MEETING OF COMMISSIONERS

AFFAIRS OF PUBLIC INTEREST CLAIM ATTENTION OF THE BOARD.

The May meeting of the county commissioners was held Monday and Tuesday and was attended by all the members of the board. In addition to the usual routine of business, such as passing on bills, receiving reports, etc., the board acted on several road petitions and ordered a bond election to be held in the Pentecost township special school district on June 9.

F. Phillips, G. G. Mayse and J. H. Newman were exempted from the payment of poll taxes on account of physical infirmities.

It was ordered that the jurors previously drawn for the civil term of superior court that was to have commenced Monday, May 11, be ordered to serve for the two weeks' term to convene June 8. No calendar has been arranged for the May term and it will not be held.

W. M. Clark was appointed road commissioner of Summer township to succeed G. W. Kirkman, who resigned.

A petition was filed asking for a public road in Morehead township, beginning at a point on the Battle Ground road near Mr. Coggins' mill box and running south by Mr. Coggins' house and along the line between Coggins and Carl Younts, thence along said line between Carl Younts and J. A. Case, thence on the line between Mrs. J. F. Tate and P. S. Kimrey, thence by P. S. Kimrey's house and on the line between Mrs. Younts and the Oxford College farm, thence along said line between Mrs. Younts and J. A. Case out into the public road leading from Greensboro to Guilford County.

Officers of Rock Creek township presented a petition asking for the opening of a public road to begin at the residence of W. J. Thompson, at Whitsett, and to run in a westerly direction to the main macadam road leading from Greensboro to Greensboro.

A petition was filed by citizens of Deep River township asking for a public road to begin at the Dover road and running southeast to H. P. Smith's plantation road to a point near his house, thence with the plantation road to J. R. Smith's house and a bridge on the branch, thence east to H. C. Cude's corner, thence east to J. R. Smith's corner in William Tucker's line, thence with J. R. Smith's line to William Tucker's corner, thence with J. R. Smith's plantation road to William Tucker's farm on the Friendship and Kennerly road.

All these petitions were ordered advertised and will come up for action at the June meeting of the commissioners.

The board granted the petition asking for the opening of a public road in Friendship township, beginning at the intersection of the Ridgefield road and the Friendship and New Salem roads and running south over the lands of Thomas Wakefield, J. A. Inman and J. T. Brock and ending at the sand road in front of the brick house known as the Cooper place.

The sheriff was instructed to advertise for sale on the first Monday in July all property on which the taxes have not been paid.

The board granted a petition filed by the members of the Pentecost township special school district asking that an election be held on the basis of issuing $8,000 of bonds for permanent school improvement. The election was ordered to be held at the Pleasant Garden school building on Tuesday, June 9.

P. Ross was appointed registrar and C. F. Neelley and Watt Elliott were appointed pollholders. The registration book was ordered kept open from today until Saturday, May 16.

The report of Dr. William M. Jones, county health officer, for the month of May showed 34 inmates in the county home and six at the work house. (The number of inmates of the work house has been increased considerably since the adjournment of the recent criminal term of court.) There are over 60 men at the county convict camps and during the past month several were removed to the jail for treatment.

During the month Dr. Jones made 25 charity calls, vaccinated 67 persons, fumigated 43 rooms, examined one insane person, attended two coroners' inquests, made four hookworm examinations, attended to 17 office calls and attended three public health meetings. He reported 21 cases of smallpox and one case of scarlet fever.

A SOLDIER-PHILOSOPHER IN THE EVENING OF LIFE.

Out at the county home there is an old soldier of the Confederacy who is passing the evening of life in peace and tranquility. You would not call his life a particularly happy one, but the old man is not unhappy. He is in the seventy-eighth year of his age and lives much in the past, of course, but there is no bitterness or regret for him.

In speaking Tuesday of the veterans' reunion in Jacksonville this week, he expressed regret that circumstances made it rather inconvenient for him to journey to the Florida metropolis with his comrades of the '60s. "It's a long and tiresome trip for an old fellow like me," he said, "and I might get run over down there in that big crowd," he added as an afterthought.

Since it is inconvenient for him to attend the Jacksonville reunion, the old veteran is looking forward to the Memorial day exercises in Greensboro Monday as a sort of recompense for what he is missing this week. Dr. Jones, the county health officer, has promised to drive out to the county home in his automobile and bring the old man to town, and The Patriot is going to see to it that he doesn't forget the promise.

CHAUTAQUA AFFORDING FINE ENTERTAINMENT.

The Redpath Chautauque, which opened a week's engagement in Greensboro Tuesday afternoon, is affording the people of this city and section a splendid form of entertainment. The attractions are staged in a large tent at the corner of West Washington and Ashe streets.

The program Tuesday afternoon was opened by the Dunbar bell ringers, who proved to be gifted musicians. George D. Alden, of Boston, delivered a helpful and stimulating lecture on "The Needs of the Hour." Tuesday night John B. Ratto gave a number of character sketches from life which proved to be very interesting.

Yesterday morning Charles E. Varney gave the first of his series of six lectures, his subject being "A Grappling Hook." He lectured this morning on "Chain Breaking."

The Harmony Concert Company gave two delightful concerts yesterday afternoon and last night and there were lectures by Everett Kemp and Edward Amhurst Ott.

The chautauque is being conducted under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

AUTHORITIES WAGING WAR AGAINST COCAINE EVIL.

For some time the illicit traffic in cocaine on the part of numerous negroes in Greensboro has been the source of much trouble, and while many convictions have been secured in the courts, the business has continued to flourish. Five negroes were arraigned in Municipal court yesterday on the charge of retailing the drug and a conviction was secured in every case.

Two of the defendants were druggists, Frank and W. L. McNair, who conduct a drug store on East Market street. Frank McNair was convicted in two cases and given a total sentence of 12 months on the county roads. He took an appeal and gave bond in the sum of $500 for his appearance at the Superior court. W. L. McNair was convicted in two cases also, but judgment was continued until today.

Other sentences were imposed as follows: Bertha Scott, eight months in the work house; James Williams, 12 months on the city streets; Walter Richmond, eight months on the city streets.

HIGH POINT MAN ENDS LIFE

HERBERT AUSTIN KILLS HIMSELF AT HOME OF HIS GRANDMOTHER.

Mr. Herbert Austin, who was connected with the Bank of Commerce in High Point, committed suicide Monday morning by firing a revolver into his brain at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Noah Townsend, at Hildebrand, a station on the Southern railroad a few miles west of Hickory. He reached Hickory on an early morning train and walked to Hildebrand, ending his life a few minutes after reaching the home of his grandmother. He refused an invitation to eat breakfast, and saying he was tired, went into a bedroom, presumably to lie down and rest. He took his life almost immediately after closing the door of the room behind him.

Mr. Austin had made his home in High Point for several years and was one of the most popular young men in that city. He was married in April to Miss Frances Smith, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Smith, of Jamestown.

It is said that Mr. Austin had worried a good deal over about $2,000 he had either borrowed from or invested for a young woman of High Point to whom he had been paying attention previous to his marriage, though friends had offered to arrange the matter for him, and there was no apparent reason why he should have been seriously embarrassed.

The funeral and interment took place Tuesday afternoon at Hildebrand and the services were attended by a number of High Point people.

Negro Murderer Sentenced to Death.

Sidney Finger, colored, who confessed to having been implicated in the murder of Preston Lyverly and burning the body in a store at Barber's Junction, Rowan county, on the night of February 24, was tried in Superior court at Salisbury yesterday and sentenced to be electrocuted June 19. He was brought to Greensboro last night and this morning was carried to the penitentiary at Raleigh.

The negro made an effort to escape from Sheriff McKenzie while being brought to Greensboro on train No. 46 last evening. He had managed to free himself from the handcuffs when detected by the officer.

Southside Citizens' Association.

The Southside Citizens' Association, which was recently organized by a number of citizens and business men of South Greensboro, held a meeting last night and elected the following board of directors: S. M. Bumpass, W. F. Eynum, J. A. Hodgin, J. P. Saunders, C. P. Frizler, George S. Sergeant, E. P. Wharton, W. L. Trotter, F. A. Brooks, Robert Trotter, S. L. Trotter, T. A. Hunter, Garland Daniel, W. D. Mendenhall and R. N. Hadley.

Several standing committees were appointed and there was a discussion of matters pertaining to the civic improvement of the southern section of the city.

To Vote on Prohibition Amendment.

A Washington dispatch says a vote on the proposed constitutional amendment providing for nation-wide prohibition may be taken in the house committee on the judiciary this week. The question was sidetracked some two weeks ago that the committee might consider the anti-trust bill. The anti-trust bill has now been reported and advocates are insistent that action be taken on the proposed amendment. Members of the committee say that the amendment will be reported by a fair majority. This means that in all probability the question will come up for a vote in the house before adjournment.

School Board Election.

