side is affected with paralysis and he is unable to speak.

A contract for the construction of three septic sewer tanks was awarded by the city authorities last week to W.
R. Pleasants & Co., at a cost of approximately $5,000 each. They are to be used in connection with the new sewer system, which will, when completed, rank with the very best in the South.

A man named G. G. Miller, who claimed Winston as his home, forfeited a $25 bond in police court Monday for failure to answer a charge of assault.
His wife was the object of his wrath,
the assault taking place near the coal

Rev. Ira Erwin, hopes to have the building ready for dedication by the first of November.

The coroner's jury after a careful investigation of the death of Mary Gant, colored, returned a verdict Saturday placing the responsibility of the child's death on her step-father, Johnson Stroud. Accordingly Stroud will be brought back from Alamance county, where he is serving a short sentence on the roads, and tried for murder.

Ben Clarida, a well known farmer living near Sedalia, was given a preliminary hearing Saturday before U. S.
Commissioner J. M. Wolfe on a charge of illicit distilling and bound over to the October term of Federal court under a bond of $100. D. E. Thomas becoming his surety. The evidence against Clarida is purely circumstantial.

after which they will go to Liberty for the summer months. Prof. Albright is delighted with the eastern country.
He says the people there are "living

Successful Suburban Lot Sale.

The sale of suburban lots out Spring Garden street, between the city limits and Lindley park, attracted a large number of people last Friday afternoon.
The bidding, under the skillful manipulation of Auctioneer Ferguson, of Atlanta, was quite spirited and in all fifty-nine lots were sold. The buyers and amounts paid were as follows: E.
M. Moore, $385; G. T. McLamb, $295;
W. D. McAdoo, $309; J. R. Jeffreys,
two, at $245 and $295; D. R. Huffines, $340; G. T. McLamb, $375; W. D. Mc-Adoo, $95; L. C. Isley, $110; J. O. Hardie, two, $165 and $175; R. E. Steele, $165; J. H. Grogan, two, $165 and $135;
R. L. Leavel, two, $110 and $85; J. C.
Millikan, $65; J. J. Mitchell, $100; J. C.
Anderson, $115; J. F. Taylor, $115;
Bynum Clegg, $110; A. J. Williams,
$100; W. B. Giles, $115; H. M. Chamblee, $110; P. J. Waynick, $110; H. M.
Chamblee, two, $110 and $85; J. R.
Bell, $115; H. M. Chamblee, two, $95
and $95; M. F. Jones, $100; W. J. Lewis, $105; M. J. Walsh, $100; R. H. Melvin,
$95; J. L. Cartland, $105; W. E. Vest,
$85; J. T. Hire, $80; W. E. Vest, $80;
E. G. Spoon, $55; J. S. Foster, $65; W.
A. Watson, two, $40 and $105; J. Y.
Joyner, $75; K. K. Lively, two, $90 and $90; J. R. Holt, $90; J. R. Smithfield, $90;
L. C. Smith, $85; W. T. McLean, $115;
J. T. Millikan & Co., $235; R. E. Steele,
two, $200 and $100; J. C. Murchison, two, $135 and $120; Fred Taylor, $305.
Mr. Taylor also bought the lot upon which the house was located. For this he paid $2,001. The two lots sold for the benefit of the State Normal and Industrial College and Greensboro Female College brought $100 and $105, respectively. All this property is on or adjacent to the car line and near the new graded school site, and while it sold well there is no doubt but it will still further enhance in value steadily.
The Southern Railway's new yards are not far distant from the property, and as soon as houses can be built there will be a demand for them. In all it was the most successful sale ever managed by Mr. Jordan, and he has had much experience in that line.

The Latest Game of Craft.

Another ingenious swindle, besides the passing of $1 bills raised to $10, is being worked on Greensboro merchants, two of whom have been "bit" within the past week. This fraud is being practiced by negroes, is worked by "raising" money orders, and the swindlers have been operating in Charlotte, Wilmington, Richmond, Greensboro and other places in the past two months. Postmaster Glenn, who says he warned merchants here several weeks ago against frauds of the kind described, before the swindlers struck Greensboro, gives the following illustration of how the thing is worked,
from a careful examination of the raised orders presented here last week at the postoffice for payment: "A confederate, in Charlotte, for example, buys a money order there for 50 cents, payable at some other point of an obscure location. This order is then forwarded to a confederate at Greensboro. The name of the town where the order is payable is taken out by chemicals and Greensboro inserted. The wave line, indicating no dollars, is taken out, and $30 or $40, in one case $50, is written in.
The Greensboro confederate goes to a store, usually dressed in overalls, to convey the impression that he works in the city, often explaining that he works on the railroad or at some shop, buys $4 or $5 worth of goods, offers the money order in payment, which in most cases is cashed, as a matter of course. The swindle is discovered when the order is presented at the postoffice."

The habeas corpus proceedings, involving section five of the new street carriage regulation ordinance were argued before Judge Allen at Winston last Thursday afternoon by Messrs. A.
M. Scales, representing the city, and J. A. Barringer, who represented the carriage owners' and drivers' organization. Only brief arguments were made.
Mr. Barringer contending that the provisions of the ordinance laid down in that section were unreasonable and invaded the common rights of the citizens as well as the licensed rights of a carriage driver or owner. The section in controversy reads: "That it shall be unlawful for any person owning or running a public carriage to transport any man or woman, or woman, or women to or from any house of prostitution."
A fine of fifty dollars is imposed for each and every offense. Judge Allen reserved his decision until Monday of this week, but ordered the defendant in the case, Milton Chavis, released from custody. He holds that the section is invalid.

Prohibition Election Called.

The board of aldermen in regular session last Friday night formally called an election on the saloon question, fixing Tuesday, the 19th day of July, as the date of said election. The action of the board was in conformity with the provisions of Chapter 233 of the Public Laws of North Carolina, "An act to regulate the manufacture and sale of liquors in North Carolina," which provides that it shall be the duty of a governing body of any city or town, upon the petition of one-third of the registered voters therein who were registered for the preceding election, to order an election to be held, after 30 days notice, to determine whether or not the sale of liquors shall be authorized. The authorities found that a requisite number of voters had signed the petition, whereupon the election was called. Every qualified voter who is in favor of bar rooms or saloons will vote a ticket on which is written or printed the words, "For Saloons," and those opposed shall vote "Against Saloons." Mr. N. L. Eure is appointed registrar for the election and Messrs.
E. A. Brown, J. T. Abbott, B. E. Sergeant, John R. Cutchin, Robert Morrison and C. C. McLean judges or inspectors of election for the various wards in the order named.

At this meeting of the board the saloon men applied for a renewal of license for the six months beginning July 1st. Under the rules the applications go over to the next regular meeting.

An amendment to the carriage ordinance submitted by Alderman Wysong providing for the examination of carriage drivers as to their knowledge of horses and driving and as to their moral character was adopted.

New officers were elected as follows:
Plumbing and sewer inspector, W. M.
Weatherly; C. H. Ireland and J. R.
Mendenhall to succeed themselves on the board of education; S. H. Boyd, member of board of cemetery trustees.

Spiritual Awakening at Proximity.

The successful revival which had been in progress nearly two weeks at the Walnut street Methodist church, Proximity, closed Sunday night with an inspiring service at which 37 persons were brought to Christ. In all there were nearly 250 conversions and reclamations at the meeting, the influence of which prevailed the entire community. Sunday there were 57 accessions to the church, while others will affiliate with the other denominations represented there. The attendance at the meetings was large from the start, and toward the close hundreds were turned away nightly for lack of accommodation. The pastor, Rev.
J. A. Bowles, was ably assisted in this meeting by Rev. E. C. Glenn, of the North Carolina Conference, and his labors were singularly blessed at this place as well as elsewhere. The Proximity Methodist church is in a most prosperous condition and the recent revival has created greater possibilities for all the churches of that community. The M. P. church is preparing to build between the Revolution and White Oak mill. Mr. Ware, secretary and treasurer of the carpet mills, has fitted up a neat chapel and turned it over for the use of religious services and Rev. Mr. Bowles organized, on last Sunday, a Sunday school with a membership of 65. Miss Moore also conducts a club for young women on Thursday night of each week in the same place. A chapel will soon be erected near the finishing mills under the pastoral charge of the Walnut street M. E. church.

Mr. Edgar D. Broadhurst, who has been at the head of Greensboro's magnificent school system the past three years, tendered his resignation to the board of education Monday night in order to take the law course at Chapel Hill. The board reluctantly accepted the resignation, and after expressing its high regard for Mr. Broadhurst and graciously acknowledging by resolution the ability and success that had characterized his work here, elected Mr.
Wiley H. Swift, principal of the high school the past two years, his successor. Mr. Broadhurst's connection with the schools will not cease, however, until the first of September. Mr. Swift is admirably equipped for the position he will assume at the beginning of the next school year, and his promotion is undoubtedly most worthily bestowed.

The dwelling house of Mr. C. Henry King, a good farmer living seven miles northeast of the city, was totally destroyed by fire early last Friday morning, together with practically all its contents, the family barely escaping with their lives. Mr. King has no idea how the fire started, yet he does not think it was of incendiary origin. He carried no insurance and the loss falls heavily.

THE WORK OF AN INCENDIARY.

Burlington Inn Unquestionably Fired by Black Fiend, Who is Now Under Arrest.

The destruction of the Burlington Inn and a portion of the Southern Railway depot at Burlington last Wednesday morning, brief mention of which was made last week, was caused by a black fiend who is fortunately under arrest. The fire caused a loss of nearly $15,000, of which only a small portion is recoverable through insurance. Aside from the railroad company, which owned the hotel building,
the heaviest loss falls on Mrs. E. M.
Ward, the lessee. Her net loss is perhaps $1,500. Numbers of the guests of the house met with small losses, among them Mr. John M. Rose, of the Piedmont Cotton Company, Greensboro, who lost over $25 worth of personal property.

Just previous to the fire Night Policeman Patillo saw some one sneak away from the hotel, and he followed to learn the identity of the prowler. Seeing that it was Joe Faucette, a young negro who had been employed at the hotel but had been discharged the week previous, the officer returned to the depot and was horrified to discover smoke pouring from the basement rooms which Faucette had just left. He at once gave the alarm, but the fire had made such headway that most of the occupants of the hotel had only sufficient time to get out, without taking time to secure their personal property.

Soon after the fire Faucette was put under arrest. He denied any knowledge of the origin of the fire, and it was not until a railway detective reached the scene that any damaging evidence other than circumstantial was secured against the negro. The detective had himself committed to the county jail at Graham, two miles away, where the negro had been taken for safe keeping, and it was not long before he and the negro became confidential and began to plan their escape as well as to burn the jail and the homes of the officers who had locked them up. The negro, after virtually admitting the responsibility for the fire, told the detective that he and a white man had killed a man near Lynchburg about a year ago, afterward throwing his body in an abandoned well. Various other incriminating admissions were made by the negro in a burst of confidence that will prove his undoing, and the Alabama officials are aware that they have a desperate character to deal with.
The face of the negro was a "study in black" when at a preliminary hearing later in the week he was confronted on the stand by the officer who had posed as a companion in crime. And it is intimated that the good sheriff of Alabama was surprised to learn the identity of one of his "prisoners."

Steps have been taken toward rebuilding the hotel, and it is safe to say that the progressive spirit of the town will not long suffer the disadvantage of a lack of hotel accommodations.

The opening of the summer theatrical season at the park Monday night was quite satisfactory to the management notwithstanding the threatening weather. An attractive program was put on at the casino, and only pleasant evenings are needed to guarantee a large attendance. Williams' concert band will give a sacred concert at the park every Sunday afternoon during the summer months, beginning at 4:30.
Altogether it is a delightful place to spend an afternoon or evening, as the attractions there are not displeasing to anyone. Innocent amusements are provided by the management, a first class cafe is open there day and night,
and it is safe to say that a better managed public resort does not exist in the state.

The catalogue of Whitsett Institute, Whitsett, N. C., is just from the press for 1904. It is a handsome publication of seventy pages and twenty-three half tone illustrations. The school shows an enrollment for this year of 250 students gathered from nearly forty North Carolina counties, six counties in Virginia, and seven students from Cuba.
Two large buildings containing sixteen rooms are now occupied by the school
as study halls, recitation rooms, etc., and ten boarding halls and dormitories room and board the students and teachers. The fall term opens August 31st. The summer term is now in session with an excellent attendance and will close July 5th. Copies of this interesting catalogue may be obtained free upon application.

Greensboro Tobacco Market.

The receipts on our market for the past week have been the lightest for several weeks; however, there was enough offered to keep our buyers interested and make them want what was offered at mighty good prices.
The quality of the weed for the week has been about in keeping with the crop, but we have noticed more damaged tobacco than for quite a while.
This proves our theory that early selling is decidedly better. Prices on all grades have remained fully up to the high water mark, and those farmers making offerings on our market have been very highly pleased with their sales. We have a small season this morning and we would advise farmers to make an effort to market the remainder of their crop. We know the disposition of all buyers to get through handling the crop. Planting will be general on this season and we hope that farmers will be able to complete this work.

Several extra sessions of the mayor's court have been held within the past week in order to clear the docket of a number of cases brought against keepers of bawdy houses. Some of the defendants have been sent on to court, one or two have been discharged and others are pending, while some of the defendants named in warrants served have disappeared. The evidence in these cases shows a deplorable state of affairs, but it is no child's play to correct the evils.

Wilkins U. Greene, E. M., has resigned as general manager of the Fentress Mining Company and will open an office in Charlotte as mining engineer, assayer and chemist. He regrets that his business arrangements will not allow his remaining in Greensboro, where he has made a large number of royal good friends during his three and a half years of residence. He believes that the mining industry of North Carolina is only in its infancy and it is only a question of getting the plain facts before northern capital when we shall see a rapid increase in legitimate mining. There is no question, he says, that low grade ores can be mined at a profit in the South which could not be touched in the West, on account of the low prices for fuel and labor, which are the principal expense in mining. The wonderful deposit of tin ore near Gaffney, near the border of this state, will do much to show the resources of this section, as we are now depending on the tin mines of Wales, England, for this very valuable and useful metal. Keep your eye on the mining industry of North Carolina.

THE CHRISTIAN churches at Constantinople, Turkey and Yokohama, Japan, have long used the Longman & Martinez Paints for painting their churches.

Liberal contributions of L. & M. Paint will be given for such purpose wherever a church is located.

F. M. Scofield, Harris Springs, S. C., writes, "I painted our old homestead with L. & M. twenty-six years ago. Not painted since; looks better than houses painted in the last four years."

W. B. Bari, Charleston, W. Va., writes, "Painted Frankenburg Block with L. & M. shows better than any buildings here have ever done; stands out as though varnished, and actual cost of paint was less than $1.20 per gallon. Wears and covers like gold."

These Celebrated Paints are sold by Southside Hardware Co., Greensboro; Gibsonville Store Co., Gibsonville; B. J. Sapp, Kernersville.

To Confederate Veterans.

Members of Guilford camp No. 795 going to the reunion, to be held in Nashville, Tenn., June 14th, 15th and 16th, are requested to call on Adjutant W. W. Without them you will not be recognized, or permitted to vote in the meetings as delegates or share in the free entertainment proved for the veterans.

Startling Evidence.

Fresh testimony in great quantity is constantly coming in, declaring Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption Coughs, and Colds to be unequalled. A recent expression from T. J. McFarland, Bentonville, Va., serves as example. He writes: "I had Bronchitis for three years and doctored all the time without being benefited. Then I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles wholly cured me." Equally effective in curing all Lung and Throat troubles, Consumption, Pneumonia and Grip. Guaranteed by all druggists. Trial bottles free, regular sizes 50c. and $1.00.

IMPROVED FARM IMPLEMENTS.

Guilford Farmers Purchasing More and Better Machinery.

