HEFLIN ON UNDERWOOD.

Alabama Congreseman Speaks Eloquently For His Associate.

Hon, J. Thomas Heflin, of Lafayette, Ala., representative in Congress from the Fifth district of Alabama, and one of the South's most eloquent and forceful orators, addressed a large audience in the court house last night in the interest of Hon. Oscar W. Underwood's candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination. The speech pleased and enthused all Democrats who heard it, for it was pitched on a high plane. The general opinion is that it was not only a good Underwood speech but one of the best Democratic speeches heard in Greensboro in a long while.

Mr. Heflin was presented to the audience by Mayor Thomas J. Murphy in a very appropriate speech and was greeted with applause.

Mr. Heflin told of the great record of the South in the political history of e country before the war. Since that time this section has been in a political wilderness, and he pointed out Oscar W. Underwood as the political Moses, who would lead us out of this bondage of non-recognition. He reviewed the political hostory of the floor leader of the party in the last session of Congress, pointing out the large number of bills he engineered through the lower house, notably those that provided for a reduction of the tariff on the necessities of life. He gave the figures in millions that the working man of the country would have been saved had the b'lls passed the presidential veto, and the Republican senate.

The distinguished Alabamian stated that since the Republicans got into power in the last election on the party pledges that they would revise the tariff downward, and had broken their party pledges, the tariff would be the main issue in this campaign, and he called attention to the fact that the Democrats have never lost a fight when the tariff was the issue. The fight that our revolutionary forefathers made against the English tax on tea, on account of the principle of the law, was mentioned. "What would these was laid on one article think, could find tha' their descendants are pay-Several good second-hand buggles ing a tax on four thousand articles?"

infan' industries till they became giants in strength, when they stuck their hands into politics and with the power of their campaign contributions to the Republican party, kept the high protectionists in power, and thus swayed the economic destiny of the millions of people of the nation.

"The Democratic party believes that this should be changed, and under the leadership of a man who has studied this tariff question for eighteen years, we will win this o clock, we have many truck firms, fight. When the tariff was put on steel Carnegie was worth ten million dollars. After three years operation of this law he was worth three hundred and sixty million. Now he is giving libraries all over the country, distributing this wealth they allowed him to get from all users of iron. The Democratic party says to such men let the people keep their money in their pockets and they will build their own libraries. (Applause.) Out of every $109 that the man of small means pays for necessities of life, $65 goes to the tariff the Townsend Euggy Company. barons. Who is the man that is bearding the lion in his den? He does not come from the North, the ice is hereby given that the East or 'he West; but from the Scuth, and he is Oscar W. Under-

The speaker said that he had met Underwood really had any chance participate in the exercises attend- ber of Commerce, for the executive to get the nomination, these men stating that they were for him, provided they thought he had a chance to win out. "I have only heard that question in the South. All the well Obvenient places as may be informed men in Washington, men tised by them from May 1 to from all sections of the country say that he has one of the finest of chances. He has grown more in above dates the books will popularity than any man I have ever losed and the penalty enforced failure to comply with terms of notice.

State Normal College, addresses by Dr. Smith, President Foust, Dr. night, that she turn and help give him a chance. It is the first time Joyner and Governor Kitchin, and a in a half century that the South poem by Prof. Stockard. has offered a candidate for the presidency, I call on every Democrat to harness for us. All who know give a chance. Every man in the died Thursday at his home in Hickfield is a good man. If I can't win ory. He was a brother of Rev. J. R. he art of common work. It must this fight without winning it over the Moose, Methodist missionary to Korunning against Mr. Underwood, then boro.

I don't care to win it." (Great applause.)

Mr. Heflin predicted that the Chicago conventiion would split up and name two candidates. The conservaconvention will name "Rosenfelt." Underwood has united all the discordant forces in the Democratic the voters are pretty well determined party in the great leadership of the majority in the house of representatives. The Baltimore convention will name br* one man. Champ Clark will lead on the first ballot, according to the prediction of the speaker, and Underwood will come second. Wilson will be third, and Harmen and others bringing up the rear. The first few ballots will reveal the strength of Underwood, and then the Southern delegation will come over to him Texas will get restiess and break away from Wilson Then when Champ Clark sees he can't win out, he will say that in his judgment the best thing to do is to give his strength to the Southerner, a man with whom he has worked for years, the man who has been floor leader of the Congress over which he has presided. Clark will want to retain his seat as speaker and will know that if Underwood does not win out, he will be strongly advocated for the speakership. Everything in the political trends towards Underwood. "You say he has no chance. Look at McKinley, floor leader, chairman of the ways and means committee, the presidency, Underwood floor leader, chairman of the ways and means committee, the presidency."

Again in the latter part of his speech Mr. Heflin went into a discussion of the tariff, telling of the death of competition and pointed out that Underwood was the best equipped man in the race to make the race on the tariff issue.

W. R. Land For the State Senate After being importuned by many of his friends throughout the county, Mr. W. R. Land was prevailed upon to become a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the state senate, announcing his candidacy at what might be termed the eleventh hour. His Work For the State Hospital.

In a short time now the people of North Carolina will be called upon to select two men to fill vacancies in the office of the corporation commission, and the people of North Carolina want to know what manner of men their servants are to be, and there is no way of testing the ability of one except by experience. Hon. S. G. Daniel, of Warren county, is being endorsed by the people who knew him for the position of corporation commissioner.

Mr. Daniel and I have been associated together as members of the board of directors of the state hospital for the past three years, and during that time I have had full opportunity to know the man-he has been tested in many ways, and every time he has shown a devotion to public duty and fearlessness of adverse criticism that demonstrates that he has the qualities needed in a corporation commissioner. Soon after Mr. Daniel qualified as a director of the state hospital the question of renewing with the power and light company the contract for furnishing electric lights for the institution came before the board, and after examining the electricians and the stewards of the institution, be was one of a minority of the board who believed that it would be a say ing to the institution to own and operate its own plant, a majority voting to renew the contract. Mr. Daniel voting no with a minority. Two years later the question was up again for another renewal of the contract. For the same reason as before, Mr. Daniel with a minority renewed his efforts for an individual plant at the hospital. The power company made a vigorous effort to defeat the plan for an individual plant. This "ight caused the majority board to investigate the matter further and fuller, and at this meeting the contract with the power and light company was rejected by a unanimous vote. This arrangement is a saving to that one 'nstitution of about $15,000 per year, and with Mr. Daniel's help this result is largely due. This incident demonstrates, the fact that Mr. Daniel is a public servant who forgets himself and does that which the public good demands. We need corporation commissioners who will treat the corporations justly but who do not-"Bend the pregnant hinges of the knee, that thrift may follow fawning." I think with Sam Daniel on the corporation commission the people would have a representative who could neither be disturbed by opposition nor cajoled by power or influence. I believe he is a just man and a fearless public servant. He is in sympathy with the honest laborer, whether it be on the farm (the place where he was born and raised,) in the shop, in the office, in the bank, or elsewhere.

