Mr. J. W. Mizell died at his home at White Oak Friday afternoon from the effects of a stroke of paralysis he suffered while at work earlier in the day. He was 63 years of age and is survived by his widow and three children. The funeral was held from the home Sunday afternoon, interment being made in Greene Hill cemetery.

John Rhea, a former member of the police force of this city, passed through Greensboro a few days ago in the custody of a United States officer bound for Atlanta, where he will serve a year and a day in the federal prison for an infraction of Uncle Sam's revenue laws pertaining to the manufacture of liquor. For several years Rhea has been connected with a distillery in Richmond, and along with several associates he was convicted at a recent term of United States court at that place. It was suspected that Rhea had a leaning toward the liquor business even while he wore the uniform of a Greensboro policeman.

By a change in the districting of the Southern Bell Telephone Company, Greensboro becomes the center of a new sub-division, being taken from the Charlotte district. G. C. Miss Aileen Hodgkin has returned from Charlotte and is at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Hodgkin, in Sumner township. The approaching wedding is looked forward to with much interest by the friends of the young couple, both of whom are well known throughout the county.

Mr. Leonard Van Noppen, a brother of Mr. Charles L. Van Noppen, of this city, has been appointed Queen Wilhelmina lecturer on Dutch history, literature and language for the coming academic year at Columbia University, New York. Mr. Van Noppen was born in Holland, but came with his parents and brothers to the United States when six years old. He graduated from Guilford College in 1890 and later returned to his native land to study Dutch literature. He has done much literary work of a high order.

Reidsville Concerns Financially Embarrassed.

Upon application of Thomas C. Hoyle, attorney for creditors, Judge Boyd Monday appointed Ira P. Humphreys, of Reidsville, temporary receiver for Robert Harris and Brothers, tobacco manufacturers, and J. H. Walker & Co., a milling concern, both of Reidsville, and cited them to appear June 23 and show cause why they should not be thrown into bankruptcy. The order for a receiver was made on petition of Charles Van Vahl, Frank C. Mayberry and Allen C. Memhard, of New York, creditors of Robert Harris and Brothers; and Dr. Z. T. Brooks, the Sergeant Manufacturing Company, of Greensboro, and the Whittemore and Mobley Hardware Company, of Reidsville, creditors of J. H. Walker & Co. The Harris and Brothers creditors allege that they believe the liabilities of the firm are $575,000, with assets no more than $250,000. It is alleged the liabilities of Walker & Co. are $150,000 and assets not over $75,000.

The Patriot learns that there is a prospect of the affairs of the two concerns being settled without going through the formality of lengthy and expensive bankruptcy proceedings.

Greensboro Men Get Appointments.

Messrs. George F. Crutchfield and Briscoe B. Bouldin, of this city, have been appointed deputy collectors of internal revenue, with headquarters in Greensboro. They will relieve Deputy Collector J. T. Shepherd, who will go to Raleigh, and Special Employee J. L. Sams, who has been assigned to duty at Asheville. The appointments come from Col. W. H. Osborn, commissioner of internal revenue. The positions pay salaries of $1,600 yearly, with an expense allowance of $1,000.

Mr. Crutchfield served for several years as a deputy sheriff and was a brave and fearless officer. Mr. Bouldin is an old revenue officer, having seen service in the days of Cleveland.

B. F. Keith, collector at the port of Wilmington, is about to work himself out of a job. His commission does not expire for nearly two years and he might have been allowed to hold on until then, but recently he set about making certain changes among his subordinates, doubtless with a view of fixing certain friends in permanent jobs, and now Senators Overman and Simmons are trying to have him removed. Secretary McAdoo has told Senator Simmons that there will be no appointments made in the customs service in this state that are not satisfactory to the North Carolina senators.

JUNE WEDDINGS.

Several Well Known Couples Are United in Matrimony.

Mr. W. R. Denny and Miss Maude Haynes were married Tuesday at 11 o'clock, the ceremony taking place at the home of the bride's parents in Rockingham county. Rev. R. Murphy Williams, pastor of the Church of the Covenant, performed the ceremony in the presence of members of the family and a few friends. Upon their return from a visit to Asheville and other points in the mountains Mr. and Mrs. Denny will be at home on Cedar street.

Mr. Denny is one of the city mail carriers and is a gentleman of sterling qualities. His bride has made her home at the residence of her uncle, Mr. J. L. Haynes, on Walker avenue, for some time and has many friends in the city.

Breeden-Pritchett.

Mr. Prince B. Breeden, of Norfolk, Va., and Miss Mollie Dean Pritchett, of this city, were married at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. J. Henry Gilmer, on Asheville street, yesterday morning at 11 o'clock. The vows were taken before Rev. Charles E. Hodgkin, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian church. The Gilmer home was prettily decorated for the happy event, and many friends were present to witness the ceremony and offer congratulations. After their bridal trip Mr. and Mrs. Breeden will be at home in Norfolk, where the groom is engaged in business.

Glenn-Hardie.

Mr. Robert W. Glenn and Miss Kate Hardie, well known young society people of this city, were married in Holy Trinity Episcopal church last night at 8.30 o'clock, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Thomas G. Faulkner, the rector. Mr. Philip Hardie, a brother of the bride, was best man and Mrs. W. C. Lee was dame of honor. Mr. Glenn is the only son of Mr. Robert G. Glenn and is a promising young business man. His bride is a daughter of Col. and Mrs. Jo Hardie and is an attractive and accomplished young woman.

Witherspoon-Lindsay.

Capt. Camron Witherspoon, of this city, and Mrs. Minnie Phillips Lindsay, of Kernersville, were married Tuesday morning, the ceremony taking place at 11 o'clock at the home of the bride's son-in-law, Mr. Edward M. Linville, in Kernersville. Rev. H. T. Cooke, of Winston-Salem, was the officiating minister. Capt. and Mrs. Witherspoon have gone on a wedding trip to Washington, Atlantic City, New York and other points.

And the County Paid the Bill.

The calendar having been exhausted, Judge Peables adjourned Superior court Monday morning until next Monday, when the criminal docket will be called. The bar set no cases for trial this week and adjournment might have been taken Saturday afternoon if the court had been willing to work an hour or two later. The jurors who had been summoned for this week were on hand promptly Monday morning, but as there was no work for them to do they were excused and permitted to return home. This cost the county a matter of $150, which expense, it seems, might have been avoided under the circumstances.

The most important case to come up next week is the charge of murder against John Fogleman.

Unseasonable June Weather.

The weather this week has been very cool and disagreeable for June. To say that it is unseasonable is putting it mildly. For the first time in many years people have worn their coats while harvesting wheat and doing other outdoor work. A cold rain yesterday added to the general discomfort and put a stop to work in the wheat fields. The cool wave is general throughout the country.

President Venable, of the State University, has been granted a year's leave of absence on account of impaired health. Prof. E. K. Graham will be acting president of the university during Dr. Venable's absence. The board of trustees ordered that the president's salary of $4,500 a year be paid him during his absence. He will go abroad with his family. There are those who predict that this is the beginning of the end of President Venable's administration of affairs at the university.

FEDERAL COURT ADJOURNS.

Five Prisoners Sentenced to Federal Prison at Atlanta.

The June term of United States District court came to an end Monday, having been in session a week. Several cases were continued until the September term, among the number being the case against A. M. Todd, charged with complicity in a murderous assault on Deputy Marshal Harkrader, in Surry county, last winter. Todd is at liberty under a bond of $2,500.

Eckie Bankus and Robert Hayes, white men of Wilkes county, were convicted of a conspiracy to injure Charles Shalley, who was suspected of having given information that resulted in the arrest of the two defendants for blockading. A few nights after the arrest Shalley was called to the door of his home and shot and painfully wounded. Bankus was sentenced to the Atlanta federal penitentiary for three years, sentence as to Hayes being suspended during good behavior.

Jarvis Marks and George Rich, of Montgomery county, were convicted of illicit distilling. Marks was sentenced to the penitentiary for 15 months and Rich for a year and a day.

Wade Crouse, a Surry county blockader, was given a penitentiary sentence of a year and a day and fined $100.

R. R. Hughes, convicted of using the mails to defraud, was sentenced to the penitentiary for 15 months. Hughes was brought to Greensboro a few weeks ago from the state of Washington, making a sensational escape from the officer by jumping from a rapidly moving train a short distance this side of Salisbury. He was captured the following day by the sheriff at Rowan county.

Because of a recent federal enactment, the District court had two cases this term which were the first of their kind that have been tried here. These were cases in which convictions were secured against Wilkesboro merchants for shipping quail out of the state. For a long time there was no federal law against the traffic, and the State Audubon laws were all under which prosecutions could be made. The interstate dealing in the birds can be fought now in a better manner and the prosecutions will be backed by the department of agriculture of the federal government.

Kernersville Postoffice Robbed.

The postoffice safe at Kernersville was blown open Sunday morning, presumably about 2 o'clock, and $1,263 in stamps and $50 in money taken. The theft was discovered at 6 o'clock, when the postmaster entered the office. Postoffice Inspector Robert W. Hodgkin, of Greensboro, was notified and went to the scene, but it is said, secured scanty clues. Several people in the town heard a rumbling noise about 2 o'clock and it is presumed this was the explosion that blew open the safe. The postoffice inspector believes the robbery was the work of professional ruggmen.

Death of Aged Citizen.

Mr. W. R. McCuiston, for many years a well known citizen of Guilford, died Sunday night at the home of a daughter, Mrs. J. D. Redwine, in Lexington. The body was brought to Greensboro Monday morning and carried to the home of a son, Mr. W. T. McCuiston. The funeral and interment took place at Rehobeth church, south of the city, Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock. Mr. McCuiston was born and reared in the Oak Ridge section. He was 82 years of age and a Confederate veteran.

The will of Herbert Lutterloh, who died at Fayetteville May 24, leaving an estate which is estimated at figures running from $125,000 to $175,000, leaves a special bequest of $5,000 in cash to Mr. Lutterloh's nephew, Edward Lutterloh Utley, if living. Utley has been a fugitive from justice since he escaped from the state prison at Raleigh three years ago, where he was serving a sentence for murder. If Utley is dead the money is to revert to the estate.

Henry Stirewalt, who last week accidentally shot himself while after a cat at his home near Enochville, Rowan county, died Sunday from the wounds. He was 50 years old and is survived by a wife and one daughter. He was conscious to the last and declared the shooting an accident, though there were no witnesses.

AT THE BATTLE GROUND.

Attractive Feature of Fourth of July Celebration.

The Woman's Club of Greensboro is arranging to meet the club women of the county at the Guilford Battle Ground in the afternoon of the fourth of July, and would like to hear from all who are interested in the county club extension movement and who think they can be present.

Officers of Entertainment Associations are specially requested to attend as matters of mutual interest and mutual benefit to town and county will be discussed. There will be no set speeches and no previously arranged program, but just a semi-business and social gathering to talk over informally ways and means for making city and country more attractive and a better place in which to live.

Added to the splendid program announced by the Guilford Battle Ground Association, this special feature, of what promises to be a great day, in which the women of the county are asked to take part, should attract an unusually large crowd to the Fourth of July celebration, in which Guilford, more than any other county in the state, should feel a peculiar pride.

