LOCAL NEWS.

Crimson clover and hairy vetch seed
at C. Scott & Co.'s.

Mr. J. H. Johnson has returned from a visit to Montgomery and Randolph counties.

Mr. R. C. Young has gone to Pueblo, Colo., in search of an improved variety
of health.

Mr. Lozan Swain has returned from White Sulphur Springs much improved in health.

Mr. Ed. S. Wills is moving his book and stationery store to his new room in the Hotel Guilford.

Mr. and Mrs. Early Feimster left last night for Spokane, Wash., where they will make their home.

City Editor Lambe, of the Daily Record staff, has been laid up for several days with a sore foot.

The Clegg Commission Company has plenty of ripe bananas this week. Their prices just now will interest you.

All the stores in Greensboro owned by Hebrews will be closed Saturday, the 30th, which is the Jewish New Year.

The Proximity Mercantile Company is doubling its store capacity, by the erection of another building adjoining the original store.

Mr. R. Lindheim, treasurer of the Cone Export and Commission Company, came down from New York last week for a short visit.

Mrs. N. C. Weatherly invites your inspection of her large and elegant assortment of fall hats for ladies and children. You will find her prices reasonable.

Mr. G. A. Rankin has accepted a position in the life department of the Southern Life & Trust Company and will take up his new work about October 1st.

Big Bob Stafford, the star first baseman of Atlanta's base ball team, was in the city Monday. He finished the season with honors and will enjoy a rest at his home at Oak Ridge.

Mrs. H. W. Battle, D. D., who was critically ill over Sunday, is reported much better and there are strong hopes for her ultimate recovery. She has been suffering from blood poisoning.

See my handsome shoes before buying your winter shoes. I have the best shoe on the market.

J. FRANK ROSS,
Pleasant Garden, N. C.

The Myers Company, a former prominent Richmond concern, but late of St. Louis, has leased the new Glenn building on South Elm street and will open a department store there at an early date.

The Sanford Real Estate, Loan and Insurance Company, a $50,000 concern, was incorporated by the secretary of state Monday. Mr. E. P. Wharton, of Greensboro, is one of the principals in the company.

The Vanstony Livery Company, which has been owned for a couple of years by a company from Moore county, has discontinued the livery business
and will hereafter run only a sale and boarding stable.

The city has concluded a mutually satisfactory understanding with the Sloan heirs and their property on West Gaston street will be made to conform to the improvements elsewhere along that thoroughfare.

Mr. W. J. Hobbs, the liveryman, broke the small bone in his left ankle Saturday evening. In stepping from his office door his foot turned on the rough cobble stones with which the street is paved in front of his barn.

Mr. E. M. Pritchett, a clever young man who works for the Southern Express Company, fell in alighting from a delivery wagon Saturday with a heavy box and sustained bruises that compel him to take a brief vacation.

The American Suburban Company
is disposing of its West Lee street property at a rapid rate, over a hundred lots having already been sold. The contractors who are to improve the property will be at work in a short time.

A buggy belonging to a man named Mitchell was smashed by a street car yesterday morning on South Elm street. Two or three other vehicles kept the driver from getting out of harm's way before the car could be brought to a standstill. The horse hitched to the buggy was knocked down but escaped injury.

Mr. Will L. Guthrie continues seriously ill at the home of his father, Capt. C. B. Guthrie, on East Lee street, and there is little hope of his recovery. He suffers from stomach and lung trouble and gets weaker as the days come and go. Capt. Guthrie has been off duty for some time ministering to the wants of his son.

Mr. C. A. Bray spent Sunday at Marietta, Ga., the guest of Rev. Sam Jones, the evangelist, who has a married daughter living there. Rev. Jones was just concluding a meeting at Marietta in which there were four or five hundred conversions and the town was stirred with a religious fever such as had never before been known there.

Rev. H. D. LeQueux, a former pastor of Alamance and Springwood Presbyterian churches, in this county, died
Monday at his home in Taylorsville.
He had suffered from asthma for several years and it finally resulted in death. He leaves a wife and several children. An eloquent, learned and forceful exponent of God's word has passed to his reward.

Mr. J. C. Caddell, formerly editor of the Salisbury Sun, has accepted a position with the Greensboro Life Insurance Company, of this city, and will probably make his headquarters in Salisbury. For some time he has been negotiating with the company, but it was not until Saturday that he closed the deal. Before becoming editor of the Sun Mr. Caddell was editor of the Raleigh Evening Times.

The PATRIOT continues to hear complaints of the recklessness of automobile operators on the public roads of the county. Knowing the owners of all the big machines in Greensboro as we do, we are loth to believe that they willfully exceed reasonable speed at any time or become unmindful of the rights and privileges of others who make use of the public highways, yet on the other hand are the complaints of persons who are not unreasonable or opposed to the use of the machines.
The remedy for the situation ought to come from a spirit of mutual consideration.

After a busy session lasting one week
Judge Shaw cleared the Superior court docket of all the jail cases Saturday and took up the barn burning case
from Summer that afternoon. Arguments in the case were heard yesterday and the jury is still deliberating
as we go to press. It was a stubbornly contested case all round and the outcome is a matter of much speculation.
Over thirty prisoners went to the roads, mostly for short terms. Only two of the number were white. All the cases of more than passing interest were continued to the next term. In his conduct of the court Judge Shaw has given the fullest measure of satisfaction.

The Charlotte papers showed up yesterday somewhat disfigured but still in the ring. A strike of the printers resulting from a failure to obtain an eight-hour agreement with the employers caused the trouble. Both sides to the controversy maintain a firm front and will hold out indefinitely. The Greensboro papers were up against the same proposition last week, but "compromised" with the union by agreeing to all their demands, which not only embraced the eight-hour feature but an additional increase of twenty per cent in the scale, making a total increase of over 30 per cent, effective January 1, 1906. Three job printing houses here, Stone, Pierce and Thomas, are holding out against the new scale.

The colored race no longer has a monopoly on the hotel service in Greensboro. For some time conditions here have been unsatisfactory, owing to the responsibility of colored people employed about the hotels, and on Monday a force of white people was installed at the Guilford and Benbow, owned by Messrs. Cobb & Fry. White cooks, white waitresses and white chambermaids are now on duty there, the only colored people left being the porters and bell-boys. It is something of an innovation, yet not an experiment, as white waitresses have been employed at the Guilford cafe for some time and have given satisfaction. All the new employees are experienced persons and the excellent service of both houses
was uninterrupted by the change.

The PATRIOT office rejoices in the possession of a bridegroom. Mr. J. Don May, one of the faithful young men who has been connected with this office ever since the present management took charge, and Miss Minnie Melvin,
a charming young woman who has lived here a year or so, her parents, Mr.
and Mrs. W. G. Melvin, having come from Virginia, were united in marriage
last Thursday evening by Rev. J. A.
Bowles at the Methodist parsonage east of the city. The marriage, which was witnessed only by the officiating minister's family and Mr. Will Johnson and Miss Alice Melvin, a sister of the bride, was quite a surprise to the many friends of these excellent young people, the families of each having aided them in keeping the affair a profound secret. Mr. and Mrs. May will make their home with the groom's
mother, Mrs. M. S. May, on South
Forbis street, for the present.

TWO YOUNG MEN INSTANTLY KILLED.

Leslie H. Geringer and Walter A. Craven
Crushed by an Engine in the Southern Railway Yards.

Unconscious of impending danger
and having no thought of the horrible
fate in store for them, two young men, Leslie H. Geringer, aged sixteen, night operator at the east end of the double track which connects this city with the Southern Railway yards at Pomona, and Walter A. Craven, aged seventeen,
who worked at the carpenter's trade,
stepped from one railroad track to another Friday evening to avoid a passing freight train and were instantly run down and crushed to death by an engine which was backing rapidly to the yards to take out an extra freight east.

Young Geringer and his companion
had just left their home on West Lee street to come up town and were near the Laurie avenue crossing when the terrible accident befell them. The arms of both were cut off and their bodies hurled to a ditch beside the track, there being comparatively few evidences of injury otherwise. Coroner Turner was summoned at once and after making a careful inquiry decided that an inquest was unnecessary. The bodies were then brought to F. F. Smith's undertaking establishment and prepared for burial. Whether or not the backing engine was carrying the required lights was not definitely determined at the coroner's investigation.

Leslie H. Geringer was the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Geringer, who live at 465 West Lee street. He is survived by his parents, two brothers and two sisters, one of his brothers
being a telegraph operator stationed at Alexandria. He had his life insured for a thousand dollars only a short time ago. The family moved here from Benaja five months ago, and the remains of the unfortunate young man
were taken there Sunday for interment, accompanied by a large number of friends.

Walter A. Craven was the son of C.
R. Craven and wife, of Ramseur. He leaves a number of brothers and sisters, among the latter being Mrs. L. I. Cox, of Elon College, wife of a former pastor of the Christian church. Mrs. D. M.
Frazier, of Dairy street, is also a sister of the deceased, as is also Miss Kate Craven, of White Oak. There are also a brother and sister in Indiana and several in Randolph county, near Ram-seur. The young man boarded with the Geringer family. His remains were taken to Ramseur for interment.

Great sympathy is felt for the bereaved families.

Death of Dr. R. M. Patterson.

Dr. R. M. Patterson died at his home on North Spring street Saturday night at 8 o'clock. His health had been bad for some years and he seldom left his home, but for two weeks he had been very ill and death was not unexpected.
Deceased came here from Durham about two years ago, but never being able to get around much, very few people knew him. He was a most estimable gentleman, however, greatly beloved by those who knew him best.
His age was 65 years and he is survived by a wife and eleven children. Mrs. J.
W. Page, Cheraw, S. C.; Mrs. J. J.
Pritchard, of Durham; Mr. S. B. Patterson, of Raleigh; Mrs. F. M. Lanier, Mrs. D. T. Chason, Misses Rosalie,
Maude, Madge, Lydia, Lalah and Eugenia Patterson, of Greensboro. He also leaves a brother, Mr. W. W. Patterson, of Cheraw.

Dr. Patterson was a brave Confederate soldier and the Daughters of the Confederacy attended his funeral in a body Sunday afternoon, which was conducted from the family residence
by Dr. Detwiler, pastor of West Market church, of which deceased was a member. The pall bearers were Messrs. C.
H. Ireland, W. R. Pickard, J. N. Leak,
J. W. Forbis, N. O. Wood and W. M.
Coward.

Death of a Promising Young Man.

Charles Hubert Bishop, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bishop, died Monday evening at the family residence on North Elm street, aged nineteen years. He became ill with meningitis last Wednesday night and declined steadily until the end came, pneumonia developing in the meantime. The sorely bereaved parents and two sisters survive.

The deceased was a young man of promise and his death is deplored by a wide circle of friends and acquaintances.
The last two years of his life were spent
at a military academy in Virginia.
Funeral services take place this morning at 10 o'clock, conducted by Dr.
Detwiler, pastor West Market church.
The pall bearers will be Messrs. Waldi
Porter, Pittman Boyles, Will MacGill, Irving Eldridge, Meredith Turner and Walter Brandy. Interment will be made at Greene Hill cemetery.

Farmers Warehouse.

We are not much on blowing, but will state some plain facts regarding our tobacco market and the Farmers
warehouse:

1st, Our market is in a good healthy condition, with some very strong orders which have been but recently placed here, thus making our market one of the strongest in the state, thereby insuring the farmers full values for their tobacco.

2nd, The Farmers warehouse is one of the best lighted houses for the sale of tobacco that can be found anywhere,
and we being the owner of this house
it stands to reason that we will keep it in the front ranks for best prices obtainable on this market. We have had quite a number of years experience in the warehouse business and intend to give our customers the benefit of this experience. We can and we will guarantee to the growers of tobacco the full market prices on all tobacco.

3rd, There is no better auctioneer than we have at the Farmers. Mr. J.
Mac Smith who acts in this capacity, can come nearer to getting the very highest bid every time on your tobacco than any auctioneer here or anywhere.
He puts forth a greater effort than any auctioneer we have ever seen. He has the confidence and esteem of all of our buyers, and this goes a long ways in getting good prices. ONCE his friend means ALWAYS his friend. Try him with a load.

The Farmers warehouse should really have been named the "Leader," as it has always led both in pounds and prices, as most of you already know.
More money has been paid out to our patrons than in all the other houses combined. Averages have been made on our floor that for high prices have never been duplicated on this market.
This has all been done by honest hard work and fair dealings in our treatment of our customers. We sell the tobacco and not the man. Every man's tobacco sells on its merits with us. What has been done can be done again. Give us a trial and we will prove it. Tobacco is selling well with us. We bend the knee to no market, in prices.
When you load your wagon remember
your old, true friend,

J. H. WHITT,
Sole owner and proprietor.

Both Jaws Broken.

A special from Wilmington last Wednesday said: "Unless blood poison supervenes, J. F. Crutchfield, of Greensboro, traveling agent for the J.
I. Case Threshing Machine Company, will recover from the injuries received on yesterday. Crutchfield was directing the transfer of a machine from the wharf to a lighter when the accident occurred. The tongue of the machine ran against a timber causing it to break.
The jagged end of the tongue struck
the young man in the face, fracturing
the upper jaw in one place and the lower jaw in three places. Crutchfield was carried to the city hospital." The young man referred to came from Chatham county to Greensboro several years ago and was employed by M. G.
Newell & Co. for some time. He has many friends here who hope for his early recovery.

To Our Friends and Patrons.

We have just finished changing and installing some water wheels, bolting cloths, etc., and having recently purchased a new saw mill outfit, we are better prepared than ever to serve the public in either grist work or cutting of timber. Yours for satisfactory service, HINES & LITTLE,
Lessees of Reedy Fork Mills.

Greensboro Tobacco Market.

The receipts on our market have been the best for several weeks and prices remain at the high water mark. Our farmers are highly pleased with sales and are coming here with tobacco from all sections, and our buyers are very anxious for the weed at good reasonable prices.

The Planters warehouse has been completed and will have its big opening sales Thursday and Friday of this week, and Mr. R. O. Gamble, proprietor, is expecting very large sales. We are prepared to say that this house is the best lighted warehouse we know of
in this state, and we feel that farmers can get every accommodation and every advantage obtainable on any market
or in any warehouse in the new Planters warehouse. Greensboro wants more tobacco this year than she has ever had before, and our warehouse-
men and buyers have set out to get it,
and we will be glad to see all of our friends at any and all times.

