LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF FORM.

Matters of Interest to Readers of The Patriot Far and Near.

Mr. R. A. Sockwell Jr., Gibsonville, Route 1, was a pleasant caller at the Patriot office Friday.

Plenty plant bed cloth at Thacker & Brockmann's. Get it now, then you will have it ready when you need it.

Monday was celebrated by the city commissioners and the banks as a holiday on account of Lee's birthday.

The transfer of three parcels of land in Jamestown township from Jesse A. Burney, commissioner, to M. E. Futrell, was recorded Monday at the court house. The consideration was $2,230.

Thacker & Brockmann's remnant sale will be held next Tuesday, January 28. Ladies know that Thacker & Brockmann's remnant sales are the real thing, and the store will no doubt be crowded rain or shine.

Mrs. Ella Cobb, of High Point, Route 1, is a record breaker in the matter of butter making. During the year just passed she made from six cows 1,600 pounds of butter, 1,400 pounds of which were sold on the local market.

Invitations have been sent out by the Y. M. C. A. for the banquet to be given Friday night. Dr. C. Alphonso Smith, of the University of Virginia, will be the toastmaster and one of the speakers will be Governor Mann, of Virginia.

Mr. John J. Daniels, of Pomona, has returned from London, England, where he has been visiting his parents and relatives the past month. Mr. Daniels reported a very stormy trip for the steamer Baltic on which he had passage.

W. L. Lassiter, a Southern brakeman, is suffering from a fractured skull at St. Leo's hospital, where he was carried for treatment. He was injured by accidentally falling from the caboose of his train coming into Greensboro a few days ago.

There is a cut price sale of good footwear going on at Thacker & Brockmann's that ought to interest all that large class of people who want their money to go as far as possible. Sample shoes, broken sizes, odd pairs and slightly shopped shoes have been marked very low. Read their ad on page two this week.

Mr. S. Kirkpatrick, recently elected to Congress from his district in Iowa, is spending a few days with Mrs. Kirkpatrick at his Greensboro home near the Normal college. Mr. Kirkpatrick talks interestingly of his campaign and how he got ahead of his opponent from Canada. He will return to Iowa before going to Washington in March to take his seat in Congress.

Mrs. C. Field, living near Monroe City, Mo., and a regular reader of the Greensboro Patriot, sends us a clipping from her home paper with detailed statement of her success as a poultry raiser during the year just closed. Summing up the report it is shown that Mrs. Field sold chickens and eggs to the amount of $923. From 500 hens she sold 4,711 eggs, and expects this year to do better than that.

Mr. W. J. Forney, who has been with the American Motor company, in charge of the office, will leave the first of next week for Jacksonville, Fla., where he will take charge of the office of the Thomas-Williamson company, large automobile dealers of that city. Mr. Forney is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Forney, of Greensboro, and his many friends wish him every success in his new home.

Messrs Herbert V. Brockman and L. B. Vreeland, of Charlotte, left Monday night for the Pacific coast, going by New Orleans and El Paso. In Los Angeles Mr. Brockman will visit his brother, Charles R. Brockmann. He will visit the principal cities of the west while away, and on returning will be located at Charlotte, where he is southern agent for the York Bridge company, of York, Pa.

In the advertisement of Crawford & Rees, clothiers, in the Patriot last week, an error was made which we hasten to correct. Instead of 20 per cent off, as the type read, it should have been 25 per cent off. The printer whose attention was called to the mistake explained that 20 per cent off was sufficient reduction for such a well known and reliable house, but if they really meant 25 per cent off he was willing to correct it.

There will be held this week in the Washington Street Methodist church at High Point a most important and interesting missionary institute conducted by some of the leading men and women of the Southern Methodist church. Drs. E. H. Rawlings, C. F. Reid and G. H. Detwiler, of Nashville, Tenn., are expected to attend, also Miss Daisy Davies, who is a favorite in North Carolina. Accompanying these will be Dr. H. K. Boyer, who is well known to a large number of our people.

Two deeds, denoting considerations which totalled $60,000, were filed Tuesday in the office of the register of deeds. The largest was from the Globe Home Furniture company to Chas. M. Hauser, trustee of the Dalton syndicate, which conveyed certain real and personal assets at a consideration of $48,709.66. The other deed was from the Snow Lumber company to the city of High Point, and was a lot on the south side of East Commerce street, containing 13,500 square feet. The consideration was $12,500.

A call has been issued for a meeting of the trustees of the Methodist Protestant Children's Home in High Point Thursday, for the purpose of electing a superintendent for the home and adopting by-laws for its management. The out-of-town trustees expected to attend are J. M. Millikan and T. A. Hunter, of Greensboro; Dr. F. R. Harris, of Henderson; Prof. M. H. Holt, of Oak Ridge, and R. R. Ross and Mrs. W. C. Hammer, of Asheboro. The commodious new building near High Point, the construction of which has been delayed for some weeks by the non-arrival of material, is now rapidly nearing completion.

MARRIAGES.

Cupid Continues His Activities in Season and Out of Season.

A marriage of more than usual interest was solemnized at high noon on Thursday of last week when Miss Gertrude J. Baldwin became the bride of Dr. James E. Wyche, a prominent and popular dentist of Greensboro.

The wedding took place at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Royal Farrar on North Elm street, and was witnessed by relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The home was beautifully decorated, a cluster of wedding bells suspended from an arch of smilax being highly suggestive of the occasion. The little ribbon bearers, Martha Farrar, Sallie Schenck, Mabel Wyche and Sarah Poole, carrying candles, were followed by the best man, Mr. Benjamin Wyche, and the dame of honor, Mrs. Eva Tyson. Entering together the couple stood directly under the wedding bells while the ceremony was impressively performed by Dr. C. W. Byrd, pastor of West Market Street Methodist church.

The bride is a highly accomplished and attractive young woman who has spent much of her life abroad and has a large circle of friends in Greensboro, her former home.

After the bridal trip to Northern cities Dr. and Mrs. Wyche will be at home to their friends at the residence of Dr. Wyche on Gaston street.

Allen-Warren

Tuesday afternoon Miss Jessie Park Allen and Dr. Robert Lee Warren were married. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. G. Kendrick at the home of Mr. John H. Russell, on Mendenhall street. Owing to a recent bereavement in the family of the bride the marriage was a very quiet one, only relatives and a few intimate friends being present.

Miss Allen came to Greensboro recently with her mother from Warren county. Dr. Warren is located at Dunn, where he enjoys a fine practice. With Mrs. Warren he left for Dunn just after the ceremony.

SIDES HELD FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Case is Sent by Judge Eure to Superior Court.

The case of the state against William F. Sides came before Judge Eure in the city court Tuesday, the result of the hearing being that Sides must stand a jury trial in the Superior Court on the charge of manslaughter.

As will be recalled, the defendant was driving the ill-fated automobile at the time of the fearful accident which resulted in the killing of young Royall Battle a few weeks ago. The fact that he was driving the machine without a license and also exceeding the speed limit as fixed by the state, he laid himself liable to arrest for doing an unlawful act, and it is on this point that the state makes out its case against him.

At the preliminary hearing Sides was represented by ex-Judge W. P. Bynum, Messrs. R. C. Strudwick and G. S. Bradshaw.

Much sympathy is felt for the defendant who, while technically guilty of the violation of both city ordinance and state law, is deeply distressed over the deplorable accident which caused the death of his young friend. His bond for $500 was continued for his appearance in Superior court.

Miss Mamie Collett, of Morganton, is visiting Mrs. John N. Wilson on North Elm street.

DEATHS.

Those Who Have Answered the Summons During the Past Week.

Miss Rodena Wright.

A little over 46 years ago Miss Rodena Wright, daughter of John and Elizabeth Wright, was born in Catham county. When about seven years of age a severe illness caused a slight deformity of her body, but happily did not effect her mind, which was unusually bright and retentive. Being of a cheerful disposition she became a favorite with all who came in contact with her, holding their affection and esteem to the day of her death which occurred on Thursday of last week, at the home of W. W. Hockett, three miles east of Centre church.

Deceased was a birthright member of the society of Friends and one of the first graduates of Guilford college. Some years ago she was recorded a minister in the Society of Friends, which place she filled with much credit, often being called upon to conduct funerals among other denominations. A little over six years ago she took up the work as pastor of Centre local meeting, and had become so fixed in the minds and hearts of the congregation that it is doubtful whether she could ever have gotten them to agree to give her up had she wanted to make a change.

Making her home with the family of D. L. Hodgins, she occasionally visited among her members or the people of the community, these occasions being always looked forward to with pleasure by her friends and neighbors, in whose hearts sweet memories of her will be kept green as of one who was the embodiment of Christian virtues and Christian character.

On Sunday, January 12, she accompanied the family of W. W. Hockett home from church, and on the following day while calling at the home of J. E. Hockett she suffered a stroke of paralysis from which she never recovered. It was while on her knees at prayer that the summons came, her voice failing as her petition ended. When she did not rise she was lifted to a chair and a physician called. Failing to rally except at brief intervals when, in her conscious moments, she expressed joy at the thought of "going home," she remained at the home of Mr. Hockett until Thursday night, when she passed peacefully away.

Funeral services were held Friday, attended by a large gathering of sorrowing friends, a number of whom accompanied the body to South Fork, Chatham county, where interment was made. Assisting in these last sad rites was Mrs. Margaret Hackney, a life long friend and coworker.

In the passing of their beloved pastor not only the congregation of Centre, but Guilford county and North Carolina loses a unique character who made the world better and brighter for all who came under the influence of her noble and unselfish life.

Mr. George F. Fisher.

Friends in the city were shocked to hear of the death of Mr. George F. Fisher, which occurred Tuesday morning at his home on Spring Garden street, after a slight illness which, while it had caused his confinement to his room for several days, was not considered serious.

Deceased had lived in Greensboro for several years, being employed as bookkeeper by the South Atlantic Lumber company. He was a man of kindly disposition and genial manners and was liked by all who knew him. He was 67 years of age and a veteran of the war between the States, going through the war as a Confederate volunteer. He was born in New Bern and lived part of his life in the North. He is survived by his widow and six children. One son, Mr. George Frank Fisher, and five daughters, Mrs. McMillan, of Kansas; Mrs. Franklin, of Chicago; Mrs. Shipman, of High Point; Mrs. F. E. Harlee, of Greensboro, and Miss Fay Fisher, of Greensboro. His sister, Mrs. Eliza Rogers, lives in High Point and one brother lives in Chicago.

In order to give the children time to reach the state from their distant homes, the funeral will not be held until today, when interment will be made at High Point. Services will be conducted by Rev. R. Murphy Williams, pastor of the Presbyterian church of the Covenant, in Greensboro, of which Mr. Fisher was a consistent and devoted member.

Mrs. Kate McLamb.

