Over one hundred business houses in this city have agreed to close their doors from 12 o'clock noon to 6 P. M. on Friday of this week so the proprietors and clerks can spend the afternoon at the fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. W. Albright, of Asheville, are here for a few days. Mr. Albright is gratified with the cordial reception accorded his book on Greensboro, his sales having largely exceeded his expectations.

Twenty-five West side lots belonging to Mr. C. W. Jennings were sold at auction last Saturday by the real estate department of the Southern Loan and Trust Company. The purchasers were R. G. Aiton 7, J. S. Moore 7, S. Kirkpatrick 4, C. D. Higgins 2, W. G. Jennings 2, J. B. Clendenin 1, M. G. Newell 1, E. G. Sherrill 1.

The sale advertised by Mr. J. W. Brown of Guilford College, for Tuesday, October 18th, ought to interest many of our readers. Mr. Brown is one of the best farmers in Guilford and everything he owns is of the first quality. He retires from active farm work to engage in merchandising. His sale begins at 10 o'clock A. M.

Mrs. D. A. Owen has issued invitations to the marriage of her daughter Lillian to Mr. William Clement Womble, the ceremony to take place at her residence on East Washington street at high noon on Tuesday, Oct. 18th. Mr. Womble is now a resident of Winston, but formerly lived in Greensboro, where he was employed by the Merchants' Grocery Company.

Miss Lettie Hendrix, the fifteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hendrix, who live just north of the city, died Monday morning after a lingering illness that baffled the skill of physicians. Despite her years of suffering she displayed rare fortitude for one of her years. Her funeral took place yesterday at Buffalo church, services being conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. McLe Sealbrook. The PATRIOT extends sympathy to the bereaved family.

Miss Mary Mebane, of Mt. Airy, left Thursday to take up mission work in Japan. She was accompanied by her father, Rev. Dr. Mebane, as far as St. Louis, where they will spend several days visiting the fair. Miss Mebane will also visit friends in Kansas City and Salt Lake City, arriving at San Francisco about October 22nd, and will sail from the latter place for Yokohama on the 25th. She will be one of the teachers in a large mission school in Nagoya, conducted by the Presbyterian church.

The Big Fair Opens.

The Central Carolina Fair opened auspiciously yesterday, the exhibits and crowd measuring up to expectations. In the live stock, poultry and agricultural departments there is more to be seen than at any previous fair, while the other attractions are all represented on practically the same scale.

So attractive are the purses this year that the racing entries have far exceeded the stable accommodations on the grounds and new stalls had to be built on short notice. There are at least twenty more fast horses on the track this year than ever before. On the Midway there are attractions galore, and as yet there has been no complaint as to their character. It is the purpose of the management to keep out objectionable shows and they bid fair to succeed. Among the innumerable attractions there are an electric theatre, a dog show, a wild animal show, an "Old Plantation" minstrel show, a merry-go-round, a Ferris wheel, a 680-pound boy, a wild Australian girl, etc. The free exhibitions given in front of the grand stand daily are superior to those of former years, also.

The Greensboro Electric Company is prepared to handle the crowds advantageously each day, notwithstanding the fact that the two new cars which were expected the past week failed to arrive. The Southern Railway will operate special trains between the union depot and the fair ground every fifteen minutes today and tomorrow. Altogether the event of 1904 promises to excel in every particular all previous fairs here and there are few in the South that will bear comparison with it. Following are some of the entries for the various races yet to come.

Whiskey Fraud Cases Go Over.
In the Federal court last week what is known as the "whiskey fraud cases," involving Revenue Officers Starbuck and Mebane, were continued to the April term of court. District Attorney Holton succeeded in having a new bill of indictment returned against Mr. Starbuck which involved two or three new counts and Hon. R. B. Glenn, the defendant's attorney, plead for a continuance in order to be able to meet these charges. Mr. Mebane's attorneys, Messrs. Bynum and Bradshaw, who appear with Mr. Glenn in the defense of Mr. Starbuck, also urged the court to grant the continuance, as the cases are closely allied.

During the week the embezzlement case against N. B. Lewis, ex-postmaster at Madison, was heard, resulting in conviction. The minimum sentence, $250 fine and six months in jail, was imposed.

B. Y. Ballard pleaded guilty to breaking in the postoffice at Colfax and was sentenced to the penitentiary for thirteen months.

R. D. Wagoner, a Winston rural free delivery mail carrier, was convicted of mail robbery and sentenced to thirteen months in the penitentiary.

A number cases against violators of the internal revenue laws were tried during the week, Ben Clarida, of this county, being one of the defendants not found guilty. The civil docket was taken up Monday morning.

A Clear Case of Arson.

A technicality is all that promises to save Jeff Donnell's neck from being broken next month by "due process of law." Donnell is a vicious negro who has lived in the eastern part of the city for some time. Saturday night he started home drunk about 11 o'clock and amused himself by turning in a false alarm of fire from Box 25, which is on the corner of Clinton and East Market streets. The firemen responded promptly but found there was no need of their services in that locality. After reaching home Donnell gave his wife a terrible beating and drove her from the house, then he came back up town and bought some kerosene. An hour later he appeared at several houses in the vicinity of his home and asked permission to leave some of his younger children over night, saying that his house was then on fire. Returning home he beat his eldest son and drove him from the house. A passerby soon afterward saw Donnell's house in flames and turned in another alarm. This time the firemen thought they were certainly in for another wild goose chase, but they went regardless, only to find a blaze that was beyond control. They directed their attention to surrounding property and saved it from damage. Donnell was not to be found that night, but before disappearing he told some of his acquaintances that he was going to leave town or would soon be found dead. The police kept up a search for him until about 10 o'clock Sunday morning, when he was found hiding in the weeds infesting a deep ditch near town. Officer Jeffreys, who first saw him in the weeds, knew that he was armed, and promptly covered him with a huge gun until the other officers arrived. At a preliminary hearing Monday Donnell was bound over to the next term of court under a bond of $300, in default of which he went to jail. The property he burned belonged to Mr. D. E. Thomas and was uninsured.

Mrs. J. M. Connor Dies in Baltimore.
The many friends of Mrs. J. M. Connor were shocked last Sunday by the announcement of her death in Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, where she had been taken for treatment some weeks previous. Mrs. Connor was perhaps best known by her maiden name, May Harrison. She was one of the brightest and most attractive young women of Greensboro and numbered her friends by the hundreds. Her marriage at the Baptist church last December to Mr. Connor was one of the interesting society events of the winter, and that she has been cut down at the threshold of an unusually promising and useful wife career is all the sadder because of the brief period intervening between her marriage and death. Her health gave way early in the summer and it was hoped that hospital treatment would restore her in health to her husband and friends, but such was not to be. She answered the summons of the Grim Reaper Sunday morning at 11:20 and all that now remains is a blessed memory of her and the influence of her pure young life. Her brother and sister, Mr. W. E. Harrison and Mrs. W. E. Allen, went to Baltimore to accompany her remains home. Mr. Connor, who is a traveling man, having been absent on one of his regular trips and out of reach by wire until Monday. The funeral will take place this morning from the First Baptist church, where the deceased was a consistent and valued member. Interment will be made at Greene Hill cemetery.

The registration books for the coming election are now open and those who have become of age since the last election or have changed from one voting precinct to another have the privilege of placing the same on record up to and including Saturday, October 29th. Any person who is in doubt as to his right to vote should see the registrar at once. The qualifications are a residence of two years in the state, six months in the county and four months in a precinct, but where one has moved from one precinct to another, having been registered in his former precinct, he can transfer and vote in his new precinct in less than four months. If he has not been registered, however, he must have lived four months in his new precinct.

Judge Winston Coming Next Tuesday.
Judge Francis D. Winston will fill a postponed appointment in Greensboro next Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock and those who hear him in his discussion of current political issues will be well repaid. His reputation as a speaker is known far beyond the confines of the state. Let there be a full turnout on the 18th.

GREENSBORO TOBACCO MARKET.

MARKET REPORT.

The receipts on our market for the past week have not been heavy, yet they have been a great deal better than one might expect, considering the dry weather which prevails all through the tobacco section. Really we cannot see how farmers manage to get tobacco in order at all, yet they do manage to get some in shape and we have pretty good sales almost every day. Farmers who put themselves to trouble enough to order their tobacco during this dry weather have been very handsomely repaid for their trouble, for prices are better than they have been at any time this season and most of our farmers are highly pleased with their sales. In most instances they received more for their tobacco than they were expecting.

This is fair week and we are not expecting any big sales, as farmers will quit their work and come to Greensboro to see the big show, but our buyers are very anxious for tobacco, and we feel like it is a great time for them to sell what they wish to market in the near future.

THE ENGLISH MARKET.

In the summary of the monthly report issued by the great English tobacco firm of Edwards, Goodwin & Co., Liverpool, we find the following in reference to the September transactions:

There was an active demand throughout September for the lower and medium classes of both strips and leaf—dark and also bright—and considerable business was done at firm prices. The competition to realize amongst tired-out holders has so far prevented that improvement in values which the strength of the position both here and in the United States seems to call for, but the stocks on sale continue to be steadily reduced, and there are indications that the market may before long broaden out, so that the better grades, which are so intrinsically cheap just now, should come into play.

Mr. J. J. Lester, one of Rockingham's most popular farmers, was with us last week and made a very satisfactory sale.

Mr. Jacob Cook, of Liberty, who is one of Greensboro's old standbys, was here with tobacco last week and made a very satisfactory sale.

A. G. Wyrick, Manda Whitsett, J. W. Alexander and Turner Thacker, of Guilford county, sold tobacco with us last week and made very satisfactory sales.

J. M. Farrar, Sam Farrar, Arthur Farrar, W. O. Moseley and Isaac McCallum, of Rockingham county, were here with tobacco last week and made very satisfactory sales.

A. D. Maddren, W. F. Maddren, Yancey Lowe, J. N. Lowe and Daniel Lowe were among the prominent farmers from Alamance county who made satisfactory sales with us last week.

R. A. C. Kermode, W. E. Loy, and T. J. Rumley were among the very prominent farmers who patronized us from Alamance county last week. They were highly pleased with their sales.

John C. McPherson, a prominent farmer of this county, who most always makes good tobacco, was on this market during the past week and sold his last curing for an average of about $5 per hundred.

The following prominent farmers of this county sold tobacco with us during the past week, and we are glad to say that they were highly pleased with their prices: Davis Pritchard, N. H. Robinson, Flake Shaw, W. P. Southard, J. M. Lemon, J. O. Hines, R. J. Jessup, John Foust, J. C. Gilbreath, J. T. Watson and A. F. Forbis.

Four Republican spellbinders have been heard here the past week, the appointments evidently having been made with a view to catching the Federal court crowds, as in point of numbers there are always enough of the pie-counter crowd around about court time to insure a fair sized crowd for auditors. Wednesday evening Messrs. H. A. Gudger, U. S. consul general to Panama, and J. J. Britt, the nominee for presidential elector at large, held forth at the court house. Saturday afternoon Mr. C. J. Harris, the Republican candidate for governor, and Hon. Thomas Settle appeared at the same place. Mr. Harris contented himself with a short speech, his friend Settle doing the main oratorical stunt. Neither of the four speakers seemed to awake much enthusiasm, although Mr. Settle, by virtue of his fine irony and scathing denunciation of "the enemy," received a liberal share of applause.

Mary sat upon a pin, but showed no perturbation; for some of her was genuine, but most was imitation. No so with our shoes. J. M. HENDRIX & Co.

DAVID WHITE, Secretary.

Greensboro now has a Federal building in keeping with its present needs, especially in the matter of postoffice facilities. The office was removed to the building the latter part of the week and Postmaster Glenn's force finds it admirably adapted to their work. The number of boxes is about doubled and there is ample room about them to handle much more than the present volume of mail. A notable improvement is made in the money order room, which is now large and airy, with plenty of desk space for the patrons of the office. Mr. Glenn and his assistant, both Mr. Burton, have large private offices on the north side of the building, while the city carriers have comfortable quarters in the basement. The upper floors of the building are handsomely furnished and afford ample quarters for the court, the revenue officials and others who are identified with Uncle Sam's affairs. It will likely be several years before the government business here outgrows the capacity of the enlarged and remodeled structure.

