THE TICKET.

Chief Justice—Walker Clark.
Associate Justices—Henry G. Connor and Platt D. Walker.
Corporation Commissioner—E. C. Bed-dingfield.
Superintendent of Public Instruction—
J. Y. Joyner.

The greatest gathering of the underfitted Democracy of the Old North State has ever been seen in that which assembled here in state convention yesterday.
The faithful began coming Tuesday and they kept coming on every train right up to the convention hour.

And such a gathering. Fine bodies of men have been seen here and elsewhere in convention before, but no gathering of the kind ever compared with this.

In order to give our readers the earliest possible information concerning the convention we have held our paper back a day, believing that they would prefer a synopsis of the proceedings, without embellishment, rather than wait a week for a fuller report.

The convention was called to order promptly at 12 o'clock yesterday by Chairman F. M. Simmons. Rev. Dr.
Law, of Lumber Bridge, offered up a fervent prayer in behalf of the assembly, after which the call was read by Secretary Pearsall.

On roll call every county in the state with the exception of Mitchell was found to be represented.

Major Stedman, in behalf of the Democracy of the city and county delivered an address of welcome that was one of the most beautiful word structures ever planned. His natural grace and eloquence were never displayed to better advantage.

Chairman Simmons in his acknowledgement made an appropriate speech in his best vein. Continuing he took up the issues that confront the party and handled them in a masterly manner. He could not have said more or less. At the close of his speech he introduced Mr. A. M. Scales, of this city, as temporary chairman.

Mr. Scales made a fine impression on the convention by the speech he made on assuming the chair. It was a graceful high-minded effort, well worthy of Guilford's leader.

The appointment of committees followed. To give them in detail would overtax our available space at present and they are deferred. They comprise the committee on Credentials, Permanent Organization, Platform and Resolutions, Rules, and the State Executive Committee.

Whereupon the convention adjourned at 3:30 P. M.

The convention was called to order again at 3:35 by Temporary Chairman Scales, who called for the report of the committee on credentials. Chairman Hackett, of that committee, soon reported that all the counties in the state were represented, with the exception of Mitchell, and that there were no contests. He further reported that three counties were entitled to one or two more votes in the convention than the printed lists showed, making in all 1,248. With Mitchell absent 1,245 votes were represented.

The committee on permanent organization, through Chairman Busbee, named Hon. W. D. Turner for permanent chairman, F. B. Arendell secretary, with Walter Murphy and Geo.
P. Pratt assistants.

Mr. Turner on assuming the chair made a brief speech and the convention promptly settled down to business.

The committee on rules recommended that the rules of the last legislature govern the convention.

Nominations for Chief Justice were called for, with the provision that they should be limited to ten minutes each.
Hon. Claude Kitchen, of Halifax, presented the name of Judge Walter Clark in a highly eulogistic speech. Mr. N.
B. Broughton, of Wake, seconded the nomination. No other name was proposed.

It was suggested that the roll call be dispensed with, but objection was made by Ed. S. Abell, who insisted that the vote be recorded. During the progress of the vote it was stated by some one that Judge Justice was not a candidate for Chief Justice and that anyone instructed to vote for him was free to vote for Judge Clark or anyone else.

When the vote was announced it was found that 144 votes had been cast for Clark. The remainder were scattered, with the exception of forty,
which were not cast for anyone.

When the nominations for eastern Associate Justice were called Mr. V. C.
Bryant, of Durham, placed in nomination Judge Henry G. Connor. Seconding speeches were made by Messrs.
Ellington, of Johnson, and Pell, of Ashe.

Mr. Ed. S. Abell, of Johnson, nominated Judge Geo. H. Brown. Seconding speeches were made by Messrs.
Skinner, of Perquimans; Lucas, of Hyde, and Moore, of Macon.

The vote as cast was as follows:
Brown ..... 620
Connor ..... 625

A motion by a Brown delegate to make the nomination unanimous went through with a whoop.

After a recess for supper the convention met at 8:30 and proceeded at once with nominations for western Associate Justice.

Hon. C. W. Tillet, of Mecklenburg, placed in nomination Hon. Platt D.
Walker, of Mecklenburg.

Hon. Theo. F. Klutz, of Rowan, placed in nomination Hon. Chas. H.
Armfield, of Iredell.

Hon. Dan Hugh McLean presented the name of Hon. Jas. A. Lockhart, of Anson.

Judge Thos. A. Jones, from Buncombe, nominated the Hon. Chas. A.
Moore, of Buncombe.

A number of seconding speeches were made.

The first ballot stood:

Armfield	319
Lockhart	224
Moore	217
Walker	475

Second ballot:

Armfield	207
Lockhart	138
Moore	126
Walker	604

Third ballot:

Armfield	328
Lockhart	84
Moore	110
Walker	714

The nomination of Mr. Walker was made unanimous.

Nominations for Corporation Commissioner were made as follows:

By Mr. Z. V. Taylor, of Guilford, Mr. John S. Michaux.
By Mr. R. N. Sims, of Wake, Mr.
E. C. Beddingfield, of Wake.

By Mr. Siler, of Chatham, Mr. H.
C. Brown.
By Mr. Walter Daniels, of Halifax,
Mr. Thos. W. Mason, of Northampton.

By Mr. Jerome, of Union county,
Mr. John M. Fairley, of Union.

By Mr. Bond, of Hyde, Mr. Geo. I.
Watson, of Hyde.

After several seconding speeches the first ballot was taken as follows:

Beddingfield	479
Brown	150
Fairley	59
Mason	332
Michaux	179
Watson	122

The second ballot stood:

Beddingfield	513
Brown	31
Fairley	12
Mason	382
Michaux	182
Watson	135

Just as the secretary began to call the roll for the third ballot the names of Messrs. Brown, Fairley and Michaux were withdrawn. The vote was:

Beddingfield	636
Mason	524
Watson	86

The nomination of Mr. Beddingfield was made unanimous.

When the time came to nominate a Superintendent of Public Instruction
the name of Hon. J. Y. Joyner was submitted to the convention by Dr. W. T.
Whitsett, and the nomination was made by acclamation, under a suspension of the rules.

The nominations made in the various judicial districts were ratified.

THE PLATFORM.

Senator H. A. London, of Chatham, was recognized and made the following report for the committee on platform:

We congratulate the people of North Carolina upon the adoption of the Suffrage Amendment to our State Constitution and upon the benefits that have resulted therefrom, and we pledge the Democratic Party to faithfully maintain it by every legitimate means, and we demand that the Republican Party shall declare its purpose either to accept or reject it, and until it is accepted as a finality by all parties we declare it to be the duty of the white people to stand together for its protection.

The Democratic Party, representing the intelligence, the virtue, and the manhood of the people of the State, recalls with pleasure the entire absence of scandals during its administration of public affairs, and the gratifying advancement which has been made amongst us in all industrial lines. We have fostered agriculture, and promoted manufacturing, and have given to capital full security and have protected the rights of labor. We pledge the Party to a fair and just system of taxation, and we demand that all subjects of taxation shall bear their just and equal proportion of the burdens of government.

We renew our pledges for the extension and improvement of the public school system of the State, so that it may keep pace with the needs and conditions of our people, and point with pride to the great impetus and progress in this great work during the last two years, and call attention to the fact that this year, for the first time in the history of the State, every school district has been able to maintain a public free school for four months as required by the Constitution.

We believe that the permanent prosperity of the people of this State depends largely upon the construction and maintenance of good roads, and we pledge the party to the heartly support of all wise measures to that end.

We heartily commend and endorse the administration of Governor Chas.
B. Aycock and other State officials, for their faithful execution of the party's promises in so far as the same has been possible thus early in their terms of office. We likewise extend our appreciation and endorsement to United States Senator F. M.
Simmons, and to our Democratic Representatives in Congress, and congratulate them and the people of the State for their faithful and official services to the State in the councils of the nation.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS.

We affirm our allegiance to the Democratic party and its principles as enunciated in its national platform.

We denounce the policy of Imperialism as inaugurated by the Republican National Administration, and declare it to be obnoxious to our form of government and fraught with danger to the very existence of the Republic.

We denounce as oppressive and illegal those combinations of capital known as Trusts and Monopolies that stifle competition, throttle individual effort and destroy the generous spirit of rivalry that should exist in the commercial world.

We denounce the deceptive and illusory course of the Republican party in Congress, in furthering the existence of the Trusts by its refusal to enact legislation restraining them, and to enforce in good faith the existing laws against them, that party being in the full control of all branches of the government.

We denounce the present iniquitous, unjust and trust-creating protective tariff, imposed upon the people by the Republican party, and demand its immediate revision, to the end that all unjust burdens shall be removed, and especially those upon the necessities of life. Its provisions enable the trusts to export from the people unreasonable profits and to sell to consumers at home at greater prices than are charged for the same goods to the foreign consumer. We demand, therefore, that all such Trust-made goods be placed on the free list.

We favor the establishment of the Appalachian Park and urge that our Senators and Representatives in Congress use their best efforts to secure its establishment.

THE CONCLUSION.

We again appeal to the people with a confidence that it is only from the Democratic party that there can be expected an honest, capable and efficient administration of the government of the State, and point with pride to its past history in the administration of the affairs of State, and challenge a comparison with the iniquities of fusion and Republican rule.

We promise the people of the State a continuance of that honest, safe, conservative and economical government which has always characterized Democratic rule, and pledge our best efforts for the advancement of the material prosperity and happiness of the whole people.

PRIMARY.

That we favor making all nominations by our party for State and district offices by primaries and the State executive committee is hereby instructed to formulate a system to regulate primary nominations for United States Senator and all State and district nominations and we demand the enactment by the General Assembly of appropriate legislation for the regulation of such primaries; that an oath shall not be required of any voter in such primaries; that the State executive committee is instructed to call at such time as they think wise a primary to nominate a U. S. Senator to succeed Senator Pritchard but such primary shall not be held on the day of the general election.

Three members of the committee, to-wit: H. A. London, of Chatham, H. S. Ward, of Washington, and N.
A. Sinclair, of Cumberland, earnestly favored the following as a part of the platform: The Supreme Court having recently decided that the school fund is required by the constitution to be apportioned between the races per capita, it is apparent that a much longer school term will result to the negro than the white race under such apportionment and we therefore demand such legislative action as will insure a more equitable apportionment of the said fund between the two races.

The other members of the committee being personally in favor of the same, were notwithstanding of the opinion that the matter ought to be referred to the legislature without definite action by this convention.

MINORITY SUGGESTION.

Strike out all that relates to the nomination of a United States Senator to succeed Senator Pritchard.

W. T. CRAWFORD.

H. A. LONDON.

N. A. SINCLAIR.

Second substitute: For the words
"we reaffirm our allegiance to the Democratic party and its principles
as enunciated in its national platform" the words "we reaffirm our allegiance to the fundamental principles of the Democratic party."

H. A. LONDON.

N. A. SINCLAIR.

A spirited debate followed the submission of the report. Messrs. H. S.
Ward, of Washington; R. L. Stevens, of Union; Hon. W. W. Kitchen, of Person; Cam. Morrison, of Richmond, and Mr. Laughinghouse, of Pitt, spoke in behalf of the report as submitted, while it was opposed by Messrs. C. M.
Busbee, of Wake; Judge Avery, of Burke and C. L. Abernathy, of Carteret.

The majority report was sustained by a vote of 690 to 555.

A motion to strike out all reference to the primary was debated at length by several able speakers and finally adopted. The senatorial primary is no more.

The convention was noisy and demonstrative, and as the night wore away showed less and less inclination to listen to long speeches. It was clearly demonstrated that state conventions should cover a period of two days.

At 4.10 this morning the convention adjourned, after adopting resolutions thanking the city for the hospitality and courtesies extended, and the presiding officer and secretaries for the excellent manner in which they performed their duties.

Comment must be made on the character of the speeches heard in the convention. They were without exception of the highest order and reflected credit not only on the men who delivered them, but on the party as well.

The proximity band added much to the pleasure of the convention.
It was a great gathering and Greensboro is proud of the success which attended it.

Congressional and Judicial Conventions.

A report of the Congressional and Judicial conventions, held Tuesday evening, in which Hon. W. W. Kitchin was unanimously renominated for Congress and Hon. A. L. Brooks was unanimously renominated for Solicitor is crowded out of this issue.

The State League Disbanded.

