FOR FARM TRAINING SCHOOL

APPROPRIATION MADE BY THE COMMISSIONERS—SALE OF COURT HOUSE.

The March meeting of the board of county commissioners was held Monday and Tuesday and was attended by all the members of the board. In addition to the routine matters usual to the monthly meetings, the board heard a delegation that asked for the establishment of a farm training school for wayward youths and received two protests against the sale of the county court house property.

A large delegation of men and women of the county appeared before the commissioners Tuesday and asked for the establishment of the training school, addresses being made by Rev. Dr. Melton Clark, R. C. Wood, A. W. McAlister, A. M. Scales, Prof. W. C. A. Hammel, Prof. T. R. Mount, C. H. Ireland, A. Wayland Cooke, Miss Annie Meade Michaux and others.

The board voted to make an appropriation of a sum not to exceed $6,000 for the purchase of property and the erection of necessary buildings for the proposed training school, provided the county board of education would agree to provide for the maintenance and expense of operation of the school.

It is proposed to purchase about 50 acres of land in some suitable locality and to erect such buildings as may be necessary to the maintenance of such an institution, the control and management of the institution to vest in the board of education.

Protest Sale of Court House.
Protests against the sale of the county court house property to the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company for a consideration of $150,000 were filed by three parties—John Barker, W. T. Sockwell and the Porter heirs. The protesters were represented by Attorney R. W. Harrison, and the protest of Messrs. Barker and Sockwell was couched in the following language:

"The undersigned as citizens and owners of adjacent property respectfully request you not to sell or dispose of the court house property to the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company. A part of this property was deeded to the county upon the express condition that it be kept open as a public square. The title to our property comes from the same source (Forster and Childs) as yours and we believe that it would be a violation of the rights for you to sell this property."

The protest from the Porter heirs follows:
"You are hereby notified that Walter Porter, W. C. Porter, Logan Porter and Ruth Porter Adams object to and protest against any sale, disposal or use of that portion of the Guilford county court house property or land partially described in a deed from their father, W. C. Porter, to the county commissioners of Guilford county, dated the 5th day of February, 1873, and recorded in book 46, page 62, of the register of deeds office, the same being a lot of land 23 feet, 8 inches by 33 feet, and appurtenances from the north side of West Market street and part of the court house plot of land lying west of the county court house building for any purpose or purposes whatsoever other than for a public square upon the terms provided in said deed."

You are further notified that the above named parties will take such legal steps and proceedings as may be necessary and proper in the premises to prevent any sale, disposal or use of, or any attempted sale, disposal or use of, of the above described property by your honorable board, or any other person or persons, inconsistent with the terms and provisions of said deed."

Other Matters.
The board voted to appropriate a sum not to exceed $250 for the improvement of the public road leading from the Robert Edwards place by Muir's chapel to the Dr. Mills place, nothing to be paid by the county until a similar amount has been collected and paid in by the property owners.
The petition previously filed asking for the opening of a public road from Summer township, beginning at a point north of R. C. Short's home and running in a northerly direction about one and a half miles to Cleveland Ryan's home, was granted.

A petition signed by 92 people in the community was presented asking that some improvement be made on the road leading out from Ashboro street. The board took no action in the matter.

MURDERERS OF PRESTON LYERLY ARE ARRESTED.

Three negroes—Sid Finger, Joe Maxwell and Will Kirkpatrick—were arrested in Rowan county yesterday afternoon charged with murdering Preston Lyerly and burning the store of which he was manager, at Barber's Junction, on the night of February 24. Finger made a full confession of the crime and implicated two other negroes who have not yet been captured, but whose arrest is expected to take place today.

Finger was arrested about six miles from Salisbury by Deputy Sheriff Talbot and was carried at once to Raleigh to be placed in the penitentiary for safe-keeping, the officer passing through Greensboro with the prisoner last night. The other two negroes will be carried to Raleigh this morning.

While waiting in Greensboro between trains last night Finger told the details of the horrible crime he and the four other negroes perpetrated. The object, of course, was robbery, and being detected in the store they turned upon Lyerly and murdered him, later setting fire to the store in an evidence to conceal the evidence of their crime.

Colored Woman's Narrow Escape From Death.

Lula Moore, a young colored woman, had a thrilling experience and an uncomfortably narrow escape from death early Tuesday morning, when she was struck by a northbound freight train at the Lindsay street crossing and hurled a considerable distance from the railroad tracks. The woman stepped from one line of the double track in order to get out of the way of a southbound passenger train just in time to be caught by the onrushing freight. Her right wrist was broken and she received a number of painful bruises.

The accident was witnessed by several people, who marveled that the woman was not killed outright. She was picked up immediately after the accident and rushed to St. Leo's hospital, where she was given the necessary medical attention. Paralytic unforseen complications, the woman should be out of the hospital in a few days.

Reidsville Men Indicted.

The American National Bank, of Wilmington, has instituted arrest and bail proceedings against J. H. Walker and A. L. Harris, of Reidsville, alleging that the two defendants, trading as J. H. Walker & Co., in January, 1911, obtained $7,500 on notes from the plaintiff, which loan was made upon the information contained in a financial exhibit of the concern, which exhibit, the plaintiff alleges, is not correct, and that the firm was not entitled to the credit the exhibit secured for them.

The bank having alleged fraud, the defendants were required to give bond for $15,000 each, which was readily made by Reidsville people, and the case will come up for hearing in Wilmington in April.

Fruit Prospects Good.

The recent severe weather lends encouragement to the hope for a bumper fruit crop this year. The cold weather came at the right time to prevent the fruit trees from budding prematurely, as has been the case so many times in former years. The fruit crop in this section last year was a failure, but growers are confidently expecting better luck this year.

Mr. A. L. Bain, who has made his home in Greensboro for a number of years, being associated with Mr. J. R. Hughes in the management of the Greensboro Real Estate Exchange, left yesterday for Roanoke Rapids to become general manager of the Roanoke Rapids Cotton Mills. Mr. Bain is an experienced cotton mill man and he will enter upon his new duties with an expert knowledge of cotton manufacturing. His family did not accompany him to Roanoke Rapids, but will continue to reside at their home on North Edgeworth street.

NEW DISTRICT ATTORNEY TAKES OATH OF OFFICE.

Mr. W. C. Hammer, of Ashboro, who has been appointed United States attorney for the western district of North Carolina, came to Greensboro Monday afternoon and took the oath of office before Mr. J. M. Millikan, clerk of the United States court for this district. He spent Tuesday in Winston-Salem in conference with Mr. A. E. Holton, his predecessor, who has held the office during all the changing administrations since his appointment by President McKinley in 1897.

Mr. Hammer had expected to move the district attorney's office from Winston-Salem to his home town of Ashboro, but this week Attorney General McReynolds interposed an objection and said the district attorney must have his office in some town in which the Federal court is held. This is taken to mean that Mr. Hammer will bring his office to Greensboro, as this city will be more convenient to him than any other place in the western district that is the seat of a Federal court.

At the present time the office of the district attorney is engaged with a large number of condemnation proceedings brought by the United States in the establishment of the forestry reserve in the western part of North Carolina. These proceedings in each instance are said to involve perplexing details, requiring a search into claims of ownership for many years back, and often to the original grants. District Attorney Holton had been concerned with these for several months.

Mrs. Lee Cranford Dead.

Mrs. Lee Cranford died yesterday afternoon at St. Leo's hospital, where she had been a patient for some time. The announcement of her death came as a great shock, for while it was known that she was seriously ill, her friends and loved ones were not prepared for the end. Mrs. Cranford is survived by her bereaved young husband and an infant son, Fred Allen Cranford; her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fentress; two brothers, Messrs. Oran and Needham Fentress, and one sister, Miss Sallie Myrtle Fentress.

The funeral will take place at the Pleasant Garden Methodist church this afternoon, the services to be conducted by the pastor, Rev. P. L. Terrell.

Mrs. W. S. Ferguson Dead.

Mrs. W. S. Ferguson, wife of a Southern Railway engineer, died Monday morning at her home on West Lee street, following an illness of six months. She is survived by her husband and three daughters. Mrs. Ferguson was a native of Lakeview, Moore county, to which place the body was carried for interment Tuesday. A short funeral service was conducted at the home in this city by Rev. C. E. Hodgins, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian church, of which Mrs. Ferguson was a faithful member.

Death of a Good Citizen.

Mr. Adolphus Bevil, a well known and highly esteemed citizen of the Brown Summit section, died at his home Monday night of heart failure, following a week's illness. The funeral and interment took place yesterday at Fairview church. Mr. Bevil was 38 years old and is survived by his widow and four children. He was a son of Mr. C. R. Bevil, of Brown Summit, and a man of influence in his community.

Death of Monroe Kirkmar.

Mr. Monroe Kirkmar died Sunday morning at his home in Sumner township, following a long illness of tuberculosis. He was 31 years old and is survived by his widow and a young child. Mr. Kirkmar formerly resided in Greensboro and until his health failed was employed by the North Carolina Public Service Company. He was a young man of fine character and had many friends who are grieved over his untimely death. The funeral and interment took place Monday afternoon at Reheobeth church, the services being conducted by Rev. F. L. Townsend.