Mr. Editor, the people of North Carolina, regardless of vocation, in my humble judgment, should elect Sam Daniel. He is one of the great, brainy, plain men of the state, and would serve us with fairness and Pinehurst.

There is talk of the opening of a direct road from Greensboro to Pinehurst through Randolph county that will be a good continuation of Guilford's macadam road to Pleasant Garden. The Randolph county commissicners have voted $3,500 for building the road leading south toward the Pinehurst road. The citizens of Asheboro and Randolph expect to raise a like amount by popular subscription, and it is stated that one gentleman will furnish the rest of the money needed to build an approximately $21,000 stretch of good crats Urged to Support His Candidacy For President. To the Democratic Voters of Guilford County: The undersigned would not presume to interfere with the people's choice for president, but we believe there is now a crisis in the history of the Democratic party, and whether the party is to stand for policies that only a few want or is to stand for the people is going to be determined this year.

The progressive sentiment through out the country is so strong that if plutocratic wealth influences the nomination of a Democratic presidential nominee, he will be beaten. and the party will take a long step towards the scalp pile.

We have no personal interest in any candidate, but we have an interest in what the candidates stand for and who is backing them. We have given these questions our best thought and have made as thorough investigation as we are capable of making, and the matter is of such vital interest to us and to the pubic that we feel it our duty to state what we believe to be the facts. We will be content to let the people decide whether we are mistaken, and whether we are unnecessarily alarmed over what the result will be if the wrong man is nominated by the Democratic party for presi-

We wish to preface what we have to say about the Democratic candidates for president with the statement that we have no disposition to be personally offensive to either of them or to any of their friends. We know that there are men supporting each of the candidates who are as patriotic as we claim to be, and are as desirous as we are of doing right, but we think they are not advised of the facts, or are mistaken as to

We feet it our duty to state the case as we see it and leave the people to settle it.

The candidates for the Democratic nomination for president are Clark, Harmon, Underwood and Wilson.

The fact that Underwood has not convention or in any primary except has permitted himself to be adverfised as a sectional candidate is strong evidence that he does not consider himself seriously as a candidate. The fact that Harmon and Clark have withdrawn from the race in North Carolina, and have not any other of the six states in which Underwood is a candidate is strong Underwood and do not consider him

Why, then, should the delegates from six Southern states be tied to Underwood as a hitching post un-

Harmon has been a candidate for instructed for him. His campaign him to lead the fight for tariff rehas utterly failed, and yet he is being used as a stalking horse for some the most skeptical as to the worthy

Champ Clark is the real candidate against Wilson. He voted for the seventy-five million dollar pension steal in order thereby to buy up the pension grafters and floating voters of the North and Northwest. If this bill had passed it would have cost North Carolina two million dollars per year for increase in pensions alone.

This, and the fact that he is backed and his campaign is financed by Hearst, makes him odious to the people of North Carolina.

If North Carolina goes for Underwood, it helps Clark and hurts Wil-

Underwood puts his candidacy on the ground that he is a Southerner and raises a sectional issue which he would not raise if he were a real candidate; and yet he is not more of a real Southerner than Wilson. Underwood was born in Kentucky, but was raised in Minnesota, and had as his father a Northern sympathizer. Wilson was born in Virginia and spent his boyhood in North Carolina, and was called North to teach after he was a mature man. Wilson is a believer in all machinery that gives the people more pow-

Underwood, in a recent speech in opposition to the initiative, referendum and recall, said that the people could pass on men but not on measures. There is always uncertainty as to what men will do, but with the facts before them the people can judge of measures better than their representatives have been doing for them.

Underwood comes from the district in which the steel trust has its largest Southern plant, and both he and his wife have their money in steel stocks, as he has publicly admitted. 35 years and have sold and adminis-He has had no protest from the tered many kidney medicines but steel trust against him as congressman. most outspoken reactionary senators and one who has stood for railroad interference in politics in his state.

Underwood has an abundance of money furn'shed for his campaign, as is evidenced by its liberal expenditure in circulating the entire state and purchasing newspaper advertisements of the most expensive character. The only money being used for Wilson in North Carolina, and we believe elsewhere, comes from personal friends who have no axe to grind nor business that they expect to help by getting advantages under the law. Governor Wilson's national manager has a standing offer to the managers of the other candidates to publish all there is to be known about how much money has been received and from whom, and what it has been spent for.

The Democratic primaries in Guilford county are to be held on Saturday, the 18th of May, and the county convention on Saturday, the 25th of May. Under the primary law applicable to Guilford county, all Democrats can come as delegates from their respec'ive townships to the county convention. Let us urge you to talk with other Democrats and see to it that your township is epresented by Wilson men at the county convention on the 25th of

This is of too much importance to the people for any of us to neglect or delay looking after it. Please do not assume that some one else will attend to what you can do in this matter.

Vate For Simmons.

To the Editor of The Patriot:

The Democrats should vote for the re-election of Senator Simmons, the patriotic worker for the good of all the people, and not a blind partisan. We are proud of his record in North Carolina and in Washington as well. Investigate for yourself, and don't take the word of the selfish, ambitious governor, who cannot point with pride to his own record, but tries to read Simmons out of the party as he attempted to read Craig out of the party and raise confusion in the ranks so as to carry out his selfish end. He had as well dispute the divinity of Christ as the Democracy of such a nobleman as Senator

See what the people think of Craig by preparing to give him the unanimous nomination for governor of the state, and see what the Democrats in the United States senate two years and has only four votes think of Simmons when they select form. This of itself should satisfy leadership of the two men.

Respectfully yours, S. W. H. SMITH. Guilford College, May 14.

A QUESTION OF FAIR PLAY. Some figures recently compiled by the county auditor show that Greens borc pays nearly half the county road tax, and yet receives no part of it in return. At the last meeting of the commissioners several Greensboro men appeared before the board and asked for a crumb from this tempting pile, but the commissioners did not feel inclined to make any concessions at that time. The figures referred to are given below and show just how much road tax each township pays, the first column showning the amount of road tax levied and the sceond the amount appropriated: Washington

The above shows that	the city o

Greensboro pays considerably more than half of the same, while the fact remains that so far not a cent of it has ever been spent on the city's streets-it has all some to the country. That this, in a large measure, is unfair, we believe even our friends in the country will admit, The city should pay its proportionate part of the country expense, but at the same time if money is to be spent in public improvements, should not the city receive its proportionate share?

Recently the law was so amended that the commissioners were enabled to spend money in incorporated towns, improving streets that connect with macedam roads. High Point and Gibsonville have profited by this, but Greensboro has been denied a place at the trble. Of course the city is dependent upon the councertain obligations that should be respected, but it is equally true that the county owes much to the city for the progress that has come to Guilford in the last decade or two. It is the height of injustice to deny the portion of the county that pays more than half the road tax to receive nothing in return. In no state but one where our present antiquated taxing system is in vogue is such a thing possible.