The "national game" suffered quite a blow in North Carolina last week when it became evident that the state league was on its last legs. The withdrawal of Charlotte was really the death-blow of the league, notwithstanding the fact that Wilmington had previously withdrawn, owing to continued defeat. Other towns stood ready to take Wilmington's charter, but before any deal was consummated Charlotte pulled out. An attempt was made to continue the second series of games with a four-team league, but the plan did not work satisfactorily. Durham refused to meet its appointment at Newbern Monday, thus putting both teams out of commission, and Raleigh and Greensboro are left as the sole representatives of the league. They will play this week in Greensboro and next week in Raleigh and then disband.
The best players of the disbanded teams have about all signed with other leagues. Asheville, Charlotte's manager and star player, went to Cincinnati yesterday to take charge of the National league team. All lovers of good clean sport regret the sad fate which befell the state organization. Charlotte is entitled to the honor of breaking up the league three successive seasons, and if it ever figures in another it should be made to give bond for its appearance throughout the season.

LATER—The Greensboro and Raleigh teams disbanded yesterday and there will be no more games.

New Firm at the Banner.

BROWN'S SUMMIT, July 12, 1902.

TO MY MANY FRIENDS OF GUILFORD AND ROCKINGHAM COUNTIES:

In this way I wish to inform you that I have sold out my business at Brown's Summit to Mr. W. O. Doggett, who will carry on the same with Mr. John L. Tate as manager. Mr. J.
F. Fulton, formerly of Stokes county, but for the last year with the Banner warehouse, Greensboro, and myself have rented the Banner for the sale of leaf tobacco, commencing August 1st, 1902. I wish to say that Mr. Fulton has had five years experience in the warehouse business and is one among the best judges of tobacco in the state.
We expect to make the Banner warehouse the best in the state for the sale of tobacco. When you get ready to market the present crop, come to Greensboro and give us a trial. Thanking you for past favors, I remain,

Yours to serve,

A. J. LAMBETH.

Excursion to Wilmington.

Capt. J. H. West and J. R. Donnell, two of Greensboro's business men, have arranged to operate a grand midsummer excursion from Salisbury and Greensboro to Wilmington Wednesday, July 30, leaving Salisbury at 8 o'clock A. M., and Greensboro at 9:30.
The fare from Salisbury is only $3.50;
from Greensboro and High Point $3.00.
This will probably be the only excusion to Wilmington this season that will give you two days and nights to spend in that city. The best of our citizens always patronize Capt. West's excursions and this trip will be strictly first-class in every particular. Lay aside your cares for a short time and spend a few days in recreation and pleasure at the sea coast.

TOBACCO NOTES.

Items of Interest to the Grower, the Dealer, and the Manufacturer.

Mr. J. S. Martin, a Martinsville, Va., tobaccoist, is spending a few days in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bray spent Saturday and Sunday in Halifax county, Virginia.

The warehouses here have advices that primings will be on the market this week.

Mr. W. L. Ferrell, of Winston, a former buyer on this market, was here yesterday.

The first load of new leaf sold in Winston Friday brought five cents, and the Tobacco Journal says it was high at that.

Mr. P. R. Casey finished prizing last week and has emptied his leaf house with the exception of a few packages.
He is in good shape for next year's business.

The current crop bulletin issued by the state notes a continuation of the favorable condition of corn, cotton and tobacco. The dry spell was relieved in many localities by timely rains which benefited all vegetation.

Mr. Henry I. Glass, for over two years employed as a bookkeeper in the office of J. S. Cobb & Co., here, and later with Cobb & Curran at Winston, was here yesterday morning en route to Durham to take a good position in the A. T. Company's office there. He is one of the cleverest and most competent young men known to the trade.

The priming season is now on, and I heartily commend those who have started out to lose nothing but save every leaf as it comes in. Judging from the present outlook prices will be good and I fail to see how any tobacco grower can afford to lose his primings, either by pulling them off and throwing them upon the ground or by leaving them on the stalk and allowing them to burn and drop off

And still the clouds rolled on, and while the battle raged our suits continued to went at the greatly reduced prices that we have placed on them.

It's not profits we are fighting for, but room for fall stock.

If you need clothing you will discover your error too late unless you buy of us.

Greensboro and Connett's Southern Early Peaches

are now all the talk among fruit growers. Look out for these two peaches and remember that they were introduced by John A. Young, proprietor of the Greensboro Nurseries. Fruit growers shipping by the car load say they are the money makers. Men who have introduced other varieties and talked them until they were hoarse, are now bound to acknowledge that these two are the leaders. They are being planted by the thousand. To be sure of getting the genuine, you should order from headquarters.

Oak Ridge Institute starts on her second half century September 1st. This school had 250 boarding pupils last year, and claims to be the largest preparatory and fitting school in the South for young men and boys. Young men, and parents with sons to educate, would do well to examine the beautiful catalogue before deciding the matter of patronage the coming year. The school, while not of the Cheap John variety, offers the best advantages at reasonable terms.

Chief of Police Gardner, of Reidsville, brought to the city last Wednesday J. W. Lovings, a young white man charged with disposing of mortgaged property by selling a buggy and harness on which it was alleged M. G. Newell & Co. held a mortgage. The young man denied the charge. He was not ready for trial and not being able to give bond he was obliged to go to jail until his trial could be summoned and the trial held. The case was set for a hearing before Justice Pritchett.

The German American Insurance Company of Texas, with its principal office in Austin, was chartered by the insurance department of that state last month, after approval by the Attorney General. This is the only stock company domiciled in the state. It has a capital stock of $1,000,000. Ex-Governor Hogg, Ex-State Comptroller McCall, and Messrs. A. F. and J. R. Hancock, formerly of Guilford county, are named in the directorate, along with several other men prominent in financial circles in Austin. The organization was effected by the Messrs. Hancock, who have had much experience in mutual insurance matters.

The annual meeting of the Greensboro Electric Company was held here last Wednesday. The same officers were re-elected, namely: John Karr president, M. D. Barr treasurer, Z. V. Taylor secretary. The board of directors was increased from three to five and consisted of the officers above named with the addition of Mr. F. R. Williamson, of New Jersey, and Mr. E. P. Wharton, of Greensboro. Arrangements were made for the consolidation of the Greensboro Gas and Electric Light Company with the Greensboro Electric Company and all are now under one management. The business was found satisfactory and all the officials are pleased with the outlook.

Mr. E. E. Saunders, who travels for a Richmond house, is out about twenty dollars as a result of carelessness, and Charles Ellis, a colored bell boy at the Hotel Guilford, is in jail for an inexcusable violation of one of the laws of the land. Saturday afternoon Mr. Saunders called the boy to take a pair of pants to Cartland's tailor shop to be pressed. As the boy approached the shop he was seen to stoop and pick up something that had fallen from the pants. Before the boy returned to the hotel Mr. Saunders discovered that he had forgotten to remove his purse, containing about forty dollars, from the pants, and started out to look for it. He was told that the boy had been seen to pick up something that resembled a purse, and he reported the matter to Chief Scott. Ellis was shadowed that evening, but without avail, and he was finally arrested and taken to the mayor's office, where he vigorously denied all knowledge of the purse or its contents, but on being searched the purse and half its original contents were found pinned inside his clothing. A part of the money Mr. Saunders was able to identify, and Ellis can count on making the acquaintance of Road Superintendent Tyson at an early date.

Saves A Woman's Life.

To have given up would have meant death for Mrs. Lois Cragg, of Dorchester, Mass. For years she had endured untold misery from a severe lung trouble and obstinate cough. "Often," she writes, "I could scarcely breathe and sometimes could not speak. All doctors and remedies failed till I used Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was completely cured." Sufferers from Coughs, Colds, Throat and Lung Trouble need this grand remedy, for it never disappoints. Cure is guaranteed by C. E. Holton. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at Whitsett on Tuesday last at 3:30 o'clock when Miss Ada Clapp, the beautiful and accomplished daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Clapp, became the wife of Robert E. Buck, a popular and successful traveling man of Charlotte. The wedding was a very quiet one and witnessed by only the immediate friends of the contracting parties. Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple left for Boston, going by way of Norfolk, where they will visit the groom's parents, afterwards spending three or four weeks at northern resorts. Mr. and Mrs. Buck will be at home after August 8th at 612 Fifth avenue, Greensboro. Rev. J. D. Andrews, of the Reformed church, performed the ceremony. The best wishes of a number of friends go with them.

An Evil Habit.

Dr. Lyman Abbott in the Outlook. It is the habit of self-consciousness. You are not a very important member of the universe; you are not even a very important member of your own world. There are other much more important subjects for you to be thinking about than yourself. It is not well to put much thought on the question whether you are sick or well, whether you are miserable or happy, whether you are plain or handsome, whether you are stupid or quick, whether you are awkward or graceful, whether you are sinful or virtuous. The habit of self-examination is generally a pernicious habit. If you conclude that you are well, or handsome, or able, or virtuous, you become self-conceited and a Pharisee. If you conclude that you are sick, or plain, or stupid, or sinful, you become morbid, melancholy, a hypochondriac, an object of pity to your friends and of contempt or detestation to yourself. Do not be perpetually asking yourself the questions, What shall I eat to be strong and well? What wear to look handsome? how behave to appear graceful? how act to be virtuous? That is not the way to be well, or handsome, or graceful, or even virtuous. Who by much thinking can add one thing to his stature?

What then? Why, think of others, not of yourself. I was taking a lesson in golf one day. "Do not look at your club," said the teacher: "look at your ball." I got from him a lesson in life. Do not look at your club: look at your ball. Think of your food, not of your digestion; of your book, not of your improvement; of the friend you are helping, not of the help you are giving to him. Sydney Smith I think it is who has somewhere said that he was always uncomfortable in society until he came to two conclusions: first, that everybody was not looking at him; second, that he could not be any one but Sydney Smith, no matter how hard he tried. Be yourself; you cannot be some one else if you try. Are you awkward? It is less awkward to be awkward naturally than to be graceful unnaturally. Are you homely? You cannot shorten your nose or lengthen your chin, nor perfect your complexion, by thinking about them. Self-consciousness only makes the homely features homelier; but he who forgets that he is homely makes others forget it also. Do you lack some virtue? Selfishness is the sum of all sin, and selfishness is thinking about self; love is the sum of all virtues, and love is thinking about others. Render such service as you can to whomsoever you can—not because it is your duty, but because it is a service. Make whomsoever you can happy—not because you ought, but because he will be happy. "Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow. They toil not, neither do they spin; yet Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these." Grow without thinking about it. That is the secret of a happy and a useful life.

Parents make a great mistake when they tell the child his fault in order to cure him of it. He ought to be cured of it without knowing that he has it. In continually chiding your child for his faults you develop one of the most serious of faults, that of self-consciousness. Has he a slouching gait? Do not tell him so; do not bid him stand up straight. Give him a military drill, or start him in athletics. Is he slovenly and does he come to dinner with uncombed hair? Dress for dinner yourself and buy him a handsome necktie—one that appeals to his fancy, not to yours. Is he selfish? Do not let him guess that he is so. Contrive a Christmas celebration for the happiness of others, and take him into your confidence in preparing for it. Then, when he does what he knows to be wrong, your rebuke will be more significant, and your punishment, if punishment is needed, as it sometimes is, will be more effective. Punishments always, rebukes generally, should be reserved for the sins of which the sinner is conscious. Faults of which he is not conscious should be concealed if possible, without his being conscious of either the fault or the correction. Overcome evil with good. That requires skill. Any fool can point out a fault; only a wise man can correct it.

The Same Old Story.

J. A. Kelly relates an experience similar to that which has happened in almost every neighborhood in the United States and has been told and retold by thousands of others. He says: "Last summer I had an attack of dysentery and purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which I used according to directions and with entirely satisfactory results. The trouble was controlled much quicker than former attacks when I used other remedies." Mr. Kelly is a well known citizen of Henderson, N. C. For sale by C. E. Holton, druggist.

Chicago, July 7.—B. W. Pyle, owner of one-third of the city of Greytown, Nicaragua, has committed suicide at the Garfield Park Sanitarium. For fifteen years he lived in hopes that the United States would build a canal by that route, and took his life in a fit of despondency.

Pritchard and Craig Arrange a Joint Senatorial Canvass.

Asheville, July 12.—While a proper regard for the verities would not permit the assertion that the sessions of the State Bar Association, which came to a close in this city yesterday, had a well defined political side, it none the less remains a fact that there was no end of veranda political talk. A score or more of things political was inevitable. The politician felt that it was good to be here. At one time Senator Pritchard met, quite by accident, two of the gentlemen who are seeking his official shoes, Lee S. Overman and Locke Craig, with the result that political badinage for some moments entertained a group of friends. A little later the conversation took a more business-like turn, when the Senator and the gentleman from Buncombe consulted on the subject of their proposed joint canvass. That there should be such a canvass was settled then and there, even some of the details being agreed upon. For instance, the speech-making will begin in the east, and the speakers will gradually approach the mountains. The determining factor here was largely physical. Senator Pritchard has vivid recollections of malaria contracted while canvassing the extreme east with Hon. H. A. Gidger in the early fall months, and of the amount of quinine consumed in order to prepare his system against a possibly worse fate. Mr. Craig immediately recognized the force of this argument, so it seems likely that a number of dates will be filled in the east during August. Both these gentlemen have made mutual promises to keep their temper well under any and all circumstances, and to give the people a high-toned presentation of the issues. This joint canvass will probably prove the most interesting and enlivening feature of the approaching campaign. Both are forceful speakers and will make the effort of their lives to come out of the verbal battle victorious.

