with yellow sash, wearing a black picture hat and carrying a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums.

The bride came in on the arm of her brother, who gave her away. She was met at the altar by the groom, with his best man, Mr. Charles A. Hines. The bride was dressed in a blue traveling suit, with hat and gloves to match, and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses.

Mrs. Truitt is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Lowe and is an accomplished musician.

Mr. Truitt is a young business man of Greensboro, being connected with the Standard Boller and Machine Works.

Mr. and Mrs. Truitt left for a bridal trip to New York, Niagara Falls, and other points North.

Jewish New Year.

Rosh Hashanah, or the Jewish New Year, falls this year on Thursday, September 12, today, and those of that faith in Greensboro will, as usual observe the event to the strict letter of the Jewish faith. In Greensboro services will begin at the Temple Emanuel, East Lee street Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock and will be held again Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. At both of these services Rabbi Louis I. Egelson will officiate and preach. The choir of the Temple, trained especially for the occasion by Prof. Claude Robinson, will render the beautiful and impressive New Year melodies. The day will be generally observed by merchants and business men of the city of Jewish faith, work stopping on the evening of Wednesday, for like all Jewish holidays, Rosh Hashanah is reckoned from evening to evening. While owing to the variance between the solar and lunar system of calculation, it may appear to occur irregularly, the event is definitely set in the Jewish calendar as the first day of the seventh month, Tishri.

CRAIG IN GREENSBORO.

A Large and Delighted Audience Heard the Next Governor Speak.

The Hon. Locke Craig, nominee for governor on the Democratic ticket, and accordingly the next governor of North Carolina, spoke to a large and truly appreciative audience in Greensboro last Friday night.

Major Stedman, congressman from the 7th district, introduced the Hon. E. J. Justice, who in turn introduced the next governor.

Mr. Craig proceeded to rip up the back and down the back the false phantasies of Republicans, and had no sympathy with third terms and Bull Moosers. Many people in Greensboro who had never enjoyed the pleasure of hearing Mr. Craig took advantage of the opportunity thus presented, and came away charmed.

It is said that Tom Settle will challenge Mr. Craig to meet him in joint debate—and while Settle is a strong debater we desire to remind him that Locke Craig leaves nothing but the tail feathers of his opponent if he meets him on the stump.

Guilford will give Craig a rousing majority—a majority of which he will feel proud.

Sunday Closing of Postoffice.

As announced last week the last Congress passed a law that prohibits the distribution of mail on Sundays in first and second-class post-offices.

In Greensboro the people managed to get along. The Charlotte papers sent their regular lists to the drug store of Z. V. Conyers and advertised the fact that people should call for them there. But so indifferent were the subscribers that hundreds of Observers from Charlotte and hundreds of News and Observers from Raleigh were left.

In other words it looked like the people thought if it was a terrible thing for Uncle Sam to distribute local mail it might be equally terrible to read it, so they didn't bother about it.

We note that the ministers of High Point jointly signed up a resolution congratulating the people on having a still further observance of the Sunday law—an additional recognition by Congress.

In Raleigh it is said that the postmaster, feeling that he had as much right to interpret the spirit of the law as the postmaster general, distributed the morning paper and thus gave the Raleigh people their mail.

It is freely predicted that Congress will amend the law when it convenes in December—but it may not. After the patrons of the offices get used to it, it will be all right.

Interurban Line.

Bird S. Coler, president of the Coler Company, and principal holder of the North Carolina Public Service Company and other city electric and gas properties in North Carolina, was in Greensboro last week, coming over from High Point to look over the properties of the company in this city. Mr. Coler was accompanied by J. P. Clark, vice president and general manager of the Coler Company, and John Nicol, superintendent of construction.

While in Greensboro Mr. Coler reiterated his views and purposes as regarding the connection of Greensboro and High Point by electric cars. Mr. Coler is a progressive when it comes to business and there is no doubt but what Greensboro and High Point will be connected by trolley in a very short time. And that will please us all.

City Schools Open.

Greensboro's city schools opened Monday for the fall term, with Dr. Mann in charge.

The board upon request of Dr. Mann ratified the following teachers selected for the Normal training school: Miss Etta Spier, Miss Annie Meade Michaux, Miss Iola Exum, Miss Annie McIver, Miss Ione Dunn, Miss Ruth Fitzgerald, Miss Eunice Anderson, Miss Sue Nash, Miss Ethel Harris, Mrs. Lizzie McIver Weatherspoon. The following additional teachers in the city schools were ratified: Miss Gertrude Glenn, of Hendersonville; Miss Olive Patton, of Franklin, and Miss Jane Wall, of Laurinburg.

Look over the many changes of advertisements in this week's issue and do us a favor by patronizing those who invite you through these columns to trade with them.

THE CENTRAL CAROLINA FAIR.

Plans For Bigger Fair Than Ever This Year in Greensboro.

Next month, early in October, will be the date for the Central Carolina Fair—and all readers of The Patriot know that that means an interesting exhibition, one worth seeing.

Mr. Garland Daniel, the live secretary of the Central Carolina Fair, informs us that this year looks better than any previous year—but, he says, some attractions appeal to some people and some to others. It is his intention to present the best features possible to obtain. The record of the North Carolina Fair Association is such that all people understand that the very best will be given.

It has not been definitely decided just who will be the principal speakers for the fair—but there will be enough to instruct, to interest, and we want all our farmer friends in this and adjoining counties to conclude to turn out this year, at least for one day, and not only see things worth seeing, but enjoy a visit with their friends.

Better Save Their Money.

The Bull Moose party is printing its platform in the daily newspapers as advertising matter, setting forth all that the party can do under Roosevelt. The new party will make hair grow on a bald head; it will cut a baby's teeth without pain; it will marry all the old maids on earth; it will turn water into wine and feed hungry men without labor on their part.

The fact of the business is, if there is anything that it will not do the managers and platform drafters have forgotten to mention it in their bill of particulars. And yet, while we Democrats make some sport of it we notice that Teddy is claiming to gain ground all the time, and those who know any that he has put the brass tacks into Taft's coffin. Therefore it behooves every Democrat to stand loyal to his colors—to see to it that no lamb strays from the fold. This is a Democratic year and we ought to make it a Democratic year that will not soon be forgotten.

The Railroad Bonds.

The books have closed for registering for railroad bonds—and close to a thousand names have been enrolled. The railroad is a Greensboro enterprise, and Greensboro citizens proposed to build a line to connect with some trunk line, and asked that Morehead and Gilmer townships vote bonds to the amount of $200,000. It looked for a while as though little opposition would be offered. But it has finally been charged that the scheme is not practical; that to vote bonds in that way means simply an attempt to secure a railroad with nothing tangible in sight and considerable opposition is manifest. On the other hand the promoters of the new enterprise insist that it is a rare chance for Greensboro to secure a new railroad, something we must have, and the fight is on. The vote takes place on September 17, and as to how it will go is a puzzle to all concerned.

The Latest About Weather.

Since another item has been printed a good old farmer friend of The Patriot, who desires that his name be withheld, tells us that the coming winter will be a cold one for the reason that persimmons are a big crop; that wild grapes are in abundance and that whenever there is a big crop of wild grapes look out for a long winter. So there you have it. Don't take it from us—we shall not predict—but take it from the farmer who says he knows it, but who, to sustain his reputation refuses to let us disclose his name, fearing if his identity were revealed he might be branded a false prophet.

A Big Storm.

Saturday night Winston had a severe storm entailing heavy loss in many ways. There was also an exceptionally heavy rain storm north of Greensboro in the vicinity of Benaja, swelling the creeks and making Haw River look almost like the Father of Waters. Greensboro has not only escaped storms but she has managed to escape rains. A slight sprinkle was all we got, although fierce, black clouds threatened to do wonders. It seems that Greensboro is destined to remain a dry town.

EX-SHERIFF SWAIN DEAD.

Guilford Mourns With Randolph in Passing of a Prominent Citizen.

In the passing of ex-Sheriff J. S. Swain, which occurred last week at his home in Randleman, Randolph county loses one of its oldest and most respected citizens. He was elected sheriff of Randolph county in 1888, serving one term. He was one of the leading farmers of Randolph county until he moved to Randleman some 15 years ago. He had been in declining health for the past two or three years. Mr. Swain was one of the most accomplished and generally esteemed men in Randolph county and his death will be mourned by many friends in his own and Guilford counties where he was best known. He was 72 years old at the time of his death.

The funeral and burial was conducted by Rev. R. A. Taylor at Level Cross, near his old home. He is survived by five sons and two daughters: Messrs. S. W. Thomas, J. A. Robert and Jesse, and Miss Mary Swain and Mrs. A. W. Lineberry, all of Randleman.

Jarred the Boosters.

Richmond business men proposed to stop off in Greensboro with what they called their booster train—a large number of business men wanting to advertise Richmond as the place for merchants to buy their goods—when, thinking it over the Business Men's Association of Greensboro passed some resolutions which were quite to the point.

They resolved that inasmuch as in the last booster's excursion from Richmond to this city there were several wholesale and mail order liquor dealers, and whereas, they distributed samples of their goods, and whereas North Carolina is a prohibition state it was not quite the thing to encourage people who wanted to defeat the expressed will of our people—therefore the business men of Greensboro, members of the association, concluded not to extend the glad hand to the Richmond contingent.

And of course the Richmond boosters will feel like thirty cents if they strike this town, but the merchant's association notified them, and plainly gave their reasons for their action, so the result will be that no booster will show his face in Greensboro. And doubtless this was the proper thing to do.

LOCAL NEWS.

Miss Inez Underwood, of Waynesville, is in Greensboro as the guest of her sister, Mrs. T. Z. Paschal.

Every man should look at the advertisement headed "Good News for Farmers" on page six of this issue.

Reid and Lawrence Edmunds have returned from Chatham, Va., where they spent a few days with relatives.

Mrs. Waldo Porter and sister, Miss Martha Petty, have returned from Bethlehem, Pa., where they have been visiting their brother, Mr. David M. Petty.

Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Blaustein are moving into their home at the corner of Sycamore and Eugene streets. They have been boarding since their return to the city.

From this time on every man you meet who has nothing else to do will tell you just how the election is going, and of course he knows nothing about it.

The railroads that want to come to Greensboro all of a sudden are surprising to the beholders. But as most of them are on paper there will be no danger of congested traffic at least this fall.

If there are any shortcomings in The Patriot charge it up to the fact that the editor has been slightly indisposed and the hired man on the job isn't as much of a worker as he is a loafer.

Mr. Roger A. McDuffie, who has held a position in Gardner's drug store for the past year, has resigned and left Monday for Chapel Hill to enter the State University and take a course in medicine.