Mr. and Mrs. G. T. McLamb left Monday for Roseboro, Sampson county, to attend the funeral of Mr. McLamb's mother, Mrs. Kate McLamb, whose death occurred Sunday night. Mrs. McLamb was 70 years of age, and had been ill several weeks. Besides Mr. McLamb the following other children survive: W. F., H. H., and A. McLamb and Mrs. F. W. White, of Salemburg.

A boat bearing the name of Titanic, plying on Beaver creek, a tributary of Neuse river, sunk a few days ago, says a dispatch from Kinston. Misfortune had been predicted for the boat on account of its name but no lives were lost.

Attorney Thomas Newland of Lenoir, a nephew of ex-Lieut. Gov. Newland, is a candidate for assistant district attorney, the place now held by Judge Coble of Statesville. Mr. D. M. Reece of Yadkin is also a candidate for the place.

A. J. Field, former private secretary to Gov. Kitchin; R. F. Beasley, editor of the Monroe Journal, and W. F. Marshall of Raleigh, have incorporated a company to publish the State Journal, a weekly paper, in Raleigh. The idea will be to make the Journal a state paper.

The grand jury of Wake county Superior court refused to indict Gordon Holmes, the Wake Forest student who some time ago shot and seriously wounded Frank Powers, who was attempting to haze him. Holmes was, however, indicted for carrying concealed weapons and was discharged on the payment of the cost.

Cornelius N. Lucas, the Cumberland county man who tried to work the insanity dodge when arraigned for trial for murder, but was found sane by a jury, plead guilty to second degree murder when he saw he was up against it. Sentence will be passed when the trial of his brother, Alexander Lucas, as an accessory to the same crime, is concluded.

While asleep in bed a few nights ago Judge Turner, of the County court at Elizabeth City, was aroused by an importunate visitor who demanded a warrant. The judge got up, dressed, replenished the fire and invited the visitor in to state his grievance. The complainant said he had given a negro 50 cents to get him some whisky and the negro had run away with the money. What the judge said at that juncture is not on record, but the language was hardly parliamentary. The visitor left in a hurry and without a warrant.

Democratic senators from the Rocky Mountain region are urging President-elect Wilson to appoint a representative of that section secretary of the interior. Mr. Wilson is asked to appoint former Governor E. L. Norris of Montana, former Governor James H. Hawley of Idaho, J. N. Field of Oregon or Clay Tallman of Nevada, and is assured that the selection of one of them would be satisfactory to the Democrats of the far West.

President Taft, guest of the Clover club in Philadelphia Friday night, wished good luck to Mr. Wilson in his coming term in the White House, predicted prosperity for the nation under ordinary circumstances, but gave warning that, in his opinion, the people at the polls in November decided against radicalism as well as against conservatism and advised the Democrats to abide by their verdict, "stick to the middle of the road."

Great earth slides have started again in Culebra Cut in the Panama canal. One of the slides alone is expected to throw a million yards of earth and rock into the canal unless the steam shovel crews succeed in checking it. Another slide at Cucuracha, which was supposed to have halted 400 years ago, again has begun to move rapidly and the earth sank four feet in 17 minutes on the afternoon of January 2, completely covering two railroad tracks.

OUR FUTURE WATER SUPPLY.

Commissioners Make Provision For Greensboro's Rapid Extension.

A land transfer of great importance to the city of Greensboro was recorded at the court house Saturday. By the transaction the city acquires three pieces of land adjoining the city's property at the intersection of Reedy Fork and Horsepen creek from Mr. and Mrs. J. A.
Odell. The price paid was $8,000, about $23 per acre. The land is divided into three parcels: 247 acres, 67 acres and 25 acres. It takes in the meadow lying between the converging river and creek and the high lying property back of this meadow.

It is estimated by the commissioners that when Greensboro's growth necessitates an increased water supply, a 248 foot dam eight feet high across the intersection of the two streams would form a basin in which a quantity of water could be held in reserve sufficient to tide the city over possible water famine caused by drouth, such as has caused great inconvenience and some suffering in other towns of the state which have displayed less forethought.

By owning the land above the meadow all danger of its future settlement is overcome, thus protecting the water supply from any chance of pollution.

IN HONOR OF VETERANS.

Guilford Chapter U. D. C.'s Observe the Birth-day of Lee and Jackson.

Confederate veterans of the city and county were the guests Saturday of Guilford Chapter Daughters of the Confederacy at a reception given in their honor in the parlors of the Elks Club building.

An interesting program had been arranged, features of which were war stories, founded upon personal experiences, by Col. Morehead, Major Waddell and Judge James E. Boyd.
These were interspersed with music
—the selections being appropriate to the occasion, and greatly appreciated by the veterans. Among those who contributed in this way to the enjoyment of those present were Mr.
Bennett, of G. F. College, in a beautiful solo; Mrs. Ed Wills, Miss Lila
Justice and Miss Westbrook.

During the afternoon the Daughters served cake, coffee and mints, followed by cigars. Each veteran was also presented with a beautiful carnation carrying the colors of the U.
D. C.'s. Altogether the day was one of pleasant, although sad, reminiscences, and will form a bright spot in the memories of the veterans for whose pleasure the occasion was so happily planned and successfully carried out.

Farmer Fined For Overspeeding.

The unexpected occurred in Greensboro Friday when Mr. T. K. Causey, a Guilford county farmer, appeared before the city court to answer the charge of over speeding.

Mr. Causey raises hogs for the Greensboro market and is the owner of a handsome auto delivery wagon in which he brings the meat to town, a distance of about eighteen miles.

For fast and reckless driving defendant was fined $10 and costs, the court gravely reminding him that even now a case was pending wherein a young man was charged with manslaughter on account of just such reckless driving on the city streets and around dangerous corners, and admonished him to take care in future and keep his eyes on the speedometer.

Mr. Causey took a provisional appeal, which means that on reflection he may decide to pay the fine
rather than carry it to the Superior court.

The Criminal Match.

The insurance companies in the West are gathering statistics on fires caused by matches. Only about two-thirds of the companies are reporting, so we have only a faint idea of the enormous fire waste for which matches are responsible.

In September 1911, the reports show 523 fires due to the careless use of matches, entailing a property loss of $159,403 and an insurance loss of $148,640. During October the property loss was $152,397 and the insurance loss of $143,379.

During the period between April 1 and November 1, 1911, the total property loss reported was $1,200,- 742, with an insurance loss of $1,- 084,216.

The "strike anywhere" match should go. It has no legitimate place in the home. If you love your family exclude it from your home.
Its convenience does not justify its use.

Native Tar Heel Now Living in Texas
Writes of the Good Old State.

Mrs. Mattie Patton, whose letter head conveys the information that she is the proprietor of a poultry ranch at Lone Oak, Texas, making a specialty of "Single Comb Rhode triot sent to her address, writes:

"I am a native of North Carolina and in August last I visited Greensboro and Winston-Salem, also Meadows, for the first time in twenty-eight years. I found a great many changes, but that country looked mighty good to me. I think Greensboro is the prettiest city I saw while I was in North Carolina.

"Taking the climate, the people
and other things into consideration
I think North Carolina is the garden spot of the world. I found Greensboro a very thrifty city, and a more hospitable people I never met anywhere than at Greensboro, Winston-Salem and Meadows."

A RECALL OF A JUDGE.

The people of California, who enjoy to the fullest extent all the wild and progressive ideas of modern professional politicians, including woman suffrage, the initiative, the referendum and the recall, are now testing the recall proposition—and perhaps they have a right to do what they are doing.

A man, who was a beast, enticed a young girl into his automobile—a little, bare-headed irresponsible slip of a thing, not old enough to know what she was doing, in fact, and took her to a road house. She never had drunk whiskey. She said she would take ginger ale and a wink at the bar-keeper produced whiskey. Then the man on the return trip attempted to assault her. Her screams caused the occupants of another automobile to hear her, and she was left by the brute and brought to town by the other people.

A police judge fixed the fellow's bail at $3,000. Then a lawyer came into court, told the other judge that the first judge was out of the city, and asked to have the bail reduced to $1,000. This the judge did, and the fellow skipped.

Whereupon the women in the neighborhood where the little girl lives raised a clamor. Men took it up, and there is now being prepared by Francis J. Heney, the great graft prosecuting lawyer, a petition asking for a recall. It is said that 7,000 signers will be easily gotten.

In the meantime Judge Weller, the gentleman whom they are after, blames the lawyer of the brute for short-changing him. He is going before the women and ask them to stop the fight against him, pleading that he believed a lawyer who misled him—lied to him.

At this writing, however, it looks like the women propose to keep up the fight. And while the recall of a judge is a serious proposition in this case it appears that it might not be out of place. There is no crime in the calendar of criminality more heinous than the one committed by the smooth gentleman who skipped, and the judge should at least have investigated the case before he gave the fellow permission to leave for parts unknown. We would oppose the recall of a judge because his opinion or instructions to a jury didn't please the mob, but when a judge turns loose a human monster who tried to debauch and ruin a little girl—well, the recall is a mild rebuke to such an officer of the law.

SENATOR JEFF DAVIS.

Senator Jeff Davis who suddenly died this month in his Arkansas home was a unique figure. The senator had ample lung power, a wealth of raven locks and along with his picturesque appearance carried quite a little tonnage in the matter of brains. He died suddenly.

Davis was not a statesman in any sense. He was mouthy and made himself believe he was the tribune of the people, whereas he was simply a politician and lawyer—out for glory and the salary that sometimes goes along with it.

The investigators of the money trust are having a great time. And after all the fuss and feathers the money trust, if there is such a thing of evil, will continue to walk around in its spike tailed coat regardless of investigators and investigations.

OLD JOHN ON HIS LAWN.

Word comes out of Tarrytown, N. J., where John D. Rockefeller has his splendid estates, that the old magnate spends a great deal of his time on his lawn picking out the dandelions that threaten to take his grass. Of course it would seem that John would put the hired man to work on a job like this—but he doubtless delights in it himself. Imagine an old man tottering on the grave's brink, worth more millions than he can count or understand, walking about over an estate worth many millions, picking out dandelions, lest they destroy his grass. One would think that a man with so much money would find something else to do; would be trying to spend ten or fifteen cents a day on pleasure for himself. But John has wearied of the sordid dross. He is restless. He is apprehensive. He reads his Bible, old John does, and he wonders if it is indeed true, that a camel might as well try to thread the postern of a needle's eye as for a rich man to try to shy into heaven's gates. John wonders about the story of Dives. He wonders if pretty soon he will not be called before the bar of God and asked some questions that the Congressional committee which recently had him on the stand never dreamed of asking. Old John wonders why he got so much, and why he took such a short cut to get so much of it. When he was younger and started the stream of gold his way he didn't think, or care, much along these lines.

But knowing that pretty soon he must walk down alone to the banks of the river Styx—must stand there in his shroud and await the coming of the silent boat and the grim boatman, and step in and ride to the other shore and then face his Creator—well, John wonders if that Bible story is true. If true he knows that he will get a plenty. If not true—but the doubt! So John just walks around picking out the little sunny yellow faced dandelions, claiming that he is afraid they will ruin his grass plots. But that isn't it. John wants to keep his mind off of what he sees when he thinks. So he does this stunt—and may God have mercy on his soul.

