to a collision with another vehicle.

and was the guest of Miss Wharton,
was painfully, though not seriously, injured. She was able to return home
the following day. The other members of the party escaped injury beyond a few slight bruises.

SPIRIT OF AMERICANISM.

Judge Boyd Says Highest Type is Found in North Carolina—The Prohibition Law.

In charging the grand jury in the United States District court in Charlotte yesterday, Judge Boyd spoke of the high type of Americanism that abounds in this state and referred incidentally to the recent prohibition election. In speaking of the national spirit to be found here, Judge Boyd said:

"The finest type of Americanism is in North Carolina, for you have the smallest proportion of foreign population, and if ever such a time of testing comes, you will be the first to defend your country, if she is ever faced with destruction.

"No matter that we once fought on this soil one of the bloodiest wars ever known; no matter if brother drew sword against brother; little matter if we fell out and fought—as far as this American spirit and American blood is concerned, it was American blood on both sides, and we are all brothers again and the true American reigns within us, and if there is ever a call made upon us for a defence of our country, this same Americanism will be the first to respond to the call and show that loyalty which has always characterized it everywhere.

"But the true American citizen owes more to his country than to take care of himself and family—he has a duty to his country, and to his community; he should be ready to help the community in which he lives, to scatter these sentiments of intelligent facing of questions, and his duty to his government should be fulfilled by doing all the good he can to his community."

Referring to the adoption of prohibition by the people of the state, Judge Boyd said:

"This is perhaps the last fruit year,
at least for some time to come when you who have an abundance of fruit can manufacture this into brandy. The restrictions thrown around the manufacture of brandy are not as tight as those in the case of liquor, but I would advise those who will make brandy
this fall, before the law becomes effective, that they are acting in a legal manner, if they have properly paid their tax, and I would impress upon such that they are careful to obey the laws. But the venture, where temptation to disobey the law is usually great,
may be dangerous in the end, and as good citizens I would admonish you that you warn your neighbor that he be careful in this matter if he is engaged in the making of brandy."

Judge Boyd referred to the decrease in the existence of the stillhouse,
"where men of idle habits were accustomed to gather." "Woe is brought to any community that has had such things to deal with, and this former condition is largely responsible for the present new conditions. This state has taken a hand in the matter, and if this court has had anything to do with this condition it is a matter for congratula-tion."

MR. FULLER NOMINATED.

Democrats Name Durham Lawyer to Succeed Solicitor Brooks.

The judicial convention that assembled in Durham Monday afternoon to nominate a successor to Solicitor A. L.
Brooks was one of the most remarkable political conventions in the history of North Carolina. After remaining in session 34 hours, with two brief inter-missions for meals, the nomination went to Mr. Jones Fuller, of Durham, and the convention adjourned about 2 o'clock this morning. It required 576 ballots to make the nomination.

The other candidates for the nomination were Messrs. F. P. Hobgood, Jr., of Greensboro, and S. M. Gattis, of Hillsboro. The three candidates went into the convention with their strength pretty evenly divided, Mr. Hobgood having a slight lead.

The nomination of Mr. Fuller was made possible by a division of Guilford's 58 votes between Messrs. Fuller and Gattis, each receiving half of the county's strength. The vote on the last and deciding ballot stood: Fuller, 101.08; Gattis, 67.50; Hobgood, 31.47.

The convention was attended by about 50 Greensboro Democrats, the majority of whom remained throughout the entire proceedings. The Guilford delegation returned on the early train this morning.

The nominee of the convention is a member of the Durham bar and a young lawyer of splendid attainments.
He has represented Durham county in the legislature and has succeeded in building up a good law practice. His friends predict for him a brilliant career as solicitor.

COUNTY SCHOOL BOARD.

Monthly Meeting Held Saturday—Two Appropriations Made—New Committeemen.

The June meeting of the Guilford county board of education was held in the court house Saturday, all the members of the board being present.

An appropriation was made to add another room to the Bessemer school building, the board to defray one-half the cost, not to exceed $150, the remaining expense to be borne by the district.

A report of the completion of the new colored school house at Collins Grove, in Friendship township, was received. All the bills for the construction of the building were submitted to the board, found correct and approved.

An appropriation of $60 was made to the institute for colored teachers to be held at the Agricultural and Mechanical College, in this city. The teachers who expect to teach in the colored schools of Guilford next term will be required to attend this institute at least two weeks. In making this appropriation the school board saves the larger expense that would be incurred in holding an institute for the colored teachers of the county.

John A. Grooms was appointed a committeeman for the Grooms special tax district.

John Wright was appointed a committeeman for the Oak Hill school, in High Point township, to succeed
Jacob Newton, resigned.

The question of a final settlement with Mr. John J. Nelson, the former clerk of the Superior court, was not discussed at this meeting, but is expected to come up at a special meeting next week. In this connection it should be said that Mr. Nelson is as anxious as any member of the school board, or any one else, for that matter, to make a complete and final settlement.

At the July meeting of the board arrangements will be made for holding the county teachers' institute. It is thought the institute will be held during August. It will be conducted by County Superintendent Foust and an attractive program will be arranged.

Meeting of the Eastern Star.

The annual meeting of the North Carolina Grand Chapter of the order of the Eastern Star, the woman's branch of Masonry, is in session in Asheville, the meeting opening yesterday and continuing through today.
The representatives from Greensboro are: Mrs. J. M. Baley, worthy matron;
Mrs. J. C. Pierce, worthy patron; Mrs.
L. M. Clymer, associate matron; Miss Vallie Sanders, fraternal corresponding secretary, and Mr. L. M. Clymer, secretary of the grand chapter.

The report of Grand Secretary Clymer shows that remarkable progress has been made by the order in the state during the past year. There are now forty-one chapters in the state, an increase of nineteen over the preceding year. The membership has been more than doubled during the year, there now being a membership of more than 1,000.

Firemen to Hold Memorial Services.

The annual memorial services of the Greensboro fire department will be held Sunday. The members of the department will meet at 10 o'clock in the hall of the Steamer Company, where short talks will be made by speakers selected from each of the five companies. Following this service, which will last for half an hour, the members of the department will go in a body to the First Presbyterian church, where the annual memorial address will be delivered by Rev. Melton Clark.

During the past year only one member of the department has died, he being Mr. G. W. Malcom.

Flagman's Foot Amputated.

Mr. J. E. Edwards, a Southern Railway flagman running on a freight train between Mt. Airy and Sanford, was the victim of a serious accident at Summerfield Saturday. While engaged in coupling cars, his right foot was caught between the drawheads and mashed so badly that it had to be amputated. The wounded man was brought to Greensboro and carried to St. Leo's hospital, where the operation was performed by Dr. E. R. Michaux and Dr. A. R. Wilson.

Mr. Edwards is 22 years of age and makes his home in Mt. Airy. He is married.

CONGRESSIONAL CONVENTION.

Brooks Has More Than Sufficient Number of Votes to Give Him Nomination on First Ballot.

The Democratic congressional convention will meet in this city this afternoon at 3 o'clock and name Mr. A.
L. Brooks as the candidate for Congress from the Fifth district, Mr.
Brooks having received more than a sufficient number of instructed votes to give him the nomination on the first ballot. The convention will be called to order by Mr. C. T. Willson, of Roxboro, chairman of the district
executive committee.

In addition to naming a candidate for Congress, the convention will nominate a presidential elector, name a delegate and an alternate to the national convention and transact any other business that may properly come before the body.

The last counties in the district to hold conventions were Stokes and Surry, these counties giving Mr. Brooks more than the required number of votes to nominate him. He received 20.73 votes in Surry and 7.90 in Stokes.
The result of the campaign is highly gratifying to Mr. Brooks and his friends. There has never been any reasonable doubt that he would receive the nomination, and for several weeks it has been apparent that he would get it on the first ballot.

Mr. J. C. Buxton, of Winston-Salem;
Mr. R. D. Reid, of Wentworth; Gen.
B. S. Royster, of Oxford, and Prof. J.
Allen Holt, each of whom has some support for the congressional nomination, arrived in the city last night and stopped at the McAdoo hotel, where they were in conference.

Mr. Buxton announced yesterday morning that, since Mr. Brooks had the nomination on the first ballot, he would not permit his name to be placed before the convention, but later he changed his mind and joined the caucus of the allied forces against Brooks. It is not apparent what these gentlemen hope to gain by continuing the fight on Mr. Brooks and carrying it into the convention.

Change in Lumber Business.

Mr. H. J. Thurman has disposed of his interest in the J. S. Moore and Thurman Company, wholesale dealers in pine and hardwood lumber, and in the future the business will be operated under the name of J. S. Moore & Co., the original style of the firm. The business will be under the personal management of Mr. J. S. Moore, and the company will carry on the same kind of business it operated before Mr.
Thurman's connection with the firm.
Mr. Thurman has formed the H. J.
Thurman Lumber Company, of Greensboro, and will handle dimension hardwood lumber, which line is his specialty.

New Monuments at the Battle Ground.

Inability to secure competent men for the work necessitated the unvelling, at the last Fourth of July celebration at Guilford Battle Ground, of an unsatisfactory shaft to the cavalry arm of the service that fought at Guilford Court House. However, additional dressed stones sufficient to make a handsome shaft over 30 feet high are on the ground, and work is progressing in a very satisfactory manner. Work on the pedestal for the beautiful statue of Clio is also progressing and will be completed in time for the annual celebration next month.

Orphanage Trustees Meet.

The board of trustees of the Christian orphanage, which is located at Elon College, held a meeting at that place Friday. The trustees audited the books of the institution and inspected the buildings, finding everything in first-class shape. The orphanage has been in operation a year and a half and is caring for 25 children. Rev. J. L. Foster, a well known minister of the Christian church, is superintendent of the institution. Mr. L. M. Clymer, of this city, is a member of the board of trustees.

Dr. Hobbs and Dr. Joyner.

The trustees of the University of North Carolina, during the commencement exercises of that institution last week, honored two distinguished citizens of Guilford county in conferring the degree of L. L. D. on President L.
L. Hobbs, of Guilford College, and Prof. J. Y. Joyner, state superintendent of public instruction. The friends of the two gentlemen appreciate the well deserved distinction that has been bestowed upon them by the state's highest institution of learning.

Mrs. S. Joyce, Claremont, N. H.,

BASEBALL GAMES.

Greensboro and Winston Tied for Second Place—A Home Run.

Greensboro's baseball team is now tied with Winston for second place, having climbed from fourth position during the past week. The locals won two of the three games with Winston in this city the latter part of last week.
There was no game Thursday, on account of rain, giving a double-header Friday. The first game was won by Winston by a score of 2 to 1 and the second by Greensboro, the score standing 3 to 2. The score in Saturday's game stood 1 to 0 in favor of Greensboro.
The game was won by Cogswell, who knocked a ball over the fence and made a home run.

The Greensboro team is spending this week in South Carolina, playing Anderson and Spartanburg. Monday's game was won by Anderson by a score of 3 to 1, while Greensboro took yesterday's game to the tune of 7 to 1.

Following is the standing of the clubs in the Carolina League:

Greenville	22	12	.647
Greensboro	17	15	.531
Winston	17	15	.531

JUDGE BOYD OVERRULED.

Important Decision by United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals, at Richmond, has just rendered a decision of very great importance to all citizens who are liable to service as grand jurors in Federal courts and of much interest to the legal profession. The case grew out of the indictment in the Federal Court at Statesville, three years ago, of the Old Nick Williams Distilling Company, when Judge Boyd had several of the grand jurors who acted when the bill was found attached and fined for contempt of court for disclosing what occurred at the taking of testimony. The defendants appealed from his decision and the case was argued for them by Judge W. P. Bynum, of Greensboro, and Charles A. Moore, of Asheville, while District Attorney Holton and Assistant District Attorney Coble presented the case for the government. The Circuit Court overrules Judge Boyd, but concludes the opinion of the court with the following comment on Judge Boyd's position in the matter.

"We can well understand how a trial judge who is charged with the responsibility of securing a fair and impartial enforcement of the law should be exceedingly anxious to use all means within his power to prevent the slightest interference with the administration of justice on the part of anyone who may show a disposition to unduly oppress the citizen or, on the other hand, through sympathy or a misguided notion as to his duty, attempt to do anything calculated to hinder or embarrass the court in the due administration of justice. We fully appreciate that the learned judge, before whom the matters involved in this case were pending, felt that he was charged with a grave duty to protect the proper administration of the law, and that the matter had his closest scrutiny. The questions involved were, however, as we have indicated, almost wholly new, and while we have felt constrained to dissent from his judgment, we have been led to do so only after a long and earnest consideration.

"The judgment of the court below must be reversed and the case remanded with directions to discharge the rule."

CHILDREN'S HOME SOCIETY.

Annual Meeting Held Thursday Night—Directors and Officers Elected.

The annual meeting of the North Carolina Children's Home Society was held in this city Thursday night, when reports were received and directors and officers were elected for the ensuing year.

Superintendent Streeter reported that 69 children were received during the year, making a total of 281 since the beginning of the work in this state. During the year the sum of $7,194.73 was collected for the support of the work.

Directors for the coming year were elected as follows: Mrs. Charles D. McIver, Dr. J. S. Betts, A. B. Kimball and J. W. Fry, of Greensboro; Dr. S. Westray Battle and P. S. Henry, of Asheville; Gen. J. S. Carr, of Durham; P. Pearsall, of Wilmington, and Col. Fred A. Olds, of Raleigh.

The directors elected the following officers: W. H. Osborn, president; B. F. Dixon, F. P. Venable and R. D. Douglas, vice-presidents; Neil Ellington, treasurer; E. L. Sides, financial secretary; Dr. J. S. Betts, secretary.

Greensboro Boy Marries in Chapel Hill.

Mr. James Melville Porter, of this city, who graduated from the University of North Carolina last week with high honors, was married in Chapel Hill Thursday to Miss Blanche Rauey, a popular young woman of that town. The wedding was a quiet home affair, only a few relatives and intimate friends being present.

The happy young couple left immediately after the ceremony for Durham, whence they took the train for Stuart, Fla., where they will spend a few days before proceeding to Santiago, Cuba. Mr. Porter will be associated with his brother, Mr. Robert E. Porter, in the management of a large school for girls, called "Academia Inglesa," located at Santiago.

A Month's Progress.

During the month of May there were 75 transfers of real estate in Greensboro, representing a value of over $52,000. The postoffice receipts for the month amounted to $4,629.47, being an increase of $404.15 over the month of May, 1907. Building permits were issued for the erection of 14 residences in the city limits and for a greater number in the suburbs.

The only thing that showed a decrease in Greensboro during the past month was the number of marriage licenses issued, the number falling from 57 in April to 35 in May.

He Got What He Needs.

"Nine years ago it looked as if my time had come," says Mr. C. Farthing, of Mill Creek, Ind. Ter. "I was so run down that life hung on a very slender thread. It was then my druggist recommended Electric Bitters. I bought a bottle and I got what I needed—strength. I had one foot in the grave, but Electric Bitters put it back on the turf again, and I've been well ever since." Sold under guarantee by all druggists. 50c.

COUNTY CANDIDATES.

Slow in Announcing Themselves This Year—Mentioned for the Legislature.

Democratic candidates for county offices in Guilford are rather slow in announcing themselves this year. There are two avowed candidates for register of deeds, three for treasurer and one for sheriff. It appears that Sheriff Jones, who is serving his first term, and who has made a faithful and diligent officer, will have no opposition for re-nomination.

No candidate for the legislature has announced himself, though the names of several gentlemen have been mentioned. Mr. A. B. Kimball, a leading member of the Greensboro bar, is urged to become a candidate for state senator. Mr. Kimball is a strong, conservative man, and his friends insist that he would reflect credit both upon himself and the county as a member of the senate.

Mr. John C. Kennett, who managed the recent prohibition campaign in this county, probably will be a candidate for a seat in the house of representatives. He is not without legislative experience, having served several terms in the house.

A citizen of High Point says that his friends in that section of the county are urging Maj. Wescott Roberson to stand for the nomination as one of Guilford's representatives in the house. He has served two terms with satisfaction to the people of the county. Should Maj. Roberson be a member of the next legislature, he probably would be a candidate for speaker of the house.

577 Liquor Prescriptions in May.

Reports filed in the office of the chief of police show that, during the month of May, 577 prescriptions for liquor were written by Greensboro physicians and filled by the two drug stores in the city licensed to sell intoxicants. Of the prescriptions filled, 143 were for women. The largest number of prescriptions written by any one physician was 54.

The Guilford County Medical Society has taken up the whiskey prescription question, appointing a committee to go before the board of aldermen and request an improvement in the system of issuing and filling prescriptions. In this case improvement probably means restriction, for it is understood that the physicians as a whole are not satisfied with the present plan. The committee is composed of Dr. W. P. Beall, Dr. Thomas R. Little, Dr. Edmund Harrison, Dr. J. P. Turner and Dr. A. E. Ledbetter. The aldermen may restrict the sale of liquor to one drug store, or an ordinance may be adopted doing away with the prescription business entirely.