Ladders and Wheels

This is a great age for machinery. In fact you can't do much of anything without its aid. We have just put in one of the latest improved cash registers—the kind that counts the cash, keeps a separate record of each clerk's sales, cash paid out, cash received on account, number of customers waited on, etc. It is really a wonderful piece of mechanism, in one respect better than the human brain, because it never makes a mistake. Having built the shelving in our shoe department up almost to the ceiling in order to hold our largely increased line of shoes we found it necessary to install two of the new rolling ladders equipped with rubber tired wheels in order to reach the higher shelves. New show cases add greatly to the appearance of the store, and taking it altogether, the store, the stock of goods, and the salesforce, we feel that you need not be ashamed to tell your friends that you trade here and advise them to do likewise.

Stokesdale Chronicle: Miss Lula McCrorie left last Thursday for Greensboro, where she has been offered a good position.

Mr. R. M. Taylor and family left last Wednesday night for their home at Jackson, Miss., after a visit to Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Lyon.

Mr. David White and bride, nee Miss Henryanna Hackney, returned last Wednesday night from their bridal trip to the Sapphire country.

Alvin Smith, a young white man who lives in one of the mill settlements north of town, is suffering from mental disorder and will be sent to a hospital for treatment.

The Gate City Guards have elected Mr. S. G. Brown first lieutenant and Mr. Perry D. Shaw second lieutenant, succeeding Messrs. J. J. Smith and E. P. Motley, resigned.

Raleigh News and Observer: Mr. W. T. Johnson, of Greensboro, the fifer in the "Only Confederate Drum Corps," after a visit to Mr. A. H. Haynes, another member, left for his home.

The Bell Telephone Company will soon put up another line from High Point to Greensboro. The business has increased greatly between these cities in the past two years, necessitating an improved service.

A marriage ceremony was performed by Squire J. R. Pearce at his home, 225 East Market street, Thursday afternoon, the contracting parties being Mr. James H. O'Connor, of Richmond, Va., and Miss Martha Case, of this city.

City Engineer Potter has made a survey of Douglas Park with a view to making a topographical map of it. This map will be forwarded to a landscape gardener for his use in preparing a plan for the development of the park.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. McClamroch left for the West Wednesday night for a pleasure trip of four weeks. They will visit relatives in Frankfort, Ind., and also will stop at Knoxville, Tenn. They will visit Chicago, Cincinnati and Cleveland before returning.

Raleigh News and Observer: So greatly pleased was Central Labor Union, of Greensboro, at the address of Mr. W. E. Faison, of this city, delivered in Greensboro on Labor Day, that by a unanimous vote he has been urged to deliver the address next year. That is a high compliment.

Mt. Airy Ledger: Mrs. P. E. Causey left last week for Greensboro, where she has accepted a position. J. M. Field, one of the popular postal clerks between this city and Wilmington, is confined at the home of his parents at Climax with typhoid fever. C. C. Culbreth, of Fayetteville, is keeping up his run.

Stokesdale Chronicle: Died, on Sunday night, September 17, 1905, Mr. William A. Pegram, in the 69th year of his age, of general debility. The deceased was a member of the Methodist Protestant church at Gideon's Grove, at which church the funeral and interment took place on Tuesday afternoon, Rev. G. S. Kernodle conducting the services. Mr. Pegram has been married three times and left a widow and eight grown children—all married.

Mr. J. A. Gorham, who for the past year has been manager of Bradstreet's Agency here, has resigned his position with that company to take effect October 1st. With Mr. John M. Hamner he will go to Columbia, S. C., and open an insurance agency in that state for the Greensboro Life, under the name of Hamner & Gorham. They will have supervision of agencies in South Carolina and have already secured five experienced and successful solicitors.

State Normal Opens.

The State Normal and Industrial College opened its fourteenth annual session Thursday morning with the usual large attendance. The opening exercises were held in the assembly hall of the main building, the devotional services being conducted by Rev. Harold Turner, pastor of Spring Garden Street M. E. church. President Charles D. McIver is enjoying a vacation of a few weeks on a trip with State Superintendent J. Y. Joyner to Europe, and in his absence Prof. J. I. Foust, dean of the college, made a brief, appropriate address, incidentally remarking that this was President McIver's first vacation in over thirteen years.

After the opening exercises the work of registration was started. The entrance examinations began that afternoon and the faculty hopes to have the students properly classified by tonight and to begin the regular class work tomorrow. The classification is rendered more difficult this year on account of the fact that this session new and advanced courses of study leading to degrees will be inaugurated. A great many improvements have been made in the buildings and equipment, giving better facilities for work, and the college opens with bright prospects for a prosperous year. All of the students gather in the assembly hall to attend the devotional exercises each morning from 8:45 to 9 o'clock.

At a special meeting of the board of aldermen last week it was decided to require two bonds of $5,000 each to be given by the Southern Construction Company, of Norfolk, Va., the firm having the contract to repave Elm street with vitrified brick. One of the bonds is to protect the city in the event of accidents on account of negligence of the contractors and the other is to guarantee that the work will fail in no wise under traffic for a period of three years. Mayor Murphy appointed Aldermen Hunter and Brand as a committee to confer with the Sloan heirs on the proposition to widen West Gaston street near the Carnegie library building.

Mr. Benjamin Haynes, who left High Point thirty-five years ago, is back for the first time, accompanied by a daughter. He is the adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Clark, with whom he and his daughter are stopping. When Mr. Haynes left High Point it was only a wide place in the road, two or three houses making up the village. He went West and finally settled in Claiborn, Tenn., at which place he is now running a newspaper.

The Postoffice department has sent out a new ruling for the rural free delivery system. All those receiving mail in boxes along the routes will, after September 30, 1905, designate each box by a number. The carrier on each route will begin, say at box number 1, 2, 3, and so on to the end of his route. The department will require it in all quarters in order to systematize the business and effect a more perfect service.

Incredible Brutality.

It would have been incredible brutality if Chas. Lemberger, of Syracuse, N. Y., had not done the best he could for his suffering son. "My boy," he says, "cut a fearful gash over his eye, so I applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve, which quickly healed it and saved his eye." Good for burns and ulcers too. Only 25c at all druggists.

Sharpe Institute Items.

[Deferred from last week.] Dr. Bayard is here this morning, squirrel hunting, he says.

Mr. Robert Burton, from near Summerfield, was in town yesterday.

Mr. G. W. Long spent Saturday and Sunday in your county visiting relatives.

Miss Carrie Wilson returns to the Normal College at Greensboro this week.

Mr. Dameron Paschal and Miss Maggie Sharp were united in marriage last Sunday.

Bob Howard, the Charlotte pitcher, will enter school here today. We are glad to have Bobby with us this year.

New students are arriving every day and we are glad to note the fact that the enrollment of boarding students is larger than ever before.

Prof. J. M. Sharp goes to Danville Thursday to attend the inter-state convention of the Tobacco Growers' Association. He also delivers a speech to the farmers at Deep Springs church Saturday.

Letter to Greensboro Electric Co. Greensboro, N. C.

Dear Sir: Have you found-out you can paint a job with fewer gallons Devco than anything else, lead-and-oil or anything else?

Mr. Floyd Almy, House and Sign Painter, Greenwich, N. Y., found it out three years ago; he writes: "I have used Devco lead-and-zinc for the past three years, and cannot say too much in its favor. I am using it now on a big job that I took by contract and it has saved me at least $25 in the cost of material."

Devco is the strongest paint we know of; goes furthest; takes less of it to do your job.

Lead-and-oil is pure; lead-and-zinc is stronger covers more; goes further.

Have you found-out you can paint a gallon of Devco in less time than a gallon of anything else? That means less time for the job. Less time; less money.

Less paint; less money for that; less time; less money for that. Devco lasts longer; do you mind the less money for that? You are sure of it.

Yours truly,

F. W. DEVOE & CO.

Squire T. L. Moore united in marriage Mr. John Black and Miss Alice Gribble Monday afternoon. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a large crowd of spectators who had got on to the fact that there was going to be "something doing" around about the mayor's office. Before tying the knot Squire Moore jocularly remarked to the would-be groom that his time was valuable and his services ought to be worth at least a dollar, as he had to leave his business and come up town to perform the ceremony. The groom-to-be took the matter seriously, and his reply, made in the presence of the blushing young lady at his side, was an unexpected and astounding. "Before I'll give you a darned cent I'll get out of here," he remarked in a loud voice. "Stand up and join hands," yelled Mr. Moore, and he proceeded to tie the knot with an expediency that would have made Squire Baileys, of South Carolina, die of shame and mortification had he been present. And Mr. and Mrs. John Black marched out of the office without a word of thanks or the tender of a "durned cent" to Squire Moore for his valuable services.

A Chimney to the Clouds.

It is stated that New York is soon to have an odd amusement enterprise in the shape of a tower taller than any structure in the world and equipped with a large variety of combined entertainments and utilities. The tower will be 1,250 feet high, and it is reported that New York capitalists have ensured its construction by furnishing the necessary capital. It will be called "The Weber Tower," after its designer, Carl Weber, one of the best known experts in the matter of tall steel-concrete construction. In design the tower will be novel. Its main part is to be cylindrical, in the form of a shaft of 35 feet inside diameter, the lower 300 feet reinforced by a system of ribs, while the largest outside diameter will be 140 feet. Eight elevators will be used to transport passengers in this structure. There are various other interesting facts as to the plan for providing offices and amusements. The designer, Carl Weber, is the president of the Weber Steel Concrete Chimney Company, of Chicago, which has built some of the tallest chimneys and other important structures in this country.

LOCAL NEWS.

Mr. John A. Young made a business trip to Mt. Airy last week.

The special act authorizing an issue of bonds for the maintenance of a white graded school at Kernersville has been declared unconstitutional.

Special Revenue Officer Vincent is out again. He was laid up for some time because of a surgical operation for the removal of a growth on his face.

Raleigh Post: Mr. and Mrs. Marcus W. Crocker have moved to Greensboro to make their home. Mr. Crocker will travel for the Justice Drug Company and make his headquarters in Greensboro.

STRAYED—Two young brindle cows. Last heard from near Deep River church. Suitable reward for information concerning them.

THOMAS PATTERSON, Jamestown, N. C.

Danville Bee: Mr. J. N. Wyllie, a prominent tobaccoist of this city and a member of the firm of J. N. Wyllie & Co., tobacco manufacturers, was suddenly taken ill at his office yesterday afternoon and had to be carried to his home.

Kernersville News: Miss Louise Lowery, who lived near Oak Ridge, died last Thursday morning. She was about fifty years old and some time ago had a stroke of paralysis, from which she never recovered. She was buried at Love's church, near Walkertown, Friday.

Other speakers for the Guilford County Sunday school Convention at Alamance church September 30, besides those published last week, are Prof. W. T. Whitsett, Rev. G. H. L. Lingle and Mr. J. R. Mendenhall. Gospel hymns Nos. 1-6 will be used at the convention. Bring your books.

The closing exercises of the Tabernacle singing class will be held at the church on the first Sunday in October. The class will be there from Center, and we hope to have a pleasant time. The singing will begin at 2 o'clock. There will also be services in the morning. We give an invitation to all our friends to come and be with us.

Webster's Weekly: The following is a list of students from this county who will enter the State Normal and Industrial College today: Misses Ethel Bennett, Stokesdale; Bella Simpson, Summerfield; Carrie Price, Emma McKinney, Lemma Gibbs, Elizabeth Hayes, Marion Stokes and Watt Daniel, Reidsville.

Mr. J. R. Carson has bought Mr. A. C. Isley's interest in the grocery business, corner of Davie and Washington streets, which has been conducted for some time under the firm name of Carson & Isley. Several months ago, on account of poor health, Mr. Isley retired from the firm, but not until the past week did he dispose of his stock to Mr. Carson.

There is nothing, perhaps, that will attract and interest the average man so much as a fine, high-acting horse, and there is a peculiar pride about the Guilford county farmer, especially, that makes him admire a good horse, and the importation of a car load of pedigreed stallions to the Central Carolina Fair, October 10-13, insures a sight never to be forgotten.

Graham Tribune: R. C. Dickey, of this county, will be with R. O. Gamble at the elegant new Planters Warehouse at Greensboro this season. He is a hard worker and a high-toned gentleman, and Mr. Gamble may consider himself fortunate in securing his services. The Planters will be open September 29th and every effort will be made to win and hold the confidence and support of the people.

Mr. George L. Donnell, formerly of this city, but now a resident of Spartanburg, S. C., was here Thursday on his way to Rocky Mount. He has been offered the position of yardmaster for the A. C. L. at Rocky Mount in the place of Mr. R. L. Avery, a former Greensboro citizen, who is promoted to trainmaster. Mr. O. N. Page is the new superintendent of that division, having been appointed to succeed Mr. J. C. Murchison, resigned.

Alamance is well represented at the State Normal and Industrial College this year. The Graham Tribune gives the names of the following young ladies who are in attendance: Misses Claudia Long, Agnes Albright, Maggie Cooper, Ione Scott, Margaret Goley, June Kernodle, Gilmer Mitchell and Cora Patterson, of Graham; Misses Bertha Fowler, Lola Lasley, Myrtle Coble, May Coble, Carrie Hornaday, of Burlington; Lola White, Albright; Vaughn White, Mebane; Myrtle Morrow, Oaks; Lois Reitzel, Hartshorn; and May Gibbs, Haw River.

Strikes Hidden Rocks.

When your ship of health strikes the hidden rocks of Consumption, Pneumonia, etc., you are lost, if you don't get help from Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. J. W. McKinney, of Talladega, Ala., writes: "I had been very ill with Pneumonia, under the care of two doctors, but was getting no better when I began to take Dr. King's New Discovery. The first dose gave relief, and one bottle cured me." Sure cure for sore throat, bronchitis, coughs and colds. Guaranteed at all druggists, price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Henry Willis Dead.

A letter to Rev. A. G. Kirkman Friday morning from an official of Lee Camp Soldiers' Home, at Richmond, Va., brought the information that Mr. Henry Willis died at the home Wednesday night last and was buried Friday.

Mr. Willis was an old Confederate soldier and after the war returned to Greensboro minus a leg and went to work. For many years he ran a confectionary store on North Elm, opposite the county court house. He was universally esteemed and moved in the best society, but reverses came and he found himself stranded. For some time he was cared for by friends, but at last a home was found for him in Richmond and he went there perhaps twenty years ago, where he was tenderly cared for.

His sister, Mrs. Denny, lived here for some years and he has a brother, Rev. R. A. Willis, still living in the eastern part of the state, who is a member of the North Carolina Conference of the M. E. Church, South.

