COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

Some Important Changes in Taxable Property Are of Interest.

The board of county commissioners of Guilford county met in regular monthly session Monday and Tuesday at which all the members were present.

Dr. William M. Jones, county superintendent of health, reported that the county home had been greatly improved—the main building having been painted inside and out, and enamel cups and plates having been substituted for the tin ones, heretofore in use. He predicted that under such improved conditions, the health of the inmates would be better than for a long time.

In reviewing conditions at the county jail, Dr. Jones called attention to the fact that the cells were rusting—for want of paint, however, and not from disuse. He suggested that walls and cells be treated to a coat of fresh paint, as a matter of sanitation and public economy.

Of infectious diseases the report showed, of cases treated during the month: Measles, 1; diphtheria, 1; smallpox, 18; typhoid fever, 1. Seventy-six persons were vaccinated, and smallpox in the county was on the decrease. One cat and dog, supposed to be mad, were reported.

The commissioners re-elected Miss Minnie Williams as court stenographer during the next two years.

A committee from the Chamber of Commerce and other citizens came before the board and asked that a joint committee of the city and county be appointed to investigate and report to the boards of county and city plans for the future development of Greensboro and portions of the county in the suburbs of the city. The city commissioners were present when this proposition was made and were in sympathy with the movement. The following committee was appointed: W. C. Brown, J. G. Fronshee, R. C. Hood, A. M. Seales and Captain J. W. Fry.

A petition was filed asking for a change in the public road on the line of Morehead and Gilmer townships, beginning at T. E. Gardner's place beyond Gilbreath's line and running thence to a southern direction over the lands of V. M. Layton, W. M. Layton and W. C. Tucker, thence to a point in the Cane Creek road near T. W. Ritter and D. A. Oakley. Ordered advertised.

A petition was filed asking for public road in High Point township, this road to connect with the proposed direct Thomasville-High Point road to be built by Davidson county and its citizens. Ordered advertised.

The board levied the taxes as follows: State general, 23 2-3; state pensions, 4; state school, 20; county, general, 19; county, roads and bridges, 23 1-3; poll, pension, 12; poll school, $1.50; poll, poor, 38.

The board upon motion postponed the levying of taxes by virtue of private laws of 1905 to meet subscriptions of High Point township to the Glenn Anna and Pee Dee railroad until its next meeting.

A petition was filed asking for a change in the public road in Oak Ridge township, the road to be changed where it passes the old Lowry residence at Oak Ridge the idea being to straighten the same.

Several changes were made over the levy of the past year, and the county tax was raised from $1 1-3 cents on the $100 to 89 2-3. The poll tax remained unchanged.

One of the chief differences in the levy was in the amount apportioned to the upkeep of bridges and roads in the county. This was raised from 15 cents to 23 1-3, adding 8 1-3 cents to the county funds for this one item, an increase partially deducted by an increase of levy for the benefit of the fund for general state taxes. In this latter item an increase of 2 1-3 cents was made, but it was taken from the general county levy in making the apportionment.

By this change, the county levy of 21 1-3 cents on the $100 was lessened to 19 cents and the subtracted portion was added to the general state levy. The levy for state pensions remained at 4 cents and there was no change made in the item for the public school fund of the state. This levy remains 20 cents. With the subtraction of the 2 1-3 cents from the general levy for the county expenses and the increase of the levy for road and bridge work by 8 2-3 cents, the county levy is augmented exactly 6 cents, while the remainder of the 8 1-3 cents total increase in the levy goes into the state treasury.

The enactment of a bill introduced in the general assembly which abrogates the sections 15 and 16 of the common law of Guilford county, was chiefly responsible for the increase of the levy for public road and bridge repair work made by the commissioners. Under the old law, each able-bodied man of the county between 21 and 45 years of age was taxed $1.50 or required to work the county roads two days each year. This requirement will be no longer in force, and the additional levy will make up for the loss by its nullification.

The board also made the annual appropriations for road repair work of the townships. These appropriations were made as follows:

Washington, $500; Rock Creek, $600; Greene, $500; Madison, $500; Jefferson, $500; Clay, $500; Monroe, $500; Gilmer, $900; Fentress, $500; Center Grove, $500; Morehead, $900; Summer, $500; Bruce, $500; Friendship, $500; Jamestown, $600; Oak Ridge, $500; Deep River, $500; High Point, $900.

The levy of the special school tax districts was also made. There were only two changes made in this levy over that of the last year. Piney Grove district tax was cut in half, being made 10 cents instead of the 20 cents of the last levy, and the Glenwood rate was cut to 15 cents from 30 cents.

The following is the complete levy for the special school districts with the exception of the Brown Summit district which was left open at the request of the county board of education:

Township: Washington, Madison; Oscicola 30 cents; Rock Creek; Washington; Gibsonville 30 cents; Madison; Monticella, 30 cents; Monroe; Brightwood, 30 cents; Monroe; Madison; Gilmer; Glenwood, 15 cents; Center Grove; Long View, voted off; Fentress; Whole township, 30 cents; Center Grove; Friendship, Bruce; Piney Grove, 10 cents; Morehead; Whole township, 30 cents; Summer; Halls, 30 cents; Summer; Rocky Knoll, 30 cents; Summer; Jamestown; Groome, 30 cents; Jamestown; Summer; Oak Shade, 30 cents; Summer; Concord, 15 cents; Summer; Center, 20 cents; Oak Ridge; Whole township, 30 cents; Jamestown; Jamestown, 30 cents; Jamestown; High Point; Welch, 30 cents; Jamestown; Hill Top, Walnut Grove, 30 cents; Jamestown; High Point; Springfield, 30 cents; High Point; Mechanicsville, 30 cents; High Point; Oak Hill, 30 cents; Jefferson; McLeansville; Sedalia, 15 cents; Clay; Oak Hill, 30 cents; Bruce; Summerfield, 30 cents; Monroe; Brown Summit, 30 cents; Gilmer; South Buffalo, $4.20; Deep River; High Point; Delme, 20 cents; Friendship; Morehead; Guilford College, 33 1-3 cents; Deep River; Friendship; Colfax, 12 cents; High Point; Deep River; Jamestown; Friendship; Deep River, 10 cents; Greene; Mt. Pleasant, 20 cents.

REUBEN BARBEE DEAD.

A Durham Men Who Had Truly Had a Checkered Career.

In chronicling the death of Reuben Barbree, which occurred at his home in East Durham Monday, a correspondent of the Greensboro Daily News says of him:

"Few men in the state have had a more tempestuous life or a more checkered career than has Reuben Barbree. He was twice tried on the charge of murder and both times escaped the death sentence, being found not guilty of both charges. About 15 years ago he shot and killed Will Cole, a white man. Both men were drinking, and Barbree shot him in a barroom. The jury found, after one of the hardest fought legal battles in the history of the courts of Durham, that Barbree shot in self-defense. The last time he was tried for murder was three years ago, when he was charged with murdering Engineer Holt, who was shot from his engine just as it was pulling up at the coal station in East Durham. There was a good deal of circumstantial evidence that tended to connect Barbree with the murder, but the confession of Solomon Shepherd, a negro, who has since been killed by a penitentiary guard, brought about the release of Barbree for the second time in his life on a capital case.

"He has been in countless small troubles and has always been considered a very dangerous man."

Mrs. Sallie Raney.

Mrs. Sallie Raney died at her home on Cypher street, Saturday evening. She is survived by five children, two sons, D. M. Raney, of Haw River, and J. M. Raney, of Richmond, Va., and three daughters, Misses Annie and George Raney, of Greensboro, and Mrs. J. D. Williford, of Danville, Va. Mrs. Raney was 63 years old. The remains were taken to Haw River and interment made in the family burying ground at that place.

Congressman Stedman has been assigned to membership on the committee of foreign affairs by the Democratic caucus of the house of representatives, this being one of the leading committees of the house.

BETTER FREIGHT RATES.

Branch of Just Freight Rate Association Formed in Greensboro.

Between sixty and seventy citizens met at the county courthouse Monday night, the annual address was delivered by President R. H. Wright of the East Carolina Training school, located at Greenville. Mr. Wright made a fine impression, his speech being listened to with close attention throughout. The diplomas were presented by Dr. J. L. Mann, superintendent of the city schools.

A set of books by the alumni association for the best story by a girl was won by Miss Adelaide Van Noppen. The Trinity scholarship was won by John N. Wilson, jr.

Five dollars in gold, offered by Superintendent Mann for the best story by a boy was won by Alex Malley.

A copy of the Reflector for the best poem was won by Raymond Staley.

The essay prize to the senior class, a set of books by E. P. Wharton, was won by Miss Annie Hunter.

Hugh Wolfe and Harry Morris, from the Diaphanous society, won the silver loving cup from the alumni association. This was the second time this society has won the cup, which it now keeps.

The medal for the highest average scholarship was tied for by Misses Flossie Kersey and Eula Sapp with an average of 94. This medal was presented by the superintendent, and because of the tie the city commissioners will present a second one.

The following received diplomas and the graduates were: Mary Beall, Isabel Poulin, Edward Bain, Camellien Hunter, Annie Hunter, Kate Hunt, Robert Harris, John Wilson, Grimsley Taylor, Kate Ray, Margaret Shaffer, Marvin Pearce, Broadus Wilson, Vonnies Hicks, Luck Thompson, Clara Patterson, Etta Schiffman, Harold Schiffman, Eula Sapp, Lillian Daniels, Pearl Rainey, Lois Eutsler, Mary Silver, Emmy Witherspoon, Madeline Stafford, Mary Morris, Annie Clapp, Flossie Kersey, Pearl Billro, Louise Hogshead, Linda Trogon, Hugh Wolfe, Raymond Staley, Virginia Gardner, Alice Poole, Ernest Fields and Alfred Lindau.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES.

Interesting Exercises Mark Close of Greensboro City Schools.

At the graduating exercises of the Greensboro High school last Thursday night, the annual address was delivered by President R. H. Wright of the East Carolina Training school, located at Greenville. Mr. Wright made a fine impression, his speech being listened to with close attention throughout. The diplomas were presented by Dr. J. L. Mann, superintendent of the city schools.

A set of books by the alumni association for the best story by a girl was won by Miss Adelaide Van Noppen. The Trinity scholarship was won by John N. Wilson, jr.

ENDS FAMOUS CASE.

Commissioner Osborn Wants Government to Get Its Dues.

Explaining that he thought it best that the government have the money already due, and discontinue the expense of having several men on guard day and night to guard the 27,000 gallons of liquor in the bonded warehouse at Williams, belonging to M. Glenn Williams, Commissioner of Internal Revenue W. H. Osborn has signed an order postponing until Jan. 1, 1914, the effect of the former commissioner's order for the removal of the liquor to Louisville, Kentucky.

This means that upon the payment to the government of the taxes now due, amounting to over $27,000, Mr. Williams may take possession of the spirits which have been watched daily by government employes for nearly five years.

Barnes-White.

The home of Rev. J. Clyde Turner, the officiating minister, on West Gaston street, was the scene of a pretty marriage Monday when Miss Lillian May Barnes became the bride of Mr. J. A. White, of Climax.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. W. I. Barnes, of Rocky Mount, but is well known in Greensboro, having been a teacher in the city schools during the past year. She is a young woman of attractive personality and unusual ability and Climax is to be congratulated on so valuable an addition to its intellectual and social life.

The groom is a prosperous and prominent county man, and this popular couple starts life with a wealth of good wishes from a large circle of friends in and out of Guilford.

Following a honeymoon trip to northern cities Mr. and Mrs. White will be at home to their friends at Climax after June 20.

Mrs. Elizabeth Riddle.

Mrs. Elizabeth Riddle died Monday afternoon at her home in White Oak, aged 63 years. The funeral was held Tuesday morning, conducted by Rev. Mr. Marrs, the minister of the White Oak Baptist church, of which the deceased was a consistent member. She is survived by five children—C. N. Riddle and J. B. Riddle, Mrs. J. D. Moore, Mrs. J. F. Gaster and Miss Claudia Riddle. The body was taken to Sanford for burial.

Dr. W. T. Whitsett, of Whitsett Institute, will deliver a lecture on the reformation at Midway Presbyterian church, five miles east of the city, Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. A treat is in store for those who hear him.

STEWART-PHIPPS.

Well Known and Popular Couple Married Yesterday Afternoon.

A marriage of interest to a wide circle of friends and acquaintances in Guilford county and elsewhere was celebrated yesterday afternoon, when Mr. John Robert Stewart and Miss Hattie Marietta Phipps, well known and deservedly popular people of eastern Guilford, plighted their troth. The ceremony, quiet and beautiful in its simplicity, took place at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. William H. Phipps, nine miles southeast of Greensboro, and was witnessed by a number of relatives and close friends of the couple.

Rev. Mr. Crawford, pastor of Alamance Presbyterian church, was the officiating minister. Mr. Stewart was attended by his intimate friend and business associate Mr. William E. Phipps, as best man. The bride's sister, Miss Lizzie Phipps, was the maid of honor.

