—The North Carolina Chair Association and the Southern Chair Association held meetings in Greensboro yesterday. The associations are composed of the leading manufacturers and jobbers in the Southern States and the meetings yesterday were well attended. Matters of particular interest to the trade were discussed.

—All but six of the weavers employed in the Revolution cotton mill went on a strike Monday afternoon as a result of dissatisfaction with an order that they should hereafter be paid by the piece instead of by the day. The places of about half the strikers have been filled and the management does not anticipate any further trouble.

—Motley & Vuncannon's furniture store, on South Elm street, was almost totally destroyed by fire last night.
The value of the stock was estimated at about $1,800, with insurance to the amount of $1,000. The building was also badly damaged. Brown's racket store, situated next door, was damaged considerably; the exact amount is not known.

—Rev. Dr. J. C. Kilgo, president of Trinity College, occupied the pulpit of West Market Street Methodist church Sunday morning, preaching a strong, earnest, eloquent and orthodox sermon on "Christian Faith Founded on a Personal God." He was heard by a very large and attentive congregation.
In the evening Dr. Kilgo preached in the chapel of Greensboro Female College.

—Mrs. Harry Thornton, formerly of this city, died at her home in Pittsburg, Pa., last Wednesday. The remains, accompanied by the bereaved husband, arrived in Greensboro Thursday night. The funeral took place on the following day, interment being made in Greene Hill cemetery. Mrs.
Thornton was a daughter of the late George Lampman, of this city. She is survived by her mother, her husband and a two-year-old son.

—Mr. A. D. Simpson has disposed of his interest in the business of the Simpson-Shields Shoe Company to Mr.
M. L. Shields, who will continue the business under the same firm name.
Mr. Simpson has not yet decided in what line of business he will engage,
but he will probably leave Greensboro. He expects to shortly visit a brother in Oklahoma and may locate at some point in that section of the West.

—Mr. Will R. Rankin, who recently retired from the clothing firm of Rankin, Chisholm, Stroud & Rees, on account of ill health, has purchased an interest in the North State Bobbin Company, one of Greensboro's new manufacturing enterprises. He will manage the business, succeeding Mr.
Tyre Glenn as secretary and treasurer of the company. On account of his duties as postmaster, Mr. Glenn could not devote the necessary attention to the business.

—Dr. Byers, a traveling oculist, was arrested at his home in the western part of the city Saturday night for threatening to shoot his wife. He went home drunk, and because his wife refused to furnish him money with which to procure more whiskey took a revolver and threatened to shoot her. The frightened woman ran from the house and called for assistance. Before being arrested the drunken man fired his pistol in the house several times, but did no damage further than to shoot holes in the walls.

—A good roads meeting in the court house Saturday was very well attended, considering the unfavorable weather. People from all sections of the county were present and took part in the discussion. A bill authorizing an election on the question of issuing bonds to the amount of $300,000 for macadamizing the highways of the county was formulated. The bill provides for a highway commission, the members of which shall come from different sections of the county, to take charge of the work. The bill was to have been introduced in the legislature today. Next week the PATRIOT will print the full text of the measure.

TOBACCO NOTES.

Dealer, and the Manufacturer.

MARKET REPORT.

The harsh, snowy weather which has prevailed for the last week has made our receipts the smallest for several weeks past. There has been no favorable weather for handling tobacco for about six weeks, and all the tobacco that was stripped and ready for market has been sold, thus it is necessary to have a good season before the receipts materially increase on the market. The quality of the offerings for the past week has been good, with a larger proportion of good to fine wrappers than usual, and a good quantity of good manufacturing tobacco.

Prices on all grades have been well maintained and kept fully up to the high water mark, with wrappers selling as high as $47 per hundred. We would advise our friends to market their tobacco as early as possible, for prices are not likely to get any better.

PRICES CONTINUE HIGH.

The prices on this market have been kept up better than on most any market we know of. This is due to the fact that so many large orders are held on this market. In fact, all of the large concerns in the country have a representative on this market, which causes every pile of tobacco sold here to be very carefully watched till the price is fully up to the high water mark. So you can readily see that it pays you to bring your tobacco to this market. This is the greatest railroad center of any tobacco market in the state, and we are able to offer our customers better freight and railway accommodations than other places, is the reason we are favored so much in prices. We aim to give the farmer the advantage of all this and thereby pay him the best prices for his tobacco that it is possible for him to obtain on any market. We are looking to the interest of the farmer every time.

Mr. J. W. Hasten has returned from an extended trip on the road for the Southern Tobacco Company.

McAdams & Murray and McAdams &
Moore, of Orange county, were in Greensboro with tobacco a few days ago.

G. W. Wyrick was here yesterday, and made fine sales, receiving from $8 to $37 per hundred. Good for Mr.
Wyrick.

Mr. Charles P. Sellers, the American Tobacco Company's buyer at Clinton, has returned to Greensboro, the market
at the former place having closed.

H. D. Kellam was here yesterday with a fine load of tobacco and sold at $9.75 to $40 per hundred pounds. Come on; if you have the tobacco you can do likewise.

The following were some of the Alabama county farmers here with tobacco during the past few days: Rev.
Frank Iseley, Hick & McCauley,
Stewart & McCauley, J. B. Ector, L.
E. Walker, Bill Faucett, Garrison &
Turner, G. W. Faucett, W. J. Buck and
A. T. Coble.

W. J. Blackburn is looking natural at the Farmers' warehouse, and was in his glory this morning, when he was selling a lot of fine wrappers at $30 to $45 per hundred pounds. He is a hum-mer and the hardest worker for his customers we have ever seen. Try him with a load of good tobacco.

The following were among the Guilford patrons of the market during the past week: W. J. Stafford, J. F. Chris-mon, J. H. Newman, R. H. Smith, Joe Hurlin, Peter Iseley, W. L. Lindsay, W. T. Cummings, J. S. Huffines, G. L.
and J. L. Chrismon, Neelley Brothers,
Chas. Kirkman, Miss Flora Gerringer,
R. A. Kirkman, Kirkman & Causey, Chilcutt & Brooks, J. F. Miles, J. H.
Gant, James Climer, W. H. Clayton, S.
H. Coletrane, Foust & Smith, C. A.
Tucker, J. C. Browning, A. F. Phibbs
and R. R. Fryar.

OUR TOBACCO RECORD.

Although the United States produce more tobacco, a great deal more than any other country, the average per capita consumption of tobacco is smaller here than anywhere else in the world except in France, says the Atlanta Journal.

This statement will surprise most of our readers, the general opinion being that the American is the most inveterate and the most extravagant consumer of tobacco.

The normal annual production of tobacco in the United States is 298-000,000 pounds. Only 235,000,000 pounds are produced annually in the Indies; 308,000,000 pounds in Russia and Austria-Hungary combined. China comes next with 110,000,000 pounds.

The United States produce almost as much tobacco as all the rest of the world.

It is estimated that 451,000,000 persons, or considerable more than one third of the human race, are habitual users of tobacco and the average yearly consumption is four and a half pounds for each person.

The Dutch are the greatest tobacco users, the average for Holland being more than six and a half pounds; Belgium four and a half pounds; Argentina four and a third pounds; Turkey two and a half pounds; the United States two and two-thirds pounds, and in France two pounds.

Though the average per capita consumption of tobacco is lower among our people than any other, taking the entire population we still use more tobacco in its various forms than any other because there are so many more tobacco users here.

The demand for tobacco is increasing in every country where it is used at all and it is becoming a more important crop in this country every year.

New Advertisements.

Rosenblatt & Ellington, jewelers,
call your attention to the nice line of watches they carry. They are sold at low prices.

James D. Johnson, commissioner, advertises a one-third interest in the Company Mills and seven acres of land, in Madison township, for sale on Monday, April 1st.

Mr. C. H. Dorsett, who has purchased the business of Johnson & Dorsett, has an ad. in this issue that cannot fail to interest the economical buyer. Mr.
Dorsett will dispose of the present stock by April 1st, when he will open a new store, and in order to do this he has to put remarkably low prices on everything in the store.

Are you ready for plowing time?
If not it might pay you to consult the Wakefield Hardware Company's ad. in the PATRIOT. The Oliver plow, which enjoys a wide reputation, is advertised.
Call and examine it.

The Globe cultivator, invented by a Guilford man and manufactured by a Guilford firm, is advertised and sold by the Odell Hardware Company. It is made of the best North Carolina white oak and the points are of the highest grade of steel.

The time of year has arrived to purchase garden seed, and in anticipation of a larger trade than ever in this line Howard Gardner, the druggist, has enlarged his advertising space to tell of the many varieties of seeds he has for sale. Anything you want in the way of seeds can be secured at his store, on the corner opposite the postoffice.

Roberts, the hardware and sporting goods man of Winston, has taken space in the PATRIOT to tell of a few of the many bargains he has. He quotes some interesting prices on standard goods which it will pay prospective purchasers to make a note of. Call at his place when in the Twin City.

—Judge Boyd yesterday appointed the Greensboro Loan and Trust Company temporary receiver of W. L.
Wharton & Co., who recently assigned to the Southern Loan and Trust Company. The appointment was made upon the application of J. W. Scott & Co., J. W. Jones & Co., and the Merchants Grocery Company, creditors of the firm. Pending a hearing on March 11th, to determine whether the business shall be wound up in the bankruptcy court, the Southern Loan and

CHRISTIAN HEROISM.

Rev. Dr. Talmage Tells of Its Great Rewards.

BADGES OF HONORABLE CONFLICT.

Those Who Bear Scars Won in the Service of Jesus Christ Shall Be Richly Rewarded—God Will Honor, Though the World May Not Know.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage praises Christian heroism and tells of great rewards. The text is Galatians vi, 17, "I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus."

We hear much about crowns, thrones, victories, but I now tell the more quiet story of scars, honorable and dishonorable. There are in all parts of the world people bearing dishonorable scars. They went into the battle of sin and were worsted, and to their dying day they will have a scarification of body or mind or soul. It cannot be hidden. There are tens of thousands of men and women now consecrated to God and living holy lives who were once corrupt, but they have been regenerated, and they are no more what they once were than rubenscence is emaciation, than balm is vitriol, than noonday is midnight. But in their depleted physical health or mental twist or style of temptation they are ever and anon reminded of the obnoxious past. They have a memory that is deplorable. In some twinge of pain or some tendency to surrender to the wrong which they must perpetually resist they have an unwholesome reminiscence. They carry scars, deep scars, ignoble scars.

But Paul in my text shows us a scarification which is a badge of honorable and self-sacrificing service. He had in his weak eyes the result of too much study and in his body, bent and worn, the signature of scourings and shipwrecks and maltreatment by mobs. In my text he shows those scars as he declares, "I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus." Notice that it is not wounds, but scars, and a scar is a healed wound. Before the scar is well defined upon the flesh the inflammation must have departed, and right circulation must have been restored, and new tissue must have been formed. It is a permanent indentation of the flesh—a cicatrix. Paul did well to show those scars. They were positive and indisputable proofs that with all his body, mind and soul he believed what he said; they were his diploma, showing that he had graduated from the school of hardship for Christ; they were credentials proving his right to lead in the world's evangelization.

Honorable Scars.

Men are not ashamed of scars got in battle for their country. No American is embarrassed when you ask him, "Where did you get that gash across your forehead?" and he can answer, "That was from a saber cut at San Juan." When you ask some German, "Where did you lose your right arm?" he is not ashamed to say, "I lost it at Sedan." When you ask an Italian, "Where did you lose your eye?" he is not annoyed when he can answer, "I suffered that in the last battle under our glorious General Garibaldi." But I remind you of the fact that there are scars not got in war which are just as illustrious. We had in this country years ago an eminent advocate who was called into the presidential cabinet as attorney general. In midlife he was in a Philadelphia courtroom engaged in an important trial. The attorney on the opposite side of the case got irritated and angry, and in most brutal manner referred to the distinguished attorney's disfigured face, a face more deeply scarred than any face I ever saw. The legal hero of whom I am speaking in his closing argument said: "Gentlemen of the jury, when I was a little child I was playing with my sister in the nursery, and her clothes caught fire, and I ran to her to put out the fire. I succeeded, but I myself took fire, and before it was extinguished my face was awfully burned and as black as the heart of the scoundrelly counsel who on the other side of the case has referred to my misfortune." The eminent attorney of whom I speak carried all his life the honorable scar of his sister's rescue.

In God's Service.

A young college student in England found all the artistic world in derisive pursuit of William Turner, the painter. The young graduate took up his pen—in some respects the most brilliant pen that was ever put to paper—and wrote those five great volumes on modern painting the chief thought of which was his defense of the abused painter. The heroic author by some was supposed in his old days to be cynical and fault finding, and when I saw him a little while before his death he was in decadence, but I know that all his face and all over his manner were the scars of heroic defense. In the seventies of his lifetime he was suffering from the wounds and fatigues of the twenties. Long after he had quit the battle with author's pen and painter's pencil he bore the scars of literary martyrdom.

