Mr. J. S. Ferguson, proprietor of the McAdoo House barber shop, moved to his nice new seven-room dwelling house on East Bragg street last week.

Don't forget Townsend & Co. have the largest stock of buggies ever shown in Greensboro. All the late styles, and prices are as low as you ever saw them.

Webster's Weekly: Mr. Rawley Galloway, formerly of this place, but now at the head of the Galloway Drug Co., of Greensboro, will marry the 1st of May to Miss Emma Denning, of Topeka, Kansas. It is a genuine love match.

Miss Mittie Lambeth, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lambeth, of Brown Summit, is quite sick, and fears are entertained that she cannot recover. She first suffered an attack of la grippe, which was followed by measles, and now tuberculosis has developed.

The Moravian Easter services at Salem attracted numbers of Greensboro people to Winston-Salem Saturday. As in other years people from all over the South gathered there this year, the attendance being estimated at ten thousand. Monday's trains were crowded with returning visitors.

The old Troy residence, about two miles west of Liberty, was recently destroyed by fire, the occupant, Mr. Rufus Lineberry, losing all his household goods. Last Saturday morning about two o'clock Sam Tyson, a colored man living near Liberty, lost his barn by fire, two mules, a wagon and harness also being burned. There was no insurance.

Mrs. S. Schiffman received a telegram from Norfolk, Va., late Friday night conveying to her the sad intelligence that her mother, Mrs. J. Anthony, died there about 11 o'clock that day. Mrs. Schiffman left early Saturday morning for Norfolk to attend the funeral service. Mrs. Anthony's death was very sudden, presumably caused by heart trouble.

Mr. Caesar Cone, president of the chamber of commerce, has announced the date on which its annual meeting will be held as Monday, April 23. It will be an important meeting and full reports will be heard from all committee chairmen. It is expected also that the president will review the entire year's work, and that the report of the secretary, George F. Newman, will be interesting.

Mr. V. C. McAdoo is building three nice double flat houses on Gorrell street, near Asheboro. He contemplates filling the entire vacant space on the north side of Gorrell between these houses and King street with dwellings this summer. It is a desirable location, as houses in that section of the city are very much in demand. Mr. McAdoo has sixteen applications for his house on Gorrell street which was recently vacated by the Matthews family.

The High Point school commencement begins April 20th with a sermon by the Rev. Thos. Newlin, of Guilford College. Nine years ago the school was opened and it has been one of the most successful in the south under the guidance of Supt. Geo. H. Crowell, who has been at the head since the first. Next year the school board will arrange for a nine months' school. During the year there has been an enrollment of 1,100 and the attendance 90 per cent. In the class this year there are 22 boys and girls who will receive their diplomas.

Mr. Will L. Wharton, mail carrier on rural route No. 7, was painfully hurt in a runaway accident which occurred near the home of his father, Mr. John W. Wharton, Jr., seven miles north of the city, last Wednesday afternoon. His took fright at some unfamiliar object and ran away, breaking the buggy to pieces and throwing Mr. Wharton with great force into some brush stumps along the roadside. Although no bones were broken he sustained painful bruises that will keep him indoors perhaps the balance of this week. It was first feared that he had been internally injured, but danger from that source seems to have passed. Mr. A. P. Watlington, substitute carrier, has been delivering mail on the route since Mr. Wharton's accident.

MUNICIPAL MATTERS.

Busy Session of the Board of Aldermen Friday Afternoon.

At the regular semi-monthly meeting of the board of aldermen held last Friday afternoon the matter which provoked the greatest discussion was as to the proposed investigation of the paving of South Elm street.

All the members of the board were agreed as to the necessity of an investigation in view of the charges that have been made as to the poor quality of the work, but there was a division of opinion as to the personnel of the committee to do the investigating. Aldermen Hunter, Odell and Wyson took the view that the committee should be composed exclusively of members of the board.

City Attorney Strudwick, who was present, was called upon for an opinion and he advised that only a committee of aldermen would be amenable to the board and for that reason he thought it advisable for the committee to consist of aldermen. The mayor was also in favor of this plan and so expressed himself.

Aldermen Harrison, Brandt and Thompson took the view that the investigating committee should be composed partly of aldermen and partly of owners of property along Elm street. They argued that the property owners were very much interested in the paving and ought to be recognized.

Finally it came to a choice between a resolution offered by Alderman Hunter and one by Alderman Harrison. Alderman Hunter's resolution was as follows:

"Whereas, it has been charged by certain citizens of the city of Greensboro that the pavement which has been laid on Elm street, is defective, and is not in accordance with the specifications and contract relating to said improvement;

"And whereas it is and always has been the sense and desire of the authorities and of all the officers of said city that there should be secured to said city all that it is entitled to under said specifications and contract and that said improvement should be made in a first class and desirable manner, and whereas the city engineer who is and has been in charge of said improvement, has, in writing, requested of the board of aldermen that said improvement be thoroughly investigated and tested;

"Now therefore, Resolved by the board of aldermen of the city of Greensboro that a committee of three consisting of T. J. Murphy, W. M. Thompson and O. C. Wyson, be chosen, that said committee shall proceed to investigate and test said pavement in a thorough and efficient manner so as to ascertain whether said charges are true or not; that said committee shall have power to employ at the expense of the city a competent engineer to aid them in their investigations, if they deem it expedient so to do, and that said committee shall report the result of their investigations to this board as soon as the same are completed."

Alderman Harrison's resolution was: "Whereas there has been some adverse criticism of the policy of the board of aldermen in the paving of Elm street and that said criticism reflects very seriously on the character of certain members of said board and their associates and believing that the charges as made are unwarranted and, whereas the public, the tax-payers of this city, who constitute and are a party to any and all questions of permanent improvements and who are directly interested in the satisfactory execution of the work now being done or carried on in Elm street and to relieve any erroneous impressions that may be entertained, be it therefore,

Resolved, That a committee of two, J. A. Odell and M. W. Thompson be and are hereby appointed, and that J. E. Cutchin be invited to act with them, whose duties shall be to thoroughly investigate all or any part of such paving as has been completed on Elm street and that the said committee shall have the power, should they deem to be the best interest of the city's welfare, to employ an expert at the expense of the city, to assist them in determining whether or not the work done is up to the contract and that the said committee shall enter upon their duties at once and report to this board in writing, not later than April 21, 1906."

Alderman Harrison's resolution was put in the form of a substitute for Alderman Hunter's resolution. Aldermen Harrison, Thompson and Brandt voted for it; the other three aldermen against it. The tie was then broken by Mayor Murphy voting against it.

Mr. Hunter's resolution was then voted on and a tie was again the result the mayor again voting with Messrs. Hunter, Odell and Wyson to break it. The matter which called for the next greatest amount of discussion was the report of the committee on a new street from North Elm eastward to divide the large block bounded by Smith, Elm and Church. The committee was composed of Aldermen Thompson, Odell and Brandt. Mr. Thompson was the chairman of the committee. He favored accepting a new proposition made by Mr. J. C. Bishop. Alderman Odell said he had just heard that other property-owners might make a proposition, besides he did not favor spending money to open this street when the project for subways under the railroad had never as yet been carried to consummation. It was finally decided to leave the matter open until Monday night when a called meeting will be held.

On motion it was decided to bring out in printed form all the ordinances and other information bearing on sidewalk paving.

The board adopted an ordinance requiring property-owners along the new vitrified brick pavement to repave with concrete all defective pavement.

Alderman Thompson read the following report for the committee which conducted the hearing in the Sewer Inspector vs. Crawford & Penland case:

"The sewer and plumbing committee to whom was referred the matter of the order of the board served on Crawford & Ragland, of Winston, to show cause why the plumbers' license heretofore issued to them should not be revoked on account of the incompetency of their foreman in Greensboro, respectfully reports that on the day of March, 1906, in the board room in the city hall, after due notice, said Crawford & Ragland, and said foreman being represented by counsel, and the city being represented by its attorney, they proceeded to hear said matter and all the evidence offered by either party, and now having carefully considered the same, said committee finds that said charge of incompetency against said foreman is not sustained by the evidence, but it also finds that said foreman has on several occasions been guilty of insubordination, ineptitude and rudeness toward the plumbing inspector, which conduct if persisted in may call for further action by the board.

"The committee recommends that said order upon Crawford & Ragland be discharged and no further proceedings be had thereunder.

With regard to the charges made against said plumbing inspector said committee finds that the same are not sustained and recommends that no further action be taken thereon."

The report was accepted. Alderman Hunter for the committee appointed to look into the question of moving the public drinking fountain to a more suitable location reported in favor of East Gaston near Elm. The report was accepted.

At 4 o'clock the board adjourned to meet again in called session Monday night.

Water Works Tunnel Completed.

Mr. W. T. Sergeant, chairman of the water and light commission, was in a happy frame of mind Saturday, having just completed the most difficult task that confronted him in laying the pipe line to the new Reedy Fork reservoir, that of tunneling a small hill that interfered with the gravity flow of water from the reservoir to the city. The hill referred to is on the lands of Messrs. Roy and Lahser, and while the tunnel is only about 350 feet long it penetrates a strata of quicksand that necessitated bracing at almost every step. Owing to the character of the area to be penetrated it was found more desirable to construct a tunnel than attempt an open cut, and while the work was made more difficult because of the recent heavy rains it is now over with and the pipe laying can proceed without further interruption. The red cedar pipes used in the line come from California and are somewhat of a novelty in this part of the country, but they are preferable in all respects to most any other material, as they are backed by a strong guarantee and cost but a fraction of what iron does. In fact enough has been saved by the city to relay the line in fifteen years if the same should prove necessary. Something over two and a half miles of pipe has been laid and the outlook is that the entire line will be under ground by the first of July. The new pumping station is yet to be built, and while the reservoir, holding twenty million gallons, will not be completed before September, it is almost certain that the city will get the benefit of the new supply this summer by pumping direct into the settling basins at the present plant. When the reservoir is ready water will flow by gravity direct into the filters at the station in town.

Eion College to Inaugurate President.

Invitations have been issued from Eion College for the inauguration of Emmett Leonidas Moffitt as president of the college Wednesday morning, the second of May, at half after 11 o'clock. The committee on inauguration is composed of the following named: Prof. J. U. Newman, D. D., Ph. D., chairman; Col. J. E. West, of Suffolk, Va.; John A. Mills, of Raleigh; Rev. W. G. Clements, of Morrisville; S. W. Lincoln, of Harrisburg, and Rev. H. W. Elder, of Richland, Ga.

S. P. C. A. Directors Elect Officers.

Another enthusiastic meeting of the board of directors of the North Carolina Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals was held last week in the office of Broadhurst & Stern.

E. D. Broadhurst acted as temporary chairman and Charles J. Lambie was temporary secretary.

On motion of the Rev. S. R. Guignard E. D. Broadhurst was made permanent secretary with the understanding that he be furnished with the services of a clerk should occasion demand.

Dr. J. S. Betts was elected permanent president, and J. J. Stone was chosen treasurer.

On motion of Dr. Guignard, Prof. W. C. A. Hammel was made first vice-president, with understanding that other vice-presidents would later be chosen from other parts of the state.

A. W. Cooke was chosen as consulting attorney of the society, and on Mr. Cooke's motion the president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer were named as the executive committee of the board of directors.

Mr. Cooke also moved to create the office of state organizer, and C. L. Van Noppen was elected to fill that office. Messrs. Van Noppen, the Rev. Dr. Detwiler, and Dr. F. S. Charter were appointed a committee on literature for the distribution of printed matter pertaining to the society.

Dr. Detwiler moved that all complaints of cruelty cases should be reported to the society in writing and be then forwarded to the secretary.

All of the directors were present at the meeting included Prof. Hammel, C. L. Van Noppen, Dr. J. S. Betts, E. D. Broadhurst, J. J. Stone, C. J. Lambie, the Rev. G. H. Detwiler, A. W. Cooke, the Rev. S. R. Guignard, and Dr. J. E. Grimsley.

Atlanta Prison Authorities Refuse to Take Mrs. Smoot.

Judge Jas. E. Boyd received a telegram Friday morning from U. S. Marshal J. M. Millikan stating that the authorities of the United States prison at Atlanta, Ga., refused to receive Mrs. Alice Smoot, the woman counterfeiter convicted at the present term of Federal court here and sentenced by Judge Boyd to a term of one year and one day at hard labor in the Atlanta prison. The telegram requested that the mittimus be changed so that Mrs. Smoot could be committed to the state prison at Nashville, Tenn., which prison has been designated by the attorney general for female prisoners convicted of counterfeiting. Judge Boyd ordered the mittimus changed and it was forwarded by mail that afternoon to Nashville. Mrs. Smoot's husband, Granville L. Smoot, who was convicted with Mrs. Smoot, will remain in the Atlanta penitentiary, to which place he was taken together with his wife and nine other prisoners last Thursday night.

Judge Boyd said that Mrs. Smoot was the first woman that he had ever sentenced to the penitentiary, and that consequently he was not aware of the fact that the prison at Atlanta was without the necessary accommodations for females, but that the woman would be properly taken care of in Nashville.

Hardin Case Postponed.

The trial of the Simmons Hardware Company et als. vs. R. H. Hardin et als., involving bankruptcy matters, has been continued in the Federal court until the special term beginning June 4. The hearing began last Tuesday and progressed nicely with but one interruption, that of the brief Sid Matlock trial, until Friday afternoon, when at the conclusion of the testimony submitted by witnesses for the plaintiff Judge Boyd inquired how many witnesses the defense wished to introduce and was told twenty-five, whereupon he announced that the case could not possibly be finished by the following evening, when it was necessary to adjourn court in order that he and the minor officials could go to Statesville to open the regular term there Monday, and accordingly an order was made continuing the hearing, taking it up where it was left off here, the testimony to be repeated from stenographic notes to the jury at that time, the same jury returning to conclude the case. At Statesville Monday the government was represented by Assistant District Attorney Price, District Attorney Holton remaining here to follow as a spectator the proceedings of the Blackburn trial.

The Postoffice department has issued a notice to the effect that the rural carriers are entitled to the right of way, and that the driver of any vehicle failing to turn aside at once for the mail wagon is liable to prosecution.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Forest Avenue Baptist church has been organized. The officers of the new society are: President, Mrs. J. S. Moore; vice-president, Mrs. T. F. Davis; secretary, Mrs. J. F. Mitchell; treasurer, Mrs. H. M. Howard.

Mr. Gardner A. Callahan, of Toledo, Ohio, and Miss Helen M. Ewell, of Newark, N. J., were united in marriage at the rectory of the Catholic church here last Wednesday morning. Father Vincent Taylor performed the ceremony. An hour later the couple left for their home in Toledo, Ohio.

Mr. H. L. Alderman, who has been at home two or three weeks enjoying a much-needed vacation, will return to Schenectady, N. Y., this week, where he is in the employ of the General Electric Company. According to the regulations of the company he will not be entitled to another vacation for two years.

Mr. R. C. Jones, the well known train dispatcher who has been quite sick at Mrs. Hawkins' boarding house on North Davis street, was able to be moved to his home at Thomasville last Thursday. The Southern Railway considerably placed a private car at "Pete's" disposal and he made the trip with comparative ease.

At the last regular meeting of the Elks lodge Messrs. J. H. Walsh, R. W. Murray, J. B. Ellington, W. T. Smith, R. T. Rosemond, W. E. Phipps, M. W. Nash, Ferd Ingold and Charles C. To the Trustees of High Street Church, Gibsonville Methodist Church.

Gentlemen:—We want to donate some L. & M. Paint to your church whenever they paint.

The largest Methodist church in Georgia expected to use 100 gallons of the usual kind of paint, only only used 32 gallons L. & M. mixed with 24 gallons Linseed Oil.

It costs less to paint a house with L. & M. than with other paint, because painter mixes Linseed Oil fresh from the barrel at 60 cents a gallon with L. & M., and doesn't pay $1.50 per gallon for Linseed Oil as done if ready-for-use paint is used. Also because the L. & M. Zinc hardens the L. & M. White Lead and makes the paint wear like iron.

Actual cost L. & M. about $1.20 per gallon. Sold by Gibsonville Hardware Co., Gibsonville, N. C.

Eleven For Atlanta Prison.

United States Marshal J. M. Millikan and Deputy Marshal J. M. Bailey left Thursday night for Atlanta, Ga., having in their custody eleven prisoners convicted at the present term of Federal court here and sentenced by Judge Boyd to terms in the United States prison at Atlanta. Two of them were Granville L. Smoot, who gets two years, and his wife, Mrs. Alice Smoot, whose sentence is one year and a day at hard labor for having in their possession and passing counterfeit coins. The others were convicted of violating the internal revenue laws and their names and sentences follow: Albert Ingram, one year and a day, fine $100; Will Atwood, one year and a day, fine $100; Sherman Pinnix, 12 months, fine $105; R. W. Jarrell, one year and a day, fine $100; E. B. Wood, 15 months, fine $100; Fred Cockerham, 15 months, fine $100; W. F. Joyner, 15 months, fine $100; Argo Trice, one year and a day, fine $100; Sid Matlock, 18 months.

Matlock is the notorious moonshiner of Caswell county, who was arrested recently by Revenue Officers J. M. Bailey and R. C. Chandley after a hard struggle. He was given a hearing Thursday morning and only a few minutes were required to convict him, his trial interrupting the bankruptcy case of Simmons Hardware Company and others vs. R. H. Hardin and others, the trial of which had been in progress since Tuesday morning.

The Proposed Cotton Warehouse.

The board of directors of the chamber of commerce held a meeting last Wednesday night and discussed the proposition to establish a mammoth cotton storage warehouse in the city. The Standard Warehouse Company, of Columbia, S. C., is the concern behind the project and on Tuesday its president, Governor D. C. Heyward of South Carolina, was here on an inspecting trip with a view to locating the warehouse. His proposition is that the citizens of Greensboro subscribe one-half of the stock. After a full discussion of the scheme Messrs. Neil Ellington, L. J. Brandt and E. Sternberger were appointed as a committee to see if sufficient capital could be raised here to induce the South Carolina capitalists to establish the enterprise in this city.

University Catalogue.

We have received the catalogue of the University of North Carolina for the session 1905-06. It shows an attendance of 680 students. The faculty numbers 71. The University now comprises the following departments: College, Graduate, Applied Sciences, including Engineering, Law, Medicine and Pharmacy. The additions to its equipment in the past five years amount to $300,000. The University has grown steadily in strength and influence and stands today for all that is best and highest in education and training for useful manhood. The Summer School for Law opens June 13th. The next session opens September 10th, 1906.

Mr. Carl J. Clapp, of this city, who is now in the postoffice service at Cristobal, in the Canal Zone, writes one of his former fellow-clerks in the Greensboro postoffice, Mr. H. C. Taylor, that he is getting along nicely in his new home. He says he has never enjoyed better health in his life, and that conditions on the Isthmus have vastly improved of late. There are just three things to do there, according to Mr. Clapp—eat, sleep and work. He modestly admits that he is doing his share of each, especially the first. Barring an occasional slight attack of homesickness he has no complaint to utter, other than deploring the lack of amusements, and in this his feelings are likely shared by all the other Americans on the Isthmus. His friends here will no doubt be glad to learn that he is getting along so nicely.

LETTER TO KING & KIMBALL, Greensboro, N. C.

Dear Sirs: What's the penalty for selling adulterated paint in your state? What is adulterated paint? Is clay paint? Is chalk paint? Is barytes paint? Is lime paint? Is benzine? Is water? Is soap? Is mud? We know what is; what is not is the question. Apparently nothing is not; but we're only a paint-manufacturer, not a lawyer.

Devote is paint, all paint; and full measure; no whitewash; no nothing. We know what is; what is not is the question.

Yours truly,

BURLINGTON NEWS.

Mr. Tom Vincent was in town the first of the week on business. His headquarters are in Greensboro now.

Miss Annie Williams left Monday morning for Greensboro to spend the week with Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Williams.

Rev. and Mrs. R. E. Hunt, of Rocky Mount, came up yesterday to the bedside of Mrs. Hunt's father, Mr. Lucian Murray, who is critically ill.

Miss Dot Thacker, a teacher at Old Trinity, and Master Charles Henry Ireland, of Greensboro, came down Saturday and stayed until Monday visiting Miss Thacker's mother, Mrs. Ned Ireland Thacker.

Mr. William A. Terrell, a prominent citizen living near Mebane, took a trip to Greensboro one day last week. He has lived in this county near the railroad all his life and yet this is the first time he has ever been in a railroad car.

Mrs. Theo. Williams and children came down from Greensboro last Friday and stayed till yesterday visiting her father, Mr. Edward Teague. They have gone to Sunter, S. C., where they will make their future home.

Rev. J. D. Andrew preached at Mt. Hope church at 11 a. m., last Sunday and at Brick Church at 3 p. m., in Guilford county. Held an election at each place for pastor and Rev. H. A. M. Holshouser, of Dwight, Kan., was unanimously elected. This is the charge served by Rev. Mr. Andrew before he came to Burlington.

