DEATHS.

Those Who Have Answered the Summons During the Past Week.

Mrs. David White.

No death occurring in Guilford for a long time has caused more genuine regret and real sorrow to a large circle of friends than that of Mrs. David White, whose life, during the past four months, has hung by a slender thread, severed at last on Monday morning at a hospital in Norfolk, Virginia, where she had been taken about two weeks ago in the hope that something might be done to spare her yet a little while to those who loved and needed her.

But human love and human skill sought in vain to withstand the summons which sooner or later comes to all, and which sooner or later all must obey. And the young wife and mother, the devoted daughter and faithful friend, will be a sweet memory in the home and hearts of many Guilford people who recognized her superior intellectual ability and loved her for her sweet womanly traits and high Christian character.

Mrs. White was born the 8th of December, 1876. Her father was Henry C. Hackney, of Friendsville, Tenn. Her mother was Miss Priscilla Benbow, a daughter of Jesse Benbow, of Oak Ridge, and a niece of Dr. D. W. C. Benbow, long and favorably known as a prominent citizen of Greensboro.

The daughter while of tender years came to Guilford College along with her mother who was employed as matron of that institution. There she received a careful and thorough education, graduating in 1895, the best scholar of the young women in her class, and, therefore, received the Bryn Mawr scholarship. She attended Bryn Mawr College the following year, and returned to her mother at Guilford College. Pursuing special studies here for a year, she was then engaged as teacher in the High Point school. The following three years she taught at Guilford College, and the four following years she taught in the State Normal College in Greensboro.

She was married to Mr. David White, a prominent citizen of Greensboro in September, 1905, since which time she has been prominent among the young matrons in the social life of the city.

One of the leading characteristics of Mrs. White was her devotion to her mother—the tenderest and most perfect sympathy existing between them during her wedded life as before her marriage. Besides this fond parent and devoted husband, she leaves an infant daughter—little Priscilla, to perpetuate her noble qualities of heart and mind.

Accompanying the remains from Norfolk were Mr. White and sister, Miss Sarah White; Miss Cleone Hobbs, a trained nurse who had been with her during her illness, and Mr. F. H. Nicholson.

Funeral services were held at the home on West Market street yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Earl J. Harold, pastor of the Friends' church. A large crowd of sorrowing friends attended these services, the floral tributes being the most numerous and beautiful called forth by any death in the city the past year.

After the services at the home the body was taken to Guilford College where interment was made, a large crowd going from Greensboro.

The pallbearers were: Messrs. F. H. Nicholson, Paul C. Lindley, A. B. High, S. A. Hodgins, W. E. Blair and Dr. C. T. Lipscomb.

Mrs. Martha G. Kernodle.

News of the death of Mrs. Martha G. Kernodle, wife of former Sheriff Kernodle, of Alamance county, was received here Friday. She died at 4 o'clock Friday morning at her home seven miles north of Burlington, after an illness of more than six months. She leaves a husband and four children.

Mr. and Mrs. Kernodle resided in Greensboro some years ago and deceased had many friends here, some of whom attended the funeral Saturday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Forbis Weaver.

Friends in Greensboro Friday received the announcement of the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Forbis Weaver, at the home of her son, Dr. Rufus W. Weaver, in Nashville, Tenn. Death occurred Thursday night, ending an illness of two years. She was the mother of Dr. Weaver, who is pastor of the First Baptist church of Nashville; of Miss Carolyn Weaver, Prof. Charles P. Weaver and Mrs. J. Lawrence Wade.

The family considers Greensboro, where they lived up until several years ago, as their home. The funeral of Mrs. Weaver was conducted Friday in Nashville, by Dr. Egbert W. Smith, formerly pastor of the First Presbyterian church here, but now of Nashville. The body was brought to Greensboro for interment in Greene Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Mary C. Powell.

Thursday, May 8, at the home of her sister, Miss Emma J. Monroe, 309 Walker avenue, Mrs. Mary C. Powell died. The funeral was held Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the residence conducted by her pastor, Rev. J. Clyde Turner, of the First Baptist church.

Mrs. Powell was a sister of O. W. Monroe, Miss Emma J. Monroe, Mrs. C. H. Boyst and Miss Florence Monroe, of this city. She has four children surviving, they being W. E. Powell, of Maxton; A. F. Powell, Mrs. M. R. Banner and D. Earl Powell, all of Greensboro.

Mr. A. Bunting.

After an illness of less than a week Mr. A. Bunting died yesterday morning at his home on Phillips avenue. He is survived by his widow and nine children—five sons and four daughters—all of whom reside in Guilford county.

Funeral services will be held from the residence this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Earl J. Harold, pastor of the Friends' church. Interment will be in the burying ground of Lee's chapel.

Mr. James Millis.

James Millis, aged 90 years, died at 11 o'clock Tuesday night of old age. He leaves two sons, William Millis and Dr. A. T. Millis, of Guilford College. The funeral will be held at Rehoboth church today at 12 o'clock and the interment will be made in the church burying ground.

Mrs. Sarah Malone.

Mrs. Sarah Malone, 35 years of age, died at 6:45 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at her home, No. 14 Water street, Proximity. She is survived by her husband, A. Malone, and one child. The funeral was conducted from the home at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon, by Rev. Mr. Powell.

Former Resident Dead.

Friends in Greensboro have received news of the death of Mr. W. C. Jackson, Tuesday in Chicago, where he had been living the past few years. Mr. Jackson was at one time a resident of Guilford, coming here in the early seventies, and has relatives living in the county. He is survived by his widow, who makes her home with a daughter in Gainesville, Georgia, and several children, among whom are Mrs. J. R. Jeffries, Mrs. Snider and Mrs. R. J. Allen. The remains were taken to his old home in Canada for interment.

Governor Johnson Signs Bill.

In a carefully worded and courteous message to William J. Bryan, secretary of state, Governor Hiram W. Johnson, of California, expressing his determination to sign the alien land bill which he has been asked by President Wilson to veto. Governor Johnson explains that the problem has become acute, and that the people of his state understand best how to deal with the little brown men who are making threats against Uncle Sam.

Son Causes Trouble.

Complaining that he had been run away from home by his son, along with his wife and daughter, Mr. W. B. Dennis, of Guilford Battle Ground, swore out a warrant yesterday for the arrest of his son, W. F. Dennis, who is to have a hearing today before Judge Minor.

Sheriff Stafford and Deputy Weatherly, who served the warrant, found the young man intoxicated and experienced some difficulty in taking him into custody.

Judge Burwell Dead.

Former Judge Armistead Burwell, for a number of years one of the associate justices of the Supreme court of North Carolina, died at his home in Charlotte Monday. He was one of the leading attorneys of the Charlotte bar, as well as one of the most prominent citizens. He was about 73 years of age.

Mrs. Clark Porter and little daughter are spending a week with relatives in Raleigh.

REPORT OF POLICE.

Work of Police Force During Past Two Years.

The annual report of the work of the police department for the year from May 1, 1912, to April 30, 1913, has just been completed. In this time warrants were issued for 134 cases of drunkenness and 102 cases of retailing of whiskey. The total number of warrants was 1,175.

There were 66 warrants for violating the automobile and traffic laws, 128 for larceny, 25 for vagrancy, 89 for assault, 93 for assault with a deadly weapon, 57 for affray, 24 for an affray with a deadly weapon, 40 for carrying concealed weapons, 59 for being drunk and disorderly, 77 for disorderly conduct, 26 for drinking whiskey in the passenger station, 27 for gambling, and 12 for highway robbery, besides a large number of warrants for other offenses.

The warrants issued for drunks and for retailers compare favorably with those issued in the past two years, there being close to one retailer arrested for every drunk. From May 1, 1911, to April 30, 1913, there were 387 cases of drunkenness, an average of 16 a month; and at the same time there were 266 cases for retailing, or an average of 11 per month.

From May 1, 1909, to April 30, 1911, the number of retailers arrested was approximately half the number of drunks. In this period there were 342 cases of drunkenness, an average of 14 a month; and 181 cases of retailing, an average of seven per month.

Y. M. C. A. Officers.

At a meeting Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock of the board of directors of the Young Men's Christian Association the officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

A. B. High, president, succeeding J. J. Stone, who declined a re-election; M. W. Thompson, vice president, succeeding J. Norman Wills, who declined a re-election; J. A. Kellenberger, recording secretary; W. E. Blair, treasurer; F. C. Boyles, treasurer of the building fund. L. H. Martin was re-elected general secretary.

No Preaching at Buffalo.

There will be no preaching or Sunday school at Buffalo church next Sunday on account of the Biederwolf revival in Greensboro.

Farmers and Business Men

Rapid strides have been made in agricultural lines during this generation. The successful farmer of today must not only be a good agriculturist but a good business man as well. Farming has become a business and, of course, it is the biggest business in the country with the greatest competition.

The man who makes a real success of farming must be as well posted in his line as manufacturers and merchants must be in theirs. The Monthly Crop report issued by this Bank will prove of great value to the farmer who realizes the necessity of being well posted regarding all crops in all parts of the country. These reports will be sent to you monthly if you desire them.

CONFEDERATE REUNION.

Memorial Day Fittingly Observed in Greensboro May 10.

May 10th being Memorial Day—the day for placing flowers on the graves of the Confederate dead—the day for the surviving veterans to meet and live over the days of the struggle from '61 to '65—was appropriately observed in Greensboro—the Daughters of the Confederacy having the matter in hand, and seeing to it that an elaborate program was carried out.

The large number who gathered was surprising, and an imposing line was formed. Over 200 were present, coming from Guilford, Stokes, Forsyth, Davidson, Randolph and Alamance counties. Greensboro has long been regarded by the veterans of this immediate section as one of the best places to reunite, both because of the programs prepared, and because of the excellent dinners served by the faithful Daughters of the Confederacy.

The veterans began arriving early in the morning, many having left their homes in the night to reach here. Following a business meeting by the Guilford camp they went to the cemetery, then to the Center Brick tobacco warehouse to hear Judge Walter Clark speak, and afterwards to the Smith Memorial building where a meal was served.

The meeting of the Guilford camp, U. C. V., was called to order at 9 o'clock in the court house, for the purpose of transacting such business as might come up at the annual session. All the old officers were re-elected for the ensuing year. A resolution to have an extra meeting each year on the first Sunday in September was adopted.

The reports showed that since the last annual meeting 18 veterans have answered the last call. These were: J. W. McNary, George Gregory, John A. Tate, George Briggs, Emory Stratford, Calvin Denny, George Fisher, William Pearce, J. R. Troxler, William Smith, Richard Smith, Calvin Ozmert, Rev. H. C. Fulton, Adam P. Smith, William Kennedy, A. M. Meredith, J. R. Diggins and Robert Kirkman.

Visit to Cemetery.

Automobiles and various other vehicles were in readiness to convey the soldiers to Greene Hill cemetery. Here the graves were decorated and the usual impressive exercises held. The morning was unusually pretty for this simple service of remembrance and the scene of women and gray haired men about the graves of those who have fallen aside was touching. There were loads of flowers, carried by both the old soldiers and by the Daughters of the Confederacy. The Confederate monument, about which the crowd gathered, was beautifully garlanded. Dr. Melton Clark, camp chaplain, offered prayer.

At the Warehouse.

The Center Brick warehouse was well filled by an audience of Greensboro and Guilford county citizens and the program there was pretty. The beams and the rostrum were almost hidden by Confederate colors, the speaker's stand being beautifully draped. Conspicuous over the heads of the audience was the large standard that floated at the place where the veterans were grouped near the front. Flowers were beautifully arranged, and the whole was the result of carefully executed plans by a committee of the Daughters.

The invocation was offered by Rev. R. M. Andrews, pastor of Grace Methodist Protestant church, following which the McDowell men's chorus sang the "Recessional." Announcements were made by Dr. Clark and the crosses of honor were presented by Miss Lizzie Lindsay, president of the Guilford chapter, U. C. V., to A. Marable and to Mrs. Robert M. Denny, daughter of the late Thomas Clancy Evans. "The Soldier's Chorus" from Faust, was sung by the chorus and the members of the National male quartet sang "The Old Brigade," followed by an encore.