In order to ascertain how far the women of the county are interested the Woman's Club of Greensboro would like to hear from as many as possible during the next ten days, and The Patriot is asked to request that all letters be addressed to Miss Florence Cain, corresponding secretary, Greensboro, N. C.

Robeson county leads all counties in the state in the production of corn and cotton, according to a statement by Major W. A. Graham, commissioner of agriculture. The county produced 1,148,630 bushels of corn and 65,326 bales of cotton, the latter on 94,000 acres. Johnston and Chatham counties are second in the production of corn, but Scotland leads in the state in the production of cotton to the acre, the exact figures not being obtainable.

William T. Lassiter, son of Robert W. Lassiter, banker and farmer, of Oxford, was found dead Sunday morning about 5 o'clock at his father's country home, death being the result of a pistol shot. He was 24 years old and there is no known reason why he should have committed suicide.

Farmers and Business Men

Rapid strides have been made in agricultural lines during this generation. The successful farmer of today must not only be a good agriculturist but a good business man as well. Farming has become a business and, of course, it is the biggest business in the country with the greatest competition.

The man who makes a real success of farming must be as well posted in his line as manufacturers and merchants must be in theirs. The Monthly Crop report issued by this Bank will prove of great value to the farmer who realizes the necessity of being well posted regarding all crops in all parts of the country. These reports will be sent to you monthly if you desire them.

FOR THE OPEN DOOR POLICY.

Guilford County School Buildings May be Used For Public Meetings.

The county board of education has declared for the "open door" policy as regards the use of public school buildings in Guilford county for community meetings, the official pronouncement being the result of an appeal brought before the board by certain citizens who had been denied the use of the high school building at Summerfield. The school committee refused a request of the Farmers' Union to be allowed the use of the auditorium in the handsome new building as a meeting place, this action meeting with the approval of the principal of the school, the Women's Betterment Association, which organization has devoted much time and labor to beautifying the building and grounds, and other influential citizens of Summerfield.

The board of education, after hearing both sides of the question, took the matter under advisement and at a regular meeting Saturday issued the following statement:

"Decision of the board of education of Guilford county with reference to the use of public school buildings of Guilford county:

"It is the unanimous opinion of the board of education of Guilford county that all public school houses in said county shall be open to all reputable meetings of the citizens of the community when the object of said meetings is the educational advancement or uplift of the community;

"Provided, That the local school committee, into whose hands is committed the care and protection of school property as representatives of the board of education, are advised and empowered to require from some responsible representatives of organizations desiring to hold such meetings a sufficient guarantee against the abuse or damage of such property as will be sufficient to afford ample protection to the public property.

"W. T. WHITSETT, Chairman.
"CHARLES H. IRELAND,
"J. C. KENNETT."

The question has aroused no little feeling in the Summerfield community, and when the hearing was held before the board of education a big delegation of citizens came to Greensboro representing both factions. It appears that a majority of the people residing in Summerfield are opposed to opening the school building to meetings of various kinds, but on the other hand a majority of the voters and taxpayers in the school district signed a petition asking that the doors be opened. The members of the Farmers' Union say they are not the only people who have been discriminated against, since the use of the building has been denied for religious meetings.

NEW COLLEGE PRESIDENT.

Rev. J. D. Andrew Will Head Reformed Church Institution.

Rev. J. D. Andrew, of Burlington, who is well and favorably known to many readers of The Patriot, has been elected president of Catawba College, at Newton, the denominational college of the Reformed church in North Carolina. He succeeds Rev. J. F. Buchheit, who resigned the presidency of the college to take work elsewhere. Mr. Andrew has accepted the call to the new post and will move his family to Newton in a few weeks and take up actively the work of the presidency of this old and honored educational institution. The new president is an alumnus of Catawba, having graduated with the class of 1893. He entered the ministry of the Reformed church and for a number of years has been pastor of the church in Burlington. He ranks high as a minister and his friends predict for him a successful career in the field of education.

Mr. Andrew is a native of the Mt. Hope community and has many relatives and friends in Guilford and Alamance counties. It is significant that the three North Carolina men who have been called to the presidency of Catawba College came from the Mount Hope congregation, the two besides Mr. Andrew being the late Rev. Dr. Jacob C. Clapp and Charles H. Mebane, Esq., the latter now being a successful lawyer and newspaper editor of Newton. These three men sat under the ministry of the late Rev. George W. Welker, who in his day was a power in the church and in politics.

Kickapoo Worm Killer is guaranteed. All druggists, or by mail. Price 25 cents. Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., Philadelphia and St. Louis. Faries-Kutz Drug Company.

A HOOKWORM CAMPAIGN.

Will be Conducted Throughout County During Month of July.

The county board of health is planning a thorough and systematic hookworm campaign throughout Guilford county during the month of July. The work will be in charge of Dr. W. M. Jones, the superintendent of health, who will make a tour of the county, stopping at the principal centers of population. The board of education will co-operate with the board of health in this work and will furnish Dr. Jones an assistant in the person of Prof. Kellogg, of the Monticello high school.

The work will be carried on in the same way that similar campaigns have been made by the state board of health in other counties. Where the work is done by the state board each county visited pays a stipulated sum, but in Guilford it was deemed advisable to conduct a campaign without the aid of the state.

At least four different trips will be made around the county in the following order: Oak Ridge in the morning, on Mondays; Jamestown, on Tuesdays; Pleasant Garden, on Wednesdays; McLeansville, on Thursdays and Brown Summit, on Fridays. In each of these places where only one trip is made in a day, the work will go on from 10 A. M. until 4 P. M.

The meetings will be held in the school houses. Personal lectures on the hookworm disease, its cure and prevention, will be made, and talks on the general laws of hygiene and sanitation given. Diagnoses will be made by means of the microscope and treatment for hookworm will be administered free to all those found to be infected with the disease.

The work is to be for the benefit of all the people of the county and not merely for the school children. The school houses are to be used merely as the most convenient, and in some cases, the only available meeting places. They will also serve as centers for the dissemination of information regarding the campaign.

The work will continue through all of the month of July and until it is felt that the field has been thoroughly covered and all the people have had a chance to be instructed in the fundamentals of sanitation and right living.

During this time Dr. Jones will make a tour of all of the schools of the county and will make reports on the condition of the yards, houses, wells and outhouses.

Sudden Death of Mrs. R. C. Strudwick.

Mrs. R. C. Strudwick died suddenly at her home on South Mendenhall street Saturday afternoon about 6 o'clock. Accompanied by one of her daughters, she had left her home to go to the railroad station to meet a friend when she was taken violently ill and died as she was being carried back into the residence. Mrs. Strudwick suffered an attack of heart trouble in the spring of 1912, but recovered her strength after an illness of several weeks.

Mrs. Strudwick was Miss Sallie Patterson Lewis, of Scottsville, Va. She was born May 19, 1861, and was married May 16, 1881. She is survived by her husband, ex-Judge Robert C. Strudwick, and three children: Mr. Fred Nash Strudwick, Miss Mary Burwell Strudwick and Miss Roberta Strudwick. She was a member of the First Presbyterian church of this city and was a most estimable and beloved woman.

The funeral was held from the home Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, the services being conducted by Rev. R. Murphy Williams, pastor of the Church of the Covenant, and Rev. H. S. Bradshaw, of Hillsboro. Interment was made in Greene Hill cemetery.

All Paid For

Every dollar's worth of goods in this store is paid for. We pay cash for all the merchandise we handle, and by so doing get the benefit of all the cash discounts. This is one of the principal reasons why we can afford to sell at such reasonable prices. Our store expenses are probably the smallest of any firm in the city doing the same amount of business, which is also very much in favor of selling good, reliable goods at low prices. Our sales are growing rapidly and if it keeps on at the present rate this year will be by far the biggest and best in the history of the store. If you are not already one of our regular customers you will find it profitable to get in the habit of coming here for dry goods, underwear, notions, shoes, carpets, matings, rugs and curtains.

GUILFORD WOMAN WINS PRIZE.

Mrs. F. L. Townsend Awarded $100
For Anti-Suffrage Essay.

Mrs. F. L. Townsend, wife of the pastor of East Greensboro circuit, has been notified that she is the winner of one of two cash prizes of $100 offered by the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage in a nation-wide essay competition. Over 1,000 essays were submitted by women in all sections of the country giving reasons why the franchise should not be granted to women. Mrs. Townsend is awarded the prize for the best essay from the rural districts, the other prize of $100 for the best essay from a city going to Miss Julia D. Henry, of Cleveland, Ohio. A few extracts from Mrs. Townsend's essay follow:

"I believe that the best element of our home keepers and mothers would be slower to use the ballot than would the riff-raff of society. I fear especially the vote of the 'red-light district.'"

"The greatest problems of state are not so important as the bearing of children to form a right citizenship. In view of the fact that America's birth rate is falling steadily and rapidly, we older women will fall in patriotism if we throw in our daughters' way the temptation that must come with political life."

"It is next to impossible to retrace steps of such importance, and we ought to watch keenly this tendency to extend the suffrage."

"There is no indication that woman suffrage is successful. New Zealand, where the women vote, has defeated prohibition by 50,000. Norway's divorce rate has quintupled in a few years. Colorado, with her years of woman suffrage, defeats prohibition, while West Virginia, with out it, carries it by an enormous majority."

"I oppose a movement which weakens the modesty of women. I protest against the spectacular methods by which the suffragette calls attention to herself, and I assert that she fails lamentably in patriotism when she arranges sex against sex."

Mrs. Townsend is a daughter of the late Dr. M. Y. Folger, of Dobson, and is a woman of distinct literary attainments. She has written much for the newspapers and magazines and has contributed clever verse to various publications. She has also written a charming romance of the western North Carolina mountains entitled "In the Nantahalas," which is published in book form and has had a fine sale throughout this and other states.

Corporation Commission Hearing Important Litigation.

The North Carolina corporation commission began a few days ago the hearing of the noted suit of western and central Carolina shippers against the Southern Railway Company for charging excessive freight rates on shipments in and out of the Asheville and Old Fort divisions of the Southern. This is a suit in which 75 shippers, headed by the Snow Lumber Company, of High Point, demand many thousands of dollars rebate and a discontinuance of the high rates.

The state allows the Southern to charge higher divisional rates on the divisions of Asheville and Old Fort than on the other divisions in this state because of the high cost of construction, maintenance and operation of the mountain roads. The Southern has been exacting the higher rate on all shipments that have been originating in these divisions and shipped into other sections of the state and on shipments that originate in the central or eastern divisions and shipped into these two mountain divisions. The demand is for refunds and for discontinuance of this application of the rate. It is to be a hard-fought case that will no doubt go through the court's on appeal, whichever way the corporation commission decides it.

The Anti-Cigarette Law.

The Patriot has been requested to call attention to an act passed by the last session of the legislature relative to selling or giving cigarettes to minors and providing that any minor who shall fail or refuse to give to any officer, upon inquiring, the names of persons selling or giving him cigarettes or the substance out of which same was made, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

The law prescribes that it shall be the duty of every police officer in the state of North Carolina upon knowledge or information that any minor under the age of 17 years is or has been smoking any cigarettes, to inquire of any such minor the names of the person or persons who sold or gave such cigarette or aided and abetted any person or persons in giving or selling any cigarettes or the substance from which such cigarettes were made; and upon receiving such information the officers shall have a warrant issued.