The condition of Mrs. John N. Wilson, who has been seriously ill for the past five weeks, has shown signs of considerable improvement during the past few days and hopes are now entertained for her recovery.

GENERAL NEWS PARAGRAPHS

SUMMARY OF EVENTS THAT GO TO MAKE UP THE WORLD'S NEWS OF THE DAY.

The four-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kennedy was burned to death at Henrietta, Rutherford county, Saturday. Children playing in a yard set a paper afire with matches and the child's clothes caught.

Petitions have been circulated in Charlotte asking Governor Craig to commute to life imprisonment the death sentence of J. L. Poljack, convicted of wife murder and sentenced to die April 24. The sentence will likely be commuted.

Because, he says, his home has ceased to be a home largely through his wife's devotion to politics and club matters, Dr. Charles F. McCarthy, an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist of San Francisco, has decided to make a tour of India.

Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels has accepted the invitation of Davidson College to make the commencement oration there on May 18. He will speak on Monday morning. Shortly afterwards he will address the Charlotte public schools at their closing exercises.

The United States Express Company, for 50 years dominated by Thomas C. Platt, the "Easy Boss," and his family, without a stockholders' meeting, and now controlled by the widow of E. H. Harriman, is considering voluntary liquidation, according to Wall street stories.

All attempts to limit the authority of the postmaster general to change the weight, rates or zones in the parcel post service were defeated in the senate during consideration of the postoffice appropriation bill. The postoffice committee had favorably reported such an amendment.

Mrs. Kate Edwards, who has been under sentence of death in Pennsylvania for nearly 13 years for killing her husband, was last week released from the Berks county, Pa., jail under a pardon granted by Governor John K. Tener. She was convicted of first degree murder in 1901 and sentenced to be hanged, but four governors declined to fix a day for her execution.

Stress and strain of American life quickly develops latent insanity among immigrants, who become burdens to the states in which they have gone to live, according to statements before the senate immigration committee this week by medical officers from New York, Pennsylvania and Maryland, who urged radical amendment of the pending immigration bill.

A dispatch from Harrisburg, Pa., Saturday says that with snow from two to 38 inches deep on the level in Pennsylvania and many streams bound with from six to eight inches of ice, conditions "point to food possibilities which may be serious and cause tremendous loss." Similar conditions, it is stated, prevailed in the winters of 1902 and 1904, when great floods occurred.

The Tennessee Supreme court has held invalid that section of the recently enacted liquor shipping law limiting inter-state shipments to one gallon for personal or family use. It was held that this section was a regulation of inter-state commerce. The court decided that the provision of the law requiring a record of shipments to be filed with court clerks is not a regulation of inter-state commerce and is valid.

As a result of one of the most successful crusades in the interest of morality in the history of St. Louis, that city's red light district, notorious throughout the country for years as one of the boldest and most colorful, has passed out of existence. Through the relentless efforts of the Woman's Protective League the police commissioners issued an edict which could not be ignored and at midnight on Saturday more than 300 houses of ill-fame closed their doors and more than 1,000 of their inmates were checked in their career.

Mr. Tyre Glenn, business manager of the North Carolina Sanatorium for the Treatment of Tuberculosis, at Montrose, is in the city on business connected with the institution. Mr. Glenn reports that affairs at the sanatorium are moving along smoothly. A splendid new building is nearing completion and will be ready soon for the reception of patients.

GEN. VILLA SAYS A FOE MURDERED BAUCH.

Chihuahua, Mex., March 4.—General Villa has indicated his belief that Gustav Bauch is dead, when he said that Bauch, an American, was liberated at Juarez and "doubtless was assassinated by some of his enemies." Villa said Bauch had many enemies and added: "Of course I can't be held to blame for that."

General Villa said today that the orders delaying the Benton investigation commission, which was halted at Juarez yesterday, were issued by General Carranza, who has determined to handle all diplomatic subjects himself.

The opinion was expressed that Benton's body, if it is buried here, will have been too long in the ground to disclose much to the examining commission.

Why the body was brought so far from the border, and when and how it was buried, are subjects on which Villa refused to talk. None of the foreign consuls has been able to learn where the body is.

Villa and Foreign Consul Clash.

The Pantheon de la Regla, where Villa said the body was interred, is about two blocks from the United States consulate and only one block from Villa's house. Villa, while attending bull-fights, cock-fights and balls, has shown indifference to international complications arising from the Benton execution and the Bauch disappearance, and once said he had "cut the wires on the subject."

A representative of one foreign government who took a version differing from that which Villa had given to the press, wrote it out and attempted to forward it to his government. Villa suppressed it. The representative said to him:

"General Villa, you can suppress my telegrams, but you cannot prevent me from telling the truth, and I am going to tell it."

Carranza Must Answer for Killing.

Washington, D. C., March 4.—Fresca reports, indicating that Gustav Bauch, an American citizen, was killed at Juarez, coming close on the complications of the Benton case, surrounded the Mexican situation today with further complexities.

Carranza, as head of the constitutionalists, has been called upon for a satisfactory explanation of Bauch's disappearance, and it will be pointed out to the rebel chieftain that failure to protect all foreigners will be likely to lead to grave complications.

Further representations for a speedy clearing up of the Benton killing have gone forward. Although deferring to Carranza's wish to be consulted directly in diplomatic affairs, it was being impressed upon the rebel chief today that formalities must not be permitted to stand in the way of complete protection to foreigners.

That General Villa has acknowledged the authority of General Carranza as his chief, and will not permit the American commission to examine the body of Benton until General Carranza has been consulted, was the explanation made by President Wilson today of the latest phase of the Mexican situation.

The president told callers that the desire of the commissioners to get further instructions from Washington, as well as orders from General Villa himself, had necessitated a postponement, but Mr. Wilson takes it for granted that the commissioners will start in a few days.

Lineman Electrocuted in Burlington.

Burlington, March 3.—Ralph Warren, a young lineman for the new Piedmont Railway and Electric Company's plant here, was electrocuted today at 1:30 o'clock by coming in contact with a live wire. The severe wind of the past few days had crossed the lines in so many places that it became necessary to send out a large force of linemen this morning to get the wires straight. Only experienced men were sent, and they had been cautioned particularly to be very careful. Young Warren had just started to climb one of the light poles to adjust some wires where the railroad crosses Park avenue. In some way he came in contact with a wire as soon as he started up the pole and fell back on the ground unconscious. People rushed to him at once, and a physician was secured in a few minutes, but he lived only about five minutes and did not regain consciousness.

Mr. H. R. Little, of Guilford College, gave The Patriot a call while in the city yesterday.

SHIPPING TRUST BEYOND PALE OF SHERMAN LAW.

Washington, D. C., March 4.—Foreign and domestic shipping of the United States is so combined by agreements, pools and conference arrangements that an attempt to dissolve the combinations would cripple trade. This is the conclusion reached by the committee in the final report of the so-called shipping trust investigation, made public today. The committee, after two years of exhaustive inquiry, recommends that both foreign and domestic shipping combinations be placed under the strict control of the interstate commerce commission, and that if necessary the commission be enlarged to care for the additional work.

The final recommendations of the committee are embodied in the fourteenth volume of its report, just compiled, sets forth that shipping lines in practically every trade route from or to United States ports are operated by agreement or conference to restrain competition. The report declares that the advantages accruing to both shipper and ship line through these agreements are so great that the combinations should be allowed to continue, under the supervision of the interstate commerce commission as to rates, classifications, rebates and discrimination. It would be futile, the committee states, to attempt to restore competition by ordering existing agreements terminated.

The report deals with 800 foreign and domestic navigation companies and 200 railroad lines.

Suffragettes and Antis Given Hearing.

Washington, March 3.—All 148 of the woman suffrage question were presented to the house judiciary committee today, accompanied by cheers, jeers, hisses and applause. Deserving sentimental phases of the suffrage argument, Mrs. Crystal Eastman Benedict and Mrs. Mary Beard, New York lawyers, threw down the gauntlet to the Democratic party in no uncertain terms, warning the committee that the political wrath of the 4,000,000 women in suffrage states would be visited upon the party, unless favorable consideration was given the constitutional amendment for woman suffrage.

Anti-suffragists told the committee that woman suffrage would be harmful, "not only to women but to the country." At the conclusion of the hearings, Dr. Walker, trousered and silk hatted, presented to the committee what she called "the crowning constitutional argument" to show that women already have the right to vote under the constitution.

Policewomen Can't Arrest Women.

Chicago, March 3.—Policewomen were decided here today to be a failure at handling disorderly persons of their own sex. It was lack of physical strength coupled with the inordinate curiosity of onlookers, according to Chief of Police Gleason, who removed the women police who have been attempting to handle the wait-esses' boycott of a downtown restaurant. It was shown that women will resist strenuously being arrested by a sister in uniform. Several times when a recalcitrant woman prisoner has been struggling with a policewoman, it has taken mounted police to scatter the crowd that gathered to cheer the contestants.