A large barn on John A. Hodgins' farm, two miles south of town, was destroyed by fire yesterday morning, together with several smaller outbuildings. The loss aggregates $5,000, with $1,000 insurance. Several head of hogs and cattle were also burned.

A Wonderful Saving.

The largest Methodist church in Georgia, calculated to use over one hundred gallons of the usual kind of mixed paints in painting their church.

They used only 32 gallons of the Longman & Martinez Paint mixed with 24 gallons of linseed oil. Actual cost of paint made was less than $1.20 per gallon.

Saved over eighty ($80.00) dollars in paint, and got a big donation besides. Every church will be given a liberal quantity whenever they paint.

Many houses are well painted with four gallons of L. & M. and three gallons of linseed oil mixed therewith.

Wears and covers like gold.

These Celebrated Paints are sold by Southside Hardware Co., Greensboro; Gibsonville Store Co., Gibsonville; B. J. Sapp, Kernersville.

A Correction.

The district meeting of the Normal Foreign Missionary Society of Greensboro district will be held in West Market Street church, this city, on Saturday, October 15th—not October 8th, as was dated in editorial column of the North Carolina Christian Advocate of this week.

We trust we may have a representative from every charge on the district, so that all may enjoy the privilege of meeting and hearing Miss Helen Lee Richardson, one of our best missionaries to China, who will be with us on that occasion.

LETTER TO BROOKS MANUFACTURING COMPANY.

Greensboro, N. C.

Dear Sirs: There are five ways of badness in paint:

(1) stuffed-out with chalk, or something like that;
(2) barytes, better than chalk, but no covering to it; nobody knows it's there;
(3) benzine in the oil, or water, or other such stuffings;
(4) too thin—too much liquid, whatever it is, for the solid;
(5) short measure.

Now will you buy by the price per "gallon"?

We furnish our agents with a state chemist's certificate of analysis that tells what's in Devoe.

Yours truly,

Watson Breaks Down.

New Orleans, Sept. 28.—It is probable that Hon. Thomas E. Watson, of Georgia, Popular candidate for President, will be compelled to abandon his speech-making tour in the South in consequence of ill health. Mr. Watson broke down completely after his speech in Jackson, Miss., yesterday. He had to be conveyed to his hotel in a carriage. A physician was summoned, who, after working on Mr. Watson for an hour or so, restored him. The physician advised him to abandon his campaign and return home and rest several weeks.

The most beautiful season of the year is just now opening up. Delicate splashes of gold and crimson are beginning to show through the fading green of the forests, and uncultivated fields are bright with waving golden-rod. There is still more substantial beauty in the corn field, meadow, apple orchard and turnip patch.

GEN. M. W. RANSOM DEAD.

The Imperishable Career of North Carolina's Most Distinguished Private Citizen Closes at the 78th Milestone of His Life.

Weldon, Oct. 8.—Ex-Senator Matt. W. Ransom, North Carolina's foremost citizen, died suddenly this morning at his country home in Northampton county, near Garysburg, of heart failure.

The end came shortly after 1 o'clock and was the peaceful passing of a flame which had flickered but feebly for some months. Today was his 78th birthday.

Gen. M. W. Ransom was born on Oct. 8, 1826, in Warren county. He became Attorney General for the state of North Carolina in 1852, being, only 26 years of age at the time, thus being the youngest man to hold this position in the history of the state. By reason of Gov. Vance being unable to qualify as senator after his election, Gen. Ransom became United States senator in 1872, which position he held constantly until 1895, immediately after which he was appointed United States minister to Mexico, in which capacity he served for two years. He was a member of the board of arbitration in the Venezuelan troubles with Mexico.

He leaves five sons and one daughter and a wife. He was probably the largest landowner in the state, the acreage being variously estimated from 14,000 to 18,000; in fact, he recently remarked: "There is only person who knows how much land I own and that is myself."

The funeral will take place Monday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock and the interment will be made in the family burying ground. He will be buried with Masonic honors.

GEN. RANSOM'S CAREER.

Half a Century of Public Life—His Service to the State.

Hon. Fabius H. Busbee, in Raleigh Post.

Matt Whitaker Ransom, the oldest son of Robert Ransom, was born in Warren county October 8, 1826. His mother, Priscilla Whitaker, was a member of the Whitaker family of Halifax, which has always been prominent in the history of the county.

After an academic education in Warrenton, he entered the University of North Carolina, and was graduated in the class of 1847, being a class-mate of Gen. J. Johnston Pettigrew, Senator John Pool and other men of note. The commencement was the notable one attended by President Polk, and the English salutatory address of the young graduate was one of the features of the occasion.

Soon after graduation he entered upon the practice of law in Warrenton, and at once attained marked success. While a very young man, about 1853 he was a candidate for attorney general, and although a Whig he was elected by a legislature which contained a small Democratic majority. As a prosecuting officer he was eloquent, forcible and successful, but never vindictive or implacable. Among other notable cases he secured the conviction of the wife murderer Parker Terry, in Wake county despite the efforts of the strongest lawyers in the state to save him.

He resigned before the end of his term and removed his residence to the county of Northampton, having married Miss Pattie Exum of that county. From that time he was largely engaged in planting. In 1858 he was a member of the House of Commons from Northampton as a Democrat.

When the clouds that had long been hovering over the land in 1861 broke into the storm of war, the lawyer-planter was among the first to volunteer. He became colonel of the thirty-fourth North Carolina, the present chief justice, Walter Clark, being at one time the adjutant of his regiment. He was afterwards promoted to be brigadier general, and distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry in many engagements. At the capture of Plymouth he was second in command to Gen. Hoke, and was greatly commended. At Fredericksburg he held the line at Marge's Heights with matchless courage, and at Five Forks and other historic fields, his reputation as a skillful and fearless soldier was forever established. After the close of the war General Ransom resumed the life of a planter and lawyer, and had a large and lucrative practice, especially in Warren, Halifax and Northampton counties. When the hired minions of Kirk held the truest men of the state in custody, and the state courts seemed powerless to relieve, General Ransom applied to Judge Brooks for the writ of habeas corpus, and in co-operation with the veterans of the bar, Bragg, W. H. Battle, B. F. Moore and others brought about the release of the prisoners and the restoration of the reign of law.

In January, 1872, when the Senate of the United States had declined to admit the great tribune, Zebulon B. Vance, to a seat in that body, because his disabilities had not been removed, General Ransom was elected by the general assembly of North Carolina as senator of the United States. He remained, by successive re-elections, a member of that body until March 4, 1895, having had the longest term of service of any North Carolinian.

His services for nearly a quarter of a century are a part of the political history of the country. He entered the Senate when the passions engendered by the war were still glowing at white heat, and he was perhaps the greatest single force in the Senate in bringing about the reconciliation of the warring sections. While he would speak with matchless eloquence and force, as was shown in his great argument in the Louisiana case, his chief work was done in committee room and on the floor, day by day and year by year in bringing about a more perfect union of states and peoples.

He was ever alive to the interest of his state and section and was for twenty-five years a potent factor in bringing the beneficent agencies of the federal government to the development of the South. In the improvement of rivers and harbors, in the erection of public buildings, he was of more service than all others in public station combined. With rare tact and unflinching courtesy, with a handsome presence, magnetic charm of manner, he was a senator of whom the whole state was proud. And when he spoke, which was not as frequently as his admirers wished, his eloquence had a charm that was all his own.

But this is not the time to recount at length the public services of Gen. Ransom. Today we mourn the loyal friend and staunch comrade, the gallant soldier, the faithful public servant.

Gen. Ransom, during his whole life, was a peace maker, not only in his public career, but in his private life. Of courage and honor undoubted, his counsel was always sought in cases of private difficulty, and the result was almost invariably and honorable adjustment.

He had the greatest faith in the future of eastern North Carolina, and showed by his faith large investments in lands in Northampton and Halifax. He became probably the largest cotton planter in North Carolina, and with the aid of his sons managed a princely domain on both sides of the Roanoke.

At some future day it will be our pleasant duty to review at length Gen. Ransom's public service in the Senate, his success in diplomacy in the sister republic of Mexico, his brilliant career as a soldier, his work in agriculture. But today, a noble North Carolinian lies dead in his country home, and North Carolinians, whom he loved so well, and who held him so dear, feel too deeply for words.

He leaves his devoted wife, five sons and a daughter.

Paving High Point.

High Point, Oct. 6.—At a meeting of the board of aldermen Tuesday night it was ordered that all persons owning real estate within the corporate limits of High Point be required to pave and otherwise improve and repair their sidewalks within thirty days from date of ordinance, in exact accordance with the requirements and specifications, as furnished by the street committee, or said work will be done by the city and cost of same will be collected from the property owners as provided for by law. It was further ordered that all of the principal streets (and they were enumerated) about twenty in number, be paved by the property owners with granolithic pavement, as per specifications now being used on Main street. Thus it will be seen that with such a sweeping ordinance enforced High Point will be the best paved street city in the state. The bitulithic pavement being put down on the streets of High Point is the best pavement of the age. It is pleasing to the eye and tickles the citizen as he compares it with the roadbed of a few months ago. It is hard as stone, yet does not occasion the loud, rattling noise as on other pavements as the persons and vehicles pass over it. No prettier streets can be seen anywhere than Main street in High Point nowadays. The force of hands is getting along rapidly and by next week the bitulithic will have been laid from Commerce to English streets, through the heart of the business section of High Point.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

Correspondence of the PATRIOT.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Officialdom in this city has been entirely occupied this week with the mortal illness, death and funeral of Postmaster-General Payne. Full and ceremonious honors were paid him yesterday at the Episcopal church of which he was a member. It had been announced that a military escort would be furnished for the occasion, but sharp criticism caused that display to be countermanded. Adverse remarks are still made, however, over the fact that "officers of the army, navy and marine corps on duty in this city have been ordered to attend in full uniform." Why? He was not a member of either, and had never been affiliated with either in any way, being a dry goods clerk during the war instead of going to the front. Of course the censure which was visited upon the Postmaster General on account of the mistakes he made about Bristow and "hot air," is now properly withheld. It seems however as if the administration had made its customary mistake in accepting a magnificently equipped special train "tendered free" by the Pennsylvania and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroads for the use of members of the cabinet and other officials attending this funeral. Why should not the government or the passengers pay for such transportation instead of having the administration in power placed under renewed obligations to these giant corporations? The Postmaster General was in his personal relations a cordial and agreeable man. All but two of the houses opposite the Senate chamber in this city owned by Chairman Babcock, of the Republican congressional committee, are rented. It is feared by his friends here that he may have to rely on them for an income after the 4th of March, for La Follette is after him with great agility and hurling at him chunks of his own speeches. In 1901 Babcock wrote "After we have built so well and many of the infant industries have become giants such as the world has never known, shall we continue a tariff on articles that yield no revenue, need no protection, and, like the products of our farms, are articles of export? How can such a policy be defended? If Congress maintains a tariff on such articles the whole theory of protection falls to the ground." It is such carelessly spoken truths as this that Mr. Babcock finds it extremely difficult to answer or withdraw.

The secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor says that the persons arrested for the hideous crime of loading with iron the cork blocks for life preservers will be tried for "a felonious attempt to evade the laws of the United States." Such a trial seems like mockery. If the prisoners were convicted they could only be punished by a slight fine. If there is no law, state or national, for the adequate punishment of miscreants who imperil human life in cases like this, and the wrecking of railroad trains, and the attempt to destroy the Connecticut, it is high time such a law were enacted. Men have been lynched for lesser crimes. The unfortunate passengers of the Slocum or other vessels who sank elapsing these treacherous bags of iron were as truly murdered as if they had been deliberately shot from the shore.

Weather Prophet Moore is dreadfully stirred up because some unauthorized rustic out West has had the audacity, not to say temerity, to do some guessing himself and has made some long-range predictions which beat Moore's. The wild experimenter ought to be arrested, of course, and hustled into the prisoner's dock on the charge of interfering with the labors of the United States government. What's the use of having an army and navy unless our own officials can be protected by them in a monopoly of serving the American people with the things they need? If Tom, Dick and Harry are permitted to furnish the American public with a superior article of weather prophecy, the danger is that some ingenious fellow will come forward and furnish a cheap and infallible aerial telegraphy without the slightest permission from headquarters. This should be put a stop to.