Parisian Sage is guaranteed to stop falling hair and itching scalp; to abolish dandruff and destroy the dandruff germs, or money back. It puts life and beauty into faded hair. 50 cents at Fariss-Klutz Drug Company and the Greensboro Drug Company.

Col. J. M. Reece, of the Record, who with his wife, spent a couple of weeks in the mountains of western North Carolina, has returned, and he says Greensboro is cooler than any place he struck in all his trip.

Col. Lindsey Hopkins, at one time an attaché of The Patriot office, but now oil man, aviator, automobile man and capitalist, is spending a few weeks at French Lick Springs, Indiana. Mrs. Hopkins and Lindsey, Jr., are with him.

If you are going to get your wife that new carpet or matting you promised her this fall, buy it at Thacker & Brockmann's. They sell matting, carpets, rugs, floor oil cloths and curtains at very reasonable prices.

The watermelon season just closing has been very successful if we are to judge by the number brought to town and sold at reasonably fair prices. The dry weather was of course against the crop, but all in all it was very good—and a Guilford melon can't be beat.

Hundreds of parents bought Walton shoes for their boys and girls last winter at Thacker & Brockmann's and were more than pleased with them. If you have never bought Walton shoes take a look at them next time you are in Thacker & Brockmann's store.

As the season approaches for cold weather, do not forget to keep on swatting the fly up to the last sad moment. The fight on the extermination of the fly has just begun, but it will be intensified from year to year until Mr. Fly is a stranger. And when that happens those who have experimented say disease will decrease.

The city schools of High Point will open on Monday morning, September 16. The cellars of the four ward buildings have been filled with coal for the winter, all the hot air furnaces have been thoroughly overhauled, floors oiled, windows cleaned, etc., in preparation for some two or three hundred new pupils who are expected.

Thacker & Brockmann have offered as a prize to the tobacco raiser who makes the best average on the Greensboro market in November fifteen dollars worth of shoes or merchandise of any kind from their store. This will be more fully explained in their advertisements during the next few weeks.

At the mass meeting of citizens called at High Point to discuss the reports of the committees and the feasibility of organizing a permanent fair for High Point beginning this fall, it was finally decided after mature deliberation that it was better to wait until the first of next year at which time a stock company should be formed and the matter given full time for an assured success.

Men's work shoes made with Kromelk soles last twice as long as those made with ordinary sole leather soles. This sounds like a pretty, strong statement, but men who wore them last winter and the winter before say it is a positive fact. Kromelk shoes, both tan and black, are sold at Thacker & Brockmann's for $2.50 and $3 a pair.

HARD LINES, THESE.

When the Law, Though Just, Seems Cruel and Unsympathetic.

Last Saturday in front of the court house door was displayed a lot of household furniture—knick knacks, pictures, books, clothing, beds, desks—well, about everything one needs in the way of house furnishings. And in the farrago were about two dozen jars of preserves.

These goods had been seized for debt. They had been stored and the owner had gone out of the state—and because of that the law said the debtor could take anything he found to satisfy his claim. And legally and morally he could. In fact it was the proper thing to do. But somehow it got under our bristly—rather touched a tender spot to see the family Bible put up at auction and all the little household gods that one day had adorned a home.

And when it got down to the preserves—the different kinds of fruit bottled and sealed—made by a woman who was providing for winter; made by standing over a red hot stove; made with the hope and expectancy of eating them and enjoying them—perhaps there is no sentiment in it, but it touched us.

We know nothing of the whys or wherefores. We know nothing of the inability of the man who had stored his goods to pay out an honest debt which he secured by voluntarily signing away these things—as the world runs we perhaps should care nothing about it, but somehow and some way we wished we could have bought in those preserves and some of the little keepsakes and sent them, anonymously, to the woman who had toiled for them and in good faith believed she would one day enjoy them. But, as the story long ago remarked, when business begins, friendship ceases—and there is no sympathy when a dollar is in the air.

SPREAD OF MORMONISM.

Time For People Throughout the Land to Awaken to the Danger.

A Greensboro lady who attended a great missionary rally in Tennessee this summer returned home much exercised over what she learned regarding the spread of Mormonism in the United States.

It seems that while our Christian missionaries have been devoting their lives and talents to the foreign field, these false prophets from Utah have been undermining the protestant churches and proselyting thousands of uninformed and unsuspecting men and women to their dangerous doctrine.

In every state in the Union—in North Carolina and our own county of Guilford, emissaries from the Mormon church—smooth talking "elders," usually going in pairs, have been busy distributing literature and getting in their work. Just what inroads they have made is not known, but that they have made converts is a fact to be deplored, and suggests that the churches awaken to the danger at their very doors and prepare to meet it.

Not only have these advocates of plural marriages, and other practices almost as bad, been gaining ground in this country, but are claiming the world as their field. A Honolulu dispatch says:

While the growth of the Mormon church in this territory has been noted with more or less misgivings on the part of the other churches, only recently have the facts and figures regarding the strength of the Latter Day Saints in the islands become generally known. Now the Protestant organizations and the Roman Catholics are determined to make common war upon the followers of Brigham Young. With this end in view the Protestant churches have already formed a federation and it is the intention to import singers and speakers from the mainland to assist in a house to house campaign among the native islanders.

The propaganda of the church of Latter Day Saints is the newest among the people of Hawaii, but already its doctrines and many of its practices have gained headway among the native Hawaiians and the Orientals, two classes which constitute more than four-fifths of the population.

Leading Protestant and Catholic clergymen are alarmed at the inroads made among the natives especially, and strenuous efforts will be put forth to stem the tide of Mormonism sweeping over the islands.

The federal government is expected to aid in the campaign. It is known that not only have the territorial officials been asked to make a report upon the situation, but that at least seven officers of the naval service, stationed here to look into the Japanese and Chinese immigration matters, are directed to make reports on the progress of the Latter Day Saints, the number and nationality of their converts, the amount of property in the possession of the church and, above all, to what extent polygamy is practiced.

There have been hundreds of physical infections, poisoning and other diseases, which are caused, but to which drugs and facts in specific cases for the purpose of prevention is very difficult, so devoted are the followers of the comparatively new church.

A hundred years ago New England sent her first missionaries to these islands, and the good record plished by them and the noble men and women that followed from that time up to the present has been incalculable. The natives were lifted from a state of the lowest morality to a comparatively high plane; churches and schools were established, marriages were taught to be a sacred institution and the natives were taught that lax morals were contrary to the health of body as well as soul. And now all this splendid work is to be overturned and destroyed by these much wived elders of Utah.

The Mormon church authorities have seized upon these weaknesses of the easy going natives of these islands," said a territorial official, "and I believe it is their hope to found an island Utah in the Pacific. The great majority of the voters of Hawaii are full blooded natives or half whites, and with Brigham Young's doctrine followed by the larger number of these it would only be a question of a few years when the civil government, including everything perhaps but the higher courts, the judges of which are appointed from Washington, would be in their hands.

TOO MANY CALVES SOLD.

Dr. Lull Sees Danger Ahead and Sounds a Note of Warning.

Dr. E. E. Lull, milk and meat inspector of Greensboro, is much concerned over what he considers a very unwise policy on the part of the farmers of Guilford and surrounding counties in selling too many of their young cattle to the city butchers. He points out that at the present rate at which calves are being sold in the local market it will only be a short while until there will be a scarcity of native beef.

Since last May there have been 940 veal sold in the Greensboro market, while the number during the whole of last year was only 1,097.

Why the farmers insist on selling off their cattle before they are of sufficient size and age to make the best meat and command the best prices cannot be understood. Not only do they lose money directly on the quantity and quality of meat sold, but they lose a great deal in the development of land which would be enriched while being used as pens and pastures.

The Greensboro market has been fortunate during the past four months in that no packing house meats have had to be used to supply the demand for fresh meat. The local raisers have kept up the supply and there is no noticeable diminution of the source so far. Since May 47½ beefs have been sold here, 110 hogs, 940 veal and 440 sheep, all locally raised. Last year for the same season 420 beefs, 106 hogs, 809 veal and 618 sheep were brought in from the surrounding territory in addition to the packing house meat sold on the market.

Dr. Lull, who is interested equally in county and city, calls attention to what he considers the threatened danger of a reduction in the local meat supply, a matter which every meat raiser should consider in the light of future needs as well as the immediate present. There is reason and good sense in what he says, and the figures speak for themselves.

At Alamance.

Hon. A. L. Brooks journeyed to Alamance in an automobile last Saturday morning and at once proceeded to address the county Democratic convention which had met at Graham to nominate the county ticket which will be elected this fall.

There is no use for us to explain that Mr. Brooks skinned the radicals and self-styled Republican progressives, and hung the skin up to dry on the interminable trolley wire. Mr. Brooks has no equal in large party as a campaigner, and when he takes the platform he sits up and looks strong in argument, eloquence in delivery, a capital story teller, he always entertains and he leaves his audience.

His speech, with Republicans divided between the devil and the deep sea, Mr. Brooks was the champion and Bill Meador, and this year gives the biggest crowd in the history.

At Winston-Salem.

The officers of the Winston-Salem city and home were busy these days arranging for the big fair and to take place October 1, 2, 3 and 4. The next fair is being thoroughly advertised and on the dates mentioned hundreds of steam whistles and bells throughout this section will announce the interesting event, and the city of Winston-Salem will take on the appearance of holiday times, visitors will be pouring in on every train from all points of the Piedmont country, the air will be filled with music, flags and banners will be floating from every available place, and the spirit of fun, frolic and a grand old time will be in the hearts of the multitude.

An Eye Sore to Go.

As was noted in the report of the county commissioners last issue the old Mendenhall building just north of the court house has been sold and will be torn down at once. This will certainly remove an old landmark—but an eye sore as well. The beautiful new office building of Dr. Banner will have the right of way and will present a more imposing appearance.

The Signs of the Times.

About time to see what the muskrat is doing in the way of building high or low houses—and also proper to see whether the goose bone is all right or whether we are to have a mild winter or one that is open at both ends.

Maggie, the six-year-old daughter of Mrs. David Cooper, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McPherson, died Friday morning at 10 o'clock. The death occurred at the home on Summit avenue extension, and after a short illness. The funeral and burial were held Sunday morning near Graham.

A Summer Sale of Blankets

Commencing Thursday, Sept. 5

300 pairs North Carolina Wool Blankets on which the savings are 1-4 to 1-3 winter prices

Our only reason for exploiting a sale of Blankets right now in the heat of summer is based on the actual service we can do our customers.