Four women and three men were arrested today for loitering and picketing in front of the restaurant, the policy of which is assailed by the wait-esses' union.

Aged Woman Sent to Prison.

Waynesville, N. C., March 3.—Judge Frank Carter, presiding over Swain county Superior court, has sentenced Nancy Hannah Kurlie, of Haywood county, to 30 years in state prison. Attorneys for the woman entered a plea of guilty of second degree murder and the plea was accepted. The woman, who is 67 years old, is accused of having killed her six-year-old grandchild, Robena Putnam, last spring by placing the child in a cave on a mountain side and walling the entrance up, leaving the child to die from exposure to cold and starvation. The crime was committed during the cold weather of last March and excited intense indignation in this county. The aged prisoner is now in Haywood jail, whence she will be taken to Raleigh later in the week.

Rev. J. E. Underwood, of Goldsboro, is in the city on a visit to the family of his son, the editor of The Patriot.

Voice—Beatrice Lynne Byrd, Carrie Vivian Dodson.

Unqualified support of Senator Lee S. Overman for re-election to the United States senate has been pledged by Representative Robert N. Page. In a signed statement Mr. Page reviews his relations with Senator Overman and says that, while they have differed at times, Senator Overman is his friend and should be re-elected.

Senator Overman, in a similar statement, declares without qualification that Representative Page has never protested at the appointment of W. C. Hammer to be United States district attorney; that Mr. Page absolutely refused to join his brother, either directly or indirectly, in throwing a feather's weight against Mr. Hammer's appointment and that few men are more attentive to their public duties than is Mr. Page.

The two statements follow the mistake of the Charlotte Observer in confusing Representative Robert N. Page with his brother, Henry A. Page, who is actively opposing Senator Overman for re-election.

To Regulate Cotton Exchange.

Congressman Stedman introduced a bill in the house of representatives Tuesday to regulate cotton exchanges. He would require them to keep a record of all sales made, and the buyer of cotton on such exchanges specify the grade of cotton he is to receive and the seller to deliver the sort stipulated. The bill is aimed to correct the abuses of dealing in cotton futures.

SEEKING INFORMATION ON CO-OPERATIVE CREAMERY.

Mr. E. H. Anderson, the county farm demonstrator, who has taken an active part in the agitation for the establishment of a co-operative creamery by the farmers of Guilford county, has issued the following circular letter in an effort to ascertain the sentiment in regard to the projected enterprise:

"During the past few months there has been considerable agitation on the part of myself, county demonstrator, and various farmers and citizens of this section for the establishment of a farmers' co-operative creamery here in Guilford county.

"A great many farmers have shown a marked interest in this movement; but, before anything definite can be done, and in order that those in charge may intelligently encourage or discourage the movement, it is absolutely necessary that certain definite information be secured from the farmers. I am therefore asking that all farmers who are interested to the extent of taking an active part to help establish a co-operative creamery in Greensboro, to fill in the blank below and mail to E. H. Anderson, Greensboro, N. C.:

Your name.
Your address.
Are you in favor of a co-operative creamery?

Will you invest $10 or more in foundation stock?

How many cows have you, now, producing milk?

What price per pound do you get for your butter?

Have you a dependable market throughout the year?

How much time do you spend per week delivering your butter?

Have you a cream separator?

Give an estimate of the number of cows in your neighborhood the product of which may go to support a co-operative creamery.

"In case the farmer reading this article is not interested in this proposition, I would ask that you kindly pass the information on to any of your neighbors who may be interested to report on the above matters.

"Please send in this information at once."

FROM DEATH SENTENCE TO LIFE IMPRISONMENT.

Governor Craig has commuted to life imprisonment the sentence of Walter Shelton, a young white man tried and convicted of the murder of his wife in the Superior court of Rockingham county last fall and sentenced to be electrocuted.

The reasons for Shelton's pardon by the governor are given officially as follows: "From the circumstances of the crime itself, and from affidavits filed with me setting forth facts that did not appear in the court at the trial, I have come to the conclusion that at the time of the commission of the crime the defendant was not in normal condition and that from the continued use of drugs and intoxicating liquors, his mind was deranged, and that he did not commit the murder with the degree of premeditation and deliberation that demands the extreme penalty."

In commenting on the commutation of the sentence, the Reidsville Review says:

"The verdict of a great majority of the Reidsville people is that Governor Craig made a serious blunder in commuting the sentence of Walter Shelton to life imprisonment. It is not in the heart of the Review to violently criticize the governor, but we have heard some people go so far as to declare that the electric chair should be abandoned.

"Governor Craig has no doubt erred, but the error is on the side of humanity. Shelton killed his wife in cold blood, and we thought the state made out a very plain case of premeditation, but so long as people will sign petitions asking for an escape for a prisoner from the electric chair, and so long as people who ought to know will make affidavits that the prisoner was of unsound mind at the time the deed was committed, just so long will we have to contend with these seemingly errors of judgment on the part of our governors."

Jack London Out For Governor.

Jack London, the famous author, is a candidate for governor of California on the Socialist ticket. It is also said by his friends that he will make a bid for the Prohibition nomination. London has been an avowed Socialist for 10 years and has made many addresses in the Socialist cause all over the country. It is a peculiar fact, however, that he lives like an English country gentleman. Many Prohibitionists will not accept London as a candidate, as they say the novelist in "John Barleycorn" admits whiskey still has a strong grip on him.

GREENSBORO'S BASEBALL PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHT.

Interest in baseball on the part of local fans has taken on new life with the arrival of Mr. Thomas L. Owens, who will manage Greensboro's team in the Carolina League during the approaching season. Manager Owens will spend a few weeks training with the Guilford College team and then take up actively the work of whipping the Greensboro team into shape.

Manager Owens has signed eight or likely players for try-outs on the local team and they are ordered to report here for training by April 1. From that time until April 23, the date of the opening of the season, they will be put through a grueling double daily practice that will put them into fine shape.

During the three weeks of training the local management will have the Patriots go up against a half dozen other teams in practice games, including contests with teams probably from Guilford College, Oak Ridge and other nearby colleges.

The full list of the players that Manager Owens has already signed follows, but in addition to these he is negotiating for four or five others, and he seems full of confidence that when the gong taps he will send a winning aggregation totting out on the diamond:

Catchers—"Tiny" Stuart and Furtrell, a young Guilford College star.

Fitchers—Fayne, Bam'od, Wilson, Beaver, Shellenberger, Harney and McLean.

Infielders—Owens, manager, Doak, Cope, Henry and Crane.

Outfielders—urray, Breslin, McCarthy and Dysert.

BILLS NOW BEFORE CONGRESS

ADMINISTRATION TO INSIST ON LEGISLATION BEFORE CONGRESS ADJOURNS.

Washington, March 3.—Trust legislation and a new law to enhance credit, before adjournment of Congress, are the only measures on the "must" list of the administration for the present session of Congress. It was made known today. This, of course, excepts the necessary appropriation bills which are being rapidly disposed of.

Should Congress get into a tangle over the trust bills and postpone the session until the campaign begins at home begin to cry for help some party leaders believe the credit bill might be postponed until next session, but there is an earnest desire on the part of the Democrats to establish a system of rural banks before the adjournment of Congress.

When the currency bill was passed many promises were made that it would be followed by legislation to help the credit of the farmers, and although no declaration was made that such a law would be considered at the present session, criticism of the Republicans directed at the free-listing of farm products in the tariff law, demands, in the opinion of many prominent Democrats, that compensatory action on behalf of the farmers should be taken as soon as possible.

It is probable that many other bills will be passed, from time to time, while trust, rural credit and appropriation bills are being considered, but so far as a legislative program is concerned, the leaders in both houses of Congress intend to keep it short. A bill to repeal the toll exemption provision of the Panama Canal act probably will be introduced within 10 days by Representative Adamson, chairman of the interstate commerce committee. It will be a very brief, flat repeal measure, offering no compromise in the situation and is certain to provoke opposition both in the house and senate. The immigration bill, which has passed the house and is to be reported from the senate committee this week, also will be urged to a conclusion if it is possible to pass it before the campaign demands adjournment, in the estimation of party managers.

Senator Ashurst has given notice that he will press the constitutional amendment for equal suffrage in the senate, but his efforts to fix a time for voting on it will be persistently opposed by Democrats and Republicans alike. The constitutional amendment for prohibition probably will not be taken up at this session, though the files of Congress are daily being piled up with petitions for and against the amendment.

The trust bills, it is now apparent, will require considerable more time in perfecting than originally was anticipated. March 1 was set, a month ago, as the time for beginning consideration of the proposed administration bills, but that time is here and not one of the bills is ready for consideration in either branch. It is probable that either the house or senate committee on interstate commerce will report a bill to create an interstate trade commission, this week or next, but many weeks will pass before there will be reported proposed measures to prohibit interlocking directorates, regulate holding companies and to provide for Federal regulation of railroad securities. Growing opposition to measures which would supplement the Sherman act, such as the tentative trade regulations and monopoly definitions bills may result in abandoning these measures altogether. Democratic members of the senate and house committees at work on the trust program already have expressed fear that such legislation will disturb the effectiveness of the Sherman law, and the attorney general does not approve of the bills, in their present form. President Wilson is seriously considering the trust legislative situation, and further conferences between the legislative and executive branches on the subject are certain to be held before the program is completed.

