had been left stranded by a theatrical company for which he was acting as advance agent, the company going to pieces at Havre de Grace, Md. According to the Washington papers young Crutchfield, after pawnning all his personal belongings for money to get home on, lacked $1.35, and stole several pairs of pants which he also pawned to make up the deficiency.
He was turned over to the Chambersburg authorities Sunday and taken back to stand trial.

NEW CHURCH DEDICATED.

Interesting Services Held Sunday at Muir's Chapel—Bishop Wilson Present.

Sunday was a red-letter day in the life of the congregation of Muir's Chapel, a flourishing branch of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, which is situated four miles west of Greensboro on the Pomona-Guilford College road. It was the occasion of the dedication of the third church structure built there since the original chapel, a log house, was erected nearly a century ago through the efforts of an itinerant minister named Thacker Muir, and for whom it was named.
The church dedicated Sunday cost $6, 000, is fully paid for, and is one of the handsomest and most spacious rural churches of the county.

The board of trustees of the church,
under whom this splendid religious enterprise was completed, are of the best citizenship of Guilford county, composed of the following: H. A. Garvis, J. W. Cook, S. W. H. Smith, W. C.
Boren, L. S. Smith, C. H. Hancock and C. P. Boren.

Rev. J. A. Bowles, the pastor, has been unremitting in his active aid and assistance.

Sunday morning the church was crowded with people and Bishop A.
W. Wilson, of Baltimore, Md., preached a grand sermon, the meaning of which will last a life-time of all who were so fortunate as to hear him. An intermission of two hours was taken, after the morning service, when dinner was served. In the afternoon the church was again filled when the interesting service of dedicating the church to the service of God was conducted by Bishop Wilson, assisted by the following well known ministers: Rev. J. A.
Bowles, pastor; Dr. S. B. Turrentine, presiding elder; Revs. P. J. Carraway, G. H. Detwiler, H. Turner, A. G.
Kirkman, H. M. Blair, S. T. Barber,
a former pastor, now of Caroleen, and J.
R. Moose, returned missionary from Korea.

Bishop Wilson returned to the city Sunday evening and preached one of his characteristic sermons to the congregation of West Market church.
Speaking from a text comprising the first three chapters of Paul's Epistle to the Colossians he made a profound impression on his hearers by the logical and forcible deductions abounding throughout the learned discourse.
Monday Bishop Wilson went to Mt.
Airy Monday, where he is to preside over the Western North Carolina conference this week. Conference meets today. All the Methodist Episcopal ministers of the city and county are in attendance unless providentially hindered.

Commissioners Wind Up Their Work for the Year.

The board of county commissioners at their deferred meeting Monday virtually wound up their work for the fiscal year, which ends December 1st.
At the next regular meeting Chairman
W. H. Ragan and Mr. C. G. Wright retire from the board. Their successors will be Messrs. L. A. Walker and W.
G. Ragsdale.

At Monday's meeting, which was devoted mainly to road matters and unfinished business, two new road petitions were filed and ordered advertised. Action on a pending road petition from Sumner and Fentress townships was deferred until the next meeting.

The board decided to work the road from Coble's church to the Tabernacle road by Moody's Mill if the property owners or petitioners would contribute $50.

The bridge across the cattle way on the Danville road built and maintained by Mr. T. B. Doggett in Bruce township was declared a public bridge on account of the water way having to be maintained by the county.

The board gave notice that the county would not assume any expense incurred in sending patients to hospitals.

A request to move the office of the county superintendent of education from the third to the second floor of the court house was granted. Hereafter the grand jury will occupy the room
now used by the county superintendent.

Among the orders approved during the day were those covering the election expenses of the preceding Tuesday.

The bonds of Sheriff-elect Jones were fixed as follows: Official, $5,000; state, $25,000; general, $30,000. Treasurer McNairy's bonds for the ensuing year will be: County fund, $35,000; school fund, $30,000.

Arrested Here for Complicity in a Sensa- tional Crime at Mt. Airy.

Graham Trotter, teller of the First National Bank of Mt. Airy, was arrested here Monday at noon charged with complicity in one of the most sensational crimes ever committed in the Granite City. The police found him on an incoming train and lodged him at the city jail until yesterday morning, when an officer carried him home. Young Trotter is implicated in a disgraceful affair which took place
last Friday night near his home town.
The particulars are fragmentary and perhaps inaccurate as to details but they give evidence of an escapade that at once takes rank with leaders of its kind.

In substance, it appears that Elmer Brim, Will Graves and young Trotter, and possibly another young man, all representatives of the most prominent families in Mt. Airy, were out sky-larking last Friday night when they met a couple of blockaders on the road a mile or so from town. While the two parties were together a young man named Jack Turner came driving by in a buggy with two young ladies, Misses Bethania Ashby and Minnie Burke, whom he was escorting home from a party given that night at the home of Mr. B. M. McGee, who lives on the Low Gap road two miles from Mt. Airy. Brim, according to the story, mistook the feminine occupants of the buggy for a couple of lewd women and proceeded to make a demonstration. He grasped the lines of Turner's horse and was promptly knocked down by a well directed blow from the butt end of a whip. Turner, thinking he had been attacked by a highwayman, laid whip to his horse and was making all possible haste to get away from the scene when several bullets whizzed by his ears. One bullet pierced Miss Ashby's shoulder and glanced upward, coming out under her chin. Another severed the little finger of her left hand.

When the matter was reported to the Mt. Airy authorities they hurried to the neighborhood where the crime occurred and succeeded in landing the moonshiners and their cargoes. From them the officers learned the identity of the young men. Brim was arrested Saturday and remanded to jail without bail. Trotter's arrest followed here on Monday. Graves is supposed to be in Greensboro, but the officers have not been able to locate him.

While young Trotter would say but little about the unfortunate affair he insisted that he did not participate in the shooting and that he will establish his innocence of any serious wrong doing in the matter. He is scarcely twenty years old.

Mr. J. C. Kennett Succeeds Prof. Holt on the County Board of Education.

At a meeting of the county board of education last Friday night Mr. John C. Kennett, a prominent farmer of Pleasant Garden, was elected a member of the board to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Prof. J.
Allen Holt, elected to the state senate.
Mr. Kennett has been one of the most active champions of public education in the county, having at one time taught in the public schools. He has been enthusiastic in the various campaigns of the districts for local school tax, his speeches greatly aiding the carrying of each election in favor of the tax. He has represented the county in the legislature with great ability and has filled other positions of honor. To be a member of the board of education of Guilford county is considered one of the most honorable positions in the county, and the new member will make a worthy successor of Prof. Holt, who held the place for twenty-nine years. He will be a fit associate for Prof. W. T. Whitsett and Mr. Charles H. Ireland, the two other members of the board. This board now has the administration each year of nearly $60,000 for the county schools alone.

Colored Child Burned to Death.

A terrible accident, the exact nature of which will perhaps never be known, occurred at the home of Jesse Houston, an industrious old negro who works for Mr. R. R. King, Monday afternoon. Houston lives a mile east of the city. Monday while he and his wife were both absent from home the latter's twin sister fell in a fit near the fireplace and was painfully burned.
Her little daughter was either caught beneath her as she fell or tried to extinguish the flames, and was burned to death. The woman was unconscious when found, her body lying across that of the child. She has no knowledge as to how the accident occurred.

FATALLY INJURED BY A FALL.

Missstep Costs a Young Man His Life—The Remains Taken to Salisbury.

Turning suddenly and thoughtlessly to answer the question of a companion,
Mr. W. R. D. Walker, a young slate roofer employed by the Johnson Manufacturing Company of this city, made a misstep Friday morning at 10:30 which cost him his life fifteen hours later. Mr. Walker was at work on the roof of the new Lutheran college when he fell. A fellow workman spoke to him and he turned to answer without noticing that he was at the edge of the scaffold that supported him. His foot went clear of the scaffolding and a moment later he lay unconscious, crushed and bleeding on a pile of rocks over fifty feet below. A fractured skull and numerous other serious injuries were sustained in the fall and even before a thorough examination could be made by Dr. J. P. Turner and Dr.
H. H. Dodson, who were hastily summoned, his condition was regarded as hopeless. Death came between one and two o'clock the following morning at St. Leo's hospital.

Mr. Walker's home was in Salisbury.
He had been employed here the past six months and boarded with the family of Mr. Horace Weeks, who is also connected with the Johnson Company.
Those associated with Mr. Walker speak in highest terms of him. In addition to contributing to the support of his widowed mother, Mrs. Martha L.
Fraleigh, he was paying for the education of a younger brother at Wake Forest College. He recently became a member of Salisbury tent, No. 10, Knights of the Maccabees, and carried a thousand dollars insurance in that order, his mother being the beneficiary.

Mrs. Fraleigh reached here Friday night a couple of hours before her son's death and on Saturday took his remains to Salisbury, where they were interred Sunday.

Leg Crushed by a Falling Piano.

Mr. Andrew Murray, a young man from Alamance county who has held a responsible position with the Greensboro Baggage Transfer Company for a year or two, met with an accident at the Southern passenger depot yesterday at noon which will incapacitate him for active duty for several weeks, if not more serious trouble. While looking after the baggage for the noon trains yesterday he attempted to move a trunk on which was a piano. He turned the trunk too abruptly and it toppled over, throwing the piano against him with such force as to break his nose and knock him down. The piano fell across his right leg, crushing the bones frightfully, beside bruising him painfully otherwise. Drs. Stamey and Thames, who were summoned to his aid, had him removed to St. Leo's hospital. Even under the most favorable circumstances the young man will be laid up for some time.

Attended the Funeral of a Brother

Capt. Cam. Witherspoon and Capt.
W. S. Witherspoon have returned from Columbia, S. C., where they were called last week to attend the funeral of a brother, Mr. George B. Witherspoon, an engineer on the Southern Railway who was stricken with paralysis last Wednesday while on his train near Allendale, S. C., and died Friday morning at his home in Columbia.
The deceased was born in Orange county, N. C., fifty-eight years ago, and is survived by his widow, three daughters and one son and the two brothers referred to. He had been engaged in the railroad business over thirty-five years and was one of the Southern's most trusted engineers. The funeral was conducted Saturday by Rev. Sam
M. Smith, pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Columbia, the pallbearers being Brotherhood men long associated with Mr. Witherspoon.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Harold C. Turner. Only the immediate relatives of the bride were present. Mr. Harrison Cruikshank was the best man. Mr. and Mrs. Parkhurst left on one of the night trains for Philadelphia, where they will reside.

Mr. Leroy Manning has gone to Richmond to take charge of the distributing office of the Greensboro Table Company.

The Farmer and Co-Operator, organ of the North Carolina Farmers' Protective Association, has been moved to Stoneville.

Mr. Alex. Walker, formerly overseer of spinning at the White Oak Mills, Greensboro, is now at the Cabarrus Cotton Mill, Concord.

Mr. M. J. Adams, foreman of the round-house of the Southern Railway at Winston-Salem, has bought a residence in South Eugene street and will soon move his family here.

A spark from the traction road roller at work on Greene street set fire to the roof of W. P. Bennett & Co.'s grocery store, near the Farmers warehouse, Friday afternoon. The blaze was extinguished without difficulty by the chemical engine.

Mr. J. P. Starr brought in a sweet potato the other day that would pass in the twilight for a snake coiled ready to strike. The potato was about an inch in diameter and eighteen or twenty inches long and bore a startling resemblance to a snake, even to the raised head.

The Elmore-Maxwell Company, of Greensboro, was chartered last week with $25,000 capital to start a general mercantile business, deal in wood and coal and engage in other branches of business. The principal incorporators are F. P. Elmore and W. M. Maxwell, both of this city.

The churches of South Greensboro which have been participating in a union Thanksgiving service will unite in a like service this year at the Reformed church. Rev. C. E. Hodgkin, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian church, will preach the sermon and the pastors of all the other churches will take part in the service.

Mr. W. O. Johnson has returned from New York, where he took a course in the bottling business. He has resumed his duties as manager of the B. & P. Bottling Works. Mr. A. M. Hardie, who has been with the firm since its organization, will leave in a few days on a visit to his home in England. He will return in the spring.

Mr. Frank Rhinehart, who has resided here for four years as traveling salesman in Virginia and North Carolina for the Queen City Varnish Company, of Cincinnati, O., has been promoted and will leave December 1st to work his enlarged territory, which will include the states of Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina. He will make his headquarters in Philadelphia after January 1st. He and his wife have made many friends during their residence in Greensboro and their departure will be generally regretted.

Accepts Call to Greensboro.

The Rev. Melton Clark, of Florence, S. C., has given formal notice of his acceptance of the call to become pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city. He called a meeting of the members of his church Sunday, at which he tendered his resignation. This information was conveyed in a letter from Mr. Clark to Dr. A. R. Wilson, clerk of the session of the First Presbyterian church.

At what time Mr. Clark will assume his new duties cannot be determined at this time. The plan of procedure is to call a meeting of the Pee Dee Presbytery, to which he belongs, when the committee from the church here, composed of A. M. Scales and R. G. Vaughn, will ask for the transfer to the Presbytery of Orange.

It is believed that Mr. Clark will be able to come in a few weeks. Sickness in the family of Mrs. Clark's father may delay matters.

NORTH CAROLINA DAY.

Program Being Prepared by Department of Education.

The program for the celebration of North Carolina Day by the public schools of the state is now in the hands of the printer and will be issued from the office of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction at an early date. The material has been carefully compiled and the program arranged by Prof. R. D. W. Connor, of the State Department of Education, who prepared also the excellent programs for 1903 and 1905.