The election held Monday to fill vacancies on the Guilford graded school board, at Guilford College, resulted in the election of Mr. D. W. Lindsey to succeed himself and of Mr. W. H. Blaylock to succeed Mr. L. C. Huffines.

Senator LaFollette laid before the senate Tuesday what he declared was evidence of a widespread conspiracy to intimidate, coerce and control the interstate commerce commission to grant Eastern railroads the 5 per cent freight rate increase for which application is pending.

DENTIST COMMITS SUICIDE

DR. ERNEST HOPKINS SHOOTS HIMSELF AT HIS HOME IN DANVILLE.

Dr. Ernest H. Hopkins, a son of Mr. J. W. Hopkins, of Brown Summit, committed suicide Tuesday night at his home in Danville, Va., by shooting himself through the head with a revolver. The body was found on the back porch of the home about 11 o'clock by Mrs. Hopkins and an uncle, who had been calling in the neighborhood. The coroner was called, but deemed an inquest unnecessary, the evidence of self-destruction being conclusive.

Dr. Hopkins had been in poor health for some time, suffering from tuberculosis, and had given up hope of regaining his health. It is thought that continued brooding over his condition produced mental aberration and caused him to end his life.

Dr. Hopkins was about 30 years of age and a young man of much promise. He was employed by the Southern Railway as a telegraph operator some years ago, but studied dentistry and had been practicing his profession in Danville for some time. He was a young man of engaging personality and had a large number of friends.

About three years ago Dr. Hopkins was married to Miss Cora Gallagher, of Reidsville.

SENATORS OPPOSE USE OF ROCKEFELLER'S MONEY.

A determined fight was launched in the senate this week to prevent the government from accepting the Rockefeller money to aid in farm demonstration and boll weevil extermination work in the South. Senator Lane, of Oregon, declared that the money of John D. Rockefeller was "covered with the blood and tears of women and children shot down in the Colorado strike."

The debate was on an amendment to the agricultural appropriation bill which was pending when the senate adjourned for the day.

This amendment, reported by the agricultural committee, called for $600,000, double the amount provided in the house bill for farm demonstration and boll weevil work, with a clause providing contributions to the funds by individuals or corporations. At present the general educational board, to which Mr. Rockefeller has given millions of dollars, pays a portion of the salaries of 600 government employees engaged in this work. Senator Vardaman, of Mississippi, suggested amending the provisions so as to permit corporations in the cotton states to contribute.

Senator Kenyon, of Iowa, who does not love the South, insisted that the federal government had no right to go into a partnership with Rockefeller.

Senator Martin, of Virginia, said he would be willing to have half the Rockefeller fortune spent in building up Virginia. If Rockefeller had gotten his money wrongly, he added, there was a law to punish him, but he should not be prevented from doing good with the money he already had.

This was in reply to a remark by Senator Vardaman, of Mississippi, that "the curse of God is on every dollar he possesses."

President to Remain in Washington.

President Wilson will camp out this summer. Not in New Hampshire, with his family, nor on the shore of a river, but right on the White House lot.

The little tent that has for many summers sheltered from the sun's rays the White House ladies and their guests, either at teas or sewing bees, will be pressed into service this year by the president himself for a very different use. The ladies will be in New Hampshire most of the summer, and the president hopes to do much of his work within the four canvas walls.

The president's advisers have urged him to take plenty of fresh air. This had much to do with his decision to spend the busy part of the day in the tent. The little cloth house will be situated in the flower garden, which gets the river breeze when there is one.

About 100 delegates are attending the North Carolina Lutheran Synod, which met in Burlington yesterday. The opening sermon was preached by the president, Rev. M. M. Kinard, D. D., of Salisbury.

Federal Reserve Board Appointed.
Washington, May 4.—President Wilson tonight had selected the five men who, together with the secretary of the treasury, W. G. McAdoo, and the comptroller of the currency, John Skelton Williams, are to compose the federal reserve board.

All of those selected had not yet accepted, so formal announcement will not be made for another day or two. The men to whom the president has offered places are:

Richard Olney, of Boston, Mass., former secretary of state under President Cleveland, to be governor of the board.

Paul Moritz Warburg, of New York, member of the banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

Harry A. Wheeler, of Chicago, vice president of the Union Trust Company of Chicago, and former president and organizer of the United States of Chamber of Commerce.

W. P. G. Harding, of Birmingham, Ala., president of the First National Bank of Birmingham, and one of the leading bankers of the South.

The fifth member is from the Pacific coast and is believed to be Dr. A. C. Miller, of San Francisco, assistant to Secretary Lane, of the interior department. He is an economist and an authority on finance.

Mr. Olney has notified President Wilson that he cannot accept the appointment as governor of the reserve board, stating that he does not feel able to undertake the duties of the position at his advanced age.

Ed. Moore, colored, who shot three other colored men—DeWitt Lampkin, Ed. Scales and Tom Craig—in a fight on East Market street a few weeks ago, has been sent to the city convict camp to serve sentences aggregating four years. His trial was postponed until this week on account of the condition of one of his victims, who was discharged from the hospital only a few days ago.

The new First Reformed church of High Point was dedicated Sunday. Rev. L. A. Peeler is the pastor.

WILL SPEAK ON MORMONISM

SENATOR CANNON TO BE HEARD
AT THE CHAUTAUQUA
HERE SUNDAY.

One of the most interesting features of the Redpath Chautauqua now in progress in Greensboro will be the address to be delivered Sunday by United States Senator Frank J. Cannon, of Utah, who is taking an active part in the anti-Mormon campaign being waged throughout the country.

Senator Cannon has just completed a cycle of fifty tremendously successful meetings conducted under the joint auspices of the National Reform Association, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; the International Council for Patriotic Service, New York, and the National Order of Anti-Mormon Crusaders, Pittsburgh, Pa. These organizations represent the Christian and the moral element in the nation and their aggressive co-operation makes the coming of Senator Cannon a matter of national importance at this time. Back of Senator Cannon and these organizations is the organized Christian Citizenship Conference held at Portland, Oregon, a few months ago, when all the states of the union and all the denominations of Christendom directed the National Reform Association to lead in the war to be waged against the Mormons throughout the world.

"No longer" it is asserted by Rev. Dr. James D. Martin, "does the Mormon elder deny that polygamy is practiced in Utah by the Mormons. On the contrary, all admit that Joseph F. Smith, head of the Mormon church, now lives in open relations with five plural wives, with their children, and Smith himself asks the decent people of the United States, 'What are you going to do about it?'"

That plural marriages in Utah and in the ten other states in which the Mormons have gained a foothold are common was testified to before the United States senate committee of which the Hon. Julius Caesar Burrows, of Michigan, was chairman. That all the Mormons in these eleven states are taught that they owe duties to the Mormon kingdom above any duties owing to the United States is frankly admitted in the publications of the Mormons, and Senator Cannon denounces this teaching as "high treason."

The representatives of the Mormon church in Philadelphia have issued a statement, over the signature of Elder Hilton, in which it is asserted that no Mormon has contracted a plural marriage since the United States enacted a law against such marriages. This gives the lie direct to the sworn testimony of Joseph F. Smith, the head of the whole Mormon church, who testified in the Smoot case that all of his plural wives were taken into his household since 1862, when the first anti-polygamy law was enacted, and he boasted before the senate committee that "he would take his chance with a Utah jury on a bigamy charge."

Court records show more than 280 such plural marriages in which there has been no prosecution. The officials whose duty it is to prosecute such cases assert positively that it would be silly to make arrests, as the Mormons control both courts and the jury wheels. Prigham H. Roberts, the Mormon elder ousted from Congress, frankly avers that the number is nearer 2,800 than 280.

The fact that Prophet Smith controls 22 votes in the U. S. senate to some degree and 12 votes absolutely gives national significance to the progressing movement. No man, unless it be the president of the United States, can with any certainty call for as many votes "in support" as can Prophet Smith, of the Mormon church. In a financial way the Mormon kingdom controls millions of actual and active money. It fixes the price of both sugar and salt in every American home and exercises a baneful influence upon the copper market. The silver output of America is also dominated by the Mormon church and at least four railroads pay strict attention to the wishes of Prophet Smith. It is these and other equally vital issues that Senator Smith comes to Greensboro to discuss.

The Work House Farm.

Mr. Charles Glass, keeper of the county work house, has the farm at that place in splendid shape and the prospects for a fine crop year are encouraging. The early vegetables are coming up nicely and give promise of a big yield. A portion of the land is sowed to rye and crimson clover, which will be turned under later. Several acres that were cleared during the fall and winter will be put in cultivation this year. The work house farm is being conducted along practical and scientific lines and is a credit to the management.

GUILFORD COUNTY MAN WHO HAS BROUGHT WELL.