Boys Whipped in Church.

Newton, Ill., March 3.—Action will be brought against all who were in the Springs Holiness church Sunday when the congregation voted that Raymond and Cameron Richardson, 9 and 12 years old, should be beaten "to rid them of devils."

According to the testimony at a justice court trial here, when four of the leaders were found guilty and fined $100 each and costs, the boys had been unable to repeat the lessons which had been given them at a Holiness meeting. After the congregation had decided on their punishment, the boys were tied hand and foot and placed on the floor for punishment.

Blizzard at Mt. Airy.

Mt. Airy, March 3.—Since Sunday morning, this section has been in the grip of a blizzard the like of which has never been known here. Wind from a cloudless sky, at intervals, reached a velocity of 60 miles an hour, with temperature registering yesterday morning seven degrees above zero.

The wind came direct from the North, blowing from snow-covered mountains, carrying destruction in its path. The property loss from the blizzard, which still continues, will reach several thousand dollars in this city alone, to say nothing of the suffering and loss of business. All business yesterday and today was practically suspended.

Ernest Gary, the 17-year-old son of Chief Justice Eugene B. Gary, of the South Carolina Supreme court, a student at Washington and Lee University, was drowned Sunday while testing ice on a pond one mile from Lexington, Va.

WALKING TO ASIA.

This Is Not Difficult When Bering Strait Is Frozen.

On Aug. 15 we sailed through Bering strait and were at last in the arctic. The straits are thirty-six miles wide, with East cape, a rounded, dome shaped mass of black basalt, on the Asiatic side and on the American side Cape Prince of Wales, a headland of sharper outline, but neither so lofty nor so sheer. In between the two capes and in line with them lie the two islands of Big and Little Diomedé. Through the three narrow channels between the capes and the islands the tide runs with the swiftness of a river's current.

The Eskimos constantly cross from continent to continent in small boats. In still weather the passage can be made in a light kayak with perfect safety. The widest of the three channels is that between Big Diomedé and East cape, and is, I should say, not more than fifteen miles across. While we were passing through the straits we saw a party of Eskimos in a skin boat paddling leisurely across from America to Asia. They no doubt had been on a visit to relatives or friends on the neighboring continent. We were told that in winter, when the strait is frozen solidly, the Eskimos frequently walk from one continent to the other.—From "A Year With a Whaler," by Walter Noble Burns.

TRUE TO THE END.

And After Many Years Came Her Tragic and Pathetic Reward.

A number of years ago some miners in Wales, in exploring an old disused pit, found the body of a young man dressed in a fashion long out of date. The peculiar action of the air of the mine was such as preserved the body so perfectly that it appeared asleep rather than dead.

The miners were puzzled at the circumstances. No one in the district had been missed within their remembrance, and at last it was resolved to bring in the oldest inhabitant, an old lady over eighty years old, who had lived single in the village all her life.

When she was taken into the room where the dead man lay a strange thing occurred. The old lady fell on the corpse and kissed it and addressed it by every term of endearment spoken in a bygone generation. He was her only love, and she had waited for him her long life. She knew he had not forsaken her.

The old lady and young man had been betrothed sixty years before. Her lover had disappeared mysteriously, and she had kept her faith during the long interval.

The miners removed the old lady to her house, and that night her faithful spirit rejoined that of her long lost lover.—London Telegraph.

Wise Eskimos.

Everything in the Eskimo dress has a reason for its existence, writes Captain Roald Amundsen in "The North-west Passage." The members of Captain Amundsen's expeditions had become accustomed to the Eskimo dress and had adopted it, but many of them thought it ridiculous for grownup men to go about wearing fringe to their clothes, so they cut it off. I had my scruples about this, says the author, as I had already learned that most things in the Eskimo clothing and other arrangements had their distinct meaning and purpose, so I kept my fringe and put up with the ridicule. He laughs best who laughs last. One fine day the anovaks, a sort of tunic reaching below the knee, made of deer-skin, from which the fringes had been cut off, commenced to curl up, and if the fringe had not been put on again quickly they would soon have looked like neckties.

Astronomy.

If there were any money to be made in astronomy everybody would be studying it. About all we can see is figures, and these are so big that they stagger the understanding. Every child in the United States knows how to find the north star from the pointers of the dipper, but no child can appreciate the statement that this star is distant from the earth 210,000,000,000,000 miles—two hundred and ten trillions! A railroad train traveling at one mile a minute would have to run without stopping for 479,000,000 years in order to traverse this distance. If light really travels 187,500 miles a second a ray from the north star would be thirty-six years in reaching the earth.

Right in His Face.

A group of grieving depositors stood on the sidewalk before the closed doors of a recently defunct bank. It wasn't a merry scene. One man who had lost his all was trying to brace up a colored grandpa whose white wool bobbed up and down into the folds of a bandanna.

"Don't cry, uncle," he said. "Banks burst every day, you know."

"Yes, sir; I know it, but—huh huh, huh—dis bank—huh, huh—done burst right in mah face!"—Harper's Weekly.

The Wrong Heart.

"Mr. Bubkins," said the proud father, shaking the young man warmly by the hand, "let me tell you that you are a man after my own heart."

"Oh, no, sir," protested the blushing son; "I'm after your daughter's"—London Answers.

PRESIDENT WILL ACT WHEN THE TIME COMES.

President Wilson has revealed to those who have discussed Mexican affairs with him this week that he fully realized the gravity of the situation resulting from the killing of William S. Benton, British subject, the reported murder of Gustav Baugh and Clemente Vergara, American citizens, and General Carranza's denial of the right of the United States to look after the interests of foreigners generally in Mexico.

The president spoke deplorably of armed intervention, but at the same time pointedly referred to the size and power of a country like the United States as being sufficient warrant for a calm and patient course while compliance with the American demands was being sought. Callers got the impression from the president that he was determined to try every peaceful means at his disposal to solve the Mexican problem, but that he realized certain eventualities might mean a drastic course.

He spoke with a firmness that showed his determination not to be stampeded into action by radical speeches in Congress, but with a hint that when the necessity arose the American government could be expected to move decisively and effectively.

Upon Great Britain's attitude toward the Benton case depends largely the extent to which the United States will become involved. Should England show an inclination to let the Benton case await final adjudication at a time when a firm government is established in Mexico, the United States will not feel called upon to challenge General Carranza's specific refusal to supply the Washington administration with information about Benton's death.

Haiti's new government, with General Oreste Zamor, successful revolutionist, as president, will be recognized immediately by the United States. This was announced by Secretary Bryan, who has had the subject under consideration since reports indicated that the new regime was virtually in complete control of all parts of the republic.

NEW JOBS FOR WOMEN.

In an editorial discussion of the enlarged sphere of woman's activity in the life of the twentieth century, the Indianapolis News directs attention to the fact that twenty years ago the common question about the college girl graduate was, "Is she going to stay at home or teach?" Now, in the large cities, there are agencies, managed chiefly by alumnae associations, for training women who among their sixty kinds of places have none for teachers. Thus new jobs spring out of new conditions and new knowledge. They cover everything, from managing housekeepers for clubs, hotels and institutions to secretaries, commissioners and all kinds of social work. The applicants become clerks, proofreaders and office assistants. Of the more than 600 applicants at the New York bureau 200 were from teachers who wanted to change their employment. And it is noted that the college-trained women are the most sought. They become more competent, in the long run, in their new work. Often stenographers are kept merely as such and not advanced because the employer wants at his side an assistant that "knows something."

While such women have shown themselves willing to take almost any position, they shun the department store. Buyers for departments are the best places there. But these are filled from the ranks, and the women thus far are not willing to enter clerkships and serve the long apprenticeship. Generally they will not do as the man does—begin at the bottom in order to reach the top. But to succeed they must have special training, and this it is found hardest to supply. The applicants have not often this specialized knowledge. The best the bureaus can do is to present the college-trained girl whose general intelligence fits her quickest for success in the position that she may obtain.

The significant thing is the advance into a constantly widening field of occupations on the part of women and the organized effort to help them forward. The conclusion is that women need technical training for the ever-widening field of their profitable employment. So rapidly does this field increase that the thought suggests itself, how soon such bureaus shall be organized to help the young man graduate?

CHRISTIANITY OUR HOPE.

Rev. Edward A. Steiner, professor of applied Christianity at Grinnell College, Ia., who was born in Austria of Jewish parents, who was an immigrant and who has written several absorbing books on the immigrant, besides doing a good work as absorbing in the steerages of Atlantic liners, called Christianity the hope of the American nation in a sermon before a fashionable audience at the Bryn Mawr Presbyterian church Sunday. Strung through his sermon was a plea for the immigrant coming to this country today, along with an earnest belief that Christianity and Christian civilization will make of him a good American citizen.

"I can take you all over Europe," Professor Steiner said, "by taking you on a tour of Manhattan Island. The preservation of the 'American spirit' means the preservation of the nation."