Killed by Grizzly Bears.

Cody, Wyoming, Oct. 7.—Reports received from Yellowstone National Park tell of the horrible death of two employees of one of the hotels in the park by grizzlies, who are becoming so numerous within the park confines as to be a menace to tourists. Because of the strict rules against disturbing wild animals within the government reserves the bears have become numerous. Several days ago two employees of a hotel, while several miles from home, were attacked by grizzlies. One of the men was killed instantly while the other was so badly mangled that he died later.

Unrest Among Chinese.

Shanghai, Oct. 7.—Numerous reports received from the interior telling of the activity of secret societies at points widely apart are causing serious uneasiness.

It is known that the officials everywhere are displaying great anxiety and are procuring the most modern arms and munitions of war for the purpose of equipping the soldiery. There is no certainty as to whether the anxiety of the officials is directed against anticipated risings or as to whether it is a precautionary movement in view of possible danger from a successful Japan.

Found Dead in Hotel Fire.

St. Joseph, Mo., Oct. 6.—Four persons perished today in a fire which destroyed the Tracy Hotel, in South St. Joseph. The dead: LaFayette Frew, livestock buyer; C. F. Morton, employee of stock yards company; Mrs. Anna Weston, of Gentry county, Mo.; unknown man.

Gilbert Weston, 13 years old, son of the dead woman, is fatally burned. Wm. Simmons was also badly hurt by jumping from a third-story window.

Depression in English Cotton Industry. London, Oct. 5.—At a meeting of the Manchester city council today it was announced that owing to the hard times and depression in the cotton industries, between 40,000 and 50,000 people in the poorer parts of the city were nearly on the verge of starvation. Similar conditions prevail in London and other larger cities of the United Kingdom, where the winter is expected to be one of the hardest in many years for the poorer classes.

PAYNE'S PLACE FOR CORTELYOU.

Appointment Had Been Decided on Months Ago, as Payne Wished to Retire From Service.

A Washington special says: In succession to Mr. Payne, George Bruce Cortelyou, formerly secretary of the department of commerce and labor and now chairman of the Republican national committee, will become postmaster general.

Mr. Cortelyou's appointment as head of the postoffice department was determined on several months ago by President Roosevelt, when Mr. Payne indicated to the President his desire to retire from the department on account of the precarious state of his health. Mr. Payne would have resigned the portfolio long ago had it not been for the pending investigation of the affairs of the department. He felt, however, and said many times to his friends that he could not relinquish the duties of the office while the investigation was pending and expressed his determination to carry the investigation to a conclusion.

The intense mental and physical strain incident to the direction of the postal inquiry very seriously undermined his strength. He was warned again and again by his physicians and friends that he was subjecting himself to too great a burden, but he refused to heed their counsel.

Having concluded the pressing work of the department and carried the inquiry to a point where it passed from the hands of the department officials to the courts, it was his intention in a few months at most to yield to the admonitions of his friends and relinquish finally the cares and responsibilities of official life. Whether, if he had lived he would have remained at the head of the postoffice department of the present administration had not been determined definitely. It is understood the probabilities were that he would have resigned to take effect about the first of next January.

PAYNE HAD PROMISED TO QUIT.

Mr. Payne possessed ample wealth. He hoped that on leaving the department he so could arrange his business affairs as to be able to devote the remainder of his hitherto very active life to rest and recreation. He had promised his family and friends never again to undertake any work which might imperil his health, which for many years had not been good.

It is the understanding now that Mr. Cortelyou will assume the duties of postmaster general as soon as he conveniently can after the close of the pending campaign.

It is probable that he will enter the office about the first of December, although no date for the assumption of his new responsibilities has been determined upon, even tentatively, since after the election it will take him some time to wind up the affairs of the campaign and he also may desire to take at least a brief rest. In the interim the responsibilities of directing the affairs of the postoffice department will devolve on Mr. Wynne, who has just returned with Mrs. Wynne and their two young daughters from an extended trip to Europe. He will continue as acting postmaster general until such time as the President may designate formally the successor to Mr. Payne. Under the law the President is required to make such appointment within thirty days. It will be necessary, it is stated, formally to designate Mr. Wynne as the acting head of the department, as by reason of the position as first assistant postmaster general he becomes actually the chief of the postal service in the absence or on the death of the postmaster general.

Prof. Connor Becomes Assistant to State Superintendent Joyner.

Wilmington, Oct. 7.—Prof. R. D. W. Connor, principal of the Wilmington high schools, resigns that position to accept the appointment as assistant to State Superintendent of Public Instruction J. Y. Joyner, succeeding E. C. Brooks, who resigned a few days ago to become superintendent of the Goldsboro graded schools. Prof. Connor's resignation was handed to the school board here today and a special meeting is called for tomorrow to act upon the same.

Shot for Woman's Honor.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 7.—Rowland C. Hill, an insurance agent, was shot and instantly killed by Ben Gilliam, a negro, today. The latter immediately surrendered to the police. Hill, it is alleged, had persistently forced his attentions upon Mrs. Emma Leonard, who keeps a grocery store. The woman, in order to avoid Hill, left the store and sought refuge in Gilliam's yard. Hill entered the yard, it is said, with the avowed intention of taking Mrs. Leonard back to her store. The negro secured a shotgun and killed Hill.

Where He Drew the Line.

Mr. Cribbs—"Mrs. C. I have borne with resignation—nay, even cheerfulness—antique chairs that wobbled, antique clocks that were always thirteen hours behind time, antique rugs that some prehistoric Turk wove, antique china, antique bowls, pans and kettles. All this I have smiled at; but when you give me antique eggs for breakfast, I draw the line, madam—I draw the line."

Negro Appointed Postmaster.

Charlotte, Oct. 6.—George Washington Murray, the colored former representative of a South Carolina district in Congress, today was appointed fourth class postmaster at Huger, a village in Berkeley county, S. C.

Consolation.

Columbus Press-Post. One day General Wood attended the funeral of a friend and, waiting for the procession to start, the inevitable garrulous citizen stepped up to him and remarked:

"Sad about poor Jones, isn't it?" "Very," replied Wood. "And yet," persisted the citizen, "his pretty little widow doesn't seem quite broken-hearted. I suppose her composure is due to her pastor's assurance."

"Don't you believe it," said the general; "it is due to her late husband's insurance."

A passenger train on the Augusta Southern Railroad ran into a burning trestle near Mitchell, Ga., fifty-nine miles from Augusta, last Wednesday morning and one man was killed and eight others injured.

PREDICTS A LONG WAR.

Count Okuma Warns the Japanese to Prepare to Pay.

Tokyo, Oct. 6.—In addressing the members of the United Clearing House of Tokyo today, Count Okuma, the leader of the Progressive party, warned the people to prepare for a long war, the date of the termination of which it was now impossible to tell. He predicted that the cost to Japan for a two-years' war, including the loans which had been already placed and the expenses consequent upon the war at its termination, would total $1,000,000,000, which would make the per capita share amount to $20.

Count Okuma said that corruption appeared to pervade the military, political, and financial departments of the Russian government and that this corruption had almost reached a climax which threatened a revolution. It was even reported that Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel, now defending Port Arthur, and upon whose shoulders rested the responsibility for the loss of a large share of Russian prestige in East Asia, was guilty of dissipation during the siege. The speaker declared that the weaknesses of the Russians gave the Japanese many victories.

RUSSIA'S COMMANDING POSITION.

He pointed out that despite her defeats Russia continued to hold the prominent and commanding position in Europe, and said that even Emperor William was "courting the favor of the Russian autocrat."

Despite her weaknesses, Count Okuma said Russia possessed immense resources and had tremendous advantages in the size of her population and the greatness of her wealth, and it would be necessary for the Japanese to make heavy sacrifices in order to attain success. He predicted that the war would cost Russia from $1,500,000,000 to $2,000,000,000 and said it would be impossible to raise loans or to increase the taxes in Russia, because the limit had been reached.

The count predicted that it would be necessary for the Japanese government to borrow $250,000,000 next year, and added that if $75,000,000 were secured abroad the country must face a depreciation in the value of its securities. Count Okuma urged the nation to carefully husband its strength and resources, and expressed the fullest confidence in the ultimate victory of Japanese arms.

The Czar in Terror.

Berlin, Oct. 7.—News from St. Petersburg this morning confirms the reports that the Czar is in a state of terror as the results of plots against his life, which the police claim to have discovered lately. His Majesty has now formed a new body-guard of five hundred secret service men who surround him constantly.

EXTRACTS FROM JUDGE PARKER'S LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE.

(Concluded from last week.)

FOREIGN RELATIONS.

The foreign relations of the government in late years assumed special importance. Prior to the acquisition of the Philippines, we were practically invulnerable against attacks by foreign states. Those tropical possessions, however, 7,000 miles from our shores, have changed all this and have in effect put us under bonds to keep the peace. The new conditions call for a management of foreign affairs the most circumspect in that the recent American invasion of foreign markets in all parts of the world has excited the serious apprehension of all the great industrial peoples. It is essential, therefore, more than ever, to adhere strictly to the traditional policy of the country as formulated by its first President and never, in my judgment, wisely departed from--to invite friendly relations with all nations while avoiding entangling alliances with any. Such a policy means the cultivation of peace instead of the glorification of war, and the minding of our own business in lieu of spectacular intermeddling with the affairs of other nations. It means strict observance of the principles of international law and condemn the doctrine that a great state by reason of its strength, may rightfully appropriate the sovereignty or territory of a small state on account of its weakness. It means for other American states that we claim no rights and will assume no functions save those of a friend and of ally and defender as against European aggressions. It means that we repudiate the role of the American continental policeman; that we refuse to act as debt collector for foreign states or their citizens; that we respect the independent sovereignty of each American state and its right to preserve order and otherwise regulate its own internal affairs in its own way, and that any intervention in its affairs by us is limited to the single office of enabling its people to work out their own political and national destiny for themselves free from the coercion of any European state.

THE INCREASE IN GOVERNMENTAL EXPENDITURES.

Only eight years have passed since the Democratic party of the state of New York, in convention assembled, nominated the national Democratic platform, and declared it to be "their settled conviction that a return to the constitutional principles, frugal expenses and administrative purity of the founders of the republic is the first and most important duty of the times." The coming issue now before the people is the Union. This strong expression was carried forth by the national expenses for the year 1875, which amounted to $271,000,000--a situation which, in the opinion of a majority of the people, justified an imperative demand for reform in the administration of the affairs. As the expenditures of the last fiscal year amounted to the sum of $522,000,000, it is evident that a thorough investigation of the service and the immediate reduction of useless and extravagant expenditures are more necessary than they were then. This assertion is out of all proportion to the increase of our population, and no excuse from whatever source can view the situation. The national Democratic platform declares that "large reductions can easily be made in the annual expenditures of the government without impairing the efficiency of any branch of the public service." Can there be any doubt of the accuracy of this statement? Because the expenditures of the year 1875 amounted to $271,000,000, and those of the last fiscal year--the seventh of Grover Cleveland's administration--amounting to $522,000,000, there is a difference so great as to excite alarm in the breasts of all thoughtful men. Even excluding the sum of $10,000,000 paid for the Panama Canal from the state of Panama, the expenditures of the last fiscal year exceeded the sum of $532,000,000, being an increase of $261,000,000 over the sum of $271,000,000 of the year 1875. This enormous increase was due to a considerable extent to the cost of the Spanish-American war, which occurred during that period; but the termination of that war brought relief for the treasury, for the average annual expenses of the government during the three subsequent years ending June 30, 1904, were about $519,000,000, which is the largest sum hitherto reached during a like period since the close of the civil war.

This draft upon the revenues of the country has had the effect which might have been anticipated, and now we have presented the reverse of the situation which led to the famous observation, "It is a condition, and not a theory, which confronts us;" for, although the present incumbent found at the close of the first fiscal year during which he assumed control of the administration a surplus of receipts over expenditures of more than $91,000,000, there was an excess of expenditures over receipts at the close of the last fiscal year of $41,000,000, and the official monthly reports made by the Treasury department show that the expenditures are continuously and rapidly increasing, while the receipts are diminishing.

