A FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENT

ENGINEER WINGATE AND FIREMAN PICKARD KILLED NEAR REIDSVILLE.

John P. Wingate, one of the oldest and best known engineers in the service of the Southern Railway, and Gale Pickard, his fireman, lost their lives shortly after midnight yesterday morning, when south-bound passenger train No. 29, the Southern's fast train between New York and Jacksonville, was derailed at Sadler, the first station north of Reidsville. The train was running late and making a speed of about 40 miles an hour when the engine and tender left the track and rolled down an embankment. The mail car, the baggage and express car, two day coaches and a Pullman car left the track, but did not turn over. The mail clerk and the baggage master suffered slight bruises. There were no injuries among the passengers.

When the engine turned over Fireman Pickard was caught beneath the tender and probably was killed instantly. Mr. Wingate was found lying by the engine, his body badly bruised and scalded from head to foot. He suffered the greatest agony and died about 1 o'clock. He regained consciousness a few minutes before his death and passed away with a prayer on his lips for himself, his wife and children.

The telegraph operator at Sadler wired news of the accident to Greensboro and in a few minutes physicians and a wrecking crew were hurrying to the scene of the disaster on a special train.

The track was cleared about noon and the ill-fated train reached Greensboro at 1:20 o'clock, carrying the bodies of the dead engineer and fireman. The remains were sent to the homes of Engineer Wingate in Spencer and Fireman Pickard in Salisbury.

The accident is believed to have been caused by a bar of iron that dropped on the track from one of the northbound trains Saturday night. The track was torn up and twisted for a distance of about 500 feet.

FAMINE IS THREATENED AT CITY OF VERA CRUZ.

Washington, June 12.—News today of a threatened famine among inhabitants of Vera Cruz and vicinity set the telegraph wires to work out of the department of commerce and tonight Secretary Redfield had received assurances that American merchants soon would have large supplies of food on the way to the Mexican port to be sold at moderate prices.

The shipments will go in free of duty, if officials here can arrange it. Secretary Redfield's telegrams were addressed to commercial organizations and agents in cities throughout the East and the South. Several of the replies said shipments of foodstuffs would be ready for the first vessels leaving for Vera Cruz, and the war department will be asked to arrange prompt transportation.

The war department itself is going ahead with plans for relieving the situation, but in the course of a few weeks the problem may be solved through Mr. Redfield's efforts, making it unnecessary for the government itself to go into business as wholesale grocer.

American soldiers and marines are being fed through the quartermaster's department, but the civilian population is dependent on retail merchants, who are charging enormous prices for food.

Death of David Oakley.

Mr. David Oakley, a well known farmer and citizen of Friendship township, died at his home Friday afternoon of heart trouble. The funeral and interment took place at Hickory Grove church yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mr. Oakley was 66 years old and unmarried.

William Sulzer, the impeached governor of New York, has announced himself an independent candidate for governor of that state. He declared that the Sulzer nomination would put a full ticket in the field, that their emblem would be a liberty bell, and that only Tammany tactics could defeat him at the Democratic primaries. He added that if defeated in the primaries he would run by petition and make a campaign against Tammany control.

DEATH OF DR. H. WILLIS YESTERDAY MORNING.

Dr. Hugh Willis, of Summerfield, one of Guilford's best known citizens and physicians, died yesterday morning at 3:30 o'clock at St. Leo's hospital from a stroke of paralysis that came upon him Friday. His condition was not generally known and his death came as a great shock to his friends and acquaintances.

Dr. Willis was about 60 years old and a native of Rockingham county. After completing his education and receiving his license as a physician, he located at Summerfield, where he spent the remainder of his life. He was a successful physician and a leading citizen of the community. He married Miss Sallie Harris, who died a few years ago. There were no children.

Dr. Willis is survived by two brothers and a sister—Rev. Baxter Willis, a Presbyterian minister, of Arkansas; Mr. Joseph Willis and Miss Sue Willis, of Leaksville. He was a brother-in-law of Mr. Robert S. Harris, of Summerfield, and Dr. Joy Harris Glascock, of this city.

The funeral and interment took place this morning at 11 o'clock at the Methodist church at Summerfield.

Negro Arrested on Murder Charge.

Earl Dalton, colored, who is wanted at Cooktown, W. Va., to answer a charge of murder, is in jail in Greensboro awaiting instructions from the West Virginia authorities. He was arrested yesterday near Oak Ridge by Sheriff Stafford and Messrs. Bob Stafford, Murray Benbow and Jonah Parker. He was found in a cherry tree calmly eating cherries and offered no resistance.

The officers are searching for two other negroes, John Dalton and Will Hale, who are said to have been implicated with the prisoner in murdering a hardware merchant at Cooktown, W. Va., last December. Earl Dalton admits that he and the other two negroes entered the merchant's place of business and stole several revolvers, but denies all knowledge of the murder.

GOVERNMENT'S INCOME IN EXCESS OF EXPENSES.

Estimates made by officials of the treasury department indicate that the income of the government for the fiscal year ending June 30 will exceed ordinary expenses by about $30,000,000.

This is about $10,000,000 less than last year's surplus. Income tax returns have fallen below original estimates, but the customs houses turned in about $12,000,000 more than predicted. Whatever surplus there is will be absorbed by Panama canal payments, as it was last year.

Secretary McAdoo estimated that this year's ordinary receipts would aggregate $733,000,000 and the total ordinary disbursements $703,000,000. Total receipts for the last fiscal year were $725,782,921, with ordinary disbursements of $693,699,692.

"The personal income tax assessments to date are $30,750,000, which is $3,250,000 less than the estimate," said Mr. McAdoo. "The total assessment on corporations and individuals will be at least $75,000,000."

"The department is convinced that many liable to the income tax have failed to make returns and that many have made inaccurate returns. Active steps will be taken to discover all evasions of the law and a large additional amount undoubtedly will be collected from these delinquents."

The employees of the St. Louis and Southwestern Railway Company, the Cotton Belt line, are to take a vacation of three days without pay during the present month, and it is estimated that this enforced furlough will effect a saving of at least $12,000 in the payroll for this month. Unsatisfactory business is given as the cause of the order, which applies to all the employees from office boy to president of the company, with the exception of employees of the mechanical and transportation departments.

Four state banks in Chicago, the most important having for its president William Lorimer, who was unseated from the United States senate three years ago, were closed Friday by the state bank examiner.

The continued sales of tobacco over North Carolina indicate that the record in reported pounds will be far exceeded this year and that North Carolina will have a bigger lead over the tobacco states of Virginia and Kentucky than last year, when the nation was surprised by the figures.

A young woman giving her name as Ethel McChristian and her home as Winston-Salem was arrested Friday in Richmond, Va., for appearing on the streets in a costume that shocked the sensibilities of the male population and caused the policemen to blush. She was haled into the police court and fined $25.

The handsome new granite Presbyterian church at Mt. Airy was dedicated yesterday, the dedicatory sermon being preached by Rev. Dr. W. W. Moore, president of Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Va. The church was built under the pastorate of the late Rev. John A. Gilmer, a native of Guilford county.