In this connection attention might be called to the fact that, although paying half the tax, Greensboro has not had a member of the board of county commissioners for many years. High Point, much smaller in size and paying only a third as much tax, is always accorded a place on the board. We believe that the sense of fairness of the voters will cause them to give Greensboro a place on the board in the future.

The speech of Congressman Heflin, in the court house last night, was the most forceful and eloquent political utterance heard in Greensboro in many a day. Mr. Heflin was advertised to speak in behalf of the presidential candidacy of Hon. Oscar W. Underwood, and he performed his duty well. He made a clear-cut, sound Democratic speech, with the tariff as the basis, and held the closest attention of his audience for two hours. He made it plain that Unlerwood is the greatest tariff expert and one of the greatest is entitled to the support of all Democrats who believe in a tariff for revenue only. If Mr. Heflin could maries are held, there would be no doubt as to how the vote of this state would be cast in the Baltinore convention. Mr. Hellin, who is still a young man, is an orator of the highest order, and many who heard him last night agree that he ranks with Vance and Aycock, and that is high praise in North Carolina.

The uncertainty of life is illustrated again in the sudden death of King Frederick, of Denmark, who dropped dead from heart failure ney trouble, and she suffered much while alone on a stroll in Hamburg, Germany, Tuesday night. The body lay in a morgue several hours before it was identified.

While the robin and meadow lark are accepted as true harbingers of spring, the musical trill of the bullfrog on a quiet evening following a warm day furnishes more conclusive proof that spring has come.

The cherry slug, which also feeds on the leaves of young pear trees, and its second cousin, which eats rose leaves, may be put out of business by sprinkling the leaves when the dew is on or after a rain with fine road dust.

Many a farm dog has come to grief through biting at the spokes of a swiftly moving automobile, not having had it brought to his attention before that this is a different proposition from chasing a skittish horse driven by some passerby.

A merchant of the writer's acquaintance had a sack of prime clover seed stolen the other night. To any one who has priced the commodity this spring it scarcely need be said that this offense hardly comes under the head of petty larceny.

A boy climbs up and makes some thing of himself in life or sows his wild oats and goes to the devil largely as a result of the use he makes of his spare hours. Success and happiness as well as failure and misery are wrapped up in them, and the thoughtful lad wil have a care how he spends them.

There is little question that the high cost of living today is traceable to quite an extent to the high prices that have to be paid for the necessaries of life, but it is also in part due to the fact that the list of what we deem necessaries has been considerably enlarged over what it was a generation ago.

The sweet peas may be planted as soon as the frost As out of the ground and will stand dry weather the better if they are put in to a depth of from four to six inches. While the disk drill is to be strongly recommended for use when the soil is in a fine and mellow condition. In a good many sections of the country where bad roads are to b found during many weeks of the year the prospects are good that rural free delivery service will be discontinued altogether, the postal department hav ing come to the decision that if the farmers living along a given route are not sufficiently interested in the service to keep the roads in passable condition they shall not have their mail distributed.

The thorough stirring up of the es tablished alfalfa field with the spring tooth harrow will not only destroy hordes of small weeds just getting a start, but will make the surface soil more mellow and thus conserve the moisture. The field may look sort of sick when the job is done, but it take. something stiffer than a spring tooth harrow to kill an alfalfa root that is to an inch and a half in diameter.

The fellow who has he!ped about the house just a little bit ought to have sufficiently adequate idea of the extent of a woman's work to be persuaded without being hit on the head with a sled stake that she will have her hands full if she does the work about the house as it ought to be done without bringing in the wood, pumping and carrying water, damping slops and a whole lot of other things that a man wouldn't put up with for five minutes if he were in the woman's place.

The writer's home is pestered with mice new and then, just as are those of other folks. The little wretches had been waxing fat on some stale com meal and were having high jinks at over the house. It got tiresome. We baited one of the little snap traps with a small piece of cheese, tying it to the tongue of the trap. Four of the pests were caught inside of thirty-six hours and there is enough bait left for four more. The colony has been cleaned out, and now the writer and his good wife sleep in peace.

THE PLY CROP.

While it is impossible to forecast t weather or tell just how large the different crops will be, there need be no guesswork on the question of flies. It is safe to take it for granted that there will be the usual number of the dirty pests. It is true there are not as many of them about right now as there will be in eight weeks, but it is none too early to begin waging a vigorous campaign against them. The fight against them should be waged along two general lines-first, reducing their breeding places to a minimum, and, next, to destroy them with traps and poison as soon as they put in an appearance. The several prepared fly dopes are excellent, but care should be taken to see that they are kept out of the reach of little children. Another dope that is not harmful to the human is made by adding a couple of tablespoonfuls of formalin to a pint of water and placing this in shallow dishes where the flies gather. A little sugar and a few drops of vinegar will serve to increase its drawing power. The most effective trap is made by inserting a cone made of wire screen with a small hole in the tip in the bottom of a barrel or smaller receptacle with wire sides. made fly tight. This should be put where the flies gather, raised three or four inches on supports and a dish of some sweet stuff placed beneath to more effectively draw the flies. They will creep up this cone into the trap, and the more flies there are trapped the more will want to get into it.

PRESERVING EGGS.

Now that the season of cheaper eggs is at hand there may be some readers who will want to preserve some for fall and winter use. One of the best methods of a good many that have been tried is by the use of the water glass solution, or sodium silicate. This chemical costs about 30 cents a quart and can be got at most any drug store. This should be thoroughly mixed with water that has been boiled and cooled at the rate of a quart of the water glass to nine quarts of water. The best receptacle to use is an earthenware vessel, which should be scalded out before being used. Only clean, fresh and uncracked eggs should be put down. The jar containing the eggs should be put in a cool place and covered with sacking or a board cover to prevent evaporation of the solution. Experience shows that eggs laid in April and May will keep longer than those secured in other months.

WHY IT PAYS.

Briefly, the philosophy of the advantage of clover growing lies in this fact -that, while a ton of clover hay takes from the soil about $8 in fertilizing elements, there is added to the soil through the root systems, which take nitrogen from the air, about the same volume of fertilizers. This means that one can grow clover and just about keep even. However, if one feeds this clover hay on the farm and returns the manure to the soil the farm will be the gainer by approximately $4 worth of fertilizers for every ton of hay pro duced. It is due to this fact that see tions where dairying is carried on and where cattle and sheep are fed become more fertile and prosperous as the years go by.

WHY THEY STAY.

Folks living in security on the highland watersheds, far removed from the Missouri and Mississippi river botpersist in living where the water level in these rivers is higher than the beds they sleep in at night and where in time of spring freshets they are likely to be drowned out of house and home. The secret of this persistence may be accounted for in part by the fact that many of these people are of limited resources and have not the wherewithal to buy land elsewhere, but in larger part because these lowlands, overflowed as they are with the silt laden waters at floodtime, are as fertile and productive as was ever the valley of

A LIVE STOCK SPECIAL.

