THE AUGUST RAIN.

In an open mist enfolded
Stood the green and stately corn,
And the hills were veiled in vapor
At the breaking of the morn.
Till a gray cloud, slowly spreading,
Blurred the blue above the vale,
And it dropped in threads of silver
From its heart,—the August rain.

All day long it poured and pattered
On the ivy at the eaves,
And the thrushes in the orchard
Hid beneath the thickest leaves;
But at eve across the meadows
Flashed the yellow sun again,
And a bow of brilliant promise
Arched above the August rain.

Lo! the wealth of ancient princes
Sparkled forth on every side:
Pearls were in the lily's bosom,
Rubies crowned the rose's pride,
And a thousand liquid diamonds
Sparkled on the golden grain;
For it stole an angel's jewels
As it came,—the August rain!

THE LAND OF THE SKY.

Asheville Is Now the Attractive

Point Among the Summer Resorts.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 22.—Not many miles from this place lived Bill Nye—alas, poor William, the people about here knew him well—and they have many queer stories which they tell of him and many which the humorist in his peripatetic region would tell to them.

It was Nye who gave the memorable account of how it was that Vanderbilt happened to settle in this rare and rarified section of the South.

"George and me worked the combination," he said. "We have tastes of the same hue, often a dark brown. I'm long on gray matter; he has the long green. We pitched our tents side by side—this proves the greatness of men, to say nothing of the country round about."

But Nye has passed, and there is no monument save a cottage far up the river. Vanderbilt remained, and, like old Horace, he has created a monument more enduring than brass. I saw Bill Nye yesterday. Since the visit of McKinley, when he refused to enter the estate unless an invitation was extended to the correspondents accompanying him, newspaper men have risen in the estimation of Harding, the surly English sub-manager, and more extended courtesies are shown them.

But Billmore is only an accessory feature of this luxurious section. It represents the artificial, and looking at it in this contrasted light with the limitless wealth of nature spread out in its grandest forms, the scene makes a study which is interesting and not soon to be forgotten.

Asheville, just at this season, becomes the summer girl of the mountain cities. She gets on a cool skirt-waist, with a jaunty sail or hat and bedecks herself in the refreshing greenery of the season. She looks delightfully cool, and there is an air of comfort and serene satisfaction in her manner that she can defy the blistering heat which welters her rivals and sends them indoors. Instead of retreating from the sun, Asheville gets out and glories in its glare, for it is tempered by a stiff breeze which comes down from the crown of mountains around; she goes a golfing, rigs up in wheeling costume for a spin, gets into tennis paraphernalia, or starts out on a jaunt up the river for a try at mountain trout.

Just now Asheville is on the verge of the summer season. For the next three months it will be a gay place—gay in a summer way, for the town is always lively and wears the air of prosperity throughout the whole year. The popular idea of Asheville is erroneous. I had pictured the place as a small mountain city, with two or three big hotels nearby and Billmore and Ed McKissick in the rear ground. Instead, here is one of the most metropolitan towns in the South. There is a briskness in the business portion of the place which tells the energy and thrift of the people, and there is alertness and activity everywhere. The people have full enjoyment of life. The business part of the city is in the bottom of a huge basin scooped out among the mountains and sliced in two by the Swannanoa and French Broad. Here are miles of paved streets, put down, by the way, by the late General Pierce M. B. Young, who secured the contract years before he accepted his foreign appointment. From these radiate driveways which stretch in all directions and penetrate the encircling hills and heights, reaching far into the mountains. It is on this range of intermediate hills that the residences and resorts have been built and on every protruding knob there is some majestic hotel or house which gives a good effect to the general scene.

Speaking of scenes, the natural beauties of this place can eclipse anything in the world. It is for this reason, and the climatic conditions, which caused Vanderbilt to pour out his millions into the lap of North Carolina.

