Mr. Ed Pool died Thursday afternoon at his home, 13 Peach street, Proximity, after an illness of some weeks. He was 44 years old and leaves a wife and several children. The remains were carried to Ramseur for interment.

The Farmers warehouse made an average of 6 cents on their entire sale of primings last Saturday. Mr. A. G.
Williams averaged $8.25 for one barn.
Primings are doing well, and Morgan & Gamble are making them hump at the Farmers. Try them.

Local baseball fans will be interested to learn that "Long Jim" Fox, who is remembered as Greensboro's star player in the days of the Virginia-North Carolina League, has been bought from Atlanta by the Philadelphia Nationals.

The B. & P. Bottling Works has purchased a large electric carbonater similar to the ones used by the largest bottling concerns. Mr. Buhman, the manager of the company, proposes to make other important improvements in the near future.

Protracted meeting begins at Muir's chapel next Sunday at 11 A. M. There will also be services that day at 2:30 and 8 P. M. The meeting will continue to the fourth Sunday, with services daily at 3 and 8 P. M. Everyone is cordially invited.

Mr. H. C. Huntley, president of the Huntley-Stockton-Hill Furniture Company, has gone to Winston-Salem to attend the meeting of the North Carolina Furniture Dealers Association in session there this week. Mr. Huntley will invite the association to meet here next year.

Despite the unusually hot weather many people went from Greensboro to the Friends Yearly Meeting at Guilford College Sunday. People went by rail, through the country in hacks, carriages and buggies. The crowd at the College was enormous. Several interesting services were held.

Mr. William H. Smith, a Southern representative of the Vega Suit Case and Bag Company, of Philadelphia, Pa., was in the city last week for the purpose of conferring with local business men relative to the establishment of a trunk factory here. Nothing definite has been decided upon.

During a heavy storm which visited Guilford College Sunday evening about 5 o'clock a valuable horse belonging to Mr. J. T. Sweatt, of this city, was instantly killed. Six hours later a storm visited this city, killing two cows on Mr. John A. Young's farm just east of town, and burning a straw stack on the Eckel place.

The Piedmont Baptist Association will hold its annual meeting in High Point Thursday and Friday. The sessions will be held in the First Baptist church. On the same days there will be held in High Point a meeting of the Associational Women's Missionary Society, of which Mrs. J. C. Murchison, of this city, is president.

Mr. Walter M. Burgess and Miss Victoria S. McMath, both of Randolph county, were united in marriage at the court house here yesterday morning by Rev. A. G. Kirkman. It was a good looking young couple—in fact, the bride was one of the handsomest young women that ever graced the register's office on a similar mission.

Mrs. R. D. Causey, an excellent woman of the Tabernacle neighborhood, will celebrate her eightieth birthday next Saturday. She and her husband have been blessed with eight children, seven of whom are living in this county. One daughter, living in Joppa, Mo., is the only child not expected to be present at the festivities Saturday.

FOR SALE—Small farm in Guilford county, good buildings, utensils, livestock, near railroad, young orchard, store house, good location for country store. Will also sell ten acres pea vine hay and two-thirds interest in corn crop. Price right if sold before September. CHAS. A. PORTER, High Point, N. C.

The first annual horse show and racing matinee will be held at the Central Carolina Fair grounds this afternoon. A large number of animals have been entered and the affair promises to be an occasion of much interest to lovers of the races and good horses.
There are a number of contests and cash prizes are offered to the winners in each contest.

Mr. D. R. Jones, a clever attorney from Summitville, Ind., is spending several days in Guilford looking up records that are required in settling an estate. He is accompanied by his wife and little son. Before returning to Indiana Mr. Jones will spend a week in the Shenandoah valley of Virginia, where some of his ancestors lived and where he has a number of kinsmen.

Mr. William S. Bynum, of Reids-ville, and Miss Jennie Chatham, of Rockingham county, were united in marriage Sunday afternoon at the residence of Mr. Jones, on Bellevue street.
Rev. C. E. Maddrey, pastor of Forest Avenue Baptist church, officiated. The young couple will reside in Greensboro, and will for the present live in the home of Mr. Jones, where the bride has been visiting.

Nine young men, whose ages range from 17 to 21 years, were arrested at Revolution Sunday morning at 4 o'clock by Deputy Sheriff Jeffreys, charged with playing cards on the Sabbath. Six of the defendants were fined $5 each and taxed with the costs, and the cases against the others were dismissed. When arrested four of them gave bond and five went to jail.
Three remained in jail Sunday night.

Good shoes and poor shoes look a good deal alike. It's an easy matter to get the wrong kind if you are not an expert. The safest plan is to buy those that everybody knows are good and reliable, such as the Douglas, Commonwealth, Bostonian and Elkin home-made shoes for men and the Utz & Dunn, Sherwood and La France shoes for women. Buy any of these makes, all of which are sold by Thacker & Brockmann, and you are sure of getting good, honest shoes.

The Yellow Fever Germ
has recently been discovered. It bears a close resemblance to the malaria germ. To free the system from disease germs, the most effective remedy is Dr.
King's New Life Pills. Guaranteed to cure all diseases due to malaria, poison and constipation. 25c. at all drug stores.

ARRESTED IN WASHINGTON.

Sixteen-Year-Old Henry Fulton to Answer Charge of Forgery.

Henry Fulton, a sixteen-year-old boy whose home is in this city, was arrested in Washington Monday charged with trying to pass spurious checks.
Sergeant Barnes, of the local police force, has gone to Washington and is expected to return with the young man this evening. Fulton is the son of Mr. James F. Fulton, who lives at 529 North Greene street.

While the particulars of the Washington affair have not come to light, it is understood that he tried to pass checks forged on a Norfolk, Va., bank.
He had in his pocket when arrested a number of checks on that bank. Some of them were filled out and signed and others were blank. It was check forging that brought young Fulton to grief in Greensboro. On July 9th he was arraigned before Mayor Murphy charged with having passed bad checks, signed by O. D. Boycott, on several Greensboro firms. When arrested the young man said he had found the checks on the floor of the Benbow and, thinking they were genuine, had no hesitancy in cashing them.
A few weeks ago he passed a bad check for $26.50 on the South Greensboro Bank.

Some time ago Dr. Charles Roberson reported to the police that a number of his account books were missing from his office. He furthermore stated that a young man answering Fulton's description had called upon his patients and collected bills. When Dr. Roberson went to collect from his patients, they declared they had paid a man representing himself to be Dr. Roberson's collector. The police were in search of Fulton for this offence when his arrest was reported from Washington.

Young Fulton comes of a good family. His parents are heartbroken over his latest escapade. His brothers in the city hold good positions are highly respected young men.

Union Sunday School Excursion to Raleigh.

PATRIOT readers should not forget the union Sunday school excursion to Raleigh next Wednesday, August 22.
We expect to make this excursion the best one we have ever yet run, and we invite your co-operation. There will be plenty of cars to carry everyone who wishes to go, while in addition we will have one or two reserved seat cars which will furnish superior accommodations for ladies without escorts.
Seats in these cars will cost 50 cents extra, while the crowd will be limited to the seating capacity.

Remember the regular excursion tickets for the round trip to Raleigh is only $1.50. You will never be able to make a cheaper trip to the capital city, and this will be your last chance for an excursion this summer, as the railroad is only running a limited number of excursions this year and restricting them solely to Sunday schools. This is positively the last one from Greensboro. Raleigh is an attractive city and holds much of interest to every citizen of North Carolina. The eight or nine hours' stay there will give everyone an opportunity to visit all the state buildings and public institutions. Take the whole family and enjoy the day there.
Tram leaves Greensboro at 7:30 A. M.
Wednesday, August 22; returning leaves Raleigh at 6 P. M. Fare only $1.50.

E. P. WHARTON,
C. C. McLEAN,
W. D. MENDENHALL, Committee.

To White Public School Teachers.

The county institute will begin Monday, August 27, at 10 o'clock A. M., and continue for one week. The sessions will be held in the court house.

Dr. B. C. Gregory, of Chelsea, Mass., and Supt. W. H. Swift, of the Greensboro graded schools, will be with us and help in the work. On Thursday Mrs. W. R. Hollowell will be here to organize in Guilford a branch of the Woman's Association for School Improvement. Mrs. Hollowell is president of the state association.

All who expect to teach in schools that are supported in part or entirely by public money in this county are required by law to attend, unless they have already attended a summer school or teachers' training class during this year.

We have in Dr. Gregory one of the foremost educators of this country, and no one can afford to miss the opportunity of coming in contact with him.

I hope a number of the school committeemen, and others in the county, outside the teaching profession, will be with us. We must make this a great educational meeting.
Very truly yours,
THOMAS R. FOUST,
County Superintendent.

THE FREIGHT RATE BILL.

Chamber of Commerce Wants Greensboro to Receive Benefit From Law.

The quarterly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was held in the rooms of the secretary in the Benbow arcade Monday night. There was a fair attendance of members and a great deal of important business was transacted.
Secretary Geo. F. Newman being kept away by illness, Mr. Andrew Joyner was appointed temporary secretary.

Mr. M. W. Thompson, chairman of the committee on transportation, reported that his committee was still corresponding with a view to securing a new railroad for Greensboro but had nothing definite to report as yet.
Chairman G. H. Miles, of the committee on membership, reported that the committee had just perfected a plan for inaugurating a campaign for new members.

President Battle announced that on September 25 there would be a public meeting and social session of the chamber to which all the business men and newcomers to the city would be invited.

A resolution of the Hardware Jobbers' Association calling for the passage of a law prohibiting the railroads from using, unnecessary delay in delivering interstate freight was called to the attention of the chamber and the body, on motion, gave its approval and endorsement to the efforts of the hardware jobbers.

Mr. M. L. Bloomberg moved that Mr. H. C. Huntley be made a committee of one to invite the North Carolina Retail Furniture Dealers' Association, now in session in Winston, to meet in Greensboro next year. The motion was seconded and the chamber adopted it unanimously.

Mr. M. W. Thompson offered a resolution for the appointment of a committee charged with the duty of seeing that Greensboro as early as practicable may begin to feel the beneficial effects of the freight rate bill recently passed by Congress. After remarks on the subject by Judge Douglas and Mr. E.
J. Justice, the chamber adopted Mr.
Thompson's resolution. It was subsequently agreed that the committee should consist of five members. The president said that as it was a very important committee and that he would take the necessary time to make suitable selections.

Housecleaning at the County Jail.

A reporter of the PATRIOT went to jail last week—merely as a casual visitor, however. Jailor D. F. Busick had just completed his big task of "housecleaning," and naturally took much pride in it, so the newspaper men were invited in to inspect the premises.
Whitewash had given way to paint, and the sanitary conditions were found as near perfect as it is possible to make them. The cells inside and out were as clean as when they were new, the cement floors had been scrubbed till all the grime and stains had disappeared, and in fact the whole place impressed one as being in admirable condition. The substitution of paint for whitewash is a good move, as there is now no danger of the metal of the cells and walls corroding. Under Mr.
Busick's direction the entire jail structure has undergone a number of improvements this spring, and it will compare favorably with any institution of its kind in the state. The twenty or more prisoners confined there are well fed and seemingly contented and they are evidently treated with every consideration possible under the circumstances. We have always approved the Guilford policy of having good men as jailors. Mr. Busick measures up to every requirement.

Death of Mr. Frank Parker.

The funeral of the late Mr. Frank Parker, who died at Lenoir Thursday, was held at Moriah church, four miles south of the city, Friday morning at 11 o'clock. The service was conducted by the Rev. J. D. Williams, of Lenoir.
Mr. Parker was a teacher in the Sunday school at Lenoir, and a faithful worker. The mother of the young man died several years ago. His father is still living in Winston-Salem and was at the bedside of his son when the end came. The active pall-bearers were members of Fairview Junior Order Council and Wachovia Lodge, Knights of Pythias, of Winston, of which deceased was a member. They were Messrs. J. O. White, J. F. Frazier, J.
E. Dowdy, W. A. Fearington, E. J.
Price and Lorenzo Frazier.

Farm to Rent or Lease.

WE NEVER RECOMMEND

to our customers the purchase of any stock or bond which we do not believe to be all right. No customer, as far as we know, has ever lost a dollar on any stock or bond recommended by us.

We have some investments which pay 7 and 8 per cent. in addition to the taxes which we unhesitatingly recommend.

Death of Mr. Sidney P. Case.

Mr. Sidney P. Case died at his home at Brown Summit Wednesday. The funeral services were held at Fair Grove church Thursday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. A. G. Kirkman, of this city. Interment was made in the Fair Grove cemetery.

Mr. Case was 52 years old. He is survived by a wife, two daughters and two sons. He had been confined to his bed for several weeks with typhoid fever. The chances for his recovery were considered very favorable until Wednesday afternoon when he grew suddenly worse. He was a kind-hearted man and had many friends who regret to learn of his death.

LOCAL NEWS.

Oil, needles, parts and attachments for all sewing machines at McDuffie's Furniture Store. 4-17

Mr. G. Rank Herben, well known in tobacco circles, is now connected with Brown's warehouse at Winston-Salem.

Mr. W. J. Coapman, formerly trainmaster on this division of the Southern Railway, is now secretary of the Orange Blossom Mining and Milling Co., at San Diego, Cal.

Mr. J. B. Whittaker, Jr., slipped and fell on the sidewalk near the Benbow last Wednesday. His right leg was bruised and the muscles sprained. He was disabled for only a few days.

Burglars entered the Southern depot at Graham Tuesday night of last week. Nearly $100 was taken from the safe. The thieves were evidently familiar with the combination, as the lock was opened.

D. A. Kirkpatrick, colored, was fined $25 in Squire Collins court Tuesday of last week on the charge of wife beating, and in default of payment went to jail. Wednesday the fine was paid and he was released.

The Christian denomination contemplates the construction of a church near the Pomona graded school. A suitable lot has been selected and will be purchased. Rev. L. F. Johnson is in charge of the movement.

A window display of the National Cash Register Company at the store of the Wakefield Hardware Company attracted considerable attention last week. The mechanism was perfect and operated three figures in the window.

Squire J. A. Pritchett celebrated his 80th birthday last Wednesday. Mr. Pritchett enjoys the distinction of being the oldest native resident of Greensboro. There are others in Greensboro older, but they are not natives of the city.

All connections at the watchman's tower at the South Elm street railway crossing have been completed, and the gates are working under a new power. They were tested Wednesday. Gate-man W. H. Andrews will now occupy the tower.

Mr. W. Millikan, of Spero, Randolph county, while here marketing produce Thursday, lost four five-dollar bills which he was carrying loosely in his pocket. A diligent search failed to reveal the whereabouts of the missing greenbacks.

The Rev. L. F. Johnson, pastor of the Greensboro Christian church, assisted Rev. C. C. Peel, pastor of Highes Chapel Christian church, in a series of revival services held at the latter church last week. Mr. Johnson reports an interesting meeting and a large number of conversions.

