ANOTHER TACK ON VILLA

BANDITS SURPRISED WHILE AT REST AND DEFEATED BY TENTH CAVALRY.

San Antonio, Texas, April 4.—Surprised during their siesta, one of the groups of Villa's forces driven from Guerrero, was defeated Saturday by a squadron of the tenth cavalry under Col. W. C. Brown, according to information secured by General Pershing and forwarded to General Funston today. In this, the second engagement, the American troops have had with Villa's men; the bandits losses were estimated at from 30 to 40 killed. No mention of American loss was made.

News of the reported engagement, fought at the village of Auguas Calientes, 20 miles southeast of Bachileva, was brought by friendly Mexicans to a point near Rubio, where a detachment of the tenth cavalry under command of Major Evans halted yesterday. At the time General Pershing sent his dispatch to General Funston he had not received an official report from Col. Brown and the expeditionary commander pointed out that reports of the encounter lacked confirmation. His credence in the news was indicated, however, by the fact that he transmitted it to army headquarters here.

According to the Mexicans' story, Col. Brown surprised the wandering bandits while they were taking their noonday siesta. All of their horses were grazing, when the cavalry rushed upon them. Other than the number reported killed and the fact that the American forces captured a number of horses, Major Evans' informants were without details of the encounter.

Previous report from Major Evans stated that Col. Brown was pursuing the Villa band through the town of San Antonio.

Arouses Interest.

The second encounter with one of Villa's scattered forces aroused deep interest at General Funston's headquarters, but it was realized that the effect of Col. Brown's fight and of other minor engagements that may occur is only indirect so far as the greater problem of catching Villa is concerned. Engagements of that character, it was said, may be expected now from time to time, and the running down of the marauding bands is essential to the safety of the American column, but it was indicated the only effects, so far as Villa is concerned, will be to destroy the morale of his supporting force.

There are known to be other bands operating in that part of Mexico and a part of the American forces must remain to deal with them while the other part pursues the fugitive chief. Official admission at General Funston's headquarters today that the success of the expedition now depended largely on the freer use of the railroads and the material strengthening of the line, round about line of communication and its branches revealed a situation that it was believed might alter the entire plan of pursuit.

Villa's latest southwest shift was credited in official quarters since it came from consular reports, in which the outlaw was located well beyond Chihuahua City and evidently trying to reach Parral or perhaps even Tereon or Durango City. There are known to be operating near those places organized forces of Villa's aggregating some thousands. According to all late reports, Villa appears to be traveling fast and already has placed between himself and the pursuing Americans a considerable distance.

Quicker Movement Demanded.

To meet the new situation, staff officers here assert a quicker means of sending forward troops and supplies should be made and it was pointed out that the direct Juarez-Chihuahua railroad offered that means, or a large number of troops might be sent to Columbus immediately for campaigning in Mexico.

To reinforce the line of communication would require the calling of the few regiments in the United States other than those engaged in border patrol duty or stationed in the southern department. None of the troops along the border should be used, in the opinion of army officers here, unless replaced by other military units. The only remaining regiments that might be called are the second cavalry and the third and thirteenth infantry.

Army men do not believe, however, that the troops along the line

ONE UNDER PROBATION AND THE OTHER IN JAIL.

The theft of over $500 from the office of the North Carolina Public Service Company Saturday night, an account of which appeared in Monday's Patriot, turns out to have been the work of Gilbert Newell, the youthful clerk of the company, who was thought to have been assaulted and confined in the company's vault, and Byron Bradley, a young man who has been employed in a pool room in this city. Following the arrest of the two, the greater part of the money was recovered in Bradley's room.

The two defendants were in Municipal court yesterday for a preliminary hearing and young Newell made a clean breast of the whole affair. He told how he and Bradley had planned and carried out the robbery, the matter having been mentioned first while Newell was in the pool room where Bradley was employed.

Under an act of the legislature of 1915 providing for the suspension of sentences of juvenile offenders, and it being shown that Newell was only 17 years old, Judge Brown sentenced the youth to two years in jail, the judgment providing that the sentence he suspended and young Newell placed on parole. He is to appear before the court on the first Monday of each month during the two years and show that he has not violated his parole.

Bradley did not go on the witness stand, but through his counsel entered a plea of not guilty. He was held for the Superior court under a bond of $1,000, in default of which he was remanded to jail.

JOSEPHUS DANIELS WILL SPEAK AT Y. M. C. A. BANQUET.

A week's campaign for raising funds to pay off the indebtedness of the Young Men's Christian Association of this city will be begun next Tuesday morning. The work will be in charge of a committee of 120 men, of which Mr. J. E. Latham will be general chairman. The churches of the city and the Chamber of Commerce are to lend their active cooperation in the campaign. Mr. E. G. Wilson, of Charlotte, interstate secretary of the Y. M. C. A., is here assisting in the preliminary work and will remain in the city until the campaign is finished. The amount it is desired to raise is approximately $40,000.

The campaign will be formally launched with a banquet in the gymnasium of the Y. M. C. A. Monday evening. Hon. Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy, will be present as the guest of honor and deliver an address. Mr. Daniels has always been a strong friend of the Y. M. C. A. and since becoming secretary of the navy has done much to encourage the work among the enlisted men.

YOUNG HUSBAND KILLED BY HIS OWN REVOLVER.

Rutherfordton, April 5.—Dave Toney, of Sandy Plains, married to Miss Sophia Owensby Saturday, March 25, with his bride, had yesterday started from her mother's home to their own home-to-be when, while arranging the cushions on the seat of the wagon in which he and Mrs. Toney were to ride, a pistol slipped from his pocket, the hammer struck the dashboard, the weapon exploded and he fell, with a bullet in his head, into the arms of his bride and almost instantly died.

The ball from the revolver entered his face just by his nose and ranged upward, penetrating the brain.

He had just completed loading on the wagon the household effects and personal property of his wife, gifts of her mother, and in a few moments would have been on his way to the home he had prepared for his young bride.

Toney was 32 years of age, and is survived by an aged mother and three sisters.

Rev. R. G. Kendrick, who recently resigned the pastorate of Forest Avenue Baptist church to become pastor of a church in Portsmouth, Va., left Tuesday with his family for his new field.

of communication, even if increased by these three regiments, would be adequate to guard the line if it is extended east from Guerrero and then south as far as the chase of Villa might require.

NEGRO IS LYNCHED BY MOB

JOE BLACK TAKEN FROM JAIL IN KINSTON AND BODY RIDDLED WITH BULLETS.

Kinston, April 5.—Joseph Black, a negro, about fifty years of age, the father of the alleged rapist held in the penitentiary at Raleigh, was taken from Lenoir county jail here this morning a few minutes before 3 o'clock by a mob of several hundred persons. The body of the man was found in the road between Maury and Lizzie, Greene county, later. A fusillade of shots was heard in that neighborhood and it is believed the mob despatched Black there.

Last week Will Black, a boy not quite grown, attacked and viciously abused a six-year-old white child, Mattie Tyson, in Greene county. He beat her mother in order to accomplish the crime, and afterwards shot two possemen in a gun battle. He was taken and hurried to Goldsboro, and from there was later taken to Raleigh.

Joseph Black furnished his son with shotguns and a revolver, it is alleged. But not that so much as alleged threats and assertions by him caused the Greene county people to take his life. It was reliably reported that Black stated that the little girl was no better than his son; that he would burn the Tyson home and kill the child's father if he had anything to do with the prosecution. His actions in the neighborhood following the assault provoked the men of the community to fury.

The Greene county sheriff got Joseph Black soon after Will Black was captured, holding him for furnishing the boy with weapons. It took the people days to reach the determination to lynch the old man, but their minds made up, Sheriff Williams knew better than to leave him within easy reach of a mob.

Williams learned Tuesday evening that Snow Hill jail would not hold Black that night. He rushed him to Kinston. Black was incarcerated here at 9:20.

H. V. Allen, the jailer here, was awakened shortly before the lynchers appeared at the jail. A man was informing him over the telephone of the mob's approach when the leaders appeared at the door. Hundreds of quiet men lined the streets near the jail and filled the court housesquare. A beardless man, not more than twenty-five years of age, was spokesman. Allen parleyed for a time. A man with a watch announced that he had half a minute left. The youthful leader told him to deliver up the keys or take the consequences. Allen's wife and startled children were at the windows of their quarters. Two men seized the jailer, took his keys and were directed by him to an old death cell on the second floor.

The leaders told Black to get up and dress himself. "We're going to move you to another jail," he was told. Black could not stand. He was too frightened to speak. He was carried by the men, almost tenderly, it seemed to Allen, down stairs, out on the street and in an automobile. Black cried "Murder," Allen heard the noise. Black did not cry out again. Then the long procession of automobiles, buggies, wagons and mounted men, no one speaking, passed on up the street and out to Greene county.

Electric lamps all about illuminated the peaceable "storming" of the jail, but Kinston did not know what had happened until day had arrived, so quietly did the Greene farmers do their work.

The mob had taken the precaution to picket principal intersections of streets against police or a riot call, but they were not molested.

Negro's Head Stops Bullet.

Fort Worth, Tex., April 4.—Physicians here are marvelling at the unusual resisting power of the skull of Scott Perkins, a negro. Two loads of birdshot fired at Perkins recently at close range were stopped by his head. The shot did not penetrate his head, but lodged against the bone. The negro was not even knocked down.

Mrs. Waite Sues For Divorce.

Grand Rapids, Mich., April 4.—Mrs. Clara Louise Peck Waite today filed suit for divorce in Superior court here against her husband, Dr. Arthur Warren Waite, of New York, who has confessed to the murder of her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Peck.