To Fight Tobacco Combine.

New York, July 10.—Following a favorable outcome of conferences now being held in London between representatives of the Imperial Tobacco Company of Great Britain and Wm. P. Butler, president of the Universal Tobacco Company of America, the American Tobacco Company may soon be confronted by a $300,000,000 competitor. According to private cable dispatches plans for the consolidation of the two companies to wage war against the American Company have reached a promising stage.

In any event, it is announced, the Imperial Tobacco Company intends commencing operations in this country within a short time, manufacturing a full line for the tobacco trade. Its policy is the acquisition from large independent factories of the best-selling brands of tobaccos, snuff, cigarettes and cheroots and cigars.

The Imperial Company has a fixed charge of $1,000,000 a year, and having shown to their subscribers an annual earning power for five years previous to the amalgamation of $2,000,000, leaving $1,000,000 a year for dividends.

George P. Butler, who is a stockholder in the Universal Company, and brother to its president, said:

"I think my brother, if he were here, would be willing to state that while the committee of the Imperial Tobacco Company were here on their recent visit, they were interested in the situation of the Universal Company. Several conferences here were the result, and they went abroad, I believe, to lay the Universal situation before their board. What the eventual culmination of their conference will be I do not know."

Montroe, July 11.—The contest is over for the nomination in the Seventh Congressional district. Mr. Robt. N. Page, the brilliant young man from Montgomery, is the victor. He captured the prize on the 1,298th ballot.

The contest for the Congressional nomination in the new Seventh district was a battle royal between as worthy a company of young leaders as North Carolina boasts. It required 1,298 ballots to make a nomination. The nominee is Mr. Robert N. Page, of Montgomery, one of the most progressive, prosperous and useful of the younger business men in North Carolina. He is a native of Wake county, the second son of the late Mr. Frank Page, who, with his sons, built the Aberdeen and Asheboro Railroad, and led in developing large sections of the counties of Moore, Montgomery and Randolph. Mr. Page is treasurer of the Aberdeen and Asheboro Railroad and until it was sold last year was president of the Page Lumber Company. He is interested in other important enterprises. In 1900 Mr. Page was nominated for the Legislature from Montgomery county. He was elected and made a reputation as one of our safest and wisest legislators. He is a director of the Western Hospital, Methodist Orphanage, and is a Christian gentleman of the highest character. He is a man of ability and will grow into an able and useful Congressman.

Scales-Hines Wedding.

Henderson, July 10.—An interesting society event occurred today at 12 o'clock when a most beautiful marriage was celebrated.

The contracting parties were Miss Sue Henderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hines, one of Henderson's fair and accomplished daughters, and Mr. J. P. Scales, a successful and prosperous young business man of Dayton, Ohio, but formerly of Greensboro.

The ceremony was performed at the Church of Holy Innocents, by the rector, Rev. Julian E. Ingle, in the presence of a large number of interested spectators.

The groom's best man was Mr. J. I. Scales, Jr., of Greensboro. The bride was the recipient of many handsome presents from friends north and south.

Mother Always Keeps It Handy.

"My mother suffered from distressing pains and general ill health due to indigestion," says L. W. Spalding, Verona, Mo. "Two years ago I got her to try Kodol. She grew better at once and now eats anything she wants, remarking that she fears no bad effects as she has her bottle of Kodol handy." It is nature's own tonic. Howard Gardner.

An Alleged Lyncher Jailed.

Salisbury, July 13.—The first arrest on the charge of participating in the lynching of the negro boys, Harrison and James Gillespie, the murderers of Miss Cornelia Benson, took place at 10 o'clock last night under a bench warrant issued by Judge Shaw for Tom Sparnell, a bar-tender of this city. Sparnell is a married man and is 35 years of age. When arrested he offered to give bond, but Sheriff Julian necessarily refused to permit him to do so prior to his preliminary examination and he was accordingly committed to jail. The examination will be held by Judge Shaw at 9 o'clock in the morning, with Solicitor Hammer also present. Fifteen subpoenas have been issued for witnesses, including two sent to Gold Hill, which was the home of the prisoner before his coming here several years ago. Sparnell claims that he will be able to prove an unsalable alibi. Solicitor Hammer, however, in the course of the investigation of the lynching which he has conducted, as required by the act of 1891 for the punishment of lynchers, has already examined the witnesses who have been summoned and hence it may be assumed that he is in possession of evidence of a direct and positive character. Neither he nor Judge Shaw has yet arrived here, both being expected on the early morning trains.

Just Like the Captain.

Kinston Free Press.

Human nature after all that has been said and done is not half so black as some people try to make it out. An instance which a gentleman coming down from Raleigh told of confirmed the belief that there are at least some white spots in this concupiscent being called man. A woman with five children was coming to Kinston from South Carolina. Getting special rates from competing roads they came around by Greensboro and expected to get here without spending the night at Goldsboro. When told she could not make the proper connection she hardly knew what to do, for she had brought no money. Unknown to anyone but to a passenger nearby, Capt. Pollard, a conductor of the Southern Railway, took the woman and children to a hotel in Goldsboro and paid their expenses for the night and he did this without ever having seen the woman before.

Patterson for Chief Justice.

Winston-Salem, July 9.—It is given out here today that the Republicans will offer Mr. Lindsay Patterson, a prominent lawyer here, the nomination for chief justice of the North Carolina Supreme Court. When questioned about the rumor today, Mr. Patterson admitted that he had heard such a report, but stated that he knew nothing official. Mr. Patterson was formerly a Republican, but became a Democrat when President Cleveland was first nominated. He was Presidential elector for the Palmer-Buckner ticket six years ago. It is certain that he would attract a large part of the independent Democratic vote should he be nominated for chief justice.

Colonial Uniform for Keeper.

Richmond, Va., July 10.—Mr. Antonio Gratignia, keeper of historic St. John's burying ground, will hereafter be one of the unique figures of Richmond. The St. John's burying ground committee of the council, at its meeting tonight, adopted a resolution to the effect that in view of the historic associations which surround old St. John's, the keeper should wear a colonial uniform. He will henceforth appear in an impressive combination of knee breeches, silk stockings, and silver buckled shoes of colonial days.

LEE ON CUBA'S FATE.
Ex-Consul-General Says It Depends on Reciprocity.—"Anarchy and Annexation."

Washington, July 7.—"Knowing the character of Lee, and being in touch with the correspondence with many of them, I firmly believe that unless confidence is restored in the stability of their government and some relief afforded in the matter of the sale of their products, there is nothing ahead for Cuba except anarchy and annexation; for anarchy will be the result of the United States refusing to grant concessions, must follow the annexation of the island." These are the significant words uttered by Brig.-Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, ex-consul-general in Washington, in a Sun correspondent.
He sees a discouraging future in the new republic, and believes that the United States, while it grants trade concessions, must also annex the island.
His experience as Consul-General prior to the Spanish-American War, and in subsequent years, together with information which reaches him almost everywhere, carries unusual weight.
He is in Cuba with a Sun correspondent and is making a great skill to safely escape the independent republic ship because of the great many breakdowns in the government, but the most dangerous obstacle in her way to peace and progress is her lack of a lock.
NO DIRECT TAXATION.
There is no direct taxation in Cuba.
The revenues of the island are almost entirely derived from customs receipts, and the receipts from that source during the American occupation were large.
But since our withdrawal it seems that the revenues in the United States are less, and their confidence in the ultimate success of the experiment of Cuban self-government are declining to ship the island to Cuban ports on the ground that in case of domestic trouble they might gather to destroy and plunder and their property might be lost.
"I have observed, also," continued Gen. Lee, "that the negroes of the island are getting more or less discon-fident, claiming that they have not had their proper share of the fruits of the war. This is significant, because it shows some merit, perhaps, because they are against Spain, some of the negroes are against the United States.
I remember very effectively service, and the best, or even the best, Cuban developed during the conflict.
CLAIMS OF EX-SOLDIERS.
Another source of trouble lies in the claims of the ex-soldiers of the Cuban army for pay for service during the war against Spain.
I was Consul-General there, and I was obliged to make estimates of the number of Cubans engaged in the war, which I submitted to the War Department in Washington, and which the War Department accepted.
All the Cubans could be enumerated at one point instead of being scattered all over the island from Pinar del Rio to the Pinar del Rio.
The number would not exceed 38,000.
I am informed there is nearly that number now on the payment, and they are waiting for their pay from the Cuban Treasury, and the Treasury is becoming smaller and smaller, and their chances of being paid are becoming less and less.
There, too, there seems to be a lack of confidence in the municipal budgets, making it very difficult to compensate the municipal officers, such as the mayors, for instance. All this has been going on for a long time, and the situation of the island, which was once so prosperous and nourished by the American Military Government, is now in a state of anarchy and anarchy.
RETURN TO FILIP.
If the money is not forthcoming, the situation of the cities will be neglected and the situation of the United States Government that line may be lost entirely.
The Cuban President is in a state of anarchy and kindness, but he does not necessarily have much about government, and he has no experience in that direction. I notice he is already exercising the exercise of a power which he should legitimately devolve on the governor of the island, and not be exercised by the President of a free and independent republic.
The ability to find a market for the products, sugar and tobacco, General Lee, "it means reciprocity. The results will follow the exercise of the sugar now on hand, and also that many persons are prevented from planting another crop. Under the Platt amendment, the government guided the destiny of the island, for it seems to me that the government is not for us to grant reciprocity to the Cubans, for, as is claimed, the sugar producers to sell at profitable figures. In reciprocity, if we do not grant reciprocity, the number of sugar producers in the island will be decreased. That means distressing a class of people which is moulded into mobs to destroy.
RELATIONS WITH OTTAWA.
The newspapers report that the United States and the United States have three of its most competent officers out of commission, and that they carry nothing but a serious shrinkage in communication between the two countries, and that, in these facts, it can readily be seen that the President Estrada Palma will be full in the next few months, and that unless some relief is afforded, the commercial sense, and that the confidence is restored in the insular Government, there will be of a vastly more serious situation than is now generally apprehended.