When we say that this sale brings savings of one-fourth and one-third regular winter prices we speak advisedly. We are putting in print, that all may read, what you will find in reality when you visit the Blanket Department.

And in this day and time when household necessities are offered at such savings thrifty housekeepers are not slow in following up the opportunity. The sale covers the Blanket question in a broad, wholesome fashion. It offers Blankets in practically every size and in all good qualities. The prices are small because there are a number of Blankets that come to us as mill accumulations, some are slightly imperfect. There are still other Blankets that have become soiled to the extent that we could not offer them as strictly fresh. These have been subjected to the greatest reductions of all.

From our viewpoint a very happy combinations of conditions has made the price. Think now of your next winter needs, and when Blanket time comes you will appreciate the opportunity that this store now offers. On sale Thursday morning, Sept. 5th, when the doors opens.

NEWS OF THE OLD NORTH STATE

A Survey of What is Transpiring in the Commonwealth.

Rangers on Vanderbilt's place near Asheville have found 40 dead deer. They are dying from tomatoes, a disease that swells their tongues and throat.

Chairman Webb has called the Democratic state committee to meet in Raleigh Thursday, September 19, and it is supposed it will be decided then what constitutes the Democratic ticket.

According to the North Wilkesboro Hustler a patient at the Wilkes hospital, who was to have been operated on, jumped out of the window the night before the operation and departed.

Ossie and Henry Allen, aged 13 and 11, touched a dead wire to a live wire of the Southern Power Company at Shelby a few days ago. The entire electric system of Shelby was put out of business and the boys were seriously hurt.

During a thunderstorm in the Mt. Ulla section of Rowan Thursday afternoon lightning struck the barn of Ed. Rankin, an industrious colored farmer, and burned the building with all its contents, including a horse and some feed stuff.

There is a report, which has neither been confirmed or denied, that George W. Vanderbilt has given or is contemplating giving to the state his Pisgah road, from Candler to the top of Pisgah mountain for the crest of the Blue Ridge highway.

The Raleigh board of alderman has decided to install a full paid fire department and to this end Fire Chief R. C. Brockwell has been sent to the school for fire chiefs in New York to take a three months' course. Two automobile fire trucks have been purchased.

Five bales of new crop cotton from Mecklenburg, the first from that county, were sold in Charlotte Friday at 11 1/2 cents. Mr. J. A. Blakeney, of Providence township, who has brought the first bale to Charlotte for 25 years, was first this year in reaching town but another man sold ahead of him.

The Sanford Express is informed that 27,000 acres of land near Hoffman, Richmond county, has been purchased by Mr. Walter Page, editor of World's Work, New York, and Mr. John D. Rockefeller. They propose to turn this land into a number of small farms and establish a colony on it. A number of nice dwellings will be erected.

BRIEF ITEMS OF GENERAL NEWS

A Week's Events of More or Less Interest to the Public.

Plans for a national Wilson and Marshall businessmen's parade on the same day and hour in every large city from the Atlantic to the Pacific have been made at national Democratic headquarters. As soon as the preliminaries are arranged a date will be set.

A great strike that will tie up industries all over the United States is threatened by the committee which is working for the release from jail of Lawrence, Mass., of J. J. Etter and Arthur Giovanitti, who are charged with murder in connection with the shooting of Anna LaPiazza during the recent textile disturbances in Lawrence.

The new battleship Pennsylvania, the only one authorized by Congress at the last session, will be fully as large as the great battleship which the British government has just ordered, according to plans to the naval general board. Its displacement will exceed 30,000 tons which is about equal to the addition of a good-sized cruiser's displacement to the biggest ship the United States now has afloat.

All candidates for the nomination for president before the recent Baltimore Democratic convention have been appointed the national advisory committee of the national committee with William J. Bryan, chairman. Additional members appointed on the committee from each state includes a woman, Mrs. E. J. Walsh, of Tacoma, Wash., and Senator Lee S. Overman and Gen. J. S. Carr, of North Carolina.

Song Service at Burnett's Chapel.

There will be a song service at Burnett's chapel the fourth Sunday in September for the western division of the singers convention to practice and learn the new songs to be used in the convention. Glory Crown is the book for 1912. Every member of the convention who is in reach is urged to be present. The class at that place will also take part in the singing. Any who want to join this musical organization are invited to come and be with us, as well as those who want to hear the singing. The services will begin between 10 and 11 A. M. and again at 2 P. M. All day service. A. M. F.

THE FATE OF NEW PARTIES.

Born to be Drowned in the Flood of Time.

F. B. Sanborn, in the Springfield Republican.

Most new parties are like blind kittens, born to be drowned off-hand in the floods of time and the storm of action—those elements in which the earth spirit in "Faust" does his business. I can remember more new parties than most men now living; not the anti-Masons, nor the Labor party, in which Brownson and George Bancroft interested themselves on their way to be Calhoun and Van Buren Democrats, but in truth the Tyler party, of which Webster, Caleb, Cushing and Wise, of Virginia, were leaders for a few months; then the Independent Democrats, of New Hampshire, which snatched away from that state the rock-ribbed democracy of Jackson, Isaac Hill and Frank Pierce, in 1845, and laid the foundation of the Republican party of 1854. Then the Know-nothing or American party, which carried half the states for a year or two, and almost stole Virginia out of the hands of Wise, before it nominated Banks for president in 1856.

Before that, however, were the Barnburners in New York, the Free Soilers in all the North, who, by the name of Van Buren and Adams (father of our Charles Francis) defeated Cass for president and let in that honest Virginian, General Taylor, along with Fillmore, who signed the fugitive slave bill and was midwife to "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Then came the Webster Whigs, who died with Webster, or became Democrats; and the Bell-Everett party of 1860, adjuncts of the Fillmore party in a desperate effort to save negro slavery; then the anti-Nebraska Democrats, the Calhoun and Jeff Davis disunionists, that party which cost us four years of civil war; then the war Democrats, the McClellanists, the Peace-at-Any-Price Democrats; the Kuk'ux party in the South, the Resubmissionists in Virginia, Kansas and Maine, of divers gifts but the same spirit; the party that held the Cincinnati convention in 1872 and snuffed out their own candle by nominating Horace Greeley, and so on and so on, down through stalwarts and mugwumps, imperialists, antis, till Foss, with his fierce attack on the swindles of tariff, reft Massachusetts away from "the principle of protection" and made our state doubtful for Taft and the Wall street magnates, who are now desert## ing Roosevelt for Taft.

No party founded on a personal grudge and jredging round in the mud of old parties to bring together available planks for a platform ever lasted long—neither the Tyler party nor the Van Buren party, nor the Douglas party, nor the Greeley party, nor the anti-Bryan party, which is now swallowed up in the rising wave that is to float Wilson into power.

Vaccination.

The state board of health in its wisdom has seen fit to ask the legislature to remove the compulsory quarantine law regarding smallpox, and this request has been granted. The reasons this request was made were many and were considered sufficient by our general assembly to repeal the old law.

The people now have no law to protect them from this dread disease, for, the quarantine law being repealed, and having no law of compulsory vaccination, they may take their choice of vaccination or the chance of smallpox. Vaccination has killed one, smallpox has killed millions. Chloroform and ether kill one where appendicitis unoperated upon kills thousands, yet you do not hesitate to take ether or chloroform as an anesthetic for an operation for appendicitis, they why hesitate as to vaccination, your only means of prevention.

The state board of health, knowing that the majority of the people had been vaccinated, and that vaccination does prevent smallpox, saw no reason for the continuation of a law that worked a hardship on the vaccine protected majority in the interest of the few unvaccinated, and the law was, therefore, repealed in the majority's interest. Those that have been vaccinated, and wherein vaccination was successful need have no fear of smallpox, but if you have not been successfully vaccinated you are constantly in danger of this dread disease which has lately been found in the county.

Which will be your choice? A sore arm for a week, or will you take your chance with smallpox, which means being disfigured for life, or possibly an agonizing death.

UNCLE SAM'S SMALL DEBTS.

Thousands of People Neglect to Collect Little Sums.

New York Times.

The reported loss of many thousands of dollars by the sinking of the Titanic a few weeks ago attracts attention to the fact that the government of the United States frequently benefits by the misfortunes of the people, says the National City Bank in its July circular. It never can be known what amount of United States money went down with the Titanic, but whatever the sum, the treasury department has just so much additional to its credit, as it can never be presented for redemption.

Early in the civil war the United States issued over $400,000,000 of legal tender notes, which were used in payment of all government obligations, including the pay of the armies in the field. At this time there are still outstanding over $3,000,000 of these notes in the denominations of $1 and $2 alone, which are never heard from, except now and then a stray bill or two is presented for redemption. It is a fair assumption that a large percentage of the whole $3,000,000 has been accidentally destroyed, and this is undoubtedly proportionately true of all of the old issues.

Soon after the war began the government issued from time to time an aggregate of nearly $369,000,000 in fractional paper money, and something over $15,000,000 is still carried in the treasury accounts as outstanding, although only a few hundred dollars are presented each year for redemption.

As fast as these old war-time "shin plasters" come in the treasury destroys all of them that are much mutilated and worn, but they are never paid out again other than in small amounts and in exceptional cases. The treasury now has on hand about $246 of these small notes. In 1879 the department, recognizing the fact that comparatively few of these old fractional notes would ever be presented to the treasury, directed the segregation of a fund of something over $8,000,000, held in the treasury for the redemption of these notes, the amount to be applied to the payment of war pensions. Large sums of this issue are no doubt held by collectors as souvenirs.

Of the civil war issue of compound interest notes which amounted to nearly $267,000,000, there still remains outstanding approximately $160,000, and of this issue only $70 came to the treasury last year. Of this issue of seven-thirty notes running from 1861 to 1865, which totaled about $370,000,000, there is still outstanding $130,000, and only $100 in these notes were redeemed last year.

Of the war-time demand note issue of $60,000,000, a total of $53,000 is still unaccounted for, and none of this issue has recently been presented for redemption.

Health and Hygiene.

STREET PEDDLERS.

What They Sell, How They Sell It, and What Results.

Of all dirty, disgusting, dangerous places to buy foods, fruits and confections, the street stands and pushcart peddlers take first place. Did you ever stop for even a few minutes to watch the various ways in which these foods are continually exposed to dirt and disease? Who has not seen some more or less unkept, filthy looking foreigner hovering around an old push cart loaded with the cheapest grades of sticky candies, stale nuts and over-ripe fruits? In many cases his entire stock of wares is exposed to flies and dirt. Some of the more progressive vendors now have their candies and fruits protected from flies by means of mosquito netting. But this affords little protection against the clouds of dust that are stirred up by street sweepers, gusts of wind, and passing vehicles. The idea of having to inhale such dust is revolting enough, yet in this case it is eaten—only in a disguised and more palatable form. All thoughtful persons recall at once the possibility of eating dangerous germs in dried tuberculous sputa as well as unsanitary material from the street sweepers.