SOUTHERN COTTON MILLS.

A Brooklyn correspondent in the New York Sun pays the following tribute to the cotton mill owners in the South, where, he says, conditions are not duplicated in any other section of the country:

"The cotton mill has been, is, and will be a boon to the poor whites of the South. It has offered them an opportunity for self-help that hitherto had not been possible. And in the mill they learned the first lessons of self-restraint, punctuality and the other good habits of constant toil. To many of them the mill was a better abiding place than the home, being cooler in the summer and warmer in the winter than the shacks in which they lived. And the houses built by many of the mill managements are a big improvement on the native variety.

"I have not owned a mill in whole or in part, nor have I been employed in one. Neither have I been employed as a labor investigator. However, I have examined and reported conditions in several thousand cotton mills and other factories in seven states and have yet to see the awful horrors pictured by the facile pens of insincere labor propagandists.

"In principle I am opposed to child labor, but at the same time I am a devotee of facts, and the tales of child labor specialists concerning conditions in Southern cotton mills are decidedly not in accord with the facts.

"There are many noble men and women performing service in improving labor conditions in contrast with which the half truths of others, and their inaccurate reports savoring of predestination, stand out sharply.

"In simple, the proposition is this: The cotton mill in the South has been an advantage. The conditions there are not duplicated in any other section of the country, so what might be sense in Lawrence, Mass., concerning labor would be nonsense in Laurens, S. C. The mills are not different, but the people are.

It comes direct from Prince-on that already two women have applied through friends for cabinet positions. One of them it is seriously stated, wants to be secretary of war. Why not? Put a woman in as secretary of war and the dreadnaught becomes obsolete. All she would want would be a red hot skillet, a rolling pin and a broom, and even the yellow peril would take to the woods.

It is stated that during the sixty-second Congress and up to January 5, six senators, sixteen representatives and a vice president had died. That is the greatest death rate in Congress in the history of the country. Just why a congressman should want to die so soon after being elected is hard to tell, unless it is to get away from the million pie hunters who come with every change of administration and all insist on having the best job.

The oldest newsboy in the world, Oarsamus Paige, died the other day in Joliet, Illinois, aged 105. Looks like when a fellow passes the hundred mark instead of being called a newsboy he should be called a news man.

Health and Hygiene.

Births and Deaths to Be Registered—Some of the Provisions.

The model statistics law has just been introduced in the legislature. Representative Williams, of Buncombe, introduced it in the house, and Senator Hobgood, of Guilford, introduced it in the senate. Within recent years a number of states have adopted substantially the same law on vital statistics. Each year improvements are made in this law until very recently it has become known as the model law. The bill now before the legislature represents the 1913 edition of this model law. So, if passed, North Carolina can boast of the best vital statistics law in the country.

Some of the provisions of the bill are that all births and deaths occurring in the state shall be registered. In the case of deaths the name, age, sex, color, conjugal condition, occupation, cause of death, educational attainments, etc., are required. This information will enable state and local health officers to combat disease; it will settle many legal questions, point out the healthy and unhealthy places, prevent crimes, etc. In the case of births, the name, sex, color, etc., are required besides valuable statistical data about the parents. Such records will soon be invaluable for legal purposes; they will prevent child marriages besides directly putting an end to much needless blindness, and furnishing information of inestimable value for workers and students of race questions, social reforms, etc. In fact, if this bill is passed it will doubtless prove one of the most important and far reaching laws enacted by this session of the legislature.

Fresh Air Indoors.

It is important that indoor workers have good air. Outdoor workers can get it without trouble, but indoor workers are compelled to rely upon ventilation. By ventilation we mean some arrangement or device whereby fresh outdoor air is admitted into the room and the bad air taken out. The best ventilation can not make the indoor conditions quite as good as they are in the big outdoors, for the reason that indoors your air supply is limited to the size of the room.

The important thing in a workroom is to have a constant supply of fresh air coming in and the bad air going out. This will keep up a good circulation, and should give you a good, safe room in which to work.

There is this difference between food and air, and that is, the air we breathe is invisible, so that we can not use our eyes to tell whether it is good or bad; with food we can tell, usually, by looking at it, whether it is clean and wholesome.

Unfortunately, we can not see dirty air as we can dirty food. And because this is true, most people are unmindful of the kind of air they breathe, though they may be ever so nice and particular as to the kind of food they eat.

We may, and many of us do, overeat, but very few persons ever overbreathe. In other words, we may get more food than is good for us, but it would be difficult for any of us to get too much good air.

Allred-Glass.

On Thursday, the 16th inst., a quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Glass, when Mr. Ernest H. Allred led to the hymenal altar their daughter Flora. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Cecil, former pastor of the bride, in the presence of relatives and a few intimate friends. The bride was gown in white satin with lace and pearl trimmings. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses and ferns.

Promptly at 3 p. m. the first strains of the wedding march were sounded by Miss Edith Woody, the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Woody, of High Falls.

Misses Mattie Glass and Novie Allred, sisters of the bride and groom, entered the parlor carrying pink and white carnations. They were followed by the bride and groom who took their places under the wedding bell made of white rose petals. The color scheme of pink and white in all the decorations was of beautiful design, consisting of roses, lilies and carnations. After the solemn vows had been taken, which plighted these two young lives in one, and congratulations expressed, all repaired to the dining room where a sumptuous luncheon was served in genuine country style by Mrs. T. N. Woody and Mrs. David Glass.

Next day the wedding party gathered at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Allred. The warm-hearted hospitality dispensed in this home on this occasion was highly appreciated by all the guests, and as we sat around the festive board we felt that we were indeed enjoying a wedding feast to its fullest extent.

The bride is a descendant of one of the oldest and most substantial families of the county and is a young lady of high character and sterling qualities.

The groom is a prosperous young farmer of southern Guilford, and is a young man of ideal habits and is universally esteemed.

These young people will reside in the home neighborhood and are followed not only by the parental blessing, but by the best wishes of the entire community for a long, prosperous and happy life. R. C. W.

DISCUSS COMPULSORY EDUCATION.

County Superintendent Foust Calls on People of Guilford to Take Action.

To School Committeemen and Teachers:

At a meeting of the board of education held on Friday, Jan. 17, I was instructed to request that the people of each school district in Guilford county meet at the schoolhouses to discuss the advisability of asking our representatives to pass a compulsory education law for Guilford county, in case there is not one passed by the legislature as a general compulsory law for the state.

The board of education suggests that these meetings be held on Saturday, Jan. 25, at an hour that is suitable to the people of the various communities, which can be fully advertised through the schools. At these meetings I hope that there will be a free discussion of the question, and that delegates will be appointed to represent each district at a general meeting to be held in Greensboro at 12 o'clock on Saturday, Feb. 1. A compulsory education law must necessarily embrace the following:

First—Minimum and maximum ages of required school attendance.
Second—Length of term children should be required to attend.
Third—Conditions which will exempt children from being compelled to attend.
Fourth—Penalties for non attendance.
Fifth—Machinery for enforcing the law.

I hope that you will arrange to have the meeting in your district at the time I have designated, or, if some other date seems more suitable, then to hold it during the week beginning Jan. 27, so that the delegates may be appointed for the general meeting to be held in the court house on Saturday, Feb. 1.

I am enclosing a blank which will serve as a guide for the organization of the meeting and recording the proceedings. If the state passes a compulsory education law, of course we want to be a part of that general system, but, if the state does not pass such a law, then the board of education is anxious to know as definitely as possible the wishes of the people of the county. While the plan that I have suggested provides for the appointment of delegates, let it be fully understood that any citizen of Guilford county has the privilege of attending the general meeting to be held in Greensboro. Yours very truly, THOS R. FOUST, County Superintendent.

Escaped After Fifteen Years.

W. P. Broyles made a successful escape after fifteen years of suffering from kidney and bladder trouble. Foley Kidney Pills released him and will do just the same for others. He says: "They cured a most severe backache with painful bladder irregularities, and they do all you claim for them." Take the "direct road" to health and strength by using Foley Kidney Pills for backache, rheumatism, weak, sore kidneys and bladder irregularities. They are the best medicine you can buy for kidney and bladder ailments. Conyers & Sykes. adv.

SECRETARY ELECTED.

Mr. J. C. Forrester Comes From Texas to Take Up This Important Work.

Mr. J. C. Forrester, for the past year secretary of the Wichita Falls, Texas, chamber of commerce, has been elected by the directors of the Greensboro chamber of commerce as its secretary. Mr. Forrester was recommended by Mr. A. W. McKeand, field organizer for the United States chamber of commerce, and will go to work here about February 8. The salary paid will be $3,000 a year. Before taking up commercial organization work Mr. Forrester was engaged in freight traffic work with western railroads.

The directors announce the six divisions of the membership and their commissioners, as follows: Garland Daniel, commissioner of organization; C. H. McKnight, publicity and advertising; Julian Price, public affairs; E. P. Wharton, transportation; W. A. Hewitt, business development; Paul Lindley, farm development and immigration.

The income for the next year from 263 subscribers to the fund will be slightly over $7,100.

TO REVOLUTIONIZE ELECTRICITY.

Frenchman Discovers a Way to Produce Light Claimed to Be Better.

Paris, Jan. 21.—M. Dissaud, a French scientist, who has discovered a means for the production of what he terms "cold light" today made public some details of his discovery, which, it is thought, may revolutionize electric lighting.

Starting on the principle that rest is an essential to matter as to animal organism, he has constructed an electric lamp in which the light is concentrated on a single point by filaments, working successively thence the light is projected through a lens magnifying a thousand fold. Thus he has succeeded in concentrating a 2,000 candle power light on one point and in passing 22 volts into an eight-volt lamp, which with the ordinary light would burst. It has been tried with great success at the Biarritz lighthouse.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE IN NEW YORK.

It Appears That the Pilgrimage to Albany Was Not in Vain.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 21.—With but seven dissenting votes the assembly tonight passed the concurrent resolution proposing an amendment to the state constitution permitting women to vote. An amendment requiring women to be naturalized the same as men was defeated.

A similar resolution pending in the senate was amended tonight to provide that "a citizen by marriage shall have been an inhabitant of the United States for five years." The senate resolution as amended is expected to pass that body and must go to the assembly for concurrence. This is the form which leaders of the various suffrage organizations have declared acceptable and which Democratic leaders say will be passed. The resolution will have to pass the legislature of 1915 before the proposed amendment can be submitted to the voters for approval.

There is a possibility, however, that the present legislature may decide to submit to the voters at the next election a proposition to call a constitutional convention. In that event the woman suffrage question will be one of the amendments to be considered.

A piece of zinc thrown on a bright fire will clean the soot out of stove-pipe and chimney.

The hens relish green food of some sort and will amply repay you for the trouble of chopping up cabbage, potato peelings, turnips, etc.

