News correspondents should write on but one side of their letter paper. Good items are occasionally overlooked because they are written on the back of a sheet and there is nothing to indicate their presence.

Mr. and H. A. Williams moved their household effects to Lawrenceville, Va., last week, where Mr. Williams has made his headquarters since becoming superintendent of the Norfolk division of the Southern Railway.

We are requested to state that it is the young people who are to picnic at Boon's pond July 4th. The impression seems to have gotten out that the event announced last week would be the annual fish fry, but such is not the case.

Major Joe Morehead is the happiest and busiest man in Greensboro this week. He has been unceasing in his efforts to arrange for a big celebration at the Battle Ground on the Fourth, and he is about to see his heroic efforts crowned with success.

The Greensboro letter carriers are preparing to give their visiting brethren a cordial reception July 4th. A short business session of the association will be held Saturday morning and the main session will be held in the afternoon, followed by a trip to the Battle Ground.

Rev. R. W. Weaver, pastor of the First Baptist church at Middletown, Ohio, paid a short visit to his old home here the first of the week. He had been to Baltimore over Sunday, where by invitation he preached in Brantley Place Baptist church, which is now without a pastor.

Mr. Karl A. J. Ljung has been commissioned first lieutenant and battalion adjutant on the staff of Major R. M. Albright, Third Regiment North Carolina National Guard. Other recent appointments on Major Albright's staff are: C. F. Fuller, sergeant major, and Edney Ridge, battalion commissary.

A nice lot of odd suits selected from the stock have been put on the odd and end counter of the Vanstony Clothing Company and will be sold at just half price. If you can be fitted from this lot there is a bargain in store for you. Watch out for the company's new ad. next week. It came too late for publication this week.

The holiness meetings which started Friday in a tent on West Washington street came to an abrupt end Sunday night, complaint having been made of the noise and confusion incident to the meetings. The Baptist congregation and sick persons in the neighborhood were greatly annoyed. It is not known where the tent will next find a resting place.

The memory of the two brilliant ball games last Fourth between Charlotte and Greensboro has not faded, and much interest naturally centers in the meeting of these rival organizations here the latter part of the week. Greensboro will put up the best talent she has and Charlotte will have to "play ball" if she takes a single game of the series.

The monument donated by the National Marble Company, Cherokee, N. C., and Canton, Ga., T. M. Brady, proprietor, has arrived in the city and will be unveiled Saturday. Alex Jarrell tried to commit suicide last night in the city jail by hanging himself with an improvised rope made from the sheet on his cot. Officer Jeffreys happened to visit the calaboose just in time to head off Alex's exit from this vain vain. The prisoner said he was tired of drinking whiskey and getting locked up. He has promised to leave town afoot.

The first number of Col. Al Fairbrother's semi-monthly magazine, "Everything," reached us last week and was accorded our most distinguished consideration until we had read every line of it. It is unique in style and refreshing to the average care-worn traveler. "Everything" at ten cents a copy is dirt cheap, and will undoubtedly find a liberal patronage.

The Southern Railway has concluded to build its new shifting yards at some other place than Pomona, presumably on the east side of the fair grounds, between there and the coal chute. As soon as active work began at Pomona Mr. J. Van Lindley notified the company that it would irreparably damage his property and destroy his home, with the further notice that if the work proceeded he would get out an injunction to stop it. Col. Andrews was here the first of the week and agreed to hold up at that point.

ROAD MATTERS DISCUSSED.

Important Joint Meeting of County and Highway Boards.

The first important joint meeting of the county commissioners and highway commission was held at the court house last Thursday, at which the first real step toward the permanent improvement of our county highways was taken, the undertaking being discussed in all its phases by the gentlemen entrusted with the responsibilities of its management. Chairman Ragan, of the county board, presided over the deliberations of the meeting, Messrs. John L. King, secretary of the highway commission, and Mr. John N. Wilson, attorney for the county, acting as secretaries.

The rate of interest on the thirty-year bonds authorized by the recently enacted road law was fixed at 5 per cent. and the county attorney was instructed to prepare blanks for bidders. It is likely that a complete memorandum of all official matters preliminary to the issue of the bonds will be prepared by Mr. Wilson for the convenience of prospective purchasers.

A resolution was passed requesting the incorporated towns of Greensboro and High Point to macadamize their principal streets to the municipal limits to connect with the county roads when macadamized. The joint board properly had in mind some of Greensboro's outlying streets when this resolution was acted upon, as some of the streets here were almost impassable last winter and teams could scarcely get through them with empty vehicles. However, there is no fear that either of the county's big towns will be unkind of the general welfare in this matter.

For the present it was decided that no road should be macadamized for a distance of over six miles.

It was agreed that work should begin on the following roads leading out of Greensboro:

- 1st. East by way of the county home to the forks of the road beyond Buffalo creek.
- 2nd. Southeast by way of Sharp's schoolhouse to Alamance church.
- 3rd. South by way of John A. Hodgins' to Goshen church.
- 4th. Northwest by way of the Battle Ground to the residence of Robert Dennis.
- 5th. Northeast by way of Summit Avenue extended.

Roads leading from High Point to the Randolph county line, near Archdale, and to the Davidson line, near J. W. Wilborn's, were authorized. Definite action as to other roads to be macadamized was postponed for the present.

It is the purpose of the authorities to begin work on these roads at the earliest possible moment. The road making outfit now owned by the county will likely be put to work next week. Tomorrow the highway commission will meet representatives of the manufacturers of road machinery and contract for three or more additional outfits.

Alumnae to Save the College.

Inspired with the slogan, "We are going to save the college," an enthusiastic meeting of the local alumnae of Greensboro Female College was held here last evening, lasting until night. Letters, resolutions and telegrams from members of the association from all parts of the state were read urging action of the whole association to save their noble alma mater. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Lucy A. Cunningham, president of the state association. It was mainly executive and the exact plans formulated are withheld from publication at present. Various committees were appointed and plans projected to bring about a concert of action by the Methodist women and alumnae of the college throughout the South to save the institution. A proposition will be made to the board of directors of the college, which meets here today for the avowed purpose of disposing of the college grounds and property.

Auction Sale of Suburban Lots.

Don't fail to attend the big auction sale of city lots in the southern part of the city on Tuesday, July 7th, at 2 P. M. This is a chance of a life time to get a handsome residence lot at your own price. On that date I will sell 70 lots, situated within 300 yards of the street car line, and directly on a fine macadam road. We confidently expect this property to double in value very soon. Take street cars at court house square at 1:30. Go with the crowd and enjoy an outing entirely free of cost, and don't buy a lot unless you think it is cheap.

A. L. RANKIN, Agent.

Plenty of fruit jars, porcelain caps and rubbers. TUCKER & ERWIN.

THE LAST CHANCE.

The month for listing taxes in Guilford county closed yesterday with a number of polls and some real and personal property unlisted. All persons who failed to list in June, as prescribed by law, may come before the Board of County Commissioners at their regular meeting on the first Monday in July, at 10 o'clock A. M., and make their returns without penalty. After that date all unlisted property will be subject to double tax, which will be collected without exception.

By order of the Board,
W. H. RAGAN, Chm.
This 1st day of July, 1903.

Mr. Wright Succeeds Mr. Boren.

Mr. John J. Nelson, clerk of the Superior court, last Thursday afternoon announced the appointment of Mr. C. G. Wright as a member of the board of county commissioners to succeed Mr. W. C. Boren, resigned. Later in the day the oath of office was administered to Mr. Wright by Chairman W. H. Ragan. It was conceded that Greensboro was entitled to representation on the county board, as the east, west, north and south parts of the county already had representation, and Mr. Nelson acted wisely in the matter. Mr. Wright is one of the progressive young men of the county who can be relied upon to deal fairly in all matters pertaining to the welfare of the county at large. He has recently been honored with the presidency of the Greensboro Industrial and Immigration Association, and the qualifications that commended him for that position had equal weight in his selection as a member of the county board. His new field will give him increased opportunities for the display of his natural ability and progressiveness. The appointment meets with general approval.

Professor Sharpe Coming.

The county board of education has been notified by Prof. Thomas A. Sharpe, of Darlington, S. C., that he will accept the position of county superintendent of schools, recently tendered him by the board, and will locate in Guilford at the earliest possible moment. The Darlington correspondent of the Columbia State, last week referred to Prof. Sharpe's departure from that city as follows: "The schools here have prospered greatly under his management and it will be a difficult undertaking for the board to select a man who will fill acceptably the place so ably filled by Mr. Sharpe for the past four or five years." Evidently our county board has been very fortunate in the selection of a successor to Prof. Wharton, whose resignation was recently tendered after a competent and honorable service of many years.

The Southern Car Company Chartered.

A new corporation of more than usual interest chartered Monday by the Secretary of State was the Southern Car Company, of High Point, the purpose of the company being to build all kinds of passenger, freight and mail cars for use on both electric and steam roads, including street car and regular railroad cars. The new company has $60,000 capital subscribed and $250,000 authorized. The incorporators are Briggs Carriage Company, R. E. Briggs, J. Elwood Cox, E. A. Snow, J. P. Redding, J. J. Welch, W. P. Pritchett & Co., R. R. Ragan, W. H. Ragan, W. B. Steele, D. A. Stanton, Wescott Roberson, Dred Peacock, R. J. Fale, A. J. Dodamead, L. M. Dodamead, High Point Electric Power Company, C. W. Banner, A. E. Tate, James Merrel, Jr., A. A. Baker, J. H. Barnes.

Big Boilers Purchased.

Mr. B. H. Dillon, of Charlotte, inspector and special agent for the Hartford Steam Boiler Inspection and Insurance Company, was here Monday and closed the contract for the boilers in the White Oak mills and the additions to the Revolution and Minneola mills. The White Oak boiler will be 3,300 horsepower, Revolution boiler 502, Minneola, 632. The boilers will be made by the Heine Steam Boiler Company, of Philadelphia. The matter of who should furnish the boilers for these big mills was open for a year and there were fifty-two competitors. Naturally Mr. Dillon was just a little elated over his success.

D. & C. Surveying Corps Here.

The Durham & Charlotte Railroad surveying corps, under Chief Engineer Tull, has reached White Oak mills with the preliminary survey and this week will stake out the line into the city, most likely by way of the Empire Steel and Iron Company's property. Immediately upon the completion of the preliminary survey the location or final survey will begin and the work of constructing the road from Pittsboro to this point will follow on an extensive scale. It is understood that a force of road builders will be put to work at each end of the line.

DENTISTRY

It is an everyday occurrence that I do work for people who tell me "Why, your prices are less than other dentists and you are the only one who will guarantee your work. Why is this? Is it because they are afraid their work won't stand?"

When I work on your teeth I do work that I am ready to stand by, and if it should fail I stand ready to make it good. Then, too, as to prices, I believe in "living and let live." I don't want to make all off of one person. When you want dental work that will stand, and get the worth of your money, come to see me.

Dr. R. D. Patterson and Miss Myn Foust, of Liberty, were united in marriage at the McAdoo House here last Wednesday evening. They were accompanied to the city by Mr. Lacy Foust, brother of the bride, and Miss Josie Lane. Soon after the ceremony the party left for Liberty in a private conveyance.

While excavating for the foundation of the addition to the county court house Thursday the workmen unearthed an old pair of heavy manacles that are a curiosity in this day and time. The manacles are of very heavy iron, fitted with bolts, and have a heavy chain about fifteen inches long connecting them. Only one link in the chain shows much sign of damage by rust. A person "tied out" with a contrivance of that kind was most apt to stand hitched.

Mrs. Martha F. Tomlinson, wife of Dr. J. M. Tomlinson, of Archdale, whose illness was mentioned in these columns last week, died Wednesday morning and was buried Thursday at Springfield church. Mrs. Tomlinson was 66 years of age and left four children, one son, Mr. J. E. Tomlinson, being a resident of Greensboro. She was an excellent woman—a devout Christian and a devoted wife and mother. Her death is deeply deplored by a wide circle of friends.

He recently received a call to Richmond at a salary of $4,000, but preferred to remain at Greensboro. His little book, "The Creed of Presbyterians," is the best thing of the kind that has appeared in a generation.

Letter to Neal Ellington, Greensboro, N. C.

Dear Sir: The Trustees of Fair Ground, Cobleskill, N. Y., were glad to pay 15 cents a gallon more for Devoe and no wonder. Two other paint agents said it would take 150 gallons of their paint to cover the buildings.

Our agent put it at 125 or less. It took 115.

We saved them 35 gallons of paint and painting worth $4 to $5 a gallon, as the painting costs two or three times as much as the paint; less 15 cents a gallon on 115 gallons. Say $140.

That's how to count the cost of paint. The cost of putting it on is $3 or $4 a gallon. You see what that means. Go by Devoe. Yours truly,

F. W. DEVOE & Co.

Guilford County to Have Good Roads.

Southern Tobaccoist, Richmond.

A much-quoted proverb of the Arabs says: "He who knows and knows not that he knows, is asleep—wake him; he who knows not and knows that he knows not, is ignorant—teach him; he who knows not and knows not that he knows not, is a fool—shun him; but he who knows and knows that he knows, is a wise man—follow him."

Now, Guilford county, N. C., belongs distinctly to the last division of the Arabian classification, and proves the fact by its course of wisdom in appropriating $300,000 for the improvement of its county roads. The proverb says of this class, "follow them;" and another proverb declares that "a word to the wise is sufficient." Well, here's the sufficient word and it only remains to be seen who is wise.