ARE LOYAL TO ROOSEVELT

TAR HEEL PROGRESSIVES SEE NO HOPE IN ANY OTHER CANDIDATE.

The state executive committee of the Progressive party in North Carolina held a meeting in this city yesterday afternoon, elected delegates-at-large to the national convention in Chicago and adopted resolutions reaffirming allegiance to Theodore Roosevelt. The meeting was attended by about 25 men. Mr. Zeb V. Walsler, of Lexington, the state chairman, presided and Mr. Martin F. Douglas, of this city, served as secretary.

The following were selected as delegates-at-large to the national convention, which will meet in Chicago June 7: James N. Williamson, of Burlington; Zeb V. Walsler, of Lexington; John W. Kurfrees, of Germantown, and Martin F. Douglas, of Greensboro.

The meeting adopted the following resolutions:

"First. We hereby endorse the action taken by the Progressive national committee at its meeting in Chicago in January, 1916, and pledge ourselves to work for the election of delegates to the Progressive national convention who will stand steadfast for the principles laid down by the national committee.

"We hereby express the hope that the Progressive and Republican conventions at Chicago will be able to agree upon a candidate for president who will be acceptable to the Progressives.

"In the event that there can be no such agreement, we pledge ourselves to support the nominee of the Progressive national convention.

"Second. We reaffirm with increasing devotion our faith in Progressive principles and the leadership of Theodore Roosevelt.

"Third. We are firmly of the belief that there can be no co-operation between the Progressive and Republican parties at Chicago if the same baneful influences which split the Republican party asunder in 1912 are again dominant in the convention of 1916.

"We are of the firm conviction that the Progressives of North Carolina in number and loyalty to their principles are as strong as they were when they swept the state for Theodore Roosevelt in 1912, and as ready to respond to the summons in defense of a great cause.

"Fourth. The delegates chosen this day to the Chicago convention are hereby instructed to support and vote for Roosevelt for president."

The matter of calling a state convention of the North Carolina Progressives was left in the hands of a special committee, which will select the meeting place and designate the time.

HEALTH OFFICER'S REPORT FOR THE PAST MONTH.

The work of the county health officer, Dr. W. M. Jones, for the past month is summarized in the following report submitted to the county commissioners this week:

County Home—There have been three deaths at the home since last report, but no sickness of any consequence out of the ordinary. A wire inclosure has been put around the grounds, and evergreens and flowers have been set out, which will add very much to the appearance of the home and grounds. Only four visits have been made the home during the month.

Workhouse—Here there have been only three calls made, and these for minor complaints.

Camps—Thirteen calls have been made the camps during the month. One negro, John Goode, was hit in the head with a pick by George Davis, a white man. The negro was carried to the hospital and Davis placed in jail for safe keeping until we could know positively the result of the blow he had given Goode.

Jail—Only 11 visits have been made the jail during the month.

Miscellaneous—Examinations for court, 3; fumigations, 2; hookworm examinations, 5; hookworm treated, 4; charity calls, 11; office calls, 22; nuisances examined, 4; microscopic examinations, 11; insane examined, 3.

Infections—Typhoid fever, 1; scarlet fever, 3; smallpox, 3.

Mrs. A. L. Brooks has gone to Cape Charles, Va., to visit her sister.

GERMAN ADVANCE IS CHECKED BY THE FRENCH.

An attempt by the Germans to press farther south against the French near Douaumont, northeast of Verdun, has met with repulse and considerable losses. In the same sector, north of the Caillette wood, the French have continued their progress in driving back the Teutons.

The German attack south of Douaumont was launched against the French first lines of defense, but the French raked the advancing Teutons with their curtain of fire, machine guns and infantry fire, forcing a retreat in disorder northwest toward the Chaffour wood.

A German attack on the town of Haucourt, northwest of Verdun, also failed, likewise an attempt to reach the French trenches near Seppois, in the Vosges mountains. Elsewhere along the western front there have been only reciprocal bombardments and some mining activity on the British line.

On the Russian front artillery activity of the Russians in the lake region southeast of Dvinsk has increased, but in general no important changes in the positions of the Russians and Germans have taken place.

The Austrians have occupied the border ridge between Lobbia Alta and Monte Fumo, which was held by the Italians. Artillery duels still are in progress on the Doberdo sector, and the Col di Lana and in the Giudicaria Alps.

Another Zeppelin raid was made on England Monday night—the fourth in as many days. Berlin says fortifications near Yarmouth were attacked. A British official statement says no casualties resulted and that no damage was done.

LIST-TAKERS ARE NAMED BY THE COMMISSIONERS.

The monthly meeting of the county commissioners Monday and Tuesday was almost devoid of public interest, there being but little business transacted other than that of a routine nature. A reminder that tax-listing time is almost here again is afforded by the appointment of the list-takers for the county. The commissioners appointed the following for all the townships except Bruce, where the appointment was held open temporarily:

Washington—D. M. Chrismon. Rock Creek—E. B. Wheeler. Greene—W. T. Bowman. Madison—S. T. Liles. Jefferson—R. L. Davis. Clay—Vance Garrett. Monroe—J. R. C. Beville. Gilmer—B. E. Jones. Fentress—J. B. Watlington. Center Grove—J. F. Highfill. Morehead—Willis Booth. Sumner—R. C. Short. Friendship—M. L. Kendall. Jamestown—J. H. Smith. Oak Ridge—R. W. Jones. Deep River—J. Lee Charles. High Point—R. L. Murderer's Sweetheart Seeks Death. New York, April 5.—"Let me say 'The wages of sin is death.'"

So read part of a note left by Margaret Ryan, sweetheart of Reynolds Forsbrey, the murderer, whom she aided to a sensational escape from the Tombs in 1912.

She probably will die in the Methodist Episcopal hospital, Brooklyn, whither she was removed after she had swallowed bichloride of mercury and then turned on the gas yesterday in her room at No. 335 Dean street, Brooklyn.

Forsbrey is now serving a life term in Dannemora prison for murder. He escaped from the Tombs after Margaret Ryan had smuggled saws and muriatic acid to him. Later he was dragged from beneath her bed in a house in the Bronx. He was transferred from Sing Sing to Dannemora.

Schools and Churches Closed.

On account of a threatened epidemic of scarlet fever, the mayor of Winston-Salem has issued an order closing the schools and churches of that city for a period of 12 days, beginning today. Several cases of scarlet fever have appeared in Winston-Salem in the past few days and an epidemic of the disease is feared.

Baseball Monday.—The baseball teams of Guilford College and the A. & M. College, Raleigh, are to play a game in this city next Monday afternoon. Both colleges are represented by strong teams this year and an interesting contest is expected.

PROSPERITY THE BIG ISSUE

PRESIDENT'S ADVISERS SAY IT IS TOO EVIDENT TO BE SIDETRACKED.

Political advisers of President Wilson are determined that discussion of issues of foreign relations in the forthcoming national campaign shall not be permitted to detract from the importance of the tremendous prosperity in which the country has been allowed to gorge itself under the Wilson administration.

Among the president's advisers the conviction obtains that there is a growing tendency on the part of the rank and file of the voters to withdraw their attention somewhat from the great international "crisis" on which Mr. Roosevelt insists that they fasten their minds; as Governor Dunn, of Illinois, said recently, "the people are too busy making money to think of preparedness and war, they are willing to leave the matters to the president and Congress while they make hay."

In the early days of the administration the prediction was frequently heard among politicians that if the president could by any means manage to bring about prosperous conditions during his term, his reelection would be assured. This forecast was based upon the historic prediction to praise the president in office during an era of prosperity, without any careful process of reasoning as to whether he brought the good times or not. Recently, however, when the calamity howler has become so rare that men like Hammy Moore are regarded as interesting survivors of a defunct species, the Republicans are insisting upon issues which do not pertain to economics and finance.

The country's prosperity is now practically without a "spot," according to the reports from the 12 federal reserve agents, made public by the Federal Reserve Board. These officials announce the presence of an era of prosperity national in scope and extending through practically every line of business. One tangible evidence given of the height to which the tide of prosperity has swept is the shortage of labor noted in both the Boston and New York districts, and attributed directly to the business extensions which have taken place. The reserve agent at Boston reported that "in almost all lines of trade exceptionally good business is reported," the principal deterring factors being the embargo on freight, the high cost of raw material, and the shortage of skilled labor.

The indicated shortage of labor, transportation and raw materials are regarded in official circles as epitomizing the prosperity which is now upon the country. When the great reserves of the United States in labor, transportation and raw materials are overtaken by the unprecedented demands for them, created by the new prosperity of business, say the president's friends, no more striking evidence need be sought of the existence of this prosperity.

ORANGE PRESBYTERIAL IN SESSION IN HIGH POINT.

High Point, April 5.—The members of the Orange Presbyterian, in annual session in the First Presbyterian church, had a busy day yesterday. The topic for the day was foreign missions, but the early hours were given over to the preliminary work of the convention. Devotional exercises followed the singing of the rally hymn and preceded the enrollment of the 75 delegates.

Temporary committees were appointed by Mrs. E. C. Murray, of Greensboro, president of the Presbyterian, and reports from standing committees made. The message of Mrs. E. C. Murray, president, was followed by a synopsis of the minutes of the last meeting by Mrs. Lynn B. Williamson, of Graham, secretary, and report of the treasurer, Mrs. L. D. Fanning, of Durham.

