

MME. HAMMER TO APPEAR HERE WITH NORWEGIAN CO.

Will Present Ibsen's Plays,
"Ghosts" and "The Builder" March 10
and 11

The Y. W. C. A. has succeeded in making arrangements for a Norwegian Company of Players to present two of Ibsen's plays at the college March 10 and 11. The two plays which the company will present are "Ghosts" and "The Master Builder." The leading players in these are Madame Hammer and Mr. Rolf Fjell. Madame Hammer played in New York last year and is now making a coast-to-coast tour. When the tour is completed she will return to New York for a second appearance, this time in an American play. The two principals are assisted by a notable and distinguished group of players who have the ability and imagination to make the plays real and stirring. Among these are Joseph Stanhope, lately of the Chicago and New York productions of Abraham Lincoln. Madame Hammer was born in Bergen, Norway, Ibsen's home town. She received her training at nationally owned theaters for which Norway is famous.

Before coming to America, Madame Hammer was connected with the Bergen and Christiania National Theaters of Norway. Of so high a quality was her acting, and so powerful was her personality that foreign critics ranked her work there with that of the greatest European artists. Since she has appeared in America, critics here have been unanimous in their praise of her talent, her power, and her wonderful sincerity in acting. Madame Hammer is the only actress of the younger generation whose acting has been compared favorably with that of Madame Laura Gunderson, the greatest actress Norway has ever produced. Madame Hammer speaks four languages fluently and with ease: Norwegian, which is her native tongue; English, French, and German. She knows European literature with a real distinction of information and judgment.

Madame Hammer is considered the greatest living interpreter of Ibsen. She makes no errors in her interpretations of the Ibsen drama. The remarkable understanding

1922 "PINE NEEDLES" IS EXPECTED TO BE ONE OF BEST ISSUES

White Has Charge Pictures; Jahn-
Collier Co. Engravers; Benton
Printer

TO GO TO PRESS MARCH 1

Book to be Divided into "Life in General" and "College Life in Particular"

The 1922 "Pine Needles" bids fair to be the most successful issue gotten out in several years. "Pine Needles" is the college annual and its appearance this spring will be its third issue under the present name and organization. Helen Dunn Creasy, the editor-in-chief, has labored long and hard over the planning of the book and Ruth Kohn has managed the advertising end very successfully.

The picture work is in the hands of White, of New York, and the last pictures have been made. The photographer finished up the job last week when he made his last visit to the campus. All the cuts that have been received are excellent and some very beautiful group and statistical pictures have been made. Jahn-Ollier Co., of Chicago, are the engravers and Benton, of Nashville, Tenn., has the contract for the printing.

The art work is entirely completed. All the drawings have been done by Loula Woody, the art editor. The colonial idea has been carried out in the drawings throughout the book. The whole book will be divided

ANNUAL MEETING OF LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS HELD HERE

President of National League and Other Prominent People Deliver Addresses

The North Carolina League of Women voters held its second annual convention in Greensboro, Thursday, February 16. All meetings were held in the court house. The convention opened at ten o'clock with the reports of the officers, committees, and departments. The chief feature of the morning meeting was an address by Mrs. Julian B. Salley, of Aiken, S. C. Mrs. Salley is a member of the national board of the League of Women voters, and is director of the third region, which is composed of nine southern states.

At 1 o'clock a luncheon was given at the home of Mrs. A. L. Brooks, at which Mrs. Palmer Jerman, of Raleigh, Vice-president, presided. Immediately following the luncheon Mrs. Maude Wood Park, president of the national League of Women voters, and Dr. W. S. Rankin, of the state board of health, spoke. Dr. Rankin explained the Shepard-Towner maternity bill in its application to North Carolina.

The business of the convention was concluded at the court house at 3 o'clock, with the adoption of the legislative program, the election of officers, and the election of the delegates to the national convention.

The last meeting of the convention was held at 8 p. m. in the court house. Mrs. Maud Wood Park presided at this meeting. The speakers of the evening were Josephus Daniels and Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch. Mrs. McCulloch has been practicing law in Chicago for the past 34 years, and has been one of the outstanding figures in the welfare movements of Chicago for 25 years.

N. C. COLLEGE REORGANIZES PLAN OF ADMINISTRATION

PRESS ASSOCIATION ANNOUNCES JUDGES IN WRITING CONTEST

Miss Nell Battle Lewis, Prof. Louis
Graves, Mr. Oscar J. Coffin are Judges

MATERIAL MUST BE IN MARCH 1

Winners in Contest to Receive Publicity in all College Publications

Miss Nell Battle Lewis, Prof. Louis Graves and Mr. Oscar J. Coffin are the judges for the writing contests to be held this spring under the auspices of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association. These judges were appointed by the president of the association.

Miss Lewis is at present the woman's editor of the Raleigh News and Observer, having charge of the well known incidental column. She is a graduate of Smith's College and a prominent figure in North Carolina journalistic circles. Miss Lewis writes most of the feature stories for the News and Observer, having charge of the well known "Incidentally."

Louis Graves is head of the Department of Journalism in the University of North Carolina and has taken a keen interest in the activities of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association.

Oscar J. Coffin is a graduate of the University of North Carolina and is at present editor of the Raleigh Times.

The material for the contest must be in the hands of the magazine and newspaper editors by March 1. The winning articles will be sent to Emeline Goforth by the 15th of the month and will be sent to the judges soon after. The results will be printed in all the publications by members of the state association.