A "county" is a very inert and unoriginal body. Its individual inhabitants should be different. Guilford county recognized this, and says the Statesville Landmark, "the bond issue in Guilford was due to the earnest and untiring efforts of the public spirited citizens of Greensboro and the county, who worked with enthusiasm and determination." It even seems that the two opposing political parties joined hands for the common good and worked together. Thus they got it, and it is safe to say that every individual farmer in Guilford will realize more profit on his hauled products than he has in years past.

Guilford may have had bad roads, but Guilford was not lonely in this, and the public spirit of its citizens is much to be commended, also their good hard common sense. They are people who "knew and knew that they knew"—follow them.

OUR RALEIGH LETTER.

Correspondence of the PATRIOT.

Raleigh, June 29.—The time for the enforcement of the Watts liquor law is at hand and there's to be trouble. A number of the owners of distilleries located in the country districts, especially in the mountain section, which operate under a license from the United States government, have notified the collector of internal revenue that they will continue business on and after July 1, and the collector, under instructions from the United States Commissioner of Internal Revenue, at Washington, will renew the bonds of the country distillers who apply, and the regulation internal revenue officer will be kept at each of these distilleries as heretofore. This means a clash between the state and United States authorities, which will compel a judicial determination of the constitutionality of the new state law, as it affects the government distiller, at least.

The state convention, or conference, of the anti-saloon league and temperance forces of the state meets here a week hence, July 7, and that body will doubtless take action regarding this new development.

Very the darkest cloud has its silver lining. Just as the Methodists of North Carolina were deploring the closing of the Greensboro Female College, comes the cheering announcement from Durham that a greater college for women, Methodist young women in particular, than the one just closed may be established by Trinity College, the church's magnificent college for young men, where already young women are admitted. The board of trustees meets this week, and I am informed that a proposition to establish a separate woman's college, on the plan of the present one for men will be the principal business brought before that body and the other authorities and friends of Trinity. If the plan succeeds it will be a great blessing, indeed, for N. C. women—for it would have no superior. The new summer school for teachers, for which provision has been made at the A. & M. College here, begins Wednesday.

The annual meeting of the North Carolina Bar Association, which begins at Wrightsville July 1, will be addressed by a prominent text book writer, Mr. Seymour Thompson, a leading New York lawyer. Maj. W. A. Guthrie will respond to the address of welcome.

Past Grand Master Nichols and State Treasurer Lacy, who attended the big Masonic meeting at Kinston last Friday, report a great time. A special communication of the Grand Lodge was held. Over a thousand Masons and their families sat down to the big dinner, which was served in one of the large tobacco warehouses. Col. A. C. Davis was the orator of the occasion.

Commissioner of Agriculture Patterson has been ill at his home in Caldwell county for two weeks and his physicians say it will be a month yet before he can resume his official duties here. A convention of tobacco men will be held in Raleigh on Thursday of next week, July 9, for the purpose of arranging for a creditable tobacco exhibit from this state at the St. Louis Exposition next year. Mr. G. E. Webb, of Winston, chairman of the committee, and a long list of delegates have been appointed. Others are invited to attend.

North Carolinians exclusively have organized a half-million dollar lumber company in Georgia, with W. W. Mills, of Raleigh, president, and R. F. Dalton, of Greensboro, secretary and treasurer.

The annual meeting of the "Southern Association of Newspaper Circulators" will be held in Asheville, at the Battery Park Hotel, July 7-9. A representative of the association tells me that several of the leading dailies of the South will send the organization at that time and are expected to increase the membership 100 per cent, during the next year.

Look out for a big increase in the cost of ready-stills next fall," said a merchant and thinking farmer to me today. Nearly all of the country distillers in the eastern and middle counties have arranged to go out of business, or remove to incorporated towns, after tomorrow—unless the action of the mountaineer distillers, called at the beginning of this letter, changes their plans—and the distillation of ready-still, under the Watts law, is expected to largely increase on that account. It's a hard matter to down "statter" in every form.

Railroad Agent at Dudley Shot.

Greensboro, June 28.—A shooting occurred at Dudley station today, 9 miles south of Greensboro. C. A. Spruill, a railroad agent, attempted to thrash J. M. B. Fields, who shot Spruill in the abdomen. Fields fired four shots, one of them striking J. Kornegay, an innocent spectator, in the arm. Mr. Spruill was carried to Rocky Mount on the local train to receive medical attention. His wound is a serious one. Spruill claims that Fields had been harassing him. Fields is under arrest. It is later reported that a woman is the cause of the trouble.

Fire at Blowing Rock.

Blowing Rock, June 28.—The Rhododendron, formerly the Brady House at Blowing Rock, with its entire contents including some boarders' clothing, was destroyed by fire about 10 o'clock last night. The fire was caused by the explosion of a lamp.

The inn was owned and managed by J. N. Stringfellow, of Chester, S. C., having been open this season since June 1st. The loss is about $5,000, with $2,500 insurance.

Tragedy in Henderson County.

Asheville, June 28.—It is reported that George Burrell, aged 70, this morning shot and fatally wounded his son-in-law, Mrs. Burrell, and seriously wounded her ten-year-old daughter from ambush near their home in Henderson county, thirty miles from Asheville. It is alleged that Burrell had become incensed over Mrs. Burrell's refusal to do some work for him.

Forsyth Veterans to Hold a Picnic.

Winston-Salem, June 27.—Norfolk Union has decided upon Thursday, August 9th, as the day for the annual picnic at Nissen's park for the Confederate veterans of Forsyth. General John S. Carr, of Durham, has been invited to make an address on this occasion.

Angry Guest Uses a Chair.

Charlotte Observer, 29th.

J. F. Heglar, of Cabarrus county, will have to explain to the recorder this morning why he objected so strenuously to being waked up at the Buford Hotel after he had had himself put on call for the early train yesterday morning. Heglar's dangerous twirl of a chair will figure largely in the case.

Heglar, who is a tenant on the farm of Capt. J. Shakespeare Harris, spent Saturday here, and before he retired Saturday night he asked that he be waked up in time to take the 4:30 o'clock train for Concord. At 4 o'clock Mr. B. K. Bryant, the night clerk, instructed a bell boy to arouse Heglar. A knock at Heglar's door was followed by an angry muttering and then a profound swearing. The gist of the angry man's words was that if the bell boy didn't leave him alone he would break the bell boy into small pieces and scatter these to the four winds.

The bell boy reported what had occurred to Mr. Bryant. The latter started upstairs to deal with Heglar directly, but he had not reached the first landing before he heard a tremendous commotion, in which could be distinguished the excited voice of Kemp P. Battle, the third, a new clerk at the Buford. After the departure of the bell boy Heglar, raging over the annoyance that he had suffered, had picked up a chair and had sallied forth to revenge himself upon the would-be intruders. He butted in the first room he found. This happened to be the sleeping apartment of Mr. Battle. The noise awoke Mr. Battle, and as he lay in bed he just had time to raise his arm and break the force of the fall of the chair which descended in the hands of the mad Heglar.

Battle came out of the bed with the spring of a young bull dog and closed in on Heglar, fighting furiously to stay on the inner side of the chair. He is about half the size of Heglar, but he crawled over Heglar like wildfire and finally shoved him out into the hall.

By this time two policemen arrived and seized Heglar. His entire demeanor changed and he offered no objections to arrest. He said he remembered nothing of what had occurred. It was conjectured that dissipation on the previous day had caused the savage maternal frame of mind.

Heglar was locked up at the police station and will be tried this morning.

Mental Anguish in New Frills.

Charlotte, June 28.—Three young ladies, students of Converse College at Spartanburg, have entered suit against the Southern Railway, claiming $1,999 damages because they were unable to board the vestibule train at Spartanburg several weeks ago. All three of the young ladies are from Mississippi. They contend that the train did not stop long enough at the station in Spartanburg for them to arrange their tickets and get aboard; that by reason of the fact that they did not catch their train they were delayed, causing their parents and others unnecessary annoyance and suspense.

The Southern will contend that No. 37, the Washington and Southwestern vestibule limited, stopped at Spartanburg the day in question just as long as it usually does; that the plaintiffs in these suits were college girls, that they were busy kissing and hugging their school-mates, and that they acted as if they had all day to board the train, when, in reality, they had only a few minutes. It will also be contended by the defendant company that the conductor in charge, Capt. S. C. Stovall, gave the usual notice that the train was about to depart; that these young ladies could have easily heard him calling "All aboard" but they were still busily engaged in kissing and saying good-bye, so much so that they did not heed the warning given by the conductor in charge of the train.

Big Lumber Company Organized.

Raleigh, June 28.—The Tallulah River Lumber Company was organized in Atlanta on June 25th. W. W. Mills, of this city, was elected president; J. R. Page, of Besse, was elected vice president, and R. F. Dalton, of Greensboro, was elected secretary and treasurer. The company was organized with an authorized capital of $500,000. The stockholders will be assessed as money is needed for payment for 50,000 acres of timbered lands in western North Carolina and north Georgia.

Among the stockholders are: M. H. Cone, Caesar Cone, J. W. Cone, of Greensboro; Robert N. Page, Henry A. Page, J. R. Page, A. F. Page, of Besse; J. Elwood Cox, Ernest Snow, of High Point; R. F. Dalton, of Greensboro; W. A. Mills, of Troy, and W. W. Mills, of Raleigh.

Among the stockholders the following directors were elected: Caesar Cone, J. W. Cone, J. Elwood Cox, R. F. Dalton, Henry A. Page, J. R. Page, W. W. Mills and W. A. Mills. The purchase consists of 50,000 acres of timber on the Tallulah river. It is very fertile, well-timbered and picturesque locality, and an ideal place for a summer resort. The mineral interests in this locality are also valuable.

Toxaway Dam Safe.

Charlotte, June 27.—The Textile Excelsior says that the Toxaway dam in the Sapphire country is creating much concern, and several engineers have been sent there for the purpose of inspecting its condition. The result of this inspection has been awaited with great interest by the people in the valley below, who have recently experienced a flood disaster. The dam holds the waters of a lake twenty-seven miles in circumference and in some places fifty feet deep.

A correspondent of the Observer today says that experts have examined the Toxaway dam and pronounce it as safe as human skill and ingenuity can make it.

Dr. Long to Locate in Greensboro.

Salisbury, June 27.—Dr. John W. Long, one of Salisbury's most prominent physicians, has engaged a residence in Greensboro and will remove next week, with his family, to that city for the future practice of his profession. His reputation as a surgeon of exceptional ability, as well as a general practitioner, is much more than local and Salisbury regrets its loss. He has been prominently identified with the Prohibition party and is one of its leading members in this state.

Gold ore worth $20,000 per ton is being mined by the Whitney Reduction Company in Stanly county.

STILLS WILL KEEP ON RUNNING.

Constitutionality of the Watts Act to be Put to the Test.

Asheville, June 27.—There will certainly be a conflict in the mountain counties between federal and state authorities over enforcement of the Watts law. The fact became known today that a large number of distillers have during the past two days notified the collector's office that they would continue to operate their distilleries after the first of the month, and the surprising information was today received from the commissioner of internal revenue that the bonds of all distillers who sought them would be renewed. It now appears that scores of arrests will be made, and this in turn means that an early decision on the constitutionality of the Watts law will be imperative. Not only this, but distilleries cannot run without the superintendence of deputy collectors and storekeepers and gaugers, and the fact developed today that the collector would, as a matter of course, assign such officers to duty whenever a distiller expressed his determination to continue operations.

Every day that a distiller persists in running the situation will become more complicated, as under the provisions of the Watts law, every succeeding day constitutes a separate offence. The government will protect storekeepers and gaugers to the extent that their cases will be transferred to the federal courts where they will be defended by the district attorney whenever they are charged with being accessories to the crime of distilling. It is declared that neither the commissioner of internal revenue nor the collector has any disposition to antagonize the state authorities, but they simply do not see how they can consistently act otherwise in view of either the letter or spirit of the revenue laws. They will insist that their attitude is anything but an act of defiance.

The Duty of Pension Boards.

State Auditor Dixon sends the following to the county pension boards: "I wish to call your attention to the changes made in the pension law by our last legislature. First, All soldiers who were employed only by the state of North Carolina during the war and did service in the home guards, are not now entitled to a pension. If the names of any of these men are on your list they must be stricken off. Second, Widows who were married to Confederate soldiers prior to the first of April, 1865, who remarried after the death of their first husband, and are now widows, are entitled to pensions, and the applications must show service rendered by first husband. Third, A soldier who deserted the army, but afterwards went back to his command, and was honorably discharged, is now entitled to a pension. Fourth, Only those soldiers who are three-fourths disabled by sickness, old age, or failing health, to perform manual labor are entitled to pensions, and unless so disabled their application should not be approved by the county board. The above of course does not apply to those who have lost a leg or an arm, or an eye, or those who have been disabled by wounds. I earnestly hope that your board will make diligent inquiry into each case, and if any unworthy man is on the list, have him taken off and see that you put on only those who are clearly entitled to pensions. This is the only way we can protect the old men and old women who should draw pensions, and to prevent our pension rolls from being a farce. Kindly fold each application neatly and write name of applicant on back thereof, as per directions."

There is a movement on foot to build in connection with Trinity College a great female college and a meeting of the executive committee of the board of trustees of Trinity will be held next week to consider the organization of this college.

Mr. J. H. Southgate, chairman of the board of trustees, admitted this evening that such a move was on foot and said that while the plans were definitely conceived, he was not ready to give them to the public as yet.

Continuing he said that the woman's college at Trinity would start out with the advantages of a million dollar investment, and that when the plans should be perfected it would be the greatest movement ever made in the South in behalf of higher education for women.

Something definite will be done at the meeting of the executive committee of Trinity next week. It is considered that the woman's college is a certainty.