A beautifully appointed wedding dinner followed the ceremony. Today the bride and groom and a party of friends will be entertained at a dinner and reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Stewart.

The marriage of yesterday is the culmination of a love affair that grew out of a friendship of long standing and unites two most excellent people. Only a limited number of friends had been apprised of the approaching event, and the announcement of the wedding will come as a surprise to a majority of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart's acquaintances, all of whom will wish for them the best that life can afford.

Mr. Stewart is one of the county's most substantial farmers and business men. He is an influential and progressive citizen and possesses to a marked degree the confidence and esteem of the public. His bride is a woman of attractive personality and is beloved for her many gentle qualities. Both she and her husband are members of families that long have been prominent in the life of Guilford county.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart will be at home to their friends at the groom's ancestral home in Jefferson township.

Wedding Announcement.

Invitations reading as follows have been received: "Mrs. J. Henry Gilmer invites you to be present at the marriage of her niece, Malvye Dean Pritchett, to Mr. Prince Brookshire Breeden, on Wednesday morning, June the 11th, at half after 11 o'clock, 1040 Ashboro street, Greensboro, N. C.

"At home after July 16, Norfolk, Va."

Farmers and Business Men

Rapid strides have been made in agricultural lines during this generation. The successful farmer of today must not only be a good agriculturist but a good business man as well. Farming has become a business and, of course, it is the biggest business in the country with the greatest competition.

The man who makes a real success of farming must be as well posted in his line as manufacturers and merchants must be in theirs. The Monthly Crop report issued by this Bank will prove of great value to the farmer who realizes the necessity of being well posted regarding all crops in all parts of the country. These reports will be sent to you monthly if you desire them.

Miss Overman is pleasantly remembered in Greensboro where she has been several times a visitor in the Barringer home. Mr. Gapin is connected with the American Tobacco Company, with headquarters in Greensboro.

The Brilliant Stars of June.

By the end of June, Mars, Venus, Saturn and Jupiter will all be morning stars, but Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is at all times the "Star" medicine for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. A cold in June is as apt to develop into bronchitis or pneumonia as at any other time, but not if Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is taken. It will surely head off the cold, and heal the inflamed membranes. The genuine is in a yellow package. Conyers & Sykes.

Severe Wind.

Mr. W. G. Balsley reports that the wind of Sunday night blew down the biggest and prettiest tree in his yard on Mendenhall street. It was a giant white oak. The wind was severe in many sections, but no loss of life is reported and that is better than so many other states boast that it is worth mention. But the wind bloweth where it listeth and we can't count on what is in store for us.

Ulcers and Skin Troubles.

If you are suffering with any old, running or fever sores, ulcers, boils, eczema or other skin troubles, get a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve and you will get relief promptly. Mrs. Bruce Jones, of Birmingham, Ala., suffered from an ugly ulcer for nine months and Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured her in two weeks. Will help you. Only 25 cents. THE FOURTH OF JULY.

To Be Celebrated as Never Before in Guilford County This Year.

As announced in the press; as announced by big red and blue hand bills; as announced wherever publicity can be obtained the Guilford Battle Ground Association proposes to make the celebration of the Fourth of July this year a record breaker over all the years.

And it may be remarked just here that there have been many big celebrations at the historic Battle Ground.

This year the governor of our state, the Hon. Locke Craig, will deliver the important address. Other distinguished speakers will also be present. The unveiling of the Morehead monument will be attended with appropriate and interesting exercises.

This feature alone should draw a big crowd, for to Major Morehead as much as to any one man belongs the credit for perpetuating these historic grounds. There will be free balloon ascensions; plenty of innocent sport of all kinds; there will be thousands of neighbors gathered and the committee confidently looks for people by the score from adjoining counties—especially former residents. It will be a celebration and a reunion; a visiting day for the county folks and the city folk.

The Southern Railway will run cheap excursions from Greensboro to the grounds every forty minutes, and all of Guilford county should put on its best clothes and come to this celebration.

After the regular exercises, in the afternoon, following the usual picnic dinner, the club women of the county will meet in the pavilion for an informal conference regarding matters of interest to the entire county.

The Woman's Club of Greensboro requests the president of every woman's club and Betterment Association in the county to be present at this meeting, and all women interested in the work of the clubs, whether members or not.

Like other Guilford county days the occasion is intended as an opportunity for thinking women of the county to come together and get acquainted—a social affair with just enough business thrown in to make it interesting.

Every man, woman and child in Guilford county who can get to the Battle Ground on July 4 should be there, as a matter of patriotism and county pride, and the Woman's Club of Greensboro has taken the initiative in offering special inducements for the women to attend.

The Greensboro club would like to hear from those who are interested and who expect to be present. Address all letters to Miss Florence Cain, corresponding secretary, Greensboro, N. C.

Wanted—A Booster.

Mr. R. E. Terry, org. of High Point's new commissioners, is quoted as saying that High Point needs a booster—a real, honest booster—to set forth the advantages of the town and secure for it the recognition it deserves among the prosperous, progressive cities of the South.

That High Point is a city of business opportunities such as are enjoyed by few towns in this or other states, is a generally conceded fact which needs to be emphasized, and Mr. Terry is right in advocating a booster, not only for his town but for this entire section.

Agitators and knockers we have in abundance, but when it comes to boosters there is room for several thousand of them right here in Guilford. In fact, every good citizen owes it to himself, to his town, to his county and to his state to be a booster. It is another name for town pride, loyalty to his section, and the broadest kind of patriotism. The resident who is not a booster may very properly be placed in the class of undesirables.

No Substitute Could Do This.

No inferior substitute, but only the genuine Foley Kidney Pills could have rid J. F. Wallich, Bartlett, Neb., of his kidney trouble. He says: "I was bothered with backache, and the pain would run up to the back of my head, and I had spells of dizziness. I took Foley Kidney Pills and they did the work and I am now entirely rid of kidney trouble. My father-in-law, now past 60 years, has taken them and they have added years to his life." Watermelons.

The first watermelons, coming from Florida, have been on the market this past week, and the weather is too cold to get up much enthusiasm over them. They look green, but the fruit is red—but the time a watermelon tastes right is in the months of July and August. Then is when you can hardly blame a man from picking up one as he passes a patch along the highway.

HOLINESS TENT COLLAPSED.

Sunday Night Storm Caused Panic Among 1,200 Worshipers.

The storm of Sunday night, which did considerable damage around Greensboro, struck the Holiness tent on Silver Run avenue soon after services commenced, causing consternation amounting to a panic among the twelve hundred people assembled under its spacious folds.

The first warning came when the lights suddenly went out, followed by a collapse of the tent, and the subsequent excitement. The rain came down in torrents and all were given a thorough drenching before they could be extricated from the tangled mass by those on the outside, who had escaped before the crash came.

Wild rumors were circulated as to the extent of injuries, several being reported killed. It was ascertained later, however, that none were of a fatal nature and but few that were at all serious. Of these Mr. Leonard, an elderly man, was badly shaken up; Robert Melvin was bruised from falling across a pole, and a young man, whose name was not learned, had his elbow badly hurt.

The damage to their tent and the entire experience of Sunday night would have dampened (?) the ardor of those less imbued with religious zeal. But not so with the Holiness congregation, the announcement being made that the meeting would go right on, rain or shine, and under conditions favorable or unfavorable.

The tent was 60x60 and cost when new about $300.

VETERANS WANT PEACE.

Resolution Offered by Colonel Bennahan Cameron, of North Carolina.

At the recent reunion of the Confederate veterans in Chattanooga, a resolution written by Col. Bennahan Cameron, of Raleigh, was adopted by the veterans in which they hoped that the end of armed conflicts between English speaking people has come.

Colonel Cameron recently attended the New York conference preliminary to the bigger event in 1914, and as chairman of the committee on patriotic organizations, he began to interest the veterans in the big celebration. He sent the following resolution which was adopted without contest:

Treaty of Ghent.

"History tells us that the treaty of Ghent, between England and the United States, marked the end of the war of 1812-13, and for the past one years peace among all the English speaking nations of the world ensued, though for want of information in those days of slow communication, that the treaty of peace had been actually signed, Andrew Jackson, a southern man, commanding for the most part southern soldiers, fought and won on southern soil, the historic battle of New Orleans.

"Now, therefore, this association of United Confederate Veterans, composed as it is of southern ex-soldiers of the Civil war, between the states now happily ended, animated by the hope that we have seen the last of armed conflicts that may ever ensue to the end of time among English speaking people, do

"Resolve, That the celebration at the early approaching date of the one hundredth anniversary of the signing of the treaty of Ghent has our most hearty approval and concurrence.

"Resolved, further, That the general commander of this United Confederate Veterans' association, together with the state division commanders from each of the southern states of the American Union, be and they are hereby appointed a committee to represent this association at the centennial of the said treaty with full powers to take such steps as may be necessary to carry out the foregoing resolutions."

JAPAN ACCEPTS.

Secretary Bryan's Peace Plan Meets With Approval.

Washington, June 2.—Viscount Genda, the ambassador from Japan, late today called upon Secretary Bryan with formal notification that Japan had accepted in principle the proposed plan advanced by the United States for universal peace.

Signatories of the treaty proposed in Mr. Bryan's plan, would agree to refrain from hostilities for a period of at least nine months, while any conflicting claims were under consideration by an annual joint commission. In the case of Japan, as with the ten other nations that have received the proposal favorably, the response applies solely to the general principle involved, and none has committed itself to approval of any of the details of the project. Therefore, it may be many months before the tentative draft of the convention which Mr. Bryan submitted to the various embassies and legations can be reduced to a form which will receive their unqualified approval.

The statement by the Japanese ambassador that his government was prepared to give careful consideration to the peace proposal, has no bearing whatever upon the negotiations now in progress between the two countries regarding the extension of alien land legislation. During his call upon Mr. Bryan today the ambassador discussed this subject from various angles for half an hour, but without any definite result. The Japanese foreign office has not yet cabled the ambassador definite instructions regarding the submission of its rejoinder to the last American note and it is known that it is conducting a religious investigation as a basis for its rejoinder.

In Memory of Jefferson Davis.

The South paid tribute to the memory of Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy, today on the 107th anniversary of his birth. In eight southern states, Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas, the day was observed as a legal holiday and in other states memorial exercises were held. In several of the southern states, the day is known as Confederate Memorial day, but in a few of the states of the old Confederacy, May 10 is set aside as the day on which tribute is paid to the memory of the soldiers of the Gray Army.

In many parts of the South not only were the banks, business houses and state offices closed, but employees of post-offices and other Federal institutions were granted a holiday.

It is true that women more frequently suffer from kidney trouble than men. It is also true they suffer more intensely, owing to their more sensitive organism. Katherine L. The pain and burning feeling left me. I felt toned up and invigorated. I am glad to recommend Foley Kidney Pills." They are tonic in action, quick in results. Conyers & Sykes, adv.

Live Stock, Wheat and Oats Added to Meet Views of President Wilson.

Washington, D. C., June 3.—Reversing its former action in voting to place wheat, flour, oatmeal and fresh meats on the dutiable list, the senate finance sub-committee in charge of the agricultural schedule, voted late today to place live stock, wheat and oats on the free list.

This action, it was authoritatively stated, was taken to meet the views of President Wilson. Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee and other administration leaders who disapproved the decision announced yesterday to tax meats ten per cent, compensatory to a duty on cattle in the Underwood bill, and to assess a compensatory duty on both flour and meal.

The vote to reconsider was taken in the sub-committee on a motion made by Senator Simmons, ex-officio member of all the sub-committees handling the various schedules, when he returned to the capitol from a conference with the President.

In this enlargement of the free list President Wilson is known to have taken a leading part, as he did in the matter of raw wool and sugar. As he still is standing uncompromisingly for the wool and sugar schedules, so, it is declared, he will stand firmly for free cattle, sheep and hogs and free wheat and oats, now that this has been determined upon as the party policy.

Senator Simmons conferred with the President last week about his views on the method of equalizing the Underwood bill with regard to these raw materials and their products.

UPHOLDS PRESIDENT.

Much Social Lobbying Going on Says Senator Kenyon.

Washington, D. C., June 3.—"Social lobbying" in Washington justifies every word President Wilson uttered in regard to the presence of an "insidious" lobby at the capitol, Senator Kenyon, of Iowa, declared on the witness stand today before the senate investigating committee. It was the first unequivocal statement in support of the President's attitude since the inquiry began.

The Iowa senator explained that he believed the most "insidious" and powerful lobbying possible was the practice of flatterers senators by having them out to dinners, to theatres and on automobile rides, in ingratiating the host with the distinguished guests.

Pointing to the sworn testimony of Edward Hines, "a lumber king," before the Lorimer election investigation, that he entertained senators at a local hotel at dinners at a time when the lumber schedule in the Payne-Adrich bill was before the senate, Senator Kenyon declared it was his belief that senators were being entertained in this "insidious" way at present.