Preserve labor, democracy and religion and this nation, with all it means, will go on.

"It is not danger from the workers of this country that we should fear, but from the shirkers. The pampered classes, produced by an elaborate education that prepares for no definite work in life, are the menace. The need for the preservation of democracy is the need for the 'man-to-man' attitude. Let there be no spirit of looking down upon men or classes. The men who came to this country two generations ago are a promise, they and their children, of what the newcomers today will be two generations hence."

"Religion is a national hope. We of today use its privileges far too lightly. More of the spirit, the religious spirit, of the old Pilgrims is needed. As for the immigrant, it is fine to teach him to sing, 'My Country, 'Tis of Thee,' but it is finer to teach him to sing 'All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name.'"

STEEL TRUST RECEIVED MILLIONS IN REBATES.

Declaring that the United States steel corporation during the last six years had received $75,000,000 in unlawful rebates from steamship and railroad lines, David Lamar, "the wolf of Wall Street," testified Tuesday at a hearing before Commissioner Harlan, of the interstate commerce commission in Washington. The hearing was in compliance with the resolution passed by the senate.

Lamar described the history of the steel corporation, saying that prior to 1898 there were 1,200 independent companies, but by 1900 they had been consolidated into nine corporations. In 1901, J. Pierpont Morgan and others consolidated these nine concerns into the United States Steel Corporation, he said.

"By this consolidation," continued Lamar, "the corporation came into possession of stock of the nine different companies and some of them in return acquired a controlling interest in certain railroad and steamship companies."

"The purpose of having the controlling interest in these companies," continued Lamar, "was to exercise a voting control and so name the presidents, general managers, and others who would be obedient to the gentlemen who formed the United States Steel Corporation. These men were to see to it that the steel corporation received its proper return. This purpose has been carried out and one of the principal devices has been to raise rates and at the same time jump the capital stock. Rates over these railroads, particularly the Duluth Iron Range Company and the Duluth, Mesaba and Northern, were abnormally high. However, they correspond to rates existing on other roads, but this is due to the fact that the capital stock of both carriers has been inflated greatly. On the original investment these roads pay from 200 to 240 per cent per annum beside placing hundreds of thousands of dollars in improvements and surplus."

Lamar declared that in this way the steel corporation received directly from these subsidiaries in dividends an aggregate during the last six years of $75,000,000. Lamar asserted this was a form of illegal rebating and preferences that were prohibited by the interstate commerce law.

Publisher Tells Story.

W. H. Green, a publisher of Creighton, Neb., told of the manner in which the facts in this case had been placed before the senate after conferences between local lawyers, attorneys for the Anti-Trust League, and Senator Norris, of Nebraska. He said it had been impossible to see the president in reference to the matter. He then asked Commissioner Harlan to hear Lamar.

Lamar stated that he had other witnesses, but wanted to confer with the commissioner privately before putting them on the stand.

J. S. Keefe representing the steel corporation, but not in the capacity of an attorney, declared after Lamar had given his testimony that no new facts were placed before the commission, and that what had been stated by Lamar had been generally known for years.

SALE OF LAND.

By virtue of a decree of the Superior court of Guilford county made at the February term, 1914, in an action therein pending, entitled John M. Bowers and William C. Bowers as executors and trustees, et al., vs. John W. Conner, et al., the undersigned commissioner will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, at the court house door in Greensboro, Guilford county, N. C., at 12 o'clock M., on Saturday, March 28, 1914.

For cash, the following described real estate, lying and being in Guilford county, N. C., and described as follows:

All those certain tracts or parcels of land in Guilford county, in the state of North Carolina, lying and being on the waters of Reddick's creek, and commonly known as the Gardner Hill Mining tract, being the same two tracts or parcels of land which were conveyed to John S. Donnell by John M. Payne, commissioner, duly appointed by deed dated October 18, 1871, and which are therein particularly described as follows, that is to say:

Beginning for the first tract at a post oak Abel Gardner, Sr., northeast corner, now W. M. Wiley's, and running thence north 90 poles to the southeast corner of John Gardner's tract, a stone; thence west 108 poles to a white oak stump near the gold mine; thence north 51 degrees west, crossing the creek to a poplar, 26 poles; thence south 51 degrees west 26 poles to a stake; thence east 8 poles to a stone near a large sweet gum, thence south 90 poles to Abel Gardner's line; thence with his line east 140 poles to the beginning, containing 82 acres of land more or less.

SECOND TRACT: Beginning at a stone running thence east 13 poles to the creek; thence with the line of the Gardner Mine tract 25 poles to a poplar; thence south 50 degrees east 26 poles to a white oak; thence east 115 poles to a stake in the old line; thence north 92 poles to a stake, Hamilton Armfield's corner; thence west with Armfield's line 160 poles to a stone, Stephen Gardner's corner; thence south 92 poles to the beginning, containing 30 acres of land, more or less, excepting from the last tract a piece within these bounds is beginning at the mouth of a branch on the bank of Reddick's creek, running thence up said branch 47 poles to a maple near the forks of said branch; thence south 37 poles to a post oak in the line, Gardner's Mine tract; thence east to poles to a stone in Sullivan's line; thence north 92 poles to a stone, Armfield's corner; thence west 160 poles to a stone, Stephen Gardner's corner; thence south 92 poles to a stone; thence east 18 poles to a white oak near the spring; thence dividing the spring and down the spring drain to the creek; thence up the creek, to the beginning, containing 51 acres, which was conveyed to John Gardner by the Gardner Hill Mining Company on the 19th day of May, 1896, with the reservation to the said company of all rights to the metals and minerals therein contained, with a right to enter, dig and mine for the same, and with all other privileges necessary to enable them to raise and remove said metals and minerals, with rights to erect a dam on the creek and use the water of said creek as the company might think necessary in their mining operations on the land or the adjacent tracts and on the Gardner Mine tracts, and with the rights for the period of twenty-five years to cut and use such timber and wood as said company might desire to use in their mining operations on that or any other of their lands as aforesaid from all that part of said tract lying south of a line running south of a line running east from the beginning at the mouth of the branch to the Gates land.

Also the metals and minerals in said excepted piece contained, and any and all other rights, liberties and privileges reserved to the Gardner Hill Mining Company, as above described and set forth in the deed of the company to said John Gardner, and in all metals, minerals, woods, ways, rights and privileges of every kind in addition to the land itself, in so much of the land herein conveyed as lies outside of the excepted boundary; and also the estate and rights of the said party of the first part in and to said premises, rights or privileges. Being the same premises which were conveyed to John W. Conner, one of the parties hereto of the first part, by two deeds, one by John M. Bowers and William C. Bowers, as executors of and trustees under the last will and testament of Franklin Osgood, deceased, who are parties of the second part hereto, and the other by John M. Bowers and William T. Gray, as executors of the last will and testament of Henry Winthrop Gray, deceased, parties of the second part hereto. (No interest, easements or rights are undertaken to be sold except such as are in existence, as shown by the different deeds constituting the chain of title, and to this purchasers are referred.)

Terms of sale—cash.

GUILFORD COLLEGE.

Prof. George Hartley, of Indiana, gave an interesting illustrated lecture on Palestine in the Friends church last Tuesday evening. He will spend a few days at the college and in the vicinity attending some religious meetings. Prof. Hartley was for several years superintendent of New Garden boarding school and is well known to a large number of persons in this locality.

Dr. Palmer, of Haverford College, will deliver an illustrated lecture in Memorial hall next Saturday evening, March 7, at 7:30 o'clock, to which the public is invited.

Mrs. Lillian Jimmet Coulter, of Northampton, Mass., spent last Sunday at the home of Dr. Miller. She was on her way to Florida for an extended visit to friends and relatives living in that state.

I suppose no one will blame the ground hog for returning to his hole, if he foresaw the condition of the weather when he came out on February 2 as it has actually occurred for the past two weeks.

During the heavy day last Monday morning a barn belonging to Frank Scott, a colored man living near this place, was burned, together with a lot of feed and wood. The fire is supposed to have started by a spark blown by the wind from the chimney of his house.

VANDALIA.

The Woman's Betterment Association of Cedar Hill will have an oyster supper and shadow party at Cedar Hill Friday night, March 6. Girls bring boxes of candy; boys bring your purse full of money. Everybody invited.

Miss Annie Dorsett has accepted a position in Greensboro.

Mr. Oscar Taylor had the misfortune to cut his leg while hawking dogs last week.

Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Prenton, who have been visiting their grandparents for some time, returned to their home in Baltimore, Md.

Rev. T. M. Johnson and Mr. J. Norman Wills laid the cornerstone for Moriah church recently.

Rev. and Mrs. W. M. Kennett, of Liberty, visited here recently.

Miss Mattie Coe is on the sick list.

GRAY'S CHAPEL.

The ground hog is still doing business at the old stand.

Mr. Alfred Alfred has just completed a splendid new barn.

Mr. Emory Routh and Miss Gertrude Pugh were married last Sunday at the residence of G. W. Pugh, Esq., who performed the ceremony. We wish for this young couple a smooth voyage on the sea of life.