It is announced that B. H. Depriest, editor of the Highlander, a semi-weekly paper at Shelby, soon will begin the publication of an afternoon daily at Wilson. Rev. T. W. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church of Wilson, who formerly was engaged in the newspaper business, will be associated with him as editor of the new daily.

Governor Craig has announced the appointment of the state board of elections as follows: Wilson G. Lamb, Williamstown, chairman; R. C. Claywell, Morganton, secretary; J. B. Underwood, Fayetteville; W. J. Davis, Hendersonville, and Clarence Call, Wilkesboro. Mr. Call is the Republican and Mr. Davis the Progressive member of the board. The others are Democrats.

W. T. Mise, a carpenter, who had recently gone to Durham from Hickory, died suddenly during the noon hour Thursday. Some kind of a kidney trouble and the excessive heat of the day was thought to be the cause of his death. Mr. Mise had just finished eating his mid-day lunch and was getting ready to return to work when he fell dead.

J. F. Harris, 23 years old and son of J. C. Harris, a prominent business man of Leaksville, was killed Thursday afternoon in a runaway accident near his home. He was driving a wild young horse to a cart and lost control of the animal when it became frightened and ran. The cart was overturned and the young man thrown to the ground with great violence.

It is stated that the pressure for room at the state hospital for the insane at Morganton continues. During the past two months 72 applications for admission were denied, and it is possible to receive new patients only as space is made by the discharge or death of old patients. Two new buildings now being constructed will provide accommodations for 125 or more additional patients.

Charles H. Cowles, of Wilkesboro, former representative in Congress from the eighth district and chairman of the North Carolina Roosevelt Republicans, has written a letter to Republican State Chairman John M. Morehead and Republican National Committeeman E. C. Duncan expressing his approval of the plan to unite all those who formerly fought (and held office) under the Republican banner in one party in opposition to the Democrats.

While Trinity College has for some years been a co-educational institution, an agitation has begun recently for a woman's college at Trinity. To be conducted in different buildings by the same faculty. Miss Mary Duke, of New York; her father, B. N. Duke, and her uncle, J. B. Duke, have given $75,000 and land valued at $200,000 for the new building, the college to be named for Miss Duke. Citizens of Durham have subscribed $25,000 and the woman's college at Trinity is a certainty.

At the commencement of Trinity College, Durham, last week the honorary degree of doctor of divinity was conferred on Rev. Plato T. Durham and Rev. E. K. McLarty, of Charlotte; Rev. G. T. Rowe, of Greensboro, and Rev. Michael Bradshaw, of the North Carolina Conference. President Ford announced that the board of trustees had voted to confer the degree of doctor of laws on Senator Lee S. Overman, and that official had intended coming to the commencement, but at the last moment had found it impossible to leave Washington.

Chief Justice Walter Clark, of the North Carolina Supreme court, is at cross purposes with the council of state and a number of Raleigh women over the question of building a permanent walk by the monument to the women of the Confederacy unveiled last week. Judge Clark wants the walk because it will save him a distance of about 80 yards in walking from his home to the Supreme court building. The council of state and the women are opposed to it and say the walkway would mar the beauty of the monument and its surroundings. A great deal of feeling has developed over this little affair, and it appears that Judge Clark will have his way, as he often does.

Road Will Be in Operation Soon

In all probability a portion of the Statesville Air Line railroad, which is being constructed from Statesville to Mount Airy, will be put in operation soon, it having been decided at the meeting of the stockholders of the company in Statesville Thursday to immediately equip and put in operation the first 16 miles of the road between Statesville and Harmony. The grading of the road is progressing rapidly and will be completed to Harmony within the next 60 days, at which time it is the purpose to move the construction force back to Statesville and begin laying cross-ties and rails.

A resolution was passed at the meeting giving the officers of the company authority to borrow money, by whatever method they deem best, to an amount not to exceed $1,500,000 to complete and equip the road.

Reports from the grain fields of western Texas say harvesters are working day and night to gather what is expected to be the largest grain crop in the state's history.

INTELLECTUAL BRAVERY NEED OF THE COUNTRY.

Vice President Marshall made the commencement address at the University of Maine last week. He spoke on "Intellectual Bravery" and dwelt upon the need of education for the young man taking up the business of life. He said in part:

"Slight knowledge will not enable the young man to assume the management of life's affairs. In the irrepressible conflict between labor and capital he cannot assume that either property or labor is everything, without tending to establish a peon class in America or an oligarchy of wealth. Complete knowledge may convince him that it will be better for the republic to be controlled by neither of these classes.

"In 1850 we had a republic where labor was satisfied, where respect for religion and reverence for law and order and a sincere attachment to the constitution were strong. In that year the proportion of the annual wealth created in the country by the joint efforts of labor and capital was one-fourth to labor and three-fourths to capital. Sixty years later the proportion had changed to less than one-fifth to labor and more than four-fifths to capital. This disproportion, to my mind, has much to do with our present discontent.

"Usurious interest is no more, but usurious profit has taken its place.
When our statutes regulating the rates of interest were enacted the laboring man, generally speaking, was a skilled laborer. He could produce a completed article. The advent of machinery took from him his tools and put them in the hands of capital.

"Money no longer is borrowed by laborers to enable them to carry on their trades, but money is crafty and instead of loaning itself to the laboring man, it is now buying the laboring man's machinery, constantly enhancing its own profit thereby and constantly decreasing the laboring man's share of our produced wealth.

"The young man in assuming leadership must create a public opinion and develop a moral sentiment against usurious profit as against usurious interest. Evidence of a disposition on the part of corporate wealth to accept this view is not lacking.

"I dare the prediction that the railroads of the country would welcome a permanent 5 per cent. or 6 per cent. accumulative profit in exchange for their greater profit and the doubt, risk and abuse which come with it.

"The doctrine of state's rights is now seldom heralded save in opposition to needed reforms. I must subscribe to the doctrine, but I realize that subjects which formerly were purely of state cognizance have become of common interest between the states and that the doctrine of state's rights must be supplemented by the doctrine of state's duties.

"If state's rights are to be preserved, the young men of tomorrow must take up this cry of state's duties, otherwise our pleasing vision of Uncle Sam as a patriarchal gentleman with a benignant smile on his face toward American manhood striving for success will change to that of a quack doctor placarded,
"When others fail, consult me."

"We Americans are not dishonest, neither at heart nor intellectually;
but I am fearful that many of us are intellectual cowards. When "getting on" involves us with our consciences and with the laws of the land, we do not fight the battle out with ourselves. We throw ourselves into the arms of the law and demand absolution from sin and protection from punishment. The law, of course, has defined neither fraud nor dishonesty with that degree of certainty which places our proposed conduct within its terms.

"The old order of education has changed. It furnished a philosophy and taught men that happiness was not in his material surroundings, in

WONDERFUL WORK IN EDUCATING THE FARMER.