The good work which is being done along the line of animal husbandry in the Wisconsin State Agricultural college at Madison is being spread abroad in the southern and western parts of the state this spring by means of the running of live stock specials, officials of the several railroads co-operating in admirable fashion with representatives from the college. Not only are led tures on the advantage of raising improved breeds of stock given, but representatives of the several kinds of domestic animals are taken along as object lessons to drive home the arguments presented in the talks. It is a good work that is being done and means benefit for all parties concerned.

"It is my business." With an effort Dr. Sterndale recovered his ruffled composure.

"Thank you," said Holmes. "I may say, in answer to your original question, that I have not cleared my mind entirely on the subject of this case, but I have every hope of reaching some conclusion. It would be premature to say more."

I saw him no more until the evening, when he returned with a slow step and haggard face which assured me that he had made no great progress with his investigation. He glanced at a telegram which awaited him, and

"From the Plymouth hotel, Watson," he said. "I learned the name of it from the vicar and I wired to make certain that Dr. Leon Sterndale's account was true. It appears that he did indeed spend last night there, and that he has actually allowed some of his baggage to go on to Africa, while he returned to be present at this investigation. What do you make of that, Watson?"

threw it into the grate.

"He is deeply interested." "Deeply interested-yes. There is a thread here which we have not yet grasped, and which might lead us through the tangle. Cheer up, Watson, for I am very sure that our material has not yet all come to hand. When it does, we may soon leave our difficulties behind us.'

Little did I think how soon the

have forgotten the horrible stuffness of the room when we arrived, though the servant had thrown open the window. That servant, I found upon in-quiry, was so ill that she had gone to her bed. You will admit, Watson, that these facts are very suggestive. In each case there is evidence of a poisonous atmosphere. In each case, also, there is combustion going on in the room-in the one case a fire, in the other a lamp. The fire was needed, but the lamp was lit-as a comparison of the oil consumed will show -long after it was broad daylight. Why? Surely because there is some connection between three things—the burning, the stuffy atmosphere, and, finally, the madness or death of those unfortunate people. That is clear, is it not?"

"It would appear so."

"At least we may accept it as a working hypothesis. We will suppose, then, that something was burned in each case which produced an atmosphere causing strange toxic effects. Very good. In the arst instance—that of the Tregennis family—this substance was placed in the fire. Now, the window was shut, but the fire would naturally carry fumes to some extent up the chimney. Hence, one would expect the effects of the poison to be less than in the second case, where there was less escape for the vapor. The resulf seems to indicate that it was so, since in the first case only the woman, who had presumably the more sensitive organism, was killed, the others exhibiting that temporary or permanent lunacy which is evidently the first effect of the drug. In the second case the result was complete. The facts, therefore, seem to bear out the theory of a poison which worked by combustion.

"With this train of reasoning in my head I naturally looked about in Mortimer Tregennis' room to find some remains of this substance. The obvious place to look was the talc shield or smoke guard of the lamp. There, sure enough, I perceived a number of flaky ashes, and round the edges a fringe activity. He was out on the lawn, it of brownish powder, which had not yet been consumed. Half of this I took, as you saw, and I placed it in an envelope.

"Why half, Holmes?"

Mother's Day Celebrated at Mt. Hops.

A very large congregation assembled at Mt. Hope Sunday. The services were very impressive. Much of the time the congregation was baptized in tears.

Brother W. A. Welker gave a short history of mother's day; also read a proclamation signed by the governor of Oklahoma calling the attention of his people to the observance of the same, which proclamation was written by his 16 year old daughter, she having recently lost her mother.

Recitation by Miss Ruth Holt; sclo by little Lizzie Tesh; appropriate songs by the choir.

At the close of a special sermon by the pastor, Rev. Clarence Woods offered a very touching prayer, this being his church home and the field or his father and mother's activity, both of whom are lying in the Lula Riley by the sixth and seventh churchyard.

The following resolutions were then adopted:

Whereas, In the providence of our Heavenly Father, we have been permitted to meet on this, the second Sunday in May, 1912, at Mt. Hope church to celebrate mother's day, and whereas in realization of the arduous labor, multiplied cares, privation and great responsibilities resting on her, be it resolved:

First, That we express to them in a vote of thanks our appreciation of their sacrifices and untiring efforts for our comfort.

Second, That we pledge ourselves as husband and children to do all we can to make their lives pleasant

Third, That we pray that the services of this day may give them fresh inspiration to greater service and larger devotion to the home, the Sunday school and church, and that when their work is completed they may be received in the home above with great rejoicing, carrying many laurels with them as a result of their devotions.

At the conclusion of the exercises n the opera house, the line of march was formed for Greene Hill cemetery, where the graves of the Confederate veterans buried there were decorated with simple but impressive ceremonies. Returning from the cemetery, the veterans repaired to the Smith Memorial building, where they were guests of the Daughters at a bountiful dinner.

COUNTRY CLUB OPENED.

Greensboro's Handsome and Elegantly Equipped Social Institution.

The Greensboro Country Club, which is located north of the city, on the extension of North Elm street. was formally cpened with a reception Friday afternoon and evening. In addition to the members of the club, many invited guests were present to enjoy the hospitality of the occasion. Meetings of the stockholders and directors were held Saturday, the stockholders meeting first and reelecting the following five directors, whose terms had expired: Ceasar Cone A. L. Brooks C. H. Andrews C. C. Taylor and L. J. Brandt. These, with the ten other members whose erms are for two and three years enstitute the board.

The directors then met and elect ed the following officers: E. J. Justice, president; R. C. Hood, vice president: Carter Dalton, secretary and treasurer. These, with H. R. Bush and A. W. McAlister, constitute the executive committee.

A pleasant incident of the meeting of the directors was the presentation from the board to Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hood of a silver hand of the appreciation of Mr. Hood's services, as chairman of the building committee, in the construction of the building and as a token of Mr. and Mrs. Hood's labor in selecting and arranging the beautiful and tasteful furnishings and decorations. Hon. A. L. Brooks made the presentation for the board in a graceful and happy speech.

Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows.

The North Carolina Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows, which was in session in Raleigh last week, adjourned to meet next year in Greensboro. Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Charles Dewey, Goldsboro, grand master; M. L. Shipman, Raleigh, deputy grand master; B. H. Woodell, Raleigh, grand secretary; J. R. Jones, Wilmington, grand treasurer, and Frank Evans, Greenville, grand warden.

The Grand Lodge voted an increase from $1.40 to $1.70 in the per capita tax for maintenance of the Grand Lodge and the orphans' home at Goldsboro, the increase being for the benefit of the home. Last year the maintenance was $20,000, and this increased per capita tax provides $5,000 additional.

Wish of Maj. Archie Butt Impossible of Realization.

Washington, May 10.-The will of Maj. Archibald W. Butt, victim of the Titanic, filed here today, disclosed the fact that the one great wish of the president's aide is impossible of realization. It was that he should be buried in Arlington National cemetery and that the family name might be perpetuated there by a modest monument over his grave. In his will the young army officer had set aside $500 for this purpose. Major Butt left his personal effects to his two brothers and provided that the residue of his estate be converted into cash and divided between the eldest children of the two brothers.