The negroes engaged in the work of double-tracking the Southern Railway from here to High Point are getting more desperate, it seems. A stone was thrown at a passing engine by one of the men Wednesday night and a glass in the cab broken. The engineer chased several of the men with a hand-spike.

The secretary of state has issued a charter to the Mt. Airy Cotton Mills Company, of Mt. Airy, capital $100,000, of which amount $25,000 is subscribed by Lee H. Battle, F. H. Chamberlain and others. The company has purchased a building at Mt. Airy and will install machinery for the making of cotton yarns.

The State Normal and Industrial College has issued a pamphlet announcing brief courses for teachers. Prof. J. T. Foust is in charge of the department and offers free tuition to teachers having a first-grade certificate. The courses are two months and one year in length. For information address the college.

Postmaster Douglas has received an order from the Postoffice department regulating the vacations of rural free delivery carriers. All carriers will be allowed a leave of absence of fifteen days with full pay after twelve months service. The vacation may be taken at any time during the year when the postmaster can best spare them.

The colored Grand Lodge Knights of Honor of the World, for North and South Carolina, was in session here last week. The lodge met on Wednesday and adjourned Friday. The sessions were held in the colored Masonic temple on South Ashe street. At the meeting Wednesday night, Mayor Murphy made an address of welcome.

Mr. R. L. Woodard, deputy grandmaster of the Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows in North Carolina, went to Salem last Wednesday. He was accompanied by Miss Annie McIntosh, of the Odd Fellows' orphan home at Goldsboro, who goes to enter Salem Female Academy. At the last meeting of the grand lodge, Miss McIntosh was selected as one of the four young ladies to be sent to different colleges in North Carolina.

Frightfully Burned.
Chas. W. Moore, a machinist, of Ford City, Pa., had his hand frightfully burned in an electrical furnace. He applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve with the usual result: "A quick and perfect cure." Greatest healer on earth for Burns, Wounds, Sores, Eczema and Pills. 25c by all druggists.

NEGROES CARRIED TO PENITENTIARY.

Bohannon, Slayer of Foreman Beachman and Two Crutchfields, Given Hearing and Carried to Raleigh.

Frank Bohannon, the slayer of Foreman R. E. Beachman at Jamestown July 31, and Kiser Crutchfield and son Oscar, charged with complicity in the crime, are now in the state penitentiary, where they were carried last Wednesday afternoon. They will remain there until a term of Guilford Superior court for the trial of criminal cases convenes. At a preliminary hearing before Justices D. H. Collins and J. M. Wolfe Wednesday at noon the trio was bound over to Superior court without privilege of bail.

The preliminary hearing had been set for Friday morning at 10 o'clock, but on account of the fear of mob violence should the prisoners be allowed to remain in jail here, the authorities decided it best to go through the formality of a hearing and remove the prisoners to another county. On account of the decision of the authorities to hold the hearing at that time only a small number of people were in attendance.

Bohannon had no attorney and when Solicitor A. L. Brooks asked him to stand up and in solemn tones told the prisoner that he was charged with the murder of R. E. Beachman, with the customary question of "guilty or not guilty?" the negro without a moment's hesitancy replied, "I killed him."

The Crutchfields were represented by their attorney, Col. John A. Barringer, who waived a preliminary hearing for his clients. Justice Collins then said, "Mr. Sheriff, the prisoners are in your custody." The three men were handcuffed and carried back to jail.

The hearing was entirely devoid of sensational features, as no testimony was offered by either side. The prosecution was represented by Solicitor A. L. Brooks and John N. Wilson, while Col. Barringer, as above stated, appeared for the Crutchfields. All three of the negroes were held for the grand jury of the regular criminal term of the Guilford Superior court, which convenes in this city September 17.

A few minutes before time for the Raleigh train to depart Deputy Sheriff Crutchfield and Jeffreys drove up to the jail in a closed carriage, secured the prisoners and quietly carried them to the station. The carriage was driven down Ashe street to the station. The prisoners were well on their way to Raleigh before it became generally known about the city that they had been taken from the jail.

The precaution taken by Sheriff Jordan in calling out the militia to protect the jail on Tuesday night, and thus guard against violence, was warmly commended on all sides. Conservative people, while inclined to the belief that the jail was never in danger and that no lynching was contemplated, thought the precautionary measures taken by the sheriff most wise. Others were equally positive that if Hodgson's men had not been called out that a repetition of the Salisbury disgrace would have been repeated here.

Wednesday morning, while in the Guilford jail, Kiser Crutchfield charged with complicity in the case drank a quantity of whitewash, made of strong lime. It is thought he did so in an attempt to commit suicide, though he claims, and some of the officers think, it was purely accidental. He claims he wanted a drink of water and mistook the whitewash for it. The strong whitewash removed all the skin from the inside of his throat. Jailer Busick gave the negro a quantity of vaseline to relieve his suffering. Dr. Harrison being summoned, prescribed milk and eggs for the patient.

It is believed that had the men remained here they would have been in no danger. There were men in and near Greensboro who wanted to lynch the negroes, but there were not enough to overpower even a small force of officers.

Miss Pattie Daniel Dead.

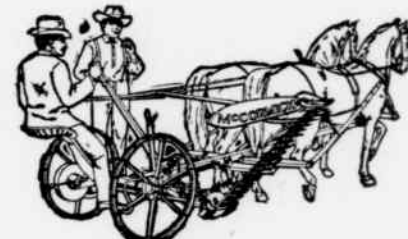

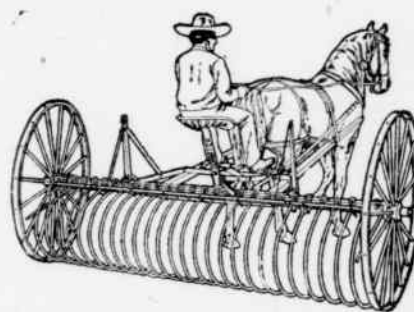

Miss Pattie F. Daniel died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Daniel, 316 Gorrell street, at 11:45 o'clock Wednesday night. She contracted a case of typhoid fever about a month ago, and despite the efforts of physicians her condition grew gradually worse until the end. She was 23 years of age and was greatly beloved by a large circle of acquaintances. The funeral services were held from the residence Thursday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. The Rev. Charles E. Hodgkin, pastor of Westminster church, conducted the service. The interment was in Greene Hill cemetery.

Gentlemen:—

Always have your church buy linseed oil at barrel prices. Don't let them pay $1.50 a gallon for canned oil, which ought to cost but 60 cents a gallon. Ready-mixed paint is about half oil and half paint. Buy oil fresh from the barrel, and add it to the L. & M. Paint, which is semi-mixed, and you then get a full gallon of paint at the lowest price.

4 gallons L. & M. mixed with 3 gallons Linseed Oil will paint a moderate sized house.

Actual cost L. & M. about $1.20 per gallon.

C. S. Andrews, Ex-Mayor, Danbury, Conn., writes, "Painted my house 19 years ago with L. & M. Looks well today."

Governor Glenn will deliver an address in Reidsville on August 23 in the interest of the local chapter Daughters of the Confederacy. On the same date a Brunswick stew will be served.

We will pay a reward for information that will lead to the conviction of the parties who have been tearing down the signs we have had posted up over the county. C. C. TOWNSEND & Co.

Mr. Mack Albright left Friday night for the Valley of Virginia to visit Mr. E. J. Horaker, a wealthy farmer, whom he met in Johns Hopkins hospital five years ago while both were patients there.

Rev. Dr. G. H. Detwiler, pastor of West Market street church, left Monday morning for a vacation of some time in the mountains of western North Carolina. During his absence the board of stewards will make arrangements for the church services.

Mrs. E. A. Murray, wife of the superintendent of the Finishing mill, died at 7:05 o'clock Thursday morning at her home on Park avenue. She was 28 years of age and had been in ill health for some time. The funeral was held from the residence Friday afternoon, followed by interment in Greene Hill cemetery.

Mr. J. Grasty Fowler is making an effort to organize a thirty-piece band. A meeting was held in the office of Squire Collins Thursday night, when plans for the band were discussed. The plan as outlined contemplates an organization of about thirty players, who will have first class instruments and uniforms. Another meeting will be held tomorrow evening.

Graham Gleaner: Miss Hattie Coble, the sixteen-year-old daughter of Mr. John M. Coble, of Patterson township, died Monday. The remains were buried at Rock Creek. Mr. Tom R. Harden, who has been in business in Greensboro for the past two or three years, has moved back to Graham and gone into business. He is interested in and will have charge of the newly formed company, the Graham Buggy and Implement Company.

The opening of Glenwood, a new suburb which has recently been laid off near the Normal College, was an event of more than passing interest. Sixty-five lots were sold on Saturday, the opening day. The sale is being continued through this week. The property is located south of the Normal College and the Southern Railway, and is convenient to the city. A street car line will be constructed through the property in a few months.

Mrs. W. W. West died at St. Leo's hospital Friday night at 7 o'clock after an illness of several months, suffering from cancer. She was removed from her home on Spring street to the hospital several weeks ago, and though every effort to save her life was made it was without avail. She was 49 years of age, and is survived by a husband, who is now ill with typhoid fever. The remains were carried Saturday to Harnett county for interment.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Joyner has just issued a bulletin on the condition of the schools of the state in which it is shown that gratifying progress is being made in all lines. The report covers a period of twenty years and shows that the average annual amount in salary paid each white teacher was increased from $76.25 to $125.21 and of colored teachers of the same class from $68.35 to $89.08. In the combination of white teachers, both city and rural, the average annual amount has been increased from $79.30 to $148.22.

Judge Spencer B. Adams, chairman of the state Republican executive committee, has announced the appointment of the following members-at-large of the state committee: Thomas S. Rollins, Asheville; Judge D. M. Furches, Asheville; G. G. Hendricks, Asheville; John C. Angier, Durham; George Butler, Clinton; Wheeler Martin, Williamston. At the same time he announced the appointment of the following campaign committee: W. S. Pearson, Morganton; C. J. Harris, Dillsboro; T. T. Hicks, Henderson; C. F. Toms, Hendersonville; J. C. Meekins, Sr., Columbia.

Governor Robert B. Glenn, while in the city Wednesday night on his way to Guilford College, heard argument of counsel for a modification of the sentences of John W. Hasty and George W. Samuels, who were jointly convicted in the state court at Wilkesboro for an assault on Editor Deal, of the Chronicle, a newspaper published in that town. Hasty was sentenced to six months and Samuels to three months in the state penitentiary. Judge Spencer B. Adams and W. F. Carter, the latter, of Mt. Airy, appeared in behalf of the defendants, and urged the governor to commute the sentence to a fine, in lieu of imprisonment. Later, Governor Glenn announced that he would not grant the request.

A Romantic Wedding.

Mr. J. W. Landreth, aged 59 years, of Madison, N. C., and Mrs. Sarah J. Howard, of Cadott, Wis., a widow of 56 summers, were happily united in marriage at the home of Mrs. Mary M. Wall, 309 Sycamore street, at 8 o'clock Friday night. Rev. A. G. Kirkman performed the ceremony. Miss Sophia Dobson was maid of honor and Mr. A. C. Goodman was best man. After the marriage, refreshments were served to the guests. Mr. and Mrs. Landreth left Saturday night for Madison, where they will reside in the future.

The happy couple were brought face to face with one another that day for the first time, though they have been corresponding since last February, when their acquaintance was made through a matrimonial correspondence bureau. The bride left Cadott one day last week and arrived here Monday. Before leaving home she wrote her betrothed advising him where she had gone, but the letter miscarried and was not received promptly. After arriving here she wrote him again, and became in Friday morning. He went to the home of Mrs. Wall, where Mrs. Howard was stopping, and met his fiancée for the first time.

Directors and Officers Elected.

The stockholders of the Consolidated Furniture Company held the organization meeting in the directors room of the Greensboro Loan and Trust Company Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock, and elected officers and directors.

This company is the one formed to combine the furniture manufacturing business of the Greensboro Furniture Manufacturing Company with that of the Gate City Furniture Manufacturing Company. The plant of the Greensboro company will be moved into the building of the Gate City Company and the capacity of the new company will be made considerably larger than the combined capacity of the two plants.

The company is capitalized at a quarter of a million dollars.

The officers as chosen yesterday are: W. E. Harrison, president. J. Van Lindley, vice president. J. C. Murchison, secretary and treasurer.

These with the following form the board of directors: W. E. Allen, C. E. Holton, J. W. Fry, J. D. Helms, C. W. Jennings, A. L. Brooks, C. W. Battle, J. T. J. Battle.

Retailer in Peck of Trouble.

Deputy U. S. Marshal J. T. Millikan returned Wednesday evening from an official business trip to Orange county. Wednesday morning he arrested Dave Holmes at his home, eight miles from Hillsboro, and took him before a United States commissioner to answer the charge of retailing. He was bound over to the regular October term of Federal court in Greensboro in a $300 bond, which he gave.

Holmes was tried on Monday of last week in the Orange county Superior court for retailing and pleaded guilty in nineteen cases. He was sentenced to two years on the county roads, but a stay of execution of the sentence was granted on condition that he leave the state within ten days, and before he could get away there came along Deputy Marshal Millikan, who arrested him on a United States warrant. Holmes' wife was also tried in Orange county Superior court Monday and she pleaded guilty in several cases charging her with retailing. She was given until December 1st to gather in their crop before being banished from the state.

School Book Adoption.

The subtext book commission at work the past month examining school books offered by publishers for adoption in the public schools of the state, completed their work in Raleigh Tuesday night and filed their report with Governor Glenn for the text book commission composed of the state board of education. The report is voluminous, covering their findings in the examination of all books in every branch of study.

The text book commission will now go through these reports and, beginning August 21st, will hold special sessions in Raleigh for the purpose of hearing all publishers who desire to be heard on the merits of any books offered for adoption. The board consists of the governor and state council, lieutenant governor and attorney general.

Hairston Captured at Whitney.

Charles Hairston, colored, wanted for shooting Will Caison, another negro at the Jamestown railroad camp, was arrested at Whitney Saturday. Deputy Sheriff Weatherly left Saturday night for that place and returned shortly after midnight with the prisoner. Caison was shot in the bowels and is now in a most critical condition. In our last issue, mention of the shooting was made.

The two negroes were engaged in a quarrel, when Hairston produced a gun and shot Caison. Caison was attended by Dr. Foscoe, of Jamestown. Hairston, who is known as a bad negro, escaped immediately after the shooting and was not heard from until Saturday. He had been discharged from the double-tracking force, and ordered to leave.

Death of Mrs. A. S. Cate.