The French Broad shoots its arrowy length through a wilderness of the most picturesque country under the sun, and the ride from Morristown, on the Southern Railway, to Asheville has no equal in point of natural beauty. For seventy-five miles the road hugs the river, winding its tortuous way in and out the great gorges and at the base of high mountains with precipitous crags above. Sometimes there is a white gleaming sheet of swift water spread out over a perspective of three miles, and on each side juts up the towering peaks, the tops of which lose themselves in the clouds above. Now and then the scene is toned up by a harvest field intervening between the road and the river with the sheaves of grain stacked out by the river's side, giving a mellowness to the view and relieving the rugged aspect of the granite boulders beyond. He is indeed an adamant individual who is not moved by the scenes along this route.

As for the grain fields, some of these have been placed upon the steepest slopes of the mountains, and it is a source of speculation to all who go by how the crops can be cultivated without loss of life. On the train with us were a number of old soldiers returning from the reunion at Nashville.

"You think that's steep, but that ain't nothing," said one of the old fellows, who was seated out on the platform. "You ought to come down on the other side, down there 'bout Saluda. That's the highest place in these here parts, exceptin' at Hendersonville, which is just this side. I've got a farm down there, and one day me and my neighbor, Bill Duncan, were out in the field plowin' side by side. First thing you know I missed Bill—couldn't find him nowhere, but after awhile I looked way down at the foot of the slope, and there he was, plow, mule and all—done fell off his farm. When we go out workin' now we tie a rope round our body and put the other end round a tree. We work with a life preserver on all the time."

The change from the lower level to this aerial abode is decided. It is like a different world—the air is different and you gulp in huge draughts of ozone, more exhilarating than the finest wine. From the ride along the French Broad you are suddenly whizzed into the highest plateau surrounding Asheville. It is a striking scene—the kind I imagine Wordsworth tried to describe when he said:

"Oh, 'twas an unimaginable sight,
Clouds, mist, streams, watery rock
and emerald turf,
Clouds of all tincture, rocks and sapphire sky
Confused, commingled, mutually inflamed,
Molten together, and composing thus
Each lost in each, that marvelous array
Of temple, citadel, palace, and huge Fantasy of camp of structure without name,
In deep folds voluminously enwrap-
ped."

But there are other sides to Asheville which are almost as picturesque as that along the French Broad. From Spartanburg to Asheville and from Salisbury to Asheville, along the Southern Railway, there are views equally as interesting.

The summer accommodations about Asheville have been improved, and this season there is promise of a larger crowd than that during any previous summer. The Battery Park hotel is a resort of infinite pleasure. Just at this time, while the country below is sweltering under the glare of intolerable heat, the guests here are using heavy covering at night. The building is of the Queen Anne style, and is situated upon a high knob which rises just outside the business area of Asheville.

Major E. P. McKissick, who is known as the man who brought McKinley here, is proprietor, and, by the way, there is an interesting story of the two "Macs" with the office seekers of North Carolina; but that is another story.

In addition to this resort, there are other large hotels, and accommodations can be obtained at a number of cottages and private places about.

The Southern Railway has made a recent change in schedules, which puts in trains from all sections at most convenient hours.

Drawing room cars have been placed on between New York, Philadelphia, Chattanooga, Baltimore, Washington, Salisbury and Nashville.

Leaving Asheville at 2:25 p. m., the trip is made to Washington at 6:42 a. m., to Baltimore by 8 a. m., Philadelphia, 12:43 p. m., and New York at 12:52 p. m.

Trains 15 and 16 carry through Pullman drawing cars between Norfolk, Raleigh, Greensboro, Chattanooga and Nashville. Leaving Asheville at 1:17 a. m., Chattanooga is reached at 7:40 a. m., and Nashville at 1:35 p. m.

Leaving Asheville at 2:44 a. m., the trip is made to Greensboro by 8:30, Norfolk at 5:25 p. m.

PRESIDENT COBE'S ADDRESS

Before the Greensboro Industrial and Immigration Association.

Gentlemen of the Association:—Thinking that it might prove interesting to the members of the Association, and perhaps to our people generally, I have taken the pains to collect some statistics regarding the commercial progress of Greensboro during the past three years, which I take pleasure in submitting to you to night. These figures are taken from Dun's Commercial Report, supplemented by other information gathered elsewhere, and can be relied upon as being approximately correct.