He also denounced ex-senators for capitalizing their privilege of the floor by using it to lobby. Referring to one ex-senator representing many railroads in Washington and often seen on the floor of the senate, he advocated the enactment of legislation to prohibit an ex-senator from being a lobbyist.

Rockingham Man Dead.

Mr. Robert P. Price died suddenly last Thursday morning near Settle Bridge, while on his way to Redville, in his automobile, to visit his daughter, Mrs. Ira Humphreys.

When ready to start after a short stop he found himself unable to crank the machine, and while attempting to get in the car sunk to the ground, death resulting almost instantly.

Mr. Price was one of the wealthiest citizens in western Rockingham and resided at a beautiful home in Price township on the Norfolk and Western railroad. He had served his county as commissioner and also as legislator. Eight children survive him. They are Messrs. John W., Robert, Jr., Charles, Bert and Dr. Harvey Price, and Mrs. Humphreys and Misses Dora and Tizzie Price.

Hard on the Officers.

John Wall, a Rockingham county negro, while on the witness stand in the Federal court Monday to tell what he knew about a still found near his home, got away with two revenue officers in an unexpected way. When asked if he had any whiskey in his house at the time he replied that he did have between a pint and a quart, which was drunk by Mr. Arbuckle and Priceasley, who came after him.

Judge Boyd instructed the verdict of not guilty, and there is a difference of opinion as to who came out ahead, the officers or the accused.

Stevens, who is only 19, claims defense. Smith was a much larger man and is said to have admitted that he had been drinking.

Mrs. Laura Hinkle, wife of D. H. Hinkle, a prominent citizen and retired capitalist of Lexington, committed suicide last Thursday by hanging herself from the banisters on the stairway of her home on Salisbury street. Mrs. Hinkle has been in very poor health for four or five months, and it is believed that despondency over her condition led to the suicide. She was a sister of J. D. and T. J. Grimes, well known citizens of Lexington, and leaves a fine family of boys, five of whom live in Lexington and one in Atlanta, Ga. No possible cause, except ill health, can be assigned for her rash act.

Salisbury has added to her regular city police force a plain clothes man.

The problem of Athletics was discussed at a meeting of the board of trustees of Trinity college held in Durham, Monday. President Few took the position that, if supported and carried into effect, will cause Trinity college to rise into a class by itself in its stand for purity in athletics, and in the ruling to keep out all tinges of professionalism.

The greatest problem that is confronting the board of education of Durham county is to get enough money to keep up with the demands for the establishment of the farm life schools in Durham county. They are going to have to erect a number of dormitories during the summer for these schools. Already two or three have asked that provisions be made in their districts. The board has ordered some of these buildings and has others under consideration. The plan they have followed is to furnish half the money if the district will furnish the other half.

Health and Hygiene.

Adverse Health.

North Carolina has a bunch of business men. Most of them are big as their business, but there is what a lot of them are.

The state board of health recently issued a little four-page leaflet on the subject of tuberculosis. It told the plain, solid facts about the disease in popular language, just what everybody should know about it. Applications for about ten thousand copies of the leaflet were poured into the office of the board within three days after their issue. As the board is not printing funds, it invited a number of business men to come to its rescue and help furnish the needed information to our people by inserting their advertisement in the front of the leaflet and paying a little more than the cost of the paper.

The business men are responding. Indications are that by this month several hundred thousand of these leaflets will be distributed to people. Some of the business men are placing them in their pay envelopes; in their letters, others enclose one with each invoice or with an article manufactured; others pass them out over the counter, and so on.

The plan is proving such a success that some houses have ordered similar advertising leaflets on typhoid, malaria, and other public health subjects. The board is accordingly preparing such material. The amount of good to be accomplished by this health advertising scheme can never be measured.

Unless your doors and windows are well screened, it will do little good to use the fly swatter. The swatter is all right to use to kill the flies that get in despite the screens and your vigilance. But it is a waste of time and labor to use the swatter in the unscreened house.

In the United States the yearly death rate of infant life is seen in about three hundred thousand deaths in the first year. Most of this mortality is due to cruel ignorance.

Thoughtful children are a national asset of great value; unsound and defective children are destined to become a national burden in adult life.

GOVERNMENT TAKES HOLD.

Will Do Active Work During Summer to Improve Farm Life.

Washington, June 1.—The "rural extension service," a new branch of the department of agriculture, includes a division of markets and of its principal activities, will begin actual operation tomorrow with the arrival of Dr. Thomas N. Vail, of Harvard University, secretary of the department, to head the service. Announcement was made today that two of Dr. Carver's assistants will be Dr. Carl W. Thompson, of Minnesota, who has been making studies in that state of rural, social and economic conditions, and L. H. Goddard, who has been studying farm management in Ohio.

Dr. Carver has been here for a number of conferences in the past few months, but comes now to start the new work, having just finished his teaching at Harvard.

The department announced today that the efforts to study the farmers' needs and then meet them would fall into three main groups. There will be "surveys" to get at the basic facts regarding various kinds of organized rural agencies that already have been tried, to discover how and why they have failed or why they are succeeding; there will be investigations in certain regional units and among certain kinds of agricultural interests to discover the reasons for existing rural conditions, and then certain units of territory will be selected in which to make demonstrations and experiments with schemes designed to improve the farmers' physical, financial and social condition.

NO MORE CROWING ROOSTERS.

Latest Fact About Chickens Interesting to Poultry Raisers.

A Washington dispatch says: Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Dr. B. T. Galloway has received a letter from a correspondent who claims to be "the guy that can take the crow out of the rooster." Dr. Galloway was so rejoiced at the receipt of the news, which, he thinks, will eventually put the chicken in every backyard, that he asked the bureau of animal industry to experiment at once with a view to soft pedaling crowing roosters.

The author of the letter says that, by removing one of the vocal cords of an ordinary rooster, which can be done by a simple operation, the noise that "wakes" people at the break of day can be eliminated without injuring the rooster, except his feelings. The desire to crow is left in the chicken, and he goes through the motion of flapping the wings, arching the neck, and opening the mouth, but the effort is noiseless.

It was suggested that absorbent cotton be put in the neck of the rooster after the operation, as a precaution. The cotton, the correspondent said, not only served the ordinary purpose, but produced, when the rooster tried to crow, a pleasing, whistling sound.

The largest electric hatching plant in the world is owned by Messrs. Frott Bros., the Hatcheries, Plymouth, England. They have 94 incubators, each of about 500 egg capacity, and the average output is about 8,000 a week. They do everything by electricity and have a splendid method of testing the eggs. They are the largest consumers of current in the town outside the trolley cars. A system of electric alarms tells of a rise in temperature and also when current is cut off showing a decrease.

Wilford Lau, a poultry fancier of York City, Pa., has a pet White Leghorn hen that has been trained to do a number of stunts and she follows him wherever he goes. When he goes to the postoffice for his mail the hen goes with him, and if a piece of mail matter is given to her she will carry it home in her bill. She has been trained to jump over a stick when held several feet high, and will answer to Mr. Lau's whistle by cackling.

Stewart Hollenbach, of the Berks county, Pennsylvania, poor farm, near Shillington, has kept a careful record of the work of the mixed flock of between 300 and 400 hens on the farm and has decided that hereafter instead of keeping a mixed flock he will get rid of the stock and keep Rhode Island Reds exclusively. During 1912 the flock laid 13,320 eggs, all of which was consumed at the institution. In January of the present year they laid 919 eggs, in February 1,388 and in March 2,564. During the Easter month 234 dozens, or 2,808 more eggs than the hens produced, were served to the "scrubs" with Rhode Island Reds. Mr. Hollenbach expects to make the poultry department of the institution profitable.

Statistics show that the egg production in the United States increased from 450,000,000 dozens in 1880 to 1,300,000,000 dozens in 1912. Exports have also increased, being only 86,000 dozens in 1880, going up to 5,650,000 dozens in 1910, 12,250,000 dozens in 1911 and 19,000,000 dozens last year.

In the last ten years the cattle in the United States have decreased in number 8.7 per cent., swine 7.4 per cent., and sheep 14.7 per cent., while in the same period poultry has increased in number 17 per cent. The increase in the number of eggs produced was 23 per cent.

HAY MAKING.

Why Farmers Should Save Their Hay and How to Cure It.

Mr. C. R. Hudson, who is looking after farmers' crops and demonstrating work in North Carolina, makes the following timely suggestions:

For the benefit of farmers who are fortunate enough to have grass or clover of some kind to mow for hay, we desire to offer some suggestions in regard to cutting and curing.

First, however, we wish to say that very few farmers give much attention to the matter of growing grasses for forage. They pay from fifteen to twenty-five dollars per ton for hay when they could grow as good hay for from about six to twelve dollars per ton. We have both wild and tame grasses and clovers that are well adapted to Southern conditions. Farmers spend much time and money preparing land for corn, cotton and other crops, but do not seem to realize that the same attention given to grasses would grow luxuriant crops of forage. We need more live-stock, as has so often been well said, but first we should be prepared to take care of it.

But we started to say something about cutting and curing forage crops. A great deal of so-called hay is simply straw because it was left standing in the field until it became woody, unpalatable and had lost much of its nice odor and nourishing properties. A good general rule to follow in making hay is to cut it when it is just in good blooming stage. To wait longer than this is to get a poorer quality of hay. It is best to let the dew dry off before starting the mower.

Another very important part of hay making is the curing. Very often good hay grass is ruined by being baled in the sun. As far as conditions will allow, hay should be cured largely in cocks or piles. As a general rule mown grasses should not lie spread upon the ground longer than from four to eight hours when the sun is shining bright and warm. It should then be raked into piles and allowed to remain that way from one to two days, according to conditions of weather and kind of grass and growth. It may need turning over once or twice during this time. Every farmer who succeeds in making good hay will have to use good judgment.

The two main things to remember are that the grass should be cut early enough so that it will be nutritious and then be cured properly so that it will smell and taste well to animals. No matter how rich hay is in food composition, if it does not have a good odor and a good taste, animals will not relish it or eat much of it. As the late Dr. Knapp expressed it, "Hay should be a pie counter to the animals."

Another thing, if hay is baled it keeps much better, does not become so dusty, is much easier handled and takes up less room in the barn. If weather will allow it is probably more convenient to bale it in the field, but there is very little trouble in pressing it after it is hauled to the barn.

REVENUES FALLING OFF.

Tariff Revision Causes Drop in Customs House Receipts.

Washington, June 2.—Government revenues from customs receipts fell off more than $6,000,000 during May, as compared with the same month of last year. Treasury officials attribute the loss to the period of tariff revision. Total receipts from all sources for the month aggregated $55,370,364, or $3,000,000 less than May, 1912, while the expenditures of last month, amounting to $57,957,870, were $5,706,000 greater than the disbursements of May a year ago. Despite these differences the current fiscal year up to date shows a surplus of receipts over expenditures of $6,462,136.

The general fund contains $133,977,282, including $61,320,914 as a working balance. The latter will soon be reduced by $10,000,000 by the deposit of that additional amount in the national banks. The gold coin and bullion in the trust funds of the treasury amount to $1,079,407,169, and the total cash in the treasury $1,976,659,134. The outstanding circulation of the 7,485 national banks amounts to $733,754,815.

$100 Reward, $100. The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars reward for any case that it fails to cure. Send for testimonials. Address F. J. Notice of Dissolution.

State of North Carolina.
Department of State.
To All to Whom These Presents May Come—Greeting:

Whereas, It appears to my satisfaction, by duly authenticated record of the proceedings for the voluntary dissolution thereof by the unanimous consent of all the stockholders, deposited in my office, that the Clymer Machine Co., a corporation of this state, whose principal office is situated at No. 513-517 Eugene street, in the city of Greensboro, county of Guilford, state of North Carolina, (L. M. Clymer being the agent therein and in charge thereof, upon whom process may be served), has complied with the requirements of Chapter 21, Revisal of 1905, entitled "Corporations," preliminary to the issuing of this Certificate of Dissolution:

Now, therefore, I, J. Bryan Grimes, Secretary of State of the State of North Carolina, do hereby certify that the said corporation did on the 14th day of May, 1913, file in my office a duly executed and attested consent in writing to the dissolution of said corporation, executed by all of the stockholders, thereof, which said consent and the record of the proceedings aforesaid are now on file in my said office as provided by law.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my official seal at Raleigh, this 14th day of May A. D. 1913.

J. BRYAN GRIMES,
Secretary of State.

Administrator's Notice.

Having qualified as administrator of the estate of Z. Chrismon, deceased, this is to give notice to all persons having claims against said estate to exhibit the same to the undersigned on or before the 15th day of May, 1914, or this notice will be pleaded in bar of their recovery.

This May 15, 1913.

Young Women

Read what Cardui did for Miss Myria Engler, of Faribault, Minn. She says: "Let me tell you how much good Cardui has done me. As a young girl, I always had to suffer so much with all kind of pain. Sometimes, I was so weak that I could hardly stand on my feet. I got a bottle of Cardui, at the drug store, and as soon as I had taken a few doses, I began to feel better. Today, I feel as well as anyone can."