To minimize this dust nuisance, peddlers can frequently be seen blowing the dust off their candies and in the case of fruits the original lustre is restored by rubbing in the hands, with the coat sleeve, or worse still with a badly soiled pocket handkerchief. It is unnecessary to even speculate on the possibilities contained in these handkerchiefs.

The unsanitary methods and conditions under which much of this candy, ice cream, etc., is made is another item. Not only are these candies, fruits, etc., made and stored in filthy cellars, kitchens, etc., but these same rooms are frequently used for bedrooms and living rooms for the peddler and his family. Nor is this all. In competing with each other and with other stores, an effort is made to sell the greatest quantity possible for a penny or a nickel. This leads at once to using inferior materials and great quantities of various adulterants, coloring matter and flavors.

Last of all, let us not forget that it is the small boy and girl, with their pennies and nickels, that are the greatest victims of these peddlers and confections and diseases. Growing children must have sweets, but there is no reason for our permitting them to patronize such places. Give the boys and girls good, pure candies and clean fruits. It will reduce doctor bills and increase the child's prospect for a good stomach.

"Speeding up" may bring you a few more cents a day for a little while, but it will also soon put you in the "has-been" class. You can not make overdrafts on your vitality without having to meet them sooner or later, generally sooner.

The skilled workman in order to maintain his standard as such, must keep well. For with impaired physical health he will soon find that he is a "has-been," that he can not do as much work, nor of so good a quality, as he was able to turn out when he was in perfect health.

The one thing that is in constant demand is service. But the demand is for the best. Not the how cheap, but how good. There is no question about it, quality counts. Skill and efficiency are the winning cards in the workman's hands, and these rest on health.

Robbing one's self of sleep is putting a mortgage on future health and happiness. Nature will surely foreclose. Try to get your eight hours out of the twenty-four. They are yours.

Chew your food; your stomach has no teeth. The hen swallows her food without chewing, but she also swallows grinders.

Cheap candy—expensive funeral. Why take chances?

Repels Attack of Death.

"Five years ago two doctors told me I had only two years to live." This startling statement was made by Stillman Green, Malachite, Col. "They told me I would die with consumption. It was up to me then to try the best lung medicine and I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery. It was well I did, for today I am working and believe I owe my life to this great throat and lung cure that has cheated the grave of another victim." Its folly to suffer with coughs, colds or other throat and lung troubles now. Take the cure that's safest. Price 50 cents and $1. Trial bottle free at Fariss-Klutz Drug Company.

Growing Corn in Spite of the Drouth.

The summers of 1911 and 1912 have been extremely hard on the North Carolina farmers, especially those who live in the piedmont section. This part of the state has its corn crop cut short by the drouth nearly every year, but the last two years have been especially severe. In this section of the state there positively must be some method found by which corn may be grown in spite of this inevitable mid-summer drouth.

We feel that this method of corn growing in spite of the drouth has been discovered and that it only awaits careful, diligent application in order to bring success. The method contains but four fundamental factors. These are deep plowing, which enables the soil to take up large amounts of moisture in the winter and early spring.

Second, the incorporation of organic matter in large amounts. This organic matter may be stable manure or green manure, cut fine with a disc harrow before being plowed under and thoroughly incorporated with the soil with the disc afterwards. This addition of organic matter is a powerful aid in retaining the moisture absorbed by the deeply plowed soil, holding it until the season is well advanced even though the drouth may set in early.

Third, deep plowing. It is very essential that the farmers in this section of the state plant their corn deep below the surface, but, of course, cover it shallow. Last spring a number of farmers carried out every essential detail for the production of a good corn crop with the exception of planting the corn deeply. The ground was moist until the middle of May. This shallow planted corn developed its root system only on surface where moisture conditions were just right. These moisture conditions remained just right until the last of May or first of June; when, in many cases, the corn plant was booting for tassels. At this stage of the growth of the plant, the root system has nearly completed its development and from this time on little extension of the corn roots may be expected, as its energies are henceforth occupied in producing the ear. Moisture conditions being optimum up until this period of the growth of the plant, the great bulk of the roots were formed and remained in the first four inches of the soil. Now, the annual drouth set in. In many cases, shallow cultivation was practiced faithfully and it seemed that everything was done to offset the effects of the drouth but in vain. The first six inches of soil gradually dried up, thus leaving the corn plants standing high and dry in a bed of dust or dry dirt.

Now, had the corn been planted five or six or even seven inches below the surface of the soil and covered shallow, the direful effects of the drouth would have been, to a great extent, eliminated. The root system would have started deep in the ground and in contact with more lasting moisture conditions which would have aided immensely in combatting the drouth.

To sum up, deep plowing, the incorporation of large amounts of some cheap form of organic matter, preferably green manure, deep planting and cultivation, which must be frequent, shallow and late, will so far as moisture conditions are concerned, produce a crop of corn in the face of any drouth that has ever come in North Carolina.

We do not pretend that the above or any other method will entirely offset the effects of an unusually dry season, but we do know that this is the best method so far discovered, for growing a fair crop of corn during the driest season North Carolina has ever known.

A complete discussion of this subject may be had from bulletin No. 169 entitled "Corn Culture in North Carolina," which may be had on application to the state department of agriculture, Raleigh, N. C.

Think of It.

In a bulletin soon to be issued by the state department of agriculture it is estimated that North Carolina people sent last year $39,000,000 out of the state for foods and other products that could readily have been grown in this state. In 1910 the great total of over $59,000,000 was sent out of the state. The gain last year for the state was $20,000,000.

The Sorrow of It.

Al Fairbrother, in Everything.
Over in the city jail the other day, waiting to see what disposition could be made of him, was a white boy about twelve years of age. He was a prisoner because he had rented a bicycle, ridden it some distance and sold it for five dollars. Arrested he was thrown in jail with a crowd of all sorts. One drunken man, one big nigger and a job-lot of adult criminals and law-breakers were his companions. He was there, "this tender kid, conscious of his wrong doing, but of course not realizing that he was starting on a path of crime. The authorities informed an inquiry person that the kid was being held to see if the Reform School at Concord could take him. Of course if it couldn't he can go to the roads; remain in prison or any old thing—the supreme majesty of the law was vindicated when he was caught red-handed committing a crime that the law forbids.

But suppose the case: Suppose there was a place to put these juvenile offenders until final disposition is made of their case. Suppose that while he is waiting to know his fate kind words were spoken to him; that an impression for good was made on his receptive mind. Wouldn't it be worth while? Of course it would—but we call big meetings and rant about the heathen beyond the sea; we build buildings for the honest young men to find their pleasure; we do all these things, but when an infant is caught in mischief which approximates crime we throw him into jail; allow him to associate with hardened criminals—and feel b'gosh we have done wonders.

But what does it matter. Just a little boy—a little boy whose mother is dead; a little boy who has lost his guide; who didn't really legally know what he was doing; a little boy guilty of the vice of youth condemned as one guilty of the crime of age. Let him grow up and harden and become a thief, a murderer—any old thing, and the state has a penitentiary to receive him—but no place for him to go and be taught the error of his way; no place where a good citizen might be made; nobody cares anything about him—just a little waif—a little human soul deserted by those who should have been eager to see that he had a square deal. The fact that he sold the bicycle—the fact that he stole it, and did it because he knew it was wrong and he wanted to do wrong, in no way argues that he could not have been saved to society—that he could not have been shown the folly of pursuing the path on which he had started. The law says the person who steals shall be punished—but it also says that a kid twelve years old cannot transact business only through a guardian, because he is not supposed to know what he is doing. But if caught stealing a five dollar bicycle he is handled just the same as though he were a highwayman—locked up with criminals and left to figure out his own destiny. Better have a little missionary work in our own towns; better have a place for the boys who go wrong to be shown the right way—a place where they will escape evil influences, and when they become of legal age, old enough to transact business, perhaps they will be engaged in honorable lines. It is at least worth while to experiment a little along this line.

U. A. Smith, Bridgeton, Ind., had kidney trouble for years, and was so crippled with rheumatism he could not dress without help. He started using Foley Kidney Pills, and says: "I began to get better at once, and now all my trouble has left me and I do not feel that I ever had rheumatism. I rest well all night and though 59 years old, can now do the work of a man of 35 years. I would like to be the means of others getting benefit from Foley Kidney Pills." Refuse substitutes. Howard Gardner.

In Memory of Vance.

U. S. J. Dunbar, a sculptor of Washington, D. C., last week brought to Raleigh a model for a statue he proposes to erect of Zebulon B. Vance, the council of state having voted to place a marble statue of the state's great governor and senator in statutory hall, Washington. Mr. Dunbar will be in Raleigh a week or 10 days and in that time he hopes to have many persons who were well acquainted with Senator Vance give suggestions for improving the model. This is a statue, and to those who have seen only the pictures and statues of Vance is a good likeness. Mr. Dunbar made a cast of the senator's face when he died, and was well acquainted in life with the North Carolinian.

A really effective kidney and bladder medicine must first stop the progress of the disease and then cure the conditions that cause it. Use Foley Kidney Pills for all kidney and bladder troubles and urinary irregularities. They are safe and reliable. They help quickly and permanently. In the yellow package. Howard Gardner.

Excursion to Jacksonville and Tampa Florida, September 17.

Special train consisting of first class day coaches and standard Pullman sleeping cars will leave Charlotte at 10.30 P. M., Tuesday, September 17, and arrive at Jacksonville, Fla., 9.45 A. M., following morning.

Following low round trip rates will apply from stations named: High Point to Jacksonville $7.50; Tampa $9.50; Greensboro to Jacksonville $7.50; Tampa $9.50; Siler City to Jacksonville $7.50; Tampa $9.50.

Tickets will be sold on Tuesday, September 17, good on regular train to Charlotte and on special train from Charlotte, arriving at Jacksonville next morning, connecting at Jacksonville for Tampa. Tickets will be good for seven days, returning on any regular train leaving Jacksonville until September 24.

This is a rare opportunity to visit Florida at small cost. Surf bathing and fishing at their best in the "land of flowers" during the month of September.

Sound Values—Good Service—Courteous Treatment

THESE are the advantages you gain by trading with the IHC local dealer. He is a good judge of values in farm machines. He sells machines of guaranteed quality, and stands behind them to see that they make good. When he sells you an he sets up the machine, tests it, and makes sure that everything is right before he delivers it. He shows you how to use the machine, to make it last longest. In case of accident he can furnish repair parts promptly—repairs that fit. He gives you service worth far more than it costs you.