Proximity Graded School Closes.

The Proximity graded school closed Thursday with a program of interesting exercises by the children, who acquitted themselves splendidly. There were recitations, songs, drills and instrumental music. The little tots of the kindergarten department took a prominent part in the program. In the afternoon the children of the school visited the moving picture shows in the city and later were entertained by the teachers at their homes.

The Proximity graded school is one of the best in the state. It is supported largely by the Cones, the kindergarten being supported by Mrs. Caesar Cone. The school building is a large and handsome structure, being equipped with steam heat and all other modern appliances. Ten teachers are employed and during the past term over 300 children were enrolled.

Meeting of County Medical Society.

The regular meeting of the Guilford County Medical Society was held in the assembly room of the Carnegie Library Thursday afternoon, there being a large attendance of the physicians of the county.

Among the papers read before the society were one by Dr. Grayson, of High Point, on "Tuberculosis," and one by Dr. Dees, of Greensboro, on "When and Where to Amputate." There was a discussion following the reading of the papers.

The following were elected delegates to the state association, which is in session in Winston-Salem this week: Dr. J. P. Turner and Dr. Edmund Harrison, of Greensboro, and Dr. J. T. Burroughs, of High Point.

If one feels dull and spiritless, in the spring or early summer, they call it "Spring Fever." But there is no fever—usually. It is the after effect of our winter habits. The nerves are mostly at fault. Tired, worn-out nerves leave us languid, lifeless, and without spirit or ambition. A few doses of Dr. Shoop's Restorative will absolutely and quickly change all of these depressing symptoms. The Restorative of course won't bring you back to full health in a day or two, but it will do enough in 48 hours to satisfy you that the remedy is reaching that "tired spot." Druggists everywhere are advising its use as a splendid and prompt general tonic. It gives more vim and more spirit to the spoonful than any other known nerve or constitutional tonic. It sharpens a failing appetite, aids digestion, frees sluggish livers and kidneys, and brings new life, strength and ambition. Test it a few days and be convinced. Greensboro Drug Co.

ARMFIELD-PEGRAM.

Marriage of Well Known and Popular Young Couple.

Mr. Joseph H. Armfield and Miss Vivian Pegram were married in the Friends church in this city Thursday morning at 8:30 o'clock. The officiating minister was Rev. Stephen S. Myrick, the old-time Friends ceremony being used. The attendants were: Mr. Harold G. Taylor, best man; Miss Ella Pegram, a sister of the bride, maid of honor; Messrs. B. H. Taylor, James Lewis and Ernest Reitzel, ushers; Misses Annie Petty, Alice Cartland and Myrtle Armfield, bridesmaids.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion, and the marriage ceremony was witnessed by a large number of relatives and friends of the young couple.

After a visit of two weeks to northern cities, Mr. and Mrs. Armfield will be at home in this city.

Mr. Armfield is a son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Will Armfield, and is a young man of fine business qualities and bright prospects in life. He is chief clerk in the Greensboro postoffice. His bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Pegram and is an attractive and popular young woman.

Lum Staley, who lives in Randolph county, near Julian, was brought to this city Thursday by Deputy Marshal T. A. Vincent, and carried before United States Commissioner J. M. Wolfe for a preliminary hearing on a charge of illicit distilling. He waived examination and gave a bond of $300 for his appearance before Commissioner Wolfe on July 1st.

LIGHTNING'S DEADLY WORK.

Young Woman Killed and Her Mother Seriously Injured.

Burlington, June 4.—Miss Pearl Shepherd, 18 years old, was instantly killed, and her mother, Mrs. William Shepherd, seriously, perhaps fatally injured, by a stroke of lightning today.

The tragedy occurred at noon near the home of the Shepherds, eight miles southwest of Elon College. Mrs. Shepherd and her daughter were picking cherries in the orchard near their home when a storm came up. They started toward the house, but before they reached it there was a deafening roar of thunder and a flash and both fell to the ground. Miss Pearl was instantly killed, and Mrs. Shepherd was picked up in an unconscious condition and medical attention summoned. She is in a critical condition, though some hope is entertained for her recovery.

The Shepherds live on the old Lewis Clapp plantation, near Alamance battleground. Mrs. Shepherd is first cousin to Postmaster J. W. Ingle, at Elon College.

Pomona, Guilford County, N. C., March, 27th, 1908.

Mr. Sides,

Dear Sir:
I am thinking you would like to hear how I am getting along after using the new remedy you and Mr. Yates so kindly had me to use. After nearly four months of suffering with rheumatism and kidney complaint, and everything done for me which only relieved for the time being, I am now using the Band, which seemed to help me at once. At the time my feet, knees and hips were so swollen that I could not walk a step. As soon as I put it on there was a heating sensation all over my system, and in one week I was surprised that the swelling was going out, and I could sleep. In two weeks I could walk around the room, the third week I could go where I pleased. I feel stiff in my knees somewhat, but that is going out fast. You may think this is quick work, but it is nevertheless true. My family and neighbors will testify the same. They all know I have suffered all winter, and I feel very grateful to you both, for what this remedy has done for me, and will recommend it to all suffering as I have.

(Signed)

Respectfully yours,

A. D. V. LEIGH.

Why don't you profit by the experience of others? Your family doctor is all right, and will do all he can for you, but he cannot cure that rheumatism. I have cured hundreds of hopeless cases with my wonderful Band, dozens of them right here in Greensboro, and in Guilford county.

BRYAN NAMES THE ISSUES.

Outlines Principles for Which Democratic Party is Fighting.

In an address at Bonesteel, S. D., a few days ago William J. Bryan outlined what the principal issues put forth by the Democrats during the coming campaign would be and indicated what might be expected in the Denver platform. In part, he said:

"We are just beginning a national campaign. The Republican party has been in power for the last fourteen years, and will, in the coming campaign, ask for a continuation of the power. The Democrats will present a criticism of the Republican management and propose a change in the personnel of the officers and a change in the policy to be pursued. The voters, after hearing both sides and considering the arguments for and against the policies presented, will decide the questions at issue and determine the trend of the government for the next four years."

"The Democrats will ask for the election of senators by direct vote of the people in order that it may be easier for the voters to control the government; the Democrats will ask for effective legislation against the trusts in order that the people may be protected from monopolists; the Democrats will ask for the reduction of the tariff in order that the people may be relieved from excessive taxation; the Democrats will ask for effective railroad legislation that the people may be protected from water stock and fictitious capital, for until we know what the railroads are actually worth we cannot determine what they should collect in the way of transportation rates; the Democrats will ask for a reconciliation of the differences between labor and capital, that these two important factors in business may work harmoniously together."

"The Democratic party will oppose imperialism, which is violating the fundamental principles of our government and is at the same time increasing our expense for army and navy. The Democratic party will ask for legislation, state and national, to protect bank depositors and to prevent panics."

J. A. CHANLER CHANGES NAME.

Wealthy Man, Alleged Lunatic, Will Now Be Mr. Chaloner.

Richmond, Va., June 4.—After a legal fight lasting more than twelve years in the courts of Virginia, North Carolina and New York, during which time he spent four years in Bloomingdale Asylum, John Armstrong Chanler, adjudged insane in New York and sane in Virginia, has been awarded a decree by the Superior court of North Carolina changing his name to Chaloner.

Discussing the reason which prompted the desired change, Chalner, who is in Richmond, said:

"I have for years thought of legalizing the ancient form, Chaloner, but I was, so to speak, driven suddenly to do so by the outlandish language of Joseph H. Choate, Jr., counsel for the agent for the Chanler family, one T. T. Sherman, the falsely alleged committee of my personal estate, illegally appointed as such by an illegal proceeding in the New York Supreme court, said outrageous language being, in effect, that there was no difference between me and an escaped convict. The remark led the present court to say: 'There is all the difference in the world; he is now free as the birds of the air,' which I would not have been had Choate's comparison been correct, but would have been promptly extricated as an escaped convict. This scandalously untrue remark so disgusted me with the modernized form of my name that I decided to slough it off and leave this crime-stained patronymic for the Chanler family to hold."

Lid on Tight at Marion.

Marion, June 4.—The town of Marion is now dry, the special act of the legislature of 1907 having gone into effect on Saturday night last. There was a large crowd in town all day to attend the obsequies of "Old Boozie," and the number was added to and diminished with the arrival and departure of every train. The last train from the south arrived here at 9:30 and its 137 passengers did some tall hustling to have their thirst quenched and to obtain a supply for future reference before the bars closed. The crowd was unusually quiet all day, very little drunkenness and no disorder.

The board of aldermen, at their regular meeting yesterday, decided not to grant any further license for the sale of liquor on prescription and not to grant any further license to pool rooms. The lid is on tight.

Children Starve in Gotham.

New York, June 5.—The local school boards have recently been hearing some sad tales of destitution among families on the East Side, and many cases of suffering by school children for lack of food.

One story is told of a woman and her husband, living in an East Side tenement, who leave the house every morning before their four children rise and sit in a park until the children leave for school, in order to avoid hearing their cries for food, which they are unable to furnish. Some children have fainted in the classrooms the past few weeks from lack of food.

A relief committee will be immediately formed to extend aid to poor families.

Kills Her Giant Husband.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 4.—Adam Strach, a giant in size and strength, was this morning shot and killed by his little and much abused wife at their home, at Pringle Hill, near here, because he tried to beat her. She had been beaten frequently. When he came home drunk and in a nasty temper, she rebelled for the first time and refused to let him in the house. He battered down the door and swore that he would break every bone in her body.

She stood at the top of the steps awaiting him with his revolver in her hand. As he approached she took deliberate aim and shot him.

Mrs. S. L. Bowen, of Wayne, W. Va., writes: "I was a sufferer from kidney disease, so that at times I could not get out of bed, and when I did I could not stand straight. I took Foley's Kidney Remedy. One dollar bottle and part of the second cured me entirely." Foley's Kidney Remedy works wonders where others are a total failure. All druggists.

"DEAD" MAN RETURNS WEALTHY.

Boy Who Ran Away at 19 on Tramp Steamer Now Rich Owner.

New York, June 5.—Given up as dead more than twenty years ago and not a word heard from him since he disappeared, Captain Arthur Galloway, a wealthy ship and mine owner, today is the guest of his uncle, Captain Joseph Hatfield, of Williamsburg, who took care of Galloway when his parents died. The story of the man's rise in life from a runaway youth of 19 on a tramp steamer to captain, and later, the owner of half a dozen ships, is as romantic as any tale of fiction. He is now married and one of the wealthiest men of Seattle.

Galloway had taken a trip to Boston on a schooner which he had found lying at the Williamsburg dock, and the same night that he arrived in the Massachusetts city had shipped on board an English tramp steamship bound for China.

He had studied navigation, and by the time the coast of the Orient was sighted he was selected to fill the berth of the second mate, who had been washed overboard en route, and for five years Galloway remained cruising from one Oriental port to another. At the end of this time he had become a captain, and soon after purchased a half interest in a small coasting vessel.

From that time on Captain Galloway's rise was rapid. He soon became sole owner of the boat and later purchased a large steamship. He left the Orient and went to Seattle, where the boom was just beginning.

DEATH CLAIMS ARE HEAVY.

Insurance Companies Paid Out More Than $474,000,000 Last Year.

New York, June 4.—The insurance press has completed compilations on the distributions by life insurance organizations in the United States and Canada for 1907, which show that the total amount was $351,115,592, as compared with $327,576,196 in 1906, and $307,017,972 in 1905.

These figures are of the amounts paid in the form of death claims, matured endowments, or other benefits under the policies of level premium companies or the certificates of assessment organizations. The companies made further payments for dividends and for surrender values and to foreign policyholders and annuitants about $123,000,000, making the total payments by the insurance companies $474,115,592.

More than 200 cities in the United States and Canada received more than $100,000 each from life insurance companies, New York standing at the top with $27,371,237. Philadelphia was next with $9,969,912, while other cities received amounts as follows: Chicago, $9,079,458; Brooklyn, $8,724,867; Boston, $7,089,889; Baltimore, $4,143,847; Pittsburgh, $3,139,494; Buffalo, $2,604,330; Detroit, $2,303,305; Cleveland, $2,240,805; and Newark, $2,086,638.

Louisiana's Unusual Prohibition Bill.

Baton Rouge, La., June 5.—The prohibition forces in the Assembly made an important attack on the opposition today by the introduction in the House of a bill which provides for submitting the question of state-wide prohibition to a vote of the people by congressional districts.

The bill is unusual from the fact that it is a combination of referendum and local option. By its provisions the districts voting against the saloon would become dry, but whether or not the districts voting for the saloon would remain wet would be determined by the total vote throughout the state.

Texas Crops Badly Damaged.

Vernon, Texas, June 5.—Damage to growing vegetation and to property in excess of half a million dollars, it is estimated, has resulted from storms of wind, hail and rain which have been over this vicinity for the past several days and which culminated in a wind storm of great velocity early today.

Along the several roads entering this place washouts are numerous. In Vernon a number of the larger buildings were partially wrecked and some smaller structures demolished.

Taft's Speech Criticized.

Republican politicians throughout the country were surprised and alarmed when they read the utterances of Secretary Taft at the Memorial day exercises at Grant's tomb, in New York, when, with Gen. Frederick D. Grant, son of the war general, at his side, he declared that the drinking habits of General Grant as a young man had been responsible for his leaving the service.

A Mineral Water that Defies Drugs

NATURE'S GREAT BLOOD TONIC

The recent drug exposures in this Country have proven to all that deadly poisons and stimulants lurk in many Patent Medicines. You never know when you might be taking some of that class.

Nature has made ample provision for restoring vigor and vitality to humanity, and the public, as well as doctors, resort to Natural Remedies, when all others have failed.

Are you troubled with Dyspepsia, Nervousness, Malaria, Kidney or Bladder Trouble, Chronic Diarrhoea or Dysentery, and above all, that dreadful disease Scrofula, which has almost baffled human skill, or Diseases peculiar to Females?

Piedmont-Bedford Concentrated Iron & Alum Water

Is Nature's Remedy for Nature's Ills. Yes, when you consider that disease comes from impoverished or run down conditions of the system, this Natural Mineral Water furnishes the system what it needs.

The analysis of this Water, shown on the bottle, tells you what Nature thinks you should take when sick, and the doctor who reads it will agree.

Do you think the grouping together in this Water of 17 different minerals, which are recognized by medical writers as most powerful blood tonics, could have been accidental? Reason answers, NO!

An 18-oz bottle of Piedmont-Bedford Concentrated Iron and Alum water contains all the minerals of 25 gallons of the average natural water—Then why buy a barrel of water when you can get a bottle of minerals at the trivial cost of one dollar. The dose is a teaspoonful in a glass of your own spring water.

How this Water acts upon the system is not clearly known. It is judged mainly by its works. It has cured all the diseases enumerated above, and many more, evidently through its action as a powerful BLOOD TONIC.

We have many valuable certificates, which we will be glad to mail, if you are interested.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 10, 1908.

Of course the "sinews of war" is a necessary part of a political campaign, but it is not the only consideration.

The delegates to the judicial convention in Durham evidently thought they had entered upon an endurance test.

A good Democrat does not threaten to "scratch" any nominee of the party, no matter whether he participated in the primary or not.

Two weeks from today the Democratic hosts will gather in Charlotte for one of the greatest conventions ever held in North Carolina.

As far as the country knows, President Roosevelt is quite content that the Republican national convention shall nominate its own candidate for the vice presidency.

No importance is to be attached to published threats made by persons who have not the courage or manhood to sign their names to what they write. But the average bolter usually hides behind a nom-de-plume.

The report in this issue of the platform to be submitted to the Republican national convention would seem to add force to the remark of "Private" John Allen, of Mississippi, who said "platforms are made to get in on and not to stand on."

Although Russell Sage has not been dead quite two years, his widow has distributed approximately $15,000,000 of his vast estate. The money has been given for educational, religious and hospital purposes, and she intends to continue her charitable work.

Senator Bourne, of Oregon, is one Republican politician who is not afraid to "speak out in meeting." He called on President Roosevelt Monday and came away declaring that Taft cannot be elected to succeed the present occupant of the White House.

A contemporary reminds us that property valuations are imitating Vance's catfish during this tax-listing month of June. We all know what happened to the catfish, but the Lord only knows what happens to a great deal of property when tax-listing time comes around.

In the course of an editorial eulogy of Mark Hanna, the New York Sun speaks of Roosevelt as "the heir of the man, early and long distrusted by Mr. Hanna, who undid Mr. Hanna's work; who in the teeth of his most solemn vows, let McKinley's policies be buried in McKinley's grave."