Hens have to have a rest spell some time during the year, from which it follows that if they lay heavily during the spring and summer they are likely to take a layoff during the winter.

A pail or tub of water placed in the cellar will serve as a protection to the vegetables on cold nights, as the water, being more susceptible to cold than anything else, will be the first to freeze.

The value of the farm crops raised in the United States in the year just closed reached the huge total of $6,237,000,000, an amount far in excess of the value of the crops for any previous year.

The corn crop for the past year broke all previous records for both total yield and value of crop. The number of bushels produced was 3,169,000,000, while the value of the crop is estimated at $1,759,000,000.

The Christmas cactus gives a profusion of bright colored and attractive bloom at a time of year when the common house plants are usually taking a rest and before the bulbs have come into bloom to any extent.

If the strawberry bed has not been given a coating of straw or cornstalks the job should be attended to at once, for serious damage is likely to result in the coming weeks if it is left exposed to the thawing and freezing of the midwinter days.

Don't for the sake of the dollar or two that his work may mean encourage the boy to stay out of school. He will need all the education he can get and then some. School days come but once, and he should be encouraged to make the most of them.

The very open winter season preceding Christmas week was of inestimable value to the farmers who were late in getting their cornstuck out of the way and to the stock, which ranged the fields and pastures and required little additional feed and care.

Fasten a piece of beef suet out in the tree near the house for the nut-hatches, chickadees and other brave little feathered friends that remain in the north after the robin, meadow lark and thrush have departed for their warmer haunts in the south.

A lady friend is worrying quite a bit about her increase in weight. She is now plump and weighs 150 pounds. This good woman does not need to worry or take any anti-fat dope. All she needs do is to cut out the soup and pastry courses and she will be saved from the augmentation which she fears.

It is claimed for the Indian Runner ducks that they will lay more eggs in a year than the Leghorns, while young chickens grow four times as fast as young chickens. Another point that might be mentioned in favor of the ducks is that they are not as subject to disease as chickens, nor are they bothered with lice and mites.

If the national and international egg laying contests that have been and are being conducted accomplish nothing else they will be well worth while, because they are bound to attract attention to the hen that delivers the goods—fills the egg basket—rather than to the high scoring fowls of the poultry shows, many of which look fine, but all too often neither "tell nor spin."

A very proper notion of the importance of the dairy cow as a factor in the production of national wealth is to be had from Secretary Wilson's annual report, recently issued. This shows that the combined value of dairy products for the year 1912 was $830,000,000, an amount which exceeds the value of the cotton flut and is nearly equal to the combined value of both flut and seed.

As a result of experiments in the growing of sugar beets which have been carried on on the island of Java at an altitude of 2,000 feet it has been found that the beets produced are not only larger than those grown in Germany, but their sugar content is considerably larger, with the result that on the average the yield of sugar per acre would be nearly two and a half times that which is customary in other countries. It is likely that the conditions for beet culture would be equally favorable in the Philippines.

Imports of cocoa are now three times as large as they were ten years ago. In the same interval tea shows an increase of but 20 per cent, while coffee shows a decrease from the amount imported in 1902. This country is now the largest consumer of cocoa in the world.

With poultry as well as four legged farm animals there is often too much of a tendency with many farmers to make up by the use of tonics and preventives of one kind and another for proper feed, care and quarters. The cheapest way to keep stock well is to keep them from getting out of condition.

Pennsylvania leads all other states in the value of her output of minerals, her production of minerals, exclusive of pig iron, being 24.7 per cent of the total mineral wealth of the country. The state produces practically all of the anthracite coal mined in the country and one-third of the bituminous coal.

The other day a Missouri poultryman packed up his lunch and set out on the task of driving some 1,600 turkeys to market. The birds traveled at the rate of two miles an hour, and when he arrived in town, some miles distant, he received $3,800 for his season's labor. It would be interesting to know what these turkeys cost him to bring to the marketing stage.

It is well to remember that, while stable manure makes a good partial fertilizer for either plum or apple orchards, as it is too strong in nitrogen, which tends to encourage wood growth rather than fruit. A commercial fertilizer is preferable, one containing two or three parts of fine bone to one part of muriate of potash.

If any of our readers have been feeding their hens quite largely a corn diet and have not been getting the eggs they expected they would do well to cut down the corn and substitute in place of it a good share of wheat or barley, with bran and tankage. A friend who tried this not long ago reported a decided increase in egg production as a result in the change in the bill of fare.

It is worth remembering by those situated in the more northerly portion of the country, where frozen water pipes are not uncommon during the winter months, that hot water poured on a frozen pipe will thaw it out much more quickly than will a blaze from a paper or kerosene torch. A good way to apply the water to the pipe is to wind it with a cloth and then pour on the hot water.

West Virginia apple growers are coming to view the red cedar as one of the worst enemies of their apple orchards because of its harboring the cedar rust. They have come to the conclusion that cedar trees that are located within a mile of apple orchards ought to be cut down. Any one who has seen the effect of the rust on certain varieties of apples appreciates the problem which the West Virginia horticulturists are trying to solve.

Hominy may be made at home by the use of either lye or soda. With the latter chemical a good recipe is to take a teaspoonful of the soda to a quart of shelled corn, with enough water added to boil the corn in. The boiling should continue until the hulls start, when the corn should be drained and washed thoroughly in several waters, rubbing with the hands to remove the hulls. When clean the corn should be boiled in a new water until quite tender, when it can be served as desired.

At the end of the third week of the second international egg laying contest, which is being conducted at the Storrs Agricultural college in Connecticut, two pens of English White Leghorns are leading the race with scores of twenty-four eggs for each pen of five hens. An American pen of White Leghorns ranks third with twenty-one eggs, and a pen of White Orpingtons from Pennsylvania comes fourth with nineteen eggs. If the American fowls entered in this contest win at the finish they will have to do stiff sprinting on the back stretch.

A hardworking farmer's wife who is a reader of these notes and who was talking with the writer the other day about her poultry operations for the past year stated that she would have about $275 to put in the bank as a result of her sales of poultry and eggs. When asked how much the feed bill came to she said, "Not much," for the chickens picked up most of their bill of fare. It is likely that the bill of fare may have come to quite a bit more than our good friend thought, but even then there was a fine margin of profit in the season's poultry business.

A remarkably mild stretch of December weather, which started the hens to laying, coupled with onslaughts by housekeepers' leagues in a number of the larger cities of the country, gave the egg corner at last a pretty severe jolt. As a result of selling agencies, which were established and put in charge of indignant housewives, eggs were forced down by competition from 38 and 40 cents per dozen to 24 cents, and the plan worked so well that it seems to be spreading to other cities, while in the cities where the plan was first inaugurated it has occurred to the women that it would work just as well with fresh fruits and vegetables as with eggs.

A BOY AND AN ACRE OF CORN.

A wide awake boy twelve years of age, Harvey Jordan, who lives nine miles from Shelbyville, in Shelby county, Mo., on rural route No. 3, won first prize of $200 in gold in the boys' corn growing contest which was conducted last season by the Kansas City Star. The yield on this prize was ninety-six bushels and thirty-five pounds. But the yield was not the only determining factor in the awarding of the prize. The other considerations were the practicability of the methods employed and the boy's own story of how he grew the corn. The variety of corn grown was pure bred Reid's yellow dent, the seed having been saved the fall previous before there were any heavy freezes, stored in a dry attic and carefully tested before planting. The land on which this corn was grown was a bottom pasture land—a sandy loam with a clay subsoil. The corn was checked in with a two row planter on May 18, the hills being forty-two inches apart each way. On May 25 and 29 the acre was harrowed lightly and on June 3 cultivated about three inches deep. On June 11 and 20 the acre was also cultivated, and on June 29 it was cultivated lightly the last time with a disk cultivator. On July 10 and 25, owing to a severe drought, the lad hitched a single horse to an old planter wheel and dragged between rows with it. With the corn yield of the state of Missouri but 31.9 bushels per acre, the showing made is an admirable one. Besides the prize of $200, Harvey has saved thirty bushels of seed corn, which should be worth $2 per bushel. The remaining sixty-six and a half bushels are worth $26.60 at 40 cents per bushel, making the boy's income from this one acre $286.60. He plans to use this money to pay his expenses at the State Agricultural college, and it is fair to assume that he will give an account of himself there.

MUSHROOM GROWING.

If any of our readers should chance to get inoculated with the mushroom growing microbe it would be a good idea for them to find out all about the business they can before going into it on a big scale. There are a good many risks and chances connected with it, while the returns even under the most favorable conditions are but little more than in the growing of the common garden crops. Especially should one beware of flaming advertisements telling of enormous profits to be made, coupled with offers to sell the spawn for starting the beds at exorbitant prices. This is nothing but sucker bait, and one should give such firms a wide berth. If you should want to start in the business on a modest scale write to the agricultural department at Washington or to your own experiment station for the address of reliable firms from which the spawn can be got. The government bulletin on mushroom growing may also be had for the asking.

WILL ENCOURAGE FRUIT GROWING.

The province of Vera Cruz, Mexico, proposes to encourage fruit culture by offering big cash prizes. Prizes of from $100 to $1,000 are to be awarded to those fruit growers who shall plant and first bring to market crops from tracts devoted to the raising of oranges, mangoes and pineapples. These orchards must have from 1,000 to 10,000 trees and from 10,000 to 100,000 pineapples. All those engaging in fruit culture under the conditions named are to be exempt from land taxes for a period of ten years and are to have the benefit of a refund in freight charges equal to 10 per cent for a similar period on all fruits which they ship to market. This is encouragement of a very definite kind, and under it the fruit raising business ought to prosper.

CHURNING HINTS.

Cream from cows far advanced in their periods of lactation often churns hard. This difficulty may be reduced considerably if care is taken to see that each batch of cream is cooled and then carefully mixed with the rest of the cream on being added to it. Cream of the night before and of the morning of the day of the churning should not be included in the churning. A further aid will be found to be the addition to the cream the day before it is churned of a half a cupful of sour or butter milk for each two and a half gallons of cream. This serves as a starter and tends to produce an even ripening. A thermometer suitable for the purpose should be at hand, and the cream should show a temperature of from 58 to 60 degrees F. when ready to churn.

SHOULD MAKE A DISTINCTION.

It is not only due to the poultry keeper who produces eggs in winter at heavy cost, but also to the consumer, that there should be a distinction recognized by law between strictly fresh eggs and the storage brand that are thrown on the market at advanced prices during the winter months and often peddled off for fresh. If the law provided that only strictly fresh eggs could be sold as such both the producer and the consumer would be safeguarded, the former receiving a price that would be commensurate with the cost of production, while the latter for the sake of getting strictly fresh eggs would be willing to pay the extra price. A good many states have passed laws covering this matter of fresh and storage eggs. Others ought to do so.