The morning session was closed by the address of Mrs. G. W. Butler, Canhotino, Brazil, and the consecration service led by Miss Isabel Arnold, Elkins, W. Va. Following a session of narrative reports by delegates and the annual report of Mrs. F. D. Fanning, secretary of foreign missions, the afternoon session was filled with a conference on the country church, led by Mrs. George W. Oldham, of Yanceyville.

DANIELS REVEALS THE RECORD OF ADMIRAL FISKE.

In testifying before the naval affairs committee of the house of representatives Monday, Secretary of the Navy Daniels made clear the real cause of the trouble between himself and Admiral Bradley A. Fiske.

On cross-examination Mr. Daniels said that the first vital difference he had with Admiral Fiske was the order which eliminated wine from the naval officers' mess.

Later the admiral wanted Mr. Daniels to Prussianize the United States navy by a method of promoting officers, and he would not do it.

The most interesting feature of Mr. Daniels' testimony, however, was that portion which bared the fact that Admiral Fiske desired to succeed Admiral Badger, and sought in every way possible to get himself named for the position Admiral Fletcher now holds. Admiral Fiske went so far as to tell Mr. Daniels that Admiral Fletcher did not want the place and preferred that it go to him.

Members of the committee were informed by Mr. Daniels while he was under fire of Representative Britten, who conducted a partisan examination, of Admiral Fiske's real cause for a dislike for him.

Here is the outline of the testimony given: (1) Admiral Fiske, as adviser to Secretary Daniels, used his position to beg for promotion and when he did not get it he became grouchy and nasty; (2) Admiral Fiske opposed the issuance of the wine order; he said that by eliminating wine from the mess, the secretary would drive navy officers to the use of cocaine and other dangerous drugs. Mr. Daniels' answer to this was that he had a better opinion of naval officers than Admiral Fiske had; (3) Mr. Daniels refused to Prussianize the staff of the navy.

The "cause" of Admiral Fiske's war on Secretary Daniels was apparent to all before the hearing was over.

Admiral Fiske and a little clique of naval officers have caused much of the loose talk about Mr. Daniels. They disliked the mess order, and were disappointed in their ambitions. Mr. Daniels told the house committee that he wishes now he had put his order cutting out wine at the mess in effect a year before he did. That, he believes, is one of the best acts of his administration.

RICH DEPOSIT OF IRON ORE IS DISCOVERED.

The following dispatch from Durham to the Raleigh News and Observer tells of the discovery of what is believed to be a rich body of iron ore in Durham and Granville counties:

Telephonic communication this afternoon with responsible parties on the border line of Durham and Granville counties unfolds a story of what purports to be the biggest find of crude iron ore yet available in North Carolina. Ten years of intermittent exploitation of two thousand acres of land situated between Flat river, Durham county, and Knap of Reeds creek, Granville county, by Rife, Logan & Company, of York, Pennsylvania, mining prospectors, has been productive of results. The investigation, made at an expenditure of $10,000, discloses that possibly 14,800,000 tons of crude iron ore are closeted in the rugged hills and valleys in the region aforementioned.

Developments have matured to such a degree that a spur trackage to connect with the Norfolk and Western Railway from Durham to Lynchburg is assured. The Pennsylvania mining interest has already obtained right-of-way on three miles of ground intervening between the point of discovery and Willardsville, the projecting point of the trackage. The line will be built at an approximate cost of $40,000 and the crude iron products will be transported to Roanoke, Va., where a smelting plant will convert the ore into usable shape. Mining experts from Pennsylvania are now in the section obtaining leases on the valuable mining property and shaping their mediums for marketing the products. The testimony of a former state geologist of North Carolina supports the contentions of the Pennsylvania firm as to the quantity of ore in this region.

YOUNG WOMAN ENDS HER LIFE IN TRAGIC MANNER.

Lenoir, April 4.—After writing a brief note, saying that everybody had treated her like a dog and that she was going to hell, Emma Sanders, a white girl of the Happy Valley section, in a fit of jealousy and despondency, took a single-barrel shotgun Sunday afternoon, sometime between 4 and 5 o'clock, and blew her brains out.

In the early part of the afternoon, Miss Sanders had visited at the home of a neighbor, Mrs. Griffie, and had returned to the home of I. M. Hawkins, where she was working, sometime after 4 o'clock. About 4:40 o'clock a neighbor, living a quarter of a mile from the Hawkins' home, heard the report of a shotgun. Sometime later Oscar Griffie, who also works for Mr. Hawkins, returned home to feed the stock, found the girl's body lying near the open door, with her head almost blown off, and nearby the shotgun, with a small cotton string fastened to the trigger.

Nearby, on the table was found a note addressed to "Mattie," a girl friend, it is thought, which reads:

"Tell pa I am going to hell. Be good. Old Emma is going to hell. Everybody has treated me like a dog. God bless everybody."

Unrequited love is assigned as the cause of the tragedy, which threw the tranquil, sabbatical Happy Valley section into a stage of unprecedented excitement. That morning Emma went to work with a young man, but it seems that they quarreled and in the afternoon he paid his respects to another young lady.

The young lady was only 17 years old and was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Findley Sanders, of Fergusson, Wilkes county.

THREE MEN KILLED IN DUEL IN GEORGIA TOWN.

Moultrie, Ga., April 5.—As a result of an alleged heart affair in which, it is asserted, two brothers were the "love pirates," three men were killed here, as the result of a duel staged in a room to which the brothers had been lured by the enraged husband. The dead are W. M. Logan, a Moultrie merchant, and Cleve and Jack Calhoun, brothers.

Logan started the battle, firing five shots in rapid succession. Two bullets struck Cleve Calhoun and one pierced the heart of Jack Calhoun. After being mortally wounded, Cleve Calhoun drew his revolver and fired five times. One of the bullets went true and Logan sank to the floor, dying almost instantly. The Calhoun boys staggered out of the barn, dropping dead a few feet apart. Logan nursed a grievance toward the Calhouns, because he believed they had violated the sanctity of his home; in fact, he had openly charged them with such conduct and had threatened prosecution. Cleve Calhoun had expressed fear of Logan and went to a prominent Moultrie man, asking his advice, saying that Logan and his wife had quarreled and that at her request he and his brother Jack had tried to find her a home, accompanying her at night in search of one.

A search of Logan's pocket revealed a note giving directions for his burial, and asking that his two boys be sent to the Vashti home, at Thomasville.

To Arm Merchant Steamers.

The report that England and France will put guns on all their merchant steamers is reasonable enough. Of what use is it to leave them off? They are exactly as likely to be summarily torpedoed. The German submarines, which cannot distinguish between a belligerent and a neutral vessel, are of course unable to distinguish between a vessel with guns and one without. If the unarmed merchant vessel were treated in accordance with the laws of nations and of humanity, there would be a substantial reason for keeping peaceful craft without guns. But if torpedoes are going to be fired at them in any case, they might as well carry guns, and take a crack at a submarine when they get a chance.

A Convenient Account.

With a good deal of an air, she walked up to the paying teller's window in the bank, and informed the person in charge that she was desirous of opening an account, relates the New York Post. She was directed to a window further down the line, where such matters were attended to. There she told again what she wanted:

"What is the sum you wish to deposit?" inquired the clerk.

"Oh, I don't mean that kind of an account," she replied. "I mean an account like I have at the big stores down town."

We never look up to some people until they are dead, and then we aren't absolutely certain we are looking in the right direction.

DEPUTY COLLECTORS ARE INVOLVED IN FRAUDS.

Washington, April 4.—Treasury officials said today that Carl E. Whitney, a New York lawyer, had filed charges that a number of deputy internal revenue collectors in that city are involved in the recently discovered tobacco frauds. More than 100 deputy collectors are in New York, but only a part of them are suspected of participation in frauds involving hundreds of cigar and cigarette manufacturers in which the government is believed to have lost $20,000,000 in uncollected internal revenue. Mr. Whitney made his charges to Assistant Secretary Malburn, but declined to give names of deputies involved. He is counsel for some of the cigar manufacturers and it is understood he will use his information about the deputies if his clients come to trial. Investigation is being made by John Z. Lowe, collector of New York.

According to treasury officials, Mr. Whitney charged that collectors not only have been receiving regular remittances weekly from manufacturers, but in some cases have approached manufacturers who were not evading the law and pointed out the ease with which they could escape payment of revenue duties and offered to co-operate with them to this end for small considerations weekly.

Want Women Preachers.

Norwich, Conn., April 3.—The New England Southern Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, in annual session here, went on record as favoring the licensing of women to preach. A memorial to the general conference was adopted in which it was urged that "the right of competent women to enter the pastorate be not denied. The vote was 54 to 25.

Kentucky Feud Ends in Shooting.

Benjamin Odell, 30 years old, one of the best known farmers in Logan county, Ky., was shot and instantly killed at his home Monday. Robert Allen, 50 years old, is charged with the shooting, which came, it is alleged, as a result of an old grudge that existed between the men, who were neighbors. Odell was working in the field at the time of the tragedy. Allen escaped.

ROOSEVELT RANTS AND RAVES AGAINST WILSON.

Colonel Roosevelt's utterances on the Mexican policy of President Wilson read more like the cracked and shrill ravings of an angered and eager scold than criticisms by a former president of a present president or the observations of a statesman. The colonel does not dare say where in or how his course would have been different from that of Mr. Wilson. He talks like a cheap and shifty demagogue trying to take advantage of a situation and not only ready, but anxious to pour indirect falsehood and deceit. Just now he seems to be a charlatan as tricky as Tom Lawson—which is the superlative degree. His pretensions to wisdom and high patriotism are as fallacious as his discovery of the nut-eating night hawk with whiskers.

