MERCHANTS HOLD MEETING

HEAR REPORTS OF PAST YEAR'S WORK AND LAY PLANS FOR FUTURE ACTIVITY.

The annual meeting of the Greensboro Merchants' Association, which was held Thursday night, was largely attended and is pronounced the most successful meeting in the history of the association. An enjoyable feature of the meeting was a supper served by a committee from the women's auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A.

Mr. J. Norman Wills, who served the association so acceptably in the office of president during the past year, was re-elected by a unanimous vote. Mr. Charles H. McKnight, a former president, was elected vice president, and the following were chosen as directors: J. Norman Wills, C. H. McKnight, R. C. Bernan, S. M. Bumpass, C. H. Grantham, J. W. Patterson, Lee Ralls, W. H. Stone, Jr., J. M. Hendrix, C. H. Andrews, G. O. Fowler, W. H. Rees and J. L. Thacker.

The association went on record as endorsing the work of Mr. J. C. Forrester, secretary of the Greensboro Chamber of Commerce, for the reformation of freight rates.

In submitting the report of the advertising committee, R. C. Bernan said the merchants of the city had been saved $4,525 by proper investigation of advertising propositions. By having the directory published every other year instead of each year $2,000 was saved.

An interesting review of the Greensboro tobacco market was given by J. M. Hendrix. He quoted figures showing that for the year 1912 the market sold 1,009,828 pounds for $94,939.12, an average of 9 cents. At the close of the season, February 15, 1913, there had been sold 2,075,724 pounds for $248,224.15, an average of 12 cents. Up to February 15, 1914, there had been sold 3,191,228 pounds for $493,239.80, an average of 15 1/2 cents. The increase of 1913 over 1912 was 1,065,700 pounds and $143,294.93. The increase of 1914 over 1913 was 1,205,654 pounds and $245,915.65. The increase of 1914 over 1912 was 2,181,354 pounds and $493,294.93.

Mr. Hendrix urged that the merchants assist and encourage the farmers in the growing of all products for local needs, and believed these needs could be supplied here at home. From his own experience, he said, potato raising is a prosperous business, and that from $150 to $300 could be made per acre on high potatoes alone.

In a discussion of commercial advertising, Col. Al Fairbrother, editor of the Evening Star, advanced the suggestion that every merchant, at some time to be decided upon, use the space in the newspapers to encourage trading at home with the argument that such will be an education leading to great results. It was later in the meeting that by the members expressed their approval and willingness to give a reasonable sum for advertising the community. C. H. McKnight volunteered that he would give $25 a year for this purpose.

C. McLean spoke on commercial associations, emphasizing their importance for bringing men together and securing co-operation.

S. Morris spoke on credits. He said the merchants should find it advantageous to co-operate and to stand against people who do not intend to pay. The value of collecting laws in removing this disagreeable condition was brought to the attention of the association.

Joseph J. Stone, in speaking of the parcel post, gave a word for the postoffice department in placing the terminal station here, and expressed the belief that the Greensboro merchants can secure benefits from the parcel post by proper methods. He believed the Greensboro merchants had been asleep regarding this and urged them to look into the possibilities.

H. McKnight spoke on the different merchants. He said there had been carelessness in collection of the special tax on these, and illustrated with one case in court, in which nothing but the auctioneer's license had been paid, the party after court being told to go buy his proper license, the point of Mr. McKnight being that it should have been secured before. The itinerant type, he said, are fakers of the worst type.

NEW S

A news item from the Patriot told of the election of C. Banks McNairy, of Lenoir, to the position of superintendent of the North Carolina School for the Feeble-Minded, at Kinston. Dr. McNairy is a native of Guilford county and has many friends and acquaintances among the readers of The Patriot. A press dispatch from Lenoir gives the following sketch of this well known and successful physician:

"Dr. C. Banks McNairy was born in Guilford county in 1867 and is a son of Dr. W. H. and Mrs. E. A. McNairy. When a young man he decided to enter professional life, and entered the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Baltimore, Md., graduating from this institution in 1894. Since that time he has practiced in this state, with the exception of two years, which he spent in Missouri. When he came back to North Carolina in 1905 he located in Lenoir and has enjoyed a good practice from the beginning.

"About five years ago he established the Foothills Sanitarium, located in the eastern part of the town, and from the start this institution has been a great benefit to the town and community. His efforts along this line have met with unusual success. He has never turned away from the hospital a single person who has asked for admission. He is quoted as having said, 'We never turn a patient away from our hospital because they have no money.' This is characteristic of the man, kind, big-hearted and a Christian gentleman.

"Dr. McNairy is a public-spirited man and believes in education. Some years ago he was elected a member of the board of trustees of the Lenoir graded schools, which position he filled conscientiously. Last year he was elected chairman of the board and is always ready and willing to do anything that is for the good of the institution, the town or community. He is a close student of human nature as well as of medical science."

W. J. BRYAN INVITED TO MAKE ADDRESS HERE.

Hon. W. J. Bryan, secretary of state of the United States, has been invited to deliver the address at the commencement exercises of the Guilford county public schools in Greensboro on April 18 and has promised to accept the invitation if he can possibly do so. The Washington correspondent of the Raleigh News and Observer gives the following account of the invitation extended to Mr. Bryan Friday:

"Secretary Daniels, Representative Stedman, Prof. T. R. Foust, Rev. R. Murphy Williams and Mr. Charles H. Ireland, the last three of Greensboro, called on Secretary Bryan today and urged him to speak at the assembly of all the public schools in Guilford county in Greensboro, April 18. Secretary Bryan was unable to give any definite answer, but said he would let the visitors know as soon as he could whether he can come or not."

Negro Wanted For Murder.

A warrant was issued Friday for the arrest of James Dorsett, a negro who had been employed at the Pomona terra cotta works, for the murder of Lon Dailey, colored, in Chatham county, several weeks ago. Dorsett disappeared before the warrant was issued and nothing is known here as to his whereabouts. It seems that the trouble occurred some time ago, Dorsett shooting Dailey and fleeing to this county. The injured man died a few days ago and the warrant for Dorsett's arrest was issued on the strength of a telephone message received by Sheriff Stafford.

Former Greensboro Man Promoted.

Mr. E. C. Deal, who was formerly located in Greensboro as manager of the North Carolina Public Service Company, and who has been manager of the electric railway and lighting system in Augusta, Ga., for the past few years, has been made vice president and general manager of W. N. Coler & Co., who control the North Carolina Public Service Company. He will have charge of the street railway and lighting plants in Greensboro, High Point, Salisbury, Augusta and other cities where the Coler people have interests.

The choir of the First Presbyterian church has begun rehearsals for a sacred cantata, "From the Manger to the Cross," to be given Friday evening, April 10.

Mr. James Townsend, who is a student of the A. & M. College in Raleigh, spent Saturday and yesterday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Townsend, on Arlington street.

Mr. James Metters, the father of Mrs. W. L. Hepler, of this city, died Friday morning at his home at Cid, Davidson county. The funeral and interment took place yesterday at Fairview church.

One of the infant twins of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Ham, who reside north of the city, died Friday afternoon. The funeral and interment took place yesterday afternoon at Buffalo Presbyterian church.

The religious services at the Masonic and Eastern Star home yesterday afternoon were conducted by Rev. W. C. Wicker, of Elon College, the assistant grand lecturer of the North Carolina Grand Lodge of Masons.

Miss Mary Coit, who moved from Winston-Salem to this city to reside about two years ago, died yesterday afternoon of bronchial pneumonia. She was 65 years old and had been ill for several weeks. The funeral and interment will take place this afternoon in Statesville, her former home.

Mr. S. M. Bumpass, of the Townsend Buggy Company, has returned from a Western trip where he secured a bargain in farm implements. They are telling you in The Patriot how they can save you money on a deal he secured while in the West. This is no fake ad., but a reality. The Townsend Buggy Company.

Mr. Bartlett Shipp, who began the practice of law in Greensboro about 25 years ago in partnership with Judge W. P. Bynum, died suddenly at his home in Hendersonville Thursday, aged 48 years. Mr. Shipp was a son of the late Judge Shipp, of the Superior court bench, and a man of splendid attainments. He is pleasantly remembered by many Greensboro people.

Little Mary Jane Crater, the 11-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Crater, died Thursday evening at the home of the parents, on Church street, following an illness of several weeks of whooping cough and pneumonia. The body was carried to Charlotte, the former home of the family, Saturday morning and interred by the side of a baby brother who died a few years ago.

C. L. Ozment, a white man residing in the southern part of the county, was given a hearing in Municipal court Thursday on the charge of the larceny of guns from the Greensboro Hardware Company and E. G. Hege and sentenced to the county roads for 18 months. It appeared on the trial that the defendant Ozment took the guns to a pawn-broker in the city and realized what he could do on them.

Jetton Acquitted of Murder.