Blood Was Wrong

All women, who suffer from the aches and pains, due to female ailments, are urged to try Cardui, the reliable, scientific, tonic remedy, for women. Cardui acts promptly, yet gently, and without bad effects, on the womanly system, relieving pain, building up strength, regulating the system, and toning up the nerves. During the past half century, thousands of ladies have written to tell of the quick curative results they obtained, from the use of this well-known medicine.

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

Mrs. Jane Calahan suffered from womanly trouble for nearly ten years. In a letter from Whiteville, N. C., she says: "I was not able to do my own housework. My stomach was weak, and my blood was wrong. I had backache, and was very weak. I tried several doctors, but they did me no good. I used Cardui for 3 or 4 months, and now I am in the best health I have ever been. I can never praise Cardui enough." It is the best tonic, for women.

Whether seriously sick, or simply weak, try Cardui.

American Counsel Tells of Frightful Conditions in South America.

According to a recent press dispatch Stuart Fuller, detached last April from his post as American consul at Göteborg, Sweden, to investigate the atrocities against the Indians by British contractors in the Putumayo rubber district in Peru, has arrived in New York from Liverpool. He declined to tell the nature of his report, which he sent to Washington, but said that the investigation revealed a greater barbarism in the treatment of the Peruvian Indians than that practiced in the Congo.

Mr. Fuller intimated that the Monroe doctrine might be invoked in the Putumayo situation. He was unable to say what the procedure might be, as the United States never had faced a situation like it. In the case of the Congo outrages this country was concerned because of the anti-slavery treaties.

Mr. Fuller spent two months in the jungle accompanied by G. B. Michell the British consul in Peru, who reported his findings to the parliament committee. Mr. Fuller refused to guess why the British government made a second investigation, but admitted that it might have been because the Britons did not want Uncle Sam to get more than they did.

Mr. Fuller said his two months in the jungle was in the hottest season and that before he got out he was taken ill and that he had not fully recovered.

Peru has taken steps at last to check the spread of yellow fever, which ravaged the Putumayo district. There had been an issue of bonds and Dr. Converse, of the United States public health and marine hospital service, has been employed by the Peruvian government to attempt to control the malady.

NATIONAL CORN EXPOSITION.

Leader of Irish Agricultural Reform Will Deliver Address.

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 21.—Announcement is made here that Sir Horace Plunkett, of Ireland, prominently known as the leader of Irish Agricultural reform, has accepted an invitation to deliver an address at the Fifth National Corn exposition which opens here Jan. 27. Sir Horace will speak on National Farmers' Union day, which has been set for Thursday of the first week, January 30. The program for National Farmers' Union day is being arranged by officials of the National and State Farmers' union organizations.

Sir Horace is now in this country, having recently come over from Ireland. He had previously spent many years in America, and is as familiarly known here as many of the most prominent Americans.

The invitation to speak at the Fifth National Corn exposition was extended to him soon after his arrival in this country through Mr. Clarence Poe, editor of the Progressive Farmer, of Raleigh, N. C.

Probably no one has ever done more for the betterment of rural conditions in Ireland than has Sir Horace Curzon Plunkett. He was born in 1854, the third son of Baron Dunsany. Following his education at Eton and Oxford, he was engaged in cattle ranching in America from 1879-1889, but in 1889 he commenced work along the line of promoting agricultural co-operation in Ireland. In 1891 he founded the Irish Agricultural Organization society. He has held many public offices of responsibility in connection with this work. He was vice-president of the department of agriculture and technical instruction for Ireland, between 1899 and 1906, and commissioner of the congested districts board in 1907. In 1904 he published "Ireland in the New Century."

A Ricultural Demonstration.

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 21.—A complete presentation of the farmers' co-operative societies of the western states, will be an interesting educational feature of the Iowa State exhibit at the Fifth National Corn exposition, which opens here the 27th of this month. The exhibit will show the methods by which these societies conduct their affairs, and special emphasis will be laid on the co-operative grain elevator organizations. A model grain elevator will be demonstrated in actual operation, and the exhibit will be supplemented by a series of lectures giving full knowledge of the various phases of these co-operative societies.

The development of these farmers' co-operative societies in Iowa has proceeded to a greater extent, probably, than in any other state of the Union, and it is especially fitting that such an exhibit should come from this state. The exhibit has been prepared under the direction of the Iowa State college, at Ames. It will be demonstrated by Messrs. C. G. Meserole and H. F. Atwood, both of whom are thoroughly familiar with the operation of these elevators and the conduct of the co-operative societies.

This Iowa exhibit is an illustration of one of the fundamental purposes of the National Corn exposition—to emphasize and explain the valuable results which have been achieved by individual farmers and farmers' organizations in various sections, in their efforts to facilitate the handling and marketing of the products of the farm, making this process more satisfactory and less expensive to the producer.

WILL NOT BE INVITED.

Representative Justice's Proposition Is Turned Down by the Senate.

A Raleigh special to the Greensboro News says of Tuesday's proceedings of the general assembly:

The day in the general assembly was featured by a warm debate, in serious and humorous vein, in the senate over the resolution by Representative Justice inviting Bryan, Wilson and LaFollette to address the assembly on "Modern Methods of Political Reform." In the senate the injection of the resolution brought forth a veritable shower of amendments; some wanted to include Roosevelt, others Taft, a few suggested Bailey, as many others wanted Underwood and the name of Rockefeller and Hookworm was also mentioned. The result was the rejection of the resolution as amended in the senate by vote of 27 to 23.

Both the senate and house cast its vote for Hon. F. M. Simmons to succeed himself as senator from North Carolina. Hon. Cyrus Thompson was given the complimentary vote of the Republicans. Senator Simmons was nominated in the senate by Senator Ward, of Craven, and in the house by Representative Dixon, of Jones.

Senator Hobgood's senate bill authorizing the commissioners of Guilford county to appropriate $3,000 for a Confederate monument passed that body today.

Representative Williams, of Buncombe, introduced a bill carrying provisions for reforms in election regulations and providing the Australian ballot system for North Carolina.

Rural Telephone.

Through the efforts of Manager G. C. Ashmore, of the Southern Bell Telephone Company, rural telephone service has been extended to the following citizens of Guilford county: Messrs. S. P. Clarida, J. W. Wharton, C. L. Wharton, R. W. Wilson, J. W. Hutchens, C. Osborne and E. F. Hancock.

Mr. Ashmore is ambitious to put a telephone in practically every home in the county, feeling that in doing so he would be rendering the subscribers a real service as well as the company he represents.

Recruiting Officer Here.

Chief Electrician W. T. McMahon, U. S. N., assisted by M. Marens Cox, will keep a recruiting office for the Navy open in Hotel Jefferson during the week. The object is chiefly to advertise the navy and to promote the business of the regular recruiting stations at Charlotte and Atlanta. During the week, however, any young man between the ages of 17 and 35 years will be examined for admission to service in any branch of the navy. All applications accepted will be given free transportation and all expenses to his post.

Lost His Purse.

Mr. Clarence Wyrick, of McLeansville, Route 1, reports losing a purse on January 14, on his way from Reidsville, for the return of which he will be glad to pay a reward. The purse contained $23 in all, and is described as a light brown or tan leather purse, with two divisions; contents being one $20 bill, one $2 bill, and two half dollars. Finder will please report to Mr. Wyrick or the Greensboro Patriot.

Charges of gross frauds against the Indians on the White Earth reservation in Minnesota, that their physical and material condition is pitiful, and that Major James McLaughlin, Indian inspector, did not properly guard the Indians in their requests in the allotment of lands, have been made by the house committee on expenditures in the Interior department. The report recommends that some remedy be found for the present "anomalous situation" by which the commissioner of Indian affairs has control of property worth a billion dollars, belonging to various Indian tribes.

Lesser's Star Store is continuing the great January clearance sale begun last week. Readers of The Patriot are invited to visit this store and take advantage of the wonderful bargains offered on lines of goods mentioned in his advertisement on page sixteen. In the long list of staple goods, which every body needs one dollar can be made to go as far as two by reading the announcement of these special bargain sales which have made Lesser's Star Store so popular with people who shop in Greensboro.

The home of Mr. Eugene Eckle, three miles from Greensboro, was broken into Monday afternoon and robbed of a gold watch, a revolver and some money. It is thought that the robbery was committed by two negroes who escaped that day from the street convict gang.

Mr. and Mrs. James Fulton Smith arrived in Greensboro Tuesday night after a bridal trip spent in New York, Pittsburgh and other Northern cities. They will make their home with Mr. Smith's mother, at 411 Summit avenue.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS MEET.

Will Ask an Amendment of Salary Act Covering Guilford County.

At a meeting of the county commissioners Tuesday afternoon it was agreed to ask the legislature for an amendment of the salary act covering Guilford county officers, so that the deputy clerk of the court budget is increased $500—from $1,500 to $2,000—and that of the force of assistants of the register of deeds from $1,500 to $2,250. No recommendation for increased officers' salaries were made.

The board also decided to ask for a change in the road law to amend sections 15 and 16 of the common road law of Guilford county. By the proposed amendment, the roads of the county would be worked by taxation instead of by the present system. An act enabling the county to work the limits of the house of correction on the roads near the home will be sought.

It is said that the three men were recognized as among the party which waylaid the officers, released a prisoner, beat up the officers and then left them by the roadside handcuffed.

Canal Fortifications Satisfactory.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—Col. George Goethals, chief engineer of the Panama canal, today told the subcommittee of the house appropriations committee, framing the sundry civil appropriation bill, that the fortifications for the canal as provided in the current appropriation bill were satisfactory, and if the policy is continued the defenses of the canal under ordinary conditions would be impregnable.

OUR PROGRESSIVE GOVERNOR.

Some of the Things Touched Upon in Inaugural Address of Gov. Craig.

The spirit of progress pervades the Union and the people demand legislation responsive to the impulse of the age.

North Carolina will not continue to march in the rear of the procession of the states. She is impatient for the advance. Throbbing with energy, potential with accomplishment, she looks expectant to this administration and to this general assembly. I believe that you senators and representatives will perform your task with wisdom and courage, and that your work will be for the welfare of this generation and of our posterity. The responsibility is ours, the opportunity is ours.

Constitutional government and the ideals of the fathers have ever been sacred to the Democratic party; but these ideals must be vital for practical accomplishment and militant for justice. It was said of the celebrated opinion of Chief Justice Taney, that "it gave the law to the north and the nigger to the south." We are not content with the forms and ceremonials of the law. The ideals of our government must be applied to present conditions.

The first duty of the state is to protect the citizen in the enjoyment of his rights, to protect the weak from the oppression of the strong. This is what the men were doing at Runnymede.

I feel no antagonism to railroads. I know that our welfare to a large extent, is dependent upon their efficient operation which can only result from just remuneration. I know that their prosperity is coexistent with our prosperity. Besides, for no consideration can the state afford to be unjust. I intend, as the chief executive of this state, to administer her laws with impartiality and with even handed justice to corporation and to individual, to the great and to the lowly. But when any corporation or any person shall persistently and defiantly by arbitrary wrong cripple the industries of this state and despoil her people, such person or corporation may expect relentless resistance and resentment.