TAKE The CARDUI Woman's Tonic

Are you a woman? Then you are subject to a large number of troubles and irregularities, peculiar to women, which, in time, often lead to more serious trouble.

A tonic is needed to help you over the hard places, to relieve weakness, headache, and other unnecessary pains, the signs of weak nerves and over-work.

For a tonic, take Cardui, the woman's tonic. You will never regret it, for it will certainly help you. Ask your druggist about it. He knows. He sells it.

THE LIGHTNING CHANGE.

For many years there was nothing much of national importance in the way of economical pretention except conservation of the forests. You couldn't pick up a paper but what you saw something about conservation, and many were the columns written going on to show that unless we protected our mountain ranges; unless we held our forests together there was to be calamity and woe that was dire and dreadful.

Denuded mountains and denuded hills were held up in reproachful pictures and even bald headed men who had failed to conserve their hair were wondering if indeed, terrible things were not to happen to them. And there was much logic in all the preachments for conservation; there was much good to come out of so much agitation—but, presto! the theme seemed to get wearisome to those enthusiasts who were boosting—and the good roads propaganda was next introduced.

Good roads was a slogan heard far and near; good roads was on the lip of every man who had eyes to peer into the dim, distant future; and good roads and the hope of an appropriation seemed to inspire men to sweat and talk and talk and sweat without apparent friction. Good roads, bless our soul, are the immediate jewel of a commonwealth. They reduce the cost of high living and the high cost of low living—but that theme has now worn down to a dead level and only those engaged for pay or hope of future reward in the shape of a monument or a Carnegie medal are heard pitching their voices above the din of generalities.

And now comes the Fly Swatter. He is more intense than ever. He is out on a sanguinary campaign; he proposes that it shall be death to the little scavenger that God sent here for what, we do not know, and everywhere and everywhere we hear the command to "Swat the fly—and to stand not on the order of your swatting."

And millions of flies give up the ghost and the milk and butter; millions, aye, countless millions of the little winged insects are called to their death before their chore of destruction has begun—and in North Carolina with the fly swatting campaign well under way and well in hand come now the voices of the oppressed filling the air with slogans to "Swat the railroads"—and the swatting goes merrily along.

Those who had hoped for that universal peace which Bryan dreams are doomed to disappointment. If it is not a fight on trusts which want to denude the mountains; if not a fight on the fly which tries to get his daily bread and butter by foraging on the enemy; if not a fight for better roads in order that men may sell road machinery and give the farmer ease of transportation—then it is a fight to the death against a railroad that has developed the state—but which, because it undertakes to get all it can is doomed to die.

The Patriot wishes all belligerents well. It wants to see each man who rushes to glory, if not the grave, come out a victor in his fight. It wants to see all men enjoy what they go after. It wants to see right triumph and it proposes to keep at a safe distance and not be even an innocent by-stander when the boom-crang is in action.

The rains in the latter part of May were just a few more than were needed, but up to this hour no special session of the legislature is proposed to call them off.

ROOSEVELT VINDICATED.

Theodore Roosevelt, ex-president and ex-many-things appeared as plaintiff in a libel suit in Michigan last week. An editor of a weekly paper boldly asserted that Roosevelt "gets drunk, and not infrequently" and Roosevelt asked ten thousand dollars damages.

The case was called and a dozen or more of Roosevelt's closest friends and associates went with him to the Northwest and gave testimony. The testimony was that Roosevelt never gets drunk; that he drinks light wines at dinner; that at banquets he will drink perhaps two glasses of champagne and when over-worked will take drandy in milk upon the advice of physicians.

The editor saw he was up against it; confessed his inability to prove his printed story and upon Roosevelt's request to make the damages as light as the law would permit, the editor was fined six cents.

Each party pays his part of the costs.

And so ended a great sensation. The average man will wonder how a man can go through life drinking orandy upon prescription; drinking wine at dinner and taking on 'two glasses of champagne at a banquet and never in all that time get off the tight rope. Thousands of men who drink moderately confess that once in awhile they get a little too far off—but here was one strenuous American who can really drink or leave it alone; who confesses that he is not a tee-totaler but insists that he never in his life was drunk.

The good old book which men call the Bible admonishes us to taste not and 'o handle not, because it says at last it biteh like a serpent and stingeth like an adder. But not so with Colonel Roosevelt. He says to it like the Master said to the proud waves, thus far shalt thou go, but no farther, and herein he bears a charmed life.

Of all the countless drunkards who have fallen in the ditch no one of them ever intended to become a drunkard. It was the first step and then higher steps—from light wines to champagne, from banquet to bar room and finally to the ditch. Roosevelt is to be congratulated.

JUST A LITTLE PUSH.

Greensboro watched her tobacco market go glimmering. She simply sat down and asked herself "What is the use?" and finally no tobacco was sold here—at least not enough to fill an injun pipe of peace.

This continued for several years, when lo, and behold, a few live merchants, men who saw what was what and why, proposed that Greensboro have a tobacco market. It was lead easy. Just a little enterprise. Just the letting loose of a little money in warehouses. Just a little energy and just a little liberality, and now we have the third tobacco warehouse in course of construction; this year we will have dozens of buyers on the market; farmers in the county are planting more tobacco than ever before, and buyers tell us that they would not be surprised if Greensboro this year will sell four million pounds.

If such enterprise and such well directed efforts will succeed in building up a tobacco market here, so will such methods succeed in building up many other things that will add materially to our commercial greatness. Had the question still been before the house, the question, "What's the use?" to this day there would have been no tobacco market. There is use, and the showing made last year proves it to all, while the showing for this year will cause enthusiasm so marked that by next year we will have still another warehouse and the sales will finally be running around the six and eight million point. And that means prosperity to all our merchants.

The civil service measure is now exhibited in all its deformity; in all its malignity; in all its ferociousness and voraciousness to the pie hunting Democrat who has been reduced to free lunch and soup in Washington and who still looks with eyes grown dim for a commission that never came.

ELON COMMENCEMENT.

College Closed Notable Year Yesterday—52 Graduates.

Elon College, June 4.—The twenty-fourth Elon College commencement came to a close here tonight with the alumni banquet in the college dining hall, which followed immediately upon the alumni address by Mrs. J. K. Ruebush, Dayton, Va., whose theme was "Universal Democracy."

The commencement began last Saturday evening with the class day exercises of the class of 1913, a most enjoyable occasion, filled with good spirit and fine fun.

Dr. Warren H. Denison, Norfolk, Va., gave the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday morning, preaching on "Life's Great Rule." President Harper that evening delivered the baccalaureate address and spoke of present-day educational problems, using as his subject "The Ingredients of True Living."

The society representatives on Monday evening were certainly deserving the fine praise they received, their essays and orations delighting the vast concourse of people who had assembled to hear them.

Dr. Charles W. Kent, of the University of Virginia, on Tuesday morning spoke delightfully of "The Sovereignty of Life." Dr. Kent is a great scholar and equally great orator and was heard with great pleasure.

The expression recital that afternoon and the annual musical concert were largely attended and thoroughly enjoyed. The music department enrolled about 100 pupils this year. The art exhibit was also excellent.

But the great event was graduation day this morning, when 52 persons received degrees, diplomas and certificates, the largest number so honored at any one time here.

In all departments this year the college enrolled 359 students from 12 states and more than 100 counties.

Joe Buckingham, a white man, of Fayetteville, was sent up this week to the superior court under a $300 justified bond by Magistrate Overby on a charge of criminal assault on a 13-year-old girl. Buckingham's attorney submitted no evidence most of the testimony being to the age of the girl. The action against Buckingham was brought under the "age of consent" law. Both the defendant and the girl live in Campbellton, the east end of Fayetteville.

HATS.

We have opened forty-one dozen Hats. These we bought when all jobbers are anxious to get their summer hats out of the way and it's needless to tell you we bought them right. We will sell you the 98c sailor for just half price, now 50c. All other kinds in proportion. Remember we save you money on men's hats and children's as well as ladies'.

SHOES AND SLIPPERS.

All you people who cannot afford the high prices usually asked on this line of goods will do well to call on us. We sell the $3.50 kinds in men's and ladies' Pump, Straps, Buttons and Oxfords in all leathers at $2.75. Children's barefoot and all kinds of slippers, 10c pair up. Every pair of shoes we sell is guaranteed.

CLOTHING.

We have one lot of 50 pairs of pants for men, which were sold at wholesale at $3.50 to $4.50 pair, which we are selling at $3.00 pair. Don't take our word for this, but come and see. We have the goods.

WASH SUITS AND CHILDREN'S WASH DRESSES.

Our line is complete and at prices you can afford to pay.

PARASOLS AND UMBRELLAS.

Ladies, you may not believe it, but we are selling a pure silk parasol, all the new shades and trimming for $2.50 when you have always and do now if you buy from the old time credit stores pay $5.00 to $6.00 each for. Children's Parasols in all colors, 25c to $1.50 each. The best man's umbrellas you have ever bought for $1.00. There are hundreds of items passing through our store every day to our customers at 25 to 40 per cent. cheaper than other concerns sell them. You are simply standing in your own light if you do not investigate and see for yourself. We have earned the distinction of "selling them cheaper," and if you could be with us every day and see how many people appreciate it by trading with us you would not think of spending your money where you have to pay old time prices in order to cover the bad debts of some other customer who does not hand out his hard-earned dollars at the old time store, for he feels like he is not doing any great harm when he fails to pay, for the old timer makes allowance for this class of his customers, for he figures on a great many of them being this kind, when he is doing a time business. I believe I can truthfully say we are the only dry goods concern in Greensboro who does not run an account with any one, so you don't have to pay other people's bad debts when you trade with us, and if you will take just one moment to consider this matter you will at once see why

Matters of Interest Reported by Our Corps of Correspondents.

WHITSETT.

A large crowd attended the installation services of Rev. Robert E. Gidding as pastor of Springwood and other churches last Sunday. The sermon was preached by Rev. D. E. McIver, of Burlington, from Matt. 10:1. The charge to the incoming pastor was made by Rev. C. F. Bradshaw, of Hillsboro, and the charge to the congregation was made by Rev. S. M. Rankin, of Greensboro. His numerous friends greatly regret to learn of the illness of Rev. S. M. Rankin, of Greensboro, who has only been able recently to be out again. He is still weak and is far from well. His presence here Sunday was greatly appreciated, for he has been a Presbyterian pastor in this community for over ten years very acceptably.

Dr. Whitsett spent Tuesday and Wednesday of last week in Greensboro attending the commencement exercises of the State Normal and Industrial College, and also the commencement of the Greensboro College for Women, where Dr. S. B. Turentine has been recently elected to succeed the retiring president, Mrs. Lucy H. Robertson.

Prof. and Mrs. J. H. Joyner will attend the commencement at the University of North Carolina this week. His brother is a member of the graduating class.

Four former Whitsett students graduate at the University this week—Messrs. A. L. Hamilton, E. W. Joyner, R. W. Isley and H. A. Tolson.

Painters are at work on the residence of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Davenport, who recently moved here from Burlington. They will soon have a very attractive place.

Mr. L. A. Carmon has recently purchased through a sale by order of court, ten acres of land from the estate of the late J. W. Foust, just west of the school grounds.

Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Davenport, of Durham, are spending some time here with relatives.

Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Whitsett are at Chapel Hill this week attending the University commencement.

Miss Mary Wilson left last Friday for Snow Hill, in Greene county, to spend some time visiting relatives in that part of the state.

Rev. J. D. Andrew is at Newton this week for the commencement of O'Neale College. It is thought to be a assured fact that he will be made president of the college at the meeting of the trustees this week.

Mr. J. Boyd McLean came home from Chapel Hill last week. He has been in school there this year.

BENAJA.

Messrs. Zach Boswell and Willie Lowe visited relatives here Sunday.

Mrs. Scott and children are spending some time visiting relatives and friends in High Point.

Miss Lula McKinney is the guest of Mrs. Jim Richardson this week.

Mrs. John Oakley and children, and Mrs. Trantham, were among the visitors at Mr. O'Ferrell's Sunday.

The wheat crop in this section is making fine.

Mr. and Mrs. Lemons visited their son, Mr. M. L. Cable, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chatham, of High Point, have returned to their home, spending a few days here with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Chatham.

Mrs. Wrenn is the guest of Mr. Frank Weather.

Miss Cable and Miss Swannie surprised their friends by going down to Danville one day last week and getting married. We extend them our best wishes for a happy married life.

Mr. and Mrs. Gorton, of Greensboro, attended the church services at Apple's Chapel Sunday.

COBLE'S CHURCH.

We were glad to see the welcome of the past few days, even if it does make us farmers get busy with our crops.

Mrs. Nellie Garrett spent a few days in Greensboro last week visiting her son, Mr. Elmer Garrett.

Mrs. Ethel Coble, who has been at High Point for some time, is expected home this week.