An evident sign of the progressiveness of the farmers of this county is to be found in the fact that they are spending much money in the purchase of improved farm implements and machinery. There is a general departure of the implements of agriculture that have tilled the soil for Guilford farmers for generations. They are being replaced by the labor-saving devices which the farmers of the West have been so quick to adopt.

In conversation with a reporter, a prominent hardware merchant of the city said that the present year had witnessed a marked increase in the amount of improved plows, planters, cultivators and all other improved farming implements sold. This is accounted for to some extent by a desire of the farmer to cultivate his land more highly, although it is further made necessary by the scarcity of labor. One man on a farm supplied with improved implements is able to do the work of three or four men under the old system.

The work of loosening the ground around the young cotton plant, which was formerly done by several persons with hoes, is now being done on some farms with large cultivators, which require a man or a boy to drive and a horse to pull. They cover three rows at one time and will do the work of five persons. A disc plow, to break up the land in the early fall, is now owned by nearly every farmer, while improved plows and harrows for all uses are replacing the ones not so modern.

The manufacturers of modern planters have been, during the present season, worked to their utmost capacity, filling the numerous orders for their outputs. From one to a dozen of these devices, that do the work of four persons, are to be found on every farm. They open up the furrows, lay the fertilizer, drop the seed corn or cotton and cover it up, ready to be left for the first appearance of the plant, all at one time. Another convenience attached to the planter is that the seed planted by it will come up at regular intervals of space—a necessity for its perfect growth.

The persistent scarcity of labor for the past two seasons has forced the tillers of the soil to take advantage of everything that would in any way do their work without too many persons to handle it. As they have become acquainted with the expediency of the different new and improved implements, they are conscious of their advantages, and are purchasing to replace their old tools anything which their neighbors pronounce savers of time and labor.

Letter to W. A. Scott.
Greensboro, N. C.

Dear Sir: You are interested in the prosperity of your town. You can contribute to it materially, and give it a far more prosperous look at the same time.

Perhaps the public property needs a good coat of paint.

Devoe will supply that coat with two-thirds of the number of gallons required of any other. Devoe will last twice as long as any other. Devoe is all paint and full-measure. Devoe is the strongest paint known. Devoe will take care of the property, in the long run, for half the money required by any other.

The reason is stated above: Devoe is all paint and full-measure: the strongest paint known.

E. D. Jewell, Corry, Pa., painted his house 5 years ago with a mixed paint; took 14 gallons. Last spring he repainted with Devoe; bought 11 gallons and had 4 left. Saved $15 to $20, for painting costs two or three times as much as the paint.

Yours truly,

F. W. Devoe & Co.,

Yazoo City Ablaze Nine Hours.

Jackson, Miss., May 25.—With every business house of any importance in ashes, together with a large number of private residences, the principal hotel and the passenger depot, Yazoo City, a town of 6,000 people, forty-five miles from Jackson, is tonight resting, after one of the most exciting days in its history. The fire started at 8.30 o'clock this morning, and burned until 5 o'clock this afternoon, destroying a total of 200 houses. The financial loss will be the heaviest in the history of Mississippi since the war. The fire was three blocks wide and twelve blocks long. The loss will exceed $2,000,000.

STATE NORMAL COMMENCEMENT.

Interesting Exercises Marking the Close of an Eventful Yet Successful Year—The Cornerstone Laying.

Last week marked the close of an eventful yet one of the most successful years in the history of the State Normal and Industrial College, the foremost institution for the education and advancement of women in the borders of the commonwealth. From the opening "class exercises" Wednesday evening until the curtain was rung down for the last time Friday afternoon the attendance was all that could be desired.

The class exercises were unusually interesting because of the evident careful preparation for the event. "The Past," a historical sketch by Miss Annie Belle Hoyle, was an accurate record of the principal events in the individual careers of the graduating body, but more especially with their school experiences. "The Present" was an amusing portrayal of a meeting of the class to decide upon the class dress and colors. "The Future," a class prophecy, by Miss Swanna Pickett, arrayed as a fortune teller, was perhaps the best thing of the evening. Following this the class marched in a body to the campus, where the class records were placed under the class tree, planted in 1902, after which the class song was sung and the audience returned to the college.

Later in the evening a music recital was given in the college chapel by Misses Eugenia Harris, Julia Hamlin and May Stewart. The entire program reflected credit not only on the members of the class but on the musical department of the institution as well. The graduates were assisted by Prof. Brockmann and Mrs. Sharpe, of the faculty, and Miss Ethel Harris, consort.

Thursday morning at 11 o'clock Rev. Robert Strange, D. D., of Richmond, preached the annual sermon. The service opened with singing and a fervent prayer by Rev. E. W. Smith, D. D. In introducing Dr. Strange President McIver said: "Our sermon today is to be by a native of the state, who now lives away from us. He has done good service at home and abroad. I take great pleasure in presenting to you Rev. Robert Strange, D. D."

Dr. Strange took his text from the epistle of Paul, the apostle, to the Philippians, the fourth chapter and the eighth verse, which reads: "Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report, if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things."

"These words are very appropriate this morning," said the speaker, "for you are dressed in white and your work here is done. How could any one think on anything else at a time like this? Your thoughts are bound to be pure! You have conscience of duty done! Your eyes are beaming and your hearts swelling. Can I do better, then, than urge you to think on these words of St. Paul. He seems to tell us that actions that come from deep thought are what amount to something. To be is what God wants us to do. As we think we act. That is a great rule of life. You must ponder over true and lofty ideals. The young woman who does that will do noble things."

"Ideas have overthrown and changed the destinies of nations. The age of reason has been preceded by the incubation of ideas. We have the teachers today, the actors tomorrow."

"Within the last twenty-five years the word 'environment' has been heard and seen more often, doubtless, than anywhere. How far are we influenced by our surroundings? Animals have been attributed to the law of environment. There is the hairless dog in the tropics and the shaggy dog in the arctic regions. The mind changes as does the body. We call it the law of association. The same law is seen here in college life. Your parents and teachers are careful what ideas and actions you get, and what set or class you associate with. How well I remember the influence of one's surroundings at college! I have seen gentle, happy boys, get in with idlers, and become fellows, and go back to their homes ruined; while, on the other hand, earnest, unlearned boys have fallen in with good associates and gone home with the experience. What are the thoughts but our closest associates? They be high, pure and lovely, how can we help but be? Emerson said: 'The key to a man is his thoughts.' The best and truest education is that that makes our mind a record of statistics, but that which gives us the best of associates, and makes us the best men and women."

"That is why North Carolina is leader of her sister Southern states in the movement for better educational advantages. She insists that all people shall be brought up in the best of environments. That they will feel the influence of these great and good men and women that they must profit from it."

The war with Spain taught us a great lesson. Not more than 300 years ago Spain was one of the leading countries in the world, and America was made up of struggling colonies. The Spanish people were deprived of their rights and liberties; they did not have free speech, free thought, and free ideas, but we did, and have built a new civilization—one that all the world wonders at.

"If a patient has faith in his mind he may be cured. The mind can strengthen the body and make it well. Christianity insists on a true faith. We cannot get away from doctrine; we must have a creed. Men must formulate their thoughts. Yes, we must hold to the great facts of the creed. Creeds have wondrous effect upon character. We cannot surrender Christian doctrine and have pure Christian morals, thought and character. If you would be leaders—all that is pure, noble and high—I beg you to cultivate pure, noble thoughts, and true and high ideals. Christ will cheer you on."

Dr. Strange is a forceful preacher. He has the gift of able thought. He was heard by as many as could be seated in the large auditorium of the college, and his sermon was pronounced by all one of rare beauty in conception, expression and application, while linked with its beauty was the strong presentation of virile spiritual deductions, which showed the eminent divine to be not only a master Christian, but a masterful thinker and man.

Following the chapel exercises the visitors were shown through the manual training and industrial departments of the college. Dr. McIver and his band of loyal teachers are very proud of the work that is being done in these. The girls are taught to do many things they will need to know all through life, whether they settle down to a quiet honorable home life or plunge out into the world and struggle with the best for a living. All manner of cooking, sewing and hand art is taught. The dresses on exhibition in the dressmaking department are as elegant in design and finish as would be found in any professional shop. The visitors were shown samples of all grades of work done by the fingers and the machine. The pupils begin by doing models, tiny piece work, and end by making fine dresses. Every garment made is cut by the girls. They do not use any pattern. They work by the Vienna tailor system. One gown on exhibit was made to be worn at the semi-centennial exercises to take place at the University of Wisconsin in a few days. There were on exhibit a dozen beautiful dresses. A ladies' tailoring feature is connected with this department; it is the only one of the kind in the South. The girls at the Normal go through a manual training school. Weaving, basket-making, cord, bent iron, knife and bench work are done. The exhibits in the room were very interesting. The young women have wrought wonders in iron, wood, grass and fabrics. Prof. W. C. A. Hammel, their instructor, is very skilled and practical. He illustrates everything.

Thursday afternoon the Grand Lodge of Masons of North Carolina held sway at the college, laying with impressive ceremonies the cornerstone of the great dormitory that will rise to take the place of the one burned last January. The first of the Masonic exercises took place in the chapel, which was again crowded. Capt. F. P. Hobgood, Jr., presenting in behalf of the local branch of the order a handsome portrait in oil of Mr. John H. Mills, founder of the Oxford Orphanage. Capt. Hobgood paid a beautiful tribute to the character and accomplishments of the great man whose memory the gift perpetuated. The portrait was accepted in behalf of the college by President McIver, who also referred to Mr. Mills in the highest terms. The painting is by Randall, and said to be a faithful portrait of Mr. Mills. Dr. McIver gave a brief history of the other paintings in the hall, those of Z. B. Vance, Sidney M. Finger, Calvin H. Wiley, George Peabody, Dr. J. L. M. Curry, Dorothea Dix, James C. Dobbin and Miss Frances E. Willard, modestly omitting any reference to his own, whereupon Hon. S. M. Gattis, acting Grand Master, master of ceremonies, called attention to the portrait of Dr. McIver, saying that it represented one of the greatest North Carolinians living or dead, a statement that was approved by enthusiastic applause.

Then came the exercises proper at the dormitory, the audience moving there in a body. The two long lines of students in white moving on either side of College avenue was one of the prettiest sights ever witnessed at the college. The customary exercises incident to such occasions were opened with prayer by the Grand chaplain, Rev. H. W. Battle, D. D. Others who took part in the beautiful service were Grand Master Gattis, Grand Treasurer W. E. Coffin, Deputy Grand Master C. M. Vanstony, Senior Grand Warden O. W. Monroe and Junior Grand Warden R. N. Hackett, acting officers for the day. While the stone was being lowered the college glee club sang softly, "Nearer My God to Thee." At the conclusion "America" was sung, and after a benediction by the chaplain the procession re-formed and marched back to the main building, there dispersing.

Thursday evening was given over to the graduating class: Four representative essays were read by members of the class, viz.: "Side Lights on the Physician's Life," by Miss Florence E.

Ledbetter, of Guilford county; "Architecture as the Expression of National Life and Character," by Miss Tempe H. Dameron, of Warren county; "The Passing of the Fireplace," by Miss Evelyn P. Royall, of Cumberland county; "Silent forces in the Development of North Carolina," by Miss Annie Belle Hoyle, of Wake county. Interspersed were delightful musical numbers by the college glee club and orchestra.

The announcement was made by the president of the class that Dr. W. T. Whitsett, president of Whitsett Institute, had offered a prize of $25 worth of books for the best essay read during the evening. A committee later decided that Miss Ledbetter was entitled to the prize.

One of the pleasing incidents of the evening was the presentation, on behalf of the alumnae association, of a handsome oil portrait of Hon. J. Y. Joyner, formerly a member of the Normal faculty but now state superintendent of public instruction. The portrait was accepted in a graceful speech by Dr. McIver.

The final exercises of the commencement period closed Friday with one of the most brilliant addresses ever made by that able orator and statesman, Gov. Charles B. Aycock.

Opening with the old but ever new song, "The Old North State," followed by a fervent prayer by Rev. Plato Durham, of Trinity College, Durham, there was not a moment but that the great assembly had cause to be thankful for the privilege of being present.

President Charles D. McIver made the following statement of the progress of the year:

The college year just closing has been a very eventful one, and in spite of several interruptions and the shortening of the college term nearly three weeks, the work of the students, all things considered, has never been more satisfactory.

The enrollment of students in the college has been 536, and the number of pupils in the practice school 553. The increase in the enrollment in the college department was due to the increase of the dormitory room with which we began the year's work.

The year will be memorable in the life of the college for the following reasons:

1. In the early fall the reunion of non-resident North Carolinians, in which the college participated prominently, was an event full of inspiration and patriotic suggestion to all North Carolinians who attended it.

2. The opening of the lower floor of the students' building to the work of the manual training department and the domestic science department has been a great step forward in the life of the college.

3. The burning of the main dormitory building, erected in 1892, and added to from time to time until it accommodated 365 students, was a calamity with which all are familiar. For all of the great loss to the state, amounting to about $100,000, and the individual losses to students, amounting to nearly $30,000, there can be no adequate compensation; yet the educational effect of this calamity was striking. The self-possession of the faculty and students, their readiness to make all sorts of sacrifices for one another, and the promptness with which they adapted themselves to new and rather difficult conditions were not only an evidence of good sense and good training and generous hearts, but the very passing through such a calamity gave power to all who met it bravely and triumphed over it.

4. The donation of a library building by Mr. Andrew Carnegie in February of this year marks a new epoch in the literary life of the college.

5. The alumnae of the college have raised $2,500 for the loan fund, which has been duplicated by the general education board, and thus $5,000 has been added to that fund during the year.

These have been the five events of the year of permanent and far-reaching interest in addition to the regular substantial work and routine growth of the institution.

The health of the college has been good. The reports from the workers it has sent into the state as teachers and as workers in other lines have been encouraging, and the demand for those trained at this college is still on the increase.

The Whitsett prize was then awarded to Miss Ledbetter and the Alumnae prize of like value to Miss Martha Wiswall, of Beaufort county. The following young ladies were awarded certificates of proficiency in the commercial department:

Misses Annie Bryant, Bessie Daniel, Annie Raper, Foy Lynn, Mary Ayer, Louise Glass, Willie Archer, Kate Borden, Julia Harding, Irene Lacy, Emma Schoolfield, Lillian Meares, Clara Jacobs, Mary Miller and Jesse Caldwell. The last three had certificates for writing 120 words per minute in short hand, the others reaching one hundred.

The members of the graduating class receiving diplomas were: Millie Archer, Orange county; Kate Barden, Duplin county; Maggie Burkett, Watauga county; Marie Buys, Craven county; Tempe Dameron, Warren county; Lettie Glass, Guilford county; Mabel Graeber, Cabarrus county; Julia Hamlin, Yadkin county; Berlie Harris, Guilford county; Eugenia Harris, Orange county; Annie Belle Hoyle, Wake county; Maude Hoyle, Gaston county; Charlotte Ireland, Sampson county; Marie Jones, Craven county; Anna Killian, Catawba county; Florence Ledbetter, Guilford county; Anna Merritt, Person county; Catherine Staton Nash, Edgecombe county; Swanna Pickett, Randolph county; Elizabeth Rawls, Durham county; Evelyn Royal, Cumber-

CAPTURE KIN-CHOW.

Japanese Defeat Russians After Hard Fighting—Both Sides Lose Heavily.
London, May 27.—The Shan-khai-kwan correspondent of the Daily Chronicle sends a report received from Nanking that on May 23, thinking that the Japanese had retired from Feng-wang-cheng, 15,000 Russians from Hailu-shan and Liao-yang marched toward Feng-wang-cheng. They were surprised by 30,000 Japanese in the Tung Pass. The Russian casualties were 5,000, and over 1,000 Russians were captured. The report does not state the Japanese losses.

BATTLES AT KIN-CHOW.

The correspondent of the Central News at Tokyo cables under date of May 26 that the Japanese attacked Nankai-shan, on the narrowest part of the Kwantung Peninsula yesterday, and drove back the Russians by main force. The attack on Kin-chow, thirty-two miles north of Port Arthur, the dispatch adds, was begun at dawn today and by noon Kin-chow was in the hands of the Japanese, who occupied the castle. The fighting continued during the afternoon and was of the most desperate character. It is believed the casualties were heavy.

