LOCAL NEWS.

Lent begins today.

Clover and alfalfa seed at C. Scott & Co.'s.

Miss Mae Alderman has joined her brother, Mr. A. H. Alderman, at Jackson Springs.

Bliss, Burbank, Early Rose and Rural New York potato seed at C. Scott & Co.'s.

The Cape Fear Manufacturing Company is rapidly getting things in shape to resume business.

Messrs. Thos. J. and C. N. McAdoo are on the streets again after being laid up for some time with sickness.

To OUR FRIENDS: Don't forget that we are headquarters for all kinds of seeds.

There was a gain of nearly 12 per cent. in the postoffice receipts here last month as compared with February of 1904.

Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Huffines have gone to Richmond, Va., where Mrs. Huffines will take treatment at a sanitarium.

Contractor Bain has begun active operations on the Carnegie library. Much of the material for the structure is on the ground.

Cardinal Gibbons, one of the prominent Catholic dignitaries of America, passed through the city Friday evening on his return from a trip South.

Syracuse two-horse plows, No. 463 at $8.50; one-horse at $4.45 and $5.00; wood and steel beams.

PETTY-REID CO.

News letters are in type from Springfield, Whitsett, Boone's Store, Qualls' Store, Bowman's School, Merry Oaks, and Flack's School. They are crowded over to the next issue.

Contractor C. W. Hoecker is building five nice dwelling houses on Morehead avenue which he will rent or sell on reasonable terms. Mr. T. C. Hobbs is also having a house built on the same street.

C. R. Doggett's genuine Rural New Yorker No. 1 seed Irish potatoes will be found at W. R. Pickard's, corner opposite court house. This is the best and earliest Irish potato to be found on the market.

Mr. T. J. McAdoo's electric supply stock was moved to the building adjoining the Odell Hardware Company last week, where it can be handled to increased advantage, owing to the floor space available.

Messrs. C. B. Wilkerson and J. A. Hodgins are the members of a new South Greensboro firm which will handle buggies, harness, wagons, etc. Mr. Wilkerson will continue to conduct his livery business.

Mr. R. A. Fleming, who has been in Boone's market all winter, has given up his position to return to his truck farm east of the city. He is an expert market gardener and will make things hum on the farm if he keeps his health.

Mr. R. P. Albright's store room on South Elm street, recently damaged by fire which originated in John Hart's restaurant, is being repaired. The principal damage was done to the woodwork at the front of the building.

The Fariss-Klutz Drug Company has employed a night prescription clerk, Mr. G. F. McGhee, of Salisbury, and their store is never closed now. An all-night drug store is really one of the requirements of a modern city like Greensboro.

Miss Blanche May left Monday night for Baltimore and New York, where she will spend a couple of weeks at the millinery openings before returning to Knoxville, Tenn., where she held a desirable position during the fall and winter months.

SEED POTATOES FOR SALE.—Irish and sweet. Second crop Irish potatoes of the very earliest varieties, such as Bliss, Improved Rose and Early Peach Blow. Write for prices. Will sell cheap.

W. L. KIVETT,

10-41 R. F. D. 2, High Point, N. C.

Mrs. Anna S. Cator is again at the Guilford, having given up her house on North Davis street. She virtually has charge of the hotel, which is fast filling up with regular boarders who take their meals at the cafe on the first floor or at the Benbow, which also leased to Cobb & Fry.

At the annual meeting of the Guilford branch of the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Association last Saturday J. A. Rankin was elected president for the ensuing year, G. H. McKinney secretary and treasurer, and J. W. Wharton, Jr., county agent. A full official report of the association's affairs, together with its financial statement, will appear in the PATRIOT next week. They make an exceptionally good showing.

The Southern Real Estate Company, which succeeds to the real estate business of the Southern Loan and Trust Company, now occupies the east room of the first floor of the S. L. & T. building on East Market street, having moved across the hall yesterday. There is virtually no change in the management of the business, as the officers are those who managed the business when it was a branch of the Loan and Trust Company.

Mr. Daniel Webster Hodgins, who left Guilford county in 1868 and has since lived in Richmond, Ind., is here with his youngest son David visiting relatives and friends. He notes great changes, especially in the city, since he left and the landmarks that he knew thirty-seven years ago have most all disappeared. On his arrival here he said he did not know whether this was Greensboro or Pittsburg, so great had been the transformation.

Sixty pounds of turkey in two shots is the latest record made by our friend B. J. Walker, of the Geneva section. He was out the other day looking for big birds and had drawn a bead on a fine gobbler when a hen was seen walking slowly within the same range. After waiting a moment he fired and brought down both birds. The report from the gun caused six other turkeys to rise and fly right past the rocky ledge that shielded him from view, and he fired at the first one he could draw a bead on. Much to his surprise two nice birds fell, making four in all for the two shots. Their combined weight was sixty pounds.

Carson Coggins and Major Granger, "bad niggers" who are in jail awaiting trial at the next term of criminal court, cut the bars of their cell last Thursday night with an ordinary pocket knife, the blade of which had been hacked to resemble a saw, and were industriously digging their way through the outer brick wall when discovered by Jailor May. The upper tier of cells in the jail, built of poor material, affords little security against escapes, as is evidenced by the fact that the bars have been cut several times with very crude implements. As more cell room is often needed a new tier properly constructed should be added, allowing the present second tier to become the third, where women could be kept.

The board of county commissioners at their regular session this week drew a jury for the April term of civil court, granted petitions for public roads in Washington and Jamestown townships, and continued the hearings on road petitions coming from Jefferson and Center Grove townships. One new petition for a public road was filed, coming from Center Grove. A petition for a school election in the Monticello district of Madison township was approved and the election ordered. It will be held on Tuesday, April 11. The election officers are named in an advertisement of the election appearing in another column. The board is arranging to start the road machines to work at an early date and also considering other matters of importance.

An important meeting of the board of trustees of Greensboro Female College will be held here today, at which the college stock held by the alumnae association will be turned over to the board, thus placing that body in full and complete control of the honored old institution's destinies. The board represents both the sub-divisions of North Carolina Methodism and is composed of men who are not only capable but desirous of furthering the interests of the college, which has just entered a new era of usefulness. It is gratifying to report that the attendance this year, after a period of trials and tribulations that would have overcome any institution less dear to the hearts of Methodist people, is limited only by the dormitory capacity. To the women of North Carolina is due the credit for having saved the college to the church and to the state.

Mrs. Cora Bergman, wife of Mr. Frank Bergman, of Pomona, and daughter of Mr. W. W. McLaughan, of Guilford College, died last Wednesday night of tuberculosis at the age of 23 years and was buried at Muir's chapel Friday at noon, Rev. Dr. Renu and Rev. L. F. Johnson conducting the funeral services. Mrs. Bergman was married three years ago and lived in Greensboro for a short time afterward. She was a most estimable young woman and her death is a severe blow not only to the devoted young husband but to a bereaved father and brothers and sisters as well. The last illness of the deceased covered only a short period. She leaves no children.

Onions sets and any kind of garden seed you want you will find at our place.

A HEARTRENDING ACCIDENT.

The Little Son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Clarke Crushed Beneath the Wheels of a Street Car.

A heartrending accident which befell the five-and-a-half-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin L. Clarke last Friday afternoon caused a thrill of horror and sorrow to pervade the entire city. About half past four o'clock that afternoon the little fellow, Edwin L., Jr., strayed from his home at 340 Gorrell street and was playing on Asheboro street, nearly, between Gorrell and Murray streets, when he ran around a wagon just as street car No. 4, in charge of conductor W. H. York and motorman M. C. Seawell, approached from an opposite direction. The motorman saw the boy when his car was almost alongside the wagon and instantly cut off the current and applied the brakes, but before the car was brought to a standstill the boy had been knocked down by the fender and rolled beneath the small front wheel of the first truck, which crushed his left leg, almost severing it from the body, and otherwise mutilated his poor little form. Medical and surgical aid were promptly summoned and the boy was taken at once to the Greensboro hospital, but before amputation could be made he succumbed to the shock without rallying, dying about 7 o'clock. The devoted parents of the bright boy and the car men were almost overcome by the tragic event. Motorman Seawell, who is recognized as one of the most cautious men in the employ of the electric company, had but recently been promoted for saving the life of a little girl near the Normal College. In his report of the accident he assured his company that he had sounded his going at the approach of the wagon which obscured his sight of the boy, and while he is not to blame for the deplorable accident he can not rid himself of the horror it naturally entailed. It was the first serious accident since the establishment of the car line, and while it seemed unavoidable it is none the less a source of sorrow to everyone, the electric company's officials included. The funeral of the unfortunate boy was held Sunday from the family residence, conducted by Rev. C. E. Hodgins and Rev. S. H. Guignard, the pall bearers being Messrs. J. J. Stone, Frank Brooks, F. G. Frazier and L. A. Atkinson. The little grave at Greene Hill cemetery was hidden beneath a mass of beautiful floral emblems sent by friends of the heartbroken parents.

Tri-State Medical Association Officers Chosen for the Ensuing Year.

Members of the executive council (to fill vacancies)—Dr. W. W. McKenzie, of Salisbury, N. C.; Dr. G. D. Wilcox, of Spartanburg, S. C.; Dr. G. D. Upsher, of Richmond, Va.

The new executive council is composed of Dr. W. W. McKenzie, of Salisbury; Dr. Albert Anderson, of Wilson; and Dr. W. H. H. Cobb, of Goldsboro, for North Carolina; Dr. G. D. Upsher, of Richmond, Dr. W. E. Anderson, of Farmville, and Dr. Stuart McGuire, of Richmond, for Virginia; Dr. G. D. Wilcox, of Spartanburg, Dr. Edwin F. Parker, of Charleston, and Dr. W. R. Lowmann, of Orangeburg, for South Carolina.

It was decided to hold the next annual meeting at White Stone Lithia Springs, South Carolina.

Dr. W. L. Robinson, of Danville, Va., the retiring president, was made an honorary fellow.

Appropriate resolutions were adopted upon the death of Dr. J. H. Clairborne, of Petersburg, Va.

One of the most enjoyable features of the closing day of the convention was a reception tendered the visitors by the fifteen physicians having offices in the Benbow Arcade. The club rooms in the building were thrown open and the evening was delightfully spent.

The physicians who attended the annual meeting seemed greatly pleased with their stay here and were free in their expressions of appreciation of the efforts of the local physicians to entertain them.

GREENSBORO TOBACCO MARKET.

MARKET REPORT.