Stokes County Man Killed.

Germantown, June 25.—Near Capella, Stokes county, some 15 miles north of Germantown, this morning, about 8 o'clock Deputy Sheriff Stephen Smith went to serve a warrant on John R. Rhodes, sworn out by Cap King, for some misunderstanding about King having turned water on Rhodes' land. King went with the Deputy to assist if necessary in Rhodes' arrest. Rhodes emptied both barrels of a shot-gun into King's body, killing him instantly. Russell Jones, father-in-law of Rhodes, knocked the deputy down with a hoe and gained possession of the deputy's pistol. When Smith recovered he took to his heels, Jones firing four shots at the fleeing deputy with the officer's own pistol. Rhodes and Jones surrendered to the authorities.

The locals made four runs in the first inning, three in the second, one in the third and one in the eighth. Greensboro made two runs in each in the sixth and eighth innings. Johnson pitched a fine game for Winston. Holt, Greensboro's twirler, was giving poor support in the first two innings.

Asheville to Have a Prohibition Election.

Asheville, June 25.—At a meeting of the Anti-Saloon League tonight it was decided to send delegates to attend the State convention, at Raleigh, and one delegate was chosen. The intention was expressed of holding an election under the Watts bill at the earliest feasible time, but the date will not be set until the return of the delegates from the State convention.

TWO FATAL RAILROAD WRECKS.

One Was Caused by a Cow on the Track and the Other by Open Switch.

Roanoke, Va., June 27.—The Norfolk & Western passenger train No. 13, west-bound, which left here at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, was wrecked one-quarter of a mile east of Marion, at 10 o'clock last night. Engineer Lee Spaulding, of Roanoke, and Fireman Hoover, of Staunton, were instantly killed, and Express Messengers Otey and Wood, of Bristol, seriously, and Mail Clerks Adams and Jenkins, of Lynchburg, slightly injured.

The train was going at a rapid rate when the engine struck a cow. The pony trucks of the engine were derailed and ran a distance of 900 feet on the cross-ties before the larger trucks were derailed, and the engine, with the tender, mail car, express car and baggage car went over an embankment. The engineer and fireman were caught under the engine. None of the passenger coaches left the rails and except the persons named, no one was hurt. A relief train conveyed the men to Bristol. It is supposed that Engineer Spaulding did not realize that his small trucks were derailed, as there was ample time to have stopped the train after that occurrence before it left the rails.

WRECK OF THE CANNON BALL.

Richmond, June 27.—The "Cannon Ball" train, which left Richmond for Norfolk at 9 o'clock this morning, was wrecked near Petersburg. The accident was caused by an open switch, on which was standing a freight train. The "Cannon Ball" crashed into the engine of the freight. Both engines were badly smashed. Engineer Harry Covington, of the "Cannon Ball," and his nephew, Fireman Robert Covington, were both instantly killed.

The engineer of the freight saved himself by jumping. The passengers were badly shaken up and some of them bruised, but none seriously hurt. Conductor R. S. Eckles, of the "Cannon Ball," had his collar bone and arms broken and R. E. Hawkins, of Richmond, an express messenger, was painfully hurt. Engineer Covington lived in Crewe and leaves a large family.

BOYS DISCOVER A WASHOUT AND SAVE A PASSENGER TRAIN.

Winston-Salem, June 27.—There was a big washout near Mayodan, on the Norfolk & Western Railroad last night. A wreck was averted by two boys, who discovered the washout in time to report it to the telegraph operator, who had the incoming passenger train from Roanoke stopped. The boys ran a mile or more through a drenching rain. A special was sent from here to the washout and the passengers were transferred. The damage was repaired so trains could pass today.

ATTEMPT TO WRECK A TRAIN NEAR RALEIGH.

Raleigh, June 27.—This morning about 5:30 o'clock unknown persons attempted to wreck a west-bound passenger train on the Southern Railway, near Garner, seven miles from here. The section master discovered the obstructions, which were rails. Bloodhounds at the penitentiary were sent for, but they failed to strike the trail. The section master says he saw a negro hiding in the woods, but that he fled and escaped.

HIS RESPECTS TO CLEVELAND.

Editor Watterson Says He Helped to Wreck the Party.

Louisville, June 26.—Henry Watterson, in the Courier-Journal, says the Galveston News' interview with Grover Cleveland and its repudiation throws a flood of light upon the method and character of Mr. Cleveland. Mr. Watterson expatiates at length and states his own case, as follows:

"But what we have against Mr. Cleveland is that as a party leader he is a failure, as an ideal statesman—that is, the ideal of the expectant on the one hand and of the block-head on the other—he was and is the mere statesman of straw. Entertaining not the smallest private grudge against him, we reject, perhaps, sometimes too aggressively his pretensions and the pretensions of his panegyrist; methods and the methods of his backers, seeking with respect to him, so far as we know the truth to tell it."

"There is not the faintest likelihood of his being the nominee of any contending party next year. Personally he is in nobody's way. But as one of two millionaires—Mr. Bryan the other—which affect to represent all there is of Democracy, crushing the residue of the common interest between them, we see in him a menace to that common interest."

"Hence to these two, Mr. Bryan and Mr. Cleveland, we say, 'a murmur of both your house. One of you has a grievance, the other an ax to grind. One of you wrecked us in port. The other has led us in two successive wild-goose excursions. Stand aside, each of you, and give the party a chance.'"

Desperate Train Robber Escapes Jail.

Knoxville, Tenn., June 27.—Harvey Logan, the alleged Montana train robber, under sentence of twenty years, escaped from the Knox county jail this afternoon at 5 o'clock. While his guard's back was turned Logan threw a wire over his head and lassoed him, tying him tight to the bars of his cage. Having an entire floor of the jail to himself, Logan next secured two pistols placed in the corridor of the jail for use by officers if needed.

When Jailor Bell appeared in answer to a knock from Logan, the prisoner passed out a bottle, saying he wanted some medicine. As the jailer put out his hand Logan covered him with a pistol, forced him to unlock the door and take him to the basement of the jail. He then forced Bell to take him to the sheriff's stable and saddle the sheriff's horse. This done, Logan mounted and rode away in the direction of the mountains. A posse started in pursuit of the desperado within one hour.

Sheriff J. W. Fox tonight offered a reward of $500 for the capture of Logan dead or alive.

TILLMAN TRIAL MOVED.

Change of Venue is Granted From Columbia, S. C.

Columbia, S. C., June 21.—Argument on the motion for a change of venue in the case of James H. Tillman, indicted for murder of Editor N. G. Gonzales, was concluded this afternoon and Judge Townsend at once announced his decision that the change should be granted. Counsel disagreed concerning the county where the case should be sent and this was left undecided for the present.

The sensation of the day came when Ex-Judge O. W. Buchanan, Tillman's brother-in-law, addressed the court in a bitter arraignment of the press, the commercial interests and the people generally of Columbia. He asserted that "commercialism" had supplanted the old Southern standards and that the press was now at liberty to abuse and vilify any man who spoke his honest convictions. He charged that the State had goaded Tillman to desperation by its abuse of him, and said it had cracked its whip and lashed the citizens of Columbia into signing affidavits for the prosecution under fear of the newspaper's power. He charged that men had been intimidated into signing those affidavits lest they lose their positions or their business be injured.

After the Judge's decision several counties were selected, one being Saluda, to which the prosecution objected strongly.

It is supposed that Judge Townsend will announce his decision as to the county tomorrow. The case must be tried in this judicial district, in which there are five counties. This county, Richland, is eliminated by today's decision and Edgefield is Tillman's home. The other two counties in the circuit besides Saluda are Lexington and Kershaw, which are on opposite sides of Richland. The attorneys for the prosecution seem to prefer Lexington.

The belief is that Judge Townsend will name either Saluda or Lexington. In either case the trial will not take place for six weeks or two months.

Place of Tillman's Trial.

Columbia, S. C., June 25.—Judge Townsend today announced his decision that the change of venue in the case of James H. Tillman, indicted for murder, should be made to Lexington. The next term of court meets at Lexington on the third Monday in September, when the case is now set for trial. Judge G. W. Gage, of Chester, will then be the presiding judge.

Lexington county is divided from Richland by the Congaree and Saluda Rivers, and the business connection between the upper, which is the more prosperous part of Lexington and Columbia, are very close. Lexington court house is twelve miles from Columbia and one mile from the railroad between Columbia and Augusta.

It is said, though not on authority, that the prisoner will not apply for bail, in which case he will remain in jail here until the week before court convenes in Lexington.

A Tragedy Over a Dog.

Albany, Ga., June 27.—Z. T. Bryant and Albert Bryant, father and son, were fatally shot this morning in North county, near here, by J. S. Barfield. The Bryants are saw mill operators and Barfield is a prominent planter. There has been hard feelings between Barfield and the Bryants. The misunderstanding grew out of the possession of a dog. Recently Barfield sent a message to the elder Bryant which was accepted as an insult. This morning Barfield, who was in a buggy, met the Bryants near the former's home. Barfield invited the Bryants to go to his house. They began discussing their differences. A dispute arose and young Bryant started into Barfield's yard for the purpose, it is supposed, of striking him. The elder Bryant caught his son and pulled him back, but at the juncture Barfield fired with a shot gun.

Albert Bryant fell, and another shot disabled his father. Albert was struck in the head and abdomen and is mortally wounded. Eight buckshot struck Z. T. Bryant. The chances are against his recovery. The dying man was married only five weeks ago. Barfield has not been arrested.

B. & O. Engineer's Bravery Saves Train and Crew.

Parkersburg, W. Va., June 25.—Engineer G. A. Duval, of a local freight train on the Ohio river division of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, risked his life this evening to save the lives of the rest of the crew and to prevent his train from being blown up.

A car loaded with powder and next to the engine caught fire. Seeing the burning car and knowing what it contained, the brave engineer coolly stopped his train, had the brakemen cut the train off behind the powder and then ran ahead a mile with the burning car, leaving it a safe distance from the rest of the train. He then took his engine away in time to escape the explosion which followed.

Only slight damage was done to the train or track, but the car which contained the powder was blown to splinters. No one was hurt, owing to the engineer's presence of mind and his bravery.

Running Negroes Off.

Dallas, Texas, June 25.—For the last week notices have been posted in conspicuous places warning negroes to leave Cooper county or take the consequences. Last Wednesday three negro leaders were taken from their homes and lodged. Three others had been whipped a week previously. The flogged negroes were compelled to leave the county. They are charged with having made insolent criticism of the life sentence given a negro for attempting to assault a white woman.

TO PREVENT COLLISIONS.

Exhibition of a New Appliance Which Stops Approaching Trains.

Columbia State.

Two trains will be started toward each other with the engines making the very fastest time possible. No human intervention will be used to stop them, yet it is claimed there will be no collision. This is the way in which the automatic train protector will be tested. Already there have been several private experiments and in every instance the inventors have met with gratifying results, but this is the first time a test has been made so that all the world may witness.

When the trains approach on the same track they establish a sympathetic current which starts minute dry batteries, magnetic batteries, storage batteries and a little motor to working. A warning bell jingles in the cab of the engineer, a light appears as a further sign of danger, and finally the train stops automatically in the same way in which it pulls up to a station. Indeed this is a wonderful invention if it meets all of the claims of Mr. Mortimer Kinzey, the superintendent of construction and the inventor of the appliance.

Mr. and Mrs. Kinzey have been in the city this week, their little daughter, Dorothy being the star attraction at the Hyatt Park Theatre. From here they will go to Charleston and then back to North Carolina, where Mr. Kinzey has been superintending the preparations for the public trial which will be made at Gulf, N. C., on the 23rd of July. Gulf is one of the short lines around Durham, N. C.

Not only will this invention prevent trains from head-on collisions, but it will warn the engineer if the rails have spread, will indicate the presence of obstructions on the track, will tell of trestles down and of rails broken—in fact, will be proof against accident from all ordinary causes. The most wonderful part of the invention is that when the sympathetic current is on the engineer of a train in motion can telephone the engineer of a approaching train or can communicate in like manner with the nearest station agent.

The entire principle of this contrivance is something like wireless telegraphy. There will be in front of each engine a little trolley wheel running down the rail and picking up the circuit whenever an approaching train comes into the same electrical block. Should a rail be broken or an obstruction be placed on the track it will affect the approaching engine in just the same way. As soon as the engine approaches the block in which there is danger the little motor will be set in motion by means of the storage battery, and the emergency brake will be applied.

It is said that the superiority of this invention over anything which has yet been tried is that the others stopped the train at a dead halt, tearing up the gearing of the cars and throwing the passengers around violently. With this contrivance, the train slows up gradually and there is no jar or jolt. The engine may then proceed cautiously to the spot where there is danger.

Former inventions have been costly in equipment. This costs practically nothing. There are no copper wires to carry the circuit. The only expense is for the electrical batteries and the trolley connected with the engines. The interchangeable blocks can be so situated that trains may become aware of the danger when yet three miles away. An open switch will cause a train to stop, and a train approaching a station will be brought to a halt if there should be another train on the main line at the station. The appliance will not interfere with the operation of trains unless those trains should be in danger. All of these things will be demonstrated at Gulf on the 23rd.

THE CITY OF COLOR.

NEW YORK A PICTURE OF PLEASING CONTRASTS IN HUES.

The American Metropolis in This respect surpasses All the Great Monotone Tinted Capitals of the Occidental World.

New York has been written about from almost every possible point of view architectural, commercial, political and social. Yet so far as we know it has never been properly appreciated as a thing in which it surpasses all other great capitals of the occidental world, and that is for its color. Those of us who live here all our lives are so accustomed to its only brief and inconsiderable periods of time when we know how extraordinary is the environment in which we have been placed. It is only the stranger with an outsider's sense or the native who has been long away who gets the full effect of this city of ours in its unique monotone floridity of hue such as vivifies no other city of his kind.