Quite a large crowd attended the skating carnival Thursday night. Greensboro sent down a number of her best skaters to add interest to the occasion. The prize, a pair of skates for the best skater, was awarded to a Greensboro lady, Miss Julia Bogart. The prize for the best costume and bum skater was won by Pat Brown. It was a very pleasant occasion marred only by the accident that befell Mr. Lynn Williamson, who had a fall which came near being serious. His knee was badly sprained by the fall.

MADISON HERALD.

Mrs. T. B. Lindsay of Deep Springs, went to Greensboro Tuesday on a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Bart Webster, accompanied by little Miss Eva Johnson, made a flying trip to Greensboro Monday.

Gov. Robt. B. Glenn will speak at Madison on Thursday, April 19th, at 2 o'clock p. m. He is coming here to discuss the necessity and benefits of good roads, and we hope the people all over this section of the county will be here to hear him.

Mr. J. J. Meador of the Planters' Warehouse, Greensboro, spent Sunday and Monday with relatives in Madison and vicinity. Mr. Meador reports that tobacco is selling well on the Greensboro market and that lots of it is coming in.

The Greensboro-Madison "limited" (to 24 hours for the trip) came very near being wrecked Monday afternoon just before it got to Madison. The front truck of a freight car left the track, and had it not been for the quick work of Engineer Fountain there might have been a serious wreck.

W. C. Boren, president of the Pomona Terra Cotta Company, was in Madison yesterday on business. He comes from a county where they are building macadamized roads, and knows the benefits to be derived therefrom, and he authorizes us to state that when the dirt he ships from here is reached, that the county commissioners can draw on his company for $200.

MOUNT AIRY LEADER.

Mrs. M. L. Brock, of Greensboro, is visiting her brother, T. N. Brock, in this city.

The Central Hotel, in this city, has been leased to J. A. Snow, an experienced hotel man who will open the house to the public some time next week.

At the Friends' church this city, on Tuesday and Wednesday, April 17th and 18th, Professor John W. Woody, of Guilford College, will deliver two lectures on the Holy Land and the Bible, illustrated by stereopticon views.

Capt. Henry Alderman is running as conductor on the mail train this week in the place of Capt. John A. McLaughlin, who is confined at his home in Fayetteville with a carbuncle. Brad Partridge is in charge of the engine in the place of Uncle Lige Shepperd, who is also sick at his home in Sanford.

The remains of Rev. Robert M. Loftis, a well known Baptist minister who died at Madison last Sunday afternoon, were brought to this city last night for interment. The funeral services were conducted today at 10 o'clock at the Baptist church, Rev. J. E. Smith assisted by Rev. C. C. Haymore, officiating. The deceased was forty-eight years old and grew to manhood near this city.

The following well known business men, W. J. Byerly, W. G. Sydnor, N. H. Wright, J. F. Prather, Samuel G. Pace, W. B. Smith, W. S. Taylor and J. A. Hadley, have subscribed stock for another overall factory and a company capitalized at $50,000 will be organized at once. The gentlemen interested propose to have the factory in operation in about sixty days, and will employ about fifty hands from the start.

The franchise for the operation of an electric railway is given, so far as this city is concerned, and the construction of the line is only a question of time, for there is ample capital behind the scheme to put in operation a first-class electric line from the Southern depot, in this city, to the famous White Sulphur Springs, a distance of nearly five miles. The company is headed by J. K. Reynolds, proprietor of the Springs, with twenty of the leading business men of the city as stockholders, who say the money will be raised at once and an effort will be made to have the line in operation by the middle of this summer. The enterprise will cost about thirty-five thousand dollars, and the power will be secured from the city electric power plant or from a water power on Ararat river situated at about the middle of the proposed line. Thus the Granite City keeps pace with the march of progress.

Pay Them More.
There is a strong sentiment in some of the larger counties that the office of county commissioner should carry with it a salary. There is a responsibility and a task which should be rewarded. In a thickly populated county the one or two days' meeting each month is only the beginning of the work. There are matters coming up every day in the month that require the time of the commissioners, the chairman, especially. There is more work and less pay in the office than any in the gift of the people.

Three of the Best

Every farmer knows the value of good reliable farm implements. We handle the kind THAT HAS STOOD EVERY TEST.

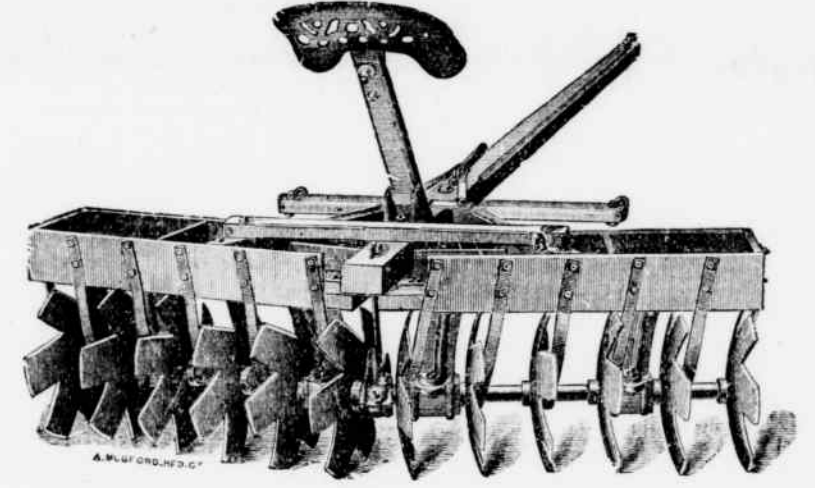

Below we show illustrations of three implements that are in demand right now.

The Imperial Chilled Plow

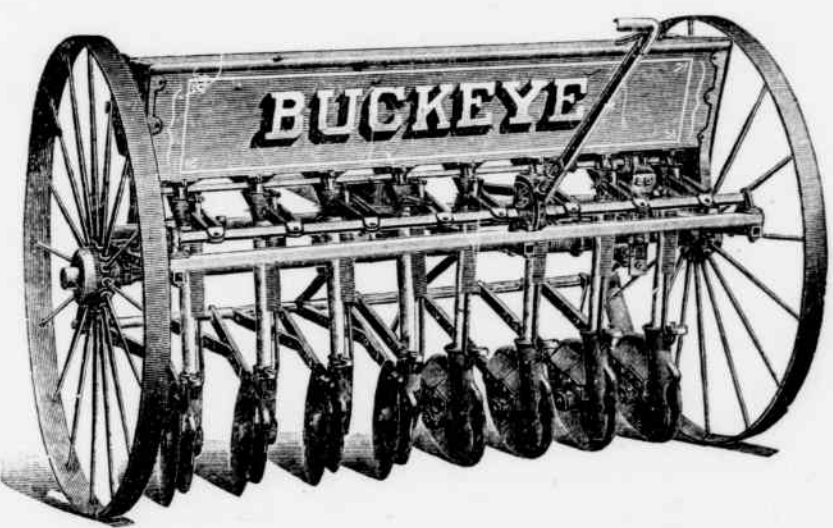

The above Plow is built especially for stony, rough or hilly ground. The moldboard is bold, with an abrupt turn adapted for turning a furrow up hill. It is noted for its superior turning qualities. The wearing parts are chilled. Steel Mold or Chilled Mold, as ordered. These Plows are recognized the world over as the best.

The Buffalo Pitts Harrow

Can be used in rough, stumpy or stony ground, as it is flexible and made to surmount all ordinary obstructions. Made by the Walter A. Wood Company, Hoosick Falls, N. Y. Without a doubt the best Harrow on the market. Has stood the test of years and eclipsed all competitors.

Buckeye Grain Drills

You may have put off buying a Drill this year, thinking you could do your work by hand. The weather man has shown, the farmers little consideration this year. Come in and get a Buckeye and your troubles at seeding time will be over. We can give you either style you want.

of liberally using our fertilizers, is to pay off a mortgage on the old farm. Read the following from Messrs. Wherry & Son, owners of the Magnolia Fruit Farm, Durham, N. C. "We made $500 from one acre of strawberries, on which your fertilizers were used. Eight years ago we bought this place at $50 per acre. It was then considered to have been worn out twenty years before, but by liberally using

we get peas and velvet beans, and now grow almost anything and have been offered $100 per acre for the place. We are contented with a great many kinds of fertilizers, but the highest per cent. "Now don't you think you can't get Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers unless you pay off a mortgage? If you had one? Well, don't use any other."

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 18, 1906.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

Correspondence of the PATRIOT.

Washington, April 14.—If the Senate is marking time on the rate bill and finding excuses for not speaking, the House is by no means talked out. Bourke Cockran this week had an hour of time granted him in which to express his views, and they were well expressed and went to the point as usual with his speeches. What he advised was for the House to "stand pat" on the rate bill and allow no amendments from the Senate. He said that in common with a good many other members, he had gone over the Hepburn bill, hoping to strengthen it by amendment, but he found that in every case he had been anticipated by the framers of the bill and he thought that the best thing to do was to pass the bill as it stood and not allow the Senate to saddle it with amendments. In the matter of a court review provision, Mr. Cockran took the very common-sense view that if any railroad were not satisfied with the ruling of the commission, all it had to do to secure a court review was to fail to enforce the order. This would at once throw the matter into the courts and get the ruling that all the court review amendments purported to seek. It was quite a simple, homely speech and as notice had been given that it was to occur, the galleries were crowded. Of course so long as the bill is under consideration in the Senate, the talk on the House end is rather beside the mark, but it is an indication to the Senate that the House for once intends to stand on its rights and that if the bill comes back from the Senate in any considerably amended shape, it is likely to have a hard time before it gets to conference and afterward.

Almost as old as the proposal to change the date of the Presidential inauguration is the proposal to elect senators by a popular vote. But the measure has been introduced again by Mr. Norris, of Nebraska, and in spite of the fact that the bill has four times passed the House and has been killed in the Senate, there is renewed talk of its passing. There is incorporated with the bill a proposal to make the term of members of the House four years instead of two. The object of this, the report says, is to give more importance to the primaries and prevent the professional lobbyist from living over from term to term on the proceeds of his unwholy work at one election. "The people are tired," the report says, "of this continuous drama and as a result are inclined to give little attention to the primaries and the conventions which are the very foundation of our political system, and are the times at which the country's interests can be best protected."

The change in the order of elections would have to be accomplished by a constitutional amendment, but the framer of the bill is convinced that it is a good one and it has at least had a favorable report to the House.

It will not be long before the Pure Food Bill will come to a vote. Matters are in such a shape that it can at any time be made the unfinished business and a vote on it may be arranged at any day. It is possible that the measure may pass at this session and it is almost a certainty that if it does not it will pass and be signed by the President at the next session. Dr. Wiley, of the Department of Agriculture, is of course the father of the bill and he has a lot of "arguments" in the shape of adulterated foods of one sort and another spread out on two big trays at the department which he intends to send up to the capitol to back his declaration that a pure food bill is an absolute necessity.

The custom house inspectors in New York played into his hands this week too and furnished him with what he has told a number of friends is another good argument. It is to the effect that the market of the Eastern states is being flooded with spurious "pure olive oil." This oil is of two sorts. One of them is imported right enough, but it is imported free and costs 40 cents a gallon. It comes in free under the declaration that it is purely for mechanical uses. And that is all it is fit for. It is the lowest grade of refuse from the oil factories. When it gets into this country, however, it is filtered to remove the dirt, a little potash added to take out the rancid taste, for it is all of it rancid, and then is bottled and put on the market as "pure luca oil." "This stuff, Dr. Wiley declares, is entirely unfit for human consumption. Yet it is largely sold and there is no federal law under which the vendors can be prosecuted."

The other device is even more barefaced, though less harmful. The department found recently that the eastern end of the country was being flooded with cheap "olive oil" for which there was not equivalent record at the custom house, though all of it was labeled imported. The inspectors finally found that it was manufactured by the carload in New York, oil bottles, labels and all, and then sold outside the state. There were 25 samples captured by the Pennsylvania authorities and several hundred dollars will be collected in fines from the men who sold it, but what the advocates of the pure food bill want is a law under which the makers of the stuff can be prosecuted. And this they say they will have when the bill passes.

Suggestion for the Democratic State Platform.

Raleigh News and Observer.

The day of platitudes in politics is passing. The people are tired of men who do not tell the people where they stand upon live issues and of parties that do nothing but "point with pride" or "view with alarm" with reference to matters about which there is no difference of opinion.

For many years the Democratic party in North Carolina wrote glowing pledges of generalizations about improving the public schools, and while it made some progress the school term in many districts did not reach three months while the State Constitution required a four months term. Finally in 1898, when the committee on platforms was composed of Judge Connor, J. D. Murphy, John R. Webster and like men they put in a specific pledge of at least four months school term in every school district in the state and in Governor Aycock's term the pledge was fulfilled.

As long as platforms are glittering generalities, legislators can do little or nothing, and experience has shown the necessity of specific platform declarations to secure real progress or reform. A few years ago the railroads sought to get a plank in the Democratic platform declaring in effect that railroads ought not to be taxed on any thing except the roadbed and the cars—just like farms are taxed. Of course it was not adopted.

One of the ablest lawyers in North Carolina (in a personal letter), says: "Why not write suggestions as to the planks that ought to be incorporated in the next State Democratic platform? If all thoughtful men would make suggestions, the people in their homes would consider the various suggestions and by the time the convention meets sentiment would be so crystallized that the platform makers would have nothing to do but formulate the will of the people."

Below are some suggestions for the platform makers that may start the ball:

1. Reduce passenger fares by the General Assembly to not less than 2.1-2 cents per mile.
2. Reduce freight rates as much as can be done not to deny fair returns upon actual money invested in all roads.
3. Taxation upon true actual value.
4. Requiring grade crossings on railroads wherever in the judgment of the county commissioners, protection of life demands it.
5. No step backward in temperance.

6. Strict regulation of all insurance companies, whether organized in this or in other states for the protection of the men who pay for policies. Abolition of insurance trusts and excessive rates charged by insurance companies particularly by these industrials that rob the poor.

7. Require all outside insurance companies doing business in North Carolina to invest in this state all money (less fair proportion for expense) derived from policy holders in North Carolina, payment of annual dividends, and such other reform legislation as will protect North Carolina policy holders and end the drain on the South in the way of insurance money.

8. No free passes or mileage tickets for public officers under the guise of actual employment as agents or attorneys.

9. Large enough appropriations for care of every insane person in the state who is indigent or whose near relatives are unable to care for him.

10. No girl under fourteen can be employed in textile mills and no boy under twelve.

11. No public official, state or county, to receive fees—all public officials to be paid a fixed salary, and all fees put in the public treasury.

12. Corporation Commission shall act for shipper in case the Hepburn bill becomes a law.

13. Railroads shall serve local business independent of through business where through trains delay local passenger service.

14. Complete change in system of magistrates and other inferior courts.

15. Reduction of number of challenges allowed to the state and other reform in the criminal system.

16. Marry the A. and M. College to the Agricultural Department; make as liberal appropriation to educational institutions as the condition of the treasury will permit; provided so that every school district may have library and continue building public school houses until every school district has a good home; and take no backward step in education.

These suggestions, all touching upon matters that vitally concern all the people, are presented as the basis for consideration, in line with the advice of our correspondent. All of them will not be adopted; some of them will be improved; but the platform ought to deal in a specific way with the vital questions that affect the people.

Formosa Earthquake Deadly.

Tokio, April 15.—One hundred and one persons are known to have been killed and 29 injured in an earthquake in the southern part of the island of Formosa on Saturday, but further details, it is expected, will swell the death roll, as the shock was more severe than that of March 17.

The town of Kagi again was the principal sufferers, the houses which escaped destruction in the former disturbance being now in ruins. Doko and several other towns and villages also were affected by landslides, which have completely changed the topography of the county. The officials are working feverishly to relieve the thousands of persons left homeless by the earthquake.

Terrible scenes are reported around Kagi and Doko.

Dispensary Wins at Graham.

Graham, April 14.—The election today to determine the question of dispensary versus prohibition resulted as follows: For dispensary, 156; against dispensary, 125. While the excitement all day was tense and the court house square crowded at times, the day passed off without any disorder.

Tillman Files Charges Against Barnes.

Washington, April 13.—Senator Tillman today filed formal charges with the sub-committee considering the nomination of Benjamin F. Barnes, assistant secretary to the President, to be postmaster at Washington, and protested against his confirmation. These charges relate to the expulsion of Mrs. Minor Morris from the executive offices, and asserts inhuman and brutal treatment of the woman and also allege that Barnes made a false statement about the case.

The charges charges are four in number and are as follows:

"That Mr. Barnes is lacking in gentlemanly and mainly consideration for ladies, which caused him to abuse his authority so far as to order the expulsion from the executive offices of Mrs. Minor Morris on Jan. 4, 1906, without any justification of good reason therefor.

"That having issued the order, he stood by and law it executed in a most brutal and outrageous manner without interference, compelling the policemen to drag, and finally, with the aid of a negro employed at the White House to carry, with the negro holding her by the ankles and with her limbs exposed, the entire distance from the executive offices at the western end of the White House to the exit, where she was thrust into a cab and sent to the House of Detention, by which brutal treatment her life was endangered and health seriously impaired from shock and injuries received.

"That after this tyrannical and outrageous abuse of his authority he lodged charges against Mrs. Morris and compelled her to remain in prison for more than four hours, thus adding insult to injury and producing in the public mind impressions derogatory to both her reputation and her mental condition.

"That he made a statement to the press which was full of falsehoods and which proves him to be lacking in that integrity and high character which a high government official should have."

Senator Tillman asks that seven witnesses, including all the newspaper men at the White House at the time, be summoned before the sub-committee.

Young Lady Attempts Suicide.

Winston-Salem, April 12.—Miss Mattie Crews, aged about 20 years, who has been agent for the Southern Railway at Walnut Cove for a year or more, took an overdose of laudanum last night and for an hour or more fears were entertained that she would die. Miss Crews received notice a few days ago that she was to be transferred from the agency at Walnut Cove to Ore Hill. Yesterday an auditor was sent to Walnut Cove to check up her books. It appears that the investigation and report that she was to be transferred caused the young lady to become dependent, and is given as the cause of her taking the laudanum.

LORD DUNCAN

No. 4561

Recorded in 5th vol. of the American Stud Book. Sired by Lord of Abbott No. 1817. Bred by Geo. Robertson, Embleton South Farm, Chathill, England. Dam, Jane No. 4560.

He is a bay horse sixteen hands high and weighs sixteen hundred pounds.

He is the only registered stallion in Guilford county. His colts show a strong strain of blood. We know of some of them at the age of 8 months which their owners refused one hundred dollars for.

We showed him at Central Carolina Fair in sweepstakes class with five of his colts and won first premium.

Won first premium on best colt foaled in 1905, also first and second premium on colt under one year old.

The judge from New York that awarded premiums said that Lord Duncan and his colts were a credit to any fair.

He will make the season of 1906 at his own stable and will not be moved, and can be found there at all times for the low fee of $10 to insure.

GOLD MEDAL PRIZE ARTICLE.

"What Live Stock Raising Will Do For Agriculture in North Carolina."

The following article, written by Mr. J. F. Koonce, a student at the A. & M. College, Raleigh, was recently awarded a gold medal prize offered by "The Metropolitan and Rural Home," a well known New York publication:

Why should North Carolina, with her natural advantages for live-stock raising, continue to remain inactive in this line? Where can you find a state with such a rain-fall and having her water-shed so fixed as to send streams flowing to all parts of the state and springs bubbling from beneath the hillsides of every pasture? The short winters and long summers give us green pastures eight or ten months each year. Stock will do best on food gathered by grazing. With rows it will make the flow of milk greater, and maintain the animal with less expense than any food we can give. In this state we have the Western Mountain section, the Piedmont section, and the low meadow-lands of the east. Is not each of these sections suited to the raising of one or more of the different breeds of live-stock? The soils which underlie these sections grow fine pastures and are suited for raising all the best forage crops for live-stock.

Live-stock raising in North Carolina offers to those who are willing to work a field more inviting than an undeveloped gold mine. Our gold mines are exhaustible, but our old farm—as we slowly sink the plow, the more productive she becomes. And by applying home-made manures from our live-stock we can hardly estimate the increased yield. Having stock, we are compelled to feed them, and there is no better way of doing this than raising leguminous crops for feed-stuff. By this we not only get feed for our live-stock, but we have nitrogen—our most expensive fertilizer—gathered from the air by the plant and stored in the soil. In feeding stock we find a place for our corn crop which can be grown to advantage in all southern states. By raising these various crops for our stock, there follows crop rotation and introduction to new farm machinery into all parts of the state. It is almost impossible to build up our soils without live-stock and their forage crops and at the same time receive a profitable income from the money expended. Do you believe the farmers of the state, if asked, would willingly pay an annual sum of four million and a half dollars to our government and not expect to be rewarded? No, never! Then why do they continue to pay this sum each year to the fertilizer manufacturers without a word? Most of this can be made on the farms with as great a profit to the farmer as the dealer receives.