Mrs. A. S. Cate died at St. Leo's hospital at 3:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The funeral was held from the residence, 714 Summit avenue, by the Rev. W. E. Swain, of Asheboro, at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon. The interment was made in Greene Hill cemetery. Following were the pall bearers: T. B. Ogburn, F. A. Blackwood, A. O. Spoon, Weighton McFarland, Seymour Sternberger and Gilmer Wharton.

Mrs. Cate was 32 years of age. She had been married only two years and is survived by her husband, who is proprietor of the Revolution Drug Company. Mrs. Cate was a sister to Professors M. H. and J. Allen Holt, of Oak Ridge.

THE SOUTH'S COMMERCE.

Cotton Takes the Lead Over all Other Products.

Baltimore, Aug. 9.—In this week's issue The Manufacturers' Record says: "Contributing directly and indirectly about 40 per cent. of the merchandise in the country's export trade, and amounting about 36 per cent. of that trade through its own ports, the South made a marked advance last year in commerce. Of export merchandise produced exclusively by the South, cotton represented $401,005,921; cotton seed oil, $13,673,370; naval stores, $20,075,585; a total of $435,754,959. Of export goods produced in other parts of the country as well as in the South, the latter's estimated share was, petroleum, $10,000,000; timber and lumber, $40,000,000; cotton goods, $30,000,000; tobacco, $28,000,000; provisions, $25,000,000; grain, $20,000,000; coal, $15,000,000; cattle, $13,000,000, and fruits, $2,000,000, a total of $214,000,000. To these totals should be added about $25,000,000, representing the South's share in exports of manufactures of iron and steel, of manufactures of wood, of manufactures of leather and other articles originating primarily or secondarily in the South, and there is a grand total of $654,000,000 as the share of the South in the $1,718,844,500 of exports from the whole country."

EXPORTS INCREASE.

"Comparing the fiscal years 1905 and 1906, the value of exports from Southern ports increased from $553,481,292 to $640,682,765, or by $86,551,591, equal to 15.5 per cent., and from all other ports from $665,080,464 to $1,101,341,737, or by $436,261,273, equal to 65.6 per cent. Comparing 1901 and 1906 the South makes even a better comparative showing, for in the five years the increase in values of exports was at Southern ports, from $528,684,706 to $640,682,765, or by $112,000,000, equal to 21.4 per cent., and from all other ports from $659,080,285 to $1,101,341,737, or by $442,261,452, equal to 67.1 per cent."

"In the matter of imports considerable progress is also being made by the South, especially in comparison with the rest of the country, though its ports are by no means handling the quantity of incoming goods justified by the outward-bound movement, the freest commerce—that is, the freest for the transportation interest, and the business interests of the ports handling it—being that in which the incoming vessel or the outgoing train shall have freight to carry away approaching in quantity or value the freight which in the case of the steamer takes out and in the case of the railroad that which it brings in."

"Between 1905 and 1906 the value of imports advanced from $83,058,679 to $101,206,145, or by $18,157,466, equal to 21.8 per cent., at Southern ports, while at other ports the increase was from $1,034,459,392 to $1,125,357,698, or by $90,898,306, equal to only 8.7 per cent., and in the five years between 1901 and 1906 it advanced from $57,511,418 to $101,206,145, or by $43,694,727, equal to 75.9 per cent., at Southern ports, and at all other ports from $795,990,747 to $1,125,357,698, or by $329,366,951, equal to 41.4 per cent."

"In 1906 the value of imports exceeded that of exports at Boston, New York, San Francisco, Chicago, and other districts not in the South, but Charleston and Tampa were about the only ports of importance in the South where there was such excess. Such ports as Baltimore and New Orleans are developing a considerable import trade, but for Southern ports as a whole much is yet to be done in that direction. The establishment of direct lines of immigration between European and Southern ports will sooner or later come about, and with the running of regular lines, instead of the tramp steamers which now do most of the South's export trade, the tendency to develop the import business will grow."

"A pair of 'Siamese' twin sisters from Bohemia, who, although of totally different temperaments—one being gay, the other merry and outspoken—live very happily together, will shortly appear at Vienna. The twins have separate pulses and constitutions, and if one is ill the other does not necessarily suffer. They sleep well, one lying on her right side, the other on the left. They grow as well educated, speaking French, English and German, and play the violin and the zither."

Trust to Nature.

A great many Americans, both men and women, are thin, pale, and puny, with poor circulation, because they have ill-treated their stomachs by hasty eating or too much eating, by consuming alcoholic beverages, or by too close confinement to home, office or factory, and the consequence the stomach must be treated in a natural way before they can rectify their earlier mistakes. The muscles in many such people, in fact in every weary, pale and thin-blooded person, do their work with great difficulty. As a result fatigue comes early, is extreme and lasts long. The demand for nutritive aid is ahead of the supply. To insure perfect health every tissue, bone, nerve and muscle should take from the blood certain materials and return to certain others. It is necessary to prepare the stomach for the work of taking up from the food what is necessary to make good, rich, red blood. We must go to Nature for the remedy. There are certain roots known to the Indians of this country before the advent of the whites which later came to the knowledge of the settlers and which are now growing rapidly in professional favor for the cure of obstinate stomach and liver troubles. These are found to be safe and yet very gain in their cleansing and invigorating effect upon the stomach, liver and blood. These are: Golden Seal root, Queen's root, Stone root, Bloodroot, Mandrake root. Then there is Black Cherry bark. The medicinal principles residing in these native roots when extracted with glycerine as a solvent make the most reliable and efficient stomach tonic and liver invigorator, when combined in just the right proportions, as in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Where there is a bankrupt vitality—such as nervous exhaustion, bad nutrition—and thin blood, the body acquires vigor and the nerves, blood and all the tissues feel the favorable effect of this sovereign remedy. Although some physicians have been aware of the high medicinal value of the above mentioned plants, yet few have used pure glycerine as a solvent and usually the doctors' prescriptions called for the ingredients in varying amounts, with alcohol.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is a scientific preparation compounded of the glycerine extracts of the above mentioned vegetable ingredients and contains no alcohol or harmful habit-forming drugs.

HALL GETS FIFTEEN YEARS.

General Rejoicing Among Better Class of People in Salisbury Over the Conviction of Hall.

Salisbury, Aug. 10.—George Hall, the ex-convict who led the lynchers Monday night, was tried before Judge B. F. Long in the Rowan county court house here today for conspiracy, found guilty and sentenced to fifteen years in the penitentiary, the jury being out but a few minutes.

This has been a very interesting day in court. The trial of Hall began early and continued until late. Solicitor Hammer sprung a surprise in trying the defendant on the charge of conspiracy, rather than of murder. The special venire summoned here was not used at all. The crowd in the court room today was small. The multitude has not enthused over the case. The feature of the day was the appearance of Governor Glenn as a witness. The defendant subpoenaed him in to say where he was on the day that he issued the call for the special term of the court now in session.

It was the intention of Governor Glenn to leave here on an early train, but he was left. There is general rejoicing in Salisbury tonight among the better people over the conviction of Hall. The charges against Billy Boy, George Gentle and Francis Cress may not be pressed at this term of the court. Judge Long and the solicitor and the sheriff are tired. Court will be in session tomorrow, but nothing exciting is promised.

When court convened at 10 o'clock this morning, the court house was about two-thirds full of people. Since Monday the crowd has dwindled. The audience on that day was one of the largest that I ever saw in a court house. Those who had come here to lynch the prisoners at the bar were in the court room. They were not there to hear and heed but to get a view of the negroes.

Solicitor Hammer announced this morning that he would call case No. 112 on the docket, in which George Hall is charged with breaking and entering jail, with the intent to kill. Evidently the prosecuting attorneys had concluded to postpone the trial for murder.

Hall is represented by Messrs. T. F. Klutz and Walter Murphy. They offered to the court a plea to the jurisdiction, which held that, according to article 3, section 12, of the constitution of North Carolina, that the special term called by the governor while in Atlantic City was unlawful.

Mr. Hammer said that it was his opinion that the commission should have been signed by the lieutenant governor, in the absence of the chief executive.

APPEAL FOR $1 DONATIONS.

Chairman Griggs Asks Loyal Democrats to Respond to Call.

Washington, Aug. 11.—Chairman James M. Griggs, of the Democratic Congressional Committee, yesterday started the wheels in motion to collect dollar subscriptions from the Democrats of the country. He began by sending out 30,000 circulars to as many persons, who put up $1 apiece for the Bryan campaign in 1900. The circular is written in the best style of Chairman Griggs. It reads as follows:

"To All Democratic Voters: If there ever was a time in the history of the Democratic party for a manifestation of loyalty and patriotism on the part of its members, it is right now. If we are to win a victory and elect a President two years hence we must first elect a House of Representatives this fall. A Democratic House can and will investigate every department of the government. With all of these honey-combed with 'graft,' the edges of which only have been touched by recent exposures and prosecutions, there will be a revelation of rottenness that will astound the country and create a demand for a Democratic administration to clean up the government workshop. To win the House we need money to defray legitimate expenses to get our vote. We have no protected monopolies from which to draw to fill our coffers, as they do those of the Republican party. We must, therefore, appeal to loyal Democrats for contributions."

"Will you send us $1 at once, and in return for this we will send you copies of our campaign literature issued by the committee. You will have the thanks of the entire Democratic party for your favorable response to our request. Address all remittances to J. M. Griggs, Washington, D. C."

Copies of the circular will be forwarded today to 3,500 weekly Democratic papers, with the request that they publish it. The officers of the committee expect a prompt response from the faithful and believe that the war chest will be filled to overflowing by dollar subscriptions.

New Portrait of Lee. Mr. George B. Mathews, the noted painter of large decorative studies, is engaged on a mammoth canvas which is to be exhibited at the Jamestown Exposition in 1907. The picture, which will represent General Lee surrounded by the members of his staff, is to be eighteen feet in length and nine feet high. The stretcher for this enormous canvas has been especially constructed for Mr. Mathews, so that it can be taken apart and the picture shipped without danger of injury.

The portrait of General Lee and his staff will be exhibited in the Department of Fine Arts, which will embrace the exhibits of paintings, drawings, engravings, sculpture, architecture, landscape design and photography. In order that only the very best works of art may be placed in this department, a jury will be appointed to pass upon the admission of each exhibit.

Mr. Mathews has quite a reputation for portrait painting, as well as for larger decorative work. For some time he has been connected with the Corcoran Art Gallery, in Washington, D. C.

GRAND DUKE NEARLY SLAIN.

Attempt at Assassination is Made During Imperial Guards' Manoeuvres.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 11.—Grand Duke Nicholas Nikolaevitch, president of the council of national defence, narrowly escaped assassination yesterday afternoon at the hands of the Imperial Guards in the guard camp at Krasnoye-Selo.

Thus far the Associated Press has only been able to obtain meagre details of the affair, from which it appears that the Grand Duke was personally reviewing, manoeuvring and putting the troops through blank-firing practice when he suddenly was startled by the wasp-like hiss of bullets about his head. Fortunately neither himself nor his horse was touched. The command to cease firing was immediately given and the soldiers of the regiment from which the bullets came were marched back to their quarters and an investigation was begun in the hope of ascertaining from the barrels of the rifles which of the soldiers fired ball cartridges. Several arrests are understood to have been made.

One of the Grand Duke's aide-de-camp who, however, was not present, advanced to the Associated Press the theory that possibly the bullets were fired by accident, but he considered that beyond a doubt there was a plot on the part of a number of disloyal guardsmen, who deliberately planned to take the Grand Duke's life under cover of the general blank cartridge firing.

"There was no more an accident," the aide-de-camp said, "than was the firing of the charge of grape from the saluting battery at the Winter Palace on the occasion of the ceremony of blessing the waters of the Neva by the Emperor a year and a half ago."

The bold attempt on the Grand Duke's life caused an immediate change in the plans of the Emperor, who had arranged to go to Krasnoye-Selo today and spend a week with the soldiers of his Imperial Guards.

It was definitely established that the shots were fired by the first battalion of the sharpshooters of the guard, who advanced in rushes while making a sham attack on an entrenched position. Fully a hundred shots were fired, but the impatience of the conspirators led them to open fire at such a distance as to frustrate their object. Before the manoeuvres began all the ball cartridges were taken from the troops and the officers had taken the precaution to make a special examination of the cartridge pouches of the soldiers immediately before the inauguration of the movement of the troops.

W. I. Fletcher was instantly killed. Lee Brooks, a negro, was covered with burning alcohol and received burns which will prove fatal and the entire building was gutted by fire as a result of an explosion in the rectifying room of the wholesale liquor house of Joppet & Co. at Houston, Texas, Friday. Fletcher was foreman of the department in which the explosion occurred. The loss is estimated at $75,000.

BURGLAR PROOF SAFES.

Vaults Built of Armor Plate With Dovetailed Joints.

The introduction of harveized armor plate construction may fairly be described as the most important step ever taken in the development of burglar proof vaults. A vault of armor plate, with its joints dovetailed together and keyed from inside of the vault and provided with a circular door ground into the armor plate front, is proof against any method of burglar attack.

The harveized plate has been forced and the necessary pressure is covered with a coat of varnish and heated for several weeks in a furnace until the plate, which is the hardening element, has eaten down several layers into the body of the plate. The plate is then reduced to size, and the joints are forced into each other.

METHOD OF JOINING ARMOR PLATE VAULTS AT THE CORNERS.

The vault is machined and ground down to the dovetailed shapes shown in the engraving representing the system of joining the corners of angles. After these joints have been machined and ground to an exact fit the plates are heated and then hardened. The vaults are built with the hardened surface on the outside. The dovetails are formed with one face square and the opposite face cut at the desired angle. The dovetails are so arranged that the dovetails slide snugly into place as the plates are drawn together, and after they have been brought home long, leveling strips and key pieces are driven into place from inside the vault, locking the plates securely in position. The joint as thus formed is so close and massive that it is proof against any attack by floating nitroglycerin in from the outside, and wedges will make absolutely no impression upon it. The hard face splintering the wedges just as it does the hard point of a projectile. For the same reason the drill is useless, and, as for the method of attack by using the light and taking the temper out of the steel, it is sufficient to say that the conditions necessary for the use of the are so difficult to obtain that no burglar could use it without detection. The making public need lose no sleep over the electric are scarce, of which we rarely heard so much.

LIQUID ELECTRICITY.

A Wonderful Discovery Claimed by an Italian Inventor.

Professor Adolphe Tame, the director of the electrical company La Gada at Oneglia, in Liguria, Italy, claims to have discovered after seven years of patient study a method of electrifying water or some similar fluid so that it can be used to drive any vehicle and to convey light or heat without any difficulty, the reservoir of liquid being itself the accumulator, and the force is conveyed by wires. The receptacle in which the fluid is held is the special invention of M. Tame, and his experiments prove that an automobile of twenty horsepower carrying twenty persons of the magical water can make a run of ten hours at a cost of 2 cents per kilowatt hour; moreover, that electricity only loses 1.75 per cent of its power in passing into the liquid. It is prophesied by those who have witnessed M. Tame's experiments that the world will henceforth be driven by electrified water instead of steam and that such a need a little extra energy will be able to take it in the form of liquid nourishment they can affect. There seems indeed no limit to the advantages of the new discovery and Italy is to be congratulated on having followed up her great scientific sons, Volta and Marconi, by another, who has wrested some of the secret secrets of her power from the domain of Electricity.