The receipts on our market for the past week have not been as large as we had hoped for or expected, yet they were large enough to keep our buyers fairly busy throughout the entire week. We had expected very large sales when the snow melted off, but they failed to materialize on any market owing to the fact that the weather has been too cold for farmers to have an opportunity to prepare much of their tobacco for market. Prices on all grades remain about as they were last week and are fully as high as they have been at any time this season, and we would advise farmers to take advantage of present prices and sell all the tobacco they can while it is selling well, for we do not think that you will have a better time to sell during the present season. We are informed by farmers who have tried this and other markets that this market is decidedly higher than any market around it, so we hope that you will take advantage of the present situation and sell all the tobacco you can in Greensboro while prices are up.

W. P. West and Avery Jones were here with tobacco last week and were fairly well pleased.

E. G. Roberson, a well known Rockingham farmer, was here the past week and made a good sale.

W. H. Clayton and J. T. Price, prominent Rockingham farmers, were here with tobacco last week.

G. D. and E. L. Lindley, of Chatham county, were here with tobacco last week and were well pleased.

G. W. Jones, W. B. Strader and A. H. Atkins were here from Rockingham last week and made highly satisfactory sales.

Messrs. A. M. and W. R. Gentry, of Rockingham county, were here with tobacco last week and went home happy.

John Coletrane, T. F. Iseley, C. W. Summers and J. D. Coble made highly satisfactory sales on this market the past week.

W. H. Crutchfield and P. M. Fryer were among the prominent farmers who sold with us last week and went home pleased.

J. H. Gant and W. H. Vickory, prominent farmers of this county, were here with tobacco last week and were highly pleased with sales.

Mr. R. M. Cable, of Alamance county, was here with a load of good tobacco last week and said he got more for his tobacco than he wanted.

J. C. and W. D. Whitesell, two very prominent Alamance county farmers, were here with tobacco yesterday and made very satisfactory sales.

W. J. Groome, Lee Groome and J. A. Groome, very prominent farmers of this county, were here with tobacco last week and were highly pleased with prices.

D. M. Hubbard, J. W. Paisley and D. M. Watlington, prominent farmers of this county, were here with tobacco the past week and were well pleased with prices.

W. O. Doggett, A. O. Rudd and Capt. J. R. Moore, of the Brown Summit section, were here last week with tobacco and expressed themselves as being very highly pleased with the sales.

J. D. Sockwell, a well known Guilford county farmer, sold on this market the past week and realized $143.16 for a load of tobacco. His average was about 12 cents and he was highly pleased.

W. G. Wagoner, a prominent young farmer of the Brown Summit section, was here with tobacco last week. His prices ranged from $9.25 to $31 per hundred. Mr. Wagoner got a great deal more for his tobacco than he expected.

W. D. Palmer, of Randolph county, was here with tobacco last week. His prices ranged from $6 to $20 per hundred. Mr. Palmer is a good tobacco grower, and when other people make common tobacco he makes good tobacco. If others make good tobacco he makes fine tobacco, so you see he is always in the lead.

Death of an Aged Woman.

Mrs. Caroline S. Reid, widow of the late Hugh K. Reid, of Reidsville, died Monday morning at 11 o'clock at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Beall, with whom she had been making her home since her husband's death seven or eight years ago. She was an aunt of Mrs. Beall, and her age was 78 years. Her health had been declining for some time and she was confined to her bed for the past month. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the First Baptist church, Rev. Dr. H. W. Battle, the pastor, conducting the service. Interment was made at Greene Hill cemetery.

Mr. J. W. Whitte, of southeastern Guilford, who has been getting out timber in South Carolina for a prominent Cheraw concern for several months, came home recently for a short visit, the high water having caused a temporary suspension of the work. He left Monday for Society Hill, which is his headquarters. Mr. F. V. Snell, who has also been working there, is here on a visit to his family.

We have just received the best lot of sole leather we ever sold, both oak and red. And its no higher than many of the cheaper grades that you buy elsewhere.

Mr. R. Percy Albright, of Wilmington, was a Greensboro visitor last week.

J. E. Mitchell has bought from Lee Waugh a twelve-acre farm two miles northeast of the city.

Mrs. E. L. Morgan was called to Chase City, Va., Thursday on account of the death of her mother, Mrs. T. W. Greer.

Rev. J. A. Bowles attended a meeting of the church extension board of the western M. E. conference at Salisbury last week.

Mrs. Kate Gibson Keller, who had been here visiting Mrs. W. M. Barber for several weeks, left Thursday night for her home in Ohio.

Townsend & Co. have three styles of corn planters—old reliable machines that have been sold here a long time and always gave satisfaction. Prices right. 6-121

Mrs. Nancy A. Brown and daughter, Miss Nina, are in New York this week. They stopped over in Washington to see the inauguration on their way north.

Capt. Claude Beard, conductor of the mixed train between Winston-Salem and Mt. Airy, continues quite feeble. It is feared that he will not be able to return to his run.

Mr. Earl P. Holt, of Oak Ridge, has been appointed assistant paymaster in the navy by Secretary Paul Morton. He is the son of Prof. J. Allen Holt, of Oak Ridge. The appointment was secured by the efforts of Senator Lee S. Overman and Representative W. W. Kitchin.

Mr. R. M. Stafford, familiarly known to the baseball world as "Bob Stafford," of Summerfield, was married to Miss Kate Newsome, of Durham, last week. They came to Greensboro to spend a few days with the family of Mr. W. H. Dunbar before going to Summerfield, which will be their future home.

Mrs. H. Clay Thomas, one of Salem's most estimable christian women, died last week at the age of 65 years. She was a daughter of the late Adam Butler, for many years one of Salem's leading business men, and was a devout member of the Moravian church. One of her daughters, Mrs. Ira Erwin, is a resident of Greensboro.

Mr. C. W. F. Tilden of this city, was called to New York last week by the death of his father, Mr. A. L. Tilden, who died there February 28. At one time the deceased was interested in the gold mining industry of this state and was well known all over North Carolina. He was a relative of the late Samuel J. Tilden, who was once Democratic candidate for President.

James Edward Curtis, the three-year-old son of Mrs. Ella Curtis, residing on Julian street, just beyond the southeastern city limits, was drowned last Wednesday in a pool formed in an excavation for a cistern. The child was found half an hour after he had been missed, and efforts were made to resuscitate him, but in vain. The funeral took place Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the residence.

Easter falls this year on April 23. It may be of interest to know that it will occur later than this only one time during the next 95 years or until 2000 A. D., and only twice will it occur as late as this during the same length of time. In 1943 it will fall on April 23, and in 1916 and 2000 on April 23, the same as this year. The earliest date on which it will fall in the above mentioned period is in 1949, when it will be on March 24.

Mrs. R. C. Robinson, of Brooklyn, and Mr. J. W. Hicks, of this city, who were en route north last Wednesday, were injured by the derailment of two coaches of a Southern Railway train near Rockfish, Va., the former having two ribs broken and the latter suffering an injury to his hip and other painful bruises. Mrs. Robinson is the foster-mother of Mr. Hicks, and had been here on a visit. Mr. Hicks, who has been in poor health for some time, had started to Brooklyn with her to take treatment in a tuberculosis sanitarium. They were sent to the University of Virginia hospital for treatment. Conductor Rust and Flagman Bell were also injured in the wreck.

HE KEPT UP IN THE RACE.
James S. Barron, President Manchester Cotton Mills, Rock Hill, S. C., writes:

"In 1883 I painted my residence with L. & M. It looks better than a great many houses painted three years ago.

Don't pay $1.50 a gallon for linseed oil, which you do in ready-for-use paint.

Buy oil fresh from the barrel at 60 cents per gallon, and mix it with Longman & Martinez L. & M. Paint. It takes paint cost about $1.20 per gallon.

Wears and covers like gold.

Police Records for February.

An inspection of the police records reveals the fact that during the 29 days of February 1904, there were 114 arrests on all charges, while for the 28 days of February this year there were 83 arrests on all charges. The arrests for different causes during the two months were as follows:

	FEBRUARY	1904	1905
Drunkenness	42	11	11
Disorderly Conduct	9	8	8
Retailing	5	9	9
Larceny	4	9	9
Gambling	6	11	11
Other Charges	48	35	35

Totals..... 114 83

It will be noticed that there were 42 arrests for drunkenness during February last year against 11 for the same month this year. There were 9 arrests for retailing during the same time this year, while there were only five last year. Several of the cases for retailing this year were those charged with selling "cider." The decrease in the number of arrests is a little more than 27 per cent. The decrease in the number of arrests for drunkenness is nearly 74 per cent. The arrests for gambling shows an increase from 6 to 11.

Lindley Nursery Company Spreading Out.

The J. Van Lindley Nursery Company is preparing to enlarge its business in several respects. Plans are now being drawn for the erection of two new green houses this spring and summer and by fall the company will probably have the largest cut flower establishment south of Richmond. The company is also increasing its nursery plantings, both here and at the new place at Kernersville, to keep up with the ever increasing business, which has been a hundred per cent. more in the past few years than ever before. The green house business has also increased far beyond all expectations. In fact when the company first embarked in the business of cut flowers it was only with the idea of filling what was supposed to be a small demand in this immediate locality, but the business has been astonishing and shipments are made to all parts of the country. At times the demand is greater than they can supply.

LETTER TO W. C. BAIN.
Greensboro, N. C.