You will think for a moment and remember from memory the great cities of Europe as a colorist would see them and will be struck by the fact that each is a monotone. London has the dingy, smoky hue of its own No. 1 London fog, and as you pass along its streets and miles of streets, a welter of unvariegated facades and homely chimneys, your impression will be more and more that London is one great smudge, hideous and unrelieved beneath a sky of watery paleness which merely accentuates a little more its dingy hue of everything beneath it. Paris equally represents a monotone, a dingy gray that is neat and clean and that adds to the symmetry and harmoniousness of the whole effect, but that is seldom diversified by warmer tones. Berlin is a monotone in buff, and Rome, like Paris, for the most part, a monotone in gray.

You think at first of Naples as a city brilliant with the hues of the south, but a little reflection will show that it is not the city itself which can be so regarded, but rather the setting of the city as one perceives it from the ship on which he enters the harbor, or from the Capo di Positano. The intense blue of the sky, the emerald of the surrounding hills, the shimmer on the waters that lap its rocky shore, the huge dun slope of Vesuvius, with its golden smoke, and the golden mist—these things afford an unexampled dream of perfect coloring. But Naples itself! The place is as commonplace and dirty and depressing as Constantinople, which also from its distance cheats you into thinking it is a city's paradise.

It is New York alone which, after leaving the eye with the beauty of its harbor, embraced by the long sweep of billowy green, fascinates the eye by the brilliancy and diversity of its color scheme. The sky is as blue as that which is arched above the Mediterranean. Its sunshine is as bright, and it is sifted down upon the city like good dust scattered by a lavage hand. But the sky and the sun, so generously intensify the vividness of the color contrasts which are visible at every turn. Here is no convention, no conformity, no desire for harmonious effect. The snowy whiteness of houses and the clean gray of granite are everywhere intermingled with the tawny buff or the warm, rich reds of brick. Patches of green appear at intervals of every vista.

The enormous display windows of the shops are a riot of blues and yellows and pale rose and heliotrope and saffron. Gilding catches and reflects the sunlight at every turn. Flags and streamers and multicolored awnings add to the effect, so that every street is a veritable spectrum. Throughout the whole length and breadth of the great city color abounds in flecks and streaks. It is just a bit barbaric, possibly, but it is also wonderful and strange.

In the sober dullness of Madrid or Rome or London it is what the Pompeian wall paintings are to the quiet colors of Harpignies—not art, but a riot nevertheless with a sensuousness and a glow that stir one strangely. If you are a native of New York you will never notice this. Yet at the same time it is set before you every day and if you will only think of it for a moment you go out of doors you perceive it as a revelation and you know that whatever else New York may be it is, at any rate, a color city, and as such it is one that has no equal. New York Commercial Advertiser.

Sarcasm.
A young author, evidently desirous of benefiting by the experience of an older brother craftsman, once asked Richard Henry Stoddard how he had secured such a mastery of Anglo-Saxon.

"I don't know how I ever did it," replied the poet, who, after a moment's reflection, added, "I think, however, I must attribute it to the fact that I never had any education."

A NURSERY IN TIBET.

Rock-a-bye-babyism in the Forests of This Obscure Country.

Our first meeting with the Sifans presented many ludicrous features. We were plunging through the gloom of the forest when our ears were assailed by a concourse of yells which echoed through the supernatural silence with ghastly weirdness. In this forbidding wilderness we had not looked for signs of human habitation, so, hastily arranging ourselves in position, we prepared ourselves for what seemed an inevitable hostile attack. Long and anxiously we awaited the onslaught of our supposed hidden assailants, when again the peace disturbing sound echoed almost, it seemed, over our very heads. Glancing upward, the mystery was soon explained, for in the lower branches of the tree we could descry numerous small bundles, each too large for an exyre and too small for a windfall.

Both my Kiangsi and Gharikaese escort, with their superstitious natures roused by these ghostlike sounds, visibly paled beneath their dusky skins and gazed furtively round in order to seek means of escape from this enchanted spot. Even I was not little puzzled and awed until, peering more closely, I became aware of the fact that the disturbing elements which had caused us so much concern arose from the fact that we had unwittingly stumbled upon an aboriginal nursery and that the weird and ghostlike sounds emanated from several hungry and lusty lunged infants. Then the solemn stillness was broken by our hearty laughter, the Sifans and Gharikaese, as if to make amends for their credulous fears, making the woods ring with their forced guffaws. The Sifan Tibetans, as we subsequently learned, place their children in skin cradles and hang these from the trees in the forests, the first from a belief that they will be instructed by the deities, the second that their full existence may not be endangered by the abominable filth and squalor of the settled regions. Several times in the day they are visited by their mothers, who provide them with food and remain with them during the night, and in the forest home the child remains until it is two or three years old and has grown strong and healthy enough to stand the rigors of hardship and disease. W. C. Jameson Reid in Collier's Weekly.

FRUITS AND FLOWERS.

High and gravelly soil is the best for fruit trees.

Mildew is the worst enemy of the gooseberry. Pruning is the best remedy.

Rosin and tallow in equal parts is an excellent covering for wounds in fruit and other trees.

To cultivate among trees use a whiffletree as short as the horse can walk with. Turn the hocks in.

The weeds must be kept down around the small fruit trees and vines if the fruit is to mature and ripen rightly.

Look over the orchard occasionally to see that no suckers are growing from the roots of the trees to sap the strength from the main tree.

Plants in windows should be turned once or twice a week. A fine form, which is half the beauty of a plant, cannot be attained without this.

Wood ashes not only help to keep borers from the roots of trees, but the trees make a healthier and more vigorous growth and bear much sounder fruit when they are used.

Victoria and Napoleon.

Queen Victoria once gave a remarkable description of her visit to the tomb of Napoleon I. during the reign of Napoleon III. "The coffin is not yet here," she wrote, "but in a small side chapel of St. Jerome. Into this the emperor led me, and there I stood at the arm of Napoleon III. his nephew, before the coffin of England's bitterest foe, I, the granddaughter of that king who hated him most and who most vigorously opposed him and this very nephew, who bears his name, being my nearest and dearest ally! The organ of the church was playing 'God Save the Queen' at the time, and this solemn scene took place by torchlight and during a thunderstorm. Strange and wonderful indeed!"

Willful, but Not Anxious.

Ministers sometimes observe some curious phases of human nature among persons soliciting their services in the performance of a marriage ceremony.

"Will you take this woman for your wedded wife?" asked a clergyman of a would-be bridegroom.

"Yes; I'll take her," remarked the man in a half dejected tone, "but," he added, with surprising frankness, "I'd rather it were her sister."

Worm.

"I am but a worm!" I protested, being in a groveling, penitential mood.

"Oh, I think you're just nice enough to eat, actually!" cried the faithful little wife.

"That shows you're getting to be an old hen," whimpered I, more cast down than ever.—Detroit Free Press.

SHAMPOOING THE HAIR.

How to Do This Properly With Soap and Water.

Do not rub the cake of soap upon the hair, for it will be impossible to remove the soap from the separate hairs once rubbed on, and the result will be a sticky head of hair for weeks.

When the head has been soaped until it is white with lather and rubbed well, says the Philadelphia Press, rinse again and again, using a little sprinkler with rubber pipe, which can be attached to the faucet. In the absence of this a small watering pot will do.

You will need some one to help you for the rinsing. Water should be heated and poured upon the head, first hot and then cold, and the assistant should not stop until she has used up a gallon of water and more.

The little gas stoves and appliances for putting upon the gas are very useful in a case like this, for they heat the water and keep it at the right temperature, and in shampooing the hair a great deal depends upon this.

Finally in the ideal shampoo the hair should be rinsed with rainwater. If you cannot get this, take water out of the hot water faucet, let it cool a little and soften it with a teaspoonful of borax to a quart of water.

Use this with the spray and get the hair as clean as possible until it feels light and soft and ready to fly. The tendency to fly can be checked by rubbing on the hairbrush just a little glycerin cut with rosewater and brushing the hair quickly with it. Do not moisten the brush, but pour a little of the mixture in the palm of the hand and run the brush over your palm. Just touch the hair lightly with this.

How to Care For Parrots.

The well known gray parrot is a most satisfactory and popular pet. The male and the female look exactly alike, and both will talk. The female talks less, learning fewer words and phrases, but she pronounces with great distinctness. They are capital mimics and catch different tones of voice with nicety. In the very young gray parrot the iris is black; in the older birds it is yellow. The iris of the young bird's eyes changes gradually. The eyes are darkened about seven months. As the gray parrot is long lived and slowly reaches maturity the young ones must be fed and watched with special care. The only way to care for a very young parrot is to hold the corn which is fed it and make it into a pulp, putting it into the bird's beak or letting it feed from the owner's fingers, as it would from the beaks of the parent bird, says Our Animal Friends. The feeding of young parrots must be done frequently or they will die of starvation. The gray parrot is fed practically like the others, on hemp, sunflower seed, Indian corn, fresh fruit and some nuts. Almonds are not good for parrots; the bitter almonds make them ill. Parsley is a deadly poison.

How to Manage Oil Stoves.

First, select one made by a good firm; second, use good oil; third, trim the wick evenly; fourth, have every part of the stove free from oil or grease of any kind; fifth, turn the wicks rather low for the first five minutes, then as full as you can without smoking. The oven will take about fifteen minutes to heat. If these hints are followed, these little stoves are a real boon in a home and when looked after properly should neither blacken the pans nor give out the least smudge.

How to Bake Mushrooms.

Wash and peel the mushrooms; cut off the stems (which may be used for soup), arrange the mushrooms in a buttered baking dish with the gills up; put bits of butter in center of each and bake them in a quick oven for fifteen minutes. Remove from oven and season with salt and pepper, place them on buttered toast, pour a little melted butter over them and serve.

How to Slice Potato Chips.

Peel and slice some good potatoes and let them lie in cold water for an hour. Dry by laying the chips on a clean towel and pressing them with another. Fry quickly in boiling lard (after it throws off a blue smoke) to a delicate brown. Take out as soon as they are done. Shake briskly in a hot colander to free from fat and serve at once on a napkin.

How to Clean Piano Keys.

To clean piano keys and old ivory dampen a piece of muslin in alcohol and with it rub the keys. The alcohol can do no damage, and if frequently applied the keys will stand in want of no other treatment. If they have already begun to turn yellow, rub them with camellia oil and wet with cologne water.

How to Use Soap Scraps.

It is a good plan to keep a pint jar in the bathroom in which can be put scraps of toilet soap. When the jar is full, pour over the pieces about a cupful of warm water and two teaspoonfuls of glycerin. The result will be a jellylike consistency that can be used instead of ordinary soap.

How to Make Banana Salad.

Cut four bananas in halves lengthwise, then cut each in half again; put these pieces in a glass dish and grate over a very little lemon rind; make a lemon syrup by boiling together quarter cup of lemon juice and half a cup of granulated sugar. Stir until the sugar has dissolved.

How to Test Canned Goods.

A Heart to Heart Talk

We sat at the table—the alderman, the doctor and I. The subject of dieting was brought up in conversation. "No man," said the alderman, "can tell me what I ought to eat without knowing my habits of life, my temperament and all—that is not so, doctor?" "Perfectly right," said he, "what suits your stomach may not fit mine, and yet nine men out of ten are presumptuous enough to tell you what you ought to eat." "Yes," said I, "they don't appreciate that there is just as great a difference between two men's stomachs as there is between their brains. Overwork some men's stomachs and they will easily respond to the task, just as some men's brains can take care of endless details, but the majority will break down with the overload." "Indigestion," said the doctor, "is not a disease but an admonition—it is the red light that signifies—danger. It is the language of the stomach to prepare for serious trouble if allowed to persist. Bitters and alcoholic medicines are poor means for stimulating the stomach to perform a larger share of work than it ought. The effect on the stomach is like the spur to the weary horse—it weakens him and shortens his life. A rational treatment," continued the doctor, "is moderate eating of wholesome foods, and only those which the person likes. Occasionally, say once a week, a dinner pill should be taken which should be entirely of vegetable ingredients—like Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets—that will not purge, but act gently on the liver, stomach and bowels. To my mind the main dependence for curing permanently the indigestion which has become chronic—the 'heart-burn,' the sour eructations, the worst cases of dyspepsia—is that alterative extract made from medicinal herbs that Doctor Pierce calls his 'Golden Medical Discovery,' for it contains no alcohol to overstimulate the stomach, but it simply goes to work in the right way—correcting the liver, purifying the blood and assimilating the food so that the stomach takes up its labors with activity and refreshed powers. It fills the arteries with the pure, rich, red blood of health. It tears down, and carries off old, inert and half-dead tissues and replaces them by new. It builds firm, healthy flesh. It makes the muscles strong and elastic and steadies and tones the nerves. It cures debility and weakness of every description."

W. Walter McGloshen, of Reinbeck, Iowa, writes: "I took only four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and two vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets,' and these remedies did me a world of good. I am thankful for your kind advice and praise the medicines highly. Will recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines to all my friends as the best medicines ever made for the troubles for which they are recommended. There is nothing equal to them for stomach troubles."

C. P. Spencer, of Plano, Okla., wrote: "I can hardly express my thanks for the benefit I have received from taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets.' They worked like a charm in my case. Am in better health now than for some time, and will not fail to recommend your medicines to my suffering friends. I hope you will receive my thanks for the good your medicine has done me."