Trying to Abolish Flies.

A prize of $100 has been awarded to the Paris Martin to the inventor of a new method of getting rid of flies. The method is strictly scientific and, it is claimed, will completely destroy the eggs, which are deposited in drainpipes. Crude benzine mixed with water is used for household disinfecting purposes. The drainpipes become lined with the benzine which both kills the eggs already deposited and precludes the deposit of more. When desired the petrol can be washed out in soil and the latter is thoroughly efficacious in destroying the eggs. The operations should be carried out in the spring to obtain the best results.

Dust on a Pin Point.

A very simple experiment made by a recent bacteriologist determines in a startling manner the potential danger associated with accumulations of dust in living rooms. A pin point of dust is found to convey as much dust as so many millions of bacteria. This yielded more than 3,000 colonies of living bacteria when cultivated on gelatin, and although fortunately every species was not representative of disease yet the danger was potent sources of disease and danger to health.—Boston Telegraph.

BLAZING METEORS.

The Short Lived Splendor of a Shooting Star.

A small body as large as a paving stone or not as large as a marble is moving round the sun. Just as a mighty planet revolves in an ellipse, so this small object will move round and round in an ellipse, with the sun in the focus. There are at the present moment inconceivable myriads of such meteors moving in this manner. They are too small and too distant for our telescopes, and we can never see them except under extraordinary circumstances.

At the time we see the meteor it traverses a distance of more than twenty miles a second. Such a velocity is almost impossible near the earth's surface. The resistance of the air would prevent it. Aloft in the emptiness of space there is no air to resist it.

In the course of its wanderings the body may come near the earth and within a few hundred miles of its surface, of course, begins to encounter the upper surface of the atmosphere with which the earth is inclosed. To a body moving with the appalling velocity of a meteor, a plunge into the atmosphere is usually fatal. Even though the upper layers of air are excessively attenuated, yet they suddenly check the velocity, almost as a rifle bullet would be checked when fired into water. As a meteor rushes through the atmosphere the friction of the air warms its surface; gradually it becomes red hot, then white hot and is finally driven off into the vapor with a brilliant light, while we on the earth, one or two hundred miles below, exclaim:

"Oh, look! There is a shooting star."

A FISH HOOK.

The One You Should Buy and the Test You Should Try.

The most common flaw in the temper of the hook. Some hooks are brittle and break easily. There are other hooks still that bend, and bend so easily that they "straighten" on every big fish, and yet other hooks that bend, but bend so hard that a big fish never flexes them, and they only straighten and come away when the full tension of the line is laid upon them if caught on a tough snag or tree bough. These last are the hooks to buy—if you can find them—and the hard breaking hooks classify next in merit. Tests by the eye are quite useless, as so many hooks carry exactly the same tints in blue or black. Test the hook instead by the hand, catching the point in a firm bit of wood and trying it out both by the hard, firm pull and by the jerk. Watch particularly in this trial for weakness at the foot of the barb, where the wire is apt to be attenuated overmuch and the whole point give way on a strong fish, especially if hooked in bone or very hard gristle. What vast depths of angling profanity, in spirit if not in word, have been stirred in boat and on bank when the pointless hook comes away from the hard playing fish must be left to memory.—Outing Magazine.

Telling Time by Flowers.

"With a little time and labor it would be possible to construct a garden whose flowers would combine to make a first rate clock," said the botanist. "It is 5 a. m. when the sow thistle opens," he continued. "It is 5:30 when the dandelion opens. It is 7 when the white lily opens. It is 8 when the hawkweed opens. At 11:12 a. m. the sow thistle closes. At noon precisely the yellow goat's beard closes. At 2 p. m. the hawkweed closes. At 5 the white lily closes. The dandelion closes at 8 sharp. Since Pliny's time forty-six flowers have been known to open and shut with great punctuality at certain hours of the day and night."

Bills of Different Birds.

The bill of the canary is built for crushing seeds—has strength, but in many of the doves the bill is slender and weak. Many of the pigeons and doves that feed on seeds have gizzards that are large and muscular—crushing and grinding being accomplished in that way.

It is difficult to say how much birds experience taste, probably in a small degree. Ducks and parrots have soft, fleshy tongues, but in most birds much of the tongue is sheathed in horn. Food may be selected by intuition as to what is wholesome, more than by taste.—St. Nicholas.

Purity of Milk.

In Paris the municipal chemists accept milk as pure when it contains one ounce of butter and four ounces of solids per quart. At Bern milk must contain at least 3 per cent of butter and may contain 90 per cent of water. At Berlin the police seize all milk offered for sale which is below the legally required standard of 2.7 per cent of fatty matters. This allows the dairymen to add with safety from 10 to 13 per cent of water to fairly rich milk.

COTTON PICKING MACHINE.

Simple but Ingenious Device for Gathering the Crop.

A number of devices have been invented to take the place of hand labor in gathering the cotton crop. With one exception, however, all have proved failures. The principal defect has been that the machines would harvest the immature as well as mature cotton. Unlike grain, cotton does not ripen with any uniformity, and a field must be gone over several times after the bolls begin to open. During the last harvesting season, however, a machine was used in several of the southern states which picked only ripe cotton, the other plants being untouched.

This picker is notable for the simplicity of its construction. Power is obtained from an ordinary gasoline engine such as is utilized in automobiles of the smaller types. The engine, which is mounted on the rear of the truck frame, is employed not only to move the picker over the field, but to operate the mechanism by which the cotton is harvested and placed in the storage receptacles. There are four of the latter attached to the sides of the machine. They consist merely of cloth cylinders.

The lint is conveyed to the receptacles by tubes which are attached to a series of picking devices. The lower portions of these tubes, which are made of sheet iron, terminate in steel conduits of the same diameter inside. Each conduit contains a fan, which serves two purposes. It cleans the cotton, blowing out any bits of leaves or other foreign matter which may have been caught up with the lint by the picker arm and drives the lint through the tube into the receptacle with which it is connected by air pressure.

The picker arms are dirigible in design and comprise eight in all, four attached to the forward section of the machine and four to the rear section, all of course being connected with the tubing leading to the cotton receivers and working in connection with fans. The picker arms are fastened to the conduits by means of hinged joints and each consists of a case inclosing an endless belt, which revolves upon pulleys placed at either end. This belt is provided with a series of curved teeth. At its outer end the upper part of the casing is cut away, so that the belt is exposed for several inches. When the cotton is to be removed from a boll the operator directs the outer end of the picking arm in such a position that the teeth engage the lint. As fast as it is stripped from the boll it is carried by the endless conveyor to the blowing casing, as it is called, doffed and forced through the tube into the receiving bag.

There are seats provided on the machine to carry four operators, and each operator is provided with two picking arms, one for each hand. The arrangements of seats and picking arms is such that when facing in the direction in which the machine is traveling over the field the two rear operators face to the right, one picking one side of the center row and the other picking one side of the left outside row. Thus all of the center row and one-half of each of the outside rows, in all equal to two rows, are picked.

Coal Soaked in Sea Water.

Important experiments are being carried on by the naval authorities at Portsmouth, England, to ascertain the extent of the steaming properties of Welsh coal which has been improved by storage in the sea.

Eighteen months ago iron crates, each containing two tons of coal, were sunk in a big basin in the dockyard. At the same time a similar quantity of coal was carefully stored in the open air at a cooling point and sheltered by tarpaulins.

At intervals of six months samples of each storage have been burned. The results have shown conclusively that by the submarine storage of coal its calorific value steadily increases, while by storage in the open air a decided decrease is shown, especially in the tropics.

The admiralty has now directed that experiments be made to ascertain its practicability on a large scale.

Coal Saving Engine.

A new type of engine, known as the "monkey motion" pattern, which, it is said, will revolutionize steam locomotion on railroads, has been successfully operated on the Southern Pacific. A train of 1,500 tons was hauled from Ogden to Wadsworth, Nev., by one of the new engines. All the driving mechanism is on the sides, making it easy of access. The steam exhausts very rapidly and there is no back pressure. It is estimated that the new engine will save from 25 to 40 per cent in coal consumption, being able to run fifty-four miles with one ton of coal as against twenty-five to twenty-eight miles under the present system.

Temperatures Underground.

Careful tests made in a German well which has been drilled more than a mile into the earth proved that the average rise in temperature is about 1 degree F. for every fifty-five feet in depth.

"SHALL MOB OR COURT RULE?"

Judge Long Instructs Rowan Grand Jury in Trial of Lynchers.

Salisbury, Aug. 8.—"The mills of the gods grind slowly, but they grind exceeding small," was the sentence Judge Long used this morning when he was delivering his charge to the grand jury. Upon his face was still that restless, puzzled determined expression that bodes ill for any man convicted of participating in the mob of Monday night.

Judge Long called the court at 10.40. Barring the keeping of his engagement with it at this hour, it was an unnecessary session. Truly, "the mills of the gods" do grind slowly, and the grand jury has not yet made presentment of the case against George Hall, who is known to be one of the men leading the mob to its death-dealing work of torture and mutilation. Another arrest has been made and the evidence against a fellow by the name of Cress is being worked up.

Solicitor Hammer is being urged to proceed with his work against Hall. The people wish to see an example made of him, and his trial concluded while the military is here to protect him and the town.

Judge Long was still harder on the mob this morning. He said: "The court is informed that a kinsman of the murdered people plead with that end of cut-throats and murderers to let the law proceed. Any man who aided and abetted in that lynching was guilty of murder in the first degree. Any man who gave encouragement by word or presence or took any part in it was guilty of murder in the first degree."

"It is an extraordinary occurrence. If it had taken place immediately after the crime or before the court had convened, the judgment of the people would have been that it was a great wrong, but not entirely without palliation. But the court was in session. The prisoners, although having counsel, were without means or influence to defeat justice. I was glad that they had it, for I would have been compelled to appoint counsel. But the solicitor also was assisted by two of the ablest lawyers in the country. We did not know whether any or all of the prisoners were guilty. We came here to investigate and in defiance, and in the very nose of the court these prisoners were taken out and murdered."

"The question now is simply whether the law shall be enforced by the courts or by a mob, and Rowan county shall to a man take a stand on that proposition. When sifted to the bottom you will find, as I have said before, that no man of character and standing was in that mob. I am going to perform my duty as I see it and have no fear. I said before I apprehended any trouble that the law of the land is stronger than any local mob. I do not take that back, notwithstanding the shots about my ears that night. 'The mills of the gods grind slowly, but they grind exceeding fine.' A better and an abler judge will be here to take my place when I retire from the bench. And another will take up this work when my duties call me elsewhere."

"The honor and integrity of Rowan must be preserved." The grand jury then retired to its deliberating room and the morning sitting was over.

J. HENRY GILMER.LYNCHINGS ARE TOO FREQUENT.

It is a sad commentary upon our age that, with all our boasted civilization and progress, such affairs as the lynching at Salisbury last week are allowed in a free country. People who enjoy the privileges afforded by our republican form of government, and are given protection by its laws, are so unmindful of the fact that they owe allegiance to the government that they commit such an outrage in the presence of 3,000 people. The circumstances and scenes of the lynching beggar description. After the lynching, and while the negroes were suspended in the air Tuesday morning, the human vultures cut fingers and pieces of flesh from the bodies of the negroes for souvenirs.

The far-heralded prosecution of accused lynchers at Wadesboro, which was nothing more than a farce, encouraged lawless men, rather than being a lesson to men who, in the future, might be inclined to engage in mob violence. Several members of the Salisbury crowd have been arrested, and we trust the guilty ones will be punished. While the crowd numbered about 3,000 men, women and children, not more than 200 were anxious to see the negroes killed. Had the sheriff of Rowan county and the military company stationed at the jail displayed half the determination shown by Sheriff Jordan here Tuesday night, the result would have been quite different. The most daring mobs can be managed by a few brave, clear-headed and determined officers.

Lynchings are fast becoming common occurrences in North Carolina and other states. Several in recent months have heaped dishonor on the fair name of our commonwealth. As long as the leaders go unpunished, recurrences of the affairs at Wadesboro and Salisbury may be expected. Newspapers and public officials may condemn the practice, but their words of condemnation do not reach the right persons, and if they did, would have little effect upon them. The leader of the Salisbury mob was an ex-convict. The other members were not so much interested in seeing the negroes punished as they were anxious for human blood. Such a type of citizenship is dangerous.

Tuesday night, after a mob had wreaked its vengeance upon three of the negroes charged with the murder of the Lysteris, armed men stood about the Rowan jail and sentinels paced the streets of Salisbury, as if there were danger of another attack upon the prison. The remaining prisoners had been carried to Charlotte. It had been rumored in Salisbury on Monday that a mob would visit there that night, but no military companies were asked for by the sheriff, though the governor had promised any assistance needed. Then after the negroes had been lynched, after the trouble was over, after the "horse was out of the stable," soldiers were rushed to the scene, in order that they might march over the city and show that the arm of the law "was strong and mighty."

Whether or not there was danger of a mob's attack upon the jail here Tuesday night, Sheriff Jordan did the right thing in preparing for an emergency. With an armed force of deputies and the Gate City Guards surrounding the jail, a large force of men could have been encountered and successfully repulsed. As it was the men who intended making an attack saw that an effort to secure the prisoners would be futile and kept their distance. The result was satisfactory, and the dignity of the law was preserved. The promptness and determination of the sheriff are to be commended. His action might fittingly serve as an example, also.

Men guilty of lynching who give the "law's delays" as an excuse for their crime are not deserving of the delay in getting justice that they have by taking advantage of technicalities and appeals to higher courts.

YEARLY MEETING OF FRIENDS.

The great North Carolina yearly meeting of Friends for 1906 has become a part of history. Those who attended the sessions will never forget it, not only on account of the great spiritual benefit but also because of the splendid reports from every department. This has been the most prosperous year in the history of North Carolina Friends. Every department has shown not only an increased interest but also the great progress in the work. The limit set by the yearly meeting for new meeting houses to be started during a year is four, and the evangelistic and church extension committee reported three started and two ready for services. The spiritual condition of the membership is reported as good, although a plea was made for a revival of the good old-fashioned family worship.

The report of Guilford was exceedingly good. The report showed that the enrollment this year had reached high water mark—253, being 161 boys and 92 girls. Every department of the college reported a clear gain financially except the farm.

Rev. Allen Jay and his wife, from Indiana, were present during all the sessions, and Allen Jay was gladly listened to several times. He shows in his sermons that he means every word, so that he compels you to love him. To Allen Jay is due the freeing of Guilford College from the great debt which hung over it so long, so that everywhere all over North Carolina he is received with open arms and a "God bless thee, Allen."