In view of the disclosures in the will there is a strong likelihood that a movement will be started here necessarily co-extensive with looking to a suitable memorial to Major Butt, although his last resting and opportunities of Ameri- place was in the trackless ocean.

SOCIALIST DISFRANCHISED.

Political Affiliation Unfitted Him For Duties of Citizenship.

On the ground that he had committed a fraud when he swore to uphold the principles of the constitution of the United States, Judge Cornelius H. Hanford, of the United States court at Seattle, Wash., has dered the cancellation of the citizenshiip papers of Leonard Oleson, a Socialist agitator.

This is the first case on record in which a man has been deprived his citizenship because of alleged seditious utterances, and it is construed as a direct and far-reaching attack on Socialism.

Oleson received his final papers from the Pierce county Superior court on January 10, 1910. He is alleged to have participated in the disturbances involving the Industrial Workers of the World in the Northwest, and last week the United States district attorney began proceedings before Judge Hanford to revoke Oleson's citizenship. In his decision ed. Mr. Roosevelt cannot go over Judge Hanford said:

the complete destruction of property to call themselves Republicans. rights in this country. He expressby the use of the ballot, and when will be no use for it.

"The notion that citizens of this country may absolve themselves from allegiance to the constitution of the United States otherwise than by exnation generally and cordially admits to its citizenship aliens having the recognizing the principles of natural law called the law of self-preservation, it restricts the privilege of becoming naturalized to those whose sentiments are compatible with genuine allegiance to the existing government as defined by the oath they are required to take. Those who believe in and propagate theories hostile to the constitution are barred.

"The evidence in this case does not have to be analyzed to determine his (Oleson's) attitude. He has no recognizance for the constitution of the United States, no intention to support or defend it against its enemies and is not well disposed to ward the police and tranquillity of the people. His propaganda is to create turmoil and to end in chaos."

A good many persons seem to be considerably perturbed in mind beause a certain very rich man who died recently under exceptionally tragic circumstances made such inadequate provision for his young widow that it is estimated that she will receive an income of only $355,-000 a year, or about $1,000 a day. To be sure, the young woman is said to be perfectly satisfied with the set-Dr. Peacock in Trinity's Law School. tlement made upon her, and no one in the family has shown any disposition to make any protest of any kind, but some busybodies who have no personal interest in the matter whatever have begun to talk about having the law chnaged, so that such rank injustice will not be permissible hereafter. The amount of interest we can take in our neighbors' affairs, especially when they are very rich, is always amazing.

War to the Knife Between President Taft and Roosevelt,

New York World.

Mr. Roosevelt cannot support Mr. Taft for president. Mr. Taft cannot support Mr. Roosevelt for president. If either is nominated, the other must bolt.

Mr. Taft's nomination should mean two Republican parties and two Republican tickets, for Mr. Roosevelt cannot escape from the situation that he himself has created. He has attacked Mr. Taft in such a manner that not only will it be impossible for him to support the president, but it will be impossible for him to refrain from opposing the president's re-election

In case Mr. Taft is nominated, Mr. Roosevelt cannot retire from the campaign. He has described Mr. Taft as a dishonorable man, wholly unfit for the high office he holds, and it is Mr. Roosevelt's duty to see that such a president is not re-electto the Democrats, for they will not "He (Oleson) claimed to have a nominate him, and Mr. Roosevelt clear understanding of the constitu- can exert no great influence in the tion, and he knew that by one of its campaign except as a candidate. He has said that a great principle is at stake that object is obtained the political and that Rooseveltism is a menace government of the country will be to American institutions. Such beentirely abrogated, because there ing the case, it is Mr. Taft's solemn duty to fight it until the polls close on election night. He cannot honorably do less.

Such a course could not do violence to Mr. Taft's conscience. He patriation is a dangerous heresy. The is a Republican, but it is certain that there will be nothing in the Democratic platform so antagonistic qualifications prescribed by law, but to his principles as Roosevelt and a third term.

To be sure, a compromise nomination at Chicago is possible, but it veltism presents an irrepressible conflict which must be fought out at the polls and might better be fought out now than later. If a compromise candidate were nominated. Mr. Rocsevelt would proceed to cut his throat after election as he cut Mr. Taft's throat. Mr. Roosevelt would be a third-term candidate in 1916 as he is a third-term candidate now. The country would have four years more of third-term agitation with no compensating advantages.

Mr. Taft cannot compromise with such an opponent. He cannot make terms with such an opponent. It must be war to the knife until the nomination is settled, and if necessary war to the knife until the votes are counted. In the words of Stephen A. Douglas, "There can be no neutrals in such a contest."

A Change For the Better. Roanoke-Chowan Times.

We think we see a change for the better in the manner of conducting political campaigns in North Carolina. Since the elimination of the large ignorant vote by the adoption of the constitutional amnedment, there is no need of abuse and misrepresentation in conducting campaigns in this state, and it seems to be growing less every year. For our part, we are not going crazy over any candidate whose chief stock in trade is misrepresentation of the other fellow. It is too bad to abuse and misrepresent candidates of the opposite party, and when it comes to waging such a campaign among ourselves it is unbeafable. We have heard of no abuse and misrepresentation in Northampton this

To the Democratic Voters of Guilford County:

If I am nominated and elected county commissioner for Guilford county, I wil' spend one day in each month at the court house for first twelve months after I am elected, free to everybody, giving information on the following subjects: How to improve the farms in Guilford county, the kind of stock to raise, how to make money raising poultry.

Improve your farms; then you will have some money to spend when you go to town. Good farms make prosperous cities and reduces living expenses. I spent part of two winters at the A. & M. College, Raleigh, and I also have a lot of the best agricultural books that can be bought anywhere. I don't cleim to know all about agriculture, but I think I can give some instruction that will be a help to the farmers. C. U. HINSHAW.

The lure of the earth is working. One gets tired of the hard pavements and longs to get out where he can leigh's motor standing in front of feel the soft grass beneath his feet, He gets tired of high, bare, brick walls and smoke and soot and dust and longs for the open country; he longs to see the buds that are opening on the trees, their tender green, or the bright red of some oaks, showing in fine contrast to the sombre trunks and branches of the trees. One tires of hustling over street crossings with eyes alert for passing street cars or motors, and thinks of the lanes and byways in the country where there will be leisure to watch the birds building their nests, or listen to the music of a purling brook as it runs on its way; or note the action of some timid, inoffensive little quadruped.

The heart expands in the country as it cannot do penned in by narrow walls. One has time to "look from nature, up to nature's God. In the country one can more fully realize the greatness of creation, can grasp more clearly the wide extent, the great variety and the perfection of all created things down to the tiniest petal of a little blossom. All speak of a great and wise Creator. Go to the country and recreate yourself. If you cannot go to the country, go to some of the beautiful parks provided by the city.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, C., is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. HOW TO PRESERVE YOUTH AND BEAUTY.