Family Rescued by a Negro.

Beaufort, June 29.—Mr. Joseph and family, of Goldsboro, who are stopping at the Mansion House, came near being drowned today on the Birds Shoal, about a quarter of a mile from Beaufort. They were in bathing and one of the party, a child, accidentally stepped in deep water and the other members of the family went to the child's rescue and they were soon all over their heads and in great danger of losing their lives, as none of them could swim. Palmer Davis, a colored boatman, went to save them and he succeeded by good judgment and heroic efforts. They were all nearly exhausted and Mr. Joseph was so completely overcome by fright and exhaustion he had to be laid on the beach until he recovered sufficiently to be taken to the hotel. The party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph and their two children. They are all right now.

They were all nearly drowned, having been under twice, and were only saved by all clinging together, and by the aid of Mr. William Jordan, of the University of Maryland, who ran to their assistance and held Davis while he caught the foot of Mr. Joseph, as they were going under the third time, and pulled them all ashore. They all had to be rolled and rubbed before they were restored.

Murder Reddens a State Capitol.

Austin, Texas, June 30.—Frenzied by supposed wrongs, W. G. Hill, an ex-attache of the State Comptroller's office, this morning a few minutes after 10 o'clock, entered the private office of State Comptroller R. M. Love and killed him by means of two well directed bullets from a large caliber revolver.

Hill turned to flee. He was intercepted by Chief Clerk Stevens, of the department, who engaged him in a scuffle, during which Hill's revolver was accidentally discharged. The bullet entering his abdomen, causing a wound from which he died at 3 o'clock this afternoon, three hours after the death of the man whose life he sought.

Thus, in brief, is told the story of the double tragedy, the first assassination ever chronicled in the Texas capitol.

The shooting has thrown the town and state into commotion, but the death of the assassin, as well as his victim, has closed the story of one chapter.

Raleigh Not to Expand.

Raleigh, June 29.—Today's election on the question of extending Raleigh's limits resulted in defeat of that proposition. The total vote, registered was 1,952. Two hundred and five persons who were challenged did not vote, while 47 who were challenged voted. The total vote cast in favor of extension was 554 and against it 535. It got 19 majority of the vote cast, but failed to get the required majority of the qualified voters.

There is great rejoicing by the opponents of the extension. Some of the advocates of the measure say they are now ready to vote for prohibition. Others say the next legislature will extend the city's limits without leaving it to a vote of the people. Yet others say they do not believe the legislature will for many years give the people another chance to vote on this question. It is a close victory for the anti-extensionists.

"Trust in God and the Shotgun."

Washington, Pa., June 29.—Rev. M. E. A. Easton, pastor of Wright's African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, preaching on the Wilmington lynching last evening, advised his hearers to arm themselves for the "impending conflict" between the white and colored races.

The white race is deteriorating, he said, lapsing into barbarism and savagery, while the negro race is "coming gradually up and will be dominant." If he were in favor of mob violence, he declared, he would first hang "Ben Tillman and some other senators."

"But two things are open to the negro," he said. "Trust in God and the shotgun. The devil and the mob will get you on the streets of Washington. The whole country is going to the bad; the country is going money mad."

Additional Indictments.

Washington, June 29.—The grand jury reported additional indictments against August W. Machen and Groff Brothers, in the case of Machen for receiving a bribe, and in the case of Groff Brothers for giving a bribe. These indictments are brought in to cover three additional counts and to put the first indictment on the same footing as the second, which latter involved the Lorenzen, of Toledo, O., in the charge of conspiracy to defraud. At the suggestion of Justice Pritchard, presiding over Criminal court No. 1, the defendants will be arraigned this week.

The jury in the Wilson murder case found it impossible to agree on a verdict and was discharged by Judge Shaw yesterday. Eight stood for conviction and four for acquittal. The case went to the jury Saturday. The defendants will be given another trial at the September term of court, over which Judge Ferguson, of Waynesville, will preside.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

Mr. John G. Gamble, one of Summerfield township's best citizens, died Saturday night after a long illness and was buried Monday from the M. E. church at Summerfield, of which he had been a consistent member for many years. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. A. Bowles, assisted by Rev. A. G. Kirkman, many friends and acquaintances of the deceased being present. Mr. Gamble had lived more than three score and ten years in a manner that betokened a pure heart and lofty principle, and his death is much deplored. He was county surveyor of Guilford for many years and his public life was as clean as his private life. Two of his sons, Messrs. R. O. and Charles Gamble, are residents of Greensboro.

Mr. W. O. Stratford makes a timely suggestion in his card published elsewhere in this paper. The city and county both suffer at this time from a short-sighted policy in the establishment of public thoroughfares and it is well that we look more to the future in determining the character of public improvements. No one doubts the ultimate transformation of the Battle Ground into a national park and it is no stretch of imagination to see it reached by an electric line from this city, the avenue connecting the two points lined with attractive country homes, and it would be well at this time to open a beautiful broad avenue that would in itself add to the desirability of property alongside. We believe the right of way for an avenue a hundred feet wide would be freely given now by property owners, whereas in a few years, after more or less improvements have been made, there would be a disposition to claim damages for the same privilege. The only item of expense involved is the grading, and no one of ordinary judgment would object to that small expenditure when there are such possibilities in sight. Twelve or sixteen feet of macadam would cost no more on a hundred-foot roadway than a twenty-foot roadway.

Wedding at Funeral.

Herkimer, N. Y., June 28.—Miss Amelia Burt, eighty-one years old, and her bachelor brother, Capt. William Burt, seventy-one years old, lived together for years in the village of Gray. With them lived Miss Ruth Bly, who is sixty. She did the housework and attended Miss Burt, an invalid.

Miss Burt died Wednesday and her funeral was held Friday. When the neighbors were all assembled for the funeral Capt. Burt announced that before the services began there would be a marriage, that of Miss Bly and himself, and the Rev. S. Nelson would perform the ceremonies. He explained that he and Miss Bly had decided to be married in order that they might continue the household.

The programme was carried out, and after a few minutes spent in receiving the congratulations of the guests the funeral proceeded.

Shot and Killed While Eating Supper.

Columbia, S. C., June 29.—John T. Phillips, while eating his supper to-night at his home in Norway, Barnwell county, was assassinated by a person unknown. His brains were shot out by a load of buckshot. A girl nine years old and a boy 11 were wounded. Phillips was a respected citizen of Norway. Last Saturday he and two sons had a difficulty with two negroes. This is the only clue.

234 Lives Lost in a Mine.

Hanna, Wyo., June 30.—Hanna was the scene of a terrible disaster at 10.30 A. M., when an explosion of fire damp in mine No. 1, of the Union Pacific Coal Company, snuffed out the lives of 234 men. Injured scores of others and caused the destruction of a vast amount of property.

Modern Messiahs at War.

Dr. Dowie, of Chicago, has been challenged to a praying duel to the death by Mirza Ghulam Ahmad, of Quadian, Punjab, India.

"Come thou, O self-styled prophet, to a duel," says Mirza in his "defi." "The weapons shall be prayer. Let us kneel on our knees in the dust of the earth, you and I together, and petition the Almighty that of us two whoever is the liar shall perish first."

Elijah II. has not accepted the challenge.

Mirza says he is "the promised Messiah" sent "for the reformation of the world exactly at the time fixed by calculations based on Biblical prophecies."

"I am the very Messiah, the promised one, for whom he is so anxiously waiting. Between Dr. Dowie's position and mine the difference is this, that Dowie fixes the appearance of the Messiah within the next twenty-five years, while I give him the glad tidings that the Messiah has already appeared. I am the Messiah. I will pray him to death to settle the question."

Right Here in Greensboro

I am grateful, Mrs. Person, for what your remedy has done for my little boy. About four years ago, after an attack of measles, he broke out with eczema and suffered terribly for two long years, as he was sore from head to foot. The only parts of his body that were free from the trouble were the palms of his hands and the bottoms of his feet. At the end of the second year he began to get better, and the third year he got almost entirely well, until he took malarial fever. Then the eczema broke on him worse than it had ever been. He again became sore from head to foot, and he could not walk at all, but crept along on his hands and feet. He was in such agony that he would pray to die. I was worried to death, for he had been doctored by the best of doctors and no one could do him any good, and I never expected anything to cure him. One whole summer the only way he could get out at all was for me to put a pillow slip over his head, with holes cut for his eyes, nose and mouth, as a protection from the flies and gnats, and his clothes would have to be changed two and three times a day. He often said he wished he could die and get out of his suffering. If I had seen him in his coffin I could not have suffered for him any more than I did, and I have shed many tears for my little boy. The itching was almost unendurable and at night he would itch and scratch until I did not know what to do with him. When we heard of Mrs. Joe Person's Wonderful Remedy we did not care to try it, as we did not have much faith in anything, but a friend insisted on our just giving it a trial. We bought a bottle and tried it, kept on until we used five bottles, with such good results that we continued it until we gave him 25 or 30 bottles, and today my child is entirely well. In using the wash it appeared to be harsh and dry to that raw surface, so after washing him with it I applied mutton suet to soften the skin. In a short while he got better and better until he is now perfectly well without a scar, and as healthy a child as you will find anywhere. I used a package of the Wash each day. I will always say that Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy and Wash is the best medicine in the world. We gave the Remedy regularly to our little boy for six months, and although he is entirely well we are still giving it to him, as we feel it is safe to do so, and will continue it for some time yet.

Respectfully,

June 22, 1903.

We seem to have been left out in the distribution of roads to be macadamized, while other sections of the county are provided for. All of western Guilford from High Point to Summerfield was passed by. We would like to know the reason why.

We have been having some heavy rains during the past week. The water courses have been the highest known for many years, doing considerable damage to bottom land and crops of corn and grass. Mr. Albert Peele lost about 100 shocks of his best wheat, which washed down the creek.

Liberty Store Items.

The spring oat-crop is very poor in this neighborhood on account of rust.

The farmers are still behind with their work, and wheat is not quite all in.

Our deputy sheriff, Mr. T. J. Busick, has been quite sick for a few days, but is about well again.

The first new wheat was threshed here last Saturday by Busick & Combs. They are now at work in Rockingham county. It is thought there will be something over half a crop made.

Mr. John Stout, of Alamance county, was here this week hunting some "bad men" who had been hiding in a "sturbment" over in Alamance recently. We don't want any outsiders to interfere with the Guilford-dashes, as we need them all on the roads right here at home. Some of the roads in this section have never been worked.

Wedded fine rains the past week and growing crops were greatly benefited.

A Liberal Offer.

EDITOR PATRIOT: Now that the highway commission has determined the roads first to be macadamized, and since the Guilford Battle Ground avenue is one of them, I wish through your columns to make two suggestions and also to make an offer to that commission.

I respectfully suggest that that road be made not less than 60 feet wide and that the macadam be not less than 12 feet wide. I respectfully offer to give the number of feet additional necessary to make it 60 feet or more where it passes through my land, which is 2,367 feet long.

I beg to call the attention of the commission to the inadequate, as I believe it to be, width of Spring Garden to Lindley Park, on which the electric car line now has one line of track.

EDITOR PATRIOT—We desire to express our grateful appreciation to all those, both in and around Greensboro and Summerfield, who by their thoughtful kindness and sympathy helped to lighten our burden in our recent bereavement—the death of our companion and father, John G. ## IDEOGRAPHIC FIGURES.

A Lesson in English That Was Taught by a Chinaman.

That we have partially adopted the Chinese method in our written language was a new thought to me and one that I got from the proprietor of a Park avenue laundry when, in the natural Caucasian fashion, I referred to his written language as being very inferior.

"John," I said, "why do your people use those chicken tracks instead of having an alphabet, as we have?"

"A B C" too much trouble," he answered quickly. "Why, you use chicken tracks, too, sometimes."

"We don't use them," I replied.

"Yes; you use them very good. I show you." Then he dipped his convenient brush in the ink and made the number "89" on a sheet of brown paper. "That name of street over there," he continued, pointing. "You say 'eighty-nine' you don't write it with 'A B C.' That Chinese. One mark is one thing—you say 'idea' yes, idea. You don't put down 'n-i-n-e'—and here his brush came into use again—"you put down '9.' That's very good Chinese. We do that all the time."

"That is ideographic," I suggested.

"Yes, English have much ideographic. All figures ideographic. See?" And again he used his brush. "You make '—' and '—' and you say 'minus,' 'plus.' You don't spell with 'A B C.' That is a mark for idea—ideographic. You make 'M' and say 'thousand.' That Chinese way. Very good. I say, 'How hot?' and you write '—+87°.' All Chinese. No 'A B C.' no many letters, only marks and ideas."

"Fine way. English know some fine Chinese ways. See! 'S.' 'Y.' You know them. Ideas! You say ideographic. You make many Chinese marks—marks for stars, for plants, for measures, for weights and signs for hundred and hundred many things; same as Chinese. Good?"

I actually left that laundry wiser than I entered it.—New York Herald.

A DRAMATIC LAWYER.

Effective Climax That Resulted in Setting a Murderer Free.

Lachaud, the great French advocate, was renowned for deliberate but telling dramatic improvisations, as it were, upon the original theme.

At one time, for instance, he was defending a murderer on Dec. 24. All day long he harassed witnesses, recalling them, causing delay after delay before getting his final address to the jury. It was well on in the evening before he commenced. Then suddenly, at the height of his passionate appeals for the prisoner, the slow, solemn bells of the cathedral next door pealed for the midnight mass—the first mass of Christmas morning. Lachaud stopped as if overwhelmed by a sudden warning.