But why do we go so far for illustration when I could take right out of the memories of some whom I address instances just as appropriate? To rear a child for God and heaven a large family of children in that country home was a mighty undertaking. Far away from the village doctor, the garret must contain the herbs for the cure of all kinds of disorders. Through all infantile complaints the children of that family went. They missed nothing in the way of childish disorders. Busy all day was that mother in every form of housework, and 20 times a night called up by the children, all down at the same time with the same contagion. Her hair is white a long while before it is time for snow; her shoulders are bent long before the appropriate time for stooping. Spectacles are adjusted, some for close by and some for far off, years before you would have supposed her eyes would need reinforcement. Here and there is a short grave in her pathway, this headstone bearing the name of this child and another headstone bearing the name of another child. Hardly one bereavement lifts its shadow than another bereavement drops one. After 30 years of wifehood and motherhood the path turns toward the setting sun. She cannot walk so far as she used to. Colds caught hang on longer than formerly. Some of the children are in the heavenly world, for which they were well prepared through maternal fidelity, and others are out in this world doing honor to a Christian ancestry.

When her life closes and the neighbors gather for her obsequies, the officiating clergyman may find appropriate words in the last chapter of Proverbs: "Her price is far above rubies. The heart of her husband doth safely trust in her, so that he shall have no need of spoil. She will do him good, and not evil, all the days of her life: she stretcheth out her hand to the poor; she is not afraid of the snow for her household, for all her household are clothed with scarlet. Her husband is known in the gates when he sitteth among the elders in the land; her children arise up and call her blessed; her husband also, and he praiseth her. Many daughters have done virtuously, but thou excellest them all." Then after the Scripture lesson is read let all come up and before the casket is closed look for the last time at the scars of her earthly endurance. She never heard the roll of a gun carriage or saw a banner hoisted upon a parapet, but she has in all the features of that dear old face the marks of many a conflict—scars of toil, scars of maternity, scars of self-sacrifice, scars of bereavement. She is a heroine whose name has never been heard of ten miles from the old homestead, but her name is inscribed high up among the enthroned immortals.

Martyrs in Humble Life.

People think they must look for martyrs on battlefields or go through a history to find burnings at the stake and tortures on racks when there are martyrs all about us. At this time in this capital city there are scores of men wearing themselves out in the public service. In ten years they will not have a healthy nerve left in their body. In committee rooms, in consultations that involve the welfare of the nation, under the weight of great responsibilities, their vitality is being subtracted. In almost every village of the country you find some broken down state or national official.

It is easy for some Washington correspondents, writing home to their city or village newspapers, to misrepresent our public men and represent them as living in idleness and luxury, but I tell you from my own observation that many of the representatives in congress and senators of the United States and justices of the supreme court and secretaries in presidential cabinets work as hard, if not harder, than any day laborer breaking cobblestones on a New Jersey turnpike or a driver of mules on a towpath for a Pennsylvania canalboat. What with the solicitations for appointments by constituents who swarm around state and national capital, and the social exhaustions, and the irritating interruptions, and the unreasonable demands of all kinds, high official position is not a sinecure.

Unseen by Human Eyes.

The heroes and the heroines of any war are not always at the front, are not always epauleted, are not always acquainted with military tactics, and some of them would not know how to present arms or ground arms or stack arms. Some of them rendered their service in hospitals, some by doing harder work on the farm while the breadwinner was at Gettysburg. We all know the names of the distinguished northern and southern women who died upon the wounds of the battlefields, but there were 10,000 women just as brave who never left the farmhouse or cotton plantation and who were so worn out in taking care of their bereft homes that when the soldier came home they had only strength left to die. And the places where they sleep the last sleep are not marked with so much as a plain slab, while those who suffered not half so much are in sculptured mausoleum.

In all lands there are veterans of war who may not have had their face scraped with one bullet or their foot lamed by one bursting shell and who could not roll up their sleeve and show you one mark suggestive of battle, yet carry with them weaknesses got in exposure to disease along malarial swamps or from many miles of marching, and ever and anon they feel a twinge of pain, each recurrence of which is sharper or more lasting, until after awhile they will be captured for the tomb by disorders which started 20 or 30 or 40 years before. And their scars are all unseen by human eyes. But those people are as certainly the victims of war as though they had been blown up in an undermined fortress or thrust through with a cavalrman's lance. What I want to make out is that there are scars which are never counted except as God counts them, and I want to enlarge your sympathies.

Marks of Jesus Christ.

There is a woman who has suffered domestic injustice of which there is no cognizance. She says nothing about it. An inquisitor's machine of torture could not wring from her the story of domestic woe. Ever since the day of orange blossoms and long white veil she has done her full duty and received for it harshness and blame and neglect. The marriage ring, that was supposed to be a sign of unending affection, has turned out to be one link of a chain of horrible servitude. A wreath of nettles and nightshade of brightest form would have been a more accurate prophecy. There are those who find it hard to believe that there is such a place as hell, but you could go right out in any community and find more than one hell of domestic torment. There is no escape for that woman but the grave, and that, compared with the life she now lives, will be an arbor of jasmine and of the humming bird's song poured into the ear of the honeysuckle. Scars! If there be none on the brow showing where he struck her arriving home from midnight carousal, nevertheless there are scars all up and down her injured and immortal soul which will be remembered on the day when there shall leap forth for her vengeance the live thunderbolts of an incensed God. When we see a veteran in any land who has lost a limb in battle, our sympathies are stirred; but, oh, how many have in the domestic realm lost their life and yet are denied a pillow of dust on which to slumber! Better enlarge your roll of martyrs; better adopt a new mode of counting human scarifications. A broken bone is not half as bad as a broken heart.

There are many who can in the same sense that Paul uttered it say, "I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus"—that is, for the sake of Christ and his cause they carry scars which keep their indure through all time and all eternity. Do you think that Paul was accurate when he said that? If you have studied his career, you have no doubt of it. In his youth he learned how to fashion the hair of the Cilician goat into canvas, a quiet trade, and then went to college, the president of which was Gamaliel, an institution which scholars say could not have been very thorough because of what they call Paul's imperfect command of Greek syntax. But his history became exciting on the road to Damascus, where he was unhorsed and blinded. His conversion was a convulsion. Whether that fall from the horse may have left a mark upon him, I know not, but the mob soon took after him and flogged and imprisoned and maltreated him until he had scars more, than enough to assure the truthfulness of his utterance, "I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus."

The Missionary.

All of Paul's suffering was for Christ's sake. He had intellectual powers which could have achieved for him all worldly successes. You see what he could do in a courtroom when with extemporaneous speech he made the judicial bench tremble, when on Mars hill he confounded the Athenian critics, when he preached amid the excitement of a tumbling penitentiary, when in a storm at sea he took command of the ship, the only one on board cool headed. With his inspired logic, and his courage of utterance, and his power of illustration, and his capacity to move audiences, and his spirit of defiance, there was no height of worldly power he might not have gained.

What Hannibal was to an army, what Draco was in making laws, what Homer was to poetry, what Demosthenes was in power of persuasion, what Socrates was to philosophy, what Eschylus was to the drama, that Paul might have been to all centuries. God never before and never since made another human being like him. But with all this capacity and opportunity of achieving worldly renown he turns his back on home and becomes an exile, on bounteous tables and eats his hard crust by the roadside, on the pleasure yachts that sailed the Mediterranean and embarked on a freightboat from Alexandria, on scholars in Athens and talks to fishermen. Instead of plaudits of aroused and enthusiastic assemblies he addressed audiences that talked back and asked insolent questions and broke up in a riot; instead of garlands flung at his feet they hurled stones upon his head. Five times he was scourged, at each whipping 39 strokes, the fortieth stroke spared not from mercy, but because 40 strokes were the severest punishment the law allowed, and they feared through counting wrong they might make it 41, and so themselves be punished. Why, Paul must have been scarred all over, and he only tells the plain truth without any commentary when he declares, "I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus." It was as much as to say: "See those long scars? There is where they whipped me. See you that ugly indentation? There is where they stoned me. See you that encircling scar on my wrist? There is where they handcuffed me. See those curves around my ankles? There is where they made my feet fast in the stocks."

A Christian Army.

There are many who, like that apostolic martyr, have on them the mark of the Lord Jesus. There is the great army of foreign missionaries, sometimes maligned by dissolute American, English and Scotch merchants, who at Hongkong and Calcutta and Constantinople have had their wickedness proved by the pure home life of those missionaries. There is the great army of the ministers of the gospel, now in heaven, who on small salaries and amid fatigues that slew them served their day and generation. There is another great army of private Christians who in Sabbath schools, and in tract distribution, and in humanitarian and evangelistic efforts, have put their life in sacrifice on the altars of God. There is another army of Christian invalids who lost their life in overwork for the church and the world's redemption. People call their illness neuralgia or nervous prostration or insomnia or paresis or premature old age. I call their ailments scars, as my text calls them scars. There may be scars on the memory, scars on the spirits, scars on the courage, scars on the soul as well as scars on the body, and those invisible to the human eye are as honorable as those visible.

Chisholm, Stroud, Crawford & Rees

All ye who bear in your body the marks of the Lord Jesus, have you thought what use those marks will be in the heavenly world? What source of glorious reminiscence! In that world you will sit together and talk over earthly experiences. "Where did you get that scar?" saint will say to saint, and there will come back a story of hardship and struggle and persecution and wounds and victory through the grace of the gospel. Another spirit will say to listening spirit, "Where did you get that hurt so plainly marked?" And the answer will be: "Oh, that was one of the worst hurts I ever had. That was a broken friendship. We were in sweetest accord for years, together in joy and sorrow. What one thought the other thought. We were David and Jonathan. But our personal interests parted, and our friendships broke never to be renewed on earth. But we have made it all up here, and misunderstandings are gone, and we are in the same heaven, on neighboring thrones, in neighboring castles, on the banks of the same river."

"Where did you get that mark?" says another spirit to listening spirit, and the answer comes: "That is a reminder of a great bereavement, of a desolated household, of a deep grave, of all the heartstrings at one stroke snapped together. But you see it is no longer a laceration, for the wound has been healed, and my once bereft spirit is now in companionship with the one from whom for awhile I was separated." "Where did you get that long, deep scar?" says another immortal to listening immortal, and the answer comes: "That was the awful fatigue of a lifetime's struggle in attempting, amid adverse circumstances, to achieve a livelihood. For 30 years I was tired—oh, so tired! But you see it is a healed wound, for I have found rest at last for body and soul, the complete rest, the everlasting rest that I heard of before I came here as the rest that remaineth for the people of God." Some one in heaven will say to Martyr John Rogers, "Where did you get that scar on your foot?" and the answer will come, "Oh, that was a burn I suffered when the flames of martyrdom were kindled beneath me." "Ignatius, what is that mark on your cheek?" "Oh, that was made by the paw of the lion to which I was thrown by the order of Trajan." Some one will say to Paul, "Great apostle, that must have been a deep cut once—the mark which I see on your neck." And Paul says, "That was made by the sword which struck me at my beheading on the road to Ostia." But we all have scars of some kind, and those are some of the things we will talk over in the heavenly world while we celebrate the grace that made us triumphant over all antagonism.

More Courage Needed.

Now, what is the practical use of this subject? It is the cultivation of Christian heroisms. The most of us want to say things and do things for God when there is no danger of getting hurt. We are all ready for easy work, for popular work, for compensating work, but we all greatly need more courage to brave the world and brave satanic assault when there is something aggressive and bold and dangerous to be undertaken for God and righteousness. And, if we happen to get hit, what an ado we make about it! We all need more of the stuff that martyrs are made out of. We want more sanctified grit, more Christian pluck, more holy recklessness as to what the world may say and do in any crisis of our life. Be right and do right, and all earth and hell combined cannot put you down.

The same little missionary who wrote my text also uttered that piled up magnificence to be found in those words which ring like battleaxes on splitting helmets: "In all these things we are more than conquerors, through him that loved us, for I am persuaded that neither death nor life nor angels nor principalities nor powers nor things present nor things to come nor height nor depth nor any other creature shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord."

How do you like that, you cowards, who shrink back from aggressive work and if so much as a splinter pierce your flesh cry out louder than many a one torn in auto-da-fé. Many a soldier has gone through a long war, been in 20 battles, led a regiment up a hill mounted by cannon and swept by musketry, and yet came home without having been once hit and without a mark upon him. But it will not be so among those who pass in the grand review of heaven. They have all in the holy wars been wounded, and all bear scars. And what would the newly arrived in heaven do with nothing to show that he had ever been struck by human or diabolic weaponry? How embarrassed and eccentric such a one in such a place! Surely he would want to be excused awhile from the heavenly ranks and be permitted to descend to earth, crying: "Give me another chance to do something worthy of an immortal! Show me some post of danger to be manned, some fortress to be stormed, some difficult charge to make. Like Leonidas at Thermopylae; like Miltiades at Marathon; like Marlborough at Blenheim; like Godfrey at Jerusalem; like Winkleried at Sempach gathering the spears of the Austrian knights into his bosom, giving his life for others; show me some place where I can do a brave thing for God. I cannot go back to heaven until somewhere I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus." My hearer, my reader, quit complaining about your misfortunes and disappointments and troubles and through all time and all eternity thank God for scars.

Thy saints in all this glorious war Shall conquer though they die; They see the triumph from afar And send thee tidings of their glory. When that illustrious day shall rise, And all thine armies shine, In robes of victory through the skies The glory shall be thine. [Copyright, 1901, by Louis Klopfch.]

BEFORE THE BAR OF THE SENATE.

The Committee from the House Prefer Articles of Impeachment Against Furches and Douglas.