There are engaged in the various kinds of business in Greensboro two hundred and twelve firms and corporations with a total capital of $2,672,000. This does not include the railways and express and telegraph companies or the schools and colleges, all of which use large capital and employ quite a number of people.

Of these two hundred and twelve concerns fifty-one have begun operations during the past three years. These fifty-one new firms have a total capital of $1,278,000, nearly one-half of the whole amount used in the city at the present time, and almost as much as was employed three years ago.

There are thirty-nine manufacturing concerns in Greensboro with a total capital of a little over a million dollars. Of this number sixteen, or nearly one-half, were added during the past three years, and the sixteen new ones have a capital of $545,000 more than all the factories combined prior to three years ago. If any one doubts the substantial accuracy of these statements I refer him to the large number of new buildings going up in the different parts of the city. I have been informed that one hundred and eighty houses have been built here this spring and summer. This is good evidence, provided too many of them are not vacant, and if any one thinks that, let him try to rent one, and he will discover his mistake.

"The growth of Greensboro recently has been so steady and so marked as to attract the attention and favorable comment not only of our own people, but of every one that comes here. It is all the more encouraging, too, when it is remembered that this growth has occurred during a period of unusual business depression. The good results of the past few years should prove a valuable lesson to guide us in our future actions. If such development takes place in Greensboro during what is considered very dull times shall we not expect in the future even greater things, with our favorable location and many natural advantages, which are conceded by everybody. Then let us make the best of these advantages and by systematic work, wisely planned and executed, make sure of a still greater increase in commercial growth in the future."

"That this Association has had some influence in bringing about these results admits of no doubt. That this Association can, with proper effort, in the future do even better than it has in the past is equally certain. The principle of stimulating the growth of the community by intelligent and progressive methods is the same as that applied to plant life when using fertilizers; and the one is as certain to show good results as the other."

"As this is the last year in which I will have an opportunity of taking an active part in the Association, I shall make no recommendations as to the plan of the next year's work. I have no doubt that your choice of a committee will be a wise one, and that they will be fully competent to manage the affairs of the Association for the best interests of our community."

"In taking leave of the Association in my official capacity I desire to thank all our members, who by their interest in this work and their financial assistance have made it possible to do whatever the Association may have done in the past for the business interests of the city. In conclusion let me express the hope that the Greensboro Industrial and Immigration Association will become stronger, more active and more useful with each succeeding year, and that all its members may be prosperous and happy."

H. W. COBE, President.

Cadet Neil Emerson at Horner's

The Oxford Ledger of yesterday, in referring to the closing exercises at Horner's school, pays the following deserved compliment to a Wilmington boy:

"All the declaimers and essayists did splendidly as is always the case with the Horner cadets, but conspicuously meritorious was the declamation of Cadet Neil D. Emerson, of Wilmington, N. C. His subject was the 'Dream of Clarence,' and this young man spoke with a beauty, earnestness and eloquence that electrified all present, eliciting a storm of well deserved applause. His rare gifts will assuredly win for him future fame on the arena of eloquence if he will cultivate his native gifts in that direction. He was awarded the declaimer's medal and was fortunate as the recipient of many beautiful flowers."—Messenger.

Savings Banks.

From a recent article in the Manufacturers' Record under the heading of "Savings Banks as They Relate to the South and to New England" we clip the following:

"The laws governing the savings institutions of Massachusetts, Connecticut and New York are models which the legislatures of the Southern States might adopt with great benefit to their people. They not only throw around such institutions every possible safeguard, but, besides this, they enable the people to put their money in small sums, from a dime upwards, where it will be perfectly safe and will increase by compounding of interest, until the many a mickle has made very much of a muckle. It is this aggregation of little that gives the opportunities to the manufacturers of those States to enlarge their plants. The many millions in the savings banks are largely loaned to established and prosperous corporations, who see that it will pay to increase their business. Savings banks do not call in loans on which the interest is paid when due. It is their policy to keep it loaned to parties who will be seen to pay promptly when the time comes. They hold at all times government, State and municipal bonds and other gilt-edged securities, that can be at once converted into cash in case of a sudden and extraordinary withdrawal of deposits, but the bulk of their funds are in permanent loans on real productive property. Thus it is that in those States the money of mechanics, artisans, small farmers, servant girls and all kinds of wage earners, amounting in the aggregate to many millions, are converted into means for increasing the big plants that give employment to still more people, who, in their turn, become depositors."