A jury in Mecklenburg Superior court Saturday night returned a verdict of acquittal in the case charging Robert Monroe Jetton, the young druggist of Davidson, with the murder of Dr. W. H. Wooten on the night of February 10, and the press reports say the announcement of the verdict was received with a demonstration of approval of the crowd in the court room at that late hour of the night. Jetton was acquitted because his wife, a bride of a few months, went on the stand and swore that the deceased physician was guilty of the crime charged against him by her husband. The "unwritten law" was brought to bear in this case with good effect.

FOUR KEGS OF LIQUOR SEIZED AT PLEASANT GARDEN

Four kegs of whiskey, each containing four and one-half gallons, were seized from the express office at Pleasant Garden Thursday morning by Sheriff Stafford and two deputies, and the four men to whom the liquor was addressed, Eli Fields, W. S. Jackson, J. E. Wade and Robert Wade, were arrested and brought to this city, where they were given a hearing before a justice of the peace charged with having more liquor in their possession than the law allows.

The defendants were bound over to the Superior court by Squire Minor, before whom the trial was held, under bonds of $150 each.

The authorities believe that with the arrests Thursday they have unearthed the source from which retailers in this city and High Point have been getting their whiskey to sell. It is believed that the men arrested had the whiskey shipped to them at Pleasant Garden, intending to haul the kegs of liquor from that place to Greensboro or High Point, and after bottling the liquor to retail it.

It is said that other arrests will follow in several of the smaller towns nearby where it is believed the same scheme is being worked.

NEGRO CHARGED WITH A SERIOUS CRIME ARRESTED.

George Tinnin, colored, who is wanted in this county to answer the crime of seducing Ruth Kimrey, a white girl under the age of consent, has been arrested in Westchester, Pa., and is being held for the arrival of a Guilford officer. Sheriff Stafford will go for the prisoner as soon as the requisition papers are received from Governor Craig, which probably will be tomorrow.

The unfortunate girl, who is not yet 14 years old, gave birth to a child on the 7th inst., and named the negro Tinnin as the author of her ruin. Previous to the birth of the child she had refused to speak. Tinnin had been employed on her father's farm in Greene township, but left the neighborhood some time ago. The state and the county each offered a reward of $50 for the arrest of the negro.

High School Debaters Chosen.

At a preliminary debate held at the Greensboro high school Friday night the following were chosen to represent the school in the triangular debate between the high schools of Raleigh, Greensboro and Charlotte to be held March 20: Roland McClamroch, William Johnson, William Bogart and Gordon Hunter.

The subject to be discussed in the triangular debate is: "Resolved, that the constitution of North Carolina should be so amended as to allow the initiative and referendum in state-wide legislation."

Capiases For Tax Dodgers.

During the past few days nearly 100 capiases have been issued from the office of the clerk of the Superior court for persons whose names were presented to the grand jury recently for failure to list their taxes. The capiases are made returnable at the next criminal term of Superior court. A person who fails to list his taxes is guilty of a misdemeanor, and the law makes it the duty of the county commissioners to present the names of all such to the grand jury for indictment.

Gibsonville Man Injured.

Mr. Jacob Wyrick, of Gibsonville, is in St. Leo's hospital suffering from painful injuries received Saturday, when he was knocked from one of the tracks at the Southern passenger station in this city by a locomotive. He suffered several painful bruises, but his injuries are not thought to be of a serious nature. Mr. Wyrick was at the station waiting to board a train on his return to Gibsonville when the accident occurred.

C. H. Dorsett in Bankruptcy.

Mr. Charles H. Dorsett, who retired from the mercantile business a few weeks ago, has filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States court. His liabilities are scheduled at $6,040.75, with assets of $3,960. Mr. Dorsett was a well known merchant of Greensboro for 25 years or more and has many friends who sympathize with him in his misfortune.

SUMMARY OF EVENTS THAT GO TO MAKE UP THE WORLD'S NEWS OF THE DAY.

A movement toward a state-wide organization of the Democratic women of Kansas was started in Kansas City Thursday at a meeting of the Wyandotte County Democratic Club. Half of those present were women.

John Schrank, who attempted to assassinate Theodore Roosevelt at Milwaukee two years ago, and who has been confined at the Northern Wisconsin Hospital for the Insane at Oshkosh since his trial, was transferred to the Hospital for Criminal Insane at Waupun Thursday.

A bill to authorize pensions of $12 a month for widows and $2 a month for children of dead Spanish war veterans has been favorably reported by the house pensions committee. Widows or children with incomes of $250 a year or more would not be eligible to receive the money.

Mrs. John A. Logan, widow of the Civil war hero, took a poisonous medicine at her home in Washington Wednesday night, thinking she was taking a cold remedy, and for several hours was in a precarious condition. Physicians gave antidotes in good time and later she was reported out of danger.

The lower house of the South Carolina legislature has passed a bill prohibiting negroes from working in textile establishments at the same time and on the same machines as white men and women. An amendment provides that negroes may be employed as firemen, engineers, etc., in these establishments.

Increasing the membership of the interstate commerce commission to 16 and dividing the country into five districts with headquarters at Washington, Atlanta, Chicago, Kansas City and San Francisco is proposed in a bill that has been introduced in Congress by Senator Kenyon. Three commissioners in any district might decide a case, which could be appealed to the entire commission.

The administration Alaskan railroad bill, authorizing the president to construct a $35,000,000 railroad from Alaska's coast to its great coal fields, has been passed by the house by a vote of 230 to 87. As a similar measure has passed the senate, the first government built, owned and operated railroad is a certainty. President Wilson having expressed his approval of the measure.

The Presbyterian church will send 250 temperance workers into California, Colorado, Washington and Oregon in an effort to swing the states into the "dry" column at the fall elections. They will take with them motion picture films teaching lessons against the sale of alcohol. Plans for the crusade were perfected at a meeting of the Presbyterian board of temperance in New York a few days ago.

DIPLOMAT THREATENED TO SHOOT EDITOR.

A telegram from Mexico City says that Nel on O'Shaughnessy, American charge d'affaires, Friday threatened to shoot Salvador Diaz Miron, editor of El Imparcial, the Huertista newspaper, which has been vilifying President Wilson, if the editor accosted him. O'Shaughnessy backed up his threat by carrying a pistol, and by displaying another one within easy reach on his desk in the embassy. A telegram from Secretary of State Bryan was received by O'Shaughnessy commending the charge for representing the insults of El Imparcial, and assuring him that the American government would give O'Shaughnessy and his family all the protection necessary. O'Shaughnessy armed himself against Miron because of open threats against him made by the editor. The American diplomat twice complained to Gen. Huerta about scurrilous editorials in El Imparcial attacking President Wilson, and Huerta ordered Miron to stop them. That incensed Miron, and he made his threats to "get" O'Shaughnessy.

Mrs. Bessie Capps, of Asheville, who was shot by her husband, Jim Capps, January 28, died last week in an Asheville hospital as a result of her wounds. When he shot his wife Capps attempted suicide by shooting himself but he has about recovered.

NORTH CAROLINA NEWS NOTES

A BRIEF SURVEY OF WHAT IS TRANSPIRING IN THE COMMONWEALTH.

The corner-stone of the Masonic temple, now in course of erection in Charlotte, will be laid with appropriate ceremonies March 4 and Hon. F. D. Winston will deliver the address.

James L. Bolejack, who wantonly and brutally killed his wife in Charlotte some time ago, was Thursday convicted of first degree murder in Mecklenburg Superior court. The defence was insanity.

Near Canton, Haywood county, last week, Mrs. Minerva Burnett, 75 years old, was turned to death when her house burned. She lived alone and when neighbors discovered the fire she could not be rescued.

The national forestry commission has approved the purchase of a 12,000 acre tract of land at the headwaters of the Catawba river as a part of the national forest reserve. The land lies in Catawba, Burke and Yancey counties. The price to be paid averages $5.76 an acre.

While Rev. G. A. Pegram, pastor of the Wesleyan Methodist church in Durham, was in the midst of his sermon the other day, Sam Pauley, one of the audience, insisted on making remarks, or in acting in such a way as to disturb the pastor and the congregation. When Pauley disregarded the request of the pastor to keep quiet, the Rev. Mr. Pegram left the pulpit, seized the disturber by the collar and ousted him from the church. Pauley was fined $10 in court.

W. C. HAMMER APPOINTED DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

The long drawn-out controversy over the appointment of a United States district attorney for the western district of North Carolina was brought to a close Friday, when President Wilson sent to the senate the nomination of W. C. Hammer, of Asheville, for this important position. The appointment was made on the recommendation of Senators Simmons and Overman and over the protest of Attorney General McKey-nolds, who told the president that Mr. Hammer was not the type of man he wanted as a subordinate in the department of justice. Mr. Hammer's nomination has been referred to the senate judiciary committee, of which Senator Overman is acting chairman, and confirmation by the senate will follow in the due course of time. The new district attorney probably will take charge of the office about the end of the present month. The Hammer appointment has been the subject of more controversy and discussion than any other appointment in North Carolina since the present administration took charge of affairs, but no one conversant with the situation doubted that the Asheville lawyer and editor would win out, since he had the support of so many good people in the state and the unqualified endorsement of the North Carolina senators.