One great secret of youth and beauty for the young woman or the mother is the proper understanding of her womanly system and well-being. Every woman, young or old, should lase herself and her physical make up. A good way to arrive at this knowledge is to get a good doctor book, such for instance, as "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," by R. V. Pierce, M. D., which can readily be procured by sending thirty-one cents for cloth-bound copy, addressing Dr. Pierce, at Buffalo, N. Y.

The womanly system is a delicate mechine which can only be compared to the intricate mechanism of a beautiful watch which will keep in good running order only with good care and the proper ciling at the right time, so that the delicate mechanism may not be were set. Very many times young women get old or run down before their time through ignorance and the improper handling of this human mechanism. Mental depression, a confused head, backache, headache, or had depression, a confused head, backache, headache, or hold fashes and many symptoms of derangement of the womanly system can be avoided by a proper understanding of what to do, in those trying times that come to all women. One great secret of youth and beauty for the you the proper understanding of her womanly system and

Mrs. G. H. WILLIAMS, of Lynnhaven, Va., wrote: "It is six years since my health gave way. I had female trouble and all the doctors (I employed three) said I would die. I was not able to do my work, had to hire someone all the time. Finally, I read in the papers about Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and decided to try it. I had not taken but can bottle until found it had done me good. I took; in all five bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and two of Golden Medical Discovery,' and now I am able to do all my housework, and have gained fourteen pounds. I advise all women who suffer from female trouble to try your 'Favorite Prescription.' It's the only medicine on earth."

Not one of these authors, ancient or modern, has been bale to produce anything in which some superior person versed in the lore of the latest text-books on propriety of usage, is not able to point out numerous lapses from the pure and perfect diction which the critic is confident that he displays in his own utterance. BACK TO NORTH CAROLINA.

Experience of a Young Man Who Was Lured to the West. Knoxville Sentinel

"Believe me," said a young North Carolinian as he was about to board a train for Charlotte at the Southern passenger station Monday morning; "I'm going back to No'th Calliny, and I'm going to stay. No more of California and the West for me, at least, not when it comes to looking for a

"I've been away nine months, and spent most of the time looking for a job. I ena i up in a hospital, where I whiled away a few weeks with nothing familiar but the strains of 'Dixie' and 'Home, Sweet Home,' wafted through my window from a graphophone, and of course they added to my feeling of contentment. I don't think with me far, far away from home. Why, I've got a dog back in Charlotte I think I'm going to kiss when I get home. "Take it from me, if you're in Cal-

All they want is your money, and when they find out a fellow is a tenderfoot, they'll come pretty near getting it. Jobs? There's nothing doing in San Francisco. When the street hits you for a dime to buy a sinker (sandwich) with, it's a good place to get away from. There are 40,000 men in San Francisco hunting jobs, this very day. Why, I dropped around to the Y. M. C A. employment office to see if I could hitch on to a job there, and found more than thirty ahead of me, all hunting the same thing I was, something to do.

They imagine that because of the exposition to be held there in 1915. work is plentiful and money as thick as pebbles at the bottom of a creek bed, but they haven't even started on the exposition yet.

"I left three Easterners back in 'Frisco in tears because they didn't have the price of a ticket back home. And I left another doing the hardest work in his life, trying to get enough money together to buy transportation back to North Carolina, When I left, he had it figured down to where he had to get in fourteen more days to voters, when marking their ballots have the price of a ticket ahead; and then he's coming.

"California is a great country, if put the cross for E. L. Daughtridge you've got plenty of money. I expect to go back some of these days-maybe for the exposition in 1915-but it will be only for a trip. Me for good old No'th Calliny," sang the young Tar Heel, as he dashed for his

C. A. Wharton For County Commis-

The only candidate this year on the county ticket east of Greensboro is C. A. Wharton, who is a candidate to succeed himself as a member of the board of county commissicners. In view of this fact eastern Guilford is anxious to have the other portions of the county remem ber that this is all that the east is asking this year, and it is hoped that Mr. Wharton may receive the united support of the other sections of the county. For some time Mr. Wharton has been serving very acceptably as a member of the board of commissioners, and he is well known throughout the county as one of our most progressive citizens; a successful business man, well fitted in every way for this important positicn. His friends are looking to the various sections of the county to give him their united support. W. T. WHITSETT.

AND REPORTED FOR THE PARTY.

The Misses Chilton's School for Girls was situated half a mile outside the village of Rockwell, and the number of pupils averaged forty. It was in part what is called a school of honor; the young ladies were permitted to take walks in the country, and visit the postoffice and candy stores in the village without being accompanied by a guard. It was understood that each pupil was on her honor not to flirt or elope.

The eldest Miss Chilton was forty-Your years old, and her sister four years younger, and neither of them had ever been in love or expected to be. They were cut out for old maids and were very well satisfied.

For eight long years not a single one of the many good-looking girls of the Chilton School had firted or eloped. It had given the Chilton sisters a sense of security such as a police force could not have established. It is only fair to explain that the farmers' sons within two miles of the school were always too busy chopping wood or hoeing potatoes to firt, and that the village was a staid old place never visited by drummers.

Before putting the girls on their honor the Misses Chilton had carefully looked the field over. There were half a dozen young men, but they were lame and halt and homely. There was Deacon Bradshaw, a widower who dyed his hair and acted colty now and then, but the sisters figured that he would not dare go beyond certain bounds. No; the place was safe, and that was why the shock came with such force when it did come. There was a shock one summer morning. One of Mr. Dupont's powder magazines didn't blow up and level the cornstalks for ten miles around, but the shock shook Chilton School from cellar to garret.

Fanny, the elder sister, returned from the village one forenoon and fell in other sister's arms in hysterical mood. When she had been soothed and petted for five minutes she controlled her emotions sufficiently to exclaim:

"Flora, it is our ruin!" "What!"

"There's—there's a young man in the village!"

"N-0-0-0!" "I have seen him with my own eyes!" "Impossible, sister!"

"And have found out all about him!" "And he is an escaped convict?"

"Not exactly that, but almost as bad. Oh, sister, we shall have to close our school within a month!" "Rut tell me."

The postmastership at the village of Rockwell had been held by an old war veteran for many years. He was failing all the time, and had finally sent out west and brought on a nephew of his and made him assistant postmaster. This nephew was a young man named Clarence Sprague, and for smartness and good looks his like had never been seen in the village. He arrived one evening and took up his duties next morning. When half a dozen girls from the Chilton school rushel in at 11 o'clock, giggling, laughing and cutting up, there was a new face at the general delivery window-a new face and a good-looking one. The owner of that face smiled at them and flirted with them, and the bevy ran out with a great clatter and slapped each other on the back. Their day had come at

It is not to be imagined that those girls returned to the school to give the news to the old maid sisters and plead for protection. They returned to tell other girls, but to swear them to secrecy. The "discovery" was to be kept inviolate as long as possible. It was two weeks before the blow felf. During that fortnight there was more flirting in Rockwell than since first pioneer. Then the elder Miss Chilton dropped into the postoffice and saw with her own eyes and almost fell over in a faint. There were those who told her about the firting. and when she reached home she was in a hysterical condition.