Mrs. Martha Cox, widow of the late Milton Cox, aged 70 years, died at her home in the Providence neighborhood February 28. Interment was made in the cemetery here the following day. Rev. A. H. Pike, her pastor, conducted the funeral service.

Closing Exercises at Mt. Hope Public School.

On Saturday, March 7, 1914, beginning at 10:30 o'clock A. M., Mt. Hope public school will close with a program consisting of recitations, declamations, monologues, dialogues, plays, pantomimes, songs, contests and an address. Music will be furnished by a string band. Public most cordially invited to attend.

RANDLEMAN.

Mrs. Annie Tooms, who is sick, is improving slowly.

Master Theodore Spencer, of Greensboro, visited his aunt, Mrs. Robert Vickery, of this route, last week.

The sale of Allen Spencer's property was called off on account of bad weather. It will be held on the 9th of March. Mr. Spencer is going to Mississippi.

Mr. K. G. Coltrane is building a new tool house.

Miss Alice McCandless, of Guilford College, is spending a few days with her parents.

Miss Ollie Palmer has returned to Pleasant Garden after spending a few days with her parents on this route.

Mrs. Sophia Eason is suffering with an attack of rheumatism.

Mr. Eugene Coltrane visited at Level Cross recently.

Mrs. Ettie Hodgins died at her home near Level Cross Sunday night, February 22.

Mr. Charlie Gamble was a business visitor in Greensboro recently.

The school at Level Cross closed Tuesday.

TABERNACLE.

We are very glad to say that Mrs. Mary Hunter, who has been sick with pneumonia, is somewhat improved.

Mr. "Arny" Moser, of Greensboro, spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. Cecil Reno.

Mr. George Fields was a welcome visitor at Mr. John P. Cobb's Sunday.

Mr. Ross Alfred, of Alamogordo, was a visitor in this community Sunday afternoon.

Several from this community are expected to attend the exhibition at Mt. Hope March 7.

The Tabernacle school will close March 28, with an entertainment that night.

Miss Callie Kirkman spent Saturday night and Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Jay Fozzleman, of Greensboro.

COBLE'S CHURCH.

Wonder what those people say now who thought there would not be winter enough to go around?

Mr. D. Grant Coble and son, Charles, spent Saturday and Sunday with Mr. J. S. Worth, at High Point.

We were sorry to hear of the misfortune of Rev. Troxler, whose horse broke loose at Pleasant Union last Sunday, breaking his leg and run a shaft in its side about six inches.

Uncle Billie Coble, who has been right sick for some time, is some better now.

Rev. D. C. Cox, of Mt. Hope Reformed church, will preach at Coble's the second Sunday at 2:30 P. M.

Rev. Troxler preached at Coble's the fourth Sunday. We hope he will come again, as everyone enjoyed the sermon. It was fine.

Pie Party Near McLeansville.

There will be a pie party at the Union school house, near McLeansville, Saturday night, March 14, at 7:30 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to come and enjoy a pleasant evening. Music by the Greensboro band and refreshments will be served by the school.

Play at Shady Grove.

A play entitled "Handy Andy" will be given by the Shady Grove school, Jefferson township, Saturday night, March 7, beginning promptly at 7:30. Everybody come and enjoy the witty conversation of Andy. Admission, 10 cents. Refreshments will be served by the school.

Anti-American Plot Uncovered.

Mexico City, March 3.—Two hundred police were ordered on guard about the American Club today and the streets approaching the building because of the discovery of a conspiracy to attack the building. Government officials refused to discuss the action, which was taken by personal direction of President Huerta, but they admitted that several arrests had been made in connection with the plot.

In addition to police stationed at the club and in the streets, a detachment of the Twenty-ninth infantry was held near by in readiness for action.

It is said the plot was hatched by opponents of Huerta, who hoped by inciting an attack on Americans to force intervention by the United States.

A Medical View of Bathing.

Whether or not we believe that cold baths have virtues which hot baths can never possess, it is far better to preach the most advanced gospel of cleanliness than none at all. The person who bathes frequently is a cleaner person both physically and mentally than he who does not, and if our desire is today to bring about a higher morale among the people at large let us not cavil at a soap because forsooth it may be a little too strong in alkali, or at large quantities of water, even though applied to the body oftener than once a day. For let no one think for a moment that human nature is so smitten with the idea of keeping clean that it will ever have a maddening desire to use too much soap or water.—Dr. Philip Skrafka in Interstate Medical Journal.

The Victoria Cross.

England's prized Victoria Cross is only won under circumstances of the deadliest peril to its owner. The cross itself is of bronze, cast from cannon taken at Sebastopol inscribed with the words, "For Valour." It is the proudest decoration a British subject can wear. The Duke of Newcastle, secretary of state for war in 1854-5, is credited with having originated the idea of the cross after the Alma, being anxious to institute an English order which all ranks might win and be proud to wear, like the French Legion of Honor. The cross confers on all below commissioned rank an annuity of $50.

NEW SPRING GOODS.

You may think it out of place to be talking about fresh spring goods these February days of snows, sleet and almost zero weather—but I want to remind you that spring is just around the corner. Soon you will be wanting goods for the new spring dresses for the women and children, lighter clothing for the men and boys and new shoes for every member of the family. While it was snowing in Greensboro and the thermometer was going in the direction of zero, I left town and went to Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York, where I bought the biggest and best stock of spring goods that I have ever handled. These goods are now coming in, and this is an invitation for you to come and inspect the stock. You will be more than pleased with our showing of gingham, percales and other dress goods, men's and boys' clothing, shoes, etc.

I will mention in passing that I want to get rid of all the winter goods in stock and am offering bargains that you cannot afford to miss.

MEN IN CONGRESS IN CHARGE OF REGULATION OF "BIG BUSINESS."

Chairmen and Associates Are Practicing Attorneys With One Exception.

A Bigger Undertaking Than Either the Tariff or Currency Problems.

NINE Democrats in the senate and fourteen in the house of representatives, constituting the majority membership of the house judiciary committee and the senate interstate commerce committee, are to frame legislation intended to strengthen and supplement the Sherman anti-trust law, under which the present administration will endeavor to regulate and control the affairs of "big business." This proposed legislation at the present time is in the form of the "five brothers" bills, which are pending in the house.

No proposition of greater importance ever has come before congress than rectorates provides two years of leave, during which the holding membership on the boards of directors of interstate coal, steel and iron, common carrier corporations, banks and trust companies may be relinquished.

A second section of the bill specifically forbids the holding of directorships by one individual in two or more financial institutions enjoying the protection and provisions of the new currency law.

A fine of $100 for every day during which the provisions of the foregoing section are violated is provided. A fourth section establishes the dictum that disobedience of the eliminating provisions of the measure shall be sufficient to constitute conclusive evidence of infringement of the Sherman anti-trust law itself by the corporations whose boards contain duplications of individual directorships.

The bill to make clearer the definition of monopolies and restraints of trade specifically forbids the following:

Combinations to create or carry out restrictions in trade or to acquire a monopoly in any interstate trade, business or commerce; to limit or reduce the production or increase the price of merchandise or of any commodity; to prevent competition in the manufacturing, making, transporting, selling or purchasing of merchandise, produce or any commodity; to make an

FRANCIS G. NEWLANDS, CHAIRMAN OF SENATE INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMITTEE.

REPRESENTATIVE JOSEPH TAGGART OF KANSAS.

As proposed effort to place a limit upon organized business.

Task Greater Than Tariff.

Public men who are preparing to frame the trust question their consideration are agreed that it will require far greater statesmanship to settle it without doing injury than was required either with regard to the tariff or the revision of the currency laws. Both those questions related only to certain phases of certain lines of the trade and commerce of the United States.

Thus, legislation embraces every conceivable form of industrial and commercial activity and every possible manner of conducting business affairs. It means an effort to impose restrictions and to erect safeguards. The mere necessity for such legislation suggests a conflict between capital on the one hand and labor and the consumer on the other. It seeks to define definitely and with exactness a square and fair way of transacting business, deviation from which means violation of law and punishment.

The bills as now drawn have the O. K. of the president, in whose possession they were for a day or more. If changes are made it will be after house proceedings have demonstrated the necessity of modifying them. The fundamentals of the bills will stand and become law.

Plans of the Bills.

The bills may be briefly summarized as follows:

First.—A bill creating the interstate trade commission.

Second.—A bill to regulate directorates of corporations and to prohibit interlocking directorates.

Third.—A bill defining unlawful monopoly or restraints of trade.

Fourth.—The trade relations bill, which, among other things, forbids unfair trade practices, such as underselling in one locality to stifle competition and recouping the losses thus sustained by raising prices in localities where there is no competition.

The bill forbidding interlocking direction of the Sherman law, defining what shall be classed as unlawful trade practices.

Another section of this bill permits an injured party to take advantage of proofs established by the government as to the character of any unlawful combination in the suit against such corporation to recover damages under the Sherman law.

The penalties for violating any of these provisions run against any person, firm or corporation, and the fine shall not exceed $5,000, with imprisonment for one year as an alternative, or both penalties, in the discretion of the court. A section of the bill makes the officers, directors and agents of the corporation equally guilty with the corporation for any acts proved against the corporation.