"But the Greatest of These is Charity." A great multitude, consisting of representatives of each species of the animal kingdom, once assembled to discuss questions of interest relating to their several kinds.
After adjusting his glasses with his hoof, the President arose to the full dignity of his position and instantaneously, accompanied by a sharp tap of the gavel, called the meeting to order.
The babel of the voices of the equines, canines, felines and feathered creatures floated away on the balmy spring air, and silence immediately prevailed; whereupon the big equine who occupied the chair proceeded to deliver his address.
"Beloved Friends: I stand before you today with a heart full of gratitude for the efforts that have been made by our dear human friends in our behalf during the past year. But my spirit sinks and my faith wanes when I think of the poor suffering ones whose pains have not been alleviated and whose burdens have not been lightened because of the lack of funds of the Humane Societies through the indifference of many to the woes of the dumb and helpless. The cruel disposition to inflict suffering upon animals, which, though unable to express their thoughts in the manner of words, feel as deeply and suffer as greatly as the beings called human, still remains in large degree unchecked.
"I have prepared this address, my pen dipped in my heart's blood and my eyes bedimmed with tears, thinking of the sufferings of the animal kingdom inflicted by man.
"May we all pray and believe that the day will soon dawn when civilization will demand the exercise of humane principles toward the brute creation, animated by the spirit of love.
A storm of applause followed this utterance, awaking the sleeping echoes and tossing them from corner to corner.
When quiet was restored the President called for a report from the Committee on Legislation. A beautiful boy, with streaming mane and stately pace, made his way to the platform.
"Sir," he said, with a graceful bow,
"it gives me great satisfaction to state that there are now before the congress of the humans certain measures of deep interest to us, including a bill for the regulation of vivisection and a bill to prohibit docking. But, friends, these measures languish for action, and the dark ages seem to be upon the earth again. Was ever practice so cruel as docking? It is sacrilegious that the Creator of all things, who made our races with gracefully flowing, useful tail, should be so ridiculed and dishonored by his own children who cut these members in order to satisfy a mere whim of the tyrant fashion!
"In addition to the measures now pending a bill should be presented prohibiting the clipping of horses during the winter months; also a bill compelling owners of horses and mules to provide hats for them during the excessive hot weather.
"When our friends shall have secured such legislation in all parts of the world, we and the spirits of those gone before will rise up and call them blessed; yes, the generation to come shall praise them!"
Wild cheers arose at the conclusion of the boy's impassioned and brilliant effort.
"We will now listen to—"
A disturbance at the rear of the hall interrupted the President. The swift patter of tiny feet heading straight for the desk was heard, and one of the delegates lifted to view a little Yorkshire pup, only ten weeks old, who should have been at home with his playthings instead of assuming the platform at a convention.
"Talking about docking tails," he plaintively lisped, "I want to know why you can't make them stop docking my tail! I overheard my mistress say last night that she was going to have my tail cut because a Yorkshire pup never looked well with a long tail!
Can't such cruelty be stopped too?" Taking advantage of this interruption a sleek, genteel and well-fed tabby made her way to the front, where she gently purred forth the unhappy condition of some of her kind, who, unfed, ill-treated and homeless, are left to the abuse of the world instead of being taken to the cat heaven to be mercifully put to death.
Her wail of despair was followed by a high-sounding speech from a young bantam rooster, who flew over the heads of the assemblage, his wings not being cut. In a prancing manner he set forth the needs of his constituents, declaring that if they must be packed for transportation they must have larger boxes and plenty of water; also, that if they must be carried through the streets to be sold they must be carried with their heads up!
"Will the Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee please come forward?"
A noble black horse responded to this invitation.
"Friends, I will state briefly the following suggestions: Literature relating to our needs and the work of the Humane Society should be scattered broadly to educate the masses in the beauty of humanity, the public should be stirred by appeals through the press to give more generously in order that more agents may be employed by the Society, with the power to arrest and prosecute those who cruelly afflict animals. And, friends, we can so conduct ourselves that through good behavior and patience we may win new members and aid for the Society."
"Before closing," said the President,
"it is befitting that we offer resolutions thanking the Humane Society for the drinking fountains erected in our behalf—these oases in a desert of asphalt, a great boon to weary and thirsty animals, and in some instances, the only means for many to obtain water." Resolutions were also offered in memory of those killed through cruel treatment.
Whereupon the gathering adjourned.

THE JACKFISH IS GAME.
It Is Found In Small Streams of the South and Ready to Fight.

In general the fresh water fish of the South are not so game as those of the North's colder waters, and they are not nearly so many varieties. In sea fish the lower waters have all the best of it, says the New York Sun.
The far South has one fish, however, which is an able fighter, requires good angling and is a glory to the table.
That is the jackfish.
It is really a small pickerel, seldom attaining a greater weight than three pounds, with long, slender body and several sets of handsome teeth. It is snouted like the alligator gar, and, like that predacious ruffian, eats any live swimmer it is big enough to whip.
It is, because of its long nose and light draft, death on minnows, which find it hard to get close enough to bank for safety. It also pokes its lethal head under stumps and roots for perch, and, altogether, manages to have a fat time of it, getting more to eat in proportion to its size than any other deni-zen of the waters.
It is never found in the waters of the lowlands, but prefers the creeks and larger streams of the pine woods hills.
These streams are always swift, cool and beautifully clear, and the jackfish is therefore clean and healthy.
It strikes readily at any lure which is good for bass and lights much harder, as well as being more difficult to fasten because of the bony lining of its mouth.
It is a maxin with Southern fishermen that the jack must be got out of the water in the shortest possible time, else it will get away, being particularly expert in getting the hook out.
It possesses great power, and unless lifted from its elements by a rapid tour de force will tear itself from the bar.
It is also a good hand at diving straight for the bottom and either rubbing the hook against sand and pebbles or twisting the line about a stump.
The jack is about the only one of the Southern game fishes which, when tightly held and securely fastened, will leave the water repeatedly in the attempt to shake out the hook. This sometimes happens with bass, but very rarely, those fishes preferring generally to fight it out beneath the surface.
The jack will throw its slender body into the air and shake its long snout in desperate fashion, thereby adding much to the pleasure of the angler.
It inhabits almost incredibly small streams—minute branches, as they are called—which run from far up in the hills. These are often not more than a yard wide, sometimes less, and in pursuit of minnows the jack will go up them until not more than four inches of water is between belly and bottom.
They have been taken in branches so narrow that they had barely room to turn around.
In fishing in such places it is necessary, of course, that the angler should be cautious. He must walk with a foot of velvet, have a long rod and approach the bank gently. He must not upon any account be seen.
When the strike is made the hook must be reeled in violently in order to pierce the bony tissue; and to make assurance doubly sure the jack should be snatched from the water. There is not much chance for play in a rivulet a yard wide and a foot deep with stones and mosses in it.

Sometimes, however, in a pool of the main creek, a pool which may be 30 yards across and 30 feet deep, roved over with intermingling limbs of giant pines, with only gleams of sunshine here and there upon its surface, a fourpound jack may be hooked from a depth of 10 feet, and then the angler will have cause to thank the maker of strong tackle. If the rod be light or the silk under weight there will be a smash, sure.
The Fourth of July in Alamance.
While thousands of true Americans observe this national day, all eyes should look with patriotic rememberance where life's blood first stained our soil to satisfy the thirst of a royal whim.
In Alamance county May 16, 1771, history records the first effect of British oppression, followed by a battle at Lexington. The continuation of such oppression resulted in the signing of that memorable document which made certain this "sweet land of liberty," by Jefferson and Adams and Franklin and Sherman and John Hancock and Samuel Adams and other illustrious patriots. At Burlington, Alamance county, this modern Fourth of July was observed in a pleasant but patriotic manner by over seven thousand people. The business men of the town made eloquent displays in a street parade led by A. M. Garwood, chief, followed by our flag carried by a soldier who gallantly wore the Gray in the Civil War. This was followed by a brass band and floats of red, white and blue filled with young ladies, all finally surrounding a grand stand where N.
A. Johnson, Dr. W. T. Whitsett and Hon. Jas. H. Pou made addresses fitted to the occasion. The battle of San Juan was imitated at the city pond by the Holt Guards. Emphatically, the people of Alamance are very apt in their undertakings and their commendable zeal was spoken of by the honorable men who so ably spoke on this occasion.
IN MEMORIAM.
On July 3rd, 1902, at Gibsonville, N.
C., Miss Martha Ann Lewey departed this life. She was sick only about one week, and none of the family nor her friends thought she was seriously ill until a few hours before she died; therefore her death was a shock and surprise to all. Annie was an estimable young lady, loved by all who knew her. She was a faithful and consistent member of Sharon Evangelical Lutheran church, Gibsonville. Her body was laid to rest July 4 in the cemetery at Frieden E. L. church to await the resurrection morn. Rev. C. A. Brown officiating. She leaves a widowed mother, three sisters and a brother to mourn their loss. But, bereaved ones, you mourn not as those who have no hope. "Blessed are they who die in the Lord."
Knoxville, Tenn., July 7.—The North Carolinians attending the big summer school of the South gave a banquet tonight in honor of the school's superintendent, Prof. P. P. Claxton, which was decidedly the most important social gathering held in connection with the school. The affair was a huge success and many former North Carolinians now residents of Knoxville were present.

To Farmers:
Will those who have planted tomatoes this season please let the undersigned know the acreage they have planted, and if they expect to supply any to the cannery what quantity will they be able to furnish per day or week; that is, what do they think the number of bushels they will be able to furnish the cannery daily or weekly, or as often as they usually come to the city.
They will hear something to their great advantage if they will let the undersigned know what acreage they have planted and how many bushels they expect to sell per day or week to the cannery, after supplying their regular trade. The sales which we are now making are largely dependent upon this supply. We expect to pay from 20 to 22 cents per bushel for tomatoes.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

News Notes of Interest About a Variety of Topics.

Knoxville, Tenn., July 12.—It is reported that the Southern Railway has secured, or will secure, the Ohio River & Charleston Railroad and will extend it from Huntsdale, N. C., to Marion, N. C., to connect with the main line between Asheville and Salisbury, in order to have a coal road nearer its Washington and Carolina end, without the long haul from the Jellico district through the Knoxville.

Chicago, July 12.—Two hundred men, employed on the six large buildings which are in process of construction at the University of Chicago, have struck on account of the employment of 100 non-union colored steam fitters in the construction of the elaborate heating plant adjoining the campus. A number of colored students are said to have been imported from Southern industrial schools and none could be induced to join the local unions.

Pekin, July 13.—The foreign ministers to China have agreed upon the conditions for the restoration of the government of Tien-Tsin to China and those conditions only await the signature of the Italian minister, the Marquis Salvago Raggi, who is absent, for presentation to the Chinese government. According to the conditions, the 20-kilometre radius from which Chinese troops are excluded is reduced to 20-kilometres, the limitation number of police which the Chinese may maintain within the radius, and the concessions granted by the provisional government are ignored.

London, July 13.—The Marquis of Salisbury has resigned the premiership of Great Britain and Right Hon. A. J. Balfour, the First Lord of the Treasury and government leader in the House of Commons, has been appointed to succeed him. The Marquis of Salisbury tendered his resignation at an audience which he had with King Edward last Friday. Yesterday Mr. Balfour visited the King and accepted the premiership.

Philadelphia, July 14.—Wm. Still, who was known throughout the country as the "father of the underground railroad," and one of the best educated members of the negro race died at his home here today. Still was about 80 years old and leaves a fortune estimated at between $500,000 and $1,000,000.

Need More Help.

Often the over-taxed organs of digestion cry out for help by dyspepsia's pains, Nausea, Dizziness, Headaches, liver complaints, bowel disorders. Such troubles call for prompt use of Dr. King's New Life Pills. They are gentle, thorough and guaranteed to cure. 25c at C. E. Holton's drug store.

"Take care of the dimes, the dollars will take care of themselves," says the Wakefield Hardware Co. They want you to take a look at the kind of cider mills they sell before buying.

Guilford College has an announcement in this issue.

Our readers will find an interesting ad. from our friend, C. H. Dorsett, in this issue. He is offering splendid values in summer stuffs, wash goods, piece goods and dress goods. If you need anything in this line see him. He wants to make room for new fall stuffs, which will soon begin to arrive. Dorsett says "at cost" is an old chestnut. He is breaking the rule and in many cases will go way below. See him early.

G. W. DENNY.

Mary Anna, the beloved ten-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Clendenin, died Monday evening after an illness of about a month and was buried Tuesday evening from the residence of Squire J. R. Pearce, on East Market street, Rev. Dr. Crawford conducting the funeral service. Much sympathy is felt for the bereaved young parents in the loss of their first and only child.

Asheboro Argus: Mr. J. H. Burgess and son Everett, of Ramseur, were here Monday and while driving near the depot their horse became frightened at the train, overturning the buggy and running from the depot to W. D. Stedman's store. Mr. Burgess and his son were thrown from the buggy. Mr. Burgess received several slight wounds about the face, shoulder and one leg. His son escaped uninjured.

Reidsville Review: The Spray cotton mill owners gave the operatives a grand treat at that place last Friday. The feast consisted of 100 gallons of cream, 150 gallons of lemonade, loads of sandwiches, etc. A band of music was employed and the day's pleasure was concluded with a hop—the real thing—which was most thoroughly enjoyed by the participants and spectators. A number of Reidsville people went over to spend the day.

The Winston correspondent of the Charlotte Observer wrote for the Sunday edition the following concerning one of Guilford's leading educators: Dr. W. T. Whitsett, who conducted the Forsyth teachers' institute here last week, returned home this evening. He is a popular educator and a pleasing speaker. His addresses here made a fine impression upon the teachers. He won a host of admiring friends during his stay in this city.

A Benaja correspondent wrote to the Reidsville Review last week: "Mr. Cooper, a holiness and sanctified preacher of Greensboro, came down Sunday night to fill his appointment at Benaja, but some of the boys were prepared to give him a warm welcome. However, most of the eggs flew wide of their mark and Messrs. Jim Richardson and John Haines received their full share and some of the ladies were considerably spattered."

Messrs. Philip Goodwill, president and manager of the Goodwill Coal and Coke Company, Goodwill, W. Va., and J. K. F. Steele, general manager and treasurer of the Keystone Coal and Coke Company, Keystone, W. Va., were here last week looking for men to work in their mines. The strike in the Pocahontas and Elkhorn districts being practically ended the mines there unable to keep up with orders for coal and coke, and anyone wishing employment at good wages would do well to communicate with either of the above-named gentlemen.