Rev. Mr. Wannamaker will preach at this place the third Sunday, in the afternoon.

Rev. Mr. Sowers will preach at this place the fifth Sunday, at 11 o'clock.

PLEASANT GARDEN R. F. D.

Several from this community attended children's day services at Tabernacle last Sunday.

Miss Ida Ridge, of Edgar, spent last week with Misses Estella and Sallie Fentress.

Mrs. Charles P. Elliott, of this route, is seriously ill. We hope for a speedy recovery.

Children's day exercises will be held at Pleasant Garden church the second Sunday, beginning at 2 P. M.

Mr. John B. Hockett has moved his family to his new residence on the route.

The Baracas and Philatheas of the Pleasant Garden Sunday school had a picnic at Bowman's pond last Saturday. Much of the time was spent in boat-riding and all report a pleasant time.

Rev. Herbert Reynolds, pastor of Center church, is to hold services at the Pine Grove school house on the third Sunday, in the afternoon.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan McDonald died last Friday morning and was laid to rest the following day in the Pleasant Garden cemetery.

We are glad to know that Mr. Stacy Kirkman is better at this writing.

Mrs. Ezekiel Elliott is on the sick list.

Mr. W. M. Fentress, who has been sick for some time, was able to visit his daughter, Mrs. Charles Kirkman, last Sunday.

Mrs. Amick Hendrix, of Greensboro, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Wright, last week.

RANDLEMAN R. F. D. 1.

The four-months-old child of S. S. Tuttle was buried at Level Cross last Friday.

Mrs. D. A. Garrison, of Gastonia, visited friends and relatives on this route last week.

Mr. Scott Hodgins, who has been in school at Guilford College, has returned home to spend the summer.

Mrs. S. F. Gossett, of Greensboro Route 1, visited her daughter, Mrs. Grover McCandless, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Toomes, of Greensboro, visited at Mr. J. N. Hodgins last week.

Mr. K. G. Coltrane went to Concord last Monday to attend the golden wedding of his sister, Mrs. A. R. Johnson.

Mrs. L. K. Coltrane and L. E. Rockett, who have been very sick, are slowly improving.

Some of our people attended the children's day services at Rehoboth last Sunday.

Rev. W. R. Reynolds' family have measles.

Mrs. Linnie Shelley Ward, of near Shady Grove, visited her son, Mr. S. N. Wall, last Sunday.

Mrs. Diana Osborne, of High Point route, visited on this route recently.

PROVIDENCE.

Farmers are very busy with their corn and preparing for wheat harvest.

Mr. A. C. Cox and family, of Biscoe, are visiting friends and relatives here.

Some of our young people attended commencement at Guilford College last week.

Providence township Sunday school convention convenes at Gray's chapel the 25th Sunday in June.

Mr. Isaac Frazier, of Asheboro, spent some time with relatives and friends here last week.

Mrs. T. K. Pugh spent Friday in Asheboro at the bedside of her little grandson, Master Wilson, who has been right sick.

Misses Myrtle Cox and Inez Siler spent Sunday evening with Miss Esther Cranford.

Miss Bertha Cox, a returned missionary from India, left last week for Ohio, after a visit here to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Cox.

RAMSEUR.

Mrs. E. L. Leonard and children are visiting relatives in High Point.

Lee Craven went to Pittsboro last week to visit his father, Rev. Wesley Craven.

Mrs. Lee and son, of Greensboro, are spending some time with her sister, Mrs. Willie Short.

Mrs. C. S. Tate and daughter, Miss Nina, and Master Charles are visiting relatives in Bladen county.

W. H. Watkins, Jr., of Ellerbe Springs, and Clyde Capel, of Biscoe were in town last week.

Nearly all of our young people are back from college, among them being: Eugene Marley, A. B. Guilford, Orren Forrester, Fred Burgess and Fred Leonard, of Rutherford College; Lacey Black, Chapel Hill; Misses Lizzie Forrester and Sue Siler, State Normal College; Misses Sarah Cole and Lella Ferree, of Davenport College.

Card of Thanks.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Loman, of R. F. D. 4, Greensboro, wish to thank their many friends and neighbors for the kindness and sympathy shown them during the sickness and death of their little daughter.

CENTER.

A real heavy rain fell Sunday night.

Wheat is looking fine in this section, but we are beginning to fear that there may be too much rain for it.

Rev. Daniel Hodgins, one of our boys who holds a pastorate in Michigan, preached an able sermon at Center Sunday, his theme being true repentance.

The many friends of Mrs. Maggie Hodgins were glad to see her out at preaching Sunday. Quite recently she underwent an operation at the hospital in Randelman.

Mrs. Will Hockett returned home from St. Leo's hospital Saturday, May 24.

The 15-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan McDonald died Friday and was buried at Pleasant Garden Saturday.

Mrs. Jonathan Hodgins accompanied her son Daniel on his return to his home in Michigan this week.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely under the splendid leadership of Mrs. J. E. Hodgins. The attendance went over the 100 mark Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Berry, of Climax, paid a very pleasant visit at the home of the writer Sunday.

Snake-Killing Time Near Burlington.

Mr. C. B. Greeson, who lives on R. F. D. 10, south of Burlington, tells of some snakes he killed last Wednesday. He was cutting down a hollow tree and saw a large snake stick his head out, and he got a large stick and cut the tree so he could get to it, and found three large black chicken snakes. He killed all of them and, as they looked so large, he decided to get some witnesses and measure them. One measured eight feet, another seven feet two inches, and the third seven feet. They measure nearly twelve inches around. He gives the names of the witnesses if any one doubts the story.

Dedicatory Services.

There will be dedicatory services held at Lebanon church Sunday, June 15, at 3 o'clock P. M. Following is the program:

Devotional service, Rev. J. C. DeLancey.

Scripture reading, Rev. R. P. Walker.

Prayer, Rev. R. G. Kendrick.

Historical sketch, Rev. W. H. Elder.

Sermon, Rev. J. Clyde Turner.

Dedicating prayer, Rev. W. L. Barrs.

Benediction, Rev. Mr. Powell.

There will also be ordination of deacons. The public cordially invited to attend.

A Card of Thanks.

Mrs. Nannie E. Whitesell and family, residing on Percy street, this city, take this method of expressing their gratitude to the people of Greensboro, including the Salvation Army, the Inter-Church Society, various churches and the Christian people generally, who were so kind to them during the severe affliction through which they passed in the early spring. May God richly reward these kind people.

Federal Court in Session.

The most important cases before the Federal court, in session in Greensboro this week, ended yesterday in the sending of two men to the penitentiary in Atlanta. One of these was R. R. Hughes, a white man, brought here from the state of Washington, and who gained some notoriety and temporary freedom by jumping through the window of a Pullman car at Salisbury. He was given fifteen months for obtaining goods fraudulently by sending bogus checks through the mail.

George Atwood, of Forsyth county, was given a year and a half for blockading.

Jarvis Marks, of Montgomery county, was convicted of the charge of illicit distilling.

A negro preacher, Rev. S. S. Eagle, will answer the charge of fraudulent use of the mails. He was brought back from South Carolina by Deputy Marshall Senn, of Columbia.

Governor Craig has pardoned Charles Huntley, on Anson county, who was serving a sentence of ten years on a charge of manslaughter. Huntley was convicted in 1909 and had served four years. The governor has made a record of the pardon but is not in the city and had not given his reasons when he gave the prisoner clemency Monday. The application for pardon was backed by many prominent citizens.

The constitutional commission met in Raleigh this week to determine what changes should be made in the state constitution, in anticipation of the extra session of the legislature which, in all probability, will be called.

While the poultry on any farm is not a very considerable item, the state of Indiana produced $26,000,000 of poultry products in the year 1909.

There is the most money in the long run in dairying by selling the cream or butter only and keeping the other products on the farm. Skim milk is turned into money fast with pigs.

Going through the potato patch and pulling out the grass and weeds that are just now maturing a luscious crop of seed will save a lot of close work with hoe and hand on the patch next season.

California, which is now the leading oil producing state of the Union, yielded 48,000,000 barrels in the first six months of the present year as compared with 40,086,000 for the corresponding period of last year.

In view of the miles and miles of thread and yarn that industrious women work into fancy fixings of one kind and another it is not much wonder that they get pale and thin, have nervous prostration or go crazy.

The cottonwood and box elder do not hold high rank as shade trees in sections where the elm, ash, hard maple, beech or walnut will thrive, but they are highly prized in the drier portions of the country, where the trees mentioned will not live.

The privilege of taking a duck and rubdown as many times a week as may be necessary to keep one's body sweet and clean is all the interest that one should ask on money invested in a toilet system including a hot water porce- lain tub and drainage.

While a producer of enormous quantities of copper, iron, coal, silver and gold, the United States produced in 1911 but sixty-three tons of tin, valued at $54,913. If there are considerable deposits of tin in the country they have not yet been located.

On the basis of figures compiled for the year 1910 $71 out of each $100 devoted to public expenditures was used for military purposes, and but $1.85 of the same $100 was spent in an improvement of agriculture. It would look as if our statesmen still had an important reform job on their hands.

While the law of the road in most states requires drivers of vehicles to give each other half the road on meeting, it does not require one driving a loaded wagon to turn out to allow an automobile to pass. However, if the big ahead cannot keep the pace of the one behind common courtesy should dictate that its driver should turn out enough to let the one behind him pass.

Humus, the decaying vegetable matter that rich and friable soils contain, does not of itself represent fertilizing elements, but it greatly improves the physical condition of the soil and enables it to more effectively retain moisture. For this reason every possible means should be used to increase the supply of humus in the soil by spreading manure and straw and by plowing under green crops.

If grasshoppers are bad when the alfalfa seedling is in the first few leaves and there is likelihood that they will devour it, it may be protected by distributing at intervals small gales of the mixture (horse manure, soil and paris green described in these notes some weeks ago). If paris are not taken to get the hoppers they are quite likely to get the alfalfa, as they know a good thing when they see it.

Elder may be kept sweet for some time if care is taken in having clean utensils in making and handling it and if one will add to each barrel of elder one-half pound of ground mustard, two ounces of salt and two ounces of pulverized chalk, these ingredients being mixed with a small quantity of elder and this poured into the barrel and the contents stirred thoroughly. The elder may be kept even longer by bringing to a boil, skimming carefully, adding a small quantity of sugar and sealing in hot glass jars.

The tick mites that infest sheep and the scab mites that infest sheep calves and pigs may be put out of business by dipping the animals in any one of several good dips that are on the market. The body should be kept submerged in the dip for a minute in the case of sheep, and at the last the head should also be dipped. The process should be repeated in nine or ten days. This treatment will mean that the animals will be free from these pests, provided all additions are dipped before being allowed among them.

A sheep is the most nervous animal on the farm and gets into low condition quickly and recovers slowly. Therefore it must be handled gently and kept in quiet, clean surroundings.

Water having a temperature of from 130 to 150 degrees F. poured on the green cabbage worms will kill them quickly. To have it the proper temperature when used the water should be close to the boiling point when taken from the stove.

Many a soil needs renewal in phosphate, and where this is the case there is no better way of applying it than scattering the untreated rock phosphate on the manure as it accumulates and later spreading the whole on the fields needing it.

It is a pretty hopeless task to talk of the benefits of a dairy type of agriculture to any man who isn't willing to take the initiative by spending a dollar a year for a good dairy paper or by investing more than $30 for a sire to head a dairy herd.

While the house wren is one of the smallest it is nevertheless one of the most valuable of insect destroying birds. It is alert and quick, and a pair make scores and scores of trips in a day while feeding their nestful of from six to eight little ones. Two broods are usually reared in a season.

Though it has been proved by chemical analysis that coal ashes have no value as a plant food, an application of them is nevertheless valuable on a heavy soil. This, of course, may be due in part to the wood ashes sometimes contained in them, but that they exert a beneficial mechanical action in ameliorating heavy soils there is no doubt.

Whenever an egg will lie flat at the bottom of a dish of water it is pretty conclusive proof that it is not more than four or five days old. As age increases the air space within the egg enlarges, and gradually it will tilt up from a horizontal position and finally rise to the surface. The method is one for ascertaining the age of eggs that are to be cooked in the shell.

To make a durable whitewash, one that will wear four or five years, shake a bushel of lime, skim, add half a bushel of salt which has been dissolved in water and six pounds of ground rice after being made into a paste. Put on the stove and bring to a boil, then while it is boiling stir in one pound of ground whiting and two pounds of glue which has been dissolved in a double boiler.

While the state of Minnesota is remarkably rich in timber and mineral wealth, her rank is high in point of agricultural wealth. There are in the state 156,137 farms, containing an average of 177 acres each and aggregating 17,675,823 acres. There still remain in the state 1,500,000 acres of government land subject to homestead entry, and there were on Jan. 1 of the present year 2,322,551 acres of state land still unsold.