Mr. Willis will be remembered with a feeling of kindness by all of the older residents of Greensboro, for in his day every man, woman and child knew him. He was at one time deputy clerk of the court here. His age was about sixty years.

Train Service for the Fair.

The Southern Railway appreciates the magnitude of the Central Carolina Fair, and for the accommodation of the thousands who will attend this big exhibition an excursion train will be run from Mt. Airy to Greensboro on Wednesday, October 11th, leaving Mt. Airy at 8 A. M.; returning leave Greensboro at 6 P. M. A train will also be run from Sanford to Greensboro on Thursday, October 12, leaving Sanford at 7 A. M.; returning leave Greensboro at 6 P. M., thus giving a day at the fair at greatly reduced rates.

The regular trains for Mt. Airy and Ramseur will be held at Greensboro each day during the fair, October 10, 11 and 12, which will give plenty of time to those living along these lines to see the exhibits, great races, free attractions, etc., every day before returning home.

A Farmers' Fair.

The Central Carolina Fair is the farmers' fair, and the management insists that every farmer in this section read the new premium list carefully and get up exhibits and compete for the liberal cash prizes offered. One farmer in this county last year received about ninety dollars in premiums. Why? Because he brought a little of everything that would command a premium, and all of it came from his farm. Is it worth while to clean a bushel of wheat, or three dollars to assort a bushel of Irish potatoes, or four dollars to select two bushels of corn? Bring in a load with the determination that you will exhibit the best, and you will be pleased when the association pays you cash for the many items on which you won the first or second prize.

Sergeant Pearce Resigns.

Sergeant R. E. Pearce has resigned his position on the police force and will take employment with the Greensboro Wood Fibre Company. Sergeant Pearce has served on the police force at two different times. His last service was for little less than a year. The first time he was on the force he served for about seven years. He is regarded as one of the bravest and ablest officers ever on the Greensboro force. He is an experienced plastering contractor and he will be sent throughout the state to introduce the new wood fibre plaster manufactured by his firm. His knowledge of plastering will stand him well in this capacity as he can demonstrate the advantages of the product he handles. His resignation takes effect October 1.

Stuart Meeting Closes at High Point.

High Point Ledger. One of the greatest revivals for good ever held in High Point closed Tuesday night, Mr. Stuart leaving on the south-bound train for his home in Cleveland, Tenn., for a few days' rest before beginning his meeting at Durham Sunday.

Services began early in the evening, the evangelist preaching a powerful sermon on Upright Living to one of the largest audiences ever assembled in High Point.

When the call for sinners was made more than one hundred came forward. Mr. Stuart then shook the hand of Rev. W. M. Bagby for all and took his departure.

Services were continued in the different churches in the city during this week and much interest is being manifested in them, and the great work begun by Mr. Stuart is still continued.

Glenn vs. Overman.

Charlotte Observer. "You may say in The Observer that Governor Robert B. Glenn will try Senator Lee S. Overman a whet for a seat in Congress four years from now," said a weatherwise politician prognosticator to an Observer man yesterday. "There is no doubt in my mind as to what the governor is going to do about running."

This would add to the gayety of nations, and anything that does that would be welcomed in North Carolina. The average Tar Heel does not like a dull time.

SEEKS BALM FOR ONO'S INJURIES.

Representative of the Japanese Wrestler Characterizes Olsen's Tactics as Brutal and Fendish.

Washington, Sept. 22.—Asheville is the scene of an international incident resulting from the recent wrestling bout in the Buncomeb metropolis, in which Prof. A. Ono, a son of Nippon and expert in jiu-jitsu, was badly battered, receiving permanent injury at the hands of Prof. Olsen, of Chicago. Prof. Ono's representative, Mr. Hirano, arrived here today and tomorrow he has an engagement with Mr. Takahira, the Japanese minister, with whom he will take up the matter of Prof. Ono's injuries, which, he will ask, be taken to the State Department for action.

Mr. Hirano, a youthful Jap, who turns a few dollars managing jiu-jitsu contests while not pursuing his studies at Yale, where he is a student, alleges that Prof. Ono was not afforded adequate police protection in the Asheville contest, although the most brutal and fendish tactics known to sports were practiced, and that as a result the artist from the Orient suffered injuries of a permanent character, which entitle him to indemnity of some sort. Mr. Hirano saw Mr. Takahira, the Japanese naval attaché, today and arranged for the interview with the Japanese minister tomorrow. He does not intend to ask for an indemnity from the American government, but intimates that suit will be brought against the managers who gave the wrestling match and Prof. Olsen, perhaps Prof. Schoenfeld, the referee, whom he claims failed to discharge his duty in that he did not prevent the brutal and foul tactics practiced by Prof. Olsen. Funds, he says, are being collected in Asheville to assist Prof. Ono in his efforts to secure redress.

"The match was the most brutal imaginable," said Prof. Ono tonight, "and should have been stopped by the authorities. While the article of agreement eliminated the struggle hold and all dangerous tactics, the referee permitted them. The contest was more brutal than any prize fight. Among Prof. Ono's injuries are three dislocated fingers, one swollen head, a blinded eye and a dislocated jaw." Hirano says Olsen isn't the right name of the man who hammered Ono so disgracefully. His correct title, he claims, is James Kelley, or Muldoon, of Peoria, Ill. Besides those two names, Hirano says he has at least thirteen others. He enumerated a few of them when seen tonight and gave his profession as that of a professional slugger. Hirano says he isn't foolish enough to think that he can get his government to go after an indemnity for Prof. Ono, but he claims the police protection at Asheville that night was bad, and he wants the attention of Governor Glenn called to that fact so that in future matches of this kind will be carried on with full regard to the rules of the game. Hirano thinks that if the State Department would take this sort of action that things would be conducted according to Hoyle and the Japanese root of jiu-jitsu the next time Ono performs. If, indeed, he is ever able to go on the mat again.

Hirano says that Ono cannot speak English, having been in this country only five months, and that when he tried to get to the side of his artist to protest against Olsen's brutality he was slugged by a number of Madison county sports who occupied the stage seats and who had their money on the American artist. They were friends of Tom Frisbee, the mountain giant whom Ono previously defeated, so Hirano claims. "Asheville is the finest place in the South," said Hirano, "and the people are even finer. They are with Prof. Ono and there is no complaint against them. They paid $2,000 to see the contest, some seats selling for $3 per. Ono received $300 and Olsen $500."

William Meroney a Suicide.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 22.—William B. Meroney, thirty-seven years of age and a sporting man, committed suicide early this morning on the beach in front of the pavilion between the Princess Anne and Arlington hotels at Virginia Beach. His body was found by a coast life-saver on patrol duty.

There was evidence to show that Meroney walked into the ocean surf up to the knees and shot himself through the left ear while standing in the water, it being presumed that he thought his body would be carried out to sea with the receding tide. The tide, however, left his body on the beach. When found the pistol was clutched in his left hand.

Meroney and several others had a big poker game at the Raleigh Club at Virginia Beach last night. At 1 A. M. Meroney, who had been drinking heavily, left the club apparently in a good humor.

Meroney came to Norfolk fifteen years ago from Winston, N. C. He was married and had one child. He was a member of the order of Eagles.

Held at Pistol's Point.

Augusta, Ga., Sept. 23.—A special to The Chronicle from Spartanburg, S. C., says: Engineer Baine, on a Southern Railway freight train, was compelled to run his train to Melrose, N. C., last night, by two men who entered the cab at Spartanburg Junction. Conductor Bryson when the train failed to make the usual stops entered the cab and was confronted by pistols and was forced to return to the caboose. He wrote a message which he dropped at Campobello, instructing the operator to wire officers at Melrose. A posse was organized and when the train topped one of the outlaws was arrested and the other escaped. The prisoner, it is said, is one of the men who participated in the assault on Engineer Clarke and Fireman Hart as they stepped from the engine at the station, one mile south of here last night. Both men were struck on the head and Hart's condition is precarious.

Court House Burned and Six Murder Indictments Lost.

New Madrid, Mo., Sept. 21.—The court house here was burned at an early hour this morning. The fire is thought to have been incendiary. Many tax and drainage records were destroyed, but the other records were saved. Six murder trials are pending, but all indictments returned to this term were burned, which may make continuances necessary.

If you tell a woman that a 50-cent article is worth $1.50 she will cheerfully give up 50 cents for it.

Reynolds Company Not Connected With Tobacco Trust.

Roanoke, Va., Sept. 23.—A special from Martinsville to the Times says: President Rucker, of the Rucker & Witten Tobacco Company, today made a signed statement with reference to the recent sale by that company to the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, in which he wishes to correct the statement that the sale was made to a branch of the American Tobacco Company. He declares his company has bargained to sell to the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, of Winston, N. C., which is a distinct firm within itself, and not a branch of the American Tobacco Company or any other business.

MR. RUCKER'S STATEMENT DISPUTED.

The thinnest and most transparent "ad" that newspapers of late have been called upon to publish is the grave announcement by Fannill Rucker in several of the state papers to the effect that the R. J. R. Company is not in or controlled by the trust. The mere fact that this statement is made by a man who has fought this concern for the last two years, using every means possible to injure this so-called trust, "R. J. R. Tobacco Company," and calling it a merciless trust till he got in shows the weight which should and probably will be given to it by the general public. But for fear that some may be ignorant of the facts and so give credit to this statement, the writer wishes to say that the "R. J. R. Tobacco Company" has long ago virtually acknowledged to the fact that they are in the trust, and have even been known to brag that they are "a good many" in the trust.

Perhaps, however, Mr. Rucker may ease his conscience by drawing a fine spun distinction between a trust and a "community of interest," made famous by the courts and the railroads in recent days. But unfortunately for Mr. Rucker, the people nor the courts have been able to see any very clear distinction between the two.

But, be that as it may, Mr. Rucker was no doubt told to make his little speech and has made it, and he may now retire to the shelf where the other phonograph records are kept until that little speech is again needed.

M. D. BAILEY,
Editor "Jabs."

Winston-Salem, Sept. 24th, 1905.
Mr. and Mrs. Clodfelter, of Lexington, on Ill-Fated Juanita.

Lexington, Sept. 23.—Mr. and Mrs. Dupre Clodfelter, who returned today from their wedding trip, report that they had a narrow escape from a terrible death on their way back. They were aboard the Juanita, the passenger boat which had a collision with the Howard Palmer, a schooner, at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday night. Mr. and Mrs. Clodfelter took passage at Boston for Norfolk, and when about three hours out from Boston in the midst of a dense fog, the terrific crash came. One of the Juanita's masts, wrecked by the force of the collision, fell across the state room occupied by the Lexington couple, smashing into the room and splintering the timbers. The inmates were not injured, strange to say, but received a severe fright. No one was killed by the collision. Six were injured, one seriously. When the accident happened, all the passengers crowded the decks, weeping and shouting. Both the disabled ships remained still all night. Next morning revealed that the passenger boat, though it had a five-foot breach above the water line, was seaworthy, and Captain Nickerson, the commander, took the vessel back to Boston. Here Mr. and Mrs. Clodfelter, rather than trust themselves again at sea, purchased tickets and returned home by rail. The accident occurred more than 50 miles from land, and the darkness and the sea fog made the escape of the passengers a thing of wonder.

Grafters in Wake of Circus Fleece Two Men for Considerable Amounts.

Louisburg, Sept. 23.—Van Amburg's circus showed here yesterday to an immense crowd and its advent and stay here were made memorable to many, owing to the swindlers that follow it. A. W. Wilson, a prominent and prosperous farmer of this county, was swindled out of $500 by sharpers yesterday. One of them stayed at his residence Thursday night and represented himself as a buyer of timber lands and yesterday both drove into the show. A man was introduced to Wilson as Judge Brown, of Raleigh, and soon it was found that he was selling county rights for an electric belt. Wilson's guest put up $1,100 and Wilson $500.

As soon as money passed, the sharper withdrew to write up the contract and immediately skipped. Wilson was probably hypnotized, as he does not remember handling the money. Warrants were issued for supposed parties and sent to Henderson for service, but nothing has so far been heard from them. It is common rumor on the streets that D. Y. Cooper, a prominent capitalist of Henderson, was swindled out of $1,100 today presumably by the same sharpers, but this cannot be verified.

Alleged Poker Den Raided.

Burlington, Sept. 22.—Last night at 12 o'clock the police succeeded in breaking up an alleged "poker joint" in the heart of the city. For more than a month they have been watching the place, and have made one successful raid, but circumstances made easy sailing for them last night. The place had been run, it is alleged, by Mr. T. A. Lamm under the name of the Triple City Pressing Club, and has been frequented during the day by negroes and a lower white element, while the "better class" spent many evening hours there. Last night Mr. J. J. Self made complaint to the police, stating that his son had been locked up in the room with Lamm since Wednesday at noon, and asked that they assist him in getting the boy. The police refused to break the door without a warrant, whereupon Self applied for a warrant, stating that Lamm had won $72 of his money from the boy. The warrant was served and compromise reached between J. J. Self and Lamm, and young Self gave bond to answer to the charge of gambling.

NORWAY AND SWEDEN AGREE.

Terms of Separation Have Been Amicably Settled at All Points.

Karlstad, Sept. 23.—After protracted sessions extending over some weeks, the Norwegian and Swedish delegates who met here to settle the terms of separation of the two countries early this evening arrived at an agreement on all points. The terms were not made public.

In anticipation of an agreement, large crowds assembled around the building in which the meetings had been held to witness the departure of the delegates. The Norwegians emerged immediately upon the conclusion of the session and were on their way to Christiania a few minutes after the announcement was made of the outcome of the negotiations. The Swedish delegates remained in for some time, but when they did show themselves they received an ovation and were escorted to their hotel by the crowd, which sang the Swedish national anthem. They left at midnight for Stockholm.

The delegates refused to discuss the terms of the agreement, simply saying that they would be given out early next week.

President Harper Suffers Relapse.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—President William R. Harper, of the University of Chicago has suffered a sudden and serious relapse. Members of the family are hastening back to Chicago, his brother and son having arrived today. Samuel Harper, an elder son, is expected to reach New York from Europe October 1st. The gravest fear is felt at the University over his condition. While most of the family and physicians report that he is resting comfortably, none of them doubts Mr. Harper is failing fast. The operation that was performed last Sunday by Doctors Murphy and Beavan has afforded relief, but it is not believed that even this operation can secure anything like permanent help.

WILL BE NO COMPROMISES.
Men to be Punished, Says District Attorney Holton.