It was an impressive scene—one not to be witnessed twice in an ordinary lifetime, and one long to be remembered.

It was all over in a few moments, it is true, but the solemnity of the proceeding and the importance of the event were felt by every witness.

The lobbies and balconies of the senate had been crowded for an hour and a half, the throng of visitors (largely composed of ladies) having arrived before the hour of noon—the time originally set and announced—but the delay did not cause any who had procured seats to withdraw, the crowd patiently listening to the discussion and passage of bills in the meantime.

The hands of the senate clock had hardly reached the hour of 1:30, and Senator Morrison was speaking on a pending bill, when Sergeant-at-Arms Smith suddenly announced:

"Mr. President: A committee from the house of representatives has arrived, and awaits without to approach the bar of the senate."

"Invite the committee to come forward," replied the lieutenant governor, and as he uttered the invitation the senators arose to receive the visitors standing.

Thereupon the committee—consisting of Representatives Winston, Ardrey, Blount, Zachary and Carlton—appeared, and approached the bar of the senate through the centre aisle, taking position in line (with Chairman F. D. Winston in the center) immediately in front of the newspaper reporters' desk and facing the presiding officer and clerks of the senate.

Mr. Winston, acting as spokesman, then read from manuscript, in an impressive and ceremonious manner, the following message:

"Mr. President and Senators: We are directed by the house of representatives to convey to you this message of great moment.

"After long and patient consideration, by pronounced majority, that branch of this general assembly, declares that David M. Furches, late associate justice and now chief justice, and Robert M. Douglas, associate justice, of the Supreme court of North Carolina, in violation of the letter and spirit of the constitution and in defiance of the plain statutory law of the state, have usurped powers subversive of the rights of the legislative department of our state government.

"For this misconduct, it declares that these officers be impeached of high crimes and misdemeanors in office.

"In obedience to the duty imposed upon us we now present to your honorable body certain resolutions relating to such impeachment."

At this juncture Representative Ardrey approached the presiding officer and handed him the resolution in question. Mr. Winston then said:

"Senators: As directed by the order of the house of representatives, and in the name of the whole people of North Carolina, whose constitution has been broken, whose laws have been defied, whose future peace is threatened and imperiled, we impeach David M. Furches, late associate justice and now chief justice, and Robert M. Douglas, associate justice, of the Supreme court of North Carolina, of high crimes and misdemeanors in office.

"In the name of the representatives of the people, we do demand that the senate organize a high court of impeachment, and take order that David M. Furches and Robert M. Douglas appear at its bar, to answer the particular charges which the house of representatives will in due time exhibit; and that the senate do make such order and further orders in the premises as may seem to them best calculated to bring this trial to a just and speedy termination.

"In conclusion, the house of representatives through us, its chosen messengers, prays that the God of Eternal Truth and Justice may protect the rights of the impeached, and preserve unbroken the constitution of the fathers.

"And now, Mr. President, having discharged this momentous and melancholy duty, we await your answer as provided by law, which answer we will make to those who send us hither."

Senator London then arose and offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

"Resolved, That the president of the senate, in behalf of the senate, announce to the gentlemen of the committee of the house of representatives that the senate will receive their message, duly consider the same and take proper action thereon."

The lieutenant governor then replied as follows:

"Gentlemen of the committee: You will bear to the house of representatives the message that the senate has received its message, and that the senate will give proper consideration to the same and, later, take due action thereon, as required by the constitution and the laws of the state."

The committeemen then simultaneously made a profound bow and retired from the senate chamber.

That was all—the whole proceeding occupying scarcely fifteen minutes of time—and in another moment the senate had resumed its business. Senator Morrison resumed his speech and the legislative machinery was again at work on the work of the day, as though nothing unusual had occurred.

But a world of meaning was enveloped in that brief space of time to two citizens of the state—men who have been honored by the state and its people and in whom the people had reposed trust and confidence in the past—and upon the result of the great trial, of which this was the beginning, their future career depends, and the honor or dishonor of their names hangs in the balance.—Morning Post, 21st.

Compulsory Education.

EDITOR PATRIOT:—We say a great deal about more education and more appropriation for having longer terms of schools, but never say much about compulsory education. I read a little article in the PATRIOT taken from the News and Observer from Prof. Martin Holt, that strikes me very much. The children that need the free school don't derive the benefit of it, they do not go to school. I am under the impression if we have these free schools going on, every child of such an age as the law may require, ought to go to school unless good excuse is given. I am an advocate of education, but there are teachers paid twenty-five to thirty dollars a month in the country schools and from sixty to seventy-five children enrolled and the average attendance not more than twenty or twenty-five. I call it money wasted, so I think it will be wise for our legislature to form some kind of act whereby parents ought to send their children to school. I know of many children under my observation that ought to go to school but don't go. A great many parents haven't much education themselves and think the children can make out with a little, too. But time is progressing, therefore every child should improve every advantage.

I want it to be understood that I do not condemn any appropriation or any advancement made on education, but I do like for children to have the benefit of it. At the present time children that are not in circumstances to go to high schools, their parents keep them at home to work while school is going on.

I say again we need compulsion in our good old state of North Carolina. H. A. GARVES.

The claim of other cough medicines to be as good as Chamberlain's are effectually set at rest in the following testimonial of Mr. C. D. Glass, an employee of Bartlett & Dennis Co., Gardiner, Me. He says: "I had kept adding to a cold and cough in the winter of 1897, trying every cough medicine I heard of without permanent help, until one day I was in the drug store of Mr. Houlehan and he advised me to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and offered to pay back my money if I was not cured. My lungs and bronchial tubes were very sore at this time, but I was completely cured by this remedy, and have since always turned to it when I got a cold, and soon find relief. I also recommend it to my friends and am glad to say it is the best of all cough medicines." For sale by C. E. Holton, druggist.

Progressive High Point.

Mr. W. H. Ragan, one of the leading citizens of High Point, was in Charlotte yesterday. He stated that his town shipped $1,500,000 worth of furniture last year, 50 car-loads of this to Texas. The factory in which he is interested and of which his son is manager, shipped a car load of furniture to Texarkana Monday and one to Oklahoma yesterday. A Kansas City furniture buyer will be in High Point today and Wanamaker's buyer will be there next week. It has been well called the Grand Rapids of the South.—Charlotte Observer.

PROHIBITION IN KANSAS.

Sightless Drug Store Man and a Noisy Phonograph.

I have been spending my vacation at the home of my brother in a little town in the middle of Kansas," said a New Orleans man, "and during my stay I saw some funny exhibitions of the actual workings of prohibition.

"I don't drink myself, but I have a number of friends up there who take their nose paint pretty regularly, so it wasn't long before I became acquainted with the fact that the principal bar of the place was located directly in the rear of the prescription case of the leading drug store.

"Two or three flagons were kept standing on the marble ledge behind the ground glass screen, together with tumblers, ice water, lemons and sugar, and in one corner was a barrel of beer put in pints. Whenever an habitue of the establishment wanted a life preserver he simply strolled back of the case, helped himself and deposited the price in the slot of a cash box.

"I dare say you have seen the hero in the melodrama who saunters down the stage in blissful ignorance of the villain crouching in plain view behind a small paste board rock. Well, that was the attitude of the druggist while ceremonies were in progress in the rear of the ground glass screen.

"Under the polite conventions of the house he was supposed to be totally unaware of what was going on, and was consequently able to swear, if necessary, that no liquor was sold on the premises, 'to his personal knowledge.' I was told he had testified on nine different occasions that he 'never saw anybody take a drink in the store,' all of which was doubtless perfectly true. Incidentally, he was superintendent of the biggest Sunday school in town.

"The arrangement I have described would have worked very well had it not been for the fact that there was a strong prohibition sentiment in the place, especially among the women, who organized themselves into smelling committees, and were continually prowling around looking for evidence of violations of the law.

"The drug store had a large trade in fancy goods, soaps, perfumery and so on, and a group of ladies clustered around the soda fountain near the door, in easy ear-shot of the tinkle of the glasses and popping of the beer corks in the sub rosa groggery at the other end of the establishment.

"In order to drown these suspicious noises the proprietor kept a big phonograph constantly grinding on the front counter. He had a supply of the most vociferous cylinders in the market and ragtime coon songs, brass-band overtures, anvil choruses and all that sort of thing, and the dexterity with which he would snatch out the record and jam on another was wonderful to behold.

"The old customers of the bar had learned to know exactly when each cylinder was about to become exhausted, and at that stage of proceedings a sudden hush would fall over the group. They would stand transfixed, with their glasses in the air, until the new record began to bellow, and then jollity again resumed sway.

"One prominent citizen was barred out because he was stone deaf. He was otherwise unobjectionable, and had a thirst that was without a peer in that congressional district; but the poor fellow could never catch the 'stop now,' and his patronage was consequently regarded as too dangerous.

"The only time I ever came near getting caught, the druggist told me in strict confidence, 'was about six months ago, when I got in a lot of new records from Chicago. One of them was a rattling good recitation, loud enough to loosen the wall paper, but unfortunately there was a dead stop right in the middle. Phonograph people called it an 'oratorical pause,' but in plain English the fellow telling the story simply ceased speaking for about five seconds.

"I didn't know anything about the confounded gap, and the afternoon I put on the cylinder for the first time I had at least a dozen women at the counter, among them the president of our local Woman's Christian Temperance Union. I started the thing going and they were all immensely amused, but presently, to my horror, we struck the oratorical pause. The recitation stopped stock still, and at the same time we heard the voice of old Judge ——— saying: 'Well, boys, I think I'll have about four fingers of good Kentucky bourbon.'

"The women all looked daggers at me, and I thought I'd faint in my tracks. The episode came mighty near getting me indicted," he added, "and I had a big mind to put in a claim for damages with the record manufacturers. After the store closed I took an ax and I didn't do a thing to that cylinder." —New Orleans Times-Democrat.

C. E. Holton guarantees every bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and will refund the money to anyone who is not satisfied after using two thirds of the contents. This is the best remedy in the world for lagrippe, coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough and is pleasant to take. It prevents any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia.

Pretty Children

"We have three children. Before the birth of the last one my wife used four bottles of MOTHER'S FRIEND. If you had the pictures of our children, you could see at a glance that the last one is healthiest, prettiest and finest-looking of them all. My wife thinks Mother's Friend is the greatest and grandest remedy in the world for expectant mothers."

Written by a Kentucky Attorney-at-Law.

MOTHER'S FRIEND prevents nine-tenths of the suffering incident to childbirth. The coming mother's disposition and temper remain unruffled throughout the ordeal, because this relaxing, penetrating liniment relieves the usual distress. A good-natured mother is pretty sure to have a good-natured child. The patient is kept in a strong, healthy condition, which the child also inherits. Mother's Friend takes a wife through the crisis quickly and almost painlessly. It assists in her rapid recovery, and wards off the dangers that so often follow delivery.

THE AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS

THE AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS is the one important magazine in the world giving in its pictures, its text, in its contributed articles, editorials and departments, a comprehensive, timely record of the world's current history. Not the enumeration of mere bare facts, but a comprehensive picture of the month, its activities, its notable personalities, and notable utterances. The best informed men and women in the world find it indispensable.

There are many readers in your locality who have yet to learn of its usefulness. We wish to establish active agents in every city and township in the country. We will pay liberally for energetic effort in the subscription field. Leisure moments can be utilized with substantial increase of income. Make a list of the persons in your locality who should have the "Review of Reviews," and send to us for agent's terms, sample copies, and working outfit. Then solicit their subscriptions. It is a compliment to approach a person with a subscription proposition for the "Review of Reviews," and consequently orders are easily secured. This is the active subscription season. Make application at once, naming your references.

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 27, 1901.

The sharks of the sea are not swifter in doing their work with the victims of the shipwreck in San Francisco harbor than are the hungry office seekers who are in Washington fighting for the place of Consul Wildman, who went down with the ill-fated City of Rio de Janeiro. Within a few hours after the report of his death had reached Washington no less than seven persons filed applications for the dead man's office. A striking illustration of the greed and rapacity of modern politics.

All can endorse the liberality of the legislature in dealing with the old soldiers. The pension bill, which the senate has passed by a unanimous vote, is far more liberal than ever before. Its three chief features are: (1) Any soldier who did duty during the war and who is now incapacitated is to be pensioned; (2) all widows of soldiers who married them prior to April 1, 1865, are to be pensioned; (3) all the four grades of pensions shall pro rata equally and not make the deficiency fall on the fourth class alone, as has been the case up to this time.

The fourth chapter in the story of the impeachment of the Supreme court judges was enacted by the senate Monday, when the rules of impeachment were taken up, read and adopted. The managers from the house of representatives appeared with part of their counsel and asked that the judges be summoned to appear at once. An hour later the attorneys for the accused—ex Governor Jarvis, ex-Attorney-General Osborne, W. P. Bynum, Jr., B. F. Long and F. H. Busbee—entered the senate chamber and asked that they be given a reasonable time in which to prepare their defence. By unanimous vote the senate set March 11th as the date for the beginning of the trial. The deepest interest in the approaching trial is felt by all the people of the state, and not little else is talked of in political circles. It is claimed that sentiment in favor of impeachment is growing among the people as they become better acquainted with the facts. We do not know how this is, but we do know that it is a very serious question, probably the most important that has come up in North Carolina in years.