The sad death the other day of a laborer in the vicinity in which the writer lives as a result of falling head first through a hay chute would seem to suggest the urgency of every farmer protecting the opening of such chutes with a railing of some kind, and this is true whether the ones afforded protection are the members of his own or somebody else's family. The manufacturer who would leave such a place unguarded would be liable to a suit for damages, and the average jury would award them.

On Aug. 1 on the Chicago market prime steers reached the highest prices recorded in forty years, the price paid being $9.85 for corn fed and distillery steers. One live stock expert who has been investigating the scarcity of beefs responsible for these high prices attributes it in large part to the fact that Americans have developed so large an appetite for veal that it takes 7,000,000 calves weighing from 70 to 100 pounds each to satisfy it. The cutting up of the big cattle ranches of the west is also credited with part of the scarcity of beef animals.

One of the most pestilent weeds that the farmer has to deal with is the wild barley or squirrel tail. While it is rated by botanists as a winter annual, its persistence in keeping hold when once it gets a foothold in a field would seem to indicate that it is a short lived perennial. It spreads readily by means of its fuzzy seed with their barbed arm and seems to flourish especially on moist low soils, that are prone to be occupied by weeds. Squirrel tail has some feeding value if cut before the seeds mature, but it is not worth as much as timothy. Thorough cultivation will kill it out, provided the soil is dry enough to produce a tilled crop.

Two short stretches of road that the writer has passed over lately demonstrate in a very practical fashion what can be done in the way of highway improvement by comparatively inexpensive methods. Both stretches of road referred to were of fine loose sand, into which the wheels of loaded vehicles would sink all the way from four to eight inches. The one was given an eight inch top dressing of soft coal cinders and the other a similar surfacing with weathered clay and limestone. Now, after several weeks' use, both are as smooth and hard as a pavement and have simplified greatly the hauling of loads over them. Where either of these materials is available it should be given a trial in improving sandy roads.

IN-ARCH METHOD OF GRAFTING.

There has been discovered and is being used in the government hothouses at Washington the in-arch method of grafting, which makes it possible to shorten the fruiting period of trees from eight to two years. This was very desirable in horticultural experiment work in order to ascertain the fruiting habits of imported new varieties of fruit bearing plants and in the cases of hybrids secured by crossing known and standard varieties. Briefly the in-arch method consists in taking up the seedling of the plant to be tested at the age of about four weeks with a ball of earth surrounding the roots sufficient to keep the plant alive for a few weeks. This is transferred to a vigorous tree of a kindred species whose root system is well established. The outer bark is scraped from the side of the nurse tree about a foot above the ground, and the bark is also scraped from one side of the seedling. The two wounds are bound together with soft cloth bands, the ball of earth being bound to the side of the nurse tree. In two or three weeks the two have grown together, when the root and ball of earth of the seedling may be removed. In order to still further force growth the top of the nurse tree is cut off, the entire nourishment of the root system being thus diverted to the adopted seedling, which makes a prodigious growth and vents some of its surplus energy in fruiting before its usual time. The in-arch system has been used in the case of citrus and other fruits and it is evident may be similarly used in hastening to fruiting practically all varieties of tree and bush fruits where such a union as that described can be effected.

A VERY SIMPLE PROBLEM.

Some pretty bright and wide awake farmers that the writer is acquainted with continue from month to month milking the same old "star border" cows that are barely paying their cost of keep when one-third or one-fourth as many good cows would give them many times the yield in milk and cream with far less work than they are now giving to these low yield animals. Of course one can guess roughly as to the milk capacity of a dairy cow, but an investment of $2 or $4 in a simple Babcock tester will enable him to determine exactly what each cow is doing. Measuring the quantity of the milk and at the same time testing the percentage of butter fat it contains give absolute proof of each cow's performance. Multiplying the number of pounds of butter fat indicated for the month or year and making an allowance of 20 or 40 cents a hundred for skim milk will give the income. If this total does not exceed from $35 to $40 per year (the yearly feed bill) it can be taken for granted that she is no good as a dairy cow and should be sent to the butcher. It is as clear as the nose on a body's face, that a cow that will show a net yearly profit of $80 is just as good an asset as—in fact, a good deal better one than—eight cows that give a net revenue of but $10 each. But, notwithstanding the simplicity of the arithmetic of this problem, thousands of farmers don't seem to have sense enough to see it.

INTERNATIONAL DRY FARMING CONGRESS.

Announcement has lately been made of the seventh international dry farming congress, which is to be held at Lehigh, Alberta, Canada, Oct. 21-26 next. This movement had a small beginning several years ago, the first gathering being held in the United States. In the coming congress representatives are expected from every nation in which dry farming is practiced, and this refers particularly to western Canada and the dozen or more western states in which the production of cereals has been greatly increased through the adoption of dry farming methods. In the several days given to the convention there will be conferences on soils, tillage methods and machinery, crops and crop breedings, agricultural forestry, live stock and dairy farming, agricultural education, farm management, scientific research, agricultural colleges and experiment stations, while one of the most interesting features of the congress will be a special section whose discussions will be devoted to the interests and problems of farm women. Interest in the congress is being increased through the offering of substantial prizes for best exhibits of farm products and for the best articles treating of various phases of farm problems.

WHAT CLOVER WILL DO.

A Canadian bulletin issued last year contains details of an interesting experiment in the growing of clover for the distinct purpose of increasing the nitrogen content in a tract of land. Clover was grown on this tract continuously for a nine year period. The ground was dug over every second year and the plot reseeded, the hay that was cut each season being allowed to rot on the ground. The soil was analyzed at the beginning of the experiment and at intervals later. At the end of nine years it was found that each acre of soil to a depth of four inches contained 472 pounds more nitrates than at the beginning, worth on an average $9.36 per acre each year, or $84.96 for the nine year period. If this clover had been fed to stock instead of being allowed to rot it is admitted that nearly as large an amount of nitrogen would have been contributed to the soil.

CHANGED HER MIND

One Way Lay Fame and Joy; the Other Duty Consecrated by Love.

By JOHN A. PHELPS.

Lettie's voice rose high and clear above the accompaniment that she played upon the cracked old piano. When Lettie sang she lost herself in the ecstasy of the melody. It was a song from "Rigoletto," but she did not know that; she had found the music among a miscellany left by the last summer boarder.

"That girl!" exclaimed Mrs. French, setting down her pans. She emerged from the kitchen into the parlor where Lettie sat.

"I wish you'd have a little consideration for the boarders, Lettie," she said querulously. "Didn't you know Miss Latham's gone to her room with a sick headache? And you must choose this time to screech like a sick owl in the woods."

Lettie came back to earth with a sigh. "I'm sorry, mother," she said and turned from the piano. Mrs. French went back into her kitchen again.

Just then the parlor door opened and Miss Latham entered. She was dressed in her petgown; her hair, hanging loosely down her back, gave her a singularly youthful appearance. Nobody would have guessed that this was the famous singer of the opera house, who was proudly displayed upon the billboards nightly during the season.

"Don't stop for me, Lettie," she said. "Would you sing that again? Who taught you to sing?"

"Oh, it just comes natural, I reckon," said Lettie, with an embarrassed laugh.

"But, my dear, that was wonderful. Don't you know that you have a remarkable voice?" Miss Latham asked. "If that were trained you might have a great future before you."

Lettie left the piano stool. "You mean that I might get to sing at concerts?" she asked breathlessly. "Do you really think I ever could?"

"Oh, Letty anybody can sing at concerts. I mean something really big. Would you like to?"

"Oh, wouldn't I!" exclaimed the girl, clasping her hands. This had been her vision since her earliest years; as though remembering some previous existence, she saw the lights, the audience, she smelled the perfume from with a burst of passion. "It's that Miss Latham, isn't it, with her notions. Do you know who she is? She's a singer. Just a plain singer—not even a type-writer or office girl. There isn't much good to be said of them, I reckon."

"I reckon you're too mean to live!" cried Lettie angrily, and stood before him with flaming cheeks. "Take your ring back if you want to talk that way."

William rose dully; he was only conscious in his heavy mind that the inevitable had happened. He saw the tragedy, but his untrained mind ran upon mundane things: the home that he was buying, the pigs, the cow, the apple crop that would not bear fruit for the new bride. He took the ring clumsily.

"If you change your mind, Lettie," he began heavily. But Lettie had left him. She was in Miss Latham's room, upon her knees, sobbing.

"You must take me with you," she wept. "I can't stay here—I can't. I want to live in the town, to see the faces of people, to cultivate myself."

Miss Latham laid her hand on the girl's head.

"There is another side to the picture, my dear," she said. "Do you realize what you will have to go through—the days of labor, the nights of suffering, the loss of every ideal, the bruising of your heart, the shattered hopes of life and the promise of what might have been, vanishing with the passing years? Lettie," she said, earnestly, "if I could have the past ten years over again they would have been different. But I'll speak to the friend I told you of when I return—if you ask me again tomorrow."

Lettie went slowly down the stairs. Her mental poise had come back to her. She thought of her mother's dreary round of days, of her real love for herself, hidden though it was beneath the load of petulance. She looked out into the village. There were the friends whom she had always known; it was peaceful tonight and the moon was rising over the apple orchard. A sudden revulsion of feeling came over her. The tears ran down her cheeks.

A man stepped lightly out of the darkness.

"Lettie," he said, "I want to say—I don't want to stand in your light. I want you to go—I want you to be happy. Perhaps you'll think of me sometimes."

Lettie stretched out her arms and drew his head down to her own. "I'm going to stay, William," she said. And Miss Latham, at her window above, heard and was glad.

WAY OF THE CHINESE DOCTOR

Queer Medicines Prescribed for the Ailing in the Celestial Kingdom.

The Mongolian physician, after feeling one pulse, then the other, perhaps both together, possibly may decide that a little dried grasshopper is the proper medicine to be used. On the other hand, if the Celestial of the pulse, that the diseased condition requires some other form of treatment, the Chinese drugstore near at hand possesses almost everything under the sun as a prescription. Oftentimes the debilitated patient is said to need a particularly rare and unusual medicine, as for example, some preparation consisting of the pulverized dry bones of a tiger; treatment is considered very commonplace when the native physician prescribes only such ordinary things as dried leaves, roots, stems, dried flowers, the bark of trees, etc.

The Chinese doctor possesses many ideas particularly his own. There is much mystery and impressiveness in his manner of treatment.

According to Mongolian medicine the Chinamen believe that the human heart is more likely to become inflamed at noon during the summer season than at any other time. Likewise they regard the human ear as suggesting the condition of the kidneys, while the mouth and lips indicate the condition of the spleen and the stomach.

"Doctor," "John" Chinaman has evolved a wonderful system of diagnosis that depends on 24 main varieties of pulse, but entirely aside from these there are 27 other special and minor varieties that prognosticate death.

One fundamental reason why the Chinaman of today is utterly ignorant in knowledge of human anatomy is because of the ancient custom of the yellow man neither to dissect nor to study the muscles and internal organs of the human body. The basis of this reluctance to investigate the human body is in the ancestor worship which exists.

Talked Themselves to Death.

The old Roman senators lost their lives because one of them was annoyed and talked. The barbarians were besieging Rome and someone told them about the senate. One of them said:

"Boys, let's go in and throw their whisks out on the scrap pile."

In they went, without passes, after tossing the doorkeeper out of the window. The senators, in their august, imperial dignity, overawed the barbarians as they rushed into the chamber, till one of the wise men spoke in anger when a vandal touched his beard. Then the rude, unlettered ones lost all reverence and put the venerable company to the sword. If this man had kept still it might have delayed the death of the entire senate more than twenty minutes.

Someone once said of Marshal von Moltke that he knew how to be silent in seven languages.

FOR MILK PRODUCTION

Getting Largest Yield at Least Expense Is Problem.

Adaptability of the Cows Used and Amount and Kind of Food Supplied Are Factors That Must Be Wisely Considered.

(By C. H. ECKLES.)

There are two factors which largely control the economical production of milk. One is the adaptability of the cows used for this purpose and depends upon her individual breed characteristics. The other is the amount and kind of food eaten. The problem confronting the dairyman is the production of the largest amount of milk and butter at the least expense. In order that this may be realized both the important factors mentioned must receive careful attention.

In most cases the largest direct expense is for feed. Everyone familiar with the prevailing conditions knows that a large amount of feed is used without producing the results it should. It would be safe to say that the average yearly milk production per cow could be increased by one-half or three-fourths by following better methods of feeding.

Every owner of a cow welcomes the time when the animal can be turned out to pasture. Not only is the labor and expense connected with winter feeding done away with, but each cow is expected to give the best results of the year on grass. In changing from dry feed to grass, it is best to go somewhat slowly, especially with heavy milking cows. The young, immature grass of early spring contains a large amount of water and a small amount of dry matter, and it is almost impossible for a heavy milking cow to eat enough of such feed to supply the necessary amount of nutrients. Wheat and rye pastures are of the same nature. Another reason for putting cattle on pasture gradually rather than suddenly is the effect on the taste of the milk. When a cow is changed at once from a grain ration to grass a very marked taste is developed in the milk, while if this change in feed is made gradually and not suddenly the change in the taste of the milk is scarcely noticed.