North Carolina Day this year will be celebrated as "McIver Memorial Day" in honor of the late Charles Duncan McIver and on the frontispiece of the pamphlet will appear a splendid half-tone engraving of that orator, educational statesman, teacher. The date named for North Carolina Day this year is Friday, December 14.

The program is as follows: "The Old North State"—William Gaston.

Charles Duncan McIver—A Sonnet by Prof. W. C. Smith, of the State Normal and Industrial College.

Charles Duncan McIver—A sketch by R. D. W. Connor, of the State Department of Education.

"The Caronach"—By Sir Walter Scott.

"He Died Poor That He Might Make Others Rich"—By Josephus Daniels, editor of the News and Observer.

Charles D. McIver as I Knew Him—By J. Y. Joyner.

America—By S. F. Smith.

Some Stories of Charles D. McIver—By J. Y. Joyner.

Southern Educational Problems—Extracts from Addresses by Charles D. McIver.

"Ho! for Carolina"—By W. B. Harrell.

The subject for discussion this year is a departure from the rule of the past four years which has been to study the history of the various sections of the state. But it is fitting that the public school pupils throughout the state should thus have brought close to their attention the life of this man who has done so much for the cause of education in North Carolina and in whose death the state has lost her greatest educational leader.

This celebration is in accordance with an act of the General Assembly of 1901, which in principle is as follows:

"The General Assembly of North Carolina do enact:

"Section 1. That the 12th day of October in each and every year, to be called 'North Carolina Day,' may be devoted by appropriate exercises in the public schools of the state, to the consideration of some topic or topics of our state history to be selected by the Superintendent of Public Instruction."

The act provides that the State Superintendent may designate another day than October 12. State Superintendent Joyner has taken the liberty allowed under the law of fixing the date of North Carolina Day this year on December 14.

The program is a valuable pamphlet and should be filed in the school libraries in the state for its historic worth in years to come.

Following the chronological order of the state's history, the subjects of the North Carolina Day programs have been as follows: In 1901, The First Anglo-Saxon Settlement in America; in 1902, The Albemarle Section; in 1903 The Lower Cape Fear Section; in 1904 the Pamlico Section; in 1905, the Upper Cape Fear Section.

In succeeding years the history of other sections of the state will be studied, somewhat in the order of their settlement and development, until the entire period of the history of the state shall have been covered. It is hoped ultimately to stimulate a study of local and county history.

This annual celebration of North Carolina Day affords every teacher an opportunity to inspire the children with a new pride in their state, a new enthusiasm for the study of her history, and a new love of her and her people.

LETTER TO MATHEWS & OGBURN.

Greensboro, N. C.

Dear Sirs: Some people get disappointed in painting; it doesn't come out as they thought it would.

C. B. Edwards, of Edwards & Broughton, printers, Raleigh, N. C., painted his house Devco three years ago; he had used 30 gallons Devco paint before and bought 30 gallons Devco. Had 16 left.

Paste paint is extra-thick—with white-wash.

Mayor W. W. Carroll, Monticello, Florida, says: My painter said it would take 35 gallons to paint my house; it took 20 gallons Devco. His house is the best paint job in town; and he says Devco is the whitest white of all white paints.

Jones & Rodgers bought 5 gallons Devco to prime Mr. Pratt's house at Merkel, Texas. It painted two coats.

The reason for nobody guessing little enough Devco is: they learned in a bad school; other paints.

Yours truly,

F. W. Devco & Co.

GOOD ROADS MOVEMENT.

Guilford County Making a Splendid Object Lesson.

The failure of the good roads bond issued to carry on a popular vote in the progressive counties of Mecklenburg and Wake, emphasizes again the fact that Guilford is the only county in the state, if not in the South, that has by a voluntary popular vote, voted affirmatively for a bond issue for good roads, writes Press Correspondent Joyner to his string of papers. Not only did this county vote a bond issue of $300,000 for macadamizing the roads, but the question has not been made the subject of political agitation or demagoguery although since the work began, two hot political campaigns have been waged and two elections held in the county. The board of highway commissioners are administering the funds, and having the road work done and there has been no serious kicking. The bonds are negotiated as the needs require, not exceeding $65,000 per year, and the county affairs are in such condition the last bonds brought a premium of ten cents on the dollar.

Since Guilford voted bonds and began extensive permanent road grading and building, the contiguous counties of Forsyth, Alamance and Rockingham have made futile efforts to provide bond issues by popular vote. It has already been demonstrated in Guilford that the increase in the selling or taxing values of real estate on account of better roads and better schools provided by bond issues or special local school tax more than effect the necessary fund required to meet the annual interest and provide a sinking fund for the payment of the principal of the bonds when they fall due. There is not a cent of increase of taxes, and will be none necessary to meet all the final obligations. The actual result is the people have good roads and good schools with all their attendant helpfulness, comforts and benefits, without the cost of an extra dollar, and those benefits are transmitted to future generations at no practical expense to the present.

It seems difficult to get farmers and the general public elsewhere to see things this way. The object lesson in Guilford, which has now fifty miles of splendid roads completed and four forces at work on more, is such, that will be no trouble in getting another bond issue voted, when the present one is used up. It is everlastingly to the credit of both the Democratic and Republican political organizations of Guilford county that they joined forces for the good of all as organizations on these questions of better roads and better schools and sternly knocked any demagogue, in either party, who showed the least purpose of trying to get office by discouraging public progress or appealing to the natural kicking nature of the average American citizen.

MISS SETTLE SUES RICH MAN.

Breach of Promise Proceedings Instituted Against the Son of a Wealthy Ironmaster, of Germany.

The New York American of last Thursday contained a very interesting special from its London correspondent, concerning Miss Flossie Settle, or Miss Marion Draughn, of this city. In launching the story the American prints a fine likeness of Miss Settle and uses the following headlines: "Millionaire Ironmaster Sued for 'Steely Heart'" and "Marion Draughn Seeks Redress in Court for Alleged Breach of Promise by Heinrich Thyssen."

The special, bearing the London date lines, of the 7th reads: "Marion Draughn, an American actress, is suing Heinrich Thyssen, son of a German multi-millionaire, for breach of promise of marriage. The trial, which promises to be very sensational, was begun this afternoon. The defendant, whose father is the owner of the iron works at Dusseldorf, where 9,000 men are employed, and who is regarded in Germany as second only to the Krupps so far as wealth is concerned, denies the actress' charge. He is engaged to marry a Viennese baroness."

"In outlining the case for the actress her counsel said that the pair met in London while the plaintiff was appearing on the stage; that it was, so far as the defendant was concerned, 'an apparent love at first sight,' that the young German promised to marry the actress, but had stipulated that it be a secret marriage owing to the paternal objections."

The American adds: "Marion Draughn appeared in 'The Education of Mr. Pipp.' She was engaged to play in 'The Clansman,' but did not appear in it. She sued the management for salary, but lost the case."

MISS SETTLE LOSES SUIT.

London, Nov. 12.—A jury in the Queen's Bench Division of the High Court of Justice today announced a disagreement in the breach of promise suit brought by Marion Draughn, an actress, daughter of the late Judge Thomas Settle, of the United States Circuit court, against Heinrich Thyssen, described as the son and heir of a millionaire iron magnate of Dusseldorf, Germany. Counsel for Thyssen announced subsequently that they would apply for another writ, and said they expected an early retrial.

Aldermen Hold Brief Session.

Only routine business was transacted at the regular semi-monthly meeting of the board of aldermen last Friday afternoon. Mayor Murphy presided, and Aldermen Brandt, Odell, Thompson and Wysong answered the roll call. The board was in session less than an hour.

Following the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting, Alderman Odell presented the report of the cemetery trustees, which was accepted and ordered to be recorded. The report is for the quarter ending October 31, 1906 and is as follows:

Receipts—From sale of lots, $2,640; from care of lots $305, from digging graves $75, total $3,020.

Disbursements—For labor $426.37, for supervision $150, for expenses $16.50, for permanent improvements $1,782.75, total $2,375.62.

Balance $644.38.
For perpetual care fund twenty-five per cent of receipts from sale of lots, $660.

Expenditures in excess of receipts, $15.62.

For the quarter the interments numbered 28.

After some discussion and at the suggestion of Mayor Murphy, Alderman Wysong moved that the mayor be authorized to employ another policeman temporarily. This makes ten members on the force.

Register of Deeds Kirkman presented a bill of $30 against the city for registering several deeds. On motion of Alderman Wysong the bill was ordered paid.

Maj. Chas. M. Stedman, of the law firm of Stedman & Cooke, was allowed a fee of $50 and $10 for expenses for a trip to Raleigh to argue before the Supreme court the demurrer in the case of Merrimon, Benbow et al. vs. the City of Greensboro in the paving injunction case.

Mr. Wysong called to the attention of the board that the steel safe now used by the city is the property of Stedman & Cooke; and on motion of Alderman Odell, City Clerk Michaux was instructed to have the safe moved to the office of the owners. The only cost of the use of the safe for eight years is the expense of moving it.

A representative of the Art Medal Construction Company, of Jamestown, N. Y., appeared and exhibited a design for a cabinet for filing papers and documents and for keeping the books of the city in the vault. The price is $125. The matter was referred to the chairman of the market building committee.

The board voted to place a light on Church street at a point between Smith street and Park drive.

Melver Memorial Exercises.

TO THE PEOPLE OF GREENSBORO:

On November 20, 1906, at eleven o'clock A. M., the North Carolina State Normal and Industrial College will hold exercises in memory of its founder and president, Dr. Charles Duncan Molver. To the home people of Greensboro no formal invitations will be issued, but all are invited to be present at the exercises. The faculty and the students of the College hope, therefore, to have with them on that day all who may desire to unite with them in doing honor to the memory of our friend and fellow-citizen. The exercises will be held in the auditorium of the Students' Building.

The bride is originally from New York, but has been here for about a year, and is an attractive young lady. Mr. Foss is well and favorably known to many people in this city and elsewhere.

Postmaster Robbed.

G. W. Fouts, postmaster at Riverton, Ia., nearly lost his life and was robbed of all comfort, according to his letter, which says: "For 20 years I had chronic liver complaint, which led to such a severe case of jaundice that even my finger nails turned yellow; when my doctor prescribed Electric Bitters, which I cured me and have kept me well for eleven years." Magnificent Pullman Train Soon to be Running Again.

The Southern's celebrated Palm Limited train between New York and St. Augustine will soon be put into service again.

This train, which is put on the line for the accommodation of the winter traffic from the Northern cities to the Southern winter resorts of Florida, is a solid Pullman train of the most magnificent appointments, consisting of only a baggage car and the remainder Pullman sleepers, library car, observation car, etc. The train is a veritable palace on wheels and is more used than any of the other through trains, while it is in service.

It will be put on the road a few days earlier this year than has been the case in the past. The first train South will leave New York, Monday, January 7, and the first northbound train will leave St. Augustine on Wednesday, January 9th.

This train passes through Greensboro in the early hours of the morning.

Song Services.

The union singing of the different classes taught by A. M. Fentress will be held at Pleasant Garden M. E. church on November 25 (fourth Sunday) beginning at 11 A. M. and again at 2 P. M., if the weather permits. In case of bad weather the service will not be held. The closing exercises of the Shiloh class, one mile from Julian, will be held November 18 (third Sunday) beginning at 11 and 2. Miss Mabel Fentress will assist in the exercises. We give all a cordial invitation to be with us. X.

DEMOCRATS GET 48,000 MAJORITY.

Republican Vote Falls Off Fifteen Thousand—What the Returns Show—No Falling Off of Democratic Vote From 1904—Democrats Carry 81 Counties and Republicans Carry 16 Counties.

Staleigh News and Observer, 14th.

The official returns for the election last Tuesday show that the Democrats carried the state by forty-eight thousand majority. At no time during the campaign did even the most sanguine Democrat predict that the majority this year would be anything like as large as 48,000, the majority which Governor Glenn received in 1904. The best posted and most sanguine leaders like State Chairman Simmons expected as high water mark a majority of about 41,000, the majority which Judge Parker had over Roosevelt in 1904. That majority in the "off year," when in half the counties the victory for the Democratic local ticket was plain sailing, would have been regarded by the Democrats as a complete and magnificent victory. The Republicans have all along pointed to the Roosevelt vote as evidence of the real strength of the Republican party in the state, and the Democrats figured that if in this off year they could register a majority of 41,000 they would score one of the most remarkable victories in the history of the state. They have registered that majority and added seven thousand to it, thus coming within 1,200 of the great majority received by Governor Glenn in 1904.

The official figures have been received and tabulated by the News and Observer from 59 counties out of the 97 counties in the state. In these 57 counties the vote cast was as follows for corporation commissioner:

McNeill (Dem) 78,349
Douglas (Rep.) 41,909

Net Dem. majority 36,440

Correspondents in the other thirty-eight counties mistook the instructions to send the total official vote and sent only the majorities and in some instances sent only the majority in round numbers. It is therefore impossible to give the total vote, but possible to estimate the total majority in the state. The majorities in these thirty-eight counties added up the are as follows:

McNeill's majorities 14,901
Douglas' 3,900

Net Dem. majorities 11,001

Then it will be seen that the Democratic majority for McNeill for corporation commissioner is 47,441. The estimated majorities in several counties may alter these figures a few hundred either way, but the Democratic majority will be in the neighborhood of 48,000—a comfortable and magnificent majority, and one that means permanent good government by the Democratic party in North Carolina.