Will the farmers of the state continue to pay a heavy tax on their land and not attempt to develop it so as to receive the greater profit? If so, why should they cry, "hard times" when they fail to get the highest price for their farm products, and they do not budge to develop live-stock raising? We want to raise more of our supplies and keep more of our money in our state. It has been said, the nearest approach to perpetual motion has been reached up to the present by our southern farmers, who yearly send their raw material to northern manufacturers, who in turn sell the finished products to the farmers at an enormous profit. Why not raise a greater variety of our farm and dairy products and manufacture them at home, and thus cut out that existing line of perpetual motion? We all know that the richest nation or country, and the one which enjoys the richest independence, is the one that raises the most, sells the most, and buys the least.

Some people think that North Carolina is fully grown on the line of live-stock raising. Let's show, by comparison with one of our northern states, what can be done. Take New York for an example. This state has an area of more than forty-nine thousand square miles, and a population of about seven and a half million inhabitants. On the same territory she has more than sixty-seven thousand dairy farms. For the products of these farms, besides what is consumed on the farm, she receives a sum of about forty-six and a half million dollars. Her live-stock are valued at one hundred and twenty-five million dollars. How about North Carolina? She has an area of more than fifty-two thousand square miles, exceeding that of New York by three thousand. Her population is just a little more than one-fourth of that of New York. But still, she only has nine hundred and seventeen dairy farms, and the value of the products from these, besides what is consumed on the farm, is seven hundred and twenty-seven thousand dollars. Her live-stock is valued at thirty million dollars. The average production of milk per cow in New York is five hundred and fifteen gallons per year; that of North Carolina only three hundred and eighty-four gallons for one cow per year. If it is profitable for New York to raise live-stock with her short summers and long, hard winters, why can't North Carolina, in connection with her farms and her great natural advantages, make live-stock one of the most profitable industries of the farm?

If the farmers of the state would take time with their live-stock, get in pure bred animals and give some thought on this line, they would add much to their wealth. We would no longer dread the money kings and trusts. And the coming of the cotton boll weevil would have no terror for us. If we look back to see what other countries have done, we see that the most prosperous country, and the one in which civilization has reached its highest point, is the one which has most developed agriculture. The animal and plant kingdoms are so closely related, that it is almost impossible to develop one without developing the other. Raise live-stock, for meat-eating nations have always stood foremost in the world.

The three great occupations of men are agriculture, commerce and manufacturing. Of these three, manufacturing and commerce depend largely upon agriculture. If we go to the bottom of the thing we can say the whole world is dependent upon agriculture. If agriculture is at the bottom of the prosperity of a nation, why not develop it to its fullest extent? This can be most profitably done by connecting live stock raising with the farm. Remember, the farmer is not satisfied with what he can raise and eat on the farm. He wants to sell something. When he does sell, he not only benefits himself, but he benefits the tradesman and the manufacturer.

Some say there is a great waste on the farm. This may be true. But if we have a variety of animals we have a place for everything raised on the farm, even down to the dry corn stalks. By properly using the forage crop we can convert it into ready money. Take the steel industry for an example of the little waste and great profit that goes with proper management. The crude ore is taken from the earth. After it is taken through a few steps by the workman it is turned out, say, in the form of an axe, which is probably worth a dollar. This same steel, after undergoing several chemical changes under the guidance of a more skilled workman, is turned out in the form of very fine needles, having a value of ten or twenty times its first value. These needles, taken in the hands of a third workman, a man of still higher ability and genius, are turned out in the form of delicate watch-springs. Thus he has increased the value of the same steel a hundred-fold. Can't the farmers do the same with their rough, dry farm products? Yes! A cow can be fed a mixture of one hundred pounds of corn-stover, cow-pea hay, and cotton seed meal, which has a value of forty cents. From this the cow will produce eight pounds of butter, worth two dollars. And besides this, the animal returns to the soil the same elements which the plant first contained. Profit in this feeding is the change of the raw material into a finished product.

Let us look into the benefits that could be derived from one of our minor branches of live stock, say sheep. The production of prime mutton for American and European markets is becoming a permanently established industry of vast proportions in the United States. Our rich lands and abundant food is well suited to the economical production of superior mutton, and it has been clearly demonstrated that mutton sheep, properly selected, can grow a large part, if not all the wool demanded for American manufacturing. The erroneous impression prevails that sheep are only suited to the inferior lands. No greater error can be imagined. While it is true that sheep are well adapted to scanty vegetation and capable of profitably grazing semi-arid lands, they also give a great return for a liberal ration of good feeds as any domestic animal with the exception of the hog. The high-price lands of Great Britain sustain six hundred and eight sheep per thousand acres of agricultural lands, and Scotland, in 1893, had even as high as one thousand, three hundred and eighty sheep per thousand acres of agricultural lands. The leading states of the Union have not to exceed twenty-five sheep per thousand acres of agricultural lands. There is no better way for North Carolina to dispose of her surplus grain, for which she would have to seek a foreign market, than by feeding it to her live-stock. By this means she would always realize a good price for her corn crop by feeding it to good mutton sheep.

There are also some other considerations worth noting. The sale of one thousand dollars' worth of corn, at present prices, takes from the soil producing the crop about three hundred dollars' worth of fertility, that is, material for which the owner of the land would have to pay this amount if he were obliged to purchase commercial fertilizers, at the rates usually prevailing in the market, but the same amount of corn, converted into good mutton, and sold at an advanced price, will take from the soil not to exceed fifty dollars' worth of fertility, or, if sold in the form of wool, it will not take from the land over two or three dollars' worth of fertility. It will be better for North Carolina farming and our system of agriculture to convert our surplus grain products into prime meats to the extent at least of supplying home demands, and then find foreign market for the condensed and high-priced meat products, rather than export the corn and other grain as such.

Our farmers will naturally ask where shall we market our various farm and live-stock products? To this we have the following answer. In nearly every part of the south there is a ready market for our dairy products, and the demand will for many years exceed the amount produced. In nearly all the southern states the retail price of milk is from thirty to forty cents per gallon. This is just about one-half the price paid for northern condensed milk, which is not equal to our fresh milk. Most all our butter is sold for not less than thirty cents per pound. In most of our country homes, beef and mutton are scarcely known, except a little in the winter months. We find that our farmers pay out more for western meat than for any other article of food. A few years ago ninety per cent. of this was shipped from northern and western packing houses. Pork is largely the only meat used by a class of our farmers and by the colored race.

North Carolina has seven counties in which the farmers consume all their dairy products, and thirty counties barely producing more than enough for use on the farms. Where will our towns and cities get their supply of meats and dairy products from? Our Southern States have never produced their own supply of meat, horse power, or dairy products, and have been largely dependent upon the Northern States for horses to perform plantation work.

There is no reason why we can't raise our meat in this State. Hogs have been raised in the South to any size desired, weighing from two to eight hundred pounds. They are robust and healthy and do well on our pasture lands. Will not North Carolina continue to remain a backward State if she waits for other States to raise her supplies? Her railroad system will not grow until she furnishes something for transportation. It would be much better for the State to have her trains come in to be loaded, rather than bring in a heavy load for sale.

Let us no longer look at our State as an agricultural State alone, but as a State having the animal and plant kingdom going hand in hand. With this state of affairs existing, we could compare our State unto a great factory whose base covers the area of the State, whose stockholders are the farmers of the State, giving open-air employment to all the children of the State. Could not an industry of this kind become the strongest and afford the greatest happiness and independence to its laborers of any industry of the world?

The sooner the farmers of the State quit the one-crop system and resort to diversified farming and stock-raising the sooner they will begin to prosper. They should raise their own animals, feed them from their own fields, gather the manure for fertilizers, and return them to further enrich the soil.

Promises Should Be Fulfilled.

EDITOR PATRIOT: I see much on the good roads subject. Some for long roads, others for five or six miles out from Greensboro. This week there is a gentleman from eastern Guilford that makes a fair proposition if there is to be one of the long roads built in his section. I think the commissioners should heed him if they have made up their minds to build long roads. But I think our friend "A True Hayseed," is on the right track, according to my recollection. At least the stump speakers stated time and again that four of the main roads from Greensboro would be worked out five or six miles and then other roads from Greensboro would be taken out the same distance and then extended as far as the money would permit.

There was nothing said about "long roads" except from High Point to Greensboro. There was something said about some other roads around High Point. That was my understanding. It is true none of the county or road commissioners did the stump speaking, but they knew what had been promised and should do all they can to comply with those promises.

I know they are up against a tough proposition, and I feel sorry for them. Their mistake, I think, has been that they have lost sight of promises made and are trying to please everybody.

I hope all things will be adjusted for the best. I also hope there will be something done by our next legislature to protect the people from the abuse of the automobile along public highways. I am not "agin" the automobile or any other "new thing," but those running them should be made to know that other people have rights.

Yours for the best interest of old Guilford.

IN MEMORIAM.

RUAL OSBORNE.

Rual, the little son of Allen and Almada Osborne, was born in December, 1902, and died March 18, 1906. He was one of the sweetest of children. He lingered in this world like a flower, cheering the life of every one who knew him, when God sent His angels out of the skies and called him up higher.

On five o'clock Sunday evening he passed away, to live in the land where the sun always shines and where pain never enters. Rual has left this world of sorrow and has entered the heavenly home. The whole community has great sympathy for the fond parents in their great bereavement.

Apparently everything was done that could be, by parents, neighbors, and physicians to relieve him, but all could not cure him.

May a loving Saviour heal the broken hearts, and may each so live that they will have the assurance that all will meet again.

THE PASTEUR TREATMENT.

Inside View of an Institute—A North Carolinian Who Made an Enforced Sojourn Relates His Experiences.

Charlotte Observer.

One hundred and twelve North Carolinians have, up to the present writing, received successful preventive treatment of hydrophobia at the Pasteur department of the Baltimore City Hospital.

To one who has not witnessed the distressing deaths or listened to the graphic descriptions of the horrible agonies which attend the suffering of the victims of this dreadful malady, the foregoing mention will arrest but a passing interest.

But to the unfortunate person who has been bitten by an animal that is known to be rabid, or by one which suddenly displays vicious tendencies the assurance that the terrible consequences that so often follow similar accidents, can be prevented, carries with it joy unspeakable.

A recent enforced sojourn at the Pasteur Institute in Baltimore has enabled the writer to collect at first hand a few items that may interest Observer readers especially those who may have had the misfortune to be bitten by a vicious animal.

It is pretty generally known, of course, that institutions for the preventive treatment of hydrophobia exist, and are accessible. A glance backward at a year's file of almost any daily paper published in this state, will, however, disclose the fact that an alarming increase in the mortality from bites of rabid animals exists. Possibly if a little more publicity were given this matter many unfortunate persons would be reminded in time of the benefits that follow a Pasteur treatment.

The Pasteur department of the City Hospital at Baltimore was founded by the College of Physicians and Surgeons. It is modeled after the "Pasteur Institut," of Paris, France.

The method is the result of personal investigation at that institute and is identical with that used in Paris. Without the Pasteur preventive treatment, the mortality from bites of rabid animals is about 5 to 80 per cent., depending upon the situation and severity of the wounds. Of those treated by the Pasteur method the mortality is about one-third of one per cent. Of the 775 persons that completed the period for immunity in the City Hospital up to July 15th, 1905, one is reported to have died of hydrophobia. This patient had chronic Bright's disease before and during treatment.

If accepted the rate of mortality is only one-fifth of one per cent. Much less than the usual rate.

519 of the 775 persons treated were bitten by animals absolutely proven to be rabid. 559 of the 775 were males, 218 were females, and 238 were children, up to and under 10 years of age. The youngest was 7 months old and the oldest 82 years. Of the 19 states represented at the hospital Maryland furnished the greater number of patients, 216. North Carolina comes second with 102. Since July 15th, 1905, this state has contributed 10 more, making a total to date of 112.

Pennsylvania sent 87, Virginia 80, W. Virginia 71, Washington and District of Columbia 49, South Carolina 38, Louisiana 36, Delaware 33. The other 10 states follow with 1 to 9 each.

Eighty-five per cent. of the patients were from the rural districts. In 26 cases the treatment was discontinued because the animals held under observation were evidently not rabid.

It is always best to take the treatment if one is in doubt as to whether or not the animal is rabid.

In this case do not kill the animal, but keep it under observation to determine whether it has rabies. If the animal is dead, the head with part of the neck attached should be sent to the laboratory at the college for investigation.

The treatment requires twenty-three days and costs one hundred and fifty dollars; this includes board and room in the hospital. Residence in the hospital, however, is not necessary.

If taking treatment pending investigation of the animal's brain and spinal cord, or awaiting developments while the animal is under observation, one has the satisfaction of knowing that in any event he has chosen the only safe course to pursue.

At the end of seventy hours, if the animal has not shown signs of rabies, the chances are that it will not go mad.

As a precautionary measure, however, it would be advisable to continue treatment for ten days after being bitten. The charges when treatment has been discontinued by permission of the director, are proportionally lower. The treatment consists of hypodermic injections in the abdomen of a fluid procured from the brains and spinal cords of rabbits that had been demonstrated rabid by cerebral subdural inoculation of rabbits which had died of rabies. The painstaking method of obtaining this lymph is quite interesting.

Prof. N. G. Keirle, director of the institute, took the writer all through the departments and very kindly explained everything connected with the workings of the institute.

Voluntarily records of the histories of each case are kept, two large pages being allotted to each patient. Nothing is trusted to the memory, everything bearing upon each individual case is recorded with minute exactness. The nurse's reports of temperature and other conditions are submitted to the director daily. This together with the reports received from his assistant physicians and the personal interviews he has with each patient every day, keeps him in close touch with his charges.

The first room visited contained sixty rabbits in two wire enclosed hutches. These bunnies were kept for inoculation purposes, two being inoculated each day, Sunday included. A very large cat is kept in this room to destroy rats that might venture in. The rats, the professor explained, would kill the rabbits, but the cat which was raised from kittenhood with the timid creatures, guards them, and chances his bill of fare occasionally by substituting a sleek murine for beefsteak.

In another apartment was fifteen wire-covered boxes, each box containing two rabbits which had been inoculated by removing a button of the frontal bone of the skull above the eyes and introducing a small portion of the spinal cord taken from a rabbit that had died of the rabies. The professor assured me that the operation was attended by very little pain. He loves animals of all kinds and would not needlessly inflict the least suffering.

The thirty inoculated rabbits to my eye displayed none of the signs that makes the rabid dog. On the contrary they looked very quiet. Those which had been inoculated recently nibbled at cabbage leaves and hopped about contentedly. There was a marked difference in their appearances. As the time of inoculation extended they grew less frisky, their eyes assumed a glassy stare and they seemed to be unconscious of their surroundings. They sat humped up, apparently free from pain and exhibited not the least trace of excitement. While in a normal condition, the professor said that occasionally two rabbits would fight fiercely, but these poor creatures were oblivious to each other's presence, and manifested not the least irritability when touched with an iron rod. They would simply move languidly to one side and if in or near the last stages would invariably fall over on their sides, regain their feet clumsily and resume their humped position. If one happened to fall against his mate who was, of course, in the same condition, he neither resented nor noticed the slight shock but remained to all appearances in a brown study.

I saw three lying as if dead, one of them could wiggle his feet a little if touched, but the others had apparently crossed the divide.

From the rabbits I was taken to the laboratory; in this room the director spends most of his time preparing the fluid. In a smaller room whose door, floor, walls and ceiling were covered with asbestos, shelves supporting many glass jars were arranged along the walls. In these jars the spinal cords and brains of inoculated rabbits were subjected to some kind of a chemical process which the professor kindly explained, and I in turn promptly forgot, for problems in chemistry was never my long suit. One thing I did understand, however, and that was, every jar was necessary for the proper chemical change that transformed the afflicted brains and spinal cords into the life-saving liquid. One jar less, or one more, would defeat the end aimed at. This room was equipped with two automatic instruments that regulated the temperature and humidity of its interior. One could not help noticing that the professor is enthusiastic in his work. There is nothing slovenly or slipshod in his methods. Every feature connected with the department denotes the careful arrangement and exactness of the dependent parts and portions that merge into a final and complete whole.

Professor Keirle is an affable, courteous gentleman, rather below the medium height, with white hair and beard. He is always busy, but finds time to make his patients feel that he takes a personal as well as a professional interest in their individual cases.

Without loss of dignity he cheers the depressed by a natural ebullition of good spirits that are infectious to a degree that leaves the patient in a pleasant frame of mind, dissipating the gloomy forebodings that may have found lodgement in a worried brain.

Dr. Amick, who had charge of my case, is a tall, athletic, good looking young man, with prematurely gray hair. His refined features when in repose would suggest the dreamer. I can, however, furnish expert testimony to prove that he is exceedingly practical and positive when the occasion requires it, but in such a pleasant way does he carry his point that one is bound to accept defeat gracefully if not painlessly.

A difference of opinion regarding the admissibility of my taking an anesthetic, gave me a line on Dr. Amick's method of dealing with contrary patients. My voluble assertions as to the benefit derived from treatment taken while unconscious were met with an assortment of convincing negatives that most effectively suppressed me and removed any lingering doubts that I might have possessed regarding that gentleman's firmness.

The Uses of Cotton Oil.

Some one has said of the French that they have gained a world-wide reputation for good cooking because "they make good bread, and have the wit to keep fresh olive oil in the home, and know how to use it." And so the American housewife could easily attain a similar reputation for much skill in many home comforts did she but appreciate the many excellencies that lie in good refined cottonseed oil. That it is of all cooking fats the most delicious, as it is the cleanest, healthiest and most nutritious, is now very generally recognized all over the country. And many people to whom dyspeptic tendencies have entirely departed fried foods and rich pastries, now luxuriate in them unshrinkingly and with no fear of after punishment when cotton oil is used in their preparation. But aside from cookery there are very many uses that make a bottle of good cotton oil in the house a comfort and a well-spring of joy. For it is a wonderful aid to health and comfort in many ways, and no home should ever be without it.

No wiser dietary injunction has ever been given than that which tells us to eat a vegetable salad every day of our lives, and all salads are improved by the addition of good cotton oil. Then there are so many things that with a little skill and cotton oil can be tried up into delicious salads; lettuce, tomatoes, onions, cucumbers, celery, sweet peppers, cabbage, asparagus, beans, peas, nuts, apples, etc. All either separately or in almost endless combinations.

CONFEDERATE REUNION.

Order to The North Carolina Division of the United Confederate Veterans.

Headquarters North Carolina Division, United Confederate Veterans, Durham, N. C., March 20, 1906.

General Order No. 29.

Paragraph I. The Major-General commanding the North Carolina Division of the United Confederate Veterans announces that the sixteenth annual Reunion will be held in the city of New Orleans on the 25th, 26th and 27th of April, 1906, and it is earnestly hoped that there will be a full attendance of the veterans from the 'Old North State.' Those who were so fortunate as to attend the reunion held there three years ago will remember with much pleasure what a delightful occasion it was and what a generous hospitality was then extended. The coming reunion promises to be still more delightful and a still warmer welcome will be extended by the hospitable and warm-hearted citizens of the 'Crescent City.'

Paragraph II. The railroad companies will give the usual rate of one cent a mile, which makes the fare for the round trip from Raleigh $18.60. The rates from other points can be learned by application to the railroad agents. Those going by the Southern can take the special train, which will leave Raleigh at 3.30 P. M. on Monday, the 23rd of April, and arrive at New Orleans via Atlanta and Montgomery at 8 P. M. the next day. Those going by the Seaboard Air Line can leave Raleigh either at 4 P. M. or at 3.25 A. M., and arrive at New Orleans via Atlanta and Birmingham. Full particulars as to these trains will be furnished on application to Mr. R. L. Vernon, T. P. A. of the Southern at Charlotte, and to Major C. H. Gattis, T. P. A. of the S. A. L. at Raleigh.

Paragraph III. The headquarters of the North Carolina Division will be at the St. Charles Hotel, where the veterans from this state will please report on their arrival and register. For information as to boarding houses and accommodations, address Mr. R. McWilliams, chairman, 342 Camp St., New Orleans.

Paragraph IV. All camps are earnestly requested to send at once to General W. E. Mickie, 824 Common street, New Orleans, their annual dues of ten cents for each member. No camp is allowed any representation or vote unless all dues are paid, including all arrears. This should receive prompt attention, so that our division may cast all the votes to which it is entitled. All officers of the staff are requested to attend in their uniforms, and it is hoped that there will be a full attendance.

Paragraph V. Miss Mary Young Ramsey, of Salisbury, has been appointed the coming Reunion, and she has appointed as her Maids of Honor Misses Luna Estelle Thompson and Florence J. Thomas.

By order of Major General, J. S. CARR.

H. A. LONDON, Adjutant General and Chief of Staff.

Is Disease a Crime?

Not very long ago, a popular magazine published an editorial article in which the writer asserted, in substance, that all disease should be regarded as criminal. Certain it is, that much of the sickness and suffering of mankind is due to the violation of certain of Nature's laws. But to say that all sickness should be regarded as criminal, must appear to every reasonable individual as radically wrong.