A Soldier Lad.

Col. James T. Morehead made the speech in presenting Chief Justice Walter Clark. He said that during the battle about Sharpsburg, when the bullets were flying the thickest, and when the soldiers were face downward, death being almost certain for all who stood, there rode on horseback a 15-year-old boy who had been promoted to be an adjutant. All the others had sent their horses to the rear. The soldiers hollered at him to get off his horse. He was unmindful and an old sergeant grabbed him by the leg and pulled him off. Since then, said Colonel Morehead, he has continued to add lustre to not only his own name, but to his state. "I want to present that lad to you—the chief justice of North Carolina."

Judge Clark Speaks.

Judge Clark spoke for an hour on North Carolina's part in the war, and his address was of much interest, especially to the old soldiers. In part he said: "Face to face with the survivors of the great armies of the Confederacy we stand in the presence of history. Those shared and shared columns made history. Their fame now belongs to the ages. It has been 52 years, more than half a century, since North Carolina, resuming her sovereignty, took her stand with her sister Southern states, beneath a new flag. Fifty years lacking two have passed since we had around with laurel and with cypress that banner passed into the eternal silence where live forever the deathless dead."

Judge Clark in the course of his address told the county of Guilford furnished 14 companies to the Confederate service, three of them cavalry and 11 infantry. Besides a large number of men scattered in other commands. The county furnished in all about 2,000 men, equal to two full regiments. The companies were as follows:

Company E, Second North Carolina regiment, Capt. J. M. Morehead; Company B, Forty-fifth North Carolina regiment, Capt. C. E. Shober, S. C. Rankin; Company C, Forty-fifth North Carolina regiment, Capt. J. T. Morehead, Peter P. Scales and R. C. Donnell; Company A, Fifty-fifth North Carolina regiment, Capt. A. P. McDaniel, J. M. Sutton; Company F, Fifty-fourth North Carolina regiment, Capt. Rufus L. Hooper; Company F, Nineteenth North Carolina (Second cavalry), Capt. B. F. Colt, P. A. Tatam; Company M, Twenty-first North Carolina, Capt. W. L. Scott, W. S. Rankin and John E. Gilmer; Company E, Twenty-second North Carolina regiment, Capt. C. C. Cole, G. E. Harper, J. A. Hooper, M. M. Wolfe, A. W. Cole; Company E, Twenty-second North Carolina regiment, Capt. John Sloan, William Adams, J. A. Gilmer and J. A. Sloan; Company I, Sixty-third (Fifth cavalry) regiment, Capt. Nathaniel Rankin; Company K, Seventy-second North Carolina regiment (Third junior reserves), Capt. J. W. Pitt; Company B, Seventy-fourth North Carolina (Second senior reserves), Capt. Jacob Loon; Company C, Seventy-fourth North Carolina regiment (Third senior reserves), Capt. W. R. Johnston; Company D, Seventy-fifth North Carolina (Seventh senior reserves), Capt. T. R. Duval.

Besides there was a company of home guards, who arrested deserters and kept order in the county. Judge Clark asked if it is not time to have men in Congress to stop the pension evil. "Our state," he said, "is paying $100,000 a year in aid of those who are most disabled among the men who fought for this state. Put at the same time the taxpayers of North Carolina are paying $5,000,000 per year as our share of the enormous pensions contributed to the federal soldiers, 12 times as much to those who fought against us as to those who fought for us. That is, the federal soldier gets $30 per month and up to several hundred dollars per month while the very highest that we pay our own men is $30 per year."

"Is it not time that we had men in Congress and in other high positions that will exert themselves to stop this evil? It can be done. The $5,000,000 per year taken from our people in this state which goes North and does not come back of itself impoverishes us. The animosities of war are long since dead. In New York and in Indiana and other states bills have been passed to pay all expenses of veterans who shall go to the semi-centennial at Gettysburg in July of this year, and those states include Confederate veterans now living in those states as well as federal veterans. But we are so busy down here paying $5,000,000 from North Carolina to the federal veterans that your last legislature had no money to send our Confederate veterans to Gettysburg. The only Confederate veterans whose expenses to Gettysburg will be paid are those who live in the Northern states."

"I have heard talk of our veterans not wanting Yankee money," but what we do want and what the business interests of this state want is that the $5,000,000 which North Carolina annually pays for federal pensions shall be kept in this state by being sent back here to be disbursed by our state treasurer to our own soldiers. Is it not time that those who represent you in Congress and in your legislature should not be satisfied with accepting honors and emoluments at your hands, but shall feel that it is incumbent upon them, in return, to show themselves alive to your interests, by righting such evils as this? They can do it if they will."

Miss Emma Blake gave the speaker a beautiful bouquet. Following the address Dr. W. E. Biederwolf, the evangelist, delivered a sermon on God's infinite love. The benediction was said by "Father" A. D. Betts, the soldiers singing in response to his request, "Say, Brother, Will You Meet Me There?"

Dinners to the Veterans. Following the services the veterans marched to the Smith Memorial building for dinner. The 200 men formed an imposing line, about each being a red sash knotted with a ribbon of white. Before the building they grouped for a picture and then were shown to the dining room in the basement.

As they entered each veteran was given a pipe and smoking tobacco and a plug of chewing tobacco. Grouping about the tables, they fell to the dinner. It was a handsome spread, prepared and served in that manner only possible for the Daughters of the Confederacy. The menu included sandwiches, cakes, pickles, coffee and cream, the veterans showing their enthusiasm by the manner in which they ate.

Each of the old soldiers received the most careful attention, the Daughters being careful to see that none were overlooked. After the dinner there was a comparison of ages to discover who the oldest one present was, and George Washington Buchanan laid claim to this distinction, having arrived at the age of 84. To him James H. West presented a handsome pipe.

The lovely bunch of flowers on the speaker's stand at the warehouse was presented to Mrs. Charles M. Stedman, wife of Major Stedman, who has been ill for several weeks and whose presence was missed.

Best Medicine For Colds.

When a druggist recommends a remedy for colds, throat and lung troubles, you can feel sure that he knows what he is talking about. C. Lower, druggist, of Marion, Ohio, writes of Dr. King's New Discovery: "I know Dr. King's New Discovery is the best throat and lung medicine I sell. It cured my wife of a severe bronchial cold after all other remedies failed. It will do the same for you if you are suffering with a cold or any bronchial, throat or lung cough. Keep a bottle on hand all the time for every one in the family to use. It is a home doctor. Price 50 cents and $1. Guaranteed by Fariss-Klutz Drug Company, adv."

With the Majority.

The executive committee of the State Farmers' Union conferred with Governor Craig Thursday relative to the freight rate situation, the committee informing the governor that the union was with the state in all efforts to secure just and equitable rates. President H. Q. Alexander stated that the committee had not taken any position with regard to an extra session and was not offering any advice on the advisability of calling the lawmakers together.

Pimples Source of Great Danger

May Be Means of Absorbing Disease Germs in Most Unexpected Manner.

Said Farewell to All Blood and Skin Diseases.

The research laboratory of The Swift Skin Cream has collected a vast amount of information regarding the spread of disease germs in thousands of instances where the most common types have been the result of contact with disease germs in the places, and the apparent source of the disease has been the skin. It is spreading with astonishing rapidity, even infecting the entire system in a few days.

It is fortunate, however, that there is a remedy which quickly and thoroughly removes such a condition, and thanks to the efforts of its producers the famous S. S. S. may now be had at almost any drug store in the civilized world.

This preparation stands alone among all skin remedies as a blood purifier. It is a simple, scientific, and safe remedy, since it accomplishes all that was accomplished by mercury, iodides, arsenic and other destructive mineral drugs, and it is absolutely a purely vegetable product. There are more cases of arthritis, rheumatism, locomotor ataxia, psoriasis, eczema and similar diseases resulting from the use of minerals than from disease germs direct. These facts are brought out in a highly interesting book compiled by the medical department of The Swift Skin Cream Co., 127 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. It is mailed free, together with a special letter of advice to all who are struggling with a blood disease. Send for a free bottle of S. S. S. to-day of your druggist. It will surprise you with its wonderful action in the blood.

THE CONE HOSPITAL.

Trustees to Meet in Greensboro May 14.

The annual meeting of the trustees of the Moses H. Cone Memorial Hospital was held in Greensboro May 14, at which time routine matters connected with the estate were transacted. At this meeting there appeared new trustees who have recently been appointed, and who will become active members.

The board of trustees is composed of 15 members, three of whom are named by the governor, one by the Watauga county commissioners, one by the Guilford county commissioners, one by the Greensboro city commissioners, one by the Guilford County Medical Society, and the other eight by Mrs. Moses Cone.

The Moses H. Cone Memorial Hospital, Inc., was organized in 1911 under a state charter and had an original board of 10 trustees, eight of whom were appointed by Mrs. Cone. These were James H. Pou, of Raleigh; John M. Bernhardt, of Lenoir; Caesar Cone, of Greensboro; George W. Watts, of Durham; Governor Kitchen named Judge H. A. Foushee and R. A. Doughton as members by request of Mrs. Cone, who was going to appoint them until the secretary of state found that he had no power to direct the governor to name them.

At the last assembly the charter was amended, making 15 members and empowering the governor to appoint three. Governor Craig has since appointed Lindsay Patterson and Hugh Chatham, of Winston-Salem, and J. Elwood Cox, of High Point. In accordance with the act the other members have been appointed as follows:

Guilford County Commissioners—E. F. Wharton.

Guilford County Medical Society—Dr. J. W. Long.

Watauga County Commissioners—Senator Coffey, of Boone.

The Greensboro Commissioners—John L. King, of Greensboro.

The new charter for the legislature follows the old one in the main, but the word, "incorporated" is left off. It is not contemplated that anything immediate will be done with regard to the construction of the hospital. Mrs. Cone has made the proper conveyances by deeds made in Watauga and Guilford counties, reserving the life estate, the main body of which is to be used.

Masonic Home to Open.

The Masonic and Eastern Star Home being erected in Greensboro will be completed within 60 days if the expectations of the executive committee in charge of the work are fulfilled. The committee held a called meeting Thursday and decided to let contracts immediately for the installation of a water and sewer system, and by the time that improvement is finished it is believed that the building will be ready for occupancy.

The house itself is already done, and is now being equipped; the secretary of the committee, J. J. Phoenix, reported that the response to his appeal to the Masonic bodies of the state for funds had been very satisfactory. Funds have been received for the furnishing of nine rooms at an estimated cost of $75 a room. One of these rooms, Mr. Phoenix mentioned in passing, is to be credited to the town of Greensboro, where a play, based on a story of Masonry, was given, netting $75 in one night.

The members of the committee, C. M. Vanstony and J. J. Phoenix, of this city, and M. C. S. Noble, of Chapel Hill, made an inspection of the building and grounds in company with Dr. J. L. Foust, of the State Normal, and R. D. W. Connor, of Raleigh, before the meeting.

Before the adjournment of the meeting the committee took occasion to express their profound appreciation of the service that the Greensboro newspapers had rendered them in the matter of giving publicity to their plans and needs, without which service they say the work would have been unnecessarily delayed.

The President Accepts.

Carrying out the instructions given at a meeting held in Greensboro several weeks ago in which they were appointed a committee to deliver a medal of the North Carolina Society of the Cincinnati, Colonel Benham Cameron, of Raleigh, and W. G. Lamb, of Williamson, called upon President Woodrow Wilson and presented the medal. Mr. Wilson accepted and told the committee he was glad to become a member of the society.

NEW WAREHOUSE.

Tobacco Warehouse to be Ready by July 1.

Friday night in the court house the stockholders of the Greensboro Tobacco Warehouse Company met for purposes of organization, and elected a board of directors as follows: W. S. Clary, J. M. Hendrix, C. H. McKnight, W. H. Rees, S. M. Bumpass, W. O. Doggett and A. A. Chandler.

The stockholders accepted the charter, and the directors were authorized to secure deeds to the real estate and proceed with the details.

The Greensboro Tobacco Warehouse Company is chartered with an authorized capital stock of $25,000, to commence business as soon as $3,000 is paid in. Already the sum of $11,000 has been subscribed, nearly all of which has been paid in.