In this connection it is interesting to note the recent administrative orders forbidding government officers from making public any statement of estimates on which future appropriations are to be based.

If a man of ordinary intelligence and prudence should find in the operating expenses of his business such a tremendous percentage of increase, would he not promptly set on foot an inquiry for the cause of the waste, and take immediate measures to stop it, especially when trusted employees have been found dishonest and convicted, and a widespread impression exists that a thorough investigation may discover other cases of malfeasance? When the Chief Executive reported to Congress that "through frauds, forgeries and perjuries, and by shameless bribery the laws relating to the proper conduct of the public service in general, and to the due administration of the Postoffice department have been notoriously violated * * *," there was a general popular demand for a rigid, sweeping investigation by Congress, in addition to that undertaken by the Executive himself. Such an investigation the Republican majority in Congress would not permit, although the minority insisted that the interests of good government demanded it. And the minority was right. The liberality, patriotism and national pride of the people should not be made an excuse for waste of the public funds. Official extravagance is official crime.

There is not a sentence in the Republican platform recommending a reduction in the expenditures of the government; not a line suggesting that the increase in the cost of the War department from $34,000,000 in 1880 to $15,000,000 in 1904 should be inquired into; and not a paragraph calling for a thorough investigation of those departments of the government in which dishonesty has been recently disclosed.

The people, however, can by their votes, if they desire it, order such an investigation and inaugurate a policy of economy and retrenchment. It is safe to say that this will not be accomplished by endorsing at the polls the Republican majority of the House of Representatives which refused the investigation, and made the appropriation, nor by continuing in power the administration which made the disbursements.

Reform in expenditures must be had in the civil, military and naval establishments in order that the national expenditures may be brought to a basis of peace and the government maintained without recourse to the taxes of war.

CONCLUSION.

I have put aside a congenial work, to which I had expected to devote my life, in order to assume, as best I can, the responsibilities your convention put upon me.

I solicit the cordial co-operation and generous assistance of every man who believes that a change of measures and

Cause of Lockjaw.

Lockjaw, or tetanus, is caused by a bacillus or germ which exists plentifully in street dirt. It is enactive so long as exposed to the air, but when carried beneath the skin, as in the wounds caused by percussion caps or by rusty nails, and when the air is excluded the germ is aroused to activity and produces the most virulent poison known. These germs may be destroyed and all danger of lockjaw avoided by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm as soon as the injury is received. Pain Balm is an antiseptic and causes cuts, bruises and like injuries to heal without maturation and in one-third the time required by the usual treatment. Sold by Conyer & Sykes.

of men at this time would be wise, and urge harmony of endeavor as well as vigorous action on the part of all so minded.

The issues are joined and the people must render the verdict. Shall economy of administration be demanded, or shall extravagance be encouraged?

Shall the wrongdoer be brought to bay by the people, or must justice wait upon political oligarchy?

Shall our government stand for equal opportunity or for special privilege?

Shall it remain a government of law, or become one of individual caprice?

Shall we cling to the rule of the people, or shall we embrace beneficent despotism?

With calmness and confidence we await the people's verdict.

If called to the office of President I shall consider myself the chief magistrate of all the people and not of any faction, and shall ever be mindful of the fact that on many questions of national policy there are honest differences of opinion. I believe in the patriotism, good sense, and absolute sincerity of all the people. I shall strive to remember that he may serve his party best who serves his country best. If it be the wish of the people that I undertake the duties of the Presidency, I pledge myself, with God's help, to devote all my powers and energy to the duties of this exalted office.

Very truly yours,
ALTON B. PARKER.

No Spirit of Love in Japan.

Leslie's Weekly.

The boys and girls, the young men and young women of Japan do love each other, I suppose, but one never sees the slightest shadow of evidence to prove it. The spirit of love does not dominate the national life as it does in America and the countries of Europe. Japan's poets do not sing of love; her story-writers tell no tales of love that can thrill an Anglo-Saxon heart, and her artists paint no pictures of love that can reach the Anglo-Saxon understanding. Now, considering all this, how can there be such a thing as "a good old summer time" in this land of the sunrise? And yet there is, it is especially delightful in its way, too, because the Japanese are a nation of feasters and picnickers, of nature-lovers and world-beautifiers, and if one can only lose sight of the fact that everywhere one goes the poor little women toddle meekly along behind the men, who stalk pompously ahead as if they owned the earth, one may almost enjoy one's self.

One never sees a woman caressed in Japan, not even with a glance; one seldom sees a baby fondled; in fact, all human tenderness, or expression of human tenderness is conspicuous by its absence, and I believe that is the one impassable great gulf that is fixed between us and these people which is so endeavoring so earnestly to become one of us. And yet the people are happy, with a simple, sweet happiness that is charming. That is it. It is an atmosphere that mildly charms but never thrills the Western heart. All the nation's love is concentrated upon the Emperor, and the highest note of the national life is sounded in yamato-damashi, Japanese spirit-patriotism; even this is beyond our comprehension, because it is empty of romance and unsatisfactory to us, who cannot separate the interests of "fair women and brave men" even upon the battlefield.

Conquering Cape Hatteras.

Captain Eells, of Boston has obtained permission from Congress to build a lighthouse on the outer side of the outer Diamond Shoal, off Cape Hatteras. He is to operate it for one year, the lighthouse board is then to operate it for four years, if it is then approved by the secretary of Commerce and Labor, the United States will pay Captain Eells $500,000 and take the structure.

To thirty feet above high water the base may be built in any form; above that point the tower must conform to government specifications and have a circular steel mast with a spiral stairway. Captain Eells' plan is to construct a steel base, somewhat bell-shaped, about sixty feet high and seventy-five feet in diameter at the bottom, with double walls, the space between these varying from fifteen to four feet, to be filled with masonry to give the caisson a draft of about twenty-eight feet. When completed the caisson will be towed to a position where the water is about thirty feet deep. It will then be sunk, the space between the walls filled up and the sand in the center drawn out by suction pumps. When the bottom is well sealed the structure will be sunk until its bottom is thirty or more feet deep in the sand, men working in an air chamber as if sinking an ordinary bridge caisson.

On the base thus fixed the superstructure will be erected, masonry extending at least ninety feet above the extreme bottom, and the steel work rising above that for another ninety feet or more. The lighthouse will be equipped with a lens of the first class, a siren or steam whistle and a wireless telephone apparatus, besides a telephone system connecting all its rooms. If the terrors of Diamond Shoals are ever to be conquered, it seems as if Captain Eells' would be the most successful scheme.

DREAD OF HUMANITY

I am compelled by a sense of gratitude to tell you the great good your remedy has done me in a case of Contagious Blood Poison. Among other symptoms I was severely afflicted with Rheumatism, and got almost past going. The disease got a firm hold upon my system; my blood was thoroughly poisoned with the virus. I lost in weight, was run down, had sore throat, eruptions, spotsches and other evidences of the disease. I was truly in a bad shape when I began the use of S. S. S., but the persistent use of it brought me out of my trouble safe and sound, and I have the courage to publicly testify to the virtues of your great blood remedy, S. S. S., and to recommend it to all blood-poison sufferers, sincerely believing if it is taken according to directions, and given a fair trial, it will thoroughly eliminate every particle of the virus. JAMES CURRAN, Stark Hotel, Greensburg, Pa.

Painful swellings in the groins, red eruptions upon the skin, sores in the mouth and loss of hair and eyebrows, are some of the symptoms of this vile disease. S. S. S. is an antidote for the awful virus that attacks and destroys even the bones. S. S. S. contains no Mercury, Potash or other mineral ingredient. We offer $1.00 for proof that it is not absolutely vegetable. Home treatment book giving the symptoms and other interesting and valuable information about this disease, mailed free. ## To the Voters of Guilford County.

There being some misunderstanding as to the registration for the coming election, it has been thought best to publish certain provisions of the law in regard to registration and voting.

The registration books will be opened in the various precincts throughout the city and county on each day from nine o'clock A. M. until sunset (Sundays excepted), up to and including Saturday, the 29th day of October.

On Saturdays the registration books will be at the voting-places but at other times the registrar may keep the book at any other place.

Scores of voters make a mistake and on election day find that their names are not on the registration books. We are anxious to make Guilford county the banner Democratic county of the state, and we trust you will not make this mistake.

If you have moved from one precinct to another in the last two years then you must have your name transferred to the precinct in which you now reside, subject however, to one exception, and that is, that if you have moved to another precinct within four months dating from the election day then you will not have to transfer, but can go back to your old precinct and vote. In other words, a removal to another precinct makes no difference until you have resided in the new precinct four months before the election.

The residence of a married man is where his family resides, and that of a single man is where he sleeps.

In order to avoid mistakes we earnestly urge you to go to the registrar of your precinct and make sure that your name is properly registered.

These registrars will be at the voting places each Saturday up to and including the 29th. During the week they can be found at their offices or at other convenient places which can be learned by inquiry.

Yours very truly,

W. H. OSBORN, Chm.

MICHAEL SCHENCK, Sec.

Wynne Appointed Postmaster General.

Washington, Oct. 10.—First Assistant Postmaster General Robert J. Wynne was today appointed postmaster general to succeed Henry C. Payne, of Wisconsin, who died in Washington last week.

The appointment is temporary in its nature, but Mr. Wynne will probably serve as postmaster for several months. It has been generally understood in Washington that in the event of President Roosevelt's re-election George B. Cortelyou, formerly secretary of the department of commerce and labor, and now secretary and chairman of the Republican national committee, would ultimately become postmaster general.

The public schools at Raleigh and Goldsboro are closed temporarily because of diphtheria having developed in those places.

Townsend & Co. will pay $1.25 a bushel for good clean wheat in trade or on account.

Awful Wreck on the Missouri Pacific.

Warrensburg, Mo., Oct. 10.—Twenty-seven people are already dead, several are dying, and thirty-five injured as a result of a collision between the second section of the Missouri World's Fair Special and a west-bound extra freight, one mile east of here at 4.10 o'clock this morning. The train was speeding along at 40 miles an hour. It consisted of three coaches and a Pullman, and every car was filled to the limit. The freight engine demolished the passenger locomotive and plunged over the wreckage three-fourths of the way through the first coach. Some of the injured were terribly mutilated. The bodies in a number of cases were so badly disfigured that identification is impossible. It is not known what caused the disaster, but it is supposed to have been a misunderstanding of orders. Most of the victims came from southeastern Kansas towns.

Homicide at Mayodan.

Reidsville, Oct. 9.—News has reached here that W. A. Bryant was killed at Mayodan yesterday afternoon by Pleas Head, of the same place. The report says that Head had been teasing Bryant about being drunk, when the latter became incensed and commenced to curse Head violently and to approach Head, who was standing on the porch, washing his hands, having just come out of the cotton mill. Head told Bryant not to come any further, whereupon the former threatened to whip Head. Then it was that Head stepped into the house and secured a gun. Bryant was still advancing when Head told him not to come upon him. He kept approaching, however, and Head, in order to frighten him, shot him in the leg, not intending to kill him, so he claims. The shot struck an artery, and Bryant bled to death in a few minutes.

Close of a Checkered Political Career.

Washington, Oct. 10.—G. Z. French, ex-postmaster of Wilmington, ex-deputy sheriff of New Hanover county, at one time representative of the legislature from this county, and for years the Republican leader here, died last night at his home in Bangor, Maine. He had the most checkered career politically of any man who ever lived in Wilmington. He came here soon after the civil war and continued his residence in Wilmington until 1888, when he was among the Republican leaders who were run out of the city during the uprising which took the government out of the hands of negroes and the white Republican leaders. French was among the foremost of the latter, and he was deported with the others of his stripe. He took up his residence on a farm in Pender county, where he resided until a few months ago, when he returned to his old home in Maine.

Three Killed by Train.