Just how important a personage Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan has become is revealed by the statement that insurance risks upon his life to the amount of $20,000,000 have recently been written for business men whose investments might suffer by his death. This is an English system. Large amounts were placed on the late Queen's life by traders and others whose business would be affected by her death or a long period of mourning.

The four men who robbed the postoffice at Emma Buncombe, county, and shot Sam Alexander, the assistant postmaster, some time ago have been carried to Charlotte and confined in jail. It was feared that they would be lynched if they were kept in the Asheville jail.

Rev. A. C. Dixon, a native of Shelby, has resigned the pastorate of a Baptist church in Brooklyn, N. Y., to become pastor of the wealthiest Baptist church in Boston, Mass.

The Troy Examiner says the railroad from West End to Jackson Springs is about completed and trains will soon be running on this branch of the Aberdeen and Asheville railroad.

Aldermanic Doings.

The guardians of the city's interest, otherwise known as the board of aldermen, met in regular session Friday night and transacted a considerable amount of business.

Mr. E. P. Wharton, representing Capt. B. J. Fisher, appeared before the board and offered to donate the city fourteen acres of land in the woods just north of the city, along the extension of North Elm street, to be utilized as a public park. The proposition was accepted and the street committee instructed to make the necessary improvements. A park has long been needed in Greensboro, and the city is fortunate in securing one at so little expense.

The Southern Construction Company made a proposition in regard to paving South Elm street with asphalt. The matter was referred to the street committee. South Elm is now one of the roughest streets in Greensboro and it is hoped that steps will be taken at once to improve it.

G. A. Miller, of Reidsville, asked the aldermen to recommend him to the county commissioners for license to engage in the retail liquor business at E. G. Newcomb's old stand, on South Elm street. Action on the matter was deferred until the next meeting.

John Lewis was elected a member of the board from the fifth ward to succeed R. M. Phillips, resigned.

The aldermen held a called meeting Monday night to consider some amendments to the city charter.

Husband a Bigamist.

In September, 1898, Miss Winifred McCaull, a well known young society woman who had resided in Greensboro for some time, making her home with her brother-in-law, Mr. Harry C. Martin, was married to Frank M. Holahan, of New York. The couple went to New York to live, and it was supposed that they were enjoying a happy married life. A few days ago Mrs. Holahan's friends in Greensboro were shocked to learn that her husband had proved faithless and had married another woman. The discovery was made as the result of a search for Holahan in a number of gambling dens he was known to frequent. He was found by his father and a few friends at the home of the parents of wife No. 2. It is not known what the discovery led to, though it is probable that the bigamist is in the hands of the law.

Miss McCaull was a very charming young woman and made many friends in Greensboro. She was a native of Baltimore and was on the stage for several years. She and a sister of Holahan were members of the same company, and it was in this way that she became acquainted with her future husband. She is now at the home of her husband's parents in New York.

—Maj. Joseph M. Morehead has placed an order with the Mt. Airy Granite Company for the colonial monument to be erected at the Guilford battle ground. The shaft will stand twenty feet in height. It is expected to have the monument unveiled at the next celebration.

—Charles O. McMichael, Esq., of Madison, was here Monday.

Mr. B. B. Miles visited at Mr. W. H. Warren's Sunday.

The band made excellent music at Mr. S. L. Low's last Friday night. Miss Lula Miles was a welcome visitor at Mr. W. P. Strader's Sunday.

The school at Phibb's school-house will close Friday evening. It is being taught by Prof. L. L. Archer. Several from this vicinity will probably attend the closing.

The entertainment at Hillsdale Academy was attended by a large crowd last Friday evening. Everybody seemed to enjoy it. Summer field, Danamora, Brown Summit and Rathbone were represented.

Gray's Chapel Items.

Louis Hayes, an aged citizen, died on the 22d.

The first real winter weather put in its appearance last Saturday.

Henry Ivey has bought the John Wrightsall old place at Brower's Mills.

Quite a number of our people are suffering with severe colds. Some have grip.

Mr. J. Routh did some repair work on the Lambeth mill, near Siler City, last week.

There were but a few at church on last Sunday, owing to the inclemency of the weather.

Messrs. H. T. Curtis and G. M. Redding have bought the C. C. Kime saw mill and will operate it on the lands of Charlie Hurley, near here.

Kimesville Items.

Miss Alma Holt has been on the sick list.

Miss Callie Clapp spent a day in Burlington last week.

Misses Mabel Friddell and Annie Eulies were on the sick list last week.

Mrs. W. H. Wheeler, who has been very sick, is able to be out again.

Mr. Jean Holt, who has been at work at Haw River, has returned home.

Mr. George Clapp moved his property from here to Burlington Monday.

Miss Nettie Bowman, who has been at Belmont for some time, is at home.

Misses Lillie Hurley, of Sanford, and Myra Reitzel, of Liberty, spent last week visiting friends here.

Jamestown Items.

We have been having quite a variety of weather the past few weeks.

The wheat crop is badly damaged by the fly in this community.

There was quite an interesting spelling match at Flint Hill academy Friday night.

A great deal of timber is being shipped from Jamestown, such as oak, poplar and hickory.

We are sorry to see Greensboro return to the old system of saloons. Why not have prohibition?

Mr. H. C. Lamb, Mr. D. W. Moore and Miss Mary Petty, who have been on the sick list, are said to be improving.

All indications point to extensive improvements here along several lines this year. A spirit of progress is in the air.

Mr. Victor P. Hammer's school at Flint Hill academy closes about March 22nd. His services as a teacher have been quite satisfactory in every respect.

We are glad to note that Mr. A. L. Vickory, R. M. S., from Richmond to Charlotte, has decided to settle down in Jamestown. He is building a nice residence on the lot purchased of Mr. W. N. Rush.

NOTICE.

DEAR SIR:

The receiver of the Bank of Guilford has had orders from time to time to pay out to the depositors amounts equal to 65 per cent. of the total amount due the depositors. When this amount has been called for by depositors, and after all expenses have been paid, there will be nothing more left depositors, unless there is something made out of litigations now pending, which will necessarily be very expensive. Now in order to attempt a speedy settlement, the former directors have arranged with the Southern Loan and Trust Company to pay another 15 per cent., or 80 per cent. in all, to all depositors who will accept this at once and agree to assign their claim. If the receiver should be successful in collecting all claims by law, which is very doubtful, it is probable that the depositors would not receive more than 85 or 90 per cent., paying all expenses and after waiting at least two years longer. You can address the Southern Loan and Trust Company, Greensboro, N. C.

IN MEMORIAM.

Mrs. Ava J. Stewart was born near Mt. Hope, N. C., on May 21, 1876, and died at Orlando, Fla., on February 2, 1901. The deceased was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Foust. She was dedicated to God by holy baptism in her infancy and entered into full communion with the Reformed church at Mt. Hope in the thirteenth year of her age and remained a consistent member of the same until her death. On November 16, 1899, she was happily married to Mr. M. C. Stewart, of Greensboro.

Mrs. Stewart was an invalid for eight months and suffered greatly at times, but from the beginning to the end she endured her affliction with Christian fortitude, for she constantly looked to Him who is stronger than man for that support which enables the child of God to endure all things for Christ's sake. She welcomed death as the messenger of our covenant-keeping God and Father to call His people to rest.

Mrs. Stewart was endowed with a cheerful disposition, and being dominated by the grace divine, brought sunshine wherever she went. Of her may truly be said in the beautiful lines of the poet:

"None knew her but to love her;
None named her but to praise."

She was a devoted wife, a true friend and a faithful Christian. While at home she was intimately connected with every Christian activity at Mt. Hope—a teacher in Sunday school, member of the missionary society, superintendent of the mission band, and for many years served the congregation as organist.

Her husband and an infant daughter, as well as her parents, survive her and sadly realize their great loss.

The funeral services were held in Alamance Presbyterian church, of which her husband is a member. The services were conducted by Rev. Mr. LeQueux and her pastor, Rev. G. A. Stauffer, on February 5th, in the presence of a large congregation of sorrowing relatives and friends.

May the God of all comfort and consolation comfort the bereaved husband and parents, and especially take dear little Lucile, so early bereft of a mother's love and training, and keep her as the apple of the eye and take her under the shadow of his wing. G. A. S.

Passed from the sorrows of earth to the joys of the redeemed at Orlando, Fla., February 2, 1901, Mrs. Ava J. Stewart, aged 24 years, 9 months and 11 days.

She united with Christ in early life and remained a consecrated Christian till God called her home. May God comfort with the consolations of His grace the broken-hearted husband and the sorrowing father and mother and enfold within His sheltering arms the sweet little babe so early bereft of a mother's love and tender care.

H. D. LEQUEUX.

Getting Square With His Conscience

"The poor old X., Y. and Z. railroad," wrote the editor of the Hickory Ridge Missourian, "declines to exchange courtesies with us this year and we have taken its ad. out of our columns. It's a moth-eaten old concern, any way, and we never took a trip over it without kissing our wife good-by twice and taking out an extra accident insurance policy before we started. Last year we done $467 worth of lying for the X., Y. and Z., and all we got in return was $29.40 worth of travelling. We can stand it if the darned old road can. When you feel as if you would like to be seasick and don't care particularly how you get the sensation, and have plenty of money and no better way to get rid of it, and would just as leave risk your life as not, and haven't any other way of spending your time, go and take a ride of five or six miles on the X., Y. and Z., and may the Lord have mercy on your soul!"—Chicago Tribune.

A Lincoln Anecdote.

Some one complimented President Lincoln on having no vices, neither drinking nor smoking.

"That is a doubtful compliment," answered Lincoln. "I remember once being outside a stage coach in Illinois, and a man sitting next to me offered me a cigar. I told him I had no vices. He said nothing, but smoked for some time then grunted out: 'It's my experience that folks who have no vices have no virtues.'"

Sufferings of the Italian poor lead to serious threats of disorder.

A Curious Condition.

The legal status of the Kansas saloons that Mrs. Nation has been battering is curious. A prohibition amendment to the State's constitution was passed, but after the United States Supreme Court decided that no State could prohibit the admission of original packages of intoxicants into its borders, it was not difficult for Kansans who wanted liquor to get it. Presently so many saloons sprung up and flourished in the cities that the legislature, repining at the loss of revenue from unlawful saloons, which paid no license fees, provided in 1893, that the illegal saloons which complied with certain prescribed regulations should be free from interference, except that twice a year the owners should be arrested and fined. That gave Kansas practically a license system. The constitution contains a prohibition amendment, which the Legislature has bound itself not to enforce against saloons that comply with prescribed regulations. Mrs. Nation supports the constitution, defies the legislature, terrorizes the barkeepers and twits the governor on not living up to his oath of office. She is doing a good work in making a disreputable condition as agonizing as possible. If anything can make an opportunity for the Resubmissionists it will be her efforts. The cure for Kansas in her present straits seems to be to get prohibition out of her constitution and to get high license into her statute book. Then Kansas communities that want prohibition can have it, and communities that want saloons can tax them.—Harper's Weekly.

Two hundred Pennsylvania Democrats, and some from other States met at a big dinner in Philadelphia Friday night and discussed plans for the reorganization of the Democratic party. The movement is said to be endorsed by such men as Cleveland, David B. Hill and ex-Secretary of the Interior Hoke Smith.

TOOK BOY FROM TIGER.

Boy Inadvertently Entered the Tiger's Cage and Was Instantly Attacked.

"Rajah," a Bengal tiger, at Bostock's Zoo, in the Cyclorama building this morning so injured Albert Neilson, a lad sixteen years of age, employed in the place, that he died soon after reaching the hospital. Neilson was employed about the Zoo to clean the cages of the other animals, and had just been in the cage with the baby lions with which he played and petted as usual. He stepped from the cage, and, it is supposed, made a mistake in the dark hallway back of the cages, and opened the door to Rajah's cage, and was inside before the mistake was apparent.

The employees heard a struggle in the tiger's cage, and when they reached the place Rajah was clawing and biting the lad. Though no one but Frank Bostock, the Zoo manager, ever entered the cage of Rajah, W. F. Tanner and Sam Stevenson ran to the scene and entered at the risk of their lives to save the boy. They grabbed red hot poker from the stove, and other employees also armed themselves with pokers which are always kept red hot, and used for cowing the beasts.

In the cage a desperate battle was in progress between Tanner and Stevenson on one hand Rajah on the other. The animal had hold of Neilson's bleeding body and the men were attempted to loosen the hold and get the boy out of the cage. Tanner and Stevenson jabbed the red hot pokers through the gratings of the cage. Rajah refused to let go his hold upon the boy. Seven pistol balls were fired into his body, but still the tiger refused to let go and clawed and tore at Neilson's flesh as if the bullets and red hot pokers were so many playthings. The taste of blood had infuriated him and it seemed as if nothing could overcome the brute in his thirst for more blood.

Meantime the other animals in the Zoo, excited by the cries of the tiger and the commotion occasioned by the rescue, were excited to a degree little less than Rajah, and the place was one continuous roar. Charles Vaughn finally brought a revolver and seven shots were fired in rapid succession into the body of Rajah.

These had no more effect, though every one struck some part of its body, than if they had been so many beams.

One of the bullets tore away the animal's lip, but still it did not release its hold. Finally one of the men succeeded in getting a red hot poker owned its throat, burning Neilson also.