W. C. Jackson Elected Vice- President; Columbia Places N. C. C. on Accepted List

Extensive plans have been made during the last few months for the reorganization of this institution. President Foust states that there are two considerations which seem to make it necessary for somewhat radical changes to be made in the organization of the faculty and of the administrative officers of the college:

1. "The large increase in attendance. We have in attendance at the college this year nearly 1000 students, which is about 200 more than the largest enrollment that we have ever had. We shall have completed by the beginning of the next session three additional dormitories which will accommodate nearly 400 additional students. An organization that was planned for 400 or 500 students will hardly meet the obligations that will be imposed upon it when the student body numbers 1300 or 1400 students.

2. "Our present organization does not conform to that adopted and used by any first-class college. As the curriculum has been enlarged, and as the number of units for admission have been increased and other changes made in order that the institution might conform to college standards, the nucleus of the original has been used, and has been added to in various ways without making any fundamental changes."

Last fall this institution was admitted to the Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges of the Southern States, and thus has become a member of the recognized standard colleges of the country. In addition to this recognition, Columbia University, New York City, has recently placed it upon the accepted

WHEELS OF BUSINESS AT N. C. C. W. STOP FOR RAIN

Classes Are Disbanded and Students Seek Shelter of Dormitories

Not out of a clear sky, but out of one of the cloudiest that ever covered Greensboro, a holiday fell on the students at the North Carolina College for Women Wednesday, with a precipitancy that outdid the rain in its deluge when Dr. Gove found it advisable to suspend classes on account of the bad weather.

The first rumors were loose about nine o'clock that morning, but only those who heard an official announcement from the faculty, and the few who had gone to the post-office to behold it on the bulletin board believed it. The others were skeptical for some time. However, when all the Missourians were convinced, but still wondering, everybody ducked for cover and stayed until lunch time. A venturesome few went to the library, but found little company in their misery.

The atmosphere of the dormitories was much the same as in former days when all the kids at home were told they need not go to school, and were lined up and greased with Vick's, wrapped in red flannel, charged with asafetida, and ordered to stay in the house. Some time was taken up during the morning in recovering from the shock, and then things got in a real holiday mood.

When time came for the mail another regular schedule was upset by having the usual long line of hoping ones who trail through mud and slush remain in the dormitories, and let the mail be delivered to the door. Never had students been so "set up." Faces remained constantly at the windows to watch developments in the weather and report all hopeful signs of another holiday to those who were making the best of an opportunity to snooze. The only thing that was needed to

Paragraphics

Gossip is a state of mind—mind everybody's business but your own.

Good grades won't begin to come in until good work begins to go out.

The optimist—never have to wipe off dust these days.

The pessimist—never can hold my umbrella where it is raining.

The slogan of the Junior Shop is "Say it with (hair) nets, (snap) shots, or (canned) heat."

Wait a year and perhaps your Valentine will be realized.

Labor while you wait—for George Washington's Birthday.

Valentine results:

"maid one
maid won made one."

Process for navigating during ground hog days: forget umbrella, come to end of cement and no over-shoes, no rain coat for sudden showers, and finally no wave in your hair or powder on your nose.

We "shore" ain't had a bit of rest since we left our mammy's nest.

That weeks fly by in spring is like other exaggerated rumors for our weeks drag—when we are waiting for Easter.

We do indeed hail the day of permissible rest.

The ground hog really isn't so bad after all and yea verily Drs. Gove and Foust are wise.

The budding school ma'ms look forward to an independent career in some ways, since they sign only one contract annually.

Even if you do keep on getting your lessons, you never get them all.

"What's the matter with the weather man?" question asked. Evidently he has the drowsy.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The officers of the student government association for next year will be elected next Tuesday night. This election is the most important event of the year, for upon it depends, to a great extent, the success or the failure of the organization for next year. In electing our president, therefore, we must remember all of her responsibilities among which are: 800 Freshmen, the conditions of the college in this the transition period and the rapid growth of the student body and remembering them, we must elect the most capable and the "biggest" minded girl in the incoming senior class.

And it is up to every one of us to go to the meeting determined to elect the girl who will meet the requirements, who will carry on the work as successfully as the present officers have, and who will build upon the foundations that they have laid. Student Government officers are not to be chosen haphazardly by a few people nor by a whole crowd of unthinking people. As a usual thing, there are several students who make speeches portraying the everlasting and wonderful virtues of their favorite candidate while about two-thirds of the student body sit back and allow the person who makes the best speech to sway her opinion. We must not have any of this Tuesday. It is very necessary that every student of the college realize the importance of this occasion and make up her mind before she goes to the meeting as to who is the girl that can most effectively lead the students next year. And then, when this is done, we hope that there will not be so much breath wasted by the would-be campaign managers. We like much better a well-rounded student opinion based upon thinking than a mob action based upon the impulse of the moment.

Then, too, other officers than the president must be carefully chosen. Although they are not as important, they have their work to do. And this work is real work. They are members of the Senate, the body of girls upon whom rests the responsibility of the campus life. Those elected must have the characteristics and qualities of a good senate member. They must, in fact, be girls whom we respect to the highest degree and in whom we have the utmost confidence.

H. M.

BEWARE!

Some time ago we had a few words to say on cheating and now we feel compelled to discuss a while on cheating. This is merely another phase of the same subject. Dr. Foust seems to have said all that was necessary on the subject but he failed to mention the disappearance of the bottles of milk that certain girls have left on the dormitory steps each day.