The trade relations bill proposes to add five sections to the Sherman law, defining what shall be classed as unlawful trade practices.

Another section of this bill permits an injured party to take advantage of proofs established by the government as to the character of any unlawful combination in the suit against such corporation to recover damages under the Sherman law.

A section of the anti-trust program specifically prohibiting holding companies is to be added later.

Newlands, Clayton and Webb.

With a single exception every member of the senate interstate commerce committee and the house judiciary committee is a practicing attorney. The exception is Senator Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina, who in his autobiography classifies himself as a merchant and planter.

Senator Francis G. Newlands of Nevada, chairman of the senate committee, is a man of affairs. He is a lawyer by profession and owns numerous properties of his own and is a stockholder in certain industries. Senator Newlands has been in the house or senate since the Fifty-third congress.

Representative Henry D. Clayton of Alabama, chairman of the house judiciary committee, is rounding out his ninth continuous term in congress and is considered one of the "seasoned" legislators of the lower body. Before his advent into Washington he served a term in the Alabama legislature, and previous to that was United States district attorney for four years. In his career in the house he has taken part in the floor discussions of every important matter of legislation, especially those concerning the judiciary, in recent years.

Representative Edwin Y. Webb has practiced law in North Carolina for twenty years. Before he went to congress eleven years ago he served in the state senate with distinction. He is the author of the Webb liquor law, which prohibits the shipment of liquor from a wet state into a dry state.

Representative Charles C. Carlin of Virginia, like all of his colleagues on the judiciary committee, is a practicing attorney. He has been a member of the house for almost eight years.

Representative John C. Floyd of Arkansas has practiced law since 1882. Before he was elected to congress eight years ago he had served two terms in the Arkansas legislature and had been a prosecuting attorney of his county.

Representative Robert Y. Thomas, Jr., of Kentucky, is serving his third term in the house. He was a member of the Kentucky legislature in 1886 and was commonwealth's attorney for the Seventh judicial district in Kentucky until elected to congress.

Long In State Legislature.

Representative Henry Garland Dupre of Louisiana before he was elected congress in 1910 had served ten years as a member of the Louisiana legislature, of which body he was speaker from 1908 to 1910. He has practiced law in New Orleans since 1885 and for a number of years was assistant city attorney of New Orleans.

Representative Walter Irving McCoy of New Jersey has been a practicing attorney in New York city since he was graduated from Harvard law school in 1886. He is serving his second term in the house and previously had held no public office except that of trustee of the city of East Orange, N. J., which is his home.

Representative Daniel J. McGillicuddy of Maine was mayor of his home city, Lewiston, in 1887, 1890 and 1902. He was a member of the Maine legislature in 1884-5.

Representative Jack Beall of Texas was elected to congress ten years ago, but previous to that had served in the Texas legislature from 1892 to 1893 and in the Texas senate from 1894 to 1898.

Representative Joseph Taggart of Kansas is starting on his second term in the house. He was elected and twice re-elected prosecuting attorney of Wyandotte county, Kan.

Representative Louis FitzHenry of Illinois, who is serving his first term, has practiced law since 1897 and served two terms as city attorney of Bloomington. He entered newspaper work at an early age.

Degrees From Three Colleges.

Representative John E. Carey of New York has degrees from three colleges. He has practiced law continuously in New York city since 1897. He is serving his first term in congress.

Representative John B. Peterson of Indiana, according to the autobiography in the Congressional Record, has engaged in business pursuits in addition to the profession of law. He has practiced law at Crown Point, Ind., since 1870, but he is also president of two banks, one at Crown Point and the other at East Chicago, Ind.

Representative John J. Mitchell, who is one of the younger members of the judiciary committee, served both in the Massachusetts house of representatives and the state senate before he was elected to congress a year ago.

FAINT HEART NE'ER WON

By C. A. M'KEE.

"Faint heart ne'er won fair lady," some fellow said; I'm going to ask the doctor." Thus the youth, a bright-faced, curly-headed lad not out of his teens, throwing his head back like the thoroughbred he was.

"My goodness," gasped the girl, "he'll flay you alive."

"Not until he subdues that fit of gout," replied the youth, his eyes dancing. "If I'd make one pass toward his bad leg he'd holler like a lion."

The girl laughed in spite of herself, then looked grave again.

It might be said in passing that this was what the twain called "The Ways and Means Committee" in full session. You see it was this way: The lad and the girl with all the ardor and folly of youth desired only one thing—each other. They talked by day and dreamed by night of a love-lit cottage where they could remain always hand in hand encompassed by all the joys of love. They were a likely pair too, high-bred, well assorted, full of life and vigor and hope and courage.

But, alas, there was the inevitable stern parent—in this case the uncle and guardian of the girl, Doctor Kirk. And Ethel was only seventeen. And she and Archie simply could not wait four years.

So it was that the ways and means committee sat in frequent session.

"Hurrah," he cried. "I've got it. He shall ask me to marry you."

"Shall I ring for the keeper?" responded the girl. "Or have you only been drinking?"

"Look here," replied Archie. "Ain't the doctor shining around mother all the time? Hasn't he got his greedy eyes on ma's quarter of a million? Well, I guess."

"But—"

"No buts now," he broke in. "I must get it off my mind or I'll bust." He marched bravely into the house followed by Ethel and a storm of protest.

"Doctor Kirk," he said solemnly, "I er he had invaded that worthy's library and seated himself under the questioning hostility of the shaggy brows. "I have observed for a long time your attentions to my mother."

The doctor grew purple, but the boy went on unconcerned: "And I will say frankly I have observed it with pleasure for I always respected and esteemed you sir."

"Well, sir,"

This abrupt interjection nearly floored the young man, but he never flinched.

"Well, sir," he replied. "There is a circumstance which I thought you should know before the affair goes any further. According to the terms of my father's will, if my mother marries before I am of age, or am married myself, the entire property, her share as well as my own reverts to me. And I thought you should know it. Not that I want to throw a straw in your way. Quite the reverse, I assure you. But as I am the only man of the family and as these property matters should always be understood between gentlemen I thought it only right to speak to you. I am not, of course, her confidant in such matters, but I am aware she respects you highly—and I was afraid—well I thought it better to set things right now."

"You young rascal," roared the doctor, poking Archie with his cane. "You see too much. You don't mean to say your mother is becoming interested in me."

"I fear so, sir," replied Archie gravely.

The doctor swelled up like a huge turkey cock and chuckled:

"Look here," he said, turning suddenly on Archie. "You've been shining about my Ethel ever since I can remember. Why don't you bring things to a head? Great Scott, young man, when I was young we used to marry early and get a good start."

"I'm afraid she wouldn't have me," replied the conspirator shamelessly.

"Tush, tush," rejoined the doctor. "Faint heart ne'er won fair lady, sir. I'll bet she'd jump at the chance. You've got a pretty fortune coming and you're a well-favored young buck."

"I feared also that you would oppose her marriage so young," remarked Archie meekly.

"Not at all, not at all," replied the doctor. "Ridiculous, this talk against youthful marriages. It's the time to marry."

Within an hour Archie led the blushing and still unbelieving Ethel into the dreaded lion's den and they knelt to receive the blessing of her guardian.

COONS MAKE PLAYFUL PETS

Maine Man Has Two Which He Has Tamed and Trained, and They Act Like Kittens.

Wild raccoons that are found in the Maine woods are like children in a great many ways. They can be trained to do things, though they are born under different influences.

Adolph Gihblair of Skowhegan, Me., has two pet coons which he has trained and cares for daily. He got these coons from a farmer about four months ago, and they are now as playful as kittens and will frolic with each other, rolling over and over like two little dogs, and they do not show any savage or wild disposition. They are let out into the dooryard and will run about, and when tired will stretch out on the doorstep in the sun.

They are very keen to danger and if a dog approaches they will climb to the top of an apple tree. They are kept in a yard of their own in night time and they have a large hollow log that they can go into. They curl up together like two kittens and sleep.

Two for a Quarter.

He was smoking a fine, full-flavored Havana when he met his friend.

"Have a cigar?" he inquired, very politely.

"Thanks," said the other, gratefully, taking and lighting the proffered weed.

After a few experimental puffs, however, the friend removed the cigar from his lips and, looking at it doubtfully, said, with a very evident abatement of gratitude in his tone:

"What do you pay for these cigars?"

"Two for a quarter," said the original proprietor of both weeds, taking his own cigar out of his mouth and looking at it with considerable satisfaction. "This one cost me 20 cents and that five."

The conversation languished at this point.—Puck.

Author's Queer Costume.

One of Robert Louis Stevenson's contemporaries describes the author: "His hair was smooth and parted in the middle and fell below the collar of his coat; he wore a black flannel shirt, with a curious knitted tie twisted in a knot; had Wellington boots, rather tight, dark trousers, a pea jacket and a white sombrero hat. But the most astounding item of all his costume was a lady's sealskin cape, which he wore about his shoulders, fastened at the neck by a fancy brooch, which also held together a bunch of half a dozen daffodils. I think these final touches to his toilet must have been added by loving hands without his knowledge or consent."