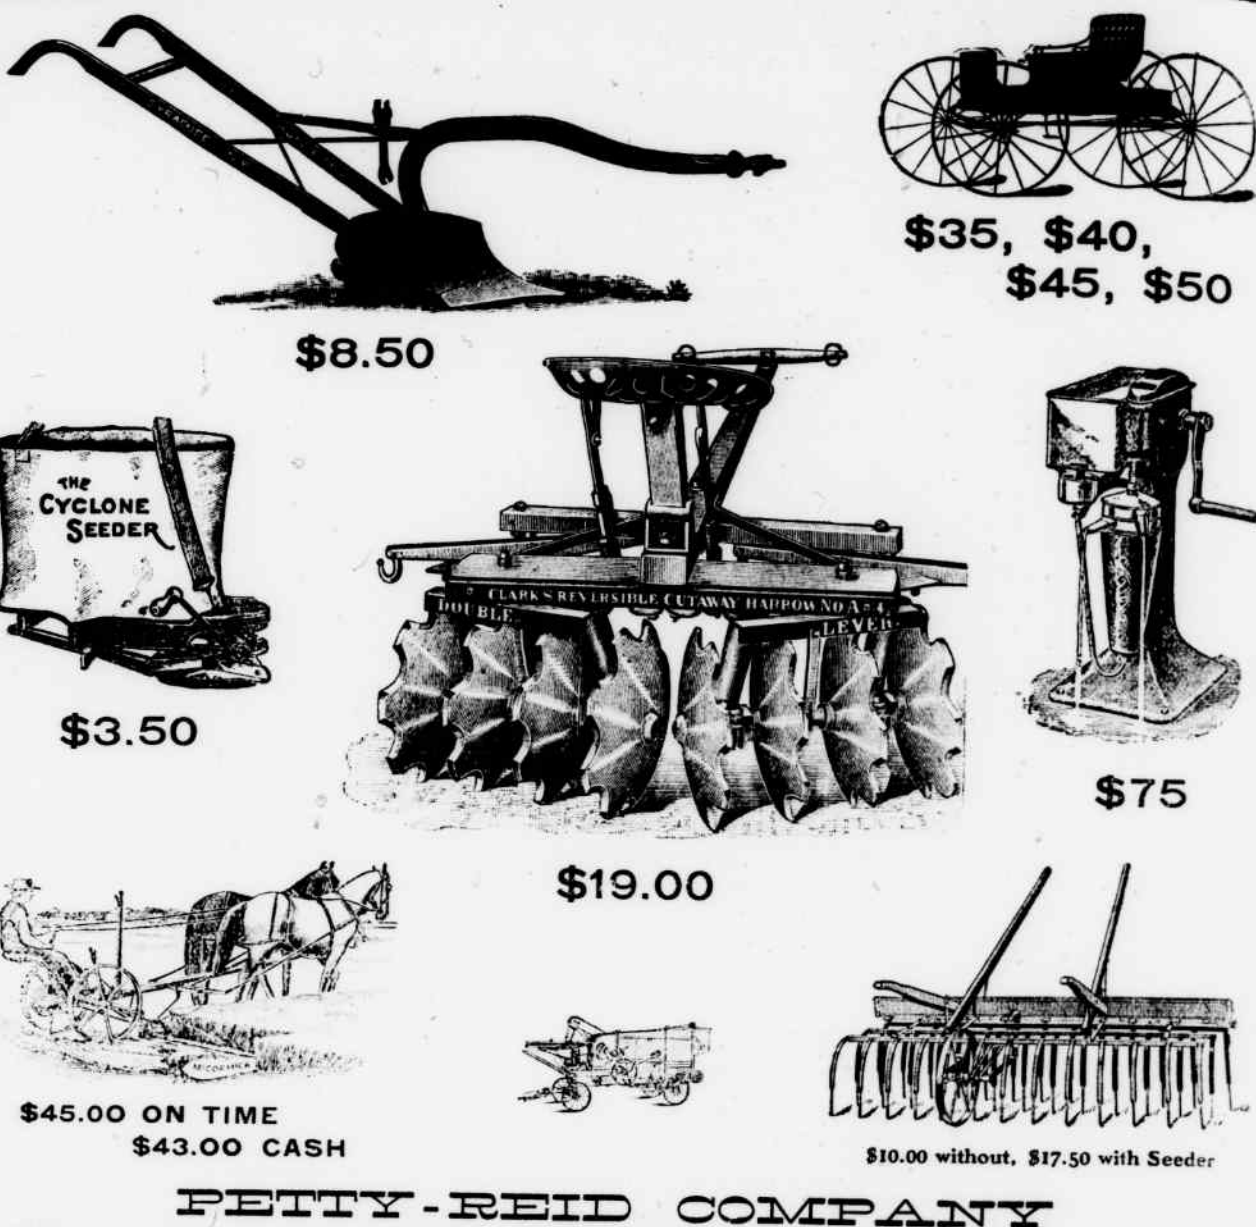

Dear Sir: You want a cheap job of paint for a cheap house, don't you?
It's Devoe. It's the regular thing in Devoe; there's nothing in all paint, so cheap as Devoe.
Oh, yes, you can paint with mud; but that isn't paint; you want it to look about right for a month or two.
Paint Devoe; can't do it for less; there's nothing so cheap; say nothing of wear, there's nothing so cheap as Devoe.
It goes so far; save gallons; no matter about the price, save gallons. A gallon of paint, put on, costs $4 or $5; save gallons.
Devoe is your paint; save gallons; Devoe is your paint.
Yours truly,
F. W. DEVOE & CO.
The Odell Hardware Co. sells our paint.

Guilford's Good Roads.

High Point Enterprise.
The money that Guilford county has already spent in making good roads has demonstrated the wisdom of the movement. We believe that before the $300,000 appropriated for that purpose is used, the people in the county will be willing to repeat the experiment, if we may call it that. The roads are not only growing to be a great convenience to the people, but they are indirectly increasing the valuation of the lands through which they run as well as those adjacent. It is the best investment the county ever made, even from a financial point of view. We expect to see the day when Guilford county will have a million dollars in good roads.

THE PRESIDENT'S INAUGURATION.

A Magnificent Day in Washington City—The Parade One of the Greatest Spectacles That Was Ever Seen in the Capital—The Roosevelt Inaugural Eclipse all Former Displays.

Washington, D. C. March 4.—Theodore Roosevelt was today transformed from President by chance into President by choice, from President through an assassin's bullet into President through the ballots of the people.

Under the shadow of the gray-domed capitol, gazing into the placid marble features of Greenough's statue of the first President, the twenty-sixth President of the United States swore faithfully to execute the laws and to preserve, protect and defend the constitution.

Once before he had taken this solemn obligation; then, at the death-bed of his martyred predecessor, surrounded by a small company of tear-dimmed friends and counselors; today, in the presence of a cheering host of fifty thousand people. Then he had ridden many lonely miles over storm-swept mountain roads to reach the tragic scene of his elevation; today he was escorted along the nation's grandest avenue from the White House to the capitol by Congress between two densely packed lines of his countrymen gathered from every quarter to cheer him and wish him god-speed in the coming four years. Then he had said, with choking voice: "It shall be my aim to continue absolutely unbroken the policies of the late McKinley for the peace, prosperity and honor of our beloved country." Today he left it for his fellow-citizens, who had honored him with a greater majority than ever before given, to judge whether or not he had redeemed that pledge.

When he entered the White House the youngest President in his country's history, besides the vast responsibilities of his office, he received as a heritage McKinley's dearest ambition to become more and more with the years the President of all the people. Today there were represented in the throngs that journeyed hither to greet President Roosevelt men from the North, South, East and West, and from distant islands of the seas; from the Philippines, from Porto Rico, from Hawaii—from every land where floats the emblem of the republic. In the great parade there rode governors of states, both North and South. Filipinos who had fought under the flag of Aguinaldo today carried the arms of Uncle Sam and stepped proudly beneath the Stars and Stripes. Blanketed Indians from the virile plains vied with silk-hatted gentry from the effete East in sounding the praises of this cowboy-soldier-statesman. The President's old rancher friends, with lariats and chaparros and wiry bronchos, made strange contrast to the stiff-backed, pouter-chested young men from the national military schools. Rough Riders from San Juan Hill, volunteers from Santiago, jackies from Manila Bay, shared the plaudits of the multitude with modest, everyday soldiers, for whom the title regular is distinction quite enough. Political clubs from East and West, militiamen from North and South, blue-clad veterans of the sixties, heroes of the Spanish-American war, miners from Pennsylvania, the entire legislature of the state of Tennessee, the President's neighbors from Oyster Bay—all contributed to the national character of the splendid pageant. Who shall say that for today at least Theodore Roosevelt was not President of all the people?

The colonel of the Rough Riders has written of his crowded hour in Cuba. Today he showed his former comrades a crowded hour in Washington. They were waiting for him when he emerged from the White House this morning—30 picked men under Governor Brodie. With the crack squadron A of the First Cavalry, United States army, they formed his escort to the capitol. As they swung around the Treasury building into Pennsylvania avenue a division of the G. A. R., with General O. O. Howard and staff in the lead, which had been standing at salute, wheeled into the column, while the cavalymen checked their pace to accommodate the slower footsteps of the aged veterans. A mighty wave of cheers swept along the avenue as the President's carriage came in sight. Throughout the whole route the President, with hat in hand, kept bowing in acknowledgement of the greetings. On his arrival at the capitol he was conducted to the President's room, in the rear of the Senate chamber, where he began at once the signing of belated bills. At noon he entered the abode of the Senate to witness the installation of Senator Fairbanks as Vice President. This ceremony concluded, he proceeded to the stand on the east front of the capitol to receive the oath from Chief Justice Fuller and to deliver his inaugural address. Immediately upon its conclusion the President was escorted back to the White House, where, after lunching with the officials of the inaugural committee, he took his position on the stand in front to review the formal inaugural parade.

The quadrennial national fête day was concluded with a general illumination of the city and fireworks on the Washington Monument grounds, followed by the great inaugural ball in the Pension building, at which President and Mrs. Roosevelt were the guests of honor.

The inauguration cost about $65,000 which it is believed has been fully repaid in the sale of grand stand seats and ball tickets. The guaranty fund subscribed by Washington merchants and business men will thus be returned. Everything but the actual ceremonies was in charge of the inaugural committee, composed of Washington residents, and headed by Brigadier General John M. Wilson, U. S. A., retired, appointed for that purpose by Chairman Cortelyou, of the Republican national committee.

Moore County News: Will Frazier, who lived three miles from Gulf, was shot and killed last Thursday at his home by a gang of his blockading colleagues. Frazier was a tough character and had served time in the penitentiary and on chain gangs. We understand that no effort has been made to capture his murderers.

THIRTY LIVES LOST IN WRECKED TRAINS.

Supposed Blunder of a Telegraph Operator Responsible for a Rear End Collision—Horror Produces Heroes.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 3.—The blunder of a telegraph operator at Clifton, Pa., on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railroad, was responsible, it is claimed, for a horrible accident which occurred between Emsworth and Clifton, Pa., at 7:30 o'clock tonight, and caused the death of probably thirty persons. At least sixty-three were injured, many of whom will die. The first section of an inaugural special, bound from Cleveland, Ohio, to Washington, to attend the ceremonies tomorrow, was run into by the second section of the same train. The first section was made up of five Pullmans, bearing the Royal Battalion of the National Guard of Ohio, from Cleveland, composed of engineers principally. The second section was composed of seven coaches bearing the famous Tippecanoe Club of Cleveland. The second section was running at forty miles an hour, when it ran full force into the first section, which had stopped on the banks of the Ohio river because of a hot box. The rear car was cut open as if with a knife, while the second was also crushed by the engine of the following train. To add to the horror, the wreck took fire and more than half the bodies were consumed. The fire alone did not kill, but many died from asphyxiation as the gas tanks under the Pullman cars exploded when the trains collided, and the gas rising in the crushed cars, smothered those already helpless, and later ignited from the burning jets and enveloped the train in a mass of flames. Both trains were burned.

Most of the dead were passengers on the first train. The scene of the wreck is isolated, and owing to the breaking down of the wires, details are coming in slowly.

Dr. William Hendry, sergeant major of the hospital corps of the Ohio Engineers' battalion, is among the dead. His body was burned in the wreck. Major McQuigg of the Royal Battalion of Cleveland had both thighs broken and received other injuries. He died later.