"Do you hear?" he said solemnly after a moment's silence, and his manner conveyed that all his own glib eloquence had been shattered by the divine interruption of Christ himself. "The Redeemer comes to amend our pitiable endeavors. Which of us would dare now, on this great day of mercy and forgiveness, to condemn another human being and, above all, to condemn one whose culpability is more than doubtful?"

The prisoner was acquitted without the least difficulty, though his death sentence ten minutes before had been regarded as certain. The actual sound of the pealing bells had been too much for nerves already strained to snapping point by the fatigue of a long day's sitting.

But nobody guessed, except the few who knew Lachaud intimately, that he had been maneuvering from the time the court opened in the morning to get that one stirring effect. The prisoner was a dead man without it and saved as certainly if it could be brought off successfully.—Kansas City Independent.

Simple Headache Cure.

Here is a headache cure that is said to be a marvelous remedy and to relieve the sufferer when all else fails. It is easy to make and easy to apply, and it consists simply of black pepper and camphor. Take a quantity of black pepper and put it in a handkerchief. Then fold the handkerchief over so that the grains cannot fall out and saturate the whole thing with camphor. Bind this "plaster" on the head and lie down. In a very few moments the headache will be relieved and the patient will be asleep. When the handkerchief becomes dry saturate again with the camphor; that's all. People who have tried everything else say that this home remedy relieves them quickest. At any rate, it is worth trying.

Jules Ferry's Escape From the Mob. Jules Ferry had a narrow escape from violence at the hands of the Paris commune, to whom he was especially odious. He eluded their pursuit through a church, letting himself down in a basket out of a rear window while the mob was forcing the outer door. The basket fell to the ground with a thud and gave its occupant a severe shaking up.

HOW KELLY WAS CHEATED.

A Greensboro Negro of the Old School Picked Up by New York Sharpers.

H. E. C. Bryant in Charlotte Observer.

John Kelly, the faithful and capable head-waiter at the Blue Ridge Inn, at Mount Airy, is a negro of the finest type: is polite, obedient, reliable and energetic, and has a gracious smile and a pleasant word for every one. To guests and strangers it is: "Colonel, how'll you have your eggs, and shall it be tea, coffee or milk?" The casual observer will see nothing but peace and happiness in John Kelly's handsome mulatto face, but the student of human nature readily detects a faint trace of sadness, made by some sudden misfortune many years before. His nature seems to have been perverted; the smile that should have been sweet, is bitter, and his cheerfulness is forced. He wears the countenance of a person who originally and naturally trusted his fellow man, but who from bitter experience, has learned to trust none but God. At one time he was the genial, frank and trustful John, but today, it is a sad day in any man's life when he loses faith in mankind. His disposition is forever warped. He considers every man a rascal until he finds out for certain that he is a gentleman. That is not the Christian way.

John Kelly had a substantial start in life and was doing well until a scoundrel undermined his foundation and rushed him into a sea of troubles. He was making money and accumulating property by running a stall in the Greensboro market. His own story is interesting. I shall let him tell it.

"Yes, sir, colonel," he said to me, the other day, "I had a good business in Greensboro fifteen years ago. I was young and active then, and money seemed to come my way. The white people and the niggers liked me. I was putting big wads in the bank every day, and life was just as sweet as it could be. I had no kick at all. But the Good Book says that the thief comes in the night while you sleep, and I believe it.

"One day, in 1888, I received a letter from a man that I never heard of before. He wrote from New York and said that my name had been sent him by a mutual friend who wished to see me. The letter contained also a five-dollar bill. I took the money to the bank with my deposit and the teller accepted it without a word. I never told him where it came from or anything about it, but would not have been surprised if he had handed it back and declared that it was a counterfeit. I wrote that fellow a letter and thanked him for the money, and it was not long before I got a second letter, containing money, that time $50, all in one piece. The man said in the letter that he had taken a liking to me and was going to put me in a way to make money fast if I would only listen. That was just what I wanted. I had been dreaming of thousands all my days. I believe I had some idea of being a millionaire. I took the fifty-dollar greenback to the bank and watched it go through like the five-dollar William did. I thanked my unknown friend again and told him that I was Dick at the wheel when it came to making money fast. Well, sir, before I had more than mailed my letter and an answer came back. Another fifty enclosed. That letter urged me to go to New York and take several thousand dollars. I got two packages of a thousand each together and set out for the big city.

"That was the time that I was a rich nigger for Greensboro. I was on my way to get a fortune. Nobody knew my secret, for I told you the truth. I feared that some fellow would get ahead of me. I took my luggage and set out without telling any one of my purpose.

"I had the biggest time any nigger ever had. New York caught me right on the go. But, after all, I did not see much of it for I didn't stay there long. I was in a hurry to get back home and swell around with my thousands. But, when I landed a fine-looking, well-dressed man met me at the station and carried me up the street in a great surty with big horses. I felt like I was the chief of police of the city. We went to a dandy hotel, where white folks and niggers stopped. I was put in a room that shined like gold. It sure was a beauty. Every time that I touched a bell boys came running to see what I wanted. I ate fine rations and drank good wine. The fellow who met me paid for everything, cigars and all. That seemed to be the time of my life. I was in the hands of my friends.

"But I told the man that I was in a hurry to get back and he went right down to business. We traveled a round-about way to his office and there we made the deal. He sold me $3,000 worth of money for $1,700. I couldn't see how he did it, but he explained by saying that it was time somebody was doing something for the poor nigger. The South, he said, had kept us in slavery so long that the rest of the world had gotten far in advance of us. I sat at the end of a table and he sat on the side. He counted me out three thousand in cool cash and packed it in a brand new grip. I saw him count and place every piece of money. The grip was full. The fellow closed the grip and tried to lock it with a key that he had, but it did not seem to be the right one for it would not go in. It was then that my friend grabbed up the grip and ran into an adjoining room for another key. He was back in a second. The grip locked, he threw the key out the window into the river, which was near.

"Now," he explained, "Kelly, you should not open that till you get home, for you never know what scamp is watching you. I threw the key away for you might go to sleep on the way home and a robber might enter your grip. When you get back to Greensboro cut the thing open; it is mine and that is what I intended you should do."

"Well, sir, that was a sleek-tongued fellow. He could talk like a preacher.

MR. FARRINGTON UPHELD.

His Qualifications for His Position Acknowledged by the Convicts Under His Control.

EDITOR PATRIOT—Having been informed that any matter relevant to the public welfare will be always acceptable for insertion in the columns of your paper, I accordingly take the liberty of forwarding to you for publication the following statements, which I trust will be seriously considered and heartily endorsed by yourself and all well-meaning citizens. The convict camp No. 2, under the charge of Capt. H. Stanley, is now located about four miles north of Kernersville, on the road leading from Greensboro to Oak Ridge. A very worthy subscriber to your paper, Mr. T. H. Farrington, is in direct charge of all road-building operations, being subordinate to Captain Stanley. Mr. Farrington, who has been overseer but a short time, was appointed to the place by the county commissioners, who alone have the power to remove him. Very recently a movement has been set on foot to oust him from his position, a movement which has been prompted by no other motive than that of pure malice, or to satisfy some hateful prejudice existing in the minds of a very few residents in this vicinity, who possess an inherent tendency to meddle in that which concerns them not, and who, in their feigned character of "good Samaritans," invariably accomplish more evil than good. In all penal institutions there is a mode of punishment by which discipline is maintained. At this camp the mode of punishment is whipping with a strap. One day last week it was found necessary to administer punishment to a negro. This man had evinced a reluctance to do any work at all for Mr. Farrington, and all admonitions were ignored or rewarded by a mere pretense at work. As all kindly words were of no avail, and the work being delayed, Mr. Farrington was in duty-bound compelled to administer punishment. There was no alternative. It was a very mild punishment when compared with some that I have seen inflicted on white men here, but these scandal-mongers in their indiscriminate plungings have grasped upon this incident as a means of oppressing Mr. Farrington and have circulated a petition to have him removed. Had these meddlers taken the precaution to "look before you leap," or had they used discretion in their one-sided efforts, they would have found that they really had no grounds for interference and that any story to the contrary would be inconsistent with the truth and a gross exaggeration. Of course corporal punishment is to be deplored, a statement to which all right-minded men will concur, but until those in authority abolish it and resort to other means, those in Mr. Farrington's position should not be condemned when they show a strong desire to accomplish by kindly words what they are supposed to accomplish by use of the strap.

The writer is a convict working under Mr. Farrington and can conscientiously say that he is a kindly-hearted, whole-souled gentleman with not the least bit of brutality in his composition. Moreover, he is very well equipped for the place, being intelligent, energetic and the envious possessor of lots of will power. He is quite persistent in his efforts to build good roads and has rendered the county excellent service in this respect. Being a good worker himself, he jumps right in every day and takes a turn at the pick or shovel himself, and by so doing has infused enthusiasm into the men, thus accomplishing some really wonderful results, in the face of such obstacles as fewness of men, rocky hill-sides and gulleys requiring no end of blasting, and other strongly disadvantageous conditions. The residents in this vicinity will confirm the above statement; even those who are unfriendly cannot deny its truthfulness. So far as punishment is concerned, I can say that I have seen more whippings administered in one week under one of his predecessors than he himself has given during his more than two months stay here. He has a strong aversion to using the strap, and a comparison of his record with that of his predecessors will reflect strongly to his credit. His record is open to investigation and no convict will deny that he is the most tender-hearted overseer that has ever been here.

This is written in behalf of the convicts, for should Mr. Farrington be removed we would surely lose a friend. Being entirely independent of this place as a means of livelihood it is wholly immaterial to him whether he stays or not, but not so with us. When he came here he brought with him a ray of sunshine into this otherwise gloomy abode, and when he goes the brightness in our lives goes with him. Very truly yours,

WM. J. GOODE.

Best Whitewash Receipt

We are having numerous requests again for the government recipe for whitewash. This has been published several times, but for the benefit of those who neglected to preserve it we give the receipt again. The whitewash used at the white house in Washington is made as follows: "Take a half bushel of unslacked lime, slack it with boiling water, cover during the process to keep in steam, strain the liquor through a fine sieve or strainer, and add to it a peck of salt previously dissolved in warm water, three pints of ground rice boiled to a thin paste and stir in while hot; half a pound of Spanish whiting and one pound of glue previously dissolved by soaking in cold water, and then hang over in a small pot hung in a larger one filled with water, add five gallons of hot water to the mixture, stir well and let it stand a few days covered as nearly airtight as possible. It should be applied hot, for which purpose it can be kept in a portable furnace."

Jim Pou Says Either Gorman or Parker Can Win.

Washington Post.

Representative J. W. Pou, of North Carolina, who is at the Metropolitan, is of the opinion that the Democratic party has a great opportunity in the next Presidential contest, with the nomination of either Gorman or Parker. Speaking of the political situation today he said:

"There is really no sufficient reason why the Democratic party may not present a united front next year. Nature has eliminated, for a time at least, the only issue which produced such distressing differences in our ranks. It seems to me the party should demand, first, a reduction of the import duty upon articles which are sold cheaper abroad than at home to that point which will force the American manufacturer to sell his goods as cheap to Americans as he does to foreigners, and, second, a rigid investigation of all the departments in Washington. The post-office is not the only place where our Republican friends, intoxicated by a long lease of power, have been guilty of monumental extravagance.

"Upon these issues I know of no reason why both Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Bryan may not be found fighting side by side the battles of the party which has bestowed upon them the greatest honor at its disposal. With either Senator Gorman or Judge Parker as our leader, we ought to stand a good chance to win.

"When the platform is written and the candidates named the great rank and file of the party expect both Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Bryan to do that which they demanded of Democrats every time they were candidates, and that is support the ticket."

Culinary Note.

At Odessa, Mo., Sheriff Hamm and Deputy Sheriff Bacon are rivals for the hand of Miss Fry. Bets are even as to which will land in the matrimonial skillet.

The Price of Pleasure.

It is hard for a lovely woman to forego the pleasures of the life which she was created to enjoy and adorn. She may have to be busy all day in office or in store, yet she cannot deny herself the social pleasures which are offered her. But the fatigue is often too great for her, and she suffers from headache and backache as a consequence of over-exertion.

Women who are tired and worn out will find a perfect tonic and nerve in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures headache, backache and the other aches and pains to which women are subject. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"I am so pleased with your instructions," writes Mrs. Milo Bryant, of Leno, Thomas Co., Ga. "I suffered so much with great pains in my back and the lower part of my stomach and palpitation of the heart, that I could hardly lie down. Could hardly get up in the morning, but after using three bottles of Favorite Prescription and two of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, I am like a new woman."

Sick women, especially those suffering from diseases of long standing, are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Correspondence of the PATRIOT.

Washington, June 29.—The greatest interest has been manifested throughout the past week by Washington Democrats in the action of the Iowa convention and diverse opinions are entertained with regard to the platform adopted. Generally speaking, however, eastern Democrats believe that the Iowans were wise in omitting the free silver plank from their platform. The view is entertained not only by those who have lost faith in the 16 to 1 policy, but by many who regard it as a correct but non-essential issue at the present time and who believe they see a better chance for party harmony. The enthusiasm with which the name of Grover Cleveland has been received and to some extent the popularity of Senator Gorman are taken to indicate that there are many Democrats who, while they were unwilling to espouse the free silver cause, are anxious to see adopted a Democratic platform on which they can stand. Mr. Cleveland is not regarded here as a presidential possibility and it is generally held that any man to be a candidate must have supported the platform of the past two campaigns but it is believed that with such a candidate, on a platform which ignores the silver issue and declares for moderate tariff revision and a cleaning of the executive departments there are excellent chances for Democratic success.