The first thing was an edict to prerent the pupils from visiting the village without permission, and there was dissatisfaction at once. There were even threats to leave the school. After three or four days of troubled minds the old maids solved the problem. They called on the postmaster and informed him that he must at once remove his nephew."

"But why?" asked the old vet, who had heard nothing of the gossip. "Because he-he firts with our pupils!"

"Don't blame him a darned bit! If was a young feller I'd do the same." "But he musn't! You hear-he musn't! It will break up our school." "Nonsense! If you'd done a little firting yourselves in days gone by you'd have been all the better for it. want Clarence here, and here he will stay."

"Sir, we shall appeal to the postmaster-general!" was the awful threat, as the old maids retired.

And appeal they did, and right on the ground, too, that the assistant postmaster at Rockwell was a flirt and bringing discredit on the department. It isn't likely that the official read the letter or reply, but some clerk who sympathized with the assistant answered:

"Flirtations are not forbidden by the rules of this department unless they seriously interfere with the work of the official, and we do not think that is the case in this instance."

The Misses Chilton had been sure they could oust the young man and drive him back toward sunset, and the failure was a great disappoint-

"I'll tell you what we must do," said the elder sister, as the case was talked over. "We must not forbid the young ladies going into town, but we must select the most steady and demure among them and have her act as chaperon for the rest. She can take up so much of that young man's time that he will have none left for flirtations."

These two old maids, brought up on oatmeal and the New Testament, and neither having ever been escorted home from prayer meeting by a man, thought they knew all about girl-nature! The "demure" girl they made chaperon was the biggest flirt in the school. She was a model chaperon while within sight of the school buildings, but once the village was reached it was:

"Now, girls, scatter and have a good time, but don't too many of you jam into the postoffice at once."

And as the days went past the Misses Chilton grew secure and complacent, and now and then the elder

"Sister Flora, you must give me credit for perspicacity in this case." "I do, sister Fanny," was the reply. But for you our school would have been broken up by this time. Have there been any further reports of

"Not a one, sister." "How grand to be able to under stand human character!" Two weeks later and then the whole world seemed to be spinning around like a top. One afternoon the "de mure" chaperon was missed. Search was made, even under the beds and in the bureau drawers. It was extended into the country, but in vain. No one had seen a demure young lady of steady appearance paddling along through the dust. There were two persons in the school that got no sleep that night. When morning came they went to the postoffice in the hope of striking a clew. They were not disappointed. The old veteran was on duty, and at sight of them he rubbed his hands together and said: "Come right in, ladies; I have solved the problem!" "We are looking for Miss Blank," was the reply.

"And you've come to the right place. I lent Clarence my horse and buggy yesterday to drive off and marry her, and now all your troubles are o'er. He can't flirt with any of the rest of the school!"

Secret of the Sea.

A secret of the sea was partially re vealed when the schooner Lily put in for water to a small island a hundred miles south of the Hawaiian islands A small cabin was found sheltered in a grove of palms, and, on crossing the threshold, the sailors were horrified to find the dead body of a man, sitting in a chair, his hand resting on a table, and firmly clasping a small Upon searching, there was book. found a compass, watch and chain and some cooking utensils. The book was a diary in which the man had set down the day's happenings, but not a word as to his name or how he came there. From the entries it was determined that he had been on the little island three years. The body was buried, and so ended the life of this unknown Crusoe.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

By A. W. MACY.

A CONSCIENTIOUS ADMIRAL.

During the Boxer rebellion in China the warships of eight allied nations, England, France, Germany, Italy, Austria, Russia, Japan and the United States, were lying at the mouth of the Pel-Ho river, leading to Peking. On the banks of the river, and guarding its entrance, were the Taku forts, garrisoned by Chlnese soldiers. At a critical juncture of the rebellion seven of the admirals united in a demand for the evacuation or surrender of the forts, the demand being accompanied by a threat to fire on them unless it was immediately complied with. But Rear Admiral Kempff, in command of the American squadron, refused to Join in the demand, on the ground that he was not authorized to initiate any act of war with a nation with which his country was at peace. His instructions, he claimed, did not permit him to commit an overt act of war The other commanders argued and insisted, but he steadfastly refused. It is a part of an admiral's business to fight, and it was no doubt a great temptation to join in the bombardment. Had he yielded, he probably would have been sustained by public opinion at home. But he had the moral courage to stand by his concestion of his duty under his instructions.

Flagged Train With Shirt.

Tearing his shirt from his back an Ohio man flagged a train and saved it from a wreck, but H. T. Alston, Raleigh, N. C., once prevented a wreck with Electric Eitters. "I was in a terrible plight when I began to use them," he writes, "my stomach, head, back and kidneys were all badly affected and my liver was in bad condition, but four bottles of Electric Bitters made me feel like a new man." A trial will convince you of their matchless merit for any stomach, liver or kidney trouble. Price 50 cents at Fariss-Klutz Drug Company.

My Lady's Limousine

Constight, sore, by Associated Literary Brass

The taxi in which Jimmy Rogers was being rushed uptown from the Pennsylvania station came to an abrupt stop. It was only Fifty-ninth street and when the chauffeur returned from a quick examination to tell Rogers that he could not take him no farther Jimmy swore softly under his breath.

"Great Scott, man! I have to be up at Seventy-eighth street in five minutes!"

"Sorry, boss, but this here machine won't run another block tonight."

Jimmy looked from the chauffeur's imperturbable face to his own large suitcase and the three-foot box of American Beauties that he was taking to his hostess. No! The thing was impossible! He simply must have a taxi.

In desperation Jimmy put his head out the window and hailed the first machine that passed. It was a great limousine and it came to a stop boside the taxi.

"I'll give you a fiver if you take me up to Seventy-eighth street," Jimmy promised the chauffeur.

"Jump in quick!" came the ready response.

Rogers lost no time. Within the luxurious car Jimmy stretched his long legs and sniffed the scented air. "My lady's limousine," thought Rogers and glanced at the fur-lined carriage slippers on the floor.'

Suddenly an idea struck Jimmy.
Why not show a little appreciation for the timely use of her car? He would leave one great American Beauty in the ware by the mirror.

the vase by the mirror.

The rose was scarcely in its place before the machine came to a stop.

Jimmy sprang out lightly and for the chauffeur's sake, quickly.

"Here you are, old man," he gave the man his money; "you've done me a good service."

"Mum's the word," grinned the chauffeur, and went swiftly off to call for his mistress at the opera.

If Amy Wade counted only eleven American Beauties in the box Jimmy gave her she did not mention the fact. "We thought-you were lost," she told him later, when he entered the drawing room. "I hope nothing happened?" "Nothing but a broken-down taxi," laughed Jimmy.