At midnight five bodies had been brought to the Allegheny morgue at Pittsburg, but only one of them will ever be recognized. It is that of the three-year-old son of Colonel Pinney, of Cleveland, a pitiful little corpse which was recognized by its size. Colonel Pinney himself is at the hospital and may not recover. The other four are blackened charred bodies.

Two men died on their way to Rochester, Pa., where many of the injured were taken. The injured are scattered over the hills of two counties, Allegheny and Beaver. Some of them were even taken to an insane asylum near the wreck. Priests of the Holy Family Orphan Home, on the hill above the wreck, gave much assistance to the wounded.

There were two heroes here. A Cleveland physician begged one of the fathers who was carrying him up the hill on his back not to notify his wife of his condition. This doctor had dashed into the wreck time and again to pull forth the dead and the dying until he himself was hit by a falling beam.

The other was a private soldier, name unknown, who went into the burning cars five times, and each time brought out an injured person. The next time he fell on the threshold out of the cauldron, but was dragged out and taken to the home unconscious.

There was never greater instances of the use of military training than in the case of Major McQuigg, commander of the battalion of engineers. He was dragged from the wreck wounded to death and laid on the tracks. He asked to be straddled up and held in a sitting position, both his legs having been broken, and then he shouted the command:

"Attention, battalion." There was no response. The second time he gave the command, and through the flames and smoke there stumbled the fragment of a man who tried to bring his hand to a salute, but fell to his knees saying, "Aye, aye, Major." It was Lieutenant Warburton of Cleveland. Then the major shouted, "All the rest!" but it was never called.

The known dead are:
Pinney, son of Lieutenant O. C. Pinney, Cleveland, O., quartermaster battalion of engineers. Body at Pittsburg morgue.
Frank Held, Cleveland, O.
Private Kenoe, Cleveland.
Two other bodies at Pittsburg morgue, unidentified.

Two bodies unknown, died on way to Rochester, Pa.
Two other supposed to be bodies burned.

Murder and Suicide at Wilmington.

Wilmington, March 3.—Crazed by jealousy and drink, H. R. Smith, a picture agent representing the Home Art Co., of Norfolk, Va., late tonight shot and fatally wounded Stella Campbell, a white woman, occupying apartments in the speak-easy district of the city, then turned the pistol to his own forehead and killed himself. The shooting took place in the woman's room and was without a word from either party. An associate of Smith, who represents the same concern and refuses to give his name, was in the room at the time and said he was dumbfounded when the young man drew the pistol and fired. Smith is a veteran of the Spanish-American war and is said to be drawing a pension for wounds received in the battle of San Juan Hill. He is said to be the son of a well-to-do farmer in Michigan.

Farmer Loses His Hand.

Burlington, March 3.—News of a very painful accident to Mr. Ernest Ingle, a prosperous farmer living three miles south of Burlington, has just reached here. Mr. Ingle was feeding a power feed-cutting machine, when his hand was caught in the feed gear of the machine and drawn through the machine. The knives made several revolutions before the machine could be stopped, and Mr. Ingle's hand was cut into pieces about an inch in length.

War News of the Week.

Charlotte Observer.

The little news which is permitted to sift through from Manchuria indicates that General Kuropatkin has met a severe reverse, and his army is now threatened with utter ruin. According to a dispatch which the Russian commander is said to have sent to the Emperor, a Japanese force of some 200,000 men has broken through the lines, and is now en route to Mukden. This news, which comes via Berlin, is interpreted by German government officials to mean that General Kuropatkin has, in fact, been fully beaten; that his army will be dispersed, and the railroad north of Mukden will be cut. The information here quoted may or may not be entirely accurate, but there is every reason to believe that the Japs have the Russians practically at their mercy, and that if the Czar's troops have not already abandoned Mukden and begun the retreat toward Harbin, on the north, it is only a matter of short time until they will do so. The sudden shut-down of the censors upon news from the field of hostilities a few days ago doubtless had an ominous meaning. That the Japanese have continued the work of bettering their position is not to be doubted, and they were in all probability prepared to rush Kuropatkin toward the outer edge of Manchuria just as they have, step by step, pushed him back since troops were first landed in Korea, nearly a year ago. Harbin is generally recognized as marking the northern extremity of Manchuria, so far as Japan is concerned. Therefore, whenever Oyama succeeds in making Kuropatkin retreat thither, he will have attained one of the things for which Japan went to war—the evacuation of Manchuria by the Russians. Harbin is one of the new towns which Russia established when she built the Siberian railroad. It is located 300 miles north of Mukden, and is the most important inland point in that portion of the country. The railroad from Moscow—the Russian soldiers' sole dependence for supplies—branches at Harbin, one prong going to Vladivostok, on the east, and the other down to Port Arthur via Mukden. Should the Japanese succeed in cutting the railroad between Mukden and Harbin before Kuropatkin's troops have gotten away, they would be in desperate plight. Little has been said recently about the strain on the Siberian railroad in transmitting troops and supplies to the front, but a recent dispatch asserts that few troops can now be handled, and that a new danger now threatens Russia; that towns along the road must be furnished with supplies, in addition to the great amount that is necessary to send the troops. All in all, General Kuropatkin is now perhaps in the saddest plight that he has been in since his defeat in the great battles of some months ago, if, indeed, his situation is not worse, than it has ever been.

Realizing the deplorable condition at home and abroad, the Czar has yielded to the people and made a definite promise to allow them a share in the government. He expresses a faith in the ultimate outcome of the war, and urges his subjects to rally to the support of the throne. The unrest seems to grow throughout the empire, and it remains to be seen what effect the manifesto of Friday last will have on the situation.

Kuropatkin Fighting on—Retreat All But Impossible.

Reports from Japanese sources Sunday say the Russian position south of Mukden and contiguous to the railway, has been completely turned by the Japanese forces, under the immediate command of Gen. Oku. To the eastward Gen. Kuroki is directing a vigorous attack with heavy artillery positions. General Kuropatkin is said to be concentrating a strong force in front of Generals Kuroki and Nogai. It still seems probable that General Kuropatkin will find it difficult to retire to Tie Pass, which appears to be a necessary move. St. Petersburg has word that affairs lately have taken a turn for the better for the Russian arms, and the bodies of Field Marshal Oyama in sacrificing many of his soldiers in an attack on impregnable positions on the center as a mere diversion while the real blows were being struck on the flanks. The critics also point to the attenuation of the Japanese lines as an element of peril for Oyama and of hopes for Kuropatkin. The losses on both sides have been heavy, but even estimates are lacking.

Miss Lizzie Gurley and Mr. W. P. Ragan Plight Their Troth.

High Point, Laager, 2nd. One of the prettiest marriages ever solemnized in High Point was that of Miss Lizzie Gurley, sister of Messrs. Frank and Ed Gurley and Mrs. P. V. Kirkman, and Mr. W. P. Ragan, a prominent young attorney of our city, at the residence of her brother on West Greene street last night at 9 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Eli Reese, assisted by Rev. A. G. Kirkman.

Appropriate and elaborate preparations had been made for the marriage of this popular young couple, Mr. and Mrs. Gurley having put their beautiful home in readiness for the event, the rooms being decorated with evergreens and flowers.

The ceremony was very solemn and impressive. Congratulations and a general reception followed, after which refreshments were served. The presents were numerous and handsome.

The bride and groom have the best wishes of the community. They left last night for an extended bridal trip to Washington, New York and other northern cities.

Herbin-Webster.

Last Wednesday, March 1st, at 4 P. M., at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Herbin, of proximity, their daughter Sarah was united in the bonds of holy matrimony to Mr. C. V. Webster, of South Carolina, in the presence of a number of relatives and friends. Immediately after the ceremony the bride and groom and guests were escorted to the dining room, where the table crinkled beneath its weight of good things to eat. Miss Herbin is a bright young lady and Mr. Webster is an energetic and industrious young man. We predict for them a prosperous future, and wish them the richest blessings in their journey through life.

A "RAKE-OFF" IN HOUSE.

The North Carolina Delegation Votes Solidly Against the Amendment.

Washington, March 2.—There has been all sorts of talk today concerning the action of the House, whose solicitude for the Treasury situation impelled it to put the public buildings bill to sleep, yet voted $200,000 in the form of mileage for the second session of the present Congress. In fact, the usual form of salutation among members was: "Hello, did you vote for the steal." The Star, administration organ as it is, was moved by the spectacle to allude to the act of members, "who took mileage for the hypothetical journeys to and from Washington."

"The inartistic economist," continues The Star, "would have refrained from taking mileage for trips that were never run, during a recess that lasts an infinitesimal fraction of a second." All members of the North Carolina delegation voted against the amendment, while Mr. Gudger spoke against it. Another North Carolina member was heard to declare that he would not take the money even if Senate leaders acquiesce in the rake-off. Several members today made frantic efforts to withdraw their vote when they found that the papers were bent on airing the affair, in some instances claiming that the clerk had made a mistake in recording an affirmative vote.

The President has appointed Hon. H. A. Gudger, of North Carolina, to be the judge of the Supreme court of the Panama Canal zone in place of Judge Osceola Kyle, of Alabama, resigned. Mr. Gudger has been consul general at Panama since July, 1897, and is thoroughly acquainted with the people and conditions on the isthmus. One of the reasons for the resignation of Judge Kyle was his inability to understand Spanish, and another, his unfamiliarity with the customs of the isthmus. Judge Gudger is especially well-equipped in both of these particulars. Secretary Taft said today that the change involved no reflection upon the character of Judge Kyle. The papers were all signed, but will not be transmitted to the Senate, as is the case with practically all nominations, as these judgeships are purely creations of the Executive as distinguished from the "constitutional" appointments. In other words, Judge Gudger's tenure of office is controlled directly by the President, and his position will last as long as his judicial conduct meets the approval of the Executive.

Senator Overman was today notified of his appointment as a member of the congressional committee which is to attend the Lewis & Clark Exposition. A similar committee was present at the opening of the St. Louis Exposition.

The Jamestown Exposition bill passed the House today. All members of the North Carolina delegation voted for the bill with the exception of Messrs. W. W. Kitchin and Webb.

AGREEMENT ON BOND SETTLEMENT.

Attorneys For Shaffer Bros. Agree to Accept $215,864 For Their Holdings of $242,000 in Bonds of South Dakota Judgment Class—All Interest Eliminated.

St. Louis Post-Despatch.

An agreement has been reached between Governor Glenn, the council of state and the legislative committee on behalf of the state, and Messrs. A. G. Rieand and F. H. Busbee as counsel for Shaffer Bros., New York, and other bond holders of the South Dakota judgment class, whereby all will be settled provided the legislature approves the basis of settlement, and there is no doubt whatever of that course being taken by the legislature.