"The South ought to have similar institutions in every city of 20,000 people and upward, regulated by the same safe-guarding laws. They would not only give to all city wage earners, but to the small farmers as well, a place where their money would be safe and steadily earning increase, to be added semi-annually to the amount deposited and become a part of the principal on which interest would be paid. More than this, the South everywhere would have a method wrought out by years of practical experience in other States for getting together in large sums the millions that lie idle among its people, and to use them for large industrial development, as is done in New England and in many of the most prosperous Northern States."

"Let the Southern financiers and business men study this subject thoroughly, and if convinced, as they surely will be, of the manifold benefits that would follow the general introduction of savings banks, let them secure legislation patterned after that of the States herein named and then organize, wherever practicable, these beneficent institutions. Not only will they make a great addition to the actual capital of the South, but they will educate the masses to a better understanding of the universal laws of finance, and will also teach them that small savings, properly managed, lead to general prosperity and to manly independence."

Thanks to a wise act of the legislature of North Carolina, ratified the 7th day of March, 1887, and known as the General Savings Bank Law, this State already has a savings bank law based on and patterned after the laws of the States referred to. And Greensboro can congratulate itself on the fact that in the People's Five Cents Savings Bank of this city it has one of these institutions to encourage and promote saving among its people. This bank has been in successful operation for ten years and through economical business management it has safely weathered the great financial storms of the period, has had over 3,500 depositors on its rolls and has never lost a dollar. Notwithstanding the depressed condition of business and the prevailing cry of hard times our savings bank has increased its deposits 75 per cent. within the last two years, and it is at this time in the most prosperous condition of any period since its organization. Under the 6 per cent. interest law of North Carolina the savings bank has been paying its depositors at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum, 2 per cent. being placed to the depositor's credit every six months, when it becomes a part of the principal on which interest will be paid, or in other words the interest is compounded every six months. Many of our wage earners, as well as others, have nice balances to their credit in this bank, and if it had not been for the opportunity and encouragement offered them by this institution they would today not have a dollar. They had never learned how or been able to save money until they commenced depositing in the savings bank. They have learned that when they have a deposit in this bank, in case of sickness or any other emergency, they can get any part or all of their money at any time they may want it. If it remains in the bank a few months they know it is drawing them interest. So they find it a very satisfactory arrangement all round."

We are glad to note the progress and continued prosperity of our savings bank. It deserves it all, and we heartily commend it to the patronage of our people. Nowhere else are the pennies and nickels of the poor and the moderate wage-earner so highly respected and so well husbanded and made to increase.

Work for the State Convicts.

RALEIGH, July 21.—Next Tuesday 100 convicts will be sent, under charge of Farm Superintendent W. J. Bradshaw, from the Roanoke farms to grade the Carthage railway extension. One hundred convicts, also from those farms, will be sent to Wayne county to dyke the Collier farm on Neuse river. Superintendent Smith says he intends to find work for all convicts in August, save those on the Anson farm, who will cut wood. Five thousand cords are now cut, and a like quantity will be cut in the next three months. The penitentiary has a contract to furnish 2,500 cords at Charlotte and 1,000 cords at Wadesboro. He says he thinks the dykes on the Roanoke farms are perfectly strong. There are many calls for convicts for various kinds of private work.

William A. Guthrie, who was the Populist nominee for Governor, declared for government ownership of railways by purchase at an equitable price, but that he does not favor stealing railway property under disguise of increasing taxes and cutting down rates.