Charlotte, Oct. 6.—Three men, all Southern Railway employes, were killed last night about 10 o'clock at the water tank near the Southern Railway crossing at Vance street, in the southeast part of the city, by the crashing of a switch engine into the rear of freight train No. 73 south bound. Conductor Wise, whose home was in Columbia, S. C., Walter Zeigler, a young white man employed as switchman, and a negro named Jack Goodall, a coupler, were the men who met death. The negro died almost instantly, his legs being virtually severed from his body. Capt. Wise lived but a few minutes after he was taken to the Presbyterian hospital, and young Zeigler expired about an hour later there. No one else received any injuries.

Russian Casualties 93,000.

Rome, Oct. 10.—The Giornale D'Iroma has a dispatch from St. Petersburg estimating that the Russian casualties in the campaign so far are ninety-three thousand killed, wounded and taken prisoners. At Port Arthur and Liao Yung peninsula, the paper says the losses have been fifteen thousand against the first Japanese army losses of ten thousand at Kai Ping, Tashikao and Hai Cheng; six thousand at Liao Yung; twenty thousand in addition to which two thousand sailors have been drowned and forty thousand sailors and soldiers taken prisoners.

Neighborhood News.

Matters of Interest Reported by Our Corps of Correspondents.

McLeansville Items.

Miss Vannie Fryar has gone to the State Normal College to take her second year's course of study.

Mr. A. W. Scoggins has bought part of the Gilmer tract of land near here.
The price paid is said to be $12.50 per acre.

Misses Fannie and Eunice Smith, of Caswell county, have been in this neighborhood visiting friends and relatives.

Farmers are still busy making mollasses and preparing their land for wheat. $1.25 for wheat is going to cause many to sow a large crop this fall. Some of our farmers are gathering some corn. They find it to be very good, but not a full crop.

Mr. W. L. Lindsey, who is registrar for Jefferson township this year, will be here at McLeansville for the purpose of registering those who have moved into this township or those who have become of age since the last election and intend voting in the coming election.

This neighborhood was shocked today at noon by the death of Miss Madge E. Cobb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Cobb. The deceased is survived by a father and mother, one sister and three brothers. The funeral will take place at Freiden's church tomorrow, the 11th, at 2 o'clock. Miss Cobb had lived a consistent member of the Lutheran church at Freiden church for several years and was well beloved by all who knew her. She has left a large number of friends and schoolmates to mourn her death and many of the readers of these items will share
the grief of the bereaved family, especially the students of Jefferson academy,
where she had been so long a student.

Oak Ridge Items.

Friday last week to see Mr. L. H. Lambeth. He pronounced his condition hopeless.

ville, gave a delightful entertainment
at the chapel Saturday night to a large audience.

Prof. M. H. Holt attended a meeting of the executive committee of the N.
C. school for the deaf and dumb at

M. E. church here, in the serious and prolonged illness of his son George.

ed last Monday morning with over 100
pupils in attendance.

"Quarantine" Cotten has been quite feeling some days past with a bronchial attack. Hope she will soon be better.

A number of our Guilford people
are taking in the fair this week.
Some of them are competing for prizes
on farm products and stock.

Guilford football team defeated Bingham here last Monday evening in a well played game by a score of 32 to 0.
Both teams did very good work.

stitute on "A Trip to the World's Fair at St. Louis." The public cordially in-section engaged in the nursery business leave in a few days to make their deliveries.

Some of our young people were called upon to witness a tacky and lunch
party at Mr. John E. Clapp's last Friday night. It was an enjoyable occasion.

pointment.

Lee Gerringer, have received a photo-

diana whom they have not seen in

John Wesley's Definition of a Methodist.

"A Methodist is one who has the love of God shed abroad in his heart
by the Holy Ghost given unto him;
one who loves the Lord, his God, with all his heart and mind and soul and strength. He rejoices evermore, prays without ceasing, and in everything gives thanks. His heart is full of love to all mankind, and is purified from envy, malice, wrath and every unkind affection. His one desire and the one design of his life is not to do his own
will but the will of Him who sent him.
He keeps all God's commandments,
from the least to the greatest. He follows not the custom of the world, for vice does not lose its nature through becoming fashionable. He fares not sumptuously every day. He cannot lay up treasures upon earth, nor can he adorn himself with gold or costly apparel. He cannot join in any diversion that has the least tendency to vice.
He cannot speak evil of his neighbor anymore than he can tell a lie. He cannot utter unkind or evil words.
No corrupt communication ever comes out of his mouth. He does good unto all men; unto neighbors, strangers,
the friends and enemies. These are the principles and practices of our sect.
These are the marks of a true Methodist. By these alone do Methodists desire to be distinguished from other men."

Killed Barber for Using Dull Clippers.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—Because he was using a pair of dull clippers, Charles Alexander, a barber, was killed today
by James Thomas, whose hair Alexander was cutting. When Thomas complained that the clippers pulled his hair, instead of cutting it, the barber struck Thomas. A fight followed.
Thomas got possession of the clippers
and rammed them into Alexander's throat. Alexander died almost instantly, his jugular vein having been severed.

Successful Lot Sale and Barbecue.

Jordan, Millikan & Bain's lot sale on the Southside Monday afternoon was a decided success in every particular.
Perfect weather enabled the attendance to be gratifying, and there was something doing for about two and a half hours while Auctioneer Ferguson, of Atlanta, occupied the center of the stage. In all about eighty of the one hundred lots were sold, about two minutes being devoted to each sale, prices ranging from $65 to $500. The lot upon which stands the old Tidball place, "Kathleen," sold $2,410. Prior to the sale an offer of $2,500 had been made for the place, but like the others
it had to go at the knock-down bid.

Immediately after the sale a fine barbecue dinner was served under the skillful direction of Mr. W. J. Weatherly, a past master in the art of preparing such feasts. Hundreds of people were served, but there was plenty and to spare. Among the guests of the day were a number of ladies.

The firemen were called out Friday night at 9:20 o'clock by an alarm of fire turned in from box 52, corner of South Ashe and West Lee streets. The various companies responded promptly
but found that it was only a chimney burning out at the house occupied by Anderson Nelson, a colored man living on South Ashe street. An alarm was turned in Thursday evening from the box at the depot and it was found that the fire was in a chimney at Dorsett's boarding house, on South Elm street.

Scrutinize The Surety

The scope of the bonding business is not confined to narrow limits, but embraces everything for which surety is required.

It relieves your friends from the necessity of saying "No" when asked to qualify on your bond, which if they did, would create a contingent liability, impair their financial credit and involve a possible loss.

It often enables persons who have

Vital Statistics.

At a rough calculation the population of the world is more than one billion souls. These speak some 3,064 languages, and are worshippers of more than 1,100 religions. The average length of life is 33 years. One-fourth of mankind die before the seventh and one-half before the seventeenth year.
Only one-sixth live beyond the age of sixty. Thirty-three millions die annually, 91,000 daily, 3,750 ever hour, 60 per minute. While one-fourth are equable of bearing arms, only one in a thousand is naturally inclined to the profession.

Cultivating Tobacco in Brazil.

Tobacco of good quality is grown in nearly every part of Brazil. Its culture has been in progress for nearly 400 years. The industry is growing and presents great possibilities. In some districts primitive methods of handling the crop are still in vogue, the leaves being picked from the stalks, dried in huts and the midribs removed. The tobacco is bound in layers, allowed to ferment until it is hard and black, and then sold.

Planters tell when the tobacco is mature by doubling and breaking one of the top leaves. Sometimes the lower leaf is picked by itself, and in a few days the next, and so on as long as the plant will develop the lower leaves into what is classed first quality. These leaves are hung up two and two under cover and across poles, 24 hours after picking and sweating.

When it is intended to twist the leaves into ropes they are left hanging about two days, when they are taken down, carefully freed from the heavy
parts of the midrib, doubled in halves,
and laid away for the rope twist.
The operation requires a rude windlass, which is slowly turned in winding the rope. These ropes are unwound and rewound once or twice a day for a period of 10 to 15 days, according to the weather, and are twisted a little harder each time.

In curing the tobacco grows darker
and darker, until it becomes jet black.
The juices exuding are carefully caught
and preserved until the last winding,
when, mixed with lard, syrup and various aromatic herbs, they are used to pass the rope through, previous to the final winding. Finally the cured ropes are cut in lengths and rewound upon light wooden sticks, about two feet long. The rolls are then covered with leather or strong canvass and are ready for market.

Training for Young Farmers.

The popular course for young farmers in the North Carolina A. & M. College, Raleigh, known as the "short course in dairying and agriculture," opens this year January 4th, 1905, and continues for ten weeks, closing March 10th.

On account of many improvements in the line of work introduced, the work will be far more interesting and important than before. A new course of farm engineering that will be given in connection with the other studies will add much to the importance of the work. This study will embrace rural architecture and farm machinery,
and special stress will be placed upon designing barns, houses, silos, etc.

Another course that will be added is that of farm management, which will include a discussion of the management of the farm in various details.

A third new course that will be offered will be the cotton course, which will include cotton growing, judging, breeding, and soil management in all of its phases. It is believed that the cotton course will be especially important to the young farmers in our state,
and it should receive the attendance of every young cotton farmer that can get away from home during the winter months.

No entrance examination is required
in these winter courses and no tuition is charged at all. Practical courses are hereby open to all who desire to better themselves in the various lines of agriculture. The total cost for ten weeks, including board, room, light and fuel,
etc., is but $30. Young men contemplating attending should send in their application at once to C. W.
Burkett, Professor of Agriculture,
West Raleigh, N. C., as all students are registered in advance of the opening date.

YOUR KIDNEYS ARE THEY WELL?

Unless they are, good health is impossible.

Every drop of blood in the body passes through and is filtered by healthy kidneys every three minutes. Sound kidneys strain out the impurities from the blood, diseased kidneys do not, hence you are sick. FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE makes the kidneys well so they will eliminate the poisons from the blood. It removes the cause of the many diseases resulting from disordered kidneys which have allowed your whole system to become poisoned. Rheumatism, Bad Blood, Gout, Gravel, Dropsy, Inflammation of the Bladder, Diabetes and Bright's Disease, and many others, are all due to disordered Kidneys. A simple test for Kidney disease is to set aside your urine in a bottle or glass for twenty-four hours. If there is a sediment or a cloudy appearance, it indicates that your kidneys are diseased, and unless something is done they become more and more affected until Bright's Disease or Diabetes develops.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE is the only preparation which will positively cure all forms of Kidney and Bladder troubles, and cure you permanently. It is a safe remedy and certain in results.

If You are a sufferer, take FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE at once. It will make you well.

Some Pronounced Incurable

Mr. G. A. Stillson, a merchant of Tampico, Ill., writes: "FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE is meeting with wonderful success. It has cured some cases here that physicians pronounced incurable. I myself am able to testify to its merits. My face today is a living picture of health and FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE has made it such."

Had Lumbago and Kidney Trouble

Edward Huss, a well known business man of Salisbury, Mo., writes: "I wish to say for the benefit of others, that I was a sufferer from lumbago and kidney trouble, and all the remedies I took gave me no relief. I began to take FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE, and after the use of three bottles I am cured."

MR. KITCHIN SHOWS FIGHT.

Attacks Insolent Disturber—The Crowd Cheers the Congressman for His Action.

Chapel Hill, Oct. 8.—Congressman William W. Kitchin and Mr. Charles A. Reynolds, the Republican candidate for Congress, met here today in a spirited joint debate. A large crowd was present and great interest was manifested. While Mr. Kitchin was speaking, Morris Lloyd, an intoxicated man, interrupted him, and frequently became so noisy and boisterous that the congressman could hardly be heard. Mr. Kitchin finally told him if his remarks, which were very insolent, didn't cease, he would hit him. Lloyd continued his impertinence, whereupon the congressman sprang at him. A serious fight was happily averted by Mr. Reynolds, who immediately rushed between the two combatants. Mr. Kitchin was justified in his action and was vigorously applauded.

Mr. Reynolds spoke first. He made an excellent effort and was effective. He displayed a disgraceful cartoon of the President and urged that they were used in the campaign for the purpose of stimulating prejudice. The speaker criticised the present election law and said that the Democrats had placed a makeshift on the books. The record of the two parties on the educational problem was compared and the comparison was decidedly in favor of the fusion administration. He eulogized the Republican party for its action in the Panama affair, the passage of the Cuban reciprocity bill, its protective policy, its peaceful settlement of the anthracite coal strike, and its making the life of the laboring man happier.