After the occupation of Kin-chow, the Russians retired in good order to the heights further south, which were attacked by the full Japanese force and carried after a stubborn resistance. In an earlier message the Tokyo correspondent of the Central News cabled that Japanese spies had ascertained that the Russians had thirty guns at Kin-chow and numerous mines and were entanglements at all the points where a Japanese attack was expected. The fighting is said to have taken place today.

ATTACK ON DALNY.

The Tokyo correspondent of the Daily Express says it is reported positively that the Japanese have captured Kin-chow and are now attacking Dalny.

Russians are Swept Aside.

Tokyo, May 27, noon.—The Japanese army swept the Russians from Kin-chow yesterday morning, and in a decisive attack forced the almost impregnable position of the Russians on Nankai-shan, west of Taitien Wan. The battle raged in the hills all through the night and fragmentary telegrams from the Japanese headquarters report that the engagement is still in progress, and that the Japanese are still pursuing the Russians south from Nankai-shan and the head of Taitien Wan bay. The Russians had made elaborate preparations to check the Japanese movement south on the Liao Tung peninsula, toward Port Arthur.

They had fortified the high ground on the shore of Taitien Wan bay, their works extending to the east and the west. The extreme Russian right was at Hsiao-shan, and the extreme left at Nankai-shan. The hill was the strongest part of the line; a series of batteries, strongly placed, crowded its crest, while rifle pits extended around its sides. Mines had been placed lower down on this hill, and around the base of the northern and eastern sides were trenches well-made wire entanglements. Another line of defense, also protected with wire entanglements, extended from Yen Chia Tung, near the head of Taitien Wan bay, due north of Taitien Wan, which lies south of Kin-chow. A strong Russian force was posted at Kin-chow. It consisted of infantry and artillery.

The Japanese first occupied the line of hills to the east of Kin-chow. Their position formed an almost perfect right angle, showing its southern front to Taitien Wan, and its western front to Kin-chow. Chia Li Chan village was the apex of this angle; the extreme right of the Japanese line rested at Chia Li Chan, which is almost due south of Chia Li Chan, while the extreme left was at Chia-li-shan, a village due east of Chia Li Chan. Back of this angle the attacking force assembled for complete security.

The Russians apparently attempted to draw the Japanese attack last Saturday, for their batteries opened fire early on the enemy on that day. The Japanese, however, refused to be drawn into an attack until the positions of the Russians, their guns and their strength had been fully developed. To this end, the Japanese began a series of careful manoeuvres, their officers working their way close enough to the Russian position to draw the enemy's fire. They thus secured fragments of shells for the purpose of ascertaining the calibre of the Russian guns. They discovered that the batteries on Nankai-shan hill included four howitzers of about fifteen centimeters calibre, ten old-style cannon of between nine and fifteen centimeters calibre, and two quick-firing guns of twelve centimeters. The Japanese discovered also a number of large emplacements, but they did not learn the number of guns contained therein. These emplacements faced to the north and to the east.

The Battle a Bloody Affair.

Tokyo, May 27, 5 P. M.—Subsequent reports received here indicate that the storming of Nankai-shan yesterday was a bloody affair. The Japanese first centered their fire on the Russian batteries and, aided by gunboats from Kin-chow bay, they succeeded in shattering many of the enemy's guns. The Russians had constructed a series of trenches around the hill on a terrace protected by wire entanglements and other such devices.

The Japanese made a series of rushes, but they were in vain. The deadly rifle and cannon fire of the enemy checked them repeatedly. Finally, at dusk in the afternoon, the Japanese stormed and stormed the crest of the hill. The Russians held to their position doggedly, and it was 7 o'clock in the evening before the Japanese finally gained possession of the ridge.

Way Open for Japanese.

St. Peter-burg, May 27.—The news of a Japanese victory at Kin-chow, which was foreshadowed several days ago, was published on a Russian holiday, the anniversary of the coronation of Emperor Nicholas. Curiously enough, the news of the Japanese disaster about came on a similar holiday, the Emperor's birthday. While there was little information in government circles regarding the Russian defeat, the news caused the celebration of Frederick's-Selo to be shortened. All the news of the disaster to the Russian army comes from Russian sources and the government is making no effort to minimize or suppress. The authorities are absolutely without news of their own.

It was rumored late tonight that Gen. Kuropatkin had telegraphed some details direct to Minister of War Sakaroff which will not be transmitted to the Emperor until tomorrow.

The general staff, in view of the foreign news of the capture of Kin-chow, admitted that there was little now to hinder a Japanese advance on Port Arthur itself, and that the actual siege of the Gibraltar of the east had begun in earnest. The staff insisted, however, on the ability of the fortress to hold out.

A Worthless Check Got Him in Trouble.

Shelby, May 27.—A few weeks ago a man giving his name as Rev. A. G. Frazer, of Bowling Green, Ky., and said he was a Methodist minister and had come here to spend the summer for his health and would be joined in a few days by his sister. He appeared to be a man of refinement and well educated. He was a guest at the Shelby Hotel, and all who knew him were favorably impressed with him.

Mr. L. U. Campbell, the monazite man, who was boarding at the same hotel, took him to his home in Gaffney, S. C., and treated him very kindly and had the ministers of the city to call on him while there. He told Mr. Campbell on their return to Shelby, that he was short of money, but he was expecting a check from the Kentucky conference treasurer; so Mr. Campbell let him have $20. In a few days he told Mr. Campbell his check had come and asked him to go and introduce him at the bank, which he did, and had the check cashed, which amounted to $60. He paid Mr. Campbell the $20, leaving the same evening for Charlotte, where he said he would meet his sister and they would return the next day.

The check was returned from Kentucky and the bank said no such person was known there.

Frazer left his hotel bill and livery bill unpaid.

From Shelby he went to Bristol, Va., and was Mr. Thompson there. From there he went to Winston-Salem, where he passed as W. W. Anderson. When he left Bristol he left a suit case and in it was found a book of Mrs. L. M. Hull's, which he borrowed while here. Her name was on the fly-leaf. Mrs. Hull received a letter describing Frazer and he was arrested in Roanoke, Va., and Chief Hamrick and Mr. L. U. Campbell went at once for him, returning Thursday. He was carried before a magistrate for a preliminary hearing, but waived examination and was returned to jail to await the August term of court.

He preached one sermon while here in the Methodist church and visited many homes.

Japan Paid Heavily for Her Victory.

Tokyo, May 28.—Japan paid heavily for her victory at Kinchow, Nankai-shan Hill and Taitienwan, losing three thousand men in killed and wounded in the repeated assaults against these positions, but she scored a sweeping and valuable victory over the Russians, capturing fifty guns, clearing the way to Port Arthur and inflicting losses on the Russians which in the end are expected to total two thousand men.

It is doubted if the Russians will stand again north of Port Arthur. They retired from the field beaten and they failed to rally at Nan Quan Ling, where it was anticipated that a second stand would be made.

The desperate onslaughts of the Japanese on the heights of Nankai-shan Hill were telling for the Russians left 500 dead in the trenches there. A complete search of this field is expected to show a greater number of dead.

Nan Quan Ling was occupied yesterday morning by a force of infantry, artillery and engineers under the command of General Makamura. The main Japanese force spent Friday night in the village around Nankai-shan Hill. The soldiers were greatly fatigued as a result of the constant fighting, but they entered with much spirit upon the new operations.

A force of Russians held Sanchilipu station, which is northwest of Dalny, but the Japanese drove them out. The Russians abandoned and burned the station and retired in the direction of Port Arthur.

The estimates of the Russians engaged in the defense of Kinchow, Nankai-shan Hill and the south shore of Taitienwan Bay vary, but it is evident that the Russians drew for men from the forces at Port Arthur and offered all the resistance possible. It is understood here that Lieut. General Stoessel, commander of the military forces at Port Arthur, was in personal command of the recent operations.

As soon as the Japanese troops have rested they will press on to the south.

Northern M. E. Conference Ends.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 29.—It was after 12 o'clock last night when the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church finished the final roll call which brought to a close the business of the quadrennial conference of 1904. At the close 150 of the 750 delegates were absent.

The more important acts of this conference were the retiring of five bishops and the electing of eleven others; the decision to stand by the present attitude of the church on prohibited amusements; refusal to return to the time limit of pastoral service, the exonerating of certain theological schools of the charges of heretical teaching, the unification of the Methodist publishing houses, the consolidation of the boards of church benevolences, providing means of support for superannuated ministers, fixing the status of superannuated bishops, and creating a commission to revise the ritual of the church.

The Parson Jumps His Bond.

Winston-Salem, May 26.—In the Superior court today the case of Rev. W. G. Myers, a Sanctification evangelist, indicted for marrying a girl under fourteen years of age, was called, but the "parson" failed to appear for trial. It is reported that he has gone to Virginia. It is now up to the men who stood for him to pay $150, the amount of Myers' bond.

Fully one-half the business part of Greenwood, S. C., was destroyed last Wednesday morning by a fire originating in the Central hotel, the proprietors of which, Mrs. Annie Mosely, was burned to death.

MACHINE FLEW THIRTY FEET.

Inventors Say That Problem of Aerial Navigation is Solved.

Dayton, Ohio, May 29.—The Wright flying machine, invented by Orville and Wilbur Wright, brothers, of this city, who made a successful flight at Kitty Hawk, N. C., in December last, was given another trial near this city today, which the brothers say was successful.

Great secrecy was maintained about the test and but few witnessed it. The machine, after being propelled along a track for a distance of a hundred feet, rose twelve feet in the air and flew a distance of thirty feet, where it dropped. This was due, the inventors say, to a derangement of the gasoline engine that furnishes the power. In the fall the propellers were broken and the test could not be repeated. The brothers decline to give any information when asked as to their future purposes.

The Wright flyer is a triangular, box-like machine, having the appearance of a distance of an open street car. The upper and lower framework consists of canvas, ribbed with pieces of wood to give the firmness. These frames are connected by braces of wood. The machine has no gas bag or balloon attachment of any kind, but is supported by a pair of aero covers or wings having an area of 510 square feet. It measures a little more than forty feet from tip to tip, and the extreme fore and aft dimension is about twenty feet. The weight, including the body of the aviator, is slightly over 700 pounds.

The machine is driven by a pair of aerial screw propellers placed just behind the main wings. The power is supplied by a gasoline motor, designed and built by the Messrs. Wright in their own shop. It is of the four-cycle type and has four cylinders. The pistons are four inches in diameter and have a four-inch stroke. At the speed of 1,200 revolutions a minute the engine develops fifteen-horse power, with a consumption of a little less than ten pounds of gasoline per hour. The weight, including carburettor and flying wheel, is 152 pounds.

The wings, though apparently very light, have been tested to more than six times the regular load, and it is claimed for the entire structure that it is a practical machine capable of withstanding the shock of repeated landings.

"GOOD TO BE THERE."

Dosen't Understand Why a Preacher Does Not Stay There.

The Presbyterian Standard man recently visited Alamance church, in this county, and remarks:

"The editor paid a visit the other Sunday to historic old Alamance church near Greensboro, and it was good to be there. What any preacher who can get a charge such as that in the country, wants with any other work in the world, is a mystery. The congregation is a splendid one, full of young people, the Sunday school is as big as the church, and the church is as big as the country that covers several acres. An old man, a Scotchman, told us that his boy was lying in that graveyard, young Forsyth, a soldier of the Cross, cut off in his young manhood of glorious service. After all there is no work for such affliction but the work of Christ that brings light and immortality to light in the Gospel."

Death of Howard A. Cobb.

Danville, Va., May 27.—Howard A. Cobb, managing buyer of the American Tobacco Company, and brother of J. B. Cobb, vice president of the American Tobacco Company, and president of the American Cigar Company, died suddenly this afternoon, while driving in Reservoir park. Mr. Cobb had been in declining health for several months.

Thrown From a Wagon.

Mr. George K. Babcock was thrown from his wagon and severely bruised. He applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm freely and says it is the best liniment he ever used. Progress With the Canal.

Little by little the clouds obscuring our view of the Panama Canal are clearing away. One by one the problems between us and the consummation are disposed of. A long step forward was taken, for example, only two or three days ago, when the President decided that the government of the canal zone should be vested in the Secretary of War. We confess that at the first glance we thought the commission should govern it. In our opinion--too hastily reached, as now appears--it seemed best to give the commissioners something to do. Among them were three famous engineers who could have attended to the constructive part of the work. There were experienced men of large affairs to render equally important service in another direction. There were scientific persons to kill mosquitoes and see to the sanitary achievement of converting the isthmus into a health resort. And these, together with a great retinue of assistants, secretaries, clerks, stenographers, photographers, chemists, etc., had for their presiding officer no less a person than Admiral Walker, one of the most competent and experienced executive officers in the whole country. If we jumped to the conclusion that such a body, properly supplied with subordinates, of course, would be able to conduct the construction of the canal, the public will at least admit that our enthusiasm was not wholly unwarranted.

As we have explained, however, misapprehensions are rapidly retreating before the illuminating developments of events. It now appears that the commission will act under the advice and authority of the Secretary of War. It was agreed, after mature deliberation, that the President would not be able to enlighten the commission in emergencies of bewilderment and doubt. It seems to have been further agreed that the body cannot be left without some dominating and directing head. Thus we have the decision already mentioned, and the Secretary of War will take the helm. Contrary to this disclosure comes the almost equally important announcement that the commission has secured the services of Mr. John Findley Wallace, of Chicago, who will act as chief engineer in charge of the construction of the canal. It turns out that in order to have the work properly done the government needs a real engineer who really knows how to do it. Mr. Wallace is said to be the man for the place, and has been induced to accept $25,000 per annum as a salary. We are told, moreover, that he will go in person to the isthmus and "practically" make it his residence, which, as any one can see, is a mighty satisfactory arrangement if the canal is to be constructed under his immediate supervision.

Nor is this all the good news. We have it on the highest authority that at the end of two years, if the surveys can be completed in that brief time, the commissioners will begin to "make estimates of cost and decide on the final plan." The French company have been surveying and estimating and planning for the last forty years, and the fruit of these labors is among the most precious and less estimable junk for which we have just paid them $10,000,000. Moreover, we know that the work in round numbers will be completed in 1914. But even the most ardent advocate of the canal can hardly expect this government to take another step without surveying and estimating and planning for its own sake, and formulating its own plans. We are about to undertake the most colossal and beneficent enterprise in the beginning of the world, and must approach it with due solemnity. Besides, since we have enlisted the able talent to do the actual construction work, and will no doubt enlist the outside talent to manage the surveys, and scientific, and other departments of the project, it will be only fair to give the commissioners something to look after, even if it be in a purely Pickwickian sense.

What things are humming now. The canal will not be completed in our day, but that is to say, not next year. It is moving, though, and when they shall have surveyed for two years and made estimates and agreed on plans, and done a few other preliminary things of great majesty and importance, our grand-children may be required adult voices with which to clear the final consummation.

Enthusiasm.

"Just as Judge Parker represents the enthusiasm and harmony of the party in his own state, so he should represent the enthusiasm of a reunited party in the country at large."--Atlanta Constitution (Dem.).

"Enthusiasm and harmony" make as admirable a blend for campaign purposes as do Java and Mocha coffee for breakfast beverage. Enthusiasm insures earnest effort, and harmony directs all energies to a common purpose. There is not room for a reasonable doubt that if all the elements of the electorate that are dissatisfied with Republican rule and would be glad of a wholesome change should unite their "enthusiasm and harmony" in support of Parker he would be elected. But will they? In his personality there is much to inspire respect, but is there material on which enthusiasm can be worked up? It is as certain as the law of gravitation that so long as the people are compelled to look at Parker through or around David B. Hill they will not enthuse over him. And as to his platform, one might as well try to enthuse a party of "jolly good fellows" with a Col. Sellers banquet of raw turnips or ice-water as to attempt stirring up the Democratic masses with that string of perfunctory and prosy deliverances.