According to an announcement by Secretary Metcalf, the two new battleships authorized by the last session of Congress will be named Utah and Florida. With the exception of Oklahoma and Wyoming, every state in the union is now represented in the navy. The next battleship to be authorized by Congress will be named Wyoming.

In justice to Mr. Bryan, it must be said that the charge that he accepted financial help from Thomas F. Ryan to further his political ambitions in the campaign of 1904 does not stand now that William F. Sheehan, who was then chairman of the executive committee of the national Democratic committee, has declared the funds sent to Nebraska were taken from the general account.

The supporters of Hon. W. W. Kitchin are much encouraged over the fact that he has the lead in the gubernatorial race, and they confidently expect him to go to the Charlotte convention with more votes than either of his competitors. Fifteen more counties are to hold primaries, and there is every indication that Mr. Kitchin will continue to gain strength. The tug-of-war will come at Charlotte, for neither of the candidates will enter the convention with a majority of votes.

The Springfield Republican is authority for the statement that nearly half the delegates to the Republican national convention to assemble in Chicago next week are Federal officeholders. The like of this has not been seen since the convention of 1892 that re-nominated Harrison.

While it may be true that Mr. Bryan may be weaker in some respects, it cannot be denied that, in many respects, he is stronger than he was when he ran for president in 1896 and 1900. Since the Republican party has adopted some of the ideas for which he was denounced in former years, Bryan does not appear quite so radical to thousands of voters, including many representing the "business interests."

The nation's prosperity really rests on farm products. So long as these reach up to the value of former years—approximately $7,500,000,000 in 1907—this must continue to be so. There has probably never been a time in this generation when such splendid general crop prospects existed throughout the country generally as at the present time. The empty cars of today will all be enlisted to move the wheat, corn, oats and cotton.

A. L. Brooks has won a great victory in the face of unusual opposition. He has conducted a clean, manly campaign, in spite of the vicious and questionable methods of the opposition. Mr. Brooks has remembered at all times that he is a Democrat, and no act of his in the campaign can be construed as having a tendency to disrupt the party. He has refused to give aid and comfort to the enemy.

Certain citizens of Wilmington who express a desire to have an "up-to-date, modern daily newspaper" published in that city are planning to establish a new morning paper in the City by the Sea. Common sense would seem to indicate that the best (and cheapest) method to pursue to bring about the desired end would be to extend a more liberal patronage to the excellent morning paper now published in Wilmington. An experience covering a period of 19 years ought to be sufficient to show that Wilmington cannot support two morning papers.

According to the Washington Post, the defeat of Hoke Smith for governor of Georgia is a flaming beacon of warning to overzealous politicians who try to make capital out of the persecution of corporations. It is a signal, direct from the people, giving notice that the clever game of counterfeiting Theodore Roosevelt is played out. The people of Georgia are as honest as the people of any other state; they are just as much opposed to corporation control; they are just as anxious to have cheap railroad rates; they are fully as much in earnest in the warfare against political corruption, but they evidently know how to distinguish genuine reform from demagoguery, and they refuse to pull down their house in order to kill the rats.

In speaking of the issues confronting the people in the approaching presidential election, Henry Watterson, the brilliant editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, says: "If Mr. Roosevelt were the candidate of the Republicans, there might be some question as to the 'original Jacobs' between him and Mr. Bryan. But Mr. Taft can stand on no platform setting forth the Roosevelt policies. He is far closer to Wall street interests than Fairbanks, Hughes or Knox. His nomination means the Republican party wearing the mask of Roosevelt, but using the claws of Harriman, Morgan and company. If Bryan cannot beat this combine, nobody can. He is its logical antagonist, and, therefore, our logical candidate. All suggestions to the contrary are misleading. They are simply weak devices of the enemy."

Want to Curb the South.

A dispatch from Chicago says the anti-administration forces appearing before the Republican national committee have evolved a plan to prevent Southern delegations from hereafter controlling Republican conventions. They say that they will submit it to the convention next week. The idea is identical with the plan proposed in the Republican national convention of 1900 by Senator Quay, of Pennsylvania, which failed of passage at that time.

This plan, if adopted, will give each state four delegates at large, and one delegate for every 10,000 Republican votes cast at the last preceding presidential election. The effect would be to cut off 160 delegates from the Southern states and add 150 to the Northern states. All the Northern states would gain except Massachusetts and Nevada. These would lose one delegate each. The states gaining most heavily would be Ohio, 17, and Indiana, 11.

W. R. Ward, of Dyersburg, Tenn., writes: "This is to certify that I have used Foley's Orino Laxative for chronic constipation, and it has proven without a doubt to be a thorough practical remedy for this trouble, and it is with pleasure I offer my conscientious reference." All druggists.

THE FIGHT ON BROOKS.

The Daily Record Submits a Few Interesting Remarks.

The Greensboro Daily Record of yesterday has the following pointed editorial concerning the bitter fight that has been made on Solicitor Brooks in an effort to prevent that gentleman from securing the Congressional nomination at the hands of the Democrats of the Fifth District:

"Of all the infernal fights ever made on a man, that made on Mr. A. L. Brooks was the worst. And the result is going to be the same as it always is—a complete vindication. When prosecution turns into persecution, or whenever prosecution is proven to be inspired by malice, the chief witness is made to pay the cost. It is a pity the chief witness in this case cannot be made to suffer, for all his friends know if Mr. Holt had been left free he would never have entered the race, or had he done so, he would have conducted it in a far different way. Of all the men who have been made the victim of his fool friends, this is perhaps the worst. Inspired solely by malice and revenge, they worked on the feelings of a good man and used him before he knew what they were doing—if he indeed knows it yet. He has been led on step by step and now he goes to the slaughter—a victim of those who call themselves his friends. They have inflicted almost irreparable injury on Prof. Holt—injury that can hardly be remedied for years to come. And all of it was aroused by appealing, not to his reason, but by arousing his passions. They knew if Brooks could be vilified and abused he would be forced, in defense of his character, to strike back. When this was accomplished they knew Prof. Holt would do the rest.

"He may have some sins to answer for, but they are slight compared to the sins of those who pushed him into the fight."

INSANE MAN SUICIDES.

Holds Police at Bay and Fires Bullet into His Brain.

Washington, June 7.—After holding the police at bay for six hours, Dr. Joseph Pospisiel, an employee of the pension office, shot himself through the brain this morning while insane. Laboring under a delusion that an attempt was being made to murder him he fired at pedestrians and into the homes of his neighbors, and when the police came he reloaded his pistol and fired upon them, preventing their near approach to the house. Altogether he fired about fifty shots in this way, none of which, however, took effect.

Before arming himself, Pospisiel passed his three little children through the second story window to persons in the adjoining house. His wife remained with him, endeavoring to quiet him, but becoming alarmed when he opened fire on the policemen, she fled and joined her children in the neighbor's house. At the time he shot himself Pospisiel was sitting in the second story window of his home. He first rolled up his sleeves and injected cocaine in his arm to steady himself for the fatal shot. He plunged forward to the ground and died on the way to the hospital. Dr. Pospisiel came to Washington from Wisconsin about eighteen years ago.

Republicans and the Negroes.

Washington, June 9.—Politicians here today are discussing the utterances of ex-Senator Chandler, of New Hampshire, who in addressing negroes last night advised them to bolt the Republican party if Secretary Taft is nominated and vote with the Democrats. Politicians consider the utterances to be the result of enmity to the administration, but fear that it may add to the complications the Republicans are already facing in the negro situation.

Did you ever hear of a family having pneumonia who had GOOSE GREASE LINIMENT in their home?

Did you ever hear of a child dying of croup or cold who had rubbed Goose Grease on their chest?

This is something to think of.

Mother, don't be without this liniment for the sake of your little one.

MR. MAN

If you have any use at all for a Grind-Stone, you certainly can not afford to be without one of our "Cycle Ball Bearing Steel Frame Grindstones." This is positively one of the BEST grindstones ever offered for sale. The stone is of the best "Berea" grit. The frame is made of steel, well braced and strongly built. The upper frame is constructed to form a brace for legs, making the most rigid frame possible. This is in ideal stone for grinding mowing machine sections. It is all right for that matter for grinding any kind of edge tool. Some of our customers have told us they would not take $25 for their "Cycle" grindstone if they could not replace it. Let us show you one.

DEATH OF JUDGE FURCHES.

Distinguished Jurist and Former Chief Justice of Supreme Court—His Career.

Judge David M. Furches, a distinguished citizen of North Carolina, died suddenly at his home in Statesville Sunday night. He had been ill about two weeks, but heart disease was the immediate cause of death.

The death of Judge Furches removes from the ranks of men one of the oldest residents of Statesville and a conspicuous figure at the bar and in the public life of that section of the state for more than a generation. Of French descent, he was born the son of a farmer, in Davie county, April 21st, 1822, being 76 years old April 21st last. He studied law under the late Chief Justice Pearson at Richmond Hill, Yadkin county. In January, 1858, he was licensed to practice law and in February following he was elected solicitor of the county court of Davie county, holding the office until 1866. He was also for a time, during the same period, solicitor of the county court of Yadkin. He represented Davie county in the constitutional convention of 1866 and in September of that year he moved to Statesville, where he lived until his death.

Before the war Judge Furches was a Whig in politics and after the war he became a Republican. In 1872 he was his party's candidate for Congress in the old Seventh congressional district, his successful opponent being the late W. M. Robinson. In August, 1875, Governor Brogden appointed him judge of the Superior court to succeed Judge Anderson Mitchell, of Statesville, resigned. He held the office for three years, retiring in 1878. In 1880 he was again the Republican candidate for Congress, being defeated by the late Hon. A. F. Armfield. In 1882 he was the Republican nominee for the legislature, in 1886 the nominee for Superior court judge, in 1888 the nominee for Associate Justice of the Supreme court and in 1892 the nominee for governor, being defeated with his party at each election.

In 1894 a fusion of Populists and Republicans carried the state against the Democrats and Judge Furches was elected Associate Justice of the Supreme court. January 6th, 1901, Governor Russell appointed Judge Furches chief justice of the court to succeed Judge Faircloth, deceased. In February following impeachment proceedings brought in the legislature against Judge Furches and Associate Justice Douglas, but after a trial lasting several weeks they were acquitted by the state senate sitting as a court of impeachment. The proceedings were based on a decision rendered by the Supreme court.

When Judge Furches' eight-year term as a member of the court expired in 1902 he returned to his home in Statesville and resumed the practice of law. In recent years he appeared little in the courts, but devoted himself to his office practice up to his last illness.

GLENN AT ARLINGTON.

North Carolina Governor Makes Address at National Cemetery.

Governor Glenn delivered the address at the Confederate memorial day exercises at the Arlington national cemetery, Washington, Sunday, addressing a vast assemblage. He opened his address by paying a warm tribute to Gen. Robert E. Lee, saying he was one of the greatest chieftains the world has produced.

"I can truthfully say," continued the Governor, "that I long to see the day when the name of Abraham Lincoln and Ulysses Grant shall be loved and respected in every nook and corner of the old Confederacy, and when the names of Lee and Jackson will be cheered in Maine, Massachusetts and California."

Stating that the South has patiently and faithfully borne its part in paying the pensions of the Union soldier, Governor Glenn declared that the Confederate dead as well as the Union dead should unite in caring for the Confederate dead as well as the Union dead.

Governor Glenn made a very fine impression on the large and cultured audience, and when he declared that the South had no apologies to make for its course in the civil strife and war of 1861 to 1865, and it would do it again under similar circumstances, he agitated made quite an enthusiastic demonstration. Gov. Glenn declared that the Southern soldier was true and brave and of the best of fighting blood. He told of the part that North Carolina has played since in the history of the Union, since the birth of Virginia Dare, the first white child born in America, and of the Edenton tea party with telling effect. In mentioning these and other incidents he prepared the way for the coming of the Confederate soldier.

Capers Mentioned for Second Place.

Washington, June 9.—Republicans who believe that the political situation demands the selection of a vice-presidential candidate from some Southern state say that Internal Revenue Commissioner John G. Capers is the strongest candidate the Chicago convention could nominate for second place on the ticket. An active canvass to this end is now being made.

North Carolina with its 90,000 Republican voters, commands consideration. Next to Judge Prentiss, Capers is the most prominent Republican of the Carolinas, where his family has lived for nearly 200 years.

Commissioner Capers holds the highest Federal office of any Southern Republican and is probably the most widely known among them. He was President McKinley's United States District Attorney of his native state, was a delegate-at-large to the last Chicago convention and this year again heads the delegation from his state to Chicago.

Confederate Reunion.

Saddened by the recent death of their commander-in-chief, General Stephen D. Lee, but with much of the enthusiasm left to them, the hosts of the United Confederate Veterans have gathered in Birmingham, Ala., for their annual reunion and grand encampment. The reunion opened yesterday and will continue for three days.

L. BANKS HOLT SHOT.

Found Lying Unconscious in His Room—Wound Not Fatal.

Mr. L. Banks Holt, of Graham, last Wednesday received a gunshot wound in the head that rendered him unconscious. Mr. Holt's injury came in his own room and with his own shotgun. He was found on the floor of his bedroom some time after eleven o'clock, where it is supposed he had gone to take a nap. He was unconscious and was suffering from a scalp wound above his right eye. It is not known how this accident occurred.

The wound found in the room from the exploded cartridge shows that the gun was loaded with number eight shot, and it is possible that Mr. Holt was preparing to shoot some English sparrows, or cats, as they are numerous about his premises, and that being agitated by advanced years and having been very much depressed for some days past, he accidentally discharged the gun.

The physicians in charge of the case say that the wound while a serious one, is not fatal. Mr. Holt recovered consciousness during the afternoon and was resting quietly. His speedy recovery is hoped for and expected.

Can Taft Win?

Harper's Weekly.

Assuming for the moment that Secretary Taft will be the Republican nominee, we are brought next to the inquiry, Can he be elected? The question is answered in the negative by ex-United States Senator William E. Chandler in a letter addressed to Senator Gallinger, Gov. Jordan, and the other delegates from New Hampshire to Chicago. He names seven reasons why the choice of Taft for Republican standard bearer would be dangerous. These reasons are, first, the hostility of the colored voters to Taft; secondly, the misconduct of the Federal officeholders in manipulating the state conventions in many of the Southern states; thirdly, the vast expenditure of Taft money in the prosecution of his campaign for the nomination; fourthly, the local troubles in Ohio; fifthly, the abandonment of the anti-trust and anti-pooling laws; sixthly, the hostility of the labor organizations; and, seventhly, the combination of Taft supporters with the race track supporters in New York against Gov. Hughes.

BRYAN SEES VICTORY.

Leaders Claim They Need But Forty-five Votes.

Lincoln, Neb., June 8.—According to a statement issued tonight at the Bryan headquarters forty-five more votes added to Bryan's present strength will give him two-thirds in the Denver convention.

In the past ten days six more states and territories, with a total of eighty-six votes, have instructed for Bryan, while thirty-two delegates from three other states have given personal pledges to support him.

Texas, Arizona, West Virginia, Nevada, Idaho and Arkansas are the new ones listed and instructed, and the New Hampshire and Louisiana delegations are claimed for him through pledges. Six of Maryland's sixteen votes are also claimed.

The new total figures are: Instructed for Bryan, 550; pledged to him, 77; total, 627; uninstructed, choice unknown, 137; for Gray, 6; instructed for Johnson, 22; necessary to choice, 672.

Negroes Sent to Penitentiary for Ten Years.

Charlotte, June 8.—Ten years each in the state penitentiary at Raleigh was the sentence pronounced today by Judge Moore in criminal court in the cases of John Boyd and Jim Wilson, porter and hack driver, charged with highway robbery, taking rings valued at several hundred dollars and other articles from Mrs. J. H. Morgan, of Atlanta, who also claims that the negroes after giving her doped liquor outraged her. Mrs. Morgan was found half insane in the woods six weeks ago, having been taken from a leading hotel where she was a guest, having started to the Southern depot to meet a brother-in-law, whom she says lives in Washington and is wealthy. The crime as alleged by the witness was most heinous and feeling here has been tense. Mrs. Morgan admits she is going under an assumed name, stating that this is done to save her family. The sentence is regarded as light by many people.

Big Temperance Celebration.

Washington, June 9.—Following the international convention of the Independent Order of Good Templars, which will wind up its business today, the national session of the order will begin its deliberations. Hundreds of distinguished temperance workers and leaders in the anti-saloon cause are here from all over the world and the two conventions will likely become historical landmarks of the temperance movement.

At the close of the convention here this week, practically all of the delegates will go to Saratoga Springs, N. Y., where the centennial anniversary of the founding of the great temperance society will be celebrated, beginning next Sunday. The Saratoga assembly will be, in all probability, the most notable gathering of the anti-liquor clans in the history of the world.

Samoa's Flee From Lava.