Wall of China in Perfect Condition.

Few people realize what an almost perfect condition prevails along a large part of the great wall of China. The bricks of the parapet are as firm as ever, and their edges have stood the severe climatic conditions of north China with scarcely a break, as explained in the March Popular Mechanics Magazine. The paving along the top of the wall is so smooth that one may ride over it with a bicycle, and the great granite blocks with which it is faced are smooth and as closely fitted as when put in place over two thousand years ago. The entire length of this wall is 1,400 miles, it is 22 feet high, and 20 feet in thickness. At intervals of 100 yards or so, there are towers some 40 feet in height.

FARMERS' MONEY AND CREDIT

SUBJECT OF ADDRESS BY DR. RAPER AT NORMAL COLLEGE THURSDAY NIGHT.

Dr. Charles L. Raper, who holds the chair of economics at the University of North Carolina and formerly was a member of the faculty of Greensboro Female College, delivered a very interesting and instructive lecture at the State Normal and Industrial College Thursday night on the subject of "The Money and Credit of the North Carolina Farmers." Recently Dr. Raper has been engaged in making investigations for the government along economic lines, and what he had to say in his address at the Normal College was largely the result of this work.

Addressing himself directly to the subject in hand, Dr. Raper declared that the farmer or any other man who buys and sells products or services has need of the cheapest money and credit that is possible within the limits of safety. His profits and his prosperity depend fundamentally upon this. His money must be sound enough a ways to be an accurate standard of the measure of his valuables. It must be of such a form and size as to enable him to exchange it for commodities of all quantities and qualities. It must be sufficiently stable to cause both the debtor and creditor to feel full confidence that all their credit transactions rest upon a foundation that is solid. It must be used as many times in a year as possible, so as to make its expense the minimum.

His credit institutions—his banks and other deposit or loan agencies—must be so effectively managed as to make it practically impossible for them to fail to meet the demands of the depositor or the borrower; and they should be located sufficiently near their customers to stimulate among them the great possible use of credit. Money enables them to make trades much more economically; it greatly stimulates the volumes of trades. Credit—the power and opportunity to borrow the use of another's capital or goods—creates and promotes trade to a still larger degree.

Does the North Carolina farmer have as effective and economical money as his prosperity and that of those who consume his products really demand? Can he borrow from the bank and other loan agencies at a rate sufficiently low and for a time sufficiently long for him to make his crops or improve his soil, build his machinery and stock? Do the fact that we have in the United States approximately three and a half billion dollars of reasonably sound money ready for constant use necessarily make the farmer of North Carolina able to obtain as much as he needs? Does the fact that we have more than 29,000 banks and as much as twenty-five billion of banking resources enable the North Carolina farmer to borrow as much of this as he needs and at rates small enough to make it profitable and attractive to him? Let a few facts answer these questions.

Pursuing the subject further, Dr. Raper said:

"It is estimated, correctly I think, that the farmers in the eastern counties of North Carolina buy on time as much as 66 per cent of their purchases, and in many other counties as much as 45 to 50 per cent; and upon this part of their purchases they pay an average of 18 to 12 per cent interest for a period of six to eight months—practically 23 per cent a year. Their time prices range from 3 to 33 per cent over their cash prices, and they generally buy on six to eight months' time. These facts make it clear that the farmer's store credit is enormously expensive.

"The North Carolina farmers in very considerable numbers borrow credit from the banks. I believe that as much as 50 per cent of the total loans made by the banks in most of the smaller towns is made to farmers. The state banks and trust companies lend to the farmers a fair amount on their notes secured by mortgages on their farms, and all the banks lend to the farmer.

ers on their personal indorsement—one, two or three name promissory notes. Insurance companies and individuals lend important amounts to the North Carolina farmers, especially on farm mortgage security. The loans by insurance companies are more largely made in the middle and southern counties; those by individuals range in the eastern counties from 25 to 75 per cent of the total loans made to farmers, and in the middle and western counties from 25 to 50 or 60 per cent.

"But a more vital thing is that of the cost of the credit which the farmer buys from the banks, insurance companies or individuals. The facts are clear that the North Carolina farmer who can borrow from a bank obtains his credit much cheaper than he who buys it from a store, especially his credit of a short time—six or eight months—on his personal indorsement. For this he pays more generally 6 per cent a year, at times 7 to 8 per cent (including the commission and interest)—a small cost compared with that of the time account at the store. The short time credit which he buys from an individual is oftentimes at a higher rate than 6 or 8 per cent. The credit which he obtains on his note secured by a mortgage on his farm costs him more than the normal rate of interest. In addition to this rate he must pay the cost of recording the mortgage, which averages as much as $1.50 or more, the cost of an examination of his deed to his land and of abstracting it, which ranges from $5 to $100, with an average of nearly $10, and the commission which the lender may be able to charge. In the case of loans from banks, the commission, if any is charged, is as a rule small, not exceeding 1 to 2 per cent a year. The insurance companies or agents generally charge no direct commission above the normal rate of interest, but they make most of their loans to those who buy from them an insurance policy. In this indirect way they make a charge of from 2 to 4 per cent commission. It is the individual money lender who more generally charges the largest commission—in numerous cases as much as 2, 4 or even 6 per cent a year. This means that the North Carolina farmer who borrows for a long time on mortgage security—and he usually makes such loans in order to buy land or improve his tillage or stock—must pay in expense, interest or commissions from approximately 8 to 12 per cent—a cost too large to make him the most progressive farmer."

William H. Hull, who died recently in Seanton, Pa., leaving an estate of $75,000, made two bequests of ten dollars each per year for twenty years to each of his nephews, Robert and Arthur Hull, who under the terms of document are to use the money in promoting the interests of the Prohibition party. NEW GOODS.

There is no doubt but what a lot of you have seen the error of your way when you have been hunting bargains at the great sales which you have attended since Christmas, and would now be glad to buy some new goods, some that time has not made so soft, that it does not pay you to make up. This is the kind of goods we are telling you about: Bran new Percales, Gingham, Cambrics, Bleachings, Draperies, Galateas, Lawns, Ripplettes, Nainsooks, Crashes, Linens, Ratines, Scrims, Casement Cloths and Tub Silks in a nice variety of colors, and all at prices the very poorest can afford.

We never hold fake sales. If we sold you these goods at exact cost and we buy them as cheap as any other merchant in Greensboro (and cheaper than some I expect) you could hardly tell the difference in our price and the cost. There is hardly a day passes that some one does not tell us that we "sell them cheaper" than any one else. Our trade is increasing all the time. There must be a reason. Our line of merchandise is the same as everybody's, but

UNIQUE SOCIETY TO SAVE BOOZE ARTISTS.

As a starter 200 men have qualified for membership in the United Order of Reformed Boozers inaugurated in New York city by Colonel W. A. McIntyre of the Salvation Army. The 200 have all given satisfactory evidence that they were in their bibbling days thirty-third degree drunks. They will be the pioneers in a movement whose purpose is to rescue victims of the alcohol habit.

It is intended to organize branches in Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, St. Louis and, in fact, all over the United States and Canada.

The 200 charter members of this unique organization are bankers, publishers, editors, physicians, a colon of European nobility, a former United States army captain, a man who held the same position of honor in the British army, some merchants who are winning back a large slice of their lost prestige and fortune, a former bartender, who said he failed in business because he personally consumed the profits of a drugstore, several men who now have poultry farms and representatives of nearly all trades and all professions, including the law and ministry.

Eager to Save Their Fellow Man.

These men, Colonel McIntyre declares, are now complete masters of themselves. They are intelligent, aggressive, enlightened and law abiding citizens, who are anxious to assist in the work of reclaiming men who are now so far removed from good influences as once was their lot.

"This is no joke organization," said Colonel McIntyre. "It is the most serious thing I have ever undertaken, and those associated with me are quite convinced that we have hit on a scheme that will be tremendously beneficial to the men we want to reach as well as to those who are now safely on the wagon.

"All the details have not been worked out, but I rather think we will make of the United Order of Reformed Boozers a fraternal society. It may be that we will have sick benefits and a limited insurance feature in connection with it. The reformed boozers are excluded from these benefits in the ordinary way. Naturally enough, insurance companies would not consider them a good risk, and this scheme may be an examination prove to be impracticable with us. But we can at least have a system of mutual help which is bound to prove beneficial.

Discipline For Erring Members.

"The man who tumbles off the water wagon will not be expelled from the organization, but he will be punished by being excluded from service on committees, and the right to vote will be denied him until he gives evidence of amendment."

Colonel McIntyre believes that the man who has never tasted liquor is poorly qualified to deal with the poor fellow whose craving for the burning stuff has become an obsession.

"It is the fellow who has been down and out," he says, "who has tasted the very dregs and after a titanic struggle with the demon has conquered who knows how to reach the man who is in that condition."

Colonel McIntyre, who has been associated with the Salvation Army as an official for the past thirty years, has introduced a number of innovations, all of which are said to have proved successful.

SUBSCRIBE TO THE PATRIOT.