Scandals in Washington are multiplying as time goes on. The postoffice scandal still holds the palm for extent of corruption but one has developed in the administration of the affairs of the Indian Territory which, were its location accessible to the representatives of the press, would almost equal the postoffice scandal. It appears that for years the Indian agents appointed by the successive Republican administrations have been making false returns as to the number of Indians in the territory under their charge. The Daves commission undertakes to divide the Indian lands it used these padded rolls as a basis for its work and now that the allotments have been practically completed it is discovered that the territory has been divided into more parts than there are Indians. How the matter can be adjusted without great additional work and expense it is impossible to foresee but the President has appointed Francis E. Luepp, a prominent Washington newspaper correspondent, to make an investigation of the situation and report to him.

A scandal has developed in the treasury department where it has been discovered that an immigration official has been selling the private papers of the department, upwards of 4,000 in number, to private persons, especially manufacturers and steamship companies. The department of agriculture is the scene of still another scandal in connection with the distribution of free seeds in which the Secretary of Agriculture is shown to have appointed a personal favorite to the position of inspector of the work of the seed contractors and Mr. Wilson's protégé to have grossly neglected the duties for which he was appointed, even if he did not share in the profits out of which the government was cheated. An investigation of the Bureau of American Ethnology is also in progress as the result of the defalcation of an employee, a Spanish war veteran who obtained a place on the strength of his having been a soldier.

Speaking of the situation in Washington as it obtains today, a member of Congress said: "It is the old story. When a party remains in power too long there is sure to be wholesale corruption. It is not the new man that steals from the government, but the old officeholder who regards himself safe from prosecution because of his political influence and who has come to believe that no change of administration, which would reveal his peculations, is likely to occur. History always repeats itself in this respect and the abuses become so serious that the people are compelled to change the administration if only to turn the rascals out. Take the present situation in the Postoffice department. Roosevelt may be sincere in his desire to prosecute those who have actually stolen from the government, but even he is loath to expose the rascality of Republican appointees and he is afraid to get rid of Payne, who is a professional politician, and whose every effort is bent to the saving of his colleague on the Republican national committee, Perry Heath, and other Republican friends, just as he strained every nerve to save Hanna's friend, Machen."

Two more indictments have been secured in the postal cases, one against ex-Congressman Driggs, of Brooklyn, the other against J. V. Miller, of the same place. Machen and the Groffs have also been indicted again, as have also George E. Lorentz and his wife. Ex-Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith has made public a lengthy statement in which he attempts to outline what he chooses to regard as evidence of collusion on the part of Seymour W. Tulloch and Inspector Smith, the man who made the report inclosed in Bristow's reply to the Tulloch charges and which was so unfavorable to Mr. Smith's administration. Mr. Smith bases his charge of collusion on the fact that in several instances Smith and Tulloch used the same language. This is all explained at the Postoffice department, however, where it is learned that both the Tulloch charges and the Smith report were based on the letter of Comptroller of the Treasury Tracewell and the similar terms referred to were those originally used by him when he objected to the payment of certain vouchers.

It has been stated in various quarters that Postmaster General Payne intended to resign, but this Mr. Payne denies. He has been quite ill, but is much better now and was present at the last cabinet meeting before the President left Washington. Mr. Roosevelt left Saturday for Oyster Bay, where he will spend the remainder of the summer. Most of the embassies and legations are closed and Washington has assumed its usual summer quiet.

The Iowa Democratic convention refused to reaffirm the Democratic national platform of 1900, rejected a government ownership of railroads platform and nominated J. B. Sullivan for governor.

AS A TWO-EDGED SWORD.

Jewish Petition Probably Also Is Intended As Retaliation.

Washington, June 26.—President Roosevelt's determination to send the B'nai B'rith's petition of protest against cruelties to the Jews to the Russian government is a two-edged sword. One edge serves to answer the appeal of American Jews; the other is intended as retaliation for Russia's opposition to the granting by China of open ports in Manchuria to the United States.

The attitude of the Washington government toward Russia is said to be one of distrust. The situation which threatens to ensue is fraught with danger to the long-existing Russo-American good feeling. It is said there is also pronounced bitterness shown by certain high government officials toward Court Cassini, the Russian Ambassador.

It was represented to the Washington government that Russia would not try to influence China in the negotiation of the American-Chinese commercial treaty, in which the United States expects to gain open ports in Manchuria. The administration later obtained what it believes to be indisputable evidence that Russia did influence China to the extent that China was afraid to grant the United States' desire for open ports.

The "indisputable evidence" referred to means a dispatch received by mail from Minister Conger, at Peking, a short time ago, which he says is an original copy of demands made upon China in regard to Manchuria. These demands were reported to be for control of the customs and telegraph lines, and the exclusion of foreign consuls and other important questions of territorial government. When it was first published in dispatches from Peking that these demands had been made on China by Russia, the Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs made a categorical denial of the alleged demands. Secretary Hay cabled to Mr. Conger for the source of his information and Mr. Conger sent to Washington what he said was an original copy of the demands. This has convinced the administration that Russia really did make the demands.

The Russian government, it is stated, has learned with profound regret of the intention to forward the petition, and it hopes that the United States will appreciate the Russian view of the case and will content itself with the kindly expressions of sympathy which it already has offered for the affair at Kisheneff. When Mr. Riddle, the American Charge, presents the petition at the Russian Foreign Office he will be received with the same cordiality always accorded an American envoy. In returning the petition to Mr. Riddle the officials will assure him that Russia cherishes no ill-will towards the United States and that the action it takes with respect to the petition is necessary in view of Russia's alterable policy of refraining from interference in the internal affairs of other powers and insisting on similar treatment for itself.

Mob Hangs Three Men.

Albany, Ga., June 26.—Newton, the county seat of Baker county, twenty miles south of Albany, was the scene of a triple lynching last night. Three negroes—Wiley Annett, Garfield McCoy and George McKinney—charged with the murder of A. S. Bullard, June 20, were taken from the jail in Newton and hanged from a tree less than a mile away.

The crime with which the negroes were charged was an ugly one. Last Saturday night a large crowd of negroes gathered on the farm of A. S. Bullard near Peace, Ga., to indulge in a frolic given by one of Bullard's farm hands. The three negroes from Miller county were in the crowd. Many of the crowd were drunk and soon started trouble. Their host could not keep them on their good behavior and Mr. Bullard went to the house and commanded quiet. Annett, McCoy and McKinney drew their revolvers and opened fire on Bullard, inflicting wounds from which he died Tuesday morning. It was proved that McKinney fired the shot that killed Bullard. The affair created intense excitement in that part of the county. The attack last night is supposed to have come from that section, as the lynching was a surprise to the citizens of Newton.

Labor Agent in Jail.

Roanoke, Va., June 25.—George Grant, labor agent for the Blue Ridge Iron Mines, is in the Wentworth jail, in Rockingham county, N. C., and it is thought that he will soon be a member of the "good roads movement."

Grant, who was on his way to North Carolina looking for laborers to work in the mines, went over the Winston-Salem division of the Norfolk and Western. While the train was standing at Madison, N. C., it is charged that he pulled a gun and began firing in the coach. He was arrested and placed in the "calaboose." Some time during the night he pulled up the floor of the cell, it is stated, and tunneled his way out and made his escape.

He secured a number of laborers to come to Blue Ridge, and yesterday when the order for their tickets to the Norfolk and Western agent was presented by another party the man was held and forced to tell the whereabouts of Grant.

Grant was found on the outskirts of the town and was promptly arrested and lodged in the Wentworth jail.

The Wastes of the Body.

Every seven days the blood, muscles and bones of a man of average size loses two pounds of worn-out tissue. This waste cannot be replenished and the health and strength keep up without perfect digestion. When the stomach and digestive organs fail to perform their functions, the strength lets down, health gives way, and disease sets up. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all of wholesome food that may be eaten into the kind of blood that builds the tissue and protects the health and strength of the mind and body. Kodol cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. It is an ideal spring tonic. Sold by Howard Gardner.

DIGNIFY THE FARM.

Beautify the Home Surroundings and Make Them Attractive.

Southern Cultivator.

If life is simply and only a matter of hoeing cotton, eating fat meat and soggy bread, and of going to bed, then let's commit harikari at once and end the matter. It were better.

The man who does not lift his life above the clouds and out of the furrows does not care how he lives. His home with environments is the surest index of his thoughts and life. Men and houses are interchangeable types, the one for the other. Where are so large a proportion of all our farm boys going to? Why don't they continue on the farm? Why is the farm unattractive?

If called up for an answer, I should say that one of the factors in the case is that we do not sufficiently dignify the farm. We do not give it the respect the farm; we do not give it the air and atmosphere of respectability. The whole business and outfit gives us the impression of drudgery and humdrumness.

As I look back at the various farms that I have seen, the English farm, I believe, has most impressed me. As a boy, and growing up on it, I believe here it is that I would have been most apt to remain as a man. I have seen hundreds of thousands of farms elsewhere that I, as a 12 year old lad, would have run away from to escape such a life and such a home. No man could love, nor could he tolerate, a thing he could not respect. An outline of this English farm may be helpful. In the first place, every place is an "estate"—the place's name is one of dignity. The approach to it is through a gate with dignified and great pillar posts, no matter how rude and rustic. On the gateway posts is the estate's name. It may be or need not be fanciful and high sounding. The name is often chosen to designate some individuality of the estate. The house always has a setting—no matter how humble the house. This setting consists of a little path of walks and grass, shrubbery and trees, and not one of them, perhaps, from florist or nurseryman.

You respect the whole outfit—place and owner—the moment you see it. The boy grows up with the same feelings you have for it.

Every farm in North Carolina is worthy (dignity means worthiness) of just such setting as above.

You may say that this is not practical and that it is only an appeal to the imagination. But the moment you leave imagination out of your life, I would not give a farthing for your life. And if your boy is about to leave the old farm and you want him to settle about you and not go away—then a plan that keeps him and holds him—even though it be imagination—becomes a practical way.

We should not give up this beautiful country to the negro cropper. If the four or five children of every man in the country could only be made by some means to settle in the country in the place of going to town—then what a great future the South would have!

Whipped by Court's Order.

Lexington, Ky., June 23.—Norton Cass, aged 76 years, a civil war veteran, was publicly whipped by his wife here yesterday, by order of Police Judge Riley.

Cass was arrested, at the instigation of his wife, for drunkenness, and she told how he spent his pension money for drink and stayed drunk most of the time, abusing her because she could not spread before him the delicacies of the season. Judge Riley asked her why she did not give him a whipping.

"I would do it, Judge, if I had your permission," she replied.

"Well, you have it," said the Judge. "Get her a whip," he said, turning to an officer. The whip was brought.

"I don't want you to whip him in the court room. Take him downstairs," said the Judge.

The husband started away, the wife following with the whip, and when they were in the station-house lobby and a crowd had gathered, she began plying the whip.

The husband begged for mercy and promised to be good after she had given him 10 lashes.

Postal Clerks' Convention.

Washington Post.

The annual convention of the Third Division National Association of Railway Postal Clerks was held Monday night at the National Hotel. President E. C. Plunkett, of Richmond, Va., presided, and Secretary I. N. Davidson, of Washington, recorded. The meeting was largely attended by delegations from Washington, Baltimore, Richmond, and other points in this division of the railway mail service, and a large amount of business was transacted.

E. C. Plunkett, of Richmond, Va., was re-elected over J. C. Koons, of Baltimore; Ivan V. Younce, of Lynchburg, Va., was elected vice-president, and Frank D. Gavin, of Washington, was elected secretary for the ensuing year. P. M. Rutherford, of Rutherford College, N. C., and L. A. White, of Greensboro, N. C., were chosen delegates to represent the Third Division at the annual convention of the national association, which meets in this city next September. The division organization made arrangements with the Riggs House for headquarters for the national convention.

The X Rays.

Recent experiments, by practical tests and examination with the aid of the X-Rays, establish it as a fact that Catarrh of the stomach is not a disease of itself, but that it results from repeated attacks of indigestion. "How Can I Cure my Indigestion?" Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is curing thousands. It will cure you of indigestion and dyspepsia, and prevent or cure catarrh of the stomach. Kodol digests what you eat—makes the stomach sweet. Sold by Howard Gardner.

King Peter I of Serbia took the oath before the Skupstina at Belgrade Thursday, confirmed the appointment of the present ministry, including those implicated in the killing of King Alexander and Queen Draga, and witnessed a review of troops.

The Kimball Piano

Assigned Priority of Merit by the World's Parliament of Critics

The following partial list of celebrities, constituting the highest court of criticism that has ever pronounced upon the relative merit of modern key instruments, have assigned the laurel of highest comparative excellence to the Kimball Piano, the original and authorized language of the opinion so rendered being thus abbreviated:

"After ample and careful examination of all the instruments now prominently before the world, we find a preponderance of artistic and mechanical excellence in favor of the Kimball Piano. In the exacting requirements of perfect construction and in the deeper matter of tone in the service of the highest art, we find the Kimball to be the masterpiece of the human race to the present time."

Portraits of above celebrated musicians for the asking.

The Kimball which was so nearly burned up on Lewis street, and was only saved by the firemen's hose, examined and pronounced a wonder by hundreds, and which still responds to the delicate touch, is still on exhibition. Severe critics, and others who have not done so, are invited to examine this instrument.

Closed to Negro Graduates.

Washington, June 25.—For the first time Washington theaters closed their doors this year to the graduating exercises of the negro public schools. Representatives of the board of education called on the managers of the Columbia, Lafayette and Chase's theaters. All of them said their stock companies could not make way for commencements. A letter to the manager of the Academy of Music brought a reply that his house could not be opened for commencements. No application was made to the National theater. Its doors have never been open to a negro commencement.