But the Democratic party is not alone in its lack of "enthusiasm and harmony." The Republican deficit in both of these desiderata is obtrusive in its palpableness. In New York the Republicans are not in anything like so good fighting trim as the Democrats, and in more than half of the Republic states the brethren are indulging in factional fights. Instead of enthusiasm and the confidence that goes with it, there is a general prevalence of discouragement and a despondent spirit. One need not go among Democrats nor quit the company of tried and true Republicans to hear pessimistic remarks on Republican prospects.

The reasonable inference from existing conditions on both sides is that we are going to have a rather dull campaign. At any rate there is no prospect of excitement over any of the issues in sight.

Balked Effort to Walk on Water.

Charles H. Cartwright, writing in the Chicago Tribune, repeats this joke played on the so-called "Prophet" Joseph Smith, Sr., of the Mormon church.

"Some time in the thirties Smith and a party of followers were proselytizing in Muskingum county, Ohio. He appointed a certain day when he would show the people his wonderful powers, and that he was a second Christ, by walking on the waters of Mud creek. The water was always muddy. A day or two before the time set, grandmother's brother, Robert, and a couple of neighbor boys were accidentally attracted by the Mormons working at the creek, and concealing themselves, watched the Mormons put down stakes and put planks on them from bank to bank, the plank resting about six inches under water. After the Mormons left, the boys went down and took out the center plank, where the water was about ten feet deep. The next day 'Balsam' Smith came down to the creek, and after a long exhortation, started across the creek. He was all right and on top till he came to the center, where his 'power' seemed to leave him, and he like McGinty, went to the bottom. This was the end of Mormonism in that old tried and true Presbyterian country."

A Firm Stand.

The mild business man was calmly reading his paper in the crowded trolley car. In front of him stood a little woman hanging by a strap. Her arm was being slowly torn out of her body, her eyes were flashing at him, but she constrained herself in silence.

Finally, after he had endured it for twenty minutes, he touched her arm and said:

"Madam, you are standing on my foot."
"Oh, am I?" she savagely retorted.
"I thought it was a valise."--Lippincott's Magazine.

The Judge's Joke.

Kansas City Star.

Some years ago George R. Peck, formerly of Kansas, after he became general solicitor of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company, was called to South Dakota to argue an important case before the Federal court. He was accompanied to the seat of justice by Alfred Beard Kittredge, the local attorney of the company, who has since become a United States Senator.

Mr. Peck made a fine argument and afterward walked to the hotel with the judge of the court. "I liked your argument this forenoon, Mr. Peck," the judge said; "it was a masterly presentation of your case. I don't think you left anything unsaid that could have been said."

Mr. Peck thanked the judge for the compliment and afterward went to Mr. Kittredge, elated. "I am going to win that case, Kittredge," he said. "What makes you think so?" asked Mr. Kittredge. "Why, I'll tell you on the quiet. Walking with me to the hotel today, the judge complimented me and added that I had left nothing unsaid."

"Oh, is that all?" Mr. Kittredge said. "Don't let him fool you by that kind of talk. We all know him out here. I'll tell you a story."

"Once there was a lion tamer whose duty it was to go into the cage and put his head in a big lion's mouth twice a day. One day, after he had gotten his head in the animal's mouth he asked the keeper in a low voice, 'Is the lion wagging his tail?' 'He is,' replied the keeper. 'Then I'm gone,' said the tamer, and the next moment the lion closed his jaws and killed the tamer."

It was both a story and a prophecy. Mr. Peck lost his case.

"Yes, sir. For instance, there's a mammoth winter storm landscape I've just finished for Mr. Mudd, the bonanza king. It's called 'A Hailstorm in the Adirondacks,' and a visitor who sat down near it the other day caught a sore throat in less than fifteen minutes. The illusion is so perfect you understand. Why, I had to put in the finishing touches with my ulster and Arctic overshoes on."

"Don't say?"
"Fact, sir; and then there's a little animal gem I did for Gov. Gierkins the other day--portrait of his Scotch terrier Snap. The morning it was done a cat got into the studio, and the minute it saw the picture it went through the window like a ten-inch shell."

"Did, eh?"
"Yes; and the oddest thing about it was that when I next looked at the canvas the dog's hair was standing up all along his back, like a porcupine. Now, how do you account for that?"

"Dunno."
"It just beats me. When the governor examined the work he insisted on my painting in a post with the dog chained to it. Said he didn't know what might happen."

Triumphs of Modern Surgery.

Wonderful things are done for the human body by surgery. Organs are taken out and scraped and polished and put back, or they may be removed entirely; bones are spliced; pipes take the place of diseased sections of veins; antiseptic dressings are applied to wounds, bruises, burns and like injuries before inflammation sets in, which causes them to heal without maturation and in one-third the time required by the old treatment. Chamberlain's Pain Balm acts on this same principle. It is an antiseptic and when applied to such injuries, causes them to heal very quickly. It also allays the pain and soreness. Keep a bottle of Pain Balm in your home and it will save you time and money, not to mention the inconvenience and suffering which such injuries entail. For sale by Conyers & Sykes.

Indigestion Causes Catarrh of the Stomach.

For many years it has been supposed that Catarrh of the Stomach caused indigestion and dyspepsia, but the truth is exactly the opposite. Indigestion causes catarrh. Repeated attacks of indigestion inflame the mucous membranes lining the stomach and exposes the nerves of the stomach, thus causing the glands to secrete mucus instead of the juices of natural digestion. This is called Catarrh of the Stomach.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

relieves all inflammation of the mucous membranes lining the stomach, protects the nerves, and cures bad breath, sour risings, a sense of fullness after eating, indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles.

THE "Aultman & Taylor"

New Century Grain Separator

Is coming to the front everywhere. Farmers and threshermen are enthusiastic over the excellent work of this machine in all kind of grain and seed. It will save enough more grain to pay the threshing bill.

Aultman & Taylor Farm and Traction ENGINES

are always selected by farmers and threshermen who are looking for a profitable investment in farm machinery. They are the simplest, most economical and most durable engines on the American market. Mr. H. M. Patterson, traveling salesman for The Aultman & Taylor Machinery Company, Greensboro, N. C., will be pleased to furnish information on this class of machinery.

Every one interested in high grade threshing and sawing machinery should write for an A. & T. catalogue and for their booklet, "Kernels for the Starved Rooster," both of which will be sent free to any address.

Yours truly,

The Aultman & Taylor Machinery Co.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR SHERIFF:

Having been closely confined to business and on my quiet and consistently voting the Democratic ticket for thirty years, it is with some diffidence that I announce to my friends of this, my native county, that I am a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Guilford county, subject to the action of the Democratic convention; and I am only emboldened so to do by the sincere and hearty approval of a great many good Democratic friends whom I esteem, and in whose judgment I have the utmost confidence. Respectfully,
May 20, 1904-21-21
W. R. FORMIS.

Charged With Contempt.

Raleigh, May 30.—Judge Purnell, of the Federal court, created a sensation in court here today by stating that he had issued a rule for contempt against Josephus Daniels, editor of the Raleigh News and Observer, on account of an editorial which appeared in yesterday's paper criticizing the judge for appointing a receiver for the Atlantic & North Carolina Railway. The judge charged the grand jury on the question of contempt, saying its duty was to indict all persons who had published or uttered things calculated and intended to bring the court into disrepute, and that a special act of Congress covered the matter very fully.

Judge Purnell today appointed V. E. McBee, formerly with the Seaboard Air Line, co-receiver of the Atlantic & North Carolina Railroad. He appointed on Saturday Thomas D. Meares, of Wilmington, as receiver. McBee is now under indictment in the state courts for conspiracy with K. A. Finch, of New York, in obtaining the first receivership, which was vacated by Judge Simonon shortly before his death. The trial will be held in July.

At the hearing yesterday Judge Purnell fined Mr. Daniels $2,000 and ordered him into the custody of the United States Marshal until it is paid, refusing an appeal. Mr. Daniels says he will not in jail before he pays a penny of the fine, and will institute habeas corpus proceedings at once.

Yesterday Chief Justice Fuller, of the United States Supreme court, issued an order suspending Judge Purnell's receivership order in the A. & N. C. Railroad matter until a hearing can be held next October. This prevents the receivers from taking charge of the property.

Race Riot in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, May 30.—A race riot between white and colored persons occurred at Thirtieth and Wharton streets late this afternoon, and before the police succeeded in quelling the disturbance five persons were seriously hurt and scores of others were more or less roughly handled.

Those most seriously injured, who were taken to a hospital are: Ione Mentez, aged 6 years, shot in the back; Joe Waller, 25 years, stabbed in back and arms; Robert McCulloch, 30 years, shot in the back; Lizzie Langdon, 18 years, shot in the left side; Policeman Albert Gibson, badly cut on the head, and possible fracture of the skull.

The police have not yet ascertained the direct cause of the trouble. At any rate, a fight was started between white and colored children, and their elders became involved. Bricks and other missiles were soon flung through the air. The mob grew larger, and finally clubs and pistols were brought into play. A squad of policemen from a nearby station-house was quickly on the scene, and put an end to the disturbance.

Eleven persons charged with assault and battery and inciting riot were arrested.

Sam Holton Is With Bynum.

Durham, May 26.—Mr. S. M. Holton, ex-chairman of the Republican executive committee in this county and brother of Mr. A. E. Holton, ex-chairman of the state committee, is heartily in sympathy with the position taken by Judge Bynum at the Greensboro convention. He believes that the judge was right as far as he went, but that he did not go far enough.

"My position is that Judge Bynum should have gone before the convention and refused to sit with thieves, if they were there as alleged in the public press, and drove the money changers from the temple of justice." This was the expression of Mr. Holton when asked by your correspondent what he thought of the matter.

Mr. Holton did not mince words when speaking of the condition of the Republican party as demonstrated in that Greensboro convention. He believes, although he did not say as much, that the Republicans are in the worst hole they have been in in this state in years.

Ten Hurlled to Death.

Louisville, Ky., May 26.—The tow-boat, Fred Wilson, was torn into fragments, ten men were blown to pieces, and sixteen are injured by the tremendous explosion of the boat's boilers today on the Ohio River. Of the thirty-three persons aboard the boat only seven escaped unhurt. Of the injured one will probably die. The force of the explosion was so great that it shattered windows and awakened the occupants of houses in Louisville, four miles from the scene.

New Trial Ordered in the Case of Osborn vs. Leach.

The Raleigh Post of Saturday, in its report of the opinions handed down by the Supreme court, says of a Guilford case:

In the case of Osborn vs. Leach damage was demanded by Col. W. H. Osborn from Capt. T. M. Leach, of this city, for charges made by him against Col. Osborn, and from the News and Observer for publishing these charges, the statement to the newspaper, being made by Capt. Leach. The statement was to the effect that Col. Osborn, while a director for the penitentiary, bought mules at $27 per head more than they were worth and horses at double the real worth, besides receiving $5 per day and expenses while he was on the trip west making the purchases.

As indicated above, Col. Osborn sued Capt. Leach for making this statement and the News and Observer for publishing it. In the trial below, at the close of the evidence for the plaintiff the judge took the case from the jury and dismissed the action.

On appeal the Supreme court now reverses this and says the matter was prima facie libelous and it is incumbent on the defendant to make good as their defense the truth of the article or the absence of malice.

The opinion of the court is by Chief Justice Clark and holds in addition that the London libel law is constitutional, but that its meaning is that when five days' notice has been given and the retraction printed it only excuses the newspapers from punitive damages and that the plaintiff can still recover his actual damages, if any, including injury to reputation, as well as special damages.

Judge Montgomery concurs in this view, and Judge Douglas, in the result, but dissents on the ground that the London libel law is unconstitutional in that it allows a newspaper exemption from punitive damages on publishing a retraction when the same privilege is denied to individuals.

Judge Walker dissents on the ground that five days' notice not being given the action could not be maintained. Judge Conner, being a stockholder in the News and Observer, did not sit in the case.

Negro for the Presidency.

Richmond, Va., May 26.—Virginia negroes are aroused by a report from Tennessee that a movement is on foot there to call a convention to nominate a colored man for the Presidency. Negro leaders here are in favor of such a move. They do not believe that the slightest chance of electing a negro exists, but they think it a most excellent political move in that it would organize the negroes throughout the Union and keep them organized.

The far-seeing negroes believe that the party so organized would hold the balance of power in the future and could control the election without putting up a candidate of its own.

These plans of the negroes are not having a disquieting effect upon the Democrats. They believe that the day of the negro as a factor in politics is over. It has been years since he cut much of a figure in the South, and now Northern states are talking of amending their constitutions so as to prevent the ignorant of the race from voting.

Attacked With an Axe.

High Point, May 27.—Early yesterday morning a burglar entered the home of Mr. Lewis Payne and while he was asleep struck him three times on the head with an axe, inflicting serious wounds. The burglar fled when Mr. Payne awoke, leaving the bloody axe on the floor.

Mr. Payne is the machinist for the Snow Lumber Company, a steady, hard-working citizen, and much indignation is felt on account of this attack. At first it was not thought that he could live, but this morning the physicians have hope for his recovery.

A Big Meeting of Doctors.

Raleigh, May 26.—The North Carolina Medical Society this afternoon ended the finest session it has ever had, with the best attendance, the ablest papers and discussions and more general interest along every line. The reception given the society by the Capital Club last evening was a very brilliant affair and the members have also received a great many social attentions during the week. The next session will be at Greensboro.

A Ship Named for the State.

Washington, May 25.—The names decided upon for the warships authorized at the last session of Congress were announced at the Navy department today. The battleship New Hampshire, armored cruisers, North Carolina and Montana; scout ships, Chester, Birmingham and Salem; colliers, Erie and Ontario.

Resolutions of Respect.

Resolutions of respect adopted by Greensboro Lodge, No. 80, K. of P., on Monday night, May 23, 1904:

Inasmuch as it has pleased our Heavenly Father in the dispensation of His allwise providence to remove from our midst our beloved Brother, Arthur Jordan; be it

Resolved, That in his death we have lost a faithful brother; one whose hands we believe were filled with the golden keys that open the palaces of eternity. Resolved further, That we extend to his bereaved relatives our heartfelt sympathy, feeling that we can indeed and in truth, deeply sympathize with them.

Resolved further, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes and a copy sent to his family and also published in the city papers.

RE-SALE OF LAND.

By virtue of an order of the Superior court of Guilford county I will offer for sale to the highest bidder, at the late residence of Mrs. Margaret P. Summers, in the village of Whitsett, Guilford county, North Carolina, on a tract of land situate near the village of Whitsett, containing about 100 acres, and being a part of what was known as her home tract. The tract of land has upon it a large body of fine oak timber, and the land is in a good state of cultivation and very productive. This property is very desirable on account of its location near a good school and in a splendid neighborhood.

Terms—One-third cash, balance due in six months with interest from day of sale, and the sale subject to the confirmation of the court. The title is good. The bidding to begin at the price of $2,084.50.
This May 30th, 1904.
G. M. HOLT, Commissioner.

No. 50 Buckeye Riding Disc Cultivator

IF YOU ARE INTERESTED

In labor-saving implements, your attention is invited to our No. 50 Buckeye Disc Riding Cultivator. This is a pivot axle riding Cultivator with wheel guide. Discs can be adjusted to throw dirt either way and can be tilted at any angle necessary to work listed corn or ridged cotton. The spring pressure feature of this Cultivator is an important one, by means of which the entire weight of the machine, if necessary, can be thrown upon the discs for working hard ground, but the pressure is not required for ordinary cultivation. Beams can be set to work any required distance apart, and angle of discs can be changed in an instant without the use of a wrench. Extra center disc attachment, consisting of two discs, can be furnished for making a perfect fallow Cultivator. These discs are attached to the inside of the regular section of discs, making four discs on arms to be attached to the beams so that two inside discs can be attached thereto in such manner to throw the dirt either to or from the row.