BUSINESS MEN MEET.

Listen to Talks by Heads of Educational Institutions.

The quarterly meeting of the Greensboro Merchants' Association was held in the Y. M. C. A. building Thursday night and proved to be a very enjoyable occasion for the business men and invited guests who attended. An appetizing supper was served by the social department of the Woman's Club. Mr. J. Norman Willis, president of the association, presided over the meeting and made a short speech describing the organization and its purposes. A spirit of broad-mindedness was described as characteristic of the body, which seeks to aid in the work of uplift in every department of community life.

Dr. J. L. Mann, superintendent of the city schools, was first on the program for a talk on the community's interest in education. Dr. S. B. Tarrentine, the recently elected president of Greensboro College for Women, followed with a response to the toast of "Church and State." Dr. J. I. Foust, of the State Normal College, was the next speaker and with the talks of these three men the full educational system of the community was represented.

The proposition to arrange for the future growth of Greensboro along lines of beauty and good sense was discussed by Mr. R. C. Hood, member of the commission appointed by the city and county commissioners to investigate the matter. Mr. Lee Ralls, who was a delegate to the last state convention of the association, spoke of the convention to be held soon at Wrightsville Beach. Mr. R. C. Bernau reported the work of the advertising committee, of which he is chairman.

A resolution was adopted upon motion of Mr. J. J. Stone, to ask the city commissioners to permit an expert to delve into the matter of the advisability of having a paid fire department for Greensboro.

World's Champion Jersey Cow.

George W. Vanderbilt's registered Jersey cow, Kola's Katherine No. 206,275, has just broken the world's Jersey record for butter and milk production on a 120 days' test. The test was started January 24 and ended May 23, including the starting and stopping days, and in this time the Vanderbilt Jersey broke the record for milk, for butter fat and for estimated butter for the total period, and also the record for one day in all particulars.

During the first month, the Vanderbilt cow produced 1,851 pounds of milk, or 95.23 pounds of butter. The second month she produced 1,591 pounds of milk, or 85.67 pounds of butter. The third month she produced 1,415.50 pounds of milk, or 83 pounds of butter, and the fourth month 1,228.50 pounds of milk or 72.21 pounds of butter.

This gives the Vanderbilt Jersey the Jersey championship of the world for butter and milk, as the tests were conducted according to official regulations.

Shortage in Supply of Meats.

From all sources come complaints of a shortage in the supply of beef, mutton and other cattle. A bulletin just issued by the department of agriculture indicates a decline of 13 per cent. last year in the number of beef cattle slaughtered under supervision of the United States meat inspection service. In the past six years the number of animals in stock farms and on ranges has decreased 30 per cent. The outlook for making good the shortage by increased domestic production does not seem very bright, and inevitably we shall have to draw on foreign sources. The imports of beef cattle from Canada last year amounted to 325,717 head, an increase of 25 per cent. over the previous year, and the total was but little more than the number received at Denver, the tenth in rank of our more important interior markets. The imports were not large enough to materially affect prices, even assuming that Canadian cattle raised would sell to us for less than ruling quotations.

Blackhand Letter to President Wilson

Giuseppe Pomare, 25 years old, was arrested at Youngstown, Ohio, Saturday, on the charge of sending a blackhand letter to President Wilson demanding $5,000. It is said Pomare admits his guilt, giving as a reason that he "just wanted the money." The letter demanding the money was mailed May 20, and was immediately turned over to the secret service department.

By the end of June, Mars, Venus, Saturn and Jupiter will all be morning stars, but Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is at all times the "Star" medicine for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. ### Reforms by State Board of Agriculture.

The state board of agriculture is carrying forward a number of reforms indicated by the following summary:

1—Change the policy of institutes so as to cover the subjects of co-operation, marketing, better living on the farm and establish rural life conferences.

2—Reduce the expenditures on the bulletins by issuing smaller bulletins written in popular style; revise the mailing list and issue the bulletins on time.

3—Establish a division of farm management, marketing and rural co-operation under the auspices of the committee on co-operation.

4—Make test farm appropriations conservative and commensurate with the influence they exert.

5—Employ a competent, well-equipped and scientifically-trained woman to look after the interests of our farm women.

6—Set aside a sufficient sum to encourage Northern and Western white settlers—the sort of immigrants we must have.

7—If the state museum must be supported from taxes levied upon the farmers exclusively, it should not be a museum of curiosities; but an object lesson in scientific farming and in the state's agricultural possibilities and the special resources of each section graphically portrayed.

8—The lime question for agricultural purposes should have the very best attention that can be given it.

Standard Oil Bonus of $60,000,000.

The Standard Oil Company of New York sees no reason to worry over the condition of the stock market or the fact that Attorney General McReynolds is said to be considering reopening the case against the oil trust, the directors having formally voted to cut a $60,000,000 melon. At a meeting of the stockholders the proposal of the board of directors was ratified, increasing the capital stock of the company from $15,000,000 to $75,000,000 from the undistributed surplus of the company. With the increase in capital each shareholder of record gets a bonus of 400 per cent. of his holdings. The distribution of the new stock in the form of dividends will be made June 30.

MR. HIGHFILL'S ARMY RECORD.

His Experience in Following the Flag of the Confederacy.

To the Editor of The Patriot:

I am all concerned I will say that on May 10 it was requested for all of the camp to send the Daughters of the Confederacy a record. There was a call for the 17-year-old boys to meet at Greensboro in the spring of 1864. I went and was sent to Raleigh from there to Greensboro. There I had measles and stayed in the hospital one month. Then I was sent to Wilmington. In a few days I reported to the doctor and was examined and sent to the hospital. The major of one battalion said to me, when I reported unwell: "Are you sick?" I said I was. His remark: "I wish to God you would die!" My remark to him: "I guess it would do you any good."

I had typhoid fever and got a furlough home from the Wilmington hospital for one month. At the end of the month my home doctor expected the furlough one month longer. Before the last furlough had expired some middle aged men in the neighborhood suggested getting a press and going to the mountains and joining Southern cavalry. I thought that would be better than being with the major that wished me to die and I told A. H. Stephens, a friend of mine, that I intended to thrash the major for that unkind expression, but he did not live but a short while after the war and I hope when he died that he was a better man than I had reason to believe him to be.

Well we started to the mountains in the night. We had not gone far when I asked some one of the crowd when we would get to the valley. He said: "Oh, we are going through the lines to the Yankees." I did not like the idea of being molested, for I did not want to go so far from my dear old father and mother; but they got fooled before we were arrested, and instead of sending me back to the reserves, I was sent to the sixth North Carolina regiment, Company E. If Lieutenant Vance, a first cousin of my beloved Z. B. Vance, is living, a better man would be hard to find and you can get my record as a Confederate soldier—and the Daughters of the Confederacy should have that before they pinned a cross of shame on me.

I fear that Lieutenant Vance is dead. I will give you my record. I was sent to regular service under General by Richmond and on to Florida. There we left the railroad and traveled the turnpike road to Jacksonville. The guard soon told me I could go free, for he did not care whether I went to the sixth regiment or not. I told him I had been assigned to that regiment and I was asked whether he went with me or not. So I traveled a good portion of the way alone, for I never saw him any more, but I got there just the same and was much better treated than when with the reserves, and of course was much better satisfied. I stayed until April 6, 1865, when I was captured and turned back to be imprisoned at Newport News.

But in all this time I had not got very blood-thirsty until we met a regiment of American citizens of African descent and one of them remarked to us: "Go ahead, Johnnies. We will go up in your country and take care of your wives, sisters and sweethearts." I was powerless then, but I hope he did not get to his expected journey's end.

I was in three regular battles. One in front of Petersburg March 25, 1865, and got way back of the fort at Har's hill and we had to retreat back to our own breastworks. And I will say to the tattlers that say I went to the Yankees or started to them in the fall of 1864, when I was inside their lines in the spring of 1865 and nothing to do but step in one of their bomb-proofs out of danger of shot and shell and be captured, but instead I came back to Southern soil through a shower of bullets. But there is some consolation. When the tattlers are running their gobbles about me, the other fellow is getting a rest spell.

J. F. HIGHFILL.

Summerfield, R. F. D. 2.

High Point will inaugurate at once the taking of a complete and accurate census of the city, by which not only the exact population will be ascertained but many other important details in connection with it.

It is true that women more frequently suffer from kidney trouble than men. It is also true they suffer more intensely, owing to their more sensitive organism. Katherine Norton, New Bedford, Mass., says: "I had a terrible pain across my back, with a burning and scalding feeling. I took Foley Kidney Pills as advised, with results certain and sure. The pain and burning feeling were gone, I felt toned up and invigorated. I am glad to recommend Foley Kidney Pills." They are in action, quick in results. Conyers & Sykes. adv.

SUN AND MAIL ARE YEARLY.

Life Far in Arctic Circle as One Woman Sees It.

New York Evening Post.

"The sun is coming! The mail is coming! These are the two events of the year we look forward to, and they both come in January." So say residents of upper Alaska, according to an American woman, Mrs. Samuel R. Spriggs, who has lived eight years at Point Barrow, among the Eskimo Indians, in the most northern inhabited point, 500 miles within the Arctic Circle.

But three times a year, now, since ways of communication have been improved, the mail reaches Point Barrow. In January comes the first-class mail; in April it comes again, and in August first and second class mail arrives. It is all brought over from Nome by dog trains and reindeer. Once a year it is then the newspapers from home are delivered at the door.

Tourists can go to Nome from June to October, but no tourists visit Point Barrow. One revenue cutter goes there annually, and a supply vessel, with supplies for missionaries and others, visits it once a year. Perhaps three steam whalers touch the Point in 12 months.

The government has a school and finely equipped building there which has about 100 pupils. The Presbyterian Missionary Society has a school for both boys and girls, and a well-established church that was organized about 20 years ago. The people trap and fish. The white fox is the principal fur-bearing animal, and lynx and polar bears are also taken.

When asked about the homes of the people, Mrs. Spriggs said: "Their houses are half sunken in the ground, and are built of driftwood, sodded over. They are entered through a tunnel made in the ground. The part of the house that is above ground has one window in it, and this window is covered with skin sewed in strips together. The Eskimoes have small families, averaging only three. Hair seal is the staple article of diet, though, through traders, the natives are learning to use our products. The traders teach them how to prepare them."

In discussing life in Alaska, Mrs. Spriggs mentioned no hardships and disclaimed any thought of heroism, but a tourist in the headquarters of the Woman's Home Mission Board said of Mrs. Spriggs and her co-workers:

"Explorers think that the Arctic night twice in succession is more than can be endured, but our missionaries calmly face it year after year. In some years landing is impossible, as it was at Point Barrow in 1903. That meant another year must pass without mails."

"Next to the want of companions, that which our missionaries find the hardest to endure is the long winter night and the awful silence of the Northland. In that voiceless country even the winds make no sounds."

Sound Advice to Naval Graduates.

In presenting the diplomas to the graduating class of the United States Naval Academy Friday, Secretary of the Navy Daniels gave the young officers a wealth of fatherly advice and explained something of the administration's plans for the navy.

