SGA Candidate Shortage Disturbs Legislature

The scarcity of Student Government office candidates and the Senior Car Bill became major issues at the last Legislature meeting held March 18.

Deadline was an hour before the Legislature meeting for the self-nominations submitted by students hoping to hold an SGA office.

According to a report given by Peggy Hinson, chairman of Elections Board, the four major SGA offices of vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and Judicial Board chairman were uncontested. No nominations were received for position of National Student Association Co-ordinator. The office of president of Inter-Faith was unopposed. Only eleven sophomores were running for Junior House Presidencies.

Miss Hinson's announcement brought an outburst of comments from legislators concerned about the apparent lack of interest in Student Government. They pointed out the value of holding an office and also the undesirability of holding an unopposed office. The student responsibility argument was enumerated also.

A motion to extend the nomination deadline was accepted. Riding with the bill was a stipulation that a house meeting be called in all dormitories that night to notify the student body of the elections situation and to urge hesitant individuals to run for offices.

The Senior Car Bill was passed with little objection.

A Rules Committee report was heard and several rule clarifications were accepted.

CAROL CARSON

Candidate Carol Carson Seeks Position Of Veep

Carol Carson, candidate for the office of Vice-President of SGA is this year's House President in Jamieson dorm. During her freshman year, Carol was President of her class, Freshman Class Elections chairman and a representative to Legislature. Her freshman and sophomore years, she was a member of the Consolidated University Council and Dolphin-Seal. Carol is also a member of the Health Liasion Committee.

The following statements express Carol's beliefs on the office which she seeks:

"Our Student Government is the most valuable of all the things here on our campus. It is the ONE organization at Woman's College which claims the membership of every student and in which each student has an equal responsibility and equal rights."

Legislature is a vital part of student government, and I believe that ONLY through the student's opinions voiced in legislature will our Student Government function to its fullest capacity. There are many organizations on our campus for which there are specific membership qualifications. These qualifications are based on different things—scholastic achievement, a major field of study, religion, year in school, or what have you. Legislature, however, is open to the members of the Student Government Association at large. True, there are dorm representatives and ex-officio members; but anyone may attend and join in the discussion at any time. . . . More of this I would like to see . . .

Many people often compare our student government to that of other schools asking always the same question "They do such-and-such, why can't we?" What would be more appropriate for a comparison than a simple flower? Like

MARGERY DAVIS

Margery Davis Lists Her Aims For Veep

Margery Davis, Secretary of SGA is seeking the office of vice-president of SGA in the coming elections. Miss Davis was a member of the Freshman Commission her freshman year and a member of Honor Board and CU Council her sophomore year.

In speaking of student government Margery states:

"A statement in our handbook reads: The Student Government Association is the organization by means of which the students govern themselves. The success of the organization depends upon the students themselves for they are student government."

The Legislative branch of our Student Government Association is the branch through which the students gain the greatest opportunity for governing themselves; therefore it is in this branch of our Student Government that the students—all the students—should be most active. As a candidate for the office of Vice-president of student government, I feel that:

1. All students should be made aware of their right to attend Legislature meetings and to voice their opinions.

2. Students should be encouraged to bring suggestions for governing the campus to Legislature in the form of a motion or a resolution, or they should ask their legislators to bring the proposal for them.

3. The Legislature agenda should be posted in all dormitories, so that the students would be more aware of the matters under discussion at Legislature.

4. The Legislature should be used as a channel through which the members of the student body express their opinion on matters of concern to them.

5. As the chairman of Legisla-

WC, UNC Joint Concert To Be Presented Sunday

The Woman's College Choir and the Men's Glee Club of the University of North Carolina will present a joint concert Sunday at 4:00 p.m. in Aycock Auditorium under the supervision of Dr. Robert Morris, director of the W.C. Choir; and Dr. Joel Carter, director of the Glee Club. The program will be presented again Sunday night in Chapel Hill.

Each of the choral organizations will present a separate group before performing together. The Woman's College Choir will sing "O Lord My God, Forgive Thou Me," by Bach; two choruses by Brahms; "How Should I Love?" by Richard Donovan; and "Bread Baking" by Bela Bartok. The Bach selection will be accompanied by Joyce Boone at the piano, Martha Jane Gilreath and Frank Starbuck on continuo. Soloists in the Brahms will be Jo Anne Weber, Jo Ann Curlee, Janet Stauffer and Jean Wall Penland.