IHC manure spreaders are made in both return and endless apron styles, but all aprons run alike on large rollers. Non-friction roller bearings are used wherever practical, making the machine easy on the horses. The feed is variable and positive. The machines pulverize the manure and distribute it evenly in a light or heavy coat, as may be needed. Because they distribute manure properly, IHC spreaders use less than half as much manure as fork spreading to cover the same amount of ground. They make one ton of manure go as far as two, and do better fertilizing with far less labor than the old-fashioned method.

The IHC local dealer has the style and size best suited to your needs. See him for catalogues and full information, or write

Neighborhood News.

Matters of Interest Reported by Our Corps of Correspondents.

OAK RIDGE.

School at the Institute has reopened. Every place in the dormitories is taken, and temporary arrangements have been made for a score. Prof. G. C. Kirksey, of Morganton, a leading man in Wake Forest College, for four years, is the only new man in the faculty.

Among the students is a brilliant young Spaniard from Havana, a graduate from the university there, who comes to learn English practically.

Four students have registered from Pennsylvania so far, and two from Washington, D. C. Nearly every part of the South is represented.

Prof. C. Z. Whitaker's music class is large, and our band and orchestra are already playing splendid selections.

Two surprises have occurred among the young people of Oak Ridge during the past week. One was the marriage of Miss Annie Benbow to a Mr. Edgerton, of Guilford College, and the other that of Miss Della Lowrey to Mr. Raleigh Hunter, of Greensboro.

Miss Bessie Benbow went to Morganton on Wednesday to resume her work in the oral department of the North Carolina school for the deaf.

Miss Ola Lowrey will go to Northampton next week to enter the Normal department of the Clarke school for the deaf at that place, to perfect herself in the work of teaching.

Mrs. J. L. Crawford, of Cheraw, S. C., is spending a few days at Oak Hurs'. She came to place her son in school.

Mr. P. N. Snyder, of Pittsburg, a retired merchant, was here last week to place his son in school.

Mr. Harry Llewellyn, of Dodson, Del., who has been pitching for Washington in the Tri-State league, is visiting Harvey Holt for a few days.

Mr. M. H. Ho't received recently a fine specimen of a cottonmouth watermoccasin, from the Pee Dee valley. It will be duly mounted and placed in the museum.

A large number of auto visitors from Greensboro and Winston-Salem were here Sunday.

Mrs. Myrtle Holt Bennett and children, Jean and Justin, of San Diego, Cal., wire that they have at last reached home. They spent June and July with their parents. Prof. and Mrs. M. H. Holt, and August with Mr. R. O. Holt, Lorton, Va., Mr. Arthur Bennett, Hornick, Iowa, and friends at Omaha and Denver.

Robert Holt, of Lorton, Va., who led his class at Oak Ridge Institute during the past year, enters the University of Virginia this week. His brother Becks will resume his work here.

Better Day For Ireland.

Philadelphia Record.
At last there seems to be fair promise that Ireland is to find a secure and satisfactory resting place in the bosom of the British empire. Home rule is on the verge of attainment. The recent visit of the English premier to Ireland has been the occasion of most remarkable demonstrations of popular regard. Mr. Asquith is a cold man not given to exaggerative statements, but even he, in response to the tumultuous welcome given him at Dublin, was moved to declare: "The British empire has been largely made and is maintained by the gifts, the energies, the patience and endurance of Irishmen." This is the sober truth spoken in sober earnest. The time has surely arrived when Ireland is to come by her own.

MADISON SCHOOL.

Saving feed and curing tobacco is the go. Some good corn, but tobacco is almost a failure.

We had a good rain Saturday.

Mrs. J. A. Wyrick is some better. Mrs. Mary White, of Grover, visited her sister, Mrs. Robert Wyrick, recently.

Mr. I. H. Michael visited his brother-in-law at Grover recently.

Mr. Henry Johnson has gone to Richmond, Va., to work. We would like for our boys to remain on our farms as we need them.

The young boys of this place went down on Reedy Fork Saturday for a fishing, but luck was poor. Mr. R. A. Robinson dived under the water and struck something sharp, receiving a gash in his head.

W. J. Wyrick and Alfred Apple have about completed J. L. Andrews' new dwelling house. Mr. Andrews will soon move in. They will also build a house for Mr. Moore, near Brown Summit.

We the people of this section ask the auto drivers if they respect women and children, which we think they do, we ask them to show their respect in passing buggies and wagons and not drive almost against a conveyance that we may be traveling in. The stock in the country are not used to machines and are liable to do some damage. Some auto drivers seem to not care nor have any care just so nothing happens to them. Some drivers are very careful as to how they drive and we give them credit for it. We pay our taxes and work the roads both, and are willing to give half the road, but we don't propose to be run in the side ditch to keep our stock from being struck or our vehicle demolished. Do as you wish to be done by if you were driven a fractious animal.

Mr. Addie Loman has moved his family to the old Gant place, now belonging to Mr. Tommie Brown.

Mr. Charles Flack, of Matron, Chatham county, made a short visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Flack, and other relatives recently.

Miss Rosa Wyrick, of Oseola, who has been on the sick list, spent a few days with Miss Lula Wyrick last week.

Little Miss Ruby Michael, who has been suffering right much with throat trouble, is not getting along so well.

Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Coble are all smiles, it's a boy.

We are sorry to state that Mr. Jerry Rumley, who was moved to the state hospital at Morganton over twelve months ago, does not seem to improve in mind. We hope for him a speedy recovery.

The students of the Madison school are pleased to know their former teacher, Miss Ollie B. Pritchett, who taught for them two years ago, has decided to teach again this winter.

RAMSEUR.

J. R. Nocho, colored, of Greensboro, who has been a mail clerk for over forty years and who has been on this run for five years, died in his car last Monday while returning to Greensboro. He leaves an honored name and a good character.

Lacy W. Black, son of Mrs. J. W. Black, left Monday to enter the University of North Carolina.

Misses Sarah Cole and Lelia Ferree left Tuesday morning to enter Davenport College at Lehigh.

Ramsey and Liberty crossed bats on our diamond here last Friday with a score of 12 to 11 in the favor of our boys.

Rev. and Mrs. C. E. M. Raper and daughter, of Reidsville, have been spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. J. B. York.

Mrs. George Alfred and children, of Salisbury, are the guests of relatives here this week.

WHITSETT.

The lecture Sunday evening at the Institute on "A Dream of Greatness" was attended by a large crowd.

Seven new students came in Saturday. Two from Virginia, two from Cuba, one from Davidson and two from Alamance. Every day brings new arrivals.

Revs. E. W. Fox, J. D. Andrew and S. M. Rankin have about completed their arrangements for a union meeting to begin here the fifth Sunday and continue through the following week.

A. E. Wharton and wife, of Norfolk, Va., are spending some days with relatives in the community. Mr. Wharton has held a position for the past five years with the National Bank of Commerce, of Norfolk.

Mrs. Harry Winstead returned to her home in Roxboro Wednesday after a visit of some days with Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Wharton.

A large congregation attended services at Springwood church Sunday morning. Many went out to Gibsonville in the afternoon to attend the Sunday school convention.

Prof. Wilson has reorganized the band and begun regular practice.

W. J. Thompson, postmaster here, left for New York city last week to consult a specialist. He has been unwell for some weeks.

L. A. Carmon is in Robeson county on business this week.

Bethel and Springwood churches have united in a call to a regular pastor for all his time.

Dr. and Mrs. Whitsett spent Saturday in Greensboro and attended a picnic in the afternoon at the McIver school, near the Battle Ground.

Miss Lillie Brewer, of Winston-Salem, is here visiting her sister.

A jolly crowd enjoyed a hay ride and picnic last Thursday evening, chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Swift and Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Walker.

Miss Roberta Shepherd will teach near Charlotte this year. R. C. Wharton, who graduated at the University in June, will teach in Charlotte.

Messrs. Lee and J. A. Finch, of Trinity, and Milton Clapp, of Salisbury, spent Monday here on business.

Family Reunion and Picnic.

A family reunion and picnic in honor of Mrs. M. V. Hobbs, at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Lane, "Sweetbriar," on Saturday, August 31, was one of the most delightful social events of the summer. Among those present were Mrs. M. V. Hobbs, Mr. and Mrs. George T. Lane and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hobbs and children, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Hobbs and children, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hobbs and children, all of Greensboro; Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Byers, of Roanoke, Va. The above are the children and grandchildren of Mrs. Hobbs. Those that were absent were Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Hobbs, of Wilson, and Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Hobbs, of Spray. Among the invited guests were Rev. and Mrs. C. P. Goode and children, Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Hardin and children, Mrs. S. A. Kellam and daughters. Several others were present also.

All enjoyed the swing, the games, the shade and breeze among the large oaks. A most delicious and bountiful spread was thoroughly enjoyed by all around a long table prepared for this occasion. This was followed in the afternoon by a watermelon cutting, ice cream and lemonade. At a late hour all left for home unanimous in their praises of this being the most enjoyable day of the year. REV. C. P. GOODE, Summerfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Wells Entertain.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Wells, on Summit Avenue, have been kept busy for the past few days entertaining. They were made very happy by a ten-days' visit from their son, J. H. Wells, his wife and lovely little daughter, Rose Fulgham Wells, of Jackson, Mississippi. On this visit little Miss Rose made her debut into the society of her North Carolina relatives, and was the queen of the season. At this time they also had with them for a week their son, Archie W. Wells, traveling salesman and field manager for the Iroquois Manufacturing Company, of Cleveland, O. Their son, E. R. Wells, and his wife, of Starr, ran up and spent two days during the family reunion, and their daughter, Mrs. R. P. Dixon, east of the city, spent more than one pleasant evening with them. With the exception of one daughter, Mrs. C. T. Dixon, of Winston, this was a complete family reunion.

W.

Mrs. J. N. Hill, Homer, Ga., has used Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for years, and says she always recommends it to her friends.

"It never fails to cure our coughs and colds and prevents croup. We have five children and always give them Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for a cold, and they are all soon well. We would not be without it in our house." Howard Gardner.

ELON COLLEGE.

Elon College has had a record breaking opening with 141 in the entering class. Fourteen states and more than a hundred counties in these are represented in the great enrollment. The satisfaction of the authorities over this happy conclusion to the summer's campaign for students, in spite of the distressing crop conditions in many sections, is exceedingly high.