When you come along and see a pint of milk reposing on the porch of Gray or Kirkland do not think that it has been put there for your benefit. If you have been laboring under the delusion that the adage "first come, first served" applies here, now is the time to be undeceived and pass by. That milk has been ordered and paid for by some inhabitant of North Carolina College for Women who no doubt needs it very badly for the sake of her health and well being.

The milk has been disappearing not only from the steps but even from the rooms of the students. This is still worse than the first case. No one, no matter how dense, could fail to mistake the owner of that found in a dormitory room.

Many of those who get this milk are doing so in an effort to gain flesh and so must necessarily drink it regularly if it is to have the desired result. Moreover they have paid their hard money for it and it is therefore their property and not anybody else's. So, if you have been thinking that the milk was placed there for any one who felt inclined that way hereby learn otherwise and BEWARE.

FLU

Say son, have you met the new vamp around here? My word, she's a popular name! She entered the gates at the first of the year and started in making a name. She began with a whirl and a rush, so they say, to vamp every Mid. whom she met. Her curves were seductive, she knew the right way, a plea or a coax or a threat. She isn't a German, we're sure of the same; she comes from a far different place. She's skillful and knows all the tricks of the game, possessing some queer sort of grace. The girl is a Spaniard, the medicos say, a sly little Spanish Miss, too. They've warned us "Steer clear and keep out of her way. Her name is, we think, Spanish Flu."

I went up to sick bay and saw one of those who suffered the pangs of the flu. They said they were sick from their heads to their toes, and believe me, they acted it, too. I left them up there and I started away when I met with a terrible band, all masked were their faces, they hurried their way; and I stopped to demand what clan they were of and what mischief they'd done, or what they were starting anew. They only kept on simply shouting back, "None! We're fighting the germs of the flu!" I couldn't help thinking what fools they must be to run around acting like kids. The whole thing seemed funny and childish to me, a joke among some of the Mids. But when I went down to formation that night and saw the few men that were out, I knew it was something to give 'em a fright. I saw what it was all about.

I mustered my sections in Skinny and Math and found only two members there. But God of Tecumseh, shine light on my path. Those birds are the savviest in my section. Good night! I am praying for flu. If she'll only come steal me away. I'll bilge if she won't with those savvy few. I'm willing to go to sick bay. —Selected.

PHYSIOLOGY CLASS SENDS TABBIES TO EARLY GRAVES

Five more pussies have checked off another of their numerous lives in Cat Heaven, and the Physiology Class has once more finished its job of skinning the cat.

The process is very interesting to those who do not make cat killing a business. First the night howler is chloroformed, to the delight of many who have followed his melodious tunes through a long night of wakefulness. Then, if so inclined, though it is not done in the best cat killing circles, the feline may be skinned. However, it is considered wiser to begin cutting at once. This is of interest to fathers out in the state who have chased the animals with a shot gun at night. Others are also interested to know that Tabby is of some use in the world besides chasing mice.

Then begins the unraveling of the great mystery of "Why is a cat?" All of her numerous systems are explored, itemized, and furnished an excuse for being. Practically all human organs are found in Puss. Even some of her irritation may be explained by the fact that she has an appendix. Her heart beats normally as does the heart of the person who scats her out of her warm corner by the fire. And readers at large might be interested to know that she has a nervous system, a muscular system, a circulatory system, a respiratory system, a digestive system, a reproductive system, and an excretory system. Her nerves may be as much subject to human noise as are humans to her serenades. In fact she is a highly developed instrument of life, and, may, for all mortals know, have such things as ancestors who were Puritans and blue blooded F. F. V's.

The five creatures went without mourning, and their souls passed into the Land of Mice and Cheese without a tear being shed. One member of the class refused to touch her victim with anything but forceps. But if that were a wicked cat she probably was better off for the experience.

THIRD GRADE OF TRAINING SCHOOL CONDUCTS CONTEST

A contest was conducted in the Third Grade of the Training School of the North Carolina College for Women last week in writing the story of a coconut. It was conducted in the Geography class and each child was a contestant. The story was composed by the children as a group and the promise was made the class by Ethel Bynum, the teacher; that the one who copied it best should have his name published in the college newspaper as the reward for his effort. The winner in the contest is Tom Biggs. Tom's copy of the story appears below:

Our Coconut's Story

I will tell you the story of my life. I was born on the Samoan Islands. The tree I grew on was forty or fifty feet high. I had many brothers and sisters.

When I was ripe some one cut me from the tree. I was taken to a shed. Then someone cut the husk from me. I was put on a large vessel and sent to Hanes' Grocery Store in Greensboro, North Carolina. A lady came to the store and bought me. She took me to the Third Grade in the Training School. Here they talked about me for several days. Finally, I was broken and ready to be used.

I will tell you how I was used. After I was broken I was grated. Then I was made into filling for cake. I was put on the cake and was sent to the dining room to be eaten.

Tom's copy was very neatly written, not a single word being misspelled and not a punctuation mark being omitted. It was legible and unusually neat for a member of the Third Grade.