THE TOTAL VOTE CAST.

What is the total vote in the state? If the thirty-eight counties not reporting the official vote cast the same proportion of the vote for McNeill (Dem) that the 59 counties reporting cast for him, the total Democratic vote cast this year was 128,257. If the Republicans maintained the same proportion they cast for Douglas 67,406. If this proportion is strictly maintained the official vote would give the Democrats a majority of 50,851 instead of the 47,441 based upon estimated majorities in thirty-eight counties.

This would show the Democratic vote in the state did not fall off at all from the vote given to Governor Glenn, for he received 128,761, whereas the estimated vote for McNeill this year is 128,257. It would show an increase in the vote cast for Judge Parker, for he received 124,121 votes.

REPUBLICAN VOTES FALL OFF.

It would show a falling off in the Republican vote given. Harris of 12,000 and a falling off of the vote given to Roosevelt of 15,000. And yet we were told that under the "new, respectable and decent Republican party" led by Spencer Adams and Marion Butler there would be a tremendous gain in the number of Republican votes cast. If the Republicans continue that ratio of decrease it will not be many years before they will lose the votes in North Carolina that they do in Mississippi. And if the Democrats keep on educating the children, the boys coming of age even in Wilkes and Mitchell will vote the Democratic ticket, and twenty years from now Mitchell will be running a race with Wake to see which will give the biggest Democratic majority. The Democratic policy on education in North Carolina is the chief cause that brought about the magnificent Democratic victory, and that policy will be continued and will increase the state and increase the Democratic majority.

SIXTEEN REPUBLICAN COUNTIES.

The returns show that the Democrats have carried 81 counties and the Republicans have carried sixteen counties. And in these sixteen counties that the Republicans held, their majorities have been decreased. It will be observed that if the Democrats had polled their full vote in the big Democratic counties their majority would have been much larger. Therefore the showing for the Democrats is much better than even the figures above presented show.

Senator Money's Brother Kills His Man and is Wounded.

St. Louis, Nov. 8.—A special from Carrollton, Miss., says news from Money, Miss., says that a pistol fight occurred there today between J. D. Money, a brother of United States Senator Money, and L. J. Henderson, a planter. Henderson was instantly killed and Money was wounded slightly. The fight followed the purchase of a plantation three years ago by Henderson from the Money estate.

Nine Die Beneath Walls.

Long Beach, Cal., Nov. 9.—Five stories of the central wing of the new $750,000 Bixby Hotel collapsed today carrying nine workmen to death in the tons of tangled wreckage. About 150 artisans and laborers were scattered through the structure at the moment it fell and of these 100 were carried down in the ruins, nine being severely hurt. Thirteen men on the contractors' rolls are unaccounted for, but are probably safe. None of the injured will die.

What you say of your neighbors may be coming to what they think of you.

Growing Power of Negro Vote.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The negro vote in this country is becoming more and more powerful each year. This situation is the result of the growing immigration of the black man from the South to the states of the North. That this immigration is increasing each year is demonstrated by census figures and hardly permits of controversy. The result, in the opinion of many people, will be that the colored vote will be the absolutely determining factor in the elections of the debatable states, if this northern movement of the negro continues as it has in the past.

A statement that was issued by the Republican Congressional campaign committee shows the importance and growing influence of the negro in politics. It is the only statement of the kind indicating the power of the black electorate in this country. The introduction to the table of figures says: "Negro population and vote in states where disfranchisement laws have not been enacted and where the negro vote is a factor in the solution of the political equation."

These figures show that there are more negro voters in the state of Tennessee than in any other state in the union. The negro vote in that state totals 112,236. Kentucky comes next with 74,728 black votes. The third state in point of numbers is Maryland, with a total of 60,406. Pennsylvania has 51,663 negro voters and Missouri 46,418. The colored vote in the state of New York was sufficient to turn the tide of the election in favor of Hearst had he received the support of the 31,425 colored electors. In Illinois the black vote is 29,762, and in Ohio 31,225. When it is considered that the negro vote in the East was cast with practical solidarity for the Republican party, it is easy to see how the 21,474 negro votes in New Jersey could have made possible the election of a Democratic legislature resulting in the election of a Democrat to the United States Senate to succeed Senator Dryden. The negro vote in other states that have an important bearing on the national election follows: Kansas 14,695, West Virginia 14,786, Massachusetts 10,456, Delaware 8,374, Michigan 5,193, Connecticut 4,576, Iowa 4,441, California 3,711, Colorado 3,215, Nebraska 2,298, Rhode Island 2,765.

The negro vote in the states that have disfranchised the black man is not given, for the reason that it has no influence on the national result.

Thomasville Manufacturers Indignant.

Thomasville, Nov. 9.—The Southern Railway has today treated Thomasville outrageously. Just after certain factories had secured some cars to load with chairs, an order was sent to Thomasville to send by first train every empty car, regardless of size, to Danville, Va. Some of the factories had all the chairs ready to put in the cars and some even had them on wagons ready to be put in the cars at once while others had goods on their platforms ready to go out. The citizens of Thomasville are exceedingly mad and rightly so. Only a month or so ago the North Carolina Chair Association refused to appear at High Point to complain of shortage of cars. Today's treatment, so says the people, shows how much that was appreciated. From all indications, probably a dozen claims will be filed at once and pressed strenuously. If an election for issuing bonds could be called tomorrow for aiding a competing railroad, it would undoubtedly pass. This treatment will not be forgotten soon.

Thank-Offings to Our Orphanages.

The work of the orphan's homes of North Carolina is regarded highly by our people, and these institutions are worthy of our heartiest support. We can see something of the good they are accomplishing, but the far-reaching, ever widening influence of their work we are not now able to fully know and measure. They are being greatly used of God in the betterment of lives, in the salvation of souls.

Thanksgiving Day has been adopted by our people as a time of special effort for aid to the orphanages of the state. Can we in a better, more fitting way express our gratitude to the Giver of all good than by helping to the care and equipment for life of these homeless children? Such a method of expressing thanks to God appeals to us, and surely, it is pleasing to God.

The aid received by the orphan's homes of North Carolina at Thanksgiving is a factor in the maintenance and improvement of their work.

May the observance of Thanksgiving Day this year be even a greater means of honoring God and blessing mankind.

Honors Divided in Alamance.

Graham, Nov. 8.—The official returns for Alamance county show the following officers elected by the majorities indicated: For the state senate, John W. Graham and C. H. King, Democrats, 43; for house of representatives, J. A. Pickett, Republican, 200; for Congress, W. W. Kitchin, Democrat, 145; clerk of Superior court, J. D. Kernodie, Democrat, 7; register of deeds, C. D. Johnston, Democrat, 212; sheriff, R. T. Kernodie, Republican, 257; surveyor, L. H. Holt, Democrat, 11; coroner, S. D. McPherson, Democrat, 115; treasurer, Jos. C. Holt, Republican, 33. The following were elected county commissioners: Democrats, C. C. Williamson and T. B. Bager; Republicans, W. E. Vincent, B. S. Robinson and E. F. McVey.

State Without a Governor.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 8.—Unofficial returns in New Hampshire indicate that the voters failed by the narrow margin of 10 to elect a governor. The state law requires that the successful candidate receive a majority over the other candidates, and Chas. M. Floyd, of Manchester, the Republican nominee, falls short just 10 votes of receiving the needed majority. Unless the official result shows a change, the legislature will be called upon to name the next governor.

The figures are: Floyd, Republican, 40,518; Jameson, Democrat, 37,521; Puley, Prohibition, 2,113; McFall, Socialist, 888; Churchill, 2.

MUST STAND TRIAL AGAIN.

Stated on Good Authority That Messrs. Breese, Penland and Dickerson Will be Tried at Charlotte on the Original Bill of Indictment.

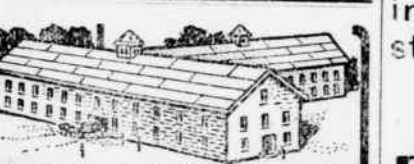

Asheville, Nov. 11.—William E. Breese, J. E. Dickerson and Henry Penland, officials of the defunct First National Bank of Asheville, must again stand trial on a charge of wrecking the bank and embezzlement of funds. This statement is made on high authority. Although the government officials are reticent relative to the bringing to trial again of Messrs. Breese, Dickerson and Penland, it is known that the cases will be called at Charlotte and that they will either be called at the next term of court or at a special term to be held after the regular term. All the papers and records pertaining to the bank's affairs are now on file with the clerk's office at Charlotte, it is said, while it is known that certain government officials have been at work for some time preparing the evidence in the cases. The accused bank officials will be tried under a bill of indictment found at Greensboro shortly after the failure of the First National Bank, in July, 1897, and which was not employed in the several trials of the bank officials, because a later bill of indictment found in Asheville and under which the officials were tried set forth more fully the offenses charged against the alleged bank wreckers.

The announcement that the noted bank cases are to be called again comes as a surprise, perhaps, to many people in Asheville and western North Carolina. It was the general impression that, while known that another bill of indictment existed, the government would let the whole matter drop and nothing more would be heard of the case. When the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Richmond held that the bill of indictment under which Major Breese was tried and convicted and under which the other two bank officials were to stand trial was found by a grand jury irregularly constituted and was therefore invalid, announcement was made that the end of the cases had been reached and that, although the president of the bank had been convicted and sentenced to seven years in the penitentiary, he would go free and with him the two other accused officials. When the case went to the higher court it was shown by attorneys for the defense that sitting on the grand jury which found the true bill at the Asheville term of court in 1897 were two negroes, and furthermore that these two negroes were not qualified to sit on the grand jury because they had failed to pay their poll tax. Since the first trial of the defendants the statute of limitation worked and it was found that another bill of indictment could not be secured.

Some time after the cases had been disposed of at Richmond it was learned from Greensboro that the original bill of indictment was still in force and that the accused officials could again be brought to trial if the government was so disposed. The government has now determined to prosecute under this original indictment.

Another Cabinet Change.

Secretary of the Interior Ethan Allen Hitchcock will retire from President Roosevelt's cabinet on the 4th of next March, and James B. Garfield, of Ohio, at present commissioner of corporations, will succeed him. Herbert Knox Smith, now assistant commissioner of corporations, will be appointed to Mr. Garfield's place. These changes and that of the retirement of Commissioner Richards, of the general land office on March 4th, were announced from the White House last week.

CONGO ROOFING

A ready roofing that is warm, dry, easy to lay and lasting.

In appearance it looks like rubber and it is as water-tight as rubber—but there is where the resemblance ceases.

Its wearing qualities are unsurpassed—it is a splendid fire resistant—acids and alkalis have no effect upon it. It doesn't rot nor crack. It is pliable and elastic to the end of its days.

Good for any climate, any weather, anywhere on earth.

GREAT AERONAUTIC DISPLAY.

Will Be One of the Attractive Features of the Jamestown Exposition.

Norfolk, Nov. 9.—Visitors to the Jamestown Exposition next year will witness one of the greatest aeronautic exhibits ever got together at any one time in the United States. It will consist of the exhibit of airships, balloons, wind wagons and other aeronautic apparatus; demonstrations, indoor and out door, and various experiments by the best known experts in the world. Some of the airships that made the first successful aerial trips will be shown and an opportunity will be given to compare them with the latest types, which will be displayed extensively.

Exhibitions by professional and amateur aeronauts will occur daily and contests among both will be one of the features. Probably the most scientific work will be the aeroplane experiments.

The first step toward having aeronautical work at the exposition was taken recently when the Board of Governors endorsed the proposition of Mr. Augustus Post and Mr. J. E. McCoy, prominent members of the Aero Club of America, to get together a general committee from the Exposition, the Aero Club and the War Department, to take up the subject and formulate plans for a great exhibition.

As a result of this action by the governors, letters were sent to many of the most prominent aeronauts of this country and those interested in the science, asking them to serve on the general committee and to meet at the Hotel Astor, New York city, on Wednesday evening, November 14th, to map out the work.

Mr. Post and Mr. McCoy visited Norfolk, where they spent some time in conference with the Exposition officials. The result was satisfactory and the board of governors promised all the aid possible in making the aeronautic feature a great success.

In speaking of the subject Mr. Post said: "We expect to have a great exhibition at the exposition and some of the most noted aeronauts in the world will take part. We will have exhibits, demonstrations and a congress, at which papers and reports will be presented and discussed."

"The exhibits will embrace some of the apparatus that was used by the foremost aeronauts in the world when they made wonderful ascensions. Among these will be the balloon in which Lieut. Lahm recently won the Gordon-Bennett cup at the contest in Paris; Langley's large machine, in which he experimented on the Potomac; the Original California Arrow, the first ship that flew successfully in the United States; the air ship in which Santos Dumont sailed around the Eiffel tower; special kite balloons to be sent over by Germany and the Gordon-Bennett cup that was won by Lieut. Lahm.

"The demonstrations will consist of individual flights by professionals; performances by amateurs in rising air ships and balloons; contests among professionals and amateurs for cups, races with wind wagons drawn by air ships and aerial propeller boats, the latest development in this science. Amateurs will make ascents and try for records.

The general committee will meet at the Hotel Astor, New York city, on Wednesday evening, November 14th, and at that time the plans for next year's work will be formulated. The committee will be divided up into sub-committees, each of which will have special duties to look after.

The general committee will make the rules to govern the various contests and exhibitions, and the members will be the judges.

It is expected that many of the most famous aeronauts in the world will participate in the demonstrations. The French, English and German Clubs have already signified their intention to enter the contests and exhibit their ships with those of the American Club.