San Francisco, June 9.—According to a report brought by the steamer Aeon from Apia, Samoa, the volcano Mu, on the island of Savaii, is again in violent eruption and has covered with lava a large and fertile part of the island. The inhabitants of the district have taken refuge on adjoining islands.

The flow is approaching the village of Saleaula, and its inhabitants are preparing to leave. When the Aeon left Apia, nineteen days ago, the lava flow had covered more than seven square miles of land.

Church Calls Durham Pastor.

Newport News, Va., June 7.—The Newport News Baptist church decided today to extend a call to Rev. G. J. Thompson, of Durham, N. C.

CALL TO THE COUNTRY.

Marse Henry Watterson to Democrats of Country at Large.

Columbia State.
Col. Watterson is fighting for Democracy. No pandering to the enemy for him. No coquetry with Taft. No throwing of an anchor to windward, so that if Republicans are successful he will have a "pull" with Big Bill. No lip service to Democracy, while furnishing the enemy ball cartridges from his magazine. That is not the style of Watterson. There is no question of where he "is at." One does not have to get Watterson's bearings every day, or to take his temperature every hour. We commend this paragraph from a recent editorial in the Courier-Journal to some of our contemporaries that are flying "Democrat" from their mastheads:

"So, come into camp, boys, one and all! The fight before us can be won if each Democrat gives his heart to the cause and puts his shoulder to the wheel. It cannot be won otherwise. Talk of revenge and reprisal is something worse than treasonable; it is suicidal. Mr. Bryan has for the first time the chance of going to the polls with a united, enthusiastic party behind him. Shall it be Kentucky that balks and draws back? Upon the electoral vote of Kentucky the final result is likely to hinge. What a commentary upon Democracy—what a cruel irony of fate—would it be if we lost the election through the loss of Kentucky, and lost Kentucky through factional quarrels artfully contrived and fomented by the common enemy?"

That is, directly, a call to Kentucky, but it is a call equally as strong to every state in which there is a Republican organization and where Democrats need to make an effort to be successful. This is the year for Democrats to get together and march to the polls with unbroken front. This is the year for the rebellious one-fifth to join the four-fifths. This is the year for the minority opponents of Bryan to remember that four years ago the majority followed their lead, accepted their choice, and effaced themselves. This is the year that the Democracy of the country will build its own platform, and that those that cannot give hearty support to platform and candidates are against the party.

We have wax-top cans, and also solder-top cans. Prices right.

One of the largest grain checks ever reported from the state of Washington was for $45,364, paid to a wheat raiser of that state for 62,000 bushels of wheat, the product of a 1,500 acre field.

The authorities in charge of the management of affairs at Chicago university have lately decided to add a completely equipped dairy department to the courses which they already offer. This will include, besides thorough courses of instruction, an up to date dairy of pure bred Holstein cattle of well known milking strains.

With a view to determining the cost of filling silos in different sections of the country the government last year tabulated the experience of thirty-one farmers and, after exhaustive inquiry as to methods and details, found that the minimum expense for filling was 46 cents per ton, the maximum 86, while the average for the total number was 64 cents.

One of the remarkable industrial developments of the Pacific coast has been that which has been noted in connection with the salmon packing business. No salmon was packed for export until 1870, when there were two small canneries on the Columbia river. Today there are twenty-three such establishments, fifteen on the Oregon and eight on the Washington side of the river. The present annual output of the fish is 1,000,000 cases, worth $9,230,000.

The effect of a thoroughbred sire in the matter of improving the milk capacity of dairy cows has lately been given a practical demonstration at the New York state dairy farm. A scrub or common cow was taken which tested 220 pounds per year. Her calf, from a thoroughbred dairy sire, showed a butter yield of 275 pounds of butter fat per year, while two cows of the fourth generation gave 450 pounds of butter each. These results would seem to give a black eye to the forty dollar bull theory held by some.

With clover seed bringing the price it did this year, in the neighborhood of $14 per bushel, there was great temptation to adulterate it with harmful or worthless weed or grass seed, while it is quite certain that seed of questionable quality and vitality was shipped from distant points to satisfy the extraordinary demand for it. In illustration of this we have in mind the case of several Mississippi valley farmers who this year sowed clover seed that was quite foul with grass seed native or at least growing in Wyoming, which would seem to be pretty conclusive evidence that the seed came from this latter region. Whether the seed is possessed of good vitality and came from plants which will be able to stand the winters of the central northern states is a question which it will take a year or more to determine.

An excellent method of treating potatoes for the blight, which is likely to be a serious menace to the crop in wet seasons, is to take five pounds of copper sulphate and dissolve it in half a barrel of water. To this should be added five pounds of freshly slaked lime diluted to half a barrel in volume in some other receptacle. It is usually considered the more dilute the form in which the two solutions are mixed the better will be the quality of the resultant bordeaux mixture. This solution, which should be of a delicate, light milky blue tint, is for the blight only. If it is desired to swipe the bugs at the same time, paris green should be added, first carefully mixed with water in a can at the rate of about five ounces to a barrel full of the bordeaux mixture. The potato vines should be sprayed for the blight at intervals of ten days so long as the pest seems to persist.

Perhaps the two greatest enemies of the little chicks are dampness and lice, the first bringing on rump and kindred disorders and the second tending to sap the system of the growing chick and either killing it outright as a result or tending to make it susceptible to the attack of other ailments. While the chicks cannot always be kept from running out in the wet grass or being in a soaking rain, their coop or roosting place should always be dry and warm. As for the lice, they may be fixed usually by rubbing a good strong insect powder through the feathers of the body and head, by rubbing lard on the head and by putting coal oil in the cracks and on the floor of the coop where the chickens roost. Often the chicks may be supposed to be suffering from this or that ailment and look generally dumpy, yet a pest of lice be the real cause of the trouble. A careful examination of the head and under the wings of each chick will show whether this is the case.

A Siberian landowner of the name of Jovanovitch is said to be the largest sheep owner in the world, having a flock or flocks numbering 1,750,000 head, in the herding and care of which he requires 35,000 sheep dogs.

Dairymen received prices for their butter product during the year 1907 which ranged from 4 to 5 cents per pound higher than the prices received during 1906. While this did not mean a large sum for any individual farmer, it meant for all an additional income of from $20,000,000 to $25,000,000.

There are many parents with a good sized family of children who are so situated that there is little chance of their doing much for them financially, but they should see to it, so far as lies in their power, that the children are allowed to make the most of the educational advantages which the community offers.

The report of the state entomologist of Minnesota, who was requested to make a thorough investigation of the green bug damage of last year, is to the effect that the actual damage done by these bugs was very slight, but that the scare was quite serious, resulting in violent perturbations among speculators on the board of trade.

As a result of the operation of pure seed laws in force in several states, houses doing business in such states this year quoted virtually no prices on good quality clover seed because they were not in shape to guarantee to retail buyers seed which in many cases was shipped in from other states and under no guarantee, there being no federal pure seed law covering the sale of such seed.

Recently published data relative to the creameries of the United States show that there are in the country 6,000 such plants. Of this number 1,800 companies are co-operatively managed, and its number seems to be steadily increasing. Other figures compiled show that patrons of the co-operative plants realized from 2 to 3 cents per pound more for their butter fat than those who shipped by express and sold to large central plants.

The Kansas State Agricultural college at Manhattan has done a commendable work in engaging the services of an expert of the United States forest service for several weeks' talks to institutes in those portions of the state where the tree planting gospel is especially in need of being proclaimed. Besides this mode of instruction, it has issued a pamphlet on tree culture for study in all of the rural schools. Much practical good should come from efforts directed along such sensible lines.

As showing the value of an accurate testing of the milk yield and quality of the dairy herd it is stated that before Colantha IV's Johanna's milk was tested she was valued at several hundred dollars. After making a scientific test of her milk her owners refused for her an offer of $11,000, while one of her bull calves sold for $8,000. It is not likely that a careful testing of the cows of the average dairy herd is going to develop any $11,000 prize cows, but it will at least enable the dairyman to eliminate from his herd with dispatch those that are not paying for their keep.

The small boy about the home may very easily make a nesting place for the wrens by taking a cigar box of good depth or a good sized tin can, cutting a hole about an inch in diameter in one end and fastening it under the eaves of the shed or house or in the crotch of a tree. Pains should be taken not to have the hole large enough so that the English sparrow can get in. The wrens will not have any trouble finding the nesting place, and the songs they will sing through the summer months, coupled with their tameness and the fact that they are among the best of insect destroyers, will more than make up for the trouble one is put to fixing them a place to nest in.

A friend who recently seeded down a piece of greensward bordering the road has set it out to elm trees two or three years old, about the size of a broomstick. While there is no question that in time these little slips will make nice trees, it is going to take seven or eight years longer, and possibly ten, to get a tree equal in size to what he would have had in six years if he had cut back the roots and branches of trees three inches in diameter and set them out. The writer has a row of elm trees which were handled in this manner nine years ago which today run from ten to fifteen inches in diameter at the ground. While the ash, hackberry, hard maple and box elder may also be transplanted in this way, none of them recuperates as satisfactorily from a severe cutting back as do the elms.

A walk across a number of pastures in the locality where the writer lives shows that even in the middle of May, when they ought to be at their best, so far as rapidity and luxuriance of growth go, they are already badly overpastured. This works injustice to the cows which depend entirely upon the feed it furnishes for sustenance and dairy utility. Doubtless the conditions above noted are to be found in sections all over the country. It is an easy matter to pace off and get the dimensions and area of a pasture. If it is carrying cows or horses at the rate of more than one to each acre it is overcrowded, and the long headed owner will put his stock where feed is more plentiful. He may have to pay a trifle more for the next pasture, but this will prove economy in the long run.

A NEW WAY TO TREAT FLAX.

Considerable interest has been manifested within the past few weeks in the announcement which has been made of the invention of a new process of making linen from flax straw, which in years past has been a waste product except for very limited use in feeding and in the manufacture of small quantities of binding twine. In the foreign method of treating flax extensively followed in Holland from sixteen to thirty weeks are required in the process of transforming flax into linen. First comes the "rotting" or weighting down of the flax straw in pools of water exposed to the sun until the wood or "shive" rots away. Next comes the "scutching" or beating of the dry straw, followed by the "hackling" or combing, softening and bleaching. By the new process, which is the discovery and invention of a professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the tedious processes above referred to are reduced to mechanical and chemical operations which are completed in twelve hours, including degumming, softening and bleaching, the finished product coming out a glossy white color and with an exceedingly tough fiber. Another point in favor of the American process is that it will yield 250 pounds of fiber from 1,000 pounds of straw, while the foreign method gives but 170. In addition to this, the new process saves the seed and the shive, which is utilized in paper making, while the tow is also a byproduct that is not lost. If the new method does all that is claimed for it, it will not only do much to put the manufacture of linen on a business basis in this country, but will revolutionize the manufacture of linen abroad. However, unless the method of growing flax in this country is likewise revolutionized—that is, put on a basis where there would not be a rapid depletion of soil fertility—the new process would in the long run mean no boon to the agricultural welfare of the country.

ADVANTAGES OF RAPE.

Where sheep, young stock or hogs are to be fed during the fall and early winter months there is probably no method of producing a fine lot of succulent and nutritious feed that is superior to sowing rape seed in the cornfield the last time it is cultivated. In addition to the supply of feed which is furnished, a point in favor of the plan is that, covering the ground as it does, the growing rape takes the place of just so many weeds that would be pretty sure to befall the fields if the rape were not there. There are a whole lot of farmers who have not yet got to the point where they appreciate the benefits of rape. A few do sow it not only in the corn, but with their oats and other small grain, as it guarantees a fall pasture for stock of the kinds mentioned that can't be beat.

A COUNTY EXPERIMENT WORK.

A western Iowa county has taken advantage of the state law which allows boards of supervisors to set aside $300 annually for the purpose of carrying on agricultural experimental work at the county farm and this year, in co-operation with and under the direction of the seed corn specialists of the state experiment station, will set aside a portion of the farm for a thorough testing of the different kinds of seed corn which are being planted in the community. The several points of variety, yield, early maturity, preparation of soil, fertilizers and cultivation will be determined so far as possible and the results summarized at the close of the year for the especial benefit of the farmers of the county and adjoining counties where much the same conditions prevail.

THE MAN, NOT THE FARM.

The vast difference that is often noticeable between the general appearance as well as the productiveness of farms lying side by side or in the same neighborhood is quite likely more due to difference in the proprietors and the methods they follow in the conduct of their respective farms than to any original difference in fertility of the soil. An intelligent and farsighted farmer can bring a naturally poor farm up to a fair state of productivity, while a negligent and shiftless one can, with a good deal less effort, bankrupt a naturally fertile one and make it an undesirable piece of property.

MORE SEED.

A good many have experienced great difficulty in getting a stand of alfalfa. In some cases this seems to have been partly the result of an improper preparation of the soil or lack of sufficient moisture at the time of germination, but quite as likely to the fact that insufficient seed was sowed. While some authorities in the northern states recommend the sowing of fifteen to eighteen pounds per acre, it is a common practice in Nebraska and Kansas, where this legume is extensively grown, to sow from twenty-five to thirty pounds per acre.

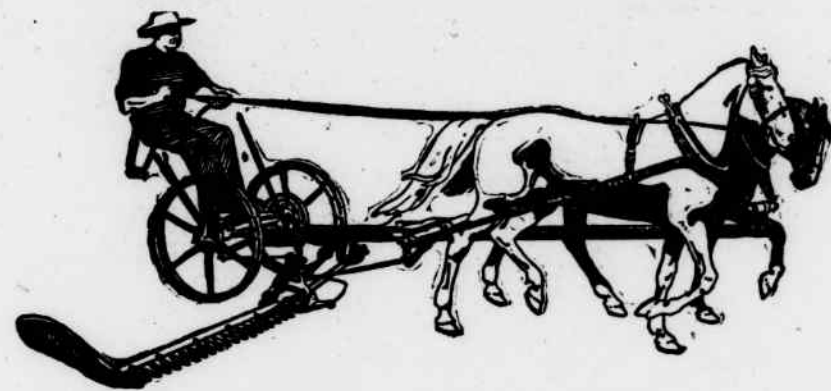

GUARD THE BIRDS.

From this time on through the summer the birds that nest about your home will have the trials of their life in getting their fledglings past the point where they can use their wings and keep out of the way of the prowling cats. A real service can be rendered the birds by keeping a sharp lookout and throwing bricks enough at the feline tribe to give them to understand that at certain times and seasons their proper place during daylight hours is under the wood shed or barn.

Had a watcher been concealed in the library he might well have understood the motives of Mr. Roderick Fitzgeorge, or Mr. Jack Bibbs, for both names, among many others, changed to appertain to the same attractive gentleman. No sooner had the door of the billiard room been closed when another form rose stealthily above the library window sill, stepped noiselessly inside, crossed the room and dropped on his knees before Mr. Renwyck's safe. The man was of medium height and slender build, wearing a mask over the upper portion of his face. But his chin and jaw appeared beneath the band of black, showing a pale, putty-like complexion.

In his work upon the safe this second nocturnal visitor did not resort to force or violence. He was far too old a hand to use such primitive means, nor did he wish to arouse the household by any sudden noise. He pressed a practiced ear against the iron safe door, then turned the dial slowly with a feather touch till at last he was rewarded by a faint metallic click as the delicate tumbler dropped into its slot. By the aid of his electric flash lamp he made a mental note of the number, indicating his starting point. Then he replaced his ear and reversed the dial as carefully as before. Again he heard the warning click.

"Left to sixty, right to thirty-five," he murmured to himself and bent to his work once more. He tried four numbers, that being the usual combination of smaller safes, then confidently turned the dial to the right. He scored a blank. The work must now be done again, though not from the beginning, for three at least of the numbers were known to him. Twice more he tried and failed both times, but at the third attempt the dial locked and the outer door swung open when the nickel plated handle was softly turned.

The rest was simple. The burglar produced a bunch of skeleton keys and in less than two minutes had forced the lock of the inner door, which opened with a rasp of protest to the pilferer.

The man with the putty-like complexion overhauled the contents of the safe by the aid of his flash lamp, selected such valuables as seemed to be the least bulky, but most important, and stored them in several capacious pockets. This done, he carefully closed and locked the inner doors of the rifled safe, pressed upon the outer door, adjusted the nickel handle in its proper place and spun the dial of the combination lock.

For a moment the burglar listened to the low murmur of his confederate's voice in the adjoining room, smiled sardoniously and slipped stealthily through the open window. Outside he crept to a point beneath the window of the billiard room, cried out in imitation of a vagrant cat, then, crouching, fled in the direction of the river, with the cases of the famous Renwyck diamonds tapping deliciously against his ribs.

CHAPTER XVIII.

UPSTAIRS the music of Mr. Renwyck's sonorous slumbers still oozed through the chinks of his bedroom door, while at the farther end of the hall another closed on the sleepless Mr. Richard Williams.