Washington, Sept. 20.—District Attorney Holton, who had expected to return to Greensboro this morning, remained in the city and during the day had further conferences with Assistant District Attorney Robb and Commissioner of Internal Revenue Yerkes. Tonight he left for Greensboro, and before leaving his departure said: "My visit here was an official one and, as you know, related to the trial of certain cases that will come up in the Federal court at Greensboro two weeks hence. I am satisfied with my visit here, and expect to be busy with the preparation of cases until court convenes. There is nothing more that I can say now."

NO COMPROMISE.
The report that some of those recently indicted at Greensboro are endeavoring to compromise and settle the cases against them out of court was called to Mr. Holton's attention.

"I can say," replied Mr. Holton, "that there will be no compromises. I will only after the guilty, and will only prosecute those whom I am sure have violated Federal statutes. Mr. Holton is unquestionably very well pleased as the result of his visit here. He found out, among other things, that the Department of Justice is only behind him, but that the minds there from Attorney General McKim down are deeply interested in the prosecution and that it will give the assistance he may require. The results of the friction between Mr. Yerkes and Commissioner Yerkes are being dealt with here. While there may be some in the Department of Internal Revenue who are at heart against investigation, there is good reason to believe that Mr. Yerkes is giving Mr. Holton the support that he should. The district attorney and Mr. Yerkes have had two long heart-to-heart talks, and surface indications justify the conclusion that they are far from being at loggerheads."

COUNTIES MAY BE PROBED.
When asked if the agents of the Department of Justice now at his disposal would continue their investigations, Mr. Holton diplomatically replied that they would be kept at work as long as their services might be necessary. As they have only investigated Wilkes, it is pretty well settled that they will be sent to Surry and other counties, where it is charged that graft is being practiced.

WARRANT ESCAPE FROM INJURY.
District Attorney Holton narrowly escaped serious injury today in an automobile accident which felled Deputy Attorney Williams, whose condition is quite serious. Mr. Holton saved himself by quick thinking and received a slight bruise. The district attorney and Col. Williams were passing Fourteenth street at Pennsylvania avenue when a big touring car came upon them. They just had time to get out of the way when the automobile, which had swerved from its course, caught them. By moving his body forward Mr. Holton escaped out of the line of danger, though the wheels of the machine ran over his ankle. Col. Williams was knocked down and caught under the wheels of the machine. He was badly hurt. As soon as possible he was carried to his apartment and his condition is such that none of his friends are allowed to see him.

Counsel Retained.
Asheville, Sept. 20.—It is learned here today on what is believed to be good authority that C. Y. Watson, of Winston-Salem, ex-Governor Charles H. Aycock and Judge Hynum have been retained by the recently indicted revenue officers to defend them at the trial during the Greensboro term of the United States court next month. The indicted revenue officers intend to put up a strong fight and the splendid array of counsel retained indicates that convictions, if any are secured, will be accomplished only after a great legal battle.

A Unique Town.
The town of Spray, in Rockingham county, with a population of about 2,000, has the unique distinction of having never been incorporated. The town has nine large cotton and woolen mills, and two more are under way of construction. It has neither a mayor or board of commissioners. The manufacturers pay a deputy sheriff to look after the wrong-doers and tell their troubles to a magistrate instead of a mayor, a trial justice or a recorder. Tom B. Frank Melane, the well known manufacturer of cotton and woolen goods, is the most prominent citizen. He gets his mail at the Spray postoffice. He is interested in most of the manufacturing plants in that section of the state's foremost business town. The town of Leaksville lies to the west of Spray, only a street dividing the two towns. Leaksville is an incorporated town, with a population of 1,000, and is the older of the two places. The people of Spray pay no town taxes, yet they miss lots of fun which other cities have every two years when the time comes around for municipal election.

Wood for Pavements.
The forest service of the Department of Agriculture has announced that it has taken up the study of woods for special uses, and experiments will be conducted particularly to secure a wood for street pavement which will prove lasting. The circular states that in recent years engineers have become convinced that with the right selection of treatment of material, and with the right method of laying, wood pavements can be made successful. Consequently a revival in wood paving has begun, and many of the largest cities are again trying it. Wood pavement is now made almost exclusively of one or two of the best construction woods, and if it should become popular the drain upon these woods would be seriously increased. The forest service will direct its experiments to determine if there are not among the various cheaper and more abundant species some which by proper treatment may be substituted for the more valuable kinds now in use. A DECADE OF WARS.
What They Cost in Men and Money and What They Gained.

New York Mail.
The agreement at Portsmouth closes a decade of almost continual warfare. In the last ten years there have been five great conflicts. The empires of China, Great Britain, Japan, Russia and Turkey, the kingdom of Spain and the American republic have all tried the arbitration of the sword. Out of the total population of 1,400,000,000 war has been the portion of perhaps 1,130,000,000. Nearly 3,000,000 men have seen service in the field. About $5,500,000,000 has been sacrificed in indemnities and war expenses.

Japan opens as well as closes this sanguinary decade. In its war with China, which was concluded by the treaty of Shimonoseki, April 17, 1895, it put 60,979 men in the field, and lost 4,110 of them; spent about $75,000,000, and collected $140,000,000 indemnity. China had over 100,000 men in the field, and lost about 20,000 in killed and wounded.

War was declared between Greece and Turkey April 1, 1897, and concluded in thirty-one days. Turkey put 200,000 men in the field and Greece 100,000. Greece paid an indemnity of $18,000,000.

The United States declared war against Spain April 21, 1898, and signed the protocol August 13, 1898. It had 200,000 men under arms, of whom 2,910 lost their lives, all but 306 of diseases. It spent $165,000,000. The Spanish forces at Santiago numbered 23,500, in Porto Rico 17,000, and at Manila 11,000. Spain's war losses, direct and indirect, amounted to $600,000,000. Its losses in killed and wounded were about 3,000 men. It had already lost $374,000,000 and 100,000 men in attempting to repress the last Cuban rebellion.

Great Britain and the Boer republics went to war October 11, 1899, and concluded peace May 31, 1902. The Boers put 75,000 men in the field, of whom 4,400 died of wounds and diseases, and 32,000 were captured. Great Britain put 448,000 men in the field, of whom 4,400 died of wounds and diseases. The war cost it about $1,030,000,000.

Russia and Japan went to war February 8, 1904, and concluded hostilities August 29, 1905. Russia sent 840,000 men to the front, of whom it is estimated 192,000 have been killed or wounded. Japan sent 700,000 men to the front, of whom 151,000 have been killed and wounded. The expenditure of neither power is definitely known, but their joint war bills will be about $2,000,000,000.

As a set-off to all this waste of energy and human life and wealth, the United States has island possessions—"empire," as some of its people call them. Great Britain has assured itself an empire in South Africa. Turkey has shown the small Balkan powers that it would be fatal to provoke its anger. Japan has settled it that farther Asia shall expand under its leadership rather than that of China or Russia. It is worthy of note that the only important group of civilized states in the world that has been at peace in the last decade is that over whose destinies the so-called "war lord" presides. The triple alliance has not drawn the sword. It had enough of that in the generation preceding our own, when Prussia conducted three wars, Australia three and Italy three.

PIE MADE IN MACHINES.
Inventions That Outdo the Old-Time Methods of Baking.

Pittsburgh Press.
Twenty-four thousand pies in ten hours, or forty every minute, is the astounding claim made by a Pittsburgh baker, who has just invented a machine for the production of that staple delicacy of the American table. And what seems more remarkable is the claim that the feat can be accomplished without the use of ovens and pans. Every one knows that wonderful deeds can be done with the aid of machinery, yet this story seems more like a fairy tale than a positive recital of facts.

There are two machines used by E. L. Sons, the inventor, in his process. In the first the crust is formed and baked, and in the second the filling is put in and covered by a tempting layer of meringue. The first machine is the more interesting of the two. Instead of pie pans, molds like waste irons are used to form the crust. They are firmly attached to an endless chain stretched out horizontally the length of the machine. In the lower part of their course they pass between two sets of burners, which take the place of the oven.

As the molds pass upward they are opened automatically by a small lever at one end of the machine to permit the pie dough to enter, after which they are closed automatically by another lever to allow the dough to bake and form the crust. This operation is but the work of a second almost, as the irons are heated to the proper temperature before the dough is permitted to enter the molds.

The dough itself is contained in a large tank above the machine. A feed pipe runs down, and by means of a piston, which is connected with the machinery which operates the whole affair, enough dough is forced down the pipe with each stroke of the piston to fill one of the molds as it passes under the pipe. By the time another mold passes under the pipe another stroke of the piston forces down sufficient dough to fill that mold, and so on.

Just as soon as the crust is baked an attendant stands at one end of the machine ready to remove it from the molds. This attendant arranges the baked crusts on a large pan, within easy reaching distance of another attendant, who feeds them to the second machine.

The second machine is somewhat similar to the first, as it also has an endless chain or platform to keep the crusts in constant motion. It has two large reservoirs at the nearest end, one of which contains the filling and the other the meringue. By a ratchet arrangement enough of the filling and meringue is released from the tanks as the pies pass under each successively. When filled they proceed onward under an overhead baker, which gives the top of the meringue a rich, brown tint. The pie is completed then, and as it passes out from under the baker it is received by another attendant and set aside, ready for sale.

GREEN GOODS MEN TRAPPED.
A "Come-on" Letter to Postmaster Jarrett at Dillsboro Results in the Undoing of Two Rogues.

New York, Sept. 20.—"We caught a wise man instead of a sucker," was the way two sorry-looking "green goods" men explained it when locked up at police headquarters today. They were John H. Wilson and William Parker. The police say their faces are in the rogues' gallery.

The two men addressed a "come-on" letter to R. H. Jarrett, of Dillsboro, N. C., not knowing that he was a postmaster. Jarrett sent the letter to the postoffice authorities, and Postoffice Inspector Boyle, of this city, Detective Sergeant McConville and Detective Farrell were put on the case.

The latter rigged up as a Southerner and drilled in a Southern drawl, took outside the city a train on which the "come-on" had been told to arrive. The detective was told to go to the Putnam House, where a man would call on him. A few minutes after he had engaged a room a man called and said his name was Edward Hill. He was, in fact, Parker. Parker took Farrell to a house in Herkimer street, Brooklyn, where he introduced Farrell to Wilson and the "green goods" were produced. Farrell says he was offered $5,000 worth for $1,250, and then drew his revolver and told the men they were under arrest.

Notorious Blockader Captured.
Burlington, Sept. 20.—Deputy Marshal J. C. Squires, of Burlington, and Deputy Collector T. M. Green, Greensboro, arrived in the city last night with a quantity of whiskey and the report of the capture near Mebane of a notorious blockader, Luther Andrews, commonly known as the "canning blockader." Andrews was placed in jail at Graham. Two 5-gallon vessels, filled with whiskey, were captured at the home of Will Mann, near Graham.

A Wart or Pimple MAY BE CANCEROUS.

When a wart, mole or pimple shows any sign of tenderness it is a warning that bad blood is behind it. Often these places are on the face, hands, legs or other part of the body for years, and give no sign to cause uneasiness, and then with a little rough handling, a slight cut or bruise will develop into a sore that refuses to heal, and the sufferer finds himself afflicted with a cancerous ulcer.

About three years ago a blister came on the right side of my nose. It grew steadily in spite of all efforts to heal it up; the pain was not very severe at first, but increased when the sore began to inflame and discharge matter. At times the place would scab over and appear to be getting well, but the scab would drop off, leaving a red, angry looking ulcer. I had almost despaired of ever curing it when my attention was called to S. S. S., and after taking a few bottles the sore began to gradually grow smaller, the discharge stopped and I was cured. Owensboro, Ky. JNO. MASSIE.

If the blood is pure and healthy these sores cannot exist. S. S. S. is the ideal blood purifier. It cleanses the blood of all poisons and impurities, making it strong and vigorous and able to supply the body with the strength and nourishment it needs. There is nothing that acts so promptly as S. S. S., tuning up the entire system, helping the purifying organs permanently. Do not let a wart or pimple develop into a cancerous ulcer, but purify your blood with S. S. S. It is nature's remedy, purely vegetable, and while driving all poisons from the blood, will build up every part of the system. Book on the blood and any medical advice desired will be given without charge, to all who write.

FOUND A POT OF GOLD.

Tale of Buried Treasure Uncarried in South Carolina Reads Life a Tale From the Arabian Nights.

Charlotte Evening Chronicle.

The Chronicle has recently come into possession, from one of the most successful and best-known detectives in the South, of the story of the finding of a buried treasure, the details of which read like a tale from the Arabian Nights. The story is vouched for by responsible men.

Tyler Teal, a white laborer, and Will Edwards, a negro, were digging a ditch on the plantation of James and Charles Rivers, four miles from Chesterfield, S. C., on the 11th day of April, of this year, when the negro's pick struck against a hard substance. The curiosity of the two was aroused and they unearthed the object, which proved to be nothing less than an iron pot, covered and sealed and immensely heavy.

It was late in the afternoon then and, without opening the pot, the men carried it a mile distant and hid it for the night in the lap of a decaying tree. The hiding place was so isolated that it could not have been safer in a bank.

The next night Teal and Edwards went after it and, waiting till after midnight when all was dark and quiet, they carried it to Teal's home. He had prevailed upon his wife to spend the night away. There, after locking the doors and covering the windows, they unsealed the lid and opened the pot. Their eyes were dazzled by the lustre of a pile of gold coins.

They counted $9,900 in $5, $10 and $20 pieces and the newest coin was dated 115 years back.

The pot was re-sealed, carried about twenty miles from the house and buried on the banks of a creek. The men went home after agreeing to visit the spot daily until they could plan some way to get the money to better use.

It rained all the next day, but they went back the next night and the pot was gone. The person or persons who had stolen it had rested the heavy pot occasionally on the ground, and by these indentations they followed it for nearly two miles, when all trace of it was lost.

They wandered around hunting for some clue the whole night. Then they returned to Teal's house and he advised the negro to give it up—that the money was gone for good and there was no use worrying about it. But Edwards was insistent, and Teal went with him to Chesterfield a day or two later and employed Mr. J. D. Evans, a detective, who is well known in Chesterfield county, where he was formerly clerk of the court.

The two men told Detective Evans of the circumstances of the finding and all the details up until trace of the pot was lost two miles from where it was buried.

Mr. Evans set to work on the case and he had gathered up much evidence and had worked out a supposition to account for the loss, when, two weeks or more later, to the surprise of the negro Edwards and the detective, Teal, the white man, called the two together and told them that the entire story of the finding of the pot and everything connected with it was a fabrication—a lie that he and the negro had invented.