It is expected to have the new warehouse done and ready to open by July 15. It will be located on North Greene street and is an important addition to the business interests of the city.

Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows.

The grand lodge of Odd Fellows of North Carolina will hold its 70th annual meeting in Greensboro May 20, 21 and 22, at which time it is expected 500 delegates from the state will be in attendance. The grand council will meet with the Greensboro lodges, of which there are four, Buena Vista, No. 21, Greensboro lodge, No. 164, Golden Rod lodge, No. 219, and Anniversary lodge, No. 364. These lodges have approximately 400 members.

All the sessions will be held in the handsome new lodge rooms of Buena Vista, No. 21, on West Market street, which are nearly completed and ready to be occupied. These rooms which are said will be the handsomest in the state, are yet to be furnished, but this will require little time.

Little Boy Drowned.

Friends in Greensboro were much grieved by a message received Saturday telling them of the sudden death by drowning of little John Robert Caldwell, the nine year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Caldwell, in Little Rock, Arkansas. The Caldwell family formerly lived in Greensboro—Mr. Caldwell being for a number of years law agent for the Southern Railway Company. The little boy who met such a sad and untimely death was a nephew of Mrs. J. M. Cunningham and Mr. E. E. Wells, of this city.

A Liquid Pressing Club Seized.

A pressing club, conducted by a negro named Alex McConnell, was searched under the new law, and the officers found seven gallons of whiskey and a large number of empty bottles. Of course this evidence is sufficient to send a man over the road. Over one gallon of the ardent is prima facie evidence that there is illegal selling. But it might be that an up-to-date pressing club uses whiskey to put the kinks in clothing.

Used Bogus Checks.

Viola Goldston, a Stanly county negro, has been arrested by Deputy United States Marshal T. W. Vincent on a charge of using the mails to defraud. Viola, it is charged, has been ordering coat suits, clocks and other finery through the mails, paying for them on delivery via parcel post with bogus checks. The woman was put under a $500 bond for her appearance in Federal court.

This Interest Every Woman.

A family doctor said recently that women come to him thinking that they have female trouble, but when he treats them for their kidneys and bladder, they soon recover. This is worth knowing, and also that Foley Kidney Pills are the best and safest medicine at such times. You cannot get better pure medicine for backache, weary dragged out feeling, aching joints, irregular kidney and bladder action and nervousness due to kidney troubles. Try them. They are tonic in action, quick in results. Conyers & Sykes, adv.

Mother's Day.

Washington, May 11.—"Mother's Day" was generally observed in the national capital today. President Wilson, cabinet officers, members of Congress and thousands of Washingtonians joined in paying homage by wearing white carnations and attending church services where "Motherhood" was the theme of the sermons.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than in other diseases put together, and the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO. Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, price 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Another Still Captured.

The Patriot has had several editors but up to the present time in its long existence, ninety-two years it never deemed it proper to have a moonshine liquor editor, but it looks as though we would have to introduce the "Still Department."

Every time Sheriff Stafford and his posse goes after an illegal still they bring back one. Last week there were three or four captured and recorded in this paper and the day we went to press, Thursday, with the last issue another one was brought in. This time the capture was made in Clay township, about fourteen miles from Greensboro. No whiskey was found, but some 1,500 gallons of beer suggested that there might have been some whiskey a few days later. In the search six other places where stills had been operated were found.

Guilford county perhaps has no more illegal stills than any other county in the state, but because of vigilant officers more are found. The fact that the Webb law makes it impossible for a man with a thirst to receive more than one gallon of whiskey at a time makes moonshining more profitable than of yore. According to the church workers in Greensboro, an official notice being given out, more whiskey is consumed now in this city than at any time since saloons went out. Just what will be done to stop a traffic that has always been a serious question is not known, but one thing is certain: Our sheriff cannot go in the country in any direction without bringing home a big still.

Jamestown's Dilemma.

As a straw showing how the educational winds are blowing the average attendance at the Jamestown school has been about fifty per cent. greater this year than ever before in the history of the school, and the problem of housing the increased attendance seems to have taken root and North Carolina is advancing wonderfully.

Constipation Cured.

Dr. King's New Life Pills will relieve constipation promptly and get your bowels in healthy condition again. John Supic, of Sanbury, Pa., says: "They are the best pills I ever used, and I advise every one to use them for constipation, indigestion and liver complaint." Will help you. Price 25 cents. Health and Hygiene.

The Meaning of Flies.

As the fly season is here, and summer flight is on in earnest, to man that hasn't his screens up at this time eats at the second hand of his guest, the manure pile. No, you may not like to look at it that way, but that is the fact just the same. If you don't see your guests, your fellow-boarders or your table companions, a really good thing to do is to put up screens. After the doors and windows are well screened you can get rid of the occasional intruder by means of sticky paper and swatters.

In the country a man's flies are his own household. That is each householder is largely responsible for his own crop of flies. In cities and towns the number of flies shows up the board of health. If a town has few flies they have a fine, wide-awake board of health, but if flies are thick you can set it down that the board of health is asleep, and a town is usually just about as dead or as wide-awake as its board of health.

The whole thing narrows down, therefore, so that you can judge a town by the number of its flies.

The Fly and Typhoid.

Make a renewed effort to fortify your home against the deadly house-fly. This is the season of the year when typhoid fever is becoming prevalent, and the fly, as one of its chief carriers, is correspondingly more dangerous. During the warm summer weather most flies are content to remain outdoors in garbage cans and filth deposits, but during the cooler weather they stay in houses in increasing numbers, and when they are most apt to be breeding with the germs of dangerous diseases.

Do not throw waste material on the back yard to be blown into the street by the first wind, or to lie there in a decaying heap of food flies and give off foul odors.

Put your premises of any rubbish, paper, tin cans, and refuse of any kind that may have accumulated during the winter.

There was a man in our town. And he was very wise. He helped to keep the typhoid down. By swatting all the flies.

Want Biggest Battleship.

Washington, May 11.—Congress will be asked next year to appropriate for one battleship.

This one battleship, however, will be a monster, if the board's plans materialize. With a displacement of 40,000 tons she would be just about one-fourth larger than any ship yet authorized by Congress, and would easily rank as the largest and most formidable craft of war in the world. The plans contemplate dreadnaught engines that would drive her through the water at the rate of 25 knots an hour—faster than the unarmored "greyhounds" of the navy could travel a few years ago, without sacrificing anything in more powerful batteries or seaworthiness. Just what the armament would be has not been announced, but it certainly would be equal to that of the last ship authorized, which is to carry a main battery of 12 14-inch rifles, mounted in four turrets, three guns to a turret.

Factories Doubling Up.

In spite of high freight rates High Point factories continue to increase their volume of business.

The Crown Hosiery Mills Company is erecting a new mill, most of the brick work already being done. O. E. Kearns is president and a number of High Point business men are interested in the enterprise. This will be a large mill when completed. The Durham Hosiery Mills recently doubled its capacity. The new mill is the fourth one to be built at High Point, and all are doing an immense business.

For the Weak and Nervous.

Tired out, weak, nervous men and women would feel ambitious, energetic, full of life and always have a good appetite, if they would do the sensible thing for health—take Electric Bitters. Nothing better for the stomach, liver or kidneys. Thousands say they owe their lives to this wonderful home remedy. Mrs. O. Rhine-vault, of Vestal Center, N. Y., says: "I regard Electric Bitters as one of the greatest of gifts. I can never forget what it has done for me." Get a bottle yourself and see what a difference it will make in your health. Only 50 cents and $1. Recommended by Fariss-Klutznick Drug Company.

CLEAN MONEY.

"Filthy Lucre" no Longer Allowed in Uncle Sam's Treasury.

Washington, May 11.—The federal government's "money laundry" will be in full swing this week, when the treasury department will begin the operation of four currency washing machines, turning out daily 100,000 washed and ironed notes which otherwise would be destroyed.

Simultaneously with this experiment the question of forbidding the washing of money because of the alleged danger of counterfeiting is being agitated in Congress. Secretary McAdoo and Treasurer Burke, however, have announced their intention to give the machine a fair trial.

The one machine installed in the treasury several months ago has been reinforced by three improved models. The sub-treasury at New York already has four machines and those at Boston and Philadelphia one each. It is claimed the laundry will save the government half a million dollars or more yearly.

The department has made arrangements to reduce the working force of the bureau of engraving and printing, although it is said that probably not more than 80 or 90 printers will lose their jobs.

Advocates of the washing machine claim it will reduce the output of the big printery by 20,000,000 notes annually.

Commissioners Fined.

C. W. Lyon, A. W. Clark and A. L. Tatum, commissioners of Bladen, appeared in the Superior court before Judge Ferguson Thursday and admitted themselves in contempt of court and threw themselves on the mercy of the court, who fined each of the commissioners $10 and taxed them with the cost of the proceedings. The commissioners admitted that they violated the law in disregarding Judge Ferguson's order not to release a county prisoner, without a peace bond.

Wonderful Skin Salve.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve is known every where as the best remedy made for all diseases of the skin, and also for burns, bruises and boils. Reduces inflammation and is soothing and healing. J. T. Sossaman, publisher of News, of Cornelius, N. C., writes that one box helped his serious skin ailment after other remedies failed. Only 25 cents. Recommended by Fariss-Klutznick Drug Company.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

Judge Walter Clark, of the Supreme court, speaking to the Women's Federation of Women's Clubs at Newbern said that woman suffrage would work its way without any help. Perhaps the judge believes this, and doubtless in the years to come woman suffrage will be on the books.

The truth is woman suffrage wouldn't hurt anything and it wouldn't do any good to thousands of women. But the woman who wants to vote should have the right. There is no danger of there ever being a law compelling women to vote. Although many people think there should be a law compelling all voters to go to the polls if they are physically able to attend, and if not able to get out, to vote by proxy.

But that is all fol de rol. Men vote often to please some friend; often they vote to further their own interests. The great parties have defenders and followers. Take the Republican party and for years it was as a wall of granite. People yelled themselves hoarse for the grand old party and the principles of it. A Republican was a Republican because of the history of the party and the history was painted in glowing terms. But all of a sudden, one, just one man, Theodore Roosevelt, personally ambitious, concluded he would be president and saw that the only way to secure the prize was to have a new party—and presto! thousands and tens of thousands of men deserted their lifelong political principles and voted for Roosevelt and repudiated Taft—the man they had overwhelmingly elected but four years before.

All this shows that were women to vote they would be first for one thing and then for another. The change in general results would not be noticed. Woman would have more power, and in many cases would exercise it. The right to vote is an inherent right. Some day as Clark says it will be a legal right—but in North Carolina but few of them would assert their rights or take advantage of them. However, in order to keep down the spirit of destruction, manifest in England, we are not at all against woman having all the rights she wants just as long as she doesn't undertake to pull from our cranium the few remaining hairs that linger there.

The number of stills being captured in Guilford county in the spring of the year when farmers are supposed to be planting corn to make the likker in the fall, suggests that unless Sheriff Stafford increases his force there will be a great deal doing by the first of November. But The Patriot advises people living outside the county and who read of the many stills, not to conclude that Guilford is not a law abiding community. We have a few moonshiners, as all other counties have, but for the most part Guilford citizenship will compare with any county in any country in the world.

The Japs enter strenuous protest to the California alien land bill, and it may be that the little Brown Men will consider the last act sufficient to warrant them in declaring war against the United States. They seem to want to fight, and perhaps the sooner we lick 'em the better it will be.

President Roosevelt, of Progressive fame, cannot keep in the lime-light. It has been a long time since he made a big noise. We all remember how Dewey went up like a rocket and it seems that Teddy is no longer a name to conjure with.

A BIG JOB.

Colonel Osborn, commissioner of internal revenue, sends word from Washington that he proposes to run out of North Carolina every moonshiner within our confines. It may look that way to the colonel. When he realizes that he has all the machinery of the government at his call; when he knows that he can proceed after evildoers regardless of expense, he may think at that distance that he can make a clean sweep. But his task is greater than that of Mrs. Partington who proposed to sweep back the tide into the sea.