He seems to indicate, as well as analysis of his recent interview can discover any indication, that if he had been president he would have recognized Huerta as ruler of Mexico and in the Vera Cruz matter would have permitted the seizure of our marines to go unnoticed or else would have occupied the city and country permanently. President Wilson knew that Huerta had won power by cowardly and treacherous assassination and was utterly hostile to our country and people. It has been demonstrated since that this same Huerta was ready to sell himself to the German government to annoy and afflict us. He was captured while on his way to his own country to stir war against us, to embarrass us in our dealings with the Germans. It is fortunate, perhaps, that the American people have before them now an object lesson of what the consequences would have been if we had undertaken general intervention in Mexico. We would have been engaged to this day in a war promising us no honor and no substantial rewards, not even vindication or vengeance, which would have cost us the lives of hundreds of men, probably billions of dollars and an exasperating and weakening series of campaigns. We have learned by practical illustration in our attempts to catch and punish one bandit leading some scores of ragamuffins what it would have meant to fight the entire Mexican people.

We helped Villa, as we lawfully could, while he maintained the semblance of decency and gave some hope that he would restore order and establish and maintain a stable and orderly government. This was entirely honest and wise. We are on good terms, however, with what government exists and in our recognition of it have the association and support of all the Central and South American governments.

All the people need to understand the wisdom, foresight and honesty of the president and the folly, blindness and dishonesty of the ex-president, defeated in a wild attempt to secure re-election, is to study the facts. They will contrast conditions as they are with what they would have been if Mr. Roosevelt had been at the head of our government, as far as we may judge from what he ventures to hint of his own policies and beliefs.

He rants and fumes against Mr. Wilson as viciously as he did against Mr. Taft. Fortunately, he is not in position to stab Wilson as he did Taft. He has the venom, but lacks the fangs. He cannot split the Democratic party as he did the Republican party with his circus methods, his assemblage of all the crankism and quackery of the country and his absurd performances of marching about the convention halls to the tune of "Onward, Christian Soldiers," and the cheers of "Suspender Jack."—Richmond Journal.

Imprisoned Under Debtor's Act.

The following from the Yorkville, S. C., Enquirer tells how a man may be imprisoned for debt in South Carolina:

"Roddy Reind, a well-known young man of Rock Hill, against whom Mrs. Carrie Hendricks, of Rock Hill, secured judgment in the sum of $5,000 at the November, 1915, term of the Common Pleas court, for the killing of Mrs. Hendricks' husband by Reid in an automobile accident, has been brought to jail here, where he will serve 21 days following an execution of a judgment against his person under an old assault and battery act. Judgment was filed against Mr. Reid on March 3 and was returned unsatisfied on March 14. Attorneys for the plaintiff then had Mr. Reid imprisoned under the old debtor's act. The case is the first of its kind in York county in many years. The defendant is allowed to give no bond but must serve his time. After three weeks have expired he will be taken before the proper authorities and then released from further liability in connection with the judgment."

To Fly Across Atlantic.

In a new aircraft, to be equipped with six motors of 300-horsepower each, capable of making a speed of 100 miles an hour, carrying six persons, Rodam Wanamaker will renew the attempt to fly across the Atlantic ocean which he abandoned in the summer of 1914, when his flight commander, Lieutenant John C. Porte, was called to England by the European war. It is expected the attempt will be made some time the coming summer.

Colds Quickly Relieved.

Many people cough and cough from the beginning of fall right through to spring. Others get cold after cold. Take Dr. King's New Discovery and you will get almost immediate relief. It checks your cold, stops the racking, rasping, tissue-tearing cough, heals the inflammation, soothes the raw tubes. Easy to take, antiseptic and healing. Get a 50 cent bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and keep it in the house. "It is certainly a great medicine and I keep a bottle of it continually on hand," writes W. C. Jesseman, Franconia, N. H. Money back if not satisfied, but it nearly always helps.

THE SUBMARINES ARE ASSASSINS OF THE SEA.

The secret attack, the ambush, the disguised uniform, the false flag, are all sanctioned by the laws of war when they are used against an enemy, and enemy in this case means a combatant enemy, not a mere subject of a hostile nation. They are not sanctioned when used against non-combatants. The laws of civilized warfare provide even that a combatant enemy may throw down his rifle and throw up his hands, and as soon as he abandons the role of a combatant he becomes, though on the field of battle, a non-combatant, and his life must be spared. More than that, he must be fed and sheltered as well as circumstances will permit, and treated with mercy.

But the submarines are sea assassins. It is urged in their behalf that they cannot distinguish friend from foe, a belligerent from a neutral. Very likely that is true; but all the denunciation that the commander of a submarine escapes because he can't tell a belligerent vessel from a neutral must fall upon the government that sends the submarines forth to ply the trade of sea assassins against non-combatants, and even neutrals.

The German government raised the issue that merchantmen with guns lost their pacific character and became naval auxiliaries. Well that isn't international law, and it never was; but conceding it, what does the point amount to? Instead of untying for armed merchantmen, the German submarines are taking the safer course of hunting for unarmed merchantmen, including neutral vessels. During this month a considerable number of unarmed merchant vessels belonging to England and France have been torpedoed. Besides this, out of 31 vessels sunk in a fortnight, or some such period, 10 belonged to neutral nations.

The submarine has no right to sink without warning even a British merchantman with guns. Still more repugnant to the laws of civilized warfare is it to sink British and French vessels that do not carry arms. And most abhorrent to the laws of nations and the law of humanity is it to sink without warning the merchant vessels of Denmark and Holland and Norway and the United States.

The German government has admitted that it is in violation of international law to sink without warning unarmed merchant vessels. The right to distinguish between the armed and the unarmed is not conceded by the law of nations, but is asserted by Germany. And yet the unarmed merchantmen are being attacked right and left. Has no German foreign office any influence with the German admiralty? Are neutral ships to be sunk with an board by sea assassins that frequently conceal their identity, and are, when it is convenient, disowned by the government that sends them forth to sink any vessels they find with, with or without arms, of belligerent or neutral nationality, by ways with many non-combatant on board?—Philadelphia Record.

British Troops Doing Their Job.

Reports from the western front indicate that the British troops doing a larger share than they have been given credit for. Their line has been lengthened twelve miles, or more, relieving the pressure to that extent. Probably threes far toward explaining the success of the French defense of Verdun the men and guns they were able to draw from the trenches, giving place to the British, gave the nearly strength at the critical point. It must be said that the English newspapers and officials have been very modest about this and have stated silently a good deal of claim which it now appears was unwarranted. The fact that their line been extended was revealed practically by accident, in an official announcement that British troops had been engaged in a fight twenty-five miles and where their inland flank was exposed to be.

Distilleries Waste Tons of Sh.

According to Farm and side fertilizer sharps have demanded that more than 100 tons of molasses be wasted every day in twenty-five or more distilleries that subject molasses to the process of distillation. This potash, thus wastefully, is worth at present price about $30,000. There seems to be good reason why this potash can be saved as a new source of food.

THIRTY-TWO MILLION MEN IN THE EUROPEAN WAR.

"Thirty-two million men, it is estimated, are engaged in the European war, and the end is not yet," observed Dr. S. Sargentich, of the Imperial Russian hospital at Nish, Serbia. "It is impossible to write accurately about the war, for the vastness of it is beyond human comprehension. It is sickening in its horrors. No man can last long under the strain. I spent the greater part of two years at the front and in the field hospitals. Millions of men killed, but the percentage of mortality is not so high, perhaps, as in some other wars."

"Sixty per cent of the wounded treated in the hospital at Nish where I was stationed were back in the trenches inside of a month. The courage of the soldiers of all nations engaged is wonderful. The Serbian soldiers told me that Austrians were the bravest individual fighters they encountered. They have high praise for the Germans in mass fighting, but they said the Teutons were not as good fighters individually as the Austrians."

"The world has never known a braver little army than that of Montenegro," added Dr. Sargentich. "With one-quarter million of men the Montenegrins stood off their enemies for more than a year. Montenegro has been a free nation for 500 years, and this is the first time they have been driven out of their country. They could not stand against the combined forces of Austrians, Germans, Turks and Bulgarians."—Washington Post.

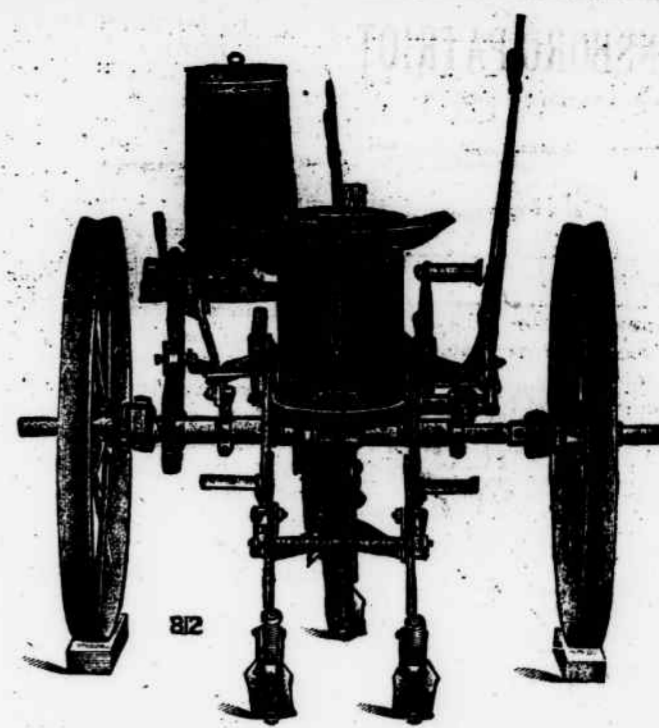

No Getting Around This.