The young man had heard the clock strike 3 and was still pursuing his train of tangled thought when it occurred to him that perhaps if he read for half an hour his mind might become composed enough for sleep. He remembered a partly finished book which he had left in the billiard room and started downstairs to get it. With a natural disinclination to disturb the household, he tipped very cautiously through the hall, down the flight of carpeted steps and approached the billiard room, which, like the library, was separated from the lower hall by heavy curtains. These he was about to draw aside when his outstretched hand was suddenly arrested by the sound of a voice within. It was masculine and belonged to no inmate of the house that he could recognize; but it was subdued, as one who feared to be overheard. What he heard assured him that some rascality was afoot.

"It's money I'm in need of," the voice was saying, "and that's why I took the risk of coming here alone in the middle of the night." Richard's hand slid instinctively to his hip before he remembered the absurdity of fashionable clothes. Clearly there was some one in the room who had no business there. Yet to whom was he talking? If a member of the household, why this secrecy? He must investigate, of course. But first he had better arm himself, as he did not know who or how many he might have to deal with.

His mind once made up, the Texan turned his slippers, crept softly up the stairs to his room, then down again, pausing once more outside the billiard room, but this time listening deliberately.

"Mr. Fitzgeorge," a woman's voice was saying, "my patience is exhausted. Why all this talk? Your scheme is blackmail—nothing else. Give me the letters, take your pay and go." With a stab of pain the Texan recognized the voice as Miss Renwyck's, and it came with a double pang at the thought that she was meeting some unknown rascal in the dead of night—that she was buying letters from him.

"What letters?" his heart questioned jealously. He longed to rush in and kill the miscreant in his tracks, yet wisdom held his mad design in abeyance for the present. He peeped through the heavy portieres and spied two female figures on one side of the billiard table, while that of a man was on the other side, with his back toward the library door, but with his face half turned toward the spot where the Texan waited.

"Very well," whispered the man again. "I guess you are playing fair, all right." He took a package from his inner pocket. "Here are your letters. Have you got the money?" "Yes," said Harriet softly; "I have. But wait. I must see that the letters are all here. Imogene, look over them as quickly as you can. I am afraid to turn on the light, but perhaps Mr. Fitzgeorge will be kind enough to lend us his lantern."

"Well, say," chuckled the visitor quietly, "you've got your nerve with you, all right! I'm sorry I didn't meet you before." Again he laughed noiselessly, produced his bullseye and threw a blaze of light on the pile of letters which he laid upon the table. "Look 'em over, Imogene, my dear," he continued, with unblinking familiarity. "That's every one you ever wrote me."

With a thrill of pleasure the Texan caught this last remark. The letters, then, were not Harriet's, after all, and she, brave girl, had dared to face this scoundrel in order to shield a friend. He could wing the fellow as he stood. But no. That would alarm the house and undo everything which this splendid woman had striven to hide. He could wait, and if the fellow offered no affront he would let him go rather than mortify Miss Renwyck by his own appearance on the scene. When the man was safely gone the Texan could then slip quietly to his room, and these two courageous girls would never know that a sentinel had stood guard outside the door.

Miss Imogene opened each letter to make certain that it was there, counted the pile and looked up timidly.

"They—they are not all here," she faltered. "I—I wrote fourteen, and here are only twelve."

"That's all I got," said the burglar shortly. "You never wrote but twelve." "But I did," protested the trembling Imogene. "You know I did. Red—er—I mean Mr. Fitzgeorge. Oh, Harriet, won't you make him give me the other two?"

"Yes, I will," said Harriet firmly. "Mr. Fitzgeorge, we have acted in good faith toward you and expect at least a fair return. You demanded $100. I have the money here in my hand, but I tell you once for all that I shall not pay you unless you surrender all the letters to this child."

"I haven't got any more," the burglar answered sullenly. "And, what's more, I— He paused at the sound of a cat call from without and began fumbling in his pockets. "Why, here you are!" he exclaimed in well feigned astonishment, producing the missing letters. "I didn't know I had 'em, I swear I didn't. Take 'em, my dear. Pay up and we'll call it quits."

"And—and you won't publish the copies?" quavered Miss Imogene as though terrified at the sound of her own whispers.

"No," said the man; "I give you my word as a gentleman," with a singular misapprehension of the meaning of the term. "Hurry with the dough. It's getting late."

Assured that the letters completed Miss Imogene's indiscreet list, Miss Harriet tossed a roll of bills in the circle of light which was made by the bullseye lantern.

"You would better go now," she said in a tone of disgust which she made no attempt to disguise. "I will close the window after you."

The man counted the money hurriedly, slipped it into his vest pocket and closed the slide of the lantern.

"Thank you," he murmured, with a most elaborate bow. "I'm much obliged to both of you. Rich people like you won't ever miss a little sum like this, and it will make me remember you for many a day, even without the recollection of your pretty faces. You've been square by me, and I'll be square by you. And now one kiss all around, and we'll say good night."

"You scoundrel!" breathed Harriet, furious to her finger tips. "Go instantly or I will call for help."

"Oh, no, you won't, my beauty!" laughed the man. "I'll bet you've kissed uglier men than me before, and I'm going to take you down a peg. You holler once and I'll shoot the man that comes to help you."

Miss Renwyck, with the limp and whimpering Imogene clinging to her waist, moved slowly around the billiard table, while the burglar watched her, breathing hard and following with a catlike tread. He had taken perhaps six steps, and his back was now turned toward the door which led into the hall. Suddenly he felt a savage grip about his neck and found himself with outflung arms, his mouth and nose smashed flat against the table, while a tiny ring of cold steel was pushed behind his ear.

"Steady, you hound, or I'll give you a shot that you never saw in billiards!"

The tone was low, but masterful, and Mr. Jack Bibbs was far too prudent a gentleman to jeopard his health by futile disobedience. Therefore he made no immediate attempt to move.

On Harriet's brain, even in that dreadful instant, flashed a vivid, insistent memory. Again she was perched on the quivering broncho's back, pressed onward in a reeling, dizzy pool of death, while in her ears rang words of sweet encouragement. And as then she had exercised her force of will, so now she saved herself once more by clapping her hand over the mouth of fair Imogene. This time it was muscle combined with common sense, and a healthy shriek was throttled in its infancy.

"Look 'em over, Imogene, my dear," he continued.

Richard released his grip on the nape of his prisoner's neck.

"Stand up!" he ordered, and the man obeyed. "Hands up too! Ah, thank you! Perhaps you also have a gun. Allow me to relieve you of its weight." He ran his free hand over the person of Mr. Fitzgeorge and secured a short, ugly looking pistol and a pair of brass knuckles, both of which he promptly pocketed. "Good!" he chuckled. "And now, Miss Renwyck, will you please be good enough to throw some light upon this gentleman?"

"Yes," whispered Harriet; "I think I can explain it."

"No, no," the Texan interrupted. "I don't mean words. I refer to the bullseye lamp. Just turn it on him, please, and we'll look him over."

Miss Harriet complied. The light revealed the countenance of Roderick Fitzgeorge, alias Jack Bibbs, alias twenty other names which have no bearing on this comedy. His clear cut but dissipated features were distorted and sullen in his rage against the women whom he thought had laid a trap for him.

"My, what a prize package!" observed the Texan softly. "You have a bad eye, my friend; but, after all, I'm rather glad to know you. Miss Renwyck, do you think you could find me a rope or a piece of good, strong twine?"

"Oh, what is he going to do?" Miss Imogene began to whimper. "Oh, please, Lord Croyland, won't you let him go? He's my friend. We let him in the library window, and if you tie him up everybody will know all about it. Oh, oh, oh!"

Once more sharp symptoms of hysterics threatened to develop, and Miss Harriet's most persuasive powers were taxed to avert an alarming outbreak.

"Hush, dear, hush!" she whispered soothingly, then turned to Richard. "Lord Croyland," she said, "there are circumstances connected with this strange affair which prevent me from explaining fully. Tomorrow, when Imogene and I are less nervous, perhaps we can make you acquainted with the reasons. For the present I beg you to let this man go quietly. We have nothing more to fear from him."

Richard hesitated, glancing from Miss Harriet to the prisoner.

"Of course, Miss Renwyck," he answered regretfully. "I must bow to your judgment, though in my opinion you would better allow me to turn this fellow over to the police. I imagine they would be inordinately glad to see him. But—just as you like. There is one more little matter, however, which I must insist upon." He turned to the prisoner. "This young lady," he said, quietly pointing to Miss Imogene, "has paid you a somewhat exorbitant price for her own rightful property. Oblige me by returning the amount."

"Oh, no, no; let him keep it!" begged the victim, but Richard was obdurate upon this point.

Mr. Roderick Fitzgeorge, having accomplished the real object of his visit, was glad to be released at any price, especially as the disposal of the letters was merely a device for entering the house and holding the ladies while his confederate rifled the safe. Without more ado he took the money from his pocket, tossed it upon the billiard table and turned to the library door.

"One moment," Richard demanded. "Miss Renwyck, turn this light upon him, please. Thank you. Now on me. I want this gentleman to know me if we chance to meet again."

After a moment's silent scrutiny the Texan spoke in a stern but level voice:

"My friend, I am forced to let you go this time, though sadly against my inclination. You owe your release to the kindness of the ladies. The next time the affair will be mine. If you ever molest them again in any way I'll settle with you in a way we make use of in Texas. You understand? You are marked, my friend. I'd know your bad eye in Jericho. Yes, and I'd follow you there, too, for the pleasure of wringing your worthless neck. Now apologize to these ladies, then git!"

In Richard's present tone there was no suspicion of an English drawl, and Harriet marked it joyously, though half unconsciously, for the strain of fear and anxiety was now beginning to tell upon her nerves. Miss Imogene was ready for complete collapse, and the two stood trembling in each other's arms.

The burglar mumbled a stumbling apology, then passed into the library through the door which Richard opened for his exit. He lost no time in stepping through the still open window and in a moment more was skulking across the lawn.

"Lord Croyland," began Miss Harriet, who had followed from the billiard room with Imogene clinging hopelessly to her arm—"Lord Croyland, I want to thank you for—"

The words died suddenly upon her lips, and she leaned for support against the wall.

"Who's there?" called a voice in the darkness from the stairs in the hall.

"Quick!" whispered Richard to the terror stricken girls. "It's your father! Go back into the billiard room and slip upstairs when you get the chance. There! It's all right. Leave it to me."

He gave them no chance to disobey, but pushed them through the door, while he spurred his brain for some good excuse to account for his presence in the library at this unseemly hour.

"Who's there?" Mr. Renwyck called, and this time Richard answered back:

"Hello! It is I! Will—er—I mean Croyland. Is that you, Mr. Renwyck?"

He grabbed a book at random from one of the shelves, then drew the hall portieres aside, to discover his host, revolver in hand, on the dim lit stairs, arrayed in a long white night robe, which made him look more gaunt and angular than ever.

"Oh, it's you!" said Mr. Renwyck in great surprise. "I thought I heard a noise—a shot or something—and got up to investigate. Why in the name of heaven aren't you in bed?"

"I'm awfully sorry to have disturbed you," the Texan answered easily. "I— I—stumbled over a beastly chair in the dark. Too bad, upon my word! You see," he explained, "I couldn't sleep, so I came down here to take a liberty and a book."

Mr. Renwyck glanced at his costume, which, with the exception of his dress coat, which had been exchanged for a house jacket, was the same his guest had worn earlier in the evening. The financier thought for a moment, then descended the stairs, entered the library and switched on the electric light. The first thing to catch his eye was an open window, which Richard in his haste had failed to close.

The Texan interpreted the blank astonishment so clearly written on Mr. Renwyck's face and proceeded to enlighten him.

S.S.S. CURES SKIN DISEASES

There is an evaporation from the body going on continually, day and night, through the pores and glands of the skin. This is nature's way of maintaining the proper temperature of our systems and preserving the softness and flexibility of the skin, and so long as the blood is free from impurities no trouble will result. When, however, the blood from any cause becomes infected with humors and acids, these too must be expelled, and coming in contact with the delicate fibres and tissues with which the skin is so abundantly supplied they produce irritation and inflammation, and the effect is shown by Eczema, Acne, Tetter, and skin affections of various kinds. These impurities and humors get into the blood through a deranged or inactive condition of the system; the members whose duty it is to carry off the waste and refuse matter of the body fail to properly perform their work, and this impure, fermenting matter is left in the system to be absorbed by the blood. The skin is not only affected by poisons generated within the system, but poisons from without, such as Poison Oak, Poison Ivy, Nettle Rash, etc., enter through the open pores and glands, and so thoroughly do they become rooted in the blood that they are ever present, or return at certain seasons of each year to torment the sufferer. Salves, washes, lotions, etc., cannot cure skin diseases. True, such treatment relieves some of the itching and discomfort, and aids in keeping the skin clean, but it does not reach the real cause, and at best can be only palliating and soothing. A thorough cleansing of the blood is the only certain cure for skin diseases. S. S. S., a gentle acting, safe blood purifier, made entirely of vegetable ingredients of the forest and field, is the proper treatment. S. S. S. goes down into the circulation, and neutralizes the acids and humors, thoroughly cleansing and purifying the blood, and curing skin affections of every kind. It supplies to the blood the fresh, nutritive qualities necessary to sustain the skin and all other parts of the body, and rids the blood of any and all poisons. S. S. S. cures Eczema, Tetter, Acne, Salt Rheum, Poison Oak and Ivy, Nettle Rash, and all other skin troubles, and cures them permanently by removing every trace of the cause from the blood. Special book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice desired furnished free to all who write.

I have used your S. S. S., spring and fall, for the past two years, with the result that it entirely relieved me of a form of Eczema which my doctor was unable to cure. My arms, lower limbs, and, in fact, the biggest portion of my whole body was affected, and when I first began S. S. S. the itching, etc., was worse, but I continued the remedy with the result that the dry, itching eruption entirely disappeared. I think a great deal of your medicine, and have recommended it to others with good results. It is the best blood medicine made, and I can conscientiously recommend it for the cure of all blood and skin affections.

Justice Harlan on Rights of Government.

In an address before an association of lawyers in Detroit, Mich., last week, Justice Harlan, of the United States Supreme court, declared that honesty and fidelity in public office were the rule at the present time and not the exception. He disagreed earnestly with those persons who profess to see dishonesty and corruption everywhere and who affect to believe that the American nation is on the road to ruin.

On the division of authority between state and Federal government, the eminent jurist stood flatly on the ground that all matters committed to it by the constitution belonged in the jurisdiction of the Federal government, while all matters not so committed belonged to the states.

THOUSAND HOMES SHAKEN.

And Fireworks Plant and Houses Wrecked by Powder Explosion.

Newcastle, Pa., June 8.—A thousand homes were shaken as though by an earthquake, 500 windows were shattered and a fireworks plant and two houses were wrecked last night, when two tons of powder and enough fireworks for a half dozen celebrations let go, throwing people from their feet for three or four blocks and injuring a dozen persons, three seriously.

The seriously injured are Jacob Conti, owner of the plant, burned about the face and arms; Mrs. Jacob Conti, flesh torn from arms and legs, badly bruised, condition serious, and Mrs. Walls, an aged invalid, thrown from her bed, struck by a piece of rocket and seriously hurt.

Conti and his wife, who were near the scene, were frightfully cut and their clothing almost torn from their bodies. The woman's six-months-old child, which she held in her arms, was unhurt. Fire did $10,000 damage following the explosion.

Railroad Engineer Arrests Negro Murderers.

Roanoke, Va., June 8.—John Woolf, Tom Keenan and Charles Herring, three negroes, wanted at Winston, N. C., for the murder there Sunday night of Peter Denson, also negro, were captured by a Norfolk & Western freight train engineer, J. Edgar Webb, at a point 20 miles south of Roanoke at an early hour today.

When the train stopped at Rocky Mount, Webb discovered the presence of the alleged murderers on his tender and held them up with a pick. Other members of the train crew came to Webb's assistance and the engineer then tied the three negroes with the bell cord of his locomotive, and brought them to Roanoke, where they were handed over to the authorities. Woolf admits that he is the man who killed Denson.

Engineer Webb was formerly a policeman and lives in this city.

Reidsville Youth Robbed on Train.

Reidsville, June 8.—Mr. E. H. Pinnix, son of Mr. J. E. Pinnix, of near Pelham, who left here for Oklahoma some months ago, and who has been living in that state since then, being employed with a railroad company, has returned to his home. While on a train between Gentry, Ark., and Kansas City, Mo., Mr. Pinnix had the misfortune to be robbed of $228. He was lying down upon one of the seats in the car sleeping, it is supposed, when some party or parties unknown rifled his pockets and secured his wallet which was in one of his hip pockets. Mr. Pinnix is about 17 or 18 years old and has a large number of friends who will be glad of his return and sorry to hear of his loss.