THE PLAYMAKERS TO PRESENT 3 NEW PLAYS

The Authors Are Paul Green, Wilbur Stone and Miss Lay—To Give Them March 11 and 12

Chapel Hill, Feb. 12.—"The Lord's Will," by Paul Green, of Lillington; "Dark Wood Bushes," by Wilbur Stout, of Burlington, and "Black Beard, Pilot of the Carolina Coast," by Paul Green and Miss Elizabeth Lay, of Chapel Hill, are the three plays selected to be presented by the Carolina Playmakers March 11 and 12. These plays were chosen from a number of others here Thursday night by a committee composed of J. F. Royster, R. D. W. Connor, T. S. Graves, J. M. Booker, A. H. Patterson, of the university faculty, and Rev. Mr. Lawrence.

All three plays were written by members of the Playmaker organization, who have previously had plays presented by the Playmakers. They have studied North Carolina folklore in all its phases, written about it before, and these new plays are the latest inspired works to come from their research and study. At the authors' reading the plays sounded, in many respects, better than any that have been presented in the past, and appear to be the best that the student playwrights have yet offered to the public.

"The Lord's Will" is a tragedy dealing with the life of a religious fanatic. "Dark Wood Bushes," by the author of the ever delightful "In Dixon's Kitchen," so well received on the last tour of the Playmakers, is another comedy of country life. "Blackbeard, Pilot of the Carolina Coast," is a melodrama with many intense and touching situations.—Greensboro Daily News.

(N. C. Collegiate Press Service)
Mr. C. C. Corat, eminent nature lover, lectured to the Meredith faculty and students on Saturday evening, February 4, 1922, on the subject of "Birds." This was an especially interesting and unique lecture, Mr. Corat imitating perfectly the songs and calls of many species of birds. He also gave two very charming whistling solos.

SNOW IN SPRING

The trees about to bud,
Sweet fragrance in the air,
The birds begin to sing,
'Tis springtime everywhere.

The world is soft and clear.
We go to bed at night,
We sleep unknowing; awake—
A world of gorgeous white!

How sudden is the change
And who could change it all—
The spring to winter time,
The summer day to fall?

It is He the master
The artist great who can Change the picture canvas
With one stroke of the hand.

And as He has taken
Our springtime thus away,
He brings Spring from winter—
Turns darkness into day.

Mavis Burchette spent last week-end in Winston-Salem.

Bernard Hawkins has left college on account of the death of her mother.

Miss King had as her guest Tuesday her sister, Miss Annabell King, of High Point.

Miss Laura Coit was a visitor in Winston-Salem on Monday. Miss Coit was the guest of the Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church of Winston-Salem. She is the president of the Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian Church of this city.

Miss Miriam Bohner, of the English Department of the college, entertained with a Valentine party in honor of the birthdays of Antoinette Loetsch and Clyde Hunter. Those present were: the honor guests, Jewel Summer, Annie Maude Mitchell, Bertha McRory, Lillian Davis and Kate Monroe.

Frances Dunn was hostess at a pretty Valentine party last Friday night in her room in Anna Howard Shaw. The party was unique in its every phase. As the guests entered the room, the only light was in the center of a huge red heart which was in the middle of a lattice of crepe paper. The guests came dressed in the costume of the age of ten. They played Hearts, after which Mr. Josie Barnes won the prize, while Reba Ferebee took the booby. The winner in the contest of pinning the arrow on the heart was Carolyn Bear. Those present were Mr. Sarah Mason, Carolyn Bear, Mr. Marion Piatt, Roberta Brooks, Mr. Virginia Ashlin, Reba Ferebee, Mr. Josie Barnes, Annie Shipp, Messrs. Lois Briggs, Frances Dunn, Mr. Margie Lewis, Helen Griffin.

Miss Wright Improving

The many friends of Miss E. Katherine Wright will be glad to learn that she is improving from the burns which she received in the Chemistry lab some time before the Christmas holidays. Miss Wright's burns were very painful and were much more serious than was at first supposed. Miss Wright is now at Dr. Long's Hospital where she has been all the time since her accident except for a week spent at the college infirmary and a few days spent at her home in Lynchburg, Va. It is hoped that Miss Wright will be able to leave the hospital before long.

Our reports have arrived home. Be cheered or saddened as the case may be, for verily they are a barometer in Pa's liberality when he writes your next check.

Science Club Meets

At the regular meeting of the Science Club Tuesday night Miss Mary Frances Seymour, of the Biology department, presented a most interesting paper on the subject of Endocrines. Miss Seymour gave a splendid discussion of the relation of the secretions of the ductless glands to the physical and mental development of the body. At this same meeting two magazine reports were given. These were "The Race of the Chemist to Save the Human Race" by Miss Barrow and "Feeding Problems of Foreigners in This Country" by Miss Buckner.

The Science Club was organized last fall by the faculty of the Science departments. Included in its membership are the faculty of the departments of Biology, Chemistry, Physics, Mathematics, Home Economics and Education.

Current Events Club Organized

The Current Events Club is a new organization on the campus and is composed of Miss Gullander's history classes. The new club meets every Wednesday from 5 to 6 o'clock. The Disarmament Conference has been the subject for study and at present the Irish question is under discussion.

Eleanor Armfield is president; Margaret Birdsong, vice-president; Mary Bailey, secretary.

Ross Has Charge of Spanish Club Program

Mary Ross was in charge of the program of the Spanish Club at its regular meeting Monday night. A one-act play, a stunt, a Spanish song and games were the features of the meeting. The play and stunt were both well gotten up and entertaining, the costuming carrying out the ideas.