It would be harsh, unsympathetic, cruel, yes criminal, to condemn the poor, weak, over-worked housewife who sinks under the heavy load of household cares and burdens, and suffers from nervous, various displacements of pelvic organs and other derangements peculiar to her sex.

Frequent bearing of children, with its exacting demands upon the system, coupled with the care, worry and labor of rearing a large family, is often the cause of weaknesses, derangements and debility which are aggravated by the many household cares, and the hard, and never-ending work which the mother is called upon to perform. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—says that one of the greatest obstacles to the cure of this class of maladies is the fact that it is a matter of frequent experience, he says, in his extensive practice in these cases, to meet with those in which the system fails by reason of the patient's inability to abstain from hard work long enough to be cured. With those suffering from prolapsus, inversion and retroversion of the uterus or other displacement of the womanly organs, it is very necessary that, in addition to taking his "Favorite Prescription," they abstain from being very much, or for long periods, on their feet. All heavy lifting or straining of any kind should also be avoided. As much outdoor air as possible, with moderate, light exercise is also very important. The patient observe these rules and the "Favorite Prescription" will do the rest.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound.

If sick consult the Doctor, free of charge by letter. All such communications are held sacredly confidential.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate and regulate stomach, liver and bowels.

ROAD NOTICE.

A petition having been presented to the Board of County Commissioners to make public the road in Rock Creek township leading from Jacob Sharpe's easterly to the Ammie county line, a distance of one-half mile, this is to notify all persons objecting to same to appear before said board at the next regular meeting on Tuesday, May 8th, 1906, and state said objection.

THE FIREMEN GIVE A FEAST.

Greensboro's Efficient Fire Department Entertains at a Magnificent Banquet Spread at The Benbow.

A hundred or more people, including the sixty-nine members of the Greensboro fire department, the municipal officers and others prominent in the commercial and professional life of the city, enjoyed a magnificent banquet spread by the fire fighters at The Benbow last Thursday evening. The big dining room of the hotel was tastefully decorated for the occasion, and presented a scene of dazzling beauty to the guests as they were ushered in. The orchestra furnished delightful music throughout the evening.

At half past ten o'clock Mr. C. D. Benbow, a former chief of the department, called the assembly to order in the capacity of toastmaster and invited Rev. H. W. Battle, D.D., to invoke a divine blessing, which was done with Dr. Battle's usual impressiveness. Mr. Benbow demonstrated his fitness for his position at the head of the table, introducing the various speakers in a happy manner.

Department Chief F. N. Taylor made an address of welcome that came from the bottom of his heart. He said that the banquet was given with a view to elevating the fire service, the handsome donations made the department in recent months having made it possible for the members to indulge in such a treat, and in which a few of their friends had been asked to share. Judge R. C. Strudwick spoke in a happy vein in responding to the toast, "Our Guests." He said he deemed it a great honor to have been selected to respond to this particular toast, adding that too much could not be said in praise of the hosts of the evening. He then discussed the essential in which firemen should be held. The benefit of all the guests he returned hearty thanks and a prediction for the handsome entertainment afforded.

No one could have faulted the toast, "The Greensboro Fire Department: Enduring as the Rock." To better advantage than did Mr. J. T. Morehead, whose reminiscent words are always a source of interest. With the good humor for which he is noted he described the various steps taken by the city from its swaddling clothes to the present to protect itself against the ravages of fire.

"The Volunteer Firemen" was the toast which was responded to by Capt. James D. McNeill, of Fayetteville, president of the National Firemen's Association and the North Carolina State Firemen's Association. He spoke eloquently and feelingly of the dangers that beset the volunteer firemen in their line of duty and the scant reward they receive from municipalities in general. His tributes to the firemen of volunteer departments brought forth prolonged applause. His peroration was especially happy and he drew a picture of a monument that he would erect with a brave fireman clasping to his breast the babe whose life he had saved at the risk of his own, "and on its base I would write the words, 'The defender of homes.' That's the tribute I would pay to the volunteer fireman."

"The Greensboro Fire Department of Today," was responded to by the Hon. J. E. Bradshaw, who said that the most gratifying thing to him was the fact that the Greensboro fire department has kept pace with those of the larger cities. His remarks sustained the reputation with which the city's brightest speakers and did the occasion justice.

Mayor Murphy, speaking of "The City Council and Its Relations to the Volunteer Fire Department," told of the harmonious relations existing between the aldermen and the firemen. He voiced the sentiment of the governing municipal board when he said that all the firemen needed was a proper equipment with which to fight the city's battles with fire successfully.

The last toast to be responded to was "Firemen and Fire Insurance Companies." The relations that exist and should exist between firemen and fire insurance companies were discussed by Mr. A. W. McAlister with that gentleman's well known precision of thought and thoroughness of treatment. Some startling figures bearing on the fire waste in this country were given. The prevention of fires is of transcending importance. The fire waste in this country is six times greater than in any other country. In America we fight fire; in Europe they prevent it. Most of the fires that have occurred in Greensboro have been preventable.

Judge Boyd was called out by Toastmaster Benbow and concluded the speechmaking with a few happy and complimentary remarks that brought rounds of applause. It was past midnight when he concluded.

The banquet from every viewpoint was voted one of the most successful ever held in the history of Greensboro.

The following was the menu served:

Concomme Printiniere Royal,
Queen Olives, Salted Almonds, Iced Cucumbers,
Broiled Spanish Mackerel, Anchovy Butter,

Pommes de terre Saratoga,
Tenderloin of Beef larded, aux champignons,

The Approaching Fair.

The board of directors of the Central Carolina Fair Association met Friday night and decided to appropriate $3,500 for racing at the coming fair next October, this being $700 more than ever was spent at a previous fair. The fence around the track will be rebuilt and fifty new stalls are to be erected. Quite a number of novel and interesting features will be added to the fair this year and the officers say it will be bigger and better than ever.

Huffines-Thomas.

Last Thursday evening, April 12, the residence of Mr. D. L. Thomas, near Gibsonville, was the scene of a beautiful home wedding, the contracting parties being Mr. Jesse F. Huffines, a popular and prosperous young farmer, and Miss Lillian Eleanor Thomas, the attractive and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Thomas. Only the immediate friends of the family were present at the marriage, the affair having been kept a profound secret even to the close relatives and most intimate friends of the parties. Just at 8 o'clock, Mr. L. R. Thomas and Miss Nettie Huffines and Mr. E. B. Huffines and Miss Annie Fickie, cousins of the groom, entered the parlor. Next came the groom with the bride leaning upon his arm, marching slowly into the parlor, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion and where the solemn ceremony which made them man and wife was pronounced by Rev. C. B. Cox, of Burlington. The bride wore a wreath of blossoms in her hair and a dress of lavender silk made in a very becoming style. After the ceremony a reception was given and a sumptuous repast served. The bride and groom were the recipients of a number of handsome and useful presents. At 10 o'clock the happy couple drove to the home of the groom's father, Mr. Samuel Huffines, where they will reside in the future. The heartiest congratulations are tendered them.

High Point Boy Falls Fifty Feet.

High Point, April 15.—This afternoon Roy, the thirteen-year-old son of Mr. E. A. Snow, of the Snow Lumber Company, was the victim of a horrible accident, which, it is feared, will result in death. Roy, with some other boys, was at the silk mill, where a large brick chimney is being erected, which at present is 65 feet high. Within the stack were iron rods for the workmen to climb on. These were put there Saturday and the mortar had not dried. Young Snow was climbing up in the chimney and had progressed about 50 feet when one of the rods slipped, precipitating him to the bottom of the chimney. The only opening between the top and bottom is an eye hole, ten feet from the bottom and ropes had to be secured and the boys pulled him through this aperture.

As the unfortunate young man fell his head and body came in contact with brick and iron rods, severely bruising him externally and internally. It is believed. One leg was shattered fearfully and an arm broken. Up to this hour young Snow has not regained consciousness. All the available doctors were called and, after consultation, very little hope is entertained for his recovery.

RESOLUTIONS

By Greensboro District, N. C. Conference, of the A. M. E. Church, Commendatory of the A. & M. College.

Whereas, We have visited the A. & M. College, of this city, so ably presided over by one of our worthy laymen, Prof. J. B. Dudley, and,

Whereas, We enjoyed the visit which was delightful to all and highly appreciated the courtesies of faculty and students; and,

Whereas, We have been greatly inspired and favorably impressed by our visit, and as we beheld the display of agricultural and mechanical training among the students, therefore be it resolved:

1. That we recognize in the work of the school one of the many contributing forces towards the uplifting of our race along material lines.
2. That we hope and pray God's blessing upon the institution, that it may continue to be a mighty source from which emanate the influences and teachings that will mold true manhood among our boys and make them useful and profitable citizens of their respective communities.
3. That a copy of these resolutions be furnished the faculty and students of the school.

The Delinquent for May.

The May Delinquent, with a complete display, pictorial and descriptive, of the latest Spring fashions, contains a wealth of suggestion for those who wish to be smartly gowned, and many other features of interest to women. Hon. Justice David J. Brewer contributes an article on "Woman in the Professions" in which he comments on the significance of the fact that the status of women has changed in the last half century. Miss Winslow's club story, "The President of Quex," drawing near its end, deepens in interest, and the author supplements the installment with a chapter on "Club Women and the Child Labor Question." In "Famous American Songs," Gustav Kobbe gives the story of the origin of the popular air, "Ten Bells," and in an interesting historical sketch of Annapolis, Hester D. Richardson vividly pictures the romantic interest attached to the spot where the body of John Paul Jones is to rest. Florence Rockwell writes her experiences in playing Shakespearian roles and speaks of the need of a national theater. Avery Abbott and Juliette B. G. Towne contribute short stories for older folks, and Alice Brown a fairy tale for the little ones. There are other features to delight young folks, including a chapter in the serial, "Sunlight and Shadow" and pastimes by Lina Beard. In the "Campaign for Sale Foods" Mary Human Abel writes of coloring matters and commercial cheats, and the pages devoted to the household are full of suggestions for the kitchen with many other helpful hints to the housewife.

Pines last week, where he went to look over his orchard of eighteen thousand fruit-bearing trees. He estimates that the fruit has been damaged by the cold about 25 per cent. The damage at Southern Pines, he says, was greater than around Greensboro. The year, Mr. Lindley thinks now, will prove an average fruit-year.

BISHOP PROPOSITION ACCEPTED.

New Street Will be Cut Through to Junction of Summit, Lindsay and Church.The board of aldermen decided at a special meeting Friday night to open a street running from North Elm to the intersection of Summit avenue, Lindsay and Church streets.A number of property owners in that section of the city were present and made various propositions to the board regarding the opening of the new thoroughfare.John L. King, Mrs. Carrie Yates, Mrs. Doub, F. P. Elmore and S. A. Kerr were of the opinion that Price street should be continued on across North Elm into Church street. Mr.
King, as spokesman for them, said
he thought that the continuation of Price street was the best route for the new street, and he said the right of way could be had for about $1,000.Mr. Bishop's proposition was that the new street, instead of cutting directly across to Church street, should lead to the intersection of Summit avenue, Lindsay and Church streets. He said that all rights of way could be secured for $1,500. Alderman Thompson moved that Mr. Bishop's proposition be accepted by the board, and his motion was seconded by Alderman Wy-song.At this juncture of the proceedings Alderman Hunter, chairman of the committee, arose and said that he was in favor of a new street, but he thought the matter should be more fully investigated and left to the decision of appraisers.Alderman Odell was of the opinion that the city ought not to pay for any streets just yet, as there are many streets in the city in bad condition now.After some discussion the Thompson motion was put to a vote and resulted as follows: Ayes—Brandt, Harrison, Wysong and Thompson. Nones—Odell and Hunter. The motion was declared carried.The question of extending Eugene street from Gaston to Bellmeade avenue was brought up. Aldermen Brandt and Odell were appointed to investigate
the matter and report to the board
at the next meeting.

MRS. DR. EBERLE DEAD.

Succumbed to Attack of Typhoid Fever
Sunday Afternoon.After an illness of two or three weeks with typhoid fever Mrs. Clara St. Leger Eberle, wife of Dr. H. A. Eberle, died at her home, 231 Summit avenue, Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. She was 30 years old. The funeral service was held from the residence Monday afternoon
at 4 o'clock, conducted by Rev.
Dr. H. W. Battle. The interment was at Greene Hill cemetery. The pallbearers were Messrs. Moses Cone, R. D. Douglas,
V. C. McAdoo, N. L. Brewer, Howard Gardner,
Charles L. Van Noppen.Mrs. Eberle was born in Montreal, Canada, and came to Greensboro two years ago with her family. By her sweet and lovable disposition she made many friends in this city who were pained to hear of her death and whose hearts go out in tenderest sympathy for the grief-stricken family. She is survived by a husband and two daughters,
one of them being Miss Louise Eberle,
of the staff of the Daily Industrial News, and the other Miss Abastenia
Eberle, of New York. Dr. Eberle has been in feeble health for several months and is now a patient at St.
Leo's Hospital.

Carnegie Library Now Open.

The Carnegie Library threw open its massive doors to the public at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning and hundreds of people visited the new institution
during the day.The interior arrangement is all that could be desired and a great deal of work can be accomplished with little effort. The walls are beautifully decorated and the entire building presents a most pleasant appearance.A number of new books are being added to the shelves, and they will be eagerly sought after by the library's many patrons.The formal opening will not be held until April 30, at which time the principal address will be delivered by Dr.
C. Alfonso Smith, of the faculty of the University of North Carolina.

Flag and Bible Presentation.

At the closing exercises of South
Buffalo graded school next Friday afternoon a Bible and an American flag will be presented to the school by the Junior Order, U. A. M. Mr. E. D.
Broadhurst and Capt. F. P. Hobgood will make the presentation speeches.Peas for sowing purposes are getting scarce, but we can supply a limited quantity, while they last.

FORSYTH & WATKINS.

Dr. Matthews Released on Bail.

Dr. J. B. Matthews, who has been in jail here since his recent trial for murder, pending an appeal of his case to the Supreme court, was released under bail Monday morning and left that night for Richmond, Va., where he will visit his sister and his little son Ben for a few days and then go North for treatment for the morphine habit, which was his undoing. With his parents and his brother-in-law, he spent the afternoon going about the city, evidently relishing the fresh air and the sunshine, and while he was the cynosure
of all eyes he paid no heed to the staring crowds that he encountered, even braving the gaze of the throng at the ball game.Dr. Harrison, the county physician, states that Matthews has not tasted morphine in over two weeks and that he seems desirous of freeing himself from the clutches of the drug. His family feels that there is still hope for him if he can be successfully treated at a sanitarium.Sledman & Cooke, attorneys for the defense in the noted case, say that it is not at all probable that the appeal will be heard by the Supreme court until the October term, while at the same time it is possible it may come up at the end of May. In any case the bond will be continued from time to time until the appeal is disposed of.The following statement was given out Monday:"Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Matthews, of Durham, father and mother of Dr. J. B.
Matthews, came up from Durham this morning and gave the bond of $5,000 for his appearance at the next term of criminal court to be held for this county. It is not probable that the appeal in the case will be heard by the Supreme court until the October term, and the bond will be renewed from time to time until the appeal is disposed of.""At first it was thought best by Dr.
Matthews' people that he should remain in the county jail where he could,
with the treatment of the county physician,
and by means of confinement where he would not get the drug, be broken
of his habit of taking morphine. On account of his health they decided that it would be best to give the bond and send him to some sanitarium, and he will be immediately sent to Mount Hope Sanitarium, near Baltimore, Md., where he will take a course
of treatment for the morphine habit,
hoping that he may be permanently cured."

Nineteen to Nothing.

South Carolina is fortunate in not having to depend for a reputation on the spavined and rheumatic aggregation
known as her University base ball team.
The unsophisticated youths from the Palmetto state ventured across the line
Saturday to try conclusions with the University of North Carolina team, and it was evident from their "exhibition" here that they had left home with some painfully inaccurate impressions. Instead of meeting a bunch of ping pong players
wearing pink shirtwaists, kid gloves and high heeled slippers they came in violent contact with a husky set of young Americans who know what the knots on their arms and the spikes in their shoes are for. The game, if it may be called a game, started at four o'clock in the presence of several hundred people, most all of whom, long before the round-up of the ninth inning, wished they had stayed at home. Cunningham and Rogers for the U. N. C. and Heyward and Dubose for the U. S. C. were opposing batteries. In a moment of forgetfulness or compassion, we are not certain which,
Cunningham allowed the visitors one hit.
Heyward was pounded to pulp, figuratively speaking. The details of the game would be printed were it not for the fact that a watchful S. P. C. A. society now has its headquarters in Greensboro. The agonizing score of 19 to 0 must answer, if the feelings of the visitors are to be spared. Charges of false pretense will rest against the Blue and White if any more such alleged games are arranged for the Gate City this year.

Superior Court.

Judge Ferguson opened the April term of Guilford Superior court Monday morning, taking up the civil docket.
In the case of Moler & Shuman vs. The North State Bobbin Company plaintiff was awarded judgment for $37.50. T. S. Southgate & Co. were given judgment for $141.64
against the Scott-Sparger Company. W. F.
Clegg was given judgment for $175 against the Southern Railway. The damage suit of D. T. Dicks vs. The Southern Railway was taken up yesterday afternoon. Miss Bessie Boyd, of Reidsville, is now employed as court stenographer.

BLACKBURN'S TRIAL BEGINS.

Demurrers of the Defense Overruled and the Hearing Will Proceed.The trial of Hon. E. Spencer Blackburn, congressman from the Eighth North Carolina
district, who is charged with illegally accepting fees in revenue cases after having been elected to congress, was begun here yesterday morning in the Circuit court of the United States, Judge Nathan Goff, of West Virginia, presiding. The government is represented by Judge Lewis, of Virginia, and Assistant District Attorney J. J. Britt, of Asheville. Mr. Blackburn's attorneys are Judge W. P. Bynum, and Messrs. A. L. Brooks, E. J. Justice and G. S. Bradshaw.The indictment covers three separate charges or transactions, bills having been found in the same both at Asheville and at Greensboro. The first move was made by the prosecution asking that the Asheville indictments be consolidated with those found here. The motion was resisted by the defense, who had filed a demurrer to the latter indictments, based on the position that Blackburn was not actually a member of congress at the time the payments of his clients were received. The discussion of the indictments and demurrer covered the entire day, but just before the close of the afternoon session Judge Goff overruled the demurrer and consolidated the cases, opening the way for a hearing before a jury on the actual merits of the case. The case attracted great crowds to the Federal building yesterday and will undoubtedly prove a drawing card to its conclusion.

Davidson Defeats Guilford in a Close Game Played Here.

The Davidson College and Guilford College ball teams put up an exhibition of the national game here Monday that delighted in everything save the result something like a thousand people. The teams were evenly matched in most respects
and both did excellent work, barring a few unfortunate errors on the part of Guilford at critical moments. Primarily it was a pitchers' battle, but numerous brilliant plays during the progress of the game demonstrated that none of the players were lacking in point of skill or training. Guilford's crack battery, Louis and Wilson Hobbs, the latter in the box, laid thirteen Bluestockings
on the shelf with strike-outs while Anderson, Davidson's clever and effective twirler, performed a like service for nine Quaker batters. Two hit were made off Hobbs and four off Anderson.
While the crowd was with the Guilford team Davidson had a bunch of rooters along that made up in noise what is lacked in numbers.
It was a clean, snappy game, and Greensboro
would honor another contest between the same teams with a crowd of still larger proportions.

Commencement Marshals At State Normal College.

The nominations for marshals for the coming year, which were made Friday evening by the two literary societies at the State Normal and Industrial College and which are to be submitted to the board of directors for approval, are as follows:Chief Marshal, Mary Galloway Carter, Adelphian, Forsyth county.
Assistant Marshals: Adelphian—Marian Boyd, Warren county; Mamie Toler, Wayne county; Blanche Austin, Iredell county; Nettie Brogden, Wayne county; Bright Ogburn, Union county; Cornelia—Mary Thorpe, Nash county; Mena Davis, Rowan county; Lena Leggett, Halifax county; Nemmie Paris, Nash county;
Martha Petty, Randolph county.

Tobacco Market Report.

The receipts on our market for the past week have been rather light, owing to the unfavorable weather for farm operations
and the unfavorable weather for handling tobacco. Prices on all grades are very stiff and remain unchanged to a shade higher.
The weather has been so harsh this week
that our sales are expected to be very light.
Our market is in good condition to take care of our friends in the best of style and we will be glad to see them at any time.

Diploma Recital.

Miss Blanche E. Shattuck announces the diploma recital of Miss Katherine Banks
at Greensboro Female College, Thursday evening, April 19, at eight thirty o'clock.
Miss Banks will present an original interpretation
of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," impersonating
the various characters in the comedy. Mendelssohn's setting of the play including the incidental music will be rendered by Miss Ethel E. Blalock.
The public is cordially invited to be present.

Death of Mr. Robert A. Caldecleugh.