The rescuers themselves were all the time in greatest danger. With a ferocious growl Rajah dropped Neilson and turned upon the men attacking him. So many faces, so much confusion and the roars and bellows, yelps and growls from all parts of the building seemed to puzzle him. While he stood for a moment undecided what to do, stinging and bleeding from the shots and the burns and prickings of the steel prongs, Tanner grabbed Neilson by the waist and dragged him toward the cage door. In another moment the man would have been in safety and the cell door shut, but Rajah's wits returned, and he made a second spring upon his victim. This time his jaws snapped together over the boy's waist, and a second time the hot irons were brought into use to force the beast to let go his hold. This time Tanners and Stevensons efforts were successful.

Stevenson made his escape through the door and Tanner, dragging Neilson's body by the feet, followed a second later. The door was swung shut and while Rajah, hurling himself against the iron bars, growled and bellowed the boy was laid upon the sawdust arena and the city ambulance summoned. The uproar continued long after the fight with the tiger had ended. Rajah licked his chops that dripped with human blood and pawed the walls of his cage for an hour after the tragedy. A broom which had been used by one of the attendants and left in the cage was seized by Rajah in his fury and chewed into pieces. The wood handle was crushed between his jaws, the straws were ripped by his claws and hurled in a whirlwind. Neilson's blood, which covered the floor, was licked up greedily.

Neilson was laid on a lounge in the auditorium of the zoo, almost in front of Rajah's cage. The boy groaned piteously. The tiger looked at his victim, and, standing on his hind legs, beat the bars fiercely in the efforts to continue his attack. When the boy was carried out on a stretcher to the ambulance the beast stood quietly for an instant and watched the little procession pass the cage.

Rajah is one of the largest Bengal tigers in captivity. He is also one of the most ferocious, and all efforts to train him have proved futile. He lost his tails several years ago while in a circus menagerie. The tail was pushed through the bars into a cage of lions, one of which seized it and bit it off about a foot from the body. Since that time Rajah's disposition has been worse than before.

Rajah is about twelve years old, and was captured ten years ago in the jungles of India, by Frank Bostock's brother, who owns a Zoo in Glasgow, Scotland. The animal is the father of two cubs, recently exhibited here, born of a lioness. The cubs were burned in the recent Baltimore Zoo fire. Since the animal lost his tail he has not been exhibited as a trained tiger because of his bad temper.

W. F. Tanner, who first entered the cage at the rescue is known as "Lorenzo and "Mustang Ned." The latter name was given to him while a member of a wild West show. While in France with one of Bostock's shows Rajah escaped and killed two horses. Tanner captured the tiger unassisted by cowing him with a revolver filled with blank cartridges and by using a club. For this he was presented with a silver medal, which he now wears on his watch chain.

Neilson's home was at Piqua, O., and he had been with the Zoo for more than a year. He knew the dangerous nature of the tiger and certainly entered the cage through a mistake.—Indianapolis Dispatch.

Great Fire in Atlanta.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 21.—Fire to-day destroyed almost an entire block in the wholesale district of Atlanta, entailing a loss of half a million dollars on which there is insurance amounting to nearly $450,000. The burned area is bounded by Railroad Avenue and Lloyd, Decatur and Collins streets. The principal losers are: J. J. & J. E. Maddox, wholesale grocers, $125,000; Grambling Spaulding Shoe Company, $50,000; Draper Coggins Shoe Co., $70,000; Arnold Hat Co., $40,000; R. N. Ficket Paper Co., $40,000; McConnell & Christopher, dry goods, $25,000; Dinkins & Davidson, hardware, $15,000. The fire started at 5:45 a. m. from an unknown cause, in the Maddox store, and was suddenly spread to all parts of the building by a tremendous explosion, presumably of oil and syrup. The flames, fanned by a high wind, soon spread to adjoining buildings and were beyond control of the departments fifteen minutes after the entire fire fighting force had been brought to the scene. The firemen were hampered by insufficient water pressure and were kept away from the buildings by frequent explosions of kerosene, molasses and powder in the different establishments. The explosions sent burning rafters in every direction and perceptibly weakened the fire walls in the big block, erected only four years ago. It was noon before the flames were brought under control and the firemen did not leave the scene until night. Three houses on Collins street—the Tenderloin district—with their costly furnishings were completely destroyed and the inmates driven out scantily dressed into a temperature of 16 degrees, the coldest morning of the winter. Early trains on the Washington branch of the Southern Railway were compelled to stop several blocks from the union depot, as were also the train of the Georgia railroad, the firemen having run several leads of hose across the tracks. Outgoing trains were sent around by the belt line, causing a delay of about an hour. The night watchman in the Maddox building left his post at 5 a. m., one hour earlier than customary, having permission, he claims, of one of the firm.

South Carolina Republican Shot.

Charleston, S. C., Feb. 21.—James W. Tolbert was shot to-day in the streets of McCormick, Abbeville county, where he had been told he must not go, or he would be killed. It is the outcome of the political feud which resulted in the Phoenix riots and murders in the fall of 1898. Before Tolbert was shot he is said, apparently without any reason, to have fired two shots at Young Martin, a visitor in the town, who had nothing to do with the row between Tolbert and the citizens of McCormick. Martin was dangerously wounded in the body and hip. This act so enraged the citizens that they immediately opened fire on Tolbert, but only two shots took effect. His brother, R. R. Tolbert, expects to carry the wounded man to Augusta, or someplace of safety to-night.

If Martin should die it is reported from McCormick that the citizens would kill Tolbert. Tolbert has been in bad odor in McCormick ever since the Phoenix riots. He owns considerable land near McCormick and had been advised by anonymous letters to leave there, and was approached by a crowd of men yesterday and told to leave. He declared that he intended to stay. The Tolberts are among the very few white Republicans in that section of the State.

Mr Carnegie's Benevolence.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie has withdrawn from active commercial concerns but he keeps himself busy doing good.

Within a week he has given $260,000 to Utica and $50,000 to Montgomery for public library buildings. Nobody is surprised to learn any day that Mr. Carnegie has made a princely donation to some community. The habit grows on him. The list of his benefactions has already reached grand proportions and is extending rapidly. He is yet in the prime of life. With his vast fortune, his noble nature and his prospect of a career for many years to come there is no telling how much more good this man may do. It is a great thing to possess great sums of money and to have the disposition to use them for the benefit of mankind.—Atlanta Journal.

Railroad Rumors Renewed.

New York, Feb. 21.—The Commercial Advertiser says: "Since the purchase by President John Skelton Williams, of the Seaboard Air Line, of Thomas F. Ryan's stock holdings in subsidiary roads in that system, the reports of a combination between the Southern Railway Company and the Seaboard have been renewed. It is the general belief in Wall street that a friendly arrangement equivalent to traffic alliance has been entered into by the respective management of these two properties.

"Unusual activity and strength marked the course of the Southern Railway shares in the stock exchange to-day. The price of the common advanced 2½ and the price of the preferred stocks advanced 2½. Officers of the Southern said that there was no statement regarding that company to be made at present.

"When President Williams, of the Seaboard Air Line, was asked whether his company and the Southern would enter into any agreement, he hesitated a few seconds and then replied: "I don't care to say anything more than that the Seaboard will run an independent line."

"The directors of the Seaboard Air Line are expected to meet in this city next Wednesday and something may be done relative to the future policy of the company. The main object of the meeting is to ratify the purchase of Thomas F. Ryan's stock."

Escapes the British.

London, Feb. 25.—A correspondent of The Daily Mail, with Henniker's column, wiring Saturday, says: "General Dewet was routed yesterday by Colonel Plumer, with whom were Colonels Henniker, Craddock, Jeffrys and Grabbo. This success was preceded by a series of desperate attempts on the part of the Boers to escape from the water belt of the Orange and the Brakke rivers. General Dewet, after unsuccessfully attempting to cross the Brakke at Klip drift, and the Orange at Reid's drift and Mark's drift, moved along the bank of the Orange with one gun and one pom-pom and laagered opposite Kamed drift. At dawn Colonel Plumer left Welgevord, 22 miles west of the Boer camp, and moved northeast. At Zenurga, they attacked the enemy, taking 40 prisoners. The pursuit was continued during the afternoon, the Boers moving towards Hopetown. Toward evening the leading troops sighted the enemy, who had laagered beyond gun range. Colonel Owen charged the spot where the Boer artillery was supposed to be, and captured the whole of it. The enemy fled, leaving their horses ready saddled and their cooking pots full. According to the latest reports only 400 Boers re-crossed to the north side of the river. The Orange is greatly swollen."

Patriotic Filipinos.

Manila, Feb. 22.—Thousands of Filipinos gathered around the Luna band pavilion, near the shore, this afternoon, and listened to and applauded American sentiments expressed by native and American orators, the occasion being the birthday of George Washington.

Filipino and American flags fluttered from the ships in the bay and over various parts of the assemblage. They were intertwined on the speaker's stand. The Federalists marched from various sections, each party following a banner designating its own locality, and crowded closely about the pavilion where were seated Governor General MacArthur and other generals, the members of the United States Philippine Commission and a number of Filipino leaders. President Tervor, who was one of the principal speakers, testified on behalf of the Federal party to the confidence felt by Filipinos in the American government. He said his fellow countrymen especially revered Washington as a type of the highest Americanism and considered there was no servility in acknowledging American sovereignty.

General Luke E. Wright, of the commission, assured the Filipinos that the Americans had come among them to plant such form of liberty as they knew and enjoyed at home.

Whipped a Brutal Teacher.

A horse whipping was this afternoon given Charles Surhr, a teacher in the German Emanuel Lutheran School, at Marshfield avenue and West Twelfth street, before all his pupils, by Charles Spruth, father of one of the pupils. Spruth says his son was brutally whipped by the school teacher. He preferred whipping the schoolmaster in return rather than having him arrested. The teacher applied to the police and now Spruth is charged with assault and battery.

The stories that the boys in Surhr's school tell of his treatment of them rival those Dickens told about Dotheboys Hall in Nicholas Nickleby. There are several, the boys say, who have been whipped repeatedly and with great severity. The teacher keeps an account of the conduct of his pupils by writing their names and the number of times they break the rules of the school. Every Saturday the schoolmaster lines the boys up and gives each as many blows with a stick as there are marks after his name.

In the case of Peter Bauer the whipping is said to have consisted of 75 blows. Young Spruth sympathized with a punished boy whose mouth was bleeding, and he says the school teacher pounced upon him.—Chicago Dispatch.

Fertilizer-Trust Complete.

Charleston, S. C., Feb. 22.—It was learned here to-day that the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company, commonly known as the fertilizer trust, has bought out the Charleston Mining and Manufacturing Company. The latter concern owned 200 acres of the best phosphate land in the world, located in Charleston, Bekeley and Colleton counties, and only recently efforts were made to induce it to put up a million dollar plant here. The price paid for the stock of the Charleston Mining Company was 130, and the total sum involved is $1,500,000.

As long as this company was independent it was a constant menace to the so-called trust, and now that it has been bought the Virginia-Carolina concern has virtual control of the fertilizer situation in the South. The Charleston Mining and Manufacturing Company is owned entirely by Philadelphia capitalists. It began operations in 1867 and has perhaps paid more handsomely on its original outlay than any corporation in South Carolina.

$1,000,000 for Johns Hopkins.

Baltimore, Feb. 22.—The celebration of the twenty-fifth annual commemoration day at Johns Hopkins, this morning, was especially signalized by the resignation of its president, Daniel Coit Gilman, to take effect September 1, and the announcement that friends of the University have almost succeeded in raising the fund of $1,000,000 necessary to secure the completion of the recent conditional gift to the University of a magnificent tract of land for a new site for the institution.

The resignation of Prof. Herbert B. Adams, who together with Dr. Gilman, has served the University since its inception, was announced, based on ill health. Both resolutions were accepted with resolutions of regret and respect. The exercises were marked by an attendance unprecedented in the history of Johns Hopkins. Hon. David Jayne Hill, Assistant Secretary of State, and former president of the University of Rochester, may be chosen to succeed Dr. Gilman.

Tifton, Ga., Feb. 23.—News reached here to-day that the jail at Alapaha was burned Wednesday night, and a negro prisoner was cremated in it. The negro had been arrested for fighting with another saw mill hand, and opinion is divided as to whether friends of the negro with whom he had quarrelled fired the structure or whether the prisoner himself turned incendiary in an effort to escape.

OCEAN STEAMER GOES DOWN.

Rio de Janeiro Sunk Outside the Golden Gate—122 People Supposed to Have Been Drowned.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 22.—The Pacific Mail steamer Rio de Janeiro ran on a hidden rock while entering the Golden Gate early this morning in a dense fog. She sank a few minutes after striking. It is thought that nearly 122 persons were drowned, but it is impossible to ascertain the number, owing to the fact that Purser John Rooney, who had the passenger list and roster of the crew, is among the missing. At 5 o'clock this afternoon ten bodies had been recovered, two white women, one white man and seven Chinese. The most prominent passenger on the steamer was Rounseville Wildman, United States consul at Hong Kong, who was accompanied by his wife and two children. It is thought all were drowned. The ship was in command of Pilot Frederick Jordan when she struck. He was rescued. Captain William Ward went down with his vessel. As nearly as can be learned there were 201 people on board the Rio de Janeiro, as follows: Cabin passengers, 29; second cabin, 7; steerage (Chinese and Japanese), 58; officers and crew, 107. The following have been accounted for: Rescued, 79; bodies at the morgue, 10; total 89. Missing, 122.