The destruction of piracy is the protection of industry. It is the duty of the state to protect and to encourage every enterprise, small and great. And this is the age of large enterprises. They are essential in the economy of our civilization and are the agencies of its tremendous power and accomplishment. "All the currents of the time run to centralization. To successfully resist it, we must throttle steam and discharge electricity from human service." But these forces should be for the service and not for the oppression of mankind.

North Carolina is a grand old state. Her past has been heroic in peace and in war. But we must confess with humiliation that we have neglected our country children worse than any state in the Union save one or two. In the discharge of the sacred duty of protecting their health and the paramount duty of providing for their education we stand among the lowest. We must expiate this sin before we can longer claim our noble heritage.

The time has come for the state to exercise her sovereign authority and compel the attendance of her children upon the schools. The child cannot work to advantage, but its mind is eager for knowledge and most retentive. His character is responsive to culture. The factory is no place for the child. The drudgery of toil is not his rightful inheritance before his bones are hard or his muscles are firm. If we grind the seed corn, there will be a failure in the crop of man.

I hope that you can provide a more generous pension for the Confederate soldiers. More than half a century ago they went in youth and strength to meet the invading host. Some fell amid the fierce tumult of historic days beneath the advancing flag, enshrined in eternal youth; many have passed since the war; the remnant of the heroic army is with us yet. Most of them are poor, all are disabled by age and the wounds and hardships of war. Our privilege to help them is closing, for the captains and the soldiers are departing. Soon it will be written what we did for the last of the battle scarred men of Dixie.

We should encourage all of our industries, but especially should we stimulate the growth of agriculture. Its wonderful improvement is already an inspiration. Our farmers are beginning to reap the harvests of the intelligent utilization of the soil.

We should provide by every feasible method, for their protection, and for their obtaining the means and resources, that increasing prosperity may come.

ROCKEFELLER FOUNDATION.

Fund to Be Used to Advance the Civilization of the United States.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—Articles of incorporation for the so-called "Rockefeller Foundation" to administer a philanthropic fund of $100,000,000, to be donated by Jno. D. Rockefeller, were passed by the house today 162 to 65, after desultory opposition. The measure now goes to the senate.

The bill introduced by Representative Peters, of Massachusetts, names as the incorporators to administer the fund, John D. Rockefeller, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Frederick T. Gates, Starr J. Murphy, Harry Pratt Judson, Simon Flexner, Edwin A. Alderman, Wickliffe E. Rose and Chas. O. Heydt; and such persons as they may associate with themselves.

The object of the foundation is "to promote the well being and to advance the civilization of the peoples of the United States and its territories and of foreign lands in the dissemination of knowledge, in the prevention and relief of suffering and in the promotion by eleemosynary and philanthropic means of any and all of the elements of human progress."

The bill contains a provision prohibiting the foundation's adding to the capital fund of $100,000,000 and forcing the expenditure of the entire income from that fund currently.

SIMMONS CAN'T BE THERE.

Senior Senator Regrets That He Cannot Be in Raleigh This Week.

Senator Simmons said to a press representative Monday that he regretted very much that he would be unable to go to Raleigh in order to be present when the legislature reelects him to the senate. He said: "I am very anxious to go, but the situation in the senate with reference to confirmations is very peculiar. We are having daily executive sessions and the contest over President Taft's nominations, of which there are some fifty-odd for North Carolina, is very acute, and I feel it absolutely necessary for me to be here."

It is noted in this connection that there are 145 presidential postoffices in North Carolina, and that more than one-third of this number would be preempted to Republicans should Senators Simmons and Overman allow the Taft appointments to get through.

Popular Reception Suggested.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 20.—President-elect Wilson today formally suggested to Wm. C. Eustis, chairman of the inaugural committee, that a popular reception in the capitol building at Washington be substituted for the inaugural ball.

Mr. Wilson this morning had received a letter from Mr. Eustis assuring him that the inaugural committee would comply with his wishes with respect to the abandonment of the inaugural ball. A letter also came asking the president-elect for suggestions.

"I suggested for their consideration," said Mr. Wilson, "a general reception in the rotunda of the capitol."

Mr. Wilson said he expected the details to be worked out by the committee, but reiterated the wish that the entire program of the inauguration be made "as simple as is consistent with dignity and order."

Senator Overman Out.

His many North Carolina friends will be glad to know that Senator Overman is able to be out again. He went to the capitol Monday for the first time since he was operated on for appendicitis December 21. He was occupied throughout the day with committee work and did not go upon the floor of the senate. The senator is looking hale and hearty and says he feels as well as if he had never undergone the operation.

CLIMAX OF REFORM.

Governor Wilson's Ideas of How New Jersey Should Deal With the Trusts.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 20.—President-elect Wilson today reached what he considers the climax in his program of reform as governor of New Jersey. Seven bills making for the most extensive revision of the corporation laws in the history of the State were introduced tonight in the state legislature.

"These acts are designed to put an end to trusts and monopolies under the laws of New Jersey," declared Governor Wilson in a prepared statement describing the measures, "and I confidently predict that they will accomplish that much-desired result."

"These bills embody my ideas of the way New Jersey should deal with the question," he said. "National legislation might have to be different."

The feature of the bills that attracted most attention was the provision making violations of the proposed law a misdemeanor, punishable by imprisonment as well as fines. The bills go into extensive detail in defining trusts, monopolies and mergers. It was pointed out in the statement issued from the governor's office, that while mergers and consolidations are prohibited in general the proposed laws do not intend to prevent legitimate expansion of a business concern by the purchase of property "cognate in character."

Provision for this is made in the second of the series of bills which says:

"When stock is issued on the basis of the stock of any corporation no stock shall be issued thereafter in any amount greater than the sum actually paid for such stock in cash or its equivalent, provided that the property purchased or owned by the corporation whose stock is purchased must be cognate in character and use to the property used or contemplated to be used, by the purchasing corporation in the direct conduct of its own proper business."

NO INAUGURAL BALL.

In Deference to Wish of President-elect Wilson Time-Honored Function is Cut Out.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—The time-honored inaugural ball, the climax of the ceremonies incident to the inauguration of presidents of the United States will not be given this year. In compliance with President-elect Wilson's wishes the inaugural committee at a special meeting today unanimously decided to eliminate it.

The committee also decided a public reception at the capitol or elsewhere suggested by Governor Wilson as a substitute for the ball was not within its jurisdiction and if one is held Congress must appropriate and make the necessary arrangements for it. The committee took the position that the proposed reception would be purely a governmental function, under the control of the joint congressional inaugural committee. In a resolution adopted, however, the committee announced that it would co-operate in every way possible with all arrangements for the successful inauguration of the president-elect.

The members of the joint congressional committee on the inauguration are Senators Crane, of Massachusetts; Bacon, of Georgia, and Representative McKinley, of Illinois; Rucker, of Missouri, and Garrett, of Tennessee. Senator Crane declined today to express an opinion regarding the proposed reception, stating that the matter had not been officially placed before the committee. The suggested reception met with the hearty approval of Representative McKinley.

Governor Wilson's wish, in the event of there being a public reception on March 4, is that Mrs. Wilson and the Misses Wilson should not be expected to attend. This information was conveyed to the inaugural committee having in charge the inaugural ceremonies.

Governor Craig Monday commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence of Will Logan, the Anson county negro convicted of murdering a Swede. Logan was sentenced to die Friday. Attorneys James A. Lockhart and Frank Dunlap, of Wadesboro, were in Raleigh in the interest of the negro.

Governor Craig, in referring to the child labor law, spoke an eternal truth when he said: "If we grind the seed corn there will be a failure in the crop of man."

TAFT FORMALLY ACCEPTS.

Becomes Professor of Law at Yale Entering Upon His Duties in April.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 20.—At the regular meeting of the Yale Corporation today President Taft formally accepted the appointment of Kent professor of law at Yale. The president announced his intention of withdrawing from the corporation when he takes up the regular duties of his professorship. He plans to come to New Haven early in April and will deliver this spring some lectures of an optional character. His work will consist of a regular course of lectures on the general subject of constitutional law. He will also give some instruction in the law school; his exact courses there being not yet determined upon.

The Kent professorship was established in 1801, being named in honor of Chancellor James Kent, of the class of 1781. There have only been four incumbents of the chair: Chief Justice David D. Governor Glenn besought the representatives of the people to hear to no appeal for reopening the whiskey fight, unless progressive legislation itself proves the cause for that course.

Value of a Husband.

The numerous suits which widows have brought for damages because of the loss of their husbands in the Titanic disaster have brought to light the striking differences in the monetary values that women place on their husbands.

The suits range from $25,000 to $1,000,000, the record high figure being that sued for by Mrs. Henry B. Harris, widow of the theatrical manager. An admiralty lawyer declared today that the differences in damages sought was due chiefly to the various earning capacities of the husbands, taking into consideration also the age. The style in which the wife had been accustomed to live was also a consideration.

IN MEMORIAM.

Dr. William A. Coble.

Dr. William Alston Coble was born in Guilford county, N. C., on the 18th day of May, 1831, and died January 11, 1913, aged 81 years, seven months and 23 days—the oldest physician in the county.

In early life he manifested a great desire for an education and exerted every effort to obtain it. He made the profession of medicine his choice and pursued it with all diligence.

During the years of his practice he was equaled by few and excelled by none. He was not only a student until he entered upon his duties as a practitioner, but continued his search for knowledge and kept up with the advance of the profession until a short time prior to his death, nor were his researches confined alone to his profession. Making it first, he read every thing and was well posted on all public questions. You could scarcely mention any subject on which he was not prepared to furnish information. Endowed with a remarkable memory, and blessed with the gift of communicating his knowledge in an intelligent manner he was always deeply interested in the educational work of the country. Several times he moved, leaving a lucrative practice to aid in the establishing and building up of good schools. He was one of the prime movers in the founding of a school for the higher education of young ladies, and made great sacrifices in order to get it upon a sure basis. He gave his professional services free and also taught some of the classes. That school was the foundation of the college now at Greensboro.

The minister who, by the request of the deceased, delivered the sermon, taking as the basis of his remarks the words of St. James, "What is your life?" said: "We lay away the remains of one that was more than an ordinary man. For fifty-four years he traveled over the roads and paths day and night, bent and old administering to the relief of his fellow men, living a life aiming for higher and noble principles, recognizing that the good done unto others was only because of the blessings of the Great Physician upon his labors and feeling within himself that he was but a poor wretched sinner.

A short time before his death we talked freely upon the subject of the approaching end. He was asked if he was satisfied as to his future. His reply was: "I am, but not through my work, but through Him who has done all things for me."

Dr. Whitsett made a few remarks in reference to the life of the deceased, the intimate relation that had for a number of years existed between them; of the visits made in his father's home, and of the high ideals of the departed.