The captive balloon, in which the visitors will be allowed to make short trips, will be in charge of competent managers and it is thought that the exhibits will be clustered around this balloon.

Mr. Post and Mr. McCoy left Norfolk for Washington, D. C., where they met others prominently associated with the Aero Club, and discussed the subject of aeronautics at the Exposition.

Winston-Salem Leads.

In a comparison of the towns of the United States having a population of 8,000 and over the United States Census Bureau shows that the city of Winston-Salem, during the period from 1900 to 1905 increased her manufacturing capital from $3,969,337 to $9,211,802, and increased the value of her manufactured products from $4,887,649 to $11,353,296.

This is the largest percentage of increase noted in any city in the Southern states, and one of the largest increases noted anywhere in the United States for the same length of time in five years.

These significant figures more than justify the claims that the board of trade and prominent business men of the twin city have been making for their progressive and prosperous city. And the best of it is that new industries are being established and old concerns are being every year enlarged. Our neighbor is to be congratulated.

An Improvement Society.

The pupils of the Gibsonville graded school have organized an Improvement Society, the object of which is to improve the school grounds and decorate the building. Each department has its separate organization.

The following officers were elected for the high school: Blair Boon, president; Hattie Wagoner, vice president; Annie Zimmerman, secretary; Emma Shepherd, treasurer.

Grammar school: Banks Kelly, president; Arthur Deal, vice president; Ruth Whitesell, secretary; Sallie Cobb, treasurer.

Primary department: Brice Fonville, president; Hubert McLean, vice president; Mettawee Cobb, secretary; Beulah Wrightenberry, treasurer.

Great interest is taken by the children in this organized effort to make the school building and grounds an object of pride not only to the people of the town but of the county and state.

In the Wrong Flat.

"What I want is a bright short play," said Toole to the amateur, who had brought him a six-act drama. "How do you mean—a short, bright drama?" asked the author. "Can you give me an idea?"

"Oh, yes," said Toole, "here's one. It's direct and leaves much to the imagination. It is in one act. When the curtain goes up two persons are discovered on a sofa, one a pretty young woman, the other a nice looking young fellow. They embrace; neither of them says a word. Then a door opens at the back and a commercial traveller enters. He wears an overcoat and carries an umbrella. You can tell at once by his manner that he is the husband of the young woman. At least that would be the inference of every intelligent playgoer. The husband takes off his coat, draws from his pocket a heavy Colt's revolver and in the midst of the silent embrace of hero and heroine fires. The young woman falls dead. He fires again and the young man is similarly disposed of. Then the murderer comes forward, puts on a pair of eyeglasses and proceeds to contemplate his sanguinary work. 'Great heavens!' he exclaims; 'I am on the wrong floor.'—Reynolds Newspaper.

How the Grocer Was Fooled.

Butte Inter-Mountain.

A distracted fellow entered a grocer's shop and said: "I believe I am an injured husband, sir, and I desire to verify my suspicions by watching a house in the next street. But I can do this safely from the rear of your shop. Will you be good enough to let me sit by the open window there for half an hour?"

"To be sure," said the grocer. Some time passed. Then the jealous husband rushed through the shop, jolled his eyes and muttering: "I'll kill her. I'll go home and get the gun!"

"Your wife?" asked the grocer. "Yes," sobbed the man. "My false wife, my adored May. I cannot doubt her guilt."

The grocer tried to detain him, but he got away. Nothing happened in the way of murder for an hour or more, and then the grocer made an investigation in the back of the shop to find that there had passed out through the open window three tubs of butter, a crate of eggs, two bags of flour and a dozen hams.

RAMSEUR ITEMS.

(Deferred from last week.)

Our drug store is displaying a full line of souvenir postal cards.

Messrs. J. C. Reece and Fletcher Cox, of Cedar Falls, visited here Sunday.

Our chrysanthemum show was called off on account the damaging effect of frost.

Rev. J. W. Patton filled his pulpit in the Christian church Sunday, preaching able sermons.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Martin, of High Point, are visiting in town. They have our warmest congratulations.

An interesting meeting closed in the Holiness church Sunday. It was largely attended and we trust much good will result from it.

Miss Stella Gross, of Goldston, who visited here the past two weeks, decided to fool the old folks, consequently she and Mr. Milton Gilmore, of High Point, met at Climax and were happily married on last Saturday. Much happiness to them.

A NEW WARD FOR LUNATICS.

What a Tourist Saw When He Visited an Asylum for the Insane.

"I heard a good one the other day," said a Charlotte traveling man to a reporter Saturday.

"A tourist was beating about this country, stopping here and there and everywhere, seeing the sights, when he came upon a town where there was an asylum for the insane. Wanting to see all sides of life he visited the asylum and a doctor was kind enough to show him over the place. The first ward they came to the guide said: 'Well, this is where we keep the religious fanatics—those fellows who are daffy on the subject of religion. You will notice that we have a great number of them. This is the largest ward in the hospital.'

"They moved on. 'The next ward,' said the doctor, 'is where we keep the inventors. We have a dozen or so fellows who lost their balance wheels worrying about inventions.'

"But here is the most interesting ward that we have," continued the doctor. 'This is a new ward—just added. This we call the automobile ward. Here the automobile cranks are confined. We have 27 of them.'

"Well, where are they, doctor, I do not see but one—that fellow up there in the bed?" inquired the tourist, as he peeped in and saw a man sitting at the foot of the bed grinning and twisting his hands like he was running an automobile at a mile a minute clip.

"O, said the doctor, 'the other 26 are down there under the bed, flat of their backs, pecking at the springs, imagining that they are fixing their machines.'

FACTS IN NATURE.

Not Only Do We Get Inspiration From Nature, But Health as Well.

For people who are run-down and nervous, who suffer from indigestion or dyspepsia, headache, biliousness, or torpid liver, coated tongue with bitter taste in the morning and poor appetite, it becomes necessary to turn to some tonic or strengthener which will assist Nature and help them to get on their feet and put the body into its proper condition. It is becoming more and more apparent that Nature's most valuable health-giving agents are to be found in forest plants and roots.

Nearly forty years ago, Dr. R. V. Pierce, now consulting physician to the convalescent Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., discovered that by scientifically extracting and combining certain medicinal principles from native roots, taken from our American forests, he could produce a medicine which was marvelously efficient in curing cases of blood disorder and liver and stomach trouble as well as many other chronic, or lingering ailments. This concentrated extract of Nature's vitality he named "Golden Medical Discovery." It purifies the blood by putting the stomach and liver into healthy condition, thereby helping the digestion and assimilation of food which feeds the blood. Thence it cures weak stomach, indigestion, torpid liver, or biliousness, and kindred derangements.

If you have coated tongue, with bitter or bad taste in the morning, frequent headaches, feel weak, easily tired, stitches or pain in side, back gives out easily and aches, belching of gas, constipation, or irregular bowels, feel flashes of heat alternating with chilly sensations or kindred symptoms, they point to derangement of your stomach, liver and kidneys, which the "Golden Medical Discovery" will correct more speedily and permanently than any other known agent. Contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients printed in plain English on wrapper.

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make a little more profit. He gains; you lose. Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

Constipation causes and aggravates many serious diseases. It is thoroughly cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. One a laxative; two or three are cathartic.

"CUT IT OUT"

says the doctor to many of his lady patients, because he doesn't know of any medicinal treatment that will positively cure womb or ovarian troubles, except the surgeon's knife.

That such a medicine exists, however, has been proved by the wonderful cures performed on diseased women, in thousands of cases, by

Will Harris Kills Three.

Policemen Charles Blackstock and William Bailey, two of the most efficient members of the Asheville police force, and Ben Allison, a colored restaurant keeper, were instantly killed by Will Harris, the noted desperado, at Asheville yesterday afternoon, while Tom Neil, another negro, fatally wounded. Harris, who hailed from Mecklenburg county and has been outlawed several years, deliberately started out yesterday with the avowed intention of murdering several people and he shot at random until the police tried to capture him. He escaped in the direction of Biltmore but hundreds of men are in pursuit.

Death of Miss Ruth Angel.

Miss Ruth Angel died at the home of Mr. W. H. Furner, near Brown Summit, on Friday, Nov. 2nd, 1906, aged 55 years. Cancer of the stomach was the cause of death. She bore her sufferings patiently for over two years. Her remains were laid to rest at Friends' cemetery. Miss Angel had been a member of Rock Springs M. P. church for 37 years and lived a consistent Christian life. She was born and reared in Rockingham county, but had lived in Guilford the past three years. Many friends and relatives are left to mourn her death.

To Investigate Tobacco Trust.

Washington, Nov. 10.—An investigation of the tobacco trust by the so-called Tobacco Trust will be undertaken by the Department of Justice. E. N. Hill, of Boston, was today appointed as a special attorney to make the inquiry. Officials of the department will not discuss the purpose of the investigation, but it is believed that prosecution under the Sherman anti-trust law is in view.

New York, Nov. 10.—Four descendants of Robert Fulton, the inventor of the steamboat, today gave their consent to Cornelius Vanderbilt, president of the Robert Fulton Memorial Association, to remove the body of Fulton from the vault in Trinity churchyard, this city, to a tomb in the $600,000 monument which the memorial association intends to erect here.

The Production of Corn in 1906.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Preliminary returns to the crop estimating board of the Department of Agriculture show production of corn for 1906 was 2,881,000,000 bushels. An average of 30.2 acre. The general average as to quality is 59.9. It is estimated that about 44 percent of the 1906 corn crop is still in the hands of the farmers.

Maj. Gen. W. R. Saffier Dead.

Bakersfield, Cal., Nov. 12.—Major General William Rufus Saffier, U. S. A., retired, died at 12 45 P. M. today at the ranch of Captain W. H. McKittick, his son-in-law, 20 miles south of this city, after an illness of seven days. Burial will be in the post cemetery at the Presidio of San Francisco, with full military honors.

Congressman Blackburn announces that he will contest the election of Hackett, who was elected to succeed him as representative from the Eighth district. Hackett's majority is something over 1200 and Blackburn has no hope of gaining more than the 2,000 allowed contestants. The affair will keep him from total oblivion, however, and that is no small matter to the man "who did thing"—the wrong way.

In a collision near Woodville, Ind., Monday forty seven persons, mostly immigrants bound northwest, were killed, their bodies being buried in the wreckage. Thirty-eight others were injured and some will die.

If a man doesn't amount to anything himself he boasts of his ancestors.

THE MEXICAN RACE.

It is a Blending of the Indian With the Moro-Spaniard.

The Mexican is a blend of the strong and sober Indian race, melancholy, serious of thought, with the Moro-Spaniard, who for eight centuries waged war in the Iberian peninsula. The Moors left in Spain something of their blood, much of their speech and not a little of their habit of thought and customs. It is a good stock, that old Arab race—administrators, wonderful cultivators of the soil, chivalric as becomes the riders of horses, courteous, with an oriental graciousness. The blend with the southern Spaniard made the Andalusian race which profoundly influenced the first immigration into Mexico. We hear their words, the relics of their speech, and we note often the vestiges of their customs. The Moro-Spaniard has made his impress on Mexican architecture and customs. Often the Moorish eyes in some Mexican woman's face, proud, yet mournful, arrest attention in the crowded streets.

The Anglo-Saxon is the newer man, as it were. He is a man of positive achievements. To him are due the railway and the steamship, the telegraph and the telephone, the consolidation of business, the active commercial conquest of the world's markets. He in our modern age matches the old Roman in many deeds, in world adventure. He is the younger brother in the great Aryan family, which came into Europe ages ago from northern India, Spaniard and American, Mexican and German, are all relatives, kinsmen long time unaware of their blood relation. Spanish, English, French, Italian and German, the basis of Aryan and the Sanskrit is the common storehouse of the word roots, which we all employ every day.

Curious that we should insist on our differences when we are all essentially the same. Whatever is Aryan in us (and that is the greater part) is not Semitic. We are blood brothers and not strangers. The Moor is Arabian and therefore Semitic, as are the Jews. But most of the blood in Spanish veins is Aryan, and hence relates whatever is Latin in the Mexican, the Central or South American, to the German, Englishman and American.

By magnifying our differences, after all but our distinctive family traits, we draw apart. If we stopped to trace our origin we should see that we are not strangers, but brethren—Modern Mexico.

Nuns Are Shrewd Shoppers.

"Most people take it for granted that when women enter a convent they lose all sense of the value of worldly goods," said a member of a dry goods firm in discussing the patronage of religious houses. "As a matter of fact, nothing could be further from the truth, and nuns are recognized everywhere in the trade as shrewd purchasers. Hard buyers, the trade term, might be applied to many of them. Having taken the vow of personal poverty, they are nevertheless as canny as any business men when it comes to a business proposition or an investment of the monies of their order, and it is a well known fact that some of the most far-sighted real estate investments of the United States are made by the superiors of religious houses. Like most feminine customers, nuns change their minds, and we are frequently called upon to take back or exchange goods which have been purchased for habits, veils or household supplies. Some firms make a specialty of religious trade, and separate apartments are fitted up where the sisters can rest, examine the goods and transact business far from the meddling crowd."—New York Press.

It Serves as Bait.