In its sketches of "Representative Men of North Carolina," the Charlotte Observer recently published the following concerning Mr. J. Van Lindley, who, in a long and useful life, has done his full share of the work of bringing Guilford county and this section to the front in the industrial and commercial life of the state:

Just what the author of the old adage, "Still waters run deep," meant would be hard to ascertain at this late time, but he must have been referring to the simple fact that progress is not necessarily accompanied by noise. J. Van Lindley, of Pomona, does not consort with the bandwagon, but he has got there along with the head of the procession. Of a line of Quaker stock, he is by nature quiet, reserved and unostentatious, and fruits and flowers grow for him as if they appreciated his persistent patience and lack of bluster.

All his progress is not a matter of greenhouses and nurseries. He is progressive in county matters, a good road man and interested in all movements for the common good. He is known all over the South as a leading nurseryman, while his greenhouses are the largest south of Philadelphia.

Born in Morgan county, Ind., November 5, 1838, Mr. Lindley has notwithstanding been a Tar Heel all his life. His father and mother, Joshua and Judith Lindley, were natives of North Carolina and were carried to Indiana, most probably, by the exodus in which so many members of the Society of Friends left for the Middle West because of the feeling against slavery. J. Van Lindley, however, did not stay in Indiana long enough to become a grafted scion, but returned to the home of his fathers and bought 45 acres of land in Guilford county, beginning his nurseries six miles from Greensboro.

In 1870 Mr. Lindley was married to Miss Mary Coffin, who died in 1871. In 1875 he was married to Miss Sadie Cook. He has five children: Paul C. Lindley, Mrs. A. J. Sikes, Mrs. J. F. Turner and Mrs. C. E. Leak, of Greensboro, and Mrs. Anderson, of Tampa, Fla.

Moving to within three miles of Greensboro in 1880, he purchased here 300 acres, founding the town of Pomona, now properly a Greensboro suburb. From his nurseries he sent men all over the South and even to the North and West, building up an immense business in fruit trees. In 1888 the greenhouses, which soon grew to great proportions, were added and the business since that time has continued to show a steady, healthy growth, much in the same manner of Mr. Lindley's plants. The firm name is the Pomona Nursery Company, and Mr. Lindley is president. It is one of the state's leading industries and has a large capital.

It has been said that the North Carolina nurseryman has been recognized by those of his profession. He has served as president of the North Carolina Pomological Society, president of the American Horticultural Society and president of the American Nurseryman's Association. In addition, he has long been a trustee of Guilford College and is at the head of the Pomona Terra Cotta Company.

All these honors have failed to make his waters less still. Calmly and contentedly, modestly and quietly, J. Van Lindley "runs deep."

E.g. Land Sale at Whitsett.

Thirty large building lots and ten small farms at Whitsett are to be sold at auction Friday, May 15, beginning at 2 o'clock. This is what is known as the Thompson property and the sale will offer a splendid opportunity for home-seekers and investors. The community is one of the most desirable to be found anywhere, the educational and social advantages being especially attractive. The sale will be conducted by the Central Loan and Trust Company, of Burlington.

Enormous Cost of Strikes.

Amazing figures showing the cost of industrial strikes in the United States have just been compiled by the federal commission on industrial relations. According to the data collected, there were during the 20-year period between 1881 and 1900 more than 23,000 strikes and lock-outs, costing approximately $469,000,000. This cost represents but three items—loss in wages, assistance or money advanced to strikers by their sympathizers and loss to employers.

From 1900 to 1905 there were nine strikes called each working day of this five-year period. Since 1905 some of the biggest industrial conflicts in the history of the country have taken place, and only fragmentary evidence has been collected showing their cost.

Happy Dreams.

It's possible for de po' man ter be des ez happy ez de millionaire—if you'll give him time ter sleep an' dream that he is rich.—Atlanta Constitution.

Not a single pair of men's six, seven or eight dollar shoes for sale in this store. That's a fact. But we sell remarkably good shoes and oxfords for men at $3.50 and $4.00, and we sell lots of them. Just now we are selling some mighty good gun metal, tan and vici kid oxfords at $3.50 and $4.00, and we have four or five surprisingly good styles at only $3.00 a pair. If you have not already done so, better form the good habit of buying your footwear at this store.

HUERTA'S PRISON SURVIVAL OF

Shocking Revelations Mark
Americans' Rescue of Half
Crazed Inmates.

FORTRESS A THE DARK AGES

Endured a Living Death In Dungeons of Vera Cruz
Harbor Landmark.

VIVID details of the rescue of prisoners in the old prison fortress of San Juan de Ulua by American officers and marines are given by correspondents for the New York Times and New York Tribune stationed at Vera Cruz. The prison is a famous landmark of Vera Cruz harbor and a relic of the dark ages. It is an impressive looking structure built in the old Spanish style and looking up as the most conspicuous object at the entrance to the harbor, with its high clock tower facing the sea and painted snow white.

The structure proved literally a white sepulcher, as one of the correspondents wrote.

Although the recent fighting at Vera Cruz and the uncertainty of succeeding days the Mexican flag floated above the old turrets, and it was supposed that there were several torpedoes in the prison which might conceivably be launched at the Pacific.

The structure proved literally a white sepulcher, as one of the correspondents wrote.

Famine Led to Surrender.

The prison is on an island, and the security of provisions at last compelled the commander, Colonel Aurelio Vidal, to ask that it be turned peacefully over to the Americans, and Captain Chamberlain, Lieutenant G. K. Singer and a company of marines from the North Dakota, quietly took possession, the commandante and officers and their families continuing for the present to occupy their usual quarters in the fort.

No stage manager putting on "The Count of Monte Cristo" could imagine anything more creepy than the sight which met the eyes of the American officers when the keys were turned in the rusted old barred doors and they entered the ancient vaults. The prison was built in the sixteenth century, with walls six feet thick, moats, subterranean dungeons and vaults.

All the rooms are unlighted except for a single shaft of light falling vertically like a searchlight from an opening about a foot square in the center of the vaulted roof.

Infested With Vermin.

One of the dungeons in which almost a hundred persons were confined had no light or ventilation except a small square hole in the vaulted roof, and the air was so foul and close that one coming in from outside could scarcely endure it. From this dungeon two subterranean passages led off for some little distance until terminated by a blank wall. These tunnels had no light or air of any kind and were shut off from the main dungeon by heavy iron bars.

It has often been said that there were dungeons in San Juan de Ulua in which sea water came at high tide. The officers found none, although the walls and floors were wet with water that had seeped through, and the rooms were alive with cockroaches and other vermin.

According to Mexicans who are familiar with the ancient prison fortress, seven years was about the limit of life for any one who was imprisoned there.

ANCIENT PRISON FORTRESS OF SAN JUAN DE ULUA, WHERE AMERICAN MARINES FOUND SEVERAL HUNDRED PRISONERS IN A PITIABLE CONDITION.

One of the correspondents who permitted to visit several of its gloomy chambers, where prisoners, looking more like animals than men, stood up in line to receive him.

Men Went Mad.

When the American authorities began to bring the prisoners out of their cells for formal inquiry as to the reason for their imprisonment some were found to be half insane because of their long incarceration. Others were reduced to mere skeletons as a result of the vile sanitary conditions and the inadequate food which was served to them.

Among the unfortunates were boys of twelve years and men over seventy years old.

The prisoners were found to number more than 300, and a large number of the men when released wandered about the streets of Vera Cruz in a pitiable condition, with unkempt beards, lacking money and friends and acting like all the world as if they were lost children.

Tablet to Americans.

In going through the prison the marines found at one place a tablet inscribed thus:

"To the memory of the American soldiers who died at San Juan de Ulua island, 1847."

No traces were found of any graves of Americans on the island, which was one of the first landing places of the American troops under General Scott sixty-seven years ago.

Some of the cannon in the fortress were found to have been half eaten away by rust. Several of these, it is estimated, were more than 200 years old.

Many Freed by General Maas.

Of the 1,400 in the place until recently several hundred political prisoners were, it is understood, released by General Maas. The few hundred remaining included a few criminals, but the most of them were merely poor, abject peons raked up in southern Mexico and brought north to serve in Huerta's army. All when questioned told the same story—that they had been captured in the state of Tabasco and shipped north to Vera Cruz.

As a result of the terrible conditions existing in the fortress and the manifest danger to even well men in remaining there Rear Admiral Fletcher gave orders that all the prisoners against whom no charges were pending to warrant their imprisonment should be released. Those against whom there were criminal charges have been transferred to sanitary quarters.

Noted Leader In Dungeon.

Among the political prisoners released was Bernardino Iglesias Calderon, one of the most widely known politicians in Mexico, who formerly was the leader of the Liberal party. He was arrested in Vera Cruz Feb. 16 last after the discovery of an alleged plot in the capital by the Huerta secret service agents, who claimed to have information that Senor Calderon was deeply involved.

No charges had been made against at least two of those incarcerated in the old fortress, over which the stars and stripes now fly. It is in command of Captain Stickney, commander of the port.

TIRELESS MEXICAN SOLDIERS.

Care Little About What They Eat, but Can't Fight Without Cigarillos.