The statement took the breath out of the detective and dumbfounded the negro. They expostulated with Teal, but he insisted that he had been lying about it all the time. His actions were strange.

After he had gone Edwards assured Mr. Evans that the facts were as he and Teal had first related them, and he made the detective an offer of a third of his part if he would recover the money. Mr. Evans has been working on the case and he gathered evidence that is likely to put the hands of the law on Teal and two other men.

Teal, it is alleged, went back early the night following the one on which the pot was buried, dug it up and carried it off to a hiding place of his own. Then, to avert the suspicions of the negro, who refused to be comforted, he went with him to the detective. Afterwards, it is thought, he found he had a white elephant on his hands and looked about for some way in which to derive benefit from the contents of the pot, whereupon he confided in two other men, who advised him, after he had told the circumstances, to go back and tell the detective and Edwards that the whole affair was a fairy tale.

There the matter rests now. The whereabouts of the pot is still unknown; the detective is still after it; Edwards swears that the pot was found and afterwards stolen from him, and Teal says the affair is a big joke.

The story is given for what it is worth. A Charlotte man vouches for the facts so far as they concern the people interested and the localities.

The Chronicle's informant, who, as has been stated, is widely known, and has the solving of many intricate cases to his credit, has assisted Detective Evans sufficiently to get the full facts in the case, and he believes the finding of the pot and the $9,900 to be a fact.

A sixteen-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beck, of Goldsboro, recently got hold of matches, sucked the heads off and swallowed them and died from the poison.

WESLEY SMITH TALKS.

Tells the Court How He Came to Make Visits to Winston.

There was an amusing incident in court last Wednesday when Wesley Smith was giving testimony in a case against him charging him with retailing. The evidence to be understood had best be interpreted to the effect that Wesley meant to say that the prosecuting witness was telling the truth when he testified that knowing Wesley was going to Winston, he gave him fifty cents to bring him a quart of liquor, and Wesley brought it.

Wesley is an old time "fool nigger" who is "daft" when he desires to be, but able to converse with remarkable sense and luminosity if there's any business doing. He is the delight of the children and the cooks, whom he often entertains from the sidewalks of the residence streets, with his various kinds of language, consisting of a long string of big words. Whenever Wesley gets in jail there is a thrill of concern throughout all this class of Greensboro's population, and his getting tripped this last time created no little sensation here.

Wednesday morning, as a witness, Wesley gave his evidence in ordinary language and without any superfluity of words or exaggeration of the ordinary vocabulary. It was when Solicitor Brooks began to cross-examine him that he brought into play his "fool niggerishness," which convulsed the jury, the spectators, and even the austere and dignified court with laughter. The solicitor got enough before Wesley got fairly started, and it took his own lawyer, the sheriff and two deputies to "shoo him off" the stand, before silence was restored.

Under the spur of the solicitor's questions Wesley made reply:

"I am often converged to the luminosity of the jurisdiction of Winston, since the legislature done distinguished all the luminosities of Greensboro. I goes to Winston where the lights are all shining and gits my hyperbollicus dram and fetches hit into this jurisdiction and when the superlative disabilities of the flesh consequentially into my incompatterbility of pramberlating around like I ought, the lucifered pernibellums of the police consanguinerrates me to the city hospitalities on a broad slatteratus they calls a bed. My invariability of going to Winston is to watch out for the confluences of the clock with the jurisdiction of the train schedule, and I inginnerly presumptuates myself to ketch the train at a crossing to escape the exceedingly embarrassing audacity of my friends, who, finding I am going on a departure to the city of shining lights from this where they have been put out, interpolates my irritability into accommodating them by bringing them back a part of my own superfluity. For this cogency I slips off inginnerally, but there is not so much luberosity in the conglomerations of the niggers in this town but what they gits on to my style and I oblosterates to their audacity by a heterogenous compliance, as was the case with the gentleman who has just elucidated the animosities of the law to the judge."

[Solicitor Brooks had made a speech on the law of the case before Wesley took the stand.]

At this point the witness was told to stand aside. He was just beginning to talk.

After Judge Shaw decided that Wesley was guilty, as he was being led back to jail, he remarked, "The superfluities of the jurisdiction and the convergence of the luminosities seems to have arrived together."

Wesley might have intended a contempt of court, but nobody who knows him looks at it that way.

Dr. J. W. Tribble, of Columbia, S. C., was found dead in the county road, near Wakefield, Wake county, Friday, the cause of his death being heart failure. He was driving through the country selling patent medicine. Foul play is not suspected, as Tribble's money and valuables were not disturbed.

Guilford College Items.

The Guilford graded school will open next Monday, October 2.

Miss Nannie Sue Lindsay and Mr. W. G. Lindsay, of Madison, spent last Saturday and Sunday at the college.

Hon. Chas. Ross, of Asheboro, will address the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. next Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock on the subject of Bible Study. He will also deliver another address Sunday evening to both of which the public is cordially invited.

One of our neighbors at Muir's Chapel, Mr. Robert Edwards, has taken unto himself a bride from the fair daughters of Randolph, Miss Dora Frazier, who taught the public school at Muir's Chapel last year. Among the valuable and useful presents to the bride was a toilet set first given to the bridegroom's mother by a gentleman in Baltimore on the occasion of her marriage more than thirty-five years ago.

Miss Mary Frazier, whose sickness has heretofore been noted in these items, died last Saturday afternoon about 2 o'clock of typhoid fever. The funeral services took place Sunday afternoon at the Friends church. The services were conducted by Rev. Albert Peele, assisted by Mrs. Mary Woody. The pall bearers were Messrs. Wilson and Louis L. Hobbs, Jr., Hayward Taylor, W. E. Ballinger, David H. Couch and Charles Doak. The deceased was the daughter of Mr. J. G. Frazier and was about 19 years old. We extend our heartfelt sympathies to the bereaved family.

Mechanicsville Items.

Mrs. Farley and little son visited at Mr. E. A. Hammer's Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Davis, from Abbott's Creek, visited at Mr. A. H. Idol's last Sunday.

Misses Nannie and Carrie Stoves spent Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Montgomery.

Mr. Henry Harvey has sold his property here, and his intention now is to go to the farm.

Rev. George H. Crowell delivered two very interesting sermons to large congregations at Lebanon last Sunday.

Our school will begin in a few weeks, and to insure a successful school the parents must encourage the children and point out the necessity of an education, so they will be better qualified for their life's work when the time comes that they must start out in the world to make their own way. Parents, help the teachers, and the winter's work will be well done.

Startling Mortality.

Statistics show startling mortality, from appendicitis and peritonitis. To prevent and cure these awful diseases, there is just one reliable remedy, Dr. King's New Life Pills. M. Flannery, of 14 Custom House Place, Chicago, says: "They have no equal for Constipation and Biliousness." 25c at all druggists.

WHERE THE SEEDS ARE GROWN.

600 Farms Devoted to Raising Them in This Country.

New York Sun.

There are at the present time more than 600 seed farms in the United States—farms that is to say, devoted to the production of vegetable, field crop and flower seeds to be sold to farmers and gardeners. Some of these plantations are very extensive, comprising as much as 1,000 acres.

Cabbage seeds are produced mainly in New York state, particularly on Long Island and in Connecticut. Cucumber seeds come from Missouri, Wisconsin and Nebraska.

Corn and onions for seed are raised all over the country, and the same is true of melon seeds, but carrot seeds and lettuce seeds are mostly from the far West, California contributing the best and the greatest quantity.

Peas for seed are obtained from the neighborhood of Traverse, Mich., and Manitowish, Wis., the output of that region being free from the little worms which are liable to infect peas grown elsewhere.

We send immense quantities of farm and garden seeds to Europe, but import only a few kinds, such as fancy grass seeds. Of clover and grass seeds we export hundreds of tons annually, Yankee clover being in especially great demand abroad.

Most of the red clover seed comes from the neighborhood of Toledo, Ohio, in which city is the principal market for that product. Nowadays clover seed is quoted as regularly as wheat and corn on the produce exchanges, and the same may be said of timothy seed.

Iowa alone produced more than two and a half million bushels of timothy seed last year, and during the same twelve months we exported more than $3,000,000 worth of grass and clover seed. These figures will give a notion of the magnitude of one branch of the seed raising business. Utah is of all the states the greatest grower of the seeds of that wonderful forage plant alfalfa.

Onion seeds are gathered by going through the fields and cutting off the pods at the tops of the stalks, tying them out in bundles and thrashing them out on canvases. Beans are allowed to stand in the field until they are yellow, after which they are stacked up until perfectly dry and thrashed out.

Peas are permitted to get dry and hard in the rows and then are taken to the barn for thrashing. To get cabbage seeds, the stalks grown one year must be planted the next, when they run to seed. The same is true of carrots; the roots which have developed in one season are put into the ground the next and go to seed.

The harvesting of seeds is a business requiring no little experience, most kinds being gathered when not all of the seeds are yet ripe, because otherwise many of them would be lost.

Melons, cucumbers and tomatoes are crushed in a press and permitted to decay to some extent, the crude mass being finally thrown into water, when the pulp rises to the top, the seeds sinking to the bottom and being thus separated out. Seed bearing stalks of cabbages and other vegetables are carried to the barn in sheets and there thrashed out.

Tobacco seed is raised commercially in Virginia. The best is grown by the planters themselves and carefully saved from season to season, with a view to a perpetuation of valuable varieties.

This is the case not only in Virginia and Maryland, but also in Connecticut, where the most anxious care is exercised in the selection each season of the tobacco plants that are to yield seed for the following year.

To scientific methods adopted in seed-growing is to be attributed much of the improvement accomplished in many economic plants, the most careful selection being made from year to year of the mother plants for the next crop. This is true not only of truck and field crops, but also of flowers.

It is in California that most of the flower seeds are produced, including the bulk of petunias, verbenas, nasturtiums and sweet peas.

In most European countries, there are seed control stations, so called, at which seeds are tested by simple, yet interesting methods, the work of sprouting them being done mainly by young girls. There are forty such stations in Germany, where they have created such a sentiment in favor of pure seeds, as opposed to the adulterated stuff, containing more or less weed seeds, commonly sold, that the best dealers are glad to submit samples of their merchandise for proof of quality, guarantees of which are returned by the stations after examination and trial.

The Department of Agriculture is anxious to establish a similar system of seed control in this country, if Congress can be persuaded to enact the requisite legislation.

Heat in Colors.

Duluth Tribune.

An interesting experiment recently made by a Duluth physician proved conclusively that for the sake of coolness only white should be worn in hot weather.

The physician spread out in an intense sunshine a large piece of white cloth, another of dark yellow, another of light green, another of dark green, another of blue and another of black.

Then, with the help of six thermometers, he made the following tables of the various heats which each color received from the sunlight:

White	100 degrees
Dark yellow	140 degrees
Light green	155 degrees
Dark green	168 degrees
Blue	180 degrees
Black	208 degrees

Thus the physician proved that in August the man in white is a little less than twice as cool as the man in blue and a little more than twice as cool as the man in black.

Realistic Realism.

Detroit Tribune.

Hyker—D'Auber is certainly a great artist. I saw him draw a hen on a piece of paper the other day, and when he threw it on the table it actually laid there.

Pyker—Huh, that's nothing. I saw a fellow who doesn't pretend to be an artist draw a glass of beer today so naturally that I actually drank it.

You're sentenced for Fratricide.

Raleigh, Sept. 20.—Charles Doan, of Yancey county, aged eighteen years, was placed in the penitentiary here today to serve five years for the murder of his twelve-year-old brother. He was hunting with his brother, shot at a bird, missed it, and when his brother laughed at him loaded the weapon and fired, blowing off the top of his brother's head.

The Toilers in Our Factories.

No workmen in the world can do so much or use the same intelligence that our own American workmen and women are capable of. That is why America is now beating the world in manufactures; all due to the brain and muscle of our Yankee men and women.

Unfortunately where there is smoke, dirt and dust and little sunlight there also can be found the germs of disease. Nature's great disinfectant is sunlight. It is in the factory, the workshop, the office, that men and women suffer from diseases which are in the dust and the bad air. Such diseases germs enter into the blood in two ways, either through the lungs or stomach.

After years of experience in an active practice Dr. R. V. Pierce discovered a remedy that is a blood-maker and tissue-builder, at the same time alleviates a cough. He called it Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, an alternative extract that assists in the digestion and assimilation of the food, so that the blood gets its elements from the products of digestion, the liver at the same time is started into activity and there is perfect elimination of waste matter. The germs of grip, malaria, catarrh or consumption find a fertile field in the body is not kept in perfect order and the blood pure.

Because the stomach is diseased there is a diminution of the red corpuscles of the blood. This is why one is sleepless, languid, nervous and irritable. Sensitive stomachs grow a cloud at the irritating food they eat, but they will get all the food elements the tissues require by using the "Golden Medical Discovery."

The "Discovery" is absolutely a non-alcoholic and non-narcotic medicine. There is nothing else "just as good." Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the best laxative for old and young people. They cure constipation and biliousness.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

Correspondence of the PATRIOT.

Washington, Sept. 23.—This administration is making a heroic effort to do the right thing in cleaning out graft in the federal departments and getting as good a record as it can with regard to bona fide returns on the salaries it lays out. But there seem to be fresh troubles in the way as soon as any troubles have been disposed of. The latest edict that will cause the department clerks of Washington a lot of trouble for months to come is that which will put back their pay days (they have two each month) three or four days per fortnight. Now it may be thought by the outsider that a government job is a private snap. And it is in a good many respects, for the man who does not want to soil his hands and who would rather work in a fine granite building with electric fans and ice coolers in the corridors than to do clerks' work in a plain factory building. But the edict as to the pay days is going to hit the holders of many government jobs very hard. It takes about all a government clerk can make to live in Washington in a style befitting his assumed position. There is a lot of cheap social emulation in the capital and the most government clerks would rather live in a good house in a good quarter where they can hardly afford to pay the rent than to take more modest quarters and save a little money. The result is that the most of them live from hand to mouth and at the end of the month usually have to break into the baby's bank to get out money to pay their car fare down town on salary day. They have been used to having pay days on the 15th and 30th of each month and their grocers and landlords have been used to having their bills settled on those days. But this has involved an anomaly. The division chiefs who have to certify the payrolls on which the government checks are issued, have been in the habit of doing so several days ahead so that the rolls could get through the Treasury department and get back with the money in time to pay promptly on the fifteenth and thirtieth. But this necessitated swearing to the payrolls for two or three days' work that had not yet been done by the clerks. Now the order comes that the division chiefs are not to swear to the payrolls till the tale of days is finished and the clerks have earned all the salary that is coming to them. Also the chiefs are to be able to certify that the clerks in question have been at their desks and have done the work, that they have not been off on suppositional sick leaves and have really earned the money that the government is paying out. This is going to hurt the consciences of a lot of division chiefs, as well it might. It is also going to put a lot of clerks behind with their rent and their butcher's bill. And more than that it is going to strike off a whole lot of sinecures from the government payroll if the order is carried out in the letter and spirit. There are a good many clerks to committees that never meet, private secretaries to various officials whose hardest work it is to walk to the department and draw their salaries, and clerks on the regular rolls in the departments who on account of pull are able to be at their desks about half of the time and then not do any work to speak of. These will all suffer with the honest, hard working clerks, and there are a good many of these who will be mightily inconvenienced by having his pay day delayed half a week or so out of each month.