It must not be forgotten that moonshiners in the mountains of North Carolina have been pursued by Uncle Sam for the last forty years. It must not be forgotten that the average mountaineer thinks it is his religious duty to defraud Uncle Sam, making moonshine likker is his art. It must not be forgotten that hundreds of husbands have been found guilty and sent to the Federal prison and that while they were serving time the good wives of these sturdy men proceeded to keep the still in operation. It must not be forgotten that there are hundreds of illicit stills in operation in all parts of North Carolina, and that with all the vigilance of all the officers in commission they could not be located. Were the entire standing army of the United States to invade North Carolina and diligently search for stills there would yet remain hundreds.

Of course Colonel Osborn can begin anew a crusade that has not been active since the state went dry, and he will succeed in securing many arrests and many stills will be destroyed. But a still is like Jonah's gourd. It is a child of the night. It is here today and seven miles further up the creek tomorrow, and there is a sort of free masonry among the moonshiners that help them in keeping in the dark. However we want to see Colonel Osborn make good. But we fear that he will find his hands almost full in dealing with the whiskey makers who have a license and who run in the open. There are said to be tricks in all trades, and the trick of putting it over the revenue department by licensed distillers and rectifiers is something sublime to behold.

The suffragettes in England continue to burn houses and are not even stopping at murder, if it appears that murder is necessary to carry out the program. It seems that the suffragettes propose to keep up a reign of terror, no matter how many are imprisoned and to keep on, everlastingly at it, until the men give them suffrage. This is a desperate game the desperate women are playing, and it looks as though they would succeed.

Greensboro is having another sensation in the matter of morals. The law and order league has lodged some serious charges against the police department, and it looks like it was up to the officials to make good in disproving them or admit that a terrible state of affairs exists right "in our midst."

And now come the wise men and predict that the tariff bill cannot get by the Senate until August. And manufacturers are doing all they can to head off the legislation. President Wilson feels that he must make good his party pledges and his party platform—and uneasy lies the head that must monkey with the tariff.

Since Danville has gone dry it is said that Lynchburg is now the seat of war, and the mail order business continues as of yore—the express bears a trifle more and the thirst a trifle more intense as it takes longer to get Lynchburg goods than it did Danville goods.

The Raleigh News and Observer has already commenced to rebuild where the fire laid its building low, and the North Carolina people have shown the News and Observer that it is fully appreciated.

Raleigh is also upset over alleged whiskey selling by drug stores, and it is charged by some that spite work is at the bottom of it.

And after a long dry spell Guilford county received copious showers last week, and a little more water wouldn't hurt.

It is now up to Mr. Eryan to tell the country whether or not fermented grape juice is what he recommends.

If Greensboro has as many blind tigers as is alleged, then it behooves the police force to get busy.

IN MEMORIAM.

Mrs. Martha Ellen Lineberry.

Martha Ellen Lineberry, nee Martha Ellen Kliney, was born in Alamance county, nearly seventy-three years ago. In 1852 she was married to Henry Lineberry, who a few years later died, while serving as a soldier in the Civil war.

Since her husband's death, Aunt Martha, as she was locally known, lived with her family connections until the day of her death, April 18, 1913. Aunt Martha was preceded by her only child, Marjita by name, about twenty years ago. One grandson, one great granddaughter, two half brothers, and a legion of friends and relatives survive the deceased, happily anticipating a glorious reunion.

On the day following her death Aunt Martha's mortal remains were laid to rest in the cemetery at Mt. Pleasant M. P. church. The funeral services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. Robert S. Troxler. The deceased was not educated, but she possessed those pure and noble qualities which education alone can never give. The writer, he believes, voices the sentiment of all who knew her in saying that she was true, honest and loyal to her Master and to His cause. No greater eulogy can be pronounced upon her than to say "she did what she could."

Destructive Forest Fires.

A correspondent of the Charlotte Observer says that millions of dollars of losses have resulted from the numerous extensive forest fires that have been raging in western North Carolina mountains the past three weeks. The oldest residents say that no such extensive forest burning has occurred before for more than 20 years. Beginning about 25 miles south and east of here, the fires have extended from 20 to 40 miles north and east. Not all that territory has been burned but much of it. All of Linville mountain, within two miles of Linville Falls, has been burned, a thing that has not happened before for many years. Hitherto some part has escaped, but this time the various fires, from last fall to the present, have burned it out.

Urge Watts' Appointment.

According to Washington dispatches President Wilson is being urged to appoint Austin D. Watts as collector of the western district by a large party of North Carolinians who called upon him Monday, headed by Senator Simmons and Governor Locke Craig. They called at the White House by appointment and were in conference with the president about half an hour. Included in the party were James H. Poy and J. W. Falley. Raleigh; E. L. Travis, corporation commissioner, and Wilton McLean, Lumberton.

After the conference Senator Simmons declared President Wilson was disposed to give weight to the representations made to him upon leaving the White House the party went to the treasury department and held a long interview with Secretary McAdoo.

"Improved" Bull Fight.

A bull fight in Tokio is quite as much excuse for a gala day as a full fight in Madrid. Business men leave their offices, and women and children their homes, to hurry to the arena. Stripped of all the less exciting, or less horrible, preliminaries which characterize the Spanish bull fight, the animals are brought in and sent at each other at once. So the battle is shorter, and two or three more fights will follow in quick succession during the course of an afternoon's "entertainment."

Test of Sobriety.

Many shibboleths have been devised for testing sobriety. George Meredith, who doubtless could have evolved some wonderful examples, had he chosen, calls them "onometers, or methods of determining the condition of man, according to the degrees of wine or beer in him." One of the most snareful of these is the sentence, "Give James Grimes' gilt gig-whip, and a cup of coffee from a copper coffee pot."—London Chronicle.

Matters of Interest Reported by Our Corps of Correspondents.

OAK RIDGE.

Dr. Nelson Clark, pastor of First Presbyterian church in Greensboro, will preach the annual sermon at the M. E. church Sunday, the 18th.

The annual debate between the two literary societies will take place Monday night, the 19th.

Commencement proper, alumni address by Walker W. Vick, and literary exercises by Congressman Page, of the second district, will take place Tuesday, the 20th, beginning at 10 A. M. Every body is invited.

The music furnished at Oak Ridge last night was of a high degree of excellence than has ever been heard before at this institution.

The school opened at the Battle Ground on Friday, the 9th. An address was delivered by Prof. M. J. Holt on "Lee's Engler Boy and Battle of Guilford Court House." An original poem on "Gillies the Bugler Boy" was read by Prof. J. A. Holt. Music was furnished by the Institute cornet band. Mr. C. H. Oliver was in charge of ceremonies. The day was ideal, and was immensely enjoyed by the student body. The picnic was a gift of the literary societies, which, years ago, planted the first memorial to a private soldier ever unveiled in the United States.

It would be amiss not to thank the president and treasurer of the Battle Ground Company for turning the museum and the Battle Ground over to the use and enjoyment of Oak Ridge Institute on the 9th.

The stone which now stands near the spot where Gillies, the bugler boy, fell, on the road between Oak Ridge and Summerfield, will be moved this week to a point equally near the spot where he fell and in sight of the present macadam road.

Prof. M. H. Holt attended quarterly meeting at Sandy Ridge church on Saturday.

Rev. Mr. Goode preached two able sermons at the M. E. church on Sunday.

Examinations are on in all departments of the school this week, and everybody is getting ready for the tests.

Miss Chappell, of Guilford College, spent Saturday and Sunday with Miss Irene Bowman.

The exceedingly dry weather continues and added to the present crop is not favorable for farm work. We suppose farmers are waiting for the Oak Ridge commencement to get out their tobacco plants.

Mr. J. Harvey Holt, of the Greensboro baseball team, spent Sunday at home. His playing has been most favorably commented on during this season.

Sheriff D. P. Stafford, of Greensboro, spent Sunday on the Ridge with relatives and friends.

WHITSETT.

A large crowd attended the lecture Sunday night. The subject was "The Chances." It completed a series of lectures that continued throughout the school year.

Dr. R. E. Redding, of Greensboro, spent Tuesday here with the Greensboro normal class. This class is doing good work this year.

Miss Regina McIntyre, of Pleasanton, was here for a short time on her way to school.

On Sunday's visitors were Mrs. W. E. Whitsett and Mrs. E. J. Whitsett, of Greensboro.

The annual contest in elocution and declamation drew a large crowd. The prize was awarded to Miss M. J. Phillips.

The basketball team played a game with Burlington high school in Greensboro, Burlington, on Saturday.

Dr. R. E. Redding has at last arrived. He will be given a lecture Sunday, the 18th.

The senior exercises on Sunday, the 18th, will be given at 4 P. M. in the gymnasium.

Mr. J. H. Grimes will speak at 11 A. M. and 2 P. M. on Sunday.

The elocution class will present an entertainment followed by a reception to friends and visitors.

Dr. R. E. Redding is expected, and his address will be here for the evening. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend all the exercises.

Dr. R. E. Redding preached Sunday at Greensboro. It was a good sermon. There is some talk that he may be elected as president of Greensboro College, which is now under a head, the president having resigned recently. This is the opinion of the Reformed church at Greensboro.

Miss Georgia Clapp, of Lawndale, is here on a visit. For some years she has been teaching in Cleveland county.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Clapp, of Gibsonville, were among our visitors last Sunday.

Dr. and Mrs. Whitsett spent last Thursday in High Point on business. They went through by automobile, the run taking one hour and a half.

Many former students have written that they will be here for commencement this year from the 17th to the 19th.

ELON COLLEGE.

The catalogue number of the College Bulletin, the 24th annual number, is just from the press of the Christian Publishing Association. It is larger in extent than any previous issue, containing 178 pages and showing among other changes, two of singular import.

The first of these changes and the one that will be most welcome in this age that clamors after the practical in education is that which provides for the bachelor of science degree, for which no Latin or Greek is required, either for entrance to college or during the college course. Instead of these ancient and honored tongues, German, French, or Spanish, with English will make up the required language work. This change is expected to be far-reaching in its influence and to result in the preparation of a great many scientific men, who feel that the classical languages are not directly connected with their life-work. Taken in connection with the two excellent laboratories in physics and chemistry now nearing completion this hope would appear to be well-founded.

The second of these changes has to do with the inauguration of the custom of teaching for six days in the week, rather than five days. The recitation work will begin at 7:50 in the morning and close at 1 in the afternoon. This arrangement will give a much larger time to the gymnasium and laboratory work than has previously been possible.

The catalogue shows that 358 students have matriculated during the college year, from thirteen states and more than a hundred countries. There had been talk current on the hill of raising the entrance requirements to fifteen units, or one more than the standard college requires, but the catalogue does not show the change, the requirement of fourteen units as practiced for many years being adhered to, in company with the other colleges. The usual sixty-nine hours of college work, with the graduating thesis exhibiting original research, are required of all candidates for the bachelor's degree.

RAMSEUR.

Messrs. Willie Joe and Ernest Turner have purchased handsome rubber tired buggies.

Misses Beulah King and Rose Long, of Winston, after spending two weeks with relatives and friends here, returned Monday.

At the recent town election the following officers were elected: Mayor, I. T. Craven; commissioners, Willis Luther, M. E. Johnson, J. E. Brady, J. R. Phillips and G. M. Hodgins; treasurer, J. D. Leonard; clerk, Joe McAllister; marshal, J. M. Brewer.

Mr. W. H. Watkins is spending some time at Jackson Springs.

Rev. R. W. Harrell is conducting protracted services in the Baptist church this week.

Mr. E. C. Watkins is building a number of fine concrete walks around his home.

SEDALIA.

Several of our people are attending and enjoying the revival services that are being conducted in Greensboro by the evangelist, Rev. W. E. Niederwolf.

Mr. F. R. Smith's feed barn was struck by lightning during the electric storm of last Friday evening, and was burned to the ground with what feed it contained.

Rev. R. E. Redding delivered a very helpful and earnest sermon at Sedalia Sunday morning from St. Mark 1:15. At a congregational meeting held on that day Messrs. R. M. Haffines and W. L. Wharton were elected as ruling elders, and Messrs. John Anderson and W. H. Faisley were elected deacons.