A Protest.
EDITOR PATRIOT:—As a supporter of the principle of local taxation, though believing that many parts of the law to be voted on in August are defective, if not unconstitutional,
I must protest against the kind of argument that is being used in its favor in many parts of the State. The chief argument
I have heard is directed to the poor and impecunious. They are advised to vote the tax because they will have very little, if any, of it to pay.
This is a very dangerous argument
and speaks too much of socialism.
It is supposed to be very effective with our colored population, which pays one dollar while the white people are paying more than one hundred. This is an appeal which I would not dare to make no matter how good and just the cause. When we appeal to our people to vote a tax on themselves, let us show them
that such a tax, though a sacrifice, will prove to be a blessing and that it is not simply a golden opportunity of all the other letters of the alphabet to force money out of the pockets of A B and C for the common good.
J. ALLEN HOLT.

Winston Notes.
WINSTON, July 26.—District Attorney R. B. Glenn said today he changed his resignation last week to take effect at once instead of August 1st, as he first sent in. He did this so the President could appoint his successor before Congress adjourned, if he wished, but this was not done. It is expected to be announced this week, however.
Joseph W. Farrar, a well known white man, was arrested here this afternoon by Deputy Marshal Balley, of Greensboro, on the charge of sending scurrilous letters and postal cards through the mails.
Three of the cards and one letter
are in the possession of Postoffice Inspector Dexter. The postal cards are addressed to prominent young ladies. Farrar was carried before United States Commissioner Martin, but his trial was continued.
He was bound over to the October term of the Federal court at Greensboro, his bond being fixed at one thousand dollars.

Horrors in Cuba.
LONDON, July 24.—The correspondent of the Daily Chronicle in Sagua La Grande, Province of Santa Clara, Cuba, writes to his paper a terrible account of the position of affairs in the island. Both the government troops and the insurgents, he says, are suffering hor-ribly from famine and the ravages of smallpox and yellow fever, while butcheries of prisoners after in-justifiable tortures are daily occurring if the victims be suspected of withholding information.
Captain General Weyler, the correspondent says, has shown neither mercy nor quarter, and has turned the campaign in Cuba into a near approach to that of the Duke of Alva in Holland in the sixteenth century.

A War With England.
LONDON, July 24.—The Sunday Times in a sensational article predicts war between Great Britain and the United States and says another letter upon the seal fisheries question will follow, but that this will fail to elicit a protest from Lord Salisbury. A new source of trouble, according to the Sunday Times, is probable as a result of the recent gold discoveries upon the Yukon river and its branches.
The Sunday Times asserts that confidential communications between Russia and the United States are being exchanged with a view to contending that Klondike regions constitute a part of the territory of Alaska ceded by Russia to the American government.

Vin, vigor and victory—these are characteristics of De Witt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation, biliousness and all stomach and liver troubles. Howard Gardner.

Silver Still Going Down.
New York, July 26.—The market price of silver reached low water mark today. Government assay bars were quoted at 59 cents, which made the silver in a standard silver dollar worth 45.63 cents against 45.70 in 1894. The market opened at 59.18 cents an ounce, and later declined to 58.
cents.

Don't nauseate your stomach with tea and bitter herbs, but regulate your liver and sick headache by using those famous little pills known as De Witt's Little Early Risers. Howard
Gardner.

GENERAL NEWS.

Lake Champlain, where he will spend his vacation.

President E. K. Andrews, of Brown University, Rhode Island, whose free-silver utterances were distasteful to the trustees and fellows of the institution, has resigned.

Vast discoveries of gold in the Klondike mining district, on the Upper Yukon river, Alaska, is causing an exodus of thousands to that ordinarily uninhabited region.

The Treasury Department has given orders for $104,000,000 in notes of small denominations, in anticipation of large demand for currency to be used in moving the crops.

A dispatch from Singapore says that the Chinese steamer Sreihengann, bound from Singapore for Malacca, with 120 passengers, was wrecked in a squall of Malacca on June 19. One hundred and twenty persons, including the captain of the steamer, were drowned. The remainder of the ship's company were rescued by a passing steamer.