Rev. Father Anthony, for three or four years pastor of St. Benedict's Catholic church here, has been transferred to Richmond, where in addition to his parochial duties he will serve as principal of the Catholic High school for young men. His successor here is Father Vincent, a young priest from Belmont. Father Anthony left Sunday night for a trip to Pennsylvania, his former home, before taking up his new duties. His departure is much regretted by his parishioners and many others who recognized his earnestness and ability. He bears with him the good wishes of many of our people.

The Greensboro correspondent of Friday's Charlotte Observer says: "In justice to Mr. Smith, who has been reported in other correspondence as having run away from Elon College, and made away with express funds, it is a fact that he was in Greensboro yesterday, and the day before. A prominent express official here stated to me that the accounts of Mr. Smith as agent were found to be confused, but that as soon as the discrepancy was called to his attention a check making up the deficiency was promptly given, and the first news he had of anything wrong was the publication of his leaving Elon College, and that he immediately returned, with the above recited action, so far as the express company is concerned."

Preaching at Pomona.

Beginning next Sunday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock, Rev. W. C. Newton, pastor of Washington Street Baptist church, will hold a meeting at the school house at Pomona. Services will be at night, about 8.15. Everybody is urged to attend. Mrs. Mendenhall will preach Sunday morning as usual.

A young white man, apparently about twenty-five years old, was struck by an incoming passenger train from the east near Holt's chapel early Tuesday morning, suffering a fractured skull and broken arm. He was brought to the city on the train which hit him and given prompt surgical attention, but he failed to regain consciousness before his death, which occurred yesterday—Wednesday—morning about 11 o'clock. He was sitting on the end of a crosstie asleep when the train came upon him. Not a scrap of paper or anything which would lead to his identity was found upon his person. He had spent the previous night in Greensboro, and told some one that he was a cotton mill hand and was on his way to Raleigh. A photograph was made before his remains were interred.

Anderson Watkins, a colored man in the employ of Rev. Dr. Crawford, was killed by a rock which was blown from the Odell quarry, near Merrimon's factory, last evening. He was coming to town with a load of straw when the blast was fired and was fully a hundred yards from the quarry at the time. The stone cut an artery in his leg and he bled to death. The quarry is operated by the city.

News from the Pocahontas coal field district is that the usual amount of coal is now being mined and that the guards in the Bluefield district have been laid off. The strike is regarded as practically ended.

Do Your Feet Scald? Are they tired? Do they perspire? If so, use McDuffie's Witch Hazel Foot Healer; it will cure them. 25 cents. 10-ly.

We extend our heartfelt sympathy to Mr. J. W. Weatherly in the loss of his wife. None can sympathize more sincerely than one that has had to pass through the same sad experience.

There will be an ice cream supper at Rev. E. J. Poe's next Thursday night, July 17th, for the benefit of the parsonage. Please send in all material promised by Thursday. Everybody invited.

Among those that visited at Mr. J. C. Neelley's last Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Weatherly and children, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Neelley and children, of Greensboro, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McCadden and son, near Providence.

There was a certain man from near this place, who asked a young lady at the Battle Ground, July 4th, to marry him, but a young man nipped his proposal in the bud by remarking that he was already married and had sixteen head of boys. Can you guess who it was.

Kimmersville Items.

Mr. Webb Shoffner has a position in the dyehouse again.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Clapp went to Burlington Saturday.

Miss Minnie Bailiff was on the sick list a few days last week.

Prof. P. E. Shaw and wife, of Liberty, were here a few days last week.

Mr. George Clapp, of Burlington, came over last Friday to tell about his new boy.

Miss Stena Reitzel, of Liberty, spent last week visiting her sister, Mrs. W. M. Hanner.

There will be Children's Day services at Mt. Pleasant church the third Sunday in July.

Mr. W. M. Hanner was called to South Carolina last Tuesday by the death of his sister's child.

Mr. Jim Neece and his brother Hal have been right sick with typhoid fever but are some better.

Miss Mattie Dunlop, of Burlington, recently spent sometime visiting her sister, Mrs. R. D. White.

Capt. John Curtis has started out with his threshing machine and is now ready to serve the farmers.

A good many from about here have been attending the sanctification meetings. We think some of our people are going to join them before long.

The Mt. Pleasant Store Co. is now in its most prosperous year and doing a big business, carrying a large stock. Under the efficient management of Messrs. R. D. White and W. M. Hanner it is rapidly increasing its number of customers.

Liberty Store Items.

Mr. James Brooks has been having chills.

Miss Lola Kernolle has been sick for a few days.

Mr. Keck, the miller at High Rock, caught a thirty-pound turtle a few days ago.

The young people contemplate having an ice cream supper at J. J. Busick's tonight.

Fine rains keep the farmers rejoicing over the prospects for good crops of corn and tobacco.

Mr. Troxler, our nearest miller, is improving his mill by the addition of a new husk frame.

Mrs. J. W. Busick and Miss Sarah Zimmerman have gone to the cotton mills shopping today.

Mr. Martin, a sheep driver, is in the neighborhood hunting up some sheep he lost nearly a year ago.

The protracted meeting at Apple's chapel begins Saturday before the fourth Sunday in this month.

There will be preaching at the Busick school house on the fourth Sunday at 3 o'clock P. M. by Rev. Lassiter.

The Busick boys started out yesterday with their new engine to thresh wheat. The first eight crops they threshed yielded 141 bushels in all.

Mr. G. W. Brown, Sr., has something like a cancer wart on the side of his face. He had his left hand taken off a few years ago on account of a similar trouble.

Hinton Items.

Mr. G. L. Hobbs is having chills.

Mr. M. M. Gladson is still on the sick list.

The fine rains of the past week made the farmers glad.

Mrs. Catherine Foster, quite an aged lady, is very feeble.

The Rev. John A. Gilmer is expected to preach at Alamance next Sunday.

Mrs. Alice Towles and daughter, Kate, are visiting the former's brother here, Mr. W. Calvin Rankin.

Mr. R. M. Gladson is preparing to build a nice dwelling house here. It will be quite an addition to Hinton.

Three sisters living in sight of one another near here presented their husbands with sons within a period of six weeks. Another sister living elsewhere also gave birth to a son about the same time.

Gibsonville Items.

Rev. Eller, of Greensboro, held services in the Baptist church here last Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night.

Our mayor put a force of hands at work Monday morning opening a new and much-needed railroad crossing near the section house.

Rev. H. M. Brown, of Brick church, passed through Gibsonville last Saturday on his way to Spray to look after the Lutherans at that place and preach for them Sunday and Sunday night.

A very large crowd attended the Sunday school convention held in Sharon Lutheran church here Sunday. The exercises and the talks by different speakers on the various subjects selected were very interesting and instructive.

Another greatly needed improvement here is a new depot. It is a shame that one has not been built long ago. There is very poor freight accommodation, and none for the traveler. Ladies, children and all who get on and off the trains here are subjected to the inclemencies of the weather and many great inconveniences. The Southern should have too much self-respect to allow such a state of affairs.

Ramsour Items.

Crops are looking well in this section. Dr. King, the dentist, is in town this week.

Mr. Walter Leonard went up to Worthville last week.

The Burgess mineral springs are getting more popular every day.

Ramsour is proud of her worthy band. They make splendid music.

Miss Annie Petty, a popular young lady of Burlington, is visiting her sister, Mrs. I. H. Foust.

Mrs. Marley and Mr. Henry Marley, of Greensboro, spent several days with Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Caster.

Messrs. O. T. Leonard and W. H. Watkins were delegates to the congressional convention at Monroe last week.

THE SONG OF THE CAMP.

BY BAYARD TAYLOR.

Bayard Taylor, poet, traveler and novelist, was born at Kennett Square, Chester county, Pa., January 11, 1825, and died at Berlin, Germany, December 19, 1878. Apprenticed in 1842 to a printer, he wandered on foot from 1844 to 1848 in Great Britain and the Continent, writing for American papers. Connected with the New York Tribune, he was its California correspondent in 1850-51. For 10 years longer he traveled in Africa, Asia and Europe, with an interval of lectures in America. Having been United States Secretary of Legation at St. Petersburg, 1862-63, he took up his residence on the Continent and was appointed United States Minister to Germany in 1878.

The following poem recounts an incident of the famous Crimean campaign and the siege of Sevastopol, the Russian port and fortress on the Black sea October, 1854, to September, 1855, whose defense cost Gen. Nicholas I. about 80,000 of his soldiers, while the French, whose forces actually engaged were 120,000, lost 41,500, and the British, whose besieging corps was 27,000, about 15,000. The Redan was a Russian earthwork stormed by the British September 18, 1854, but immediately abandoned. The Malakoff fortification, one of the chief defenses, was carried by the French on the same day, and its capture was followed by the evacuation of Sevastopol.

"Give us a song," the soldiers cried,
The outer trenches guarding,
When the heated guns of the camps allied
Grew weary of bombarding.

The dark Redan, in silent scoff, Lay, grim and threatening, under;
And the tawny mound of the Malakoff
No longer belched its thunder.

There was a pause. A guardsman said,
"We storm the fort tomorrow;
Sing while we may, another day Will bring enough of sorrow."

They lay along the battery's side, Beside the smoking cannon;
Brave hearts from Severn and from Clyde
And from the banks of Shannon.

They sang of love, and not of fame;
Forgot was Britain's glory;
Each heart recalled a different name,
But all sang "Annie Laurie."

Voice after voice caught up the song, Until its tender passion Fused like an anthem, rich and strong—
Their battle-eve confession.

Dear girl, her name he dared not speak,
But as the song grew louder Something upon the soldier's cheek Washed off the stains of powder.

Beyond the darkening ocean burned
The bloody sunset's embers, While the Crimean valleys learned How English love remembers.

And once again a fire of hell Rained on the Russian quarters,
With a roar of shot and burst of shell
And a howling of the mortars!

And Irish Nora's eyes are dim
For a slinger, dumb and gory;
And English Mary mourns for him Who sang of "Annie Laurie."

Sleep, soldier, still in honored rest, Your cradle and valor wearing;
The bravest are the tenderest—
The loving are the darest.

Thinks it's Noah's Ark.

Boston, Wash., July 2.—W. A. Reid, secretary of the Seaway Young Men's Christian Association, has returned from the interior of Alaska, where he talked with the Indians. He declares that the statements of the Indians fully confirm previous reports that the Indians of the lower Yukon have discovered an immense petrified ship on Porcupine river, near the Arctic circle and north of Rampart, Alaska.

When asked regarding its size the Indians traced its dimensions on the ground, indicating a length of 1,200 feet.

Such Indians as are familiar with the Indians are convinced that the ship is none other than Noah's ark.

Reid intends to return to the interior of Alaska this summer, when he will take some Indians and request army officers to detail soldiers to accompany him.

The ship is said to lie on a high hill thousands of feet above the sea level.

Clinton, July 7.—The largest and most destructive fire in the history of Clinton occurred here yesterday. The fire started in the grocery of J. H. Carr by a cigarette or cigar being thrown in some trash in the alley or by some one setting it on fire. More than 100,000 worth of property was destroyed. The whole of Main street from Union street to W. S. Partuk's dwelling, Lisbon street to Mrs. Bigford, all of Lee street, except by the flames. There were twenty-four stores, three livery stables, five large warehouses and twelve dwellings. Conservative estimates put the loss at least $100,000. Only by heroic work was Wall street and the Murphy house saved. The Episcopal church was burned. There was scarcely anything saved, as a high wind was blowing and the heat so intense that the firemen couldn't work.

Chicago, July 7.—A storm of 9,000 freight barrels in Chicago was called today and every freight house of the 24 wharves concerned is practically tied up. Business men fear that the strike will be the most serious which has affected their interests in years.

Suggestions as to Diet and Training of Children.

"The child is susceptible, absorbing both good and bad. Give him the opportunity, and he will find the means. Someone must care for him, and with wisdom," says Dr. Maurice Hunt in the Mother's Journal.

"First—There must be discipline. It is impossible to do without this. There must be someone to govern, to regulate the child. This must begin very early. If there is no one to assume this authority the result is a spoiled child, and you know what that means (though not by experience, of course). When the child cries the mother can soon distinguish between the cry of spunk and that of pain. She must be firm. She must not vacillate. The child soon knows 'yes' and 'no,' and learns to regard them.

"Second—If you would have perfect contentment, as well as discipline, return the cradle from the attic to the nursery. The theory of the injury to a child from rocking is without foundation. On the contrary, the results are positively beneficial. The nursery is destitute without the cradle. The future welfare of the child, also, is dependent upon it. There is talk of an increased nervousness among children of today. If they had the cradle to soothe their weary nerves this might not be the case. The cradle can do no harm, and may do a great deal of good.

"Third—As to the food to give the child—it should be of the proper kind and given at regular hours. It should be such as is easily digested, and such as shall make the bones grow and the muscles develop. There should be proper restriction as to the amount eaten, and no piecing should be permitted. It is not fair to compare a child to a pig, because the pig knows when to stop eating, while the child is always ready to eat more.