Soon after the cows are on pasture they reach the maximum production of milk for the year. This suggests what the dairyman must do in order that the production of milk may be the largest, is to imitate these summer conditions as far as possible throughout the remainder of the year. This is what the careful dairyman and skilled feeder does, and the results correspond closely to the success with which these summer conditions are maintained. The summer conditions which bring about the maximum production and which are to be maintained as far as possible through the year as described in the following statement:

1. An abundance of palatable food.
2. Balanced ration.
3. Succulent feed.
4. Moderate temperature.
5. Comfortable surroundings.

There is some difference of opinion regarding grain feeding while on pasture from the standpoint of economy.

DAIRY NOTES

The good cow deserves to be kept in comfortable surroundings.

A constant income is one of the great advantages of dairying.

There is constant improvement in the land where cows are kept.

Cleanliness is absolutely essential in the production of good milk.

And the dairy business develops fertility of the brain as well as of the soil.

Lookout for those cold rains; put the cows up. This applies to calves as well.

Feeding musty hay to milk cows is not economy. Better let the young stock have it.

The silo makes it possible for the farmer to have a green feed ration the year around.

Even when the cows are fed a full ration of soiling crops they should have some grain.

There is no good argument against having plenty of light in the cow stable, but many for it.

FEW ABUSES OF AUTOMOBILE

Tax on the Eyes and Nervous System Imposed by High Speed—Also Numerous Minor Ills.

The twentieth century may fairly be called the age of speed. The trolley car, rushing through city streets and country roads, replaces the jogging horse car and rumbling stage; the fast steamers take you to England in five days; the thousand miles between New York and Chicago is covered in 18 hours; and mankind has almost forgotten the joys of a quiet saunter. Distances have been shortened by the bicycle, the automobile and the motor boat, and the aeroplane is to outspeed them all.

Although much is gained, perhaps, the physician knows that something is lost, remarks the Youth's Companion. The uses and benefits of the automobile, for example, are great if it is sensibly used; but when it is abused the danger to those in and out of the car is even greater. Driving a high power car at full speed is a pleasurable form of intoxication, but like all intoxications it has its penalties, and they are heavy.

The driver's eyes and nervous system may suffer seriously, although there are numerous minor illis to which he is liable that may come first and teach him moderation.

The tax on the eyes is enormous, for they are kept at constant strain looking for obstacles and inequalities in the road. The wind and dust in spite of goggles often cause a trouble some inflammation that yields only to rest in a darkened room and appropriate medical treatment.

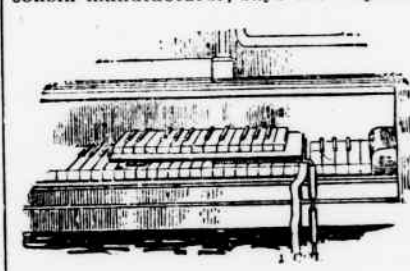

A not uncommon affection of the eyes is a failure to focus properly, the ciliary muscles become exhausted and suddenly cease to act—a temporary paralysis that causes a sudden blurring of the vision. If that comes while the car is going at full speed the driver is fortunate if he can stop it in time. The only course for the driver who has had this affection is to give up the wheel, for if it has occurred once it may occur again at any time.

Another ailment that may affect the passengers as well as the driver is a painful stiff neck caused by unconscious muscular tension. But the most serious penalty that follows abuse of the automobile is neurasthenia or nervous breakdown. A man whose brain is fatigued with business cares cannot with safety substitute another form of mental strain for the needed relaxation.

MUSICAL BELLS FOR PIANOS

Attachment Designed Particularly for Moving Picture Theaters and Similar Places.

The piano attachment for musical electric bells, designed practically for motion-picture theaters and similar places where only a pianist is employed, is just being marketed by a Wisconsin manufacturer, says the Popular

Mechanics. A small keyboard swings into position as shown in the drawing, and by means of it the pianist can operate the musical bells, playing loudly or softly as desired.

NOTES OF SCIENCE AND INVENTION

There are six thousand known languages and dialects.

Screen doors with fly traps attached are a recent invention.

The greatest depth of the sea yet discovered is 32,089 feet.

The precise weight of an English ounce was fixed by Henry III.

Foreigners living in Siam will establish a Pasteur treatment hospital at Bangkok.

A mitten has been patented that adds to the surface of the hand and aids a swimmer.

Fresh milk may be used as "invaluable ink." To make it visible scatter coal dust on the writing.

Two new British battleships will be fitted with anti-rolling tanks, the first war craft so equipped.

The list of known insects is increased annually by the addition of about eight thousand specimens.

French astronomers blamed a large sun spot for the coldest August experienced in that country in years.

The pulse of the new born infant beats at the rate of 136 per minute, and at the age of thirty, it is half that rate.

A camera which will enable motion pictures of the aurora borealis to be made has been perfected by a Swedish scientist.

Two separate pianos within a single case, the keyboards being at right angles to each other, is a musical instrument novelty.

The recent striking of an Italian army balloon by lightning was the first happening of the kind known to scientists.

An Arizona scientist has discovered that dates can be ripened in an incubator to a perfection that rivals the fruit brought direct to Paris from Africa.

The Return of Blood Eruptions

No Reason Why Anyone Should Suffer With Such a Disheartening Experience.

Contagious blood poison is the last particle of the virus removed from the circulation. It is a fresh outburst, with all its hideous symptoms of ulcerated throat, copper colored skin, and sores and ulcers. No other medicine so surely cures contagious blood poison as S. S. S. It drives out every particle of the virus. It absolutely and perfectly purifies the blood, and leaves the vital organs fresh, rich and healthy as it was before the destructive virus of contagious blood poison entered the circulation. S. S. S. quickly takes effect on the blood, and gradually the symptoms disappear. The skin is improved, the skin cleared of all spots, sores and other blemishes. The hair stops coming out, the mouth and throat clear, and when S. S. S. has cleared the system of the poison no trace of the disease is left. S. S. S. cures contagious blood poison because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and proven in hundreds and hundreds of cases all over the country. You will find S. S. S. for sale in all drug stores at $1.00 per bottle. Write to The Swift Specific Co., 127 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for private medical advice and a very instructive book on all blood diseases sent free, sealed in plain wrapper.

"Is that the doctor?" called Ellery weakly from the next room. "Is it?" "Yes," replied Parker, throwing off his coat and hat. "Coming, Mr. Ellery."

"For God's sake, doctor, send her away. Don't let her stay. Make her go! I've got the smallpox and if she stays she will die. Don't you understand? she must go."

"Hush, John," said Grace soothingly. "Hush, dear."

Dr. Parker stopped short and looked at her. However, he waited no longer, but hurried in to his new patient.

CHAPTER XVII.

In Which Keziah Decides to Fight.

The news was flying from house to house along the main road. Breakfasts were interrupted as some neighbor rushed in to tell the story which another neighbor had brought to him or her. Mr. Ellery was very sick and it was feared he had the smallpox. Grace Van Horne was with him, had taken him back to the shanty, and insisted upon staying there until the doctor came.

At the Daniels's house the servant girl rushed into the dining room to serve the toast and the story at one o'clock. Captain Elkanah's dignity deserted him for an instant and his egg spoon jingled to the floor. Annabel's face turned a dull red. Her eyes flashed sparks.

"Pa!" she cried, "I—I—if you don't do something now I'll never—"

Her father shook his head warningly. "Debby," he said to the maid, "you needn't wait."

Debby departed reluctantly. After the kitchen door had closed, Captain Elkanah said: "My dear, we mustn't be too hasty in this matter. Remember, Mr. Ellery is very sick. As for the Van Horne girl, we haven't heard the whole truth yet. She may not be there at all, or it may be just an accident."

"Accident! Pa, you make me boil. Accident! Accidents like that don't happen. If you let her stay there, or if— Oh, to think of it! And we were calling him a hero and—every thing! Hero! he stayed there just so she might—"

"Hush! hush, child!"

"I shan't hush. Pa, are you going to let him disgrace himself with her?"

"No, no. Probably there ain't any idea of his marrying her. If there is—"

"If there is you put him out of the church and out of town. And as for her— Ooh! And we've been having him here at dinner and—and I have— Oh, I shall die! I wish I was dead!"

Then followed hysterics and agony, greedily listened to by Debby, whose ear was at the crack of the door. Captain Elkanah soothed and pleaded and tried to pacify. It ended by his promising to investigate and, if necessary, take steps "immediately."

Lavinia Pepper sprang the mine on her brother. Kyan was horrified. He had grown to be one of Ellery's most devoted worshippers.

One of the very first to hear of the minister's illness was Keziah Coffin. Mrs. Parker told her and Keziah started for the beach before the tale of Grace's part in the night's happenings reached the village. She did not wait for a conveyance, hardly waited to throw a shawl over her shoulders, but began to cover the three miles on foot. She had walked nearly two-thirds of the distance when Captain Zeb Mayo overtook her and gave her a seat in his chaise.

They said little during the drive, the shock and anxiety forbidding conversation. At the ropes was the same group, larger now, and Dr. Parker's horse was hitched to one of the posts.

"You can't go in, Mrs. Coffin," said Thoph Black. "The doctor gives us his orders not to let nobody get by. I guess nobody wants to, but all I same—"

Keziah paid not the slightest attention to Mr. Black. She stooped beneath his arm, under the rope and was on her way to the shanty before they realized her intention. The living room was empty, but at the sound of her step some one came from the room adjoining. That some one was Grace. Dr. Parker appeared, holding up a hand for silence.

"Hush!" he cried. "He's quiet now and I think he will sleep. Don't talk here. Go outside, if you must talk—and I suppose you must."

Grace led the way. Fortunately, the door was on the side not visible from the spot where Captain Zeb and the rest were standing. Keziah, bewildered and amazed at the girl's presence, followed dumbly.

"Now, auntie," whispered Grace, turning to her, "you want to know how he is, of course. Well, I think he is better. The doctor thinks so, too. But why did you come here?"

"Why did I come? Why, because my place was here. I belonged here. For the love of mercy's sakes what are you doin' here? With him? And the smallpox!"

"Hush. I can't help it. I don't care. I don't care for anything any more."

"I'm glad I came. I'm glad I was the one to find him and help him. No matter what happens—to me—I'm glad. I never was so glad before. I love him, Aunt Keziah. I can say it to you, for you know it—you must know it. I love him and he needed me and I came. He was calling my name when I found him. He might have died there, alone in the wet and cold, and I saved him. Think what that means to me."

The door opened softly and Dr. Parker came out.

"He's asleep," he said. "And he's better, much better. And I'll tell you something else, if you won't make too much noise about it—he hasn't got the smallpox. He is pretty close to brain fever, though, but I guess he'll dodge that this time, with care. On the whole, Keziah, I'm glad you came. This young lady," with a movement of the head toward Grace, "has done her part. She really saved his life, if I'm not mistaken. Now, I think she can go away and leave him to you and me. I'll pretty nearly guarantee to have him up and out of this—this pesthole in a fortnight."

Here was joyful tidings, the better for being so unexpected. Keziah leaned against the boards and drew a long breath. Grace said nothing, but, after a moment, she went into the house.

"That's a good thing, too," commented Parker, watching her as she went. "I wanted to talk with you, Keziah Coffin, and right away. Now, then, there's something up, something that I don't know about, and I rather guess you do. Young women—even when they're her kind and that's as good a kind as there is—don't risk smallpox for any young man they pick up casually."

Keziah considered. "All right, doctor," she said, when she reached a decision, "all right; I'll tell you the whole thing."

She went on to tell all she knew of her parson's love story.

Dr. Parker listened.

"Hum!" he said thoughtfully. "I see. What made her change her mind so suddenly? You say, or you gather from what Mr. Ellery told you, that she had all agreed to marry him. She cares for him, that's sure. Then, all at once, she throws him over and accepts Nat. Of course her uncle's sudden seizure was a shock and he wanted Nat to have her, but she isn't the kind of girl to be easily swayed. But never mind that, that doesn't count now. Let's look at things as they are this minute. She's here and folks know it. As they do know it they'll begin to talk, and the more they talk the farther from the truth they'll get—most of 'em. Nat, poor chap, is dead, so her promise to him is canceled. Ellery will get well if he isn't troubled. If she leaves him he'll go to pieces again, so she mustn't leave. And she can't stay without an explanation. I say let's give the explanation; let's come right out with the announcement that they're engaged."

"But she's a Come-Outer and—there's the church."

"Well, I know it. But he never was so popular as he is now. And she isn't by any means a steady-going Come-Outer. Why, Zeke Bassett and the rest have been finding fault with her and calling her a backslider. That'll help. Then you trust me to whoop up her heroism and the fact that without her he would have died. We can do it, Keziah. Come on! I've tackled a good many jobs, but match-making isn't one of 'em. Here goes to tackle that."

Keziah was delighted; here was work after her own heart. But she still hesitated.