We want to sell you a Cultivator. The price is an interesting feature. Call and see it or send for catalogue.

Are Headquarters For

Cow Peas

and Soja Beans

Cow Peas make a large yielding and most nutritious hay crop even on poor or medium land, and the roots and stubble plowed under improves both the condition and productivity of the soil leaving it in much better condition than before the crop was grown.

Mammoth Yellow Soja Beans unquestionably make the richest and most nutritious feed crop grown on the farm. Equally valuable grown either as a hay crop or for the beans. Better than linseed or cotton seed meal for fattening stock.

Full information about these valuable crops in Wood's Seed Book for 1904. Write for it and Special Price List of Seasonable Seeds.

Lego Items.

Measles still continues journeying around in the neighborhood.

Miss Allie Lanier was the guest of her sister, Mrs. T. J. Jones, last week.

We are glad to state that Mr. E. S. Jones is improving and able to be up.

We are having quite a long dry spell and would be charmed to see a good gentle rain.

Mrs. B. F. White left for Oxford last week, where she will visit her son, Mr. J. F. White.

Mr. John Edwards who died suddenly one day last week, was brought to Hickory for burial.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. White were the guests of Mr. Henry Hodgkin and family on Thursday of last week.

Friendship township convention will be held at Hickory Grove on the third Sunday in June. All are cordially invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. White and Mr. Oscar Hassell and sister attended the children's day exercises at Friendship on Sunday. Everything passed off nicely.

Miss Ethel Kirkman, who has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. R. H. Little, and other relatives has left the neighborhood, soon to return to her home in Missouri.

Brick Church Items.

A singing school will be organized at Low's church soon.

Mr. Burton May has arrived from an extended trip in Mississippi.

Miss Myrtle Brown, from Stanley county, is visiting her sister, Mrs. A. H. Fogleman.

Weekly debates at Brookfield are just the kind of organized efforts that make boys influential nowadays.

A Sunday school convention which convenes at Brick Church in a few weeks promises to be of unusual interest.

Henry Greeson, who has had a successful operation performed on his head in Greensboro, will come home this week.

Misses J. M. Fogleman and Manual May, traveling salesmen for John A. Young, were at home a few days recently.

A good farmer said the other day that he was greatly encouraged over the prospects of good returns from the farm this year.

Rev. W. S. Clapp preaches at Brick Church next Sunday at 11 o'clock. Sunday school will be taught by lesson at 10 o'clock.

It is rumored that there is going to be a wedding in this community in the near future.

Quarterly meeting at Deep River will be held Friday, June 3rd, and continue on Sunday.

Death of Jacob Clapp.

On the 19th of May, 1904, Mr. Jacob Clapp, one of the oldest men of our community, died at his home near Brick Church. Mr. Clapp was 80 years old, and his long life had been full of deeds which endeared him to a large circle of acquaintances. For some time he had been unwell, but about two weeks ago he was paralyzed, which rendered him speechless until his death. For days he rapidly sank. His wife and friends gave every possible attention that could be suggested, but it was only the beginning of the end. In the death of Mr. Clapp this community mourns the loss of a man whose kindness was above reproach. Possessing a kindly, genial disposition he made many close friends who will ever cherish a kindly remembrance of him. Mr. Clapp was married thrice, first to Miss Barnhardt, then to Miss Whitwell and lastly to Miss Coble. He united with the Brick Reformed church shortly after his last marriage and was a member of that church when he died. He leaves a wife four children and six grandchildren to mourn his loss. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. D. Andrew, assisted by Rev. W. S. Clapp, at Brick Church on Saturday, May 21st. Mr. Clapp's popularity was attested by the large audience that attended the funeral.

Worst of All Experiences.

Can anything be worse than to feel that every minute will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. H. Newson, Decatur, Ala. "For three years" she writes, "I endured insufferable pain from indigestion, stomach and bowel trouble. Death seemed inevitable when doctors and all remedies failed. At length I was induced to try Electric Bitters and the result was miraculous. I improved at once and now I'm completely recovered." For Liver, Kidney, Stomach and Bowel troubles Electric Bitters is the only medicine. Only 50c. It's guaranteed by all druggists.

Liberty Items.

The great event of last week was the commencement of the Liberty Normal College. Our people say they never saw such a crowd of people in Liberty before. The weather was perfect and all the heart could wish.

The student body was at its best, and every exercise was as perfect as could be. Dr. Long's sermon on Sunday was a great production and the address of the Hon. Robert N. Page was one of the best we have heard for some time.

Medals were awarded to the following persons: The scholarship medal for most advanced work to Mr. R. G. McPherson, of Alamance county; the scholarship medal for highest grades during the year to Mr. D. Edgar Highfill, of Randolph county; the reciter's medal to Miss Bertine Shepherd, of Guilford county; the declaimer's medal to Mr. W. M. Stafford, of Alamance county; the music medal to Miss Flossie Pickett, of Randolph county; the art medal to Miss Annie McPherson, of Alamance county.

Next term of the college opens August 23, 1904. The year just closed has been the most successful that the college has ever had, and the outlook for next year is very flattering.

Mr. M. J. Reitzel, who is selling fruit trees in eastern North Carolina, says that he swapped horses to get money to come to commencement. Hurrah for him!

Misses Susie Stafford, of the Burlington graded schools, and Nettie Albright, of Graham, and Maggie Greeson, of Guilford county, visited Prof. and Mrs. Thomas C. Annick last week.

To mention all the visitors in Liberty last week would take up too much space. They were almost legion in number.

Apple's Chapel Items.

Last Thursday fire got out from Mr. Riley Wagoner's and burned about a hundred loads of wood.

Quite a number of young people enjoyed themselves at Mr. J. R. Kernodle's Saturday night.

Farmers are very busy plowing corn and making up tobacco land. They would be glad to see a nice rain.

Mr. W. L. Huffines has bought Mr. Boston Fryor's interest in the Company mill and is getting it ready for repairs.

Mr. Sam Crowder, from Richmond, Va., spent a week or two with his sister, Mrs. Patty Green, near Brown Summit, and friends near Company Mills.

Mr. Alfred Apple filled Rev. A. F. Leley's place at Apple's chapel the fourth Sunday in May. He will preach there to the Sunday school the second Sunday in June.

Death of Mrs. Dr. W. A. Coble.

The silent messenger of Death invaded a happy home here last Tuesday and took from loving embraces of kindred one that was most dear to those about them. Mrs. Dr. W. A. Coble, who had been ill for several weeks, passed peacefully away last Tuesday. For two or three weeks her life had hung as in a balance. She was truly a good woman and her influence will be felt for a long time to come. She was a beautiful christian character, a faithful member of her church, and by her good life she drew many acquaintances near her. Her earthly interests were all centered in the home over which she presided, yet withal she was never unmindful of her obligations towards her God. She leaves a husband, nine children and many friends to mourn her death. The funeral exercises were held at Mt. Pleasant church Thursday morning at 10:30, conducted by Rev. R. R. Sowers. A large number of friends and relatives from various places were present to show their love and devotion. Mrs. Coble was 68 years old.

In this connection we cannot refrain from saying a word in regard to the venerable doctor, whose life is still a spared monument of love, and whose deeds are memorable because of a long life of valuable service. He has been the constant friend of numbers of young men who have been, continued and ended in success in the medical vocation. He commands today that unimpeachable gift of a practical man in conversation and liberal in his views on civic questions as well as an astute on all questions which he conveniently knows needs the thought and effort to make bad good and wrong right.

Death of Jacob Clapp.

On the 19th of May, 1904, Mr. Jacob Clapp, one of the oldest men of our community, died at his home near Brick Church. Mr. Clapp was 80 years old, and his long life had been full of deeds which endeared him to a large circle of acquaintances. For some time he had been unwell, but about two weeks ago he was paralyzed, which rendered him speechless until his death. For days he rapidly sank. His wife and friends gave every possible attention that could be suggested, but it was only the beginning of the end. In the death of Mr. Clapp this community mourns the loss of a man whose kindness was above reproach. Possessing a kindly, genial disposition he made many close friends who will ever cherish a kindly remembrance of him. Mr. Clapp was married thrice, first to Miss Barnhardt, then to Miss Whitwell and lastly to Miss Coble. He united with the Brick Reformed church shortly after his last marriage and was a member of that church when he died. He leaves a wife four children and six grandchildren to mourn his loss. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. D. Andrew, assisted by Rev. W. S. Clapp, at Brick Church on Saturday, May 21st. Mr. Clapp's popularity was attested by the large audience that attended the funeral.

Worst of All Experiences.

Can anything be worse than to feel that every minute will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. H. Newson, Decatur, Ala. "For three years" she writes, "I endured insufferable pain from indigestion, stomach and bowel trouble. Death seemed inevitable when doctors and all remedies failed. At length I was induced to try Electric Bitters and the result was miraculous. I improved at once and now I'm completely recovered." For Liver, Kidney, Stomach and Bowel troubles Electric Bitters is the only medicine. Only 50c. It's guaranteed by all druggists.

Center Items.

Deferred from last week.

Corn is coming up nicely.

Our Sunday school is growing in interest and membership.

Several of our people attended Friends quarterly meeting at Rocky River last week.

Farmers are getting on nicely with their work. Everything seems to be growing nicely.

Several of our people attended the Jones-Stuart meeting and seem pleased with the results. May the influence exerted grow and strengthen.

Mrs. Dallis Frazier, of Providence, is real sick.

Mr. John Palmer, of Jamestown, spent Saturday night and Sunday here.

Our boys defeated Jamestown 12 to 3 in the ball game Saturday. Batteries for Center, Smith and Gamble; for Jamestown, Griffith and Jackson. The feature of the game was Smith's pitching, as he struck out 17 men and allowed but 4 hits. Mr. Griffith pitched a much better game than the score would indicate.

A Successful Children's Day at Friendship.

A large congregation assembled at Friendship last Sunday when at 10:30 the exercises of a full program were begun by use of responsive reading and the Lord's prayer in concert, followed by prayer by Robert Blaylock, of Oak Ridge. The exercises were interspersed with songs. Mr. H. C. Cude led the singing with instrument to the satisfaction and enjoyment of all present. Dr. J. J. Reun, our pastor, occupied the pulpit just before dinner and the theme of his appropriate discourse was "children as believers," closing with words of encouragement to parents to train up their children in the way of the christianity. At the conclusion of the afternoon exercises a collection amounting to $21.56 was taken for a Sunday school library. For the great success of the occasion much praise is due Mr. Cude, Mrs. Stuart and all the faithful teachers, children and parents who interested themselves in the preparation for same.

The Foster-Gregg Marriage.

Last Wednesday morning, May 25th, a simple yet beautiful marriage took place at Mt. Zion church, when Miss Izona Varana Foster became the wife of Capt. James D. Gregg, the ceremony beginning at 10 o'clock. Rev. John A. Hackney officiating. It was beautiful in every respect. The church was filled with a host of friends of the bride and groom. Among the many were Messrs. Enright Bright and Jesse Spoon, from Raleigh. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Gregg left for a trip to northern cities, after which they will be at home in Raleigh where Mr. Gregg holds a prominent position with the S. A. L. Railroad. The church was beautifully decorated with potted plants, ferns and white daisies. There were no attendants other than the best man and ushers. Miss Sallie Patterson, of Liberty, rendered Mendelssohn's "wedding march" on the organ as the bride accompanied by her father, Dr. George Foster, came following the ushers up the right aisle of the church. At the altar she was met by the groom, with his best man, Mr. Tom Gregg, his brother, where the ceremony was performed by Mr. Hackney. The bride wore a beautiful traveling suit. She was the recipient of many beautiful and useful presents. May God's richest blessings rest upon the young couple, and may they spend many long years of happiness together.

Graceful Acknowledgement of a Favor.

EDITOR PATRIOT: The old proverb, "A thing of beauty is a joy forever," has again been proven by the completion of a public road leading from Mrs. E. J. McAdoo's, on the Reidsville road, to Morehead's Quarter, on the Hillsdale road, a distance of 31 miles. Never in the history of this neighborhood has it enjoyed a public road. Hitherto shut in completely, now we have an outlet to church and market and feel that we are in communication with the world and enjoying some of its great privileges. We wish to return thanks to our county commissioners. We appreciate their kindness and will enjoy our road for all time. J. W. Tyson is a natural road builder. It is astonishing the amount of work he can do with a small force. Only a few days, it seems, was he in building our road, then off he went to other neighborhoods to gladden the hearts of others. May he long continue to build public roads.

SOCIALIST PARTY CAMPAIGN.

Debs' Candidacy Expected to Show the True Growth of the Movement.

Butte Inter-Mountain.

The Socialist party again has nominated Eugene V. Debs for the office of President of the United States. Taking into account the prelections and purposes of that party the distinction is worthily bestowed.

This organization is opposed to the government. Not to the administration of government, but to the government, its form, its laws, its perpetuity. While the leaders appeal to citizens for support with the pretense that they desire a "peaceful revolution," they are as openly and as irrevocably antagonistic to the existing government of the United States and to the several states of the Union as any anarchist who preaches violence and throws bombs as argument.

Mr. Debs easily is the most gifted apostle of the Socialist creed in this country. He possesses a pleasing personality, a generous gift of eloquence, and most persuasive style in oratory. He pleads the cause of the wage-earner and exploits the hardships of the poor as if he were himself a sufferer. In point of fact, he is a parasite upon industry, and during the last decade has been, like Bryan, a professional mouthworker, ever promoting personal ambitions and selfish ends by his activity. He has borrowed from others the Socialistic ideas, which he embellishes with his phrasemaker art. If by any miracle he should be elected President of the United States, he could not take the oath of office without violating either the laws of the land or those of the oath-bound society which has named him as candidate for the chief office to execute the laws of the government which that society is organized to destroy. His candidacy and his campaign will be at once an example of the scope of liberty under our free government and the limits of absurdity in our political campaigns. He is a menace to the happiness of individuals by virtue of his power to mislead. He can become a danger to the republic only when a majority of its citizenship shall have lost the power of reason and the sense to enjoy equality of privileges and rights of citizenship.

Protect Their Roads.

European countries have long discarded narrow tires in order to preserve and build their highways, and also because it is an economy in the use of the vehicle and the weight that a horse is able to draw, says The Good Roads Magazine. Wide tires are not only lighter in their draught than narrower ones under nearly all conditions, but they roll their roads smooth instead of cutting them to pieces. A four-inch tire on a wagon carrying a heavy load is a road builder.

In France every freight and market wagon is a road-maker. The tires are from three to ten inches in width, usually with a single horse, the loads weighing over two tons. With the new four-wheeled vehicles used in France the tires are rarely less than six inches in width, and the rear axle about fourteen inches longer than the fore axle, so that the rear or hind wheels run about one inch out side of the level rolled by the front wheels.

In Germany the law prescribes that all wagons drawing heavy loads, such as coal, brick, earth, stone, etc., must have tires at least four inches wide. It is worse than useless to create expensive and valuable highways to have them only cut to pieces by the use of narrow tires as now used for the hauling of heavy loads in this country. When an expensive highway has been created it must be taken care of, and methods heretofore permitted must be changed in order to help maintain it. Wide tires are of the greatest value in preserving ordinary dirt roads.

Parting Salutations.

A Turk will solemnly cross his hands over his breast and make a profound obeisance when he bids you farewell.

The genial Japanese will take his slipper off as you depart, and say, with a smile: "You are going to leave my despicable house in your honorable journeying—I regret this."

The Filipino's parting benediction is bestowed by rubbing his friend's face with his hand.

The German "Leben Sie wohl!" is not particularly sympathetic in its sound, but it is less embarrassing to those it speeds than the performance of the Hindu, who, when you go from him, falls in the dust at your feet.

Fiji Islanders cross two red feathers. Natives of New Guinea exchange chocolate. The Burmese bend low and say, "Hib hla."

The South Sea Islanders rattle each others' whale-teeth necklaces.