Memphis News-Scimitar.

The wonderful work that is being done along educational lines by the department of agriculture of the Federal government, as well as by subsidiary departments conducted by state governments and railroad corporations, is rapidly changing the point of view of the farmer. Within the memory of men yet young the tiller of the soil had a supreme contempt for what he termed the book farmer. Then the government sent out an expert to instruct the people in the ways of improved agricultural methods, the younger farmers went out to hear him, merely because he afforded them a novelty that broke into the monotony of their lives; but the older farmer remained at home and paid little attention to what they looked upon as a passing fad. The experts and the experiment stations have changed all this.

The young farmer has shown his forbear that there is still something to be learned, and that by adopting new and improved methods production can be increased and much labor saved. The oldest farmer, even the most conservative, has joined the younger, and is as hungry for information and instruction as the most ambitious youth. Both young and old have lost their former dread of technical terms. They are no longer mystified by words outside of the vernacular. They talk about the chemistry of the soil as freely and with as much confidence as they used to talk about bull grass and the tobacco worm. They have learned to tell just what chemicals are wanting in a given soil, and the best way of supplying them.

One great lesson they have mastered, and that is to avoid the necessity of grinding up rocks and other fertilizers and applying these to the soil at great expense. They find that by turning under a crop of clover, peas, soy beans or other leguminous planting it will give to the soil just what it needs, and that,
once enriched, it may be continued
so by a proper rotation in crops.
They have learned the use and value of silos, and how to provide their live stock with fresh and nourishing pasturage at small expense during the winter months. They have learned that a good animal costs no more to raise than a poor one, and that it is worth many times more.

The old idea that the breed of hogs should be selected for speed, so that they might escape from the thieves, has given away to the more modern idea that the meat carried on the animals' bones is the prime consideration. They have become educated farmers, and young men and young women have been given employment for their imaginations as well as for in the hands, converting farm life from one of mere drudgery to one of scientific achievement, and as a result the farm has become more and more congenial to young people within the last few years, and the false allurements of the city are less bewildering and magnetic. Farming is such a very old trade that people for many centuries were of the opinion that nothing more could be learned about it; but they are finding out that the gates of knowledge have been merely thrown ajar so that people may peer in, and in time they will enter and possess themselves of the vast stores of information to be found by investigators.

Another Greek War Predicted.

Another war between Greece and Turkey is foreshadowed in an article published in the London Times, which says the unrest in the Balkans has become acute. Several of the states, it says, have recently been employed in clearing their newly-acquired territories of "undesirable" elements and the Bulgarians have been the principal sufferers.
The unrest is attributed by the newspaper to the drastic policy of the Young Turks in expelling all Greeks from Asia-Minor and Turkish Thrace. It believes this policy is a prelude to a declaration of war upon Greece, the main object being the re-conquest by Turkey of Solon-iki and the occupation of Macedonia.

Senate Passes Tolls Exemption.

The bill for the repeal of the Panama canal tolls exemption for American coastwise shipping passed the senate Thursday night by a vote of 50 to 35. The measure now goes back to the house, which is expected to accept the Simmons-Norris amendment specifically reserving all rights the United States may have under the Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

The passage of the bill after a bitter struggle that has lasted for several months was regarded as another victory for President Wilson. Although 13 Republicans came to the aid of the 37 Democrats who voted for the bill on final passage,
the president initiated the movement in his party for repeal and it was behind him that many Democrats who voted "aye" lined up on the last test.

Later.—The house passed the bill
as amended by the senate by a vote of 216 to 71.

AIRSHIP THAT REALLY FLIES

Machine Hauled Out of Potomac River After Failure in 1903 Vindicates Langley, Who Died Broken Hearted. Now, Says Glenn Curtiss, His Name Antedates All Present Aviators.

"Langley's folly," the famous old tandem aeroplane that has been hanging in the Smithsonian Institution in Washington for a decade, has been successfully flown by Glenn H. Curtiss over Lake Keuka, New York. This is the identical machine that was hauled out of the Potomac river after its second and last failure to fly on Dec. 8, 1903.

Professor Samuel P. Langley gave the last years of his life to this aeroplane and died in sorrow and disappointment. His friends said his heart was broken by the ridicule heaped upon him as a modern Darius Green. Congress at the last, accepting the public's attitude, refused money for further experiments, and Professor Langley apparently lost his courage as an inventor.

It is thought, says the New York Sun, that this successful flight of a machine that was completely built before the Wright brothers' machine was first flown over the basic patents granted to the Wright brothers. The Langley machine was built for the government and was not patented. It has been contended that the Wrights obtained ideas from Dr. Langley's experiments.

Turned Over to Glenn H. Curtiss. Glenn H. Curtiss had the machine sent to his factory at Hammondsport, N. Y., at the request of Secretary Charles D. Walcott of the Smithsonian Institution and fitted it with pontoons. The pontoons were recovered, and the engine was tuned, but otherwise the machine was left in its original state.

A puff of wind and the erratic performance of the old motor cut the trial short after the first demonstration of the machine's ability to raise itself from the water.

Mr. Curtiss was asked after the flight whether it was made primarily to assert the claim of the Wright brothers that they were the producers of the first successful heavier than air flying machine. He said:

"I acted under the direction of the Smithsonian Institution, which has for some time desired to ascertain whether the Langley machine embodied principles making successful flight possible. The machine demonstrated that the principles embodied in its construction are correct.

"Although this flight proves that Dr. Langley antedated all present aviators, the Wrights have been awarded a patent decision, which, so far as I see, stands. In making this flight I acted without actuated by a veneration for the memory of Dr. Langley and his achievements."

Entirely Different, Says Wright.

Orrin Wright says the performance of the Langley machine will have no bearing whatever on the Wrights' invention. "There is nothing in common between the two machines," he says. "The Langley system of control is entirely different from that of the Wright machine. It is a very old system that enters into the Langley machine. That machine was tried out two days before our successful flight in 1903 and failed, although it had four times the power of our machine."

He is only fantastical that is not in fashion.—Burton.

FOG A PANAMA MENACE.

May Hold Up Navigation in the Early Morning Hours.

Navigation of the Panama canal will have to be regularly suspended during the early morning hours, or else stringent regulations must be enforced to insure safety on account of fogs in the Culebra cut, according to Captain Hugh Rodman, U. S. N., who is slated to become superintendent of operation. It has been found that from midnight until 7 or 8 o'clock every morning heavy mists and fogs hang in the cut, which, even without the menace of fog, will be one of the most difficult parts of the canal for the pilots.

Captain Rodman has made a number of trips through the cut during these hours. He says nearly always the mist was so heavy that even his small launch had to slow down and feel its way. His explanation of the fogs is the difference between the temperature of the Chagres river as it flows out through the cut and the surrounding atmosphere.

A COUNTY FAIR PRECEDENT.

Men Will Pass on the Merits of Contestants' Cake and Pie.