The University of North Carolina Glee Club will sing "O Brother Man" by Charles Talmadge; "Sometimes I Feel Like a Motherless Child" arranged by Heath; "Two Sea Chanteys" arranged by Rowles; "Lullaby" arranged by Campbell; "Rustics and Fishermen" by Benjamin Britten; "Who Shall Speak for the People?" by Kurka; and "Drinking Song" by Vaughan Williams. Soloists are Anthony Lampron, tenor; Kenneth James and Richard Gerish, baritones. Accompanist is R. V. Fulk.

The Choir and Glee Club will join to sing the "Mass in Honor of Saint Sebastian" by Heitor Villa-Lobos, under the direction of Dr. Morris. This work, composed for three equal voices, may be performed by all women's, boys', or men's voices, or by doubling any of these combinations. The choral groups will sing certain sections of the mass in unison; in other parts they will alternate between male and female performance. Villa-Lobos uses the same Latin text and divisions of the Mass as did Bach in his famous B Minor Mass. The performance will be accompanied by a small instrumental ensemble composed of the following from WC: Middle Earhardt, violin; Martha Jane Gilreath and Frank Starbuck, bassoon; and Hans-Karl Piltz, viola. Two violinists from UNC will be Theodore Quast and James Holmes.

The public is invited to attend.

Dr. Hunter Is President Of Childhood International

Dr. Eugenia Hunter, professor of education at Woman's College, was recently elected president of the Association for Childhood International during the Association's annual convention in St. Louis, Missouri. Association for Childhood International is composed of people concerned with the education and well-being of children from 2 to 12 years of age.

Dr. Hunter served as vice president of the Association for two years, and has been a member of the editorial board for CHILDHOOD EDUCATION magazine.

A graduate of Goucher College, Dr. Hunter received her master's degree from Teachers College of Columbia University, and the Ph. D. degree from Ohio State University. Since 1947 she has taught undergraduate classes for WC pre-education majors and graduate classes in elementary education.

Max Gardner Award Recognizes Service

Professor Gertrude M. Cox, head of the Consolidated University of North Carolina's Institute of Statistics was a recent winner of the 1959 O. Max Gardner Award. The award, presented to Miss Cox at a dinner held on campus before spring vacation, is given annually to the member of the Consolidated University's faculty who "has made the greatest contribution to the welfare of the human race" during the current school year. A cash grant is taken each year from the income of a $25,000 trust fund set up by the late Oliver Max Gardner, a former North Carolina governor, often referred to as the "father of the Consolidated University."

Acton, Boerner, and Haney, Running For SGA President, State Platforms

MARGIE ACTON

Margie Acton, candidate for President of SGA, is this year a Junior House President and a member of the Health-Liasion Committee. During her sophomore year, she served as a member of the committee reviewing class attendance and during her freshman and sophomore years as a representative to the faculty-student Physical Education Council and member of Dolphin-Seal. Her freshman year she was a Service League representative and member of the chorus.

Concerning the office, she states: "As a student of the Woman's College and a candidate for president of student government, I believe in the following principles of student government, and pledge to uphold them if elected president:

1. A student government based on continuing basic principles, upon which all else is built.

2. A student government which serves as a means of growth, and a tool for the training of future citizens in responsible freedom."

3. A student government which plays a vital role in the intellectual growth of the student by the creative thought and action exemplified through thoughtful and meaningful legislation.

4. A student government which serves as a tool to combat provincialism on the campus by furthering the understanding and knowledge of student activity throughout the world.

5. A student government which has a place for each individual, and is representative of all student opinion.

BARBARA BOERNER

Barbara Boerner, candidate for the Student Government Presidency, is Junior House President of Coit and a past reasurer of SGA. For two years she has been a delegate to State Student Legislature and is a member of its Interim Council. Miss Boerner has been a member of the Student Advisory Committee, the Executive Cabinet, Finance Board and the Band. She was a section leader her freshman year and for the past year has been a columnist for the CAROLINIAN.

Miss Boerner's platform is printed below:

"It is a known fact that we as students have the chance to govern ourselves. It is another known fact that we as students would never consent to give up the chance of self-government. It is also a known fact that fewer and fewer are willing to commit themselves to the yoke of responsibility of self-government . . . why? The answer has many facets, a few of which are mentioned below.