"The return you are to make is not merely to be ready to die for your country, but to be ready day by day to live for it," he told the graduates. "You owe it first of all to stay in the service. The United States did not go into the business of education of naval cadets for the purpose of supplying trained men to the big industrial, manufacturing and contracting firms of the country."

"How many youths have destroyed their career almost before graduation by indulgence in sin!" Daniels continued, "touching on morals. "There is need to declare today the old truth that there is but a single standard of conduct for both men and women."

"No honor, no prize, no victory is to be compared with that transparent clearness of conscience that enables a young man to go home and look his mother straight in the eye."

On the subject of temperance, Daniels said:

"The man who is drunk is sure to indulge in all the excesses which that vice carries in its train. While there are many good and true men who drink temperately, there is only one safe course for the young man who would be master of his soul, and that is to abstain from the use of intoxicants."

Best Laxative For the Aged.

Old men and women feel the need of a laxative more than young folks, but it must be safe and harmless, and one which will not cause pain. Dr. King's New Life Pills are especially good for the aged, for they act promptly and easily. Price 25 cents. Recommended by Fariss-Kutz Drug Company. adv.

UNDISCOVERED LANDS.

One-Eighth of the Globe is Still Awaiting Scientific Exploration.

Perhaps one of the most interesting and least known countries on the face of the globe, and one which has so far pretty successfully defied civilization, lies secreted among the Himalaya Mountains.

Authorities say that it is presided over entirely by women, who are responsible for such rude laws as are necessary even in a lawless district, manage the affairs of state, and live in a luxury of inverted Mormonism by possessing four or five husbands apiece. All the rough tasks and menial labors are assigned to the hill men, and "mere man" is of small account beside these Himalayan amazons.

On a rough estimate it is declared that 7,000,000 square miles, or one-eighth of the total land surface of the world, are awaiting to be discovered. Some 200,000 of this lies in the Arctic regions of the North, but among the frozen tracts that form "Antarctic" in the South, where Scott and his gallant followers were penetrating, nearly 3,000,000 square miles are relegated to the sole use of the whale, penguin, and other animals and birds of the frozen zone.

In Arabia it seems that there is a tract of land and unexplored which is nearly five times as large as Great Britain. Probably there is no more desolate waste to be found in the entire globe than that which is called the "dwelling of the void." Not a single river is estimated to flow throughout its entire 400,000 square miles.

Although the famous El Dorado, Peru, which set the sixteenth century ablaze, has never been unearthed, the country might fittingly be called El Dorado, from the rich minerals and priceless stones which emanate from there. Strange, wild-eyed men occasionally descend from the mountains and bring wonderful fragments with them, but they refuse to act as guides to those who would accompany them back.

It is curious to realize that vast parts of the British empire have never been seen by British eyes or the eyes of any white man. Nearly a quarter of Australia is still unexplored, mainly in the west, where the population averages only one person in every 20 square miles.

New Guinea has baffled countless expeditions, though many are trying to fight their way inland from the coast.

GREAT DRAINAGE PROJECT.

Much Fine Land to be Reclaimed For Cultivation.

The drainage of Mattamuskeet lake and adjacent lands in Hyde county is now an assured fact. The $500,000 in bonds issued to pay for the work to be done in completing this great enterprise have been sold, and the contracts for erecting the pumps and for digging the canals have been let, and the work will be begun as soon as the equipment of the contractors can be assembled. The contracts call for the completion of the entire work in about 24 months.

When completed this will be the largest drainage district of its kind in the world. The district embraces 100,000 acres of as fine land as can be found in the world. Fifty thousand acres of the district lie in the bottom of what has been known as Mattamuskeet lake. If it were called Mattamuskeet pond it would convey a much more accurate idea of the real facts. Mattamuskeet lake is a body of fresh water lying in about the center of Hyde county. When the lake is full of water the deepest place will not exceed five or five and one-half feet. There are no springs in the bed of the lake, and no stream runs out of it except through a canal which was constructed to carry off the water when the rains should fill it to overflowing. Surrounding the lake, and distant from it on an average of about one-fourth of a mile, is a sand ridge, varying in height from three feet to nine feet. All water falling within this ridge line runs by gravity into the lake.

This is a mammoth undertaking and its development will be watched by the whole United States with interested attention, especially by engineers and others who have been following the growth of sentiment as to the importance of land reclamation.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure, now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. Former President Taft was a visitor in Washington Saturday and lunched with President and Mrs. Wilson.

Dissolution of the so-called Eastman Kodak trust is asked in a civil anti-trust suit filed in Buffalo, N. Y., by order of Attorney General McReynolds. Violation of the Sherman anti-trust law is charged.

The average cost of the college course of the 300 seniors who will be graduated from Princeton University next month is $4,216, according to the statistics of the class. The minimum expense was $800, as opposed to a maximum of $10,000.

L. W. Dutro, postmaster of Memphis, Tenn., was found guilty in the Federal court last week on four counts charging him with receiving money for political purposes. A fine of $1 and costs on each count was assessed, the postmaster's ignorance of the law causing the judge to deal with him leniently.

Demand of Senator Lane, of Washington, that the Indian affairs committee of the senate get complete statements as to how all Indian funds are administered before acting on the $10,000,000 Indian appropriation bill now pending, has opened up an Indian fight that probably will be carried on to the floor of the senate.

President Wilson refused to interfere with the death sentence of Nathaniel Green, a negro, who last Christmas night assaulted a white woman almost in the shadow of the dome of the capitol at Washington. Green was hanged Monday. He was the first man to pay a death penalty in the District of Columbia for felonious assault.

The work on the extension of the Carolina, Clinchfield and Ohio railway from Dante, Va., its present terminus, to Elkhorn City, Va., is being pushed as rapidly as possible, and the track has already been laid and ballasted. A large force of laborers is now at work digging a tunnel through Sandy Ridge mountain, one mile from Dante, which will be 8,260 feet long and it is expected that this tunnel will be completed in less than a year, which will complete the line.

Judge Charles A. Woods, of South Carolina, nominated by the president to be judge of the fourth circuit in place of Nathan Goff, now United States senator from West Virginia, has been confirmed by the senate. The fourth circuit is composed of the states of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina. Judge Jeter C. Pritchard is the associate judge of this circuit, having been appointed to that position by President Roosevelt.

Prof. E. M. East, of Harvard, has just succeeded in producing a hybrid tobacco from a cross between the Sumatra and Havana varieties, which has resulted in a better quality of smoking material and a yield of 50 per cent. more than either of the individual leaves. The new plant is especially suitable for the sunny tobacco districts of Massachusetts and Connecticut. Another hybrid from "broad leaf" and "Cuban" gives a much higher yield than "broad leaf" and promises to be of better quality.

Emily Wilding Davison, an English woman and a militant suffragette, ran in front of King George's horse the day of races at Epsom Downs, was knocked down and run over, throwing the horse and jockey, and received injuries from which she died. Miss Davison had no reason for trying to stop the king's race horse on the track except the freak notion that actuates English suffragettes, that by doing something out of the common, like burning houses and damaging property, they may help on the cause of votes for women.

IN MEMORIAM.

Mariah Carnett Loman.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Loman was saddened on Sunday morning, June 1, by the death of little Mariah Garrett, aged about 21 months, meningitis being the cause of death. Every effort that loving ones could make proved useless, for God knew best and plucked the little bud to blossom in eternity where there will be no chilling frosts to blight its sweetness.

We shall not think of little Garrett as being dead but as only having obeyed the call of the loving One, who said: "Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven." Our thoughts of heaven will be only sweeter when we think of her.

The funeral services were conducted at the home by Rev. T. W. Johnston and interment made at Lee's chapel church Monday, June 2.

Mr. and Mrs. Loman have the sympathy of a large host of friends in their bereavement.

A FRIEND.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst his servant, our most faithful and honored co-worker and fellow citizen, Mr. William Ogburn Donnell, for over forty-five years chairman of the board of trustees of Oak Ridge Institute, he is resolved:

1. That we, the trustees of Oak Ridge Institute, deem it not only just and proper but a high privilege to bear public testimony to the faithful and efficient services he has given to the advancement of every interest of this institution, and education in general, and to commend his example as a pure, upright and loyal citizen of Guilford county and the state of North Carolina.

2. That in his death Oak Ridge loses a citizen whose life of nearly ninety years has been without reproach, and whose influence has always been upon the side of peace and righteousness in every walk of life.

3. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the Oak Leaf, the Greensboro News, and the Greensboro Patriot for publication and that a copy be engrossed and sent to the family of the deceased.

The pupils of the public schools at Pittsburg, Pa., recently organized a strike against S. L. Heeter, the superintendent, on the ground that he was guilty of immoral practices. The charges were investigated and Heeter discharged for "making improper advances and taking unwarranted liberties with women." The only woman member of the school board voted against discharging Heeter. She said the charges were prompted by politics.

Becoming enraged at her neighbor, Mrs. Goldsmith, Helen Miller, who occupied apartment in the same building with Mrs. Goldsmith in Asheville, slashed Mrs. Goldsmith's throat with a razor, inflicting a wound that was near fatal. The Miller woman was sent to jail. The trouble was the result of a quarrel over a trivial matter.

PARASOLS AND UMBRELLAS.

Ladies, you may not believe it, but we are selling a pure silk parasol, all the new shades and trimming for $2.50 which you have always and do now if you buy from the old time credit stores pay $5.00 to $6.00 each for. Children's Parasols in all colors, 25c. to $1.50 each. The best man's umbrellas you have ever bought for $1.00. There are hundreds of items passing through our store every day to our customers at 25 to 40 per cent. cheaper than other concerns sell them.

You are simply standing in your own light if you do not investigate and see for yourself. We have earned the distinction of "selling them cheaper," and if you could be with us every day and see how many people appreciate it by trading with us you would not think of spending your money where you have to pay old time prices in order to cover the bad debts of some other customer who does not hand out his hard-earned dollars at the old time store, for he feels like he is not doing any great harm when he fails to pay, for the old timer makes allowance for this class of his customers, for he figures on a great many of them being this kind, when he is doing a time business. I believe I can truthfully say we are the only dry goods concern in Greensboro who does not run an account with any one, so you don't have to pay other people's bad debts when you trade with us, and if you will take just one moment to consider this matter you will at once see why.

WHITSETT.

Rev. Robert E. Redding has as guests some relatives from West Virginia for the next few weeks. Mr. Redding has been here only a few months himself, but is rapidly becoming acquainted and is making many friends. He is giving his time to Method and Springwood Presbyterian churches, with an occasional sermon at Gibsonville.

Rev. W. S. Hales, pastor of the M. E. church in this place, spent Tuesday and Wednesday of last week attending the commencement of Trinity College at Durham. He is greatly pleased over the increased endowment for Trinity, which makes that institution now the richest Southern school.

Messrs. E. W. Joyner and V. A. Perrett, of the University of North Carolina, are now here on visits to relatives. They were both members of the graduating class this year.

Tennis is a popular summer sport here now, and we are developing some expert players.

Mr. Frank Boon spent some days last week in Greensboro.

Cards have been received announcing the recent marriage of Mr. D. M. Pulcher, of Atlantic, N. C., a former popular student of the school.

Their many friends here were much pleased to learn last week of the marriage of Mr. John R. Stewart and Miss Hattie M. Phipps. They are both well known here, and many good wishes go out to them in their start on the sea of matrimony.