Greensboro lost one of her good citizens
Sunday morning at 1:30, when Mr. Robert A. Caldecleugh passed away.
He had been in bad health, suffering from Bright's disease for some time, but it was not suspected that death was near. He had evidently arisen from his bed or attempted to do, when he fell back on his pillow and expired. His brother heard him moving around and got up to find him breathing his last. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. C. E. Hodgkin from the home on South Elm Sunday afternoon at 5:30 and the remains were taken to Lexington on the 6:30 train Monday morning for interment beside his father, mother and other relatives.With his brother, Mr. E. M. Caldecleugh, he came to Greensboro in 1870 and opened a confectionery store opposite the Benbow House.
It was a small affair, but the firm was prudent
and in time built the elegant store now occupied by the firm, its style always being
E. M. Caldecleugh & Brother.Mr. Caldecleugh was an exemplary citizen.
He attended strictly to his own business and was on friendly terms with every one. The children of Greensboro were all his friends, and many of the younger generation crowded into his death chamber Sunday to view his remains. His store was the mecca of the children at Christmas time, and there was always a kindly greeting awaiting them there. The deceased was perhaps something over 60. He was never married and he and his brother lived over their store,
where they have elegant rooms. His father,
who came with the young men to Greensboro 36 years ago, died, as did a sister who kept house for them for some years.

Christian Endeavor Lecture.

Mr. Von Ogden Vogt, of Boston, general secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, will deliver a lecture to young people in the Smith Memorial building next Saturday night, April 21, at 8 o'clock. The subject of his address will be "The Work of the Christian Endeavor."Mr. Vogt is of very attractive personality and is greatly interested in the work of the young people's societies. He has twice been elected to his present position.He is a very entertaining speaker and all who do not avail themselves of this opportunity to hear him will miss a rare treat.All members of every society are urged to attend this lecture and hear Mr. Vogt.Special music will be arranged for the occasion.

New Presbyterian Church Opened.

The first service at Walker Avenue Presbyterian church was held Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.
There was a very good congregation present at the service, which was conducted by Rev. C. E.
Hodgkin, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian church.After the service a Sunday-school was organized with sixty scholars. The following officers were elected: A. M. Scales, superintendent;
Dr. T. R. Little, assistant superintendent;
Prof. T. R. Foust, secretary; E. V. Harrison, treasurer.This church, which is a neat frame structure,
is situated on the corner of Walker avenue and Mendenhall street. It is not only a credit to the denomination but a great convenience to its members in the western portion of the city,
who have long wished for a house of worship
near at hand.

Johnson-Melvin.

Mr. W. H. Johnson, who recently gave up a position with the Greensboro Electric Company to take a position with the Southern Railway at Burlington, was united in marriage here Sunday to Miss Alice Melvin, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Melvin. The ceremony was performed by Rev. L. F. Johnson, pastor of the Christian church, at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. J. D. May, on East Lee street, and Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left soon afterward on the noon train for Burlington,
where they will make their home.

BOTH SIDES CLAIM TO HAVE BEST OF IT.

Conflicting Statements Regarding the High Point Lockout.

High Point, April 20.—Some of the happiest men in town today are among those who held to their jobs at the various factories when their fellow workmen quit. These men are being rapidly promoted and receiving an advance in wages, thus gaining an advantage over men who when they come back will have to take the next best job in hand, if the best places have all been filled. The manufacturers have issued a card to their employees telling them to stand to a man despite threatening letters and insults which they claim they have received, and that they (the manufacturers) would stand by them and see that they got the best going for remaining loyal. The card closes with the assurance of protection at all times.

In conversation with one of the leading manufacturers here who was hit the hardest by the walkout, I asked him if he could get the men as fast as he needed them for his class of work. In reply he said, "we still have the foundation left and about half of our best men, and that is a pretty good start, isn't it?"

Two negroes met on the street corner yesterday, one was out on account of the lockout, the other was working. Said the working negro to the idle negro, "Nigger, you would not work in a pie shop if you got every other pie." The pie seemed to strike the idle negro and he gave a broad grin and moved off from his antagonist.

In talking with some of the manufacturers here last night they could not understand if an order for furniture from this place had been cancelled by the Spencer Y. M. C. A., on account of the decision of the manufacturers not to employ union labor, the reason a Christian organization would take such a step is this: they believe it would have been more in keeping with the religious teaching of such an organization to have looked further into the matter before taking such a step.

THE UNION SIDE.

The following telegram from a union source, gives the present conditions from the union side:

High Point, N. C., April 12.—In regard to the misleading reports sent out from this city to the News and Observer in regard to the present lockout of union men here, the impression would prevail that the union ranks had been broken and union men were returning to work under old conditions.

The union side of this problem today looks brighter and more favorable than heretofore. New applicants were taken into the union today and applications for more are now on file. The tide continues to rise and with every wave a pebble of encouragement is washed into banks of unionism. Only one man has broken ranks with the union side this week. Every mail brings in letters of firm request asking the men to stand firm and financial and moral support will be freely given them.

With a town of 2,200 factory employers and a thousand out should convince the reading public that business of that nature could not run to advantage and without loss. The wheels of the different factories continues to turn, but in their revolution their production is small. High Point has had a scarcity of labor for years, and few if any, are coming here now to work.

One conference of the organizers and manufacturers will probably take tomorrow morning, when some steps for a settlement will be made. Mayor Wrenn has agreed to meet the men and says he is anxious to see the men return to work. Mr. Roberts, of the Federation of Labor, has not been to Washington, as reported by your regular correspondent, but went to Salisbury last night, where he addressed the different labor organizations. He addresses the Charlotte organizations tonight.

He has not given up the sponge as would be inferred by your regular correspondent, but came here to fight this battle to finish and he is a general in his war to get within army of brave men fighting for "Freedom, sweet freedom," who will not yield to slavery.

It is a conceded fact by nearly every one that if the manufacturers do not admit union men that they will have to close down their plants for a time to come. At any rate labor is a scarce article here and cannot be obtained at heretofore prices. This they already realize. A man in this city today told your correspondent he could not dispose of some lots he owned at near the value and only a few real estate transactions have been made of late.

Onelida Dye House Burned.

Graham Tribune, 13th.

Last night at about 12 o'clock the dye house connected with the Onelida cotton mills, at this place, was discovered to be on fire. The fire had gained such headway when discovered that it was impossible to save it from destruction. The Graham Hose Company was promptly on the scene and worked valiantly and successfully in getting the fire under control. Had it not been for Graham's excellent water system and the good work of the fire company the entire plant would doubtless now be in ruins. Of the dye house nothing is left but the walls and a lot of ruined machinery. The loss is about $20,000. It will be several months before the building and machinery can be replaced. This plant did the dyeing for the three cotton mills in this county owned by Mr. L. Banks Holt and this fire will seriously effect them all. By obtaining supplies from other mills it is hoped to start up the Onelida mills in about two weeks.

Texas Miners Get the Scale of 1903.

Fort Worth, Texas, April 5.—Today at Strawn, the miners and operators signed the 1903 scale and work in the mines will be resumed at once at both Strawn and Lyra. About 700 men are affected.

President Peter Henry, of the twenty-first district, U. M. W. A., is here tonight en route to South McAlester, where he goes for the purpose of trying to adjust the difference in that district. He expresses himself as confident, from the reports he has received from the Indian Territory, that he will be successful.

Henry says that the operators will sign and that the end of the strike is in sight.

OLD HICKORY CHIPS.

Congress says the government cannot direct insurance. Of course not. If it did, where would the campaign contributions come from?

Mr. Benj. Barnes, of Nova Scotia, recently appointed postmaster at Washington, has heard so much about Nova Scotia lately that he must feel like telling some people to go to Halifax.

Strikes us that it is all a mistake to encourage those Filipino college students to learn to play football. Think what an insurrection of trained football players could pull off on that Philippine archipelago.

Steve Elkins, who says he objects to the President's rate regulating plan, "because it does not go far enough," may mean merely that he would like to see it to "to Jericho."

A Manila cable says the Filipinos are worried by a fear that they will be sold. This will not dissipate the general impression that the nation which buys the Philippines will be sold.

Mr. Carnegie varied his usual program by kissing a number of pretty women at a library meeting in Atlanta. Still, we have been led to look upon Mr. Carnegie as different from other "Pittsburg millionaires."

This government is to send a representative to the wedding of King Alfonso, just as evidence that we bear no ill-will for the way the Philippines were "left on our hands."

CURES AFTER THE DOCTORS HAVE FAILED.

RHEUMACIDE has cured thousands of cases of Rheumatism after all the doctors and all other means had failed. Rheumacide cured John F. Eline and others, of Baltimore, after the famous specialists of Johns Hopkins Hospital, the greatest hospital in the world, had failed. Rheumacide cured Austin Percelle, of Salem, Va., and D. H. Oimstead, the Norfolk, Va., contractor, after they had spent large sums on other remedies and the doctors had given up hope. Rheumacide cured Mrs. Mary Welborn, of High Point, N. C., of rheumatism she had endured for 20 years. Rheumacide cured W. R. Hughes, of Atkins, Va., after the most famous New York specialists failed. There is a reason why it cures: Rheumacide is the latest discovery of medical science, and while powerful enough to sweep all germs and poisons out of the blood, it operates by purely natural methods, does not injure the most delicate stomach, and builds up the entire system.

Almost a Miracle in This Case.
Dillon, S. C., Aug. 18.
Robbitt Chemical Company:
"Gentlemen:—In September, 1899, I took rheumatism in a very bad form (inflammatory). In a month after the disease started I had to give up my work and go to bed. I continued to grow worse until my arms and hands were badly drawn, so much so that I could not use them. My legs were drawn back till my feet touched my hips. I was as helpless as a baby for nearly 12 months. The muscles of my arms and legs were hard and shriveled up. I suffered death many times over. Was treated by six different physicians in McColl, Dillon and Marion, but none of them could do me any good, until Dr. J. P. Ewing, of Dillon, came to see me. He told me to try your RHEUMACIDE. He got me one bottle of the medicine and I began to take it, and before the first bottle was used up I began to get better. I used 5 1/2 bottles and was completely cured. That was years ago and my health has been excellent ever since. Have had no symptoms of rheumatism. Will say after I began to take RHEUMACIDE with the aid of crutches in about three months after I began to take it, I could walk as good as anybody, and went back to work again."

OUR RALEIGH LETTER.

Correspondence of the PATRIOT.

Gorman News Bureau,
Raleigh, N. C., April 17, 1906.

The open saloon people having failed to secure enough signatures to call an election in Raleigh this year on the question of voting out the dispensary
and restoring the barrooms, an overzealous preacher here has taken the matter up and started out to secure signatures to a petition calling for an election to attempt to substitute "prohibition" for the dispensary. He has elected to pursue this course almost single handed and alone so far as leadership is concerned, not a single temperance leader or official or prominent member of the anti-saloon league joining with him, for all of them, as well as the leaders of the Democratic party, disapprove of his course and have endeavored so dissuade him from it.

On the other hand, the leader of the recent unsuccessful movement to get a vote on the question of restoring the barroom system, an ex-saloon keeper,
and his main lieutenant, have signed the Parson's petition and are advising
all whom they can influence to do so,
and they have even indicated to the Parson that they intended to use
"liquor money" in the effort to give the so-called "prohibition" petition the signatures of the necessary one-third of the qualified voters. It is due the Parson to say that he informed the ex-saloon leader that he did not desire any contribution from him, but his healers will spend it for him, nevertheless, so they declare.

This is truly a pretty kettle of fish,
and the worst of it is that the Parson (who is a good man) is honest in what he is doing and can not see or be made to believe that he is playing into the hands of the enemy, who are only too willing to use him as a tool. Every other minister in Raleigh sees the point and not a single pastor of either of the churches of the city has joined in the movement inaugurated by the Rev. Sylvester Betts, the preacher whose ministerial work of late has been fronted by the liquor dispensary every afternoon, just before sunset, the hour
for closing the municipal grange.

It was a rare sight to see him have a score or more of old soaks who had just emerged from or were about to enter the dispensary, get down with him on their knees on the sidewalks or the roadway and join in prayers for their deliverance from the monster that was ruining their lives and stealing away
the happiness and comfort out of the lives of their families—the greatest curse of the human race.

If any reader of these lines is so dense as not to understand the object of the barroom advocates and of the whiskey interests generally in supporting the movement of Mr. Betts he is briefly informed that the one great object of the saloon crowd is to kill the dispensary, the most potent and effective weapon yet used against the saloons. After that is done and so-called "prohibition" goes into "effect" the liquor crowd will set about to make the new law so ineffective and odious that everybody will be glad when the opportunity come two years hence to get rid of it. Then the saloon folks will have an opportunity to get another vote on the open saloon proposition.
In the meantime some of them will reap a harvest by the illicit sale of liquor, through those famous prohibition dives, to wit, the "blind tigers."

Very little liquor is sold illicitly in Raleigh at present, simply because there is really no need of it, all grades
of the ardent being readily accessible through the municipal dispensary, the only restriction being that it must be purchased between sunrise and sunset and must be drunk elsewhere than on the dispensary premises; for one man can get as much as he cares for by employing messengers to buy it for him;
and he has only to sit in one of the adjoining or adjacent "restaurants" and have his own liquor served out to him
by a regular barkeep, with or without chasers, and pay a small sum over the drink (2 cents) for "service."

The mayor of the city and the police court justice have signed the petition of the Parson, but it is probable that not many temperance or real and shrewd workers for prohibition will do
so. If they do and the whiskey element signs up in as large numbers as last fall, then the election will be ordered; for the barroom petition did not lack but a few votes of the necessary number—one-third. This, however,
would not mean that the dispensary would probably be voted out, for it is very doubtful if a majority could be polled against it, even with such a combination. The strongest argument of the dispensary is its revenue feature and the consequent reduction of municipal taxation (which has been too high and burdensome for some years
prior to the advent of the dispensary),
a consideration that is a powerful persuader with taxpayers generally.

A Prayer of Thanksgiving for the Season.

Our God and Father, we thank Thee
for the awakened earth; for the sweet incense of renewing Nature; for the fair light of the sun and the genial breezes; for the brightening vistas before our eyes and the increasing hopes within us; for singing birds and humming bees and budding plants and crooning insects. Lord, these are Thine. From Thy hand they have come, even as we ourselves. Grant that we may find joy in them and may serve Thee in that joy. Arouse in us
the spirit of the time, that we may be quickened to grow and to give Thee praise in joyful development, and to give our fellowman and ever creature cheer and brightness. Lord, on Thee
do we depend, for growth, for hope, for joy. Grant that we shall receive these in such measure as we need, and let us not forget from Whom they are received and to Whom they must be returned. Amen.

Next Tobacco Crop.

Southern Tobacco Journal.

Indications are that there will be as much tobacco planted in the old belts
as labor conditions will permit. At any rate the average crop will not doubt be planted. There is danger of over-production, taking the entire tobacco growing sections into consideration.
There will be a curtailment of acreage
in eastern North Carolina as well as in South Carolina. With favorable seasons the next crop in North Carolina will run from one hundred to one hundred and twenty million pounds.

Government Won Seven-Year Fight.

Savannah, Ga., April 18.—Benjamin
D. Greene and John F. Gaynor were found guilty of conspiracy against the government, presenting false claims and embezzlement in the Federal court for the southern district of Georgia today, and tomorrow Judge Emory
Speer will pass sentence upon them.

The defendants were found guilty
with no recommendation, upon each of the indictments. The verdict was returned a few minutes before 2 o'clock, after the jury had been out three and a half hours.

For fourteen weeks the case has been in progress and there was the stillness
of the tomb in the court room as Judge Speer asked the jury if they had agreed upon a verdict. Foreman Hope Thomas answered in the affirmative and the findings read by the clerk. The jury at the request of the counsel for the defense was then polled and each member stated that the verdict rendered upon the indictments were his.

The maximum sentence that the courts may impose under the law is an aggregate term of seventeen years in the penitentiary and a fine of $575,000,
the amount of the alleged embezzlement. Before adjournment until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, when the sentence will be pronounced, Judge Speer said: "I have no disposition towards these unfortunate men except to be just as merciful as my duty under the law will permit."

The minimum sentence punishable
under the law is two years in the penitentiary and a fine of $1,000.

The defense's counsel will not discuss the next step to be taken in the case, nor will District Attorney Marion Erwin say what will be done regarding the indictments against Oberlin M.
Carter, Michael A. Connolly, Wm. T. and Edward F. Gaynor, who were jointly indicted with the defendants convicted today.

Mr. Erwin in this afternoon received a telegram from Attorney-General Moody expressing the congratulations of the President and the Attorney-General upon the outcome of the case, upon which Mr. Erwin has been engaged for seven years.

Greene and Gaynor Sentenced.

Savannah, Ga., April 18.—Benjamin
D. Greene and John F. Gaynor were sentenced by Judge Speer in Federal court this morning to serve four years
in the Federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., and to pay each a fine of $575,749, the amount they are charged with having embezzled.

Upon one indictment the sentence was two years and upon each of the other indictments four years, but the court directed that the sentences might all be served concurrently, which reduced the term to four years. Thus,
with the allowance of three months off
of each year during which the behavior of the prisoners may be good, the sentence reduces to three years.

LIKELY TO ESCAPE FINE.

The fine need not be paid, if, on completing the sentence, the prisoners
make affidavit that they are not possessed of more than $20. In lieu of paying the fine, they then may serve 30 days longer.

Counsel for the prisoners announce that an appeal will be taken. An order of the court grants ten days for the filing of a bill of exceptions, upon which a motion for a new trial will be predicated.

Burned by Mob of 3,000.

Springfield, Mo., April 14.—A mob
of 3,000 men to-night took Horace Duncan and Jim Copeland, negroes, from the county jail, hanged them to the Goddess of Liberty on the court house, and built a fire under them and roasted them to death. The men were charged with assaulting Mabel Edwards, but it is said they were probably innocent.

Last night while Miss Edwards and a young man named Cooper were out riding in a buggy they were stopped by two negroes, who beat Cooper into unconsciousness and dragged Miss Edwards into the woods by the roadside, and assaulted her. Duncan and Copeland were arrested on suspicion,
but there was no evidence against them.

One thousand men gathered at the city jail to-night, and on learning that the negroes were not there, hastened to the county jail where the prisoners were confined.

Instead of attacking the jail at first,
the mob stormed the residence of the county sheriff, breaking down doors, smashing windows, destroying the furniture in the lower part of the house,
and rendering the sheriff's wife unconscious from the fright and violence.
Overcoming the resistance of the sheriff and a posse of deputies, the mob secured the key to the jail and gained entrance thereto. The mob had no difficulty in finding the cells of Duncan and Copeland.

When the committee who entered the jail came out with the two negroes
the mob began to clamor for summary
execution, shouting "Hang them,"
"Burn them." The negroes were taken to the public square and hanged
to a statue of the Goddess of Liberty and a fire kindled under them, in which they were roasted, 3,000 persons watching their agony.

Springfield's Mob Spirit Rampant.

News from Springfield Sunday indicated that the mob spirit was rampant there. Sunday morning another negro accused of murder, Will Allen, was taken from jail and hanged while protesting his innocence. Military companies ordered to Springfield succeeded in restoring order Sunday night, but fresh outbreaks of violence are feared at any moment. Both the whites and negroes are armed, the latter having secured one hundred pounds
of dynamite from a neighboring stone quarry for defense purposes. Some of the authorities of the city are outspoken in their belief of the innocence of the three men executed by the mobs. A special grand jury will investigate the unfortunate affair at once.

The Ware-Kramer Tobacco Co. manufacturers of White Rolls cigarettes, at Wilson, will soon move their plant to Piney Point, near Norfolk. Many inducements were offered the White Rolls people to go to Norfolk, the freight rates and shipping facilities
being the main reason for locating there.

The directors of the Bank of Madison, owing to the increased business,
have raised the capital stock from $10, 000 to $20,000.

KILLS LIKE LIGHTNING.

How Deadly Rheumatism of the Heart Comes On.

Those pains you feel when you first arise in the morning—aching pains in the joints, shooting pains in the muscles—are signs of warning. They are danger signals, evidences of a deep-seated trouble that if not removed may affect the entire system and cause chronic diseases, or if the cause is not removed, they may develop suddenly into the deadly Rheumatism of the Heart, which kills like lightning.

Better get rid of the cause at once.
Rheumatism and its kindred diseases are caused by the accumulation of poisonous acids in the blood. Rubbing with oils or liniments will not cure it;
it is an internal disease, and can be conquered only by an internal remedy.
There is just one complete cure—
RHEUMACIDE. RHEUMACIDE
neutralizes the poisonous acids, sweeps
all the dangerous germs out of the blood and "makes you well all over."
RHEUMACIDE CURES because it is the only remedy that "gets at the joints
from the inside."

Mr. W. R. Hughes, of Atkins, Va., writes:

"Four bottles of RHEUMACIDE have entirely cured me of a long standing case of Rheumatism, and greatly improved my general health. I was a total wreck, having had rheumatism for twenty years. I spent several weeks and much money trying specialists in New York, but RHEUMACIDE is the only cure I have found. When I began to use it I weighed 140 pounds.
Now I weigh 180 pounds, my normal weight." 15-4t.