"It is better that fruits should be eaten at the mealtime. Pastry, cakes and candy are unnecessary. They are sources of much evil and increased doctor bills. The poison works slowly and insidiously for several days, the cause being often overlooked. Green apples make the child very sick almost immediately. But candy works more slowly, often leaving nothing on which to base a diagnosis of the trouble. If candy be given at all, home-made candy is the least harmful, but it should be dealt out in small quantities and at long intervals.

"Desserts should be light. Tea and coffee should not be given under any circumstances. They deter growth, both physically and morally. They cause anorexia, weakened digestive apparatus and create a taste for narcotics.

"Fourth—Strength should be developed. The child naturally will run, jump, kick, squirm and will not stay in one position unless he is asleep. It is well for the child that this is so. If he were too still there would be danger of curvature of the spine. Instinct keeps him in motion. You must not expect a child to know more than the baby elephant who is never still unless lying down, but keeps walking and swaying to keep the weight of his body off of the legs.

"A healthy child travels miles in a day—plays with the chairs in the dining room, playing conductor, taking tickets, riding his broomstick horse. He will look at pictures or blocks, but all the while he is squirming, rolling or kicking. He must not be restrained. Give him plenty of room and freedom of movement. This he will digest his food and will thrive as a child should.

"If he is kept still, then begin sick spells. He must not feel that he is hampered. He must know, however, that someone is in authority, ready to enter into fun with him or to put a brake on when advisable. The child is to be pitied who has not the strong arm of authority to lean upon.

"Fifth—The eyes are extremely delicate, and great care must be taken in their use. If they are unrestricted they will develop naturally. Most children see only objects near them. Sound attracts them, but they do not see very distinctly at any great distance. They are able to see, but do not concentrate their gaze.

"A child will seldom be amused with inanimate objects, because they tire the eye. If forced to play with these it will cause irreparable injury to the eyes. The child's own choice would be larger objects.

"Many school children of today wear glasses. Formerly the sight of a child with glasses would cause commiseration. Now it arouses curiosity merely. One sees a child of 9 or 10 whose carriage, dress and manner betoken the well-to-do parents, and he looks at the world through glasses. One sees the magnifico, who has more freedom, and the child with glasses. His eyes have not been tampered with in early life. Parents may draw their own inference."

Won't Follow Advice After Paying for It.

In a recent article a prominent physician says, "It is next to impossible for the physician to get his patients to carry out any prescribed course of hygiene or diet to the smallest extent; he has but one resort left, namely, the drug treatment." When medicines are used for chronic constipation, the most mild and gentle obtainable, such as Chamberlain's Stomach & Liver Tablets, should be employed. Their use is not followed by constipation as they leave the bowels in a natural and healthy condition. For sale by C. E. Holton, druggist.

Merry Oaks Items.

Rain is needed badly just now.

Mrs. D. F. Clapp and Miss Anna Hurlins have been quite sick recently.

Miss Annie Hurlins, who has been sick for some time, is almost well again.

Several from here attended the celebration at the Battle Ground the Fourth.

Preaching at Merry Oaks school house next Sunday in the afternoon by Rev. J. F. Isley.

Tuesday morning, June 27th, little Leslie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Sharp, passed from this sad world of care and sorrow to rest in her Savior's arms. She was one year and five months old. We sometimes wonder why they are taken from us so soon, but God knows best. Dear parents, let this be your comfort in this sad hour of trial, that God has plucked another flower to adorn his crown. She was buried at Hines chapel, where so many have been laid recently to await the glorious resurrection morn.

Bill Nye's Experience in a Hospital.

I have just been sent to the hospital for twenty days. My physician did it. He did it with an analysis. Anybody who amounts to anything nowadays gets analyzed. I like it here very much. Sunday, 3 p. m.—An analysis today shows more casts, fibrin, albumin and some zinc and copper. The chemist also discovers that in 1883 I fell from an apple tree and tore my panties in two places.

Monday, 4 p. m.—Temperature two-fifths of one degree above normal. Pulse regular, but sluggish. Have got all my business arranged, even to terms for shipment home.

Another chemical and microscopic analysis made yesterday afternoon of sputum, shows trace of nicotine and other poisons. Adieu, kind friends. I'm going home. A sweet young novice, who is training for a nurse, took my pulse this A. M. Took quite a while to find it, but I did not murmur or repine. I am trying to learn to love everybody, for to that bourne to which my chemist says I'm going I should carry no enemies, no animosities.

The life here at the hospital is delightful, and while I am fading away it is a joy to have loving hands bathing my little footies and manhandling my kidneys now.

Good-bye, wicked world! After December you will have to pay your own taxes, so the chemist says, for traces of one lung, also floating island and ice cream, were found in this last analysis. Do not mourn for me kind friends, and choke and sob and make yourselves sick. It will be vain. Just live as I have done, so that you may come where I am at. Live upright lives and run the lawn mower about every ten days over my humble grave during the summer. That is all you can do. Weep not. In me you have lost a man who can never be replaced, but never mind—the world will have to drag on somehow. I couldn't be here all the time. Anybody with a particle of sense could have seen that I couldn't live forever.

P. S.—While penning the above words a messenger boy has come swiftly in with a note from the chemist. He says in his note: "We regret that an error was made in your case by our assistant, who, in the rush of business here at the college, has got your analysis somewhat confused with that of the justly celebrated horse, Nancy Hanks. We unfortunately got the sputum mixed. On going over your case again we find that, whereas, there are signs of glanders in the Hanks analysis, you are, as a matter of fact, almost too healthy."

So today I leave my kind little nurses in their neat attire. Good-bye, girls, I'm going home where they know me. No one there will count my fevered pulse in the still watches of the night. No one there will put a nice hot water bag, that feels like a Mexican hairless dog, at my feet.

Seriously, what a blessing it is, when we are weary of work and the gastric functions go on a sympathetic strike and the solar plexus goes away and sits down on a stone pile to weep over the situation, that one can go to one of these cosy corners, out of the current of whoop and hurrah, and eat raw steak and be sort of made much of.

Education that Educates.

The improvements of our country schools is the foundation stone of agricultural progress, and other foundation no man can lay. This is not theory, but a fact provided by statistics. Wherever the percentage of illiteracy is highest, there are the profits of farming smallest. And for a reason not far to seek—the farmer has least progress been made in the introduction of improved and scientific methods.

We may live out our lives dreaming dreams about the good work that might be done by our agricultural colleges, experiment stations, and farm papers, says the Progressive Farmer, but all this dreaming is a snare and a delusion unless we realize that before the college or paper will be appreciated, must come the public school, teaching the people to read and understand, just as surely as the foundation stone must be laid before the rest of the structure is worth considering.

We have lately made progress in the matter of public education, but much work yet remains to be done. And since such a large per cent. of these pupils of the country schools are to take up farming as a life work, it is not unreasonable to demand that in them the principles of agriculture be taught. We do teach these boys much about banking, selling and buying bonds, discounting, foreign exchange, etc., things with which not one in ten has anything to do in after life. Why then should it be thought strange when one dares suggest that it would be better to teach them something of plant growth, animal life, plant and animal feeding, etc., subjects that would be equally useful in training the mind and would be of continual benefit to the larger part of them in their life work?

Let the farm boy learn a little less of foreign exchange and Greek history, if need be, but teach him at the outset that farming is not drudgery, but an "intellectual pursuit" that, like other callings, pays handsome returns for intelligent, scientific care and management.

CANCER

Sufferers from this horrible malady nearly always inherit it—not necessarily from the parents, but may be from some remote ancestor. For cancer often runs through several generations. This deadly poison may lay dormant in the blood for years, or until you reach middle life, then the first little sore or ulcer makes its appearance—or a swollen gland in the breast, or some other part of the body, gives the first warning.

To cure Cancer thoroughly and permanently all the poisonous virus must be eliminated from the blood—every vestige of it driven out. This S. S. S. does, and is the only medicine that can reach deep-seated, obstinate blood troubles like this. When all the poison has been forced out of the system the Cancer heals, and the disease never returns.

A small pimple came on my jaw about an inch below the ear on the left side of my face. It gave me no pain or discomfort, and I should have forgotten about it had it not begun to enlarge and itch; it would bleed a little then scab over, but would not heal. This continued for some time, when my jaw began to swell, becoming very painful. The cancer began to eat and spread, until it was as large as a half dollar when I heard of S. S. S. and determined to give it a fair trial, and it was remarkable what a wonderful effect it had from the very beginning; the sore began to heal and after taking a few bottles disappeared entirely. This was two years ago; there are still no signs of the Cancer, and my general health continues good.—Mrs. R. Shirer, La Grange, Ill.

S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and the only one guaranteed purely vegetable. Send for our free book on Cancer, containing valuable and interesting information about this disease, and write our physicians about your case. We make no charge for medical advice.

JEFFERSON ON PUBLIC EDUCATION.

Public Schools an Essential Part of His Plan of Government.

The references in this paper are to the Congressional or Washington edition of "The Writings of Thomas Jefferson," 1803-54, or to the edition by Paul Leicester Ford, 1899-1904.

Thomas Jefferson's plan for public schools was an inherent part of his political system. In his opinion, the permanence of the republic depended upon the education of the people. From the beginning to the end of his career he urged upon his contemporaries the duty of educating all the people. Writing from Paris in 1786, to George Wythe, he said: "No other sure foundation can be devised for the preservation of freedom and happiness. Preach a crusade against ignorance: establish and improve the law for educating the common people: let our countrymen know that the people alone can protect us against the evils of misgovernment."

And again, to Charles Yancy, he wrote, from Monticello in 1816: "If a nation expects to be ignorant and free in a state of civilization, it expects what never was and never will be." All Jefferson's plans for schools, as for government, were built upon the great principles of self-help and local responsibility. His whole political philosophy is summed up in the following oft-quoted words in a letter to his friend Cabell, February 2, 1816: "Let the national government be intrusted with the defense of the nation and its foreign and federal relations; the state government with the civil rights, laws, police and administration of what concerns the state generally; the counties with the local concerns of the counties; and each ward direct the interests within itself. It is by dividing and subdividing these republics, from the great national one down through all its subdivisions, until it ends in the administration of every man's farm and affairs by himself, by placing under every one what his own eye may superintend, that all will be done for the best." Now, it is most significant that in this same letter Jefferson declared his views with regard to the joint institution of local government and public schools, and tells Cabell how to go about establishing them. Jefferson taught that local self-government was possible only where the people were all educated to think for themselves. Public schools were an essential part of his plan of government, and therefore he constantly speaks of public schools in connection with freedom and good government. "The information of the people at large can alone make them the safe, as they are the sole, depositary of our political and religious freedom."

His System of Schools.

For more than forty years Jefferson labored to establish a system of public education for his native state. His plan included 1. the subdivision of the counties into hundreds, or wards, based on militia districts, which should become school districts; an elementary school was to be established in each of these, "so that every householder would be within three miles of a school"; 2. grammar schools or classical academies, to be established in each county, "as to place every father within a day's ride of a college where he may dispose of his son"; 3. a state university. Of the three objects he held that the first and third were of the greatest importance to the state; the second, the classical academies, could be left with greater safety to private enterprise.

In the elementary schools were to be taught "reading, writing, common arithmetic and general notions of geography; in the second, ancient and modern languages, geography fully, a higher degree of numerical arithmetic, mensuration, and the elementary principles of navigation; in the third all the useful sciences in their highest degree." To this end Jefferson prepared a bill in 1779 which provided not only for the popular foundation of common schools, but for the free training of all free children, male and female, for three years, in reading, writing and arithmetic. He thus proposed to admit girls to these schools ten years before Boston allowed the female sex to attend her public schools (1789).

Jefferson was a believer in universal education at the public cost. Said he: "The object is to bring into action that mass of talents which lies buried in poverty in every country for want of the means of development, and thus give activity to a mass of mind which in proportion to our population shall be the double trouble of what it is in most countries." This education was to be provided at the expense of all the people, and chiefly by local taxation. He believed in taxing the wealthy people for the education of the poor. "The expense of the elementary schools for every county is proposed to be levied on the wealth of the county," he says, "and all children, rich and poor, to be educated at these three years gratis."

Value of History.