The management of a Missouri county fair has decided to deviate from the traditional custom this year by having men as superintendents and judges in the culinary department in place of women. It is contended that men are better judges of good cooking than women.

Another reason for the change is that in previous years the work of this department has been considerably hampered because a tribunal composed of women never could agree on which pie or cake or homemade preserve was the best.

Pay Duty on 10,000 Imported Ants.

Philadelphia customs officials were puzzled how to classify a colony of 10,000 ants which arrived from London for a student of natural history at Danville, Pa. It was finally decided to classify the ants as "not especially enumerated," and a duty of 10 per cent ad valorem was imposed. The insects, known as amber colored meadow ants, will be used for educational purposes.

The new clergyman was sent for by an elderly lady. "Oh, sir," she said, "I hope you will excuse me asking you to call, but when I heard you preach and pray last Sunday you did so remind me of my poor brother, who was took from me, that I felt I must speak with you." "And how long ago did your poor brother die?" "Oh, sir, he isn't dead," was the reply; "he was took to the asylum."

WRITES THAT LIFE IN THE ARCTIC IS LOTS OF FUN.

Too Fine to Leave, Says Navy Ensign With Crocker Land Expedition.

"This is the life!"

Summed up in four words, this is the stamp of approval placed on life in the arctic regions by Fitzhugh Green, ensign, U. S. N., a member of the Crocker Land expedition of the American Museum of Natural History, in a letter to his father, who lives in Missouri.

Green's letter reads:

"Our house is a howling success. It is electric lighted, and we have hot and cold water on tap. We eat two meals a day, at 9 a. m. and 4 p. m. We haven't seen the sun since October (letter was written on Jan. 11), but the horrors of the arctic night are all rot, simply because you are having such a cracking good time at other occupations that you have no time to think of home except now and then.

"I am having a lot of new clothes made for the spring trip. It will be a hard pull (dash to Crocker Land), but I don't think we will fail. The cold is different from the cold at home. It is not to be feared so much as other things. Wind at 40 degrees below zero—real wind that roars like an express train coming through a tunnel—doesn't pierce the skin clothes that we have, but it seems to get in under them in a fiendish way that cannot be imagined.

"We work in the mornings. I usually walk in the afternoon. After dinner we study, play chess or read. It is a happy life. I sleep in a snow igloo that has been built for me outside the house.

"I hope we can stay another year. I guess the Lord made me an Eskimo and then forgot and sent me to you instead of to Pan-ik-pah or the like.

"The Eskimos are an ideal crowd. They are good natured, unselfish and everlastingly good fun.

"Don't expect me home until you see me. This place is too fine to leave."

POLO A GAME FOR THE RICH.

Last Year's Matches Cost More Than a Million—The Sport Described.

Only the wealthy can afford to play polo. Last summer it was estimated somewhere in the neighborhood of $1,350,000 was expended in staging the international matches, two games played on the polo field at Meadow Brook, N. Y. Employing long division to divide this sum by 180, it is seen that each minute of actual play cost $7,500. In 1911, when America successfully defended the polo challenge cup against an English four, winning the two games played, the competition cost not less than $600,000.

What the total cost of this month's games will be it is impossible to estimate with accuracy now.

Polo is played on a field 900 by 500 feet. At each end are two goal posts twenty-four feet apart, and along the sides are white boundary boards ten inches high. A goal is scored when a player knocks the ball between the goal posts of the opposing team. If he knocks it between his own goal posts the play counts a quarter of a goal against him.

Eight periods of seven and one-half minutes each are played. Three minutes are allowed between periods to permit for changing ponies and seven minutes between the fourth and fifth periods. Each team consists of four players.

Ponies cannot exceed 14.2 hands in height. The ball is three and one-eighth inches in diameter. The mallets used are fifty to fifty-six inches long.

HOW TO TIP IN AMERICA.

San Francisco Steamship Company Tells Australians the Scale.

A San Francisco steamship company gives Australians the following information concerning tips in America:

"In restaurants or hotel cafes keep to the 10 per cent rule. Bellboys should get 5, possibly 10, cents for a service. The maid at a hotel should receive a small gratuity—say about 50 cents a week.

"Barbers in fashionable hotels expect a ten cent tip, and hotel elevator boys should be tipped at the rate of 25 cents a week. Sleeping car porters should be paid about 25 cents a day, although if the traveler feels exceedingly prosperous this might be stretched to 50 cents."

FIRST ST. PATRICK'S DAY HE CAN'T KEEP PROMISE

Cornetist Has Played at Grave of Friend For Sixteen Years.

Alvah O. Schaeffer, cornetist, of Mount Penn, Pa., who for sixteen successive St. Patrick's days played over the grave of Thomas Hannaboe in the East Reading cemetery in fulfillment of a promise made to the late Hannaboe on his deathbed, is sorrowing because sickness this year made him give up all hope of ever again fulfilling his promise.

In life almost everybody in Reading and hundreds throughout the county knew genial Tom Hannaboe. He died seventeen years ago.

One of his closest friends was Mr. Schaeffer, the cornetist and band master. Shortly before Hannaboe's death occurred he made an agreement with the cornetist that in the event of Schaeffer's death he would attend his funeral and on each St. Patrick's day at midnight would sing the "Mass of Galway" and "Nearer, My God, to Thee" over Schaeffer's grave.

The agreement was drawn up in writing and signed, and at the bottom Mr. Schaeffer wrote:

"And in case Thomas C. Hannaboe dies before I do I faithfully promise to attend his funeral and will play the same pieces over or near his grave at midnight on St. Patrick's day."

Two days before Hannaboe's death he summoned Schaeffer to his bedside and asked him if he remembered his promise. Schaeffer told the sick man that he did and assured him that it would be faithfully kept.

Cornetist Schaeffer on every St. Patrick's night ever since has played the two tunes over the Hannaboe grave, surrounded by a host of friends of both. But Mr. Schaeffer's hands, which formerly were masters of the most difficult music, are now bent and twisted, due to illness. Last year he kept his promise, but was hardly able to handle the keys of his cornet.

The hotel of Hannaboe, known as the Stars and Stripes, was one of the unusual taverns of Reading in its day. Above the door was a sign which read: "Stars and Stripes Hotel. New York Style. Step In and Step Out. Good Day, Sir. Come Again. Tom Hannaboe, Proprietor."

The cynical bachelor rises to remark that a man's heart is in the right place when it is in his own keeping.

Blood Troubles Are Often Hard to Locate

Catarrh, for Example May Be the Cause of Very Serious Illness.

A Slight Trouble Often Brings Serious Blood Disorders.

A chronic cold means something wrong constitutionally. Pimples mean bad blood. Rheumatism means faulty elimination. These and a hundred other symptoms are easily recognized, but where is the trouble? Where is it located? What is wrong with the bodily machine? If you will go into any first class store and get a bottle of S. S. S. you are on the way to getting rid of those conditions that cause sickness and disease. But don't let anyone work off that old trick of something "Just as good."