The Rio de Janeiro was three days overdue from Hong Kong via Honolulu when she arrived off the Heads last night, and the dense fog prevailing at the time induced Pilot Jordan to bring her to anchor until he could see his way clear through the gateway. She laid to until about 4 30 o'clock this morning, when the atmosphere cleared and she was started under a slow bell toward Point Bonita. All went well until 5 40 o'clock when she struck. Most of the passengers were below at the time, and it is believed that many of them were drowned in their berths. The first news of the disaster reached here at 7 30 this morning and soon afterward a boat load of rescued passengers and petty officers arrived at the mail docks. Tugs were dispatched to render any services that might be needed, but no living persons were afloat when they reached the wreck. A number of drowning people were rescued by Italian fishermen and the bodies of two white women, three Chinese and a Japanese were brought in by the tugs. The search for victims has continued all day.

The officers were cool and gave the necessary orders with the least possible excitement. Captain Ward, who was on deck when the vessel struck, at once gave orders to the crew on watch to hurry the passengers to the forward deck. The quartermaster on duty sounded the signal for fire drill, and within five minutes all the men were at their stations, the captain gave orders to lower the life boats and life rafts. There was not much confusion until 15 minutes after the striking, when the bow of the vessel suddenly plunged under the water. Then there was a wild rush for the boats. Two boats had already been lowered and others were getting away as rapidly as the trained discipline of the crew could prepare them. A thick fog enveloped everything, and as yet no sign had come from the life-saving stations. Darkness was all about, and with this added horror the people on the Rio had to cope. One boat got clear of the vessel without damage. Another boat containing Third Officer Holland and J. K. Carpenter got away, but was drifted around close up under the bow of the steamer. As the forward end of the vessel plunged downward, the prow caught the small boat and cut it in two. The two men in the boat were uninjured, and swam away. Carpenter was picked up and Holland is supposed to have perished.

A number of Italian fishermen who were just starting out this morning saw the sinking of the Rio and hastened to render assistance. Meantime many of the terrified people rushed to the railings and jumped overboard. Some were picked up, others drowned. The Chinese crew, numbering over 100, was terrorized. Many jumped into the sea. Captain Ward remained on deck until the vessel had settled and the water was engulfing him. Then he went up on the bridge to issue directions.

That the steamer sank almost immediately after striking is the report of a majority of those rescued. The wreck lies about three-fourths of a mile south of Fort Point and about 1,000 yards off the rocky shore. The smokestack and a portion of the upper works of the ill-fated steamer are visible.

Three survivors say that they saw Captain Ward to the last, but Frederick Lindstrom, the quartermaster of the Rio, emphatically declared that Captain Ward emulated Admiral Tryon, of Her British Majesty's ship Victoria, in going down to his cabin, where he met his doom behind a locked door.

Quartermaster Officer Lindstrom was one of the first to land according to his story Captain Ward, after consulting with Pilot Jordan, came down from the bridge. He was standing on the deck when the vessel crashed upon the rock. There was a cry of "Man the boats!" but it was apparent that in the midst of the awful confusion in a systematic effort to save the passengers would be of no avail. Everybody was scrambling for his own safety.

It was at this time that Lindstrom says he saw Captain Ward standing on the forward deck. Suddenly the captain turned and walking hurriedly to his cabin, disappeared behind the door, which he closed. A second later the vessel was plunging to the bottom of the sea.

[Capt. Ward, who was in command of the fated vessel, called North Carolina his home. His mother and other relatives now resided in Raleigh and in recent years he visited that city several times. He was 42 years old and unmarried.—PATRIOT]

San Francisco, Feb. 23.—The loss of life by the sinking of the City of Rio Janeiro is now estimated at about 130 of whom 86 are Chinese. A dozen bodies were recovered as the tide ran swiftly out to sea when the vessel struck.

The following were saved: Capt. Hecht, German army; Mrs. K. West, R. Hobz, W. Brander, Jr., Russell Harper, J. K. Carpenter, Miss Ripley, nurse, Brizonia; Miss Gabriel Rherous, Civade Nushbaum, R. H. Long, Phillip, Nussenblatt, Mrs. Robina Robbins, Miss Robbins.

Fifty-one of the crew were lost with Consul General Williams' wife, two children and nurse, Mr. and Mrs. Hart, Dr. Dodd, Dr. Ottawa and servant, C. W. Heshall, Mr. and Mrs. Woodworth, C. Dowdall, H. F. Seymour, proprietor Manna American, H. C. Martheson, W. A. Henshall, Mrs. Jehu, D. A. W. Dodd, William Caspi, ships' officers and Chinese crew of 86. The fate of Wildman and family was settled by Mrs. West who saw them all except one child in small boat alongside the steamer just as the vessel sank. One mast fell cutting the boat in two, in which the Wildmans were, sinking it. As they were not seen afterwards they doubtless sank with the vessel.

Cashier's Second Thought.

Reidsville, N. C., Feb. 21.—C. M. Roper, alias C. D. Hartley, claiming Norfolk as his home, called at the Bank of Reidsville yesterday and asked Cashier Evans to cash an apparently regularly made out voucher on the North Carolina State Prison, drawn on the State Treasurer in favor of F. B. Roper & Co., payable to C. M. Roper, and by him properly endorsed, for $268.70. The cashier refused to pay it until a local liveryman identified Roper. With the money in his possession, the latter went to Danville. Evans, feeling uneasy, then made inquiries and found the liveryman had known Roper for a few days only. The cashier thereupon went to Danville and was fortunate enough to find the man and to secure the money paid over to him. Roper or Hartley was not tried in Danville, but probably will require requisition papers from North Carolina and brought here for trial.

James Ivie's residence at Leaks-ville has been destroyed by fire. It was partially insured.

Would Not Allow a Suicide to be Buried in Cemetery.

New Castle, Feb. 21.—The funeral of Ralph J. White, the aged farmer who shot and killed his neighbor at Sweet Valley, Pa., and later committed suicide was held yesterday afternoon.

When the funeral procession reached the gates of the cemetery at Sweet Valley the sexton had the gate closed and refused admission to the hearse.

He said he had instructions from the trustees not to permit the body of a suicide to be buried in the cemetery.

Relatives of the dead man were indignant, but the procession turned back.

The body is now held by the dead man's friends, until the courts decide upon an injunction brought to prevent the trustees interfering.

Crowe Claims Innocence.

Omaha, Neb., February 22.—E. A. Cudahy has received a letter bearing Pat Crowe's signature, which the police authorities believe is genuine. It is dated South Omaha, February 15th. He maintains he is innocent, and says he has no knowledge of the affair, excepting what he has read in newspapers. He says he will drop into Omaha some day and prove himself innocent, and that he would have done so long ago had he not been afraid that he might suffer the fate of the negro who was lynched at Leavenworth. He expresses the opinion that he will soon be able to come with safety and make an appeal to the chief of police and Mr. Cudahy to stand between him and violence. In conclusion, he says he is much hurt to think that Mr. Cudahy suspects him of being guilty.

FIXED AT LAST.

Scheme to Avoid an Extra Session of Congress—What Cuba Must Do.

Washington, Feb. 25.—Senators Platt, of Connecticut, Spooner, Money and Teller, the sub-committee of the Senate Committee on Relations with Cuba, who have been several days endeavoring to draft a satisfactory amendment to the Army appropriation bill which would give the President power to act on the Cuban constitution when it is received, without the approval of Congress, reported an agreement this morning and the amendment was presented to the Senate. It is believed that if the amendment is adopted there will be no necessity for an extra session of Congress.

The amendment covers eight clauses and is very broad and sweeping. It is provided that Cuba shall aid the United States in protecting her interests by selling or leasing such coaling stations as this government may select. The Cubans must continue sanitary work and protect all commerce in the island. A treaty is to be drawn up between Cuba and the United States containing all the clauses in the amendment, which is as follows:

"In fulfillment of the resolution promising Cuba independence, the President is directed to turn over the control of Cuba to the people of that island as soon as a government is established.

"Under this agreement, which must be made a part of the Cuban constitution—

"1. The government of Cuba must not enter into any treaty with any foreign power that would impair or tend to impair the independence of Cuba, and it must not permit colonization.

"2. The government must not assume any indebtedness that the revenues of the island are inadequate to liquidate.

"3. The right of the United States to intervene in Cuban affairs as set forth under the treaty of Paris must be recognized.

"4. All previous acts of the government of the island of Cuba must be ratified and the lawful rights of the United States must be maintained.

"5. The government of Cuba must continue the present sanitary work and regulations and will execute all plans for the sanitation of the island, assuring the protection of commerce.

"6. The Isle of Pines shall be omitted from the proposed boundaries of Cuba, and its possession shall be determined upon later.

"7. To enable the United States to protect Cuba, that government will sell or lease to the United States such coaling stations as the government of the United States may select.

"8. All of the clauses contained above will be included in a treaty to be made between the United States and Cuba."

The Removal of Solicitors.

The bill introduced in the House yesterday by Mr. Zachary, of Pennsylvania, giving judges authority to discharge solicitors who may drink too freely of the liquid that cheers, was the occasion of a rather startling discussion before the House Judiciary Committee.

Mr. Zachary appeared before the committee and stated that his county had not had a sober solicitor in two years. Mr. J. W. Ferguson is the solicitor in the county of Pennsylvania.

The measure was reported favorably by the committee after being slightly amended. It gives the trial judge authority to remove if a solicitor becomes inebriated at any time during the term of a court. Power is also given judges to name an acting solicitor during the period of removal.

Mr. Zachary: "The condition in our county is deplorable. We have not had a sober solicitor in two years."

This bill is intended to reach solicitors during court, but also during the term of the court. Many persons who have an interest at stake get solicitors drunk at night and this is just as bad.

Judge Connor suggested that a solicitor who got drunk during court was more properly a subject for impeachment.

Mr. Zachary: "I think we have got enough of impeachment just now."

Mr. Patterson: "This solicitor ought to resign or be impeached."

Mr. Ebbs: "All that Mr. Zachary has said is true."

Mr. Zachary: "There is no politics back of this matter. The solicitor is a Democrat and he comes of one of the best families in the State."

Mr. Patterson: "That makes no difference."

The committee passed the bill favorably after slightly changing the wording of it.—Raleigh Post.

Mrs. Nation to Run a Paper.

Topeka, Kan., Feb. 21.—Mrs. Carrie Nation is to enter politics and become the editor of The Smashers' Mail, a paper to be run in behalf of negroes. She has refused tempting offers to go on the stage, and will remain in Topeka to help elect a "clean man" for mayor at the spring election.

These matters were announced by the crusader from her cell in the county jail to-day, after the charge against her of smashing the Senate Saloon, two weeks ago, had been dismissed by Judge McCabe. She is still being held on the charge of breaking into Moser's cold storage plant last Sunday.

Whitsett Items.

Mr. Frank Swift, of Ashland, is here visiting his brother.

Mr. Jas. F. Greeson visited his parents at Euliss last week.

The lecture by Prof. Joyner on Sunday night was well attended.

Rev. J. D. Andrew will preach in the Reformed church here next Sabbath at 3 p. m.

The double daily mail which we have now had for some months is a great convenience.

Mr. A. T. Whitsett and daughter, of Greensboro, visited Mr. J. B. Whitsett Saturday.

Mr. W. P. Lawrence, representing the Ebby Press, of New York city, was here last week.

The "beautiful snow" of Saturday and Sunday set the "sleigh bells a'ringing" in our midst.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Davenport spoke of building an addition to their handsome residence soon.

Mr. R. B. Foust, now of Burlington, spent a day here last week. He is buying maple and oak timber.

Mr. Ernest B. Clapp has returned from a visit to Miss Ada Clapp, his sister, who is teaching in Nashville.

A large crowd is expected at the entertainment by the young ladies Saturday night. The public invited.

Miss Blanch Breneman drew a large house at her elocutionary recital. She left Tuesday for Fayetteville.

Judge Cornell and Mr. and Mrs. Bright, of the Guilford Trust Company, New York city, are visiting friends here.

Two parties were here last week looking for a vacant house, but found none. One of them will likely build here soon.

Mr. W. M. Clapp has his new saw mill now ready for business. He has already sawed some lumber for the new school building.

The family of A. G. Clapp, Esq., one of our leading citizens which has been afflicted with la grippe, is much improved, we are glad to note.

Prof. Whitsett is now offering for sale on most reasonable terms some very desirable building lots. They are beautifully located and are sure to prove a fine investment to purchasers. Property here is rapidly increasing in value.

The very best item of news that has gone out from here in years is this: Lumber and material are being rapidly placed on the grounds for the erection of another very large and handsome school building. The rapidly increasing patronage has rendered the present building inadequate, and another will be erected to accommodate the growth of the school. For two years the school has been unable to receive all who have applied, but with this additional building, room will be provided for a great increase of students. The new building will be about fifty by ninety feet in size, and will contain library, society halls, &c., in addition to class rooms, auditorium, &c. This will mean a great deal for the progress of the school and will place Whitsett Institute in the forefront of well-equipped southern high schools. The erection of this building will mean much for the development of our place, and already several parties are considering plans for other improvements here. It is expected to have this new building ready for occupancy by the opening of the fall term.