Rev. Troxler, pastor of the church of the deceased, spoke of the pleasant reassuring conversation he had just a short time before with the departed; of his interest in the church and its work.

Dr. Coble was the last one of the charter members of Mt. Pleasant church. He leaves a brother, four sisters, three sons and four daughters to mourn their loss. Every thing to make him comfortable was done—and of the large congregation that assembled to pay their last tribute of respect there were but few who looked upon his face who could not say: "He brought relief to my home." True, a more than ordinary life has passed away.

Resolutions of Respect.

Mr. A. C. Denny.

Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God, in His wise providence, to take out of this world the son of our highly esteemed and greatly beloved brother and co-laborer, A. C. Denny, and

Whereas, we recognize in his removal at the ripe old age of 72 years and six months, that his life has been one worthy of imitation, Mr. Denny having professed faith early in life and united with Bethel Presbyterian church, faithfully serving his church as elder for about thirty-five years, and served about four years of his life in Confederate army in Company I, N. C. regiment, being a faithful soldier and loyal to his country; therefore be it resolved:

1. That we humbly bow to the will of our Heavenly Father in calling him hence.

2. That we bear most cheerful testimony to his extraordinary Christian character, his exemplary devotion to the church and his uniform and faithful service to his Master.

3. That in his death McLeansville Local Union has lost one of its most consistent members and the community a highly respected and upright citizen.

4. That we shall ever esteem it our privilege to emulate the Christian virtues so manifested in his life.

5. That we extend to the bereaved family our sincere sympathy with the conviction that their loss is his eternal gain.

6. That these resolutions be spread upon our minute book and a copy be sent the family and the Greensboro Patriot.

CHAPTER I.

In Which Keziah Hears Two Proposals and the Beginning of a Third.

Trumet in a fog; a fog blown in during the night by the wind from the wide Atlantic. So wet and heavy that one might taste the salt in it. So thick that houses along the main road were but dim shapes behind its gray drapery, and only the gates and fences of the front yards were plainly in evidence to the passers-by. The beach plums and bayberry bushes on the dunes were spanned with beady drops. The pole on Cannon Hill, where the beacon was hoisted when the packet from Boston dropped anchor in the bay, was shiny and slippery. The new weather-vane, a pilled whale, presented to the "Regular" church by Captain Zedekiah Mayo, retired whaler, swam in a sea of cloud. The lichen-covered of the little "Come-Outer" chapel dripped at regular intervals. The brick walk leading to the door of Captain Elkanah Daniels' fine residence held unobtrusive puddles in its hollows. And, though the damp stillness, the muffled gravel of the surf, three miles away at the foot of the sandy bluffs to the lighthouse, sounded ominously.

On the opposite side of the main road, on the other side of the main road, the little story-and-a-half house, the captain's property, which for fourteen years had been tenanted by Mrs. Keziah Coffin and her mother, Solomon Hall, the daughter of the old whaler, the main house, given up his fight with cold and illness and was sleeping quietly down in Trumet's most populous corner, the graveyard. And Keziah, left alone, had decided that the rent and living expenses were more than her previous earnings as a seamstress would warrant, and, having bargained with the furniture dealer in Wallworth for the sale of her household effects, was now busy setting them ready for the morrow, when the dealer's wagon was to call. She was going to Boston, where a distant and condescending rich relative had interested himself to the extent of finding her a place as sewing woman in a large tailoring establishment.

The fog hung like a wet blanket over the house and its small yard, where a few venerable pear trees, too conservative in their old age to venture a bud even though it was almost May, stood bare and forlorn. The day was dismal. The dismantled dining room, its tables and chairs pushed into a corner, and its faded Ingrain carpet partially stripped from the floor, was dismal, likewise. Considering all things, one might have expected Keziah herself to be even more dismal. But, to all outward appearances, she was not. A large portion of her thirty-nine years of life had been passed under a wet blanket, so to speak, and she had not permitted the depressing covering to shut out more sunshine than was absolutely necessary. "If you can't get cream, you might as well learn to love your sasser of skim milk," said practical Keziah.

She was on her knees, her calico dress sleeves, patched and darned, but absolutely clean, rolled back, uncovering a pair of plump, strong arms, a saucer of tacks before her, and a tack hammer with a claw head in her hand. She was taking up the carpet. Grace Van Horne, Captain Eben Hammond's ward, who had called to see if there was anything she might do to help, was removing towels, tablecloths, and the like from the drawers in a tall "high-boy," folding them and placing them in an old and battered trunk. The pair had been discussing the subject which all Trumet had discussed for three weeks, namely, the "calling" to the pastorate of the "Regular" church of the Rev. John Ellery, the young divinity student, who was to take the place of old Parson Langley, minister in the parish for over thirty years. Discussion in the village had now reached a critical point, for the Reverend John was expected by almost any coach. In those days the days of the late fifties, the railroad down the Cape extended only as far as Sandwich; passengers made the rest of their journey by stage. Many came direct from the city by the packet, the little schooner, but Mr. Ellery had written that he should probably come on the coach.

"They say he's very nice-looking," remarked Mrs. Van Horne soberly, but with a mischievous glance under her dark lashes at Keziah. The lady addressed paused long enough to transfer several tacks from the floor to the saucer, and then made answer. "Humph!" she observed. "A good many years ago I saw a theater show up to Boston. Don't be shocked; those circumstances we hear so much tell of—the kind you can't control—have kept me from goin' to theaters much, even if I wanted to. But I did see this entertainment, and a fool one 'twas, too, all singin' instead of talkin'—opera, I believe they called it. Well, as I started to say, one of the leadin' folks in it was the Old Harry himself, and he was pretty good-looking."

Grace laughed, even though she had been somewhat shocked.

"Why, Aunt Keziah!" she exclaimed—those who knew Keziah Coffin best usually called her aunt, though real nephews and nieces she had none—"why, Aunt Keziah! What do you mean by comparing the person you just mentioned with a minister?"

"Oh, I wasn't comparin' 'em; I'll leave that for you Come-Outers to do. But this carpet! Seems's if I never saw such long tacks; I do believe whoever put 'em down drove 'em clean through the center of the earth and let the Chinymen clinch 'em on 't'other side. I haul up a chunk of the cellar floor with every one. Ah, hum!" with a sigh, "I callate they ain't any more anxious to leave home than I am. But, far's the minister's concerned, didn't I hear of your Uncle Eben sayin' in prayer meetin' only a fortnit or so ago that all hands who wa'n't Come-Outers were own children to Satan? Mr. Ellery must take after his father some. Surprisin', ain't it, what a family the old critter's got?"

The girl laughed again. For one brought up, since her seventh year, in the strictest of Come-Outer families, she laughed a good deal. Many Come-Outers considered it wicked to laugh. Yet Grace did it, and hers was a laugh pleasant to hear and distinctly pleasant to see.

"Aunt Keziah," she said, "why do you go away? What makes you? Is it absolutely necessary?"

"Why do I go? Why, for the same reason that the feller that has hove overboard left the ship—'cause I can't stay."

"I don't care!" The girl's dark eyes flashed indignantly. "I think it's too bad of Cap'n Elkanah to turn you out when—"

"Don't talk that way. He ain't turnin' me out. He ain't lettin' houses for his health and he'll need the money to buy his daughter's summer rig. She ain't had a new dress for a month, pretty near, and here's a young and good-lookin' parson heavin' in sight. Maybe Cap'n Elkanah would think a minister was high-toned enough even for Annabel to marry."

"He's only twenty-three, they say," remarked Grace, a trifle maliciously. "Perhaps she'll adopt him."

Annabel was the only child of Captain Elkanah Daniels, who owned the finest house in town. She was the belle of Trumet, and had been for a good many years.

Grace smiled, but quickly grew grave.

"Now, Auntie," she said, "please listen. I'm in earnest. It seems to me that you might do quite well at dressmaking here in town, if you had a little—well, ready money to help you at the start. I've got a few hundred dollars in the bank, presents from uncle, and my father's insurance money. I should love to lend it to you, and I know uncle would."

Mrs. Coffin interrupted her. "Cat's foot!" she exclaimed. "I hope I haven't got where I need to borrow money yet a while. Thank you just as much, deary, but long's I've got two hands and a mouth, I'll make the two keep 't'other reasonably full. I wouldn't wonder. No, I shan't think of it, so don't say another word. No." The negative was so decided that Grace was silenced. Her disappointment showed in her face, however, and Keziah hastened to change the subject.

"How do you know," she observed, "but what my goin' to Boston may be the best thing that ever happened to me? You can't tell. No use despairin', Annabel ain't given up hope yet; why should I? Hey? Ain't that somebody comin'?"

Her companion sprang to her feet and ran to the window. Then she broke into a smothered laugh.

"Why, it's Kyan Pepper!" she exclaimed. "He must be coming to see you, Aunt Keziah. And he's got on his very best Sunday clothes. Gracious! I must be going. I didn't know you expected callers."

ever and ever so glad for you. I know you didn't want to leave Trumet, but I'm sure everyone will be delighted when they learn that you're going to stay."

"Humph! that includes Layin' Pepper, of course. I callate Layin's delight won't keep her up nights. But I guess I can stand it if she can. Now, Grace, what is it? You ain't real pleased? Why not?"

The girl hesitated.

"Auntie," she said, "I'm selfish, I guess. I'm glad for your sake; you mustn't think I'm not. But I almost wish you were going to do something else. You are going to live in the Regular parsonage and keep house for, of all parsons, a Regular minister. Why, so far as my seeing you is concerned, you might as well be in China. You know Uncle Eben."

Keziah nodded understandingly. "Yes," she said, "I know him. Eben Hammond thinks that parsonage is the presence chamber of the Evil One, I presume likely. But, Grace, you mustn't blame me, and if you don't call I'll know why and I shan't blame you. We'll see each other once in a while; I'll take care of that."

The packing took about an hour. When it was finished, the carpet rolled up, and the last piece of linen placed in the old trunk, Keziah turned to her guest.

"Now, Gracie," she said, "I feel as though I ought to go to the parsonage. I can't do much more'n look at the cobwebs tonight, but tomorrow those spiders had better put on their ascension robes. The end of the world's comin' for them, even though it missed fire for the Millenarians when they had their doin's a few years ago. You can stay here and wait, if 't'ual be too lonesome. We'll have supper when I get back."

She threw a shawl over her shoulders, draped a white limited "cloud" over her head, and took from a hall a key, attached by a string cord to a block of wood eight inches long. "Elkanah left the key with me," she observed. "No danger of losin' it. Is there. Might as well lose a lapped yard."

They left the house and came out into the wet night. Then, turning to the right, in the direction which Trumet, with unconscious irony, called "downtown," they climbed the long slope where the main road mounts the opposite side of Cannon Hill, passed Captain Mayo's big house—the finest in Trumet, with the exception of the Daniels' mansion—and descended into the hollow beyond. Here, at the corner where the "Lighthouse Lane" begins its winding way over the rolling knolls and dunes to the light and the fish shanties on the "ocean side," stood the plain, straight-up-and-down meeting house of the Regular society. Directly opposite was the little parsonage, also very straight up and down. Both were painted white with green blinds. This statement is superfluous to those who remember Cape architecture at this period; practically every building from Sandwich to Provincetown was white and green.