Dr. George A. Barton, of New England yearly meeting, spoke several times and endeared himself to North Carolina Friends. His masterful sermons and addresses showed a powerful intellect and careful study and preparation.

Arthur Chilson and his wife, missionaries to Africa, and Arthur Payne and his wife, missionaries to Cuba, were present a part of the sessions and were gladly welcomed. Many people remember with thanksgiving the visit of Arthur Chilson to Guilford College six years ago.

At one session the meeting expressed its appreciation of the great labors of the clerk, President Hobbs, of Guilford College. President Hobbs is the recognized leader of North Carolina Friends, having held the office of clerk since 1886, although the clerk is elected every year.

The most important feature of the meeting was a paper, read by Mrs. Mary M. Hobbs, on "The Development of Spiritual Gifts." This paper was really a brief history of the Friends' Church, showing how the conditions have changed since the time of George Fox and William Penn and why the Friends do not need to fear "an invading minister" today.

The meeting ordered the paper to be published in the minutes and also in separate pamphlets.

The minutes close something like this: "Having been favored to transact the business which has claimed our attention in love and harmony, with thanksgiving in our hearts to our Heavenly Father, we adjourn to meet at Guilford College next year."

GUILFORD COLLEGE ITEMS.

The two hundred and nineteenth annual session of North Carolina yearly meeting of Friends closed at noon Monday.

The meeting from beginning to end was well attended, perfect harmony prevailed throughout all the various sessions, and much interest was manifested in the meetings for divine worship which were held from time to time.

In addition to the ministers belonging to this yearly meeting, we were favored with the attendance of Dr. George A. Barton, of Philadelphia; Allen Jay, of Richmond, Ind.; and Arthur M. Chilson, and wife, Edna Hill Chilson, who are shortly to attend the mission field in Africa, all of whom took part in the religious meetings.

The clerk of the meeting reported the business claiming the attention of the yearly meeting greater than ever before, and yet it was all attended to in a very satisfactory manner.

The reports from the various quarterly meetings show an increase of work done and money expended along the various lines of Christian work, and also a net gain of over three hundred members during the last year.

The committee having care of the yearly meeting property in High Point submitted a report favoring the sale of the same, provided a satisfactory price could be obtained.

Governor Glenn was in attendance at the meeting on Thursday, and in the afternoon made a very stirring address on the subject of temperance, or, rather, the suppression of the liquor traffic.

A resolution was adopted by the meeting condemning the action of the citizens of Salisbury and vicinity as manifested in the lynching which recently took place there.

The different quarters were all well represented. About 250 guests registered at the college dormitory and many boarded in private homes.

A horse belonging to a gentleman of Greensboro was killed by lightning during the storm Sunday afternoon.

Miss Treva Jones, of Winston-Salem, was the guest of Miss Alice Woody Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Annie Lois Henley, of Snow Camp, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. E. N. Worth.

Mr. Henry Stewart and sister, Miss Minnie, of Alamance Church, spent Sunday night at Mr. P. M. Stuart's.

Many of the alumni and old students were at the college Saturday evening to attend the old students' meeting. Mr. Edmunds, of Philadelphia, gave an address.

Miss Delia Raiford, of Conley, Va., came last week to spend some time with Miss Ida Millis.

Mrs. Charles Osborne, of Greensboro, spent last week with relatives and friends here.

Mr. William Stanley and family, of Aberdeen, are visiting Mr. Stanley's father, Mr. J. H. Stanley.

Misses Rosa Forlines and Cora Patterson, of Burlington, spent Sunday with Miss Ida Millis.

Misses Bessie and Jessie Hodgins, of Centre, and Miss Fountain, of Greensboro, visited Miss Nellie Knight last week.

"A SQUARE DEAL TO EVERY MAN"

PAYING OFF THE STATE'S INDEBTEDNESS

DURING THE PAST TWO YEARS the people of North Carolina paid in premiums to foreign life insurance companies an amount of money more than sufficient to pay off the state's entire indebtedness. If this vast sum could have been invested in North Carolina instead of going to enrich other sections, the state today would be wealthier by several million dollars. The people are awakening to the importance of this matter and by liberally patronizing home companies are showing a commendable disposition to change the existing order. They have learned that the GREENSBORO LIFE affords them the best protection to be had, at just and equitable rates, and they are giving this LEADING HOME COMPANY a larger share of their patronage than they are bestowing upon any other company. The GREENSBORO LIFE is closing its first year with a great deal more business on its books than any other company ever wrote in this territory in one year. "There's a reason."

CONSUMPTION CURES.

Stalin Physicians Experimenting With Various Methods.

General Dunning of Milan gives an interesting account of some experiments in the use of the Behring system of vaccination as a cure for consumption which have been carried on by a group of Italian experts:

"Several oxen which had been vaccinated with the Behring treatment were slaughtered with other oxen which had been under inspection for some months, while others were allowed to continue in life in order to further develop the effects of the treatment. These animals were slaughtered in Milan some time later under the direction of the physicians interested in the earlier experiments. Of four oxen killed, three had been vaccinated with the Behring treatment and afterward had the tuberculosis virus injected into their veins. The autopsy, while it did not show definite results, gave encouragement to the investigators. The ox which had not been vaccinated showed tuberculous conditions in a marked degree, while the three which had been subjected to the treatment had remained immune and had resisted successfully, unless unknown conditions affected the result, the several injections of virus intended to test the potency of the vaccination.

"The experts engaged on the test announced that at least two of the three oxen showed results which seem to indicate that this method for treating tuberculosis is at any rate well founded, though they expressly add that very much remains to be done. Other cattle will soon be killed for further experiments when the treatment they are undergoing has progressed to a more useful stage. The most important tests on the cure of consumption in human beings which have been undertaken in Europe for some years are now going on in several wards of the famous Ospedale Maggiore (the Great hospital) under the direction of Dr. Giuseppe Carcano, one of the most active of the younger practitioners of northern Italy. Using a serum which has already had a good trial in Belgium and France, Dr. Carcano made a special study of the subject in several countries of Europe and became so encouraged that he decided to take up experiments with human beings on his own account.

"The Carcano tests have apparently carried the matter farther than any similar effort has been able to go. Dr. Carcano stated to the consul he felt reasonably sure that in many cases he could absolutely cure consumption, because cures had already resulted from the use of the serum which he has adopted. While not making too sweeping a claim, he is anxious to have the treatment tested in as many countries and by as many persons as possible.

"The serum is about to be placed at the disposal of physicians and others in a form convenient for use during a period long enough to test its value. It is injected into the veins of the patient on the ordinary way by means of the hypodermic syringe. Meantime the hospital tests are continuing under the patronage of the foremost of the Italian physicians."

Modern Tunneling Shield.

The photograph herewith reproduced shows the front view of the machine that bores the subterranean passages for electric roads. It consists of a steel cylinder slightly larger than the tunnel to be driven, and it is furnished with a strong and sharp cutting edge at the front. This cylinder is forced forward by hydraulic rams. There are six arms, all radiating from a heavy center shaft. These arms are fixed strong chisels, and the arms are made to revolve by an electric motor at the back. The machine acts as an auger.

Harnessing the Rhone.

The Battell Rotherhithe tunnel, now being built under the Thames, will take five years to construct. Its length will be 6,883 feet, with an external diameter of thirty feet, which will allow a carriage of sixteen feet and two footways, four feet eight and a half inches wide. When it is finished there will be three tunnels under the Thames at London.

To Study Alcoholism.

The University of Berlin is the first educational institution in the world to establish a course of study in alcoholism. Every phase of the question is to be considered, including the influence of alcohol on the intellectual development of youths, its relation to insurance and the penal code.

TRICKS OF ORATORY

DEVICES USED BY NOTED SPEAKERS TO GAIN A POINT.

The Effect Demosthenes Attained by Mispronouncing His Words—The Trap Into Which the Eloquent Curran Drew a Witness.

One wonders of Demosthenes whether he ever in after years resumed of set purpose that habit of stammering which he had taken such heroic means to eradicate. A stammer is a most effective trick sometimes, and we know that Alcibiades found his lip by no means the least useful of his many winning ways. The trick in oratory combines both the conventional meanings of the word. It is sometimes a habit, sometimes a will, sometimes both.

Addison tells a capital story of a trick in forensic oratory. At Westminster hall "there was a counselor who never pleaded without a piece of packthread in his hand, which he used to twist about a thumb or finger all the while he was speaking. The wags of those days called it 'the thread of his discourse,' for he was not able to utter a word without it," as a foolish client proved once to his own cost, for he stole the thread, and his advocate came to utter grief.

Another clever sort of trick, the "taking dodge," to borrow a phrase from the vernacular, is the more generally interesting. The classic instance which naturally occurs to every one is Burke's famous "dagger scene" in the house of commons when he emphasized his peroration regarding the reign of terror in France by dramatically throwing a dagger on the floor of the house as an example of the methods of the apostles of liberty, equality and fraternity.

One of the tricks credited to Sheridan was very much on the lines of a famous "score" of classic times. A member whose admiration for the brilliant statesman was not tempered with discretion greatly annoyed Sheridan by continually ejaculating, "Hear, hear!" without rhyme or reason. Sheridan determined to give him a lesson. At the close of one of his speeches, denunciatory of some individual, he used the words, "Where shall we find a more foolish knave or a more knavish fool than he?"

"Hear, hear!" came as usual from the troublesome enthusiast. Sheridan bowed, thanked him for so obligingly supplying the required information and resumed his seat.

And long centuries before Demosthenes, inveighing against an opponent who was suspected of receiving subsidies from the court of Persia, passionately asked the crowded audience, "Is he not Mithotes—a hireling?" But as though inadvertently he mispronounced the words so obviously that the audience shouted out corrections from all points—"Misthotes! Misthotes!" the effect of which was to make the citizens themselves apply the opprobrious epithet.

Not very dissimilar in character is one of the many tricks attributed to Curran. He was engaged on a case wherein the principal witness on the other side was a gentleman of position whose evidence, if accepted, would be conclusive. In his opening speech Curran inveighed with all the bitterness and eloquence in his power against the chief witness for the other side, but without actually mentioning his name. When the time came for the witness—a Mr. Leger—to be sworn Curran interposed in the blandest way that this was surely a needless formality. Mr. Leger's character was such that he felt sure the jury would accept his simple assertion. The unfortunate man fell into the trap. "I am glad, Mr. Curran, you have a better opinion of me now than when you first spoke." "You admit, then, sir, that, though I named no names, you recognized my description as applying to yourself?"

Another of Curran's oratorical tricks is not unlike one Sheridan perpetrated on the house. In this case the last speaker, it will be remembered, had wound up his speech with a classical quotation, which, to judge from the plaudits it received, made a most effective point. Sheridan in his reply repeated the honorable member had not completed the quotation. He would do so himself, and the house would then see how fatal to the contention of the honorable member was the authority he had cited, whereupon Sheridan with magnificent dramatic effect recited a sonorous piece of gibberish! And the house applauded vigorously.

Curran's trick was at the expense of a preternaturally stupid jury. The judge happened to be a consummate classical scholar and, knowing Curran to be the same, was naturally astounded on hearing him quote a piece of Latin as coming from the Phantasmagoria of the historian Hesiod! "You mean Latin poet, Mr. Curran. Hesiod was a Greek, a poet and not a historian, and I doubt whether he ever wrote a work entitled the Phantasmagoria. The lines are Juvenal's." "Hesiod, my lord, I assure you, and Greek, not Latin." "You must be out of your senses, Mr. Curran, or think I am out of mine. The lines are Latin." "Well, my lord, I can only suggest that we leave it as an issue for the jury, and I'll be bound they will find it—Greek." The trick was perfectly effectual.—London Globe.

A Chesterfield Retort.

When Lord Chesterfield was in his last illness and his death was only a matter of a few weeks, his physician advised him to go for an easy drive in his carriage, and he went out. As the equipage was proceeding slowly along it was met by a lady, who remarked pleasantly to the great invalid, "Ah, my lord, I am glad to see you able to drive out!" "I am not driving out, madam," answered Chesterfield. "I am simply rehearsing my funeral."

CONGRESSIONAL CAMPAIGN ON.

Appearances Indicate That Solid South
Will Be Represented by Democrats, With Four Possible Exceptions—The Situation in North Carolina.

(W. W. Price, in Charlotte Observer.)

Washington, August 13.—During the past two weeks the offices of the Democratic congressional campaign committee in this city have assumed an air of liveliness and activity, and a general stir is noticeable in preparation for the fall elections. While visiting congressmen who make the bureau their headquarters while they are in Washington are not making rash statements in regard to the control of the next house, a fairly safe estimate concerning the composition of the sixtieth congress may be made. So far as the solid south is concerned, appearances indicate that the next congress will be one made up entirely of Democrats, with the exception of the ninth Virginia district, that seat being held now by Representative Sleptwo Tennessee districts and with the possibility of the eighth North Carolina returning Representative Blackburn, the only Republican from that state in the house.

In regard to the sixth Virginia district there is little doubt that it will be in the Republican column, it having been taken by Representative, now Governor Swanson, because of his unusual popularity in the district. The district is largely Republican and indications point to a Republican representative being a member of the next house.

In North Carolina it is different. By the fluke two years ago Representative Blackburn got into the house over his Democratic opponent by less than 250 votes, and prominent Democrats who have been in Washington recently from the territory represented by Mr. Blackburn say that they will carry the district and redeem it to the Democratic fold without a doubt, and that Black-burn's refusal to enter a joint debate with the Democratic candidate, Hackett, will have a telling effect at the polls.
On the other hand, Republicans say that there is no necessity for Blackburn to meet Hackett, as there is nothing to discuss. The recent convention at Greensboro, when Judge Spencer Adams defeated Blackburn for state chairman after one of the most acrimonious campaigns that has ever been waged, is described by some as being entirely "harmonious." Democrats, however, say it will tell on Blackburn's vote, as some of Adams' friends will not support the former. North Carolina has also swapped Gudger for Crawford in the tenth district and Patterson for Galloway in the sixth. These are all Democrats, however, and the result will not effect Democratic issues.

Alabama has swapped Bankhead for Hobson, of Merriam fame, and in the other southern states the make-up of the next house will be practically the same as this year. South Carolina, Mississippi, Georgia, Florida, Louisiana and Texas will return solid delegations of Democrats and Tennessee will likewise send a delegation of Democrats with the exception of Hale and Brownlow, Republicans. The two Tennessee districts now in the Republican column will probably not be given much attention by the Democratic congressional committee, but there is a good possibility, it is believed, to clear North Carolina of Republicanism, and a good fight will undoubtedly be waged there to get Blackburn out of the house.