In the lobby of a Denver hotel is a stand presided over by a young woman who sells souvenirs, fancy work, etc., to whoever will buy. On the glass showcase stands a mirror. The young woman seldom looks in the mirror—she has another smaller one she uses. Yesterday a man who had noticed the mirror on the showcase several times asked why it was kept there. "That mirror," replied the young woman, "brings me lots of trade." "It brings you trade? How?" asked the man, surprised. "It attracts the women," was the reply. "They pass through this lobby, and if they haven't much to do, they are attracted by this mirror. A woman will look in a mirror every time she gets a chance. These women see this one and come up here to take peeps at themselves. In many cases I get them interested in my goods and make sales. That little mirror is to me what the anglerworm is to the fisherman."—Denver Post.

One of the Marvels of the Arctic.

"Millions of birds go to the arctic regions to breed," says an explorer. "They get there the finest, rarest food that is to be found in the whole world. The vegetation of the tundra, or great arctic swamp, consists of cranberries, cloudberries and crowberries—hundreds of millions of bushels. This fruit is not ripe till the end of the brief fierce arctic summer of incessant sunshine, but the birds arrive at the summer's beginning—they arrive the first day of the melting of the snows, and they would starve, waiting for the tundra's fruit to ripen, but for a miracle that permits them to eat last year's instead of this year's fruit, for the berries of the tundra are no sooner ripe at a summer's end than the snow covers them, lying for ten months on them in an impenetrable, air tight, frozen mantle of white, and with the next summer, when the snow melts away, there are revealed billions on billions of perfectly fresh berries, firm and cold and sweet, stretching across the breadth of Asia."

McLEANSVILLE ITEMS.

The most interesting of the recent "possum hunt," among those who participated in it were County Superintendent T. R. Foust, Prof. C. D. Cobb and Messrs. James Foust and Thos. Steele, of Alsmance. It was a splendid night for the sport and judging from the number of the little animals they brought back they are professional hunters as well as teachers. Prof. Foust did the stunts of the night by climbing. He could climb up a tree with an agility which a school boy might envy. They succeeded in bagging four fine opossums and each expressed himself as having spent a delightful evening.

Miss Mabel Barrier, of Mt. Pleasant, Chatham county, came over Saturday to teach the free school at this place. School began Monday.

Postmaster Robbed.

G. W. Fouts, postmaster at Riverton, La., nearly lost his life and was robbed of all comfort, according to his letter, which says: "For 20 years I had chronic liver complaint, which led to such a severe case of jaundice that even my finger nails turned yellow; when my doctor prescribed Electric Bitters; which cured me and have kept me well for eleven years." Sure cure for Biliousness, Neuralgia, Weakness and all Stomach, Liver, Kidney and Bladder derangements. A wonderful Tonic. At all drug stores. 50 cents.

Townsend & Co. have a job lot of guaranteed buggies just arrived which they are selling to spot cash buyers at $80, $85, $40 for open buggies and only $10 more for top jobs. Come quick. They won't last long. 46 ft.

New Coats and Furs

The New Coats Are a Most Charming Display

Here now, new and stylish, is every kind of Coat the season calls for. Each offers its own helpful suggestion in choice, and is quite different from any ever shown before.

Long Coats are the favorites, and of these we have the latest designs. Loose, graceful models and fitted effects, in correct materials and shades, plain, neatly tailored or elegantly trimmed. There is variety for every taste. The display is wonderfully pleasing and the values are equally so.

Some of the handsomest, in certain cases, are very low priced. Coats like these, for example: Long Loose Coats of diagonal worsted in mixtures of gray and black, neat collar of gray velvet, strappings and buttons of the material, touches of velvet, novelty pockets.

Coats of black broadcloth, plain collar of velvet, long graceful lapels, cut

Full Showing of New Furs

True, you may not need them just yet, but you'll enjoy seeing this beautiful display of new Furs.

Many are buying them, nevertheless, because they know that better selection can be made while the stock is so great and all the newest Furs are first being shown. There was never a gathering here as attractive as this. The choicest Furs are there, and among them about every new and fashionable kind.

Handsome pieces in Mink, Squirrel and Fox, all the different varieties, shown in single and double tons with muffs to match. There are very stylish and beautiful Gray Squirrel Sets, Muff and Boa, for $11.75 and of a finer quality at $18. Extremely handsome Sets in Mink and Fox at $15 to $30.

There are many little Scarfs and Neck Pieces in the showing that seem just suited for the first cool days. Some are very low priced from $1 up.

The time is certainly extraordinary for choosing from best Furs exactly

Valuable Farming and Timber Land

SATURDAY, NOV. 24, 1906

At 12 o'clock before the Court House door in the City of Greensboro

The farm known as the Judge Dillard farm, containing 247 acres, located 8 miles from Greensboro and 2 miles from the Battle Ground, near good public road known as the Hillsdale road and 20 minutes ride from macadam road. 150 acres in pine, oak, ashe and poplar timber, not less than 4,000 cords, and as fine grazing land as there is in the county; 50 or 60 acres under cultivation; one good tobacco barn, two negro houses, fine well of water. All the cleared land in good state of cultivation and bounded as follows:

Beginning at a hickory on the north bank of Reedy Fork creek in Morehead's line; thence west with the meanderings of said creek to Lambeth's line 144 poles; thence south 144 poles to rock; thence east 20 poles to rock; thence south 140 poles to white oak; thence east 120 poles to a poplar; thence north 117 poles to a white oak and gum; thence north 27 degrees east 20 poles; thence north 21 1-2 degrees east 30 poles; thence north 11 degrees west 18 poles; thence north 6 degrees east 14 poles; thence north 21 degrees east 20 poles to a large white oak on east bank of Horse Pen creek; thence across the creek to its junction with Reedy Fork creek; thence up said creek to the beginning, containing 247 acres of land more or less, as per deed from J. A. Lambeth, Jr., and others to J. H. Dillard, recorded on deed book No. 59, page 382, in Register of Deeds office for Guilford county, and also in deed from R. R. King, Commissioner and Administrator of J. H. Dillard, recorded in book 166, page 660, in the Register of Deeds office for Guilford county, N. C.

Fine Grazing Land

For stock raising or general farming purposes this farm is a most excellent one, besides having on it $2,000 worth of cord wood on the stump. Some poplar and oak saw timber.

This valuable farm will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder in front of the court house door in the city of Greensboro, N. C., Saturday, November 24th, 1906.

RARE COINS FORGED

THE COUNTERFEIT PIECES DO NOT
FOOL THE EXPERTS.Dates Are Changed and Mint Marks
Are Imitated, but There Are Always Little Things That Reveal the Fraud—Even Cent Pieces Altered.

Rare United States coins can't be counterfeited so as to pass muster," said an old coin dealer emphatically. "There is no more chance of die makers being able to make an exact counterpart of a coin than there is to imitate successfully the impression of a man's thumb."

"That there are imitations is true enough, but they are clumsy. Most of them are simple alterations of date. They can be told at a glance by signs as unflattering as the sun."

"While the coins of a series of years may seem at first glance to be all of one exact pattern, yet close observation will reveal distinct differences. No better illustration of this can be shown than the rare cent pieces of 1794."

"Fifty-six distinct varieties of cents were issued in that year, and all of them closely resembled one another. Careful study enables experts to tell them apart. It was in this way that coin experts found that there were so many different dies made for the cent in 1794, for the mint records make no mention of the fact."

"The favorite coin with those who alter dates is the rare 1799 cent, which is worth $200 and more if in unaltered condition. The 1798 cent is the issue that most closely resembles this cent, and this is the coin that is used for alteration. No collector should be taken in by one of these altered specimens, for there were only two varieties of the 1799 cent, and each has marked differences from the coins of the previous year."

"The 1804 dollar is another fine example. That is the rarest American coin. You would naturally suppose that there would be many attempts to counterfeit this dollar, for it is worth from $1,000 up. There has never been a single attempt to counterfeit this famous coin, but a number of coins have been turned out with the date altered."

"The design of the 1804 dollar is the same to all practical purposes as that of the year preceding it and in fact as far back as 1798. The silver dollars of 1798, 1799, 1800, 1801, 1802, 1803 and 1804 are all supposed to be alike, with the exception of the date, and they do look as much alike as two peas to the novice. Yet the die makers each year have left trifling differences that make the variety and the year of issue as clear as daylight."

"In almost every case when attempts have been made to imitate the 1804 date the dollar of 1801 has been used, a specimen of which is only worth a couple of dollars. To all appearances an 1801 dollar is precisely like the 1804 coin, with the trifling difference in date, and thus the person making the alterations seems to think he has nothing to do but simply change the 1 into a 4. Yet the reverse of the 1801 dollar bears little variations that show the year in which it was struck."

"Plausible tales are nearly always told by persons with such altered coins to sell. Not long ago a man came into my place from the far west. Out of a chamois bag which he carried around his neck he took two coins carefully wrapped in tissue paper."

"Tenderly he held the coins in my hand. He was not a coin collector, he said, but had heard that these two pieces were very valuable and had bought them at a low figure."

"One of the coins was supposed to be an 1801 dollar and the other the rare 1804 half dollar, without the arrow points alongside of the date, which ought to have been worth from $75 to $100. They were certainly beauties, both of them, and the old man told their history, which went something like this:

"Back in the early forties a farm seeder, with his family and all his effects in a prairie schooner, came to a halt at a ferry landing on the eastern side of a river in Kansas. The man was at the end of his financial resources, and the only thing in the way of money he had left was a large silver dollar of 1801."

"He persuaded the ferryman to take his outfit across in his flatboat and left with him this dollar, which the pioneer said was a rare one, worth $10 or $12 back in the states, and he made the ferryman promise to hold the coin until he called for it and paid the price of the ferryage."

"The owner of the dollar never called. After keeping the dollar for many years the ferryman died, and his son disposed of it to the present owner, who had picked it up for the bargain price of $200. The ferryman's son, who was a good natured fellow, gave the buyer as good measure the 1801 half dollar, which, he said, was also a rare coin."

"Now, that was a very likely story and ought to sell any coin, but not here in the east. They were both very fine specimens, and they looked good to the eye, but they were both imitations and not worth any more than the metal of which they were made except as curiosities."

"The 1801 dollar was one altered from 1801 which at a glance at the reverse showed, although the date '1801' would have given the clue. As for this last figure was raised very perceptibly higher than the '1801'."

"As for the 1804 half dollar, it bore no arrow points on either side of the date, for the very simple reason that they had been rubbed away. The work had been done very cleverly and thoroughly. One would hardly suspect that it had ever borne arrow heads, for there was no indication left to show this, but the industrious workman had forgotten to rub away the rays behind the eagle on the reverse of the coin."

"There were two varieties of half dollars made in 1833. One, the common variety, had arrow points on either side of the date, while on the reverse rays shot out in all directions at the back of the eagle. The other variety, which is the valuable one, had neither rays nor arrows."

"Attempts have been made to imitate the cent of 1815. No cents were issued in that year, and yet I have seen a dozen specimens bearing the date."

"Now the latter day imitators have taken up the task of adding mint letters to certain coins to make them resemble rare varieties. The accumulation of coins bearing these mint marks is taking a good deal of the attention of collectors nowadays, and the imitators think they have an easy field, but their time is simply wasted, for their productions meet with no better success than the imitation of the earlier coins and can be singled out in a moment."

"The coin most often imitated is the half dollar of 1838, made at New Orleans. There were only twenty of these coined, and each one is worth from $75 to $100. To all appearances this coin is just the same as many others issued at other branch mints during the same year, with the exception of the tiny 'o' beneath the bust."

"From time to time persons have taken an ordinary half dollar of this date and with infinite pains have supplied it with this mint letter. In the majority of cases the work has been done so skillfully that the letter has every appearance of genuineness to the novice. But almost invariably the letter is located in a spot different from that occupied by the 'o' on the genuine coin."

"Even if the imitator took care to place the mint letter in its proper position there are other points of difference in the dies which reveal the fact that the coin has been tampered with."

It All Depended.

The postoffice clerk was not really a stony hearted wretch, but he had had almost every kind of idiot pestering him that day. And now beautiful Miss Sweetman approached him with a becoming blush.

"I want to know," she said, "how long it will be before I get a reply to this letter."

"All depends," he said wearily. "If he's in prison, they'll only let him write once a week, and if it's a long term once a month. If he's dead broke he'll have to wait until he can raise the price of a stamp; if he's ill in bed, possibly he won't like dictating to a third person, and if it's smallpox they won't let him write at all. Then, again, he may have a new girl, and—"

But with a frown of infinite displeasure the beautiful Miss Sweetman flounced out.

"And that is the kind of person," mused the postoffice man, "who writes to the papers to complain of the discourtesy of public servants."

An Old Family Society.

The Buchanan society, as the name denotes, is composed of individuals of the name and clan of Buchanan and is the oldest named society in Scotland. It was instituted in Glasgow so far back as 1725. At a friendly meeting of some of the name of Buchanan held there on March 5 of that year the following proposal was made:

"That the name of Buchanan, being now the most numerous name in the place, and many poor boys of that name, who are found to be of good genius, being lost for want of good education, a fund might be begun and carried on by the name, the interest of which in time might enable some of them to be useful in church and state."

This society has since gone on with almost uninterrupted success. It has attained a position of high importance and is of great practical use.—London Notes and Queries.

An Animal Story For Little FolksHOW THE FROG WON
THE RACE

Everybody knows what a fondness Mr. Frog has for engaging in contests of all kinds with his fellow creatures, so that when he one day met the crane that long legged bird was not surprised to receive a challenge.

"I can get across that pond before you," declared Mr. Frog.

"No you can't," replied Mr. Crane, with a laugh.

"Well, we'll have a race," declared Mr. Frog, "and the first to get on the other side of the pond shall marry the miller's daughter."

"I'LL WAIT FOR HIM."