The agreement was reached last afternoon and the report of the committee, with the endorsement of the governor and council of state, was presented to the house of representatives last night by Representative Walter Murphy and a duplicate of the report will be introduced in the senate by Senator Mason today. It will be remembered that there are 242 bonds of $1,000 each with interest for twenty-nine years. The basis of settlement is for the state to pay $215,864, the ultimate amount submitted by the Shaffer Bros. Tuesday, it will be remembered, was the payment by the state of $242,000, the principal of the bonds; but the further concession of $26,136 was made during yesterday before the agreement was reached. Here is the report of the committee as endorsed by the governor and council of state and introduced in the house of representatives last night, setting out the details of the settlement and its advantages: "To the General Assembly of North Carolina:

"Gentlemen: The committee to whom was referred the matter of the South Dakota judgment and the Shaffer bonds, to the end that they might carefully consider the same and make some recommendation to the general assembly, do now respectfully make the following report:

"1st. That the governor of the state with the approval of the council of state, be directed to settle the South Dakota judgment in the manner deemed by them best to protect the state's interest.

"2nd. After a careful consideration of the bonded indebtedness known as the Shaffer Brothers bonds, being 242 bonds of the par value of $1,000 each, with interest on the same for twenty-nine years, and after consultation with the attorneys of said bondholders, the committee unanimously agreed to recommend the following:

"The state is to pay the bondholders $215,864 per bond, which is less than par value, and amounts to $215,864. This is $26,136 less than the principal and interest of the 242 bonds, $242,000 less than the first proposition suggested by the bondholders to the governor, $26,136 less than the first written proposition made by the bondholders, printed in the newspapers as a letter to the governor, and $26,136 less than the ultimate recommendation of the committee. The $215,864 recommended by the committee, and accepted by the bondholders, is based though less on the settlement of 1879, allowing 25 cents on the dollar and interest for twenty-four months, with interest on the deferred coupons, this being in strict accord with the settlement of 1879 and the Democratic platform.

"We believe this settlement is both honest and just, and we therefore recommend that the general assembly accept and approve it.

"Respectfully submitted,
"R. B. GLINN, GOVERNOR,

Governor Glenn said last night in speaking of the agreement reached for the settlement of the bonds that he regards it as one of the very best things that has been done for the state during the session of the general assembly and should be highly satisfactory to all parties. ## TAINTED BLOOD

Columbus, Ohio, May 19, 1903.
Some four years ago I was suffering from taint blood and a general run-down condition of the system. I had no energy, was losing flesh, and had an all-around feeling that made me miserable. I began the use of S. S. S., and after taking seven or eight bottles my skin cleared of all eruptions and took on a healthy glow that assured me that my blood had been restored to its normal healthy condition. My appetite was restored, as I could eat anything put before me, and as I regained my appetite I gained weight, and that "tired feeling" which worried me so much disappeared, and I was once again my old self. I heartily recommend S. S. S. as the best blood purifier and tonic made, and I would advise its use to all those in need of such medicine. VICTOR STUBBINS, East Barthman and Washington Aves.

Wheeling, W. V., May 28, 1903.
My system was run down and my joints were pained considerably. I had S. S. S. before and knew what it did. I purchased a bottle of it and have several bottles and the aches and pains are gone, my blood has been cleared, my general health built up. I can do it as a blood purifier and tonic. ## CHICAGO MISSES DEPEW.

Sadness Caused by the Senator's Withdrawal From a Stock Yard Company. Chicago Inter Ocean.

The announcement of the retirement of Senator Chauncey M. Depew from the presidency of the Chicago Junction Railways and Union Stock Yards Company has come upon this community with such suddenness that it is difficult as yet to realize even in a small measure the loss we have suffered.

To say that the Senator's well known form and cheery voice will be missed from the corridor and lunch-room of the live stock exchange, that the drovers are bereft of a kind and generous friend, the commission men of a wise counselor, the steering committee of a just critic, the prodders, tough tenders, watermen, and weighers of a beloved master, would simply be giving expression to barren commonplace.

Great as the void which his retirement will create in the hearts of the working staff of our greatest hive of industry, it will be as nothing to that which will fill the breasts of the animals whose presence within the stockade contributes so much daily toward the completeness of the scene. The Texas steer, fresh from its native wilds, rebellious of restraint, will no longer be soothed by the Depew smile; the Montana heifer, chafing under a restraint that is galling to every fiber of its nature, will no longer be chided into calm serenity by the Depew voice; the Missouri hog, free born and untamed as the winds that lash the Ozarks, gnashing its jaws in impotent protest against imprisonment, will no longer be lulled into composure by the Depew joke.

The presence of our Chauncey was always felt beneficially within the vast inclosure which has made the name of Chicago a treasured household word throughout the world. The sausage grinders, the pudding fillers, and the automatic link stitchers seemed to work smoother when he was here. The tired ax man, his weapon poised for the fatal blow, has often paused to catch the point of a Depew story, knowing that he would afterward be able to go on with his useful work with a merrier heart. Whether at the mouth of the chute or the brink of the vat or in the cooling room, the Senator was ever ready to lend assistance, and bolognas filled, or even varnished with his own hand, are hung and prized as souvenirs in many a humble but honest South Halsted street home.

The announcement comes as a stunning surprise to those who knew him best and knew him but to love him. Only yesterday he was with us; today he is gone—gone in the midst of the midwinter killing; gone when the best of us was about to lean upon him for support.

But such is life. The distracting gayeties of New York and Washington society will no doubt help him to forget at times the simple, happy life he led here as president of our stock yards company. Yet we cherish the selfish hope that ever and anon, as the vials of the millionaire banquet are laid before him, when the odor of our patent soup is in the air, and the Chicago wienerwurst modestly coiled in a corner of his plate appeals to him pathetically for a smile of recognition, his soul will hunger for one brief hour among the bull pens of the town of Lake.

The Wonderful Simplon Tunnel.

It has taken no greater time to bore the longest tunnel in the world through the heart of the Alps than it did to build the road which it displaces. The workmen who met yesterday in the mighty mass of the Simplon, six miles from sunlight, began their task in November, 1888. Napoleon built the way above in six years, 1800-1806.

Brigue to Iselle, the high road spells thirty miles of hard work. It rises by many a turn from a level of 2,241 feet to 6,580 feet at the summit. Nine "refuges" of stone attest the peril of storm, the hospice Napoleon founded for "the pious monks of St. Bernard" crowns the pass. Incredible difficulties, as then they seemed, were met by the supporters and miners. On the Italian side the carriage road itself runs for 755 feet through a tunnel, inscribed with the great name of Napoleon and the date 1805, just a century ago.

The railway runs up the valley a mile from Brigue, as if looking for a soft place in the rock, then turns sharp toward it. Thence for twelve and a half miles it runs through the mountain, two parallel single-track tunnels, connected at intervals by galleries. An army of 10,000 Italians, whose cantonments have made temporary cities above Brigue and at Iselle, have done this work. They were nearly halted when, a mile under the great glaciers on the grim flank of Monte Leone, hot springs were encountered that raised the air-heat to 135 degrees Fahrenheit. Very curious this in the solid rock. Does it mean that this ridge is a mere wrinkle in the surface of the earth covering the central fires which here are nearer?

Since mediaevalism there have been three stages of trans-Alpine travel: Stockalper's mule-paths, guarded from robbers by Stockalper's private army; Napoleon's smooth way for wheels; the tunneled railway. The new tunnel is well worth the $30,000,000 it has cost. The St. Gothard, one of the busiest as well as one of the most marvelous overworked and has long needed more tracks, which it could not have, as its exploiting company, by the limits of its franchise, has soon to turn it over to the Swiss government.

The new line, being nearly 1,500 feet lower, can dispense with the picturesque but costly loops of the St. Gothard's approaches and carry its thousands of passengers and its mountains of freight with far less expense of power.

Legislature Adjourns Sine Die.

Raleigh, March 6.—Before the legislature adjourned sine die today, both houses passed the Jamestown Exposition appropriation bill. It carries $30,000, of which not less than $10,000 or over $20,000 is to be for a permanent building, contingent upon an appropriation of the United States of $1,000,000. The government is instructed to appoint ten commissioners, who will elect a commissioner general. The state agricultural department is directed to co-operate and use its extensive exhibits.

A bill to establish a bureau of immigration in connection with the Agricultural department was voted down. The senate declined to pass the bill to establish a school of technology at Spry.

The governor reappointed William W. Webb, state ex-officio commissioner and he was confirmed by the senate.

There were 1,255 acts of the legislature and thirty-six resolutions passed, while 2,012 bills were introduced. All the figures are somewhat larger than two years ago. The principal acts are the Ward liquor regulation; McNinch's divorce bill; Jamestown Exposition bill; settlement of South Dakota bond judgment, and the Schafer Brothers' bond bill; increase of all judges' salaries; increase of pensions from $200,000 to $275,000, the increases going entirely to the fourth class; increase of soldiers' home appropriation by $5,000, and the abolition of the merchants' purchase tax.

The principal bills which failed to pass are those providing for an immigration bureau, reformatory, Superior court circuits, salaries for solicitors, state normal college at Elizabeth City, statute of Senator Matt Ransom, and increase of oyster tax.

Take Care of the Children.

The most critical period of one's life is that during childhood's days. The parents can never be too cautious in looking to the health of the little ones, they are so susceptible to diseases. Above all their little systems should be regulated and kept in good condition if one would have them grow up into strong, healthy, robust men and women.

Where diseases lurk and where the children are sick and their little systems are in need of a tonic, Frey's Vermifuge will prove the same good old-fashioned remedy that, for over sixty years, has saved the lives of the little ones and brought them back to health.

Frey's Vermifuge should be kept in every house, and at the first signs of sickness a few doses will ward off disease that might otherwise prove dangerous.

Do not take a substitute. If your druggist cannot supply you send 25 cents in stamps to E. & S. Frey, Baltimore, Md., and a trial bottle will be mailed you.

Prominent South Carolinian Murdered.

Columbia, S. C., March 1.—J. T. Smith, Jr., a prominent young man of William and very popular, was foully murdered from ambush tonight while riding horseback through a small section of wood near his home. His watch is missing and it is thought robbery was the motive. One charge caught him full in the face and another on the arm and side of the face, both glancing upward. Mr. Smith was a leader in his community and very popular. He was a leading Knight of Pythias and Mason. There is no clue. Bloodhounds are being used.

C. H. Treat to be Treasurer of the United States.

Washington, March 5.—Although no official statement can be obtained on the subject, it is known that President Roosevelt has appointed C. H. Treat, a prominent lawyer, of New York, to succeed Mr. Treat as collector of internal revenue for the district of New York. If this appointment is made, Mr. Treat in all probability will be appointed to succeed Ellis H. Roberts as treasurer of the United States at Washington, but the change will not take place until June.

Judge Reagan Passes Away.