New Company After Electric Franchises.

High Point, April 12.—Today parties
from New England were here looking into the situation and taking account of the business with a view of building
a trolley line. They were busy all day getting statistics and tonight are loaded down with same. They did not make known their plans definitely to any one except the newspaper men and it was learned that these gentlemen were very much interested in this city.

Since last fall four companies have applied for franchises and there are now pending franchises for two strong companies. These men represent capitalists who are anxious to build lines from High Point and Greensboro to Thomasville.

The company represented by Mr.
Wheeler has already spent several thousand dollars on the work which was mapped out between High Point and Winston, and now there appears to be the fifth company that wants to build a line.

The horse and buggy stolen from Mr.
Marvin Parker here Tuesday night,
was found this morning along the banks of the Yadkin river, near Spencer, hitched to a tree. A little negro was seen to drive there early Wednesday morning and hitch the horse, and by the description given it is thought the guilty party can be run down.

Charlotte Observer: The Democratic state executive committee did well in naming Greensboro as the place for holding the state convention. There are a number of reasons why the Gate
City is to be preferred.

Unexpected Honor May Come to Aycock.

Washington, D. C., April 16.—It is highly probable that the President will send to the Senate this week the nomination of former Governor Chas. B. Aycock to be one of the commissioners from the United States to the Pan-American Congress, which will meet at Rio Janeiro, Brazil, this summer.

This is the commission to be headed by Secretary of State Root and which is to consist of seven members, one or probably two of whom will be selected from the South.

The consideration of Governor Aycock's name in connection with the commissionership is a distinguished honor to that gentleman, for he has never had a thought of his own selection and no member of the North Carolina delegation has broached the subject to the President.

The first intimation that Governor Aycock was being considered for appointment came this afternoon, when Secretary of State Root informed Representative Livingston, of Georgia, that President Roosevelt had about decided to select the distinguished North Carolinian for appointment. A prominent Tar Heel at once phoned the White House and Mr. Loeb partially confirmed the story with the statement that the President would probably send Governor Aycock's nomination to the Senate tomorrow.

The Pan-American Congress which meets July 21 at Rio, is a highly important undertaking that means much to the United States and the South American republics. It is to consider commercial, political and diplomatic relations between the various countries. There is an appropriation of $70,000 for the use of the American commissioners, who will receive from $5,000 to $10,000 in salary and all expenses. It is not expected that the Congress will be in session over two months. Originally only five commissioners were authorized; but Senator Daniel, of Virginia, kicked in the Senate because the West and South had been ignored, and an additional appropriation was made for two more commissioners. It is intimated that the President is considering the appointment of both commissioners from the South; and in this connection the name of Hannis Taylor, who was born in New Bern, N. C., but is now a resident of Washington, and Van Leer, of Tennessee, are being considered.

Governor Aycock's selection is regarded as almost certain. The President has taken occasion to speak of Governor Aycock to both of the Carolina Senators recently, though not in this connection, and the remarks were highly complimentary to the eloquent Tar Heel. The President formed a high opinion of the Governor at Charleston, when Aycock's speech attracted wide attention, and has frequently referred to him since as one of the finest types of men in public life in the South.

Surry County Officers Overpowered by Mob of Negroes.

Mount Airy, April 16.—About one mile west of this place, in the settlement known as Arterville, principally inhabited by negroes, George Long, a negro of bad character, was shot and killed this evening.

Deputy Sheriff U. G. Belton and John Samuels, another officer, went to the vicinity with a warrant for Penn, colored, charged with retailing liquor. Upon their arrival a crowd was witnessing a game of baseball.

The officers attempted to arrest Penn, but were overpowered by a negro mob, and their pistols taken from them after a desperate struggle in which Long was shot.

Belton and Samuels fled for their lives and were fired upon as they ran. The military company was ordered out, but the mob had dispersed by the time they reached the grounds. At 8 o'clock the officers reinforced and captured a negro with Belton's pistol on him and are after others.

Another version of the affair is that after the negroes secured the pistols of the officers and had fired about twenty shots at them, the officers only saved themselves by holding negro women between them and the attacking party. The dead negro was shot by one of his own race in the attempt to shoot the officers.

Mr. Justice's Company Chartered.

Raleigh, April 15.—A charter was granted today for the Greensboro and Interurban Railway Company. The authorized capital stock is $300,000, business authorized to be commenced when $50,000 is paid in. The principal incorporators are J. H. Dawes, of Philadelphia; E. J. Justice, of Greensboro; W. D. Pender, of Norfolk.

Oak Ridge Shuts Out South Carolina.

Oak Ridge, N. C., April 16.—Oak Ridge shut out South Carolina College here today by a score of 6 to 0. Duboise of the Palmettos, pitched a fine game, but received ragged support. Waldrop, for Oak Ridge, was touched for but one hit. Oak Ridge had no errors.

NOTICE—A stray hog weighing about 75 pounds came to my place last Saturday. Owner can get same by proving property and paying charges.

15-21. W. L. ANDREW,
R. F. D. No. 6, Greensboro.

North Carolina Association of High Schools and Colleges.

Friday evening at Raleigh there was a meeting in the nature of a conference of committees representing the association of colleges, academies and high schools, the purpose being to secure a co-relation of courses of study, so that each class of these institutions will know exactly how far to go. The college committee was composed of representatives of Trinity, Wake Forest and Davidson, and also of President Venable, of the State University, while the academies were represented by Prof. John Graham, of Warrenton; Robert Bingham, of Asheville; J. C. Horner, of Oxford; W. T. Whitsett, of Whitehall; M. H. Holt, of Oak Ridge, and E. F. Middleton, of Cary. Others present were: President Vann, of the Baptist University for Women, Raleigh; Walter Thompson, Concord; Z. B. Turlington, Mooresville; W. P. Tew, of Durham; Henry Louis Smith, of Davidson; W. L. Poteat, of Wake Forest; President Venable, of the University.

State Superintendent Joyner was present at the meeting and expressed deep interest in the work that was being done. Talking to a correspondent he said that he hoped the meeting would agree very fully on the courses of study, as he wanted to use what was agreed on for the public schools. He had put one of the officials of his department to work to prepare a course of study for the high school, some of which had been established in the public schools in the rural districts, the purpose being to have many more such high schools. He said he did not desire to issue a course of this character unless it was one that all the private school men agreed on. He was assured that there would be no trouble in an agreement. Of course there is very great importance in unity and conjunction in the work so that one class of schools will not lap over, so to speak, into another.

STATE NEWS.

Stokes county is working zealously for a fair this fall. Walnut Cove, King, Pinnacle, Vade Mecum, Lawsonville and Sandy Ridge are spoken of as locations, and the community making the largest subscription will doubtless be selected. A number of subscriptions have already been received.

The Chronicle says that Jim Cheatham, who was probably 100 years old, and who claimed to be 104, died Monday of last week at his home in Love-lace township, Wilkes county. He was a soldier in the Cherokee Indian war.

Capt. J. G. Morrison, last surviving member of Stonewall Jackson's staff, died Wednesday night at the home of his sister, Mrs. Stonewall Jackson, in Charlotte. His home was in Lincoln county and his wife and six children survive.

The body of young J. M. Sherman, a grocer of Wilmington, who mysteriously disappeared from his place of business Friday, 6th, was found Thursday by the side of a creek, seven miles above Wilmington, on the Atlantic & Yadkin Valley Railroad, by two fishermen, who were attracted to the scene by odors arising from the dead body. Believed to be a case of suicide.

Seven Men Killed on the Battleship Kearsarge.

The Atlantic fleet, the strongest fighting fleet America has ever owned, has been for weeks engaged in the most severe drills in the waters of the Caribbean sea, culminating in the quarterly target practice. This practice was just about concluding with most satisfactory results when on Friday an accident occurred on the battleship Kearsarge which caused the death of seven men. Just after the completion of target practice on the Kearsarge that day three sections of a 13-inch charge of powder were ignited from some unknown cause. As a result of the explosion six men were killed and one fatally injured, who has since died.

To Rual in Heaven.

Died, Sunday, March 18, 1906, near Shady Grove church, Rual, second son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Osborn.

One week in Heaven; I wonder, dear, if you have thought of me

Since you went to your wondrous mansion

On the Shore of the Jasper Sea.

I wonder if you have forgotten

The voice you used to love,

Since the music of angels' singing

Has gladdened your home above.

I wonder if I shall know your face,

When life for me is o'er

And I look for you among the crowned

On Heaven's eternal shore;

Shall my earth-worn eyes be so dazzled

By the robe that you shall wear,

That I shall not know my loved one

When I meet him over there?

Shall I look in vain among the Angels,

For the one I long to see

And no dear face I have known on earth

Be waiting to welcome me?

Oh, no, it could never be Heaven,

If we met as strangers there,

I know you'll be waiting to greet me

Inside of the portals fair.

We'll know through the eyeless eternal

That God in his love knew best

When he gave us on earth our suffering,

That through it we might find rest;

And though we shall miss you, dear Rual,

As long as on earth we dwell,

We yield to the will of "Our Father,"

Who doeth all things well."

My stock of spring clothing is both serviceable and reasonable in price.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

Attorney Geo. M. Patton has moved his office from the Greensboro Loan and Trust Company's building to No. 115 Court Square, where he is now associated with Judge Strudwick.

Our McLeansville correspondent makes mention of the death of two of eastern Guilford's best citizens, Mr. Samuel Apple and Mr. James P. Denny. Mr. Denny was the father of Mr. W. R. Denny, one of Greensboro's efficient mail carriers. The mortality among the older people of the county has been strikingly great in recent months, and we hope that with the advent of spring it will diminish.

Mr. J. W. Merritt, upon whom we always depend for our estimates of the wheat crop, has returned from a trip on the road with the comforting assurance that the crop is looking fine everywhere he has been lately. We will venture that this farmer merchant-drummer friend of ours hasn't passed a wheatfield in twenty-five years without taking note of its condition and making a mental calculation as to its probable yield.

R. C. Bernau, the enterprising jeweler, has just originated a beautiful and unique souvenir of Greensboro. It is a handsomely engraved silver spoon. The big part of the handle is inscribed with a likeness of General Nathaniel Greene, taken from a portrait sent here for that purpose. Farther down the handle on the stem the word Greensboro is engraved, while in the bowl is a handsome base relief of the State Normal and Industrial College.

Mr. C. C. Taylor, superintendent of agents of the Security Life and Annuity Company, who is having a nice residence built on Wainman street, learned something about a carpenter's adze Monday he didn't know before. He picked up the adze and attempted to cut a block that was lying temptingly near and ended the performance by making a fine large gash in one of his heels. Fortunately the injury is not serious, but it will serve to keep him in doors for a few days. The next time he seeks diversion he will hunt up a buzz saw or rattlesnake or some other innocent object.

A Badly Burned Girl

Notice of Mortgage Sale.

Whereas, G. G. Gregory and his wife, Sadie Gregory, on the 1st day of June, 1900, made and executed a mortgage to J. W. Whitsett to secure a certain sum of money, which said mortgage is recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in Guilford county and state of North Carolina, in book 127, page 708, etc. And whereas, the said mortgage is duly transferred and assigned to A. L. Rankin, who is now the holder and owner thereof. And whereas, default has been made in the payment of the note secured by said mortgage, the undersigned by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, will sell the land conveyed thereby at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, on Saturday, May 19, 1906,

at 12 o'clock noon, at the court house door in the city of Greensboro, North Carolina, the following described premises, to-wit: Beginning at a double white oak in a clump of trees south of S. W. Scarborough's line, running north 80 degrees west 67 and 70-100 (67.20) feet to an iron stake, Mrs. M. K. Hardin's northeast corner, thence south 2 degrees 58 minutes west 132 and 90-100 (132.00) feet to an iron stake on line of Walker avenue, thence with line of Walker avenue south 88 degrees 12 minutes east 67 and 10-100 (67.10) feet to a stake southwest corner of Orlo Epps, thence north 10 degrees east 130 and 25-100 (130.25) feet to the point of beginning.

McLeansville Items.

Mr. Charles Denny, of Philadelphia, came home Saturday to attend the funeral of his father.

Mr. William Denny, of your city, is spending sometime with his mother, who is critically ill with a complication of diseases.

Miss Mabel Fentress and Miss Rosa Smith, of the State Normal, are spending Easter with the latter's relatives near here.

Misses Alice and Bettie Whittington, of Pilot Mountain, are here visiting their mother, Mr. J. D. Whittington.

Mr. H. V. Cobb, who has closed a very successful term of school near Pleasant garden, returned to his home near here Saturday.

Mr. William H. McLean, who is in school at the State University, spent Sunday and Monday with his parents near here, returning Monday.

Messrs. Porter Paisley and Ernest McLean, of your city, came down Sunday morning to spend Easter with their parents.

Messrs. R. O. Browning, Joe Troxler and W. S. Phillips, who are in school here, are spending Easter with relatives near Elm College.

Preparations for commencement are moving along nicely. Handsome invitations and programs are being distributed, and the faculty are well pleased with the progress already made.

Mr. Samuel Apple, an aged and highly respected citizen, passed away Saturday morning at 10 o'clock after an illness of several months. He was about 82 years of age. Although his death had been expected for some time it came as a great shock to the family and the community. The remains were interred Sunday at Hines' chapel, where the deceased has been a member for many years. He was probably the oldest man in the community, and will be greatly missed.

Misses Mabel Barrier and Maggie McAlister and Mr. Hugh Barrier, of Mt. Pleasant, who have been teaching at Danbury, paid Prof. and Mrs. C. D. Cobb a very pleasant visit last week while on their way home. They resumed their trip Saturday.

After a lingering illness of several months, Mr. James P. Denny passed away Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the age of 75 years. For several months he had been very unwell, but his condition was not considered critical until the earlier part of the week, when suddenly he was seized with an attack of pneumonia, from which he never rallied. His death comes as a great shock to the community. He was a man of sterling character and for many years had taken an active part in the work of his church at Bethel, where interment was made at 11 o'clock Saturday. A large concourse of friends and relatives paid their last respects to one whom they dearly loved.

Rev. A. S. Raper, of your city, preached a very interesting and instructive sermon Sunday night at 7:30 before the student body, his subject being, "Every Man to His Work." He handled his subject in a most thorough manner and held the closest attention of his audience. He made a fine impression here, and our people hope to have him with us again soon.

Miss Agnes Clapp, of Greensboro, was down to spend Easter with her parents.

Mr. N. Ray Martin went to Danbury to spend the Easter vacation.

Mrs. H. P. Bowman and Misses Kime and Owen, of Gibsonville, were welcome visitors Sunday.

We were glad to see Mr. and Mrs. Cranford, of Greensboro, in this community last week.

A beautiful Easter service was rendered by the Y. M. C. A. last Sunday, at which some very fine music was a most entertaining feature.

Mr. Philo Dixon was here from Holman's Mills last week.

Miss Beulah Neal, a teacher in Stokes county, entered school Monday.

A very fine entertainment was given Saturday night by Prof. T. H. Lindsey. He is the best elocutionist who has been here in years, and simply delighted every one present. A return date would be most acceptable and would attract a large house.

Mr. John W. Summers attended the sale last Saturday at the residence of the late A. F. Forbis.

Rev. J. D. Andrew was here Sunday and preached an entertaining Easter sermon.

On Saturday night, April 28th, the Southern Cross Bureau, of Atlanta, will give their famous views and moving picture show here, "Around the World in Two Hours." Admission 25 cents. A genuine treat is in store, and a very large audience ought to hear this, and view this wonderful series of pictures of the world's most noted places. Eight o'clock is the hour; doors open at 7.

Mr. John Grierson, of the U. S. Navy, spent last week here with his sister, Mrs. G. W. Davenport. His visit was much enjoyed.

The students seemed to enjoy the Easter vacation very much. Quite a number went home on visits, but many visitors came in to take their places.

Miss Rosalie Smith is at her home near here for Easter, accompanied by her friend, Miss Fentress. They came down from Greensboro Friday.

Mr. Thomas O. Pender, a teacher of Orange county, has entered for the teachers' normal.

Miss Addie Boon visited Burlington Wednesday.

The beautiful weather of last Sunday brought an unusual number of people here who were out for an Easter drive.

Mr. John Norris came up Sunday from Durham for a short visit.

Mr. H. C. Anthony, of Burlington, was a pleasant visitor the first of the week.

We were glad to have with us the first of the week Mr. Willie McLean and Mr. H. M. Parker, of the University of North Carolina, and Mr. Ernest McLean, of Greensboro.

Oak Ridge Items.

Prof. M. H. Holt attended a meeting of academy and city high school men and college presidents at Raleigh Friday last.

Prof. J. A. Holt is spending a day or two in Greensboro this week on business.

The baseball team of the school defeated Bingham school, Asheville, last week, by a score of 9 to 0.

The South Carolina College boys are here to play a game of baseball this afternoon (Monday). They are a gentlemanly set of fellows.

Examinations are beginning in all departments of the school, and all preparations looking toward commencement.

Among those spending Easter here are Miss Mary Kerner, Winston; Fleetwood Dunlap, of the University, and Fred Ramsey, of Lexington.

There was a delightful Easter service at the church Sunday morning, conducted by Miss Eric Stuart. The songs and recitations were very good. An offering was made for home missions. An eloquent address on this subject was made by Prof. Barnhardt.

So far but little corn has been planted, the ground is too cold for it yet.

Prof. J. T. Bennett, who is now with the St. Louis National League baseball team, seems to be the whole thing, judging from the St. Louis papers. He led the batting list in the practice games, and so far in the league season.

Bob Stafford is with the Nashville baseball team in the Southern League this summer, and has been mentioned as a probable captain. Mrs. Stafford is also in Nashville for the summer.

A large number of the students spent Easter in Greensboro and Winston. The school gave the usual holiday.

Mr. C. T. Colyer, landscape architect from Asheville, is here for a few weeks to give the campus some touches.

A special meeting has begun at the M. E. church, under the direction of Rev. Mr. Jordan, the pastor. Services are held at night.

News is a little bit "scase" in this part of the county this week.

Our primary election will be held in the mayor's office on the 24th inst.

Rev. Dr. Richardson is holding a series of meetings in the Baptist church. Rev. P. Fontaine, of Bethel Hill, is ably assisting him. We trust much good will result from the meeting.

Mr. Alfred Hinson and Miss Allie Phillips were the principals in a happy Gretna Green marriage last week.

Mrs. Yancy Craven, of Coleridge, is here visiting her son, Mr. I. F. Craven.

Mr. A. L. Jones has erected a nice porch in front of his store.

Mr. R. T. McIntyre left Saturday to visit his daughter, Mrs. Alex Smith, at Lenoir.

Our ladies are preparing to have a big chrysanthemum show this fall.

Mrs. I. F. Craven, Mrs. C. B. Smith and Mrs. Sophia Leonard are on the sick list.

Gibsonville Items.

Our graded school, which will compare favorably with the best of our city schools in its equipment and the efficiency of its teachers, closed Thursday night of last week with an entertainment which did credit to both teachers and pupils. An immense audience witnessed the exercises, at the close of which Prof. Foust, county superintendent, made some very complimentary remarks.

Easter Sunday was a delightful day with us so far as weather was concerned, but in passing along the streets on the way to church one would have thought it a week day to see some of our business houses open and crowded with customers. Surely the judgment of God, sooner or later, will be visited upon such Sabbath desecration. It is about time our town authorities were looking after such profanation of God's holy day.

Next Sunday the usual services will be held in the Baptist church here by the regular pastor if his health is sufficient to admit his attendance. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Rev. Lingle will hold communion services in the Lutheran church here next Sunday.

Rev. Whitaker, the pastor of the M. P. church here, filled his appointments Sunday morning and night.

Our cotton mills gave their operatives a holiday Easter Monday.

There was a marriage in Gibsonville Sunday, but I am unable to get the full names of the parties or who officiated. A young man named Shepherd, from the Hub, married a daughter of Mr. John Apple, of Gibsonville.

An old gentleman here says he killed fifteen snakes one day last week.

Guilford College Items.

Several of the students went home for Easter, and the college gave holiday on Monday.

Mr. Stout and daughter, of Snow Camp, spent Sunday with friends at the college.

Brick is now being made for the new building to be erected here this summer.

Mr. Cross, who has charge of the work, has moved into Dr. Fox's house near the college.

Mr. W. Henry Kayl is attending court as a juror this week.

Guilford ball team played Wake Forest at Guilford last Friday and won by a score of 12 to 4. They also played Davidson at Cone Athletic Park, Greensboro on Monday and lost to Davidson by a score of 5 to 2. In both games the Guilford team did fine work, and lost the Davidson game on account of superior work done by Davidson's pitcher.

Mr. J. G. Frazier's family have all been having measles. He and his wife have been quite sick, but are both now improving some, and we hope will soon be out again.

The surveying party for the inter-urban electric car line passed through our town last week on their way from Greensboro to High Point. We hope they will locate a line by our place and that we will soon see the work begun.

Stokesdale Items.

Rev. W. L. Harris returned from Henderson Friday.