Mrs. Henry Gray has been very sick for the past few days, but we are glad to say is some better again.

While President Wilson has knocked out the civil service order of President Taft concerning the thirty odd thousand postmasters the order comes that all postmasters must stand civil service examinations. But the examination will perhaps be light. In many places the postmaster is hard to find and if he takes the job of handling the mail he does it more for accommodation than anything else. It may be pie—but the crust is too thin to see.

FOR BETTER ROADS

CURE FOR INDUSTRIAL EVILS

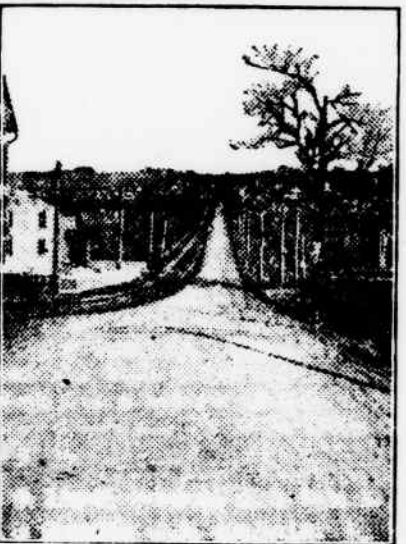

When Time and Labor Unnecessarily Consumed in Transporting Products There is Big Waste.

If the public could be convinced that it is economy to begin with fundamentals the problem of progress in every line of social endeavor would be solved.

At present the sole remedy for many industrial evils lies in the betterment of roads.

Manifestly, when time is unnecessarily consumed and labor wasted in transportation of products to market there is a fundamental waste. One instance will serve as an illustration. A man loaded his wagon early one morning with a bale of cotton and a few bags of the loose product. He lived twenty-two miles from town. The roads in that section are better than the average, but it took him until nightfall to reach the selling point. He and his half-grown son, who accompanied him, spent the night in town, paying the expense of lodging, meals and keep for the team. The second day was spent in negotiations for the sale of the cotton and the purchasing of a few necessities. They arrived on the third day late in the afternoon, having lost practically three days.

That farm was mortgaged. Everything made from year to year was paid out in interest and for a poor living for the family. There was not a dollar for improved labor-saving machinery.

A Good Road in Ohio.

chinery, for additional fencing, or, in fact, anything that would enhance the value of the place.

If this farmer had raised small marketable crops—which he didn't—he could not afford the time or give up the use of his team to take them to the nearest point. A few sweet potatoes, cotton and corn were the sole products raised.

If his place had been mortgaged for the building of a pike or trolley line connecting him with a market there would be hope of paying out. As conditions are, he gets poorer and more hopeless every year.

GOVERNOR SULZER ON ROADS

In Recent Message to New York Legislature He Laid Down Law in No Uncertain Terms.

Governor Sulzer of New York is a road booster of the right type. In his recent message to the New York legislature he "laid down the law" to the legislators in no uncertain terms, pointed out defects in New York's road laws and pronounced the doom of the spoilsmen who had been fattening on the people's money, says the Southern Good Roads. In his message he paid this great tribute to good roads:

"We know that good roads, like good streets, make habitation along them most desirable; they enhance the value of farm lands, facilitate transportation, and add untold wealth to the producers and consumers of the country; they economize time, give labor a lift and make millions in money; they save wear and tear and worry and waste; they beautify the country and bring it in touch with the city; they aid the social and religious and educational and industrial progress of the people; they make better homes and happier firesides; they are the avenue of trade and the agencies of speedy communication; they mean the economical transportation of marketable products—the maximum burden at the minimum cost; they are the ligaments that bind the country together in thrift and industry and intelligence and patriotism; they promote social intercourse, prevent intellectual stagnation and increase the happiness and prosperity of our producing masses; they contribute to the greatness of the city and the glory of the country; give employment to our idle workmen, distribute the necessities of life—the products of the fields and the forest and the factories—encourage energy and husbandry, inculcate love for our scenic wonders, and make mankind better and happier."

NOTICE

The United States of America, In the District Court of the United States for the Western District of North Carolina.

In the matter of Alexander A. Clark, Bankrupt.

To the Honorable James E. Boyd, Judge of the District Court of the United States for the Western District of North Carolina:

Alexander A. Clark, of Graham, in the county of Alamance, and state of North Carolina, in said district, respectfully represent: That on the 1st day of July, 1912, he was duly adjudged a bankrupt under the Acts of Congress relating to Bankruptcy; that he has duly surrendered all his property and rights of property and has fully complied with all the requirements of said acts, and of the orders of the court touching his bankruptcy.

Wherefore, he prays that he may be decreed by the court to have a full discharge from all debts provable against his estate under said Bankruptcy Acts, except such debts as are excepted by law from such discharge.

Dated this May 12, 1913.
ALEXANDER A. CLARK,
Bankrupt.

Order of Notice For Discharge.

It is ordered by the court that a hearing be had upon the same on the 26th day of May, 1913, before G. S. Ferguson, Jr., Special Master, at Greensboro, N. C., in the said district at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and that notice thereof be published in The Greensboro Patriot, a newspaper published in said district, and that all known creditors and other persons in interest may appear at the said time and place and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of the said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered by the court that the clerk shall send by mail to all known creditors copies of the said petition and this order addressed to them at their places of residence as stated.

This May 12, 1913.

"ON THE CORNER"

[This matter must not be reprinted without special permission.]

The value of the milk and poultry products of the state of Minnesota are put at $83,000,000 for 1912.

Brood sows should have a quiet, warm, dry place, where their litters may spend the first week of their lives without being unnecessarily disturbed by other animals or inquisitive people.

There is no truth in the statement that the acids in sludge will cause decay of the teeth of the animal that eats it. It is merely some one's supposition that has been given circulation.

In one neighborhood in California it seems to be an accepted thing to trust any rancher who has milk on his pants. Translated, this seems to mean that the fellow's credit is good who is engaged in the dairy business.

Jerónimo is the name of the famous Texas long horned steer whose head is now mounted in a conspicuous place in San Antonio, Tex. The spread of this steer's horns is nine feet six inches, and $1,250 was refused for them shortly after the animal's death.

A family living near Spokane, Wash., solved the problem of attending the short course in a very satisfactory manner. The father and his two sons took the courses in agriculture, while the mother attended the classes in household economics.

Bugs, grubs and worms of one kind and another are credited with being partially responsible for the high cost of living by a speaker at a Wisconsin short course. He estimates that the crops of that state were damaged $10,000,000 by these insect pests last year.

A public spirited citizen of Rochester, Minn., has offered the use of as large a tract of land as may be needed for carrying out the agricultural experiment work of the high school classes in this particular branch. The school in question has arranged to use some twenty-five acres.

It has lately been discovered that the thorns of the black hawthorn tree make the best possible needles for the phonograph. The tone produced is both softer and of an improved quality. In one section which was mentioned in a late news dispatch the thorns had been gathered from these trees for miles around.

A picture of a couple of dressed hogs hangs in one of the classrooms of the Kansas Agricultural college. One hog, larger by three times, had a balanced ration of corn and alfalfa. The smaller one, the runt, had the same care, with the exception that he got no alfalfa. It is an effective demonstration and one that should have a suggestion for the hog raiser.

It is doubtless true that many alfalfa and clover plants are killed during the winter as a result of a heaving of the ground and a snapping of the roots beneath the crown of the plant. It is also more than likely that a good deal of winter killing that is attributed to a heaving of the ground is the result of a virtual smothering by an icy coat during the winter months.

Newspapers of a recent date tell of a New Jersey man who made arrangements with a friend to act as his proxy in a marriage to an old country sweetheart, the proxy having instructions to put the bride aboard the first liner bound for America. This proxy business may be all right in some matters, but there are naturally enough snags in matrimony so that the more direct a fellow manages his own affairs the better off he will be.

The farmer who has tuberculosis in his herd of dairy cows should use his best endeavors to have the cows tested and get the infected animals wooded out, but simple justice would seem to demand that where this is done he should be reimbursed by the state for at least a part of the loss he sustains. In instances not a few farmers have been well nigh bankrupted by the loss of their dairy herds through the enforcement of rigid inspection regulations.

A lot of farmers who are very alert to the overcharges of railroads for transporting their produce from depot to central market make all kinds of fuss at the suggestion of the levying of a mill tax for the purpose of improving the country roads and thereby reducing the transportation charges incident to small loads, rough roads and wear and tear on vehicles and animals. The farmer may have been held up in times past by railroads, but it is a surer thing that he is held up even more today in many sections by wretched country highways.

Just as prizes for herd performance are more needed in butter contests than those which are offered for the showing of a single animal, so in the corn growing business we need more prizes for twenty, forty and sixty acre yields rather than for the exceptional yields of single coddled and petted acres.

The English pen of White Leghorns belonging to Thomas Barron are still in the lead in the international egg laying contest at Storrs college, Connecticut, though a pen of Buff Leghorns belonging to an American, G. H. Schmitz, is setting a fast pace and seems more than likely to give the English fowls a run for the prize.

If the lime-sulphur spraying is given the apple trees just before the buds start full benefit will not only be had along the line of destroying San Jose and other scale insects, but a stiff joint will be given the aphids, which will be hatching at about that time. However, care should be taken that the concentrated wash is not used after the leaves start.

The cow testing associations promoted by the Irish board of agriculture are making remarkable progress. It is now almost universally acknowledged, says the London Dairy, that many herds contain unprofitable beasts. The value of an animal cannot be ascertained by the "rule of thumb" methods formerly in vogue, and the example of the advanced farmers is having an excellent effect upon those who stood out against reform.

It is generally conceded that man (used generically) has freedom of choice and will, yet it is an interesting fact that, notwithstanding this, a man always puts on his coat right or left sleeve first and always puts the same leg into his trousers first, while a woman as a rule puts on the same stocking and shoe (right or left) first. If the reader has any doubt about the truth of this statement he has only to watch himself or herself.

The fellows who would have cornered the egg market and forced the price up to 50 cents, or just as high as they could, have encountered a pretty stiff proposition in the shape of an unusually mild winter, laying hens and irate housewives, who resented being held up. This makes two times in the past three or four years that these cold storage egg men have come to grief. One can but wonder whether they will tackle it again next season.

A housewife who has uniformly good success with her wheat pancakes states that she uses one-half a level teaspoonful of saleratus with each pint of flour, mixing it in and sifting it with the flour before adding the sour milk. She pays no attention to the amount of milk used, but adds enough to make the batter of the proper consistency after thorough beating. The amount of soda suggested in the above recipe is for moderately sour milk or buttermilk.

The need of inspection for small town meat markets and slaughter houses was shown the other day in a piece of liver which had been given a patron of one of these markets for cut meat. Inspection of the pieces of liver by a veterinarian showed extensive tubercular infection. If the other portions of this same animal were sold over the counter the proprietor of the market was not only careless, but rendered himself liable for criminal prosecution for selling meat that was diseased and unfit for food.

Clover seed is high enough in price so that it behooves the man who buys it to get the best. Country merchants who are alert to the needs of their farmer patrons will have samples of the clover seed they offer for sale tested to determine how pure it is and whether it contains the seed of any noxious weeds. Should the merchant not do this the buyer should do it before he takes the clover seed home. Many a farmer goes to the auction sale in the neighborhood not because he needs stock or machinery, but for the same reason that his wife goes to the quilting bee.

The men poke a good deal of fun at women for attending bargain sales at stores and buying stuff that they don't need just because it is cheap. But there is a chance for a laugh in the other direction at those chaps who attend the country auction sale and bid in all kinds of old junk which they may not use in a cow's age just because it's cheap or to keep the other fellow from getting it. We know of some farmers whose yards and garrets are strewn with this auction bargain stuff. However, there is this to be said for both the classes referred to—they furnish a market for stuff that other folks do not want.

The Guelph experiment station of Ontario has conducted a series of breeding experiments with oats during a period of twelve years, and among other important information gathered is that connected with the use of plump grain for seed. It was found that seed oats which averaged six pounds per bushel heavier than a lighter seed used gave an average yearly yield per acre of sixteen bushels more than the lighter seed. In forty separate tests that were made with seed grain of different sizes the largest yields were secured from the plumper and heavier kernels in all cases but three. There ought to be a suggestion here for the farmer who may have some question in his mind as to whether it is worth while to use a fanning mill for seed grain.