Mr. Kitchin gave a concise and comprehensive review of the workings of the protective tariff system, how it helps monopolies and powerful aggregations of capital to enrich themselves out of the pockets of the masses. He criticised the President sharply and showed the magnitude of the corruption which marked his administration. Mr. Kitchin stated that he had established more rural free delivery routes than any other congressman in the state.

Chamberlain Gloomy.

London, Oct. 6.—In opening his fiscal campaign at Luton, Bedfordshire, last night, Joseph Chamberlain drew a gloomy picture of agricultural conditions and predicted that worse is to come. He said agriculture had been crippled and that land values had decreased greatly. He drew a comparison between the distress among the agriculturalists in England and the prosperity among the same class in America and other foreign lands.

Unless Great Britain and her colonies worked together, said Mr. Chamberlain, there was nothing but disintegration for the empire.

WANTED—Special representative in this and adjoining territories to represent and advertise an old established business house of solid financial standing. Salary $21 weekly, with Expenses advanced each Monday by check direct from headquarters. Horse and buggy furnished when necessary; position permanent. Address Blew Bros. & Co., Dept. A, Monon Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

War News of the Week.

Charlotte Observer.

So far as the outside world is informed, the events transpiring in Manchuria during the past week have not been of an important nature. There have, it seems, been more or less serious assaults made on Port Arthur either during the past week or reported for the first time. It is now admitted by the Russians that the Japanese have captured the fortifications controlling the water-works, but the existence of a fresh water lake and a number of condensers for utilizing sea water, it is contended, minimize the importance of the development. There is more or less activity around Mukden but no promise that another general engagement is eminent.

It seems to be accepted as a fact that Russia really means to send her Baltic fleet to the Far East, and the Czar's government as well as Japan is taking measures pointing to the fact that the war has in reality only just begun.

A dispatch from Mukden last night brought news of the apparent retirement of the Japanese upon their positions about Liao Yang, with the desire, probably of fighting a decisive engagement near where the great battle of the war was recently fought. This may be the intention of the Japanese, but in the connection it should be borne in mind that dispatcees from Mukden are subject to strict censorship by the Russians.

The use of hand grenades, an explosive bomb made of pyrolyxin, shows to what extent the fighting has gone about Port Arthur. The Russians, it is said, rushed upon the Japs at night, throwing these bombs by hand, with the result that terrific slaughter was inflicted. The effectiveness of this weapon is admitted at Tokio.

Since it has been practically admitted on all sides that the war is to go on indefinitely, the matter of finances is receiving considerable attention. The Japanese have been counseled to husband their resources, with the warning from a high governmental official that the inroads upon her funds will be enormous. As to Russia, it may be said that while she has tremendous resources, she already owes a great deal of money. This, it would seem, counterbalances to some extent the effect of the Czar's larger domains in about the same ratio that the number of disloyal inhabitants makes up to Japan's inferiority in population.

American interest is becoming more and more concerned in the matter of commerce because of the belief that the continuance of the war will have a tendency to decrease the demand for cotton goods from this country.

The reports of a naval battle off Port Arthur a few days ago were apparently unfounded.

White Man is Nominated.

Charleston, S. C., Oct. 6.—In the Republican congressional convention today John A. Noland, a white man, was nominated for Congress for the First district of South Carolina. This is the first time a white man has been put up by the Republicans in this district in many years and he received the unanimous vote of the convention in which he was the only white man entitled to a seat on the floor.

DESPERATE SAFE BLOWERS.

One Convicted of Murder and Sentenced to be Hung—The Other Sent to the Penitentiary for Fifteen Years.

Tavares, Fla., Oct. 5.—Frank Duncan and his partner, "Kid" Stafford, were convicted in the Circuit court today of blowing the safe of the Leesburg bank, and were sentenced to the penitentiary for fifteen years—the full limit for that offence. Sentence on Duncan was suspended and he was turned over to the Alabama authorities to be taken to Birmingham, where he was convicted of the murder of two policemen and sentenced to hang.

When captured the prisoners were well armed and a bottle of nitro-glycerine was found in their possession. They claimed that the bottle contained medicine, but detectives Badie and Badiker this morning placed some of its contents under a stump and blew it to atoms, startling the town with the explosion.

When the prisoners were taken back to jail and with the detectives and sheriff were standing in the corridor, Duncan drew from his pocket a bottle of nitro-glycerine, raised it aloft and with an oath said, "Turn us both loose, or we will all go to hell together."

Detective Ahn leveled his pistol at Stafford who sank to his knees and begged him not to shoot. Duncan gave up the bottle out of consideration for Stafford.

Duncan's wife came up from Tampa yesterday and advised him to kill himself. It is thought she smuggled the bottle of nitro-glycerine to him. She left last night and did not attend the trial.

Mr. Roosevelt's Language.

New York World.

In response to numerous inquiries, it may be said that the exact words of Mr. Roosevelt, which were quoted by Pevely Sadlers in his Kahoka speech, were as follows:

"They (the cowboys) are much better fellows and pleasanter companions than small farmers or agricultural laborers; nor are the mechanics and workmen of a great city to be mentioned in the same breath."

They were written for the Century Magazine in an article on ranch life in the West. Prior to these words Mr. Roosevelt had described the cowboys as, among other things, getting drunk on villainous whisky of the frontier towns, cutting mad antics, riding their horses into the saloons, firing their pistols right and left and indulging often in deadly shooting affrays.

That he should have thought them better fellows and pleasanter companions than the law-abiding farmers and the mechanics and laborers seems indeed strange, and is not a fact calculated to make him vote in the popular sections.

A man with political aspirations, it would appear, should be more guarded in the expressions of his preference as to classes.

We have purchased 19 beautiful building lots on North Cedar and North Spring streets, between Schenck and Greene streets. This property has heretofore belonged to Richmond and New York parties and was not actively on the market. It is very desirable property and is only five blocks from City Hall, and is very convenient to the main business part of the city. We are going to sell these lots at auction to the highest bidder on MONDAY, OCT. 17, at 2.30 P. M., and no by-bidding will be allowed. EVERY LOT OFFERED WILL BE SOLD whether the price be little or much.

Somebody will get bargains, and remember the way to get bargains at an auction is to be there on time and stay with the boys. There is one of these lots that will make a beautiful site for a store and residence combined. If you are in the market for such a lot be on hand. We will positively not sell any of these lots privately before the day of sale, but will take pleasure in answering any inquiries about them or showing them to anyone wishing to look at them, or plats of same can be seen by applying to either of us.

Hon. Jas. R. Pearce, the celebrated silver-tongued auctioneer, of this city, will furnish the gab for us. Carriages will leave the court house on day of sale at 2 to 2.30 p. m. to take those wishing to attend. We want everybody to come whether you wish to buy or not.

TERMS OF SALE--One-third cash, one-third in 6 months and one-third in 12 months, 6 per cent interest on deferred payments.

Yours very truly,

C. A. BRAY AND W. H. OSBORN

POLITICAL CONDITIONS ELSEWHERE.

The Situation North and West, as Viewed from New York—Real Work Just Begun.

New York, Oct. 6.—Of the fifteen million voters whom the managers of the two great political parties believe will cast their votes on the 8th of November, there is not one who is wise enough to foretell the name of the next President of the United States. In pursuance of the policy of brag and bluster, evidently laid down for them by some very high authority, the Republican leaders and the editors of partisan Republican organs continue to claim everything and profess to see an overwhelming victory ahead. Deep down in their hearts, however, there are doubts and fears and a still small voice bids them remember that "there's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip."

DEMOCRATS NOT BOASTFUL, BUT CONFIDENT.

In marked contrast to the braggadochio of the Republicans is the well-grounded confidence of victory which prevails at the headquarters of the Democratic National Committee. The belief that Parker and Davis will be elected is based upon the most trustworthy information that can be obtained at this time as to the temper and intention of the ten or twelve states outside of the "solid South," in which both parties are fighting hard for supremacy, as well as upon an abiding faith in the intelligence and patriotism of the people when once they understand the issues of the campaign and the positions of the respective parties thereupon. That Democratic prospects have been greatly improved in the past ten days is evident to anyone with an eye to see and ear to hear. This improvement is easily accounted for, first, by the splendid condition of the united Democracy in the state of New York; second by the fine impression made upon the country by Judge Parker through his letter of acceptance; and third, by the general era of good feeling in the party, which Judge Parker has created by his successful personal efforts to conciliate all factions and enlist the hearty support of certain Democratic leaders, who, for one cause or another had been inclined to hold aloof and let the campaign take care of itself.

The foremost independent newspapers of the country, while perhaps not yet convinced that defeat is in store for Republicans, nevertheless agree that the political tide is turning and that from now on it will set in strongly toward Parker and Davis. Among the influential papers which hold to this view are the New York Herald, the Brooklyn Eagle, The Philadelphia Ledger, The Boston Herald and The Springfield Republican.

NEW YORK STATE DEMOCRATIC.

Two weeks ago the Republican managers, both state and national, were apparently cock-sure of capturing the thirty-nine electoral votes of New York, and Governor Chairman Odell assured his lieutenants that it made little difference whom he might select as his candidate for governor, because conditions were such that even a "yellow dog" could be elected. But Democratic harmony throughout the state and the blighting influence of Odellism upon the Republican rank and file, have worked a remarkable change in the Empire state. Today it would be impossible to find a man, except, perhaps in some asylum for the feeble-minded, who believes that the Republicans have even a ghost of a chance to elect their state ticket. And no intelligent man who is familiar with past and present political conditions in New York believes that the state can be carried for Roosevelt. Ten days ago Republican money in plenty was offered in wagers at odds of 2 to 1 that the state would go for Roosevelt and at 10 to 5 that Governor Chairman Odell and his motley crew would control the state administration for another year; today Republican letters light shy of New York propositions, and such little betting as there is, all non-professional by the way, and confined to gamblers in Wall Street, reflects the popular feeling that Odellism has had its day and that New York is to take its place where it rightfully belongs, and where it always is when the Democratic party is united—in the Democratic column. The latest betting was at 10 to 9 that Herrick would beat Odell's man, Higgins, and even money that Roosevelt would get the electoral votes of the state. The trend of sentiment is now such, that it will not be surprising to find Parker, as well as Herrick, a pronounced favorite in the betting by the time registration is completed. But betting or no betting New York is for Parker as well as for Herrick.

THE SITUATION IN INDIANA.

Chairman Taggart is convinced that the Democrats have more than an even chance to capture the electoral votes of the Hoosier state. The party is well organized there, the Gold Democrats are back in the ranks, the friends of Mr. Bryan are taking hold with a will and the preliminary polls are satisfactory to the party leaders. That the Republican claims of carrying Indiana by a large plurality are not founded on a substantial basis is shown by the fact that the leading independent Republican paper of the state, the Indianapolis News, so recently as September 26th published the following statement over the signature of its special staff correspondent:

"There is a general feeling of indifference all over Indiana. No one is discussing politics and no one seems to care anything about it. It is this indifference that makes it impossible to give any idea of what the result in this state will be in November. About as much discussion exists in the Republican party as in the Democratic party. The difference is that it is going to be a great deal harder to line up the Republicans for their ticket than it is to get the Democrats back."

Such a statement from a trained observer of political conditions in his own state and published in a newspaper of such high standing and influence as the Indianapolis News is of much significance. This newspaper, it may be said in passing, is owned in part by the Republican candidate for Vice-President. It is evident that he does not control its utterances and is unable to prevent it from printing the news in preference to the unwarranted claims of the Republican managers in Indiana.

A host of local speakers, headed by John W. Kern, the Democratic candidate for governor, is already on the stump in the Hoosier state and a whirlwind campaign will be waged during the next two weeks of October. David B. Hill is booked for speeches at Indianapolis, Terre Haute, Fort Wayne, Lafayette and Evansville, beginning October 17th. William J. Bryan will make thirty speeches between October 12th and 22nd, beginning at Peru, where a monster barbecue will be held. Melville E. Ingalls, President of the "Big Four" Railroad, will speak at Indianapolis, October 7th, and at Anderson, October 8th. Other orators of national reputation who are scheduled for from three to six speeches each include Senator Stone, of Missouri, Senator Blackburn, of Kentucky, Senator Patterson, of Colorado, Senators Bailey and Culberson, of Texas, Edward M. Shepard, of New York, and probably Bourke Cockran.