Miss Florence Hilton, of Greensboro, is visiting friends here.

Quite a number of people from this section attended the singing at Ellisboro Sunday.

Miss Era Pegram returned from Greensboro Saturday.

Miss Myrtle Brown is clerking for the Southern Grocery Company.

A large crowd of young people from here went on a picnic excursion to Ogburn's pond Monday. They report an enjoyable time.

The framing for the Masonic hall is erected and the building will be completed at an early date.

The singing school at Gideon's Grove will close next Sunday.

There has been considerable speculation in this section recently as to why the county force will not grade the road between this place and Summerfield. We learn that several unsuccessful efforts have been made to get the commissioners to have this road graded, yet other roads of less importance have been graded. Why shouldn't we have a hearing?

Groometown Items.

Didn't we have a lovely Easter?

The farmers have been very busy in this section, gardening and planting corn.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Covington, of Jamestown, spent Sunday with the latter's sister, Mrs. Z. L. Groome.

Mr. George Kirkman and bride, after spending several days with the former's parents, have returned to their home at Winston-Salem.

Master George Johnson, of Jamestown, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. C. A. Groome, visiting Masters Cicero and Roy Groome.

Mr. and Mrs. John Brewer, of Pleasant Garden; Mr. and Mrs. Lon Bergman, of Pomona, and Miss Pay Jackson, of the State Normal, spent Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Jackson.

Mr. T. S. Groome returned from a business trip to Madison Saturday and spent Sunday with his family.

Mrs. Mag Kirkman and family, of this vicinity, also Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Ramsey, moved to Greensboro last week.

Danger From the Plague.

There's grave danger from the plague of Coughs and Colds that are so prevalent, unless you take Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Mrs. Geo. Walls, of Forest City, Me., writes: "It's a Godsend to people living in climates where coughs and colds prevail. I find it quickly ends them. It prevents Pneumonia, cures La Grippe, gives wonderful relief in Asthma and Hay Fever, and makes weak lungs strong enough to ward off Consumption, Coughs and Colds. 50c and $1. Guaranteed by all druggists. Trial bottle free."

The Bank of Dover was organized at Dover, N. C. last Friday, with authorized capital of $25,000. Mr. G. V. Richardson was elected president and Mr. A. J. Maxwell, vice-president.

IN MEMORIAM.

DANIEL VICTOR NEELLEY.

The alwise, just and loving creator has visited with sadness the home of Col. D. G. Neelley, one of the most intelligent, respected and beloved citizens of Guilford county, in the death of his son Mr. Daniel Victor Neelley, whose high christian character and upright walk and kindly disposition had profoundly impressed his associates that he was one of the excellent of the earth. Col. Neelley at the advanced age he has reached, feels that he is sorely tried and sadly bereaved, however overshadowing this great sorrow is the knowledge that the dead was a christian and an upright follower of his Lord and Master, and the belief that he now rests in peace is a great comfort and solace to his sorrowing family and friends.

Daniel Victor Neelley was born on March 14, 1872, and died April 4, 1906, being 34 years and 21 days of age. He professed faith in Christ and joined the M. E. Church South at Pleasant Garden about fifteen years ago and has been an earnest, consistent and devout member. He leaves a father, Col. D. G. Neelley, two brothers, Chief of Police C. F. Neelley and Mr. J. C. Neelley, four sisters, a loving wife and five children who weep not as those who have no hope. Deceased was happily married to Miss Hattie C. Gray, daughter of Dr. Claiborn and Sarah Gray, April 18, 1895. His illness was brief, but he gave bright assurance that he would enter triumphantly the heavenly home where it would be well with his soul forever. Rev. J. T. Stover, his pastor, conducted the funeral services, preaching an excellent and most appropriate sermon to a large attendance of sorrowing relatives and friends.

Only eight days after the death of the father, Daniel Victor Neelley, Jr., also died and was gathered into the garner of the skies, aged 1 year 2 months and 14 days. Jesus said, "Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven." May the God of consolation comfort the bereaved. Funeral services conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. T. Stover. The almost heartbroken widow in this double affliction has the profound sympathy of the entire church and community. May the entire family meet in the house of many mansions is the devout prayer of their friends and brother, A. G. Kirkman.

Indianapolis, April 16.—According to a dispatch which has not been and will not be sent out from this place, the coal strike will be suspended until both the miners and operators have held a conference with representatives of the consuming public.

CURE FOR SNAKE BITE.

Permanganate of Potash Said to Be an Infallible Remedy.

The Indian cobra has been since time immemorial the terror of India because its bite has been universally attended with fatal results. Tradition has it that natives commit suicide rather than endure the agony of the inevitable death and that the only man who ever survived an encounter with the hooded reptile thrust his whole arm into a blazing fire. Science comes now with a remedy for even this snake bite—simple permanganate of potassium, discovered by Dr. Leonard Rogers and reported by Consul Masterson of Aden. The paper "reports twelve cases of snake bite in which this new remedy was put into practice. In two cases it failed, but these were the cases in which the longest interval had elapsed before the remedy was applied. The persons were bitten during the night and were not treated till the following day, the interval in one case amounting to eleven hours and in the other to nine hours. In seven of the successful cases the snake was killed and identified, in five cases it was a cobra and in the other two it was a viper.

"Of the two fatal cases one was bitten by a cobra, the other by a snake that was not identified. Two of the successful cases were treated by Europeans without any medical training. In three of the successful cases treatment was begun at once, in the remaining seven the interval varied from half an hour to four hours. These results show that even when all the doubtful elements have been excluded or allowed for this method promises to be most efficacious, and a very satisfactory feature is that it is so simple anybody can apply it and so cheap that it is within the reach of the poorest.

"When a person has been bitten by a snake the first thing to do is to apply a ligature above the wound to prevent the rapid absorption of the venom. Then an incision is to be made over the snake bite with any sharp cutting instrument that is perfectly clean and a few grains of the permanganate are to be well rubbed on. Permanganate of potassium is a cheap drug, obtainable from any druggist. It keeps indefinitely, and a pound would suffice at the rate of ten grains for each case between 700 and 800 people."—Indian Medical Journal.

SPINNING ASBESTUS.

Unique Mineral Used to Make Fire-proof Ropes.

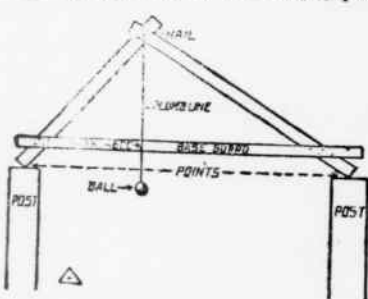

The mineral unique is asbestos. Different from every other material in its occurrence, mining and preparation for the market, it forms an entire study in itself. It was first mined about 100 years ago, chiefly as interesting to the geologist and mineralogist and of little or no commercial value.

About 1808 it was first used commercially in the manufacture of roofing felt and cement. Early attempts to spin this fiber were unsuccessful, but the difficulties have now been overcome, so that a single asbestos thread, weighing not more than one ounce per hundred yards, which has a pretty fair strength, may be made.

In its spun state it is used largely as yarn for packing valves, etc., for which use it has many advantages. Asbestos ropes for fire departments are made entirely of asbestos or asbestos with a core of steel. With the steel wire core a three-quarter inch rope carries nearly 2,000 pounds. Without the core the three-quarter inch rope carries over 300 pounds and suffices for firemen's purposes.

Leveling Two Points Without Tools.

To level up two or more points which are far apart, as posts, etc., without a level, straightedge or square, all that is required are a few nails, three pieces of old board, a piece of cord and a small weight, to be used as a plumb bob. Nail the boards together as shown in the illustration at any angle, place

LEVELING DEVICE.

the two points of the boards on top of the posts and mark where the line crosses the baseboard. Turn the device about, end for end, and mark the baseboard again. Then raise or lower one of the posts until the plumb line hangs midway between the two marked lines, and the posts will be level.—Popular Mechanics.

Measuring Life.

A German doctor named Richter recently made an astonishing communication to the Imperial College of Medicine in Berlin, in which he asserted that by a thorough study of the organs with the X rays one might determine with some exactness the length of life. In other words, there exists correlation between longevity and the dimensions of the different organs. The more perfect the heart, lungs, digestive organs and brain the longer would be the life of the person owning them, and measurements, in infinitesimal quantities, would determine when that person was going to die. Certain exceptions tended to prove the truth of the Richter theory. There was, for instance, a consul at Smyrna who measured only fifty-seven centimeters round the chest and had one diseased lung, yet he lived to the age of 115. He was married five times and had forty-nine children, got his wisdom teeth in his hundredth year and found his hair turning black at the age of 110.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

A False Friend

There was once a crane who had for his very good friend a monkey. The monkey, who was extremely mischievous, got the crane into a great deal of trouble, but the worst thing he ever did I am going to tell you about.

The crane had seen a man playing on a flute and longed very much to do the same. "Why not?" said the monkey. "Your beak will be the very thing. I'll drill the holes in it, through which you can blow sweet music."

"WHY NOT?"

The crane pranced for joy. "I can play at all the dances," he cried. For you must know that cranes are very fond of giving dances and going to dances. "All who listen will admire me. Miss Isabella Crane will gladly become my bride when I am a famous musician."

"No doubt," said the monkey, "and in your day of grandeur I hope you will remember that you owe it to me."

But alas and alas! When the mischievous monkey got those holes drilled through the crane's beak not a sound could he make. Even his old cry, which was not very pretty, came strange and whistling. "I'm ruined!" cried the crane.

And it was so. The young crane lady whom he had hoped to marry said she did not desire a damaged article. All the other cranes cast him out and would have nothing to do with him. "This comes," said the monkey, "from being too ambitious. Who ever heard of a crane attempting to be a musician?"—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

The Bull That Remembered

One fine spring morning when the buttercups were full of butter there was standing in the meadow a long legged, sad eyed little bull. It was a great day for him, for he had just come into this world, all green below and all white above, and everything was strange and queer, and his legs were wobbly and wouldn't go where he told them. He made the most of his first days in the world, for they were to be his happiest, though he didn't know it at the time.

At the end of a week there came a cross eyed boy, with a switch, whose feet were bare and whose face was all covered with freckles. His little friend did not like that boy's looks, and he liked less what he did, for he drove him from his mother, he beat him with the stick, he pulled his tail, he put him in a box stall in the stable all by himself, and when he cried for mother he fed him on a bottle with a nasty rubber top.

"NOW IS MY CHANCE."

"You horrid boy!" said the little bull. "I'll get even with you for this if it takes me years to do it. You think I can't remember because I'm a dumb beast. But you wait!"

All this he said out loud, but the boy only laughed. He couldn't understand. The years went by, and little Mr. Bull grew into big Mr. Bull, but he did not forget. Each day that freckled boy came near Mr. Bull would give a low grunt and say: "I can wait. I shan't forget." By and by the boy had grown to be a young man. He put on long pants and a tall coat. Mr. Bull had grown also and put on a fine pair of horns.

One day the boy was standing in the yard looking at his pigeons. Some one had left the gate to the pasture open. Mr. Bull remembered.

"Now is my chance," said he. He put down his head, he put up his tail, he made a bee line for that freckled boy. The boy had forgotten, but when he crawled down off the barn roof he remembered. Boys, some animals have good memories. Look out!—Pittsburg Dispatch.

BANK OFFICERS AS WITNESSES.

Blackburn's Checks May Figure in His Trial Here This Week.

Winston-Salem, April 12.—Intelligence to yesterday's papers that John Crouch, private secretary to Congressman Blackburn, had been subpoenaed by the government as a witness against Blackburn in the trial at Greensboro next week provoked considerable discussion here. A leading lawyer here says that while he knows nothing about the testimony sought to be used, yet as a general proposition, information gained by a clerk in a confidential capacity, is considered in law "a privileged communication." Another lawyer, however, cited the recent case in New York where the private stenographer of Town Topics was compelled to divulge correspondence and confidential lists of subscribers.

The discussion of the Crouch matter brought out another sensational incident connected with the coming trial. It developed that the officers of the Piedmont Savings Bank here were considerably flurried Wednesday afternoon over the service by Deputy Marshal Carroll of a subpoena on Cashier Crutchfield, of the Piedmont Savings Bank, to appear as witness in the Federal court at Greensboro next week and produce certain checks in possession of the bank as evidence for the government in the cases against Congressman Blackburn. It has been known here for some time that there were several checks in existence among banks in this and in other towns bearing the endorsement of Mr. Blackburn. The service of a subpoena on the Piedmont Bank however is said to be of more than usual significance from the fact that this bank is reported to hold checks given by prominent distillers in this and other counties to Mr. Blackburn as contributions directly to him to secure the appointment of revenue officers of the distillers' selection and for the defeat of those supposed to be too much inclined to keep their eyes open to the government's interest.

Two of the checks in the possession of the Piedmont Bank, being exchange on a New York bank, and therefore on file, are for $100 each drawn by a well-known distiller, payable to E. Spencer Blackburn, endorsed by him and the New York bank. But these checks are dated August 2, 1904, and August 5, 1904. This was during Blackburn's campaign for election to Congress and several months before he became a Congressman, and it does not seem that they could be used against him on the trial for alleged violation of law while a member of Congress.

What relation these checks bear to the case on hand is like the Crouch matter problematical. While some say that the subpoena for the private secretary looks like a "bluff" they declare that the bank checks although dated in 1904 and before Blackburn's election, can be used as evidence in some aspects of the case in event of certain developments.

Behind these checks is the following thoroughly well authenticated story, which will be judicially aired at this or some other trial. There are several distillers in this Internal Revenue district who will then or at some other time testify that in 1904, when the question of the selection of a revenue agent to succeed Agent Patterson, or to be his assistant, came up, Mr. Blackburn undertook for a certain amount of money to prevent the appointment of J. J. Britt, whom the distillers were afraid of and secure the election of an officer they considered their friend. Britt was defeated, although backed by the most powerful organization and official recommendation and the man Mr. Blackburn espoused got the appointment. One of the distillers says unhesitatingly that he contributed a part of a large fund to Blackburn for the purpose of securing the appointment of this man and that it was so understood and that his checks to Blackburn can be produced to corroborate his statement if they are wanted by the government.

It can readily be seen from this, that a great many others than the Congressman may yet become involved in a scandal greater than has yet been imagined, in spite of the revelations of apparent corruption shown in revenue trials of officers and distillers of the past few years. It makes still significant and portentous the recent appointment of J. J. Britt, who was defeated in 1904 for appointment as revenue agent, as special assistant district attorney to prosecute cases against indicted revenue officers and distillers. It shows stronger than ever the wide gulf between the Department of Justice and that of Commissioner of Internal Revenue, and throws light on the retirement of District Attorney Capers in South Carolina and the reappointment of Holton. The Department of Justice has not that spirit of comity with the liquor interests which seems to prevail in that of the Internal Revenue which simply looks to getting revenue from the whiskey business and branch, stop the flow of those taxes into the treasury.

No. 97 Has a Close Shave.

Washington, April 14.—The House was all excitement this morning when the fact was disclosed that two members had been recorded as voting for the Southern Railway fast mail appropriation yesterday afternoon, when, as a matter of fact, they were not present at all.

Stephens, of Texas, started the flame with the announcement that he was recorded as voting for the appropriation although he was not in the House, and then Mr. Stevenson, of Minnesota, threw consternation into the ranks of the subsidy advocates with the announcement that Hedges, of Louisiana, who was recorded as voting for the appropriation was not present. The question on every one's lips was, "Will the appropriation be knocked out?" Speaker Cannon was appealed to for a recount, but he held that it was too late to permit such action, and the result was changed to correspond with the actual vote, which gives the appropriation the bare majority of one. The original vote stood 99 to 96, but with the two bogus votes eliminated the result is 97 to 96.

The fact that the two absent members were recorded as voting has been the occasion of much talk, though it is generally believed that the mistake is an error of tabulation on the part of the clerks.

In view of the fact that the fast mail appropriation has won out only by the skin of the teeth so to speak, in the House, there is some talk of inaugurating a fight in the Senate to defeat the proposition. Heretofore the fast mail appropriation has encountered little or no opposition at the other end of the Capitol. The bill now goes to the Senate Postoffice committee, of which Senator Simmons is a member.

The fact is generally recognized here that W. W. Kitchen was a big factor in the fight against the appropriation in the House. His speech was by far the best of those delivered in opposition.

Another discovery made today was that Representative Blackburn had no pair on the fast mail appropriation vote, though announcement was made yesterday from several sources considered reliable that he was paired in favor of the proposition.

Although Representative Blackburn has recommended the re-appointment of Postmaster Sehorn, at Lenoir, the Postoffice Department has taken no action. A North Carolinian who called at the department today was informed that all appointments in Mr. Blackburn's district are being held up until after his trial next week.

SORES That REFUSE TO HEAL

There is no surer evidence of a poisonous, polluted condition of the blood than that manifested by a sore that refuses to heal. Every symptom suggests pollution; the discharge, the red, angry flesh, the inflammation and discoloration of surrounding parts all show that the ulcer is kept open by a constant drainage through it, of impurities from the blood.

When the blood is pure and healthy any cut, bruise or wound will heal readily; when from any cause, however, the blood has become infected with germs or poisons the place becomes a sore or ulcer, sometimes scabbing over, but never fully healing, because it is kept irritated and inflamed by the impurities in this vital fluid. Often the rough handling of a wart, mole or pimple which has never shown any sign of trouble, a slight scratch or abrasion of the skin or insignificant hurt of any character will become a sore that refuses to heal, and remains for years, eating into the surrounding flesh, resisting treatment and sometimes terminating in Cancer.

The poison in the blood may be the remains of some constitutional disease, the effects of a long spell of sickness leaving disease germs in the system, or the absorption of refuse matters of the body which have not been properly expelled through the channels of bodily waste. But whatever the cause the vitality and purity of the blood is so weakened

I had a large sore or ulcer on my face and nothing that I tried would benefit me. It began with shooting pains and soon the itching was terrible. At first it discharged a watery fluid which changed to a thicker composition and the pain was very severe. It was nearly as large as a dollar and terribly inflamed in all the surrounding parts. It had been there so long and growing worse all the time, I became very much discouraged and alarmed. At last I began the use of S. S. S. At first the ulcer seemed to get worse, but soon I noted an improvement and continued its use until it was entirely cured.

through life with a discharging, angry sore on my leg. A short while ago I commenced to use S. S. S. and I soon saw that the poison was improving. I continued the use of it until my leg was entirely healed and I am now a well man.

and polluted that it cannot properly nourish the system, and the sore or ulcer is kept up. Those most usually afflicted with chronic sores and ulcers are persons who have reached or passed middle life; the vitality of the blood and strength of the system have naturally begun to weaken and the poisons in the blood which perhaps have been inherited and lain dormant in the system for years cannot be as effectually held in check as in early life when the system was strong and vigorous. While the old or middle-aged are the usual sufferers, the young are not exempt if the blood becomes infected with the germs.

Salves, plasters, lotions, etc., cannot cure old sores and ulcers because they do not reach the seat of the trouble. Such treatment keeps the place clean, relieves pain and perhaps reduces the inflammation, and in this way is beneficial, but can never permanently heal them. The only treatment that can do any permanent good is a competent blood purifier, one that goes to the very root of the trouble and removes the cause, and for this purpose nothing has ever been found to equal S. S. S. It goes down to the very fountain-head of the disease, drives out all poison and morbid matter, builds up the weak, sluggish blood, gives energy and strength to the entire system, and allows the sore to heal naturally and permanently. S. S. S. is purely vegetable, being made of roots, herbs and is not only the King of blood purifiers, but the greatest of all tonics. If you have a sore that is slow in healing do not waste time and by removing every vestige of the cause, cure the trouble permanently. Talmage Sermon

By Rev. Frank De Witt Talmage, D. D.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 15.—In this sermon the preacher shows how our human misconceptions of God and his promises lead us into error and that the remedy is simple faith and obedience. The text is John iv, 48, "Except ye see signs and wonders, ye will not believe."

We are always demanding gospel proof, like Gideon of old, we want our faith bolstered up by the wet fleece. Like doubting Thomas, we want to see Christ in the flesh and to thrust our fingers into the torn palms of the hands and into the wounded side before we will believe that he is risen from the dead. When any fact about God or the prophecies of the Bible is told us we at once say, "Give us the evidence or we will not believe." Now, I want to show you not only that "faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen," but that we should believe and trust God and accept his words and promises, even when there are no signs and wonders visible to confirm our faith. May God help us as, in his name, we enter upon this most important and vital subject!