The Confederate veterans of Moore county will meet in Jonesboro on the 8th of March. The meeting will be addressed by Gen. Julian S. Carr, Mr. F. S. Spruill and others, after which a camp will be organized.

are grown and selected with special reference to their adaptability to the soil and climate of the South. On our seed farms, and in our trial grounds, thousands of dollars are expended in testing and growing the very best seeds that it is possible to grow. By our experiments we are enabled to save our customers much expense and loss from planting varieties not adapted to our Southern soil and climate.

Wood's Seed Book for 1901 is fully up to date, and tells all about the best seeds for the South. It surpasses all other publications of its kind in helpful and useful information for gardeners, truckers and farmers.

Guilford College Items.

The 22nd was holiday at the college and several persons from Guilford attended the Sunday school conference at High Point.

On the Sabbath Messrs. Harrell and Zion, of Knightstown, Indiana, were visitors at the college. The former married a relative of Mrs. P. B. Hackney.

The Armenian, with an unpronounceable name, was at the college on the 21st, and entertained the students for twenty minutes at the close of school on that day. It is hoped he will return and give his lecture on Armenia.

Mrs. Mary M. Hobbs, who several days ago was called to Westtown, Pa., to see her son, Walter, who was sick with grip, found him better, but was taken with the grip herself while there. She hopes to be able to come home in about one week.

Mr. and Mrs. Marine, of Brooklyn, New York, visited the college on Monday. They were originally from Indiana, and having been students at Earlham College with Miss Osborne, they came especially to visit her. They were much pleased to find Guilford so well equipped, and seemed to enjoy their visit at the college.

The public school gave some interesting public exercises on Friday suited to commemorate Washington's birthday. A large company of people assembled and the exercises were conducted with great credit to the pupils and to the teachers. The school will be conducted six and a half or seven months, making the longest term of public school ever held in this district and conducted by two competent teachers.

The first class debate ever heard at Guilford came off on the night of the 23rd, between the seniors and juniors, the question being "Resolved, That the American government alone should build and operate the Nicaraguan canal." The senior class, represented by Messrs. Woody, Hammond and Hill, maintained the affirmative, and Messrs. Davis, Davidson and Idol, the negative. The decision was listened to with much interest throughout. The discussion was given in favor of the affirmative, although the contest was close, and the question on both sides was well presented.

Vandalia Items.

Mr. Kivett, of High Point, was here on business last week.

Miss Lillian Elliott, of your city, visited in the neighborhood last week.

Mr. H. R. Culp, of Greensboro, spent Sunday at Mr. G. L. Anthony's.

Lagrippe has somewhat loosened its hold on the people of this community.

Mr. Charlie York and family visited their parents at Lego Sunday last.

Mr. D. D. Cameron, of Manly, is added to the force of the Guilford nurseries.

Mr. Walter Elliott and family visited his parents in your city last Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Poe, of Pleasant Garden circuit, was a welcome visitor here recently.

Miss Nannie Vermillion and Miss Blanche Anthony were welcome visitors here last Thursday night.

Mr. R. D. Tucker, who has been in Virginia for the past six months, has returned to his home near here.

We learn that Dr. J. T. Reives, a prominent physician of Julian, has purchased the Gorrell farm, near here, and will move his family soon.

Messrs J. C. and S. Coe, Charlie Sharp, Flavius Plunket and A. V. Anthony, of Liberty Normal College, spent Friday, Saturday and Sunday at their homes.

Lego Items.

Mr. D. A. White will give the young people a party Saturday night.

The Deep River nurseries have just received a fine lot of grape vines from Southern Pines for cutting.

Mrs. Tetia Stack, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Bertha Pitte, at Summerfield, returned home Sunday.

Mr. D. A. White expects to go to Vandalia, where he will do grafting for the Guilford nurseries. Mr. White is one among the best in the business.

Mr. Enoch Barker lost his blacksmith and wood shop by fire last Thursday night. Nothing was saved. The origin of the fire is unknown.

J. A. Burney, J. A. Gardner, D. A. Oakley and J. R. White have been busily engaged in hauling saw logs to the saw mill near Guilford Station, where they will be cut into lumber for shipping, building, etc.

Elberta Items.

Mrs. Bertha May, who has been quite sick, is better.

Mr. Weatherly has moved his family from Benaja here.

Mr. W. C. Rankin will have no school this week, as he is a juror.

Mr. W. D. Kirkman, who has been sick for some time, improves slowly.

Mr. Fletcher McCulloch, of our place, has accepted a position in South Carolina.

Winter again! According to the ground hog sign, will have a few more weeks of it.

The bad weather kept some away from Mr. W. R. Neece's exhibition at Alamance last Saturday.

The health of Mrs. Elizabeth Scott continues about the same. She is still with her son, Mr. S. J. Scott.

We are glad to welcome to our neighborhood Mrs. Matilda Boon and son, Mr. A. C. Boon, of Gibsonville.

Miss Dovie Mendenhall gave a nice entertainment at her school last Friday in honor of Washington's birthday.

Misses Nina and Lillian Glass, Miss Mattie Tucker, C. E. Glass and Charles Tucker all visited relatives in Greensboro since our last writing.

Among our recent visitors we recall Messrs. Flavius McCulloch, Clark Kirkman, Charles Scott, R. C. Kellum; Officer Will Scott and son, of Greensboro; Miss Grace Ingle and L. Jones, of Whitsett; Miss Mattie Foard, Mrs. Hanner and children and little Ila Keith, all of Greensboro; Mr. and Mrs. Currie Stewart, D. L. and J. A. Hoffman, Mr. O. A. May and family, Miss Callie Shepherd and Bula Kirtland, Mr. J. V. Donnell, and Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Gladstone.

Oak Ridge Items.

New students continue to enter the Institute from all parts of the country.

All our people who have been suffering with the grip are again at their posts.

Elder Willard, Deep River, spent Saturday and Sunday with Capt. R. S. Williams.

The recitations of Mrs. Junius Donnell at the entertainment were of a high order.

Misses Tise and Shipley, of Winston, have been visiting Miss Emma Williams and have made many friends.

Miss Carrie Smith, of Summerfield, has been spending a few days on the Ridge, where she has scores of friends.

The Dramatic Club gave a charming entertainment in the chapel on Saturday night, which was well attended.

Chas. Canada, of Summerfield, spent Saturday and Sunday with Prof. Wright, at Oak Ridge, where he is always welcome.

There is a strong growing sentiment through all this part of Guilford county in favor of impeachment of Supreme court judges.

Miss Julia Stewart, daughter of A. Stewart, Esq., a popular young lady of this community, was married to Mr. Cameron, of Charlotte, last week.

Mrs. W. E. Stone spent a fortnight with her husband at Mrs. D. W. Whitaker's, returning to Greensboro Friday. Our people will be happy to see her again.

Summerfield Items.

Miss Lilly Stapleton, of Winston, is visiting her mother.

Our postmaster, Mr. F. M. Medearis, received painful injuries from a fall, but is much improved at this time.

We are glad that the prospect for a roller mill at this place is good. Such an enterprise is very much needed in this vicinity.

The play given by the young ladies of this place Monday night was much enjoyed and was a success financially. The Oak Ridge band furnished most excellent music for the occasion. Among the visitors were Dr. Joy Harris, of Greensboro, and Profs. Foote and Wright, from Oak Ridge. Also quite a number of young men from your city. This play will be given at Oak Ridge in the near future.

Climax Items.

Mr. Robert Gray and wife are happy. It is a girl this time.

Mrs. J. A. Cannady, of your city, visited Mr. Coble, manager of the Cannady farm, recently.

MANAGERS OF IMPEACHMENT.

House Elected Nine Members to Prepare and Present the Articles.

The House yesterday named nine of its members as managers, who will prepare and present to the Senate articles of impeachment against Chief Justice Furches and Judge Douglas of the Supreme Court.

The managers on the part of the House are:

Mr. Allen, of Wayne.
Mr. Craig, of Buncombe.
Mr. Graham, of Granville.
Mr. Hayes, of Chatham.
Mr. Spainhour, of Burke.
Mr. Rountree, of New Hanover.
Mr. Nicholson, of Beaufort.
Mr. Shannohouse, of Mecklenburg.

Mr. Seawell, of Moore.
To-day at noon the Senate will be notified by a committee of five from the House that the resolution of impeachment has been adopted by the House, and charges against both judges will be formally presented at the bar of the Senate.

Speaker Moore yesterday named as members of the committee to notify the Senate Messrs. Winston of Bertie, Ardrey of Mecklenburg, Blount of Washington, Zachary of Transylvania, and Carlton of Duplin.

The following resolution, which was introduced by Mr. Hayes of Chatham, naming managers on the part of the House to prosecute the impeachment in the Senate, was adopted:

"Resolved, That the House do now proceed to elect by ballot nine managers, members of the House of Representatives, who shall prepare and present to this House articles of impeachment against David M. Furches, Chief Justice, and Robert M. Douglas, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, and who shall conduct such impeachment at the bar of the Senate, with power to send for persons, papers and records and to take testimony under oath, with the further power and authority to associate with them in the preparation of such articles and in the conduct of said impeachment other counsel learned in the law."

Mr. Hayes introduced the resolution early in the morning, and it was made the special order at 1 p. m., when it was brought before the House.

Mr. Connor, of Wilson, expressed the opinion that seven managers would be a sufficient number to prosecute the case. He said the House was behind in its work, and, as many important matters are coming up, the presence of all members possible will be required.

Mr. Craig conferred with Judge Connor and he agreed not to oppose the number named in the resolution. The resolution was adopted, though the number "seven" was not far behind those who responded affirmatively.

Mr. Hoey, of Cleveland, placed in nomination the nine managers to prepare and present the articles of impeachment, named above. He said it was desirable that the best lawyers in the House be selected to perform the duty.

Mr. Allen, of Wayne, moved to add the name of Mr. Connor, of Wilson, to the list of managers.

Mr. Connor replied that he thought nine a sufficient number of managers. Though he opposed the action of the House, he said, the will of the House was his will. "When my party speaks," Mr. Connor declared, "I speak. It is not because of my views held heretofore that I ask to withdraw my name, but I do so because my hands are full. The educational bill and other matters are absorbing my attention, and I will be kept busy." Mr. Allen said he felt certain that the gentleman from Wilson would take that position. He said his high character and standing made it desirable that he serve as a member of the committee. The managers were elected by roll call. They received sixty-seven votes each.—Raleigh Post 20.

A Lucky Girl.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Feb. 19.—In Monroe county near the Georgia line a bed of black copper has been found that will make several men of that section very rich.

The manner in which the ore was found has caused much talk all over this section.

Miss Marie Madison, the eighteen year old daughter of William Madison, of Monroe county, has four different times within the past month dreamed that there was a pot of gold hidden in a certain spot on her father's ground. She told of her dream each time and after dreaming it the fourth time her father decided to make search of the spot where the young lady saw the money in her dreams.

On last Saturday digging was commenced and it was but a few hours until they discovered that the ground was full of black copper. Samples of the ore have been examined by John Quintell, an expert tester of ores, and he says it is black copper of a very high percentage and that the find will net Mr. Madison and the parties owning land adjoining him more than one pot of gold. The Ducktown Copper Company is already getting out fine copper ore there and there is no doubt that the find is a valuable one.

Room at the Top.

The recent death of Mrs. Mary Palmer Banks, widow of the late Gen. Nathaniel P. Banks, brings out a pretty story of the career of these two people, which contains a lesson for hundreds of boys and girls in Charlotte, in North Carolina and in the South. General Banks attained to a national reputation. He became Governor of Massachusetts, went to Congress from his State and was elected Speaker of the House and he rose to the rank of brigadier general in the Northern army during the civil war. It is true that he did not make a brilliant war record but some allowances needs to be made for him in consideration of the fact that he had for an opponent Stonewall Jackson, whom the very greatest of the Federal generals never whipped. Mrs. Banks rose to be one of the first ladies of New England in her day, honored in her life time for her kindness and noteworthy intellectuality and culture and mourned by many in her death.

Nathaniel P. Banks was a bobbin boy in a cotton mill and Mary Palmer worked at the spinning frame. They worked together in a cotton mill at Waltham, Mass. Both were ambitious and energetic, studied in night schools after the mill closed, tired as they always were after the long hours of toil during the day, and lost no opportunity to learn and better themselves. The Boston Journal of Commerce says of Mrs. Banks, whose long, eventful life has just ended, that she was "a lady, who, starting in the lowest position that a cotton mill could offer her, rose by means of pluck, high moral character and eagerness to better her lot until she finally attained the highest position among the ladies of this State."

The Observer is published in the entre of one of the greatest cotton manufacturing sections in the world.

It goes to scores of cities, towns and villages where the whirl and hum of the cotton mill is heard, and where the mill buildings are just swarming with bright-eyed, sweet-faced, quick, active, alert boys and girls, who can take care of nearly half a dozen "sides" at once and mend a broken thread like a flash of lightning. The writer of these lines has not a few personal acquaintances among such little folks as these and their friendship he values very highly. Some of them go to night schools and are improving their minds in study and reading good books. The Observer hopes that a great many of these little workers in the mills will get hold of this story of General and Mrs. Banks and how they braved every difficulty until they rose to be useful and great and known all over the United States. Such careers as theirs, from children who worked in the mill to be Governor and Governor's wife, ought to show other children similarly situated what they may become by application, diligence, determination, ambition of the right kind and effort. The boys and girls in the North Carolina mills have no better friend and well-wisher than The Observer and it commends to them the life and example of these two children of the Massachusetts mill.