The main stamping ground of Chairman Griggs and his assistants will be in the states of Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Wisconsin, the Democrats having only one member from each of these states in the house at this time.
This is an unnatural condition, viewed from a Democratic standpoint, without precedent, and only due to the great personal popularity of President Roosevelt in 1904.

The states of California, Nebraska, Kansas and Michigan have not a single Democrat in their delegations, and it is conservatively believed that this will never occur again.

In the New England states it is possible that little Democratic headway will be made. There are three Democrats in the house at this time from Boston, and one of the two members from Rhode Island is a Democrat. These will probably be reelected, but no gain is looked for to swell Democratic ranks.

The hardest proposition now before Democratic leaders is how to get a lead in the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Connecticut, where these delegations are solidly Republican, not a Democrat being among them. Just how to secure a foothold is perplexing the men at headquarters more than they are willing to admit.

Out of 37 representatives from New York, Democrats only have 11 at this time. It is believed that a gain of five will be made there. One member is all that the Democrats could get from the ten New Jersey representatives now in the house, and it is confidently believed that at least three districts will be Democratic next time.

The greatest inequality exists in Pennsylvania, where the proportion is one Democrat and 31 Republicans. It would not be surprising to see three, or perhaps four or five, Democrats in the next house from that state on account of the dis-sentiments growing out of the anti-machine movement in that state.

The herculean task of securing 56 districts this fall in order to get control of the next house is the proposition that Democratic leaders are handling, and one that is viewed with more than ordinary interest by Democrats and Republicans alike.

THE COAL PRODUCTION OF NORTH CAROLINA.

For several years practically all the coal production of North Carolina has been from one mine, the Cumcock, near Egypt, in Chatham county. The output has been very irregular and during the last three years has notably declined. The largest production in recent years was in 1899, when 26,896 short tons were mined.

There are two areas in North Carolina, says Mr. E. W. Parker, statistician of the United States geological survey, in a forthcoming report, in which coal occurs. Both of these are found in the Triassic formation and are of the same age as the Richmond coal basin, in Virginia. The two areas are known as the Deep and Dan river fields, being named from the two rivers that drain them.
The only productive beds at present are in the Deep river district, in Chatham and Moore counties.

UNCLE SAM TO BUY SILVER.

First Purchase in Thirteen Years—From 1879 to 1900 the Plan Has Been to Recoin Old and Uncurrent Subsidiary Coins, Which Accumulated in the Treasury.

Washington, August 13.—For the first time in thirteen years the government announced today its purpose to purchase silver for coinage purposes. Tenders are invited at the office of the director of the mint in this city on Wednesday, the 15th instant, up to 1 p. m. and every Wednesday thereafter until further notice. These tenders are to be for delivery at the Philadelphia, New Orleans or Denver mints, settlement to be on the New York basis, of bullion guaranteed 999 fine. The treasury reserves the right to reject all tenders or accept such part of any tender as may suit its convenience. It is understood that anticipating that its reappearance as a purchaser might temporarily disturb the market unduly, the treasury has obtained control of considerable amount for future delivery, so that it is in a position to drop out of the market for several months if desirable. The average requirements of the treasury throughout the year will not exceed 100,000 ounces per week, and it will be the policy of the department, while keeping a reasonable amount on hand, to so distribute its purchases throughout the year that its demands will be uniform and not an element of uncertainty in the market.

Recoinage of Old Coin.

From the resumption of specie payments in 1879 down to the year 1900 the constant increase in the stock of subsidiary coin required by the growing population and trade of the country was supplied by the recoinage of old and uncurrent subsidiary coins which accumulated in the treasury under the resumption act. In 1900 as this stock was running low, authority was granted in the monetary act of March 14 to the secretary of the treasury to divert bullion purchased under the act of July 14, 1890, for the coinage of silver dollars to the coinage of subsidiary pieces. Under this authority about $33,000,000 has been coined since 1900.

The stock of bullion in the treasury has exhausted more than a year ago and since then no bullion has been available for subsidiary use.

The Stock Low.

The stock in the treasury had become so low that it was apparent, according to the department, that the demands of a constantly enlarging trade could not be met without additional coinage. The secretary of the treasury was in doubt whether existing statutes authorized him to buy bullion for this purpose, and,
moreover, was of the opinion that it would be a better policy to meet future demands for subsidiary coin by the re-coinage of silver dollars in the treasury, and so recommended to congress. Congress, however, having failed to act upon his recommendation, Secretary Shaw requested an opinion from the attorney-general as to his authority to purchase bullion for this purpose under existing law and received a favorable reply, based on section 3526 of the revised statutes. The policy now announced was accordingly determined upon.

The government has been out of the market for the purchase of silver since 1893, except as the agents of the Philippine government in the purchase of a little over thirteen and one-half million ounces, costing $7,376,965, or an average of $0.547.

The lowest price for silver was touched on December 3, 1902, when the price on the London market was equivalent to $0.478 per fine ounce; the average for last year on the London market was 61 cents per ounce and for the month of July last 66 cents per ounce.

LABOR TROUBLES IN COAL MINES.

There have been few years in the coal mining history of the United States when there was less time lost through labor disaffections than during 1905, says Mr. E. W. Parker, statistician of the United States geological survey, in a forthcoming report on the production of coal in 1905.

The most serious trouble experienced last year was in Illinois and was the result of the enactment of what is known as the shot-liver's law. This law, which was highly obnoxious to the operators, required the employment of additional men and necessitated, therefore, an extra expense which the operators in a number of cases refused to pay, claiming it was a violation of the agreement that the expenses of mining coal were not to be increased by any action of the miners, and that this legislation had been obtained at the instance of the miners' union. A number of strikes resulted, and as a serious disturbance of the peaceful conditions which had existed in Illinois for several years seemed imminent, the matter was submitted to the arbitration of Judge George Gray, who had been chairman of the anthracite coal strike commission. Judge Gray decided that the expenses should be equally divided between the miners and the operators. Work was resumed when the arbitration was decided upon and the rest of the year was comparatively free from strike suspensions.

The number of men on strike in Illinois during the year was 15,280, or 47.6 per cent. of the total number of men in bituminous mines idle on account of strikes for the United States. These 15,280 men were idle an average of 21 days, the total number of working days lost by them amounting to 321,967, or 42 per cent. of the entire time lost by strikes in all the bituminous mines of the country. Outside of Illinois the principal losses of time by reason of strikes were in Pennsylvania, where 5,686 men were idle an average of 33 days; in Ohio, where 3,250 men lost an average of 15 days; in Kentucky, where 923 men lost an average of 68 days; in Montana, where at one mine 200 men were on strike for 180 days; and in Alabama, where the strike inaugurated in 1904 is still officially in effect. In Iowa and Kansas there were comparatively large numbers of men on strike, but the time lost in each of the states was insignificant.

Caswell and Rockingham Tickets.

Reidsville, August 13.—The Caswell county Democratic convention nominated for senate C. H. King; for the house, Julius Johnson; clerk, R. L. Mitchell; register, F. W. Brown; sheriff, A. W.
Fitch; treasurer, G. H. W. Oakley; commissioners, P. M. Somers, T. P. Womack, S. P. Covington. This is regarded as a very strong ticket, and the Democrats count on getting a full majority.

The Rockingham primaries yesterday were the most largely attended of any held in years. It was noticeable that two or three of the ex-officio holders were absent from the primaries, and there has been a rumor to the effect that they were planning for an independent ticket.
The heavy attendance in the regular primaries will probably have the effect of putting this movement at an end.

It appears that F. M. Pinnix, present incumbent, defeats two opponents with something like 85 per cent. of the total vote; James T. Smith seems to have about two-thirds of the votes for clerk, defeating James V. Price, who has served for eight years; James A. Seales, register of deeds for the past twelve years, will probably receive a renomination on the first ballot by a safe majority over two other candidates.

The vote for the state senate is badly cut up, which is due to the good roads people here to consult with the anti-good roads people about who they desire for this office. Mr. McMichael, of Madison, is in the lead, and there is a good vote also for R. D. Reid, Col. J. M.
Galloway and P. B. Johnston, neither of whom are candidates. The Leaksville delegation is instructed to vote for Col.
L. K. Terry.

The legislative ticket will be T. W.
Hopkins and W. I. Witty, two of the county's most prosperous farmers, who have enough votes to nominate them on the first ballot.

ANARCHISM AND ITS REMEDY.

Subject of Secretary Bonaparte's Address at Alleghany Chautauqua—Views on Socialism.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 12.—Secretary of the Navy Charles J. Bonaparte delivered an address this evening at the Alleghany Chautauqua, near Cumberland, before a large gathering, his subject being "Anarchism and Its Remedy."

He referred to assassinations of Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley and said that the measures finally adopted, after Czolgosz's crime, to rid the country and the world of anarchists were purely palliatives. "We have now a home made brand of the anarchists," he said, "and, although the original 'plant' of this 'infant industry' was undoubtedly imported, the domestic product is large enough to gravely trouble us. Anarchism is the product of two conditions which prevail to a greater or less extent everywhere among the less enlightened classes of modern civilized society, namely, the decay of religious faith and a measure of superficial, and therefore unsound popular education."

He said that anarchism and socialism are two divergent stems growing from the same root—the doctrine that all men of right ought to be, and should therefore be, made and kept precisely equal.

"A socialist is essentially, although not always avowedly, or even consciously, one who sees that the equality demanded by this doctrine can be fully, or even approximately, secured only among slaves. A Southern plantation before the war constituted, so far as the negroes were concerned, very nearly a socialistic community; and they were probably as nearly equal among themselves human beings can be permanently kept. In this community a socialist merely substitutes for the omnipotent, omniscient master an omnipotent, omniscient corporation made up of the slaves one enslaves, enslaves each one of them, as an individual, to all, in their corporate capacity, and names the corporation 'the state.' An anarchist differs from him by seeing that he has in fact introduced a new source of inequality. For the corporation he creates can exercise authority only through agents and these agents must be of necessity armed with powers which make them no longer the equal of their fellows; just as if the master of the plantation made one of his slaves his overseer. The anarchist therefore demands that there be no such agents and no government at all."

"So much of the evil. How can it be cured. Anarchism is the product of cause which cannot be eradicated by legislation, however drastic, of causes which lie deep in the scheme of modern civilization. But it has been already made much less dangerous and harmful by being dealt with seriously and rationally, without regard to a little doctrinaire prejudice and a little pseudo-humanitarian claptrap."

"In the first place the unlawful acts prompted by anarchism should be made crimes, in so far as they are not, strictly speaking, crimes already, and, as such penalties as are particularly distasteful to the criminals and therefore the most effective deterrents."

"On anarchism the death penalty should be unequivocally imposed by law and flexibly exercised whenever the prisoner has sought, directly or indirectly, to take life; for offenses of less gravity, brief but very vigorous imprisonment, characterized by complete seclusion, deprivation of all comfort and denial of any form of distraction, supplemented by a severe but not a public whipping; the lash, of all punishments, most clearly shows the culprit that he suffers for what his fellowmen hold odious and disgraceful and not merely for reasons of public policy."

"Any abridgement from fear of the anarchists of that freedom of speech and of the press guaranteed us by our state and federal constitutions would be neither a wise nor a worthy policy."

"American public opinion should recognize the utter emptiness, the inherent folly of its theory and of all the kindred ready made furnished-whole-you-wait schemes for the social regeneration of mankind. 'Civilized society,' as it exists today, if it be nothing more, is the outcome of all the strivings for justice and happiness of the human race during thousands of years."

The state law of New York restricting the labor of women and children to 10 hours a day and 60 hours a week in a factory was declared Friday by Justice Olmstead, in a decision handed down in the Court of Special Sessions, to be "an unwarranted invasion of constitutional rights." The ruling was concurred in by Justice McKean and Justice Deul. Judge Olmstead declared that the law was class legislation.

Free Scholarships in Nurse Training. The Philadelphia School for Nurses has purchased large properties at 2219-25 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, and will extend the benefits of the Free Course in Nursing to young women of every rural community and of the smaller towns and cities throughout the entire country.

The course is two years, but may be shortened to eighteen months by six months' reading and study at home. The school provides room, board, nurse uniforms, gives full instruction, and pays the student's fare home at the end of the course.

A special short course is provided for those who cannot spend two years in the study but who wish to quickly prepare themselves for self-support. The object of those who are providing the funds for this work is to ultimately extend the benefits of skilled nursing to every village and township in the land.

The County of Dare.

Charity and Children.

Harder to reach than Boston, Roanoke Island, which is the eastern rim of civilization, is well worth the trip with all its changes and trials. The island is some twelve miles wide, with a population of 2,500, and containing the county town of Manteo, named after the big chief of the tribe of Hatteras.

We have always wondered why the county seat of Dare was established on an island cut off from the mainland by the sound. A citizen explained the situation by saying that Roanoke Island is the largest body of land in Dare county and within easy reach of the majority of its population.

Dare is mostly water. Sheriff Etheridge can reach nearly every citizen's home by boat, and if he owns a buggy he has little use for it. On the island there is some fairly good farming land, but most of it is wet and boggy. On the shore of the sea, some three miles away, there are great ranges of sand dunes that look like red mountains in the distance, and that shift from place to place, covering everything that lies in their pathway. At Nag's Head there are several buildings; they are doomed, and it is a pitiful thing to see the sand slowly creeping toward a home that must finally be buried fifty feet under the huge red hill. The place where the old hotel stood (which was burned some years ago) is covered with the sand and if the building had not been destroyed by fire it would have been overwhelmed by sand.

Nothing can stay the onward march of the monster. The wind blowing over it sends the delicate sheet down toward the south and it is curious to watch the process, so steady and yet so gentle, that results at last in utter destruction. It is one of the wonders of this section of the North Carolina coast, which abounds in so many things of natural as well as historic interest.

The principal business of the island is the fishing industry. Many varieties of valuable fish are caught and the business has reached immense proportions. The discovery of gasoline as a motive power makes boating easy and swift. Hardly a row boat can be found on the bosom of the broad sound, but even the smaller craft, which were formerly propelled by the laboring oarsman, glides over the water by gasoline power. It is an easy matter to get over ground (or rather sea), the average speed of the launches being from seven to nine miles an hour.

Manteo is a town of some six or seven hundred souls and resembles the ordinary seacoast village, which we have seen wherever the ocean roars. The streets are sandy, the water brackish, the plank sidewalks out of repair, the people slow in their movements and ready always to hear the stranger, and help him, too. The Manteo folks are intelligent and courteous. They believe in education and keep in close connection with the world from which they are detached by the muddy waters of the sound.

The island of Roanoke, as our readers know, is full of historic interest. Of course we visited the island where White's colony was last seen as the ship sailed away from the shore of England. A circular row of stones marks the outline of the old fort, while in the center stands a modest monument telling the simple story of the colony that vanished out of sight. It gives one a peculiar thrill to stand on the historic spot and see with his eyes the place where the history of our great old commonwealth had its beginning.