J. L. W. Birkinbine of Philadelphia, who has spent much time in Mexico, is of the opinion that the United States may have more trouble in a war with Mexico than it anticipates, because, he says, "a Mexican never sleeps and a Mexican army never has a commissary department. The soldiers subsist almost altogether on tortillas, which is a thin cake made of corn."

"Mexicans seem never to tire and never to sleep," said Mr. Birkinbine. "They will travel all day, often carrying heavy loads, and then sit up and talk all night. If they have plenty of tortillas they are satisfied, always with the understanding that the cigarillos or cigarettes do not run out. A Mexican soldier might be able to fight without his tortillas, but he could never fight without his cigarette."

"The Mexican soldier is not brave nor ultra patriotic. The officers are interested in enlarging their own importance and glory, and the rank and file of the army is composed mostly of Indians. Notwithstanding it will be no easy task for the United States to bring order out of the chaos down there."

DYING BOY'S WISH GRANTED

Washington Youth, With Incurable Heart Trouble, Sees President Wilson at White House.

Washington.—A nine-year-old boy, dying of heart trouble, was brought to the White House to have his desire to see and be smiled upon by the president of the United States granted. He is Harry Winthrop Davis, son of Mrs. A. L. Davis of Sewickley, Pa. The boy has had incurable heart trouble for years, and is now being taken to Atlantic City, where there is a chance that he may live a few weeks longer. He was taken to the White House in an ambulance and was brought into the blue room on a cot, where the president and Mrs. Wilson greeted him. The president made the boy happy by presenting him with a bouquet of forget-me-nots.

TO ENLIST 50,000 VETERANS.

Nation Wide Appeal to Men Who Served in Spanish-American War.

In anticipation of general hostilities between this country and Mexico and to make good the offer of General John Lewis Smith, commander in chief of the United Spanish War Veterans, to furnish 50,000 trained soldiers, veterans of the Spanish war, two recruiting stations have been opened for this class of enlistment at the national headquarters of the organization in Washington.

The recruiting station at the national headquarters is, under the direction of Adjutant General Rausch, while the station at departmental headquarters will be directed by Departmental Commander J. A. Costello.

The opening of the two stations in Washington is part of a general scheme covered by a general order of Commander in Chief Smith for every city in the country where there is a veterans' camp. General Smith is confident he can enlist the 50,000 men of his organization within a week.

MEXICAN AFFAIRS.

The Mexican situation has been outwardly calm this week. The South American mediators are holding daily sessions in Washington planning for a peaceful solution of the differences between the United States and Mexico. The actual negotiations will take place in neutral territory and they are expected to begin on the Canadian side of Niagara Falls on the 18th inst. While a resumption of hostilities is not expected, the war and navy departments are keeping their forces prepared for any emergency that might arise.

In the meantime fighting between the Huerta forces and the rebels continues in Mexico and the rebels are steadily moving toward Mexico City. Messages from Gen. Carranza state that three converging campaigns are in active operation within 300 miles of Mexico City and that a general advance is to be made on the Mexican capital in a short time.

The twenty-fourth annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans opened in Jacksonville, Fla., yesterday with thousands of old veterans present from every state in the South. The first day's session was featured by the return of a captured battle flag to a delegation of Union veterans from Ohio. The flag was captured from the seventy-sixth Ohio regiment by the first Arkansas regiment at the battle of Ring old Gap in 1862. The people of Florida have extended a generous and royal welcome to the old soldiers and the reunion promises to be one of the most successful yet held. Nearly 100 veterans are in attendance from Guilford county and other sections of the state are well represented.

The good news comes from South Carolina that the forces of Governor Blease suffered overwhelming defeat in the county Democratic conventions held to select delegates to the state convention. Blease is a candidate for the United States senate in opposition to Senator Smith and the affiliation of the delegates elected to the state convention presages an easy victory for Smith, but one can never foretell with any degree of accuracy what may happen in South Carolina politics.

Representative Tribble, of Georgia, played hob with two of Secretary Daniels' pet uplift schemes for the navy Monday, when he prevented the house from increasing the number of navy chaplains from twenty-four to fifty-two, and knocked out the plan to allow twenty-five "jackies" from the fleet to have a chance every year to enter Annapolis. Congressman Tribble thinks there are already too many officers on the payroll of the navy.

It is understood that the special legislative commission for the investigation of the conduct of fire insurance companies in North Carolina will resume its sittings within the next few weeks for the final round-up of the work of taking evidence. It is not known how long the approaching session will continue, but people generally who have any special grievances are being urged to present them at the time.

GENERAL NEWS PARAGRAPHS

SUMMARY OF EVENTS THAT GO TO MAKE UP THE WORLD'S NEWS OF THE DAY.

Charles G. Foushee has been appointed postmaster at Ramseu. Five persons were drowned when part of the Rock Island railroad's bridge at Bridgeport, Okla., was washed away.

Governor Craig is to be the principal speaker at a district meeting of the Jr. O. U. A. M. in Statesville tonight.

Fire in Yancey Tuesday destroyed 700,000 feet of timber that had been cut and placed along the railroad track ready for shipment.

Two new tobacco warehouses are to be built in Roxboro this summer, giving that market five warehouses at the beginning of the next season.

There are four candidates for the Durham postoffice and the contest may be settled by a primary. Congressman Stedman has suggested this method and at least two of the candidates are understood to favor it.

Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, a famous Union veteran of the Civil war, died Sunday night at his home in New York, aged 89 years. During reconstruction days he was commander of the military department of North and South Carolina.

William L. Finley, Democratic state chairman of Ohio, Tuesday pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with violating the state civil service laws in collecting funds from state employees for political purposes.

It is stated that not a single Democrat in Yancey county has announced his candidacy for office. The primary is to be held May 1 and it seems now as if the county executive committee will have to make up a ticket.

By order of General Avila, chief of arms at Juarez, the duty on flour entering Mexico has been suspended for eight days. This action was taken to relieve the distress among the poor of the state of Chihuahua, who were thrown out of work when milling properties were closed.

The leaders in Congress have begun an earnest effort to complete the legislative program so that Congress can adjourn early in July. Majority Leader Underwood, after a conference with the president, said that he believed the house could finish the program demanded by the president.

Yanceyville Sentinel: The uncertainty of contract labor is a serious stumbling block in the path of the Caswell farmer. We learn that Mr. R. E. Wilson, of Furlly, was preparing for a big crop this year, purchasing 140 sacks of fertilizer and having plenty of plants, when every hand left him unexpectedly.

Charlie Hambe, a 13-year-old white boy, was arraigned in the United States District court in Asheville Tuesday on the charge of illicit distilling. On account of his tender years, the case was not pressed with a warning from Judge Boyd to refrain from violating the law in the future.

The horticultural division of the state department of agriculture reports that there is every assurance now that the fruit crop was not very seriously injured by the cold in April after all and that the yield of apples, peaches, pears and fruit generally will be very good and in some sections exceptionally large.

James C. Daniel's was elected mayor of Randleman in a town election held Monday, defeating O. C. Marsh by a majority of 18 votes. J. T. Millikan, T. A. Compton, A. B. Beasley, S. W. Swain, John O. Ferguson, F. P. Prevo, John J. Newlin and W. E. Matthews were elected members of the board of aldermen.

If the efforts of the United States public health service are successful, Vera Cruz will benefit in one very important way as a result of its occupation by the American military forces; that is, like Havana, once the worst plague spot in the world, its name will be erased from the dread list of "yellow fever ports."

John F. Jelke, a Chicago oleomargarine manufacturer, was fined $10,000 Monday and sentenced to two years in jail for conspiracy to defraud the government of taxes on illicitly colored oleomargarine. Seven other defendants in the oleomargarine cases, most of them connected with the John F. Jelke Company, were fined $2,500 each.

Postmaster General Luteson defended the parcel post system Tuesday in an open letter, characterizing it as an accelerator of trade between cities and farms and declaring its rates were based on operating costs in both profitable and unprofitable territory. Mr. Luteson was replying to the Puffa's chamber of commerce, which recently adopted resolutions opposing increase in the parcel post weight limit.

News Films of the Passing Show

Edward Mann, charged with robbery in New York, was found to be wearing corsets. He said he wore them to keep warm.

Egg Harbor (N. J.) jail, heretofore known as "Weary Willie Haven of Rest," was deserted when it was stated that prisoners must clean streets.

Otto C. Buck Spencer Churchill, for 15-six years old, South Bend, Ind., claiming to be the possessor of an estate worth $30,000,000, must find a wife by July 25 or forfeit $250,000.

By the will of John Chancellor Crafts of Brighton, Mass., $1,200 a year and a lump sum of $750 are left to provide for his dog, Pete Crafts, which was left in his care by his late brother, Horace W. Crafts.

Mrs. Fannie Abrahams is contemplating running for the chair in the Chicago city council left vacant by the death of her husband, "Manny" Abrahams, and now occupied by his brother, "Morrie" Abrahams.