S. S. S. is taken into the blood just as naturally as the most nourishing food. It spreads its influence over every organ in the body, comes through all the veins and arteries, enables all mucous surfaces to exchange inflammatory acids and other irritating substances for arterial elements that effectually cleanse the system and thus put an end to all pollution. S. S. S. cleans out the stomach of mucous accumulations, enables only pure, blood-making materials to enter the intestines, combine with these food elements to enter the circulation, and in less than an hour is at work throughout the body in the process of purification.

You will soon realize its wonderful influence by the absence of headache, a steadily improved condition of the skin, and a sense of bodily relief that proves how completely the entire system was loaded with impurities.

You will find S. S. S. on sale at all drug stores. It is a remarkable remedy for any and all blood affections, such as eczema, rash, lupus, tetter, psoriasis, and other diseased conditions of the skin. ## HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Patron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good.

I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its tiring me, and am doing all my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of continuous success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. You can consider talk cheap, but you will think differently when it gets you into a lawsuit. Ask the man who has been there.

The chief trouble with some public speakers we have heard is that they insisted on saying something when they had nothing to say.

A down-and-out man remarked in the hearing of a Patriot reporter the other day that some people's idea of charity is to give advice. Just so!

We have known men who have made the mistake of attempting to palm off stubbornness for dignity, and in the end they fooled only themselves.

It wouldn't surprise us if Col. Roosevelt should run for governor of New York, after all, for he has said positively three times that he would not.

No doubt some of the unsuccessful candidates for political office, if they had it to do over, would invest their campaign money to better advantage.

A Kentucky man is asking the people to elect him to the senate because he knows the constitution by heart. He might find this accomplishment an embarrassment if he should be elected.

A physician recently announced that ice cream and chocolate candy form a sure remedy for the liquor habit, and we are informed that the Greensboro drunkards are refusing to eat ice cream and chocolate for fear they will be cured.

According to a news item in the Philadelphia Record, turkeys and chickens in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio are getting fat on 17-year locusts. We have never been enthusiastic on the subject of locusts as a diet, but if they come in the form of rich white and dark meat around Thanksgiving time, we shall have to reconsider. It is to be hoped, however, that the turkeys won't become so accustomed to 17-year locusts for dinner that they will refuse everything else.

Col. Neville, in command of the second regiment of marines at Vera Cruz, is possessed of a level head. In declining to comply with a request from Washington to furnish a list of his men deserving medals of honor, he said: "My men do not regard the Vera Cruz incident as a 'medal-earner.' They would rather wait for some more difficult task before thinking of any reward beyond their pay." All the Americans seem to have measured up to the standard of duty at Vera Cruz, but, as Col. Neville says, the incident was not a "medal-earner."

A New York health authority warns persons over 40 years old to eat less meat, declaring that meat-eating is largely to blame for the increased death rate of people over that age. We suspect that many eaters of meat will take this warning in the spirit in which a North Carolina judge received the advice of a Greensboro friend a few years ago that "sweetened" liquor was injurious to the health and would result in premature death. "Well, I have got to die some time and I'm going to drink what I want when I want it, provided I can get it," replied the judge. The judge remains in his accustomed health to this day, and, so far as we knew, still drinks "sweetened" liquor.

TO LET MILITANTS STARVE.

Information from across the water is to the effect that, at last, the government of Great Britain has arrived at the point where it has made up its mind that the mad militants, imprisoned for numerous acts of outrage and violence, shall be permitted to starve themselves to death, if they have the nerve to carry out their threats. In their characteristic, methodical and thorough way the British authorities are planning to give a sort of legal sanction to suicide by starvation in prison, exonerating the jailers in advance. The plan is to enact legislation indemnifying the prison authorities against the consequences of permitting the wild women to sacrifice their lives. And so far the country seems to take to the idea kindly if not with actual alacrity.

The recent series of violent and vicious outbreaks, including the burning of churches, actual attempts at murder and demonstrations against the king and queen have extinguished the last spark of sympathy for the women, and public sentiment is now in favor of letting them starve to death without hindrance.

The conservative Englishman insists on system and order. Once legislation is enacted on the subject, as proposed, he will be enabled to read at his breakfast table, unmoved, newspaper accounts of the death of women criminals as the result of their own choice.

It is by no means certain, however, that there would be any deaths. Fully warned in advance that they would be permitted to determine their own fate without interference, and with the knowledge that the British public would regard the proceeding complacently, the women would be less eager to die. Martyrdom would be denied them, and their passing would be that of common criminals. The hunger strike has been successful in the past because the strikers were assured of victory at the start. When they know that hereafter they can only win a shroud, they are likely to decline the issue.

Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City Bank of New York and formerly comptroller of the currency under a Republican administration, made an address before the New York Bankers' Association the other day in which he accepted President Wilson's diagnosis of a "psychological" trouble in business. He declared his belief that the lack of enthusiasm about the future, the state of pessimism that surrounds many phases of business, the disposition toward extreme conservatism, the lack of new plans for capital expenditure for railway improvement and extension, for new industrial conquest, all have their roots in a state of mind, rather than in the statistics of actual business data.

In addressing a mothers' club in Washington, Dr. Harvey W. Wiley said: "Heaven is a place something like home—you can go there when there's no place else to go." According to an old-fashioned doctrine, in which some of us still believe, there will always be another place also.

Riding a hobby is better than walking, if it gets you anywhere.

What the Chinch Bug Costs.

In Farm and Fireside a contributor says that the chinch bug costs the farmers of the United States at least $100,000,000 a year. Various means for fighting these bugs have been devised, but their most successful enemies are the birds of the air. In regard to the natural destroyer of this insect pest the author of the article writes as follows: "If the law of the survival of the fittest applies in all cases, it is reasonable to believe that the ultimate check to the propagation of the chinch bug will come about by the birds that eat them at all stages of their life history. Among the birds that eat millions of these pests may be mentioned the quail, the meadow lark and the sparrow."

THE COST OF LIVING IS STEADILY DECLINING.

Philadelphia Record.

Notwithstanding all Republican talk to the contrary, the cost of living is steadily declining under the Democratic tariff. While the farmer still finds a ready market for all he can produce at satisfactory prices, the importations of meats and other food supplies from foreign countries, though not large in themselves, have been sufficient to prevent the middlemen from putting on the screws in the old-fashioned way. As a fruitful topic of conversation and discussion the high cost of living has largely disappeared.

Some interesting figures on this subject are given by Senator Hollins, of New Hampshire, to whom they were sent by a retail dealer of Manchester, the largest city in the senator's state. Comparing the prices of April, 1913, with those of April, 1914, this merchant says that creamery butter has fallen from 42 to 30 cents, patent flour from $6 to $5.50 and $5.75, leaf lard from 18 to 15 cents, hams from 18 to 15 cents, prime beef from 22 to 17 cents, pork loins from 22 to 16 cents, sugar from 6 to 4 1-4 cents, etc.

These figures may not be applicable to Philadelphia, but they have not been denied as being true of Manchester. They show that more abundant supplies are having their natural effect.