Jefferson was a hundred years ahead of his time in his methods as well as in his history of public education. He taught the value of reading, not as "supplementary," but as the chief measure of education. In the bill of 1779 he proposes that the reading in the common schools should be made the vehicle of historical instruction. "The books which shall be used therein for instructing the children to read shall be such as will at the same time make them acquainted with Grecian, Roman, English and American history." He maintained that in the public schools, where the majority of the children will receive their "whole education," this education should be "chiefly historical." He regarded the languages, to which the people of his time were so greatly devoted, simply as instruments for obtaining knowledge; that what men have actually done in this world is more important than their ancient or modern forms of expression. Said he: "History, by apprising them of the past, will enable them to judge the future; it will avail them of the experience of other times and other nations; it will qualify them to act as judges of the actions and designs of men." Language is the mere vehicle and it is folly to spend all the time on the forms and syntax and pay no attention to history and literature.

Jefferson seems to have had a poor opinion of the ordinary classical academies of his day. He says, in a letter to John Adams: "I hope our successors will turn their attention to the advantages of education. I mean of education on the broad scale, and not that of the petty academies, as they call themselves, which are started up in every neighborhood and where one or two persons, possessing Latin and sometimes Greek, a knowledge of the globes and the first six books of Euclid, imagine and communicate this as the sum of science. They commit their pupils to the theater of the world with just taste enough of learning to be alienated from industrious pursuits and not enough to do service in the ranks of science" (Vol. 5, 376, Monticello, 1814)—a description that would fit many of our so-called classical academies today.

COORDINATION AND PROMOTION.

Jefferson's system of public education connected the three great branches of education, the primary, the secondary, and the higher, in a most effective manner. Under the bill of 1779, the overseers of schools in the hundreds were to select annually the "best and most promising genius" whose parents were unable to afford him further education, and this boy was to be sent forward to the nearest grammar school or classical academy, there to be educated gratis for two years. At an annual examination one-third of these public "foundationers" were to be dismissed after one year's instruction, the others to remain for a second year at public cost, and then all were to be thrown on their own resources "save one only, the best in genius and disposition, who shall be at liberty to continue there four years longer at the public cost." Thus in the twenty or more Latin schools throughout the state a score or more of the brightest boys would be discovered each year. After six years' training one-half of this picked number were to be dismissed for the supply of grammar school teachers, and the other half were to proceed to the university "for further training in such sciences as they might select." Other students than the "foundationers" could attend at their own expense either the grammar schools or the university. Jefferson was a believer in natural selection and the survival of the fittest. He hoped thus to secure for the service of the state the choicest products of democracy. By this system the very highest education was brought within the reach of the poorest of boys in the state, and the people were thus reasonably sure of getting the services of the best geniuses born among them. It is noteworthy that both Andrew Carnegie and Cecil Rhodes have adopted in the year 1902 a similar plan for finding "exceptional men" to receive the assistance of their great foundations.

THE UNIVERSITY AND ITS DUTY TO THE SCHOOLS.

The most devoted and greatest labor of Jefferson's later days was, as is well known, the establishment and building of the University of Virginia. He was indeed a powerful advocate of the higher education, but never as the exclusive education. In all his thinking, the higher was linked with the lower education, as may be seen in the letter to Mann Page where he says: "I do most anxiously wish to see the highest degrees of education given to the higher degrees of genius, and to all degrees of it, so much as may enable them to read and understand what is going on in the world and to keep their part of it going on right; for nothing can keep it right but their own vigilant and distrustful superintendence." Jefferson never advocated university education at the expense of the public schools. He labored for all forms of public education, but he evidently considered the common schools the most important. In a letter to his friend Cabell, January 13, 1821, he says: "Were it necessary to give up either the primary or the university I would rather abandon the last because it is safer to have a whole people respectably enlightened than a few in a high state of science and many in ignorance. This last is the most dangerous state in which a nation can be. All the nations and governments of Europe are proofs of it." Under his plan the state university was to be the intellectual if not the executive head of the system of public education. It was to lay down the courses of study for the common schools, and order the historical and other reading for the academies. The attitude of the colleges of the day angered him and he urged in a letter to Cabell, Nov. 28, 1820 that "the friends of this university (the University of Virginia) take the lead in proposing and effecting a practical scheme of elementary schools and assume the character of friends, rather than opponents of that object."

Jefferson held most advanced views for his time with regard to the necessity for technical education. He refers to this in his criticism of the "petty academies," quoted above. In another letter to Joseph Cabell he says: "The great good of the people requires, that while they are instructed in general, competently to the common business of life, others should employ their genius with necessary information to the useful arts and inventions for saving labor and increasing our comforts, to nourishing our health, to civil government, to military science, etc."

National Law College a Fraud.

It was announced some time ago that the Superintendent of Public Instruction had received a request from President Kerr of the Nashville Law College to appoint six North Carolina students, male or female, to law scholarships in that institution. And examination of the papers forwarded impressed one that entirely too much was offered for nothing; so inquiry was made of Tennessee State officials and others as to the methods and standing of the institution, and as a result letters have been sent out from the office of State Superintendent Joyner to each of about fifty applicants for scholarships notifying them that no appointments will be made as he is convinced after careful investigation that the institution is a fraud and not worthy of patronage.

Democrats Cheer Roosevelt.

Springfield, Mo., July 9.—The Missouri Democratic state judicial convention here cheered for Roosevelt and hissed William J. Stone, who was not present. Three judges—Judge Burgess, Judge Valliant, and Judge Fox—were nominated. After all the fights were over most of the Democrats who are in state politics and were not delegates, felt envious of William J. Stone. He did not come nearer than St. Louis, and missed all the fun and the kicks. "Hurrah for Stone," a delegate shouted during one of the long afternoon waits, and gave him three cheers. "For who?" a Jackson county man, George Creel, asked. "For Stone," "Who is Stone?" Frank P. Walsh asked. "Why William J. Stone, candidate for United States Senator," the enthusiast said, but by this time he had forgotten his three cheers and they were not given. Once when Stone was called for delegates hissed.

Again, during the nominations A. B. Duncan nominated Judge A. M. Woodson, of St. Joseph. Duncan, in telling of Woodson's qualities, said among other things that he was a "better horseback rider than Teddy Roosevelt." A cheer started all over the house, but it seemed as though everybody took a second thought at the same time and remembered that it was not exactly proper to cheer Roosevelt in a Democratic convention, for the cheer broke off suddenly right in the middle. It was a striking incident and one that everybody noticed.

Oil Fuel for Warships.

Washington, July 11.—Oil may be adopted for coal fuel for naval vessels as a result of successful experiments made at the Washington Navy Yard. Rear-Admiral George W. Melville, Engineer-in-Chief of the Navy, believes that in time a large number of the smaller ships will be using it and eventually coal will pass out of general use in the navy. Besides generating a quicker fire and giving greater heat, oil, it is said, permits vessels to maintain a wider steaming radius and reduces considerably the cost of fuel.

So far but little headway has been made by the merchant marine with its use, but the few vessels experimenting with it have found that oil is superior to coal in many respects, including less weight in proportion to the number of miles the ship steams. Tomorrow a special board will go to the Delaware Breakwater and inspect a tank steamer from the Beaumont (Texas) oil fields, which uses oil. It is one of the first ships to be so fitted out on the Atlantic. The success of this trial will mean much to traffic on the Pacific, where the price of coal is double that asked on the Atlantic coast.

Eloped With a Doctor.

Knoxville, Tenn., July 10.—A sensational elopement occurred in this city tonight when Miss Emily Taylor, the beautiful daughter of Hon. R. L. Taylor, ex-congressman, three-governor of Tennessee, famous as lecturer and speaker, and known to Tennesseans as "Our Bob," was married to Dr. George F. St. John, a prominent young physician of this city, to whom she had been engaged for a year until Gov. Taylor recently broke off the match.

Miss Taylor left her home on North Fourth avenue this afternoon ostensibly to go to the dentist's. She did not return by dark, and Mrs. Taylor, her step-mother, and her sister Miss Retta, became alarmed, but suspicious of the cause. Their suspicions were verified later, when Dr. St. John telephoned and demanded that her trunk be sent to the depot. Mrs. Taylor inquired by what authority his request was made, and he answered that he was acting for Miss Taylor, who was now Mrs. St. John. He further informed Mrs. Taylor that they were going to Asheville, N. C., to spend their honeymoon, and then go to his father's home near Bristol, Va.

Boer's Lost 3,700 Men.

Pretoria, Transvaal, July 10.—According to an estimate of the Red Cross identity depot, which fulfilled the functions of a casualty bureau for the Boer forces, the total losses of the Boers during the war were 3,700 men killed or died of wounds and 32,000 made prisoners of war, of whom 700 died. The Boer forces in the field numbered about 75,000.

The curator of the former Boer government's official papers has handed over to the British all the documents, including confidential reports, giving a complete history of Mr. Kruger's relations with foreign powers.

There is some uneasiness here regarding the attitude of the Basutos. In consequence of supposed treachery during the war, Joel, one of their prominent chiefs, has been summoned to Maseru, capital of a military district of Basutoland, to stand trial on the charge of high treason.

The paramount chief Lerethodi is likely to support Joel in the event of the latter's refusal to obey the summons. Troops have been dispatched to the frontier.

Fever at Chickamauga.

Knoxville, Tenn., June 12.—Seven cases of typhoid fever and one death within the past few days is the record at Chickamauga Park near Chattanooga, where the Seventh Cavalry and Third Artillery Regiments are camped. This illness has already caused the fear that another epidemic similar to that which caused such a high death rate among the regiments encamped there in 1898 is imminent. This record is made in spite of the fact that the sanitary conditions are the best, the water being sterilized. Despite the fever the government is preparing to erect barracks to accommodate many regiments and establish a training school.

Summer complaint is unusually prevalent among children this season. A well developed case in the writer's family was cured last week by the timely use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy—one of the best patent medicines manufactured and which is always kept on hand at the home of every scribe. This is not intended as a free puff for the company, who do not advertise with us, but to benefit little sufferers who may not be within easy access of a physician. No family should be without a bottle of this medicine in the house, especially in summer-time.—Lansing, Iowa, Journal. For sale by C. E. Holton, druggist.

"Have you been in our city?"
"Yes," was the answer.
"How long?" asked the pope. "You have been here long enough to practically know the town." He asked another "How long have you been here?" "Three months," was the answer. "How long?" said the pope, "you have been here long enough to know the town." He asked a third
"How long?" and a gentleman the same day answered, "Three months." "How long?" said the pope. "You have been here long the pope, "you have been here long enough to know that, though a man has been here a hundred years, he has not been here long enough to fully appreciate the town." The longer one lives

1. The salutations of Caesar's palace to the Philippian church for moment, I am going to salutations of the saints who have left palaces for the of every man, woman and child going to declare to the old, the rich and the low alike.
 Some of you are having a maintain your Christian the hamperments of embracing worldly difficulties are men and women making their Christian increasing troubles infinitely more. There are men and women to God today who have turned their backs a whole series of misfortunes and great pains, while you, commending, are going forth a peaceful night weighted down with the hamper. There are men and women who, figuratively speaking, are doing overboard midway and to swim ashore, while you are in shallow brook to cross.
 There are men who are ankle deep, while you, shoulder deep, are going in the quicksands of things you can yet look up and out of. While you, commending, have only a stony heart, if the saints in Caesar's golden palaces could be quickened with faith, surely their examples ought to rouse every man to better and truer and nobler efforts, no matter how mental or physical or incidental they may be.
 I encourage those Christians, however, who are struggling with mental depressions of ill health under the brightest of an awful struggle. Although we compared the cease-lessness of life to a continuous journey to the bride of time, upon this bridge the English of the different generations, men moving on and on following the tired and weary, beseeching and heartbreaking to halt for an instant, men moving on and on over the bridge until every boy and girl, man and young woman and man and middle aged man, centenarian or octogen-arian, centenarian had tum-bled from the broken planks of that bridge into the dark waters of the river flowing below.
 Though life is such an awful

To show what power this sickly little woman was able to exercise, a male auditor gave his impression of her to a friend in this way: "When she commenced to speak, I felt sorry for her. She seemed to be such a wretched bit of a sickly woman, so very frail and helpless, but when Frances E. Willard had been speaking a short time this wee little bit of a woman seemed to me to grow into feet tall, and she seemed to leave in her hand a battering ram with which she was pounding upon the door of my heart until I had to open it and let the Saviour in." To show what was the influence of this frail little woman and the work which she did I would quote a statement made by Wendell Phillips. He turned to a young man, who was complaining that there were no great reformers today, because there were no great reforms to champion, and said: "Young man, did you hear Frances E. Willard speak tonight? If you did, in that frail, little sick body you saw one of the mightiest powers for good this world has ever seen. You also saw her denouncing, perhaps, the mightiest curse of all races, the curse of intemperance. Go and do as the sickly Frances E. Willard is doing."