"Apathy is a by-product of lack of comprehension and—perhaps, more often—of the downward spiral of lifelessness in an organization. The next question which arises is "Can the downward spiral be checked or, even better, stopped?" I think it can by action which is not coated by conformity or fear of the opinions, be they good or bad, of others. Something must be done about NSA and CU Council. Rules Committee needs to be supported; the sharp edges of the revised Honor Policy must be burnished; the Commercial and

Sally Thomas Haney, candidate for President of Student Government Association, served on the R.A. Cabinet her freshman year, was Treasurer of the Sophomore Class and is Assistant House President in South Spencer, Legislature representative for two years, Junior House President, and is on the Executive Cabinet. She is a member of Golden Chain. Her campaign manager is Mary K. Hall. In her statement, Miss Haney said:

"Student Government is an organization with a definite purpose and should be so effective that it will be meaningful to students in every facet of campus life. It should not be an organization for those interested and active few, but rather one that will embrace and reflect the attitudes shown by all groups, whether they be majority or minority within the organization. With this firm conviction in mind, I should like to set forth these suggestions as those that I think would serve to make our Student Government more effective:

1. An effort to keep the campus well-informed with regard to all Student Government activities by continued good coverage.

2. An effort to stimulate more campus spirit. This could be partially accomplished by the coordination of some of the campus organizations such as Elliott Hall and the Recreation Association. A program along this line would be effective in bolstering our social program at Woman's College.

3. An effort to bring town students more into campus life by

Student Government On The Decline

Student government at Woman's College has stagnated.

The above statement is best exemplified by the recent drive for SGA candidates.

The deadline for self-nominations was set for March 18. However, it was announced in Legislature that a great many offices were unopposed—among them the offices of vice president, secretary, and treasurer — and the deadline for nominations was extended.

Legislature members were urged to return to their respective dorms and encourage students to run for office. Students were told that it was their duty to run for office, that they should serve the college in elective capacities. In addition, students were warned that the General Assembly might not appropriate the requested budget if it became evident that Woman's College did not have numerous students interested in serving through student government.

Long-time office seekers praised student government and enumerated the many benefits realized by active participation in SGA.

Unfortunately students were impressed by these pleas and all offices are now opposed, with the exception of Judicial Board Chairman which has one candidate and NSA Co-ordinator which has no candidates (proving that there are still some things on this campus which cannot even be given away).

Perhaps this apparent lack of interest is indicative of a trend away from participation in student government busy-work. Perhaps students are realizing that time cannot be equally split between class work and student government extra-curriculars, and are deciding in favor of a more comprehensive education.

Perhaps at last individuals are beginning to rely upon themselves, not upon regulated group-think activity.

On Voting

By Peggy Hinson

Tomorrow we all have the privilege of voting for the girls who will be our student government leaders next year. The privilege of voting is a great one—not to be taken lightly or to be exercised without thought. Tonight you, the student body, will meet each candidate. In addition you will be able to hear speeches by 17 of the candidates. I urge each of you to listen to what these girls have to say. Most of the candidates, with the exception of the Junior House President candidates, have made statements in this issue of the CAROLINIAN. Please read them, listen to the candidates tonight, think and then cast your vote intelligently.

Tomorrow the preferential system of voting will be used except in the Junior House President election which is a check-off election due to the multiple number which must be elected. I believe the preferential system is the best that can be used since we don't have a two party system on this campus. By voting for more than one person you are not hurting your first choice. Therefore, if you have more than one choice, vote for her. On each set of ballots instructions are given about preferential voting. Read these if you are not sure of how to go about voting. Also be sure to register before securing a ballot.

At present much thought is being put into the idea of a two-party system on this campus. I believe the idea is a good one, but to become a reality the support and interest of the entire student body is needed. With present conditions on this campus, (the lack of interest in student government which became apparent several weeks ago)—the previous statement is a big order which will be hard to fill. Somehow everyone woke up and realized before it was too late the sad state of affairs facing the first election. However, there are two most important elections after this one and a repeat performance seems inevitable. This is everyone's fault—no one person is responsible.

We are privileged to have a student government which is listened to by our faculty and administration. Let's keep it that way!

ESCAMELA

BY PATSY MADRY

Well, group, if it's not one thing, it's another. This time, it's elections. Three weeks ago it was nominations; tomorrow it'll be Student Government election results. By the next week, someone will be complaining about a concert in Aycock or lack of attendance at a class meeting. Talk, talk and where are we? Next year people will still be talking about the lines in the dining hall, the inefficiency of SGA, or another Aycock play that isn't "progressive." There will be talk of the Presidential elections in '60, and lapel buttons will be seen around the camp. And when that's over, we'll bring our politics back to the campus level and start criticizing the few who weren't too frightened or unconfident to nominate themselves.