Neighborhood News.

Matters of Interest Reported by Our Corps of Correspondents.

WHITSETT.

Children's day was observed at the Methodist church Sunday, June 7, and a very entertaining program was rendered.

Mrs. G. W. Davenport and Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Davenport left Tuesday morning by automobile for a trip to Black Mountain and Montreat.

Little Jewel Greeson, the ten-year-old daughter of A. F. Greeson, has been very sick with pneumonia the past week, but is much improved at this time and it is hoped is on the road to early recovery.

W. H. Stone, of Thomasville, a student here last year, is spending a few days here visiting friends.

Mrs. Z. F. Perrett and daughter, Pearl, have returned from a visit to friends in Durham and other points.

Wheat has all been cut in this community, and the reports as brought in indicate a good crop. In the other line of farming has more improvement been made during the past few years than in raising wheat. The results have been shown in the fine crops of recent years.

Rev. J. W. Taylor has gone to Roanoke Island, where he is to preach with a view to a call from a Baptist church at that place.

Vance E. Swift, of Ashland, Caswell county, is here assisting his brother in his store.

The macadam roads in eastern Guilford are becoming so badly worn that they must have early attention, if they are to be kept as a permanent investment in good roads.

His friends here are glad to note that the Glendonville Drug Company has been purchased by Lee A. Wharton and that he will remain in charge. He had thought of moving to Burlington, but this purchase insures his continued residence at his present home, which is good news for his many friends.

One Weak Spot.

A religious worker was visiting a Southern penitentiary, when one prisoner in some way took his fancy. The prisoner was a negro who evinced a religious fervor as deep as it was troubling to the caller.

"What were you accused?" the prisoner was asked.

"I was I took a watch," answered the negro. "I made a good fight. I had a handy lawyer, an' he done prove an allid wif 10 witnesses. But my lawyer he shore made a strong speech to de jury. But it shore no use, sah; I gets 10 years."

"I don't see why you were not acquitted," said the religious worker. "Well, sah," explained the prisoner, "there was shore one weak spot 'bout my defense—dey found de watch in my pocket."

Ideal Arrangement.

Mr. and Mrs. Torkins seem to get along well together.

"That is due to their superior teamwork."

"What do you mean?"

"She lays down the law and he carries it out."

Perhaps the reason a girl prefers the seashore to the mountains is because there are so many swells at the shore.

DESTRUCTION OF CATTLE ON PLAINS OF MEXICO.

One of the effects of the long-continued war in Mexico has been the diminution in numbers of its cattle, which formerly amounted to many millions of heads on the vast plains of the plateau.

Hundreds of thousands of the cattle have been slaughtered by the bands, raiding columns and armies which have been constantly in the field; other hundreds of thousands have been stolen or confiscated, and millions have been shipped or driven out of the country, to be turned into cash by either the possessors for the time being or the legal owners.

The largest herds of cattle in Mexico were those of the Northern states, the states north of San Luis Potosi, Zacatecas and Tepic, and this entire region has been swept clean of cattle and farm products by the soldiers and the bands that call themselves soldiers that accompany the armies in the field.

Great numbers of these cattle have been driven across the boundary line between the United States and Mexico and have been sold to buyers in the United States.

No class of plunder and loot is more eagerly sought by the rebel commanders than cattle, for they served either to feed their followers or to bring cash to their pockets or bank accounts in the border towns of the United States.

The herds were carefully rounded up and turned into cash at the earliest possible moment by the colonels and generals who were out for liberty and loot, the constitution and confiscation, patriotism and plunder.

For three years Mexico has contributed annually a supply of cattle to this country far greater than normally, and the cattle buyers of Texas, New Mexico and Arizona have secured large numbers at low prices from lawful owners eager to convert them into cash before they could be seized by robber bands, and from agents of the robber bands, quick to dispose of them after seizure from their legal owners.

The result is that Mexico's herds are less in total numbers of cattle now than they have been for 50 years, and very few cattle will now be shipped from the country, as there is little or no surplus after the home demand for meat is supplied.

This country's supply of cattle from Mexico may be considered as terminated for the next five or ten years.

Died.

Floris Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Hall, of Greensboro, departed this life May 21, 1914, aged 25 years. His affliction was tuberculosis and it covered a period of about a year. He bore his trials and sufferings with great fortitude and bravery and died willingly. A wife and child preceded him to the grave about three years ago. M. H.

The still, small voice of conscience demonstrates that actions speak louder than words.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Sold by Druggists, price 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

"I suggested something of the sort, but she wasn't very much impressed. Indeed, she appeared to be somewhat—yes, I could not have been mistaken—somewhat harsh and terrified when I spoke of it. Afterwards she was more reasonable. She thanked me and there were tears in her eyes at the time—and said she would think it over. All she asks is that I may be happy and free and untroubled all the rest of my life. This was before dinner. At dinner she appeared to be brooding over something. When we left the table she took me to her room and said that she had come to an important decision. Then she instructed Watson to find out if possible."

"God, it's all very upsetting," he said, shaking his head.

"I think her conscience is troubling her. She hates the Wrاندalls, but I don't know why I should feel as I do about it—but I believe she wants them to know!"

He stared for a moment, and then his face brightened. "And so do I, Hetty, so do I! They ought to know!"

"I should feel so much easier if the whole world knew," said she earnestly.

Sara heard the girl's words as she stood in the door. She came forward with a strange—even abashed—smile, after closing the door behind her.

CHAPTER XXI.

The Jury of Four.

The Wrاندalls sat waiting and wondering. They had been sent for and they had deigned to respond, much to their own surprise. Redmond Wrاندall occupied a place at the head of the library table. At his right sat his wife, Vivian and Leslie, by direction, took seats at the side of the long table, which had been cleared of its mass of books and magazines. Lawyer Carroll was at the other end of the table, perceptibly nervous and anxious. Hetty sat a little apart from the others, a rather forlorn, detached member of the conclave. Brandon Booth, pale-faced and alert, drew up a chair alongside Carroll, facing Sara who alone remained standing, directly opposite the four Wrандalls.

Not one of the Wrандalls knew why they, as a family, were there. They had not the slightest premonition of what was to come.

The Wrандalls had been routed from their comfortable fireside—for what? They were asking the question of themselves and they were waiting stonily for the answer.

"It is very stuffy in here," Vivian had said with a glance at the closed doors after Sara had successfully placed her jury in the box.

"Keep still, Viv," whispered Leslie, with a false assumption of awe. "It's a spiritualistic meeting. You'll scare the spooks away."

It was at this juncture that Sara rose from her chair and faced them, as calmly, as complacently as if she were about to ask them to proceed to the dining room instead of to throw a bomb into their midst that would shatter their smug serenity for all time to come. With a glance at Mr. Carroll she began, clearly, firmly and without a preliminary apology for what was to follow.

"I have asked you to come here tonight to be my judges. I am on trial. You are about to hear the story of my unimpeachable perjury. I only require of you that you hear me to the end before passing judgment."