In the play, "La Cesta de Cales," which being translated, is "The Basket of Cabbages," Loula Woody as "un viajero" and Pauline Hawkins as "un baturó," took the leading parts. Susie Roberts was a member of the cast also.

The stunt represented a teacher showing her two small pupils how to set a table. The teacher was Sarah Presson and those taught Frances Coffey and Elizabeth Minor.

The song was sung by the entire club and the games led by Mary Ross.

Bradley and Tucker Entertain

Partly because they were unable to brave the terrors of ice on foot, rain on head and sleet and cold all around and partly because their appetites demanded it, several members of the senior class enjoyed dinner in their rooms Wednesday. Martha Bradley and Sallie Tucker gave a party in 101 Gray, serving a menu made up of sausage, eggs, jelly, butter, coffee, and rolls. Those present were Ruth Higgins, Jesse Baxley, Marie Bonitz and Hazel Mizelle.

MAITLAND SADLER AND EVA BAGLEY HONOREES

Mary Sue Beam and Leah Willis were joint hostesses at a joint birthday and valentine party Tuesday night, honoring Maitland Sadler and Eva Bagley. The room was attractively decorated in red hearts and cupids. Delicious fudge was served and Valentines were given as favors, the ones to the guests of honor being especially appropriate. Those present were: Maitland Sadler and Eva Bagley, the honorees; Mary Herring, Stella Williams, Irene Waters, Aveline Ashworth, Susie Roberts, Margaret Roberson, Lucile Kasehagen and Annie Cummings.

Reviews

MADAME BORGNY HAMMER

Madame Borgny Hammer, who is soon to appear here in Ibsen's plays, "Ghosts" and "The Master Builders," is recognized by her artistic contemporaries on the other side of the water as a woman of rare qualities, intellectually as well as artistically. She is a close student of Norwegian literature and a friend and admirer of Knut Hamsun, the celebrated Norwegian author, whose novels, among them Growth of the Soil and Hunger, recently won for him the Nobel Prize for literature, and made Chicago realize that he had once been a street car conductor in that city.

When she was asked if he was as highly thought of in his own country as he is here she replied, "Indeed he is, and even more highly. Americans on the whole underrate him. He is a great artist. He is an artist not only in accomplishments but in temperament as well. He has always taken himself seriously, so seriously in fact that he has not always been willing to give credit to others for seriousness and genius. I particularly remember one occasion when he invited a group of celebrities to a private lecture. Ibsen was among the guests. He sat in the front row. Hamsun began the evening by abusing Ibsen and his works most violently. Ibsen amazed at this breach of hospitality, arose, bowed slightly and left without a word."

The actress continued by saying that not only many incidents of the private life of Hamsun show him in such an impolite role, but that he is noted for characteristic kindness.

Another of Madame Hammer's warm, personal friends is Bjorne Bjornson, the scannin vian playwright. After he had seen one of her performances at the National Theatre in Christiania, he said to her, "You have real genius, some day you will be recognized as one of the greatest actresses in the world." Later when he was writing his play, Maria Stuart, he asked Madame Hammer to promise to act the role when she had attained greatness. She has conquered that difficult and tragic role and has acted it frequently in Europe.

During her limited engagement here she will appear in two plays that will be admirably adapted to her gift as an interpreter of the depth of human nature.

Valentine Party Given

Nelle Folger, Isabel Smith, and Lois Banner were joint hostesses at a Valentine party given Saturday night at eight in Misses Smith's and Banner's room in North-Center Spencer. The room was decorated with red hearts and everything carried out the Valentine spirit. Upon entering the guests were given baskets of mints.

Bridge was played at four tables. The score cards were in the shape of hearts. The prize for the highest score, a deck of cards, was won by Julia Mae Southerland, while the booby, a valentine, went to Katherine Skinner.

Delightful refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake served on valentine plates, coffee, sandwiches, and mints, were served. As favors each guest was presented with a basket of red hearts.

Those present were: Julia Mae and Lois Southerland, Blanche Henley, Ruth Wilkins, Sara Harrison, Martha Thigpen, Sallie Lee Collins, Lucretia Ashby, Mildred Lupton, Ida Cardwell, Eleanor Hill, Virginia Smith, and Katherine Skinner.

Rockingham Dance

One of the most enjoyable social events of the season was the Rockingham dance, given Wednesday afternoon between the hours of four and six, in celebration of the unexpected holiday owing to the inclement weather. Lina McEashern, Nannie Earle, Eleanor Dan and Dot Zoller composed the cotillion committee getting up the dance. The hall of Rockingham, swept clean of its usual debris, was the dance floor. At the punch bowl, otherwise the water fountain, delicious H₂O was served the guests. Fudge also figured in the refreshment program. Votes taken for the most graceful young tripper of the light fantastic gave the prize to Florrie Wilson, the red haired belle of the Rockingham settlement. The prize was a lovely long straw, taken from a historic Rockingham broom and most valuable for its associations. Music for dancing was furnished by the Victrola.

Those enjoying the afternoon's gaiety were: Florrie Wilson, Mavis Goodman, Florine Davenport, Eleanor Kornegay, Katherine Skinner, Marrietta Gareisson and Elizabeth Etherage.

HELEN D. CREASY BECOMES REPORTER ON DAILY NEWS

Helen Dunn Creasy, a member of the senior class, has recently become college reporter for the Greensboro Daily News. She sends in things that happen here which will be of interest to the people of the state. Her space is in the Woman's Realm part of the paper and thus, all the college news will be found there. The Greensboro Daily has recently revised the "Woman's Realm" column with the idea of making it a most vital part of the Daily.