Houston, Texas, March 6.—Judge John H. Reagan, sole surviving member of the Confederate cabinet, died today at Palestine, Texas, of pneumonia. Judge Reagan, who was 86 years old, had been in failing health for a year or more.

The Federal Senate has passed a bill providing that the circuit and district judges for the Eastern district of North Carolina shall appoint, besides a clerk of that court, held at Raleigh, additional clerks, who shall reside and keep their offices at Wilmington, Newbern and Elizabeth City.

Guilford College Items.

Prof. Binford attended meeting at Center last Sabbath.

Mr. Paris Barker, of Greensboro, spent last Sunday at the college.

Prof. R. N. Wilson left for Washington last Friday evening on a business trip and incidentally to attend the inauguration on Saturday.

Guilford's base ball team is now being organized and trained for active service. The prospect now is they will have a fine team and we may expect good reports as the ball season advances.

Mrs. Cora Bergman, who had been in feeble health for some months past, died last Wednesday night at the home of her father, Mr. W. W. McKaughan, and was buried at Muir's Chapel on Friday about noon. The funeral services were conducted by Dr. J. J. Kenn, of this place, and Rev. Johnson, of Greensboro.

Mr. Daniel W. Hodgkin and son, of Richmond, Ind., in company with Mr. R. Eugene Hodgkin, of Greensboro, visited relatives and friends in this locality last Sunday. Mr. D. W. Hodgkin is a native of this county, but has been living in Indiana for more than thirty years and is here on a short vacation on account of failing health and to visit relatives, a number of whom still live in this county.

The graded school oratorical contest announced in last week's Patriot to take place on Saturday evening, March 4th, was a grand success. The weather was pleasant and a large crowd was in attendance. The meeting was presided over by Miss Rosa Case in a very graceful and delightful manner. She stated in her introductory remarks that this was the first rural graded school established in North Carolina and so far as she knew this was the first contest of the kind to be conducted in a graded school in this state. The speakers consisted of three young ladies and three young men, Misses Mabel Crutchfield, Bessie White and Nell Hudlines, and Messrs. Robt. P. Nicholson, Leslie O. Cummings and Henry W. Smith. The orations were all of a very high order, none of which even college students would have reason to be ashamed of, and they were all well rendered. The prize consisted of three nice books, and was awarded to Miss Bessie White, who spoke on "The Two Emancipators," referring to the educational work in North Carolina of Hon. Z. B. Vance and Gov. Ches. B. Aycock, which was an exceptionally good oration. The chorus class also rendered fine music before and after the speaking. The exercises speak well for the students of the Guilford graded school as well as for the teachers who have so faithfully trained them.

Center Church Items.

A number of the farmers are hauling wood to the Fentress mine.

Mr. E. A. Hodgkin is visiting friends and relatives in Greensboro this week. We are glad to learn that Mrs. R. C. Morrow, who has been on the sick list, is better.

The public school at Center, taught by Miss Maud Paschal, will close Friday, March 10th.

Much to the regret of our Sunday school at Center, our faithful superintendent, Mrs. D. L. Hodgkin, continues unable to be out.

Miss Maud Coltrane has resumed her studies at Jamestown graded school, after being called home by the serious illness and death of her grandmother.

Aunt Sallie Hodgkin is right feeble, but comparatively speaking she has stood the rough weather as well or better than others that are many years her junior. She is in her ninety-second year.

Dr. P. J. Paulson, an expert chemist from New York, is here superintending the work at the Fentress mine. He is of Russian descent, but most of his early life was spent in Germany. He has traveled in several different countries and naturally speaks several different languages.

Gibsonville Items.

Miss Franc, of Baltimore, is visiting her sister, Mrs. C. N. Cone.

Mr. J. W. Burke and father, visited relatives in Burlington Sunday.

Prof. W. W. Davidson went to Greensboro on business last week.

THE DAISY CORN PLANTER

The cut here represents our "Wakefield Sure Crop" or Daisy Corn Planter. A careful inspection of this planter will, we feel sure, convince a practical man that it heads the list of all the good planters sold on this market. It has advantages not to be found on any other make. Note some of them. We have never had one returned to us as unsatisfactory. This makes us sure that we have the planter that is best suited to this part of the country. If you cannot come send to us for catalogue. We'll be pleased to see you, however.

The fertilizer feed is the same as on our other planters, and is a positive force feed. The corn box being in the rear, the operator has full view and can see the corn dropping from the rings to the spout that conveys them. You can see the corn, also the fertilizer, deposited in the rear of the opener. It is the simplest, neatest and most complete Single Row Corn Planter ever offered to the public. The corn dropping device is very simple and positive in action, and the different rings are more easily changed than any other planter. The top part of corn box is made of heavy sheet iron, riveted to a cast ring which is hinged to the bottom, and by loosening one thumb nut can be turned to the side and the rings changed and the bottom cleaned out nicely. The fertilizer box sets lower on the frame, has less number of pieces, less complicated and has the most positive force feed of any planter on the market; and has an agitator that prevents fertilizer feed from arching, crusher lumpy fertilizer, insures uniform distribution, whether dry or damp. Will sow from 20 pounds to 450 pounds per acre, and if a larger quantity is wanted, use the five-point chain wheel, and it will sow 525 pounds per acre.

NOTE—If the rows are marked out closer than 3 feet 6 inches, it will sow more per acre.

The opening or furrowing out shovel is made of all steel, finely polished and the wings are wide enough to turn stones or lumps to the side far enough to prevent the covers from throwing them back on the corn rows. Four grain at a place an equal distance apart. Two with large and two with small holes for dropping two grains in a hill, drops one grain 11 inches apart or two grains 22 inches apart. The 7-point wheel will plant one grain 13 inches, or two grains 26 inches apart. The 8-point wheel will plant one grain 15 inches, or two grains 30 inches apart. The 9-point or two grains 28 inches apart. The front wheel can be changed, up or down, so as to furrow deep or shallow. The covers are fastened on ratchets and can be set in any position desired, also raised or lowered to cover shallow or deep. To hold it permanently out of gear, press on the handle and draw the latch. We can also furnish rings for planting peas, beans, ensilage, corn, or any kind of seeds, and by using the different chain wheels can plant any desired amount. Plenty of Baugh's Bone Meal, Bone and Potash, Nitrate Soda, Sulphate of Potash and Muriate of Potash on hand. Give us your orders early.

The frame work of the broom factory is up and makes a fine showing. It will be a very commodious and convenient structure when completed.

Miss Sallie Kelly, of Clarkton, who has been visiting her cousin, Mrs. Dr. C. S. Tate, was taken seriously ill with pneumonia on February 11th and died on February 21st. She was a most estimable christian young lady. The writer never met a more noble or truer young woman. Truly she was a christian in every sense of the word. Her remains were accompanied to Clarkton by her father, Mr. J. A. Kelly, of Clarkton, and Rev. C. A. Wood, of Ramseur.

Edward O. Wolcott, former United States senator from Colorado, died a few days ago in Italy.

EVER A PROBLEM.

Savoyard, in Washington Post.

The speech of President Roosevelt on the race question at the Lincoln dinner of the Republican Club of New York last Monday was excellent in temper and admirable in expression. It was an address to the South, and no Southern man can find fault with it. It was but an elaboration of what Mr. Cleveland remarked when discussing the same question, that those next the weight must lift it. The President would have the negro honest, frugal, industrious, virtuous, and so say we all. But the President does not venture to say what shall be done with the negro when he is all these things and a capitalist in the bargain. When he has educated and elevated himself, what then?

Go with me to the "black belt" of Mississippi, where the silvery Noxuba winds its way to the turbulent Tombigbee, and there is a land as fair as that Bryon describes in the "Bride of Abydos." There the sweet violet is now in bloom and lends its fragrance, an added charm, to lovers' dreams. There the music of the song bird is now harbinging of the blooming roses that will come with Easter morn. There is a white population as proud as Vere de Vere, and a black population with no tradition that is not superstition and no history that is not debasement.

Suppose one of those blacks—an octo-noon, if you please—should develop a genius for the law. Suppose as an advocate he should become more than Erskine and Pinckney combined, and it was universally conceded that on the bench his judgments would be as learned as Francis Bacon's and as just as Matthew Hale's. Suppose all these things were true. The veriest Dogberry of that community would be preferred over that man for judge. And why? There is but one reason in the world. A negro on the bench means social equality and miscegenation.

There is the skeleton in the closet, and if Theodore Roosevelt were ten thousand times the statesman Lincoln was he could not seal that closet so as to hide that skeleton from the eyes of civilization. Truth ever had, and ever will have, its call. This phase of the race question cannot be ignored, and when the negro becomes all the President characterizes as so desirable—learned, honest, frugal, diligent, wealthy—then the real race problem will have just begun. Everybody is disposed to ignore what he finds disagreeable, and that is why so many people believe the race problem will be settled as soon as the negro goes to work, accumulates, saves, gets an education, and ceases to supply more than a fair share of the criminal class. When the negro realizes this dream how are you going to deny him full partnership?

It is this side of the question that concerns the South. That people have preserved their race integrity under such conditions as to give the fact the nature of a miracle. The South's greatest victory was the saving of South Carolina, Mississippi and Louisiana from the fate of the West Indies. She did it under circumstances the most adverse and the most appalling, and despite the frown of the victorious North and a hostile government. What she preserved in the days of her travail, that will she maintain to the end of time.

The South understands the negro thoroughly; the North knows nothing in the world about him, but made an imaginary and impossible negro, and we saw the result of that mistake in the failure and the collapse of reconstruction. The South was under a thousand obligations to the negro, and the conduct of the negro during the war was calculated to make the white man forever grateful, though it astonished his Southern man. Had the negro, who, if he be wanting in gratitude, is happily without malice, been left to the gratitude and justice of his former master, and that master's children, it would have been a great deal better for both the North and the South, the whites and the blacks. That was not done. On the contrary, antagonisms were engendered, and enmities resulted. And now we have the race question, that promises to remain with us until Moses comes to lead the children of Ham back to Africa.

Senator Dilliver, of Iowa, also made a speech on this occasion, and like all that gentleman's orations, it was exceedingly eloquent and intensely patriotic. That grim old scholar, David Turley, once remarked that came from twenty Carol Lodge was an "address," and we may say that everything Senator Dilliver says is an "oration." One definition of an oration is that it is something you don't exactly understand, as, for example, the following from Mr. Dilliver's Lincoln dinner oration:

"He (Lincoln) contended not alone with an insurrection of the slave power; he was hand to hand with a rebellion ancient as selfishness and greed, which in all centuries had denied the rights of man, made of human governments a pestilent succession of despotisms, and turned the history of our race into a dull record of crimes, and failures, and misfortunes."