There is more individual trouble brewing between the Secretary of the Treasury and the Surgeon General of the Marine Hospital Service. Of course it is known that the Marine Hospital Service is a branch of the Treasury department just as is the Light House Board and the Life Saving Service. But the Marine Hospital Service is a very important branch and has of late years been getting farther and farther away from the Treasury in the matter of independent action. The latest trouble in that direction has called out another investigating committee which has discovered what the Secretary of Treasury knew already, namely that the Surgeon General of the Marine Hospital Service has gone over the Secretary's head and gotten legislation by Congress without the approval of the Treasury department. It was only in the matter of the merging of the offices of chief clerk and disbursing officer in the service. But it was done without authority, and as the Marine Hospital Service has just had the satisfaction of seeing its voucher clerk arrested for raising vouchers to the amount of about $20,000 the Secretary of the Treasury thought it was a good time to call down the Surgeon General. And he did. What the outcome of the fight will be no one knows.

The Secretary of War will find his hands full when he returns to Washington. He will undoubtedly be called upon to make an investigation of the Panama affairs, for the country has been flooded of late with reports of the bad conditions on the isthmus and the way the work is not getting done on the canal. He will have to organize a campaign for Philippine free trade, there will be a report to the President on the Chinese boycott, action will be necessary in the Taggart case, which has stirred up the army from end to end. And above all there will be the question of re-establishing the post canteen in army garrisons. This is a subject that it will take a lot of moral stamina to handle, and it is possible that the Secretary will elect to let it drop. But army officers as a rule say it ought to be done.

Complaint Against Bernard.

Raleigh, Sept. 23.—In the Superior court here H. C. Howell today filed his complaint, charging ex-United States District Attorney Claude M. Bernard with seducing Howell's daughter, Bertha, aged seventeen, last May, and asking for $20,000 damages for family disgrace, grief and mental anguish. The complaint sets forth that Bernard, pretending to be unmarried, and marriageable, induced the girl to enter a carriage with him to go into the country house, pretending it was one where refreshments were served; that when she discovered the nature of the place Bernard threatened if she did not yield to him that he would expose her, and that being frightened and powerless, she consented. Bernard remained away from Raleigh after exposure in this case several weeks. He is now here. He is wealthy. The case will be tried October 24th.

Inoculated Seed of Nitrogen-Gathering Crops.

The North Carolina department of agriculture will during the month of October distribute among the farmers of the state for experimental purposes small lots of seed of the following leguminous crops, the seed being in each case already inoculated with the nitrogen-fixing germ and suitable for immediate planting without further treatment.

The crops to be experimented with are as follows: Alfalfa, burr clover, sand vetch and crimson clover.

The samples sent out will suffice to sow a strip of land 4x65 feet, or one square rod. As a control test a smaller quantity of the same seed uninoculated will be sent also.

Applications will be received for any one of the above named seeds or for all four kinds, but not more than one sample of one kind will be sent to one applicant. Applicants must enclose with application 20 cents in postage stamps for each kind of seed they desire.

Applicants for these seeds must also send to the undersigned a sample of about one-half pound of surface soil from the field upon which they propose to sow these seeds. This sample should be made up from mixed lots of soil from different parts of the field. The soil sample is required to determine the acidity of soil and amount of nitrogen ready present. The soil samples must be sent postpaid.

Applicants must also furnish a description of the field and of the crops grown thereon during the last two years. Experimenters are advised to select dry, clean soil which has this year been in cotton, corn or some hoed crop.

Those who wish to take part in this experiment should make prompt application as the supply of seed will be limited.

Address all correspondence regarding this seed distribution to the undersigned. GERALD MCCARTHY, Biologist North Carolina Department of Agriculture, Raleigh, N. C.

Col. Cunningham Roasted.

Charlotte Observer, 24th.

"The state organization of the Southern Cotton Association under the supervision of Col. J. S. Cunningham is inefficient and worthless," declared Squire C. H. Wolfe, at the meeting of the farmers of Mecklenburg county, held in the court house yesterday. "I move, therefore, that the secretary of this association be instructed to report the true state of affairs to President Harvie Jordan, of the national association, so that immediate action may be taken to place the North Carolina division on a more satisfactory basis."

Such was the rather sensational resolution passed by the farmers at their meeting yesterday.

This gathering had been called for the purpose of devising means for the perfection of the county organization, and the above came up in connection with the plan suggested. It created somewhat of a stir and was talked of at length after the meeting adjourned. It was the feature of the day.

High Point Man Paralyzed.

High Point, Sept. 23.—One of High Point's well known citizens, John S. Campbell, is unconscious from a stroke of paralysis, which has affected his entire body. Little hope is entertained for his recovery. Yesterday he was in his usual good health. Mr. Campbell was born and reared here, being the only son of James A. Campbell, for many years a prominent merchant.

Notice by Publication.

North Carolina. In the Superior Court, Guilford County. Clerk's Office. Lucy Dick, Douglas Dick and Mary E. Dick, all infants and child of John M. Dick, without regular or testamentary guardian, by their next friend, John M. Dick, vs.

James A. Shaw and his wife, P. M. Shaw, and John Dick, all of full age, and Anna Rankin Dick and Robert P. Dick, the three last infants without general or testamentary guardian. All the defendants above named are children of Frederick N. Dick, deceased.

The defendants, James A. Shaw and his wife, P. M. Shaw, and John Dick, all of full age, and LeShe Dick, Anna Rankin Dick and Robert P. Dick, the three last infants, without general or testamentary guardian, heirs at law of Frederick N. Dick, deceased, will take notice that an action entitled as above has been commenced in the Superior court of Guilford county North Carolina, for the purpose of selling certain real estate, situated in Guilford county, North Carolina, now belonging to the said plaintiffs and defendants as tenants in common, as set out in the petition in the said cause.

And the said defendants will further take notice that they are required to appear before the undersigned at his office in the court house in Greensboro, Guilford county, North Carolina, on the 6th day of November, 1915, and answer or demur to the complaint or petition in said cause, and the plaintiffs will apply to the court for relief demanded in said complaint, and which in the absence of some defense to the contrary will be granted.

Done at office in Greensboro, N. C., on this 23rd day of September, 1915. JOHN J. NELSON, Clerk of Superior Court of Guilford County, N. C.

CHARLES T. O'FERRALL DEAD.

Former Governor of Virginia Succumbs to Nervous Prostration in Richmond.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 22.—Former Governor Charles T. O'Ferrall, of Virginia, died in this city at 10 o'clock this morning from nervous prostration. He had been in failing health for about a year, but prior to his death had been confined to his bed for only a month, the last three days of which he was unconscious. Owing to paralysis of the throat he was unable to take nourishment. Governor O'Ferrall served in the Confederate army, rising from the rank of private to that of colonel and was for six terms representative in Congress from the Seventh Virginia district. He was 65 years old.

All his children and his wife were with him at the end. He was twice married, his first wife being a daughter of General McLain, of Enterprise, Miss. Two children were born to them, Charles T. O'Ferrall, Jr., of Dillon, S. C., and Robert McLain O'Ferrall, of Mullins, S. C. After the death of his first wife, Colonel O'Ferrall married Mrs. H. B. DeLoftin, a daughter of Colonel William Knight, of this city, and she survives him with four children, Helen and Mabel, and Frank and William O'Ferrall, all of this city.

The funeral will occur at 4 o'clock on Sunday afternoon.

Governor Montague this afternoon issued a proclamation reviewing the career of the ex-governor as a gallant soldier, a distinguished representative in Congress and a faithful governor of the state, and paying just tribute to his high and honorable services in peace and in war. The funeral will take place Sunday afternoon from the Second Presbyterian church. Rev. Dr. Russell Cecil, pastor of the church, will officiate, assisted by Rev. S. C. Mitchell, of Richmond College, and possibly by other ministers of the city. The interment will be at Hollywood. The flags on all state buildings will be at half mast until after the obsequies, and tomorrow a salute of 17 guns will be fired in honor of the dead. All of the military of the city will take part in the funeral procession and companies from Petersburg, Charlottesville, Fredericksburg and possibly other cities will also be in the line.

How do you get such crowds in your store? That's a question frequently asked of us, and it's so easily answered. It's natural for people to appreciate a store that is continually striving to serve them better than another store can, isn't it? Well, then, it's due to the courtesy shown patrons, the high grade merchandise we carry and the low prices at which we sell that bring the crowds here. One visit is so profitable that another call is always forthcoming.

The Public Has Confidence in Our Advertising

We aim to be definite in our advertising—try to have something to say, and say it in such a manner that you understand it. Advertising space is too expensive to waste in generalities. Those who have goods to buy want to know where they can buy them to the best advantage. We have goods to sell—just the things you want to buy. By making definite statements concerning these goods—the qualities, the prices—we arrest your attention. If investigation follows, then it's "up to us" to satisfy an old customer or make a new one.

The recent forward strides this store is making and its vastly increasing business is overwhelming evidence of its popularity on the part of the Greensboro trading public.

MADE LOSING FIGHT.

Final Decision for the Extradition of Greene and Gaynor.

Washington, Sept. 23.—The Department of Justice today received a dispatch from Donald McMaster, special counsel for the United States in the Greene-Gaynor cases, announcing that Judge Ouimet at Montreal had dismissed the petition in the defense of Greene and Gaynor against extradition from Canada. It is believed at the Department of Justice that no further legal steps are possible for the accused men and that they will be forthwith brought to this country for trial.

Benjamin E. Greene and John F. Gaynor of New York were indicted at Savannah, Ga., in 1899, charged with embezzlement and conspiracy to defraud the United States government in connection with contracts for harbor improvements in that place. Captain O'Brien M. Carter, corps of engineers, U. S. A., was convicted on the same charge, dismissed from the army and imprisoned at Fort Leavenworth for a term of years. Greene and Gaynor were arrested in New York, but resisted extradition to Georgia, and when a decision was rendered against them in a commissioner's court they fled to Canada. Each forfeited bail to the amount of $40,000. Measures were taken to secure extradition, and there was some hope of a favorable outcome when the accused men fled from Montreal to Quebec, thus changing the legal jurisdiction. In May, 1902, detectives kidnapped them, and taking them to a fast tug, carried them to Montreal, where it was hoped measure for extradition would be successful. There was an exciting chase on the river. Upon arrival in Montreal Judge LaFontaine committed the men to jail, but Judge Caro, of Quebec, granted a writ of habeas corpus and they were taken back to that place and set at liberty.

Since that time, however, two separate legal actions have been brought by Greene and Gaynor in Canada to prevent extradition. The first in Judge LaFontaine's court in Montreal, and he decided against the accused men. The petition to Judge Ouimet, which is believed to be the last resort of Greene and Gaynor, was dismissed today.

The government is supposed to have lost more than $2,000,000 through the conspiracy with which Greene, Gaynor and Carter were charged.

Hill Calls Canal a Toy.

Preston, Minn., Sept. 20.—Declaring that the Panama Canal would be an expensive toy that would be of little use in extending American foreign trade, James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railroad, today in an address to farmers of Southern Minnesota, at the Filmore county fair, advised the farmers of the Northwest not to be deluded into thinking that government control of railroads would reduce rates.

President Hill condemned graft in private and public life. He said a protective tariff would not create new markets or increase selling prices. The main good that farmers could secure was reduced transportation rates. Reduced rates would follow increased markets because on a business basis railroads could haul goods cheaper if there were more goods shipped. Railroad rates would decline more slowly under government control than if fixed by intelligent managers of railroads. However, it was right that the government should secure fair treatment and prevent discrimination.

President Hill said the Orient was the future market for Northwest products. To secure that market America needed to increase its foreign carrying facilities and to cease offending the Chinese.

He termed the Panama Canal a toy that we could afford, since it appealed to the imagination of the people, but he derided the argument that it would augment American foreign trade.

Japan's Deaths from War.

London, Sept. 20.—The Tokyo correspondent of the Standard says that Japan's war losses to date are as follows:

Killed, 46,180; died of wounds, 10,970; died of sickness, 15,300.

The percentage of deaths from sickness was less than one-fourth of the total, which is not paralleled in the annals of war.

Tokyo, Sept. 20.—An anti-peace meeting, held in Utsunomiya Park today, was not well attended, owing to the heavy rain. The tone of the meeting was quiet. The approaches to the park were guarded by troops, but no guards were posted inside.

Resolutions adopted at the meeting demanded that the cabinet break the peace treaty or resign. It was decided to bring pressure to bear on members of the lower house to conform with the resolution threatening not to re-elect those failing to do so.

The resolutions demand sweeping reform in the administration of the police. An answer to the throne was also adopted, but it has not yet been published.

Bomb Throwing in Peking.

Peking, Sept. 24.—At the Peking railway station today as a train carrying one of the four missions ordered abroad to study foreign political methods was leaving, a bomb was exploded inside a private car, killing four minor officials and wounding over 20 other persons. The wounded include Prince Tsai Tche, who heads the most important of the missions, and Wu Ting Fang, former minister to the United States, both of whom received slight bruises. The perpetrator of the outrage, who was in the car, was blown to pieces.

The affair has created a profound sensation and causes apprehension regarding the safety of members of the court and leading officials of the government.

Will Ratify Treaty Here.

It can now be stated definitely that the exchange of the ratification of the treaty of peace between Japan and Russia will take place in Washington shortly after the treaty has been ratified by their respective sovereigns.

It is probable that this will be done in the White House as a compliment to President Roosevelt, but no definite arrangements have been made nor has it been decided by whom the treaties shall be exchanged.

Southern Products at Northern Fairs.