ONCE WERE PAGES; NOW ARE MEN OF AFFAIRS.

It's a far cry from $75 a month during the uncertain period of a session of congress to $100,000 a year and a far cry from page in congress to private secretary to a president, to cabinet member, state governor or publisher, but those in brief have been the experiences of some men who once were pages and ran errands for members of congress.

The list of pages since 1809, when the first record was kept, totals 8,029. It contains names of men who have become world famous in diverse lines of endeavor, such, for example, as Augustus Thomas, the theatrical producer, and George R. Cortelyou, who was private secretary to Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt, first secretary of the department of commerce and labor and is now president of the Consolidated Gas company of New York, considered to be the highest paid official in the country.

One Page Returned as Senator.

An interesting fact, says the Washington Post, is that but one page is recorded as having come back as a senator, the late Arthur Pue Gorman of Maryland, and but one as a representative, William Schley Howard of Georgia, who is now in congress. Of course Senator Ollie James is a former page, but he saw his service in the Kentucky state legislature, not in the national capitol.

The oldest living page is in Washington. He is Christian Eckloff, who is the author of "Life of a Senate Page."

Congress pages have made their mark in almost every calling. The largest percentage of them have made law or medicine their life work. This is explained by the fact that while they were working at the capitol they had an excellent opportunity to study at medical or law schools, and many of them made the most of that opportunity.

Pages of recent years—that is, about 3,000—deeply mourn the death of Captain John Chaney, who organized the pages into the National Fraternity of Pages. Nearly every man whose name is mentioned here saw service under Captain Chaney. It is a fact that more than 90 per cent of those who worked under him made a success in life, and they attribute it in a large part to his advice, encouragement and discipline.

Now a Governor.

Here is a partial list, taken almost at random, to give an illustration of how most pages have succeeded:

David I. Walsh, governor of Massachusetts.

Alvin Pickens, former mayor of Denver.

Clarence Howell, New York engineer, who built the Long Island pier and is now engaged on a big project in Cuba.

George P. Foster, director of the bureau of engraving and printing in Havana. He is a son of the man, still in the secret service, who was with McKinley when that president was shot.

General John W. Wilson, a retired army officer of Washington.

J. D. Hang, editor of the Pittsburgh Post.

Charles S. Sienne, geographer of the census.

William Delaney Hunter, consul to Nice, France.

W. W. Hallam and J. K. McKnight, practicing law in Washington.

The late Admiral Leonard A. Fraley of Washington was a page.

It is estimated that there are nearly 300 former pages in state legislatures today, aspiring to go to congress as members.

BIG YEAR FOR EXPLORERS.

American Museum of Natural History Reports Twenty-three Expeditions.

The past year was the greatest in exploration in the history of the American Museum of Natural History. Twenty-three expeditions, covering a range of operations extending from the Arctic to the Antarctic ocean and to many sections of North and South America and Africa, have been in the field.

Among these the Crocker Land expedition, under the leadership of Donald B. MacMillan, left New York in July last, to be gone four years, and the Kongo expedition, under Lang and Chapin, which is ending its fourth year in the Belgian Kongo and is now on its way out of Africa.

Paul J. Rainey is now in the field hunting lions in British East Africa. He already has sent a collection of eighty-seven mammals, including valuable material for animal groups. James Barnes and Cherry Keaton are also now in the African field.

Stefansson, now in the arctic regions, has been elected an honorary fellow of the museum.

A Winter Cough.

A stubborn, annoying, depressing cough hangs on, racks the body, weakens the lungs, and often leads to serious results. The first dose of Dr. King's New Discovery gives relief. Henry D. Sanders, of Cavenish, Vt., was threatened with consumption, after having pneumonia. He writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery ought to be in every family; it is certainly the best of all medicines for coughs, colds or lung trouble." Good for children's coughs. Money back if not satisfied. Price 50 cents and $1. At all druggists, H. E. Bucklen & Co., Philadelphia or St. Louis.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE.

Pursuant to a decree of the Superior court of Guilford county, made in the cause of Charles M. Coble and others, ex parte, the undersigned will sell, at 12 o'clock M., or soon thereafter, on Saturday, February 28, 1914,

At the Dr. William A. Coble homeplace, in Greene township, Guilford county, N. C., to the last and highest bidder, at public auction, on the terms of one-third of the purchase money in cash, one-third in six months, and the balance in twelve months, with interest on deferred payments from date of sale till paid, and title to be retained till final payment, the following tracts or parcels of land, same being the lands owned by Dr. William A. Coble at the time of his death, and which has been subdivided:

FIRST TRACT: A tract, containing 85 acres, off of the west end of the said farm, on which is located the dwelling house, with a small piece of land on the south side of Stinking Quarter creek. Of this place 69 7-10 acres lies on the north side of Stinking Quarter creek, and 15 3-4 acres on the south side of Stinking Quarter creek. The eastern boundary of this lot runs in a southerly direction from a point in the old Salisbury road, which runs in front of the homeplace and between where said road crosses Stinking Quarter creek on the west of the house and the road leading from said Salisbury road in a southeast direction towards J. A. Coble's.

SECOND TRACT: Lies just east of and adjacent to the above, and on both sides of the road mentioned above as going in a southeast direction towards J. A. Coble's and contains 121 acres.

THIRD TRACT: What is known as the Shutterly place, containing 36 acres, and lies north of the J. A. Clapp place, and lies part on the south and part on the north side of the said Salisbury road.

FOURTH TRACT: Containing 7 1-4 acres, lying in Alamance county, adjoining Wash Holt, — Spoon and — Sharpe and others, and known as the Martha E. Coble place.

A plat of all this property can be seen at the day of sale.

This property will be offered first in four parts as above, and then tracts one, two and three will be offered as a whole, all of which will be reported to the court for its action.

This January 22, 1914.

L. B. SHEPHERD,
Administrator of the estate of Dr. William A. Coble, Deceased.

On the day and at the place for the above advertised sale, commencing at 10 o'clock A. M., the undersigned as administrators of John R. Coble, deceased, will sell a lot of personal property to the last and highest bidder, at public auction, for cash. This property, to be sold, consists among other things of one oak bed room suite, one marble top table, one water set, one leather grip, pictures, hunting suits, one center table, one large mirror, bedding, 2,000 feet oak lumber, hay, one wheelbarrow, nails, carpenter tools, also many other valuable articles too numerous to mention.

These are the four corner-stones that have established MEYER'S in the good-will and daily life of scores of thousands of nice people who are not extravagant, and who know and appreciate the sound and sensible methods upon which this store is conducted and which contribute so largely to making it possible, here in "Economy Center" to supply good and carefully selected merchandise at lower prices than are possible in stores less economically conducted. The offerings announced below are possible because of "The Big Store's" efficient methods:

Tobacco Growers Are Buying This Canvas Because There Is a Saving.

Extra good quality tobacco canvas, good tape edge, the quality you have always paid 3c for, here at 2 1/4c yard

A great stock of Sheetings to be found in the basement and every yard underpriced. Gingham, Percales, Hickory Denims, all at prices less than you usually pay.

There is a table containing 1000 yards of 10c Blue Chambray 36 inches wide that is selling at 7c.

A bale of good heavy sheeting 36 inches wide at 5c is being bought by every customer by going to the basement.

A good fine twill Toweling at 53 1/2c is another good thing we are offering. It is an unusual thing to see a Sea Island Sheetting counting 110 square. We have opened a bale containing two widths, 50 inches, we are selling at 15c instead of 22c and 72 in. at 21c instead of 30c.

The basement offers 500 cans of Rumford's Baking Powders in 25c size for 20c; and the 15c size for 10c.

Octagon and Ivory Soap 3 for 10c.

This Coupon cut out and presented in the Basement on or before March 1st, we will sell Dimity and Nainsook Checks that sell regular at 10c yard for 5c yard.—MEYER'S.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 1914.

Mention was made on this page of last Monday's Patriot to the effect that the commissioners of Greensboro had been requested by a large body of citizens to enact a segregation ordinance to prevent the owning and occupancy of property by colored people in white neighborhoods, or vice versa. The agitation was occasioned by the purchase and threatened occupancy by colored people of desirable residence property on Gorrell street, in South Greensboro. The desired ordinance has been passed by the commissioners and is now effective. Prof. W. P. Windsor, principal of one of the colored graded schools of the city, who precipitated the agitation by attempting to occupy a residence in a white neighborhood, has sold the property to his white neighbors, and for the good of all concerned it is hoped that he will not attempt again to make a home in a community in which he is not desired as a resident. Prof. Windsor's action in attempting to occupy a home in a white community has resulted in a petition being presented to the city commissioners asking that he be summarily dismissed from his position as principal of the colored graded schools.

Congressman Claude Kitchin has caused it to be announced from Washington that he will not lead the fight in the house for the repeal of the exemption provision of the Panama canal toll act advocated by President Wilson. Mr. Kitchin thinks that American coastwise vessels should be exempt from tolls and will vote that way, though he has told the president that he will not organize any opposition to the administration program.

Holland Has a System of Its Own For Dispensing Justice.