Keepers of bees and those wishing to take up the work will be interested in farmers' bulletin No. 503 on "Comb Honey," lately issued by the department of agriculture at Washington. It may be had free of charge by writing to the department for it.

The Holland farmer carries on dairying on land worth from $600 to $800 per acre and makes money at it. In too many instances the American farmer is shinning along on bare ground on land that is worth $100. The difference is merely in the man and his methods.

It will often be found not only less expensive, but better for the children of the country school district, to pay for hauling them to a good town school than to pay for a teacher and fuel in order to keep the district school open. This is especially true if the number of pupils in the district is small.

A perfect dish of oatmeal, a cereal that is much used, but usually ill cooked, can be prepared by boiling for about fifteen minutes and then stewing away in a fireless cooker overnight. By this process the oatmeal is not only thoroughly cooked, but it also keeps its shape. It is not sloppy porridge, on the one hand; neither is it raw and tough as a piece of India rubber.

In sections where the winter precipitation is heavy in the form of rain or snow and the winters are not so severe as to make a cover crop in the orchard advisable for the purpose of catching and holding the snow, plowing in the fall is recommended for the purpose of enabling the soil to the better hold moisture, which in turn tends to prevent washing and gully-ing.

With crops of practically all kinds showing unprecedented yields, with money plentiful, labor employed and political agitation showing practically no effect on industrial projects, an era of prosperity and good times would seem to be just ahead the like of which has not been experienced in a dozen years. Every man who has two hands may aid in furthering it and should receive a generous share of its benefits.

One of the live subjects of very general interest that are to be discussed at the coming national apple show at Spokane is that of the handling and utilizing of the by-product—the inferior grades of apples which cannot be boxed and marketed. This is a mighty live proposition, and until some satisfactory solution is offered there is bound to be a big leak on a host of ranches in the west, where a high standard of fruit for packing is insisted upon.

The high quality of fruit packed by several noted western fruit growers' associations is the better understood when one is on the ground and sees the amount and quality of the fruit that is discarded for one reason or another. The fancy box fruit is the result of much pains in caring for trees and fruit from blossom to picking time and of a rigid selection when it is packed. The fancy price received is simply the result of the law of cause and effect. It doesn't come by chance.

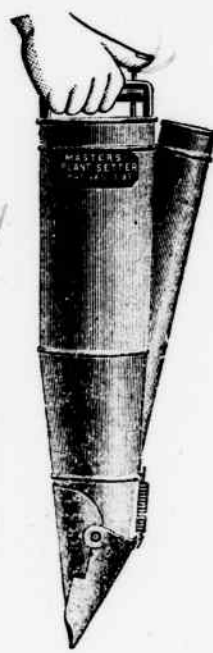

If ever there was a husking season when the crop was calculated to tax human capacity and ingenuity to get it under cover before heavy snows, it is the one just begun. The total crop of the country is put at 3,000,000,000 bushels, while individual farmers who thought they were going to have fifty or sixty bushels per acre are confronted with a yield of eighty or ninety. The corn picker has been perfected so that it does very satisfactory work, and a lot of them will have to be pressed into service to handle the crop.

That was a considerate as well as level headed housewife who rewarded the girl who had been working for her with a birthday party as an evidence of her appreciation of the fact that the latter had done her work well and faithfully and had been kind to the children. If more of this spirit were manifested by other mistresses of households there would be a lot less trouble in the matter of securing female help in the home and a good many less ads. in the weekly and daily papers under the heading "Girl Wanted."

Under the terms of the plant quarantine act passed by congress the past summer an embargo has been placed on the importation of potatoes from Newfoundland and several European countries in order to prevent the introduction of the potato canker or black scab. The importation of potatoes during the fiscal year closing June 30, 1912, from the countries affected by this order totaled 12,685,719 bushels and valued at more than $6,000,000. It is fortunate for the American consumer that this order comes at a time when there is an abundant crop of the tubers.

The residents of one Ohio town have got the right idea about squelching a monopoly. Recently the egg dealers of the place decided that they would force up the price of eggs. The result was the formation of a boycott against eggs in any form which was entered into by the 40,000 inhabitants of the city. At last reports eggs were about where they had been and these protestants were still eating beef and making their cakes of shortening, flour and sugar. To be effective this boycott should spread until it covered a considerable part of the country. There would be things doing then, and no mistake.

Set Your Tobacco With a Masters' Plant Setter

It's the grandest little tool ever used or ever seen for setting plants. It saves time and does away with that back breaking labor of stooping when transplanting.

With a Masters' Plant Setter

One man can, after a little practice, set, water and fertilize more plants in one day than three men can set by hand.

You run no risk whatever, in buying a MASTERS' PLANTER, because its a great labor saver, a drought breaker, and a crop producer.

ODELL HARDWARE CO.

EXTENDING THE CORN BELT.

L. S. Thorpe of Traill county, N. D., has recently been announced as the winner in a five acre corn growing contest which was open to all farmers of that state. The variety grown was Minnesota No. 13, and the average yield for the five acres was 88.6 bushels. The tract in question was bottom land, grew millet in 1911 and was plowed seven inches deep early in May last year, dragged well and planted three feet six inches apart each way. During the season the crop was cultivated twice with a single horse cultivator, dragged once with a tooth harrow and hand hoed once. Early in July the field was hit with two hailstorms, which made further cultivation impossible. With such a yield so far north the area of the corn belt has surely been stretched.

MAYBE HE'LL HAVE IT SOON.

A New York city reader of this department who has a longing to have a farm of his own, a home on the land, writes that his plants are maturing a bit slowly, but that he hopes some day to be a full fledged "back to the lander" and in due time to become a millionaire. Our friend is wise, we think, in not jumping into this business in too big a hurry and before he is in shape to give it a fair trial. He shows good sense in keeping both his feet where they are until he can find a good foothold for both of them "on the land." The independence, good health and satisfaction of the man and his family who own a home on the land are among the finest things that humankind may have, and we hope the desires of this and other readers may be realized at no distant date.

RHUBARB IN WINTER.

A reader of this department reports a luscious rhubarb pie the other day made from stalks that were produced from a root of the plant that was put in the cellar last fall just before freeze-up. The root was dug up, put in an old coal scuttle, hung up in the cellar and given an occasional watering. There was nothing doing for a number of weeks, and our friend thought the experiment was a flake, but about three weeks ago stalks showed their heads and began to grow. They were not spindly, but strong, vigorous stalks from sixteen to eighteen inches long and correspondingly thick. Our friend and his neighbors have had rhubarb pie, and more of them will try cellar rhubarb next winter.

The telephone goes hand in hand with good roads.

The telephone overcomes many of the obstacles of bad roads and makes it possible for the farmer and other rural residents to transact business in the city and with neighbors when the roads are impassable.

Progressive farmers are insisting upon good roads and telephones. These two agencies of modern civilization are doing more than all others toward eliminating the isolation of country life. DAIRY

BREEDING STOCK FOR DAIRY

Cow Must Have Large Middle and Strong Constitution to Insure the Best Results.

Prof. W. J. Kennedy of the Iowa station recommends the following in reference to the selection of breeding stock for the dairy:

In selecting dairy cattle the real test must be the scales and the Babcock tester. The cow is a machine to convert food into milk, thus she must have a large middle and a strong constitution to insure the best results. She must also have a large udder, large milk wells, large crooks, milk veins and good-sized teats. The head should be clean and angular in appearance, with the eyes standing out prominently.

The neck should be rather long and lean in appearance. The shoulders should be good, and the backbone rather prominent. The skin should be loose and soft to the touch. In selecting two bulls, either mature animals which have already demonstrated their worth as sires, or younger animals from high testing dams and sires only should be used. The best and surest results will always follow the use of mature sires which have good heifers with good results.

A good dairy bull should be kept as long as he is a sure sire. Real cow sires are so rare that when we find one, he should die only of old age. All the breeders of dairy cattle should secure yearly tests on each cow in the herd. Shorter tests do not really mean very much. It is the cow that stays by her job that is really valuable.

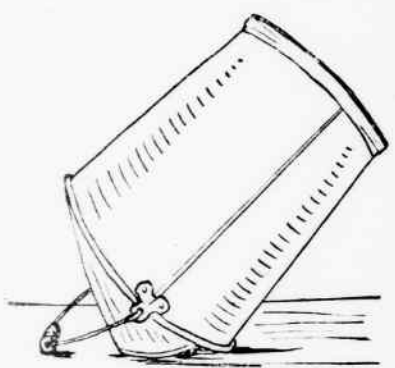

PAIL FOR MILK IS SANITARY

Most Common Fault of Covered Receptacles Is Their Excessive Height—Avoid Dirt.

(By HERBERT A. HOPPER.)
The most common failing of the covered milk pails is excessive height. The short-legged or heavy-shouldered cows the pails should not be more than 12 inches high over all.

An elliptical opening is preferable to a round one covering the same number of square inches, since it is easier to milk into it. While a smaller opening may be used, one 5x7 inches about the shape seen in the Trueman, Kerns or Loy pails, will be found practically as convenient as the ordinary open pail.

Pails which have no detachable parts become foul, and in which the milk permits of easy cleaning, and have their seams well flushed with so there are no rough edges, answer all practical sanitary requirements.

Recognizing the fact that the time of milking is the critical period in the life of milk or cream and that the covered pail and cleanly habits are important to consider as influencing the keeping properties of milk, it is always desirable to remove the milk from the stable to the milk room as soon as practical and convenient. This contributes to its length of life. Open cans or pails of milk should never be allowed to stand unprotected. Covered cans should receive the milk from the milkers and be transported to the milk room at frequent intervals. Circumstances must determine the best methods to follow. Any system that succeeds in getting the milk promptly from the cow to the milk room without contamination of food provided it is accomplished with a minimum amount of labor.

Most Profitable Cow.

Someone has said that the cow is profitable when she makes 200 pounds of butter in a year. If this is the case imagine how much could be made from a 350 or 400-pound cow, and these are by no means impossible.

Calf Pasture Is Important.

One of the most important lots on the farm is the calf pasture. The little fellows should have good care and food in the barn and they ought to have a pasture all by themselves during the summer.

Water Is Important.

Cows will fall off in milk if water is not within easy reach. When in full flow of milk they require, it is claimed, 50 per cent. more water than when dry.

TAKE PLACE OF SOAP

SUBSTITUTES THAT ARE REQUISITE FOR BAD WEATHER.

To the Woman Careful of Good Appearance Many Simple and Easily Prepared Properties Are at All Times Available.

Substitutes for soap are more in demand when bad days are at hand, than at any other time of the year, because the skin is more apt to be tender and to chap easily. Among the many formulas for such substitutes the following have proved good, and all are simple and easily prepared:

Almond meal is the mixture most universally used instead of toilet soap, and a good combination calls for four ounces each of powdered orris root and wheat flour; one ounce powdered castile soap, one ounce borax powder and two fluid drams oil of bergamot. Mix well and pass through a sieve, using as you would soap.

The cereal lotions are all good and can be made as follows: Barley water is made by boiling gently six ounces of pearl barley in one quart of water for a half hour. When cold, strain carefully and add a half teaspoonful of tincture of benzoin. Another similar preparation is made from a generous handful of oatmeal boiled in a quart of water for fifteen or twenty minutes, cooled and strained. One ounce of alcohol and one tablespoonful of lemon juice gives it the cleansing properties, and also helps to keep the lotion from growing rancid. These are best kept in a cool place. Corn meal can be used instead of the oat meal, if more convenient.

A cucumber cleansing lotion can be made from one ounce of strained cucumber juice, one-half ounce of rose-water and a scant teaspoonful of powdered borax. Less of the borax can be used for a dry skin.

A very simple cleansing mixture contains one large cupful of finely ground oatmeal with one tablespoonful powdered olive oil soap carefully mixed through it. When the hands are washed with this combination they are softened and whitened as well as perfectly cleansed.