Prof. C. F. McAllister, of Cabarrus county, is to be married June 25 to Miss Ethel Crabtree, of Salem, Va., according to cards just received by friends. They are both popular young people, and many good wishes will follow them for this happy event.

Those who went from here to the commencement of the University last week report a fine trip and most enjoyable exercises. There were many Guilford county visitors there, among them: Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Hunter, of Greensboro; Mrs. W. J. Armfield, of High Point; Messrs. A. M. Scales, C. G. Wright and H. W. Wharton, of Greensboro; Dr. and Mrs. Whitsett and Prof. and Mrs. J. H. Joyner, of Whitsett.

Rev. R. E. Redding and Prof. C. C. Wimbish both had new pianos placed in their homes last week on trial.

Miss Ethel Phillippe is thinking of entering the State Normal College at the opening of another term. She has for the past two years been teaching school.

Prof. V. Wilson has again been engaged to furnish music this summer for the hotel at the summer resort known as Rocky River Springs near Norwood, in Stanly county. He filled this engagement last year and gave great satisfaction. He will return two weeks before the opening of the fall term here at Whitsett.

Mr. A. F. Greeson had the misfortune to lose a very valuable young saddle last week from lockjaw. It was sick but a few days, and despite the efforts of skilled veterinarians, no effort could save it.

Mr. J. W. Summers has returned from a trip over around Erown Summit in his handsome Ford car. He has mastered it quickly and now drives it wherever he pleases.

Sheep are a good medium for increasing the fertility of the farm of the man who has limited means.

If the hens are getting into the habit of eating eggs it is fair to assume that they do not have the time they need for egg shell production.

A strong point in favor of silage as a staple farm feed is that when properly put up it will keep in good condition not only one year, but for three or four years.

The average weight of hogs is decreasing every year. Some markets will not take a heavy hog at all unless it be in the dead of winter, and then they don't like to do it.

The booze habit will not only knock out of the box the man who works in mill, factory or store, but it will put a farmer on the downhill slide quicker than any single agency we know of.

When you find your cow chewing old bones and pieces of boot legs make up your mind that something is wrong with the food you give her. She needs wheat bran, good hay and some well ground bonemeal.

If your farm is devoid of pure bred poultry it would certainly pay you to get some, even if it is only a pure bred male to cross on your common hens. It would add more flesh and more eggs to your next year's flock.

Not only the milk cow, but all other farm animals, should have salt where they can get it whenever they want it. It serves to keep the system in good condition and thus increases capacity for digestion and assimilation.

While the mule is by spells an ornery brute, he has several good points in his favor—toughness and endurance, easiness and cheapness in keeping, less liability to disease than the horse. Last and not least, a mule will fetch about $10 more than a horse of corresponding grade.

Turpentine in milk at the rate of a teaspoonful of the medicine to each 100 pounds of hog is one of the simplest as well as most effective methods of getting rid of intestinal worms in swine. Best results are secured if the treatment is repeated three or four days in succession.

There is little doubt that one factor tending to make farm life uninteresting and monotonous is the enforced isolation so often caused by impassable roads that prevail for considerable periods during wet seasons of the year, rendering wheeling on them practically impossible for either business or pleasure. In this case inability both to get to or away from the farm makes it unattractive.

When land prices advance in value from $75 to $150 per acre it is but natural as well as reasonable that rental rates for these same lands should advance from $2.50 to $5 per acre. In the locality in which the writer lives this increase in land values has taken place within the past five or six years, yet the average renter sort of balks at the five dollar rate. But he will have to come to it.

Egg laying contests are now being carried on in many states of the Union, and they are serving as an excellent stimulus to the utility side of the poultry industry. While they never have and never will prove that one breed or variety is superior to all others, they do prove conclusively that careful breeding in certain strains or families of fowls increases the egg production away above the average and thus boosts the returns in even larger proportions.

One of the elemental handicaps that wild fowl are sometimes subjected to in their migratory flights in spring was shown in the severe storm which swept down the Missouri river valley some two weeks ago. Wild mallards that were bewildered by the blinding storm had their wings so coated with frozen sleet that they could no longer fly, and a considerable number were picked up in the streets of Council Bluffs, Ia., rendered helpless in the manner mentioned.

The board of trade and grange of Billerica, Mass., are offering a prize of $1,000 for an authenticated yield of corn raised during the coming season that will surpass the present New England record, which is 112 bushels, a yield produced by a Connecticut farmer, L. S. White. If a New England town of 3,000 people can find it worth while to hang up such a prize as this it would seem as if most any town in the middle west and southwest might do as well or better.

Children are many times punished by their elders for faults of conduct or disposition for which the latter are directly responsible themselves. It's a poor stick of a child that wouldn't become irritable, if not entirely unruly, under the constant nagging and nerve racking faultfinding of some parents.

If one is located in a section where there is danger of damage by spring frosts it is well to keep the strawberry bed covered until other vegetation gets a pretty good start. This will keep the plants back, delay the blossoming period and reduce the likelihood of the blossoms being nipped by a late freeze.

A hog breeder who had a sale the other day received $325 for a pure bred sow and $540 for six of her spring pigs. Twenty-eight head, including the seven hogs mentioned, brought an average of $108 a head. In spite of such a showing as this, however, the great majority of farmers keep right on raising scrubs.

Lousy poultry or stock is almost always in an unthrifty condition, hence a condition that does not mean the largest measure of profit to the owner. Both lice and mites are parasites that sap the vitality of the animals or fowls on which they live, thus consuming that supply of nourishment which would otherwise be used in the production of flesh, milk or eggs.

If your local banker thinks it dubious for you to invest your hard earned coin in some distant speculative venture it is fair to assume that it would be a good idea to investigate the merits of the proposition thoroughly before closing a deal. The banker will likely err on the side of conservatism in giving his advice, and when one's pulse has been fired by the speculative microbe he is in need of just this kind of advice.

A brief news dispatch the other day referred to the fact that a six year old boy got hold of some rat biscuit that had been put in the cellar and that the funeral services were held the second day following. Casual thought prompted by this incident would be to the effect that when parents put out poison of this kind, and especially within easy reach of little people, common sense would dictate that they warn the children of the deadly nature of the bait.

The average run of folks are altogether too prone to scant their gift of flowers to the living and then put them in profusion on their caskets. This life would be a good deal brighter and happier for all of us if this order were reversed in the case of these sweet messengers of kindly thoughts and were made to include, besides, the cheery word and kindly judgment that might be spoken when our friends and neighbors are still living and can sense and be cheered by them.

Some one who has noticed the tendency of hogs to scratch when they get an itchy spell has hit upon the plan of driving a hardwood stake four or five inches in diameter into the ground and deep enough so that it will stand solid. This is wound closely with coils of a good sized rope and the rope saturated with crude petroleum. The pigs make use of these stakes often, and the oil is automatically distributed on these itchy spots. The plan is a simple one and ought to be worth trying.

The silo is not only the best means for the preserving of the corn plant cut and shredded green, but it gives an ideal way for keeping alfalfa hay. It has been found that fresh cut hay, even though dripping wet as the result of a rain, makes the finest kind of food for stock. In all sections of the country where the likelihood of rains at cutting time makes the curing problem a serious one the silo method of caring for the crop would seem to offer an easy as well as excellent method of getting around the difficulty.

There is a quaint and interesting communistic society—one of the few that have survived to the present time—at South Amana, not far from Iowa City, Ia. While their economic views and their ideas touching courtship, marriage and domestic life are peculiar, the way they do some other things might well be patterned after. One such is the way they manage their slaughter house. This has cement floors and is in other respects neat and well kept. As soon as an animal is killed and dressed all the offal is burned in a big stove instead of being thrown out for hogs to devour or to decay and contaminate the neighboring atmosphere. As soon as the meat is hung up women come in and scrub and mop the cement floor, so that the room is clean and free from any odor.

While a good deal of marital unhappiness is doubtless due to failings of husbands, just as much of it is traceable to the fact that girls come to the time of their weddings with little or no knowledge of the fundamental requirements of a competent and sensible housewife. Probably for all time to come the proper preparation of food for husbands and children to eat will continue to be one of the chief occupations of married women. In view of this, good sense would seem to suggest to every girl who some day expects to be mistress of a home of her own the wisdom of learning how to cook and to do the other things in the home that must be done if it is to be a happy and well ordered household. Mothers who fail thus to train their daughters are storing up all kinds of trouble and unhappiness for them in their later married life.

GROWING ONIONS.

A reader of these notes makes inquiry in regard to the raising of onions—wants some pointers that will be of some assistance to him in the patch he plans to grow the coming season. The first thing needed for a crop of onions is good rich soil. If the patch chosen isn't naturally so it should be enriched with finely pulverized manure, but even better than this is a commercial fertilizer consisting of tankage, 825 pounds; bonemeal, 850 and muriate of potash, 325 pounds.

This should be applied with a drill close to the seed rows. The soil should be made fine and compact by either rolling or floating before the seed is sown. The seeder should be adjusted so as to scatter about three and one-half pounds per acre. Some growers use more seed and some less, but the important point is to get a good stand. If too thick, the young onions can be thinned at the time of the first weeding. It is quite important that the piece of land chosen for the onion patch should be as free as possible from weed seeds. On clean ground two weeding should be sufficient, but cultivation should be continued through the growing season, and this holds especially true if rains are frequent and the soil shows a tendency to bake. In selecting a variety of onions to grow, one should write to his nearest market and find the variety that is usually most in demand. The writer is partial to the red globe, but some other variety might sell better in another section. Only the best seed and from reliable seedsmen should be used, and in the end this will be found by all odds the cheapest. It never pays to monkey with two-year-old bargain counter onion seed. Many truckers make a practice of giving a second application of commercial fertilizer, and this is done when the onions are about six inches high, being scattered with a drill close to the rows. For an early crop the seed is often sown thickly in a hotbed and transplanted the desired distance apart when three or four inches high. If the seed is sown in the former way it should be put in as soon as the soil can be worked.

A SUCCESSFUL CO-OPERATIVE LAUNDRY.

Some weeks ago reference was made in these notes to a laundry that had been established in connection with a co-operative creamery at Chatfield, Minn. Farm women who have this washing bugbear on their hands will be interested in the report of this enterprise for the first three months. It has paid from the start, and over and above the cost of operation, including help and supplies, it has cleared $203. The washings of seventy-five farm families living near by and sixty-five town families have been done at a cost per washing of 97.9 cents for the former and 20.7 for the latter. The laundry addition to the creamery adjoins the boiler, engine and coal room, but is on a side opposite the creamery. The one boiler supplies heat, power and steam, while the exhaust from the engine is sufficient to warm the drying room in the laundry. The building used for the laundry cost $2,000, and the laundry equipment, which is up to date in every particular, cost $2,500. Some interesting things in connection with this co-operative laundry are that the officers of the creamery association are also the officers of the laundry association, that both town and country people own stock in the laundry, that its patrons are increasing steadily and that the addition of the laundry to the plant has increased the number of creamery patrons. In view of the above results it is fair to assume that just such a laundry might be profitably established in connection with any successful co-operative creamery. The plan has much to commend it, and many communities need just such a laundry.

BALANCE THE RATION.