A learned and capable jurist has asserted that the French method of legal procedure, which, contrary to our own, presumes an indicted person guilty until he is proved innocent, comes nearer dispensing actual justice than our own system.

But in Holland the courts have, in some respects, a better system than that of the French. The accused in every case has the benefit of the doubt and circumstantial evidence as the only foundation for a plea of conviction is in disfavor.

The Dutch do not have juries, and there is no battle of wits among counsel. All questions, whether by the prosecution or the attorney for the accused, are put to the witness through the judge after he has weighed the justice of the interrogation.

This feature of their system has some pronounced advantages over our own. It eliminates the practice of confusing the witness or the accused by misleading questions. It renders impossible the abominable practice in our courts known as the "browbeating" of witnesses, which unfortunately is permitted to an extent that causes the intelligent observer's blood to boil at times because of its unfairness and cruelty. It makes the solemn business of dispensing justice a common task instead of a heavenly vocation.—St. Louis City Tribune.

Marvels of the Grand Canyon.

The Grand canyon cannot be described in measured terms. Every beholder sees it in a different form, just as the rolling clouds suggest different resemblances to the eyes of the beholder. Begin with the thought of the canyon thirteen miles wide, a mile deep, the Colorado river, 200 feet wide, imprisoned down in the depths between lofty walls of weather stained granite and rushing wildly on its way.

It is buried so deep that only now and then can you get a glimpse of what looks like a little, dark ribbon of gray. Above the black granite walls of the river you see what you can easily imagine to be row after row of red brick skyscrapers projecting from the sides of the canyon at acute angles and always pinnacled by imposing towers.

The height of those prodigious skyscrapers and towers cannot be measured by the imagination. They seem to rise a few hundred feet. In reality they tower thousands of feet from the foundation walls. The colors are marvelous.—Leslie's.

A Day in the Open.

Our anxieties are nearly all artificial and are bred indoors, under the stifling oppression of walls and roofs, to the maddening clangor of pavements, and a day in the open will often dispel them like a bad dream.

With more air and sun and ground we find fewer instances of immorality and despair. For a return to nature is a return to good nature.

True, we cannot at once incontinently leave our tasks and wander at will into the green world whenever the wind sets from a pleasant quarter; but for all that there are many steps that we may take toward re-establishing our divine heritage and rightful portion in the delectable commonwealth of out of doors. And the best use we can make of it will surely consist in wholesome normalizing exercise—not necessarily in living out of doors more than we do at present, but in living there wholesomely and naturally.—Bliss Carman in "The Making of Personality."

Gets Right Twist On Rheumatism

Makes Short Work of Cleaning Out Your Entire System—Aches and Pains Go Fast.

In S. S. S. You Get a Twist on Rheumatism That Settles It.

Many a rheumatic sufferer has been to the drug store for a bottle of S. S. S. and been handed something claimed to be "just as good." Truly, to ask for bread and be given a stone is still in practice.
If you are troubled with rheumatism in any form be sure to use S. S. S. and note its wonderful influence.

S. S. S. has the peculiar action of soaking through the intestines directly into the blood. In five minutes its influence is at work in every artery, vein and tiny capillary. Every membrane, every organ of the body, every emunctory becomes in effect a filter to strain the blood of impurities. The stimulating properties of S.
S. S. compel the skin, liver, bowels, kidneys, bladder to all work to the one end of casting out every irritating, every pain-inflicting atom of poison; it dislodges by irrigation all accumulations in the joints, causes acid secretions to dissolve, renders them neutral and scatters those peculiar formations in the nerve centers that cause such mystifying and often baffling rheumatic pains.

And best of all this remarkable remedy is welcome to the weakest stomach. If you have drugged yourself until your stomach is nearly paralyzed, you will be astonished to find that S. S. S. gives no sensation but goes right to work. This is because it is a pure vegetable infusion, is taken naturally into your blood just as pure air is inhaled naturally into your lungs.

Get a bottle of S. S. S. today, and ask for S. S. S.

You may depend upon it that the store that sells you what you ask for is a good place to trade. Write to the Swift Specific Co., 294 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.,

Danny's Own Story

By DON MARQUIS

Copyright, 1912, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

"He was insulting," she said. "He had been drinking. He wanted me to—to be appealed to me to run off with him."

"I was furious—naturally." Her voice changed as she said it enough so you could feel how furious Miss Lucy could get. She was like her brother Tom in some ways.

"I ordered him out of the house. His answer to that was an offer to marry me. You can imagine that I was surprised as well as angry—I was perplexed."

"But I am married," I cried. The idea that any of my own people, or any one whom I had known at home would think I wasn't married was too much for me to take in all at once.

"You think you are," said Prentiss McMakin with a smile. "But you are not."

"I wish you to understand that Prentiss McMakin did it all very, very well. That is my excuse. He acted well. There was something about him—I scarcely know how to put it. It sounds odd, but the truth is that Prentiss McMakin was always a more convincing sort of a person when he had been drinking a little than when he was sober."

"He told me that you and he, Tom, had been to Clarksville and had made investigations and that the wedding was a fraud. And he told it with a wealth of convincing detail. In the midst of it he broke off to ask to see my wedding certificate. As he talked he laughed at it and tore it up, saying that the thing was not worth the paper it was on, and he threw the pieces of paper into the grate."

"He ended with an impassioned appeal to me to go with him."

"I showed him the door. I pretended to the last that I thought he was lying to me. But I did not think so. I believed him. He had done it all very cleverly. You can understand how I might, in view of what had happened."

"I wanted to see Miss Lucy—how she looked when she said different things, so I could make up my mind whether she was forgiving the doctor or not, not that I had much doubt but what they would get their personal troubles fixed up in the end. The iron grating in the floor was held down by four good sized screws, one at each corner. They weren't so tight at all, but I twisted it and the iron grating that was in the ceiling of the room below. The space was hollow. I got an idea and took out my jackknife."

"What are you going to do?" whispered Martha.

"Sh-sh-sh," I said, "shut up and you'll see."

"One of the screws was loose, and I picked her out easy enough. The second one I broke the point off of my knife blade on. Like you nearly all ways do on a screw. When it snapped Colonel Tom he says:

"What's that?" He was powerful quick of hearing. Colonel Tom was. I laid low till they went on talking again. Then Martha slides out on tiptoe and comes back in three seconds with one of these here little screwdrivers they use around sewing machines and the little oil can that goes with it. I oils them screws and has them out in a holy minute and lifts the grating from the floor careful and lays it careful on the rug."

"By doing all of which I could get my head and shoulders down into that there hole, and by twisting my neck a good deal see a little ways to each side into the room instead of just underneath the grating. The doctor I couldn't see yet and only a little of Colonel Tom, but Miss Lucy quite plain."

"When I listens agin they are burying that there Prent McMakin. But without any flowers."

CHAPTER XXII. My Own Folks.

MISS LUCY she was half setting on, half leaning against, the arm of a chair. Which her head was just a bit bowed down so that I couldn't see her eyes. But they was the beginnings of a smile onto her face. It was both soft and sad.

"Well," says Colonel Tom, "you two have wasted almost twenty years of life."

"There's one good thing," says the doctor. "It is a good thing that there was no child to suffer by our mistakes."

"You call that a good thing?" she says in a kind of wonder. And after a minute she sighs. "Perhaps," she says, "you are right. Heaven only knows. Perhaps it was better that he died."

"Died?" sings out the doctor. And I hear his chair scrape back like he had riz to his feet sudden. I nearly busted my neck trying fur to see him, but I couldn't."

"Yes," she says, with her eyes wide. "didn't you know he died?" And then she turns quick toward Colonel Tom. "Didn't you tell him?" she begins. But the doctor cuts in.

"Lucy," he says, his voice shaking and croaking in his throat, "I never knew there was a child!"

No one says anything fur a minute. And then Miss Lucy says agin:

"Yes—he died."

And then she fell into a kind of a muse. I have been myself in the fix she looked to be in then—you forget fur a while where you are or who is there whilst you think about some thing that has been in the back part of your mind fur a long, long time.

What she was musing about was that child that hadn't lived. I knowed all in a flash, while I looked at her there, why she had adopted Martha fur her child.

It was a wonderful look that was onto her face. And it was a wonderful face that look was on to. I felt like I had knowed her forever when I seen her there.

Miss Lucy, she was one of the kind there's no use trying to describe. The feller that could see her that-a-way and not feel made good by it orter have a whaling. Not the kind of sticky, good feeling that makes you uncomfortable, like being pestered by your conscience to jine a church or quit cussing. But the kind of good that makes you forget they is anything on earth but jest braveness of heart and being willing to bear things you can't help.

Colonel Tom, he clears his throat like when you are awful dry.

"The truth is," he begins.

And then he breaks off agin. Miss Lucy turns toward him when he speaks. By the strange look that come on to her face there must of been something right curious in his manner too.

"The truth is," says Colonel Tom, trying it agin, "that I—well, Lucy, the child may be dead, but he didn't die when you thought he did."