Work on the new gymnasium, which is to have a gymnasium floor 60 by 100 feet inside measure, and to be equipped with every modern convenience for gymnastic exercises is going rapidly on. The brick work is to be completed by November 1 and the wood work by January 1. This gymnasium will also have fifty dormitory accommodations for one hundred men. It will be equipped with steam heat, electric lights, bath and sewerage facilities.

The young men's club under the management of Mrs. A. T. Battle, and the young ladies' hall under the management of Mrs. W. F. Jones, are giving good substantial board at actual cost, and with home surroundings.

The college has recently installed new Mason pianos throughout, two car loads of them, so that every piano of the music conservatory, whether used for practice or instruction, is absolutely new. This will add materially to the enrollment in this department.

Students continue to arrive on every train and the prospect is that the 35 per cent. increase of the opening day will grow to a still larger proportion as session advances.

The president's opening address this year, delivered Sunday, September 8, was upon the theme: "The Use of Talent." It discussed with thoroughness the proper use of the talent and how the college helps in that direction.

PROVIDENCE.

Some of our people attended the funerals of ex-Sheriff Swalm and W. G. Barker, of Randleman, last week.

Albion Wilson and children, of Greensboro, are spending some time here with relatives.

Miss Kate Hinchaw is visiting her uncle, William Pugh.

Miss Ma'ie Reynolds and Mr. T. R. Neece left last week to enter school at Guilford College.

Mrs. John Corsbie, from near Coble's church, recently visited her father, W. D. Siler.

Miss Annie Hardin, of Julian, has been visiting Miss Esther Cranford.

Mrs. Allen Field, of Georgia, spent Sunday here with friends and relatives.

The annual protracted meeting begins at New Salem the third Sunday in September.

Some of our people attended the special meeting at Center Sunday, which is being conducted by Mrs. Margaret Hackney.

On Saturday, September 14, there will be given an entertainment at Providence church. The children have some entertainment work and speakers are expected to speak on Sabbath school work. A public dinner will be served. Also refreshments will be sold by the Baracca and Philathea classes. The public cordially invited to attend.

Pains should be taken to furnish the flock of poultry in close confinement what they get on free range—plenty of green and animal food, exercise and shade during the hot weather.

Warts that appear on the cow's teats may be removed easily by rubbing them with a little lard or castor oil at successive milkings. This usually softens them and causes them to disappear without further treatment.

A real service can be rendered the young birds as they leave the nest by keeping an eye open for them at this critical time. If there is a cat about the place she should be shut up until they are able to get out of her reach.

It is very satisfying to the lover of birds to note how much these little friends will drink from and bathe in a basin of water placed on the lawn. If the supply of water is renewed every day or two the birds will enjoy it the more.

A new seven day record for Holsteins has been made by Pontiac Lady Korn-dyke, her yield of milk during a single week being 601 pounds, which contained 30.42 pounds of butter fat, the equivalent of 38.02 pounds of commercial butter.

The thriftiness of the asparagus bed next season will be largely dependent upon the stalks that remain on the bed this season making a good growth. For a general way the growth of the plants above and below ground corresponds quite closely.

A little powdered asafetida sprinkled over the feed of young chicks morning and evening will tend to cure them of diarrhea. They should also have grit and charcoal, their drinking vessels should be scalded often, and they should not be given any sloppy feed.

Sawdust when decomposed contains a small amount of fertilizing element and has some value as humus. But it should be used sparingly. If at all, and should be mixed with lime or ground limestone, which will tend to neutralize any acid it contains that is harmful to most soils. If the sawdust is used to any extent it should be composed with manure and lime.

Men who are successful in life are those who are not generally classed as such usually put in the same number of hours during the working day. The difference in achievement may fairly be said to be due to the disposition made of the rest of the time—after supper and before breakfast. This is a truth that tens of thousands of men and boys do not yet appreciate the full force of.

While both Jerseys and Holsteins are among the leading, if not the leading, dairy breeds, they nevertheless have so little in common from the standpoint of bovine type or habit that it is unwise to cross them. Either breed will fare better and give better returns by itself than with a mixing of bloods. Occasions arise when conditions seem to make a cross necessary, but in every instance this should be avoided if possible. It is because of the facts mentioned that the advice is so often given in starting a dairy herd to get that breed which is well represented in one's locality.

If there is any situation under the drifting sun calculated to drive the average farmer to the adoption of the Babcock test for the elimination of the bovine loafers from his herd it is going through the formality of milking these same animals in a stuffy barn darkened to keep out the flies, with the perspiration starting from every pore and with the query arising involuntarily, whether dairying in hot weather is worth the candle after all. It surely isn't worth the candle in the case of cows which during the year do no produce enough butter fat to pay their feed bill. Using the Babcock test serves to reduce this profitless labor and cattle perspiration.

In many states of the Union bank officials are taking a direct interest in agriculture that plainly indicates the vital connection which they believe exists between this fundamental industry and their own. In some instances the interest referred to finds expression in placing in the hands of farmers the best agricultural literature that can be had. In others it takes the form of prizes offered for best stretches of country highways. It still others it is shown in offering free scholarships in agricultural colleges the furnishing of seed grain to those hard pressed as a result of short crops or the offering of prizes in grain and corn growing contests. Each one of these aids to agriculture is commendable, being based on the simple law of business cause and effect.

A treeless home is a lonesome looking place to one who is a lover of trees. No one who has planted and tended a windbreak on a prairie farm has been sorry for it, and when a few trees and flowering shrubs are added it makes a home that any one is sorry to leave.

The use of silage as a ration for beef cattle has been tested out in so many localities and with such uniform success that it may fairly be considered as beyond the experimental stage. Where clover, alfalfa or other legumes are available to supplement the silage ration a more economical or effective ration cannot be had.

To make it seem homelike for the American settlers in the Saskatchewan country the weather clerk pulled off a tornado the other day that fairly ripped and tore. More than fifty people are said to have lost their lives as a result of the storm. The folks from Kansas and Nebraska are doubtless responsible for this catastrophe.

Rather than build a silo for six or eight cows, a number that is deemed hardly sufficient to justify the investment, it is better to increase the number of cows to a dozen or more. The larger size of the silo required for the latter number not only makes possible greater economy in the securing of the silage, but will cause it to keep much better.

Last season was a record breaker in the matter of seed production in clovers and alfalfa in many states. One instance of this was the production of $1,113.11 worth of seed from an eighteen acre field of alsike clover belonging to a farmer of Genesee county, Mich. This value was in addition to the fodder obtained from the tract. And on top of this the land was the more fertile for the crop it had produced.

That the little human animal has a world of endurance and must have joints equipped with a special kind of ball bearings is shown in the fact that they start off in the morning on the run and keep it up the greater part of the day, and this notwithstanding the fact that the thermometer may be hugging 95 or 100 in the shade. Neither do they spend a great deal of time fanning themselves or stewing about the heat.

Owing to the fact that the aphides (plant lice) are sucking rather than leaf eating insects, the ordinary arsenate of lead or paris green sprays have practically no effect in keeping the pest in check. Some spray must be used that will kill the lice by contact, and for this both the kerosene emulsion and tobacco sprays are used. The writer has found the commercial "black leaf" solution excellent. This should be diluted according to directions (usually one part of the solution to from fifty to seventy parts of water) and is recommended because it is so easily prepared.

The product of many a creamery is rated several points lower in quality than it might be, due simply to the fact that there is not the degree of inspection that there ought to be of the conditions prevailing in the milk houses and dairies of the men furnishing the cream from which the butter output is made. Especially is this likely to be the case in creameries where the rather cream system prevails, but it holds none the less in those plants where the whole milk is delivered and the cream separated at the factory. One foul mess of cream from a filthy patron will spoil a whole vat of cream and, on the whole, cause the loss of dollars to the patrons whose clean cream is thus contaminated.

During the next few weeks, which are more than likely to be droughty, too much emphasis can hardly be placed on the frequent cultivation of such crops as require considerable moisture for their further growth and development. It is a matter of small concern whether the stirring of the soil seems necessary in the killing of weeds. The important thing to remember is that the stirring is needed to conserve the soil moisture and to keep the surface soil from baking. The facts set forth should be kept in mind not in the case of annual crops, like beans, late potatoes, onions and the like, but with strawberries, raspberries and all kinds of young fruit trees as well as those that are heavily laden with fruit.

Doubtless a number of the readers of this department will during the course of the next few weeks take trips to points at a distance with a view to investing their hard earned money in real estate of one kind or another. For the benefit of these the writer has a couple of suggestions that may be worth consideration. One is that the person planning to invest should remain in the new locality long enough before buying to decide whether the section is one in which he would want to establish a permanent residence. The other suggestion is this—namely, that if one does not intend to make a home in the new country, but is merely buying for an investment, it would be well to learn from the bankers of the place how much cash they will loan on a given piece of property. If they have not got faith enough in the worth and future prospects of such land to loan all the way from 30 to 40 per cent of the purchase price it is pretty good proof that there is a nigger in the wood pile. Bankers do foolish things now and then, but their judgment as to the value of real estate is a pretty safe one to follow. If, knowing the country well, they are not willing to bank on it, it is a pretty safe conclusion that it is a mighty risky proposition for the tenderfoot to do it.

A LOUISIANA DEMONSTRATION TRAIN.

The Louisiana demonstration train recently completed a tour of the state. It was operated under the combined direction of the state university, the state department of education and the United States department of agriculture. The train was on the road ten weeks, and all the roads of the state assisted in its operation. The train traveled 4,306 miles, made 200 stops, and 144,435 people attended the lectures and demonstrations. Two of the seven demonstration cars were used for exhibiting the latest types of farm machinery and machines and devices used in road improvement work. A car devoted to hogs contained representatives of the various breeds and the tabulated results of a number of feeding experiments that had been conducted by the experiment station. One car was devoted to the canning industry, the latest canning machines being on display and in actual operation while the lectures were being given. Another car was given over to general agricultural exhibits and contained a collection of insects injurious to field and truck crops. One car was devoted to the work and handiwork of the boys and girls' clubs, including those growing corn and pigs, as well as to canning and domestic science. Besides these interests, there was a complete exhibit of poultry; also a car containing ten head of cattle typifying the several breeds of beef and dairy cattle. An interesting feature of this was a Hereford steer weighing 1,400 pounds and a scrub steer of the same age weighing 800. The lectures and exhibits were received with much interest, and the practical benefits that will be derived therefrom it would be difficult to estimate.

EIGHT MILLION IN A SEASON.