Miss Creasy started her work last week, and since then has been carrying various articles down to the office daily. She is intensely interested in newspaper work and regards her new "job" as a matter of real pleasure.

Y. W. C. A. CABINET MEETS IN HUT MONDAY EVENING

A meeting of the cabinet of the Y. W. C. A. was held in the Hut Monday night. The devotional part of the meeting was conducted by Mary Sue Beam.

After the regular business had been completed, Margaret Heinsberger told something of the plans for the presentation of the Ibsen plays under the auspices of the local association. Miss Heinsberger said that the proceeds from the performances were expected to cover the deficit in the Y. W. C. A. budget.

Joscelyn McDowell gave a short report of the conference which she attended at Richmond. She told of the problems discussed at the conference and the plans for the convention to be held at Hot Springs.

N. J. HERRING, OF TRINITY, TO REPRESENT COLLEGES

N. J. Herring, of the Senior class of Trinity College, will be one of the students who confers with President Harding concerning the student movement on the limitation of armaments. He will represent the following colleges: Davidson, Guilford, Lynchburg, G. C., N. C. C. W., Queens, and the University of South Carolina.

The following opinions were unanimously adopted by the students of Trinity:

"Resolved: That as a substitute method of international co-operation offered in place of the league of nations, the arms conference is unsatisfactory; but as a conference for the limitation of armaments it has taken steps in the right direction; (2) that the general conduct of the foreign delegations at the conference was laudable, and that in view of the failure of the participating powers to extend to France some measure of protection afforded her by the Versailles treaty, the French should not be severely censured for their lack of co-operation; (3) that as the best that can be obtained under the present world conditions the senate should adopt the naval limitations treaty, the four-power pact, and the nine-power treaty; and (4) that the United States should participate in the Genoa conference if in the unbiased judgment and opinion of the President and the secretary of state such participation is deemed a necessary sequel to the arms conference or advisable under the present conditions, the extent of the participation to be determined by the attitude and manifest determination of all nations to better the international economic situation."

LLOYD BRAY IS ELECTED PRESIDENT OF Y. M. C. A.

(Collegiate Press Service)
Elon College, N. C., Feb. 13, 1922—After the regular chapel services here this morning, a meet of the Y. M. C. A. was called for the purpose of electing officers for the next term. Lloyd J. Bray, the vice-president for this session, was elected president for the coming year. P. D. Rudd was elected vice-president and M. Z. Rhodes secretary. The Y. M. C. A. here has proved an active organization on the campus this year and, with the officers elected promises to hold its place among the religious activities the coming year.

The Carolina Glee Club is coming next Saturday night and is going to give a most interesting program in the Auditorium. Let's give it the same reception that we always have and show them a real "full" house. Tickets will be on sale next week by all the seniors for 50 cents. The doors will open at 8:00 o'clock promptly, the performance starting at 8:30. No reserved seats, so come early and get the one you want!

HISTORY IN SONG

The Tech of M. I. T. has discovered a scheme which will enable the laboring history student to remember historical names without any effort whatever. It is this: Just associate the name with some popular song. Below are given some illustrations of how the scheme works:

Mary, Queen of Scots—"Oh, What a Pal Was Mary."

Diogenes—"A Good Man is Hard to Find."

Nero—"Keep the Home Fires Burning."

Henry VIII—"I Used to Love You But It's All Over."

Paul Revere—"The Old Gray Mare, She Ain't What She Used to Be."

Mark Antony—"Wait'll You See Me With My Sweetie."

Columbus—"My Sailor Boy."

Elijah—"Swing Low, Sweet Chariot."

Darwin—"When You Were A Tulip and I Was a Big Red Rose."

The Prodigal Son—"Home Again Blues."

Bryan—"The Old Oaken Bucket."

George Washington—"Woodman, Spare That Tree."

Ditto, crossing the Delaware—"Sit Down, You're Rocking the Boat."

Adam—"Nobody's Baby."

Goliath—"Rock Me to Sleep."

Y. M. C. A. WORKERS HOLD MEETING IN GREENSBORO

The annual convention of Y. M. C. A. workers of North Carolina was held in Greensboro this week. The convention began Tuesday afternoon and lasted through Wednesday. About 150 persons were in attendance, including men from practically every Y. M. C. A. plant in the state.

One of the most interesting features of the Tuesday afternoon meeting was an address by John W. Pontius, of Columbus, Ohio, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Pontius illustrated the work of the Y. M. C. A. by means of a chart. Harry Snead, general secretary of the Lynchburg Y. M. C. A., was also a speaker at this session. He emphasized the need of an organized program in carrying out the work of the association. The Bible and other features go to make up this program. Mr. Snead brought out the importance of giving the members something to do in order to keep up the right spirit and told of the work being done at Lynchburg.

The annual report which was read at this session shows that the organization has made substantial gains in the work of each department in the past year.

Charles R. Towson, of New York, international secretary of the Y. M. C. A., was the chief speaker at the banquet held at the local Y. M. C. A. Tuesday night. Mr. Towson emphasized character building as an essential duty. "Every man has the right to realize that there is no such thing as sustained efficiency that hasn't a character basis," declared Mr. Towson, and he further declared that it was the duty of the Y. M. C. A. workers to make every effort to build character in the places where they work. Mr. Towson stressed the work of the organization in the life of industry.