Death in Iowa Tornado.

Charles City, Iowa, June 7.—A tornado struck Charles City this evening, demolishing about 200 buildings and killing W. R. Beck and a child. Three children are reported missing.

The tornado started three miles southeast of town, tearing down farm houses and barns and killing many head of stock. It plowed a path ten rods wide through Charles City and spent itself a few miles from town. The tornado just missed the buildings of Charles City College.

Barns were carried several blocks, trees torn up by the roots, and in some instances driven through buildings. Water was lifted from the channel of the river which flows through town.

Escaped Guilford Convict Shoots Negro in Winson.

Winston-Salem, June 8.—John Wooley, a negro, who shot and mortally wounded Peter Denison, also colored, here on Saturday night, was captured in Roanoke this morning by a detective and will be brought here tonight for trial. Wooley and two other negroes were beating their way on a freight train when arrested. Denison, before his death yesterday afternoon, stated that Wooley was shooting at another negro and the ball accidentally hit him. A message from High Point says Wooley is an escaped convict from Guilford county and that he escaped from another county while serving a three-year sentence.

Young Man Murders His Father.

Cliffside, June 7.—Yesterday evening about sundown John Padgett, 50 years of age, and his son, William Padgett, about 22 years, were drinking at their home five miles north of Cliffside, and while at the barn got into a quarrel and then into a fight. The son went to the house, and securing a gun started back to the barn and met his father and shot him, killing him instantly.

French Physician Has Cure for Rabies.

The cure of rabies, even in advanced stages, will be possible if the experiments that are being conducted by Dr. August Mare, a French physician, bear their promised fruit. Dr. Mare will not describe his cure until it had appeared in some recognized medical journal, but it is known by his method, which has the Pasteur treatment as its basis, immunity against the spread of the disease is obtained much more quickly than by the old method.

Such cases as that which recently caused the death of William H. March, the Brooklyn manufacturer, it is announced, will be amenable to the new treatment.

Grain Acreage Increased.

Yaqui Indians on Warpath.

Mexico City, June 8.—The Yaqui Indians have resumed their hostilities against the Mexican troops and all others who they chance to come across. Negotiations for peace were suspended several days ago, it is said, upon the refusal of the government to accept the proposal offered by the Yaqui chiefs.

A telegram from Guaymas says that Manuel de la Hoz, a leading lawyer of that place, was out hunting with some companions when he was fired upon by the Yaquis. He drove off the Indians, killing one of them.

She had been missed not longer than fifteen minutes when the searchers went out, but she was dead when found.

NEW COUNTY MAP.

Contract Made by Commissioners and Board of Education—To be First Class in Every Particular.

At a joint meeting of the county commissioners and the board of education Friday afternoon, a contract was made with Mr. C. M. Miller, of Sallabury, to prepare and publish an accurate map of Guilford county. The cost to the county will be $1,000, the expense to be borne equally by the county commissioners and the board of education. The work is to be completed about December 1st.

The maps will be printed on heavy map paper, 45 by 50 inches in size. The different townships will be in colors and the lines will be based on the actual survey. The map will show all the public and private roads, churches, schoolhouses, mills, principal farm houses, townships and school districts, railroads, bridges, creeks and principal streams, macadam roads, rural mail routes, telephone lines and all places of importance. There will be enough of Greensboro and High Point on the map so there will be no trouble in finding the roads leading to these places.

The board of education will place
one of these maps in each school room
of every public school in the county.
There will also be one placed in each public county office. Individuals desiring a map can secure one for the sum of $1.50.

Mr. Miller will be in the county some time gathering material for the map. This will prove to be no small task, as the names of the land-owners of the county will be given and it will be shown on what rural route they live. Should a man be a tenant, the map will so indicate. There will be a scale of miles on the map, and one can tell immediately how far a stated point is from Greensboro or other points and the nearest route by which the place can be easily found.

This will doubtless prove a valuable acquisition to the county officers who travel the county and to individuals who have interests in various sections, while the benefits in the school room can hardly be estimated by one other than a teacher.

Mr. Miller has made maps of Forsyth, Union and other counties and is believed to be well qualified for the work.

AUDUBON SOCIETY REPORT.

A Year's Work for the Protection of Birds and Game.

The sixth annual report of the North Carolina State Audubon Society was issued a few days ago from the office of the secretary, Prof. T. Gilbert Pearson. The report shows in detail the work accomplished during the past year for the protection of birds and game and is quite an interesting document. Secretary Pearson is especially pleased with the success of the work in breeding birds on the society's island along the Atlantic coast of North Carolina that are almost extinct. The only colony of Cabot's terns on the Atlantic coast is on one of the society's islands. Sixty-four eggs were laid by these birds this season. The society also has the largest colony in the world of Least terns.

During the past year the society has employed more game wardens than ever before, sixty-nine men having been employed in this work. During the two years previous to the past year
the society had procured the conviction of 249 persons for violations of the laws; during the past year 245 persons were convicted for such offences, nearly twice as many as were convicted during the previous year.

For hunting on lands without permission 108 persons were convicted.
Other convictions were: Killing robins in close season, 25; for killing quails in close season, 29; non-residents hunting without state license, 17. Game Warden Thompson, of Rowan county, procured 53 convictions, more than any other warden. Next on the list is W.
R. Moore, of High Point, who was responsible for 45 convictions.

North Carolina is the pioneer of the southern states in Audubon Society work. Since the society was organized in this state similar societies have been organized in Tennessee, South Carolina and Alabama, and Prof. Pearson has been asked to draft a bill to be presented to the legislatures of Georgia and Florida providing for such organizations in those states. Prof. Pearson has also made speeches in those states advocating the protection of birds and game.

WORK OF SUPERIOR COURT.

Verdict of $5,000 in Damage Case—Suit Against Col. Staples.

The civil term of Guilford Superior court, which convened on Tuesday morning of last week, adjourned Saturday evening. The term was to have continued through the present week, but owing to the fact that so many members of the bar were to be absent attending the judicial convention in Durham Monday and the congressional convention in this city this afternoon, it was deemed advisable to adjourn.

The next civil term of court will convene August 24th. A criminal term will convene next Monday.

The case of Jalle H. Cox, administrator, vs. the High Point, Randleman and Asheboro Railway Company was concluded just before adjournment Saturday evening, the jury returning a verdict of $5,000 in favor of the plaintiff. The suit was instituted for damages to the extent of $25,000 for the death of Cyrus Cox, a railway mail clerk, who lost his life in a wreck between High Point and Asheboro about three years ago, it being alleged that the wreck was due to defective and rotten cross-ties.

The jury returned a verdict for the defendant in the case of the Snow
Lumber Company against Rev. W. M.
Bagby, for an alleged indebtedness of $1,728 for lumber used in a building erected by the defendant in High Point
a few years ago.

Before adjourning court, Judge Webb made an order setting aside the case of C. A. Bray, trustee, vs. John N. Staples as the first case on the docket for the next civil term. This case grows out of the settlement of the estate of the late B. J. Fisher, the suit being brought in an effort to set aside an award of counsel fees made by a court of arbitration. Col. Staples was attorney for Capt. Fisher in a damage suit instituted against the Greensboro Waterworks Company and in other matters, and when, in winding up the affairs of the estate, a question arose as to the amount of the fees, the matter was submitted to arbitration. The arbitrators awarded Col. Staples the sum of $7,500, and when $5,500 of this amount had been paid, suit was instituted to stop the payment of the remainder.

Fire Insurance Man Goes to Pacific Coast.

Mr. James F. Cobb, secretary of the Dixie Fire Insurance Company and the North State Fire Insurance Company, left Greensboro Friday night for San Francisco, Cal., where he will reside in the future as manager of the Pacific coast department of the two companies. Mr. Cobb made a trip to the Pacific coast a few months ago and returned enthusiastic over the prospects and possibilities of that part of the country, and it was through his instrumentality that his companies decided to operate in that section. It was only natural that Mr. Cobb should be chosen to develop the territory and handle the business.

In the absence of Mr. Cobb the home office work of the two companies will be in charge of Mr. I. W. Rockey, assistant secretary of the Dixie, and Mr. F. M. Garner, assistant secretary of the North State, both of whom are experienced and expert fire insurance men.

Mr. Cobb's family will remain in Greensboro until the fall season.

An Editor Laid Up for Repairs.

Mr. J. M. Reece, editor of the Daily Record, is an unwilling prisoner in his home, the result of a painful injury to his left knee-cap and the muscles of that limb. Unmindful of the weight of advancing years, Editor Reece, who will never lose his youthful spirit, engaged in a playful scuffle with his athletic young friend, Mr. A. R. Horry, Saturday afternoon. Mr. Horry lifted the editor from the floor, and in letting him down, Mr. Reece's foot turned, dislocating his knee-cap and spraining
the muscles in the lower part of the limb. He will be confined to his home for a week or ten days.

Monday was the first day in 19 years that Mr. Reece had been unable to go to his office by reason of physical disability, from which it will be seen that,
in balancing accounts, he has no kick coming.

To Give Vacation.

The White Oak, Proximity and Revolution cotton mills will shut down on June 27th, to give the operatives a week's vacation. On the following Saturday the management will give the annual Fourth of July picnic, and on the following Monday, July 6th, the plants will resume operations. The shut-down of a week is to give the operatives an opportunity for rest and recreation.

TAX RATE FIXED.

Remains Same as Last Year—The Apportionment.

The board of county commissioners met in adjourned session Friday to fix the tax levy for next year and to transact other business left unfinished from the regular June meeting.

The most important matter was the fixing of the tax rate, which was allowed to remain the same as last year—79 cents on the valuation of $100.
The tax levy is apportioned as follows:
For state purposes, 21 cents; county 23 cents; schools, 18 cents; roads, 12 cents; pensions, 4 cents.

The poll tax will be $2, which is 37 cents less than formerly. This decrease, which is in compliance with a recent Supreme court decision to the effect that a poll tax in excess of $2 is unconstitutional, will mean a loss of practically $3,000 a year to the county, the same to be cut off from the road fund.

If You Read This

It will be to learn that the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice recommend, in the strongest terms possible, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, "liver complaint," torpid liver, or biliousness, chronic bowel affections, and all catarrhal diseases of whatever region, name or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and their resultants, as bronchitis, throat and lung disease (except consumption) accompanied with severe coughs. It is not so good for acute colds and coughs, but for lingering, or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Black Cherry bark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandrake root and Queen's root—all of which are highly praised as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Bartholow, of Jefferson Med. College; Prof. Hare, of the Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Finley, of Howard, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. Edwin M. Hays, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago, and scores of others equally eminent in their several schools of practice.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for like purposes, that has any such professional endorsement—worth more than any number of ordinary testimonials. Open publicity of its formula is the best possible guaranty of its merits. A glance at this published formula will show that "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no poisonous, harmful or habit-forming drugs and no alcohol—chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead. Glycerine is entirely unobjectionable and besides is a most useful agent in the cure of all stomach as well as bronchial, throat and lung affections. There is the highest medical authority for its use in all such cases. The "Discovery" is a concentrated glyceric extract of native, medicinal roots and is safe and reliable. A booklet of extracts from eminent medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients mailed free on request. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

We understand that the North Carolina Granite Corporation's quarry at this place has the brightest prospect for future business that has been in sight for a long time, the outlook for the summer being excellent. The force of men employed at these works is being constantly increased and preparations made to push the work in all departments to an increased output, all of which is a very gratifying bit of news.

While Governor Glenn was in Washington last week a boom was launched for his nomination for vice president. The Washington Post had the following to say of North Carolina's chief executive:

"Governor R. B. Glenn, of North Carolina, who is here to deliver an address before the Confederate Veterans' Association at Arlington cemetery Sunday, is prominently spoken of for the Democratic nomination for the vice presidency. The Tarheel executive is an enthusiastic admirer of William Jennings Bryan, and will in all probability be one of the delegates at large from his state to the Denver convention."

Former Millionaire Seeks Admission to Almshouse.

Milwaukee, June 6.—C. J. L. Myer, first president of the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad, and worth at one time a million dollars, came today to Gustave Freilich, of the Associated Charities, and applied for admission to the Milwaukee county poorhouse.

"I have come to you, Mr. Freilich," he said, "an ordinary pauper, to ask for admission to your poorhouse, and I suppose you will ask me what brought me to these straits."

He then told of his failure in business, of his losses in first one direction and another, until finally he was left entirely penniless. He has two daughters, both of them married to wealthy men, but neither of them replied to his request for aid.

His colored assistant pulled White loose from the wire.

ESSAY ON THE CAT BIRD.

Paper That Took Audubon Society First Prize at Proximity Graded School.

A pleasing feature of the closing exercises of the Proximity graded school last week was the awarding of several prizes given by the State Audubon Society to the pupils who had written the best essays on subjects pertaining to bird life. In awarding these prizes, Miss Mary Taylor Moore, the school secretary, stated that the Audubon Society had offered these prizes in order to stimulate interests in bird study among the pupils of the school.

Pupils from the third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades competed for these prizes, and nearly every paper was a good one, showing that its writer had really observed the birds described. The first prize, which was a five dollar bill, was awarded to Miss Jessie Bunting, of the fourth grade. The second prize, a handsome copy of "Bird Neighbors," was given to Virgil Sillmon, of the sixth grade. Miss Leona Jones, of the fifth grade, secured the third prize, a copy of "Everyday Birds." The fourth prize, a copy of "Short Stories of Our Sky Neighbors," was given to Ernest Duggins, of the third grade.

The following is the paper, which, all things considered, was adjudged the best and whose writer therefore received the first prize:

Proximity Graded School, June 1, 1928.
My Dear Mr. Pearson:—I will tell you about a bird I am interested in. It is the cat bird. Its color is a bluish gray. It has a long fan tail, but does not have a top-knot on its head as some other birds do. Its body is about four inches long and has a beak nearly an inch long and its tail is about three inches long. It is a permanent resident of North Carolina.

I was out in the country last summer spending vacation and I watched the cat birds. I saw them building their nests. They made them of feathers and dead grass, which they picked up in the yard, and they built their nests in the shade trees in the yard. They built in a thick bunchy bow. They also built in fruit trees. They built their nests in the second week of May. They lay four bluish green eggs.

While the mother bird is sitting the father bird does not go very close to her nest. It takes the eggs about two or three weeks to hatch. When the eggs hatch the father and mother birds have to keep very busy gathering food for the young ones. They feed them on worms and bugs. The father bird does not go very close to the nest while the wife is sitting, but he always finds out when the young ones hatch. I suppose he visits her when there is no one around. They generally sit about two or three times a season.

When the young ones get large enough to get out of the nest, they will fly out of the nest to the ground. The father and mother birds have lots of trouble with the young ones when they get out of the nest. When any one tries to bother the young ones, the mother bird flies around and cries, and she will try to flog any one when they are trying to get her babies. When the young ones would fall out of their nest, the father would try to catch them, and sometimes he would kill one, and I had to switch him several times about killing the young birds, but it did not do him much good because he liked to misbehave. One day I tried to catch one of the young birds and the mother bird was sitting on a cherry tree near by and flew around me and tried to bite me, and I had to let it alone. The cat birds eat mostly seeds of different kinds.

One day I was out in the yard and I heard the mother bird crying. I went to see what was the matter and I saw a young bird sitting on the fence about six inches from the ground and a large black snake was lying on the ground with its head raised ready to catch the young one, and the mother bird was sitting on the snake crying. I ran to the house and told uncle about it, and he got his gun and shot the snake. It was about three feet long. After uncle had killed the snake he took up the little baby bird and set it up in an apple tree, and then the mother bird flew away looking very happy and gay.

Farmers like these birds because they catch so many insects and eat so many grass seeds. I have written all I know now, so I will close.

Yours truly,
JESSIE BUNTING.

Dreyfus Shot by Editor.

Paris, June 4.—Just at the close of the ceremonies attending the canonization of Emile Zola in the Pantheon today, when the President of France, the Premier and a host of ministers of state were taking their departure, Louis Anthelm Gregori, a military writer of note, drew a revolver and fired two shots point blank at Maj. Alfred Dreyfus, for whose liberty Zola fought and won.

Men distinguished in all walks of life filled the pantheon, and when the shots rang out there was intense excitement in fear that the President had been assassinated, but even the attempt upon the life of Major Dreyfus created a profound impression. Soldiers speedily surrounded Gregori and he was taken to jail, bruised and bleeding with his clothes almost torn from his back.

Major Dreyfus was not seriously injured. A bullet entered his forearm, but did not injure the bone.

The affair has created a tremendous sensation in Paris and the motive of the would-be assassin is the cause of much mystification, for Gregori, instead of being an ordinary fanatic, such as is carried away by the political passions of the moment, is a man of mature age, having been born in 1844, and was highly esteemed in the circles where he was known. His friends are at a loss to understand what induced him to commit such a foolhardy act, and many are disposed to question his statement that he simply shot an individual in protest against the participation of the army in the ceremonies attending the placing of the ashes of Zola in the pantheon.