TO TRAIN RURAL TEACHERS ON AN ELABORATE SCALE

Schools in Ten Mile Zone Included in Iowa Laboratory Plan.

Iowa is about to undertake the most comprehensive system of training for rural teachers yet conceived. Authorization has been given by the state board of education to President H. H. Seerley of Teachers' college to organize the country schools within reasonable distance of Cedar Falls, possibly ten miles, as a great demonstration laboratory.

Actual work under the new system will be commenced next fall. "This undertaking," says President Seerley, "involves many difficult problems, because a self-satisfied, hopeless condition exists among the patrons and directors of most rural school districts. The authority of the local unit is absolutely ineffective, and the interest in the possible education obtainable in the schools is confused with many modern ideas and theories."

"The rural teacher is a statutory personality, the standard of qualification being little influenced by public sentiment or dictated by custom. Through the legal status there is very little discrimination required in recognition of true standards because the remuneration is not governed by efficiency, but by the grades on the teachers' certificates. As a consequence, all the emphasis is placed upon an artificial kind of qualification."

"It is a well known fact that the vast majority of electors and patrons of these school districts insist that taxation be kept at a minimum. The few who have different ideals yield as they recognize the incompetency of the teachers who are obtainable."

"The present examining system never can reach these fundamental difficulties."

MACHINE TRANSPLANTS BONE

Small Circular Saw Driven by Motor Displaces the Hand Method.

An electrical apparatus for bone transplanting has just been received by the Jefferson hospital, Philadelphia. It consists of a small portable electric motor, which runs at high speed and drives a small circular saw and will be used to replace the slower and less efficient hand method in bone surgery.

A section of bone is removed from the tibia, or shin bone, of the patient and is transplanted to the spinal column of a patient suffering from Pott's disease. The spinous or projecting parts of a number of vertebrae are split open, and the section of bone is fixed in the depressions.

The piece of bone transplanted is generally about five inches long, one quarter inch thick and half an inch wide.

The object of the operation is to support the vertebrae in an immovable position, taking the weight off the front portion of the vertebrae, which is the seat of the disease. This puts the spine in a more favorable position for checking the disease and repair of the broken down parts.

Mathewson is passing the winter at Los Angeles. The letter was sent by a Chicago fan.

WHITSETT.

Miss Essie Wheeler, who has been teaching in Vance county, is at home again. Miss Elizabeth Wheeler has also returned from Reelsboro, where she taught this year.

Prof. Thomas R. Foust, county superintendent of schools, delivered an excellent lecture here Sunday night upon the topic of "Two Essentials of Success." He was heard by a large audience.

Charles E. McLean, Esq., attorney at law from Greensboro, spent Sunday here with his brother.

John W. Summers has returned from Greensboro, where he has been serving for some days as foreman of the grand jury.

Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Davenport, of Greensboro, spent Saturday and Sunday here with relatives.

Last Saturday Dr. Whitsett delivered the commencement address at the home of the Guilford graded school at Guilford College. He has also accepted an invitation to deliver the address at the commencement of the High Point city schools the latter part of May.

There will be a sale of thirty lots on Friday, May 15, at 2 P. M. in the new subdivision which lies along Thompson avenue. The lots are well situated and valuable and doubtless will attract many to the sale. There will be the usual attractions, also of home-made free presents, and a good lot to some lucky individual.

Ed. H. Wheeler is now engaged in setting the taxes for Rock Creek township.

A new bell has just been placed in the tower of the M. E. church. It is proposed to dedicate this bell some time soon, after some other work has been done upon the tower.

On Saturday evening, May 9, at 7 P. M., the jubilee contest in education on the part of the Star Circle will be held.

Miss George H. Parker, of Spartanburg, S. C., is here for a visit and will remain until after commencement. She is accompanied by her little son, George H., Jr.

The number of commencement valedictorians this year will be unusually large, if we may judge from the numerous letters received in regard to securing rooms for the occasion.

Spray Apples For Codling Moth.

The codling moth lays the egg which hatches the worm in the apple. At this time, spray with a solution of lime and sulphur, or a mixture of arsenate of lead and 100 gallons water. This should be done at once. The same remedy could be repeated in three weeks from first spraying, though the need is not so important as to be done now.

"Popple."

In some English dialects "popple" or "popple" (for it is variously spelt and pronounced) seems to mean a large white (A.S. papul). The same word is used today among seafaring men, who talk of a "popple" sea, meaning a "choppy" sea—one the surface of which is dotted with innumerable "popple" waves. On the other hand, there is an old English word "popple" meaning "poplar," which is in use today in some parts of Canada. Evidently the word as it stands is of considerable interest, and of double derivation and meaning.

CLOSING EXERCISES OF GUILFORD GRADED SCHOOL.

On Saturday, May 2, the Guilford graded school held its closing exercises. In the afternoon two essays were read—one on "Helen Keller," by Etta Louise Coggins, the other, "The Conservation of the Soil," by Henry Wakefield Hurlins.

A report by the principal of the school, Mr. J. W. Moser, was presented, which showed a census in the district of 209. The report also showed that five students from other districts had attended the graded school, making a total of 214; 49 were attending college and 15 had already graduated at the graded school, leaving 150, of which number 148 had attended the school the past year. The daily average attendance was 130, which is a remarkably good showing.

The treasurer's report showed that the year $2,139.01; receipts amounted to $2,159.53, leaving a balance on hand of $29.52. This report also showed that during the year a steam heater has been installed at an expense of $590 and that of this sum $500 had been received from the county board.

Dr. W. T. Whitsett made the address of the day, which was received with a great deal of appreciation. He referred to the work which the Society of Friends have done in Guilford county and particularly of this part of the county, making mention of the New Garden Boarding School, followed by Guilford College, and referred to the fact that the Guilford graded school was among the first in the state to vote a local tax. He also congratulated the eleven young persons who completed the course and urged them to continue their educational work. Diplomas were given to these eleven students.

The fact that the school has continued seven months indicates both progress in the school management and an increase in the income of the school.

ROAD WORK IN GREENE TOWNSHIP APPRECIATED.

Editor Patriot:

Capt. Stanley and his road force have completed their work in Greene township and have gone. The road leading from the Atlantic county line at Kimesville is sand-clayed and macadamized to Greensboro, and we believe it is one of the best roads in the county.

Our people have felt that the commissioners had not given us a square deal in not giving our roads any attention for several years, but I think now that our citizens are generally well pleased with the work that has been done.

Capt. Stanley tried to satisfy as best he could all of our citizens, and I think he did, with the exception of a few chronic grumblers that are always opposed to everything tending to the upbuilding of the community.

With our improved roads and new school buildings, I believe our community will soon become one of the most prosperous in the county.

We want to thank the board of county commissioners, and especially Capt. Stanley, for the work that has been done in this section, and hope they will not defer their next visit as long as this one.

Yours for good roads and good schools,

CITIZEN.

IN MEMORIAM.

Robert Vance Dick, Robert Vance Dick was born in Guilford county September 20, 1884, and died April 7, 1914. He professed faith in Christ when a mere boy and connected himself with Bethel Presbyterian church, near McLeansville. He was a young man that was punctual in attendance in the service of the sanctuary. If the writer is not mistaken, he was also an honorary member of the Ladies' Missionary and Aid Society of his church.

Mr. Dick was born and reared on the old homestead, two miles east of McLeansville station. In the spring of 1913 he bought property in McLeansville and erected a nice residence thereon. In the fall of 1913 Robert and his mother moved into their new home, but the tranquility of their happy home was soon to be broken, for in a few short months the death angel came and called Mrs. Dick to her home on high.

Mr. Dick's health began to fail in the fall of 1913, and soon after his mother's burial he was sent to a sanitarium. But it seemed this was destined to do him but little good, and his brother, Mr. W. S. Dick, the last surviving member of the family, went after him and brought him home, where he received the very best nursing and attention that loving friends could bestow upon him—all to avail nothing, as his days were numbered, and he departed this life on the 7th of April, 1914. His remains were laid to rest in the family burying ground at Bethel church on April 8. Funeral services were conducted at the church by his pastor, Rev. R. E. Redding.

Robert V. Dick was a faithful member of the Farmers' Local Union No. 1123. His remains were transferred from his brother's residence to the church and from the church to its final resting place and laid to rest under the auspices and burial ceremony of the Farmers' Union; and

Where's, our Heavenly Father, in his wise providence, has removed from our union, Brother Robert Vance Dick, one of the useful and beloved members of the Farmers' Union of McLeansville, we the members of our union, desiring to record our appreciation of his service have adopted the following resolutions:

1. That in the death of Brother Dick our union has lost a faithful member, and while we mourn the loss, we bow in humble submission to the will of him who doeth all things well and feel that our loss is his eternal gain.
2. That we acknowledge our gratitude to God for his earnest labors during his association with us.
3. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the brother and family, a copy be placed on record in the minutes of our union, a copy be sent to the Presbyterian Standard and The Greensboro Patriot for publication.