MADAME HAMMER TO APPEAR HERE WITH NORWEGIAN CO.

the plays she is acting, with her tremendous dramatic power make her presentations a rare treat for lovers of the theatre.

Mr. Fjell will assume the stellar role of Solness in The Master Builders and will be featured as Jacob Engstrand, the carpenter, in Ghosts. Mr. Fjell is one of the greatest actors of Norway. When he left Norway about eight years ago, he was considered by his countrymen the greatest living Norwegian tenor. The University of Christiania selected him to be the chief soloist of the Students' Chorus which toured America some years ago. Mr. Fjell is fully as great in every way as Madame Hammer. He plays with such power, daring originality, and finesse that American critics associate his acting with that of Emmanuel Reicher and Richard Mansfield.

It is seldom that actors of the rank and ability of Madame Hammer and Mr. Fjell appear in the smaller cities and the students of the college and the people of Greensboro are exceptionally fortunate in having them here.

into two main heads: "Life in General" and "College Life in Particular." One of the most attractive parts of it will be the feature section. This includes the college superlative types, prettiest, best all-round, the two wits, wisest, most athletic and best dancer; the Coraddi feature; the Dramatic Club feature pictures; and "Mirthful Meditations," the fun section. The pictures will be on special paper in sepia and finished unusually attractive. There is a special scene section for the pictures of the campus. These are eight in number and will present an almost complete review of the college scenery. A different arrangement has been made for the officers' pictures from last year's method. A special border has been made by Miss Woody for the senior section, a stock border being used for the rest of the book.

The "Pine Needles" is dedicated to "Our Fathers" and to Dr. Foust in particular as "Our College Father." The picture of Dr. Foust will precede the dedication.

The staff of the annual has worked diligently. Ruby Hodgins has had charge of the pictures; Augusta Sapp is literary editor; Mary John is in charge of the classes and Vera Keech, the organizations.

Aid has been given the staff by Miss Peterson, Professor Thornton and Professor Hurley.

The Freshman number of the Coraddi will come off the press about the first of March. This promises to be one of the best issues that has been gotten out this year. The Freshman class has done splendid work for this issue and it is certain that their number will be of great interest to all the students.

SENIORS AND SOPHS DINE TOGETHER ON ST. VALENTINE'S DAY

Freshmen And Juniors Enjoy Occasion in Spencer Dining Hall

Carrying out the holiday spirit of Saint Valentine's day, the Seniors asked the Sophomores to dinner on Tuesday evening in the West dining hall. Immediately after the other students were seated each senior dressed in a white sport skirt and a dark sport coat came in with a sophomore. The sophomores looked attractive dressed in dainty white frocks covered with hearts.

The dining hall was decorated in valentine effect with crepe paper and large red hearts, with a valentine at each place.

The freshmen and juniors took advantage of the unusual opportunity offered and dined together in the Spencer Dining room. The freshmen had placed tiny candy hearts at the places for their sister class, and decorated the tables with red and blue crepe paper, the colors of the two classes.

The menu consisted of: Pork Chops; Buttered English Peas; Yams with Marshmallows; Butter; Sliced bread; Celery; Olives; Tutti Frutti Ice Cream; Cake and Mints.

ELON PLAYERS LOSE B. B. GAME TO CAROLINA SQUAD

(Collegiate Press Service)

Elon College, N. C., Feb. 13, 1922—A special train carrying four coaches of Elon College "Pep" arrived at Chapel Hill last Saturday evening in time for the Elon-Carolina basketball game. Nearly two hundred Elon supporters witnessed the battle. The Elon lads are credited with putting up a game fight against odds but with the handicap of a strange floor, went down to defeat at the hands of the powerful Carolina squad. It is the consensus of opinion here that Elon supporters have shown more real pep and enthusiasm this season than ever before.

One of the most attractive theater programs for the spring in Greensboro is the performance of Anna Pavlova, the famous Russian dancer who will appear here on March 3. She will have with her an entire troupe and orchestra.

DR. BLAIN LECTURES TO STUDENTS AT DAVIDSON

(Collegiate Press Service)

Davidson, Feb. 11.—Dr. Blain, who has for some years past been stationed at Hanchow, China, delivered a lecture to the students on Hanchow and Hanchow College, China. This college is the only one in the province and there are about two hundred and fifty students enrolled there. The object of the lecture was to start a campaign in order to enlarge Hanchow College. There is a movement on hand, under the direction of the Y. M. C. A., to raise one thousand dollars which shall be used to establish a chair at Hanchow College which shall be filled by a Davidson man. The results of the campaign have not yet been determined but the first returns indicate that the thousand dollars have been raised.

N. C. COLLEGE REORGANIZES PLAN OF ADMINISTRATION

list. There is no doubt that all the great colleges and universities of the country will give this same recognition. Thus, this organization should conform in the main to that which has been worked out thru long experience by other institutions of like grade.