Patsy Madry

What a legacy for next year's freshmen class to face!

There's no point in talking about the mobs here who don't care about anything. They don't last very long anywhere, so why worry about them? Somebody said, "You can't recruit leaders!" That's so true it's pathetic. Neither can you recruit intelligent minds nor responsible citizens. The minority hold the book and make the rule-changes. The majority live by it, gripe over it, and share no responsibility when the tide turns. Why isn't it possible to distribute the interest and responsibility more equally? Because there are too many who shun it, ignore it, criticize it, and literally run from it. "I'll play football but don't throw the ball to me."

So, group, not only do we ignore campus issues and events, but also we blight our potential intelligence by disregarding basic philosophical questions. "I'll play football, but even if you throw me the ball, I'm not gonna score because there are 8 others left to do it." The goal is too abstract with which to concern ourselves. How many of you have intelligently constructed a belief in something or disbelief, whatever the case may be? How many have a personal conviction on Socialism? (How many know what it means?). What is the basic cause behind existentialism? Why does it appeal to our generation?

Think, group, and if you can't do it individually, use "group-think" as George Orwell so aptly stated it. You may find yourself in a vacuum, you may not. But it never hurt anyone to think, did it?

SOPHOMORE PLAY HIGHLIGHTS PARENTS' WEEKEND, APRIL 10-12

BY EM HERRING

Members of the bluecoated class of '61 will be brushing the jackets with special pride tomorrow in preparation for the curtain-opener in Cone Ballroom of Elliott Hall at 7:30 when classmates present the first Sophomore Play.

The Three-Act Play has been written, directed and produced by members of the class and co-directors Mary Liles and Lynndy Logue promise that it will be "something special." Serious in theme and carried by dramatic monologues interspersed with several light scenes, the play deals with questions of Right and Wrong and Individual Responsibility. This attempt by college sophomores to present a play of such intent is a bold assertion of individual and class enthusiasm to experiment in new interest departures, but the esprit de corps of a class production rides with it and tomorrow night will be a high point of the class year. Although the depth and scope of subject matter continues to be much maligned by professional writers and sometimes lingers as a cuff cliché, this sophomore effort to delve into such an undertaking can be as challengingly rewarding as some might think impossible absurd. However, the audience rates it, there will be room for a multiplicity of opinions, say the writers, for the play deals with those things whose interpretations must be individual.

Class members appearing in the cast are Carolyn Settle, Chaos; Lynndy Logue, First Soul; Jeanette Harrison, Second Soul; Mary Meekens, Third Soul; Mary Liles, Voice; Sara Heitkamp, Head Angel; Judy Angley, Betsy Barnhill, Brownie Harrington, Three Angels; Gail Brown, Lea Joy Johnson, Anita Lepore, Sandra Springs, Pat Stewart, Libby Sykes, Candy Volante, Dancers; Sonny Vickers, Head Lost Soul; Jane Truckenport, First Lost Soul; Beverly Klaff, Second Lost Soul; Lynda Hyrt, Selfish; Brownie Harrington, Pious; Diane Chambers, Condemned Character; Barbara Parrish and Mary Liles, Indifferent; and Mary Alice Carson, Good.

Others working with the play are Mary Ann Gaskin, Jeanette Harrison and Mary Alice Carson, assistants to the directors; Joyce Hitchcock, music co-ordinator; Marilyn Connor, production manager; Ellen Graves and Linda Logan, costumes; Bev Klaff and Sonny Vickers, make-up; Sis Brown, sound; Sandra Springs, box office; Kris Thornburg and Nancy Johnston, publicity; Bev Branneck and Becky Rhodes, stage; Heather McCracken and Lucy Stewart, props; Mimi Needles, lighting; and Dolores Grayson, Carolyn Jones, and Lucie Klaff, music.

Tickets will be sold in the Soda Shop and at the door for fifty cents.

Another first for the Class of '61 will be Parents' Weekend held on campus April 10, 11 and 12. This is the first time in a number of years that such a program has been planned and it is the biggest project of the year for the class. Activities begin Friday when parents register at the Alumnae House and mothers move into the dormitories with their

It's shade time again. You know, made in the shade, wearing the shades, etc. Doesn't seem to matter if the sun is shining or not, just as soon as the temperature gets around 70 out come the big glasses. They're especially effective on Monday morning when you don't care if you see or not. Mondays seem to get worse instead of better. And all last week, after Spring vacation, every day seemed like a Monday. Terrible!