Signs and wonders theological have come to us. God and his attributes pass all the realms of human explanation. The story is told that one day Michael Angelo entered the studio of Raphael. You know that the Florentine master was nearly a decade older than the painter of the Sistine Madonna. As an artist who had won his spurs, he had a right to give advice to the younger man. Michael Angelo stood for some time before one of Raphael's easels. The young man at this time was absent from his studio. Angelo lifted a pencil and drew the curves of the figure upon the canvas along broader lines. Then under the picture he wrote this one word three times: "Amplify! Amplify! Amplify!" You who have stood before the wonderful creations of the architect of St. Peter's of Rome know what he meant by that word. He meant "Increase the conception of your subjects." Oh, Raphael, knot the muscles of your model's arms and make swarther necks and broader shoulders and more leonine countenances. The taunting Philistine is not a dwarf, but a giant. The master builders of history are not pygmies, but Titans. Neptune's trident does not rule a mill pond, but has for its realm the mighty deep. Amplify! Amplify! Amplify! Good advice that for Raphael, in an artistic sense. Good advice for us in a theological sense. We have received certain revelations given in reference to God's personality, but we must not stop with these revelations. We must be continually enlarging our ideas of God. We must try to gain a conception of him greater than our eyes can see and greater than our human intellects can explain.

We must amplify our belief of God's personality in reference to his eternal existence. The first verse of the first chapter of Genesis says, "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth." But that "beginning" simply applies to the creation of the world and the planetary system. Friend, did not God exist before that? "Oh, yes," you answer, "God has always existed." But what do you mean by "always?" I follow Hugh Miller, the Scottish geologist, in his "Testimony of the Rocks," and in his "Footprints of the Creator," and he tells me that the six days of creation were not six days of twenty-four hours each, but that each day represented ages upon ages of time. This conception of the time of the creation was well expressed by the poet when he said, "A thousand years in thy sight are but as yesterday when it is past, and as a watch in the night." In the creation of the world the seconds of time are centuries, and the minutes are millenniums, the hours are eras, and the days are ages upon ages. If you go and stand by the falls of Niagara, the scientists will tell you that the falling waters wear away upon six feet of rock every year. Then they will take you for miles down the rapids, toward Lake Ontario, and show you where those rocks have gradually been worn away by the falling waters of thousands of years. Next these geologists will open the leaves of the rocks and tell you that those rocks which have been worn away took ages upon ages to form. Then, after we go back thousands upon thousands of years to the creation of the world, you are not yet at the beginning of God's eternal existence, for God existed before the world was.

What Eternal Means. What the eternal existence of God means cannot be better illustrated than by the following words of M. Camille Flammarion, the celebrated astronomer. What this French writer says about the heavens we can easily apply to the duration of time: "Let us imagine that we sail a million years with the velocity of light, 186,000 miles a second. Are we at the confines of the visible universe? See the black innumerable stars we must cross! But yonder new stars are lit up in the depth of the heavens. We push on toward them; we reach them—again a million years, new revelations, new starry splendors, new systems, new worlds, new earths. What, never an end? We are at the residence of the infinite. We have advanced but a single step. We are always at the same point—the center everywhere, the circumference nowhere. We see before us the infinite, of which the study is not yet begun. We have seen nothing. We recoil in terror. We might fall in a straight line during a whole eternity, nor ever reach the bottom. It is infinite in all directions." So wherever we go into the past let us always think of God as farther back. Not only must we amplify our ideas in reference to God's eternal existence, but we must also amplify them in reference to God's personal presence. The Bible tells us that we are made after God's image. "So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him, male and female created he them." Does this imply that God is like unto us physically—that he has two eyes, two hands, two feet and a beating heart? Just as I find Queen Victoria's face stamped upon the English shilling, so some people think God's face, in a physical sense, is stamped upon us. But is this true? Nay, Amplify! Amplify your idea of God's personality. In the One Hundred and Thirty-ninth Psalm read these words: "Whither shall I go from thy spirit or whither shall I flee from thy presence? If I ascend up into heaven, thou art there; if I make my bed in hell, behold, thou art there; if I take the wings of the morning and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea, even there thy right hand shall hold me. Yea, the darkness hideth not from thee, but the night shineth as the day. The darkness and the light are both alike to thee." In other words, God is here, God is there, God is everywhere at once. How can all this be and yet God be like ourselves in a physical sense? Men incapable of conceiving pure spirit have supposed that God has a human form, as did the ancient anthropomorphites, or an animal form, as did the ancient idolaters, but the Bible doctrine as expounded by Jesus is, God is a spirit, and they that worship him must worship him in spirit.

It Passes Comprehension. Not only does the omnipresence of God pass all human conception and explanation, but his personality, called the Trinity, also passes human explanation. Here we have God the Father, God the Son and God the Holy Spirit. How can you interpret it? A dear friend of mine told me how an old Spanish artist once tried to explain it. Above one of the altars of a Mexican cathedral was a picture amid clouds. Out of these clouds appeared the faces of three men. These three faces were all the same. Under the picture, in Latin, were the words, "The Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost." These three faces were all alike; they were like three photographs of one face taken from the same negative. But had that artist caught a true conception of the Trinity? No. He no more pictured the true God than did the artist who tried to picture the face of the Trinity as that of one man. The full conception of God's eternal existence and of God's personality passes all human grasp. Therefore I say to you, as Michael Angelo said to Raphael, when thou art trying to reach out after the personality of God, amplify and keep on amplifying. God is a Spirit infinite. That means no flight of human imagination can reach the heights or plumb the depths or touch the bounds of the realms of his presence. We must accept God's personality as infinitely more comprehensive than we can prove him to be or else we shall never accept him at all.

But, though I have dwelt long upon my first point, I believe it is the least important of any I shall present, for it is almost an impossibility for any one of us to get away from our belief in an overruling God who was the creator of the universe after we have studied the wonderful harmonies of the natural world. We are like the student of skeptical tendencies who was seated at the feet of that master of anatomy, Dr. Marshall. The great professor was explaining to his class the marvels of the points of the knee or of the hand. After he had finished his talk this student exclaimed, "A man must be a fool indeed who, after duly studying his own body, can remain an atheist." So we say, "A man must be a fool who can study the harmonies of nature and not believe that a master mind, called the Creator and the Ruler, is molding and influencing all." But, after we have studied the signs and the wonders of the heaven and the earth and have accepted a belief in a God, the next question which naturally confronts us is this: "How do we know that this God the Creator is the God who is the author of the book we call the Bible, in which the coming of Christ is foretold and the promises of forgiveness of sin in Christ's blood are made to a dying human race?" How do we know that God is the author of the Bible? Why, by the testimony of the Bible itself. The internal evidences of a manuscript carry their own proof of genuineness. For centuries upon centuries the Bible has had the test of internal criticism applied to it. The Bible lives as the word of God because its evidences have been proved true. Its signs and wonders are unanswerable.

The Bible Story of Creation. Let the first chapter of Genesis come forth and speak. That is to me one of the most wonderful of all passages of the Bible. Have you ever carefully studied it? Suppose that Luther Burbank, California's wizard of flowers and fruits, should bring to us a new kind of fruit. This fruit may be different from any other fruit ever grown. Then suppose he told us how he got that fruit. Perhaps it was developed by grafting an Italian grape upon a certain kind of American grapevine. If he told us all this, and we knew that no other such grape had ever been grown, we would believe that he had developed that grape. Well, in the same way thousands of years ago God told Moses how he had created the world. First came the water, then the land, then the grass, then the living creatures in the water, then the animals, then man. "Oh," you say, "that is a simple story." Yes, it is so simple that for thousands of years the scientists were trying to discover the order of creation, and now, much to their surprise, the biologists have found out that the order as written by Moses thousands of years ago is the scientifically accepted order of creation of today. Does not the first book of the Bible bear upon it the stamp of God's authorship? Was not its story of creation told before science was born?

Then study the prophecies. Why, if you begin to study these prophecies and their fulfillments you have the work of a lifetime. One night William Herschel, the astronomer, was studying the heavens. By conditions revealed there, he said to himself, "There must be a star in such and such a region." He pointed his telescope to that region and found there the star. But I want to tell you that the causes which proved to William Herschel the fact that there was a star in a certain region of the heavens are no more certain in their results than are the fulfillments of Scripture. In those remarkable books of John Cumming, called "Apocalyptic Sketches" and "The Destiny of Nations," step by step the great preacher shows how the prophecies uttered thousands of years ago have been fulfilled in the past or are being fulfilled now. Dr. Newman, standing upon the ruins of ancient Babylon, once said, "I could take a competent engineer if I had sufficient resources and reconstruct Babylon, guided only by the prophecies uttered concerning it long before the first foundation stone was laid." So we find the Bible not only prophesying events to come, but also recording those events after they had happened. Do not the fulfilled prophecies stamp the Bible as being of divine authorship?

Then the miracles of Jesus and the recorded biographies of Christ. How are you going to get around them? Are you going to regard Christ as a fraud and an impostor and yet call him the best of men, as nearly all infidels and agnostics do? I can understand how Voltaire could despise and blaspheme Christ, but I do not understand how Rousseau and Jean Paul Richter could be so illogical as to represent Christ at the same time as a model for humanity and yet as a self-deceived fanatic.

A Ridiculous Position. Are you going to take the ridiculous and illogical stand which a noted editor of a city newspaper did when he wrote to a lawyer friend of mine a letter that went thus: "A man who drinks can preach a better temperance lecture than all the fanatics on earth. But you cannot make men good by law. I am not a believer in religion, so called, but I was convinced long ago that the ultimate redemption of the children of men must come through the inculcation in their hearts of the religion of Jesus Christ. If men make Christ the model, even though it be a superstition, as I believe, virtue will dominate the world of vice and sin will be minimized. But it must come through moral suasion and not through force and compulsion." Now, my friend, is that your illogical stand? Are you prepared to assert with your own breath that Jesus Christ is the best of all human beings and then to assert with your next breath that Christ is a deceiver. Nay, my friend, as an intelligent man you should be ready to say here and now: "No man could have uttered such words as did Jesus Christ unless he was true. And therefore, if Christ is true, Christ is the Son of God." By the law of logic and common sense we cannot get away from this conclusion. The Bible biographies of Christ, by their internal evidence, prove that Christ's life was divine.

Now, having seen enough of the signs and wonders of the Bible to prove that it is of divine authorship, I am ready to make a confession. I am ready to confess that this holy book is filled with mysteries. Like a blind man, I bump up against them everywhere. But because I cannot understand why God should so love the world that he gave his only begotten Son that whosoever believeth on him should not perish, but have everlasting life, is that any reason why I should reject that divine offer of pardon and eternal life? "Nay, nay," again I say. Why all the promises of God are given to us I cannot conceive. But those promises are there. And because they are there I will accept them and live by them and leave the explanations for eternity.

But now, believing that God is a loving Father and that the Bible is given to us by divine inspiration, the next difficult question which confronts us is this: "Why does a loving Father, who is preparing such felicity for us on the other side of the grave, allow so much misery and suffering and injustice to his dear ones on this side of the grave?" for we all can say with the psalmist, "I have seen the wicked in great power and spreading himself like a green bay tree." Yes, we have seen wicked Dives in a palace and good Lazarus as a beggar dying in the gutter. But that is not the universal rule. Religion has in it the promise of the life that now is. A proof of the fact we may see around us in prosperous, happy men, who are leading good Christian lives.

Gladstone's Testimony. Let me prove this statement by the testimony of one of the greatest of English statesmen of the past century, Hon. William E. Gladstone, who once said: "Christianity is the religion in the command of whose professors is lodged a proportion of power far exceeding its superiority of numbers, and this power is both moral and material. In the realm of controversy it can hardly be said to have a serious antagonist. Force, secular or physical, is accumulated in the hands of Christians in a proportion absolutely overwhelming, and the accumulation of influence is not less remarkable than that of force. This is not surprising, for all the elements of influence have their home within the Christian precinct. The art, the literature, the systematized industry, invention and commerce—in the world, the power of the world—are almost wholly Christian. The nations of Christendom are everywhere arbiters of the fate of non-Christian nations." Where people as a nation have honored God, there God has always honored and blessed those people. The signs of these blessings everywhere prove that God is looking after and caring for his own. Now, having seen how God blesses his own in great numbers, I am ready to believe that he is blessing his own even when he permits the heavy hand of trouble to fall upon them. I cannot understand always why this trouble comes, but I am ready by faith to accept it as a blessing. And why should not we accept as a blessing the troubles which come to God's dear ones, although we cannot understand why these troubles come? Do we not, as parents, often have to do that which may seem cruel or hard to our children, and yet we thus afflict for our children's good? Let me illustrate my thought from two incidents of my personal life.

When I was called to the city of Los Angeles, two years ago, within half a block of my church there were two little children about two years of age. They were twins. They could then just toddle. Almost every day of my life I passed their father's home. Those two little babies were the pets of our neighborhood. They attended some of our Sunday school entertainments. One was called "Bluey" and the other "Pinkie." Why I could never make out, for they always dressed alike and looked alike, and like two red apples, both of a size, you could not distinguish one from the other. When you thought you were talking to one you were almost sure to find out that you were talking to the other. The other Sunday one of those little girls, then about four years old, went into the kitchen and began to play with matches. She struck one. It ignited. Her little fluffy dress took fire. And before we pronounced the benediction of the evening sermon "Bluey" was dead. Explain this tragedy. I cannot. I do not wish to try. God knows best. I will leave it to the next world to find out why "Bluey" was taken and "Pinkie" left.

Act of Loving Father. But I can explain to you how I averted a tragedy in my own home some two years ago. One of my little children, then about three years of age, came running to me, calling, "Papa, there is a fire!" I never waited a moment. I leaped up the stairs, and there I found that my little boy had been playing with matches and had set fire to the closet. I was practically alone in the house. I went into that closet and tore the clothes down from the hooks and threw them out of the window. I burned my arms and my face. But what of that? I saved the house. The boy was too frightened to speak, so I did not punish him, but the next day I found that this little boy of only three years of age went and built another fire in the back yard. He seemed to have the same fascination for a fire that the moth miller has for the evening lamp. There he was, lying upon his stomach, playing with the burning sticks. What did I do? I loved that boy just as much as I did any of the other children, but I knew a severe course had to be taken to save him from a horrible death. First I whipped him. Then I took a match and lighted it and said, "My boy, if you ever touch matches again I shall put your little finger into that fire and burn your skin just as much as papa's was burned yesterday in that fire you made." What was the result? That little boy found out what a deadly enemy fire could be, and he has never touched a match from that day to this. Was I a cruel father to punish the child, or was I a true parent to save my little boy from a tragic death? Cannot God in the same way be a loving, kind Father when he sometimes permits troubles to beat on the throbbing hearts of his own children?

In closing I would bid you set your gospel compass. I want you to be like the traveler going through the western country guided by the beacon light of the rising and setting sun. I want you to be like a voyager setting sail across the Atlantic. He does not go in a haphazard way to a fisherman of Nantucket and say, "Will you with your sailboat take me to Europe?" But he goes down to the office of a great transatlantic line. There he selects his steamer. He knows that this steamer is managed by a competent crew and commanded by an able captain. When the storms come and the winds blow and the billows heave, he does not rush upon the deck and say, "Let me take that wheel." Nay, he says, "The captain knows best, and he will see us through." So may it be with us in life's voyage. May we step into the gospel ship and say to Jesus, "Master Commander, wherever thou takest me I know it is best for me to go."

Some time ago a little girl was out driving with her father. Suddenly the horse shied, and in great fright the daughter grabbed the reins from her father's hand, and the leaping horse nearly caused an accident. With that the father said: "Daughter, never do that again. You should learn to trust me. I will not let any harm come to you when I have hold of the lines." We must walk by faith and not by sight. We must let our God take us where he will. Friend, child, are you ready to let God drive? Knowing that he loves us, will you trust him even when you cannot always understand him? Drive on, thou King of kings, drive on!

In a car load of horses received from Kentucky Monday by Mr. C. P. Van-story two were found dead.

We still have a full variety of seed potatoes and garden and field seeds. TUCKER & ERWIN.

The commencement exercises of Morehead township's central high school will take place Friday of this week.

Buy your sugar of us in hundred-pound lots and save money. We have just received a 25-barrel shipment. TUCKER & ERWIN.

Mr. C. A. Bent is now with the Andrew D. Fuller Co., Chicago contractors and engineers who recently opened an office here. They have an office in the Benbow Arcade.

Mr. Bert White and Miss Hallie W. Whit, both of Friendship, were married Sunday by Rev. A. G. Kirkman at the home of Mr. W. H. Blaylock, near Guilford Station.

You can't afford to be without Mrs. Lee's milk and butter purifier if you have wild onions in your pasture. It is the only reliable purifier on the market. R. G. HATT & CO.

Mr. W. H. McNeill, of Brown Summit, is opening a nice grocery store in Mr. C. A. Bray's new building near the Planter's warehouse. He will bring his family here at an early date.

Mr. Will Hinton, who recently had such a narrow escape from death in the Fayetteville fire, is at home again. His back and one knee give him a good deal of trouble, but he is able to get about with the aid of crutches.

Mr. Jettie Garland, of High Point, and Miss Hattie Cole, of Gladesboro, were united in marriage Sunday afternoon at the home of the officiating minister, Rev. O. L. Powers, of the First Baptist church, High Point.

Cow peas, millet seed, grass seed—in fact everything desirable in the way of seed, can be found at our store in the McAdoo building. We invite a comparison of prices, too. C. SCOTT & CO.

Miss Amanda Leach, of Trinity, Randolph county, died Monday at the age of 72 years and was buried yesterday, several Greensboro relatives attending the funeral. Deceased was a sister of Mrs. O. W. Carr and Mrs. Braxton Craven.

Joseph A., the two-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Myers, died Saturday morning at 1 o'clock. The funeral service was conducted from the residence, 719 Arlington street, that day afternoon at 3:30 o'clock by Rev. C. E. Hodgins. The interment was at Greene Hill Cemetery.

We have too many men's fine shoes on hand in sizes 9, 10 and 11, and will close out a lot of $2.50 and $3.00 shoes to these sizes at $2.00 a pair. Also have a lot of women's number 7 and 8 oxford ties and slippers of the $1.50 and $1.25 kind marked down to $1.00 a pair. THACKER & BIERMANN.

Mr. T. B. F. Hayworth, a well and influential Quaker, living near Springfield meeting house, in southwestern Guilford, died Sunday morning at the advanced age of 72 years. Death was due to pneumonia. The interment occurred Monday afternoon at Springfield burying ground, which the deceased had charge of for a number of years preceding his death.

The Easter services at the various churches of the city last Sunday were worthy of special note, elaborate musical programs and charming decorations being features at most of the houses of worship. In the afternoon and evening several Sunday school entertainments appropriate to the occasion were given, good weather permitting a large attendance at each.

Mr. George B. King, living with his mother, Mr. C. J. King, at 308 East Spangmore street met with an accident yesterday whereby he broke his right arm and right foot. Mr. King is a tin roofer and was engaged on a building to Proximity when he slipped and fell from a height of three stories. He was at once removed to his home, where a doctor gave him the surgical attention needed.

Five of the six linemen employed by the Southern Bell Telephone Company here went on strike Monday, in pursuance of an order which affected practically all the linemen in the South. Shorter hours, more pay and recognition of their union appear to be the basis of the demand made by the linemen. There is a suspicion that the women have learned what the Bell company's charges are on long distance messages and have called for a reduction.

Raleigh Evening Times: Mrs. Joanna J. Hall, of Greensboro, is in the city, the guest of her niece, Mrs. W. J. Martin, on Fayetteville street. She arrived Saturday evening from Petersburg, where she visited her nephew, Mr. W. A. Worth.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Hancock left several days ago for San Jose, Cal., where they will spend a year or more, Mr. Hancock having property interests there that he will look after. Their son, Mr. E. P. Hancock, will occupy the home place during their absence. Just after their departure for the west word came that the oldest son of their daughter, Mrs. N. L. Hanner, who lives in San Jose, had died of spinal meningitis. He was named Hal Worth Hanner, and was fourteen years old.

Eastern yams make the best seed sweet potatoes to be found. We have them in any quantity. TUCKER & ERWIN.

Mrs. J. P. Benny Follows Her Husband to the Grave.

Mrs. Julia L. Denny, widow of the late James P. Denny, whose death occurred only a few days ago, died at her home near McLeansville yesterday. She is survived by her two sons, C. W. Denny, of Philadelphia, Pa., and W. R. Denny, of this city; also by two brothers, John M. and Joel T. McLean, of Elk Creek, Va., and one sister, Mrs. R. C. Rankin, of McLeansville. The funeral will be held at Bethel church today at 11 o'clock. Mr. C. W. Denny, who came from Philadelphia to attend his father's funeral, left Monday night for his northern home, but word of his mother's death reached him before his arrival there.

While Mrs. Denny had been very sick her condition seemed more favorable Monday. A change for the worse came Monday night. The deaths of these good people so close together add an element of sadness that is not often encountered.

Sow Kafir corn for forage and you will be delighted with results. We handle the seed and recommend it unhesitatingly. C. SCOTT & CO.

Mrs. Jane McLean-Fleming.

Mrs. Jane McLean-Fleming, an excellent woman who had reached the ripe old age of 82, died yesterday morning at the home of her son-in-law, Mr. R. A. Whiteley and Mr. T. G. McLean. She was long a consistent member of the Presbyterian church, having been a member at Guilford College for many years before transferring her membership to Westminster church here, and her friends know that all is well with her soul.

$100 Reward, $100.
The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and a-sisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists, etc. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.