The Russian form of parting salutation is brief, consisting of a single word, "Prschall," which sounds like a sneeze.

The Otaheite Islander will twist the end of the departing guest's robe and then solemnly shake his two hands three times.

The Picadilly tribe of white men say, "Ta ta, old fellow!"

He Stood in the Evil Day.

Chicago Inter-Ocean.

By the folly of both great parties the country had been led into a financial quagmire. The task fell to Grover Cleveland to find a plank which might save it from sinking. Deserted, betrayed, humpered in every way by his own party, he found the plank and averted the disaster. The nation's credit was saved because it found in its need a strong man whom nothing could terrify from doing his best—a man who would stand in the evil day, and having done all, would still stand. Grover Cleveland did stand. He fought to the end, and he won. And when his critics are but a shadow on the pages of history his fame will abide secure.

For a Hundred Years.

For a hundred years or more Witch Hazel has been recognized as a superior remedy, but it remained for E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago, to discover how to combine the virtues of Witch Hazel with other antiseptics, in the form of a salve. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is the best salve in the world for sores, cuts, burns, bruises and piles. The high standing of this salve has given rise to counterfeiters, and the public is advised to look for the name "DeWitt" on the package, and accept no other. Sold by Howard Gardner.

Young Plants

Every farmer knows that some plants grow better than others. Soil may be the same and seed may seem the same but some plants are weak and others strong.

And that's the way with children. They are like young plants. Same food, same home, same care but some grow big and strong while others stay small and weak.

Scott's Emulsion offers an easy way out of the difficulty. Child weakness often means starvation, not because of lack of food, but because the food does not feed.

Scott's Emulsion really feeds and gives the child growing strength.

Whatever the cause of weakness and failure to grow—Scott's Emulsion seems to find it and set the matter right.

IN MEMORIAM.

ROBERT J. WHITE.

On the morning of the 2d of May, 1904, at the home of his mother in Greensboro, the life of Robert J. White was ended, and he passed into the life incorruptible and eternal.

The deceased was born in Rockingham county 28 years ago, but passed most of his life in this county, living a number of years with his grandmother, near Greensboro. At the time of his death Mr. White was employed by the American Cigar Company, in Greensboro, where he had won the confidence and esteem of his employers and fellow laborers.

Robert was one of those individuals upon whom it would seem the hand of fortune had rested heavily. Left fatherless in early life, a cripple from boyhood, torn by adversity from the tender care of mother and the association of sisters and brothers, he began the battle of life single handed and alone. But his was not a spirit to be daunted. Bravely, cheerfully and hopefully he struggled to manhood, toiling with his own hands to obtain the needs of life. Intelligent, sympathetic, cheerful, polite, kind, he made a congenial companion, and readily won the sympathy and esteem of his associates.

He was laid to rest in the churchyard at Rehoboth, and tender hands covered the grave with flowers. The tie that binds human lives together was closer drawn as his Sunday school sang his favorite song, "Nearer My God to Thee," and sad hearts were able to say, "A good name is better than precious ointment, and the day of death than the day of one's birth."—Ecclesiastes 7:1.

His funeral was preached from the above text by his pastor, Rev. T. B. Johnson, in the presence of his relatives and a large number of friends. Robert will no longer gather with us in the young men's prayer meeting, nor will his face greet us again in the Sunday school class; but the influence of his gentle life will live on and his memory cherished in our hearts through the years to come. May his loved ones and friends strive to emulate his virtues, and following in the footsteps of his Christ pass at last through the gates of pearl into the home eternal.

C. M. SHORT, Greensboro, May 14, 1904.

MRS. ANNA VICKREY.

Mrs. Anna Vickrey was born Nov. 11, 1819, and died Jan. 30, 1904. She was a member of the M. E. church. She was a true christian woman, a loving mother a good neighbor and a friend to all. She was sick only four days. As a beam she faded from earth. We can but ask in the anguish of our hearts, why should she die? While we know the doom has been passed upon us we know that christianity can rob it of its sting and Oh, how valuable beyond compare, is that religion which enables the relatives and friends to raise the veil of the tomb and look into the great beyond and behold Mother there, happy among the white-robed angels that surround the throne of God to bloom in the garden of immortality in celestial beauty, never again to be chilled by the winds of earth's bleak shore. It is sad to think we have seen her for the last time. No more to hear her familiar voice and see her smiling face in our homes. No more to be with her this side of the home of the pure and good. Yes, dear Mother, you have left us, but you will live in the sorrowing hearts of those who loved you. But what a blessed thought that there remaineth a rest for the people of God. But it is so hard to give up such a dear mother. How can we give thee up, our mother? How can we live without thee? Oh, it was so hard to give her up, but we weep not as those who have no hope. For her life has always been such that we know that she is at rest with the angels above. May her good christian life inspire us to live better lives. May we all live here so that when we are called one by one we may meet her where parting will be no more.

A precious one from us has gone;
A voice we loved is stilled;
A place is vacant in our homes
Which never can be filled.

Her loving daughter,
LUZIE A. SULLIVAN.

Ten Tips for Long Life.

Philadelphia Inquirer.

First—Rise early, retire early and fill your day with work.

Second—Water and bread maintain life; pure air and sunshine are indispensable to health; and do not worry.

Third—Frugality and sobriety form the best elixir of longevity.

Fourth—Cleanliness prevents rust; the best-cared-for machines last the longest.

Fifth—Enough sleep repairs waste and strengthens; too much sleep softens and enfeebles.

Sixth—To be sensibly dressed is to give freedom to one's movements and enough warmth to be protected from sudden changes of temperature.

Seventh—A clean and cheerful house makes a happy home.

Eighth—The mind is refreshed and invigorated by distractions and amusements, but abuse of them leads to dissipation and dissipation to vice.

Ninth—Cheerfulness makes love of life, and love of life is half of health. On the contrary, sadness and discouragement hasten old age.

Tenth—Do you gain your living by your intellect? Do not forget to cultivate your mind and to enlarge your thought. Do you earn your bread by your pickaxe? Then do not allow your arms and limbs to grow stiff.

What the Public Must Pay.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

Charles M. Schwab, former president of the United States steel trust, has been telling tales out of school which have produced no little flurry in protective circles. In a private letter to H. C. Frick, he has declared that the trust could sell steel rails at the mill for $16 per ton and make a reasonable profit. He claims that he could not only do this, but shut out English rails in the markets of Great Britain at $19 per ton, and that the same is true as to other steel products. When it is considered that the price of steel rails at the mills is $28 per ton some idea can be formed of the tax which is thus levied on the people, on which the end falls the burden of the extra cost by this system of favoritism.

$500 REWARD!
FOR WOMEN

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.
Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhoea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

The Vice-President Independent Order of Good Templars.

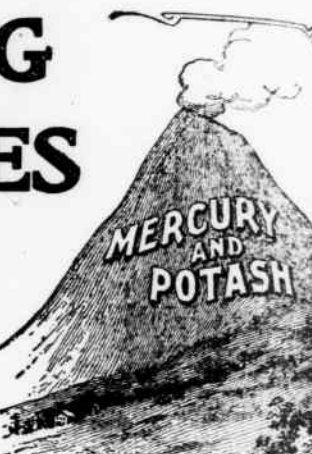

An experience which many women have related by Miss Agnes Stebbins, of 231 East 94th Street, New York City, as follows: "I had very poor health for a year until I looked dark and dreary to me. Had headaches, backache, also pain in my sleep was broken and fitful. I longed for health. Tried several medicines but none were of any lasting benefit until I took Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I soon realized that I had found the right remedy. It helped nature to throw off the poisons that saturated the system, removed all pains and strengthened the digestive organs, and brought the roses of health back to my cheeks. This medicine if taken occasionally keeps the system in perfect condition, helping it to throw off the disease and consequences of exposure to dampness. I am pleased to give it my endorsement."

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of 21 cent stamps for the paper-covered book, or 31 stamps for the cloth-bound book. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

SLEEPING VOLCANOES

A thin, vapory smoke, lazily ascending from its crater, may be the only visible sign of life in the sleeping volcano; but within is a raging sea of fire, molten rock and sulphurous gases. Those who make their homes in the peaceful valleys below know the danger, and though frequently warned by the rumblings and quakings, these signs of impending eruption go unheeded. They are living in fancied security; when the giant awakes with deafening roars, and they are lost beneath a downpour of heated rock and scalding ashes. Thousands of blood poison sufferers are living upon a sleeping volcano, and are taking desperate chances for under the mercury and potash treatment the external symptoms of the disease disappear, and the deluded victim is happy in the belief of a complete cure; but the fires of contagion have only been smothered in the system, and as soon as these minerals are left off will blaze up again. Occasional sores break out in the mouth, a red rash appears on the body, and these warning symptoms, if not heeded, are soon followed by fearful eruptions, sores, copper-colored splotches, swollen glands, loss of hair and other sickening symptoms. Mercury and potash not only fail to cure blood poison, but cause mercurial Rheumatism, necrosis of the bones, offensive ulcers and inflammation of the stomach and bowels. The use of S. S. S. is never followed by any such bad results. It cures without the slightest injury to the system. We offer $1,000 for proof that it contains a mineral of any description. S. S. S. is an antidote for contagious blood poison, it destroys every atom of the virus and purifies and strengthens the blood and builds up the general health.

GRADUAL DECLINE

This is the fate of sufferers from Kidney trouble, as the disease is so insidious that often people have serious Kidney trouble without knowing the real cause of their illness, as diseased kidneys allow the impurities to stay in the system and attack the other organs. This accounts for the many different symptoms of Kidney Disease.

Foley & Co., Chicago, Gentlemen:—About a year ago my health began to fail, I lost flesh and never felt well. The doctor thought I had stomach and liver trouble, but I became convinced that my kidneys were the cause of my ill health and commenced taking FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE. It increased my appetite and made me feel stronger, and the annoying symptoms disappeared. I am now sound and well.—J. K. Horn, 1354 Diversey Blvd., Chicago, June 11, 1902.

Cured His Wife

E. C. Watkins, sexton of the Methodist Church, Springfield, Pa., writes: "My wife has been very bad with kidney trouble and tried several doctors without benefit. After taking one bottle of FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE was much better, and was completely cured after taking four bottles."

One Bottle Cured Him

A. H. Davis, Mt. Sterling, Ia., writes: "I was troubled with kidney complaint for about two years, but one one-dollar bottle of FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE effected a permanent cure."

The Biggs Treatment

The Biggs Method of Curing Disease is not an experiment. It has become thoroughly established as a rational system of treatment and has accomplished so many cures that arguments are no longer necessary to convince one of its efficiency. The results obtained by it speak for it. The best recommendations it can have are found in the verbal and printed statements of those who have made practical investigation of its merits. The fact that this method of treatment has steadily grown in popularity, and the further fact that there are hundreds of people who recommend it in positive language, offer conclusive evidence that it is successful in curing the sick.

Important Facts

In considering the Biggs Treatment there are some facts that should be in mind. When the significance of these facts is fully realized the success of the treatment is made still more apparent. The facts here alluded to are set forth in the following statements: THE PATIENTS WHO MAKE THE BIGGS TREATMENT ARE ONES THAT THE MEDICAL DOCTORS HAVE BEEN UNABLE TO CURE. Fully nine-tenths of the patients who have taken the Biggs Treatment have done so as a last resort, all other methods having failed to benefit them. Many have been pronounced absolutely incurable. Some had been told that they could live only a few weeks. In not one instance during the past year has a patient taken the Biggs Treatment who had not previously taken medical or surgical treatment and become convinced that medicine could not cure him. IT IS FROM HIS SUCCESS IN THIS CLASS OF ALLEGED INCURABLE CHRONIC CASES THAT THE REPUTATION OF THE BIGGS TREATMENT HAS BEEN ESTABLISHED.

Then, considering the nature of the diseases treated, the time required to effect a cure is very short. Nearly all of the patients cured by the Biggs method have previously taken long courses of medical treatment. IN MANY INSTANCES THE PATIENT HAD BEEN UNDER ALMOST CONSTANT MEDICAL TREATMENT FOR FIVE, TEN OR FIFTEEN YEARS. Remember that during all this time the medical physicians had failed to cure, although they had ample opportunity and had accepted hundreds of dollars of the patient's money. For the most part, these cases have been completely cured by the Biggs Treatment in a few weeks.

TESTIMONIALS

CATARRH OF STOMACH.

For several years I was afflicted with a severe form of stomach trouble, suffering excruciating pain. The attacks finally became so frequent and violent that life seemed worth nothing to me. Finding no relief from medicine, I decided to try Dr. Biggs, the non-medical physician. He pronounced my malady catarrh of the stomach. I began taking treatment from him about the last of May and continued till about the second week in August and during that time had not a single attack. I have not taken a particle of medicine nor have I had any of these terrible attacks. I feel better than I have for several years, and although I am in good condition, for any form of catarrh of the stomach, I would strongly advise you to give it a trial.

Very truly,

CONSUMPTION.

Things have caused me a great deal of trouble. I would cough with every breath and spit a great deal of blood. The best doctors in Greensboro treated me, but were not able to do me any good. They all said I had consumption and frankly told me my relatives that they could not cure me. I had lost all hope of ever being cured, and when I heard of Dr. Biggs, I decided to try it as I had heard of others. I commenced to immediately. My appetite improved and I regained my strength. I was now able to do my own work and was in better health than I have had for years. I advise every one who has trouble to take this treatment.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

Correspondence of the PATRIOT.

Washington, May 28.—Congress has dissolved, as previously remarked, but there is no such thing as silence in Washington as long as His Strenuous fingers. The sensations of today swarm around the White House, or rather around the preposterous little outhouse attached, where the President hides from the low public and receives the high private. As your correspondent has foreshadowed, a lively row has sprung up around the innocent head of Cortelyou. He doesn't want to be the storm center, but how can he help it, when the President obstinately pushes him into that position and holds him up by main strength while he kicks and half of the Republican senators spend their time flinging imprecations at his head?

"What does the boy know about managing a national campaign?" Senator Hale is reported to have asked the other day, and everybody looked grave and nobody answered. Cortelyou himself has shown great good sense since the President boosted him upon the elephant by saying frankly that it was a mistake, for he never rode an elephant before, and there are no stirrups and he is sure to fall off.

Conditions around the executive mansion are inflammatory. Not a day passes that Republican leaders do not give the President a piece of their mind, hot off the griddle. "Cortelyou? Cortelyou?" said one of his callers, "who is he? I have heard the name, Mr. President, but I don't even know him by sight!" After such a speech has been repeated times enough it makes his excellency very hot around the collar, and he has been known to utter retorts that were almost profane, even less printable than his short speech to the Tennessee delegation about Carmack. This greatly fatigues him and inclines him to sigh audibly for the congenial fastnesses of Oyster Bay.

On Wednesday three Republican senators called simultaneously—Kean, of New Jersey; Cullom, of Illinois; and Proctor, of Vermont, jovial and garrulous, while they waited for the Secretary of War to leave, and all solemn and silent when they in turn retired.

Senator Kean is said to have been the spokesman. The President seldom has time to ask a visitor to sit, and a whizzing phonograph and a clattering biograph would probably have left something like the following record:
The Senator: "Morning, Mr. President; hope you are well."
The President: "You have called to see about—"
The Senator: "Yes; work laid out for Mr. Cortelyou."
The President: "Well, well! There's work enough—and he can do it!"
The Senator: "Some of your best friends, Mr. President, fear that the job will be too difficult for him."
The President: "Yes, I know, I know! Several have called to help me by increasing the difficulty. Thanks, I am sure! Governor Crane was mentioned for the place. Good man. But some don't like him. The secretary was tip top but some didn't like him. Platt and Odell couldn't get together. Then Murphy, of New Jersey. Strong man. Able man. But you yourself, senator, couldn't get together on him and they do say that the reason was—however let it pass. Did that leave me any alternative to jumping in and getting a good man for the place? There can't be any quarrels over Cortelyou. I think the leaders of the party ought to help."