Some tweed: The Williams College baseball team descended on the campus before the big vacation. And I mean descended. I set up a temporary dating bureau and in two nights managed to corner 14 screaming girls to entertain the big "Nawtherners." The poor team lost every baseball game they played down here, but I'm here to tell you they really scored with the gals at WC. There were tall ones and short ones and some in between and they were all the swingiest! Don't know when I've met such a great bunch of players. Baseball that is. If you ever want to know how to cement diplomatic relations between the Nawth and South just stick around this campus. We all wore frilly blouses and acted stupid and talked like syrup and everyone got snowed under. In just which direction the snow drifted no one will ever know. C'est la Vie, as my date said. Bless his little tweedy heart. By the time the team left N. C. they were running out of clothes, money and heaven only knows what else. One fellow was even washing out his own socks. There's nothing that lends more atmosphere than a pair of newly washed socks hanging in a window. Well, they're gone for another year and who knows when they'll be back. Maybe we'll run into some of them in Charley's Bar in NY, where the elite meet to eat and socialize. You know how it goes. Win a few, lose a few, and then some are rained out!

The big Azalea Festival has come and gone. And I just have one question to ask the people who managed to make it down there. Did you see any azaleas? Well, I just thought I'd ask, there's no need to be nasty about it. Have just thought up a goody. What do ya think about organizing a safari to follow all of the festivals? I few can't find one when it suits us we can always organize one of our own. How 'bout a Go-to-Chapel Hill-when-there's-nothing-coming-off-that-weekend Festival? Kind of lives up to the joint a bit. It don't mean a thing if it ain't got that swing.

That's me. Big festival fool from the East!

In the pages of the past months that we have turned in the book that is the story of the Woman's College, we find a mixture of tangibles and intangibles—things have occurred which we can point out with pride—others of which we are not proud and for which understanding is asked as idealistic persons often must do and having done wait for the response. Remembrances of things past point authoritatively to the future and evoke from us an agreement with Emerson "that change is the only constant thing."

Through the years of the Student Government Association is far reaching in its scope, and officers and members of this association is far reaching in its scope, and officers and members of this association have a direct responsibility to the purposes of this institution. As spring has made its appearance on this campus, we find also the artificial color that is added to the campus with the advent of the spring elections. Again it is time to elect new officers for our Student Government Association and shift the obligations and responsibilities from the Class of 1959 to you, the classes of '60, '61, '62.

Perhaps you will think me only an old time politician wishing to extend a wise word . . . whether this is true or not I can only express to you several personal thoughts for you to consider if you will. Tonight we have the opportunity to hear each candidate

Willner and Templin, Candidates, Outline Opinions On 1959-60 Carolinian

Louise Templin and Eileen Willner oppose each other for the editorship of the CAROLINIAN.

Miss Templin presently serves as News Editor of the CAROLINIAN. She has also served in the capacity of assistant news editor and reporter. In addition to her newspaper activities, Miss Templin has been an active participant in Wesley Foundation activities—as editor of the Wesley Foundation newsletter. She attended the National Christian Citizenship Seminar held this year and also served as chairman of the Model UN Assembly sponsored by the N. C. Methodist Student Movement held in Greensboro this year.

Miss Templin's statement of purpose is printed below.

"The main function of any student newspaper is to serve as the voice of the student body and should therefore be the organ through which ANY student can express her opinion without fear of censorship from the staff, faculty, or administration. However, this does not mean that should a certain issue arise which concerns various groups, that the opinions of all concerned should not be given due consideration.

"With the realization that a campus of this size will have within its student body population countless groups embracing varying opinions on every phase of student activity, the CAROLINIAN should in its coverage of student news present as nearly as possible, the "total picture" in its treatment of any issue.

"Although a fine job has been done by this year's editor in raising the standards of the paper, it still has a long way to go, for it is the responsibility of each succeeding editor not only to maintain standards set the previous year, but to insure that she will not rest until new ideas and unexplored areas are developed to the fullest in order that the paper of which she is editor becomes a little bit better than the last one.

"There are many truly creative students on this campus. They are found in every department and every major and their ideas are needed. By encouraging more people to contribute to the paper will, in my opinion, add to the unity of the campus, for with genuine knowledge comes respect and understanding."