WHITSETT INSTITUTE COMMENCEMENT PROGRAM.

The commencement exercises of Whitsett Institute will be held this year May 16, 17 and 18, and as usual, the program embraces a number of attractions. The declamation contest of the Dialectic literary society will be held at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon of Saturday, May 16, and the contest of the Athenian society at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The senior class exercises will take place at 8 o'clock in the evening.

Sunday will be given over to the annual sermon and the Y. M. C. A. address, both of which will be delivered by Rev. Martin W. Buck, pastor of the First Baptist church of Burlington. The sermon will be delivered at 11 o'clock in the forenoon and the Y. M. C. A. address at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Monday, May 18, will be commencement day proper. The literary address will be delivered at 10:30 o'clock A. M. by Dr. E. K. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina. The graduating exercises will take place at noon and will be followed at 2:30 P. M. by the contest for the senior orator's medal. The senior contest in elocution will be held at 8 o'clock in the evening, following which a reception will be given in the society halls.

The members of the senior class this year are: Edgar Dudley Currie, Scotland county; Oscar Paul Fitzgerald, Guilford county; Joe Pratt Harris, Montgomery county; Pearl Johnson, Guilford county; Lela Pearl Lutz, Gaston county; Henry Himan Perry, Perquimans county; Rosa Lee Phillips, Guilford county; Robert Calvin Short, Vance county; Clement Manly Woodard, Pamlico county; Ethelbert Dean Woodard, Pamlico county.

VINCENT ASTOR'S BRIDE.

Comes From Sturdy American Stock and Proficient in Many Sports.

There is a touch of romance in the Astor-Huntington wedding. Vincent Astor had known Miss Helen D. Huntington since childhood. The bride spent her early childhood at the old Huntington estate at Rhinebeck, N. Y., which adjoins Ferncliffe, the Astor estate. The wedding marked the uniting of two families of great wealth. Mr. Astor, following his father's death, came into the possession of estates valued at upward of $65,000,000.

Mrs. Vincent Astor is the granddaughter of the late William B. Dinsmore, a multimillionaire. She is a descendant of Samuel Huntington of Norwich, Conn., a signer of the Declaration of Independence, and on the Huntington side of the family two of her ancestors were justices of the United States supreme court.

The bride has spent most of her life in the country and is fond of country life and athletics, being an expert horsewoman.

Her father, who was graduated from Yale in 1891, was tennis champion of his university, and before she was ten years old Miss Huntington began to take an interest in the tennis courts. She also, like most other girls brought up at country homes, became proficient in swimming while scarcely more than a child, and before she went away to the finishing school she was able to sail a sloop and to operate any motor craft.

REDFIELD ON PROSPERITY.

Secretary of Commerce Makes Bright Forecast For Year.

In an article in the Chicago Tribune Secretary of Commerce Redfield forecasts prosperity for 1914 and scoffs at pessimistic predictions. He says in part:

The facts are such as should fill us all with hope. There is little in them to justify either doubt for the present or fear for the future.

The crop of winter wheat already planted to mature next summer is not only in finer condition than a year ago, but is of much larger extent, promising well for the future if weather conditions prove favorable and certainly justifying no present anxiety.

Referring to American industries, he says, "One does not need to be worried by this cry of wolf, for the cry has been made before, and the wolf did not come."

"Why, when I tell my story, the world will hate you, Sara Wrاندall. You have helped me, you have been good to me, no matter what sinister motive you may have had in doing so. It is my turn to help you."

"To help me!" cried Sara, astonished in spite of herself.

"Yes. To save you from execration—and even worse."

"There is no moral wrong in marriage with Leslie Wrاندall," said Sara, returning to her own project.

"No moral wrong!" cried Hetty, agitated. "No, I suppose not," she went on, a moment later. "It is something much deeper, much blacker than moral wrong. There is no word for it. And if I marry him, what then? Wherein lies your triumph? You can't mean that—God in heaven! You would not go to them with the truth when it was too late for him to—to cast me off!"

"I am no such fool as that. The secret would be forever safe in that event. My triumph, as you call it, we will not discuss."

"How you must hate me, to be willing to do such an infamous thing to me!"

"I do not hate you, Hetty."

"In heaven's name, what do you call it?"

"Justification. Listen to me now. I am saying this for your good sense to seize and appreciate. Would it be right in me to allow you to marry any other man, knowing all that I know? There is but one man you can in justice marry: the one who can repair the wreck that his own blood created. Not Brandon Booth, nor any man save Leslie Wrاندall. He is the man who must pay."

"I do not intend to marry," said Hetty.

"But Leslie will marry some one, and I intend that it shall be you. He shall marry the ex-chorus girl, the artist's model, the—the prostitute! Wait! Don't fly at me like that! Don't assume that look of virtuous horror! Let me say what I have to say. This much of your story shall they know, and no more. They will be proud of you!"

Hetty's eyes were blazing. "You use that name—you call me that—and yet you have kissed me, caressed me—loved me!" she cried hoarse with passion.

"He will ask you tonight for the second time. You will accept him. That is all."

"You must take back what you have just said to me—of me—Sara Wrاندall. You must unsay it! You must beg my pardon for that!"

"I draw no line between mistress and prostitute."

"But I—"

"Enough!"

"You wrong me vilely! You must let me—"

"I have an excellent memory, and it serves me well."

Hetty suddenly threw herself upon the couch and buried her face in her arms. Great sobs shook her slender frame.

Sara stood over her and watched for a long time with pitiless eyes. Then a queer, uneasy, wondering light began to develop in those dark, ominous eyes. She leaned forward the better to listen to the choked, inarticulate words that were pouring from the girl's lips. At last, moved by some power she could not have accounted for, she knelt beside the quivering body, and laid her hand, almost timidly, upon the girl's shoulder.

"Hetty—Hetty, if I have wronged you—in thinking that of you—I—I—she began brokenly. Then she lifted her eyes, and the harsh light tried to steal back into them. "No, no! What am I saying? What a fool I am to give way—"

"You have wronged me—terribly, terribly!" came in smothered tones from the cushions. "I did not dream you thought that of me."

"What was I to think?"

Hetty lifted her head and cried out: "You would not let me speak! You refused to hear my story. You have been thinking this of me all along, holding it against me, damning me with it, and I have been closer to you than—My God, what manner of woman are you?"

Sara seized her hands and held them in a fierce, tense grip. Her eyes were glowing with a strange fire.

"Tell me—tell me now, on your soul, Hetty were you—were you—"

"No! No! On my soul, no!"

"Look into my eyes!"

The girl's eyes did not falter. She met the dark, penetrating gaze of the other and, though dimmed by tears, her blue eyes were steadfast and resolute. Sara seemed to be searching the very soul of her, the soul that laid itself bare, denuded of every vestige of guile.

"I—I think I believe you," came slowly from the lips of the searcher. "You are looking the truth. I can see it."

Hetty, I—I don't understand myself. Is it so—so overwhelming, so tremendous. It is so incredible. Am I really believing you? Is it possible that I have been wrong in—"

"Let me tell you everything," cried the girl, suddenly throwing her arms about her.

"Not now! Wait! Give me time to think. Go away now. I want to be alone." She arose and pushed the girl toward the door. Her eyes were fixed on her in a wondering, puzzled sort of way, and she was shaking her head as if trying to discredit the new emotion that had come to displace the one created ages ago.

Slowly Hetty Castleton retreated toward the door. With her hand on the knob, she paused.

"After what has happened, Sara, you must not expect me to stay with you any longer. I cannot. You may give me up to the law, but—"

Some one was tapping gently at the door.

"Shall I see who it is?" asked the girl, after a long period of silence.

"Yes."

It was Murray. "Mr. Leslie has returned, Miss Castleton, and asks if he may see you at once. He says it is very important."

"Tell him I will be down in a few minutes, Murray."

After the door closed, she waited until the footman's steps died away on the stairs.

"I shall say no to him, Sara, and I shall say to him that you will tell him why I cannot be his wife. Do you understand? Are you listening to me?"

Sara turned away without a word or look of response.

Hetty quietly opened the door and went out.

CHAPTER XIII.

The Second Encounter.

Booth trudged rapidly homeward after leaving Hetty at the lodge. He was throbbing all over with the love of her. The thrill of conquest was in his blood. She had raised a mysterious barrier; all the more zest to the inevitable victory that would be his. He would delight in overcoming obstacles—the bigger the better—for his heart was valiant and the prize no smaller than those which the ancient knights went out to battle for in the lists of love.

It was enough for the present to know that she loved him.

What if she were Hetty Glynn? What if she had been an artist's model? The look he had had into the soul of her through those pure blue eyes was all-convincing. She was worthy of the noblest love.

After luncheon—served with some exasperation by Patrick an hour and a half later than usual—he smoked his pipe on the porch and stared reminiscently at the shifting clouds above the tree tops.