The Senator: "Might it not be more judicious, Mr. President, for you to help the leaders of the party, instead of calling on them to help you?"
The President: "Well, now, I'm sure—what the devil—what more can I do than I have done? There will be perfect harmony if everybody falls in."

Your correspondent does not attempt in the above to reproduce the exact language used, but reports and rumors of what took place indicate that the spirit of the occasion is here preserved. The language that was used was such as would have made Mr. Dooley lament anew that his father didn't send him to Harvard. Of course I have left out all the hard words and toned it down in the interest of publicity.

Senator Cullom shed a few tears with the President over the terrible condition of affairs in Illinois. The worst seemed to be that the ex-Senator Billy Mason holds the key to the deadlock, and the President remembers bitterly the hard whacks that Mason gave him during his last year of service. Cullom told him that there had been no change in the situation since the state convention adjourned, but he thought that when it reassembled on the 1st a good deal of the bitterness would have been absorbed and the fight would not leave deep wounds. The optimistic visitor assured the President that whatever restored of Yates, harmony would be restored in time for the November campaign.

Senator Spooner, of Wisconsin, is here, the Fuzzy Wuzzy of the Senate, and he keeps up his interminable chatter. The President has intimated to him that he had better go home and stay there till some kind of terms have been made with La Follette, whose sense quite able to hold his own against the two senators and all their friends. It is rumored that the President talks about Wisconsin in his sleep, expressing himself to Spooner and Quarles in terms of amiable imprecation.

Senators Aldrich and Cullom called upon Postmaster Payne yesterday afternoon at the Arlington, and it is understood that the conversation did not entirely exclude the name of Mr. Cortelyou. General Payne's curious substitute and successor.

At the headquarters of the Democratic congressional committee, Chairman Cowherd is sending out 2,000 letters to Democratic county committees, asking for the names of men who are going to take the stump.

A Strong Heart

is assured by perfect digestion. Indigestion swells the stomach and pulls it up against the heart. This causes shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart and general weakness. Kodol Dyspepsia Cures cures indigestion, relieves the stomach, takes the strain off the heart and restores it to a full performance of its function naturally. Kodol increases the strength by enabling the stomach and digestive organs to digest, assimilate and appropriate to the blood and tissue all of the food nutriment. Tones the stomach and digestive organs. Sold by Howard Gardner.

MRS. HEARST QUITS GIVING.

Mother of Editor Withdraws Support From Kindergarten College.

Washington, May 27.—Educational circles here are greatly exercised over the sudden and unlooked-for announcement that Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst has withdrawn her bounty to the Kindergarten college in this city which bears her name, and all other local charities in which she was such a liberal contributor. The reason given is that her "income is not sufficient to justify a continuance of her donations."

For the past eight years the Phoebe Hearst Kindergarten college has been maintained in this city by the individual aid of Mrs. Hearst. The amount was $16,000 a year. This sum has been sufficient to sustain a modern kindergarten institution in the fashionable section of the city. In addition to classes of instruction for young children, a training school for teachers has been one of the features of this establishment. Young women anxious to become teachers in kindergarten schools have come here from all parts of the country to take the admirable course of instruction at the Phoebe Hearst college. Ninety per cent. of the teachers in the public school kindergarten grades are graduates from the Hearst college.

The withdrawal of Mrs. Hearst's financial support from this institution and all other local charities on the ground that her income was not sufficient to enable her to continue her noble work—a work in which she had previously shown so much interest—was a severe shock to her friends in Washington and a stunning blow to the kindergarten system as taught at the Hearst college. A committee was immediately appointed to hasten to New York and confer with Mrs. Hearst on the subject prior to her departure for Europe. She received the committee graciously, but tearfully, and informed her callers that her decision was final.

No further explanation is offered by confidential friends and the representatives of the Hearst estate. Mrs. Hearst has gone to Europe and the incident appears to be closed so far as she is concerned. One of the mysterious features of Mrs. Hearst's unexpected retirement from philanthropic work at the national capital is that she spent several weeks here recently. At that time she attended a formal reception given in her home at the college and she made no mention of her intention to withdraw her support from the institution. Only a few days prior to her sailing for Europe she notified the managers of the Hearst college that her aid to that institution was at an end.

Painful Accident at a Sham Battle.

Oxford, May 26.—The exercises of Horner's commencement this afternoon were very interesting. The review of the two companies by General Royster and staff, mounted, was very fine. The sham battle was reviewed by a large crowd, when quite an unfortunate accident occurred, causing the wounding of our chief of police, Mr. S. W. Wheeler. The Granville Grays were behind breastworks in an improvised fort. Mr. Wheeler, who is a member of the Granville Grays, was loading the cannon that became heated once, and in loading it from the muzzle the charge ignited and went off unexpectedly, the rammer going through his hands in such force as to shatter the hands and arms, besides burning his face and neck. While the wounds are painful, they are not considered serious. Medical aid was rendered at once by Drs. T. L. Booth and Daniel, and the patient was taken comfortably to his home in a carriage.

Dr. Strange Honored.

Wilmington, May 26.—Reverend Robert Strange, D. D., rector of St. Paul's parish, Richmond, Va., was today elected bishop coadjutor to Bishop A. A. Watson of the diocese of East Carolina by the council in session in this city.

Dr. Strange was nominated by the clergy on the fifth ballot, he having received 14 out of 23 votes cast. Thirteen was the number of votes declared necessary for a choice. Immediately after the nomination the laity ratified the nomination by a unanimous vote and Dr. Strange was declared elected.

There was suppressed applause among Dr. Strange's former parishioners at St. James over his election. He is a native of Wilmington and was rector here for many years. He is greatly beloved in this city, and the community rejoices at the honor conferred upon him.

An Unknown Meets Death.

Burlington, May 26.—A young white man jumped from Southern through freight train, No. 181, here tonight at 11:20, and was instantly killed. There were no papers on his person by which he could be identified. He was apparently about 25 years of age, clean shaven, dark hair, weight about 150, about 5 feet 9 or 10 inches, neatly dressed and when found had a dress suit, but the suit case was later stolen while Operator Reid was looking for a policeman. Any one knowing anything of this young man, or who can give any information which will lead to his identification, will please notify Mayor Hall, of this place. He had $1.75 in his clothes and a pocket knife in his pocket.

Sued by His Doctor.

"A doctor here has sued me for $12.50, which I claimed was excessive for a case of cholera morbus," says R. White, of Coachella, Cal. "At the trial he praised his medical skill and medicine. I asked him if it was not Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy he used as I had good reason to believe it was, and he would not say under oath that it was not." No doctor could use a better remedy than this in a case of cholera morbus, it never fails. Sold by Conyers & Sykes.

Calmage Sermon

By Rev.
Frank De Witt Talmage, D. D.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 29.—In this season for Memorial day the preacher speaks for justice and recognition for those who, though wearing no uniforms and bearing no weapons, yet saved their country in its crisis as bravely and patriotically as ever did soldiers at the front of the battle line. The text is Matthew XIX, 30, "Many who are first shall be last, and the last shall be first."

When these immortal nations have passed their military chieftains. All honor befitting in reverence before the names of Hamilton and Hannibal. All honor befitting the sacred dust of Cincinnatus and of Marshall Benaud. All honor befitting the name of Frederick the Great and Count von Moltke. All honor befitting Garibaldi and Victor Emmanuel. In England the Duke of Wellington and Lord Napier sleep within St. Paul's cathedral under the most magnificent dome of all London. Westminster abbey is the last resting place of scores of generals and admirals who have made England's name famous upon the land and upon the sea.

Not only do the modern nations honor their dead military chieftains, but also the living soldiers who have shed their blood upon hard fought battlefields. They honor not their generals only, but the humble privates who have carried the muskets in the ranks, the petty noncommissioned officers, the lieutenants, or captains of small company commands. When these soldiers die they are laid in the grave with military honors. When as worn-out veterans they are unable to look after themselves, then the best of "soldier homes" are provided for their maintenance. England has placed the royal palace, in the Isle of Wight, where Queen Victoria passed most of her life, at the service of her convalescent soldiers. France has her beautiful retreat of the Invalides for her aged soldiers, in the midst of which is the huge sarcophagus of her greatest warrior, whose dying request was this: "It is my wish that my ashes may repose on the banks of the Seine, in the midst of the French people whom I loved so well." The finest sites near our own national capital and Milwaukee and Danville and Santa Monica are filled with the veterans of our own army, who were just as brave as any that wore the Confederate gray or the Federal blue, who laid down their lives upon the blood soaked soil of Vicksburg, Chancellorsville, Lookout Mountain or Atlanta.

Though on this Memorial Sabbath we specially honor the heroes who laid down their lives on the battlefield or who survived the war to die afterward of their wounds or of disease brought on by the exposure and the hardships of the war, I want to call your attention this morning to men who rendered other kinds of service in the great struggle. That conflict could never have been fought out if some who did not go to the front had not bravely done their duty in other spheres. There were some who would gladly have shouldered a musket and gone to the war, but renounced their share in the danger and the glory of the battle so that they might render less conspicuous but no less essential service to their country. Let us give them, too, their meed of praise.

The Unpraised Heroes.
On this Memorial day I praise the unpraised southerner as well as the unpraised northerner. I believe the Civil war, bloody as it was, awful and terrible as it was, mortal as it was, with 600,000 dead, was worth all the sacrifice it cost. Why? Because once and for all it settled the vital and far reaching question that the United States government forever was to be founded on the east by the Atlantic, on the west by the Pacific, on the north by the great lakes and on the south by the gulf. Though the United States proper comprises an area of 3,600,000 square miles, yet in that vast area, great as it is, there will never be more than one government. There will never be more than two queens can live in the same beehive. This question of one government had to be settled once for all by the sword. If it had not been settled by a bloody conflict between the north and the south, it would have had to be settled later by a bloody conflict between east and west. Thus I honor the unpraised hero who in 1861 stood below the Mason and Dixon line as well as the unpraised hero of Michigan and Pennsylvania and New York and Maine.

Let us, on this Memorial day, let us honor the statesmen in the cabinet and the legislators in the capitol who conducted the national government during those four years of trial. In the north the capitol at Washington and in the Confederate capitol at Richmond there were men as brave as those in the ranks. Their duties were onerous, their responsibilities serious, their responsibility intense. Let us raise the national flag over the dead bodies of the senators and the congressmen who bravely stood at their posts during those awful years of carnage, as well as put a wreath of flowers upon the graves of the men who died at South Mountain, Antietam or Fredericksburg.

It is so easy to speak sneeringly of our Washington legislators. It is so easy to call the United States senate the "millionaires' assembly" or the "club of the old fogies." It is so easy to say the house of representatives is a collection of nonentities, who are ruled for the most part by one or two men who crack the party whip over the backs of their fellows. But, my friends, I believe that by such speeches injustice is often done to able men. We have a right to assume that men who have been chosen by their fellow citizens to represent them in congress are worthy men, and when we disparage them we disparage the citizens who elected them. The first great battles are not fought out with sword and cannon, but with tongue and pen in legislative assembly. The civilized world knew Spain was doomed long before Commodore Dewey's guns spoke in Manila harbor. When, on June 13, 1898, congress authorized the secretary of the United States treasury to issue $400,000,000 worth of bonds for national defense, all the ultimate outcome of the Spanish-American war was decided, except how the treaty of peace should be signed. The outcome of the terrible conflict of 1861 to 1865 would never have been the maintenance of the Union if congress had not loyally supported President Lincoln during that eventful period. Aye, there were giants in those days. But the giants upon Capitol hill, whose moral courage and unswerving loyalty were tried and proved, deserve our honor as much as do the giants fighting at the front.

Which Most Deserved Honor?
Place side by side, if you will, those two master personalities, John Sherman and William T. Sherman. They were brothers; they were both geniuses. As we look over the pages of history it is a very debatable question which should be honored the more and who did the more valiant service for his country, John or William. One was a giant in guiding and creating patriotic legislation, the other a giant in military strategy, yet today in almost every city you can see fifty pictures of William T. Sherman where you will find one of his patriotic brother, who was senator of the United States from 1861 to 1877. The vital importance of the work done by our national legislators can never be better illustrated than in the life of James A. Garfield. He was one of the most brilliant volunteer soldiers of the war. From the presidential chair of Hiram College in 1861 he stepped into the military camp and donned a soldier's uniform. Within two years he wore the shoulder straps of a major general. Yet Abraham Lincoln placed his hand upon the brilliant chief of Rosecrans' staff and said: "Garfield, I need you more in congress than I do in the field. Resign your soldier's commission and as a congressman come and help me." Thus today I not only honor the soldier, but also the legislator. I honor James A. Garfield the general. I also honor James A. Garfield the Ohio congressman. In both positions he did valuable and heroic service.

On this Memorial day the brother who stayed at home and worked the farm should be praised as well as the young man who went to the front and was mentioned for a heroic deed in the commander's dispatch. The young man who sank his personality in the more common but equally helpful duties of home life might have been even braver and more unselfish than the soldier boy who marched down the main street of his native town or city, keeping step to the strains of martial music, and whose train pulled out of his home depot amid the shouts and huzzas of admiring friends who came to bid him goodbye.

The Boys Who Stayed at Home.
Let me illustrate what I mean by praising the boy who stayed at home to work the farm. Some time ago I was attending a soldiers' reunion. It was a most impressive spectacle, that assembly of aged men. Yes, the ranks of the old soldiers are thinning very rapidly. We shall not have them with us long. But, though these veterans were very old when they began to tell their campfire stories, as their narrative proceeded they seemed to become boys again. Among the stories told was one I shall never forget. "Did you have any brothers in the army?" I asked an aged soldier. "Yes, one," was the answer. "There were three boys of us. We all wanted to go, but father and mother were getting old, and some one had to stay at home and look after the old folks and our younger sisters. So one night we had a family convocation. After the family talk we three sons and mother and father decided that two of us boys could go to the war, but that one should stay at home and work the farm. Who were to go? Who was to stay at home? We all wanted to go and fight and so we decided to draw lots. Mother held the book and put in the three slips of paper with one marked 'Stay at home.' We drew. John and myself went to the front. Harry stayed at home." "Did your brother regret that he had to stay?" "Oh, yes. But some one had to stay, and so he simply swallowed his disappointment. Yes, we two boys could never have gone to the front but for Harry's faithfulness to the old folks." Was he not just as patriotic as the two who went forth to battle? Let us, then, place a flower over his grave as well as upon the graves of those who went to the war. Let us realize that the stay at home boys sometimes evinced greater moral courage, made more heroic self sacrifice and endured greater disappointments than the ones who went to the front.

In this Memorial address we would accord praise to all who did the country service—the contractors who furnished the blankets and the shoes and the tents and the food and the guns, the patriotic bankers, the railroad men, like Thomas Alexander Scott, who did such valuable service in rushing the troops to their ultimate destinations.

We would praise the newspaper editors, who molded public opinion so that the right men were elected to congress, and the newspaper reporters, who risked life and limb to carry back the news from the front, of what hardships and fathers and brothers had suffered under the tornadoes of shot and shell in the last battle. We would praise such men as A. K. McClure of the Philadelphia Press, with whom Lincoln was in closest contact, and Joseph Medill of the Chicago Tribune, and James Gordon Bennett of the New York Herald. These men never were able to wear a Grand Army button. They could tell no campfire stories at the Grand Army reunions, but they had their part in the great struggle. But for their enterprise, their daring and their patriotic devotion we should never have had the records of valor which are now our priceless possession.

Services of Charles A. Dana.
It is a very grave question whether Abraham Lincoln could not better have parted with almost any one of his major generals than he could have lost that genius of railroad organizing, Thomas Alexander Scott. It is a very grave question whether U. S. Grant would not have been deposed from his command and sent back home in disgrace had it not been for Charles A. Dana, who, as the personal representative of Lincoln, went to the front and exposed and denounced the false scandals which were being circulated about the "silent warrior" of the west. It is a very grave question whether Salmon P. Chase could have ever successfully financed the United States bonds which paid the running expenses of the war government, costing at that time millions upon millions of dollars each month, unless he had been backed up by Jay Cooke, the Philadelphia capitalist, who was to Lincoln what Robert Morris was to George Washington in the Revolution. So today I impartially praise the patriotic soldier, the patriotic railroad man, the patriotic editor, the patriotic financier, the patriotic contractor—McClure and Dana and Scott and Jay Cooke, as well as Grant and Sherman and Sheridan and Lee and Longstreet and John B. Gordon.