FRIEND WORTH THE KEEPING

European Merchant Showed His Appreciation of Newspaper in Substantial Manner.

Nothing pleases a newspaper more than letters of appreciation from its readers. The most hardened old editor will flush up and tears of joy will fill his cynical eyes when "Veteran Subscriber" or "Constant Reader" writes in to say that yesterday's smashing attack was the best ever.

Here in America letters of appreciation are all that any editor can hope for. Abroad, however, it is different. French editors are frequently rewarded for good articles by presents of roses, gold fountain pens, baskets of fruit, and so forth.

But nowhere in the world does there exist such a Maecenas of the press as good old Mr. Bimbo, the leading pork dealer of central Europe.

Mr. Bimbo lives in Budapest, and a year ago the Budapest Egyetertes published an interview with him, which stated so accurately all his political views that he sent forthwith to the editorial room a whole hand cart of hams, sausages, blood puddings and other choice pork products.

Since then, incredible as it seems, Mr. Bimbo has kept its editors fully supplied with pork meat.

But man cannot live by meat alone, and a month or so ago the Egyetertes went into liquidation. As the editors in a mournful conference composed an editorial farewell for their final issue Mr. Bimbo was announced. He had heard the sad news, and now, taking in the situation, he took out his check book, and with one stroke of the pen set the Egyetertes on its feet again.

A Vanished Ocean.

In the tertiary period the geographical configuration of the globe was steadily approaching that of the present day. The same holds true for the faunal aspect and the climate was verging on the glacial period. It was at this time the great equatorial ocean, "Tethys," existed still, and there is evidence that East India and Africa, Australia and Asia, north Europe and North America were united by land connections. In the latter part of the period the ocean "Tethys" gave place to mountainous formations, such as the Alps, Himalayas and Carpathians, through the folding up of the crust of the sea. At the same time there were enormous outpourings of volcanic materials. Snakes and true birds advanced rapidly toward their modern position in this period, which was characterized also by the maximum expansion of mammals taking the place of the great saurians.—New York Sun.

Significance of Little Things. We love little things, we hate little things, we fear little things. Our lives are knit up with little things from the time we are born to the day we die.

Big things draw us up to heaven or crush us down to hades. Little things live beside us on the earth, eat and sleep with us, laugh and grumble with us, catch the early train with us or make us miss it, irritate and appease us—never leave us alone for a minute.

That is why they are so much more important than the big things—the things that come only once in a way, at long intervals, and even then are nearly always the result of a hundred and one little things combined.

To be crushed by a large misadventure is natural, but to fall a victim to a series of petty misfortunes is humiliating. There are many who would prefer to break their necks once and for all by falling off a mountain than to bruise their whole bodies and dislocate their tempers by the daily stumbling over a molehill. It is the little things that count. The satisfaction of climbing Mount Olympus is a poor sort of attainment if the scores and scores of pleasant details which wait upon success be absent.—Atlantic.

MR. WILSON'S FIRST YEAR

SOME OF THE LEGISLATION ENACTED AND OTHER WORK AHEAD.

Elimination of the hand of Wall street in the government of the United States, a new banking and currency system believed to have placed pins in the category of the impossible, and a lower tariff which is expected to reduce the cost of living are considered by Mr. Woodrow Wilson to have been the most important results of his first year as president, which ended at noon yesterday.

President Wilson is confident that the banking and currency law has eradicated the influence of Wall street on national legislation and established a "democracy of credit." He is glad that the special interests of Wall street were not favored in the lowering of the tariff and that the people were the beneficiaries in this legislation designed as a solar plexus at soaring living prices.

The president is modestly proud of his work in throwing the glare of publicity on "insidious lobbies" whose influence in intimidating Congress and placing their finger prints on legislation has been removed. He considers the death of the Washington lobbies with the banking and currency and tariff acts when he reflects on the upsurges dealt the chin of finance in Wall street during his first twelve months in the White House.

Among other notable achievements which have been guided by President Wilson since taking the oath of office a year ago are:

Two important amendments to the constitution—the first adopted in forty-three years—were made effective. One provides for the direct election of senators by the people. The other authorizes the imposition of a tax on incomes, thus transferring the burden of maintaining the government from the poor to the wealthy.

Proposals were made to all civilized nations for the arrangement of treaties whereby actual hostilities would be deferred during a year of reflection. Thirty governments signified their acceptance of this principle.

A return to popular government was encouraged when the president appeared in person and addressed the two branches of Congress on legislative propositions. He thus sought to terminate domination through private arrangements and secret conferences by the aid of public opinion.

The amendment of laws whereby arbitration of disputes between capital and labor was made more successful.

The constitution of peace presented by the president has gone far in the direction of breaking up interlocking directorates, which formed the backbone of trusts and monopolies.

The helping hand of the government was extended to the farmers when $50,000,000 were distributed to assist in moving crops.

The divorcement of the government from the New York financial concerns that proposed cooperation with foreign governments in furnishing funds for China.

The employment of peaceable methods by which the telephone trust was dissolved without litigation or expense.

The policy of diplomatic postponement under which the unsettled relations between the United States and Mexico have been handled.

The placing of the postal system on a self-sustaining basis for the first time in government history.

The parcel post system has been developed and extended to a remarkable degree of efficiency and benefit.

Parliamentary rules in the senate and house were amended, removing the heritage received from Aldrich and Cannon, leaving the majority to control.

The pure food act was extended to include inspection of all meats, thus affording adequate protection to American consumers.

A bureau of markets was established in the department of agriculture, providing a scientific method by which farm products may be transported and distributed.

The armor plate trust was compelled to submit competitive bids in connection with the construction of American battleships. The government was saved more than $2,000,000. The special delivery system was extended to the parcel post.

The home life of the farmer was given consideration by the department of agriculture. Encouragement in the utilization of labor-saving devices was contained in 55,000 letters sent out.

The full protection of the law has been given Indian children.

A new public land policy was inaugurated. It combines conservation and the proper use of the national domain.

The enactment of an agricultural extension law, which is expected to double the production of American farms.

The institution in the navy of academic, vocational and technical instruction.

The two great transportation monopolies of the East and West were forced to disolve. The Pennsylvania Railroad relinquished its hold in the Baltimore and Ohio. The Southern and Union Pacific merger was cancelled.

The extinction of many great combinations in restraint of trade by agreement.

The ratification of eight general arbitration treaties, which will enable the president to adjust numerous foreign disputes and complications that now prove irritating. Among the treaties approved were those between the United States and Great Britain and with Japan.

The establishment of an eight-hour day for women and girls in the District of Columbia.

The above record of what President Wilson has guided to completion represents less than half of what he expects to carry to consummation before he celebrates the end of his second year in the White House. The list of important matters which he already has under way and which he hopes to see completed before the end of his second year is as follows:

The negotiation and ratification of a treaty with Colombia, by which payment shall be made for the loss of Panama and the Canal Zone. This is considered on a parity with the great achievements of the past year. It is intended to remove the stain upon national honor caused by the violent seizure of Panama and restore friendly relations with a sister republic.

The repeal of the tolls exemption clause in the Adamson act, under which American coastwise vessels are given free use of the Panama Canal. This is expected to remove causes for irritation between the government and those of Great Britain and other maritime powers. It will demonstrate that the United States is willing to respect all treaty obligations.

The ratification by the senate of sixteen additional general arbitration treaties.

The continued arrangement of peace treaties until all civilized nations have been brought into a "breathing" agreement with this country.

Continued efforts for the restoration of peace in Mexico without intervention or the employment of force.

Perfection of a treaty with Nicaragua, under which this government will acquire the right to construct a canal over the Nicaraguan route and secure sites for a naval base and fortifications to protect the Panama waterway.

Legislation under which the federal government and the various states will unite in the construction of good roads.

Complete reorganization of the Democratic party in New York and Pennsylvania. It is desired to eliminate the domination of Tammany in New York state. It is believed that the pending fight between Boies Penrose and his enemies in Pennsylvania affords a favorable opportunity for the Democrats to elect a senator from that state.

The trust control program, by which it is intended to supplement the Sherman act. Legislation will be framed preventing monopolies, supervising the capitalization of interstate corporations and forbidding interlocking directorates.

The election of a Democratic house of representatives next November, in order that party control may continue without interruption in all branches of the government.

The construction and administration of a government railroad for the development of Alaska. The necessary bill has passed both branches of Congress and will be operative in the near future.

Dr. W. N. Mebane has moved his family from Hillsboro to this city and will engage in the practice of medicine here.

Men's Sunday Shoes

Made to Sell at Two Dollars a Pair

Are very poor shoes; in fact they are so bad that we should not want to handle them. Leather is so high that it is out of the question to make good dress shoes for men at that figure. But we offer you at $2.00 a pair a lot of $3, $3.50 and $4.00 shoes carried over from former seasons. For all practical purposes these shoes are just as good as if fresh from the factory. They are made of patent leather, gun metal calf, and tan calf. Nearly all sizes here. It won't cost you a cent to look at them the next time you come in, and if there's a pair to suit in the lot you save a dollar or two.