He did not see the Wrاندall motor at his garden gate until a lusty voice brought him down from the clouds into the range of earthly sounds. Then he dashed out to the gate, bareheaded and coatless, forgetting that he had been sitting in the obscurity of trailing vines and purple blossoms the while he thought of her.

Leslie was sitting on the wide seat between his mother and sister.

"Glad to see you back, old man," said Booth, reaching in to shake hands with him. "Day early, aren't you?"

Good afternoon, Mrs. Wrاندall. Won't you come in?"

He looked at Vivian as he gave the invitation.

"No, thanks," she replied. "Won't you come to dinner this evening?"

He hesitated. "I'm not quite sure whether I can, Vivian. I've got a half-way sort of—"

"Oh, do, old chap," cut in Leslie, more as a command than an entreaty. "Sorry I can't be there myself, but you'll fare quite as well without me. I'm dining at Sara's. Wants my private ear about one thing and another—see what I mean?"

"We shall expect you, Brandon," said Mrs. Wrاندall, fixing him with her lorgnette.

"I'll come, thank you," said he.

He felt disgustingly transparent under that inquisitive glass.

Wrاندall stepped out of the car. "I'll stop off for a chat with Brandy, mother."

"Shall I send the car back, dear?"

"Never mind. I'll walk down."

The two men turned in at the gate as the car sped away.

"Well," said Booth, "it's good to see you. Pat!" He called through a basement window. "Come up and take the gentleman's order."

"No drink for me, Brandy. I've been in the temperance state of Maine for two weeks. One week more of it and I'd have been completely pickled. I shall always remember Maine."

Booth sat down on the porch rail, hooked his toes in the supports and proceeded to fill his pipe. Then he struck a match and applied it, Leslie watching him with moody eyes.

"How do you like the portrait, old man?" He inquired between punctuating puffs.

"It's bully. Sargent never did anything finer. Rippling."

"I owe it all to you, Les."

"To me?"

"You induced her to sit to me."

"So I did," said Leslie sourly. "I was Mr. Fix-it sure enough." He allowed a short interval to elapse before taking the plunge. "I suppose, old chap, if I should happen to need your valuable services as best man in the near future, you'd not disappoint me?"

Booth eyed him quizzically. "I trust you're not throwing yourself away, Les," he said drily. "I mean to say, on some one—well, some one not quite up to the mark."

Leslie regarded him with some severity. "Of course not, old chap."

What the devil put that into your head?"

"I thought that possibly you'd been making a chump of yourself up in the Maine woods."

"Piffle! Don't be an ass. What's the sense pretending you don't know who she is?"

"I suppose it's Hetty Castleton," said Booth, puffing away at his pipe. "Who else?"

"Think she'll have you, old man?" asked Booth, after a moment.

"I don't know," replied the other, a bit dashed. "You might wish me luck, though."

Booth knocked the burnt tobacco from the bowl of his pipe. A serious line appeared between his eyes. He was a fair-minded fellow, without guile, without a single treacherous instinct.

"I can't wish you luck, Les," he said slowly. "You see I'm—I'm in love with her myself."

"The devil!" Leslie sat bolt upright and glared at him. "I might have known! And—and is she in love with you?"

"My dear fellow, you reveal considerable lack of tact in asking that question."

"What I want to know is this," exclaimed Wrاندall, very pale but very hot: "is she going to marry you?"

Booth smiled. "I'll be perfectly frank with you. She says she won't." Leslie gulped. "So you've asked her?"

"Obviously."

"And she said she wouldn't? She refused you? Turned you down?" His little mustache shot up at the ends and a joyous, triumphant laugh broke from his lips. "Oh, this is rich! Ha, ha! Turned you down, eh? Poor old Brandy! You're my best friend, and dammit I'm sorry. I mean to say, he went on in some embarrassment, "I'm sorry for you. Of course, you can hardly expect me to—"

"Certainly not," accepted Booth amiably. "I quite understand."

"Then, since she's refused you, you might wish me better luck."

"That would mean giving up hope," "Hope?" exclaimed Leslie quickly. "You don't mean to say you'll annoy her with your—"

"No, I shall not annoy her," replied his friend, shaking his head.

"Well, I should hope not," said Leslie with a scowl. "Turned you down, eh? 'Pon my soul! He appeared to be relishing the idea of it. "Sorry, old chap, but I suppose you understand just what that means."

Booth's lips hardened for an instant, then relaxed into a queer, almost plying smile.

"And you want me to be your best man?" he said reflectively.

Leslie arose. His chest seemed to swell a little; assuredly he was breathing much easier. He assumed an air of compassion.

"I shan't insist, old fellow, if you feel you'd rather not—er— See what I mean?" It then occurred to him to utter a word or two of kindly advice. "I shouldn't go on moping if I were you, Brandy. 'Pon my soul, I shouldn't. Take it like a man. I know it hurts, but— Pooh! What's the use aggravating the pain by butting against a stone wall?"

His companion looked out over the tree tops, his hands in his trousers pockets, and it must be confessed that his manner was not that of one who is oppressed by despair.

"I think I'm taking it like a man, Les," he said. "I only hope you'll take it as nicely if she says nay to you."

An uneasy look leaped into Leslie's face. He seemed noticeably less complacent about the chest. He wondered if Booth knew anything about his initial venture. A question rose to his lips, but he thought quickly and held it back. Instead, he glanced at his watch.

"I must be off. See you tomorrow, I hope."

"So long," said Booth, stopping at the top of the steps while his visitor skipped down to the gate with a nimbleness that suggested the formation of a sudden resolve.

Leslie did not waste time in parting inanities he strode off briskly in the direction of home, but not without a furtive glance out of the tail of his eye as he disappeared beyond the hedgerow at the end of Booth's garden. That gentleman was standing where he had left him, and was filling his pipe once more.

The day was warm, and Leslie was in a dripping perspiration when he reached home. He did not enter the house but made his way direct to the garage.

"Get out the car at once, Brown," was his order.

Three minutes later he was being driven over the lower road toward Southlook, taking good care to avoid Booth's place by the matter of a mile or more. He was in a fever of hope and eagerness. It was very plain to him why she had refused Booth. The iron was hot. He didn't intend to lose any time in striking.

And now we know why he came again to Sara's in the middle of a blazing afternoon, instead of waiting until the more seductive shades of night had fallen, when the moon sat serene in the seat of the Mighty.

Profitable Side Dressing
The use of side dressing is increasing on COTTON AND CORN
It pays to do it, if one uses the right goods.

Two applications of 200 pounds each per acre are recommended by a well-known Southern investigator and experimenter. He suggests a 5-5-5 formula, or a mixture of equal parts of Acid Phosphate, Kainit and Nitrate of Soda.

KAINIT

Side dress cotton when the plants are 10 inches high and again when the bloom begins to open. Where cotton is inclined to rust, use Kainit, mixing two applications of 200 pounds each per acre. This is also effective against root lice and cut worms on corn, if applied early enough. It will pay you to try it, for Potash Pays.

Order Kainit now before the supply is exhausted. We sell Kainit and Potash Salts, any quantity from one 200-lb. bag up.

HORSES and MULES

Good stock is necessary for good farming, and as a rule you find the best Horses and Mules in the hands of the most successful farmers. They know it is poor economy to use any other kind. Just now I have on hand a number of Horses and Mules to sell or trade to the good farmers of Guilford and surrounding counties. Every animal is guaranteed to be just as represented. You are invited to call and examine them, and if you are in the market, I think we can trade.

FIGHTING AT VERA CRUZ:

A BATTLE WITH "SNIPERS."

Young Bluejackets Brave In the Face of Primitive Warfare.

Every American killed or wounded during the occupation of Vera Cruz by United States troops was the victim of a Mexican sniper, firing from a roof or the shelter of a house. There was no fighting in the open, and the youthful bluejackets, whose average age is twenty-two, bravely faced the peril of bullets fired by hidden foes.

The story of this uneven fighting is vividly told by Dudley Harmon, special correspondent of the New York Sun, with four Admiral Badger's fleet. He says:

Ninety per cent of the men who went ashore had never heard a hostile bullet ring before, yet 100 per cent of them were brave enough. They had been trained by their officers into the uses and practices of civilized warfare, and their first experience was of

Many of those caught are supposedly respectable citizens of Vera Cruz, though for the most part they seem to be the scum of the city. One man, who has an American wife and who has been the guest of the American ships in the harbor, was caught on the roof of his house with a hot rifle in his hands. Another man, apparently sitting in peace on his upper balcony, was discovered to have under his legs as he sat a revolver, examination of which showed it had been used just previously. Whenever he thought opportunity offered he took a shot at the Americans passing through the street or standing guard at the corners.

The prisoners have been treated with the utmost consideration, even those who have been caught red handed in the act of peppering at the Americans from housetops and windows.

Prisoners who have tried to escape from the police parties on the street have not been shot at, but pursued until caught.