In the fiscal year 1914 the Underwood tariff yielded a comfortable surplus, which was sufficient to meet the disbursements on the Panama canal during the year. Immediately after the close of that fiscal year the European war interrupted our foreign trade and cut off much of the customs revenue. But the government suffered less therefrom than it would had a Republican tariff been in force, because the Democrats substituted an income tax for a part of the customs duties. That was in accordance with the Democratic promises, and the soundest principles of political economy in regard to direct and indirect taxation.—Philadelphia Record.

Dangers of Draft.

Drafts feel best when we are hot and perspiring, just when they are most dangerous and the result is neuralgia, stiff neck, sore muscles or sometimes an attack of rheumatism. In such cases apply Sloan's Liniment. It stimulates circulation to the sore and painful part. The blood flows freely and in a short time the stiffness and pain leaves. Those suffering from neuralgia or neuralgic headache will find one or two applications of Sloan's Liniment will give grateful relief. The agonizing pain gives way to a tingling sensation of comfort and warmth and quiet rest and sleep is possible. Good for neuritis too. Price 25 cents at your druggist. adv.

GERMANS FEEL PINCH
OF WAR GROW HARDER.

Despite the statement of Baron Schorlemer, Prussian minister of agriculture, to the Diet, that the German crop prospects are excellent, and that, while self-denial must be practiced and hardships undergone, the Fatherland "is not faced by starvation," copies of German newspapers now reaching England indicate that the ordinary living conditions in Germany are growing more uncomfortable.

The correspondent states, on the authority of an important personage, who recently left Berlin, that the effects of the British blockade are becoming "highly irritating" to the German population, which in its rank and file, on that account, more or less unqualifiedly supports the policy of ruthless submarine warfare on England.

Not a German newspaper appears nowadays without a fresh announcement of government action for the "organization," control or regulation of this, that or the other food necessity or other vital commodity. The German people are on the ration card system everywhere for bread, butter and potatoes. They are about to be put on meat rations as well. Potsdam, the kaiser's royal residential city, has just reduced the butter ration for its inhabitants from a quarter to an eighth of a pound per week per capita.

On April 1 the government census of the national sugar supply was taken. The city of Leipzig, anticipating the introduction of sugar rations, has on its own initiative issued sugar cards entitling each person to half a pound per week. The cafes and restaurants also will be restricted in the amount of sugar they may offer to customers with individual cups of coffee or chocolate.

Coffee has not been purchasable by buyers to more than half a pound a week since March 17. On April 15 "simpler restaurant meals" will come into vogue by government order, whereby the bills-of-fare must be shrunken to the smallest proportions on record, and the customers will be allowed to consume only one item for each course.

The meat rations, the authorities warn the public, will compel radical restrictions of consumption all along the line. The authorities admit that Germany's available supply of cattle has been seriously diminished during the past year, and that more disastrous conditions can only be averted by a sweeping reduction of the consumption of meat both in public eating houses and private homes.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT AS AN AMERICAN CAESAR.

According to the latest information from Oyster Bay, the colonel has turned down Justice Hughes, of the Supreme court, as a Republican presidential possibility. Distinctly he won't do at all. Apparently he is too much like President Wilson, open-minded and fair and not inclined to push the country into war with Germany without complete justification. The colonel, as the New York Times puts it, "is now convinced that Mr. Hughes is not the man to unite the Republican and Progressive parties and conduct the campaign for these parties against Wilson on the lines outlined by Mr.
Root in his bellicose, Rooseveltian address before the Republican state convention in New York."

Under these sad circumstances the colonel, "if convinced that the country was roused to the frame of mind he has termed 'heroic,' would consider it his duty to accept a nomination at the Republican convention."
What a splendid self-sacrifice!
Only the sternest sense of duty compels the colonel to bowl out Hughes, Burton, Fairbanks, Cummins, et al.,
and take the crown himself. Sounds a bit like Julius Caesar, who could see no way in which to stop civil strife at Rome except by making himself emperor. What do the Republicans who voted for President Taft in 1912 think of this extraordinary performance?—Philadelphia Record.

WHAT TO DO WITH VILLA
IF HE IS TAKEN ALIVE.

If Villa is taken alive he may be something of a white elephant. The question will come up whether he should be handed over to General Carranza or brought back across the border and tried in this country for murder committed at Columbus.
There is no assurance that Carranza would have Villa executed. The Mexican is not only treacherous, but cunning. The de facto president might see important advantage to himself in conciliating Villa's followers by sparing the brute's life or holding him as a hostage. By the strict letter of international law, we would have no right to bring out of a foreign country a citizen of that country for crimes committed on our soil. Even if we took regular extradition proceedings, Carranza might cater to the Villa element and to the pride of the Mexican people by refusing extradition.

If Villa should be brought back here his conviction under our laws probably would be very difficult. So far as is known, no American saw him at Columbus. The attack was made in the darkness of night and of course there was much confusion and intense excitement. We would have no way of bringing into our courts the Mexicans who took part in the raid and who would be the available witnesses.

The best that possibly could happen would be to have Villa brought back to this country, convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. It is easy to realize that alive he might be of much use to us at some time in the future. Locked in a penitentiary, he would be powerless to do harm and the very sparing of his life in face of the intense provocation he has given us might soften the feeling of his countrymen toward us and would tend to win for us the good will and confidence of the other Latin-Americans. It would be an example of high civilization we could well afford to give. After a few years of helpless captivity Villa himself might be so chastened as to do valuable service in upholding and strengthening any government that may be established in Mexico and in winning friendship there for us.

The chances are, however, that if any of our soldiers get in gunshot of him all possible problems and doubts will be settled inside of a minute. Nobody could object if his body was brought across the border for identification. Killed in a battle or in flight, he would be a satisfactory exhibit of the length and strength of Uncle Sam's arm and demonstration of the danger of taking too many liberties with the patient American.

MEAT PACKERS BIGGER
THIEVES THAN JAMES GANG.

Washington, April 4.—A former Kansas governor, W. R. Stubbs, and a former Missouri judge, W. H. Wallace, who said they had learned by raising cattle themselves that meat packers by price fixing combinations were crushing live stock growers, pleaded with a house judiciary subcommittee today to aid in inaugurating sweeping reforms in the packing industry. They appeared as counsel for Western growers and feeders.

They endorsed the Borland resolution now before the sub-committee which would order a federal trade commission investigation to determine whether packers are violating the anti-trust laws, and suggested more stringent laws prohibiting restraint of trade in foodstuffs generally.

"Forty per cent of the feed lots in this country are empty because of present market conditions," declared Mr. Stubbs. "Nearly every stock man that I know believes there is a packers' trust."

Mr. Wallace, who prosecuted the James train robbers, heatedly denounced the alleged packing combination.

"We are after a worse crowd now than the James boys," he declared.
"These fellows steal more money in a week than the James boys did in their whole career."

By affidavit and testimony as to his personal experiences, the judge sought to prove that combinations had existed among packers in the Kansas City yard within the last few years. He submitted an affidavit from a former stockyard employee declaring that Kansas City and Chicago packing houses were in constant communication regarding proposed purchases from speculators. Earl Cooper, in an affidavit, declared that before the packers came into possession of the Kansas City yards he used to visit the yards at night and supply them with information as to the number of live stock on hand prior to the opening of the market.

On one occasion, the judge asserted, he received only one bid on a bunch of cattle at the Kansas City yards and learned later they were divided between two packing concerns.

MUNITIONS AND
PLANT FOR THIS STATE.

Sanford, April 4.—R. P. Gibson, of Rocky Mount, returned to Sanford this morning after a visit to the North, and brought with him a surveyor, who is engaged in locating the site for the factory buildings that are to be erected at Cummock, six miles above Sanford, by the National Dye and Munitions Company for the manufacture of explosives, shells, cartridges, and munitions of all sorts, as well as dyes of various kinds.

As soon as brick and lumber can be landed on the ground, a force of hands will start on the first five buildings, 50 by 180 feet, two stories high. Mr. Gibson expects that next week will see an active crew of hands busily engaged in making things hum.

Company Mr. Gibson represents is composed of men of ample means, and he comes here with a credit rating that appears to establish his position, although he declines to go into details as to who are the men behind him. He is negotiating a deal for three thousand acres of the property of the Cum-mock mining property, and as the price is agreed on, and everything satisfactory, it looks as though this big tract of land will pass to the new concern.

He says that his company will probably invest ten million dollars in the ventures they are starting here, and that eight thousand men, and possibly nearly double that number, will be employed within the next twelve to eighteen months. The company is said to have a contract for its products for the next ten years.

Mr. Gibson says Sanford will have trebled its present population within a year, and that from Cummock all the way to Sanford will be the scene of active business life. The company does not want to build many houses, preferring that the employees procure lots and build homes for themselves. But it will encourage its hands, as far as is necessary, and will start by engaging only such men as are fit to build up a reputable community.

C. M. Reeves, of Sanford, who is looking after the affairs of the old landowners, is arranging to transfer the coal acreage to the new corporation, which is to provide them with the material from which the coal-tar used in the production of aniline dyes will be made, and is assembling the several tracts that are in negotiation. He speaks with a great deal of enthusiasm of the prospects, and is confident that Lee county has reached a new era of industrial prosperity. It is needless to say that Sanford is pretty well worked up over the situation.

Turkey's Appeal For Help.