"Doctor," she said, "you've forgot one thing, that's Gracie herself. Would she marry him now, knowing it may mean the loss of his ministry and all, and more than she would at first? I don't believe it."

"That's your part, Keziah. You've got to show her she must marry him or he'll die; see?"

Keziah's hesitation was at an end. Her face lit up.

"I say good!" she cried. "And now I want to give you a piece of advice, your course for the first leg, as you might say: you see Cap'n Zebbedee Mayo?"

"Humph! Cap'n Zeb is the first man I mean to see."

Captain Zeb listened with his mouth and eyes and ears open. Mrs. Mayo was with him when the doctor called, and she, too, listened.

"Well!" exclaimed the captain, when the plea for support was ended. "Well, by the fukes of Jonah's whale! Talk about surprises. Old lady, what do you say?"

"I say go ahead, Zebbedee. Go ahead! If Mr. Ellery wanted to marry Zebebel's sister, and I knew he really wanted to, I'd—I do believe I'd help him get her. And Grace Van Horne is a good girl. Go ahead."

"Say, doc, there'll be a lively row, and I kind o' like it," said Captain Zeb.

There was, and it was lively enough.

to suit even Captain Zeb. Dr. Parker, on his calls that day, was assailed with a multitude of questions concerning Grace's presence at the shanty. He answered them cheerfully, dilating upon the girl's bravery, her good sense, and the fact that she had saved Mr. Ellery's life. Then he confided, as a strict secret, the fact that the two were engaged. Before his hearers had recovered from the shock of this explosion, he was justifying the engagement. Why shouldn't they marry if they wanted to? It was a free country. The girl wasn't a Come-Outer any longer, and, besides—and this carried weight in a good many households—what a black eye the marriage would be for that no-account crowd at the chapel.

Captain Zebbedee, having shipped with the insurgents, worked for them from sunrise to sunset and after. Zeb was something of a politician and knew whom to "get at." He sought his fellows on the parish committee and labored with them. Mrs. Mayo and the doctor's wife championed the cause at sewing circle. They were lively, those sewing meetings, and the fur flew. Didama Rogers and Lavinia Pepper were everywhere and ready to agree with whichever side, seemed likely to win.

It was by no means a one-sided struggle. Captain Elkanah, spurred on by the furious Annabel, marshaled his forces and proclaimed that Ellery, having disgraced the Regular Society, should no longer occupy its pulpit. He hinted concerning a good-sized contribution toward a parish house, something the society needed. If Ellery was discharged, the contribution would probably be made, not otherwise. And this was a point worth considering.

Daniels also wrote to his influential friends of the National Regular Society. But Captain Zebbedee had forestalled him there and both letters were laid on the table to await further developments. As for the Come-Outers, they were wild with rage and Grace was formally read out of their communion.

Meantime Keziah, installed as head nurse at the shanty, was having her troubles. The minister was getting better, slowly but surely getting better. The danger of brain fever was at an end, but he was very weak and must not be excited, so the doctor said.

He had expressed a wish to talk with his housekeeper. "I've got something to tell you, Aunt Keziah," he said.

"All right, doctor," she said, when she reached a decision, "all right; I'll tell you the whole thing."

She went on to tell all she knew of her parson's love story.

Dr. Parker listened.

PROGRESSIVE HIGH POINT.

City Council Looking After the Finance For the Coming Year.

At a meeting of the city council of High Point Monday the city budget for the year was passed, providing for an income estimated at $50,000 and for expenses aggregating $49,200. The expenses include $5,000 for streets, $2,000 and the court income for the police, $3,000 for the fire department, $9,000 for street lights, of which $4,000 will be paid by the profit on incandescent lights, $5,000 for other expenses, and $29,200 for interest and sinking funds on bonds.

The poll tax is fixed at $2 for the city and $1.35 for the schools, and the property tax is $1 for the city and 45 cents for the schools. The school tax is raised from 33 1/3 cents on account of necessary increased expenses for the next year.

The new city and school bonds for buildings and the water department, amounting to $100,000, are to be sold to the highest bidder July 7, and are to run 30 years and bear five per cent interest.

There were several requests made to the board for street improvements and they were referred for consideration to the street commissioner, and regret was expressed that no more than $5,000 is now in sight for this purpose during the next year.

Mr. A. B. Horney, Mr. J. H. Petty, and Doctors Rightsell and McAnally were unanimously re-elected to succeed themselves as school commissioners for a term of three years. Doctor Burrus of the council made an earnest plea for the schools and claimed that no person should be elected a school trustee unless he had children to be educated in the schools.

The salary of the mayor was fixed at the legal limit of $500 a year, as it has been during the past year. City Engineer June Johnson was re-elected at his present wages of $3.75 for each day employed.

INTERESTING SUIT.

Recalls Bad Railroad Wreck in Which Engineer Was Killed.

There was instituted in the Superior court last week an interesting suit for the recovery of $25,000 by the administrator of Thomas E. Beach, deceased. This suit is brought by Mr. G. S. Bradshaw, of the local bar, and Messrs. Burton T. Doyle and S. Edward Beach, of Washington, D. C., who are the attorneys for the administrator.

It will be recalled that the deceased, Thomas E. Beach, was the engineer in charge of train No. 36 in the wreck or collision which occurred on the 6th of July, 1912, on the Pomona yards in this city. Mr. Beach was perhaps the best known engineer of the Southern railway in this state and held first position and honor of rank by reason of seniority of service for this company. Visitors to the wreck will remember that Engineer Beach's name was on his engine which was his favorite and attracted quite a lot of attention at the time.

This suit will doubtless attract much attention on account of the prominence and many friends of the dead engineer and because of the amount involved it will likely be contested very stubbornly and ably by both sides.

INDUSTRIAL EXHIBIT.

Excellent Work Done by Negro Students in This County.

An exhibit of the work done in the industrial departments of the colored schools of Guilford county was made Saturday in the annex to the court house. All kinds of handiwork of the negro pupils were shown and the exhibit was an interesting one as indicating the sensible effective work being done by this department.

The supervisor of the work, M. G. Finkner, wife of H. H. Finkner, of the colored schools of the city, was in charge of the exhibit. She devotes her entire time to superintending the work in the schools and explained to those who called the manner in which the work is conducted.

The salary of the supervisor is paid from the Jean's fund which caused the inauguration of the industrial work to the Guilford schools for the negro people. Dr. W. T. Whitsett and Mr. John C. Bennett, of the board of public education of the county, made short talks.

J. B. Lancaster.

Mr. J. B. Lancaster, a Confederate veteran, died at his home on Hertford street Sunday afternoon, aged 67. He is survived by one son, a brother and a sister who live in Rockingham county. The funeral was held Monday afternoon at Sharon church, Rockingham county, and interment made in the churchyard.

To Improve Race.

Washington, June 3.—Laws requiring production of health certificates by applicants for marriage licenses, and the teaching of sex hygiene, were urged at a conference here today of prominent society women and sociological workers. Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and Mrs. William B. Bryan attended the meeting, which was held at the home of Mrs. John Hays Hammond.

The principal speakers today were Dr. Elmore C. Folkmar and Mrs. George M. Sternberg, wife of the former surgeon general of the army.

LOCAL NEWS, IN BRIEF FORM.

Matters of Interest to Readers of The Patriot Far and Near.

Attorney Charles O. McMichael, of Madison, was in Greensboro Monday.

Mrs. W. E. Bogart is back from a month's visit to her daughter, Mrs. Angell, at New Bern.

Children's day services will be held at Holt's chapel Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The public is invited to attend. George Hendrix, who has been a student at the A. & M. college, Raleigh, the past year, is spending his summer vacation at home, in Greensboro.

Mr. A. E. Tate, of High Point, who is now touring Europe with the commissioners to investigate rural credits, was last week elected a trustee of Wake Forest college.

At the meeting of the State Nurses' association held in Asheville last week, Miss Cleome Hobbs, of Greensboro, delivered the address of welcome, and Mrs. Dorothy Hayden, also of Greensboro, was secretary.

At the annual meeting of the State Dental association in Winston last week, Dr. J. S. Betts, of Greensboro, was complimented on his paper, the subject of which was: "Advertising Ethical and Unethical."

Mr. Ed. Cartland has returned from Morganton, where he spent eight months in Dr. Taylor's sanatorium receiving treatment for a serious nervous disorder. He has gained about 30 pounds in weight and is otherwise greatly improved in health.

Messrs. John P. Phoenix, C. M. Vanstory and J. C. Pierce are among the Greensboro people in Wilmington this week attending conventions of the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons, the Grand Council of Royal and Select Masters and the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar.

After an eight years' absence in the foreign missionary field, Rev. and Mrs. Lacy Little, of Kaingain, China, have returned to America for a brief stay, and are guests of Mr. Little's sister, Mrs. A. W. McAllister, in Greensboro. They have a large circle of friends over the state who are glad to welcome them back.

SOUTH AT FAULT.

Literature and Art Not Appreciated Says Dr. Archibald Henderson.

Dr. Archibald Henderson, of the State University, in his address before the graduating class of Salem academy, this week, declared that literature and art have been shamefully neglected in the South, saying that almost all of the literature of the southern states had been exhibited by the women who by tenacity of purpose in organizing literary clubs have belied the false national tradition that the South is a place of hospitality, beauty and fascination but of useless women.

The southern writer, the speaker said, has never been appreciated in his own land. He has not heard in his ears the ring of popular applause for his works which moves men on toward the highest intellectual attainment and the fullest development of their creative powers. Political exigencies are in no small measure responsible for this. Literature has been thrust into the background by the clamor of the orator. The written word has been subjugated to the tyranny of the spoken.

Dr. Henderson stated that another reason for the neglect of southern talent was the absorption of the southern mind with the classics of England and the continent. But the South, declared Dr. Henderson, has already largely overcome its material difficulties and today stands knocking at the portals of a golden age in literary culture.

"You see," said the speaker, "I am optimistic on the subject. I can make refreshing beverages in the evening on the lemons handed me during the day."

The speaker then made mention of several southern people who are winning recognition.

He spoke first of President Wilson. Then of Walter H. Page and William Sidney Porter, and paid a high tribute to the literary ability of Miss Adelaide Fries, of Winston-Salem.

Bad Train Wreck.

A Sanford dispatch tells of the railroad wreck on the Raleigh, Charlotte and Southern railroad which occurred at Deep River bridge near Cummock, Tuesday afternoon about 6 o'clock. The train was a mixed passenger and freight running between Mount Gilead and Colon. The engine, tender, three box cars and one coach fell into the river, killing one man and injuring a number of others.

Mr. Bowden Stewart of Hemp, was the only person killed. The injured are Fred Burns, Asgood, seriously hurt; R. C. Blalock, engineer, bruised and scalded on arms and back; George Blalock, brother of Engineer Blalock, seriously scalded; Conductor Beachman of Biscoe, seriously hurt in back, legs and head; Gus Johnson and Milt Johnson, passengers, hurt in back and legs, not serious; Arthur Leak, negro fireman, scalded on head and severe gashes on head; Spencer Tyson negro, arm broken and hurt in head, not fatal; Fletcher LeGrand, negro, leg hurt, not serious. The last three are trainmen.

MILLIONAIRE WHITE SLAVER.

Department of Justice Proposes to Put Down Vile Traffic.

Philadelphia, May 31.—Julius Wellner, a millionaire piano manufacturer of 923 Walnut street, was held under $1,000 bail for court by Commissioner Craig today on the charge of being a white slaver. He was arrested by Special Agents Garbarino and Gordon of the department of justice on the evidence of Minnie Hahn, who testified that Wellner has furnished her with a railroad mileage book to be used as transportation for herself and five girls to Alexandria, Va., January 27.

According to Federal officers, Wellner admitted giving the woman the mileage book, but pleaded that he loaned it as a favor and at her request. Garbarino and Gordon testified that during the latter part of January Minnie Hahn had closed up her house on Noble street and with five girls had gone to Alexandria.

Gordon and Garbarino testified the Hahn woman told them that Wellner supplied her with directions how to get to the Virginia city and where to go. She lost her way, and as a result made known her intentions to the government officers.

The federal agents said today that the maximum penalty in a case of this kind is 30 years in prison and $30,000 fine. Wellner entered his own bail.

Governor of Canal Zone.

Washington, June 3.—Richard L. Metcalfe, of Lincoln, Nebraska, editor of the Commoner, was today selected by President Wilson to be civil governor of the Panama Canal zone. This was announced by Secretary Garrison after he and Secretaries Bryan and Daniels had conferred with the President.

Although Mr. Metcalfe was first recommended by Secretary Bryan, Secretary Daniels and Secretary Garrison joined in urging the appointment. Mr. Metcalfe has been in newspaper work all his life and came into national political prominence during the campaign of 1896, as spokesman for Mr. Bryan. Last year he ran in the primaries on the Democratic ticket for governor of Nebraska, but lost.

Miss Lennie Mann, of High Point, was among the large number of out of town guests entertained last week at the Greensboro College for Women.