People can better be convinced of conditions, if they are brought into touch with the material results growing out of them. The Land and Industrial Department of the Southern Railway, realizing this, has been exhibiting for several weeks at fairs in the Northern and Western states a collection of products from the territory traversed by its lines. These exhibits have attracted marked attention and have been the means of informing thousands of people of the opportunities offered by the South to the farmer, stock-raiser, manufacturer, etc. Printed matter descriptive of lands and business openings of all kinds along the Southern Railway has been distributed from these exhibits among people earnestly seeking information concerning the resources of the South and the advantages offered. Among the various products displayed were some fine specimens of apples, the superiority of which is shown by the following:

New York State Fair.

In recognition of the fact that the apples exhibited by Mr. J. E. Hall, of Waynesville, N. C., and the Stuart Orchard Company, Stuart, Va., in the Southern Railway exhibit arrived too late to enter for award, we wish to express the opinion that these apples are the finest specimens exhibited at the New York State Fair, and had they been properly entered, would have received highest reward.

H. S. WILEY, ALBERT WOOD, Judges.

To appreciate the force of the above, it should be borne in mind that the region surrounding Syracuse is one of the oldest and most important apple producing sections in the United States.

Row Among Rural Carriers.

Indianapolis, Sept. 22.—Peoria, Ill., tonight was selected as the meeting place of the Rural Letter Carriers' Association in 1906. W. F. Tumber today was exonerated of charges and has the right to claim another election of officers tomorrow. He would also be entitled to claim another year as his constitutional right, he said. Tumber was suspended by the executive committee, but the association failed to support the committee with a two-thirds majority.

A delegate from Indiana openly declared tonight that if President Cunningham continued in office these states tomorrow would secede from the organization: Indiana, Michigan, New York, Ohio, Georgia, North and South Carolina, Virginia, New Hampshire, Maine and Oklahoma.

IN MEMORIAM.

MRS. J. C. REYNOLDS.

"One more break in a happy band,
One more home that is desolate now;
One more harp in an angel's hand,
One more crown in an angel's brow."

On September 17th, while all was hushed in slumber at the midnight hour, Death entered the home of Mr. J. C. Reynolds and claimed for his own the loving and affectionate wife and tender mother of that household. They thought her sleeping sweetly when she entered the portals of Heaven. Her spirit had flown to the God who gave it. The summons of that messenger that claims all seasons for his own had come and closed her eyes from earthly sight, to open them in heaven. Thus closed the life of one of our best church members, one of our best neighbors, and one of our dearest friends. The life of Mrs. Reynolds was no holiday affair, but serious and earnest. She knew the joys and sorrows, hopes and fears and self-sacrifices of life. Toil was a pastime duty, economy and perseverance enriched her, and she nobled her domestic affairs by the gentle spirit she carried into them. Those who knew her best had a clearer insight into her pure character, and the influence of that sweet, kind spirit will live on in the sorrowing hearts of those who loved her. She addressed herself to life's duties as one whom "God had anointed with His odorous oil," shedding that sweet aroma of a pure, spotless, Christian life wherever she went, and last, but not least, around her own fireside, with her companion and children that are left to mourn their great loss.

The cord is greatly strengthened between earth and glory—she was only transplanted to her home above. All trials of sickness and pain are over. Ah! why need we mourn and be so sad?

She'll watch by the gate that's golden,
We'll meet her loved ones there,
And meet us when we're called to come,
Their blessed home to share.

A FRIEND.

Fell Thirty Feet to Death.

Morganton, Sept. 23.—Ed. Walker, a young white man nineteen years old, climbed a hickory tree near the State Hospital barn today about noon to shake off some nuts for some children, when he lost his footing and fell to the ground, a distance of thirty feet, striking on his head and crushing his skull. He never regained consciousness and died this afternoon at 4 o'clock. His tragic death is made doubly sad from the fact that, just three weeks ago tomorrow, he was married to a young lady, Miss Mattie B. Hitt. He was a hard-working, industrious young fellow and his sudden death is greatly deplored.

The South and Immigration.

Wheeling Register.
A Southern manufacturer writing to a New York commercial publication complains of the scarcity of labor in the South, and argues that the development of that section depends entirely upon securing laborers to do the work. He says there is a scarcity of the classes willing to perform manual labor in the factories, fields and mines. "We have reached the apex of our development unless we bring in people sufficient to continue the work," he writes. "Machinery cannot operate itself. Mines are not automatic in their development. People are needed and from some source and somewhere they must come."
The problem appears to be growing serious in the South, and part of the trouble, at least, may be ascribed to the attitude of the people of that section toward immigrants. Well meaning but superficial thinkers of Georgia, for an example, have opposed all efforts to induce immigration to that state, through the foolish fear that all the new comers would rush wildly into the cultivation of cotton as a means of livelihood. The growing diversity of industries in the South has caused manufacturers to look to European immigrants for recruits for the manual labor essential to the operation of the mills. Some Southern governors are wisely considering the advisability of having representatives at Ellis Island and elsewhere to invite immigration to their states. There is not much danger of race problems developing so long as the intelligent race predominates numerically and otherwise.

Valuable Land for Sale.

Pursuant to a decree of the Superior Court of Guilford county, made in the case of C. H. Wilson, executor of Archie Wilson, deceased, vs. J. T. Rhodes and others, heirs at law of Archie Wilson, deceased, the undersigned will sell to the last and highest bidder, by public auction, in front of the court house door in Greensboro, Guilford county, North Carolina, on Monday, October 23, 1905.

at the noon recess of the court, a certain piece or parcel of land, lying and being in Sumnerfield township, Guilford county, North Carolina, adjoining the lands of the Wakefield heirs, Farmington heirs, and the old home place of the said Archie Wilson, the tract so to be sold being known as the Mendenhall tract, and contains about 15 acres. Terms of sale: One half cash and balance in six months, with interest on deferred payment and title retained as security for the payment of the same.

Calmage Sermon

By Rev. De Witt Talmage, D.D.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 24.—The day, taking for his theme "The Blessings of Home," and when the multitudes are flocking from seashore and mountain to the city, which has its own blessings, which are never appreciated on return after a vacation.

The text is Ephesians v. 20, "We thank always for all things in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ the Father." People are "weeping Jeremiahs." They are always seeing omens and dreaming portentous prophecies of evil. Their eyes are never like the chirps of the robins, harbingers of spring. They are like the autumn leaves, foreboding of winter's woes. They prophesy pains and miseries, wars and massacres and tortures at the stake, and the blood-curdling yells of the whippers. They are not like the astrologers, who used to be a career for the new-born from the relative position of the stars of the solar system hovering over the cradle on the night of the child's nativity. They never see the golden gates of gold. They only see the gates of iron and absence of the golden gates. In the black pages of the past, they find the histories of the troubles that are to come.

These pessimists are always dreading the day of doom. They never make an inventory of their blessings. They are never satisfied with what they have. They are always dwelling on the things which they have not and which they would not have. These modern pessimists are like the farmer who when it rains complains and says: "This rain is killing my corn. Corn needs sunshine," and when the sun shines then he complains and says: "The drought is killing my corn. Grass," he says, "needs rain, sunshine." These pessimists are always complaining. Every Monday is for them a blue Monday and every Sunday a blue Sunday. They grumble in the morning, grumble at night. They grumble in the day. They think they live in the best country, surrounded by the best people, at the most unfortunate of all times. The country is for them always rushing toward hopeless seas. They are never happy unless they are miserable. If they ever reach heaven, unless their natures are completely changed before they get there, they will complain about the architecture of the white mansions and complain about the glare of the streets of gold and complain about the weakness of the gates of pearl and complain about the style of the celestial music. These pessimists were not born under a lucky star. They were born, according to the teaching of ancient astrology, under the absence of all light, under the absence of all light, under the absence of all light.

The Chronic Grumbler.
Paul, in the words of my text, hurled his anathema against the chronic grumbler. He bids us look upon the bright side and not the dark side of life. We should find a sweet nectar in every flower and a blessing in every thorn. We should be like a bee gathering honey and not like a wasp stinging a sting. We should have that beautiful spirit of contentment and thankfulness to God as had an old theologian. Some one said to his grandpa, when is the happiest time of life? He answered: "When the sun comes and under the influence of the gentle warmth of the atmosphere the birds commence to turn into song. I think to myself, 'Oh, what a beautiful season is spring!' Then, when summer comes and covers the earth with thick foliage, when the birds are happy in singing their pretty songs. I say to myself, 'Oh, summer is the best thing.' Then when autumn comes and I see the same trees loaded with the most tempting fruits, I cry, 'Oh, how magnificent is autumn!' Finally, when the rude, hard winter comes and its appearance and there is neither leaves nor fruits on the trees, then through their naked branches I look upward and perceive better than I ever do before the stars that are in the sky." Age, like the aged man and like Paul of my text, should learn to give thanks unto God.

Paul thanks unto God for all things. We ought to be ready to do that. In order to bring our spiritual life to a little nearer home let us make a inventory of some of the blessings which naturally have come to those of us who have just returned home from summer vacations. Many of us during the past summer have been away from the mountains or down to the seashore, seeking rest and physical and mental strength and recreation. We are now back to the old treadmill of city life. Some of us when boarding the train for home did so with a sigh. "Well," we said, "I am so over the year. Now for another twelve months of hard grind." We sighed, as though all the pleasures of the vacation were found in vacations. Are they? Let us see. Let us study for a little while the blessed re-creation which should come to every healthy man and healthy woman from a summer vacation. Let us make a short summary of the blessings of our city lives and see how much there is in them for which we ought to thank God.

We should in the first place thank God for our homes. I do not here use the word home in the broad, but in the narrow sense. It may be but a humble cottage with poor, worn furniture; but it is home, and every article in it has its tender associations. Perhaps it is more affluent. Then there is the more cause for gratitude to God. Then we should humbly thank God for our beds and carpets and pictures upon the walls, our dining room tables and kitchens and for the four walls of our own libraries. I want you to thank God today for your city house which a few weeks ago you looked upon as a prison, but now, with its rooms and its closets and its familiar entrance, you consider the most blessed place in all the world.

Blessings of Home.
It is a strange fact that, in order to appreciate our city homes as well as our other blessings, most of us have to be deprived of them for awhile. We are a great deal like that quail laborer who was a hod carrier. A friend was commiserating with him because he had to carry his heavy load of bricks up the ladders to the top of a high wall. "Oh," he said, "I do not mind the going up much, for when I reach the top I always feel so contented when I put my load down." Most of us, once in awhile, have to carry a heavy load in order to be happy when we do not have any loads to carry. We must be separated for a time from our blessings in order to appreciate them when they come back to us. We are like some people living in the climate of southern California, one of the most glorious climates in all the world. Here people sometimes grow absolutely tired of the sunshine. "Oh," said a man to me some time ago, "I wish I could get rid of the sun. I am so tired of looking at it. It is beautiful day after beautiful day for week in and week out and for month in and month out. I would that I could see just one old-fashioned New England storm or Illinois blizzard." "Yes," I answered my friend, "You wish you could see a Chicago blizzard again, but as soon as it begins to howl about your ears and send its chills running up and down your backbone and make you hug the fire you would mighty quick wish you could feel again the glowing warmth of the California sun." It does seem strange that perpetual blessings can pall upon us. We must be deprived of blessings for a little while to appreciate them when we get them back. This fact is especially true of the comforts of our city homes.

Longing for the Country.
When the summer months draw near last spring the city house did not look as attractive to us as it is today. We longed for that little cottage by the seashore, or we longed to give up housekeeping and have a change of cooking and go and board at the summer hotels. We pictured the beautiful visions of sitting under the trees and hearing the bees hum. Our mouths watered at the idea of eating the fresh laid eggs and drinking the rich milk, thicker than our city cream. The trunks were packed; the tickets were bought; the city house was deserted. For what? Instead of the beautiful cottage by the sea, some of us exchanged our comfortable city homes for a little box of a house. It was so small that we had to go out into the front yard to turn around, or else we might have done ourselves a physical injury. Or, instead of the great wide parlors of our city home, we were shut up in two or three little rooms of a hotel, where it was so hot that, like the chickens on a sultry day, we had to keep our mouths open most of the time to catch our breath. Then the food. Rich milk? Fresh laid eggs? Delicious vegetables? Oh, no! The best of the farm products are sent to the city markets, not to the country. We were crowded and jostled. We had to read our books in stiff backed, uncomfortable chairs, or sit backed under the trees, where we were always afraid of being stung by the "yellow jackets."

Instead of our great big city closets we had to live for the most part in trunks. And the beds! Oh, my. The mattresses must have been made out of shavings. And everywhere you turned you kept longing for the comforts of your city home. Now, my friends, we are back to our city homes. Let us thank God for them. Let us thank God for the simple, wholesome meals we have. Let us thank him for the sitting rooms, with their big, comfortable chairs, and for the bedrooms, where we have a place for everything and everything in its place. Do not talk to me of the sublime blessings of a summer watering place, but of the sublime blessings and comforts of our own city homes.

The Gold Setting.
We should also thank God for our city homes in a broad sense. What the gold setting is to the precious stone, the halls, the walls, the fireplaces, the bedrooms, the sitting and dining rooms and the parlors are to the family jewels we call our wives, our husbands, our fathers and mothers and children and brothers and sisters. There is an old motto which we often hear upon the street. "What is home without a mother?" We sometimes hear it flippantly spoken. But I not only ask this question in a reverential sense, but I ask the same kind of a question in a broader sense. I ask, "What would home be without all the children and the parents being gathered together under the same roof?" In truth, it would not be a home. Thus today, amid the blessings of our vacation compensations, I thank God that our families are reunited. I thank God that father sits at one end of the table and that mother sits at the other end of the table and that all the children, from the biggest to the youngest, are lined up between, with the two places of honor next to the mother reserved for the two youngest in the family.

No; there is not one missing. As you look about the long table at your Sunday dinner today you will find them all there. Many a day has passed since the first day of last July that you would have given a good deal to have the whole family about you, as you have this Sabbath morning. In the first place, no sooner did the schools close last summer than the children went everywhere. One of your boys went camping, one of your daughters went to visit a school friend in the east or on the ranch, your wife had to take the sick child down to the seashore, you as the husband and father were away for some time on a business trip, and when you returned you had to spend most of your time in the city. You snatched your Sundays off and a few days here and there to go to the country, but for the most part you were alone. Now the family is reunited. Schools have opened. The boys and girls have to come back to their books. The many dangers of travel are past. Say what you will, you worried a great deal about that boy of yours using that gun. Yes; you are all home again, safe and well. Thank God today for your reunited families! "Amen! Amen!" I can hear from dozens of grateful lips as a great climax to this domestic thanksgiving.