In this Memorial day address we would not omit the need of recognition due to the ministers of the home churches as well as the chaplains who labored in the field hospital and by the wounded and mourning men who had the pallor of death upon their cheeks the night after the battle. We would praise men like Henry Ward Beecher of Brooklyn and Moses D. Hoze of Richmond and Dr. Palmer of New Orleans. These men were never identified with any one particular regiment or brigade, yet in their utterances of inspiration, in the divine comfort which they carried to the bereft homes, in their words of faith and love, which through the printed page went to the boys in the camp, they became mighty evangelists of light, mighty gospel messengers for God and their native land.

We have all read about the noble services of Dwight L. Moody to the soldier boys at the front. We know that many a dying soldier boy was able to answer "Here!" to the roll call of heaven because some faithful chaplain on earth had prepared him for that "Fall in!" on the other side of the grave. We know that many and many a dying message sent to the mother or the wife at home was penned by the faithful chaplains who looked after the boys of their regiments as a father might care for the children about his own fireside. But what about that gray haired old minister of the village church? Did he not serve any patriotic purpose?

Jackson's Advice to a Minister.
We cannot today too much praise the work of the gospel minister during the agonies of America's four years of carnage. One day a man applied to General Jackson for a position in his army. "What is your business?" asked Jackson. "I am a minister of the gospel," was the reply. Then Jackson, the Christian soldier, said: "My friend, I can give you no position as high as that which God has given to you. Go back to your own church. In the name of Jesus Christ, give comfort to the widows whose husbands have been shot; to the children whose fathers, on account of this bloody war, will never come back; to the young maidens who can never again see their sweethearts." Go back and preach the gospel of sacrifice to the young men who must be enlisted from your town. Go back! In God's name, go back! Aye, the duty which Thomas J. Jackson assigned to the ministers of Jesus was grandly and nobly fulfilled by hundreds of consecrated clergymen, both in the north and the south. Today I honor the memories of the noble men of God who at home were true and firm to their Lord and their people during the awful conflict.

But I have still another long list of unpraised heroisms. I would not praise the boy in blue or the boy in gray for what he did in 1861 and 1865 more than I would praise him for what he did after peace had been proclaimed. It was a spectacle that astonished the world, a spectacle unprecedented in history, that of the soldiers of those two huge armies laying down their muskets and taking up the plowshare. To their honor be it said that they were ready to turn their backs upon strife and, side by side, work together in the vocations of peace. The vast armies of America going forth to battle is not nearly as impressive, from a historic standpoint, to the student of sociology, as those armies almost instantly melting away and then there their ex-members fraternizing with one another and striving to the uttermost to build up the country with as much earnestness as they had shown in fighting each other to the death.

Without any doubt, Robert E. Lee

was one of the finest characters America ever produced. Would you like to know what was to me the greatest act of that grand life? I find it not in his actions before the war. I find it not in his wonderful equisite and gentlemanly and marvelous powers during the war. But after Appomattox the chief act of that life glowed before his countrymen as a single star that outshone all the other stars in the heavenly firmament. After the war was over a rich financial company of New York city, in order to catch the southern trade through Robert E. Lee's popularity, offered Lee $25,000 per year at a salary to become its manager. What said General Lee? "No, I cannot come. I must stay among my own people to help them to become true Christian citizens, to help teach them how to have faith in their God and patriotic love for their whole land." Robert E. Lee turned his back at that time upon the most princely salary then offered in the city of New York. In order to teach his people to love a reunited country and to have faith in God he accepted a humble position as the president of one of Virginia's bankrupt schools. Rather than live for mercenary gain he quietly and yet nobly and unselfishly went to live among the shattered walls of Washington college in Lexington. He lived there until the close of his life. Some people may tell you that the greatest service the American soldier did for his country was when he suffered upon the field of battle. I tell you that the greatest service the Confederate army and the Federal army ever did for their native land was when they dissolved and when their Christian soldiers became the earnest, consecrated advocates of Christian peace. So today I praise no less highly than the soldier who went out in 1861 to fight his country's battles the soldier in 1865 returning to civil life and striving in home and factory and store to heal the wounds of the nation and reunite its people in the bonds of Christian love.

The Sentinel's Call.
Some time ago I stood on the top of the Washington monument and looked off upon the battlefields of America and dreamed my dreams. I saw hundreds of thousands of human bones bleaching in the sunlight, gnawed of the culture and the wolf. I heard the muffled drums beating the tattoo at sunset. As the artillery wagons rumbled away to the rear, and star twinkled to star, I heard sentinel by the glare of the candle call to sentinel: "All's well, All's well along the Potomac!"

There go the booming of the cannon and the sharp commands of the officers, "Steady, boys; steady, steady!" There is the ping of the bullet, and the dying soldier clutches at his heart as he moans, "My babies, O God, my poor babies!" and then drops dead. There comes the blood curdling Confederate cry, "HE! HE! HE! HE! HE!" There is the long line of set faces behind the glittering bayonets. The heavens redden and glow. The flames leap and hiss and dance and make merry over the burning bonfires. The falling beams go crash, crash, crash! The rivers are deep with flowing blood; the grave trenches are filled with a million dead.

As I turn and look upon the great white dome of the capitol the old national flag flaps and waves. Its stars glitter like the eyes of the mothers waiting for their boys who never came back, and like the eyes of the maidens who, after awhile as old women, read and reread the torn and the yellow letters which their heroes just before the fatal battle wrote about the bridal homes which were destined never to be built. And as I look upon the old flag again the white stripes look like the white bandages which were put about the shattered arms. The long, deep streaks of red prove that its folds had once been dipped into pools of human blood. Then the great white dome of the legislative hall, glistening in the sunlight, looks as though it were built out of the broken tombstones of Arlington Heights and Gettysburg and the Wilderness.

The War Forever Ended.
Then, as I look up and down the great Pennsylvania avenue, I seem to see the united armies of the boys in blue and of the boys in gray marching, marching, marching. I see the lines melt away. Following with my eye one soldier, I see him take his discharge, and he starts for home. I cannot tell whether this discharged soldier is now heading for the Michigan hills or for the Georgia plantations. In his civilian dress he has no distinctive insignia telling me whether he fought under Grant or under Lee. Then I see this soldier coming up to the farm gate and being welcomed home by his dear ones. Now his wife nearly faints away for joy. Then in the evening hour I see him gather the little children about him. He opens the old book; he reads a chapter; the family kneel in prayer; then the lights are put out, and I know the war is forever ended.

The Christian soldier of conflict has become the Christian citizen of patriotic peace. So on this Memorial day, with its sad and happy associations, while we praise the soldier boy of 1861 let us also honor the Christian veteran of the time of peace. Let us, with the memory of what he has done in both conflicts, go forth to his last great battle. Let us take the Bible in hand and capture this round world for Christ.

Come, ye Christian heroes of the past, both praised and unpraised; come with your sacred memories and your buried dead. Come, ye Christian heroes of the future, with your cradles and unborn generations; come, ye nations about to be born for Christ; come all times and all millenniums! Down in prayer and kneel to him who will yet be crowned King of kings and Lord of all! Halleluiah, for the Lord God omnipotent reigneth!

Good local rains fell here yesterday and day before. The ground had become quite dry in the two weeks that we had been without rain.

Chas. Mitchell and Dan Hairston, been colored, escaped from one of the county convict farms last week. They were serving short terms for assault.

Rev. J. H. Grey, of Lexington, is here assisting Rev. C. E. Hodgins in a series of meetings at Westminster church which began Sunday night.

For cash, I have one style of buggy which I am over-supplied on that I will make special prices in. R. S. PETTY.

Mr. J. L. Parks, clerk at the Hotel Raleigh here and Miss Luella Temple, a charming young woman of Afton, N. C., will be married at the home of the bride's parents next Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Bettie Hill, one of our good successful friends, was among our callers today. She has been here a couple of weeks among her many friends in and about the city, where she has a wide acquaintance.

Misses Hattie Wharton, Eva Blair, Kate Hester, Mamie McKnight, Jessie Brown, Alma Seabrook, Mae and Clara Edwards and Messrs. J. S. McKnight, J. P. Phipps and Myers Sternberger composed a merry party that spent yesterday at Boone's pond fishing.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. L. Williams, of Petersburg, N. J., have issued invitations for the marriage reception of their daughter, Henrietta Frost, to Prof. Charles Lee Raper, a Guilfordite who is now a prominent member of the State University faculty. The reception takes place next Wednesday evening.

Mr. Edgar Beal and Miss Mattie Heron were married at Walnut Street Baptist church Sunday night at 8:30 o'clock. Squire D. H. Collins officiating. The ceremony was performed just before the beginning of the service and was witnessed by a large congregation. Prayer was offered by the pastor, Rev. Norman Stevens.

Mrs. Ava Crutchfield, wife of Prof. John E. Crutchfield, superintendent of schools in Mt. Airy, died Monday morning at 10 o'clock. She was before marriage Miss Cheek, of Ore Hill, and was married only last year. Her death was peculiarly sad. The remains were taken to Ore Hill yesterday for interment, several brothers, sisters and friends of the bereaved young husband accompanied in Greensboro accompanying the remains from this point.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of sight and completely derange the whole system, when entering it through the mucous membrane, such articles should never be used. Catarrh is a disease of the mucous membrane, and the danger they will do is tenfold as great as you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by Dr. J. C. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no opiates, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure, be sure you get the genuine. After a few words of congratulation and advice to those receiving diplomas and degrees, Dr. McIver presented the orator of the day, Governor Charles Brantley Aycock, who made a splendid educational address.

In his address, Governor Aycock said among other things, that he had no new speech; the message of the glory of universal education might be old, but it was the only one to deliver to women just educated to teach the rising generation of the state. Premising with the statement that education was the repressing of what was bad and the development of that which was good, Governor Aycock illustrated by numerous and striking examples, now familiar, of the benefit of education in the vegetable, animal and human kingdom.

He referred pleasantly to the ridicule made of his speech by Hon. R. Z. Linney at the Republican state convention here recently, saying he was no advocate of the doctrine of trying to educate all on the same scale, but to equip every man for doing best that God had appointed him to do, whether it was digging a ditch right, building a cathedral right, administering the affairs of a state or nation right, or serving in the lowest or highest spheres of human affairs.

Governor Aycock next illustrated his assertion that it was the duty of every citizen to see that those less fortunate should have the same opportunity for education from a selfish point of view if from no other, by a splendid application of the facts connected with lowering the trotting record of horses. In a burst of eloquence he exclaimed, "Who wants his son to run a race against nothing but scrubs?"

He next touched upon the power of public opinion, and directly addressing himself to the young graduates, told them the story of the barefooted veteran who wore shoes because he could not stand the pressure of scornful eyes.

His concluding words were as from one inspired, moving his audience to tears by the beauty and pathos of his reference to this as his last appearance as the chief magistrate of the Old North State, at this institution which he loved so well.

Governor Aycock spoke for forty-five minutes and at the conclusion of his admirable address the audience joined in singing the "Doxology," and the exercises closed with the benediction pronounced by Rev. P. J. Carraway.

New Advertisements.

Your special attention is directed to the large ad. of the Greensboro Hardware Company, which shows illustrations of the very best farm machinery made. See them before you buy any farming implements.

They are selling shoes "to beat the band" at Thacker & Brockmann's. Ladies' oxfords in six different styles at $1.10 are among the special values offered. Read new ad. on last page.

You will not overlook the large ad. for E. M. Andrews. There are many reasons why you should see him before buying furniture, carpets, pianos, etc.

If you are interested in cultivators it will be to your advantage to examine the Buckeye disc riding cultivator, sold by the Wakefield Hardware Company.

Townsend will not give you a buggy or carriage free, but he will sell you one as cheap as you can buy it from any catalogue house in the country.

Dr. E. W. Smith, D. D., of this city, was honored by the Presbyterian General Assembly in session at Mobile, Ala., last week by being chosen secretary-in-chief of the Southern Missionary Board, the most important in the Southern church. Dr. Smith had no knowledge of his election until the announcement was made by the daily papers, and he has not made up his mind as yet whether he will accept. The headquarters of the secretary are in Nashville, Tenn., and it will be a misfortune to Greensboro if Dr. Smith should accept. He declined the position some years ago, and his congregation hopes that he may do so again.

Petitions are being circulated asking the board of aldermen to open a street running from the intersection of Church and Lindsay streets and Summit avenue to North Elm street, entering the last named street nearly in front of St. Barnabas' Episcopal church. Should the street be opened there would be a number of desirable lots in a popular residential section for sale. Not only so, but those who are circulating the petition say that the street would be a very great convenience, the block from Smith to Church street being two or three times the length of the regular city blocks.

A telegraphic news item printed in another column tells of the death of a young man at Burlington. The unfortunate young man was William E. Ross, an employee of the Lakeside cotton mills there. He was unrecognizable at first because of the nature of his injuries. He had spent Sunday in Greensboro, and not caring to wait for the midnight train home, boarded a passing freight. His funeral was held Monday evening at sunset, the Holt Guards, of which he was a member, according full military honors.

Good Business Opening

On account of increasing years and uncertain health I have decided to dispose of my business interests in Jamestown, and offer for sale my general store and fixtures, together with combined store building and dwelling house attached, if wanted. Will rent the building separate if preferred. This is a good opening for a young man, as I have conducted a successful business at this stand for over thirty years and have a good established trade. Easy terms.

HAY MAKING AND HARVEST TIME

Will soon be here and we want you to see the

OSBORNE BINDERS, MOWERS AND HAY RAKES

Remember they are not in the great Binder Trust--The International Harvester Company--nor controlled by it. There are points of superiority in the Osborne line not found in other makes. It will pay you to see the full line before you buy.

Always a full line of prosperity implements on hand. Be sure to see us. Yours for quick sales and small profits.

ONE DOLLAR AND TEN CENTS

Is the rather odd price at which we are selling six different styles of Ladies' Oxford Ties this summer. They come in kid tips, patent leather tips, plain common sense toes and low cut old ladies' comfort. All sizes from 2 1/2 to 8. Another line, one on which we have built up a big trade, is our $1.35 specialty. These we have both in Oxfords and high cut shoes. We are selling shoes "to beat the band." Come and let us shoe you.

Given Away!

We wish to announce to our friends and customers that we have perfected arrangements with one of the largest and best known potteries in the United States to furnish us with High Grade Hand Painted China, which we absolutely guarantee and which we will give away ABSOLUTELY FREE.

Being desirous of increasing our business and acknowledging favors extended to us by our present customers, we could think of no better way of showing our appreciation than offering something which we are sure every one will appreciate. A set of these beautiful dishes is within the reach of every one of our customers, and we feel that all will avail themselves of the opportunity.

We furthermore want our friends to distinctly understand that our prices for goods will not be increased to enable us to do this. On the contrary, our prices will be as low, or we may say lower, to give this up-to-date way of advertising the endorsement it deserves. And in addition we will give with each purchase coupons, irrespective of the extremely low prices, which entitle the holder to the chinaware ABSOLUTELY FREE OF CHARGE.

You will be surprised to find how soon you will have sufficient coupons to entitle you to the entire dinner set. But you don't have to wait for that. You can get the different articles as you want them and the first thing you know you will have a complete dinner set. We have contracted for a large quantity of goods and we want the loyal support of our friends. We shall rely upon our old customers and feel that our most generous offer will be taken advantage of by those who have hitherto not given us their business.

In conclusion, we most cordially invite you to call and look over the most complete and select line of Chinaware in town.

Yours very truly,

Fariss' Drug Store