There was a flash of hope flared into her face that I hated to see come there. Because when it died out in a minute, as I expected it would have to, it looked to me like it might take all her life out with it.

"Why did you never tell me this—that there was a child?" says the doctor, very eager.

"Wait," says Colonel Tom, "let me tell the story in my own way."

Which he done it. It seems when he had went to Galesburg this here child had only been born a few days. And Miss Lucy was still sick. And the kid itself was sick and liable to die any minute, by the looks of things.

Which Colonel Tom wishes that it would die in his heart. He sure hates the idea of it and he hates the sight of it. The second night he is there he is setting in his sister's room, and the woman that has been nursing the kid and Miss Lucy, too, is in the next room with the kid.

She comes to the door and beckons to him, the nurse does. He tiptoes toward her, and she says to him, very low voiced, that "it is all over," meaning the kid has quit struggling fur to live and jest natchurally floated away. The nurse had thought Miss Lucy was asleep, but as both her and Colonel Tom turn quick toward her bed they see that she has heard and seen, and she turns her face toward the wall. Which he tries fur to comfort her, Colonel Tom does, but she stares in a wide-eyed way at him and lays there and looks desperate and says nothing.

In his heart Colonel Tom is awful glad that it is dead. He can't help feeling that way, and he quits trying to talk to his sister, fur he suspicions that she will hatch onto the fact that he is glad that it is dead. He goes on into the next room.

He finds the nurse looking awful funny and bending over the dead kid. She is putting a looking glass to its lips. He asks her why.

She says she thought she might be mistaken after all. She couldn't say jest when it died. It was alive and feeble, and then purty soon it showed no signs of life. It was like it hadn't had enough strength to stay and had jest went. It didn't show any pulse, and it didn't appear to be breathing, and she had watched it and done everything before she beckoned to Colonel Tom and told him that it was dead, but as she come back into the room where it was she thought she noticed something that was too light to be called a real flutter move its eyelids.

Colonel Tom he just stands there and watches that nurse fight fur to hold onto the little mist of life she thinks now is still into it. Finally the nurse begins fur to cry. Not because she is sure it is dead, but because she is sure it is coming back. Which it does, show.

"But I have told her that it is dead," says Colonel Tom, jerking his head toward the other room where Miss Lucy is lying. He speaks in a low voice and closes the door when he speaks. Fur it looks now like it was getting strong enough so it might even squall a little.

"I don't know what kind of a look there was on my face," says Colonel Tom, telling of the story to his sister and the doctor, "but she must have seen that I was—and heaven help me, but I was—sorry that the baby was alive. It would have been such an easy way out of it had it been really dead!"

"She mustn't know that it is living," I said to the nurse finally," says Colonel Tom.

"You don't mean"—said the nurse, startled.

"No, no," I said. "Of course—not that. But—why should she ever know that it didn't die?"

"Don't you want her to know?" asked the nurse.

"No," I said. "The long and short of it was, Colonel Tom went on to tell that the nurse went out and got her mother. Which the two of them lived alone only around the corner, and give the child into the keeping of her mother, who took it away then and there.

The nurse's mother kept it all that week, and it thrived. Colonel Tom was coaxing of his sister to go back to Tennessee. But she wouldn't go. So he had made up his mind to go back and get his Aunt Lucy Davis to come and help him coax. He was only waiting fur his sister to get well enough so he could leave her. She got better, and she never ast fur the kid nor said nothing about it, which was probable because she seen he wanted it so. He had made up his mind before he went back after their Aunt Lucy Davis to take the baby himself and put it into some kind of an institution.

"I thought," he says to Miss Lucy, telling of the story, "that you yourself were almost reconciled to the thought that it hadn't lived."

Miss Lucy interrupted him with a little sound. She was breathing hard and shaking from head to foot. No one would have thought to look at her then she was reconciled to the idea that it hadn't lived.

"But when I got ready to leave Galesburg," Colonel Tom goes on, "suddenly occurred to me that there would be difficulties in the way of putting it in a home of any sort. I didn't know what to do with it."

"What did you? What did you? What did you?" cries out Miss Lucy.

"The first thing I did," says Colonel Tom, "was to get you to another house—you remember, Lucy?"

"Yes, yes," she says, excited. "And what then?"

"After I had seen you installed in the new place and had bidden you goodby I got a carriage and drove by the place where the nurse and her mother lived. I told the woman that I had changed my mind; that you were going to raise the baby; that I was going to permit it. I don't think she quite believed me, but she gave me the baby. What else could she do? Besides, I had paid her well when I discharged her, to say nothing to you "Look out below," I yells, and to keep the baby until I should come for it. They needed money. They were poor."

"I was determined that it should never be heard of again. It was about noon when I left Galesburg. I drove all that afternoon, with the baby in a basket on the seat of the carriage."

"There was a thick plaid shawl wrapped about the child. In the basket beside the baby was a nursing bottle. About dusk I had it refilled with warm milk at a farmhouse near."

My head was beginning fur to swim. I palled my head out of that there hole and rammed my foot into it. It banged against that grating and loosened it. It busted loose some plaster, which showered down into the room underneath. Miss Lucy, she screamed. And the doctor and Colonel Tom both yelled out to onect:

"Who's that?"

"It's me," I yells, banging that grating agin. "Watch out below there!" And the third lick I give her she broke loose and clattered down right onto a center table and spilled over some photographs and a vase full of flowers and bonaced off onto the floor.

"Look out below," I yells. "I'm coming down!"

I let my legs through first and swung them so I would land to one side of the table, and held by my hands and dropped. But I struck the table a sideways swipe and turned it over and fell onto the floor. The doctor, he grabbed me by the collar and straightened me up, and give me a shake and stood me onto my feet.

"What do you mean?" he begins. But I breaks in.

"Now, then," I says to Colonel Tom, "did you leave that there child sucking that there bottle on the doorstep of a blacksmith's house next to his shop at the edge of a little country town about twenty miles northeast of Galesburg wrapped up in that there plaid shawl?"

"I did," says Colonel Tom. "Then," says I, turning to Miss Lucy, "I can understand why I have been feeling drawn to you fur quite a spell. I'm him."

Pursuant to a decree of the Superior court of Guilford county made in the case of J. Lee Charles and others vs. W. L. Charles and others, the undersigned will sell, at what is known as the home place of the late G. W. Charles, in Deep River township, Guilford county, N. C., to the last and highest bidder, by public auction, on the terms of one-third of the purchase money in cash, one-third in six months, and the balance in twelve months, with interest on deferred payments, from date of sale till paid, at the rate of six per cent. per annum, at 11 o'clock A. M.

Monday, March 23, 1914.

The hereinafter described lands, the first four tracts lying and being in Deep River township, Guilford county, N. C., and the two last tracts partly in Guilford and partly in Forsyth counties, and located a short distance from the first four tracts.

FIRST TRACT: Commencing at a stone in what is known as the Salisbury road, and in the line between the lands to be sold and the lands of C. A. Reynolds, and in a northeasterly direction from the home place of the late G. W. Charles and running thence north 42 degrees 15 minutes east 2.50 poles to a stone; thence north 62 degrees west 19.75 poles to a stone; thence north 2 degrees 30 minutes east 5.35 poles to a stone; thence south 74 1/4 degrees west 2.75 poles to a stone; thence south 75 degrees 15 minutes west with the line 9.50 poles to a stone; thence south 8 degrees 58 minutes west 29.25 poles to a stone in the Salisbury road; thence south 61 degrees 15 minutes west with the said Salisbury road 6.42 poles to a stone in the north side of said road; thence south 28 degrees 30 minutes east 5.50 poles to a white oak; thence south 75 degrees 18 minutes east 14.34 poles to a stone; thence north 71 degrees 30 minutes east 26.40 poles to the beginning, containing 93.67 acres.

SECOND TRACT: Lies just north-west of and adjacent to the tract just above described, and bounded as follows: Beginning at a stone on the north side of Salisbury road, in a westerly direction from the old home place, running thence north with said road 60 degrees east 6.22 poles to a stone in the north side of said road; thence north 61 degrees 15 minutes east 6.42 feet to a stone in the north side of said road; thence north 8 degrees 58 minutes east 29.25 poles to a stone in the line; thence north 85 degrees west 15 poles to a stone; thence south 1 degree west 36.37 poles to the beginning, and containing 41.69 acres, more or less.

THIRD TRACT: Lies south of and adjacent to the two tracts hereinafter described, and begins at a stone in the north side of the Salisbury road in a northwesterly direction from the home place, and runs thence north 51 degrees 15 minutes east 5.62 poles to a stone in the north side of the Salisbury road; thence north 60 degrees east 6.22 poles to a stone in the north side of Salisbury road; thence south 28 degrees 30 minutes east 5.50 poles to a white oak; thence north 76 degrees 18 minutes east 14.14 poles to a stone; thence south 10 degrees 30 minutes east 38.32 poles to a stone in the southern line of the Charles land and the line between the Charles land and the Mendenhall land; thence north 87 degrees 28 minutes west 13.24 poles to a stone; thence north 29 degrees 14 minutes west 21 poles to a stone; thence north 37 degrees 38 minutes west 16.25 poles to the beginning, containing 70.25 acres.