The need of killing off flies early in the season is shown in figures which have been compiled by Dr. L. O. Howard of the bureau of entomology, who estimates that in the twenty-four generations of a pair of flies between frost and frost the progeny totals 8,000,000 in a single season. The number of flies that breed in the horse manure pile—and this is their favorite stamping ground—may be reduced by covering the greater portion of the pile with hay or old straw, thus keeping the flies from having access to it. In the way of traps, nothing is better than an enlargement of the inverted cone or wire screen trap, which has been described before in these notes. Take a sugar, cracker or coffee barrel that is fly tight. Remove the head and put in its place a wire screen or a couple of thicknesses of mosquito netting, which can be easily fastened by the use of one of the hoops. In the bottom of the barrel cut a circular hole about a foot in diameter and into this insert a cone of wire screen with a hole at the smaller end just large enough to admit into the barrel the flies that crawl upon the inside. To induce the flies to gather in the large opening of the cone beneath a ball of vinegar and sweetened water in a small dish will do nicely. To give best results the barrel or other frame used for the trap should be raised three or four inches so that the flies can get beneath it and thence crawl up the cone. When ready the trap should be set in that place on the premises where the flies are wont to gather in greatest numbers. When ready to empty, the flies should be smoked or scalded and may be then fed to the chickens, but this should not be done if poison is used in preparing the bait set beneath the barrel.

CONTROLLING PEAR BLIGHT.

Five years ago the pear blight which had wrought much havoc in big pear orchards in the Sacramento valley crossed the line into southern Oregon and made its appearance for the first time in the Rogue river valley, in which the writer's ranch is located. This summer, after a vigorous warfare against the blight waged under the direction of Professor P. J. O'Gara, formerly expert plant pathologist of the federal department of agriculture, but now hired direct by the county in which the valley is located, the blight is entirely stamped out, none having appeared, and this notwithstanding the fact that conditions were favorable with the apple and pear trees in the valley full of bloom. The very gratifying condition referred to is a simple working out of the law of cause and effect. Professor O'Gara was given the hearty co-operation of the ranchmen of the valley and the county commissioners, and the duly authorized inspectors, assisted by a volunteer corps of fifty or more, have finally succeeded in eradicating it. The method followed was not some patent scheme of injecting poison under the bark or any other device of fool fakers, but merely cutting out all cases of blight beyond the point of infection and disinfecting the cuts with a corrosive sublimate solution. Especial care has been taken early each spring to discover and remove all holdover cases and thus prevent spread of the blight by bees and other insects. It is a case where vigilance has been the price of immunity from the pest, but none who have a hand in it and know the valley is now free from infection feel that the campaign has not been worth while. Professor O'Gara has prepared a bulletin telling of his work in blight eradication, and apple and pear growers all over the country should have it.

A CERTAIN CURE FOR CATARRH

The mucous membranes of the nose and throat are exposed to the irritating influence of dust, impure air, etc., and for this reason are the places Catarrh usually first manifests itself. But these are simply exciting causes, the inflammation and discharge being really produced by an impure and vitiated condition of the blood. It is well enough to use some local treatment to cleanse these membranes, but any one can readily see that if the inflammatory matter is left in the blood, such treatment cannot possibly have any permanent effect. S. S. S. cures Catarrh by purifying the blood of all impure catarrhal matter and irritating germs and at the same time builds up the system by its fine tonic effects. When S. S. S. has purified the blood, the mucous surfaces are all nourished and made healthy. There can be no inflammation of the membranes then, because the blood is pure, and every tissue receives nourishment instead of irritating matter. Our book on Catarrh will give proper advice as to what is best to use as a local aid while S. S. S. is purifying the blood. This book is free, also any special advice you may feel you need. S. S. S. is sold at drug stores.

The Pirates' Cave

By Clara Ines Deacon

(Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press.)

It was thoroughly understood when Miss Nettie Shields, eleven years of age, was permitted to accompany her sister Fanny, of twenty, down to Eagle's nest for a few weeks' stay with their aunt, that the young miss must behave herself.

Not that Miss Nettie Shields had ever been arrested for her conduct, but that she was heedless and over-confident and almost satisfied that she knew it all. If she went out for a walk by herself she would follow a hand organ or a fire engine until she got lost, and if she started for the park to feed the squirrels she might bring up at the Battery to feed the fishes. She had solemnly promised to amend her ways and be no cause of anxiety to anyone, and she stuck to that promise for all of half an hour after arriving at the manor house. Then she met the coachman's son, a lad of twelve.

The city lass was looking at the country lad with her nose in the air and a pitying expression on her face when he walked up to her and said: "You are not so muchy-muchy!"

"I am a hundred times more muchy-muchy than you!"

"Oh, you think so! Did you ever see a pirate's cave?"

"N-no."

"Well, I have. You may have lots of things in the city, but you haven't got a pirate's cave."

"Where is it?"

"That's telling."

"Young man, I want to know a once, and you point out that cave or there'll be trouble!"

"Hu! No kid can bluff me! That cave is full of gold and silver and sparkling jewels. I've seen 'em. I can go there any time and get a bushel. There are also pirate skulls and bones there. There is one diamond as big as my fist. When I heard you was coming down here I thought of taking you over to the cave and letting you pick out a few pearls and rubies for yourself, but now I won't. You are too snippy."

"You Are Not So Muchy-Muchy!"

"Then you needn't!"

It was three days later that Miss Nettie got down on her knees to that bad boy and vowed to marry him when they grew up if he would take her to that cave. As a matter of fact, he had been told by a boy, who had it from another boy, that there was such a cave in the hills three miles away. He had lied about the rest of it, but he didn't propose to own up. He wanted to be a hero instead of an Uncle Rube, in Miss Nettie's eyes. He soon discovered that he couldn't be without setting out for the cave, and it took him a whole day to make up his mind. They must set out secretly, and if there was no cave a licking awaited him for sure on their return, and it might be bread and water for a week for the girl.

It was not until Miss Nettie had applied the epithet of coward several times that a start was made. The family dog was old and shakely and didn't care a cent about pirates' caves, but after much coaxing he consented to go along. The way was across the fields and through the scrub to a range of hills, and the afternoon was hot and the journey toilsome. The dog gave out first. When his aged joints began to creak he knew that he had had enough, and he headed back.

"I don't think I'd want to see pirate bones unless the dog was along," observed the boy.

"But I would," was the reply from the panting but not discouraged girl.

"I took the dog so that he could smell out the cave for us."

"But we'll smell it out for ourselves. We are going right on."

"I don't believe there is any cave."

"Oh, yes, there is. I think I have read about it somewhere. If you are a booby you can trot back home."

Forty rods further on the boy dropped behind a bush for two or three minutes and then legged it for home. He wasn't going to give a pirate's ghost a chance to take him by the throat. Miss Nettie missed him, but did not even call on him to return. She had set out for a cave filled with money and jewels, and she meant to reach it.

The hills were reached at last by a very tired girl. They were covered with pine and spruce and bowdiers, but after a rest she started her climb and began looking for the mouth of a cave.

The limbs and briars soon made tatters of her dress, but if she thought of the financial damage she realized also that one single ruby of the bushels in the cave would buy her many new suits. No cave! No sign of a cave! A blue-jay new and then, and a chipmunk now and then, and after an hour the girl realized that she was lost and had come on a fool's errand.

The thing to do was to sit down on a rock and have a good cry to try to figure out how many days it would take for a healthy young girl to starve to death. Miss Nettie didn't do the proper thing, however. She sat down, but before the rest of it could follow a hunting dog burst through a tangle and discovered her and began to bark. He had kept it up for two minutes when a man not far away shouted: "Go for him, Nero! Hold him till I come!"

Nero redoubled his noise, and pretty soon a young man slid down the bank with a crash and came to a halt to exclaim:

"Well, by George!"

"What kind of a man are you to sic your dog on a lost young lady?"

was demanded as the girl rose up.

"Why—why, I thought it was a—woodchuck!"

"But it wasn't, you see!"

His cap came off and he gave his name as Robert Bonham. Miss Nettie could do no less than give her identity and explain how she came to be a Babe in the Woods. She laughed as she talked, and the young man laughed as he listened. He explained that he was also from the city and visiting relatives, and was out on the hills that afternoon for the sake of the tramp.

"Your name is Robert, but I shall call you Bob," said the little girl. "You can call me Net or Nettie. Of course you will see me home!"

"Oh, certainly."

"I want to get at that boy and roll him in the dust."

"Do you know that you are about six miles from the Eagle's Nest?" he asked.

"Mercy on me!"

"It's a mile or more to the house where I am stopping. We will go first and get a bite to eat, and then I will take you home in my auto."

The coachman's boy had returned to hide out, and although Miss Nettie was missed and inquired for he gave no information until dark. Then there was a rumpus. A searching party started out with lanterns, and the women left at home were crying, and it had got to be nine o'clock when the lost girl was driven up by the finder.

In the interval Mr. Bonham was posted on the Shields family, particularly as to Fanny. Miss Fanny had never been in love; she had a sweet disposition; her aunt was going to leave her $20,000; she would make some one an awfully good wife, and a great deal more.

The cave-searcher knew that she had broken her word, and she was conscience-stricken over it. She must do the square thing to pay for the anxiety and trouble she had caused. She did it like a little brick. As soon as released from her sister's arms she introduced Mr. Bob Bonham, and with a lump in her throat added:

"Fanny, I was intending to marry him, for he is all that a trusting girl could ask for, but being I ran away—and got lost—and tore my clothes—and broke my promise—and am going to have a scrap with that boy, why, take him and love him and marry him!"

This speech was embarrassing enough, but had no fatal effects. It was just a year ago, and Mr. Bob Bonham has made such good use of the time that he can now say he is engaged to Miss Fanny Shields.

WOULD TEACH HOW TO EAT

One Man Bold Enough to Say That Americans Have Much to Learn in This Respect.

"By a little thinking a family of five can save $120 a year in the cost of living and yet have all that they want to eat, for it is not the quantity, but the proper combination and the proper mastication that the body needs," says W. Earl Flynn, commonly known as Daddy Flynn, who is lecturing in this city on health. He is an advocate of the no-breakfast plan and he says that the number of meals that are eaten is largely a habit.

"If you eat no breakfast, cut down the meat and in general regulate the intake according to the expenditure, you will be surprised with the result. Most people eat just as much when the old machine is not working as when it is doing the hardest kind of work. A person should not eat just to satisfy his craving for food. He should eat intelligently, having an object in view, as there are foods for different conditions, foods for thick and thin blood, foods that furnish necessary salts, foods that will make up fat and foods that will make us thin."

Mr. Flynn believes that the people should be educated so that they know the difference between a protein, a carbohydrate and the other necessary foods, for it is of more value, he says, to know what to eat than it is to have a knowledge of astronomy and many of the subjects that are taught in the schools. He says the animals are far ahead of man in this, for they know by instinct what they should eat under the conditions in which they are living.—Indianapolis News.