Many a farmer who has a herd of so called dairy cows too frequently overlooks the fact that corn fodder, timothy or wild hay and corn do not constitute a ration that is at all suited to milk production. Such feeds must be supplemented by clover or alfalfa hay and, if these are not available, then by cottonseed or linseed meal. These concentrates are high in price, but a ration balanced with them will not only be cheaper, but give better results than the combination of feeds outlined above from which they are omitted. Take an unbalanced ration that so many farmers are feeding and a bunch of cows that would barely pay their board bill on a good ration, and the dairy business is made about as unsatisfactory a proposition as a fellow could well go into.

THE VIOLET.

Of many desirable flowers that are suitable for outdoor bedding purposes there is no variety that surpasses the violets. They are remarkably hardy in withstanding extremes of temperature and not only bloom well into winter, but are among the first flowers to blossom in the spring. The blossoms and leaves are attractive, and the fragrance of the bloom is not surpassed by any cultivated flower. An eastern violet specialist classes the California and Princess of Wales as the best among the single blue varieties, the Lady Hume Campbell and the Marie Louise as the best double varieties, while the Swanley White is the standard for the white violets, and the Mme. Millet is the standard pink.

Health and Hygiene.

Hot Weather Hygiene.

Most of all, be clean. Keep clean, inside and out. A daily bath is just as essential as the daily breakfast, if not more so. An all-over bath in the morning and a sponge bath at night are not too much. The morning bath will put you in good condition for the day's work, and a cool sponge bath at night will enable you to sleep better.

Drink plenty of water, but don't drink too much. Most soda fountain beverages are palatable and harmless, but being sweetened they tend to produce thirst. Just plain, cold water is the best of all summer drinks.

Excesses of all kinds should be avoided. If you have any regard for your physical welfare, shun over-indulgence in alcoholic drinks.

As to what to eat and how much to eat in summer—too much is worse than none at all. Remember that a diet rich in heating. Most people eat too much meat, anyway. Cut it out, and cut down expenses. Eat ripe fruit, but don't let it be overripe. Eat vegetables well cooked. Don't indulge in rich, heavy pastries.

Heat has killed more people than cold—therefore, dress lightly. Don't wear heavy clothing. Don't follow the fashion unless fashion prescribes light, cool garments.

Last, don't hurry. Start a little earlier, and you won't have to run.

The ice box is often a source of trouble in hot weather. It can not be kept too clean. A frequent scouring with a cleanser containing a good percentage of some alkali, as soda, will keep it in good condition and sweet. Bad odors are disgusting, and they are an indication that something is wrong.

To avoid malaria—don't sit on an unscrubbed porch late in the afternoon, or at night, and don't sleep in an unscrubbed bed.

The average person should drink more in the summer than in the winter, to supplement nature's efforts to wash the body through the pores of the skin.

Sweat the fly before he is born—in the summer pile.

ESTIMATE OF SIMMONS.

What a Progressive Thinks of the Senior Senator From North Carolina.

"You ask me what I think of Senator Simmons as a progressive Democrat?" said Senator Ollie James, Democratic senator from Kentucky and a progressive with a big "P." in Washington the other day. "I think Senator Simmons is one of the ablest men we have ever had on the Democratic side of the senate. All this talk that I have been hearing about Simmons being a reactionary has been manufactured. Simmons today stands at the head of the list as a tariff reformer. His work in connection with the framing of the Democratic tariff bill will go down in history as one of the greatest pieces of legislation ever enacted, and your North Carolina senior senator is due the credit for most of the work."

"More than that, President Wilson knows and appreciates the worth of Senator Simmons. The President, I venture to say, today thinks as much of the ability and true progressive Democracy of Mr. Simmons as any other man in the Democratic party."

The views of Senator James are similar to those heard from all sides in regard to Senator Simmons. His handling of the tariff bill is simply a remarkable piece of work; work that North Carolinians cannot help but feel proud.

The Independent, a weekly magazine published in Boston in an article published May 22, and under the caption of "Men We Are Watching," has the following to say of Senator Simmons:

"We have learned to stand in awe of the powerful finance committee of the senate. Aldrich was chairman of it, and a line of politicians before him who made the wheels go round right merrily. And now Simmons of North Carolina is chairman, and it is within conservative truth to say that since his appointment—hardly two months ago—he has been making wheels go round in a way to startle even some of the hardened engineers of the past. He has the new tariff on his hands—more of a task, this time, than has often fallen to the lot of the seasoned engineers. Not a few are watching him and wondering if he can accomplish it. So much one may say, at least; that he has a commanding grip on the majority of the finance committee and that he calmly proposes to 'expedite' matters, in a way tempting one to confidence that he will do it. He is a strong advocate of the secret caucus as the place to thrash out party differences with the final conclusions of the majority binding upon the party. He has won more than one victory along this line already.

"Senator Simmons is a small man, but powerfully built, with the accumulated dignity in carriage and demeanor of 12 years in the senate and two in the house. He has dark hair and moustache, just touched a bit with gray; for according to the calendar he is 38 though he does not look an hour past 50, or even that. He is quiet and deliberate to the limit, except when on his feet on the floor of the senate. He is as pleasant a man to meet as one finds anywhere. He is a southern gentleman, completely. All of which tempted some to be surprised when those who knew him best made him chairman of the great finance committee. But more and more it will become evident that they knew what they were about. The man who can manage the still hunt well is the man who manipulates committee and caucus—and eventually the senate."

"North Carolina swears by Senator Simmons and she knows him well. He is a serious, thoughtful man; not quick in coming to conclusions or expressing them, but with the courage to stand by them when they are reached. In the course of his career in the senate he has several times taken positions well in advance of the more cautious and timid and defended them to victory. He has well earned the reputation of being progressive and has stood on the firing line in several progressive movements when the man at the front took serious chances if he was not farseeing and self-reliant as well as fearless. It begins to appear to those interested that it is a case of the right man in the right place when Simmons appears as chairman of the senate finance committee."

Gettysburg Commission Named.

Governor Craig has announced the appointment of the commission that will, under the special act of the recent legislature, go to Gettysburg and locate suitable markers that will show the positions of North Carolina troops in the battle. The commission consists of J. A. Long, Roxboro; C. B. Watson, Winston-Salem; Judge W. A. Montgomery, Raleigh; Major D. C. Waddell, Greensboro; W. Frank Utley, Apex. The commission, together with the state historical commission, will visit Gettysburg before the fiftieth anniversary celebration of the battle July 1, 2, 3.

North Carolinians Prominently Mentioned in News of the Day.

Raleigh News and Observer.

To a reader who looks even casually through the daily papers it must become increasingly evident that more recognition is being given every day to the part that North Carolina people are taking in the world's activities. A glance through three papers of three different cities will prove this. The first records the reception by King George of Walter Page, the new ambassador to the Court of St. James; the delivering of an address, as secretary of the navy, by Mr. Daniels at the dedication of the monument to the heroes of the Maine, and the mammoth parade of 5,000 soldiers and sailors representing two nations, headed by Rear Admiral Cameron MacRae Winslow, the grand marshal. Admiral Winslow was born in Fayetteville and spent a good part of his boyhood there. He is of a race of fighters, being the son of Frank Winslow, who was a lieutenant in the navy when his son was born, and Mary Nelson, a reigning beauty when she was young, and the granddaughter of Cameron MacRae.

Senator Simmons is seen leading the fight to reform the tariff, and Senator Overman to correct the evils of the civil service and investigating the "plunderbund." Another North Carolina-born man who is taking a prominent stand in Congress is Senator Marline, a native of Fayetteville.

The second paper shows James B. Duke, the Durham tobacco king, negotiating for the purchase of one of the most famous country houses of England, and contains interesting references to Elliott Daingerfield, a painter known on two continents, and another Fayetteville man, and George Howe, of the University of North Carolina, a favorite nephew of the president.

The third of these journals reprints from a metropolitan daily a hitherto unpublished poem by O. Henry, who, as all the world knows, was a Tar Heel.

The ELECTRICAL WORLD

GREEN LIGHT FOR JEWELERS

May Be Obtained by Using Special Water Lens—Lamp Is Suspended Opposite to Globe.

It is an interesting fact that green light seems to be the best adapted for fine jewelry work. A simple way to obtain such a light for the work bench is to use a special water lens, colored green, as shown in the drawing, says the Popular Electricity. This may be on the order of the large colored globes seen in drugstore windows. The lamp is then suspended on the opposite side of the globe from the work in hand.

ELECTRIC GUN IN WARFARE

Pittsburg Man Has Discovered Method of Hurling Shell with Greater Power Than by Powder.

There is no other sphere of achievement in which scientific invention and discovery keeps up its quick pace of progress more assuredly than in the arts and methods of warfare. There is not one of the half-dozen leading nations of the earth that is not interested in the problem of air navigation mainly because of the understanding that aeroplanes and steerable balloons will be mighty convenient for purposes of devastation and destruction. More than a hundred chemical experiments, probably more than a thousand, have during the past ten or fifteen years been endeavoring to find some yet more diabolic explosive than any before known, and some of them have succeeded.

Now a Pittsburg man comes forward with the bland suggestion that he has discovered a method of hurling by electric power a shell "with greater velocity than it can be driven by powder." Not only so, but he claims that a single motor will furnish electric force to operate a whole line of guns or a whole battleship aggregation of guns. He proposes shortly to make a test with a field piece, and if his invention does what he thinks it will do, the science of war will have made one more long stride in the direction of quick annihilation.

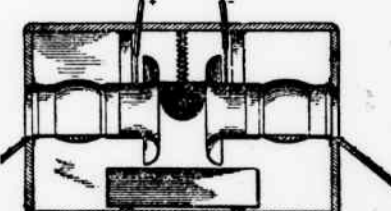

A solid missile hurled by electricity does not suggest a havoc quite so fearful as some of the prophets have forecasted as a probable method of destructiveness to which artificially generated lightning will some day be applied. There is illustration every summertime of how naturally generator electricity can blast and destroy. It only remains for some genius to work out the problem of the artificial and dirigible thunder-storm. Let us hope that before he succeeds the universal peace agreement will have been signed.

ELECTRICAL TRAP FOR RATS

Exterminator Is Simple in Construction—Circuit Operated Automatically by Little Rodent.

The Scientific American, in describing a rat exterminator, invented by J. W. M. Carmichael of Wellsburg, W. Va., says:

The exterminator is simple and cheap of construction, and one, which, by means of an electric circuit arranged to be automatically closed by the animal as it passes into and through the apparatus, will kill the rat. A further object is to construct the apparatus so that the rat as it is killed will fall from the entering passage, and in which the circuit will be automatically opened preparatory to another operation. The engraving shows a longitudinal section view through the apparatus.

World's Telephone Instruments.

A census of the world's telephone investment of $1,729,000,000, and the about 12,453,000, of which more than 67 per cent. are in the United States; Europe 26 per cent.; Canada, a shade over 2 1/2 per cent., and all other countries a trifle more than 4 per cent. Telephone plants represent a total investment of $1,729,000,000, and the number of yearly phone connections is estimated at 22,000,000,000.

RADISHES GOOD MONEY CROP

They Are Easy to Grow, Develop Quickly and There Is Little Expense in Producing Them.