FOURTH TRACT: Beginning at a stone in the Yow and Charles line, same being the southeasternmost point of the Charles land, running thence north with Yow and Willard 4 degrees 28 minutes east 25.40 poles to a stone; thence north 32 degrees 4 minutes east 16.10 poles to a stone; thence north 41 degrees 52 minutes west 9.09 poles to a stone; thence south 71 degrees 30 minutes west 26.40 poles to a stone; thence south 10 degrees 30 minutes east 38.32 poles to a stone in the Mendenhall and Charles line; thence south 37 degrees 28 minutes east 13.30 poles to the beginning, containing 85.75 acres more or less.

These four tracts will first be offered separately, and after that the first and second tracts will be offered together as one tract; and next, the third and fourth tracts will be offered together as one tract; and the manner in which the greatest sum is realized will be reported to the court for its action.

There will be next sold, in two parcels, what is known as the thirty acre tract, lying partly in Guilford and partly in Forsyth county. This will be sold first in two parcels. Tract No. 1 is bounded as follows:

Beginning at a stone, the south-westernmost corner of the thirty acre tract, running thence north 73 degrees 26 minutes east 14.20 poles to a stone; thence north 25 degrees west 15.21 poles to a stone; thence south 61 degrees 30 minutes west 7.25 poles to a stone; thence south 4 degrees 30 minutes west 14.44 poles to the beginning, containing 15.02 acres.

SECOND TRACT: Lies just northeast of and adjacent to the preceding tract, and beginning at a stone, the end of the first call in the preceding boundary; running thence north 73 degrees 26 minutes east 6.90 poles to a stone; thence north 1 degrees east 9 poles to a stone; thence north 44 degrees seven minutes west 8.80 poles to a stone; thence north 86 degrees west 6 poles to a stone; thence south 22 degrees 30 minutes east 3.75 poles to a stone; thence south 78 degrees 30 minutes west 2.75 poles to a stone; thence south 25 degrees east 15.21 poles to the beginning, containing 15.40 acres.

After offering the last tracts above described in two parcels, bounded as just hereinbefore set out, the said two tracts will be offered as one tract, and the manner in which this land shall bring the best price will be reported to the court for action.

The tract known as the thirty acre tract is mostly in original forest. The other tracts, while not heavily wooded, contain sufficient wood and timber of various kinds for necessary farm purposes, including fuel, etc. Both tracts lie in a prosperous farming community, with good church and school facilities, and some four miles north of High Point on the headwaters of Deep River.

Detailed information may be had by applying to either of the undersigned.

SALE OF THE MALINDA SHEPHERD LAND.

Under and by virtue of an order of the Superior court of Guilford county in a special proceeding in which all of the heirs-at-law and next of kin of Malinda Shepherd are duly constituted as parties, the undersigned commissioner will on

Monday, March 2, 1914,

At 12 o'clock M., on the premises hereinafter described, offer for sale, at public auction, to the highest bidder the following described lands, lying and being near Whitsett, in Guilford county, adjoining the lands of Alfred Crouse, Beecher Shepherd, Lucian Moore, heirs of A. I. Green, and more particularly bounded and described as follows:

TRACT NO. 1: Beginning at a stump shown on the plat of the Reuben Ingle property hereinafter referred to, and running thence north 10 degrees east 117 poles to a stone; thence west 1 1/2 degrees north 46 poles to stone on the side of the public road; thence with said road south 16 poles to a stone; thence south 13 1/2 degrees east 94 poles to a stone; thence west 38 poles to a stone; thence south 56 1/2 degrees east 34 poles to a stone; thence north 45 degrees east 26 poles to a stone; thence south 57 degrees east 14 poles to a stone on the old David Ingle line; thence with the David Ingle line north 42 degrees east 36 poles to the beginning, containing 42 acres, more or less, the same being the lot assigned and allotted to Malinda Ingle, who afterwards married Simeon Shepherd, by John A. Clapp, David Huffman, Gideon DeVault, Oliver Whitsett, M. J. Murray, commissioners under court appointment, said lot being numbered and designated as lot No. 1 by said commissioners, a full description of which appears in book of deeds No. 37, at page 807, in the office of the register of deeds of Guilford county. A plat of said property also appears in said record and reference is hereby expressly made thereto.

TRACT NO. 2: Beginning at a stone on the old David Ingle line marked and designated on the plat hereinafter referred to, and running thence south 42 degrees west 43 poles to a stone; thence south 3 degrees west 48 poles to a post oak on the bank of a mill pond; thence up the north side of said pond to a walnut tree; thence north 30 degrees west 70 poles to a stone; thence north 1 1/2 degrees east 30 poles to a stone; thence south 45 degrees east 73 poles to a stone; thence south 57 degrees east 18 poles to the beginning, containing 30 1/2 acres, more or less, the same being the property allotted and assigned from the Reuben Ingle estate to Daniel R. Ingle by John A. Clapp, David Huffman, Gideon DeVault, Oliver Whitsett and M. J. Murray, commissioners under court appointment, who marked and designated said lot in a division of the Reuben Ingle estate as lot No. 3, a description of which appears in book of deeds No. 37, at page 807, in the office of the register of deeds for Guilford county. A plat of said property also appears in said record and reference is hereby expressly made thereto for a more particular description of said property.

The two tracts of land above described constitute what is known as the Malinda Shepherd lands and was occupied by Malinda Shepherd and her husband, Simeon Shepherd, until the death of said Malinda Shepherd, July 4, 1913, and upon said land are situated a four-room dwelling house, a granary, a barn and other out houses.

This is a nice level grain farm, and will be sold in such lots as the commissioner may deem advisable and then as a whole.

Place of sale: on the premises.

Terms of Sale: One-third of the purchase price to be paid down in cash on date of sale, one-third at the expiration of six months from the date of sale, and the remaining third of the purchase price to be paid at the expiration of twelve months from the date of sale, interest to be charged on deferred payments at the rate of six per cent. per annum, and title to the property to be reserved until the purchase price is fully paid; however, with option to the purchaser of paying all cash and receiving deed upon confirmation of sale by the court.

NOTICE.

The United States of America, In the District Court of the United States for the Western District of North Carolina.

In the matter of G. J. Hopper, Bankrupt.

In Bankruptcy.

To the Honorable James E. Boyd, Judge of the District Court of the United States, for the Western District of North Carolina:

G. J. Hopper, of Spray, in the county of Rockingham and state of North Carolina, in said District, respectfully represent: That on the 31st day of January, 1913, he was duly adjudged a bankrupt under the Acts of Congress relating to Bankruptcy; that he has duly surrendered all his property and rights of property and has fully complied with all the requirements of said Acts, and of the orders of the court holding his Bankruptcy.

Wherefore, he prays that he may be decreed by the court to have a full discharge from all debts provable against his estate under said Bankruptcy Acts, except such debts as are excepted by law from such discharge.

Dated this January 12, 1914.

G. J. HOPPER, Bankrupt.

Notice on Petition For Discharge.

It is ordered by the court that a hearing be had upon the same on the 26th day of February, 1914, before G. S. Ferguson, Jr., Special Master, at Greensboro, N. C., in the said District at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, and that notice thereof be published in the Greensboro Patriot, a newspaper published in said District, and that all known creditors and other persons in interest may appear at the said time and place and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of the said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered by the court that the clerk shall send by mail to all known creditors copies of the said petition and this order addressed to them at their places of residence as stated.

This February 17, 1914.

G. S. FERGUSON, JR.,
Special Master.

FOR SALE—One horse colt, aged six months. Well sired, development perfect. Communicate with John D. F. Cobb, Greensboro, N. C. 14-4

You have heard of half-price clothing sales that were due to goods being out of style or after the season was over, but we are putting on a sale of spring goods fresh and new (but disfigured) at less than any of our dealers can buy them in car load lots, and there are plenty of them, because we have two car loads bought. Don't buy until you get our prices. The Townsend Buggy Company.

NEW ACETYLENE LIGHTING PLANT—The only satisfactory lighting for country home. When I bought for my own use I bought three plants in order to get all discounts to agents. I put one in my home and sold one to the Country Club and have one on hand. This is complete and the only one I have to offer. John A. Young, Greensboro, N. C. 11-4f

FOR SALE—One sixteen syrup Lip-pincott soda fountain; onyx and marble-mahogany top with three large mirrors. Cost $1,200; will take $399. Write Oak Ridge Mercantile Company, Oak Ridge, N. C. 13-4

You seldom have a chance to get farm implements at manufacturers' prices. See The Townsend Buggy Company and learn how this can be done. 16-4t

STRAYED OR STOLEN—Large black Scotch retriever, has on collar with name "Cawdor" and P. B. Keatch; liberal reward for return to E. T. Coble, Greensboro Route 6, Phone 7520. 8-4f

We are going to clean up a lot of old jobs this spring and the price will cut no figure. Room is what we want. The Townsend Buggy Company. 16-4t FRUIT TREES—We have them. The kind which have given such wonderful results in the Cleveland orchards. Lime and sulphur. Have just received a car load of Grass-elli's which is high testing and of the best. Can save you money. John A. Young & Sons, Greensboro, N. C.