The wounded among the prisoners have been given the same attention as has been given to the American wounded, though many a naval surgeon has confessed that his blood boiled when relieving the pain of a wounded sniper. Whatever the snipers had in their possession when caught they have been permitted to keep, with the exception of rifles, revolvers, knives and ammunition. I saw one myself who had on him two watches, one gold and one silver, who had been caught sniping and who, far from grateful that his life had been spared, kept repeating "American," accompanying the word with a slashing movement across his throat.

THE LAW THAT GOES WITH OUR FLAG IN MEXICO.

Status of People In Territory Now Occupied by Our Troops.

Commenting upon the obligations of the United States toward the people of Vera Cruz and any other place which its troops might occupy pending a final settlement of the Mexican question, Frederic R. Condit of New York, the well known international law expert, said:

"Regarding the status of the people in the territory now occupied by the United States troops in Mexico, I would say that this is covered not only by the general rules of international law adopted and recognized by the United States, but is also specially provided for by the military laws of the United States.

"The whole question of the legal situation of the inhabitants of the territory occupied by the United States forces, but which had not been annexed to the United States, was very thoroughly considered and discussed in the cases arising out of the territories acquired and also territory occupied (but not acquired) during the Spanish war. The general rule is that political laws are suspended, but that the ordinary municipal laws remain.

"During the occupation the inhabitants of such territory become subject to such law as the occupying power may choose to enact. As a matter of fact, the military officers of the United States in occupying territory are bound by the military code and the instructions for armies in the field, which instructions are based upon Professor Lieber's instructions contained in general orders No. 100 and which were in force during the civil war.

"The property of the inhabitants as far as consistent with military necessity and their personal liberty is to be respected. The ordinary municipal law rules, and regulations are continued in force as far as they can be consistently with effective control. The local authorities are usually continued in the exercise of their ordinary functions, but this must be done with the permission of the officer in command.

"Such territory is directly subject to the orders of the president of the United States as chief executive.

"The government in Cuba for years was a military government of the United States directed from Washington, and such was the government carried on in the Philippines until congress enacted there a local government independent of the military government."

SEABOARD VERA CRUZ SNIPERS.

The warfare known in the old Indian days of the United States; known also to the soldiers in the Philippines, but not to the sailors. Yet they cheerfully accepted themselves and followed their officers.

Almost from the very start it has been a "snipers' battle. A sniper is a man who hides himself behind the parapet found on every Mexican roof or under a window in his house and tries to pick off the enemy one by one. These snipers are not Mexican soldiers. They are citizens who are not willing to accept the fact that the city has been taken, but persist in trying to kill as many Americans as they can without any danger to themselves.

BOY SCOUTS EAGER TO FIGHT

Knowledge of Field Army Regulations Would Make Them Excellent Soldiers Without Further Drilling—Thousands Too Young to Enlist if Needed in Mexico Are Sorely Disappointed.

Twelve hundred members of the United States boy scouts, thoroughly trained for active service in the field, are ready in the New York district alone for enlistment with the United States troops in the event of war with Mexico. Most of the 1,200 are the officers of the scouts, and the average age is eighteen years. All of them, according to Major Willis J. Physioc, adjutant general of the organization, are in splendid shape for real service, and so far as enthusiasm is concerned the scouts are second to none.

"The military operations in Mexico have had a marked effect on the boys," said Major Physioc, who was an officer in the rough riders in the Spanish-American war and attached to the Third cavalry, U. S. A., before that. "In every troop there has been an increase in membership."

"I can offer only 1,200 young men as volunteers, for the reason there are only that number in the boy scouts who have reached the necessary age of eighteen years. But there are thirty-six odd thousand boys between the ages of ten and eighteen years who are bitter that fate has blocked their ambitions to prove their soldierly qualities in a crisis of this kind."

Fired With the War Spirit.

In offering Colonel R. F. Walton, in charge of national guard headquarters, New York, the services of this regiment of boy scouts recruited to full war strength Major Physioc said that since the first shooting at Vera Cruz the boys of the organization have been fired with the war spirit. Those old enough to be accepted by Uncle Sam as volunteers particularly have been active day and night.

They would make the most desirable kind of militiamen, it is said, because of the military training they have received under the direction of experienced army men, such as Major Physioc and Major General Edwin A. McAlpin, head of the boy scouts and formerly an adjutant general of the New York national guard.

It is the hope of the scout leaders and militia officers that before long there will be so many boys with the scout training camp ready to join the guard that it will be possible to abolish, or at least greatly reduce, the "rookie" squads. In the last year, it was said, more than 200 scouts have become guardsmen.

Army Rules Prevail.

The drilling and other military operations of the scouts are carried on with strict observance for the United States army regulations. The boys are schooled in first aid to the injured, treatments, and the camping expeditions, of which there are many, afford an excellent opportunity for the officers to instruct the youngsters in hygiene and sanitation.

Instruction in marksmanship is one of the essentials of the scout work, and for this part of their training the boys use a .22 caliber rifle, modeled after the regulation piece. All the boy scouts of the New York district are not equipped with the rifles as yet, but will be as soon as possible. The scouts are permitted to use the armory drill halls at regular intervals and likewise the target ranges.

The New York district also has a naval detachment, 1,800 strong, under Lieutenant Colonel Louis M. Josephthal, which has been organized for about a year. The instruction for this division is along the lines provided for the naval militia. In this way the country's naval reserve is further increased.

EXPECT 50,000 AT CONGRESS.

Young People's Societies Meet Next Year at San Francisco.

Fifty thousand delegates are expected in San Francisco to attend the first annual world congress of young people's societies in the summer of 1915, according to estimates presented to the Panama-Pacific exposition by William H. Groat, president of the congress. The organizations included in the congress are the Christian Endeavor, Epworth League, Brotherhood of St. Andrew, Baptist Young People's Society, Daughters of the King and King's Daughters.

There will be daily sessions for a period of ten days or two weeks, with addresses by famous lecturers.

Has Motorcycle Regiment.

Among offers for service in case of war with Mexico, Senators Borah and Brady of Idaho have received this from Charles W. Dempster, formerly of Idaho, now living at Wickenburg, Ariz.:

"I have offered the president a regiment of death defying motorcycle riding volunteers. Being somewhat experimental, but absolutely practical, the possibilities are unlimited."

SCHOOL BOND ELECTION.

Fentress Township Special School Tax District.

A petition having been presented to the Board of County Commissioners, signed by one-fourth of the freeholders of the Fentress Township Special School Tax District, asking that an election be held to ascertain the will of the people within the said special tax district whether bonds to an amount of eight thousand dollars ($8,000) shall be issued and sold and a special tax levied to pay the interest on the said bonds and to pay said bonds at maturity, as provided in Chapter 480 Public Laws of North Carolina, session 1913, and entitled, "An act to authorize any school district in Guilford county to issue bonds for permanent improvements to school buildings, and furnishing the same with suitable equipment," and the petition having been endorsed by the County Board of Education of Guilford county, a new registration is hereby ordered for the said election, and the election is ordered to be held at Pleasant Garden school building on Tuesday, June 9, 1914.

O. F. Ross is hereby appointed registrar, and C. F. Neelley and Watt Elliott are appointed pollholders of said election.

In accordance with said act, those favoring the issuance and sale of said bonds and the tax herein provided for, shall vote a ballot on which shall be written or printed the words, "For School Bonds," and those opposed shall vote a ballot on which shall be written or printed the words, "Against School Bonds."

It is further ordered that the registration look for said election shall be opened from Thursday, May 7, 1914, to Saturday, May 30, 1914.

By order of the Board of County Commissioners, this the 4th day of May, 1914.

ROAD NOTICE.

A petition having been presented to the board of county commissioners by citizens and taxpayers of Deep River township asking for the opening of a public road, beginning at the Dover school house and running southeast with H. P. Smith's plantation road to a point near his house, thence with his plantation road to J. R. Smith's line near a bridge on the branch; thence east to H. C. Cude's corner in William Tucker's line, thence with J. R. Smith's line to William Tucker's corner, thence with J. R. Smith's plantation road to William Tucker's barn on the Friendship and Kernersville road, a distance of about two miles, this is to notify all persons objecting to same to appear before said board at its next regular meeting on Tuesday, June 2, 1914, and state said objection.

THE PLOWING SEASON IS ON

And We Know That You Want the Best Plow That Money Will Buy

We have this Plow for you, and a fair trial will convince you of this fact. The No. 65 and the No. 64 Low Front two-horse Plows. The No. 72 Long Beam one-horse Plow, this is the one your neighbor speaks of when he tells you that it rides as steady as a two-horse Plow. The No. 17 Subsoil Plow saves your land from washing, and in the dry weather it keeps your crops from burning up. These Plows give service and satisfaction. Let us show them to you. We Are to the Front

Once more with the Genuine "Daisy" Corn Planter, in our opinion the most popular planter sold on this market. The "Daisy" has advantages and features to be found on no other planter and we want to show you what they are.

We have these planters in both the concave and the double wheels, but can not say how long they will last. Better come soon.