They entered the yard, through the gap in the white fence, and went around the house, past the dripping evergreens and the bare, wet, lilac bushes, to the side door, the lock of which Keziah's key fitted. There was a lock on the front door, of course, but no one thought of meddling with that. That door had been opened but once during the late pastor's thirty-year tenantry. On the occasion of his funeral the mourners came and went, as was proper, by that solemn portal.

Mrs. Coffin thrust the key into the keyhole of the side door and essayed to turn it.

"Humph!" she muttered, twisting to no purpose; "I don't see why— This must be the right key, because— Well, I declare, if it ain't unlocked already! That's some of Cap'n Elkanah's doin's. For a critter as fussy and particular about some things, he's careless enough about others. Mercy we ain't had any tramps around here lately. Come in."

"Cheerful's a Tomb, Ain't It?" Was Mrs. Coffin's Comment.

She led the way into the dining room of the parsonage. Two of the blinds shading the windows of that apartment had been opened when she and Captain Daniels made their visit, and the dim gray light made the room more lonesome and forsaken in appearance than a deeper gloom could possibly have done. The black walnut extension table in the center, closed to its smallest dimensions, because Parson Langley had eaten alone for so many years; the black walnut chairs set back against the wall at regular intervals; the rug carpet and braided mats—homemade donations from the ladies of the parish—on the green-carpeted floor; the colorful pictures on the walls; "Death of Washington,"

S.S.S. CURES CHRONIC CATARRH

When we say S. S. S. cures chronic Catarrh we do not mean that it merely checks the symptoms for a time. Some local applications will do that, but all the while the cause which produces Catarrh is left in the system, and as soon as the local treatment is left off, the trouble returns with all its annoying symptoms. S. S. S. cures Catarrh by cleansing the blood of all impure catarrhal matter, and at the same time building up the system by its unequalled tonic effects. It goes into the circulation and attacks the disease at its root, and removes every trace of impurity that is causing the trouble.

Under the purifying effects of S. S. S., the inflamed membranes are healed by rich, pure blood which is carried to these parts, the offensive discharge from the nose ceases, and severe headaches and neuralgic pains are no longer felt. In fact every symptom of Catarrh disappears, the stomach is toned up and the disease is thoroughly cured. Thousands of chronic cases of Catarrh of the most stubborn character have been completely cured by the use of S. S. S. The inflammation which produces chronic Catarrh can never be permanently relieved until the cause has been removed from the blood. This S. S. S. will do, and then nature hastens the return of perfect health. Book on Catarrh and any medical advice free to all who write and request same. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

I had all the symptoms that accompany Catarrh, such as mucus dropping in the throat, a constant desire to hawk and spit, feeling of dryness in the throat, cough and spitting upon rising in the morning, scabs forming in the nose, etc. I commenced to take S. S. S., and after I had taken a few bottles, I noticed a change for the better. This encouraged me, I continued to take it, and in a short while was entirely cured.

FOR WOMEN ONLY!

That is the nature of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—the one remedy for women which contains no alcohol and no habit-forming drugs. Made from native medicinal forest roots. Dr. Pierce tells its every ingredient on the bottle wrapper. Prominent physicians and some of the best medical authorities endorse these ingredients as being the very best known remedies for ailments and weaknesses peculiar to women.

Mrs. COFFEY.

This is what Mrs. GENETTI E. COFFEY, of Longstreet, Ky., says: "I feel it my duty to write and tell you what your medicine have done for me. I was a great sufferer for six years from a trouble peculiar to women, but I am thankful to say, after taking four bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' I am not bothered with that dreadful disease any more. I feel like a new woman. When I first wrote you for advice I only weighed 115 pounds—now I weigh 135."

"I thank you very much for your kindness. You have been as a father to me in advising me what to do, so may God bless you in every effort you put forth for good. I hope this testimonial will be the means of some poor suffering woman seeking health."

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, newly revised up-to-date edition, answers hosts of delicate questions about which every woman, single or married, ought to know.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE IN NORTH CAROLINA.

Editor Wade Harris, of the Charlotte Chronicle, commenting on the bill introduced in the house by Hon.
D. M. Clark, of Pitt county, to amend section 6, article 1, of the constitution by striking out the word "male"—in short, giving the right of suffrage to women, has this to say:

"Woman suffrage is a question to be handled with a lot of consideration.
The cause is spreading. It has come and come to stay in many states, and when the women of North Carolina begin to talk suffrage and work to secure it they're going to get it. They get everything they go after in these parts and there's no denying the fact,
but what in the name of common sense a man can be thinking about to introduce a bill to bring woman suffrage into North Carolina now is more than we can figure out.

It will be some years yet before any of the really Southern States will have the question to consider in earnest, and when woman suffrage comes,
as it surely will, votes for women will be one of the minor incidents to be considered. There will be complications that will stir up matters that will take some tall scheming to handle successfully. Why should this be stirred up now?"

At the meeting of the North Carolina Teachers' Assembly held in Greensboro in November, Mr. Zebulon
Judd, superintendent of public instruction in Wake county, after reading his report as chairman of a committee to ascertain "the legal status of women teachers in North Carolina," said to this writer that he hoped the intelligent women of North Carolina would never feel called upon to become militant suffragettes, but that he wanted to see the thinking men awaken to a realization of the tremendous power for good that was going to waste under the present limitations in regard to women, and invite them and appeal to them to help the sane and sober men save the state as they had been asked to assist in solving other knotty problems which could not be handled by the men alone.

The bill introduced by the member from Pitt comes as a surprise to the women themselves, for the reason that, as Editor Harris contends, there has not been even the semblance of an organization with a view to woman suffrage in North Carolina. And it is not quite certain that a majority of the women would ask, for it if given the opportunity. What women in this state do want, however, and what they are working for, and are willing to fight for, is the privilege of having a voice in the management of the schools to which they are expected to send their children, both as to the efficiency of the teacher and the sanitary conditions of the building. A bill is being prepared and will be presented to the general assembly asking that the constitution be so amended that women can serve as school committeemen, on boards of education, as trustees of chartered schools and on text book committees.

This they should have in all seriousness and in all justice, and the legislator who is narrow enough to vote against it, will simply write himself a back number and out of tune with the progressive policy of an enlightened and advancing civilization.

A request for $3,000 for secret service operatives to protect President-elect Wilson has been made upon Congress by Secretary of the Navy Mc-Veagh, in view of the fact that attempts upon his life have already been made by the mentally unbalanced and morally depraved.

THE COUNTRY PARSON.

A minister who speaks from experience writes to the New York Sun a protest against all the maudlin sentiments and misleading statements in regard to the hard lot of the much-ly commiserated country parson. He says:

"As a matter of fact the country parsons, take them by and large, are far happier in all their circumstances than the city ministers, with more comforts, less burdens and problems, and the feeling of much greater usefulness in the service rendered to parish and community.

"The country parson's influence is far wider and more real. The 'average' city parish is a dreary thing;
desperately struggling to make ends meet, always in debt, and paying the pastor a pittance in comparison with his needs. On the other hand the average country parish is a comfort and an inspiration to its minister, for he and his people are knit together in the common work and welfare. He receives many pleasures and gifts from them, impossible in the city.
He can have a garden and a poultry yard and 'keep a bee.' His pleasures are simple, natural and kindly, and his salary is above the average income of his parishioners."

North Carolina is looking forward to the honor of having a representative in the cabinet in the person of Hon. Josephus Daniels, of Raleigh.
The hope is that with a newspaper man in authority the country newspaper may get a part of the recognition due it and that some of the absurd regulations will be revised to suit conditions.

It has been proposed that the "big three" progressives, Woodrow Wilson, William Jennings Bryan and Robert M. LaFollette, have been invited to meet in Raleigh and speak to the members of the general assembly. It is not yet certain that all can accept.

President-elect Wilson will begin his administration by cutting out the time-honored inaugural ball. This causes some of the Washington florists and costumers to grow warm under the collar, but the nation will probably survive the shock.

The inaugural address of Governor Craig is an able state paper and should be carefully read and digested by all those who are responsible for the state's reputation and material progress.

In downright simplicity and simon-pure democracy President-elect Wilson would outdo little Joe Brown, of Georgia.

Growing Corn in Spite of the Drought.

In our first instalment of this article some question was raised with reference to the third factor in growing corn during a dry season—that is "deep planting." Some wanted to know how to plant deep and cover shallow; others asked what disposition should be made of the two-row corn planters on some farms where deep planting was advised.

The first question is easily answered: Plow the land deep and plant the corn in a furrow and cover shallow, allowing some two or more inches of loose soil to remain between the corn grain and the hard unbroken subsoil.
The planting may be done with the ordinary one-row corn planter or by hand, after this furrow has been made.

The second question is not so readily answered, since farms on which the two-row corn planters are used are generally large and a large acreage must be planted in a short time.
Here, evidently, the operations of first laying off the rows and then planting the corn will consume much valuable time—more, perhaps, than most farmers can spare at this time of the year; but we must always bear in mind two things, namely, that the midsummer drought is coming, especially in the Piedmont section, and that we have started out to grow corn, even though we do have to spend a little extra time in the preparation of the land and the planting of the crop.

To those who have been accustomed to the use of the two-row or check-row corn planter, we would recommend the use of the lister, wide deep furrow, drops the corn, and covers it, all in one operation, an implement that has for years past been constant and general use in the more aired portions of the west.

Land on which the lister is used
should be deeply broken and thor-

Is It to the Interest of the Farmer to Build Up the Home Manufacturer?

Facts and Figures Need No Argument to Support Their Claim

In 1893 the W. A. Watson Milling Company was unable to buy in Guilford county over 500 bushels of wheat, for the reason that there had been no demand and wheat was not grown except in limited quantities for private use.

Last year the W. A. Watson Milling Company bought over 50,000 bushels of wheat grown in Guilford county, and this year is prepared to buy twice that quantity.

The demand for home grown wheat created by the W. A. Watson Milling Company has demonstrated the fact that as fine a grade of wheat as can be produced any where can be raised in Guilford county and the entire Piedmont section, and another safe and sure money crop has been made profitable to the farmer.

With the handsome new mill just completed and the installation of one of the most up-to-date and perfectly equipped milling plants in the United States the flour put out by W. A. Watson & Co., of Greensboro, N. C., represents the VERY BEST that can be produced by the most modern, improved and scientific methods.

PURITY FLOUR is just what the name implies—made from the very heart of the best grain, free from foreign substances, dust and all impurities.

Ask your Grocer for PURITY FLOUR and build up the home market.

Bring us your wheat—we pay the HIGHEST MARKET PRICES.

We do exchange business with the farmer and want to get better acquainted with our neighbors.