"I shall win without trouble," cried Mr. Crane, who was thinking how far he could stride with his long legs.

"We shall see," said Mr. Frog.

"Are you ready?" asked Mr. Crane.

"Yes," answered Mr. Frog.

"Go!" cried Mr. Crane, and away they both went into the water.

Mr. Crane strode boldly in and went through the water with long steps, rapidly leaving the shore behind.

Into the water also went Mr. Frog with a big splash.

When Mr. Crane had gone some distance he stopped and looked around to see where Mr. Frog was, but that way creature was not in sight.

"Well, I guess I've left him far behind," said Mr. Crane, with a laugh. "I shall just wait here for him to catch up."

So he waited, and no sign came of Mr. Frog.

But presently he heard a voice calling to him, and when he looked over at the other side of the pond who should Mr. Crane see but Mr. Frog.

Mr. Frog had swum all the way under the surface of the water!

"I told you I would get here first," laughed the frog.—Atlanta Constitution.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

Correspondence of the PATRIOT.

Washington, Nov. 10, 1906.
President Roosevelt has started for Panama aboard the battleship Louisiana and will thus establish a precedent by taking the first trip that a President has ever undertaken outside of the United States during his term of office. He is accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary Latta, of the White House staff, Surgeon General Rixey of the Navy, and some of the White House servants. He was seen off from the Washington navy yard on Thursday afternoon, went down the river on the yacht Mayflower and transferred to the battleship at Wolf Trap Rock in Chesapeake Bay. The departure from the navy yard was quite a social affair. The President being bid good by the French Ambassador and Madame Jusserand, Postmaster General and Mrs. Cortelyou, Commissioner Garfield and a number of the higher officers of the Navy department. The quarters on the Louisiana have been very luxuriously fitted up and the battleship, in common with other warships of the Navy, is equipped with wireless telegraph instruments, that will keep her indirectly in touch with Washington, during the whole of her voyage. The President will make use of his time during the six days sail from here to Colon in preparing his message to Congress. It would be a good chance for a rest, but the President seems to think that work is all the rest he needs so long as he can get a chance to do it uninterrupted.

The party will remain on the battleship three days and during that time will go from Colon to Panama, looking over all the work that has been done on the big ditch. Arrangements have been made to give the President a very cordial welcome, and President Amador, of the Republic of Panama, will be present with the Governors of all seven of his provinces at a great reception to President Roosevelt in the capital. Dispatches from Panama already announce that people from the interior towns are arriving in great numbers, and it will be made a gala occasion.

Announcement has been made from the White House of two more cabinet changes that will involve the shifting of some minor positions in the Federal departments. Attorney General Moody, it has been understood for some time, would go from the Department of Justice, and it is now announced that he would succeed Associate Justice Brown in the Supreme court. Secretary Hitchcock will also resign from the Interior Department, and will be succeeded by James A. Garfield, at present head of the Bureau of Corporations. Secretary Hitchcock will quit the government service altogether, decidedly against the wish of the President, who offered him the Ambassadorship to Paris, in succession to Ambassador McCormick, who is returning to this country. Secretary Hitchcock declined, however, on the plea that he had already served eight years in the department aside from his previous service as minister to St. Petersburg, and was entitled to a rest. There will be a number of other changes in the diplomatic corps, following the retirement of Mr. Meyer from St. Petersburg, to a position in the Cabinet. Lloyd Griscom, now Minister to Brazil, will fill Mr. Meyer's place as Ambassador at St. Petersburg. There has been considerable speculation as to Mr. Griscom's successor in Rio Janeiro, and the most generally accepted choice for the place is Charles Page Bryan, minister to Portugal, who was formerly minister to Brazil before that position was raised to the post of an Embassy. There are some other changes in the Diplomatic corps impending, the most important being that of John Barrett, minister to Bogota, who is now in this country. It is generally understood that he will not return and that Leslie Combs, now minister to Honduras, will be given the Colombian post. There is also an opening for some promising young man as Secretary to the American Mission at Santa Domingo. No appointment has as yet been made to this place. There will also be a vacancy in the secretaryship of the American Mission at Bolivia, and there will be several other changes in secretaryships at the European posts. But no changes have yet been announced in these minor positions, and while they may be decided on during the President's absence, Secretary Root will not make them public until after President Roosevelt's return. To return to Secretary Hitchcock.

His term of service in the Interior department has been one of hard work and little praise since he succeeded Cornelius N. Bliss in that department. There have been more frauds turned up in the Land Office during Secretary Hitchcock's incumbency than under any previous Secretary of the Interior. It has been due perhaps to the fact that land was one of the cheapest things in possession of the United States government, that such a wide field for fraud was allowed to exist. The Oregon land fraud cases have been notorious and have involved hundreds of thousands of acres of government land. There have been swamp land frauds, grazing land frauds, mineral entry and railroad frauds and frauds under almost every other section of the Land Laws that it was possible to conceive. All these have come out during Secretary Hitchcock's administration, and while they have rendered it an unceasing period of hard work and criminal prosecution, it has been something to the credit of the Secretary that they were discovered at all. Possibly his varied and unpleasant experience in office has contributed to make him crabbed. He has been by all odds one of the most unapproachable members of the Cabinet, and personally there are very few men in Washington who have had to do business at the Interior Department, who will view his retirement with any sense of personal loss. But he has certainly been a hard worker and an honest one, and his successor, Mr. Garfield, will find official desks considerably cleared, although there are a number of land fraud prosecutions still holding over.

The most important change in the diplomatic corps that has happened since the death of Sir Julian Paunefote comes with the resignation of the British Ambassador, Sir Henry Mortimer Durand. He has served in this country for a comparatively short time, succeeding Sir Michael Herbert after the latter's death in office. He has made a number of friends in Washington and his departure will be quite generally regretted both socially and officially.

PRIMARY SCHOOL TEACHERS.
A Silent Force Which is Doing a Great Work—Mr. Ireland Makes Some Suggestions.

EDITOR PATRIOT.—Noting the approaching meeting of the primary school teachers of the state, to be held in Salisbury November 22nd and 23rd, I could not help but call attention to the fact that here, silently, like all great forces which amount to much, there are these women working earnestly for the uplifting and training of the minds of our young people. So silently do they come and go that many, as yet, have not taken notice of the work that is being done by this splendid body of teachers. They met in Greensboro last year and it was my pleasure to visit them in one of their sessions and I desire to express my very high appreciation of the splendid work that they are doing. In my judgment no superintendent can afford to allow his primary teacher to go a year without coming in contact with this live wire of the public school system; believing that in doing this that his teacher will reap material benefits from the inspiration drawn on those occasions, and in addition there to will find it helpful in the management of this the most important branch of the public school system. I would that every city school board in the state would provide a fund to pay the expenses of these teachers from every point in the state to where it is held in order to give the primary teachers an opportunity of thus keeping abreast with the times. It is a recognized fact, and is now generally conceded, I believe, that the first years of the child's training are the most influential in shaping its life, and few would deny it now; then the most important grade in all of our public schools is that which comes under the primary department. I wish to commend the work of these women as one of the best that is being done and hope that our superintendent and school boards will not overlook this very important meeting.

OFF TO THE BIG DITCH.

President Shouts a Characteristic Farewell as He Leaves for the Long Sea Voyage to Panama.

Washington, Nov. 8.—"Good-bye, I am going down to see how the ditch is getting along," shouted President Roosevelt as he stood on the deck of the yacht Mayflower at the Washington Navy Yard, today as the vessel was leaving the dock with the President for his Panama trip.

Accompanying the President were Mrs. Roosevelt and her maid, Surgeon General Rixey, of the navy, and M. C. Latham, one of the assistant secretaries at the White House. The Mayflower will take the party to Wolf Trap light at the mouth of the Rappahannock river in Chesapeake bay, where a transfer will be made to the battleship Louisiana, which is to convey the President to and from the Isthmus.

A HEARTY WELCOME.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt arrived at the navy yard shortly before 4 o'clock. A company of marines and a detachment of sailors were drawn up about the wharf and as the presidential carriage arrived a welcome was sounded from the water aboard the ship and from a drummer in the marine ranks. As the band aboard the ship played the Star Spangled Banner and the bugle sounded another welcome the President and Mrs. Roosevelt went aboard the vessel. Here they were met by the Postmaster General and Mrs. Cortelyou, Ambassador Jusserand and Madame Jusserand, who carried a large bunch of flowers for Mrs. Roosevelt, and James R. Garfield, the Commissioner of Corporations. They remained with the President until the order was given to start. When the United States flag was run up on the vessel's gaff, the ship loosed from her mooring and the trip to Panama was begun. As the vessel started President Roosevelt appeared on deck and shouted a good-bye to the crowd which had assembled. As the ship passed the lower end of the navy yard a parting President's salute of 21 guns was fired.

CONVOYED BY CRUISERS.

The Louisiana will be conveyed to and from the Isthmus by the armored cruisers Tennessee and Washington. Aboard the Louisiana is Lieutenant Frank Evans, who will utilize the wireless telegraph apparatus with which the ship is equipped for communicating with the White House at Washington whenever the President desires it. In this way the public will be accurately informed of the movements of the ships. Secretary Loch will give to the press dispatches from the President which may be received from time to time.

The President will spend four days on the Isthmus. He will arrive at Colon Thursday morning, November 15th, where he is to be greeted aboard ship by President Amador, of Panama, and Mrs. Amador, Chairman of the Panama Canal Commission. A considerable portion of that day will be spent at La Boca and Amcon, the train making a slow run across the Isthmus in order to give an opportunity to see the sites and make an examination of the work. At La Boca there is to be an inspection of the present terminals of the old French canal and the Panama Isthmian Canal Company, following which there will be a trip to nearby islands, where the President is to be shown the proposed actual Pacific end of the canal in deep water and its approaches.

WILL SEE ALL THE SIGHTS. In the afternoon there is to be a sight-seeing trip around Ancon Hill. At Ancon the day is to be made a "fiesta" with the town decorated and illuminated. The President and party are to be driven in carriages through the principal streets, accompanied by an escort on horseback. An address will be made by President Amador and a response by President Roosevelt. In the evening the President and Mrs. Roosevelt and others are expected to dine with President and Mrs. Amador at the Presidentia. This probably will be the only time on the Isthmus when the President will leave the jurisdiction of the United States.

The programme for Friday and Saturday contemplates a visit to and inspection of all points of interest on the Isthmus including the Culebra cut, the site of the proposed dam and locks at Gatun and the present proposed terminals of the railroad and canal at Cristobal. Sunday evening the party will board the Louisiana for San Juan, Porto Rico, where the vessel is scheduled to arrive Thursday morning, November 22nd. At San Juan elaborate preparations have been made for the reception of the President. He will remain there one day, leaving Friday, November 23rd, for Washington. When the Louisiana reaches Wolf Trap light the party will be transferred to the Mayflower and proceed to Washington, where the vessel is scheduled to arrive Tuesday evening, November 27th.

Facing a Brighter Future.

EDITOR PATRIOT: In the PATRIOT of November 7th I find an article by Mr. Edward Young Clarke, copied from the Atlanta Constitution, which "Facing a Ministerial Crisis," which grossly misrepresents the condition of the Southern Presbyterian church. Everybody who knows anything about the present condition of the Southern Presbyterian church is obliged to admit that there is a large need for more ministers in that church, but they also know that the church is not facing the inevitable "disintegration" that Mr. Clarke claims is before it. He seems evidently to have appropriated some figures given by President Henry Louis Smith, of Davidson College, in an article in the Presbyterian Standard (Charlotte, N. C.), of October 3rd, and perverted their meaning in such a way as to make the matter appear really worse than it is. Dr. Smith's statement of the Southern Presbyterian church has today 3,136 churches, yet there are only 841 pastors in our whole church. These serve 1,110 churches, leaving 2,026 pastorless churches, two thirds of the whole number. Of this great number half have some sort of regular preaching through a stated supply or an evangelist. Now, Mr. Clarke has entirely overlooked this last sentence quoted from Dr. Smith's article, which shows that there are only 1,013 churches without regular preaching. Moreover he has changed Dr. Smith's words "841 pastors" into the phrase "she has only 841 ministers" which means a far different thing. In the Presbyterian church a minister may sustain a relation to a church as pastor, stated supply, or evangelist. The official statistics of the Southern Presbyterian church as given in the minutes of the General Assembly of 1906 show that the church has today 1,577 ministers in connection. Of these, 841 sustain the relation as pastor, while the remaining 736, with a few exceptions, sustain the relation of stated supply and evangelist. This is very different from Mr. Clarke's statement that the church "has only 841 ministers." The fact is, she has 1,577 ministers. Now then, if it were possible to distribute the 3,136 churches equally among the 1,577 ministers, each would have only two churches to supply. Is there any other denomination in the South that has a sufficient supply of ministers so that if they were distributed among the churches of that denomination they would have only two a piece? It seems, therefore, that the Southern Presbyterian church is in no more danger of "disintegration" than some of her sister churches.