FOR SALE—Good second-hand Remington typewriter in good condition. Cheap. J. R. Pitts, Greensboro. 3-4f

Carried over less buggies, surreys and carriages than ever before, but they must go before spring; so if you want a bargain, come in early. The Townsend Buggy Company. 4t

SPECIAL AUCTION SALE—Thursday, February 26, at 10 A. M., we have consigned to us to sell regardless of price for the "high dollar" contents of a ten-room house at No. 215 West Sycamore street, on above date, rain or shine. This is the best lot of goods we ever had to sell, and no reserve whatever, but everything in the house will be sold, consisting of a beautiful $250 heavy rug, fine rollers, art squares, pictures, hall furniture, $250 dining room suit, beautiful china ware, silver, cut glass, bed room suits, instantaneous heater, all kinds of fine bedding, mattresses, etc. Automatic refrigerator worth $75 and in fact everything in the house. Don't fail to be on hand and get some of the costly articles at your own price at auction. No pile on anything. Sale will be in promptly at 10 o'clock, Thursday, February 26. Terms will be cash. Englund Realty and Auction Co.

A Disfigured Sale.

"Something entirely new to you, perhaps, to have a chance at farm implements at less than manufacturers' price just because they are a little disfigured. Not shop worn or old, but of the newest style. What is your gain in this deal is the other man's loss, not ours; remember that. We got bargains and propose to hand them out to our customers. WAS FIRST AMERICAN BANK

Boston Institution That Issued $400,000 in Scrip in 1714 Is Accorded That Honor.

The first bank in America, located on State street, Boston, loaned money on real estate, personal property and imperishable merchandise, though it had not the privilege of issuing money, then a prerogative of the Bay State colony. After a few years Boston's first branch discontinued business and was started in 1714, ten years after the first newspaper was printed in Boston. The new bank carried on business and issued $400,000 in scrip on the basis now sought by certain financial promoters and leaders. It was scrip and nothing but scrip, and consequently the bank was short-lived.

In 1742 a land bank was founded by several hundred subscribers who gathered in Boston as the bankers are meeting today and who attempted to relieve the scarcity of specie by issuing scrip based on real estate holdings. A specie bank was also founded about the same time, but both institutions found it as impossible to compete with the "bills of credit" issued by nearly every colony as it would be today to rival the government in minting money. All this paper money rapidly depreciated in value, owing to the constant and heavy expenditure for military movements of offense and defense against the Canadian French and their Indian allies.

In 1782, during the revolution, the Bank of North America of Philadelphia received a charter from congress, and its operations in the Bay State inspired the establishment of the Bank of Massachusetts in March, 1784, an institution which is still in operation as the First National bank of Boston. —National Magazine.

HER RIGHTS IN THE HOME

Woman Contends That Wife's Services Are Worth More Than Food and Raiment—Her Remedy.

Is a woman's life worth only her food and clothing? In every position on earth, except that of a wife, a person is entitled to wages. A wife generally does all that a servant would do, and a great deal more, works more hours a day than a man and goes through ordeals that are almost beyond human endurance, yet many wives do endure this for half a century with only enough to eat and keep them warm, never having an extra dollar to spend. They even have to ask for money to buy postage stamps.

I think a woman should have absolute control of all household affairs. She should watch corners and know how to deal wisely. She should be allowed to manage her house in whatever way seems best to her. She should have enough of an allowance to cover necessary expenses, and a special allowance for her individual needs, and should never have to ask for it. Extract from a letter written by a woman on the subject of a wife's expenditures, in Farm and Fireside.

Cora Belle's Team.

Cora Belle's team would bring a smile to the soberest face alive. Sheba is a tall, lanky old mare. Once she was bay in color, but the years have added gray hair until now she is roan. Being so long-legged she strides along at an amazing pace which her mate, Balaam, a little donkey, finds it hard to keep up with. Balaam, like Sheba, is full of years. Once his glossy brown coat was the pride of some Mexican's heart, but time has added to his color also, and now he is blue. His eyes are sunken and dim, his ears no longer stand up in true donkey style, but droop dejectedly. He has to trot his best to keep up with Sheba's slowest stride. About every three miles he balks, but little Cora Belle doesn't call it balking, she says Balaam has stopped to rest, and they sit and wait till he is ready to trot along again. That is the kind of layout which drew up before our door that evening.—The Atlantic.

Flight of Flies.

That the fly is a peripatetic and what the politicians call a good mixer is well known. The linear extent of his peregrinations is, however, still a matter of dispute. And as he certainly carries with him and distributes infection, whenever there is any to be had, the more or less exact determination of his maximum range is of great practical importance. At one time he was thought to be very much of a "homebody," never wandering more than a few hundred or a thousand feet from his birthplace. Then observations made in England and elsewhere threw doubt upon this conclusion, and it was finally proved that he may travel at least a mile from home.

Now comes along Prof. C. F. Hodge with a 600 per cent. extension of the record, and the opinion that flies "are able to travel much farther than is commonly supposed."—New York Evening Post.

London's Youthful Bobbies.

Has anybody noticed the number of youthful policemen about London recently? asks the Chronicle. Of course, it is the result of the grant of one day a week rest to the force and the consequent enlistment of new recruits. One thing is particularly striking—the extraordinary resemblance of these young, slender, clean-shaven London bobbies to the pictures of the Roman soldier holding his post at Pompeii amidst the shower of ashes and burning lava. The resemblance is even more vivid in the case of the city than of the metropolitan police on account of the Roman character of the city's helmet.

Your Little Girls and the big ones too, are going to be wanting slippers or oxfords before long. Why not save money by getting them now out of the lot we are selling in advance of the season at reduced prices? They are last season's goods but will wear and look just as well as if fresh from the factory. All sorts in this lot, kid, gun metal, patent leather, tan and some white ones.

We offer a very special bargain in ladies' tan footwear, a lot of $3.50 La France tan oxfords at $2.50 and a lot of $3.50 La France and Sherwood tan pumps at $2. Plenty of the above in stock. If you don't want them now make a note of it and buy them later in the season.

Miss M. J. Frazier, Linville Blair and Orville Blair, vs.

W. E. Coleman, and all heirs of Samuel and Ann Frazier, not parties hereto.

A petition for sale of the herein-after described real estate for partition among the heirs of Ann and Samuel Frazier, deceased, having been duly filed in the above cause setting forth in substance that Ann and Samuel Frazier died thirty-five or forty years ago seized and possessed of two adjoining tracts of land in Summer township, Guilford county, N. C., adjoining the lands of T. V. Coleman, Monroe Edwards, and described in one boundary as follows: Beginning at John's on Yates corner, a stone in the lane, running north 31 poles to a stone; thence south 75 degrees east 27 poles to a pine; thence north 33 degrees east to a walnut tree on the bank of the creek; thence south down the meanderings of the creek 70 poles to a stone; thence west 20 poles to a stone; thence south 43 degrees west 50 poles to a stake, Marsh's old corner; thence north 40 poles to a stone; thence west 41 poles to a stone; thence north 70 degrees east 33 poles to the beginning, containing 25 acres, more or less; that the petitioners and the defendant, W. E. Coleman, who purchased an interest in said land from J. F. L. W. Anna and Lou Yates, heirs of said Ann and Samuel Frazier, are the only heirs-at-law of said Ann and Samuel Frazier, so far as known to the petitioners; that said Ann and Samuel Frazier had brothers and sisters as follows, Marjorie Frazier, Stanley Frazier, James Frazier, Susannah Frazier Yates, Thomas Frazier, David Frazier, Nathan Frazier, all of whom died many years ago; that your petitioners represent the interest of said James Frazier by descent through William and Nancy, his son and daughter, and the interest of Thomas Frazier by descent from Nathan Frazier, his son, and the defendant represents the interest of Susannah Frazier Yates by purchase from her children aforesaid; that the petitioners and the defendant are tenants in common of said land, and desire to have the same sold for partition; that there are no other persons interested in said land known to the petitioners or who can be ascertained after due diligence.

And it appearing to the satisfaction of the court that there may be other heirs or persons interested in said real estate who are not parties hereto and who have not been discovered by due diligence, it is therefore ordered by the court, and such parties will take notice, that all heirs-at-law, descendants or representatives of Ann, Samuel, Marjorie, Stanley, James, Thomas, David and Nathan Frazier and Susannah Frazier Yates, or of any descendants of said parties, not parties to this suit, that they are required to appear on the 28th day of February, 1914, in the office of the clerk of the Superior court of Guilford county, and answer or demur to the petition filed in this action, or the petitioners will apply to the court for the relief demanded in said complaint.

It is further ordered that publication be made of this decree once a week for four weeks in the Greensboro Patriot, a newspaper published in Guilford county.

This 28th day of January, 1914. 9-15. M. W. GANT, C. S. C.