IN OTHER STATES.

Both Connecticut and New Jersey are still debatable ground, but the Democracy is steadily gaining headway in each of them. The same is true of Rhode Island. In all three states the Democrats have the advantage on state issues and their presidential vote will be largely influenced by the sentiment in New York. This has never failed to be the case in the past and there is no reason to suppose that the rule will not prevail this year. With the trend of sentiment running stronger and stronger in favor of Parker in the Empire state, Democrats throughout the country may rest assured that New Jersey and Connecticut will keep step to the music of New York.

West Virginia is considered a safe Democratic state this year. The desperate condition of the Republican cause there cannot be concealed by Senator Scott, whose anxiety to be re-elected is very great. In the hope of causing Democratic dissensions the Republicans are charging that Chairman McGraw is secretly working to make himself the successor of Senator Scott and that he will use the Democratic campaign fund to effect his purpose. Another story given out by the Republicans is that the Standard Oil Company is friendly to Parker and Davis and is shutting down its plants in West Virginia and transferring several thousand Republican employees to other states, where their votes will do no harm to the Democratic cause. It is scarcely necessary to say that these are silly falsehoods and that the Democrats are not in the least disturbed by them. Henry G. Davis and Chairman McGraw are hard at work and will continue to be until the day of election. Among the noted Democrats who are to speak in West Virginia are Mr. Davis, ex-Senator Hill, ex-Governor Whyte, of Maryland, and possibly Senator Gorman.

Montana and Nevada are two of the far western states which are now counted upon as safely anchored in the Democratic column. Senator Clark, Governor Toole, and others are giving careful attention to the former state, while Senator Newlands has the situation in Nevada well in hand. From Colorado only good news is being received. Alva Adams, the Democratic nominee for governor, has two election spots to that office to his credit already and so great is the feeling in labor circles and even among some of the large mine owners against the present state administration that Mr. Adams seems certain to win again. Colorado, too, is one of the states in which Roosevelt is likely to suffer almost as much as the Republican nominees for state offices. It is the best opinion that the President, as well as Governor Peabody, will fail to carry the state.

In Louisiana, where the Republicans have no chance in any event, the party is rent in twain, and there will be two Republican candidates for Congress in each district.

The Republicans expect to carry Washington by 20,000 plurality on the presidential ticket, but admit that Mead, their candidate for governor, will be fortunate if he has a lead of even five thousand. The Democrats make no claims as to the presidential vote, but are absolutely confident of electing ex-Senator George Turner to the governorship, by from five to eight thousand plurality.

POPULIST CAMPAIGN CUTS NO FIGURE.

Except in a few isolated localities all reports point to a collapse of the Populist campaign, which is generally believed to have been kept alive thus far by the free use of Republican money. Even in Nebraska, which is apparently the stronghold of the third party, indications multiply that Judge Parker will receive far more than the normal Democratic vote. In Indiana, where a great effort has been made to induce warm admirers of Mr. Bryan to vote for Watson, the Populists, with the active aid of the Republican organization, are making no headway, and it is believed that Mr. Bryan will make such a strong plea to all his friends to give loyal support to Judge Parker that Indiana's vote for the Populist ticket will cut very little figure in the general result. As election day draws near, it is becoming more and more evident that there is to be a square, stand-up fight between the two great parties, and as the New York Herald is fond of repeating, "The people must decide."

HARMONY AT DEMOCRATIC HEAD-QUARTERS.

Once and for all it may be said that there is no friction whatever at the headquarters of the national Democracy. Chairman Taggart, Senator Gorman, ex-Chairman Johnson, William F. Sheehan, August Belmont, ex-Senator Jones and all the other leaders are working together in harmony. Mr. Taggart, as chairman, has the general oversight of the campaign and is ably seconded in his efforts by all of his associates.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

No one who is acquainted with its good qualities can be surprised at the great popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only cures colds and grip effectually and permanently, but prevents these diseases resulting in pneumonia. It is also a certain cure for croup. Whooping cough is not dangerous when this remedy is given. It contains no opium or other harmful substances and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. It is also pleasant to take. When all of these facts are taken into consideration it is not surprising that people in foreign lands, as well as at home, esteem this remedy very highly and very few are willing to take any other after having once used it. For sale by Conyers & Sykes.

Mr. Taggart has made one trip to Indiana and will make several more between now and election. Judge Parker himself is in close touch with the work of the party managers and his tact and experience in campaign work are proving of great value to the committee. It is Judge Parker's opinion that the real work of the campaign has but just begun and that during the next four weeks a record-breaking campaign should be waged in every state classed as "doubtful." He believes in short, sharp and united work all along the line, "with malice toward none and charity for all." In this way, he says, and only in this way, can the Democratic party win the great victory which it deserves to win and which he is confident it will win.

Children of the Divorced.

A manager of the Morganza reformatory near Pittsburg says that "a large majority" of the children committed there have step-parents, that believes their commitments due to the efforts of step-parents to get rid of them. How much more unfortunate must be the child who is orphaned by easy divorce, and whose very features convey to his guardians, at heart uncertain of their social and moral status, a daily reminder of the still living wife or husband. Advocates of easy divorce and "freedom" forget the child.

It is just a common cold, people say, there's no danger in that. Admitting their statement, then there are uncommon colds, colds which are dangerous; for many a fatal sickness begins with a cold. If we could tell the common cold from the uncommon we could feel quite safe. But we can't. The uncommon variety is rarely recognized until it has fastened its hold on the lungs, and there are symptoms of consumption.

At the first symptoms the careful person will heed the warning by taking a mild laxative; some vegetable pill that will not disturb the system or cause griping. About the best is "Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets." If the cold starts with a cough, and it persists then some local treatment for this condition should be taken. A well known alternative extract, which has been highly recommended by thousands of users, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This tonic compound is composed of an extract of roots and herbs and has a soothing effect upon the mucous membrane, allays the irritation and at the same time works in the proper and reasonable way at the seat of the trouble—the stagnated or poisoned blood.

It contains no alcohol to shiver up the blood corpuscles, but makes pure rich red blood. Dr. Pierce's 100-page illustrated book, "The Common Sense Medical Adviser," is sent free in paper covers on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay cost of mailing only. For 31 stamps the cloth-bound volume will be sent 100¢ pages. It was formerly sold for $1.50 per copy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

and "pride" in this age may be used in a good sense. In times it always had a debased meaning. Something through a conceit I cannot find one place where "pride" was not used as the good "sin" and condemned as the bad. God denounces it all through the Old Testament. God hurls his execrations all through the New Testament and pride compose the sins which have destroyed an immortal soul in the past, and by the insidious means whereby it is being up and mauling his victims at the present time. In this sinful pride, which is so common in many hearts as a factor in the great leaven out of some of our best people.

 records of family pride. I have the exception the great fact of which are proud of the

 a common man or a laborer.
 Where did the pride

 who open the Atlantic

 material family come from beginnings back Cornelius
 has a barefoot boy running

 a boy as a carriage ferryman
 from passengers over the waters

between his island home and New York's great metropolis. When an English aristocrat was dining in the palatial home of the founder of the great Thaw family of the western part of Pennsylvania he began to boast of his great family connections. Then he turned to the richest and most honored man of Pittsburgh and said, "From what aristocratic head did your family spring, Mr. Thaw?" With that William Thaw answered: "My ancestors, for the most part, were plain, honest folks. My own coat of arms, however, is a shoemaker's last, for my father was the best cobbler of his time in all this region."

Where did the great Adams family, or the Beechers, or the Van Cortlandts, or the Van Rensselaers, or the Hamiltons, or the Gordis, or the Armours, or the Swifts, or the Leiters, or the Otises spring from? Either in the last generation or a few generations back you can find their ancestors keeping a butcher shop or working as clerks or digging as farmers or so poor that they had to borrow money to get their start in life in their chosen career. Now my aristocratic friends, if the most honored names in all history are for the greater part names first heard of in the annals of the poor and the first bearers of which were born in poverty and obscurity, why should you hold your heads so high? Because your father or grandfather happened to do something that made his name famous is that any reason why you should consider yourself above your fellow men when you have accomplished absolutely nothing for mankind? The pride of birth is among the sillies and the most baseless of all kinds of pride, for, though some of us may have the blood of a great man flowing in our veins, all of us without exception have the blood of hundreds of obscure ancestors mingling in our arteries, from whom we are just as much descended as we are from him who was king among the kings. I would infinitely prefer to be the founder of a race than the degenerate offspring of a noble sire who bravely worked his way from nothing to the pinnacle of fame. This practical world of every day life does not ask who was your father, who was your grandfather, but who are you?

But, though we would denounce the pretensions of pride of birth, we would go further than this. We would denounce the arrogant pride of men and women who seem to have accomplished something in life, if we are honest we must admit that such successes as we have achieved have been due in no small degree to fortuitous combinations of circumstances, which we have often advantage not exclusively in our own merits. We have no right to make all the credit ourselves, or to despise others who have not had the opportunities which have helped us in the race. Many of them have been hindered by poverty or lack of education and facilities of health, and we show a grateful gratitude to Providence if we give ourselves airs of superiority.

Circumstances made men just the same as men make circumstances. When I was lately riding in on the themed-day eye involuntarily wandered down a country road to a big old barn where a livery is kept and horses are rented for the day. About one of these horses a young man was working. Who is he? He is a young man who for years has wanted to be a livery. But he is the oldest son of a big family of children. His father was farmer in the area. There that father laid his head down, and he had to go to California climate or he must die. He bought some land here. A while two years of drought came and he was ruined. Then that father was confined three years in an old lad's bed. Then that oldest son had spring into the breach. He is there yet in the breach. The bread of his mother, his father and the children was years dependent upon that oldest son and his work. The horses of the farm were merely changed during the drought into the horses of a public livery. If you and I had been in that oldest boy's place would we not have done just the same as he did? Would we where we are today?

James A. Garfield once seemed to preach the doctrine that there are difficulties in life too great for a man to overcome. In one of his addresses he said: "No man who is worth saving can ever be drowned in the trough of life. No matter how far it is from shore, pitch him overboard and he will at last be able to swim ashore." I am not sure that statement of Garfield's is always true. I believe that there may come a time when a young man, like a young colt, can be beaten too much and his spirit will be gone. I believe that a young man may be too many obstacles to overcome and at last he will lose his energy and will cease to struggle any more. In any case, if it becomes us all to consider how much of our success is due to advantages we have enjoyed and to our to assume superiority over them who might have succeeded as well as better than we have done if they had the same opportunities and equipment had we turned to ours.

Men Sometimes Make Circumstances
Men make "circumstances?" Not ways. Some time ago when seated on a railroad train I read a newspaper article in reference to one of the nation's pugilists of the country. The article went something like this: "So-and-so will never amount to a thing again in the roped arena. Why? Because he has been twice whipped. A man is like a dog; when he has been beaten enough to find that some else is his master his nerve is fast gone." "How true in life is that," said to myself. Then I pictured a noble dog of Jack London's in "Call of the Wild." He was a big, able, brave dog, but no sooner was cent north than he was clubbed until his spirit was broken. What then? He whined and whimpered like a frightened puppy. So some men, noble men, brave men in their youth, become failures as middle aged men. Why? Because they are battered and pounded by struggle after struggle and defeat after defeat. They are halted in their progress through life by obstacles practically impossible to overcome until at last their courage and nerve and fighting manhood practically ooze away. O man, be not puffed up in your own conceit on account of your seeming triumphs in life! You and I in a sense have both succeeded not because we are smarter than all men, but because God has given to us chances of success which he has withheld from men who were just as smart and just as diligent and brave and as conscientious as ever we have been.