Miss Willner, acting editor of the new publication being sponsored by the CAROLINIAN is presently rewrite editor and columnist for the CAROLINIAN. In the past she has been a news reporter, feature writer and proofreader. She wrote, co-directed and co-edited this year's Junior Show and serves as co-chairman of the NSA Cultural Committee.

Miss Willner has worked professionally on her city newspaper as reporter and assistant librarian.

Listed below are Miss Willner's objectives:

1. To provide the executiveship needed to continue to raise the CAROLINIAN above the trite and the amateur to a level of college proficiency in all areas—news, feature and editorial;

2. To encourage a more active participation from every member of enlarged staffs;

3. To follow the code of journalistic ethics, including an unafraid, honest and open-minded editorial policy determined by consideration of the campus as an institution for higher education, with the CAROLINIAN as the student enterprise functioning as a mean to informative communication with increased adherence to the academic cultural and entertainment interests of the entire campus.

BLACKWELDER, MARTINER, WINGATE STATE AIMS IN SEEKING SEC. OFFICE

Running for the office of Secretary of Student Government are Judy Dare Blackwelder, Anne Catherine Martin and Daphne Herron Wingate.

"My purpose in running for this office is to serve Woman's College in some way and to have an opportunity next year, if elected, to make SGA more alive and meaningful to all," she says. "I will fulfill my duties as secretary to the very best of my ability. I will represent our college in the most respectful manner. I shall appreciate each vote."

Miss Martin, is a legislative representative from North Spencer, member of Sophomore Council and of the Program and Policy Committee and is secretary of the Home Economics Club. During her freshman year, she was co-chairman of publicity for the Freshman Talent Show.

"I believe an SGA office to be a most challenging position on campus. I earnestly desire to accept this challenge if elected secretary of the Student Government Association," she stated.

Parliamentarian of her class, Miss Wingate is also a member of the Student-Faculty Reviewing Committee. During her freshman and sophomore years she was on the Elliott Hall Entertainment Committee and the PINE NEEDLES staff. She was on the Freshman dance committee, Handbook committee and was her dorm devotions chairman during her freshman year. In speaking of her candidacy, Miss Wingate said:

Student Government permeates

every part of our student life on campus. Our being unaware, indifferent, or even antagonistic does not alter the fact that in everything, from our dorm life and organization on up, we operate under a system of student government. We are each a part and we each have a part to play.

"Student government gives us an opportunity to educate ourselves in the art of self-governing. The word 'government' is often over-emphasized, and the word 'student' is slighted. I believe that student government, viewed in its proper perspective, can be an aid rather than a deterrent toward the goals which are the proper roles of the student. The word responsibility has been tossed about a lot, but at times the responsibility itself is not tossed around enough.

"The Student Government Officer does not take a step above or in front of other officers by virtue of her office. To my mind, taking the oath of an officer of the student government is merely an act of assuming more responsibility as a member of the student body. Officers do not rule. They are the tools with which we govern ourselves.

SGA Secretary includes many definite responsibilities but first and foremost, she should not lose sight of her responsibility to the smaller units of SGA her dorm, class and most important, the individuals who have elected her to serve.

"The job includes minute-taking for student government organizations such as Judicial Board Executive Cabinet, and House Presidents Association. As secretary, I would try to do these jobs and others such as SGA correspondence, efficiently and to the best of my ability. I should never forget, however, that whatever my particular duties in the machinery of government, my primary responsibility is as one of your representatives in SGA."

Six Candidates To Run For Post Of Treasurer

Candidates for treasurer of SGA are Margie Aiken, Jane Folger, Martha Harrison, Linda Sanders, Peggy Sink and Edna Staton.

Margie is vice-president of the freshman class, chairman of the freshman projects committee, a member of Elections Board and a member of the CAROLINIAN news staff.

Jane Folger is a member of the freshman projects committee, Wesley Foundation Council, the French Club and Tap Club. First semester she served as a member of Hall Board, section leader and was publicity chairman for the Freshman University Sermon.

Martha Harrison is a member of Wesley Foundation. She was also a delegate to the Model United Nations Assembly.

Linda Sanders serves as treasurer of the German Club and was a member of Legislature during the first six weeks of school.

Peggy Sink is parliamentarian of the freshmen class, a member of Legislature and was a section leader first semester.

Edna Staton is a member of her dorm bulletin board committee and has also served on other dorm committees.

Mary Hope, Ann Phillips Honor Board Candidates

Mary Eleanor Hope and Ann Phillips are candidates for the position of Honor Board Chairman.