At her words, Hetty and Booth started perceptibly; a quick glance passed between them, as if each was inquiring whether the other had caught the extraordinary words of self-indictment. A pained frown appeared on Hetty's brow.

"Perjury?" interposed Mr. Wrاندall. His wife's expression changed from one of bored indifference to sharp inquiry. Leslie paused in the act of lighting a cigarette.

"It is the mildest term I can command," said Sara. "I shall be as brief as possible in stating the case, Mr. Wrандall. You will be surprised to hear that I have taken it upon myself, as the wife of Challis Wrандall and, as I regard it, the one most vitally concerned if not interested in the discovery and punishment of the person who took his life—I say I have taken it upon myself to shield, protect and defend the unhappy young woman who accompanied him to Burton's Inn on that night in March. She has had my constant, my personal protection for more than twenty months."

The Wrандalls leaned forward in their chairs. The match burned Leslie's fingers, and he dropped it without appearing to notice the pain.

"What is this you are saying?" demanded Redmond Wrاندall.

"When I left the Inn that night, after seeing my husband's body in the little upstairs room, I said to myself that the one who took his life had unwittingly done me a service. He was my husband; I loved him, I adored him. To the end of my days I could have gone on loving him in spite of the cruel return he gave for my love and loyalty. I shall not attempt to tell you of the countless lapses of fidelity on his part. You would not believe me. But he always came back to me with the pitiful love he had for me, and I forgave him his transgressions. These things you know. He confessed many things to you, Mr. Wrандall. He humbled himself to me. Perhaps you will recall that I never complained to you of him. What rancor I had was always directed toward you, his family, who would see no wrong in your King but looked upon me as dirt beneath his feet. There were moments when I could have slain him with my own hands, but my heart rebelled. There were times when he said to me that I ought to kill him for the things he had done. You may now understand what I mean when I say that the girl who went to Burton's Inn with him did me a service. I will not say that I considered her guiltless at the time. On the contrary, I looked upon her in quite a different way. I had no means of knowing then that she was as pure as snow and that he would have despoiled her of everything that was sweet and sacred to her. She took his life in order to save that which was dearer to her than her own life, and she was on her way to pay for her deed with her life if necessary when I came upon her and intervened."

The Wrандalls Leaned Forward in Their Chairs.

"You—you know who she is?" said Mr. Wrандall, in a low, incredulous voice.

"I have known almost from the beginning. Presently you will hear her story, from her own lips."

Involuntarily four pairs of eyes shifted. They looked blankly at Hetty Castleton.

Speaking swiftly, Sara depicted the scenes and sensations experienced during that memorable motor journey to New York city.

"I could not believe that she was a vicious creature, even then. Something told me that she was a tender, gentle thing who had fallen into evil hands and had struck because she was unwell. I did not doubt that she had been my husband's mistress, but I could not destroy the conviction that somehow she had been justified in doing the thing she had done. My gravest mistake was in refusing to hear her story in all of its details. I only permitted her to acknowledge that she had killed him, no more. I did not want to hear the thing which I assumed to be true. Therein lies my deepest fault. For months and months I misjudged her in my heart, yet secretly loved her. Now I understand why I loved her. It was because she was innocent of the only crime I could lay at her feet. Now I come to the crime of which I stand self-accused. I must have been mad all these months. I have no other defense to offer. You may take it as you see fit for yourselves. I do not ask for pardon. After I deliberately had set about to shield this unhappy girl—to cheat the law, if you please—to cheat you, perhaps—I conceived the horrible thought to avenge myself for all the indignities I had sustained at the hands of you Wrандalls, and at the same time to even my account with the one woman whom I could put my finger upon as having robbed me of my husband's love. You see I put it mildly. I have hated all of you, Mrs. Wrандall, even as you have hated me. Today—now—I do not feel as I did in other days toward you. I do not love you, still I do not hate you. I do not forgive you, and yet I think I have come to see things from your point of view. I can only repeat that I do not hate you as I once did."

She paused. The Wrандalls were too deeply submerged in horror to speak. They merely stared at her as if stupefied; as breathless, as motionless as stones.

"There came a day when I observed that Leslie was attracted by the guest in my house. On that day the plan took root in my brain. I—"

"Good God!" fell from Leslie's lips. "You—you had that in mind?"

"It became a fixed, inflexible purpose, Leslie. Not that I hated you as I hated the rest, for you tried to be considerate. The one grudge I held against you was that in seeking to sustain me you defamed your own brother. You came to me with stories of his misdeeds; you said that he was a scoundrel and that you would not blame me for 'showing him up.' Do you not remember? And, so my plot involved you; you were the only one through whom I could strike. There were times when I faltered. I could not bear the thought of sacrificing Hetty Castleton, nor was it easy to thoroughly appease my conscience in respect to you. Still, if I could have had my way a few months ago, if coercion had been of any avail, you would now be the husband of your brother's slayer. Then I came to know that she was not what I had thought she was. She was honest. My bubble burst. I came out of the maze in which I had been living and saw clearly that what I had contemplated was the most atrocious—"

"Atrocious?" cried Mrs. Redmond Wrандall between her set teeth. "Diabolical! Diabolical! My God, Sara, what a devil you—"

She did not complete the sentence, but sank back in her chair and stared with wide, horror-struck eyes at her rigid daughter-in-law.

Her husband, his hand shaking as if with palsy, pointed a finger at Hetty. "And so you are the one we have been hunting for all these months, Miss Castleton! You are the one we want! You who have sat at our table, you who have smiled in our faces—"

"Stop, Mr. Wrандall!" commanded Sara, noting the ashen face of the girl. "Don't let the fact escape you that I am the guilty person. Don't forget that she owed her freedom, if not her life to me. I alone kept her from giving herself up to the law. All that has transpired since that night in March must be placed to my account. Hetty Castleton has been my prisoner. She has rebelled a thousand times and I have conquered—not by threats but by love! Do you understand? Because of her love for me, and because she believed that I loved her, she submitted. You are not to accuse her, Mr. Wrандall. Accuse me! I am on trial here. Hetty Castleton is a witness against me, if you choose to call upon her as such. If not, I shall ask her to speak in my defense, if she can do so."

"This is lunacy!" cried Mr. Wrاندall, coming to his feet. "I don't care what your motives may have been. They do not make her any less a murderer. She—"

"We must give her over to the police—" began his wife, struggling to her feet. She staggered. It was Booth who stepped quickly to her side to support her. Leslie was staring at Hetty.

Vivian touched her father's arm. She was very pale but vastly more composed than the others.

"Father, listen to me," she said. Her voice trembled in spite of her effort to control it. "We are condemning Miss Castleton unheard. Let us hear everything before we—"

"Good God, Vivian! Do you mean to—"

"How can we place any reliance on what she may say?" cried Mrs. Wrандall.

"Nevertheless," said Vivian firmly, "I for one shall not condemn her unheard. I mean to be as fair to her as Sara has been. It shall not be said that all the Wrандalls are smaller than Sara Gooch!"