Arrogant pride is making necklaces of diamonds to reflect her own shriveled and emaciated form. She carries around with her a looking glass because she thinks her blood is "blue" instead of red, her face more beautiful and her eyes more intelligent than all other physiognomies. She never tires of watching her own countenance. Her smile is sweetest when she is praising her own sweet self. But, though arrogant pride admires her own looks and her own brain more than those of the people around her, she has often no right to gather the lilies of innocence to wear as a bouquet on her corsage. In her heart there may be the germs of evil and a cruelty as fierce as that which harried the women of France in the revolution to surround the guillotine and gloat over the execution of victims as guiltless as themselves. And that, as a rule, she thinks that her own garments are the clinging robes of an angel, pure and spotless, while the garments of her fellow human creatures are the rags and tatters of a repentant or an unrepentant prodigal.

It is so often forgotten that arrogance and pride are sins in them selves. The lofty spirit which boasts that it is free from the guilt of other sins and holds aloof from the repentant sinner, whom it surveys with scorn, is not that pride a more heinous sin than the sight of a just God? During the darkest days of the French revolution of 1800 a great mob of insurgents and rioters were blockading the Parisian streets. "It is useless to appeal to their reason. They have no reason," said General Lafayette, the commander of the national guard, which ultimately placed Louis Philippe upon the French throne. "Shoot them down if they do so," "Let me, general, try to soothe them," said a staff officer to his commander. The young man took off his hat and spoke up to the threatening mob. Then he cried, "All gentlemen will please to retire, for I am ordered to shoot down the rabble." At once the mob scattered. "No!" wrote the historian, "they fear, but because one of those brave rioters wanted the people of France to consider that it belonged to the sum of the offenses of the nation." Because arrogant pride renders herself different from the sensitive finger of sin does the make her different? I tell thee nay. The worst and the most degraded forms of sin are not more contemptible in God's sight than the sin of the Pharisee. Christ said it. We must be like Him.

What is this Paradise of old modelled into the language of the church life of today? Let me describe this. You have often seen him, Sunday morning is here. The supercilious cry now comes out of his lip. He must go to church. It is part of his religion to go to church. Every one says he is one of the pillars of the church. He dilates the word "pillar" because for a long time he has thought he is a whole sanctuary, choir loft and pulpit thrown in, as well as pew.

He was hard work to get up in the morning, because all the week, like St. Louis, he has been demanding his portion of flesh. He gave a hundred dollars to the church last week, but he did not miss it much. He took it off the wages of his employees. During the week of business tricks and financial turn-screws, he got at least four different pieces of real estate $5,000 less if they were worth. He died about a week, but of course he only died according to recognized business customs. Last night he discharged a young woman because she was sick. He knew what made her sick. He worked her overtime and worked all the physical life out of her.

"Why don't you hurry to church, Pharisee? Don't you hear the bell ringing?" "Oh, yes," says the hypocrite, "but there is no need of hurrying. The ushers always keep seat. I make a fuss about having one else put in my pew. Besides, is not disdained for me to go ahead even to be on time. Let me come just before the sermon and disturb service, and then every one will be impressed by my entrance and my solemn devotion with which I keep prayer."

Only the face of modern times con-in late, as usual. A quiet little dressed in black is seated in his p-His face and neck set as red as his
had been taking a ten mile tramp der the tropical sun. We are all afraid he will burst a blood vessel an apoplectic fit. "Who is she?"
what is she there? Wasn't her husbthat old drunkard who died in delirtremens five months ago and who
a bankrupt, owing me $500?" "Ysaid the usher. "But her own life been sweet and pure, and as she
to know your family in her better
she asked for your paw. She has c-to church because she wants to our church." "Join our church, Yes," said the old hypocrite. "I k-
why she wants to join our church;
wants me to help her and to let children enter the society of my family, I will not do it. Now, Mr. Usher, see here, this is going too far. This is too good a church for the rabble. We can start missions for the poor. I do not want a lot of people with scandals besmearing their names using us for a social hospital. I am willing to pay my pew rent and help out the pastor's salary and help support a few foreign and home missions, but I am not willing to be dragged into the social mud with a lot of ordinary clerks and poverty stricken women and general 'dead-beats.' If you cannot keep this church entirely for the exclusive class, the social 'upper tendom,' why, I will get out." God help me if I have made this scene too personal! Some of you know who represents the modern Pharisee clothed in the filthy garments of arrogant pride. That person, O man or woman, in God's sight is your self satisfied, evil self. You are even now making the hypocritical prayer of him who of old said, "Lord, I thank thee that I am not as other men."

But, lastly, I believe that pride is often the result of bigotry and ignorance. It is possible to become so absorbed in a particular work and in some one church as to overlook the fact that other men in other churches are winning souls and planting seed in other fields which will yield a harvest as great as our own, though other methods may be used to reap it and other methods be adopted to produce it.

How do you know that your own church is the best church and the only true church? Have you ever studied the ways and the means other ministers are using in our sister churches? It would be a good thing for you to worship in some other church for a little while before you are so quick to condemn their ways of doing things. "Other sheep have I which are not of this fold," said Christ. One of the best truths I ever read from the pen of that great, big hearted and noble Christian, the most beloved New Englander of his day, Phillips Brooks, was from a letter he wrote to a ministerial friend in America. The letter went something like this: "Your brother, you say, is to come over to Europe at least once a year to find out how the big world is. How many people there are in it trying to do right and how small the Episcopalian church seems here at this little hole of the Atlantic? You say he went Phillips Brooks' round. I wonder at it, instead of there being only one church filled with gloriously good people there were many a better Protestant church to visit, was just as good people as the Episcopalian had his own portion.

Have you known that your way is better than your child's is? Is it so much wiser? Have you developed your family so much that they are brighter than all other children, more intellectual, more spiritual? Perhaps instead of your children being thankful for a home where you ought to be thanked, your way of discipline may be wrong. Broaden your life. Study the ways of other Christian parents so you may be able to improve your own ways.

How do you know that your own interpretation of the Scripture is right? Perhaps if you would only empty your soul of self and as a sinner come and sit at Christ's feet you might learn much from him who was meek and lowly of heart that you would have less exalted estimate of yourself or of your own wisdom and piety. I personally would never have any use for a physician who thinks he knows much that in the crisis of a disease would not ask another physician's advice to the benefit of the sick for his satisfaction. Neither has Christ any use for one of his disciples who knows so much that he is not willing to come and sit at his feet and learn of him. Are you ready today to empty yourself of self and be as an empty vessel to be filled with the Holy Spirit?

On the inhibited and inhibited sinful pride of life! How hard it is for some of you to give up! After 80 years for years had been one of Houston's most prominent men he came in his old age to represent Texas in the United States senate. No sooner did he come to Washington than he went to a famous Baptist church there, which Rev. Dr. Samson was pasteurizing. For eight long years he attended that church. At last he came forward and gave his heart to Jesus Christ. A few days before his first communion Dr. Samson asked Senator Houston into his private room. "What is it you wish me to do?" asked the old warrior, fixing his eyes on the doctor.

known eye upon Dr. Samson's face. "General," was the reply, "you know the altercation between you and Senator Seaboard. You will meet him in Sunday morning at the Lord's supper. It seems to me that you ought to meet there unless in Christ's name you are ready to forgive and be forgiven. Will you thus meet Senator Seaboard? Will you destroy sinful pride, go fornicate for Christ's sake?" This set-ter had been bitterly unjust to the great legislator of Texas. Dr. Samson said, "At first the fire began to burn in General Houston's eye. His brow knitted. His teeth clinched. The old frame shook with the struggle between aroused conscience and the old selfishness of feeling that he had for years cherished. But at last the men of most ungenerous passions were clothed from a lion into a lamb, and I subdued voice and with tears in his eyes he said, 'Mr. Samson, for Christ's sake I will do it.'"

O man, like Sam Houston, will yield up your pride for Christ? "You be as a little child at his feet," will you say, "Master, I am not fit, but thou art all in all!" May I suggest that the home of sinful pride shall here and now forever be cursed of every one of your hearts. "A man's pride shall be his law, but I shall not hold the tongue in strife!"

Indigestion Causes Catarrh of the Stomach.

For many years it has been supposed that Catarrh of the Stomach caused indigestion and dyspepsia, but the truth is exactly the opposite. Indigestion causes catarrh. Repeated attacks of indigestion inflame the mucous membranes lining the stomach, thus exposing the nerves of the stomach, thus irritating the glands to secrete mucin instead of the juices of natural digestion. This is called Catarrh of the Stomach.

A foretaste of winter came along last week and put straw hats out of commission, but there was summer temperature again by the first of this week and a few have reappeared. Prospects
now are for a hot and dusty period
during the fall.

Ed Evans, the fifteen-year old son of Mr. T. S. Evans, who lives on Walker avenue, forsook the parental roof last week and went to Winston, where he was found a few days later working in a tobacco factory. He returned him up and took his currency.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together.
Until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors prescribed it a compound of drugs, and presented and remedies, and by constantly telling to do with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a local inflammation, and therefore requires local treatment. Halls Catarrh Cure, manufactured by Dr. J. C. Cheney & Co., Boston, Mass., is the only constitutional cure of Catarrh. It is taken internally and does not do any harm to the system. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars to any case it fails to cure. Send for circular and testimonials. Address:

We don't do business on the theory that it pays to sell cheap shoes so that

Mr. J. C. Bain, of this city, fell from the roof of Mr. Benj. Millikan's barn near Guilford station last Friday,
where he was watching Mr. Millikan make some repairs, and broke a rib,
the injury causing his family and friends
here much concern, as he did not rally
promptly from the shock.

Miss Estella Staten, of Wadesboro, is visiting relatives at Winston, Friendship and Greensboro this week, and

Mr. Oscar Hockett and mother, Mrs.
Seth B. Hockett, returned a few days ago from a delightful tour of the great West which covered a period of thirty days. They spent one week at St.
Louis taking in the sights of the World's Fair, then visited friends and relatives in Kansas City and other places in the far West, and report quite a pleasant trip. Mr. Hockett has returned to his home in Washington, D.
C.

Mr. George R. Smith, a good citizen of northeastern Guilford whose home was near Brown Summit, died last Thursday of paralysis and was buried Friday at Hines' chapel. He was 63 years old and leaves a wife and one daughter, besides several grandchildren and great grandchildren. His aged mother, now nearly 90 years old, also survives him. Mr. Smith had been in poor health for a couple of years. He was a consistent member of Hines' chapel,
and will be missed from the church
and the community.

Thomas Nelson and Grover Farrington,
two young men who live at Proximity, figured in a shooting scrape on Tuesday night of last week in which Farrington was badly wounded. Nothing was said about the matter, however, until Wednesday night, and an investigation followed, but there yet remains an element of mystery concerning it. Farrington claimed he and Nelson were on good terms and that the shooting must have been accidental,
but Nelson was placed under arrest
pending the wounded man's recovery.
Nelson says he was in the act of handling a pistol out a window to a third party who wanted to kill a dog when it was accidentally discharged. He appears to be much worried over the affair.

Kirk Williams, who was arrested
last week for shooting Night Watchman Hodgkin in the Southern Railway yards, was bound over to court after a preliminary hearing Wednesday, the investigation showing him clearly guilty of two or three offenses. A charge of assault was also preferred against him by H. D. Pugh, of High Point, and $25 was added to his bond for that offense. Williams says the man Sam Johnson who was arrested as an accomplice in the Hodgkin shooting case was not with him at the time Johnson was arrested about the same hour and had a big revolver on his person. He will answer to the higher court for carrying concealed weapons.

Over five hundred students reported for the opening of the State Normal and Industrial College last week, a majority being comfortably housed in the elegant new dormitory just completed. As usual, however, the facilities of the college are unequal to the demand and a number of students find it necessary to board and room outside the institution. It is only a matter of a short time until another dormitory
as large as the new one will be necessary to the further progress and development of the college. The year just opening gives promise of being the best in the history of the Normal.

WHAT IS, IS

White is always white and black always black. White can never be black, nor black white.

Things you've read about, heard about, talked about,
but never seen, may in your mind seem what they are,
but your eyes cannot be deceived. Black to them is black, and white is white.

To see our shoes with your own eyes and judge their merits from what you continually behold is what we would like to have you do.

We know that you'll find that we haven't been claiming anything more than we had a right to, and any good impression our advertising may have created will be confirmed; and also, even if you are a little bit prejudiced or skeptical, we think a sight of our shoes will win you over,
when you'll find all we've said about our shoes is true.