How to Prevent Pneumonia.
At this time of the year a cold is very easily contracted, and if let to run its course without the aid of some reliable cough medicine is liable to result in that dread disease, pneumonia. We know of no better remedy to cure a cough than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. We have used it quite extensively and it has always given complete satisfaction.—Olagah, I. T. Chief.

This is the only remedy that is known to be a certain preventive of pneumonia.
Among the many thousands who have used it for colds and grippe, we have never yet learned of a single case having resulted in pneumonia. Persons who have weak lungs or have reason to fear an attack of pneumonia, should keep the remedy at hand. The 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Richardson &
Fariss, Druggists.

A DEADLY SECRET ASSAULT
Which Jeopardized the Lives of Ten People—Dwelling Wrecked by Dynamite.

Some one with the instincts of a fiend attempted an outrage here Thursday night that jeopardized the lives of ten unsuspecting people and threatened the destruction of valuable property.

That the results were not more serious can only be attributed to the fact that the deadly agent employed in the commission of the crime failed to perform its work in the manner or to the extent anticipated.

Just before twelve o'clock on the night mentioned the family of Mr. Job Thigpen, living at 438 East Washington street, was awakened by a terrific explosion that shook the dwelling to its very foundations and caused serious damage to the property. As soon as possible an effort was made to discover the cause of the disturbance and upon emerging from the house a distressing scene met the gaze of the frightened people.

Floors lay heavy timbers and pieces of flooring from the west end of their porch, several strips of weatherboarding that had been torn from the house, and numberless fragments of glass from a window located at that point, while underneath the porch and edge of the building a great hole had been made in the loose dirt, one of the pillars had been displaced, a joist split, and the shabby nearly swept down.

Inside the house were Mr. Thigpen and the nine members of his family. In the room at the corner of the building where the greatest damage occurred two young men occupied a bed directly in front of the window that was shattered and almost directly over the spot where the deadly missile spent its force. Their bed was raised by the explosion sufficient to permit all the casters to fall out. Mr. Thigpen and another son occupied another bed in a rear corner of the same room. Strange to say, no one was hurt and one member of the family was not awakened by the explosion, which was heard all over the city. One pane of glass was broken in house No. 435, directly across the street, and fully one hundred feet away. Evidently a dynamite cartridge or bomb was used.

When Policeman Wittington arrived on the scene there was nothing to indicate who had committed the dastardly outrage except that a carriage had been seen driving rapidly away from the house just after the report of the explosion was heard. He and Policeman Scott set out to locate that carriage and were successful. Out in "Jonesboro" the officers separated so as to cover the ground thoroughly. A little later Scott saw a carriage coming down the hill, but when it got within about a hundred yards of him it stopped for a moment and two women got out. He started hurriedly toward the carriage, passing the women, whom he recognized, and called to the driver to stop, but that individual evidently wasn't in a stopping humor, as he whipped up his team and tried to drive around the officer, who ran up and grabbed the lines and brought the team to a standstill. As this occurred the men inside the carriage jumped out on the side opposite from the officer and made their escape in the darkness without being recognized. Bob Newlin, a notorious negro, was the driver of the carriage. He declared he didn't know who the men were that had just taken such a sudden departure, but they were white. The women were seen shortly afterward and they declared the men in the carriage with them were colored, but that they could not give an accurate description of them or tell who they were, as they had never seen them before. They said Newlin had brought the men to their house only a few minutes before and asked them if they would take a drive, to which they consented, but on learning that their newly-made friends were "off color" they ordered him to turn back.

Since that night the officers have worked diligently on the case and Mr. Wittington secured sufficient evidence to justify him in placing Newlin under arrest. Monday he was given a preliminary hearing before Mayor Nelson and despite the able and persistent efforts of his counsel, Mr. D. Schenck, Jr., he was held for further examination by the grand jury in a bond of $500.