Miss Hope now serves as secretary of the Student Advisory Curriculum Committee and has served in the past as a member of the dorm devotions committee.

"Believing in the basic ideals and in the workability of the Honor Policy of the Woman's College," said Miss Hope, "I shall work to create in each student a deeper awareness of the existence of this policy and to broaden the individual student's appreciation for the ideals of honor as they apply on the campus and in later life. In connection with the operation of the Honor Board in its new capacity allowing the trial of honor offenders I shall try to create an atmosphere of understanding firmness and fairness."

Ann Phillips, secretary of the Junior class, has been a member of the CAROLINIAN staff and is on the Campus Stores Committee. She has served in the past as a member of the Elliott Hall Student Faculty Committee and the Special Events Committee.

In regard to the Woman's College Honor Board Ann stated that "the recent change in our honor system has played greater emphasis upon the Honor Board and therefore, has brought about possibilities for its increased strength and effectiveness. This is good in that the student body will be more conscious of the honor policy and why it is important. However, it is my hope that the honor system should not become too 'systematic'—not merely a board to punish, but a channel for upholding the honor of the Woman's College students."

At the present time this does not appeal to me, but by skillful management and organization of the yearbook staff I hope to be able to raise the standard of the editorial content of the book."

the more frequent integration of activities with the dormitory students. Also transfers should take a more active role during the orientation period and in campus affairs throughout the year.

4. An effort to strengthen some clubs who are not operating up to their full potential. The Debating Club is one which should be stimulated and one which would be most valuable to the campus.

5. A thorough briefing of student government officers at pre-school conference would be advisable. Rule clarification and uniformity among dormitories in regard to judicial policies would be stressed.

6. The State of the Campus address given this year was good and should be continued. However, in addition, to the President's address, an address by the Judicial Board Chairman and the Vice-President would be commendable. These statements should be given in Mass Meeting at the end of first semester.

Ruffy and Byrd Oppose Dearsley For Editorship

Ann Dearsley is opposing Roberta Byrd and Nancy Ruffy for the editorship of the CORADDI. Miss Byrd and Miss Ruffy are running as co-editors.

Miss Dearsley has been Arts Editor of the CORADDI; Publicity Co-Chairman of the Junior Show, a section leader and Junior Co-ordinator of the Arts Festival. She is presently Arts Editor of the CAROLINIAN and a member of the CORADDI Art staff. Concerning the office Miss Dearsley says:

"My main objective in running for editor of the CORADDI is to see the magazine serve as a vehicle in the forwarding of the fine arts at the Woman's College. By presenting the highest caliber of work possible, the entire campus will be able to keep in touch with student creative efforts even though their chosen major is not concerned with either writing or the visual arts.

I hope that, if elected to this office, the high standards that have always been the goal of the CORADDI will be realized with the help of active staffs and especially strong art and literary editors.

Miss Byrd is the Publicity Chairman of the Junior Class, Treasurer of the Art Club and a member of the PINE NEEDLES Art Staff. She has been on the CORADDI Art staff, was a dorm social chairman and is a member of the Junior-Senior Dance Committee.

Miss Ruffy, running with Miss Byrd, has been the Copy Editor of the CAROLINIAN, and a member of dormitory committees. The co-editor candidates have submitted the following statement:

"We feel that CORADDI is an arts magazine rather than a literary magazine with a few illustrations stuck in. By representing the two departments which contribute the majority of material for CORADDI we believe that, through creative writing, English, and art classes we will be in contact with a larger number of those working in these fields. We do not wish to minimize the importance of selection of material; however, we do feel that in order to make the best selections, we must have every possible submission from which to choose. these classes, we will have contact with students and professors who may suggest possible submitters. For brevity we will state our objectives in outline form:

1. To maintain the high standards of selection and publication heretofore published in CORADDI. The selection will then be worth the submitter's time and effort and CORADDI, in order to serve its readers as well as its submitters, would be not only enjoyable but also an intellectual and aesthetic stimulation.

2. To search out all possible material in every respect of art on this campus by encouraging submissions of various types (we would by no means restrict literary publication of poems and short stories) such as essays, creative criticism or translations; by including on our staff members from the music and drama departments and at least one member who will be aware of what is happening in photography on campus; and by welcoming suggestions from any reader of CORADDI."