Davidson Will Hardly Get the Money.

Statesville Landmark.
The Landmark has mentioned the proposed gift of $100,000 of Rockefeller money to Davidson College by the General Education Board. It has been supposed that the money was as good as in the Davidson treasury, but not so. The Landmark is advised that the gift is surrounded by such conditions that the college will hardly be able to accept it, even if it desired to do so.

The conditions we understand are these: That in addition to the $100,000 given by the General Educational Board, Mr. Carnegie shall give $100,000, the president of the college shall raise $100,000 and the people of Charlotte shall give something like $250,000, all on condition that the college be moved to Charlotte.

If all this money could be raised, which is a matter of considerable doubt, the proposition to move the college to Charlotte—or to move it anywhere—would doubtless meet with such fierce opposition that the success of the undertaking would be a matter of doubt.

And so under these conditions Davidson will hardly get the $100,000 offered by the General Education Board. It were better so.

Young Man Convicted of Forgery.

Wilson R. Perry, of Auburn, 22 years old, formerly an express messenger running between Wilmington and Rocky Mount, was convicted of forgery in Tarboro last week and sentenced to the state penitentiary for a year. The young man forged a check for $60 on a bank in Rocky Mount and was arrested soon afterward while boarding a train for Petersburg.

NEGRO FOUND DEAD.

Sam Erwin, Escaped Convict, Victim of Foul Play.

Asheboro Courier.

On Monday afternoon of this week Sheriff P. P. Jones, of Liberty township, phoned Sheriff Hayworth that a colored man had been found dead on the Jacob Foust place some three miles this side of Liberty. The sheriff notified the coroner and the coroner went over Tuesday morning. Sheriff Hayworth and Solicitor Hammer also went over.

The coroner's jury found that Sam Erwin, who had escaped from the chain gang of this county, was found dead along a branch where a few runs of whiskey had been made in a small still of two bushel capacity.

It appeared that Claud Foust, who is also an ex-convict, having served a term on the chain gang in this county, and who had lived in a little hut on the north side of the plantation which belongs to the estate of his father, Jacob Foust, had with Sam Erwin made a few runs of whiskey. Last Sunday was a week ago is the last time that Claud Foust was seen in that community. He was then seen by Mr. J. C. Cox.

It is believed that the negro was killed prior to this time, for on Friday before that two other negroes came and finished making a run of whiskey in the little still.

The negro was in such a decomposed condition that it was impossible to identify him except by his clothes and his general appearance, which indicated that he was Sam Erwin. He was found in a hole in the side of the branch, and still slop had been poured on top of him and brush and small bushes had been cut down over him.

Appearances indicated that the slop was poured on him and he was thrown over him to deceive the public by pretending to cover up the slop so that when flies, etc., were seen there by those who might pass they would think that an effort had been made to conceal the still slop.

Twenty-five yards from where the killing occurred there was dried blood. It is believed that the colored man was shot. One of his arms was off, his head was gone, his flesh was ready to fall from the bones, and his body was in such a decomposed condition that it was a most horrible and sickening sight.

The report of the coroner's jury was that the deceased came to his death at the hands of some unknown person or persons, but the general belief is that Claud Foust killed him and has left the country.

GOES 15,000 MILES TO WED.

Baltimore, Md., June 4.—Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Martin Matthews, of 1312 Eutaw place, whose daughter, Miss Nellie Montgomery Matthews, left this city a short time ago on a journey of 15,000 miles for the purpose of becoming the bride of Ensign Reed Marquette Fawell, of Lincoln, Neb., who is in command of the United States gunboat Samar, stationed at Hongkong, China, received a cablegram from their daughter late Wednesday night stating that the ceremony had been performed at Hongkong that morning.

The couple met at a Naval Academy here. They were engaged four years, during which time the prospective groom was constantly ordered farther east.

Miss Matthews personally saw President Roosevelt and made a vain plea that her fiancé be ordered to the United States.

Finally she decided to go from Baltimore to Hongkong and be married.

TAR HEELS GRADUATE.

Young Carolinians Win Honors at the Naval Academy.

Two hundred young men graduated from the United States Naval Academy, at Annapolis, Md., Thursday, this being the largest class in the history of the institution. Among the graduates are five North Carolinians: John Wilkes Rankin, a native of Charlotte, now of Hartford, Conn.; William Cook Owen, of Fayetteville; William R. Smith, Jr., of Weldon; Paul L. Holland, native of Laurinburg, now of Willis Creek, Bladen county, and Robert S. Young, Jr., of Concord. Young Rankin graduated third in this big class of two hundred, winning high and coveted honors. Holland stood eleventh in the class and Smith fifteenth. The first twenty-five in the graduating class are first honor men and have the choice of appointments and may gratify their own desires as to which branch of the naval service they enter. Owen stood fifty-seventh in the class and Young ninety-seventh. It is a handsome and popular quintette, and one of which the Old North State may well be proud. It is a pleasant coincidence that these young Tar Heels, with two years sea duty before them, take their first official cruise as full-fledged officers on the handsome new armored cruiser North Carolina, queen of the navy. It is likely that all of them may be assigned to her for their sea-duty period.

To Close Milton Saloons.

Reidsville, June 3.—Information was received here last night that the county commissioners of Caswell county had at a meeting held at Yanceyville decided to grant no license to saloons after July 1st. This will close the two saloons at Milton. A strenuous fight was made before the commissioners by the Anti-Saloon League, who opposed the licensing of saloons, and by Messrs. F. R. Gordon and Robert Ferguson, who own the saloons at Milton. The last named gentlemen were represented by attorneys, who appeared in their behalf. A good many citizens of Milton testified, the burden of their complaint being that since Danville went dry crowds of negroes and white men had been coming into Milton to obtain whiskey and created such disorder that the town authorities could not cope with the situation.

To Put Coca Cola Under the Ban.

A dispatch from Charlotte to the state press says: "A movement is being put on foot here to start a campaign to have the next legislature prohibit the sale of coca cola and a number of other drinks in this state. A number of the leaders throughout the state believe the sale of coca cola should be prohibited, hence a strong movement will be started against its sale and a fight will be made against it in the next legislature. It is understood the fight will be conducted from the state capital after the movement has been thoroughly organized, and that committees will be appointed in every town in the state to push the fight."

Accident on Cruiser Kills Six.

Four men were killed and 10 injured on board the armored cruiser Tennessee, at sea off the coast of California, Thursday, when a boiler tube broke, hurling fragments of iron about the engine room and filling it with scalding steam. The accident happened an hour after the cruiser left Santa Barbara on her way with six other vessels of the Pacific fleet, to Los Angeles ports. Two of the injured died later.

Against White Slave Trade.

In the next week or ten days the treaty to which the United States and nearly every European power were signatories, aimed against the "white slave" trade, will be proclaimed by President Roosevelt. Secretary Root is working out the details whereby he hopes that with the co-operation of the police of the cities, particularly on the Atlantic coast, in conjunction with the immigration officials, much can be done toward restricting the class of women whom the treaty was designed to reach.

As soon as the proclamation is issued the Department of Commerce and Labor will proceed to make active warfare against the offenders.

THE REPUBLICAN PLATFORM.

Will Endorse Roosevelt's Policies and Hold Up Party's Record for Admiration—Tariff Revision and Railroad Rate Regulation.

The platform to be submitted to the Republican national convention in Chicago has been completed, with the exception of a few details, which will be left for the committee on platform and resolutions to insert. The work has been done by Hon. Wade Ellis, attorney general of Ohio, the draftsman of the recent Ohio state platform; Senator Hopkins, who will be the chairman of the committee on resolutions; Senator Long, of Kansas, and a few others, including the President and Secretary Taft, who have been freely consulted.

The policies of President Roosevelt will be endorsed unequivocally, and this endorsement will be the central idea of the document. The Republican party's record as the party of protection and sound money, as the party of progress and good principles, as the party that gave freedom to Cuba and lifted the yoke from the necks of the people of the Philippines and Porto Rico, will be held up for admiration and made the subject of much praise, and the voting public will be asked to continue to patronize the political craft that has carried it across so many streams. Specifically speaking, more attention has been given by the platform makers to the tariff than to any other subject. There will be an unequivocal declaration for revision; but the disposition is to leave the working out of details to the ingenuity of Congress.

Next to the tariff the financial plank has received most careful attention. Congress and the administration will be congratulated upon the passage of the Aldrich-Vreeland bill as in the interest of sound finance and as calculated to protect the business world against possible panics in the near future and at the same time provide for the permanent improvement of our currency system through the recommendations which it is anticipated will be made by the commission appointed under the new law. Reference will be made to the financial disturbance of last fall, and while the seriousness of that crisis will be recognized, the claim will be made that the Republican party was found able to meet the situation and that the country will be informed that by its prompt action the business world was saved from long drawn out financial depression and industrial inactivity.

The administration will be also especially complimented upon the passage during the Fifty-ninth Congress of the railroad rate law, and this legislation will be pointed to as an example of what the party will do for the country at large in case it is given such a lease of power as to afford it sufficient time for the changes which are believed to be desirable.

The convention will place itself on record as favorable to such an amendment of the Sherman anti-trust law as will enable the railroads to enter into reasonable traffic agreements without taking the risk of prosecution in the criminal courts.

Cognizance will be taken of the demands of labor to the extent of recommending such legislation as will insure labor organizations against snap judgment by the courts in the issuance of injunctions without due notice or necessary hearing.

There will be a trust resolution along the lines of that embraced in the platform of 1900, when the necessity and propriety of honest co-operation and combination was recognized to meet new conditions and extend American trade in foreign countries, but when conspiracies which create monopolies, limit production and control prices, were pointedly condemned.

As usual the platform will declare for the protection of the civil liberties of the negro race. A special effort will be made to have this plank comprehensive and emphatic.

There will be a strong declaration in favor of the continued improvement of the navy, including the constant increase of our battleships. There will be a word in favor of the maintenance of the army on its present basis, but no recommendation for its enlargement. The action of Congress in increasing the pensions of the widows of soldiers will be commended.

Among other recommendations that will be made will be the following: For the admission at the next session of Congress of Arizona and New Mexico as separate states of the union; for the fostering of our commerce in the Orient, for the open door in China; for the exclusion of coolie labor, whether Chinese or Japanese; strong commendation of the present civil service policy; endorsement of the plan to grant a subsidy in the interest of the ocean mails to South America and Australia, and for the encouragement of American shipping generally.

There will be a demand for the continuation of the policies of the present administration towards corporations. Attention will be called to the wisdom of carrying into effect all the recommendations of the President and the necessity for a "square deal" all round.

Will Probably Leave High Point.

It is probable that Dr. George H. Crowell, superintendent of the High Point graded schools, will decline the unanimous call of the board for the twelfth time and accept work elsewhere. Dr. Crowell has been elected vice-chancellor of Epworth University, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. This university is a young institution, with all the stalwart possibilities of the hustling west, and Dr. Crowell is especially fitted for the work. In addition to this offer, Dr. Crowell also has under advisement one of the most flattering offers within this state, with a good salary and a field for large usefulness.

Death Was on His Heels.

Jesse P. Morris, of Skippers, Va., had a close call in the spring of 1906. He says: "An attack of pneumonia left me so weak and with such a fearful cough that my friends declared consumption had me, and death was on my heels. Then I was persuaded to try Dr. King's New Discovery. It helped me immediately, and after taking two and a half bottles I was a well man again. I found out that New Discovery is the best remedy for coughs and lung disease in all the world." Sold under guarantee at all druggists, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

DEMOCRATIC CHANCES.

The Opportunity for Success in November—Johnson for Vice-President—Must Pay Interest on Government Deposits.

Correspondence of the Patriot.

Washington, D. C., June 8.—The opinion is prevalent throughout this part of the country that the chances of the Democratic party for victory were never so bright as now and it must be admitted that there is undoubtedly a sentiment of change, a restlessness manifesting itself all over the United States. This desire for change is in evidence in the ranks of the Republican party and the Democrats could easily take advantage of this upheaval, if a real leader is found. Can Bryan do it? Is the question heard on every hand in Democratic circles. His popularity in many parts of the country is conceded, and Democrats and Republicans alike agree that he is the only man in sight for the Denver convention, but astute politicians are dubious about his ability to lead the party to victory in November next.

According to the men who dominate the councils of the Democratic party, it is the patriotic duty of Governor Johnson, of Minnesota, to accept the nomination for vice president, as he would add strength and popularity to the ticket, the two elements most needed, they admit, with Bryan at the head.

No doubt the tariff revision is a subject that will cause no little confusion at the Chicago convention. Wade Ellis, the astute attorney general of Ohio, is to write the tariff revision plank for the Chicago platform, and, after much consulting with the President and Secretary Taft, he has betaken himself to the seashore to frame the plank into the various sinuosities of the complicated tariff problem. Just what will happen to the plank when it reaches the committee on resolutions, remains to be seen.

Banks in which funds of the government are deposited must hereafter pay interest for the use of such funds, under the terms of the new currency law. An exception is made in the case of those national banking associations designated as regular depositories, in which government funds are placed strictly for use in the government's own expenses. The rate of interest chargeable is to be not less than 1 per cent. and as much more as the Secretary of the Treasury may deem proper. For the present, however, the probable rate of interest will be 1 per cent. a year. In the banks designated as regular depositories the government deposits funds to carry on necessary expenditures of the government in various parts of the country.

Any action which the various church conventions, held at this season of the year, may take regarding Sunday diversions by enlisted men of the army and navy will in no way alter the position of the War and Navy departments on this subject. The Presbyterians, at Kansas City, have taken the first step in that direction when at their meeting, recently they listened to a report, recently the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy for permitting Sunday base ball playing on the part of the soldiers and sailors. The position of the authorities is that enlisted men have little enough opportunity for relaxation and that after the usual hours of Sunday worship it will be entirely proper to allow them to play baseball on the naval and military reservations where such contests do not interfere with other people's observance of the Sabbath. Orders will be issued to have the military and naval reservations closed to the public if the games become a nuisance or an annoyance in any way to the civil community.

Blockade Whiskey in Davidson.

Lexington Dispatch.

That blockade stills are running right along in various secluded spots not a great way from Lexington is the opinion of a number of men in authority around the town. A man says that one can stand on the Raleigh bridge, near the Oneida chair plant, and see the smoke arising from a moonshine outfit. Sunday some boys were bathing in a creek near town, when they saw a number of men from Lexington drive into the woods, hitch their horses and get out with jugs; and they returned with full vessels. Two men who live in the same community near town, one of whom was wet and the other dry, both used the same argument to back their views, the argument being that men passed through their farms enroute to a blockade still to get whiskey. There is no doubt in the world that blockade whiskey is being made in Davidson. Revenue officers have not made a visit to this county in a long time; and the county officials have done absolutely nothing.

Meeting of State Board of Agriculture.

The semi-annual meeting of the state board of agriculture was held in Raleigh last week, adjourning Friday after adopting the budget aggregating $60,000, and taking action as to a number of other matters. The budget comprises about the usual objects and amounts. A resolution was adopted regretting the death of Thomas K. Bruner, and paying tribute to the fine service rendered the state as secretary of the board for twenty odd years, much of the progress in agriculture and other lines in the state being due to his effort.

Another resolution directed the establishment of an additional state test farm in the northwestern section of the state, somewhere about Alleghany county, for stock and fruit tests. Commissioner of Agriculture S. L. Patterson was authorized to arrange for the performance of the duties of secretary and bookkeeper, the position made vacant by the death of Mr. Bruner. It is understood that Elias Carr, who has performed this work for several months, will be given this work without increasing the office force.

CHILDREN OF THE POOR.

An eastern educator declares that percentage among the poor should be discouraged. He says the multiplication of the children of the poor is at the root of our social evils. He is mistaken.

The unrestrained breeding of diseased or criminal paupers is an undoubted evil. But mere poverty is no handicap to good citizenship.

Poverty is not hereditary. And in this country poverty is often a help rather than a hindrance in the building of character. "The republic is opportunity." Deprivation is apt to teach the need of self denial, economy, personal endeavor, thrift—all the splendid virtues of successful living.

The children of the poor! What burdens their hands have lifted from the shoulders of staggering humanity! What a grip they have had on the problems of the world! Their hands have lifted the gates of empire from their hinges.

No wonder a James A. Garfield should say he felt lifting his hat to every humble urchin on the street because of the possibilities hidden beneath his ragged jacket.

Had there been no children of the poor there had been no Franklin to invent, no Shakespeare to write, no Spurgeon to preach, no Napoleon to war.

Had there been no children of the poor there had been no Christ!

We cannot tell who our next great countryman shall be nor where he will be born.