For the gardener who lives near a good market early radishes often prove a money-making crop. From the open garden, radishes are the first crop in the spring that can be turned into money. They are easy to grow, develop quickly and there is little expense in producing them.

The first showing should be made very early—the first day the ground dries off a little on top. Make another sowing a week or ten days later, and a third a week after that. If one sowing fails another will come on all right. Even though all three sowings produce crops, these successive sowings are necessary in order to provide crisp, tender radishes for several weeks. writes W. F. Purdue in Farm and Home. Most varieties grow very quickly and soon become woody and unsuitable for use.

The seed can be sown broadcast or drilled in rows a foot apart. Either way is all right because a crop will make itself before any weeding is necessary. Use seed at the rate of about six pounds per acre and more nice specimens will be produced than if sown thicker.

As soon as the first radishes are ready to pull, select the largest and nicest, wash them well and tie in bunches of six or twelve. Early in the season the stores pay us five cents per bunch of 12, a little later ten cents for three bunches, and finally two cents per bunch, when it no longer pays to bother with them. The remainder of the crop may be plowed under and the ground put to something else.

The little turnip-rooted sorts are preferred in most markets and pay well. The only expense in producing radishes is the seed, which costs from 10 to 15 cents per ounce, and the work of sowing the seed and harvesting the crop.

SURE CURE FOR BROODINESS

Swinging Coop, Accommodating About Five Hens Without Crowding—Insures Quick Results.

(By W. R. GILBERT.) A sure cure for broodiness in hens is said to be a swing-coop. It is easily made, all that is required being two box-ends about three feet square, and some ordinary laths.

The mode of construction is as follows: Stand the box-ends up and nail on laths 2 1/2 inches apart for the bottom and two sides—the top is covered with canvas, tacked along one edge and tied on the other.

This curtain is raised when the intended sitters are placed in the coop, or when they are removed later. Now bore a hole in the ends a trifle above the center, and pass a pole or piece of pipe through. The ends of the pole should extend about one foot beyond the coop. The coop is one lath long, or four feet. It is now ready to hang by dropping the ends into two forked posts. It is impossible for a hen to sit on the slatted bottom. If she tries it, the rocking and tipping of the coop makes her give up in disgust.

The only steady thing about the coop is the pole passing through the center, and the most persistent broody hen is usually glad to roost on it the first night. When a hen has perched for two nights, she may be considered cured. The coop will accommodate four or five hens without crowding, and insures quick results.

MEAT RATION FOR THE HENS

Experiment Conducted at West Virginia Station Shows Its Use Increases Egg Production.

(By M. K. BILLINGS.)

The effect of meat rations for hens was tested at the West Virginia experiment station where one pen of fowls received a ration largely of corn and other starchy grains, while another pen was fed partly on meat and fresh bone. The meat-fed fowls laid 7,555 eggs, while the grain-fed fowls laid 3,431, or less than one-half as many as those receiving the nutritious ration. The eggs from the meat-fed fowls were larger, much firmer, rather better and produced far more vigorous chickens than those of the others. Both lots of fowls remained in a healthy, vigorous condition.

Cause of "White Comb."

"White comb" in fowls is caused by decayed food, impure water and overcrowding in dark and filthy houses. There is a scurvy appearance to the comb, wattles, head and neck, with a gradual loss of feathers from the head and neck. Treatment consists in removing to clean quarters and giving wholesome food. At night give a teaspoonful of castor oil, after which add daily a teaspoonful of a good condition powder to the soft food and anoint the head and affected parts with vaseline. The castor oil need only be given once.

Decreases Egg Production.

Hens will not lay when permitted to run about the farm in the wet and cold.

Rheumatism Affects Lungs

Pneumonia, Bronchitis, Phthisis, Asthma and Anemia Often Directly the Result of Rheumatic Blood.

If you have a persistent, nagging cough, that coughs before you get up in the morning, and if you are merely local in action, and if they do relieve it is the narcotics that they are. What you require is a blood purifier, a searching antidote that removes from the circulation the acid poisons that by their reflexes attack all weakened, susceptible spots and thus create local symptoms. The very best remedy known is Swift's Sure Specific. You will find it on sale in any drug store at $1.00 per bottle. It goes straight into the blood, becomes an internal blood bath, wonderfully increases the red corpuscles, cures the local fever spots and irritations, increases appetite, you take on flesh and feel a wonderful sense of renewed strength. Hundreds of people worried beyond control at cough, pains in the chest, sore throat and constant expectoration of thick mucous have experienced the most wonderful change after using S. S. S. All doubt and apprehension is gone, those peculiar pains and aches vanish, there follows a period of most intense rejoicing to find that worst fears were based entirely upon a mistaken notion that cough and chest pains come from the lungs. These are rheumatic conditions, and you will quickly realize it after using S. S. S. for a few days. Get a bottle of S. S. S. today at the drug store and then say good-by to all those pains that have worried you. Write to The Swift Specific Co., 127 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for medical advice and wonderful facts concerning the greatest blood remedy ever known.

KEZIAH COFFIN

by Joseph C. Lincoln Author of Cy Whittaker's Place Cap'n Eri, Etc. Illustrations by Ellsworth Young Copyright, 1909, by D. Appleton & Company

It was still unsettled when the long talk was over, but Grace agreed not to leave the minister at present. She would stay where she was until he was himself again, at least, Keziah was satisfied with the preliminary skirmish. She felt confident of winning the victory, and in the prospect of happiness for others, she was almost happy herself. Yet each time the mail was brought to the shanty she dreaded to look at it, and the sight of a stranger made her shake with fear. Ansel Coffin had threatened to come to Trumet. If he came, she had made up her mind what to do.

The parish committee was to meet. Captain Elkanah had announced his intention of moving that John Ellery be expelled from the Regular church. There was to be no compromise, no asking for a resignation; he must be discharged, thrown out in disgrace. The county papers were full of the squabble, but they merely reported the news and did not take sides. The fight was too even for that.

One afternoon a few days before the date set for the meeting Elkanah and two or three of his henchmen were on the piazza of the Daniels home, discussing the situation. They were blue and downcast. Annabel was in the sitting room, shedding tears of humiliation and jealous rage on the haircloth sofa.

Some one was talking excitedly on the sidewalk beyond the lilac bushes at the border of the Daniels property. Voices answered. Didama Rogers darted out of her yard and past the house in the direction of the sounds. Salters rose and walked down to the gate. Emulous Sparrow, the fish peddler, was seated in his cart, which was surrounded by men and women, neighbors of the Danielses. There was a perfect storm and questionings and ejaculations. Salters opened the gate and joined the group. A moment later he came running back, up the walk toward the piazza.

"Cap'n," he shouted. "Cap'n Elkanah, here's news! What do you think? A telegram's just come from Nat Hammond. He's safe and sound in New York, and he'll be here day after tomorrow."

They could not believe it and rushed out to hear more. Eloquent, glowing with importance, affirmed that it was so. He had seen the telegram at the store. It was for Grace Van Horne and they were just going to send a boy over to the shanty with it. Captain Elkanah seized Salters by the arm and led him out of the group. The old man's face was alight with savage joy and his voice shook with exultation.

"I'll tell you one thing it means," he whispered. "It means the end of Ellery, so far as his marrying her is concerned. She gave her word to Hammond and she'll keep it. She's no liar, whatever else she is. He may be minister of the Regular church, though I'll never set under him, but he'll never marry her, now."

CHAPTER XVIII.

In Which a Reception is Called Off.

Far out on the Pacific coast there are two small islands, perhaps a hundred miles distant from one another. The first of these is uninhabited. On the other is a little colony of English-speaking people, half-breed descendants of native women and the survivors of a crew from a British vessel cast away there in the latter part of the eighteenth century.

On the first of these islands, the smaller one, the Sea Mist had been wrecked. Driven out of her course by a typhoon, she staggered through day after day and night after night of terrific wind and storm until, at last, there was promise of fair weather. Captain Nat, nearly worn out from anxiety, care, and the loss of sleep, had gone to his stateroom and the first mate was in charge. It was three o'clock, the wind still blowing and the darkness pitchy, when the forward lookout shrieked a warning. "Breakers over the lee!" Almost the next instant the ship was on a coral reef, full of water, and the seas breaking over her from stem to stern.

Morning came and showed a little patch of land, with palm trees and the tropical vegetation waving in the capricious and green in the lowland. Captain Nat ordered the boats to be lowered. Much as he hated the thought, he saw that the Sea Mist had made her last voyage and must be abandoned. He went to the cabin, collected papers and charts and prepared to leave. The ship's money, over ten thousand dollars in gold belonging to the owner and to be used in trade and speculation among the East Indies, he took with him. Then the difficult and dangerous passage through the opening in the reef was begun.

Only the captain's boat reached the shore. The mate's was caught by a huge breaker, dashed against the reef and sunk. Captain Nat, his second mate and five of his men were all that was left of the Sea Mist's company. And on that island they remained for nearly two weeks. Provisions they had brought ashore with them. Water they found by digging. Nat hid the gold at night, burying it on the beach below high-water mark.

Then, having made sure of his location by consulting the chart, he determined to attempt a voyage to the second island, where he knew the English colony to be. Provisions were getting short, and to remain longer where they were was to risk starvation and all its horrors. So, in the longboat, which was provided with a sail, they started. Charts and papers and the gold the skipper took with them. None of the crew knew of the existence of the money; it was a secret which the captain kept to himself.

A hundred miles they sailed in the longboat and, at last, the second island was sighted. They landed and found, to their consternation and surprise, that it, too, was uninhabited. The former residents had grown tired of their isolation and, a trading vessel having touched there, had seized the opportunity to depart for Tahiti. Their houses were empty, their cattle, sheep, goats, and fowl roamed wild in the woods, and the fruit was rotting on the trees. In its way the little island was an Eveless Eden, flowing with milk and honey; but to Captain Nat, a conscientious skipper with responsibilities to his owners, it was a prison from which he determined to escape. Then, as if to make escape impossible, a sudden gale came up and the longboat was smashed by the surf.

"I guess that settles it," ruefully observed the second mate, another Cape Codder, from Hyannis. "Cal'lute we'll stay here for a spell now, hey, Cap'n."

"For a spell, yes," replied Nat. "We'll stay here until we get another craft to set sail in, and no longer."

"Another craft? Another one? Where in time you goin' to get her?" "Build her," said Captain Nat cheerfully. Then, pointing to the row of empty houses and the little deserted church, he added, "There's timber and nails—yes, and cloth, such as 'tis. If I can't build a boat out of them I'll agree to eat the whole settlement."

He did not have to eat it, for the boat was built. It took them six months to build her, and she was a curious-looking vessel when done, but, as the skipper said, "She may not be a clipper, but she'll sail anywhere, if you give her time enough." He had been the guiding spirit of the whole enterprise, planning it, laying the keel, burning buildings to obtain nails and iron, hewing trees for the largest beams, showing them how to spin ropes from cocoanut fiber, improvising sails from the longboat's canvas placed out with blankets and odd bits of cloth from the abandoned houses. Even a strip of carpet from the church floor went into the making of those sails.

At last she was done, but Nat was not satisfied.

"I never commanded a ship where I couldn't h't Yankee colors," he said, "and, by the everlasting! I won't now. We've got to have a flag."