"My child—" began her father incredulously. His jaw dropped suddenly. His daughter's shot had landed squarely in the heart of the Wrандall pride.

"If she has anything to say"—said Mrs. Wrандall, waving Booth aside and sinking stiffly into her chair. Her husband sat down. Their jaws set hard.

"Thank you, Vivian," said Sara, surprised in spite of herself. "You are nobler than I—"

"Please don't thank me, Sara," said Vivian icily. "I was speaking for Miss Castleton."

Sara flushed. "I suppose it is useless to ask you to be fair to Sara Gooch, as you choose to call me." "Do you feel in your heart that we still owe you anything?"

THE FIRST PROTOCOL SIGNED

NEW GOVERNMENT FOR MEXICO
WITH PRESIDENT HUERTA ELIMINATED.

Delegates from the United States and the Huerta government, in the presence of the mediating representatives of Argentina, Brazil and Chile at Niagara Falls, Friday formally signed the first protocol of the series through which it is hoped to restore peace in Mexico.

The agreement as to the manner of transferring executive power from Huerta to the new provisional government, reduced to writing, provides:

"A government is to be constituted in Mexico of a character to be later provided, which shall be recognized by the United States on (date to be fixed) and which from that day forward shall exercise public functions until there shall be inaugurated a constitutional president."

The brief protocol was significant of two things:

It makes no mention of General Huerta as the provisional president and it omits the method of transfer, which the Mexican delegates and mediators suggested and to which the United States objected on the ground that its retention would be tantamount to recognition of the existing regime.

The Mexican plan provided that Huerta should name as minister of foreign affairs the man agreed on here for provisional president.

The Mexican delegates, while abandoning the constitutional form of succession as a part of a protocol, are satisfied because it does not specifically deny Huerta's right to name as minister of foreign affairs the man chosen here for provisional president, if the latter sees fit to accept designation from him. It is not considered probable, however, that the new provisional president, who is likely to be a constitutionalist, would take the executive power directly from Huerta, but he might do so from some other individual whom Huerta might leave in authority. All parties now are concentrating on the second part of the peace plan, which relates to the name of the provisional president and possibly will include his cabinet of four.

Though the protocol is of comparatively few words, it is the embodiment of that for which the United States has been striving for more than a year—elimination of Huerta. With Huerta's formal statement of his intention to withdraw when Mexico was politically pacified, the protocol takes for granted that such a pacification will occur and arrange for the transition.

GENERAL NEWS PARAGRAPHS

SUMMARY OF EVENTS THAT GO TO MAKE UP THE WORLD'S
NEWS OF THE DAY.

Three of four balloons that started from Portland, Ore., Thursday in the first national balloon race ever held in the Northwest are missing. It is feared that they were lost in a storm in the mountains.

A dispatch from Paris, Ky., says: "Two children are dead, another is believed to be dying and two other persons are seriously ill here as a result of poisoning believed by doctors to have been caused by eating impure food."

Thomas B. Jones, a Chicago lawyer, former trustee of Princeton University and a personal friend of President Wilson, has practically been selected for governor of the federal reserve board. It is expected that his name will be sent to the senate today.

Treasury department officials are of the opinion that it will be possible to have the 12 federal reserve banks in operation by August 1, although they say the demand for money to move crops has not been such as to suggest any great strain to be relieved by the new banking system.

Secretary of State Bryan has announced that the Colombian treaty, by which it is proposed to pay $25,000,000 to the South American republic for the partition of Panama, will go to the senate for action immediately after disposition of the Panama tolls exemption repeal. The treaty has been ratified by the Colombian Congress.

Resolutions of impeachment against Federal District Judge Alston G. Dayton, of West Virginia, were introduced in the house of representatives Friday and referred to the judiciary committee. Judge Dayton is charged with "high crimes and misdemeanors," conspiracy with corporations and individuals, and personal and judicial misconduct.

The parliament of Norway has adopted a resolution prohibiting the use of intoxicating liquors by officers of the Norwegian army and navy during the terms of service. Enlisted men were already enforced abstainers and the officers' messes on the warships and in the garrisons now are to be made "dry," following the example set by the United States navy.

The town of Hillsboro, in the southwest corner of N. W. Mexico, practically was destroyed by a flood that swept through the business section Thursday night. A cloudburst sent a wall of water six feet high through the town. The inhabitants had been warned and escaped, with the exception of Thomas Murphy, sheriff of the county, who is believed to have been drowned.

While Mrs. Lee Marshall, of Mulberry, Ind., was doing her housework a few days ago, she pinned the nightgown of her sleeping infant, aged seven months, to the mattress to keep the child from falling out of bed. She found the lifeless body of the baby suspended between the bed and floor a short time later. The child had become entangled in the nightgown and strangled.

The hand-shaking of Robert E. Lee and Ulysses S. Grant at Appomattox Court House, Va., is to be the subject of one of the designs in the uncompleted frieze around the rotunda of the United States capitol, according to a bill introduced in the senate by Senator O'Gorman, of New York. The other two subjects will be the Panama canal in operation and the progress of aerial navigation.

The possibility of President Wilson taking the stump in the fall congressional elections was discussed with him a few days ago by Representative Connolly, of Iowa, Democratic nominee for the senate. The president told Mr. Connolly he had not decided yet whether to make any speeches. Representative A. Mitchell Palmer also has made efforts to have the president speak in Pennsylvania.

President Wilson has sent to the senate the name of Representative William Graves Sharp, of Ohio, for ambassador to France. He is to succeed Myron T. Herrick, of Cleveland, Ohio, the last of the ambassadors holding over from the Taft administration. This is the post declined by W. F. McCombs, chairman of the national Democratic committee, who did not feel that he could afford the financial sacrifice involved.

Socialism History of False Prophecies.

Hugo Munsterberg. The history of Socialism has been a history of false prophecies. Socialism started with a sure conviction that under the conditions of modern industry the working class must be driven into worse and worse misery. In reality, the development has gone the opposite way. There are endlessly more workmen with a comfortable income than ever before. The prophets also knew surely that the wealth from manufacturing enterprises would be concentrated with fewer and fewer men, while history has taken the opposite turn and has distributed the shares of the industrial companies into hundreds of thousands of hands. Other prophecies foretold the end of the small farmer, still others the uprooting of the middle class, others gave the date for the great crash; and everything would have come out exactly as the prophets foresaw it, if they had not forgotten to consider many other factors in the social situation which gave to the events a very different turn. But it may be acknowledged that the wrong prophesying was done not only by the Socialists but no less by the spectators.

Goes State One Better.

Wilmington Star. The North Carolina Cotton Manufacturers' Association, which met in Charlotte on Tuesday, goes the state one better in its purpose to take care of the human asset of North Carolina. The age limit in the state's compulsory school law is 12 years, but the cotton manufacturers went on record in recommending that 13 years be the age limit. The association does itself credit by the stand which is taken, and it goes to show that North Carolina has an enlightened and humane class of captains of industry.