Now, to you who are sitting before me today with the pale face of an invalid I bring the salutations of the saints who have lived in the Caesarean palaces of physical infirmity. I would bid you to do something for God in spite of your bodily pain, as blind John Milton did; as Bella Cooke, who has been bedridden for over forty years, is doing; as Paul did, who was "in bodily presence weak." Your very physical sufferings ought to bring you closer to Christ. Your very sicknesses ought to make you the more anxious to do something for the Saviour now that your time on earth may be short. They ought to make you as anxious to do something for Christ as was the dying president of Union college, who, when his physician told him he had but one year on earth to live, said, "Then place me upon my knees, that I may spend that hour in prayer with God, pleading for the salvation of sinful souls." Would that today, in the presence of these saints who have lived in the modern Caesar's palaces of physical torture, we might all consecrate our frail as well as our well bodies to the service of the Lord Jesus Christ!

who would encourage those Christians also who are trying to maintain their Christian integrity in spite of an evil past. By this statement I mean those Christians whose past sins have been regarded over the world, even as Cain's sin was known by the black mark which had been stamped upon the murderer's brow. If it is hard for a young girl to be good and pure and true when she is living in a Christian home and has practically never been out of her mother's care, how much harder must it be for a young girl to be good and true and pure when she has had her feet cut and lacerated by treading the crooked and stony pathway of sin and has had her fair name blackened by the condemnations of a dissolute life! If it is difficult for a young man to hold an honorable position in society when his record is clean and good, how much more difficult must it be for a man to attain an honorable life when he has served out his time in a felon's cell or has had his hair cropped by the convict's shears and his clothes striped with the marks of the penitentiary! If it is difficult for a Christian to live right whose nearest neighbors can find nothing but good to say of him and his past, how much more difficult must it be for a drunkard, a libertine, a thief, a social outcast! Would you, O Christian merchant, today be willing to have reformed ex-convicts as occupants of our office? Would you, O mother, allow reformed servants in your home whose past lives have been dissolute?

Some time ago I stood in the store of a personal friend. While there a gentleman who was a member of the Chicago detective force entered to buy some goods. This officer sharply looked at one of the clerks. Then he came over to the merchant's side and said: "Mr. So-and-so, that clerk is an ex-convict. He served a term in Joliet penitentiary. You had better keep an eye upon him." Although that ex-convict was a good clerk and had been in the employ of my friend for nearly two years, he was immediately discharged. When I spoke up in his favor and begged that he be retained and given a chance to live a good life, my friend answered: "No, Mr. Tallmage; that man is able to steal every year thousands of dollars without my knowing it. I cannot run the risk." So the poor clerk was driven out of that store and perhaps driven into a future of crime.

But that isn't it so difficult for a man to lead a Christian life who has had an evil past, you if there are any such here today I bring to you the salutations of the saints in Christ's palace. I want to encourage you with the fact that, just as some of the greatest of moral heroes have been physical weaklings, so some of the greatest of Christian heroes have been those who have sinned even worse than you have sinned. Harry Monroe, who for years has run the Pacific Carben mission of Chicago and who has been instrumental in saving thousands of souls, was what? A college graduate? A member of a Christian church and a Christian home? No, He was a converted gambler. Jerry McAuley of New York, who did so much for the sinners of New York, was a drunkard and a prize-fighter. John Newton was once vilely dissolute and depraved, though in after life he wrote the noted hymn:

I saw O' hanging on a cross
In agony and blood,
Who fix'd his boundless eyes on me
As near the cross I stood.

Sure never till my latest breath
Can I forget that look!

To turn a tormenter in with his death, Though never more I spoke.

John Newton said that when he first saw Christ hanging there upon the cross he himself was wallowing in the lowest depths of sin. John Bunyan the dreamer was John Bunyan the disciplinarian. John Summerfield the saint, about whom we have already spoken, was John Summerfield the depraved. Said the chief of sinners because Paul the martyred saint. Oh, my brother, if the grace of God could come into such sinful lives and recreate and sustain them, surely the grace of God is sufficient to recreate and sus-tain us, no matter how black may have been our dissolute past.

And I bring to you all who have an evil past this message from the saints in Caesar's palace, because the man who has publicly sinned, the man who has been leathlessly vile, is the man who has an especial mission to save souls for Jesus Christ. You know as no one else knows how awful is the power of temptation. You know as no one else knows how difficult it is for one who has been a social outcast to try to live again among respectable social surroundings. You can speak as Mary Magdalene could speak. You can plead as St. Delia could plead, who was once the noted Blue Bird, the fiend of the New York slums. Although St. Delia had such an evil past, yet her life, under the power of the Holy Ghost, became so pure and sweet and influential that the rich and the poor, the pure and the depraved alike, the old as well as the young, sobbed over her casket. You can speak from the heart, as John B. Gough spoke to the drunkards, because you yourself have seen the phenomena of delirium tremens moving themselves right in the cup until at last they would bite like a serpent and sting like an adder. Struggling Christians, you who have had an evil past, you can plead for Christ in the highways and the ledges of sin as the saints who had an evil past could speak in Caesar's palace. Those saints today are now placing their hands of holy ordination upon your head that you may go forth and save your sinful fellow men.

It would also encourage today those Christians who are compelled by force of circumstances to live and work with evil associates. Perhaps the young man who is standing behind the same counter with you in the store is an infidel; perhaps some of your classmates at school or in college are out and out scoffers against the word of God; perhaps your own father and brothers are unbelievers and every day your faith in Jesus Christ is made an object of ridicule; perhaps, what is the worst of all, you find that you are married to a man who never neglects an opportunity to ridicule your Bible. You have found out also that your husband is having a pernicious and spiritually destroying influence over your children. What are you going to do—leave these evil associates? Sometimes such a course is possible; sometimes it is not. It evidently was not possible for the ancient saints to have left Caesar's palace, else they would have done so. It is most natural to suppose that those saints would have instantly fled from the Roman capital during the time of Nero's persecution if they could have done away with honor and self respect. But in all probability most of those saints said to themselves something like this: "No; I cannot. I will not, go! I would be cowardly for me to desert my Lord and Master. I will stay here and keep on testifying for Christ. If need be, until my body is burned at the stake or eaten by the wild beasts

Now, I want you, my Christian friends, you who are experiencing these daily persecutions, to fully realize that not one drop of blood which fell from the Christian martyrs of Caesar's ancient palace was ever shed in vain. From those persecutions the great influence of the church of Jesus Christ was started. From those persecutions were lighted the gospel torches which are today shedding their glorious rays all round the world. From those persecutions came not so much Paul's death and the death of the saints in Caesar's palace as the eternal life of millions upon millions of immortal souls. So if you, O persecuted Christian, only keep true to the gospel faith in the difficult places where you are stationed you may not only win your father and mother and husband and children for God, but you may win thousands upon thousands of immortal souls for Christ—beings whose names you have never read and whose glowing faces perhaps you shall never see until you look upon them among the redeemed before the great white throne.

So, I repeat, this glorious text brings the salutations of the saints in Caesar's palace to the rich and the poor, the high and the low, the old and the young alike. It brings its salutations to the rich and the great men. There were many great men and women in Caesar's household who were without doubt members of the household of faith. Nero's household, intellectually and financially, was the noted court of its day. And some of the saints in Caesar's palace must have been numbered among the princes and princesses of the realm and among the great commanders of the Roman legion, the cabinet officials and the members of the privy council. So we find today, among the great and the famous of the earth, there have been saints in Caesar's palace. Witness William McKinley, shot down by an assassin's bullet, calmly turning his face toward his invalid wife, saying, "God's will, not ours, be done." Witness Stonewall Jackson, leaving his army hat outside of his tent as a sign that he did not wish to be interrupted because he was then on his knees to God in prayer. Witness Neil Dow and Frederick Robertson and William E. Gladstone and Thomas Chalmers and John Knox and a whole army of earthly saints of whom the world was not worthy. These are some of the famous modern saints who have already won immortal fame by laying down their lives for Christ.

But I also find that in Nero's palace there were slaves as well as rich nobles. There were musicians who had to perform the most humble services, as well as generals who commanded Nero's armies or prime ministers who decided the international policies or financial ministers who levied the taxes. There were the cooks and the chambermaids. There were the porters and the gardeners and the messengers, the private guards and the negro servants, as well as the white servants. There were the scullions, as well as the indies in waiting, who stood by the empress' side, and the saints in Caesar's palace were in all probability found in the kitchen as well as in the parlor, in the servant's livery as well as in the courtier's uniform. All of which proves that God is ready to honor the man of one talent, if he is a saint, just as much as he honors the man of ten talents who makes spiritual use of his gifts.

My burdens, no matter what our walk of life may be, will you today be a saint of God and throw yourself upon the pardon and the mercy of Christ? Will you here and now dedicate your life to the Saviour even if that dedication means the shedding of your life's blood? Will you be willing to suffer for Christ as well as to have the pleasure and the joys that come from the Christian life? Are you ready to shoulder for Christ the heavy burden. Are you ready, for him, to have the feet ache, the hands ache, the back ache, the head ache and the heart ache?

I would read with you to be willing to make these sacrifices for Christ, as did the saints in Caesar's palaces, because it is on account of their sacrifices that Jesus is going to reward you in another place which he has builded for you, not in Rome, but upon the golden boulevard of heaven. It is only a step from the palace of persecution into the palace of reward. It is only a step from Caesar's throne when the saint of God is condemned to earthly death by the power of sin to the throne of God, where the redeemed saint is given everlasting life.
 It is only a step from the Roman arena, where the ancient saints were torn to pieces by the wild beasts, into the green pastures by the side of the still waters, where the glorified saints shall forever dwell with the Lamb. It is only a step—a short step. Are we ready to live for Christ in a place where we may ultimately take that step, although to take it we shall pass through the fires of earthly persecution? It is such a short step for the saints of God from the palaces of Nero to the palaces which Christ has prepared for his own that it does seem as though the palaces of persecution are but the vestibules of the palaces of reward. May God help each one of us to be true to his faith while we dwell for a little while on earth in one of Caesar's earthly palaces!

Rev. J. A. Gilmer, of Mill Bridge, will preach at Albemarle church next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

Mr. Baxter M. Agner and Miss Hatfield E. Mevin were married last Friday evening by Squire J. R. Pearce.

The many friends of Miss Maggie Bond are glad to welcome her home after an absence of several months.

Mrs. Will H. Matthews left this afternoon for Albemarle county, to spend a few weeks with relatives.

Sam J. Y. Joyner has improved gradually the past week and will likely be able to attend the convention today.

Rev. H. M. Brown, of Brick Church, will preach at Albemarle church next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

The double track on South Elm street was completed yesterday and street cars are running to the depot today.

Mr. J. E. Wyche has returned from New York City. His wife and daughter will remain there a few weeks longer.

Will Logan, colored, who had been off the county convict force less than a year, was arrested again Friday for larceny.

The repairs at the steel and iron furnace are nearing completion and the plant will be in operation again in a few weeks.

An effort is being made to secure a pardon for Roscoe Murphy, who is serving a seven-year sentence on the county roads.

The destroyed about three-five bales of cotton waste in a storage warehouse at Revolution Monday night. The loss was about $800.

A train load of colored excursionists from Oxford spent Friday afternoon here. A like excursion from Danville was here Monday.

If you think of buying a two-horse flow see Townsend. There are many good ones made, but the Vulcan is the best. Sold on trial. 29-4t

The three-year-old son of Mr. Bert Tysinger, living a few miles south of High Point, fell in a well last week and was instantly killed.

Thacker & Brockmann are not everlastingly advertising that they sell goods at half price, at less than cost and all that sort of thing, but anybody you ask will tell you that their store is one of the best places in town to buy first-class, reliable dry goods and shoes.

Winston-Salem, July 15.—Mr. Lee S. Smith, of Guilford College, brought his ten-year-old daughter here this afternoon. She was bitten through the nose this morning by a cat. Two madstones were applied on either side of the nose and they are adhering nicely.

The McLamroch Mantel Company, of this city, filled an order last week for four handsome mantels that will adorn the magnificent new home of Hon. Wm. J. Bryan at Lincoln, Nebraska. The mantels were the best that the company handles and they will measure up to their surroundings.

Secretary King, of the Central Carolina Fair Association, has just issued a card giving the purses for the races next October. The aggregate is $2,850, the highest being $500, the lowest $100. The money is divided up in better shape than last year and will no doubt bring some fast horses. The fair comes off October 21-24.

Mr. J. E. Crutchefield, editor of the Rocky Mount Spokesman, spent Sunday at his old home here. He is the defendant in a libel suit instituted by Hon. F. A. Woodward, but is not worrying much over the outcome, as he says he is assured that the sympathy and moral support of almost every person in his county are his. His offense consisted mainly in questioning the veracity of Mr. Woodward.