So, from an old pair of blue overalls, a white cotton shirt, and the red hangings on the church pulpit, he made a flag and hoisted it to the truck of his queer command. They provisioned her, gave her a liberal supply of fresh water, and, one morning, she passed through the opening of the lagoon out to the deep blue of the Pacific. And, hidden in her captain's stateroom under the head of his bunk, was the ten thousand dollars gold. For Nat had sworn to himself, by the everlasting! and other oaths, to deliver that money to his New York owners safe and, necessary expenses deducted of course, untouched.

For seven weeks the crazy nondescript slopped across the ocean. Fair winds helped her and, at last, she entered the harbor of Nukahiva, over twelve hundred miles away. And there—"Hammond's luck," the sailors called—it was a United States man-of-war lying at anchor, the first American vessel to touch at that little French settlement for five years. The boat they built was abandoned and the survivors of the Sea Mist were taken on board the man-of-war and carried to Tahiti.

From Tahiti Captain Nat took passage on a French bark for Honolulu. Here, after a month's wait, he found opportunity to leave for New York on an American ship, the Stars and Stripes. And finally, after being away from home for two years, he walked into the office of his New York owners, deposited their gold on a table, and cheerfully observed, "Well, here I am."

But Trumet did not hear the yarn immediately. All that he heard and all that he knew was contained in Captain Nat's brief telegram. "Arrived today. Will be home Thursday." That was all, but it was enough, for in that dispatch was explosive sufficient to blow to atoms the doctor's plans and Keziah's, the great scheme which was to bring happiness to John Ellery and Grace Van Horne.

Dr. Parker heard it, while on his way to Mrs. Prince's, and, neglecting that old lady for the once, he turned his horse and drove as fast as possible to the shanty on the beach. Fast as he drove, Captain Zebedee Mayo got there ahead of him. Captain Zeb was hitching his white and ancient steed to the post as the doctor hove in sight.

"By mighty!" the captain exclaimed, with a sigh of relief, "I'm glad enough you've come, doctor. I hated to go in there alone. You've heard, of course."

"Say, ain't it wonderful! I'm tickled all up one side and sorry all down t'other. Nat's a true-blue feller, and I'm glad enough that he ain't shirked; but what about the minister and her? She's promised to Nat, you know. Are you goin' to tell Mr. Ellery?"

"Certainly not. And I hope he hasn't been told. He's getting well fast now, but he mustn't be worried, or back he'll go again. We must see Mrs. Coffin. Keziah is our main hold. That woman has got more sense than all the rest of us put together."

But it was Grace, not Keziah, who opened the shanty door in answer to their knock. She was pale and greeted them calmly, but it was evident that her calmness was the result of sheer will power.

"Won't you come in, doctor?" she

"He'll Never Marry Her, Now."

asked. "Good afternoon, Captain Mayo."

Dr. Parker entered the building, but Captain Zeb remained outside, stammering that he cal'lated he'd better stay where he could keep an eye on his horse. This was such a transparent excuse that it would have been funny at any other time. No one smiled now, however.

"Is—is Mrs. Coffin—er—Keziah aboard?" the captain asked.

"No, she isn't. She went to the parsonage a few hours ago. Mr. Ellis brought the mail and there was a letter in it for her. She said it was important and that she must go home to see about some things. She'll be back pretty soon, I suppose."

Parker found his patient sleeping soundly and had not disturbed him. Returning to the living room he spoke to Grace.

"Humph!" he grunted, watching her from under his brows, "everything seems to be all right in there. He mustn't be told anything that will upset him. He's getting well fast and I want it to continue."

"Yes, I understand."

"Hum! Er—have you heard—Has anyone been here?"

"Yes, I have heard. The telegram came and I answered it."

"You did? Well, it's a miracle and we're all thankful, of course. Did you—er—"

"Doctor, I must go home. I mustn't stay here any longer. You know why not. I must be at home when he comes. You must get some one to take my place. Aunt Keziah will stay, of course, and perhaps Mrs. Higgins would come."

"But stay through tomorrow, at any rate. Nat won't get here until Thursday, and I may be able to find another nurse by that time. And what I shall say to him," motioning toward the other room, "I don't know."

"Must you say anything? Just say that I have been called away for a few days on—on some business. Don't tell him. Don't tell him the truth, doctor, now. He is too weak and I am afraid—"

She stopped and turned away. The doctor watched her pityingly. He would have liked to say much more, but he could not, under the circumstances. He stammered a good-by and, with a question concerning Mrs. Coffin's whereabouts, went out to join Captain Zeb.

"Well?" queried the latter anxiously. "How is it? What's up? What's the next tack?"

"We'll go to the parsonage," was the gloomy answer. "If anybody can see a glimmer in this cussed muddle Keziah Coffin can."

Keziah was on her knees in her room, beside a trunk, the same trunk she had been packing the day of the minister's arrival in Trumet. She was working frantically, sorting garments from a pile, rejecting some and keeping others. She heard voices on the walk below and went down to admit the callers.

Don't Suffer!

"I had been troubled, a little, for nearly 7 years," writes Mrs. L. Fincher, in a letter from Peavy, Ala., "but I was not taken down, until March, when I went to bed and had to have a doctor. He did all he could for me, but I got no better. I hurt all over, and I could not rest. At last, I tried Cardui, and soon I began to improve. Now I am in very good health, and able to do all my housework."

A new postoffice called Doughton, in honor of Congressman Doughton, has been established in Watauga county.

It is said that J. W. Pless, a lawyer of Marion, will oppose Hon. J. M. Gudger for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the tenth district next year.

Rev. Pat. H. Massey, of Durham county, hauling a load of wood into Durham, was crossing a railroad track when the train struck his wagon and Mr. Massey was killed.

Guy Phillips, of Trinity, Randolph county, who graduated at the State University last week, and won the Mangum orator's medal, worked his way through the institution and finished out of debt.

Noah Massencill, a white man who escaped from the chain gang in Johnston county last March and who killed W. E. Strickland when the latter tried to arrest him, was captured last week in Johnston county.

John B. Sherrill, editor of the Concord Daily Tribune and the Concord Semi-Weekly Times, has been elected a trustee of Trinity College to succeed his father-in-law, the late Judge W. J. Montgomery, of Concord.

The constitutional amendment commission, which is considering amendments to the constitution to be reported to a special session of the legislature, held another meeting in Raleigh last week and adjourned to meet next at Morehead City at the call of the chairman, A. M. Scales.

The Charlotte assay office, locally known as the United States mint, which has long furnished an easy job for patriots who desire to serve the government, will cease to exist as a government institution on the 15th. Uncle Sam having declined to have his leg further pulled to maintain it.

J. P. Reinhardt, a well known citizen of Lincoln county, died in a Charlotte hospital shortly after undergoing an operation Monday afternoon. He was 68 years old and was engaged in the cotton manufacturing business. He had represented his county in the legislature several times.

An automobile from Winston-Salem, driven by E. J. Weisner, ran into Milas Verble, an aged colored man, in Salisbury Saturday. Verble was badly bruised. Weisner was arrested for exceeding the speed limit and on account of Verble's injury he was required to give bond in the sum of $1,000.

The North Wilkesboro Hustler says the finance committee appointed by the last legislature for Wilkes county, composed of R. L. Church, A. M. Vannoy and C. H. Kilby, two Democrats and a Republican, has discovered real estate in the county of the value of $100,000 that was not on the tax books last year.

The forestry commission, consisting of Secretaries Houston, Lane and Garrison, Representatives Hawley and Lee, of Georgia, and Senators Smith, of Maryland, and Galing, of New Hampshire, will meet on the 16th to determine whether the government will purchase 86,000 acres of land offered by the Vanderbilt estate as a part of the forest reserve. Members of the commission recently inspected the land.

Bishop Horner, of Asheville, last week appealed to President Wilson to commute the sentence of William E. Brees, convicted of a violation of the national banking laws at Asheville and under a sentence of two years in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta. The president took the case under advisement. Governor Craig, former Governor Glenn and Senator Simmons have appealed to the president in behalf of Brees.

Mr. Lindley's Peach Crop.

Sanford Express.

Mr. J. Van Lindley spent a few hours here Saturday while returning from Southern Pines to his home in Greensboro. Mr. Lindley says that while his peach crop will not be as large as it was last year, yet the peaches are of a much better quality and he thinks will bring better prices. The peaches are large and have a very fine flavor. Mr. Lindley made the first shipment from Southern Pines to the Northern markets last week—150 crates. They sold at from $3.50 to $3.75 a crate. These are good prices and mean a good profit for the fruit grower. Mr. Lindley expects to ship about 12,000 crates during the season. He lost some of his trees by the cold weather last winter. Mr. Lindley is not only raising fruit on a large scale, but he is now engaged in raising cotton and corn on his big farm near Southern Pines. He has 100 acres in these crops. He says his corn is as fine as he ever saw at this season. He has found by experience that corn can be raised on the sandy soil at small cost.

A PAN-ARYAN UNION.

A Movement to Promote the Union of the White Race.

A movement has been started in Washington by government officials and others interested to form a Pan-Aryan Association of the World, to promote the union of the white race, as the only means to maintain its beneficent supremacy, and thus to assure universal peace. A circular is in preparation which soon is to be distributed broadcast throughout this country, the salient points of which are:

As soon as the 900,000,000 Asiatics are strong enough, they will demand free admission to the United States and to European colonies. If even the 50,000,000 of Japan are able to exert such pressure as we now witness, what will happen when the 35,000,000 of China and the 315,000,000 of India possess modern armies and navies proportioned to their numbers? Their common demand for unrestricted admission would serve as an iron bond, uniting their armed forces into one huge mass.

Against such a power, even the utmost armament of any single white nation would be of no avail. A policy of drift must inevitably lead to a series of horrible wars, sweeping aside all arbitration treaties like wisps of straw. The United States, the land of highest wages, would have to bear the brunt of the onset. The only possible means of defense is the union of the great white nations. United we stand, divided we fall! To every white nation it is essential that India's 315,000,000 and vast resources shall not re-enforce the Mongolians, but remain under the control of Great Britain, thus strengthening the Aryan race to which their highest castes belong. It is equally essential that Siberia, the destined bulwark of Europe, the America of the Slavic race, shall remain in possession of Russia.

To attempt to unite all the white nations at once would needlessly complicate a task which will prove sadly complicated even in its simplest form. A nucleus, an initial concert, consisting of Great Britain, France, Germany and the United States, the nations whose real interests are most nearly identical, will suffice to insure the eventual union of the entire white race. In fact, such a quadruple league of civilization would instantly have the support of most of the other white nations.

The annual convention of the North Carolina Medical Society will be held at Morehead City next week, the opening session being held Tuesday. A meeting of the State Health Officers Association will be held at the same place Monday.

Do not forget that you should by all means be on the Battle Grounds early on the morning of July Fourth. Make arrangements to stay all day. If you do not feel like taking a lunch with you remember refreshments will be served on the grounds. Come!

The reorganization of the customs service, which is to become operative July 1, 1913, may not be placed in operation until January 1, 1914. Acting under a recommendation of Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, the senate committee on commerce has voted to report favorably a bill to defer the proposed reorganization. Mr. McAdoo held that while the plan approved by President Taft was an improvement over the old plan, it contains objections which may be overcome if its operation is delayed.