Thos. Conway "Cabal" Against Washington

A MIDDLE-aged, jolly, dashing soldier of fortune came to America in 1777 and offered his services to the patriot army. He brought along with him no great military skill, but a most amazing capacity for making trouble. The soldier was Thomas Conway, a British subject, who had lived since early childhood in France. There he had joined the army and risen to a colonelcy. When he came here he was joyfully received. The Revolutionists lacked expert officers and they made him a brigadier-general.

The man's boasts and his dashing ways impressed the simpler statesmen. But George Washington read him at a glance, for a windy, vicious incompetent.

So when congress decided a little later to make Conway a major general the chief sternly opposed such a promotion and gave his reasons for doing so. From that moment Conway was Washington's sworn foe. One active mischief-maker can sometimes work more harm than a dozen wise men can undo. Conway at once joined Washington's opponents in congress and the army, and started a campaign for the chief's overthrow.

He and his associates formed what was known as the "Conway Cabal," and did all in their power to undermine Washington's influence. In a series of anonymous letters Conway ridiculed the chief as a coward and as too feeble of mind as a leader. He suggested Gen. Horatio Gates as commander-in-chief in Washington's place. Not only did Conway and his friends win Gates over to this scheme, but they induced several prominent congressmen to lend their influence to the movement.

It was the Revolution's dark hour. New York and Philadelphia were in the hands of the British. Washington and his army were starving and freezing at Valley Forge after a summer and autumn of repeated defeats. Men's hearts grew faint and their allegiance weakened. Conway's crafty words at such a moment fell on ready ears.

The cabal waxed strong. But for a mere accident it might readily have ended by depriving Washington of power and of placing the command of the patriot armies in the hands of Gen. Gates. And with fussy, inefficient, cowardly old Gates at the head of the American troops American liberty would have been doomed. Here, in brief, is the story of the accident that saved our country: Gates' aid, Wilkinson, drank too much one night and babbled to a friend of the chief some of the contents of a letter from Conway to Gates in which Conway had spoken insultingly of Washington. The story was told to Washington, who called Conway to account. Conway rushed to Gates for aid, and Gates tried to get out of the difficulty by branding Wilkinson as a liar.

Wilkinson promptly challenged Gates to a duel. Gates wept on Wilkinson's shoulder and implored him to withdraw the challenge, speaking of himself as a feeble old man who loved Wilkinson like a father. In this way the frightened old general wriggled out of fighting.

Meantime, thanks to the first hint, Washington learned of all Conway's anonymous letters and other treacheries. The facts were made known to the people. The cabal was crushed under a storm of public disapproval.

But Conway was not to escape so easily. He was challenged to a duel by Washington's friend, Gen. Cadwalader, who proceeded to shoot him through the mouth.

Conway, believing himself dying, wrote one more letter. This time to Washington, asking forgiveness for his villainies and declaring the chief to be a "great and good man." Then he "conditionally" resigned his commission as an officer in the American service. Congress accepted the resignation, unconditionally, and Conway went back to France.

There he styled himself "Count de Conway," and managed to win an appointment as governor of one of France's Oriental provinces. He made such a mess of his diplomatic work in his province of the Orient that he almost wrecked the French interests there. He returned to France and became a general in the royal armies. During the French Revolution he was condemned to death. He was saved only by an appeal to Great Britain (against which he had fought in the American Revolution), but was compelled to flee from France for his life.

After that Conway disappeared from history. He is supposed to have died about 1800 in poverty and exile.

An Optimist.

"Is he an optimist?"
"I should say he is. He's planning to raise his own asparagus this year."

THE SECRET OF LONG LIFE.

Do not sap the springs of life by neglect of the human mechanism, by allowing the accumulation of poisons in the system. An imitation of Nature's method of restoring waste of tissue and impoverishment of the blood and nervous strength is to take an alternative glyceric extract (without alcohol) of Golden Seal and Oregon grape root, Bloodroot, Stone and Mandrake root with Cherrybark. Over 40 years ago Dr. Pierce gave to the public this remedy, which he called Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. He found it would help the blood in taking up the proper elements from food, help the liver into activity, thereby throwing out the poisons from the blood and vitalizing the whole system as well as allaying and soothing a cough. No one ever takes cold unless constipated, or exhausted, and having what we call mal-nutrition, which is attended with impoverished blood and exhaustion of nerve force. The "Discovery" is an all-round tonic which restores tone to the blood, nerves and heart by imitating Nature's methods of restoring waste of tissue, and feeding the nerves, heart and lungs on rich red blood.

Mrs. Dorn.

"I suffered from pain under my right shoulder blade also a very severe cough," writes Mrs. W. Dorn, of New Brunswick, N. C., to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. "I had four different doctors and none did me any good. Some said I had consumption, others said I would have to have an operation. I was bedridden, unable to sit up for six months—and was nothing but a live skeleton. You advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. When I had taken one bottle of the 'Discovery' I could sit up for an hour at a time, and when I had taken three bottles I could do my cooking and tend to the children. I took fourteen bottles in all and was then in good health. My weight is now 127 pounds."

Couldn't Walk!

"I used to be troubled with a weakness peculiar to women," writes Mrs. Anna Jones, of Kenney, Ill. "For nearly a year, I could not walk, without holding my sides. I tried several different doctors, but I grew worse. Finally, our druggist advised Cardui for my complaint. I was so thin, my weight was 115. Now, I weigh 163, and I am never sick. I ride horseback as good as ever. I am in fine health at 52 years."

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

We have thousands of such letters, and more are arriving daily. Such earnest testimony from those who have tried it, surely proves the great value of this vegetable, tonic medicine, for women.

Cardui relieves women's sufferings, and builds weak women up to health and strength. If you are a woman, give it a trial. It should help you, for it has helped a million others. It is made from pure, harmless, herb ingredients, which act promptly and surely on the womanly organs. It is a good tonic. Try it! Your druggist sells it.

A National Searchlight

THE SENIOR PARTNER was disturbed. The little boy of one of the firm's traveling men was critically ill. The distracted mother begged that her husband be notified.

A Long Distance Bell Telephone call located him, but he had gone to a neighboring town to sell goods.

Would the Telephone people reach him? The Telephone people would try. They found him and he started for home at once.

The Universal Bell Telephone System is a national searchlight. It seeks the distant person for you and locates him if it is possible.

By the way, have you a Bell Telephone?

ELECTRIC BITTERS THE BEST FOR BILIOUSNESS AND KIDNEYS.

Dan Cupid Busy.

From the record it looks like the high cost of living is causing people to get married. The fellow who isn't married has heard the story that two can live cheaper than one. Of course it is not for us to disillusion him. At the court house it has been ascertained that up to this time over 500 licenses have been issued—and the three best months in the year are supposed to be yet to come. December is always the banner month, and those who feel the matrimonial pulse say they will not be surprised if the record for Guilford runs to a thousand. It may be a question as to whether or not marriage is a failure—but there seems no question as to its being a fact.

A Big Suit.

Summons in a personal injury civil action against the Southern Railway was filed Saturday by Sapp & Williams, counsel for Mrs. Elizabeth Sain, of this city, suit being one of a number that have resulted from the wreck of train No. 36 inside the local yards several weeks ago, when Engineer Beach was killed and a number of passengers injured. The plaintiff in the suit which was officially entered Saturday asks $10,000 for alleged internal injuries sustained by being thrown forward against a seat by the force of the impact when the two engines met.

Bull Moose Broke.

The Bull Moose party has published a list of its expenses and receipts and it appears that the party at this writing is broke. $55,199 had been received and $55,232 had been expended. Perkins, the steel trust man and Munsey a large stockholder in steel trust stock gave $15,000 each and the other was contributed in small amounts from wild men who believe in the third term and his ability to turn water into wine. The chances are, however, that more than fifty-five thousand have been spent, but the record doesn't show it.

Meares to Run.

The Bull Moose people first nominated Dr. Cyrus Thompson to run for governor. Cy. he couldn't see it. Then Zeb Vance Walser, of Lexington, was nominated, Zeb Vance Walser he couldn't see it after running a few days, and finally the last nomination was Iredell Meares, of Wilmington, and Iredell he is running as we go to press, but the chances are that by next week another sacrifice will be made—the shambles will be covered with dead men before they get one with enough nerve to run against Locke Craig.

Wonderful, This.

Talk about trusts receiving favors from railroads—this week the American Tobacco Company, no longer a trust but a pretty big concern, has filed with the inter-state commerce commission a bill for $706 for excessive charges on sixty-five car loads of tobacco from Ohio and West Virginia to Durham. When such a corporation as the American Tobacco Company thinks it has been skinned, it is time for the smaller fry to take to the woods.

Nursing Broken Leg.

To Mothers—And Others.

You can use Bucklen's Arnica Salve to cure children of eczema, rashes, teething, chafings, scaly and crusty humors, as well as their accidental injuries—cuts, burns, bruises, etc., with perfect safety. Nothing else heals so quickly. For boils, warts, old running sores, fever sores or piles it has no equal. 25 cents at Fariss-Klutznick Drug Company.

Death of William Gray.

William Gray, a young man from Roaring River, who was brought to St. Leo's hospital with a very severe case of typhoid fever, died Saturday morning. Relatives who were here accompanied the body home on an afternoon train, the funeral and burial were held at Roaring River Sunday.

Antoine Deloria, postmaster at Garden, Mich., knows the exact facts when he speaks of the curative value of Foley Kidney Pills. He says: "From my own experience I recommend Foley Kidney Pills, as a great remedy for kidney trouble. My father was cured of kidney disease and a good many of my neighbors were cured by Foley Kidney Pills. Howard Gardner."

Maine Goes Republican.

Maine voted this week and elected a Republican governor by about 3,000 plurality, and the papers said Wednesday that Taft smiled over this result, but the next day Roosevelt comes along and says the newly elected governor had written him that he was a progressive and was for Roosevelt. This should remove the smile that won't come off from the face of our president, but the chances are that it will be there even after Wilson is elected in November.

Junior Order Picnic at Jamestown.

Next Saturday, September 14, the J. O. U. A. M. and the school authorities of Jamestown will hold their annual picnic and educational rally. This is the second of these annual occasions. The exercises last year were a decided success, and no effort has been spared to make some improvement this year. State Superintendent of Public Instruction and Dr. Charles E. Brewer, of Wake Forest, will be present and deliver addresses. Other prominent educators and Junior Order men are expected. Not the least feature of the day will be the public dinner served by the people of the community. Several other interesting features have been arranged.