KILLED BY GIRL'S ADMIRER.

Shot Father in Self Defense When Attack Was Made Upon Him.

Greenville, S. C., Aug. 12.—Thomas F. Drake, a prominent and wealthy farmer, was shot and killed at his home, four miles from Anderson, last night by J. Allen Emerson. The trouble responsible for the tragedy is said to have grown out of Emerson's intimacy with Drake's daughter.

Emerson surrendered to the authorities immediately after the shooting and was brought here this afternoon and lodged in jail. There were no demonstrations of violence, the authorities taking this step out of the abundance of precaution.

According to the story which reaches here from Anderson Drake had learned in some way of Emerson's visits to his daughter. At midnight, evidently sure of his man, Drake opened the door of his daughter's bedroom and without a word opened fire on Emerson, who was in the room with Miss Drake. The father's aim was bad and his shots went wild. Emerson, at the first shot, pulled his pistol and fired, killing Drake instantly. Emerson then surrendered.

Drake was 50 years old and one of the most prominent planters of that section. He leaves a family. Emerson is 40 and a widower.

An inquest was held this afternoon and the responsibility for Drake's death placed at Emerson's door.

Emerson, who was a distant cousin of Drake's, held a minor county office. The daughter of Drake is said to have left for parts unknown.

CHINESE TO BUILD CANAL.

Samuel Gompers Intimates That American Federation Will Vigorously Oppose Proposed Innovation.

Theodore P. Shonts, chairman of the Panama canal commission, upon his arrival from Panama yesterday, confirmed yesterday's dispatch from Washington, that the United States government has planned to import Chinese labor to complete the work on the isthmus.

"It has been pretty well demonstrated," said he, "that we must have Chinese labor at isthmus and within a few weeks advertisements will be published calling for 2,500 Chinese laborers. The commission is in favor of this class of labor and the first lot will be in the nature of an experiment. It is probable that later a large force of Chinese will be put to work there."

Mr. Shonts' attention was called to a statement made in Washington by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, in which the latter complained of the suspension of the eight-hour labor law at the isthmus and declared that employment of coolie labor would violate the law excluding Chinese labor. Mr. Shonts said:

"The eight-hour law does not apply to unskilled labor on the isthmus of Panama. The entire present unskilled labor force is allied, and its application would have increased the labor cost of the canal several million dollars. The American laborer in this country would have to pay his share of the consequent increased taxation, without any compensating benefit to himself."

"As to the statement of Mr. Gompers that 'the existing law excludes Chinese laborers and coolies from the United States or any of its possessions,' the Panama canal zone is an American possession and it is as much a violation of the law to bring Chinese coolies there as it is in other portions of our country."

"I can only say that the commission had obtained the opinion of the highest legal authorities of the government. It has been held that such law does not apply to the canal zone."

"The law excluding Chinese from the United States and its possessions was passed in March, 1903, and specifically set forth that such laws should only be applicable to the territory at that time subject to the authorities of the United States. The canal zone was acquired subsequent to that date, and congress has not extended its provision so as to embrace the canal zone."

"Chief Engineer Stevens and myself have both handled Chinese laborers," he continued, "and we have found them very satisfactory. They do the work, and that is the principal object sought. We want to get the strong, hardy men from the rice fields of Southern China, and I apprehend little difficulty in obtaining as many men as we want."

For several months tentative negotiations have been going on in Wall street, looking toward the financing of the project to obtain Chinese labor for the completion of the canal. Among the institutions which have been sounded are the International Banking Corporation, of No. 60 Wall street, and the H. B. Hollins company, of No. 15 Wall street. Members of these firms say that individuals acting for the United States government have laid certain proposals before them, but that no official negotiations have as yet been entered into, and that no contract has been signed.

In a general way, it was stated that the undertaking would doubtless be financed by an American banking house and a German financial concern. A contract, it was said, would be made between the Panama canal commission and some agent who would procure from China the required number of laborers. About $800,000, it was said, would be required to carry out the work, and at first only 2,000 or 2,500 coolies would be brought over. New York Herald.

HIGH FALLS HOUSE PARTY.

Editor Patriot:—One of the most enjoyable occasions of the summer has been the house party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Woody. Quite a number of young people are being royally entertained. The guests began to arrive Wednesday, August 8, and the greater part remained until August 13.

One of the special features of the occasion was a post card party on the evening of August 9. The house was artistically decorated with ferns and pot flowers, while Japanese lanterns and American flags gave the porch that air of enjoyment which was characteristic of the evening. Between several interesting contests with post cards delightful refreshments were served.

Miss Mattie Oldham won the principal prize, which was a beautiful post card album.

A picnic on Deep river on Friday evening very fittingly followed. The pond is especially adapted to boat riding, and a beautiful lawn by the river side served as a table for supper. "Don't stand on ceremony" has been the prevailing sentiment of all the guests.

Those present were: Messrs. Torry Sharpe, James Glass, Charles Sharpe, Paul Coble, Albert Sharpe and Misses May Coble, Gertrude Sharpe, Nina Glass, Verla Sharpe, of Greensboro; Dr. Jesse Wilcox, Messrs. Clem McIntosh, Lester Shields and Miss Mae Cole, of Carthage; Mr. Flynn Arrowood, Misses Berta Carter and Annie Arrowood, of Elise; Messrs. Joe and Charles Davis and Misses Nannie and Maud Davis, of Glendon; Rev. E. B. Craven, of White Oak, Bladen county; Mr. C. W. Craven, of Sanford; Misses Mattie Oldham, of Carthage, and May Wrenn, of Siler City. Highfalls, August 13.

At Providence church, Chatham county, Saturday a monument to the memory of Mr. Abel Edwards and wife, Mrs. Olive Craven Edwards, was unveiled in the presence of one of the largest crowds ever assembled in the county. The exercises attendant to the unveiling were most impressive. Addresses were made by Rev. R. W. Bailey, Rev. J. B. Craven and others. Dinner was served from a table sixty feet in length.

Doubtless. "Do you believe in an actual devil who rules over a burning lake?" "Sure."

"Then how do you suppose he tortures his victims?"

"He probably asks them if it is hot enough for them."—Houston Post.

Talmage Sermon

By Rev.
Frank De Witt Talmage, D. D.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 12.—Like a refreshing mountain breeze, dispelling the heat, this sermon comes with its suggestion of atmospheric rejuvenation. The text is Hosea vi, 4, "Your goodness is as a morning cloud."

A saintly old preacher said in his later years: "If I had my life to live over again I would preach most of my sermons from familiar scenes of the Bible, like Christ feeding the multitudes with the loaves and the fishes. I believe Bible truths can best be driven home to the hearts of men by setting the changes upon the old familiar texts." That is true in one sense, but I believe also that an easy way to illustrate our sermon themes is from Bible similes drawn from nature. If any man is a lover of nature and will read the Bible intelligently, he will find the leaves of the sacred book literally filled with descriptions of natural phenomena. Furthermore, if you study church history, almost without exception you will find that the most popular preachers and the greatest winners of souls for Christ have been men like Henry Ward Beecher and John Mason and Thomas Guthrie and Rowland Hill and Thomas Chalmers, who loved the flowers and the stars and the birds and the snowflakes, the same as did David, the psalmist, and Hosea and Amos, the prophets, and Jesus Christ, many of whose parables have the aroma of the woods and the open field.

Take, for instance, the life of Charles Kingsley. Do you wonder he gripped the hearts of his hearers and readers as he did when you realize the nature lover that he was? One night, after he had recited to his guests the story of a Cornish shipwreck, he led his friends out into the open yard, where he stood under the pelting rain and looked up at a superb thunderstorm as he cried: "What a night! Look! Is it not splendid? This is a night when young men cannot talk or think too much poetry." It was said that he knew every nook and corner of his beloved country, in the center of which was his parsonage. One day when out walking his son asked him if he thought he would ever lose his love for the country. Charles Kingsley answered: "Nay. If my friends ever ask you that, tell them that I am now looking at the most beautiful scene I ever saw." Does not this sentence reveal the inner workings of a nature loving heart? Did not Charles Kingsley get many of his mightiest gospel lessons by catching the echoes of them in the falling waters as they tumbled down the cascade near to his own home? Indeed, I have always felt that a minister was not a fully developed teacher of God unless he can often find his text simultaneously from the book of nature and from the book of the Bible.

Nature's Lessons.

Now, Hosea, the prophet, draws from nature a most beautiful sermon simile. He seems to be standing by night upon one of the hillsides overlooking the city of Jerusalem. That great capital of the east is crowded with much wickedness and apostasy. All night long he stands there, with the roof of sky for his covering. He thinks of how the Hebrew people have sinned and how they have been punished and then repented and then sinned again. Their sins followed each other as soldiers in a line of march tread in each other's footsteps. Thus the great prophet of the east reviews the history of his beloved people. And as he weeps and mourns over the sins of the Hebrew race the stars pale and go out. Then the sunlight rims the eastern hills and turns the early morning clouds into curtains of gold. Then he sees the dewdrops glittering upon every leaf. Then as the sun climbs higher and higher in the heavens and he feels the day grow hotter Hosea sees those early morning clouds evaporate and the dewdrops disappear. Then, like a flash, springs from his lips the simile of the vapory repentances of the Hebrew race. "O Ephraim, what shall I do with thee? O Judah, what shall I do unto thee? For your goodness is as the morning cloud, and as the early dew it goeth away." Let us in God's name try to compare the vapory repentances of our lives to this beautiful feature of the morning clouds.

First we would turn to the meteorologist and say: "Oh, student of the cloud land, tell us how these morning clouds are formed. In the great family of clouds have they any individualities or peculiar characteristics?" The prose poet of England, John Ruskin, scans the hillsides of the heavens and lauds the beauty of all the clouds when he writes: "Nature has a thousand ways of rising above herself, but the noblest manifestations of her capability of colors are in the sunset among the clouds. There is no limit to the multitudes and no check to the intensity of the hues assumed. The whole sky, from zenith to horizon, becomes one molten, mantling sea of color and fire. Every black bar turns to dusky gold, every ripple and wave into unsullied crimson and purple and scarlet and colors for which there are no words in the language and no ideas in the mind—things which can be conceived only while they are visible, the intense hollow blue of the upper sky melting through it all, showing here deep and pure, there modulated by the filmy, formless body of the transparent vapor until it is lost, imperceptible in its crimson and gold." But Hosea, the prophet, is not alluding to all clouds of the heavens when he mentions the morning clouds, as did John Ruskin, scanning the whole heavens covered with gold. He is alluding to one particular kind of clouds.

Families of Clouds.

The meteorologist again says: "The morning clouds are scientifically known as the 'cumulus' clouds. Sometimes they are popularly called the 'day clouds,' or the 'summer clouds.' They are not the cirrus clouds, the white, feathery masses of condensed vapor that can be seen far up in the heavens four or five miles away from the earth, at times seeming to be higher than the stars. They are not the nimbus clouds or the clouds of the storm, with darker forehead than the black skin of the royal representative of Queen Candace's palace, who once journeyed to Jerusalem. The nimbus clouds often carry with them the unsheathed swords of fire and speak in the voice of many thunders. They are not the stratus clouds, whose lower layers sometimes form the fog banks lining the seashores and covering the fields which are sometimes called the clouds of the night." But they are the clouds near to earth, which are produced only in fair weather.

"Thus when a bright, warm, beautiful spring morning is about to dawn and the owl and the nightingale have gone to their nests, when the aurora has lifted itself above the horizon and the sun's rays begin to absorb the dew and the moisture near to the earth's surface, then the morning clouds appear. Then the meteorologist can see them sporting amid the tops of the lofty mountains, as sea gulls play hide and seek with the crests of the waves."

Ah, meteorologist, is that your definition of the morning clouds? Then I know what Hosea means when he says, "Your goodness is as a morning cloud." He means: "You are only a fair weather Christian. You are only a Christian when the sun is up and everything is bright. But you are no Christian for the time of storms."

A Morning Cloud Christian.

You say, "I am not a morning cloud Christian." Well, if you are not, then what are you? Can God with all His omnipotent power put his finger upon one act of your life where you were willing to deliberately sacrifice your own interests or your ease for him? Have you given to him any of your money? Have you given to him any of your time? When you saw his loved ones unjustly treated, have you been willing to leap forward and be sacrificed for their sake? When young Stephen Decatur entered the harbor of Tripoli a ship was pointed out to him which he was told was commanded by the pirate who had murdered Decatur's brother. Followed by his men, Decatur leaped aboard that boat and gave battle to the giant commander. While he was fighting the commander of the vessel he was flung upon the deck. Then a black skinned pirate seaman was about to bury his sword in him when an unarmed American sailor flung himself between the would be slayer and his beloved captain and took the descending sword on his own head. Are you and I ready to sacrifice ourselves for God as that humble sailor was ready to die for Stephen Decatur? Are we simply morning cloud Christians, unwilling to serve Jesus Christ except in fair weather, when the sun is bright and when all things are coming our way?

But there is still another fact to which I want to call your attention in reference to the beauty of my text. Johanna Eichhorn, the great German Bible commentator and critic, gives unstinted praise to the poetry imagery of Hosea's writings. He said: "His discourses are like a garland woven of a multiplicity of flowers. Images are woven upon images, comparison upon comparison, metaphor strung upon metaphor. He plucks one flower and throws it down that he may directly break off another. Like a bee, he flies from one flower bed to another that he may suck his honey from the most varied pieces. It is a natural sequence that his figures sometimes form strings of pearls." But amid all Hosea's poetic pearls and garlands there is not one more beautiful than this of the morning cloud. Why? The morning cloud is the first real beauty that we see in the heavens after the day has dawned.

On an Indian Reservation.

I was most powerfully impressed with this figure last year when up in an Indian reservation. The evening clouds and the morning clouds, in the language of the meteorologist, are one. It was the evening of a most beautiful day. The members of our party had broken camp in the morning and gone on ahead. I stayed behind in the woods in order to study and write. About 2 o'clock in the afternoon I shouldered my gun, threw my pack over my shoulder and started out to overtake them. I walked on and on toward the west. The sun, high in the heavens, began to drop lower and lower to the edge of the horizon. After awhile it was like a reflector shining directly at me, and I had to pull my felt hat down over my eyes to protect them. But no sooner did the sun fall behind the western hills than it shot its rays up toward the sky and began to tint the evening clouds in the most beautiful colors. Now they seemed to be mirrors of fire. Now they became great molten lakes of gold. Now they were turned into exquisite lace work. Now they seemed to be the great domed heights of the cathedrals of the heavens. Ah, it was a marvelous sight, the more marvelous because I knew that within a few moments, by the atmospheric law of complete darkness. Thus the figure of the morning clouds is the more beautiful because they are the gilded chariots of the day, which start to rumble across the boulevards of the sky as soon as the king of the barnyard has sounded his reveille to his harem and the farmer's boys awake from their sleep to go forth to do the chores and to care for the cattle.