But it is safe to say that he will be of the children of the poor. It may be he will be born in some miner's cabin or in some homesteader's shack.

Strike from the list of the world's greatest ones in statesmanship, in science, in art, in literature, the names of the children of the poor, and your list will be but a meager one.

Let us quote again from Garfield, who said:

"Our society is not like the society of Europe, which is like the strata of the earth, each layer holding the one beneath it down. It is rather like the waters of the sea where the lowest drop may rise and glisten on the topmost wave."

What a seal our national history has set upon that utterance!

There is no danger to the republic in the parentage of simple poverty.

BE AN OPTIMIST.

Hold up your chin and smile! You cannot be a pessimist and be really successful. The optimistic spirit, the bright outlook, are absolute essentials toward successful living. Depression and gloom never won a victory of any kind.

Every effort to organize the "smile" clubs and "sunshine" clubs, so popular just now, ought to be encouraged. Especially does the business world need the helpful influence of the optimistic spirit.

Just how the country still feels the effect of the panic of last fall. It is also "presidential year." Business men generally expect dull conditions until after the presidential election—and usually get what they expect.

It is therefore the more necessary that people should be stimulated by hopefulness. They should be shown the bright side of things.

Panics are largely psychological. Every so often people begin to expect and talk about the coming of a financial depression. The expectation brings about the reality. Money gets scarce, capital begins to hedge. Men are out of employment. People economize. The "hard times" are on.

When the historian comes to investigate the period he finds the panic was caused by fear. The scare originated in the discouraging remarks of somebody supposed to know. Some one high up put the "suggestion" into the people's minds. The people were hypnotized.

Take the present year. It is the popular belief and expression that a presidential year must necessarily be a slow year in commercial circles. Because of that general belief this year is likely to be a dull year in business. It requires more than ordinary effort on the part of the hopeful and irrepressible optimists to change such a settled belief.

Confidence is the basis of all prosperity. If the country gets hopeful inspiration from the leaders of public opinion, it can accomplish much despite pessimistic tendencies.

Every one can do something toward creating an atmosphere of cheerfulness. Persistent hopefulness will do it. Smile!

Help your community by inspiration. Help your neighbor. Smile! Help yourself. Smile!

MY CREED.

"I believe."

Let the scoffer sneer at my faith if he will. I will pity him because he has no faith of his own. He cannot hurt me nor my faith. He can hurt only himself.

I feel toward him who does not believe as Victor Hugo felt toward the atheist. Said Hugo: "There is a philosophy which denies the existence of a god. There is also a philosophy which denies the existence of the sun. This philosophy is called blindness."

What do I believe? This—
I believe in cleanliness of body, mind and soul.
I believe in kindness to man, woman, child and animal.
I believe in truth because it makes me free.
I believe in the charity that begins at home, but doesn't end there.
I believe in mercy as I hope for mercy.

I believe in moral courage because I am more than a brute.
I believe in righteousness because it is the shortest line between two eternities.

I believe in patience because it is the swiftest way to secure results.
I believe in that kind of industry that takes an occasional vacation.

I believe in the sort of economy that spends money for a good purpose.
I believe in honesty, not for policy's sake, but for principle's sake.

I believe in hospitality because it puts a roof over every man's head.
I believe in obedience because it is the only way to learn how to command.

I believe in self control because I want to influence others.
I believe in suffering because it chastens and purifies.

I believe in justice because I believe in God.

OFF THE TRACK.

The limited goes sixty miles an hour. In the smoker men joke and play cards and tell risqué stories. The day coaches are crowded and comfortable. The heavy sleepers as they sway to and fro make only a gentle rocking for the people who chat and read and nap. Crash! Engine and cars and flesh and blood are ground up together in a shapeless, horrid mass!

Off the track!
So goes humanity's train. Here is a boy who got to running on a fast schedule. He began by pilfering his father's till. As he grew older he made faster time. Down grade he goes. And soon comes the crash. Newsboys cry a murder and a suicide. The crowd hails for a moment. His friends murmur, "I never thought he was so bad." A young man is—
Off the track.

A young girl thinks her mother is too slow for these record breaking times. Mother is "old fashioned." The girl goes to places her mother has warned her she should not frequent. The bloom is brushed from the fruit. Brutal appetites lust after it. One day a brazen, drunken creature, cursing and shrieking, is loaded into the patrol wagon. A woman is—
Off the track.

A man gets in a hurry to be rich. His father went slowly, carefully, successfully, but father's methods will not do. "What's the use of mulling and toiling when a quicker way may well do the business?" So and so has speculated successfully. Surely I am as shrewd as he. A pistol shot! A man is—
Off the track.

Why did the train go off the track? It may be the rails were too light or the curves too sharp or the equipment poor. Slower locomotion might have prevented accidents. Sixty miles an hour was too fast. But the rival line is scheduled at that. Our train must get in on time. Open the throttle. Shovel the coal. What matters if we do go—
Off the track?

Our age is a rapid one. Business, society, goes at a sixty mile clip. Rather than be sidetracked for a time men will drive their trains into the ditch. Many of them run wild. There are frequent collisions and wrecks innumerable by getting—
Off the track.

Look out, thriving but venturesome merchant and reckless young woman and gay young man. The race is not to the swift alone. Put on the brakes. Slow up or before you know it you will be—
Off the track.

CURE FOR "THE BLUES."

The doctors call it neurasthenia. In common parlance we call it "the blues."

It is a disease. And the disease can be diagnosed just like measles or typhoid fever.

The disease, say the physicians, is caused by nervous worry. It is peculiarly American because in this country it finds favorable conditions. American methods of living induce overstrain of nerve fiber. Overstrain brings worry, and worry brings the blues.

Americans go the limit. The average business man works to the verge of his strength during business hours, which is all right. But he takes his business home and worries over it, which is not all right. By dwelling on difficulties he magnifies them. He loses sleep and in consequence loses power to overcome. The cumulative force of the continued strain brings on a fit of the blues.

Many American women suffer in the same way. Household burdens grow heavy. Nerves are taxed to the finish. The woman begins to worry. She worries over the fit of her dress, over the style of her hat, over her children, over her husband—anybody, anything, affords occasion for worry and the blues.

And the higher up the woman lives in the scale of society the greater the liability to neurasthenia. Late hours, the strain of social requirements, rich food, the bad air of theaters and ball-rooms, lack of exercise, excitement—all these promote the conditions that bring on the blues.

Some—both women and men—under the strain of modern life resort to stimulants to restore strength and temper of mind, which only makes matters worse. Stimulants simply hasten the day of nervous breakdown.

What is the cure for the blues?

Sane living, that's all. Sane living means simple food, plenty of sleep, exercise in the open air, sunshine and, above all, a serene mind. In a word, the cure for the blues is "the simple life."

Of course it is not easy to throw off the habit of brooding over one's troubles. But one can do it. The physician of the rich solves the problem by sending his patient to a health resort. His object is to secure a change of scene for his patient. The change of scene produces a new viewpoint—breaks up the mental habit.

If you have strong will power you can get the new viewpoint yourself—and save the doctor's bill.

ADJUSTMENT.

A great misfortune comes to you. Like most misfortunes, it was unexpected.

The unexpected happens in every life. Because it is unforeseen the jolt is a heavy one. Surprise is mingled with the suffering. Such things, of course, have happened to others. But to you—that's different. It is monstrous that it should be so. And you simply cannot endure this affliction.

And yet in the very hour of your misfortune your soul rises unconsciously to meet the emergency.

Every hour and every day you continue to fashion yourself to fit the new conditions. Little by little you adapt yourself to the changed situation. The burden is still on your back, but you have adjusted the harness. It galls you only occasionally, not continually, as at first.

Merciful faculty!
A great sorrow, a heartbreaking bereavement, comes into your life.

The violence of the blow staggers you. Passing bells are ringing all the world over, always, for some sad mourner, but not for you—till now. You feel you cannot be happy again. It is too much to be borne. Life must henceforth be hateful. The iron has entered your soul.

And yet—
Even while you cry out in your pain the forces of your being are marshaling for resistance and defense.

There comes a readjustment that permits you to go on, though it may be sorrowfully. As you grow accustomed to the load it gets lighter. You realize keenly that you will never be quite the same as before the shock. You have been chastened into something a little different. But—
It is you!

Through it all you have preserved the identity of your soul. You have been passing under the road and through the processes of readjustment. And by and by, it may be, you have begun to see that even pain and sorrow have their compensations. And gradually life again becomes worth the living.

As the eye, passing from the sunlight to sudden darkness, slowly adapts itself, so does the soul of man adjust itself to new and changed conditions. Is it not wonderful?
And true?

Going Into Commission.

Speaking of ships and shipping, one hears frequently of water craft "going into commission," and it seems natural that the landman should ask, "What does the phrase mean?" The term has been misapplied, according to the statement of a shipping firm, when used in connection with merchantmen. A vessel built for trade is "in business" or "laid up," and the term "in commission" is not applied to her except by such people as they who go "upstairs" and "downstairs" on a ship. As to yachts, the same authority said, "When the owner raises his private signal and has commander and crew aboard, the yacht is in commission, and this does not happen until the vessel is in condition to go on a cruise." War vessels are in commission when the commanding officer's flag or pennant has been hoisted at the main, and this again indicates that the vessel is in active service.—New York Tribune.

Question of Duty in Mexico.

"To demonstrate the shrewdness of the Mexican merchants I want to tell you a story," said a visitor from the southern republic. "Shortly before I left a certain merchant sent an order to a large furniture house in this country for an iron bed. He instructed the firm to unscrew the small brass knobs which adorned the ironwork. The shipping clerk for the firm, when he read the instructions, assumed apparently that the Mexican was crazy and neglected to comply with the request. Consequently when the bed was delivered to the Mexican he had to pay the same price for it as if it had been constructed entirely of brass. If the knobs had been taken off the charges would have been based on the weight of the bed in iron. Because the knobs were brass the authorities charged the bed up as brass, thus making the duty about four times what it should have been."—Washington Post.

The River Nile.

The length of the Nile, one of the most famous rivers in the history of the earth, as on its banks was one of the earliest civilizations, is estimated to be about 4,000 miles. Its source is in the equatorial regions of Africa and its mouth in the Mediterranean. For many centuries the sources of the Nile were unknown, but the work of daring explorers has solved the mystery, and it has been found that its origin is in great lakes under the equator, the largest being Victoria Nyanza, which Stanley discovered. A great number of streams are tributary to it before it reaches Egypt, 1,500 miles from its mouth, but after that it has no more affluents. Only second in length to the Nile of the rivers of Africa is the Niger, but it drains only half as much territory, the Nile's drainage area being 1,400,000 square miles.

RELIGIOUS THOUGHT.

Gems Gleaned From the Teachings of All Denominations.

Man is strong only as he uses the forces of nature, as steam and electricity. He is good only as he uses the forces of God.—Rev. Dr. Frank Crane, Congregationalist, Worcester, Mass.

Architect of Lives.

To become a great engineer means much, but it is easy compared with becoming a great architect of lives. A great preacher must know life. He cannot be a surface student.—Rabbi Emil G. Hirsch, Chicago.

Life's Impressable Period.

Destiny hinges on the first ten golden years. Then the young life is like clay in the hands of the potter—you can write on it what you like and as it hardens your message is indelible.—Rev. N. W. Waters, Congregationalist, Brooklyn.

Essentials of Good Business.

A good business must have three striking characteristics. It must add to the good of our fellow men; it must enlist pure and honest enthusiasm; it must ennoble him that engages in it.—Rev. Charles Bayard Mitchell, Methodist, Cleveland, O.

Valuable Assets.

America and religion are two of the most valuable assets in our spiritual and political life. It were ten thousand pities if, by the failure of those who claim to love both of them, either should be harmed.—Rabbi Dr. J. Leonard Levy, Pittsburg.

To Overcome Faults.

The best way to overcome negative faults is to bring to bear upon them positive virtues. Our sins of omission may be as great a hindrance to our living the Christian life as our sins of commission. Our bad habits may best be overcome by seeking to form good ones.—Rev. Guy A. Jamieson, Episcopalian, Tottenville, N. Y.

Genius and God.

Genius is more than the usual amount of God in one man, and a man so richly endowed needs a larger degree of divine dependence. If a genius will not depend upon God and refuses to take faith and humility as the controlling forces he speedily flies to pieces as would a mighty Corliss engine without a steady governor.—Rev. Dr. Charles Edward Locke, Methodist, Brooklyn.

Interest in Marriage.

Society has an interest in the marriage of all persons as well as the persons contracting the marriage in both the quality of the persons entering the marriage state and the manner in which the ceremony is performed, and the church has the right to regulate the manner in which the marriages are performed as the state has over other contracts.—Rev. H. P. Smith, Roman Catholic, Chicago.

A Beautiful Way.

Christianity is not a straitjacket. It is a beautiful garment. It is not a set of stocks to bind the unwilling feet of a headstrong fool who would rush down a steep place to his own destruction. It is a beautiful way leading upward to all largeness of life and breadth of vision, a way for which men's feet were made and which they must ever feel after. Christianity is not a galling yoke upon the neck of one who would balk or run away in the face of life's duty. It is a scepter for man's hand, who should be ruler in royal fashion over the kingdoms of time and sense.—Rev. Boyd Edwards, Congregationalist, Brooklyn.

Mastering Ourselves.

The struggle for self mastery is the secret of individual fate. Victory or defeat, salvation or ruin, hangs on the issue. This is the temptation that puts every man, woman and youth to the test to tell of what moral stuff they are made. To gain this self control requires a sharp fight against our lower nature, and success can alone be won with the help of God. Here religion offers her supreme aid—prayer, the Bible and the church, with her uplift to heaven's altar. A perilous and wonderful course is that before every soul—life on earth, with its dangers and triumphs, and then the spirit's flight amid the stars. And the first requisite for this great venture is self mastery, that thou hast thyself, body and spirit, all thy powers and forces, under wise and firm control.—Rev. J. B. Remensnyder, Lutheran, New York.

Health's Dependence on the Soul.

God is the soul of the springtime, and God is health, no less than joy and peace and love. We think sometimes of health as applying only to our physical nature, but it is not so. Health is the result of the normal functioning of the entire body. The roots of disease reach farther back than the muscles and nerves of the body. The diseases of the body doubtless affect the health of the soul, but infinitely more does health in the soul make for health in the body. Man's essential life, that which determines the health, is like the life of the universe, a spiritual entity. The diseases of the body may be cured with a drug, but they can only be adequately healed by the spiritual remedies. With health in the soul the most stubborn diseases weaken and lose their hold, for in the last analysis health is the proper functioning of the spiritual faculty in man's nature, by which the impulses and powers of sense are made subservient and obedient to enlightening moral purpose, becoming "auxiliary to the divine." Every advance to a larger truth, to the appreciation of a fairer beauty and to the practice of a more perfect rule of life, is an advance toward the standard of the universal mind, toward the doing of "God's will on earth as it is done in heaven." Every advance of this religious spirit always tends to the making of health, because such is the law of life.—Rev. E. W. Hunt, Unitarian, Quincy, Mass.

Cold Comfort for Anti-Administration Republicans.

The anti-administration Republicans hereabouts—the followers of "Uncle Joe" Cannon and others who are opposed to the nomination of Secretary of War Taft—are finding nothing to encourage them in the work of the national committee, which is in session in Chicago hearing contests prior to the assembling of the national convention. The committee is taking up the contests by states in alphabetical order and is seating Taft delegates with monotonous regularity.

Representatives of the "allied forces" filed notices or contests against the four delegates at large from this state and the delegates from seven congressional districts, but under the circumstances it is doubtful if the contests are pushed. State Chairman Adams left Greensboro for Chicago Saturday night to be on the ground when North Carolina is reached by the committee.

In this connection it is of interest to note that the attorney for the administration forces in North Carolina, Mr. G. S. Bradshaw, of this city, has been regarded all along as allied with the opposition. Certainly he has not been a shout for Roosevelt or Taft. But probably the state committee was in search of a lawyer rather than a partisan. Mr. Bradshaw left Monday night in response to a message calling him to Chicago.

Simultaneous Revival Services.

At a meeting of the Ministers' Association of Greensboro Monday, the members decided to hold simultaneous revival services in their churches, beginning the third Sunday in September and continuing two weeks. During the progress of the revival a meeting for men will be held at Grace Methodist Protestant church at noon on each day and a service for women at the same church at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. At 8 o'clock each evening the pastors will conduct general services in their respective churches.

The members of the Ministers' Association are considering the advisability of having a banquet for the pastors and official members of the various city churches at some time prior to September.

Miss Mattie Medearis, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Mr. Howard Simpson was best man. The ushers were Misses Sallie and Lucy Hoskins, Clara Wilson, Folsom Smith, Claude Medearis and Nell Hoskins. After the ceremony, the couple left on a wedding trip to Asheville and other points in the western part of the state.