In view of Turkey's appeal for help on the ground that half a million of her people are starving, it is a little difficult to see how Germany's alliance with that impoverished country is going to prove of any value in providing food for the kaiser's subjects. Both Turkey and Bulgaria are notoriously poor countries, barely self-sustaining in the products of their soil, and in the end they are likely to be much more of a drain upon Germany than of help to her.

Friends are the thermometers by which we may judge the temperature of our fortunes.

IN MEMORIAM.

Mrs. Aditha Lawrence.

Mrs. Aditha Martin Lawrence, wife of Alexander Lawrence, was born June, 1829, and died at her home in Summerfield March 22, 1914, aged about 87 years. "Grandmother Lawrence," as she was called by many, was ill for several months and gradually grew worse until the end came. She bore her suffering with great patience; never once did she murmur or complain. She fully realized her condition and often spoke of death as any sainted mother would do. She was ready and willing to go; her only regret was that of leaving her loved ones.

Grandmother Lawrence was the mother of ten children, three of whom preceded her to the grave, her husband having died about 25 years ago. The ones left to mourn their loss are as follows: Miss Emma Lawrence, Mrs. Vora Ladd and Mrs. Henry Brown, of Summerfield; Mrs. John Walker, of Reidsville; Mrs. Ella Bennett, of Stokesdale; Mr. E. M. Lawrence, of Dallas, Tex.; J. M. Lawrence, of San Francisco, Cal. She had 16 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. She had been a member of the Primitive Baptist church at Scalesville since she was young, and for 40 years she had kept the sacramental service in her house and she had all that time furnished the bread and wine for that purpose.

Grandmother Lawrence was a devoted wife, a loving mother and a good neighbor. She was never too tired or busy with her household duties to go and minister to her sick neighbors. She was always ready and glad to help those who were in distress.

Her remains were carried to Scalesville, to the old burying ground of the Baptist church, which she loved so well and where she so faithfully attended, and there tenderly laid to sleep the dreamless sleep of death in the solitude of those grand old oaks near the home of her young days.

All who knew Grandmother Lawrence loved her and were aware of her deep spirituality and her joyful and abiding trust in her Redeemer. We can say for her: "I have fought a good fight; I have finished my course; I have kept the faith."

Vannie Baldwin.

Our Savior, while collecting His jewels, visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alec Baldwin on the 12th of March, 1914, and claimed for His own their little daughter, Vannie, aged eight years and nine months. Not only will little Vannie be missed in the home and by the little school-mates, who loved her dearly, but also by a circle of friends which she had won by her sweet, gentle and loving disposition.

Deep sympathy is felt for the parents and sisters. Nothing but the grace of our Savior will sustain in an hour like this, but His grace is sufficient. When we think of the newly-made mound in the churchyard, we feel that the body that lies buried there is only the casket that once contained the jewel, and dear little Vannie has been taken home to enjoy what eye hath not seen nor ear heard nor entered the heart of man the things that God hath prepared for them that love Him.

England's Purchase of Camels.

Lucknow was thrilled once by the sound of "The Campbells are Coming." What particular seat of war is to be thrilled by the news that the camels are coming? England has 50,000 of them in one corral in Egypt, and is still buying thousands a day. The gentle censor allows the acquisition of the beasts to be chronicled, but of course he would not permit any hint of their destination to get past him.

Robert W. Gardner, of Hartwick, N. Y., has worked as a blacksmith at the same forge for fifty-four years. He started in as an apprentice pumping the bellows, and has stuck to the forge ever since.

Searching For Missing Daughter.

Durham, April 3.—Durham police and the Salvation Army are searching for an 18-year-old girl who mysteriously disappeared from Oxford, September 13, 1915, according to a letter received from her mother, Mrs. E. P. Jeffreys. Mrs. Jeffreys also communicated with a wealthy manufacturer of this city, thinking that her daughter might be employed in his mill. The manufacturer is said to have offered a reward for information leading to her recovery.

Mrs. Jeffreys says her daughter left the Oxford high school, where she was a member of the senior class, and has not been heard of since.

Mrs. Jeffreys says she has three little children who need her attention and keep her from making a personal investigation.

What Farmers Need Most.

"Speaking with the public in mind," says Farm and Fireside, "and with the experience and training of the specialists of the department back of him, Mr. Vrooman, assistant secretary of agriculture, says that 'what the farmers need most is to know how to make the science of agriculture boost the business of farming.'"

IF YOU WANT

one of the very best Corn Planters money will buy, then you should see the Genuine "Daisy" Planter, the cut of which is shown here. Without a doubt, the "Daisy" Planter is the satisfactory one for this part of the country. It is very simple, strongly made, light draft, easy to manage and inexpensive to keep in repair. The "Daisy" drops one or two grains of corn, drops from 11 to 48 inches apart, and you can see EVERY GRAIN as it drops—no guess work about it—it sows from 20 to 1200 pounds of fertilizer per acre, sows any and all kinds too, sows any fertilizer that any other planter will sow and some kinds that some other makes WILL NOT. There are probably more "Daisy" corn planters in use in this county during seeding time than any other make ever sold on this market—there is a reason, and a good one too for this. We want you to let us show you the Genuine "Daisy" corn planter and explain its many good features, and we feel sure you'll agree that your money can buy no better.

A REVOLUTIONARY HERO'S WILD RIDE.

Winston-Salem Journal.

The celebrated ride of Paul Revere in New England during the Revolutionary war has its counterpart in the famous ride of Jesse Franklin, a daring young North Carolina boy, whose ride while not so highly praised in poetry and history was nevertheless noteworthy and showing the deep spirit of patriotism that animated the Americans of that early period.

The fact that his feat is unknown is due solely to the fact that Southerners and North Carolinians have been backward in preserving their history. Indeed, from the manner in which much Southern history has been allowed to go unrecorded is due more, perhaps, to the thought on the part of Southern people that deeds of valor and heroism were simple matters of duty of everyday life, rather than to a tendency to let patriotic events pass without some semblance of appreciation.

The story of the ride of young Jesse Franklin was told to a Journal representative by Hon. C. B. Watson, who, perhaps, knows more of the traditional and intimate history of this section of North Carolina than any other living man. Indeed, it is very probable that he is the only living man who has heard the story direct from the lips of the late Judge Graves, of Surry county, who was a direct descendant of the hero of the story. Mr. Watson's story as told him by Judge Graves follows:

"During the Revolutionary war, Ben Cleveland was colonel of the militia in Wilkes county. He was one of the heroes of King's Mountain. He was engaged, too, in fighting the Indians and Tories at different times, and when General Greene retreated through North Carolina, followed by Lord Cornwallis.

While crossing the line, he made up his mind to come back into North Carolina and meet Cornwallis and fight him. He sent a messenger to Wilkesboro to Col. Cleveland, whose home was near Wilkesboro, to tell him what day he wanted Cleveland to meet Greene at the old Troublesome Iron Works, out from Guilford courthouse, where Greene was going to camp while mustering militia.

The day before Cleveland received the message from Gen. Greene, he received a message telling him that the Indians were preparing for a raid into North Carolina and he sent a portion of his regiment to meet him.

Jesse Franklin was a young man and a nephew of Col. Cleveland. The next morning, Cleveland dispatched Franklin to Gen. Greene to tell him about the Indian raid, and that while he couldn't send him his entire force, he would bring his available troops to aid him.

Young Franklin was to start on his ride direct to Salem, a distance of 75 miles. Col. Cleveland told him to go to the home of Mr. Bagge, then a very wealthy German living in Salem. Franklin was to arrive in Salem that night. He was to go into the home of Bagge the back way, and make known to him that he was a courier to Gen. Greene from Col. Cleveland. Franklin was told that Bagge was a very careful man, but that he would help him.

Young Franklin arrived at the home of Bagge early in the night, hitched his horse in the shed at the rear of the house, and knocked at a door at the rear. Mr. Bagge came to the door, candle in hand, and asked him what he wanted. Franklin told him that he was bringing a dispatch to Gen. Greene from Col. Cleveland, and asked him to give him something to eat and lead him a fresh horse.

Bagge replied: "Young man, I can do no better," but turning, he showed him a little dining room, placed the candle on the table and said: "Now look in the safe and you will find plenty of cold victuals. I'll help yourself. I can't help it." He then handed Franklin the key to the stable and said: "If, tomorrow morning, I find your horse jaded in the stable and my horse gone, I can't help it."

Franklin mounted the horse and the next morning as the sun rose, he delivered Col. Cleveland's message to Gen. Greene at the old Troublesome Iron Works, a forty-mile ride.

Franklin remained for the battle of Guilford court house. Later, he was governor of North Carolina and later, a United States senator. He was also honored in other ways.

Volunteer Road.

Mr. Watson spoke of the mystery surrounding the name of the Volunteer road in Stokes county. He declared that he had questioned the oldest inhabitants of Stokes county to ascertain how the road got its name, but none of them knew. However, it is known far and wide as the Volunteer road.

Mr. Watson is of the opinion that the road was used by the militiamen in assembling during the Revolutionary war. He thinks that it would have been necessary to have cut a road in order to allow the militiamen in that section of the state to gather quickly, and in fact that many men gathered was shown by the fact that Cleveland had 700 militiamen. It is also thought that many recruits from the bordering Virginia counties used the road.

Mr. Watson called attention to the baggage road at Guilford court house which Gen. Greene had cut so he could move his baggage. He also declared that during the Civil war, roads frequently were cut to transport baggage and guns or to hide some movement of the army.

A Poetic Version.