At the first meeting of the faculty last fall, a committee on reorganization was elected by the members of the faculty. This committee collected information from some of the leading colleges and universities of the country, and also invited Dr. George H. Zook, of the National Bureau of Education, to confer with it. Dr. Zook spent two days at the college, studying the present organization, and finally made a report to the committee endorsing the essential features of the plan that had already been tentatively worked out by the committee. At a later date the committee made its report to the Faculty Council. The report recommended to the Board of Directors a thorough reorganization of the faculty of the college. It makes provisions for the following changes:

1. The classification of the faculty into professors, assistant professors, instructors and assistants.
2. The division of the college into:

- A. The College of Liberal Arts and Science. (Includes the organized faculties of Social Sciences, Language and Literature, Mathematics, and Sciences).
 - B. The School of Education.
 - C. The School of Music.
 - D. The School of Home Economics.
 - E. The Graduate Division.
 - F. The Extension Division.
 - G. The Summer Session Division.
3. A general faculty composed of a president, the instructional force and the chief officers of the administration.

4. A Faculty Council composed of the president, deans, professors, etc., and five assistant professors elected by the general faculty.

5. An administrative body known as the cabinet, which shall be composed of the deans and the chairmen of the faculties.

This recommendation was submitted to the Board of Directors at its meeting on February 4, and the Board decided to act upon that part of the report dealing with the organization of the college into schools, divisions and faculties, and to organize the Cabinet by the election of members of that body. The following members of the faculty were elected by the Board for the offices named:

1. Vice-President of the College, W. C. Jackson.
2. Dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, W. C. Smith.
3. Dean of the School of Education, Professor John M. Cook.
4. Dean of the School of Music, Professor Wade R. Brown.
5. Dean of the School of Home Economics, Miss Blanche E. Shaffer.
6. Chairman of the Faculty of Language and Literature, W. S. Barney.
7. Member of the Cabinet at large, Miss Virginia Ragsdale.

A chairman of the Faculty of Mathematics and Science will be elected at a later meeting of the Board.

Prof. E. C. Lindeman, of the Sociology department, will deliver two lectures at the meeting of the National Education Association which will be held in Chicago from Feb. 27 to March 3. The subjects of his papers are "Problems of Rural Education From the Standpoint of Sociology" and "The Next Step in Community Center Movement."

PROF. A. C. HALL SPEAKS AT COMMUNITY MEETING

Prof. A. C. Hall, of the North Carolina College English department, spoke at a community meeting at the West Lee Street Graded School Thursday evening on "The New Conception of Labor." Dorothy Clement, college cheer-leader, led a community sing and Margaret Bedell contributed several songs to the program, accompanied by Miss Clement.

In his address Professor Hall spoke of the changing conception of labor and the education for labor that had lagged behind. "The world has been a long time in recognizing that labor confers honor on the man not that confers honor on labor," he said. He declared that the world's conception of labor has undergone a change and that this same world has not been as rapid as she should in adopting her education for labor to this change. The leaders are only now recognizing that changed conditions demand changed education for the changed labor conditions.

Miss Clement in her usual capable way led the community singing, getting quite a volume of harmony out of the audience. Miss Bedell's songs were "Uncle Rome," by Homer and "The Ole Ark's A' moverin'."

CAROLINIAN COMBATS GIANT FORCES TO GREET PUBLIC

Fate and bad weather seemed to have conspired together to keep the CAROLINIAN from making its appearance this week but in spite of numerous handicaps the sturdy paper appears on the scene as per usual. First bad weather and bad colds sent V. Terrell, the assignment editor, to the infirmary. Then the report that Dr. Foust commanded all to keep to shelter caused Polly Lucas to hie her steps away from the CAROLINIAN office and its chill and came near preventing Ghostie Sadler from her Wednesday job. To cap the climax Nell Craig, the make-up queen, almost ended her unhappy lot by sitting on the floor, unawares and most suddenly. Her injuries were slight except as to dignity. A near tragedy in the shape of the almost-wedding of the "Lady of the Cabinet" on her week-end trip filled the CAROLINIAN'S cup of woe. Editor-in-chief Cantrell almost departed this life in the dentist's chair and was completely disabled for a short time. Only Mizelle, the faithful, remained untouched and even she was unduly excited by the arrival of a baby sister in her family circle. On the whole it was a bunch rather much under the weather and it's a wonder they and the CAROLINIAN were able to survive.

Mildred Price, a former member of '22, was one of the "sparkling group of chorus girls" in the "Chimes of Normandy," a comic opera, given under the direction of the department of Music of the University of North Carolina. Miss Price is a member of the senior class of the University.

Tell," by Ray Vaughn. The opera is based upon the events in the life of William Tell, the man who invented Limburger Cheese and his family. The characters are:

William Tell, a wealthy cheese maker—Frank Cox.

Mrs. Tell, his wife—W. F. Fulton. Wilhemina Tell, the bewitching daughter—Charles Nichols.

Willie Tell, the heir—Albert Hewitt.

Gessler, an Austrian officer—LeGrand Everett.

The Guardian Angel of the Tell family—Wood Williams.

McElhinney, the butler—Mr. Leslie Stauber.

The Carolina Glee club has appeared at the college almost annually in the past and every performance has been recognized as up to the standard. The program offered this time, according to authorities, is most likely to be of interest to everyone who goes to hear it.

DR. FOUST REQUESTS THAT STUDENTS RESTRICT VISITS

At a meeting of the students after the regular chapel exercises last Friday morning, Dr. Foust requested them to dispense with all unnecessary week-end visits away from the college. The students voted to restrict the out-of-town visiting to one permission during the period of time between Christmas and Easter holidays. This privilege will be granted to those who have done good work and who have attended classes regularly. Dr. Foust made this request on account of the inclement weather and the large amount of sickness throughout the state.