Thanks for Reunited Families.
Then, again, I want you to thank God that you have returned to the work of the store, or the factory, or the office. Let me see; how long were you out in the country? Two weeks? Three weeks? Ten days? Oh, it does not matter much how long. I know one fact about you, and that is you were away long enough to know that the hardest work a strong, healthy man ever has to do is to learn how to do nothing. When you left the city some months ago you went off in high hopes. "Nothing to do; nothing to do," was your congratulatory cry. The first night you went to bed in the country you said to yourself: "Now I am going to stay in bed just as long as I wish. I am not going to get up until 11 o'clock if I do not desire." Oh, no. You arose at your regular time. Old habits cannot be broken in a day.

Then after a few fishing trips and a few mountain climbs you began to grow restless. You wanted to get back to work. Then, if I mistake not, it has been your good fortune during this vacation to be thrown with a few chronically unhappy men—unhappy because they have nothing to do. Perhaps on account of inherited wealth or from the fact that they have made money they retired from business to have a good time. What a miserable mistake they have made. Instead of being happy with nothing to do, you have found that they are the most unhappy of men. They spend most of their time in playing unscrupulously or picking up pins or in finding fault with their children or in making the lives of their wives as miserable as their own. The simple fact is a full blooded man like you has no business loafing around the house with nothing to do. If you loiter about the house thus you will degenerate into nothing but a first class "fusser" and a genuine masculine nuisance. You know that you never felt happier than when you boarded the street car the other day and started for the store. In my time I have met hundreds of healthy men who had retired from business because they had amassed a competency. I never envied one of them. I have always thanked God, first, that he has given me health; secondly, that he has compelled me to work. Thank God today that you have been able to cast off the inactivities of a vacation and have been compelled to go back to the daily treadmill of manual and mental toil. The financial struggles of life not only earn bread for our children, but also unlimited joys for our own healthful physical and mental existence.

Welcome Back to Church.
But as I welcome you back to the store and to the domestic firesides and to your reunited families I also welcome you back to your church home and to your family pew. I welcome you home to the "household of faith." I welcome you home to God's temple, where you can worship God better and more simply and devotedly than in any other church in all this round planet. I welcome you back from this pulpit and to this altar.

What do I mean by making such a statement as this? You may have sat in finer churches than your own while you have been away; you may have heard more eloquent preachers than your own; you may have had your souls lifted by grander music, more exquisitely rendered, than you hear in your own church, but has that given you a distaste for the home services? Oh, no. As the best place for a man to grow and live in a domestic sense is by the fireside of his own home, so the best place in which he is to build up spiritually is in his own church. In spite of yourself, when you go to other churches you go in a critical spirit, but here in your own church home you come to worship. There is an atmosphere about your accustomed church which ought to be more sacred to you than that of any other building. That is your church home. There you have so often commingled your prayers that they have a different meaning there than when you pray among strangers. The pastor is in a gospel sense part of you and you are part of him. He welcomes you back to your place of worship, to your "household of faith."

Then there is another reason why I so gladly welcome you back as worshippers to your own church pew. You know as well as I know that most of the good we get from a gospel sermon is due not so much to the intrinsic worth and to the brilliancy of the sermon as to the spiritual preparations we make at home for the reception of the Bread of Life. This Sabbath day, in a Christian home, you awoke in a spiritual atmosphere. You did not see any fishing poles. You did not see the carriages being driven up for the long mountain rides. You did not see the pleasure parties starting out for a yachting trip. You arose in the spirit of prayer. After breakfast you gathered the children about the family altar. Then before you started for Sunday school you all knelt. Then you uttered a prayer like this: "O God, like Enoch, may we walk with thee this day. Be with our Sunday school. Give the teachers power to expound thy word. Give the scholars receptive hearts to listen to thy lessons. And, O Father, thou great and omnipotent King, be with our pastor. He is one of us. May we lift up his arms. May he today be a man with mighty power for God. May just the right word be spoken which will bring down a shower of blessings to our hearts." Are not those prayers having any results? Why, friends, as I speak this morning I feel a strange influence lifting me up. That influence, oh, my people, comes from the prayers of the family altars of my church. That power comes from the prayers of my people here in this church home, praying for me. That power comes from the fact that when you started for church you and your households were in a praying atmosphere. It is hard, awfully hard, to make the necessary spiritual preparations for a Sunday service when we are out in the country in a worldly summer hotel. I congratulate you that you have been able to start this holy Sabbath in the right way up in your knees before your family altars.

A Vacation From Church.
Then I also congratulate the home-comers because you have come back to your opportunities of religious work as well as to your temporal work and to your church worship. A vacation from the store invariably means a vacation from church labors and church work. Thomas Guthrie, the great Scotch preacher, once wrote a book entitled "Out of Harness." In it he described himself as away from his pulpit amid the Alpine hills seeking health and relaxation from toil. In one chapter he described himself worshipping with a couple of prominent English divines in a little Swiss village church. As the service went on, led by the village pastor, he looked across the aisle at the noble brow of a great London preacher sitting there. Then he compared this silent preacher to a mighty engine with its fires drawn. The saws, the boiler, the mighty driving wheel, the smokestack were all there. But there was no water in the boiler and no coal in the furnace and no steam was being generated. The great throbbing life of the engine was stilled. So with you during your past vacation. You may have attended the church services, but you went to church simply as worshippers and not as workers. And, my friends, true Christianity is not developed simply by bending the knee in prayer, but in laboring in God's vineyard.

The vineyards of Christ's great city are now ripe for the plucking. Your Sunday school class is ready to welcome you back. The boys and the girls ought all to be brought into the Christian life this winter. The missionary society needs building up as never before. You must go to work there this winter. You only gave half hearted service last year. You must do better this year. The young people's meetings need re-enforcement as never before. All these opportunities of gospel work are opening to you. Oh, I welcome you back not simply to worship, but to consecrated labor in God's vineyards and in God's great harvest fields.

Thus, wherever I look, I find the results of our vacations are blessed. Home, store, church, all surround us with these mighty opportunities of Christian usefulness and Christian growth surrounding us, we are standing upon the threshold of a new church year. What are we going to do with it? Shall the church year of 1905 and 1906 be a mighty year for spiritual results in our lives? The year is now here; the year will soon be gone. Let us consecrate ourselves and our church and our Sunday schools and our prayer meetings and our missionary societies to his dear service as we say: "Lord, take this pulpit and take these pews and take us all into thy keeping, and for the work of thy grace may this church year be the best year of our lives. When the vacations of next year come around, may we go forth into the mountains or down by the seashore, feeling that we have not worked in vain. And if during the year some of us will leave, not for the vacations of earth, but for the triumphs of heaven, may those of us who go carry the news heavenward that the dear old church to which we belong is doing a work which will gladden the hearts of angels and make the celestial welkin ring with never ending joy. And all these results we ask in the power of the Holy Spirit, who alone can make our gospel consecration and triumphs possible. For Jesus' sake we again make the earnest request. Amen and amen."

Advice to Burglars.
In a church at Portsmouth, England, the ingenious precaution has been taken of putting up the announcement: NOTICE TO BURGLARS. These boxes are cleared every few days. It is, therefore, not worth committing sacrilege for the sake of the few pence that may be in this box.

This has the double advantage of being a three lined whip to wealthy patrons in the congregation.—London Globe.

J. FRANK ROSS,
Pleasant Garden, N. C.

Mr. J. E. Tomlinson, transfer clerk of the railway mail service, is off on a three weeks' vacation, and Mr. G. A. Smith, of Wilmington, is here to work in his place.

Mr. Charles S. Shaw, one of Greensboro's best known salesmen, is now with Mr. J. A. Cannaday, the Southside merchant, where he will be glad to serve his friends.

Mr. John C. Wyrick and Mrs. Queen V. Brandon were united in marriage yesterday afternoon by Squire D. H. Collins at the residence of the bride on North Mendenhall street.

Mr. N. J. O'Brien, formerly division superintendent of the Southern, has been made general manager of the Panhandle and Gulf Railroad, with headquarters at Sweetwater, Texas.

Two sixty-saw cotton gins will be put in operation Friday at Company Mills. The management will announce later though these columns the days of each week that the gins will run.

Mrs. J. L. Oakley, whose husband, a well known contractor in his time, died about last year, is quite sick at her home in the southwestern part of the city. She has been an invalid for several years.

Miss Charlie Hunter, who has been with Cartland, the tailor, for several years, has opened a dress making establishment at 438 King street, where she will make tailor-made garments for the fair sex.

Mrs. H. K. Fuller, of Randolph county, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. H. R. Welborn for a few weeks, left yesterday afternoon for Bennettsville, S. C., to visit her son, Henry Fuller, of that place.

Rev. S. M. Rankin left Monday afternoon for Wentworth, where he is conducting a meeting this week for Rev. E. C. Caldwell. He will return in time for the Sunday school convention which will be held at Alamance church Saturday, the 30th.

The Colonel's Waterloo.

Colonel John M. Fuller, of Honey Grove, Texas, nearly met his Waterloo from Liver and Kidney trouble. In a recent letter, he says: "I was nearly dead, of these complaints, and although I tried my family doctor, he did me no good; so I got a 50c bottle of your great Electric Bitters, which cured me. I consider it the best medicine on earth, and thank God who gave you the knowledge to make them." Sold and guaranteed to cure, Dyspepsia, Biliousness and Kidney Disease, by all druggists, at 50c a bottle.

The bankruptcy case involving R. H. Hardin, A. L. Combs and L. E. Davis, of Wilkes county, will have a hearing before a jury at the next term of Federal court. Capt. J. W. Fry, of this city, is temporary receiver of the goods controlled by the Hardin firm.

Mrs. J. W. Burton, one of the most highly esteemed women of High Point, died Sunday afternoon. Her husband, Dr. Burton, and eight children survive. The deceased was a sister to Mrs. R. A. Wheeler, Mrs. E. A. Snow and Mr. Junius English, all of High Point.

Mrs. E. C. Freeman, of Creedmoor, Granville county, has made Greensboro her home and will reside with her deceased husband's sister, Mrs. Hester, on West Gaston street. Mrs. Hester has also taken to raise her deceased niece's daughter, Josephine, from Granville county, aged five.

In the Federal court yesterday Judge Boyd made permanent the appointment of Mr. F. H. Chamberlain, recently appointed temporary receiver of the Damask Manufacturing Company, of Roaring River. The matter was referred to Maj. J. E. Alexander, of Winston-Salem, referee in bankruptcy.

Al Kahn, who formerly managed a pool room here, has apparently adopted the profession of grafting. He has made repeated attempts recently in northern states to induce people to part with money on the strength of his statement that he was connected with various Greensboro mercantile concerns.

Mr. Thomas A. Branon and Miss Etta Allred were married Monday evening at Centenary church shortly before the hour for service, the pastor, Rev. Ira Erwin, officiating. The bride has been organist at Centenary for some time and the marriage was naturally of unusual interest to the congregation. Mr. and Mrs. Branon left yesterday morning for South Carolina, where they will reside.

Mr. Gaines Wingham, who lost a foot at High Point last week, as told in these columns, is getting along remarkably well, considering his condition at the time. Amputation a few inches below the knee followed his distressing accident. He will not be able to again undertake the trip to Hot Springs for some time, even under the most favorable circumstances, and he will be brought home as soon as he is able to leave the hospital.

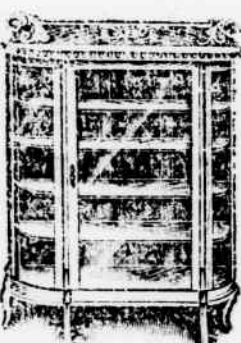

A visit to the seed department of Gardner's drug store will repay any reader of the PATRIOT. This room fronts on West Market street, but is easily accessible from the drug store proper, which is opposite the postoffice on South Elm. Mr. Gardner has the largest stock of choice seed, bulbs, etc., that he has ever carried, and he is planning to make an exhibit of this stock at the Central Carolina Fair next month. In this department there is also to be found a full line of incubators, stock and dog remedies, poultry supplies, etc., for which there is a steady and increasing demand among progressive people. Mr. Gardner's drug stock is complete in every particular, which insures satisfaction in every prescription that leaves the store. A full line of trusses, crutches, and goods of that class can always be found there.

Praise Worthily Bestowed.

The people living along the road from Mr. W. A. Causey's to Young's Mill, in Jefferson township, beg leave through the PATRIOT to thank the honorable board of county commissioners, Superintendent Tyson and Foreman Hiatt for the splendid road constructed there. They think the board made a splendid selection in securing Mr. Tyson as superintendent of the convict camps, as he has the judgment and experience necessary in such a responsible position. He is also very careful in his expenditures of the county's money. They say further that if his force at Camp No. 1 is given a good survey and reasonable time to do the work they will make a road anywhere that everyone will be proud to travel over. In all of which the PATRIOT would concur.

Seed Wheat! Seed Wheat!!

We can save you some money on seed wheat. Come to see us. C. SCOTT & CO.

Some time ago it was given out that Daniel Flickenger Wilberforce, a native African who was educated in Ohio and sent back to Africa as a missionary, had answered the "call of the wild" and returned to savagery. Later the news came that Wilberforce was dead. Now a United Brethren missionary, who has just arrived in Ohio from West Africa, says neither of these reports is true—that Wilberforce is not dead and has not abandoned the christian religion.

Chatham Record: Chatham can boast of the oldest fox hunter in America, Mr. Oliver McMath, of Hickory Mountain township, who will be 90 years old on the 3rd day of next December. He has just returned from a week's hunt in Moore county with a party of eighteen hunters and forty hounds, and was one of the most active riders in the party. His party in last week's hunt had good luck and caught several foxes.

At a meeting addressed by Senator Tillman, at Batesburg, S. C., Saturday, the senator, a minister and a member of the dispensary board got into a wrangle and the police had to be called in to restore order.

WHAT PLOW DO YOU USE?

WE KNOW YOU WANT THE BEST--HERE IT IS

WHY IT IS THE BEST:

- 1st. Because it is the lightest draft.
- 2d. Because it has the low sloping front and will not choke.
- 3rd. Because it is the stoutest built.
- 4th. Because it is the best braced.
- 5th. Because it has two bolts in the point.
- 6th. Because the point has a square fit in mold board.
- 7th. Because the handles are fastened to standard, thus relieving the mold board and landside of any strain.

8th. Because the handles are adjustable to any size man.

9th. Because it will always turn your soft push dirt in which all others fail.

10th. Because it is an all round good plow, and to use it you will be prosperous and your wife will be happy.