Mr. Clarke says, also, that "conditions instead of improving are rapidly growing worse." A comparison of the official statistics of the Southern Presbyterian church for the past five years will show that the statement is beside the truth. The number of candidates for the ministry reached its lowest ebb in the year 1901; ever since that time there has been a steady increase. In 1901 the church had 286 candidates for the ministry; in 1902, 291; in 1903, 314; in 1904, 315; in 1905, 325; in 1906, 326. Since 1901 there has been an increase of 40 candidates for the ministry. This does not look like "conditions are rapidly growing worse." In 1901, the church had 1,485 ministers; in 1902, 1,501; in 1903, 1,517; in 1904, 1,538; in 1905, 1,557; in 1906, 1,577. This shows an increase of 92 ministers since 1901. Is this evidence that "conditions are rapidly growing worse?" In 1901, the Southern Presbyterian church had 227,991 members; in 1902, 230,555; in 1903, 233,122; in 1904, 235,888; in 1905, 246,769; in 1906, 252,882. Here we find an increase in membership of 24,891 since the year 1901. Certainly this is not "disintegration." In order, therefore, to express the facts in the case we have to reverse Mr. Clarke's statement and make it read, "Conditions instead of growing rapidly worse are showing a steady improvement." One thing is certain, the Southern Presbyterian church will be a living and powerful force in the world long after Mr. Clarke and his newspaper article have "disintegrated."

Mr. Clarke makes much ado over the fact that the Executive Committee of Ministerial Education has issued a call to prayer for an increase in the number of laborers in the Lord's harvest field, but this is nothing more than the church has been doing for several years. It is no new thing for Presbyterians to pray for more soldiers of the cross, and what is more they are going to keep on doing it until the millennium comes. The fact that they are "instant in prayer" for this cause is the secret of the further fact that the God of her ministry has set in, for God is not going to allow any church to disintegrate that prays in such a manner for the success of their branch of his kingdom. To the mind of one of her soldiers this is evidence of the fact that the Southern Presbyterian church is no longer facing the ministerial crisis she once had, but has her face turned toward a brighter future. Of course the victory isn't won yet, and won't be until time shall cease, but God is answering the prayers of this branch of his church and is enabling her to fill up the gaps in her ministerial ranks in such a way as to show that he has not deserted his people.

FORECASTS NEW BUILDING ERA.

United States Army Engineer Says Concrete and Terra Cotta Combined Offers the Best Safeguards Against Fire.

New York, Nov. 11.—Captain John S. Sewell, corps of engineers, United States army, signs an article in the current issue of The Fireproof Magazine, which forecasts a new era in fireproof building. Capt. Sewell's high rank as an expert makes the opinions he expresses in this article the most important contribution yet brought out in the vigorous discussion of construction problems now going on among architects and builders all over the country.

"In the matter of fireproof construction," Capt. Sewell says, "reinforced concrete should be treated as a structural material, superior in many respects to steel, but one demanding protection from fire. It seems to me that the logical line of development is reinforced concrete, covered with terra cotta. I see no reason why the terra cotta should not be so developed that it would take the place of a great deal of the wooden centering which forms such a serious item of expense in the execution of reinforced concrete."

Terra cotta exposed to fire is either totally destroyed from expansion stresses or else it is entirely undamaged. We should endeavor to so install the terra cotta that expansion stresses may be taken up without breaking. The fire cannot destroy any molecular damage, so that if it escapes damage from expansion and contraction, it will be absolutely uninjured. The relatively small thickness terra cotta would prevent concrete on the inside from becoming heated enough to damage it.

"When the economy of doing away with a lot of the wooden centering is considered, it seems to me that this combination of reinforced concrete and terra cotta offers a prospect of improvement in fire-resisting construction, besides a very appreciable economy."

Capt. Sewell has already carried his ideas into practice in the construction of the building for the war college at Washington.

Bryan Reviews Election.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 9.—Commenting on the results of Tuesday's election William J. Bryan tonight issued a statement, in part as follows:

"The election of 1906 indicates a trend in favor of the Democratic party. It proves that the Democratic party is growing stronger as Republican policies are developed. In New York the party has won a signal victory in spite of the tremendous efforts put forth in behalf of the administration. The Republicans had all the money they wanted. They had the support of all the great corporations and at the close they had whatever influence the administration could lend. The fact that the Democrats elected every state officer excepting the Governor shows that in the Empire state the Republican party has been repudiated. The defeat of Mr. Hearst, the Democratic and Independence League candidate for Governor, while a great disappointment to his friends, and to the party, is explained by facts which rob Mr. Hughes' victory of both glory and political significance. Mr. McCarren, whom Mr. Hearst denounced as a boss, threw his influence to Hughes and out down Mr. Hearst's vote in Brooklyn. Mayor McClellan, the legality of whose election Mr. Hearst had denied, used his influence for Mr. Hughes and out down the Hearst vote in New York. Mr. Jerome, the prosecuting attorney of New York, who had also been attacked by Mr. Hearst, supported the Republican ticket and his influence was felt in Greater New York. Mr. Croker, during the last days of the campaign made an attack upon Mr. Hearst which doubtless weakened the Democratic candidate among the Tammanyites. Mr. Murphy, the head of Tammany, while supporting the ticket, could not put much enthusiasm into the campaign owing to the personal controversy which he had had with Mr. Hearst. It is evident, therefore, that Mr. Hughes owes his victory not to Republican votes, but to Democratic votes brought to him by the very men whom he and the Republican leaders have been denouncing for years."

SMALL CREDIT TO PRESIDENT. "The President cannot find very much cause for rejoicing in the New York elections. To have his own state go Democratic cannot be gratifying to him, and to find that his personal attack upon Mr. Hearst had little influence on the result compared with the influence exerted by Mr. McCarren, Murphy and Croker, will not gladden his Thanksgiving day. The President's personal attack on Mr. Hearst was in bad taste, to say the least."

"Mr. Hearst is of course disappointed, and yet when all the facts are known he has much to congratulate himself upon. He made a tremendous fight against odds and while he himself failed of election his heroic struggle brought victory to the rest of the ticket. His personal enemies have contributed to his defeat, but the triumph of his ideas still leaves him in a position to continue the fight for the protection of the public against encroachments of predatory wealth."

"If the trend toward Democracy continues as strong for the next two years as it has been for the last two years New York can be counted among the Democratic states in 1908, and Mr. Hearst is in a position to do valiant work in securing a national triumph for progressive Democracy."

"The Republicans have an effective campaign cry in standing by the President. While the record showed that the Democrats in the Senate and House stood by the President better than the Republicans, the admirers of the President very naturally gave weight to his appeal for a Republican Congress, although in making the appeal the President put a personal victory above the reforms which he has been advocating. Two years from now that appeal will not be of avail, for the President will not be in office after March 4, 1908. Even if he were a candidate, which no friend of his would assume after not repeated declarations that he would have to confront the third term issue, and who can say that the issue alone would not lose the President enough votes to make his race hopeless?"

Talmage Sermon

By Rev.
Frank De Witt Talmage, D. D.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 11.—The influence from the Scriptural statement that the human race originally bore the divine image are impressively pointed out by the preacher in this sermon, from the text Genesis 1, 27, "So God created man in his own image."

The first leaf of the world's history had been turned. The stupendous task of creation approached completion, and surveyed it and pronounced it very good. The illuminating fires had been kindled, and the command had gone forth, "Let there be light, and there was light." The heavens were hung with tapestries of blue, and the white clouds of the day were rimmed with gold and the black curtains of the night basked. Every star was gleaming. "And God saw the light that it was good, and God divided the light from the darkness, and God called the light day, and the darkness he called night. And the evening and the morning were the first day."

That the dry land might be separated from the deep seas the waters were driven back until they crunched and gurgled and fawned at the foot of the mountains. The great hollows were scooped out of the ocean beds and tumbled into heaps. The rivers were turned loose and allowed to cut their way through the valleys and squirm among the hills and push on and on in their serpentine windings until they were lost in the great bosom of the seas. Then Mount Shasta arose and stood sentinel over the Pacific. The Matterhorn was detailed to keep its eyes upon the Mediterranean, and Mount Washington was stationed to watch the Atlantic. Then the volcanoes had their hemorrhages and breathings of fire and vomited in their awful agonies.

Then Flora rambled forth to cover up the ghastly wounds of a suffering world, with her bandages of green and yellow and white. She planted the crocuses at the foot of the snow bank, and covered the hillsides with forests, and scattered her seeds far and wide in the valleys. Then, chasing the shadows from under the trees, she sprang from the lowlands and climbed the lofty cliffs, clutching this crevasse and that crag, balancing here and nestling there, until at last the rocks, like Jacob's favorite son, stood bedecked in garments of many colors. The garden of Eden was blooming as the rose. The white lily and the red rose and the blue forget-me-not, as high priestesses before the altars of the mountains, were swinging their incense of praise. And the earth brought forth grass and herb, yielding seed after its kind, and the tree yielding fruit whose seed was in itself after its kind, and God saw that it was good. And the evening and the morning were the third day.

Then God reached forth his hand and touched the waters, and the mighty leviathans of the deep began to move. The goldfish swam among the entangled thickets of kelp. The speckled trout leaped from the eddy. The wonderful aquariums of the seas had their myriads of inhabitants. Then God touched the land, and the woods were tumbled into a great menagerie, and the valleys became a great pasture field, filled with browsing herds. Then he touched the air, and the heavens were filled with vibrating wings and made melodious with songs of the prima dominas of the skies. And God saw that all the works of his hand were good. And the evening and the morning were the fifth day.

In His Own Image.

Everywhere we turn we see the blessing of God's creation. No grass could be greener, no sky could be bluer, no songs could be sweeter. All the seas and the lands and the skies were filled with glories. Thus all things were ready for man's advent. The curtain of the world's drama was lifted for the chief actors about to perform their parts. Two mighty thrones of power were set forth, upon which were to sit the man who were created only a little lower than the angels. So on the sixth day "God created man in his own image, male and female created he them." And God blessed them. And God said unto them, Be fruitful and multiply and replenish the earth and subdue it, and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that moveth upon the earth. And God saw everything that he had made, and, behold, it was very good. And the evening and the morning were the sixth day.

Now, what does the word "image" in the great climax of God's creation mean? When God says, "I have made man in my own image," does it mean, as a great author suggests, that God decided to say that he was only "a magnified man?" "Oh, no," you answer, "that is not the meaning of that passage." The catechism tells us that God is a spirit, infinite, eternal and unchangeable. The idea of worshipping God as a physical body is a materialism little different from that of the savage. If we do this, we can bow before any painted idol just as the heathens have their hideous painted images, before which they kneel. That is true, my friend; that is absolutely true. If we are going to worship God simply as a physical being, we are in exactly the same position as some of the Asiatic worshippers, who used to bring food every night and lay it upon the altar of their idol for their god to eat.

Then because the rats in the night came and stole the food they thought their god ate it. Furthermore, they would not believe their idol did not eat this food until a northern conqueror lifted his battle-axe and smote the idol and broke it and pointed to the rats scurrying out of its ruins as they fled from a sinking ship. Thus when we say, "God made man after his own image," we mean, "Man was created after the spirit of God." We are all ready to grant that. One little drop of water is like unto all the great waters of the mighty deep. Thus, as an infinitesimal drop of water, man was created like unto the infinite spirit of God. Now, let us study for a little while in what sense man was created in the image of God.

The first and noble quality which overwhelms the students of eschatology is the fact that man is an immortal being. Though we may open the Bible and write up the family records and say my father was born Jan. 7, 1832, we have no right to say that this world on a certain hour of a certain day; but, once born, that child will never die. He may die to our sight, but he is not really dead, but is translated to another life. He will never die. He will live on, as the monarch of a European throne lives on. No sooner did Queen Victoria of England breathe her last than the Prince of Wales became king. Aye, man shall live on longer than that. He will live on through the centuries and the millenniums and the ages. He will live on until the constellations of the heavens shall be snuffed out. He will live on until the very rocks under our feet crumble into dust with age and the mountains above us are incinerated and scattered to the four corners of space. Still man will live on. He will live forever and ever. He will never die. When God created man he made him immortal, as he is immortal.

A Wonderful Fact.

This immortality of man is the most wonderful fact to me about man, for when I try to fully grasp what that one word "immortality" means I feel as though mighty mountain ranges were towering one above another into endless space. When I try to conceive that man, with all his powers of love and hate, joy and suffering, will live on and on forever, then I say, "Now I realize why the salvation of man was so important that Christ came here to suffer and die to achieve it." Immortality! Oh, what a word! As a bird it can fly swifter than the light, yet its wings never tire. Those wings will continue to fly on forever and ever. "The wandering Jew" that Eugene Sue pictures was condemned on account of a past sin to live on until he outlived all his generation. He lived on, suffering the agonies of remorse, until he begged God to let him die. But man does not live on as did the great character of the French novelist. If man sins and is condemned for his sins, he must suffer an eternal punishment. He may plead with God to let him die, as the wounded soldier sometimes pleads with his comrades to shoot him to end his agony, but man by his inherent nature can never die. Man is immortal. Man will live on and on forever.