That sounds somewhat like one of John A. Bingham's bloody-shirt speeches. A man of ordinary understanding could easily construe that as an indictment of George Washington, Patrick Henry, Thomas Jefferson, George Mason, John Marshall, and all the other slaveholders of the United States. But the best thing to do with it is to contrast it with this passage from Roosevelt, delivered a few minutes before:

"The great civil war, in which Lincoln towered as the loftiest figure, left us not only a reunited country, but a country which has the proud right to claim as its own the glory won alike by those who wore the blue and by those who wore the gray, by those who followed Grant and by those who followed Lee; for both fought with equal bravery and with equal sincerity of conviction, each striving for the light as it was given him to see the light."

The papyrus plant is nearly extinct in Egypt, and the only place where it is now to be found in abundance is along the Anapo river in Sicily.

Negro Postmaster Says He's Held in Peonage.

Jackson, Miss., Special.

A. L. Horton, the negro postmaster at Way Station, Madison county, thirty-five miles north of here, on the Illinois Central, makes the sensational charge that he is being held in peonage by the Postoffice department.

Horton has been postmaster at the place several years, and frequently attempted to resign, the last effort of this sort having been made a few days ago, but the Postoffice department refused to accept his resignation, for the reason that no other person was willing to take the office, and several of them had written to the Postmaster General, insisting that Horton be retained.

The negro is very much in earnest over the charge preferred against the Postoffice department, and has written a letter to the Federal authorities, asking if there is not some hook or crook of the law by which he can quit the job without rendering his bondsman liable. He indignantly asserts that the Postmaster General is holding him in involuntary servitude, and that he is losing money by serving as postmaster.

The case is without a parallel in this state, and the Federal authorities are much puzzled over it.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

Correspondence of the PATRIOT.

Washington, March 4.—Theodore Roosevelt, twenty-fifth President of the United States, was inaugurated shortly after noon today, Chief Justice Fuller, of the United States Supreme Court, administering the oath of office. No sooner had the President completed the solemn yet simple ceremony of taking the oath than all Washington reverberated with the boom of the great 10-inch guns on the monitor Puritan which lay anchored in the Potomac. Once, twice, thrice, the great guns boomed from the monitor when there sounded a medley of roars from up and down the river, the siege guns at Fort Myer, opposite Georgetown, and these at Forts Foote and Washington below Washington taking up the salvo; each fort firing the Presidential salute of twenty-one guns. As the guns roared their stentorian greeting, the great crowd on the capitol plaza sent up a mighty cheer.

As soon as the noisy demonstration ceased the President stepped forward to the front of the rostrum and, apparently addressing the classic statue of George Washington, delivered his inaugural address. For but ten minutes he spoke, rapidly but with clear enunciation. At the conclusion of his brief address the President descended from the platform and returned to "the President's room" in the capitol where he received the congratulations of senators and representatives, of diplomats and jurists and of a host of personal friends.

It was almost two o'clock when the President accompanied by the picturesque enthusiastic Rough Riders who followed him in the famous charge up San Juan Hill, and by Troop A, of the New York National Guard, drove rapidly up Pennsylvania Avenue, followed slowly by the greatest civic and military pageant that has thus far assembled in Washington to do honor to a newly inaugurated President. At the White House the President received the two hundred guests who had been invited to the buffet lunch. Mr. Roosevelt ate a hasty mouthful and then proceeded to the handsome stand erected in front of the Executive Mansion, from which during the next three hours, he reviewed the procession saluting the flag each time it passed before him. From time to time he turned to those about him commenting on the notable features of the parade, exchanging jokes with cabinet members and friends and in every possible manner displaying that almost boyish exuberance which is one of his characteristics.

When the last of the procession had passed the stand the President returned to the front portico of the White House and there received informally the members of the Rough Riders troop which had served him as escort in the day, as well as a number of "the boys" who had known him in his ranching days. Among those at the luncheon and at this informal reception was big "Bill" Sewall, the Maine guide who has been the President's companion on so many hunting trips, together with Bill's wife and sons and daughters and innumerable grandchildren, for "Bill" is no demonstrator of race suicide. Another notable figure at the White House luncheon was Seth Bullock, the Wyoming guide whose laconic warning, "Mr. President, I smell Injuns," was the first intimation the President received of the incipient rebellion against his nomination which occurred in the national committee, a little over a year ago. Another notable character who greeted the President on inauguration day, being among the first to grasp his hand under the White House portico, was a gentleman who had left his native state, Missouri, for that state's good, who once played a somewhat important roll in a successful effort to escape the western penalty for horse stealing, but who is a "good Injun" and a loyal Republican now. Still another piratical looking gentleman the President recalled with the remark, "I believe the last time we met, we engaged in a little gun play, J—." "Yes, Colonel, and I never got through thanking you that you drew quickest," was the obviously sincere reply.

In the evening the President accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Alice and his military and naval aides, attended the inaugural ball in the great hall of the Pension building, but he did not dance, contenting himself with looking down on the throng of beautifully gowned women and brilliantly uniformed men, and responding to their salutes with smiles and bows. The ball room presented a picture of exceptional beauty with its profusion of flowers, its artistic arrangement of tiny electric lights and the magnificent assemblage which had gathered to see and be seen. Throughout the day there was evident that spirit of good fellowship which is the chief characteristics of American crowds.

Democrats and Republicans forgot politics and joined in rejoicing over the inauguration of a man whom all can respect, however much they may differ with him politically; of whom Americans can be proud, even when they believe he is mistaken; whose personality, whose courage, whose purity and whose Americanism appeals to men of all parties and all nations.

The inauguration of Vice President Fairbanks, according to custom, preceded that of the President and occurred in the Senate chamber. As the hands of the great clock indicated the hour of 12 the president pro tem of the Senate, Mr. Frye, of Maine, administered the oath of office to the Vice President elect. Vice President Fairbanks then mounted the president's stand and delivered a brief address, occupying barely five minutes in so doing, although he spoke with great deliberation. When he had concluded the newly elected senators were sworn in and then the entire assemblage, including President Roosevelt and his Cabinet, proceeded to the inaugural stand on the east front of the capitol.

The procession which moved slowly from the Senate chamber to the stand was led by the President and Vice President, the foreign ambassadors following. Then came the justices of the Supreme court, followed by the members of the Senate and of the House of Representatives, then the members of the Cabinet, followed by the members of the press, and they in turn by the invited guests.

Davidson commanding, which is part of the governor's escort. The governor is accompanied by the following members of his staff: Adjutant General Robertson; Quartermaster General Macou, Surgeon General Young, Judge Advocate General Hodges, Paymaster General Peterson, and his personal staff, Colonels Charles E. Johnson, John S. Cunningham, D. L. Ward, F. G. James and John L. Cobb; Lieutenant Colonels Cox, Hankins; Majors Messenburg and John H. Andrews, and Captain J. F. Cannon.

William Carter, a pupil at the State Normal for the Blind, died of pneumonia. Strange to say, it is the second death of a pupil at that institution, though it was established more than 50 years ago.

Grand Secretary Woodell, of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows, says that the next session of the Grand Lodge will be held here on the 9th of May, instead of at Elizabeth City. The order is making great gains. It now has 105 lodges on its rolls, five new ones have been established within the past few weeks, and five more are soon to be established. Nearly 11,000 members are now on the rolls.

Grubb's Case Moved to Rowan.

Lexington, March 2.—Judge Bryan this morning ordered the removal of the Clay Grubb case to Rowan county. The case will be taken up Wednesday of the first of the May term of court. After hearing argument for about an hour the judge said he thought the case should be moved and that he did not think the state could get a fair trial in Davidson county. He asked counsel for the defense if they had any suggestion as to the county in which to try the case, and gave them choice of Rowan, Fredell or Randolph. Counsel for Grubb wanted Davie and Solicitor Hammer suggested Guilford. No application for release of Grubb was made.

Dr. Raper's New Books.

Chapel Hill, March 2.—Dr. Charles Lee Raper, professor of Economics in the university, has been requested by the MacMillan Co., of New York and London, to write an elementary text book on economics. Dr. Raper has accepted the commission. It is probable that the book will be completed before the end of the present year. The title of the book will be: "Economics for High Schools; the Principles of Wealth and Welfare."

Dr. Raper is now engaged in writing a History of Banking in North Carolina. In addition to the history of banking he traces the development of economic thought of the state. This book will be ready for press shortly.

OUR RALEIGH LETTER.

Correspondence of the PATRIOT.

Gorman News Bureau, Raleigh, N. C., March 6, 1905.
By the time these lines appear in print the session of the general assembly of 1905 will have ended.
The legislators are already packing their trunks for the return home, and to be entirely candid a good many people will be glad when they have done so—the legislators (or some of them at least) included.
It was not more than an average legislature, if so much can be said of it, and it has made some unpopular mistakes both of commission and omission. Already it has received some hard knocks at the hands of its critics and the prospects indicate that there are an unusually large number of rods in pickle for future use.

SCARCITY OF GREAT MEN.

The legislature of 1905 has been conspicuous to those who have watched its proceedings for the scarcity of "great men" among its members. Their absence has been painfully felt at times.
Eliminate 20 per cent. of the senate and a much smaller proportion of the house and very little brains or legislative talent or experience would be left. But that was not the most serious condition although greatly to be deplored. Many of the new men were so prone to "experimental legislation" that the wonder is that their more experienced and level-headed colleagues were able to prevent the enactment of so many of the "fool bills" and worse that were introduced.

BAD BILLS DEFEATED.

Some of them, of course, went through and are now on the statute books for two years at least—where so many other laws that ought never to have been passed exist. Some of the bills that deservedly met death at times only at the eleventh hour, after having run the gauntlet of committee action and passage in one branch of the legislature would very seriously affected property interests and capital invested in industrial enterprises in North Carolina.

INADEQUATE PROVISION FOR THE CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS.

One of the most serious blunders committed was the absolute refusal of the committee on appropriations to make adequate provision for the pressing needs of the charitable institutions of the state—the at present unincorporated for insane, especially. Less than half of a little more than forty per cent. of the amount asked to build an addition to the Central Hospital at Raleigh, was allowed, while not a dollar was given the Morganton hospital for increased facilities. The $10,000 voted for a new building at the Raleigh asylum will not suffice to erect and equip such a structure as is needed. So the chances are that the amount available will be used and the next legislature will be called on for enough to complete it.

There will be no reformatory for wayward youths, the Senate bill which passed the senate having been killed in the house, although the bill would not have taken a dollar out of the state treasury, all of it coming from the already accumulated earnings of the penitentiary.

The bill to provide a new building for storing valuable state documents or providing offices for several state officers now inadequately provided for and for the state library, which was defeated in the senate ten days ago, was again taken up on a motion to reconsider last Friday and killed for the second time. The effort to enlarge the capitol building never once got a glimpse of daylight.

WHERE CARES OF STATE SIT LIGHTLY.