The small bags of cheesecloth filled with equal portions of oatmeal and wheat bran can be often used in place of soap, when the hands are only slightly soiled, and save the skin from becoming rough and chapped.

AVOID APPEARANCE OF AGE

Woman Makes Mistake in Submitting to a Too Grave and Settled Cast of Countenance.

If a "woman is as old as she looks," then for goodness' sake don't look old! This doesn't mean to straightway adopt giddy and youthful attire if you are on the shady side of forty, nor does it mean to try and look as simpering and kittenish and coy as your little sixteen-year-old cousin.

But did you ever stop to realize that by looking too serious—by looking too much as if you had all the weight of the world on your shoulders and its woes in your cranial and on your soul you added ten years to your countenance?

In our strenuous rush and busy whirl we acquire "do or die expressions," long faces, and unnecessary lines and wrinkles. Be serious and earnest of purpose—but don't look too solemn.

"She goes around with a fixed look in one hand and a pencil in the other," said the Old World visitor laughingly, in describing a clever little business woman of thirty or so. The European was also a writer, and she had to work as hard as did the "fixed look" little person. The lady from over the seas was also thirty—and looked twenty-four—the American was thirty and looked thirty-five. To be sure this is an exceptional case, and most American women need be told little on retaining their youthful figures and faces.

Take a peep into your own hand-glass now—does it show back a face that looks as if you had half the troubles in the world? Now think of something pleasant—the world isn't such a bad place after all! There, did you notice the change—and did you see the years slide away. And isn't the second countenance the better one to show the world in general?

Bronze Flower Holders.

French bronze flower holders for the drawing room or boudoir table are decorated with various flowers in colored enamel and with here or there a butterfly in enamel. They are about four inches high and made to represent small baskets of the bronze or a half open cornucopia in which is the tiny glass, which holds the flower. The basket form has three glasses, which would hold a few violets or a few rosebuds. The other has but one glass. They are priced at $5.48 and $6.75 each.

Irish Lace Stitch Revived.

A new decoration in cotton materials is the use of the Irish lace stitch. With its open meshes and coarse irregularity it is charmingly applied to thin materials. It is presented in borders woven on the material itself, and in bands to be applied as trimmings. An attractive novelty is this beautiful lace stitch is stamped with colors, and, as much of the color falls through the open meshes, the result is pleasantly irregular and vague.

POULTRY

POULTRY FOR THE BOY

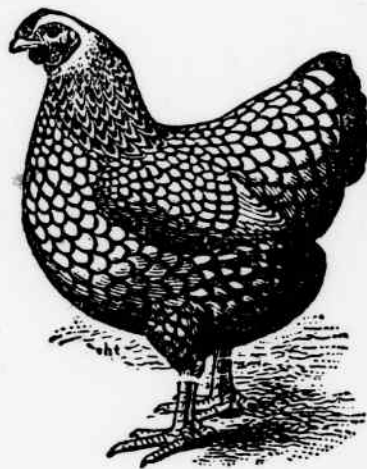

Desirable to Manage Them Separate From Other Fowls.

Plan Given for the Construction of Suitable House to Accommodate Ten Hens and Male—Coop May Be Enlarged.

(By KATHERINE ATHERTON GRIMES.)

The boy who has fowls of his own will want to manage them so as to keep them separate from the other poultry on the farm. The following plan, which is arranged to accommodate ten or twelve hens and a male, has been found very satisfactory. It may be enlarged for a greater number, always remembering that each additional fowl means from five to eight square feet more of floor space.

The coop in question is five feet wide and twelve feet long, giving a floor space of sixty square feet—five or six square feet per hen. It is six feet high at the front, and four feet at the back, and is built from cheap lumber, and covered with tarred roofing. On most farms there are odds and ends of boards enough to put up such a coop, except for the roofing. As no glass is used, the only additional expense will be for nails, hinges, a few yards of cheap cotton domestic, and a little poultry netting.

The door into the coop is put at one end of the front wall. It is not closed with a solid door, but with a frame covered with wire netting, having a curtain of muslin on the inside for use in cold weather. The upper half of the remaining part of the front is also left open and covered with netting, with an inside muslin curtain. In warm weather these curtains are kept rolled up, but in cold weather they are let down over the openings. They should be large enough to cover them well, and have weights at the bottom to hold them in place. If a hen is run in, and a rather heavy slat thrust through the casing thus formed, they will stay in place very well.

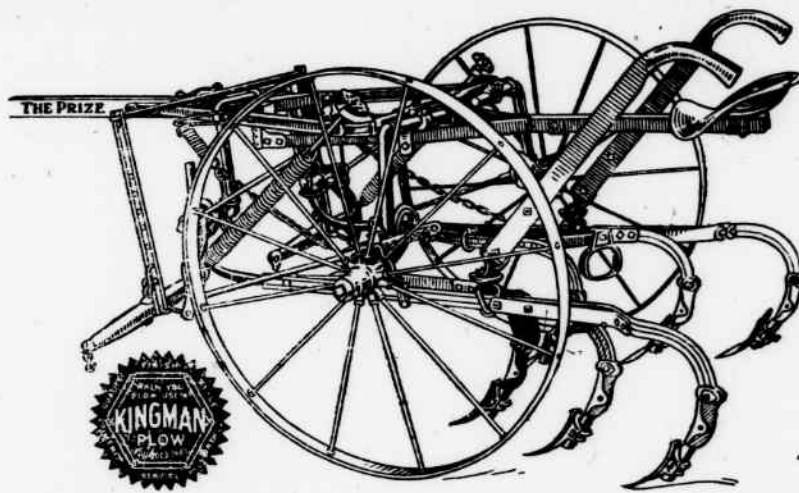

The only other openings in the coop are four little square doorways, eight by ten inches in size. If the hens are very large, these may be made somewhat larger each way. One of these little doors should be in each end, and one in each lower corner of the back wall. They are closed with a sliding panel, set in a little frame, which can be raised or lowered by a wire or stout cord. Only one is, of course, to be used at a time.

In the center of the back wall, two feet above the floor, fasten a frame two feet wide and three feet long, carrying two roosting poles. This frame should be hinged to the wall so it can be raised out of the way when desired. Under it, a foot from the floor, make a little platform of boards to catch the droppings. Do not fasten this anywhere, as you will want to take it up to clean it. On the front corners of the roosting frame put legs a foot long, which should rest on this dropping board when the roost is lowered in place. Have both roosting poles the same height, not set so the frame will slant.

On the ceiling, directly above the roost, nail strips of inch boards so as to make a frame the same size, or a trifle larger, than the roost itself. To this tack strips of burlap sacking long enough to reach the floor, and wide enough to completely surround the coop when they are dropped in place. At the lower edges put slats to keep them in place, as on the other curtains. On cold nights this makes a snug, and yet not stuffy, sleeping place for the biddies. In the warmer parts of the country this inside curtain will not be needed, but in the colder states it will give ample protection through the winter. It should be rolled up during the day.

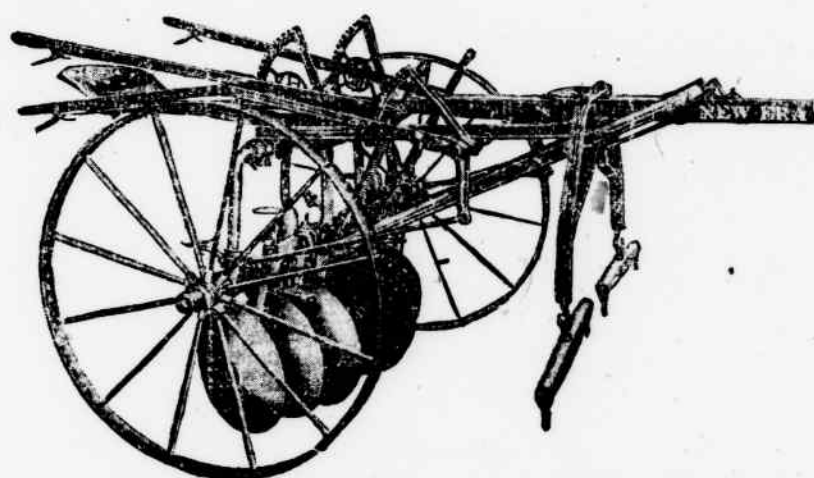

The nest boxes—two are plenty—should be placed in the darkest part of the coop. This will be against the front wall, in the corner farthest from the outer door. A box three feet long and a foot deep, with partition in the middle, and doors cut in the ends, makes a good nest when turned bottom side up over a nice down bed of clean straw.

AN OLD SEA CHEST

It Contained Treasure Which Brought Happiness to Both Old and Young.

By GENEVIEVE ULMAR.

"It's the law or poverty—take your choice," was the stern dictum of obstinate, self-opinionated James Ross, uncle of Philip Carle, who stood before him.

"I am sorry, uncle, but it's not the law for me," came the clear, definite response. "I'm not cut out for it, the business is distasteful to me, and I would rather have a crust of bread and my artistic ambitions, than the solemn judicial sense and a fortune."

"So much the poorer you, so much the richer I," quoted the old money grabber. "You need bank on no dependence on me hereafter. Wait." And the speaker snatched open a drawer in his desk and took from it a small package. "That belonged to your father. It is legally mine, but I give it to you, as a memento or to waste, as you like. I wash my hands of you."

Philip Carle made his exit feeling that he had made a pretty bad mess of his affairs. There was no help for it, however. The artistic impulse in him was strong, and uncertain as seemed the field he was bound to stick to.

He had not gone to his self-centered relative to ask money for himself. While he had very little of that commodity personally, the needs of another had urged him to apply for assistance. He undid the wrappings of the little parcel. It contained a diamond ring, probably a remnant of the wealth he knew his dead father had once possessed.

"I will never sell it," he said, walking on thoughtfully, "but"—and he stopped at the first pawnbroker's shop he came to.

"I will loan you three hundred dollars," its proprietor said, and Philip nodded with a lump in his throat.

"What About This?"

trying to believe that what he was doing was right.

He at length turned into a small tailoring shop. Its show windows were neat as a pin. A rather unique sign swung over its doorway. It read: "Only the lilies of the field can clothe themselves cheaper than you can in this shop."

"Well, how is business, Mr. Garland?" inquired Philip of an old man with the worried yet expectant face of a person waiting and hoping for work.

"Getting worse, if possible, all the time," was the reply. "I am afraid my venture is a poor one. Locality bad, or else I do not know how to win trade. There's the mortgage, too. They have given me a bare twenty-four hours to settle or give up possession. Why does not my brother come on?"

"There is the money to relieve your present necessities," said Philip, handing over the proceeds of the loan. The old man stared; quick tears arose to his eyes. He waved back the generous hand extended, but Philip persuaded him with success. He induced his friend to make one more trial of his business experiment, and left him with encouraging words.

"I had to do it," Philip told himself. "I can't see Mr. Garland lose his all, if it is only for his sake—dear Isabel! How he has struggled to give her a musical education. So near to acquiring it, too. I won't regret a good act."

It was Philip's first picture, the portrait of this Isabel, that smiled down from an easel as the young artist entered his studio. Quite incidentally he had become acquainted with Mr. Garland and then with his ward, Isabel was the daughter of the closest friend of the old man who had started him in life, lost his own wealth, and a more loyal guardian never lived.

Isabel was perfecting a musical education and Garland never let her know how hard he was pressed. For over a month he had been in an optimistic mood. He had received a letter from a brother, a sea captain who had been off on a two years' cruise. It came from a distant city and on its heels a large seaman's chest. The letter announced that very soon its writer would follow, and that he had come to share a royal fortune with his brother.

But since then not a word had been received from the sea captain. Business had fallen away, and now the generous-hearted artist had sacrificed his all to assist his friends.

No love word had been spoken between Philip and Isabel. Evenings when he visited the neat parlor behind the little shop, however, and the happy twain conversed of art, music and of all things beautiful, both felt that their souls were in complete harmony.

One week later Philip visited the Garland place to find the old man immersed in the deepest gloom. He had received a telegram announcing the death of his brother in a hospital. The last words he spoke were transmitted:

"Tell my brother that the chest and its treasure is all his own." Its "treasure," according to Garland, consisted of some sailor clothes, a few nautical instruments and a keg containing some oily compound of the deep.