In the hearing before the mayor some important facts were developed, but whether or not they will stand the test of a jury trial remains to be seen. In the first place no motive was shown whereby Newlin could be directly implicated, and he is really held as an accessory after the fact. Mr. S. P. White affirmed that he saw Newlin directly in front of the Thigpen dwelling just as the explosion occurred and also saw him drive rapidly away, but did not see anything thrown from the carriage. He could not tell anything about the occupants. Mr. W. H. McGuire testified that as he passed Newlin's carriage only a minute or so after the explosion some one threw out a cigarette and then stuck his head out and looked back in the direction of Thigpen's. That person appeared to Mr. McGuire to be white. Officer Scott was examined and narrated the circumstances occurring in Jonesboro. The State did not put on all its witnesses.

Newlin testified in his own behalf, telling the court how he happened to be driving along East Washington street when the explosion occurred and how his team acted at the time, but he disclaimed any direct or indirect connection with the affair. He swore the men in his carriage at the time were strangers and white men.

Frank Thomas, for whom Newlin drove, and a young man named Stearns, who works at Thomas' stable, told the court they saw two white men get into Bob's carriage that night and drive off a few minutes before 12 o'clock in the direction of Jonesboro. It appeared from the testimony that they and Newlin called on the women the following night and tried to induce them to say the men in the carriage Thursday night were white. One of the women, Queenie McManis, a witness both for the defense and the prosecution, swore positively that one of the men in the carriage was a mulatto, while she thought the other one was too, but didn't get a good look at him.

It is not unlikely that there will be other important developments in the case within a day or so.

Mrs. Fishblate Dies in New York
The news of Mrs. Fannie Fishblate's death Monday was a shock to her host of friends in this place. She was in New York for treatment but no one thought of her case being serious until Mr. and Mrs. Katz were summoned to her bedside Friday. Mrs. Katz is her only child. She, with her father and husband, were with Mrs. Fishblate when she died at four o'clock Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Fishblate was a daughter of Mr. Otterberg, of Fayetteville, and wife of Mr. E. R. Fishblate, of this city. She was a loving wife, a devoted mother and a loyal friend. Her sweet temper and beautiful character will long be remembered. Her remains arrived here this morning and were taken to the McAdoo House, where the funeral services will be conducted tomorrow at 9:30 A. M. Interment at Greene Hill. The bereaved family has our sympathy.

After hearing some friends continually praising Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, Curtis Flock, of Anaheim, California, purchased a bottle of it for his own use and is now as enthusiastic over its wonderful work as anyone can be. We have been favored with a copy of the Jonesboro, Ark., Sun, containing an extended report of the Craighead County Teachers' Normal Institute, successfully conducted there by Prof. D. L. Paisley, a former Guilfordite. The people of Jonesboro and the teachers of the county are lavish in their praise of the conductor. Prof. Paisley has been in Arkansas nine years and is at the head of a prosperous academy at Auvergne, as well as school examiner for Jackson county. He holds a state license and for the past three years has conducted normals under the direction of the State Superintendent of Education. The PATRIOT is glad to note his evident prosperity.

John Griffin, of Zanesville, O., says: "I never lived a day for thirty years without suffering agony, until a box of De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve cured my piles." For piles and rectal troubles, cuts, bruises, sprains, eczema and all skin troubles De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve is unequalled. Howard Gardner.

Death of Mrs. Wharton.
A telegram received by Mr. J. R. Wharton last evening announced the death of Mrs. Lucy Wharton, wife of Rev. T. A. Wharton, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Abington, Va., and daughter of Mr. C. C. Tallaferra, of Roanoke, Va. Mrs. Wharton died yesterday at Elizabethtown, Tenn., after an illness of two weeks. The remains will be sent to Hampden-Sidney to-day for interment. Mrs. Wharton leaves a husband, four children and numerous relatives to mourn her loss. She was about thirty-two years old.

"They don't make much fuss about it." We are speaking of De Witt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation, biliousness, and all stomach and liver troubles. They never gripe. Howard Gardner.