In closing we print another extract from the Boston Journal of Commerce:

It is more our intention in this article to point out to our mill operatives that their lot is not necessarily a degraded one and that they have a chance to elevate themselves to a much higher standing than is theirs to-day. There is a chance for them, by following such a worthy course as that pursued by the most distinguished couple mentioned above, to elevate themselves to the highest positions, both socially and economically. It is true that the chances are not as plentiful as they were fifty years ago; but it is true, nevertheless, that there are still many chances and we read of such cases happening in our midst very often. It is not a month since a poor mill operative named John Owen, working in a mill at Oldham, England, won a fellowship at Oxford University. Mr. Owen was made of the same kind of metal as the Bankses. Although he had his parents to support and lost his young wife but a few weeks before the examinations, that unconquerable pluck and determination to win, no matter how great the odds, won out and the future which now lies before this lad is most bright.—Charlotte Observer.

Progressive Guilford.

Mr. Marcus D. Herring has returned from Pomona, where the J. Van Lindley Nursery is located. He states that the business done there, not only in the sale of trees, etc., but in the manufacture of terra cotta piping, was a revelation to him. Guilford county, he says, is following the lead of old Mecklenburg in the way of macadamizing roads. The convicts are at work in earnest and with improved machinery, and they have already completed a road from Greensboro to Pomona, two and a half miles. Other roads are to be run out in different directions.—Charlotte Observer.

For the weakness and prostration following grippe there is nothing so prompt and effective as One Minute Cough Cure. This preparation is highly endorsed as an unfailing remedy for all throat and lung troubles and its early use prevents consumption. It was made to cure quickly. Howard Gardner.

Happy Times in Dixie.

I said to a traveling man who recently returned from the South, "What are the prospects for business in your territory the coming season?"

"These are happy days in Dixie," he replied. "If you want a confirmation of this statement with figures to back it up why don't you publish this little extract from the Age-Herald, Birmingham, Ala.? It tells the story of Southern prosperity in a concise and convincing manner."

In looking over this clipping I agreed with the shoe traveler that it tells a wonderful story of Southern prosperity. I reproduce it here for the benefit of the shoe trade in general and Southern shoe men in particular.

These are happy times in Dixie. Cotton is king again, and his joyous subjects are shouting welcoming ayes to their returning sovereign. The dardies are singing as of old in the cotton fields and the white man, because his burden has been lightened, is humming the words dear to every Southern heart:

Dixie's land is the land of cotton.
Cinnamon seed and a sandy bottom,
Look away! Look away!
Look away down South in Dixie.

He no longer sings:
The melancholy days have come,
The saddest of the year,
When it takes a pound of cotton
To buy a glass of beer.

And well may the farmer sing, when the price of cotton is considered. The Atlanta Constitution says that the crop of 1898-99, which amounted to 11,274,840 bales, sold for $282,772,897. Cotton in August, 1899, was selling for 5.75 cents per pound. A few days ago it sold for nearly 11 cents. This is a difference of 5.25 cents per pound, or $26.25 per bale. It is almost double what it was in August, 1899. The crop of 1899-1900 was 9,436,416 bales and sold for $363,784,820—an increase over the preceding crop of $81,000,000. This year's crop is estimated at 9,500,000 bales, and worth $482,426,078, an increase over the crop of 1898-99 of nearly $200,000,000. No wonder the farmer is smiling this season with the prospect of having $200,000,000 more in money than he had in 1898-99. If he will only learn to let cotton futures alone the good old times may come back again, his wife and daughters grow fat and buxum, and he himself give away his new coat which is now only ten years old.—Boston Boot and Shoe Recorder.

Read Others' Love Letters.

Because of an unconquerable penchant to read other people's love letters, Miss Marion Peters, the pretty 18 year-old daughter of Daniel Peters, of Hecla, this county, has gotten into an ocean of trouble. Daniel Peters is postmaster at Mingoville. He is also track foreman on the Central Railroad of Pennsylvania. His daughter, Marion, had charge of the postoffice while her father was at work on the Railroad.

For some time past there has been constant complaint of the mail at that office being tampered with. Letters and packages were opened and resealed before delivery. Complaints at the postoffice failed to remedy the evil, and finally the postoffice authorities at Washington were notified. Postoffice Inspector W. M. Malone secured abundance of evidence and last evening Miss Peters was placed under arrest.

The young woman confessed her guilt and gave as her reason her desire to read the love letters sent and received by the young people of that community. From opening love letters she got to opening business letters and packages, but in no instance was the mail rifled of any contents. Miss Peters waived a hearing and was held in $500 bail for trial at the next term of United States Court in Pittsburgh.—Bellefonte, Pa., Special 16th, to Philadelphia Record.

Five Negroes to Hang.

Sylvania, Ga., Feb. 20.—Arnold Augustus, Andrew Davis, Richard Sanders, Wm. Headson and Sam Baldwin, five of the negroes who killed Fillmore Herrington and Milton Mears, two white men, in this county last August, were found guilty of murder last night and sentenced to be hanged March 29. The men were members of an organization known as the Knights of Archer. The charter of this order, which was found by the posse arresting the negroes, is said to contain vengeance against the whites and the members were obliged to defend themselves against the whites unto death.

Recent experiments show that all classes of foods may be completely digested by a preparation called Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, which absolutely digests what you eat. As it is the only combination of all the natural digestants ever devised the demand for it has become enormous. Howard Gardner.

Gov. Aycock at Battle Ground.

Editor PATRIOT:
We are greatly gratified to announce the fact and all will be delighted to know that Hon. C. B. Aycock—Governor of all the people of North Carolina—has kindly consented to deliver the oration at Guilford Battle Ground on the Fourth of July next. This announcement assures an immense gathering, and made thus early we hope and respectfully ask other associations to appoint a different day for their own particular demonstrations so that all may meet and everybody may hear Governor Aycock at Guilford Battle Ground on the coming 4th of July.

The Eminent Kidney and Bladder Specialist.

The Discoverer of Swamp-Root at Work in His Laboratory.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Then the richness of the blood—the albumen—leaks out and the sufferer has Bright's Disease, the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the new discovery is the true specific for kidney, bladder and urinary troubles. It has cured thousands of apparently hopeless cases, after all other efforts have failed. At druggists in fifty-cent and dollar sizes. A sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling about Swamp-Root and its wonderful cures. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. and mention this paper.

—The secretary requests the PATRIOT to announce that the date of the next meeting of the Guilford County Teachers' Association will be announced soon. It is hoped that the teachers will bear this in mind and be prepared to attend.

—A large number of Sunday school workers attended a state convention in High Point last week. Forty-seven counties were represented and over 200 delegates were present. Prof. G. H. Crowell, of High Point, was elected president of the association. Rev. J. D. Andrew, of Burlington, was re-elected vice-president for this district.

—A. E. Shore, of Yadkin county, was arrested in Virginia and brought to Greensboro last week on a bench warrant issued by Judge Boyd. The arrest was made on account of the violation of internal revenue laws. The defendant claimed that it was a case of mistaken identity on the part of the deputy marshal who made the arrest and the case was continued until March 11th, when it will be heard by United States Commissioner Wolfe.

—Farm for Sale.—168-acre farm and a vast amount of terra cotta clay, situated five miles west of Greensboro and one mile north of Hilltop, on spur of Southern Railway, which can be easily built into the middle of the property. The farm is surrounded by vast woodlands, has good dwelling, tenement and out buildings. It is one of the finest locations for terra cotta work in the State. For further information call on or address Mrs. M. J. Pliant, Pomona, N. C.

—A large delegation was here from Washington township yesterday to attend a trial before Justice Wolfe. Miss Sockwell, a public school teacher, was indicted for whipping a scholar. Judge Adams represented the prosecution, Col. John A. Barringer appearing for the defense. After hearing the evidence of a number of witnesses Squire Wolfe dismissed the case at the cost of the prosecution. Without expressing any opinion as to the merits of this particular case, it is not a miss to say that it is bad policy to not allow teachers to enforce discipline in the public schools.

Escaped Convict Captured in Danville.

Over a year ago Eugene P. Epps, a white man, was convicted of the larceny of a considerable quantity of cloth from the Southern Finishing and Warehouse Company and sentenced to the county roads for a term of two years. His surroundings in the camp were not exactly to his liking, however, and he at once began to plan an escape. The force to which he was attached was employed near Gibsonville, the section of the road then being worked being some distance from the camp. Epps took two other convicts into his confidence and arranged for a bold and daring escape one evening as they were returning to the camp. When they were opposite a piece of thickly wooded land the three convicts broke ranks and ran, Epps taking care to keep well in front of his two confederates. The guards fired and brought down the two men in the rear, but Epps made good his escape. The wounded men afterwards died.

Epps managed to exchange his convict's garb for a suit of more presentable clothing and made his way to Danville, Va., where he obtained employment as a shipping clerk at the Riverside mills. In Danville he went by the name of Beverly and made many friends. But he stopped too near home. A short time ago the officers in Greensboro learned of his whereabouts and caused his arrest. He was placed in jail, and Chief of Police Scott went over for him. Epps, alias Beverly, feigned great indignation that he should have been arrested for an escaped convict and refused to come with the officer. As he was in another state, it was impossible to bring him without a requisition, for which an application was made Saturday night. Although it has put the officers to some trouble, the county will have the services for nearly two years of an able bodied addition to the present county roads force.

Highwaymen Abroad.

From the frequency with which people have been held up and robbed in this city recently it would appear that Greensboro is infested by a gang of highwaymen. Last week's PATRIOT told of Mr. Meyer Sternberger having been attacked on Summit avenue, robbed and beaten into insensibility. A few nights later, in the same section of the city, Mr. Edward Duffy, a son of the gardener at Mr. Caesar Cone's, was met by three men, who knocked him down and took his overcoat, undercoat and a small sum of money. Will Hall, a colored employee of the Southern Express Company, claims to have been held up near Proximity the same night and relieved of a dollar, all the money he had on his person. A few weeks ago Mr. J. L. Hendrix was attacked one night as he was returning to his home, but a well directed blow sent one of his assailants to the ground and frightened the others away. Prior to that time a negro had been robbed of a sack of flour at the same spot.

It is quite probable that all the robberies were committed by the same persons, but the officers have been unable to discover their identity. It was at first thought that they were negroes, but it is now believed that they were white men under the disguise of negroes, since they left on the bodies of Mr. Sternberger and Mr. Duffy marks made by some material that had evidently been used in making a disguise.

So far no one has been robbed of any considerable amount of money, and it is probable that the highwaymen are amateurs. It is also noticeable that all the robberies were committed in the same section.

Letter to Mr. C. P. Vanstory, Greensboro, N. C.

Dear Sir—We pay for newspaper space to address you, and scorn a 2-cent postage stamp because we fear a letter through the usual channel would not receive the attention we can conscientiously claim for an offer that is unusual. Want to give you or any of your friends that intend painting this Spring, some paint for nothing. To any one sending us dimensions of house, and number of coats of paint to be put on, we will at once write advising how many gallons we give "free of charge" and also memorandum of some pretty and pleasing combinations of colors. Several well-painted houses in your town for our salesmen to show the merchants will greatly help us in establishing an agency, and that is why we are making so liberal an offer. Mercantile Agencies rate us at the top; been making L. & M. Paint for 30 years; have sold enough to make a chain of paint cans around the world; you thin L. & M. with linseed oil same as white lead; costs less, covers as well, and lasts longer than lead. Better investigate.

Yours truly,
LONGMAN & MARTINEZ,
Paint Makers,
207 Pearl St. New York City.

Had to Conquer or Die.

C., "I had Consumption so bad that the best doctors said I could not live more than a month, but I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery and was wholly cured by seven bottles and am now stout and well." It's an unrivaled life-saver in Consumption, Pneumonia, La Grippe and Bronchitis; infallible for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Hay Fever, Croup or Whooping Cough. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at Holton's drug store.

Death of Mrs. E. H. Scales.

Mrs. Effie Henderson Scales, who had been ill of grip and pneumonia for a week or more, died at her home on East Washington street yesterday morning at 2:30 o'clock. Her condition was not considered dangerous until a day or two before her death. The funeral was held from the First Presbyterian church this morning at 11 o'clock, the service being conducted by Rev. Dr. E. W. Smith. Interment was made in Greene Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Scales was 60 years old and was the widow of Junius I. Scales, who died in 1878. She was the mother of the following nine children, all of whom survive her: Misses Anna and Irving Scales and Messrs. A. M. and J. I. Scales, of Greensboro; Judge Wallace N. Scales, of Grangeville, Idaho; Lieutenant Archie H. Scales, of the United States navy; Mr. Pinkney Scales, of Connecticut; Mrs. H. W. Cobb, of New York, and Mrs. E. B. McKenzie, of Richmond, Va. The latter was the only one of those from out of town who was with her mother when she died. The others, with the exception of Judge Scales, who is now on his way to Greensboro, arrived in time for the funeral.

Mrs. Scales was a woman of many excellent qualities and was beloved by all who knew her. For long years she had been a sincere Christian and a devoted communicant of the Presbyterian church.