"It's the end," said the old man dejectedly. "My main worry is that your generous loan is lost. They threaten to sell me out tomorrow."

Philip could do nothing further in a money way. He was resolute not to abandon his friends, however. That afternoon he made a contract with a picture house to do some copying. The recompense was not large, but it would fit into a plan he had for taking care of Garland until the latter could find new employment.

He was greeted with a sad spectacle when he reached the Garland place that evening. The old man was pacing the floor distractedly. Isabel, pale and distressed, was seated on all that had been left in the place by the ruthless creditors—the old sea chest.

"It will be easy to arrange for your care until you get on your feet again, Mr. Garland," said Philip cheerfully. "What are we going to do with the chest, though? Let us open it and select what is worth while."

They set aside a compass and some other few things out of the heterogeneous contents of the chest.

"What about this?" inquired Philip, lifting out the keg. "Why, Mr. Garland?"

Reversing the keg, the young artist uttered a very startled exclamation. Across one end there was traced in ink the word: "Ambergris."

One hour later the happy old man knew that the old sea chest had contained treasure, indeed. Worth more than its weight in gold, the ambergris, rare and readily salable, represented over twelve thousand dollars.

"Now Isabel can finish her music!" cried the old man joyfully. "and you, oh, my dear friend! command the fortune you have discovered to assist you in any way in your artist's career."

Isabel clung close to the arm of the young man who had so loyally shared their troubles, as he escorted them to a near hotel. The pressure of that dear hand thrilled Philip Carle. The old man walked prudently ahead of the happy pair.

And when they parted for the night, the decision had been reached that the musical and the art careers should be pursued—together.

CAME OUT OF HIS TRANCE

But It Took Some Language by the Motor Bus Conductor to Arouse Him.

"Fares, please." "The passenger on top of the Fifth avenue motor bus gave no heed. "Fares, please." This time a little louder.

"Still the passenger oblivious. "By the ejaculatory term 'fare,' said the conductor. 'I imply no reference to the state of the weather, the complexion of the admirable blonde you observe in the contiguous seat, nor even to the quality of service vouchsafed by this philanthropic corporation. I merely allude, in a manner perhaps lacking in delicacy but not in conscientiousness, to the monetary obligation set up by your presence in this conveyance, and suggest that, without contempering your celebrity with enunciation, you immediately proceed to liquidate or—'

And at this point the passenger emerged from this trance.—New York Mail.

Bibles in Bristol.

A hint of ancient Bibles in the neighborhood of Bristol has brought many other confessions of concealed treasures. There is a "Broches" Bible of 1610, a "Bishop's" Bible of 1555 in a country cottage, a Bible in good condition dated 1559, and another dated 1554, which the owner, being a poor man, would like to sell. That also is in good condition. They bound their Bibles well when printing was young, and that is possibly the secret of their preservation.

Those long-preserved west country Bibles remind one of the peculiar sanctity which the Bible attained among those who never opened it. "We always keep a Bible in the house in case of illness," said a pious villager, "but, thank heaven, we've had no use for it since poor old grandfather was took!"—London Chronicle.

The Mimosa. The mimosa, or wattle, which patriotic Australians were recently in celebration of the anniversary of the drawing of the first colony of English laws its name from its supposed mimetic powers. Its leaves were thought to assume the shape of animals. Shelley knew it as the sensitive plant, and other poets have represented the mimosa as curling up when the sound of a horse's hoofs came within a mile or two. Southey imagined the mimosa as a giant tree, and saw men reclining "beneath its shade." But the mimosa Australis knows its of moderate dimensions.

Historic Blackguards

Lord Byron, Scoundrel and Genius

"I WAS accused of every monstrous vice. My name was tainted. I felt that if what was whispered and rumored was true, I was unfit for England. If false, Lord Byron, England was unfit for me. I withdrew."

So wrote a first-class genius and third-class scoundrel, Lord Byron. He was a very pitiable sort of blackguard at best. Not one-tenth as bad as he tried to make people think. Yet bad enough in a cheap, sordid way to deserve decent men's contempt. He was tremendously vain. Not so vain of his poetry, which was great, as of the petty, melodramatic feats that roused more laughter than applause.

Byron's father was a dissolute, worthless army officer. His mother was a gambler, a shrew and little better than her spendthrift husband. The couple quarreled and separated. The wife took her little boy and went to live in Scotland on an income of $650 a year. Byron's father died soon afterward. On the death of his great uncle, in 1798, the ten-year-old lad succeeded to the latter's title and estates, becoming "Lord" Byron. His days of bitter poverty were over, but their mark never wholly left him.

Byron had been lame from birth. Part of the time his mother overwhelmed him with caresses and love words. At other times she would scream at him, curse him for "a lame brat" and hurl books at his head. It was a bitter childhood for the sensitive, afflicted youngster. He never forgot it. Nor did he forgive the mother who made him so miserable. He hated her to the day of his death.

Byron began writing poetry while he was a mere schoolboy. It was an artificial, morbid era in English literature, and Byron was just the sort of writer to catch the public's fancy. He found that people were interested in gloomy, mysterious heroes. So, both in life and in poems, he proceeded to become mysterious and gloomy. He hinted at black secrets that clouded his life and talked vaguely of fearful crimes he had committed.

This attitude, combined with his good looks, made him the School Girl idol. Maidens clamored for locks of his hair and wrote him wildly romantic letters. All this delighted Byron. By this time he had plunged into the grossest dissipation of London life. He halted for a brief time in his career of vice to marry a Miss Milbanke.

They were wretchedly unhappy together and parted in less than a year. The true reason for their separation was not made public at the time, though the fault was admittedly Byron's. He proceeded to write a touching "farewell" to his wife. It was a poem that sought to draw all public sympathy from Lady Byron and to make himself appear more or less a martyr. In spite of this rascally effort popular opinion was against Byron, and he left England in a huff, never to return.

He wandered around Switzerland, Italy and Greece, leading a vile life and writing marvelous poetry. His faded brain was seeking new sensations of every sort. For instance, he swam the Hellespont, watched the cremation of the poet Shelley and at last decided to become a military hero.

Greece was fighting for independence against her Turkish oppressors. Byron hurried to Missolonghi and placed his sword and life at the service of the Greeks. It seemed to him a fine thing for a poet to draw blade in defense of the Ancient Land of Poetry. The idea struck Byron as a bit of genuine inspiration. He is even said to have had vague hopes of becoming king of Greece.

But he found that drilling, marching, collecting provisions and studying maps was not as poetic a pastime as he expected. It bored him. He preferred to loaf at Missolonghi, taking long swims, writing poetic verse and flirting with dark-eyed Greek girls. And thus he spent much of his time when he might have been fighting for independence.

He also had a new ambition, namely, to reduce his flesh. He tried to do this by drinking vinegar and taking long rides. The result was not what he had hoped. In fact he fell ill. "Don't grill me as you did poor Shelley!" he begged his friends.

There, after a brief sickness, he died, on April 19, 1824. Byron was only thirty-six at the time of his death. Gifted beyond ordinary mortals, he had wilfully thrown away the respect of his friends and of the world at large.

Calculating Nature.

"Is that a garden you are making?" "No," replied Mr. Crosslots. "It's a subterfuge. I tear up as much of the yard as my wife will allow me to and then let it alone all summer. It's just that much less territory to run the lawn mower over."

NEWS OF THE OLD NORTH STATE

A Survey of What is Transpiring in the Commonwealth.

While waiting for her nurse, the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam J. Wright, who live near Pelham, Caswell county, sat down on the railroad track and was killed by a freight train.

In Alamance county last week deputy sheriffs captured more than 100 gallons of whiskey, a wagon and the men in charge of the outfit—John Dickens and John Talbert. Dickens was released on $500 bond and Talbert is in jail.

The Funeral Directors and Embalmers' Association, in session at Durham last week, decided to meet in Winston next year. J. K. Willis, of New Bern, was elected president, and J. Robert Woods, of Oxford, secretary and treasurer.

Arthur Page, one of the sons of Walter H. Page, is to succeed his father as editor of World's Work. Mr. Page, the new ambassador to Great Britain, will sail for England this week. Two of his sons are farming in Moore county, this state.

The voters of Jackson county have decided, by an overwhelming majority, to move the court house from Webster, four miles from the railroad, to Sylvia, which is on the railroad. The election was ordered by the last legislature as the settlement of a vexed question.

While Buncombe Superior court was in session last week W. K. Gillespie, a member of the grand jury, was missed. Investigation disclosed that Gillespie had been arrested for drunkenness and fined $5 and after paying the fine he disappeared to escape the wrath of the presiding judge in the big court.

The department of justice at Washington has instructed District Attorney Holton to have W. E. Breese and B. E. Dickerson, under sentence of two years each in the Federal prison in Atlanta for violating the national banking laws, taken into custody. The men will be sent to Atlanta unless President Wilson grants a pardon.

Memorial Day seems to have been generally and fittingly observed throughout the state Saturday. At many places the celebration was more or less elaborate. Governor Craig was the orator at Gastonia. At Asheville Mrs. Z. V. Vance was awarded the cross of honor which was due her deceased husband, the late Senator Vance.

At a meeting of the North Carolina Association of Cotton Manufacturers, held in Charlotte last week, a resolution was adopted voicing emphatic opposition to the cotton schedule of the Underwood tariff bill now before the Senate and the text of the resolution wired to Washington. Sixty-five mills, with more than a million spindles, were represented.

The two towns of Winston and Salem have passed into the united city to be hereafter linked in government as they have been linked in name for a long time past. The first mayor and aldermen of the city of Winston-Salem went into office this week and thus made effective the union that was recently voted by the citizens of the respective communities.

In the little town of Rostie, N. C., resides Eroid Martin—a young artist, a mute, 22 years of age, whose work is attracting much attention and favorable comment from discriminating lovers of art everywhere. His friends are just beginning to realize the genius of this mountaineer. He has never had a moment's instruction from any artist, yet his work with the brush is, in itself, a prediction of his possible future.

The veterans in Wake county had but few in line this year. A Raleigh dispatch says: With only 65 men in the line of march, the L. O. Branch camp, Confederate veterans, observed Memorial day May 10. This was the smallest number that ever marched up Fayetteville street on this occasion. More than 50 veterans were unable to take the parade, but were driven to the square where the Ladies' Memorial Association, assisted by other organizations, served luncheon. Col. J. Bryan Grimes, secretary of state, delivered the oration at the cemetery this afternoon. The graves were decorated with flags and covered with flowers.

The Statesville Landmark says: It was a rather unusual sight the other day, to see a farmer, far enough along in years to be classed as an old man, coming into town in an automobile and running the machine himself. He drove along quietly, about as fast as he would jog a horse to a buggy, and seemed entirely at home. The young sports will tell you that you can't run an automobile at slow speed. It depends on whether you want to. Few people want to go slow when in an automobile. The use of automobiles among farmers is increasing. The farmer who can afford a machine finds it useful. He has much more practical use for one than many of the town folks who have them and can thus better afford to have one, if he is accessible to good roads. In the busy season, if he wants to come to town in a hurry he doesn't have to stop a plow and drive a worked down animal if he has an automobile; and if he wants to take his family on a little pleasure trip, or to church on Sundays, he can save his work stock and they will do better work the following week by having had a day's rest. When the roads get muddy he can use his teams. The automobile is useful and convenient for the farmer who can afford the price and with the advent of good roads the auto will soon be in common use among the farmers.

Officers in State Federation.

At the annual meeting of the North Carolina State Federation of Women's Clubs held in New Bern last week, the following officers were elected:

President, Miss Adelaide Fries, of Winston-Salem; second vice president, Mrs. N. A. Sinclair, of Fayetteville; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Edward K. Graham, of Chapel Hill; auditor, Mrs. Clarence Johnson, of Raleigh; treasurer, Mrs. M. L. Stover, of Wilmington; general federation state secretary, Mrs. S. L. Dill, of New Bern.

Upon the resolution offered by Mrs. M. L. Stover, of Wilmington, Mrs. Robert R. Colton, retiring president, was unanimously elected as an honorary president.