"Now, what has the night and morning cloud to do with our vapory repentance?" some one asks. Why, do you not see? The darkness of the night represents terror or the punishment of sin. The morning cloud represents the short lived repentance which comes to some of us just after we have been punished. Our morning cloud repentances are a great deal like that of King Pharaoh and his courtiers when the plagues of Egypt came upon them. God said unto Pharaoh, "Let my people go." Pharaoh would not. Then the river Nile was turned into a river of blood, and every chalice the king lifted to his lips seemed to be filled to the brim with the refuse of the public slaughterhouse. Then the frogs came leaping up the palace stairs and crowded into every nook and corner, and, as cobblestones, they covered every street and they filled every hallway and bedroom. Then came the plague of murrain, which killed the cattle. Then came the falling hail and buzzing locusts. Then came the plague of darkness. So dark was it that all men had to feel their way around like blind men. Then came the death of the firstborn in every house. No sooner did these plagues come than Pharaoh would cry out: "Enough, enough, enough! O God of Israel, I have suffered enough! I will let thy people go." But as soon as the night of suffering and of punishment ended the beautiful morning clouds of his repentance only lingered a little while, and then they were gone and gone forever. Do you not see the beautiful simile of the repentances of our lives which come only because we are being punished for our past sins?

But there is another fact about these morning clouds you ought to consider. They live very near to the earth. They are the lowest clouds we have in the heavens. If I might use a vulgar illustration, they smell of the common soil. You know when you were housekeeper in the east every springtime you would carefully put away your winter garments, that the moths could not get at them. If they were furs, you were especially careful and wrapped them around and around. Then inside of these bundles you put a lot of camphor. Then, in the fall, the odor from that camphor in those garments was sickening. When you unrolled the bundles you at once shook the garments out and hung them up to air upon a line. Having been wrapped up for months in camphor, the garments smelled of the camphor. Thus are these morning clouds of repentance. They live so near to the earth that they never learn what repentance in Christ truly means. Let me explain more in detail.

Not Enough.

Here, for instance, is a man who has been a drunkard for fifteen years. His wife at last makes up her mind that for her own sake and for the sake of her children she will not stand the misery any longer. With that the husband begins to plead and beg. He says: "I repent. I will sign the pledge. I promise, I promise, I promise." Well, man, what do you promise? "Oh, I promise I will not get drunk any more." Is that all you promise? "Why, yes. What more do you want me to promise?" Or here is a woman who enters a rescue home. She says: "I promise, I promise." What do you promise? "Why, I promise that I will cease to be a social outcast." Is that all you promise? "Yes, that is all. What more do you want me to promise?" Is not that my besetting sin? Nay, my friend—nay, that is not your besetting sin. That is a mere result of your besetting sin. Your besetting sin is that you do not throw yourself upon the mercy of Jesus Christ and have him cleanse you wholly, and then he will give you strength to resist all sin. The gospel of Jesus Christ is not a mere matter of negotiation. It does not consist of a long succession of "don'ts"—don't do this and don't do that and don't do the other things. But it does consist in one positive assertive act, and then all the other attributes of a Christian life shall be yours. "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all things will be added unto you." The great trouble with our "morning cloud" repentances is that they live too near the soil and they smell of the earth early.

Are you ready to here and now seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness and have all things added unto you? John Gough, the temperance orator, used to tell this pathetic story: In Edinburgh many years ago there was a clubhouse rented for the purpose of caring for reformed drunkards. One night there staggered into that house a man who was appallingly drunk. "Do you know what place this is?" the superintendent said. "This is not a saloon. This is a teetotalers' club." "I know it," said the man. "I am a teetotaler." "You a teetotaler? Why, you are beastly drunk." "I know that," said the man. "I know I am awfully drunk, but I am a teetotaler just the same. I signed the pledge an hour ago, and I have not touched a drop since. I have come here for safety. I want to keep the pledge, but I know I cannot keep it in my own strength, so I have come here to have you help me keep it." Ah, the man was right. Not in his own strength could he keep the pledge. Not in our own strength can we keep from sinning. Let us sign the pledge. Let us resolve not to sin. But let us run to Christ to have him help us to keep that pledge. In our own strength we are helpless. Let us be like the cirrus clouds living high up in the heavens and not like the morning clouds living near the soil and of the earth, smelling earthly.

But the morning clouds, in addition to all their short lived beauty, are capable of producing the most marvelous optical illusions. The atmosphere is an elastic invisible fluid which surrounds our old planet. Its height has never been determined any more than the depths of some parts of the ocean have been fathomed. The atmospheric area may be miles high; it may be hundreds of miles high. But, no matter how high it is, one fact is certain—the atmosphere, among its many duties, acts as a protector to the earth. It cools off the heat of the sun before the sun rays reach the earth's surface. It acts as a sunshade. If it were not for the cooling process of the atmosphere and the sun's rays were allowed to strike directly upon the face of the earth the sun would burn up this old earth as quickly as a splinter would be consumed in a Nebuchadnezzar's furnace. But in passing through its atmosphere the sun's rays may be deflected when they meet the morning clouds. The morning clouds may act in the same way as does a looking glass in the hands of a schoolboy. These rays are not so much concentrated by the morning clouds into one great ball of fire as they are sometimes scattered to produce the strangest pictures and the most entrancing delusions.

The mirages seen at sea and those which have lured to death the lost traveler looking for oases in the desert may be caused by the reflections of the morning clouds. Monge, the noted savant who accompanied Napoleon Bonaparte on his African journey, tells how the French army one day saw a beautiful mirage when on an Egyptian march. The soldiers had been for hours without water. No sooner did the aerial delusion appear than before their eyes they saw a beautiful woodland. Out of this woodland was flowing a clear stream. Upon the banks of this stream the cattle were coming down to drink. Not only one man saw this mirage, but the whole army saw it. At once the soldiers and war chargers broke ranks and ran on toward the supposed river bank, where they expected to quench their thirst. They ran on and on until they dropped from exhaustion. Napoleon nearly met his Waterloo on that awful day. Had the future conqueror been destroyed then it would not have been by the hand of a Wellington, but by the destroying finger of the morning clouds.

A Deceiving Messenger.

Hermes was not only the messenger of the mythological gods, but because he was also supposed to be the god of the morning clouds he was called by the Greeks the god of deceit. The morning clouds are deceiving clouds. Hermes was the god of the mists, the god who was able to deceive by his fantastic reflections of the light of the sun. But Hermes, with his canvas of morning clouds, never drew more false pictures than Satan, the enemy of Christ, draws when he declares that the life of a moralist is the life which shall inherit eternal peace. What says the Bible? "Do not be a drunkard and you shall be saved? Do not be a thief and you shall be saved? Do not be a murderer and you shall be saved? Do not be a libertine or a liar and you shall be saved?" No, no! That was not the message which Christ gave unto his disciples. Read the sixteenth chapter of Mark: "And he said unto them: Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved, but he that believeth not shall be damned." To live the life of a pure moralist is not enough. With his left hand Christ brushes away the morning clouds of an earthly repentance, and with his right hand he points to the star of Bethlehem, which shines in the darkness of the night, and says, "That, O sinner, that is thy guide to lead thee into paths of eternal joy and peace, that and that alone." Oh, my friends, will you cease here and now to rest your eternal hopes upon the white fleecy mist of a morning cloud repentance?

Among the pictures of the late Vereschagin, the great Russian artist, there is not one which has a more intense interest for art students than that which was painted above the clouds. The noted artist wanted to climb to the top of one of the Himalaya mountains, but the guides refused to go with him because the danger was too great. Go Vereschagin did. He went alone. He lived among the snow and ice until he saw them resplendent in their most gorgeous colors. Then he painted his wonderful picture entitled "Above the Clouds." Higher than all the sea of clouds, Vereschagin portrayed the mighty peaks of the Himalayas lifting themselves. Thus may we be gospel Vereschagins today. May we climb the Himalaya heights of Calvary! May we put our hand in Christ's hand and go higher and higher until we climb above the morning clouds of a vapory repentance! May we climb higher and higher until we browse at the foot of the cross! Then may we paint the mountain peaks of God's mercy! We may paint his mountain peaks of love and forgiveness! Then, like Moses, may we come down from the cloud lands and give to the sinful world this picture, in the center of which we are to be found kneeling at the foot of the cross: Wilt thou do this, O immortal man? Is your repentance to be of longer duration than the morning clouds, or shall we give our whole nature, mind and soul and heart into his hands to be made a new creation, all attuned to his will, changed in everything to his nature? Then shall we know what the apostle meant when he said, "Beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord, we are changed into the same image from glory to glory, even as by the spirit of the Lord." May that be our passionate desire, and then we can say with the psalmist, "I shall be satisfied when I awake with thy likeness!"

Mr. W. S. Highfill, of Guilford College, will go to Moore's Springs in a few days in search of health. He suffers greatly from indigestion.

I wish to exchange some good cows for a farm horse or mule weighing 1,000 pounds and not over 10 years old. 33-2t. M. G. NEWELL.

William Wilson, an old colored man of this city, employed on the Southern's double tracking force near Lexington, was killed by No. 39 early yesterday morning. His remains were brought home last night.

The service of the Forest Avenue Baptist church was held in the new church building for the first time Sunday morning. The building is not completed, but seats were arranged to accommodate a large congregation.

William H., the three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dempsey, who reside about a mile south of the city, died Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The burial was in the cemetery at Hines' chapel Friday morning at 11 o'clock.

Have you ever been upstairs at Thacker & Brockmann's? Their second floor, same in size as the first floor, is devoted to carpets, matting, art squares, rugs, curtains and trunks. Take a look through this department next time you are in the store.

The new pews of St. Benedict Catholic church are in place and were used Sunday for the first time. They are of quartered oak and make a notable improvement in the interior of the church. New sanctuary furniture of the same material has been ordered, but has not yet arrived.

John William, the ten-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Davis, died at the family residence at 7 o'clock last evening. Meningitis was the cause of the death. The funeral services will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock from Mt. Pleasant M. E. church, six miles east of town, conducted by Rev. Chas. E. Maddey.

Josephine, the thirteen-months-old daughter of the Rev. John C. Schmidt, died at the residence of her parents, 304 South Ashe street at 5:35 Monday morning. The funeral services were held by Prof. G. A. Ramover, of Concord, N. C., Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The interment was made in Greene Hill cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. William Rufin Davis have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Maymie, to Mr. Ernest Ferrel Redding on the evening of Tuesday the twenty-first of August, at half after eight o'clock at their home, Greensboro, North Carolina. They will be at home after September 15th at 628 Southville, North Carolina.

Miss Marie Josephine Latta and Mr. Otto Parati were married this morning at 5 o'clock in St. Benedict's church, the Rev. Father Vincent Taylor officiating. The young couple left on an early train for a visit in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. They will be absent several weeks. Mr. Parati is a draftsman in the engineering corps of the Southern Railway.

Clerk of Court Nelson yesterday heard argument in a case tried years ago, in which Mr. David N. Scott and Mrs. P. D. Jarrell were plaintiff and defendant, respectively. Mr. Scott was given judgment against Mrs. Jarrell by default. The proceedings before Judge Nelson yesterday were to have this judgment set aside. Mr. Nelson reserved his decision until some future date.

Messrs. Power & Armstrong have plans on foot for an ice factory, which will be in operation by next March. It will be located on their premises on East Washington street, and will be run in connection with the wood and coal business which they have conducted for several years. The capacity of the plant will be 25 tons per day. Contracts for the machinery have been let and plans for the buildings submitted.

As the result of a conference between high officials of the Southern Railway and the city authorities, held in this city a few weeks ago in reference to constructing subways at several of the streets which cross the railroad in the western part of the city, it is expected that work on the Lithia street subway will begin within a few weeks. A great deal of the material for the work is already on the ground and more is arriving every few days.

Charles Clark, colored, was arrested on the charge of carrying concealed weapons Thursday and was cited to appear before Squire Collins Friday. The case was continued until Saturday and at that time Clark was held on another charge, that of assault on Martin Younger. At the hearing Squire Collins put the prisoner under a bond of $50 for carrying concealed weapons and a $100 bond was required in the case charging him with assault. In default of bond he went to jail.

Company C, of Winston, and Company I, of Mt. Airy, of the First North Carolina Regiment, were in the city Friday night on their way to Morehead City to attend the encampment. They arrived in three special cars attached to the regular train from Winston-Salem. They were joined here at midnight by the Asheville, Waynesville, Concord, Salisbury, Statesville and High Point companies. While they were in the city the Gate City Guards gave a drill which was attended by the visitors.

A collector for the Virginia Novelty Works found the mayor's court a rather poor place to make his collections, when he had a negro woman, Sarah George, before his honor for disorderly conduct last week. The man testified that he had gone to the woman's house to collect a bill for an ironing board. While there she became very abusive and ordered him to leave. The woman testified that she had never purchased the board, but said it had been left there by another agent. The mayor said his court would not be turned into a collection agency, and thereupon dismissed the case.

T. B. Farrington Friday paid his fine of $350 and the costs, which amounted to $36 more, and is now free from the clutches of the law. He was convicted of retailing in Superior court here and sentenced to two years on the county roads, or pay a fine of $350 and costs. Numerous efforts have been made to secure a pardon or if not a modification of the sentence. The last attempt was made by Farrington's attorney, Wescott Roberson, of High Point, and a stay of execution of sentence was granted, but the Supreme court only a few weeks ago decided he must pay his fine or serve out his two years term.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and this condition cannot be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Reynolds to Oppose Kitchin.

Postmaster Charles A. Reynolds, of Winston-Salem, was Saturday unanimously renominated as candidate of the Republican party for congressman from the Fifth district. Two years ago Mr. Reynolds was a candidate, opposing Congressman Kitchin, who was re-elected by a majority of about 5,000 over his Republican opponent. The convention was just 14 minutes in length. Only five of the ten counties were represented.

Mr. Reynolds accepted the honor conferred in a neat and appropriate speech, in which he said that his nomination reminded him of a story that he had once heard of a man who was just about to be married, and that when he reached for his prospective bride's hand he remarked that "it had been forced upon him." He said that he would make a strong fight for the office to which he had been nominated.

John T. Benbow was re-elected as executive chairman on motion of Postmaster Reynolds, and Z. V. Waller was re-elected secretary.

Messrs. Cobb & Corpening, who recently secured a new lease on the Guilford hotel, have closed the lobby and in the future the business of the Guilford-Benbow will be transacted from the office in the Benbow.

Luckiest Man in Arkansas.

"I'm the luckiest man in Arkansas," writes H. L. Stanley, of Bruno, "since the restoration of my wife's health after five years of continuous coughing and bleeding from the lungs; and I owe my good fortune to the world's greatest medicine, Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which I know from experience will cure consumption if taken in time.