The following splendid poetical version of the story as told by Mr. Watson was written by Miss Marguerite Fries:

Part I.
Young Franklin stood with Colonial pride,

A regal figure, a manly stride;
A flashing eye like a glint of steel,
And he made his word good. He made you feel

A confidence in him. He rode like the wind.

On as sprightly a horse as any could find.

General Cleveland summoned him one fine day.

Saying: "Franklin, I'm going to send you away."

'Tis one hundred miles this letter must go.

It must be delivered tomorrow, too. It must be given to General Greene.

Not later than sun up." "Yes, Sir," and then

He turned and mounted his stallion true.

And many a village he galloped through.

On, on, he pushed, no time for fear.

As mad as the ride of Paul Revere.

At noon a few scanty minutes for rest.

Then on, madly on, he rapidly pressed.

The hours flew and the mile posts, too.

Dimmer the rays of sunset grew.

Rough was the road, and chilled was the air.

Solitude, darkness, everywhere.

Slower and slower the hoof beat grew.

Lower and lower the head drooped, too.

'Twas as far as that noble steed could run.

Thirty miles to go ere the rise of the sun.

As courage lagged and grave fears awoke

A village appeared. What a lucky stroke!

Part II.
Awake! Awake! Ye little band,

Ye peaceful people of Salem land.

A tired lad at a back door knocks.

Tired from head to his very socks.

Friend Bagge awakened by the awful crash

Puts on his clothes, throws up the sash.

"What want ye here at this time of night?"

Who are ye, man, and where's your light?"

"Jesse Franklin's my name and do you know

My message from Cleveland to Greene must go.

I must hurry on and without delay

Put this in his hands ere break of day.

My horse is jaded, he's a gallant steed

Made seventy miles at a good, brisk speed.

Sir, give me to eat, and a fresher mount

And a draught of water from the fount."

"Young man," says Bagge, "I see your need

I'd love to help, but our village creed

Is neutral, sir, and no help I'll give.

But youth is rash and a man must live.

Our supper still sits on the kitchen board.

The water you'll find at the well, and a gourd.

If ye help yourself to whatever ye see

Ye'll not be hindered any by me;

And tomorrow morn, if your jaded nag

In my stable stands in the place of 'Rags'

No questions, sir, will be put to you

So good-night, Jesse Franklin and God bless you."

Negro Hanged From Court House Balcony.

Idabel, Okla., April 2.—After listening to evidence at the preliminary hearing here today of Oscar Martin, a negro charged with having attacked a thirteen-year-old girl, a mob of several hundred men overpowered court attaches and hanged the negro from a second story balcony of the court house.

At a prearranged signal the mob sprang up from among the spectators at the conclusion of the evidence. While court officials were held prisoners the negro was dragged to the balcony, from which he was thrown after one end of a rope had been placed around his neck and the other made secure to a post.

The mob dispersed within a few minutes and no further disorder is anticipated.

Facts are stubborn things. Even theories won't always do as they are told.

The fellow who is hauled over the coals can't complain of cold treatment.

Even he who fights and runs away may have footprints in the sands of time.

You never can tell. Many a man is really polished who looks rather rusty.

The man who is prepared for the worst generally expects to get the best of it.

The man who is obliged to pocket his pride shouldn't kick if his trousers get bulgy.

Some people are so close-fisted that they even hesitate to give the devil his due.

It is one thing to put a man in his place, but quite another matter to make him fit.

When the bank informs a man he has no balance, he is naturally upset about it.

There is a happy medium between patting yourself on the back and kicking yourself.

Nothing is impossible. A man may even live up to his wife's expectations of him.

If he can't have the penny and the cake too, the average man prefers to take the cake.

An army travels on its stomach, so thrice armed is he who is armed with a meal ticket.

You never can tell. Many a man shoulders more self esteem than he can get away with.

If every man has his price, a fellow naturally feels cheap when he gives himself away.

All the world's a stage, and the moving-picture epidemic proves that the world do move.

The world is full of people who are eager to help us out when we don't need any assistance.

There is difference between being a prominent man and one who is too prominent for his own good.

No, Maude, dear; a young man doesn't have to go to an agricultural college to become a rooster.

You can't always tell from the size of the family Bible how much religion there is in the family.

We can get used to anything. The jailer, for instance, doesn't suffer from having a felon on his hands.

The temperance movement is all right, but even watered stock has been known to take a drop too much.

The girl who doesn't know enough to come in out of the rain should wear one of those waterproof complexion.

It is human nature to send flowers to the funeral of a man who never had and bouquets thrown at him when he was alive.

When a man boasts that he hasn't an enemy in the world, you can generally assume that he has never done anything worth while.

Horse-Expert Situation.

Farm and Fireside tells us that an impressive testimony to the bigness of American live-stock interests was afforded recently. A London dispatch stated that Great Britain alone had bought $60,000,000 worth of horses and mules in America since the war started. Just about the same day the agricultural department declared that, notwithstanding the unprecedented sales abroad, there were just as many horses and mules in the country as when the war started.

All the European countries are taking measures to keep their supply of horses. Various plans to encourage breeding, restore racing to favor, give prizes for good animals, purchase good stallions with public funds and permit them to be used by private breeders, and the like, are being organized in England and France. The horse question is going to be one of Europe's hardest after the war.

Art For Art's Sake.

Left a wealthy widow, Mrs. Jones thought she'd like to enter society. So, for a start, she looked around for a furnished house in Commonwealth avenue, Boston.

At last she found one which seemed very suitable. After inspecting it thoroughly, the owner led her back to the drawing room. Then the good woman's eye fell suddenly on a beautifully tinted picture of the "Madonna," a copy of a famous painting. Opposite this hung another copy of Gainsborough's "Duchess of Devonshire."

Her lips set firmly.

"I like the house well enough," she announced. "But if I take it I shall expect you to remove these family portraits."

What M. G. Newell Co. of Greensboro

have to say about cream separators this week

REMEMBER that a cream separator has to be used 730 times every year. If it runs hard, or isn't easy to wash, or doesn't skim clean, it is a constant annoyance and bother.

No machine or implement on the farm receives such constant use and there is no other machine on the farm where quality of work means so much and first cost means so little.

A little less of cream with a cream separator multiplied 730 times, soon runs into money. It's too big a handicap for any cow owner to try to work under. Creaming is the only way to get the most from the milk, and the De Laval is the only machine they could afford to use. That's why 98 per cent of the cream separators used in creameries the world over are De Laval's.

You will find the biggest and best dairymen almost invariably use De Laval's.

Experience has taught them that it is the most economical. You can't afford to take any chances with your cream separator, and we know that if you will come to us and let us put in a De Laval for you, 730 times a year, you will be sure to get the most from your milk.

"I made a good investment," thought De Laval.

Sooner or later you will buy a DE LAVAL

SUBSCRIPTION CLUBS FOR PATRIOT READERS

BEST AND MOST ATTRACTIVE OFFERS EVER MADE BY A NORTH CAROLINA PAPER
—EVERY ONE A BARGAIN.

After the expenditure of considerable time and effort, we have succeeded in arranging for readers of The Patriot the most attractive list of clubbing offers we have ever seen advertised in a North Carolina paper. Every one of the offers is a genuine bargain, and the publications that make up the different clubs cover such a wide range that the most exacting reader cannot fail to be satisfied.

Owing to the extremely low rates at which they are offered, only one club can be allowed with a year's subscription to The Patriot at the advertised price.

The publishers with whom we have made clubbing arrangements do not guarantee the low rates quoted for any specified length of time, and therefore are at liberty to withdraw them at their pleasure. We would suggest that you make your selection and send us your order without delay.

If your subscription to The Patriot or any publication named in a club is paid for a considerable period in advance, it will be extended for a full year upon receipt of your remittance for a club subscription.

EDUCATOR WORKED AS A MENIAL FOR THREE YEARS.

A press dispatch from Colorado Springs, Col., says:
Cecil F. Lavell, a former professor at Ohio State University, at Columbus, O., who disappeared in 1913, and who last night admitted his identity to the local police, prepared today to meet his wife, who is on the way here from Toronto, Can.

After admitting his identity Lavell asserted that he had been a victim of amnesia. He was recognized through a photograph in a police publication. Lavell has been working as a dish washer in hotels here for more than a year, during which time he says he has been experimenting with his mind to regain complete memory. At present, he says, he has recovered his mental faculties with the exception that he remembers nothing of having a wife.

Shortly before November 24, 1913, when he was at Columbus, he said, he suffered the attack of amnesia. On that date he found himself on a train bound for Detroit, where he learned from a newspaper man that he was reported drowned at Hamilton, Ont. At Detroit he bought a complete outfit of clothes and started to walk across the country, but gave this up because of the physical strain. After experiences in many middle west cities he came to Colorado Springs and accepted the first job he could get.

"My mind gradually revealed parts of my past," he said. "Through fear that I might be captured and confined in a sanitarium, I decided to change my name to O'Brien and remain unknown, in the hope that my mind would become normal again. My sole object in not communicating with friends is due to the fear that I would be regarded as a mental invalid. My sole wish is that I may be allowed to continue as Cecil O'Brien and work out my own salvation. I have nothing to hide, but I do not wish my former associates and friends to see me until I have fully recovered."

Lavell formerly was a member of faculties of Columbia University, Trinity College, at Hartford, Conn.; Bates College, at Lewiston, Me., and was dean of Kings College, Kingston, Can. He says he is 44 years old.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK CONTINUES FAVORABLE.