The bill reducing railroad passenger fares, which passed the house at an even more rapid clip-a-ter-clip than such bills usually go through that body, ran into a side-track and was ditched in the senate. The corporation commission is empowered to do all that the deceased bill sought to accomplish and it will probably be adventurously to the fact when its services are required in that direction.

It would be truly laughable were not the possible consequences so serious and far reaching, to observe how lightly the cares of state sit upon the shoulders of some of those back-country "statesmen" whose financial resources and experiences and knowledge are just that limited to cause them to tamper with great interests, through a "little bill" that would cost invested capital hundreds of thousands of dollars and possibly put incorporated companies into the hands of receivers, with as much concern as they would emit a puff-puff-puff of smoke from their odoriferous pipes.

I beg the reader's pardon for this approach to vulgarity, because it is so near akin to the truth, but some of the men sent to Raleigh to serve as legislators are much better qualified to sell calico and sugar in a cross-roads "department store" and nature has more fully endowed them to cultivate a corn and cotton and tobacco crops successfully than to wade into the meshes of a law manufactory.

IMPORTANT BILLS DURING CLOSING DAYS.

During the last few days of the session some of the most important bills were disposed of, among the number being the following:

The McNinch divorce bill, (printed in full in these Letters last week) passed the senate Saturday after being amended by Senator Eller to read, "if the husband shall commit fornication and adultery." This bill had a narrow escape from death at the hands of the senate judiciary committee last Friday, a tie of seven to seven on a motion to adopt a substitute, offered by Senator Mason, of Gaston, being broken by the chairman in favor of the McNinch bill. The bill is now the law.

The immigration bureau bill, passed by the senate some time ago, was defeated in the house Saturday. Another mistake.

As a sort of return of compliments the senate the same day tabled (by a vote of two to one) the house bill changing the number of challenges now allowed the state and the defense.

The bill adjusting the South Dakota bond claim and taking up the old bonds held by the Schafers, of New York, by an issue of new bonds representing 25 per cent. of the old bonds and interest to the amount of $325,000, was another of the important measures that went through finally on Saturday. Governor Glenn is to be commended for his assiduous and intelligent effort to secure this settlement on such advantageous terms to the state of North Carolina.

The bill to pay solicitors of the judicial districts a lump salary ($2,500) instead of fees, as at present, is another good law enacted during the closing days.

The usual presentations of gold watches and silver services to the door keepers and presiding officers were pulled off on schedule time.

LLEWEXAM.

Inaugural Address of President Roosevelt.

My Fellow Citizens: No people on earth have more cause to be thankful than ours, and this is said reverently, in no spirit of boastfulness in our own strength, but with gratitude to the Giver of Good who has blessed us with the conditions which have enabled us to achieve so large a measure of well-being and of happiness. To us as a people it has been granted to lay the foundations of our national life in a new continent. We are the heirs of the ages, and yet we had to pay few of the penalties which in other countries are exacted by the dead hand of a bygone civilization. We have not been obliged to fight for our existence against any alien race; and yet our life has called for the vigor and effort without which the manlier and harder virtues wither away. Under such conditions it would be our own fault if we failed; and the success which we have had in the past, the success which we confidently believe the future will bring, should cause in us no feeling of vain-glory, but rather a deep and abiding realization of all which life has offered us; a full acknowledgment of the responsibility which is ours; and a fixed determination to show that under a free government a mighty people can thrive best, alike as regards the things of the body and the things of the soul.

Much has been given to us and much will rightfully be expected from us. We have duties to others and duties to ourselves; and we can shrink neither. We have become a great nation, forced by the facts of its greatness into relations with the other nations of the earth; and we must behave as becomens people with such responsibilities. Toward all other nations, large and small, our attitude must be one of cordial and sincere friendship. We must show not only in our words but in our deeds that we are earnestly desirous of securing their good will by acting toward them in a spirit of just and generous recognition of all their rights. But justice and generosity in a nation, as in an individual, count most when shown not by the weak but by the strong. While ever careful to refrain from wronging others, we must be no less insistent that we are not wronged ourselves. We wish peace, but we wish the peace of justice, the peace of righteousness. We wish it because we think it is right and not because we are afraid. No weak nation that acts manfully and justly should ever have cause to fear us, and no strong power should ever be able to single us out as a subject for insolent aggression.

Our relations with the other powers of the world are important; but still more important are our relations among ourselves. Such growth in wealth, in population and in power as this nation has seen during the century and a quarter of its natural life is inevitably accompanied by a like growth in the problems which are ever before every nation that rises to greatness. Power invariably means both responsibility and danger. Our forefathers faced certain perils which we have outgrown. We now face other perils the very existence of which it was impossible that they should foresee. Modern life is both complex and intense, and the tremendous changes wrought by the extraordinary development of the last half-century are felt in every fibre of our social and political being. Never before have men tried so vast and formidable an experiment as that of administering the affairs of a continent under the form of a Democratic republic. The conditions which have told for our marvelous material well-being, which have developed to a very high degree our energy, self-reliance, and individual initiative, have also brought the care and anxiety inseparable from the accumulation of great wealth in industrial centres. Upon the success of our experiment much depends; not only as regards our own welfare, but as regards the welfare of mankind. If we fail, the cause of free self-government throughout the world will rock to its foundations; and therefore our responsibility is heavy, to ourselves, to the world as it is today, and to the generations yet unborn. There is no good reason why we should fear the future, but there is every reason why we should face it seriously, neither hiding from ourselves the problems before us nor fearing to approach these problems with the unbending, unflinching purpose to solve them aright.

Yet, after all, though the problems are new, though the tasks set before us differ from the tasks set before our fathers who founded and preserved this republic, the spirit in which these tasks must be undertaken and these problems faced, if our duty is to be well done, remains essentially unchanged. We know that self-government is difficult. We know that no people need such high traits as that people which seeks to govern its affairs aright through the freely expressed will of the free men who compose it. But we have faith that we shall not prove false to the memories of the men of the mighty past. They did their work, they left us the splendid heritage we now enjoy. We in our turn have an assured confidence that we shall be able to leave this heritage unwasted and enlarged to our children and our children's children. To do so we must show not merely in great crises, but in the every day affairs of life, the qualities of practical intelligence, of courage, of hardihood and endurance; and above all the power of devotion to a lofty ideal, which made great the men who founded this republic in the days of Washington, which made great the men who preserved this republic in the days of Abraham Lincoln.

Mt. Airy News: Mr. Robt. Boyd, who lives near Friends Mission, in Patrick county, is dead from the effects of a fall on the ice last Tuesday. He went to the wood pile, and while returning slipped and fell with sufficient force to break his neck. Medical aid was summoned but but could render no assistance. He was about thirty years of age and leaves a wife and several children.

Voorhees, Democrat, and took his seat March 4, 1897; was re-elected in 1903.

How They Became Fossils.

This mental and physical depletion which comes from being satisfied with a past success cannot be better illustrated than by some of the faculties of our old colleges. Now, the colleges of both the east and the west were originally made up of picked men. The presidents and trustees of the institutions in almost every case selected the very brightest and best students of their classes. They were honor men of the colleges who were asked to fill the honored professorial chairs. But, marvelous to say, although the college faculties of the old institutions in my day had been recruited from the brightest men, yet almost without exception these faculties were a large percentage of men who seem to be simple relics of the past. They seemed to be unworldly men, cut out of touch with present day events. They were waiting "cubed roots" of "daffie cases" or petrified apples of Dore or Corinthian architecture. They seemed to be men for just as if of rusting out than wearing out.

Don't Talk of Troubles.

How should we renew the street of young manhood? By never talking about our ailments or misfortune we can avoid it. If the rheumatism will pull at our nerves and swell the joints, then as far as possible do mention it. If the holidays bring sad memories, then if we must let us go to our rooms and have a cry alone, but not before others, we were once wealthy and some friends of better days will now have nothing to do with us, then do not burdening those who are still faithful to us with our never ending tale of woe. The most common sense prescription I ever saw written by a physician was not to be taken in a pill, but in knockdown doses. A prescription was a sign placed in the rotunda of a large sanitarium in the central part of New York state, was in a most conspicuous position where all the patients could see it

The weather the past week would indicate that the groundhog has temporarily lost his grip on the elements, but we dare not bet on climatic conditions just yet. No one knows what a day in March will bring forth.

Mr. Chas. H. Barnes, who was for some time cashier of the Wachovia Loan & Trust Co., in High Point, died at Rocky Mount, Va., last Wednesday, after an illness extending through a period of two years or more.

Mr. C. C. Barnhardt, of Whitsett, has been selected by the Dialectic society of the University as its representative in the North Carolina—Georgia annual debate, to be held at Athens, Ga., during the month of April.

Invitations have been issued to the marriage of Mr. Geo. H. Jennings, of this city, and Miss Irma Carroll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. White, of Danville, Va. The ceremony will take place at the home of the bride on March 15th.

Mr. M. J. Dacey who was a deputy at Proximity for some years, but has since lived at Lynchburg and Danville, where he followed his regular calling, that of a railroad engineer, has returned to the city and will run one of the Southern's yard engines. His health is not as good as it was when he left here two years ago.

Are You Engaged?

Engaged people should remember, that, after marriage, many quarrels can be avoided by keeping their digestions in good condition with Electric Bitters. S. A. Brown, of Bennettsville, S. C., says: "For years my wife suffered intensely from dyspepsia, complicated with a torpid liver, until she lost her strength and vigor, and became a mere wreck of her former self. Then she tried Electric Bitters, which helped her at once, and finally made her entirely well. She is now strong and healthy. All druggists sell and guarantee them, at 50c a bottle."

Enthusiastic Meeting of Board of Directors of Chamber of Commerce.

The board of directors of the recently formed chamber of commerce met Monday night at the Benbow, and the fifteen members present donated one thousand dollars to be used in the work of the chamber. The meeting was presided over by the president, Mr. Caesar Cone, and in the absence of the temporary secretary, Mr. G. H. Miles, Mr. R. J. Mebane filled his place.

On motion the president appointed the following committee of eight to divide up the city and solicit donations and subscriptions to the organization. Messrs. E. P. Wharton, J. C. Murchison, Lee H. Battle, R. J. Mebane, R. C. Beurnau, Neil Ellington, L. J. Brandt and C. G. Wright. Not infrequently items are omitted from our neighborhood news columns because we are unable to decipher names that are used. There is no rule for spelling names and we have to rely on our correspondents for their spelling. We would appreciate accuracy in this respect as in all others relating to the news of the various sections represented in our columns from time to time.

A news letter came from Kinesville last night, too late for insertion in this issue. It will appear next week. We would like to have a letter from that thriving village every week or so, and the writer of yesterday's communication would please not only the PATRIOT but a large number of its readers if he would pick his hints and come again—the oftener the better.