The negro press is commenting freely on the refusal of Washington theater managers to rent their buildings for the closing exercises of the negro schools.

Chloral in the Lemonade.

San Juan, Porto Rico, June 27.—Leslie Lumsden, an assistant surgeon in the Marine Hospital Service, who is temporarily acting as quarantine officer here, and Mrs. Lumsden, were drugged and robbed at the Hotel Inglaterra last night, with chloral, which had been placed in lemonade. While they were under the influence of the drug all their money and jewelry was taken from a bureau drawer. The porter who took the lemonade to the Lumsdens has been arrested on suspicion. The Lumsdens today have recovered from the effects of the chloral. The incident has caused a great sensation here, as the Hotel Inglaterra is the leading hostelry of San Juan. Lumsden came here recently from New Orleans. He was formerly on duty in Washington.

New York Sun on Tillman's Case.

New York, June 25.—This evening's Sun says editorially: "It appears that the lawyer who appeared for former Lieutenant Governor Tillman, the murderer of Gonzales, carried a revolver in each hip-pocket. This person, whose name is Buchanan, is a brother-in-law of the accused. He attacked the newspapers in a way that would have delighted Governor Pennington, of Pennsylvania. Apparently the defense wants to have the trial held at some place where the standard of education is low. It is a pity that the case has not been decided long ago. It is not only in negro cases that justice should be swift."

"Jim" Lowery Captured.

Fairmont, W. Va., June 25.—"Jim" Lowery, colored, who killed R. C. Jones, the Shelby (N. C.) chief of police, about two years ago, and since that time has been at large, was arrested late yesterday at Athens, Ohio, on information furnished by Sheriff John, of Marion county. Until a few days ago the negro has been working in a coal mine near here, and the local sheriff has for some time been working on the case. A reward of $700 was offered for his capture and John claims the amount.

Chief Jones was very popular, and there were threats of lynching at the time he was killed.

Talk of Changing the Jewish Sabbath from Saturday to Sunday.

Detroit, June 28.—Leaders in the Jewish faith from all parts of the United States and several from Canada as well, are expected to attend the central conference of American rabbis, which will begin its 14th annual meeting here in the Temple Bethel tomorrow night. About 100 delegates are expected. The report of the Sabbath commission Wednesday morning on the question of changing the Jewish Sabbath from Saturday to Sunday is expected to result in an interesting and important discussion.

Statistics of Wealth.

Recent statistics show that if the wealth of the various countries were to be divided equally among their inhabitants Frenchmen would be richer than any other persons, and Bulgarians would be poorer.

A Frenchman would have $37,282; a Siamese, $24,582; a citizen of the United States, $29,042; an Austrian, $8; a Russian, $6.25; a German, $19.92; a Serbian, $2.72; an Englishman, $18.20; a Turk, $3.72; a Japanese, $3.09; a Spaniard, $23.98; an Italian, $9.68; a South American, $27.62; and a Bulgarian $1.91.

At N. C. Military Academy.

Red Springs, June 26.—Dr. Samuel W. Murphy, headmaster of the North Carolina Military Academy, located at this place, announces as the faculty for the next term: Capt. Clarence A. Short, principal; Prof. J. A. McArthur, Capt. Eugene C. Hardesty, Mr. Walter E. Short, Capt. Robert A. McEachern, Miss Katie McC. Buie, Dr. B. F. McMillan, Rev. Charles G. Vardell and Miss Annie Brown. There were 98 men in the cadet battalion the past session.

Capt. V. E. McBee Resigns.

New York, June 26.—At a meeting of the directors of the Seaboard Air Line Railway, held in this city this week, Captain V. E. McBee, fourth vice president, tendered his resignation, to take effect on July 1. Capt. McBee proposes to take a vacation before taking up any additional work. The duties of the fourth vice president will be divided among the other officers of the company and the office of fourth vice president will not be filled at the present time.

Anti-Saloon Law in Tennessee Upheld.

Nashville, Tenn., June 27.—The Supreme court has held the Adams law passed at the last session of the legislature to be constitutional. The action is a permanent measure and provides for the abolition of saloons in all towns having a population of 5,000 or under, upon submission of the question to a popular vote. There were only eight towns in the state that are exempt from its operation.

Girl Killed by Jealous Sutor.

Sherman, Conn., June 26.—Angered over her refusal to marry him, P. H. Worden, of Carmical, yesterday killed Edith Roscoe, also of that town, by cutting her throat. He then attacked Mrs. Sherman Roscoe, sister-in-law of Miss Roscoe, with a hammer, crushing her skull and inflicting probably fatal injuries. Worden then attempted to kill himself. The tragedy occurred at the Roscoe home.

A Reminiscent Fourth of July at Guilford Battle Ground.

[Paper read by Miss Mary Groomer before the English Seminary, Baltimore, October, 1890.]

Great deeds of men live after them and inspire love and admiration in the hearts of the succeeding generations for the actors, and for the scene of action a certain pride and feeling of individual interest if it be within their reach to visit it.

In North Carolina, six miles from Greensboro and two or three miles from New Garden, lies an old-time Revolutionary battle-ground, on which our brave forefathers freely shed their life-blood for the sake of that thing so dear to human hearts—liberty. Here is gathered once a year, as at a mecca shrine, a great concourse of people to celebrate, on the Fourth day of July, with songs and addresses, the birth of freedom in our land, and to pay tribute with tears and flowers to the noble patriots who fought so bravely. So here on the Fourth of July, eighteen hundred and ninety eight, we have come to join in this celebration.

Since you don't feel able to follow the enthusiastic crowds to see the points of interest, and since we have heard the annual address, suppose we get us an advantageous point of view, say here where the railroad going north crosses the old pike running east, or perhaps it would be better to walk up this road about a hundred yards to the top of a hill from which we have a fine view of the whole field and the distant woods. Facing the north, quite a little walk to the left, is the great pavilion, just about far enough away for us to hear the strains of "Dixie," "The Star Spangled Banner," "The Old North State," and other patriotic songs, and airs played by the excited bandmen, whose shining instruments we can see flashing in the sunlight. Then from the great crowd of people there goes up a loud cheering, followed by the report of a cannon, an old relic of the Guilford Courthouse battle, and even to this distant day a tremor is caused by the mingled sound of the report, the shouting, and the snorting of the horses. If you shut your eyes and sniff the powder smoke you will think you are in the edge of a battle.

Just beyond the railroad towards the grand stand there is a monument in honor of the gallant bugler boy, Gillies, who went out with "Light Horse Harry Lee's" legion, and fell, pierced by the swords of fierce Tarleton's dragoons. It is quite modest—a stone base and pedestal, with a square granite block let down into the frustum of a pyramid by one corner; this block has a bronze slab in it, and if we were nearer we could read his name and the plaudits given him by his grateful friends. A special day was set apart last year for the unveiling of the monument. The ceremony was impressive.

Did you ask why that large oak down the road towards the south is all bedecked with stars and stripes? You see it looks as if the top of it had been clipped out. There is a tradition that Colonel Tarleton's horse bit off the top of it when the tree was only a small bush. Perhaps it was only a short time before the battle, when the colonel was issuing commands to his men and curbing his charger that the animal bit at the bush. There it has stood many years, proudly wearing its signs of victory, for though its head was lost when the British came thro' the country, its heart and life are strong still. Just beyond, that great granite square marks the grave of some unknown soldier.

But turn half way round and look! The music is coming nearer. You see the mounted marshals gaily attired in colonial dress, cocked hats, blue coats trimmed in gold and heavy bronze buttons, riding boots and long spurs—each knight on a richly caparisoned horse and accompanied by the lady of his choice, followed by the band playing patriotic airs, and leading the great multitude of people from the pavilion down by Gillies' monument, across the railroad, by dozens of little booths whose owners' voices can be heard by a keen ear even above the din of the trumpet's cry and growl of the drum. Then on towards the east by the little museum, nestling modestly among the great trees down the old road we see them wending along by monuments of marble, granite and brass, and finally we see them vanish beneath the hill.

Perhaps you wonder where they are going? The marshals are just showing them over the field, and pointing out the monuments and perhaps explaining the positions of the two armies during the engagement. If we could go along with them we would see half a dozen springs down in the little valley, all of which have pretty arbors built over them and are named. From many of these our countrymen slaked their dying thirst, and breathed away their life down by their coolness. Further on we would come to a small lake on which we should no doubt see a boat full of boys turning over in the water and there—but the procession is slowly going up that hill to the southeast of us, and pauses on its summit to do honor to the statue of the "patriot dead." Then slowly turning they start back towards us, passing on the way the monument to the Maryland regiments, one to John Penn, William Hooper, Joseph Hughes, etc.

When they reach the other side of the railroad again a trumpet sounds and everybody hies him to his dinner basket, for however patriotic and excited you are, you will be hungry when dinner-time comes on the Fourth of July.

As we have no basket we will go over to the pavilion and get our dinner. By taking a table back to one side we will have abundant opportunity for seeing some strange people come in for their luncheon also. Yes, there comes a woman now with her two children, a boy and a girl, and a dog, the boy, presumably about twelve and the girl about nine. Instantly the boy grabs one of the two chairs at the table, and picking up the dog, sits down with him in his lap. At the same time the little girl sits down in the other, and the mother is left standing until the waiter can find a chair—which is a difficult matter to. But we become interested in our own dinner and only glance at the above group occasionally to see the members of it making faces at each other and their neighbors, and soon we have left the room.

We follow the crowd and soon find ourselves in a large open place, where by listening attentively to about fifty speakers at the same time we are finally able to make out that there is going to be a balloon ascension, and that the greatest professional in the world is going to ascend with any person who will volunteer to accompany him. Then follow warnings about coming too close, command to the inflators, men with hats taking up a collection for the professional's family should he never return, and suddenly, "All ready? Let her go!" is yelled. There is a might sweep as every obstruction is removed, and up goes the great, round, black monster as it seems to be, higher and higher until it looks like a baseball, and the man on the trapeze below can scarcely be seen. Then you see the small object begin to fall. The man has cut loose his parachute, and now he has fallen behind the trees.

As the sun is fast sinking he lingers a moment on the tops of the marble tombs as if unwilling to have there during the night-time with a guard who would perchance be less faithful than he.

Is it fancy, or do I see those hundreds of scarlet uniforms with burnished armour and swords flashing in the dying light, their banners solemnly waving over them as if confident of victory, as they advance with a firm and measured tread upon the line of raw recruits and volunteers. Do you not seem to see Colonel Webster's regiment disappearing beneath your hill, followed by the hotly chasing Marylanders? And surely you see Col. Washington waving his sword as he orders his men to follow him against Cornwallis, who, seeing the odds against him, orders his gunners to fire grape shot through his own men in order to reach the enemy. Yes, you hear the cannon too, but 'tis only the old rusty relic in the hands of the young cavalier of today, firing the final salute to the heroes for this year.

So now we see only the hills in the coming darkness and hear the merry voices of those departing calling to the friends they have left. I turn away and think not of the joy of the present, but of the noble, glorious deeds of the past, and feel that it is an honor and a noble thing to die for one's country.

Separate Committees Recommended for Each School District.

Battle Ground, June 28, 1903. EDITOR PATRIOT—I see lots in your valuable paper of late on education. Will you allow a few thoughts from one who feels very much interested in the cause of education? In the first place, I think it would be better for all the school districts to have three school committees for several reasons: first, they shall serve without compensation, which would amount up considerable, when you take into consideration the several townships in the county and three committees for each township and they are allowed $1.00 per day for six days per annum; second, because the district committees live in the immediate neighborhood and would know the needs of the school much better than some one located elsewhere, and besides, it is their own children that go to that particular school and they would naturally take more interest than an outsider. Then there could be considerable saving in wood and other supplies. Not but what the township committees would do the best they could, but men in the neighborhood might do better and would cost less, and then if any difficulty arose in the school they would know more about it and would be apt to adjust it more satisfactorily to all concerned.

If you will notice section 17 of the school laws you will see it is left with the county board of education to use their judgment as to whether they select three from the township or three from each district.

In closing I would suggest that the county board of education look over the reports from Piney Grove school for the last two or three years and see if they cannot devise some plan that will give us better schools.

Hoping to see our rural schools keep abreast with the city school and the cause of education in general prosper, I am Yours truly, P. L. STANLEY.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

The News and Observer says Judge Tourgee has been promoted from consul at Bordeaux, France, to consul general at Halifax, N. S. Many changes have occurred since he came to North Carolina on what he afterwards declared was "a fool's errand" and with others tried "to make bricks without straw." He deserves well at the hands of the National Republican party, for he furnished much thunder for its bloody-shirt campaigns.

Crawford in the presence of a few friends and guests of the hotel. Major Morehead and several other of our prominent citizens showed the visitors about, taking them first to Guilford Battle Ground and then to Lindley park and the fair grounds. All these places undoubtedly made a favorable impression. From here the inspectors went to Durham and Littleton, which had also made overtures for the encampment. A decision as to the favored point will not be announced for a few days.

Mr. Walter Sergeant, a young machinist employed in installing the new machinery at the water works, met with a very painful accident Friday morning. He stepped on a heavy cog wheel and had all his toes on one foot ground to a pulp. The wheel stopped while his foot was in the cogs and for fifteen minutes he stood the pain without an outcry while an assistant slowly turned back the wheel with a sledge. His injured foot was dressed at the Greensboro hospital by Drs. Michaux and Turner, who administered chloroform against the wishes of the patient, who said he could stand the additional pain. It was an exhibition of admirable nerve. The young man is getting along as nicely as possible under the circumstances.