The lack of speculation at a time when business is of enormous volume is attracting attention, and is increasing confidence in the future. Week after week the trade papers have noted that the constantly rising prices were not checking the demand. Buyers seemed determined to get what they wanted without regard to price. In such buying, of course, there was a good deal of the speculative spirit, even though the buying were by consumers and for their own use. But at last buyers are beginning to moderate their demands. They are paying a little more attention to prices. They are not quite so sure that it does not matter what they pay. There is no indication of timidity anywhere, but a good deal of the feeling that prices have gone about as high as buyers can afford to pay.

The trade statistics continue with little change. Bank clearings last week went off a little, but they are still well above four billions. For half a year, now, they have been running over four billions, dropping below that only two or three times, and averaging not far from four and a half billions. Railroads gross earnings are pretty constantly about 20 per cent in excess of a year ago.

Exports are bigger than ever. February's exports were greater than those of any previous month in our history. The huge aggregate of values is in part due to the present high level of prices. Of course, the most conspicuous element in the exports is the need of belligerent nations for munitions, food and other war supplies. But it is not this alone that swells the exports. Exports to South America are twice as great as a year ago, and there are increases in our shipments to India, Australia, Africa and Cuba. The shipments to Canada are a little larger than they were three years ago.

With very rare exceptions, mills, shops and factories are crowded with orders, and many of them running overtime. The domestic demand is putting a heavy strain upon all productive enterprises; the foreign trade is not of primary importance now. Everywhere are evidences of the increased buying power of the people.—Philadelphia Record.

Avery Mr. Bill Planter

With it one man and two horses can plant eight to ten acres a day, do it right and feel good at night. The front bull tongue blade goes in the ground six inches deeper than the ground was plowed, which makes good seed bed and lets moisture under the crop during dry seasons.

The fertilizer is thoroughly stirred into the soil before the corn is dropped. Both fertilizer and corn is in plain view of the operator. Can plant below a level and cover shallow as may desire. Furnished this season with extra high, strong wheels, and more varied adjustments in every way. Can be used as a subsoiler and there is none better.

Let us show you Mr. Bill and at the same time see his sister which, is the latest in a riding cultivator—"The Joy Rider".

WHY FARMERS SHOULD PATRONIZE THE BANKS.

It's not the only remedy needed, of course, but we have no doubt in the world of the wisdom of the advice just given by the Virginia State Farmers' Union—namely, that "farmers should put themselves on the same footing as other business men" in dealing with banks. The idea is that if farmers will deposit all the money they get and follow the business man's rule of paying all bills by check it will be easier for the farmers to borrow money when needed as other business men do. In other words, banks, like other business houses, are disposed to look after their acquaintances, friends, patrons, and customers, and the farmer needs to put himself in this class. If the average town business man kept his money at home or in his safe when he had a little surplus and never went to a bank except to borrow, he would stand mighty little chance of borrowing at all. And if he lacked such help and had to pay "time prices" to borrow from loan sharks, he would soon go into bankruptcy.

Consequently, Mr. Town Business Man puts every cent he gets in the bank, and though he may never have a balance worth mentioning, yet the bank knows him. We believe the Virginia Union is wise in urging farmers to "get on the same business footing."—Progressive Farmer.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF FORM

MATTERS OF INTEREST TO THE READERS OF THE PATRIOT FAR AND NEAR.

New Clerk.—Mr. Clarence Lambeth, of Brown Summit, has been added to the clerical force in the office of Register of Deeds Rankin.

To Speak in Charlotte.—Mr. A. W. McAllister went to Charlotte today to make an address tonight at the opening session of a training school for Sunday school workers that has been organized in that city.

Named as Delegate.—Governor Craig has named Mr. A. W. McAllister as one of the delegates to represent North Carolina at the Southern Sociological Congress, which will be held in New Orleans April 12-16.

Closing Exercises.—The closing exercises of the South Buffalo school will be held Monday, May 1, when a varied program will be rendered by the pupils. Dr. W. W. Peele, of the faculty of Trinity College, Durham, will deliver an address at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Folger-Sharpe.—Mr. Clark M. Folger, who formerly resided in this city, and Miss Emma Elizabeth Sharpe, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Sharpe, were married in Los Angeles, Cal., on Wednesday, March 29. Miss Sharpe had recently located in Los Angeles as a trained nurse. Mr. and Mrs. Folger will make their home in San Francisco.

More School Money.—Guilford county receives $10,855.50 as its share of the equalizing fund of the state board of education, which was apportioned yesterday. The total amount of the fund, which is designed to bring the minimum school term up to 100.5 days, is $447,940.45. Guilford's share is equivalent to adding 14.9 days to the school term in this county.

Present Flag and Bible.—In connection with the closing exercises of the Winding Hill school today, a copy of the Bible and a United States flag will be presented to the school by the Stokesdale council of the Jr. U. A. M. The speech of presentation will be made by Mr. Thomas J. Murphy, mayor of Greensboro, and the acceptance will be by County Superintendent Foust.

Farmers' Union Meeting.—The Patriot is requested to again call attention to the meeting of the Guilford County Farmers' Union to be held in the court house Saturday. It is especially desired that all those who have been recommended for appointment as sub or township meat inspectors be present to receive instructions. All local unions in the county are expected to be represented in the meeting.

Abel H. York Dead.—Mr. Abel H. York, a well known citizen of Ramseur, died Tuesday morning. He had been in feeble health for quite a while, having suffered a stroke of paralysis about two years ago and a second stroke last Friday. He was 77 years of age and is survived by two sons—Charles C. York, of Greensboro, and John D. York, of Ramseur. The body was brought to this city yesterday morning and carried to Hickory Grove church for the funeral and interment.

Want an Underpass.—The city commissioners have decided to take steps at once looking to the building of an underpass under the tracks of the Southern Railway at Davis street. About a dozen tracks cross the street at this point and it is felt that the safety of the public demands that the grade crossing be done away with. The matter is to be taken up with the officials of the Southern, and if they will not agree to the building of the underpass, the city probably will take legal steps to have the work done at the expense of the railroad.

The Deadly Auto in New York.

New York, April 4.—Twenty-two persons were killed by automobiles in New York streets in March, according to a report made public today by the National Highway Protective Society. Nine of them were under 17 years old. Six persons were killed by trolleys and one by wagon.

During the first quarter of the year 85 persons were killed by vehicles, 58 by automobiles, 16 by trolleys and 11 by wagons. Of the total number killed 33 were children.

For Attorney General.

Judge James S. Manning, of Raleigh, ex-Governor Kitchin's law partner and a former associate justice of the Supreme court, has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for attorney general. Judge Frank Carter, of Asheville, who was the first to formally announce his candidacy for this nomination, has withdrawn from the race out of deference to his friendship for and obligation to Judge Manning.

There is no sacrifice so great that a king won't permit his loyal subjects to make it.

A Peculiar Well in Florida.

In their investigation of the wells and underground waters of Florida, the geologists of the United States geological survey have noted many interesting things. Among these is a well at Welaka, on St. Johns river, from which two kinds of water are obtained.

This well is 309 feet deep. The length of the casing is 110 feet. The well was first drilled to 160 feet, and from this depth ordinary "sulphur" water was obtained. The drill was then carried to a depth of 309 feet, where it encountered a strong mineral water, having a disagreeable, salty taste. In order to use both kinds of water an inner tubing was run nearly to the bottom of the well. Both this and the outer casing were connected with pumps, so that ordinary water and mineral water can be pumped at the same time. A favorite joke played on visitors is to give them a drink of the weaker water in the first glass and to replace it with the brine in the second.

Not more than half a dozen wells of this kind are known in the country, but there is no reason why similar wells can not be obtained in regions where the waters in the upper strata differ from those lying deeper.

Snakes Walk on Their Ribs.

Have you ever wondered how a snake runs without any legs? The snake's legs have been a source of myths and mysterious tales since ancient times. There is an old story, which some persons still believe, that if you throw a snake into a fire it will show its legs. The story, of course, is purely a myth, for the very good reason that snakes have no legs. Strictly speaking, they walk on their ribs.

A snake's ribs are jointed at the backbone, and extended down over each side of the body. The ends are connected with plates on the under side of the snake. These plates have projecting edges, which take hold of the surface of objects beneath the reptile. When the snake moves his ribs, therefore, he can move forward just as readily and as swiftly as though he had a thousand legs.

Perhaps you have tried the experiment of putting a snake on a smooth plate of glass and watching its vain attempts to run. The reason that the snake cannot move is because the projecting edges of these plates can find nothing to take hold of on the smooth surface.

Maine coast lobster fishermen have discovered that the lobster enters a lobster trap through the sense of sight and not through smelling the bait, and are now baiting the traps with fresh fish sealed in glass jars.

THE SNIPES GANG NOW SEEKING A COMPROMISE.

Counsel for W. F. Snipes and sons, Jim and Charlie, who were recently convicted on two counts in the Federal court in Greensboro following the indictment at the Snipes' place near Kernersville last fall, when Deputy Marshal Neelley and Special Officer Johnson were forced to leave the place at the point of guns and an alleged attempt to bribe Mr. Neelley, have made a proposition in Judge Boyd to compromise the judgment in the case. Judge Boyd is understood not to have favored the offer, but has continued his decision until April 15.

Jim Snipes, it is understood, will circulate a petition and present affidavits showing that he was not implicated in the affair in Rockingham recently, when W. F. Snipes and Charlie Snipes were arrested in Stoneville with an automobile containing about 100 gallons of liquor. He will ask that his part of the affair near Kernersville be settled with a fine, and expect to show that it is the first trouble in which he has appeared.—Winston-Salem Journal.