"Student Government has grown away from a true association and has grown into an organization... the concept, government by the people, has almost been lost. It is too idealistic to think that we can ever achieve a complete government scaled after our federal system—but we can at least approach it. If we are ever to have a two party system, a thing which just cannot be decided as good and passed by Legislature as another reform, we must first stop thinking of Student Government as another extra-curricular activity and begin showing it up in order to permit it to function as government... therefore, I wish to emphasize the Government, not the Association; when we reach comprehension of the concept and when we accept the responsibility as students and begin to really govern ourselves, we will be ready to move on to better things—on to a two-party system.

"I feel that the students of this college can achieve the above. Believing strongly in self-government, I wish to see us reach this point once again; it can be done, if we are not afraid to make a move; are we? Some of us do not want to be but some have known nothing else since freshman year. It's time that we started acting like true students; it's time for a change; it's time for the government of this community to start functioning as it was meant to function."

Chris Bennett and Marlene Stewart are candidates for President of the Inter-Faith Council.

Chris is publicity chairman of Westminster Fellowship and program chairman for the Caduceus Club. During her freshman year, she served as a dorm representative for Westminster Fellowship. Marlene is publicity chairman of the Inter-Faith Council, Librarian for the Greensboro Orchestra, and a member of the BSU Council. In the past Marlene has been a member of the Elliott Hall Publicity Committee, the Music Education Club, the French Club and the Daisy Chain. a flower our government needs nourishment, and that it can get only from the students on this campus. A flower needs sunshine; likewise, a government needs "fair weather" and "smooth sailing" to give the people working with it the confidence they need to know that their efforts have been worthwhile. Also, a flower needs rain; and likewise, a government needs the bumps and obstacles that make it members take stock an devaluate once in a while.

The point that I am trying to make is that the growth of student government is and always will be through its members, the student body; and each and every individual on this campus should take an interest, give of herself and her ideas, and become more fully aware of her responsibility and her vitally essential place in student government. Of course, no one can do everything; but EVERYONE can do something.

My previous remarks clearly indicate the fact that my interest in legislature is centered around the individual student and the part which I believe each of us is capable of contributing to the nucleus of Student Government. It is to this end that I will be working if I am elected Vice-President."

I urge you all to take an active interest in the platforms of these candidates... giving each an objective consideration rather than listening to these speeches with closed ears. These candidates have expressed a strong interest in Student Government Association and deserve the right to be heard. Do not hesitate to question candidates so that when a vote is cast, it is with full knowledge of the result should that candidate be elected. The posters may be eye catching, but they are hollow in their meaning unless behind the publicity there is an interested and responsible individual.

Intelligent voting is something more than votin gfor a candidate as a bond of friendship... that is using the ballot for personal gain. For the better interest of the whole is not considered.

Perhaps these few words are unnecessary but they are given in an honest effort to increase understanding and intelligence in our campus elections. I can only turn to one of America's greatest idealists, Woodrow Wilson, when he said "Only free people can hold their purpose and their honor steady to a common end, and prefer the interest of mankind to any narrow interest of their own."

1959 Elections: In Mass Meeting tonight, there will be speeches. Some of them will be short, some long, some good, others not so good—all speeches, we hope, will be attended. No amount of letter-writing, studying other material, or immediate discussion will help the speakers, but considerable listening and considerable thinking will help us all.

1959 Conventions: Dr. Celeste Ulrich, counselor in South Spencer, and assistant professor of physical education, and Peggy Richardson, sophomore physical education major, have just returned from national meetings in the far West. Miss Ulrich was a principal speaker at two sessions of the National Association for Health, Physical Education, and Recreation Convention in Portland, Oregon. Peggy acted as official delegate of the Woman's College to the National Athletic and Recreation Federation for College Women. Since the R. A. is a member of NARFCW, Peggy's attendance at the National meeting should be of interest to R. A. Cabinet and many others over the campus.

1959 Scottish Dancing: The WC Scottish Country Dance Group has announced the acceptance of an invitation extended to the SCD Group from Charlotte. Miss Sally Southerland and the Charlotte group will dance with our group TOMORROW (April 9) at 7:30 p.m. in Coleman Gym. The Sword Dance is being taught, so if you don't have any old swords lying about, better bring a couple of yardsticks, or the like.

1959 Flashes: For those of you whose Scottish blood doesn't run near enough to the surface to stimulate dancing—lend an ear and an eye to the Golf Club's announcements.

Softball is based on Senior Class Competition, and so far '60 and '62 are way ahead with 18 players to '59 and '61's 3! Come on, Sophs and Seniors, on Wednesdays at 5:00 p.m. Rain? Coleman Gym.