"Well see that you don't lose your heart to any of the pretty lowa girls tought and break that"

tonight and break that."

Dick Wade added: "There'll be a bunch of them there."

"Wade did not exaggerate," decided Jimmy, when an hour later his eyes traveled from one beautiful face to another. Blondes, brunettes and even titian-crowned heads were there among that throng of the lows society.

Mrs. Wade was approaching him, and with her was a vision in yellow. At least Jimmy thought she was a vision until he found that he was holding a very warm tingling hand within his own

"I have told you all about Jimmy Rogers, Faith, so be good to him—he is all alone in this big city." Amy Wade cast a laughing glance at her two friends and went in search of her husband.

"So I must be good to you," Faith Carter looked at Rogers from under her lashes and decided the task would not be difficult.

"Certainly." Jimmy Rogers' tone was such as to bring a slight flush into Faith's cheeks. "And since you have orders to be good to me I am going to trespass and ask you an impertinent question."

Faith's startled eyes met his.

"Why have you absolutely ruined a most beautiful costume and color effect by wearing that American Beauty rose? I watched you coming toward me and thought you—perfect, save for that one jarring note."

Faith Carter laughed a quick, nervous little laugh and glanced down at the one thick stemmed rose that she had thrust among the soft tea roses of her corsage bouquet.

Rogers realized that he was waiting with great expectancy for her answer. The rose seemed suddenly to have assumed enormous proportions in his eyes.

"This rose," said Faith when he had seated himself beside her on the wide divan, "found its way very mysteriously into my limousine while I was listening to Caruso in Rigoletto this afternoon. So you see," she laughed, mockingly, "there is hope that I have an unknown admirer."

"I doubt if he remains long unknown," Jimmy Rogers said. "Oh! Here you two are!" Amy Wade and her husband came up to break the silence. "I say, Jimmy," put in Dick Wade by way of making conversation, "the by way of making conversation, "the next time you buy roses for my wife see that you get full measure. There was one shy in the box and American Beauties count. That one Faith is toying with just reminded me."

Faith turned her eyes so suddenly and forcefully on Jimmy Rogers that he felt like a small and very guilty schoolboy. "You look guilty, Mr. Rogers; I believe the twelfth rose has gone astray."

"I will confess," Jimmy told her under his breath; "that I myself would stray a thousand times if, in the end, I might find so wondrous a nest." Faith glanced at him from beneath her lashes.

"Perhaps one straying, in your case, would do," she remarked.

the risks of such an exposure! Sore throat, cold in the head and backache to pay for this. Say, Doc, it would serve you blank right if some of the people inside fired a charge of birdshot at you and drove you off. Lands, but here it does never you off.

Miss Dorothy had heard the man call himself a doctor, and her thoughts leaped to poor old grandma. She knew the doctors she had telephoned for, and this was neither of them. The case demanded a little boldness on her part, however, and she advanced a step or two and asked:

"Did I understand you to say you were a doctor?"

After a jump aside and an exclamation of "Good Lord!" the man replied: "I can't make out who you are, but I am a doctor, driven to shelter by the storm. If I trespass I am ready to go.".

"No, no. I had started to the village after medicine for my grandmother when the storm drove me back. She is suffering with the coilc, and I should call this an act of Providence if we could only get into the house."

"Locked out, eh? I am a new doctor just about to set up practice in the village, and I have a bag of remedies with me. Let's see what sort of a burglar I am. Perhaps one of my keys will open the door.

One of them did, and as soon as ne could throw off some of his outer garments he was at the bedside of his patient. Grandma was having a hard time of it. Indeed, it was hours before she was easier, and the two worked over her now and then, and now and then had opportunity to talk. A doctor with his first patient, and a girl with a grandmother suffering from to many raw peanuts, don't have to stand on ice-cold formality.

When Harry reached the house from the midnight train he almost made up his mind that they were quite chummy. He didn't do any criticizing, however. He loved his grandmother, was happy her life had been saved, and he wasn't the kind of brother to offer his advice simply because he had a sister. The only thing he did say was after breakfast, and that was partly to himself:

"The ways of Providence are past finding out. Those peanuts and that thunderstorm may bring me a brotherin-law."

"You need some one to get you home earlier," was the reply; and matters rested there.

Grandma heard all about the storm and the providential appearance of Dr. Burnett, and when he called the next afternoon to see if she had fully recovered she was very grateful. Mr. and Mrs. Burbanks were in the room with the patient and doctor, but that did not prevent the old lady from saying to her son:

"James, I thought surely my time had come, and there was only one thing that I worried about. You know what I have often said to you?"

"I don't recall it at this minute," was the reply.

"Why, that we ought to have a doctor in the family. We can't get one through Harry, but we can through Dorothy. I wish you would have a talk with her today."

Just what the son and his wife thought, and just how the blushing girl got out of the room without falling over the rugs is not recorded, but this much the historian knows—the doctor bent forward at just the right instant to feel grandma's pulse and to warn her that at her age a person shouldn't swallow too many wooden toothpicks nor eat too many raw turnips just before going to bed. He didn't look over-red nor over-pale when he left the house, half an hour later.

Dr. Burnett became popular in the village. In driving out that way he always had time to make a call at the Burbanks' mansion, and after a bit it rather looked as if Miss Dorothy expected him about once in so often, but it was months and months before grandmother's mind was put at rest. After saying that she expected the next attack of colic to carry her off she said:

"That is, unless we have a doctor in the family."

"He—he asked me today if the family would take him in!" was the whispered reply from behind her chair. "And you said the family would—and we will—and oh, dear me, I almost wish I had the colic again and was hearing the angels strumming on their harps!"

Why We Rap on Wood.

In Farm and Fireside is the following explanation of the origin of the superstition that rapping on wood is a good thing to do when one makes a boast:

"The superstition of rapping on wood when one has been betrayed into boasting of a special bit of luck, like immunity from illness, etc., is of German origin. The raps were supposed to drive away evil spirits vexed by vaunted happiness or any piece of good fortune.

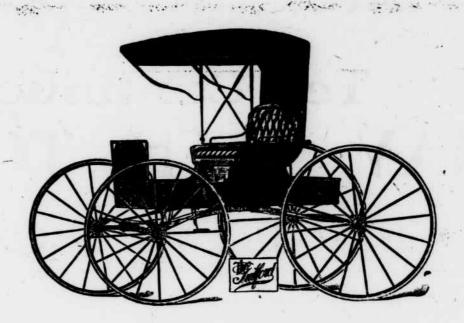

"The three raps originally signified the three persons of the Trinity, Father, Son and Holy Ghost, and the necessity for rapping on wood was because that has the material of the cross."

Echoes From the Woods.

"Woodman," said the man who quotes poetry but lamely, "withhold the ax with which you are about to lay low this sturdy oak, thereby preserving a valuable asset to posterity and sparing yourself greater fatigue than the object striven for justifies."

"I see," replied the woodman; "you are a man of scientific ideas and seek to employ the energy of conservation to the conservation of energy."