To prove to you that man is immortal we do not have to turn the leaves of the Bible alone. We find that this infinite truth is born in every human heart. We wander among the tombs of the ancient Greeks, and what do we find? A piece of coin placed in the mouth of the dead to pay their way over the river Styx, for the ferryman of the river of Death was supposed to be paid like every other ferryman. We go among the ancient Arabs, and what do we find? The mourners about this corpse are not saying, "He is dead," but "He is alive." We pass to the inhabitants of the islands of the seas, and to the Aztecs of ancient Mexico, and to the old mound builders of America, and everywhere we find the universal belief that the grave does not end all. Now, my friends, do you believe that this universal belief of the human race in the immortality of man is a mere superstition? Listen to these words of Henry Ward Beecher: I would have each one of them burn itself into your soul: "I never saw a man who did not believe in the immortality of love when following the body of a loved one to the grave. I have seen men under other circumstances that did not believe in it, but I never saw a man who, when he stood looking upon the form of one that he really loved stretched out for burial, did not revolt from saying: 'It has all come to that. The hours of sweet companionship, the wondrous interlarding of congenial souls, the joys, the hopes, the trusts, the unutterable yearnings—there they all lie! No man can stand and look in a coffin upon the body of a fellow creature and remember the flaming intelligence, the blossoming love, the whole range of divine faculties, which so lately animated that cold clay, and say, 'These have all collapsed and gone.' No person can witness the last sad ceremonials which are performed over the remains of a human being, the sealing down of the unopenable lid, the following of the rumbling procession to the place of burial, the letting of the dust down into the dust, the falling of the earth upon the hollow coffin, with those sounds which are worse than thunder, and the placing of the green sod over the grave—no person, unless he be a beast, can witness these things and then turn away and say, 'I have buried my wife; I have buried my child; I have buried my sister, my brother, my love.' No, no. No man can say that. Deep down in every heart there is a divine truth calling which cannot be stifled." At the brink of the grave, above all places, we know it. Man, like God, is immortal. Sons may rise and set, but man shall live. Stars may flicker and go out, but man shall live.

But man is made after the image of God in another respect. The great Creator of the universe has made man a ruler and a creator also. In his own sphere man is like a king upon his throne. He is a free agent. He can rule his own domain as he wills. He can do right or do wrong. He can govern well or govern badly. He can build or he can destroy. In a figurative sense, no one can say him nay. Let me try to illustrate my thought by some of the ordinary happenings of everyday life.

Man is a ruler in a material sense. You cannot think of a king without a material kingdom. Man, the ruler, has his material throne. God gave him dominion over the fish of the sea, over the fowls of the air and over every living thing. Literally, has not this conception been fulfilled? Has not man become master of all that flies in the air, and swims in the sea, and walks upon the land? Aye, has not man learned how to make the very elements fulfill his purposes? The mammal is stronger, but man is his king. The tiger is swifter, the fox shrewder, the hawk keener eyed; the eagle, with flap of wing, mounts and disappears into the blue abyss above, but man is king. The mighty limbed African lion, with wild roar, makes the forest echo and all the inhabitants of the jungle crouch and tremble. But the lion retreats before the advance of man, for man is king.

Not only is man a ruler of the beasts of the fields and the fowls of the air and the fish of the seas, but man has learned how to tame the elements and make them his servants. Franklin went forth as a cowboy upon the western prairie and, sending his steel wire into the heavens, lassoed electricity, which Morse trained for a message carrier. George Stephenson harnessed steam into black traces and made the iron locomotive take the bit. Daguerre has made the sun print our pictures. Robert Fulton pointed the ship's prow into the teeth of the northeast wind. Thomas Edison has turned midnight into midnoon. Yes, man, in a material sense, is king. As the psalmist sang of the great Jehovah: "He covereth himself with light as with a garment. He layeth the beams of his chambers in the waters. He maketh the clouds his chariots. He walketh upon the wings of the wind."

Not only is man a ruler in a material sense; he is also a king in a personal sense. He has absolute control over his own actions. He is a free agent. God endowed him with this freedom, warning him of the consequences of using it to do wrong. Yet how have men abused it! It is as when a boy leaves his father's house and goes out into the world. His father might keep him at home under parental restraint, but that would not be the way to make a man of him. He must go out and learn to resist temptation. Sometimes what are the consequences of yielding. So God left man free, and the first use he made of his freedom was to disobey. God says to him: "Man, you are a free agent. You can do as you will. I have made thee ruler over the beasts of the fields and over the birds of the air and the fish of the sea and also over your own actions. You are made after my image. You are an independent being in your own domain or sphere. You are independent as long as you live on earth, but do not forget that there is a day of judgment."

A Free Agent.

Oh, it is an awful fact for a man to be a free agent. It is an awful responsibility for man to be able to do as he would and that the higher power does not interfere to stop him from doing wrong. The other day I was talking to one of the ministers of the west. During our conversation he told me that years ago he had broken down with nervous prostration. For nearly five years he had suffered the tortures of an inferno. All night long he would have strange apparitions come to him. "And one evening," he said, "I was going home. It was winter. The river, along the banks of which I was walking, was full of ice. And I remember how I looked at those towering waters and said: 'There is peace in that water; there is peace from these troubling dreams.' Then he said: 'No sooner did I say this than my very hair stood up in horror. My God! I said, 'am I going to be untrue to my better self? Am I going to drown myself in yonder river and leave my wife and children to battle with the world alone? I knew that only one step more and I would have been helpless amid yonder merciless ice and flowing waters.' As that man had the power to throw himself into that river, so we have the power to destroy ourselves morally, physically and spiritually if we will. God made us all free agents. In our own domain we are kings. We can leap off the precipice of sin if we will. God has made us in his own image. We are born free agents and can do as we choose, but for what we do we must give account to God.

Not Without Guidance.

But, though God has made us free agents, he has not left us without guidance. He has put within each one of us a moral and a spiritual compass. This moral and spiritual compass is called conscience. It tells us what we ought to do. It distinguishes for us the difference between wrong and right. And, like every other compass, it would keep us off the rocks of evil and guide us into channels of justice and purity and truth. God puts within each one of us a moral and spiritual compass which shows us when we do wrong, for we are made after God's image. Therefore God has given to us the means to be just and true and good, as he is just and pure and true and good.

But, alas, alas! Instead of following the leadings of our conscience we have wandered off into the paths of sin. We have done what our conscience has warned us not to do. Today our conscience is pleading with us to do right, as a loving mother would plead with a wayward child. It is taking us by the hand and saying: "Won't you give up your sins? Won't you try to undo the wrongs you have done others? Won't you follow the leadings of Jesus Christ?" That conscience of ours will never stop its pleadings with us to do right. It has, too, the power to punish. It is said that when Professor Webster of Harvard college was awaiting his trial for killing a brother professor he called into his cell one day the warden of the jail and said: "Cannot you stop the other prisoners from insulting me? Every little while one of them keeps calling, 'Webster, you are a murderer. You are a bloody man.' The warden made an investigation. He said, 'I will stop it.' But he could not stop it, for the words which Webster heard came not from the other prisoners' cells, but were spoken by his own conscience. So all about us we hear the words of our conscience pleading with us to avoid evil and repent of our sin. Our conscience finds a voice in the street flaggards and the walls and the bedposts and the chairs, which is calling to us, as it did to Professor Webster in the Boston jail, saying: 'You are a sinner. You must repent and renounce your sin. You must come to Christ.' We are made in God's image. God has put conscience within us for a purpose. We should obey it, for we can never be truly happy until we are pure and true and good and just, as God is pure and true and good and just. Are you ready today to obey the pleadings of your conscience?"

Not only did God create man with a conscience; he also made man capable in his pure state of enjoying the blessing of his presence. He seems to come to man and say: "Man, if thou wilt only become pure, as I am pure, I will take thee some day to myself. I will receive you into heaven, where there are joys forevermore." There is evil in the world; do not yield to it. And in his tenderest tones he encourages us with the promise, "He that overcometh shall inherit all things, and I will be his God, and he shall be my son." We are made after his image.

The Greatest Love.

You remember how tenderly Jesus impressed this idea on his disciples. He told them that the union between his nature and that of his people was as close as that of the vine and its branches. And again he returned to the thought in that last solemn hour of his parting before he suffered. Christ is about to leave his disciples. The shadows of the crucifixion are falling over him. He looks on the men who had sat at his feet so often in the past and speaks these beautiful words: "Greater love hath no man than this—that a man lay down his life for his friends. Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you. Henceforth I call you not servants, for the servant knoweth not what his Lord doeth, but I have called you friends, for all things that I have heard of my Father I have made known to you." Cannot you, my brother, interpret these sentences in the language of your own life? You go and hire a servant in your kitchen. She may be very good and faithful, but she is not your friend. She cooks your meals, she cleans your room, but she does not enter the holy of holies of your heart. You do not tell her your secrets. You do not let her become part of your most sacred joys. But it is so different with your intimate friends. It is different with the relationship which exists between a father and a son or a husband and a wife. In that holy relationship we live in the closest union. We share each other's sorrows. We live in each other's joys. We go hand in hand and heart in heart. So God says: "If you only obey me and become pure, as I would have you pure, together we shall live in holy fellowship. We shall be friends. We shall dwell together as friends forever and ever and ever. We are made in the same image."

Now, my friends, are we ready to obey God's will and become like unto himself through the redemption and the blood of Jesus Christ? We have been talking about man as God first created him in his purity and simplicity. But sin has come into the world, and so malformed us that we are far from perfect. The divine image is soiled and incriminated with the mire of sin. As we say of a man who has yielded to the power of drink that his mother would scarcely recognize in the sullen, blotched visage the face of the child she cherished in infancy, so we do not see God's image in the sinful man; but, as Paul said to the people whom he had led to Christ, "Such were some of you, but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified, but ye are justified." And he says, too, that they who behold "as in a mirror the glory of the Lord are changed into the same image," so the image that is overlaid or lost is restored or brought to light by Christ.

Christ says, "Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you." That means, "You shall again be stamped in my image if you will accept my atonement and my love and sacrifice." Will you do it? Will you today throw yourself upon his mercy and become pure, as he is pure, and dwell with him on earth and dwell with him forever and ever? Jesus said, "I am the way." Will you take that way to become like unto himself and dwell with him in heaven as his friend throughout eternity? The opportunity is yours if you will accept him, for God will recreate you in his own spiritual image. "So God created man in his own image."

In the mayor's court later in the week they were fined a penny and costs each for disturbing the peace and dignity of the city.

First Reformed Church of Greensboro to be Dedicated Sunday.

The new Reformed church at the corner of West Lee and Spring streets will be dedicated next Sunday, Nov. 18. The church was organized a little more than three years ago with seventeen members. Since that time the membership has increased to about fifty. A lot was bought costing $1,435 and a nice brick church has been erected costing about $9,000.

The following is a program of next Sunday's services:

10 A. M.—Sunday School Addresses.

(1) "The Sunday School as a Field for Training," Rev. J. C. Clapp, D. D.; (2) "Every Christian in the Sunday School," Rev. J. C. Leonard, D. D.

11 A. M.—(1) Sermon, Rev. Geo. A. Snyder, D. D., Newton, N. C.; (2) Celebration of Lord's Supper.

7:45 P. M.—Sermon, Rev. J. C. Leonard, D. D., Lexington, N. C.

The week following the dedication services the fall revival services will be held. Rev. J. D. Andrew will do the preaching.

The public most cordially invited to all these services.

REV. SHUFORD PEELER, Pastor.

Mr. Holt's Assailant to Bang.

In Alamance Superior court last week Henry Walker, the colored assailant of Mr. L. Banks Holt, was tried on a charge of burglary and convicted, whereupon Judge Moore imposed the death penalty, fixing December 6th as the date of execution. Solicitor Brooks conducted the prosecution, while Mr. J. S. Cook appeared by direction of the court for the defendant. Walker's guilt was clearly established and he will pay the penalty for one of the foulest crimes ever attempted in our neighboring county.

Fannie Turner, a colored servant who it is believed furnished Walker a key to Mr. Holt's residence the night of the assault, will probably be tried at the next term of court as an accessory before the fact.

Mr. Holt's condition is regarded as favorable and he will be able to sit up in a few days unless unexpected complications develop. That the negro who sought his life was tried by due process of law is really creditable to the people of Graham. Their forbearance was the source of favorable comment on the part of Judge Moore in passing sentence.

George Wilson, a dangerous Caswell county negro, is lying at St. Leo's hospital with a bullet in his back fired by Policeman Skenes last Friday afternoon. Skenes was called to arrest Wilson for drunkenness and disorderly conduct in the presence of some white women and in a scuffle the negro succeeded in wresting the officer's club from the latter's grasp. After recovering the club the officer attempted to handcuff his prisoner, who broke away. A moment later the negro fell with a bullet in his back. Friday night some one tried to kill the officer while he was in his own yard. Suspicion points to friends of Wilson.

This weather is just a slight foretaste of what is to come later. Better get ready. Thacker & Brockmann can furnish warm underwear for men, women and children. "Our Church Record," organ of the North Carolina M. P. Conference, appeared in an enlarged form last week. The paper is now printed on a modern two-revolution Whitlock press, just installed, and presents a pleasing typographical appearance. It is ably edited by our friend and fellow citizen, Rev. J. F. McCulloch, who is to be congratulated on the high standard of the paper in every particular.

Mr. Birdie C. Fogleman and Miss Lillie Glass were married Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Fogleman, four miles southeast of the city. Squire D. H. Collins, of this city, officiating. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel M. Glass who live in the same neighborhood. It was a runaway affair on account of objections of the bride's parents.

Reliability, Absolute, Definite and Recognized.

Speaking of the several things necessary in bringing about a large and lasting success in retail merchandising the editor of the Merchants' Journal says:

"Progressiveness is one of them, publicity is another, courtesy in the treatment of customers a third, proper display of goods a fourth, and so on, but at the very top of the list, and without this none of the others are of permanent use, is absolute, definite and recognized reliability."

"That is above all else what we have been doing in this store, building up a reputation for 'absolute, definite and recognized reliability.' We want you to feel that you can depend implicitly on what is told you here, and we insist that you return anything you may possibly buy here that does not turn out to be in every particular what it should be and allow us to make it right. When we guarantee an article it means something, and when customers 'want the money back,' they get it without any argument or unpleasantness."

We wish to thank you for the biggest October business we have ever had and invite you to come again and keep on coming.
