Students Busy With Orientation

UNC-G was once again the scene of a flurry of activity as the incoming freshmen and returning upperclassmen arrived on campus.

The Orientation Assistants, who came much earlier than anyone else, were here for days preparing for the influx of new bewildered students. Activities have been planned to help the newcomers get acquainted with the school as well as other students. Wednesday night, the dining service held a cook-out in the freshman quad to welcome new students in a slightly less formal atmosphere. Free ice cream and music were given away to all comers.

Thursday, freshmen were to meet with their advisors to get acquainted with each other and some of the administrative policies. They were also encouraged to take advantage of the opportunity to tour the campus with a capable guide, and familiarize themselves with their new surroundings. All over the campus, small groups were seen with several hands pointing in various directions.

Throughout Friday some will be taking assorted tests and making appointments--with the bookstore and advisors and new-found friends and the Health Center and advisors and the Speech Department and advisors again. The day will be somewhat free for freshmen while the upperclassmen go to the rat race--ahhh registration over in the gyms. Saturday is the newcomers day at the circus, as it is known to the experienced.

Throughout the Orientation period, the freshmen are invited to participate in various activities on campus. The Masqueraders will have a performance, the Student Government Association and all of the student organizations will have OPEN HOUSE in their offices from 2 until 5 Friday afternoon and everyone is urged to drop by each or all of them. Later that day at 5:00 or 5:30, students are urged to drop by the Wesley House on Walker Ave. and Gray Drive to meet people. Elliott Hall, the student union, sponsors several ways to pass the time and all students are urged to explore its halls to find some of them.

Classes will begin on Monday morning and continue as usual.

Saturday the freshmen will have to face the frustration of registration.

The bookstore is filled again with textbooks, lines of students and checkbooks

Comment

As you read this you are making plans for your first year at UNC-G. This issue of THE CAROLINIAN is our way of saying we are glad you chose this institution and we hope your time here will provide some of your best memories to recall in the future. This issue of Cary is also to introduce us to you.

Each year as a new staff takes over THE CAROLINIAN, it is customary for the new editor to issue a statement of policy. This statement serves the purpose of clarifying the position of THE CAROLINIAN and its staff, that is explaining to the students what the student newspaper is and where it is going.

Next year the UNC-G student newspaper will strive toward a more efficient staff which will produce a more professional newspaper.

We will continue to print all signed letters to the editor within the bounds of decency and good taste. They should contain no more than 350 words and should be typed double-spaced on a 60-space line.

All unsigned editorials are by the editor-in-chief and guest editorials are indicated as such. Each editor has a right to express his/her opinion and opposing viewpoints may also be presented.

Opinion pieces, those appearing with by-lines, such as columns, features and news articles, are observations of the author and, since the name appears with it, he or she has the right to express an opinion as he or she sees fit.

As for general copy, we will rely heavily on staff-written material. We do, however, accept any news and feature articles or columns submitted, but we ask that they also be typed double-spaced on a 60-space line. Deadlines are 4:00 p.m. on Tuesday for the Thursday edition and 4:00 p.m. on Friday for the Monday issue. These are enforced and we accept no copy after that except in emergency cases.

Anyone with an announcement of any kind is asked to mail or bring it to THE CAROLINIAN office in 201 Elliott Hall. These are included in a calendar listed under Happenings/Events, which announces all activities on campus. Student ads are printed free of charge while others cost $.50 each time they appear. These are found in the Etcetera column.

There is a suggestion folder outside THE CAROLINIAN office door. Those with ideas for stories or ways to improve some aspect of Cary are urged to let us know about them. Be specific so we'll understand completely.

We hope to have regular office hours in the fall. The offices will be open in the afternoons, but the exact hours won't be announced until school starts.

We now issue a formal invitation to each and every student to join the staff of the UNC-G student newspaper. There are many advances which THE CAROLINIAN can and will make next year and advance is what THE CAROLINIAN is all about.

Editor's Note: Included in this issue are descriptions of many of the campus organizations. We encourage all students to read the articles carefully, go and talk with the members during Open House Friday and get involved this year.

WHAT HATH GOD WROUGHT?

Such a question, highly favored by biblical scholars, Samuel F. B. Morse and gaggles of dazed and dispirited freshmen, bespeaks a desire to create order out of chaos. Certainly no greater chaos can exist than that forced upon the clouded mind of a new student deep within this orientation process. Even those in the academic cognoscent fear to speak in absolutes when asked to explain institutional procedures and practices. Therefore, with great trepidation, I speak to you concerning a facet of our question—Elliott Hall.

Facilities—places to go—places to be. Three floors, no waiting.

Ground floor. You'll find a room with machines—the automational answer to hunger and thirst. This, the Robot Room, offers opportunity for both the enterprising student of mechanistic development and the harried student of humanity to stop and leisurely study their respective interests. Nearby, the Game Room—pool tables ($1.00/hr.), ping-pong ($2.20 per ball; $.05 to rent), foosball, and pinball—stands ready to fulfill the gambling urge or the competitive spirit.

One of the most striking and vividly decorated areas on campus is the Neo-Black Lounge next to the Game Room. These pleasant surroundings offer the student a quiet place to talk or read or simply be. Also nearby, the Benbow Room is one of two lounges with a color TV. If one tires of the vast wasteland, there is also herein contained study tables, a piano, and pay phone. Benbow further serves as home base for the Union Coffee House, a rather frequent extravaganza featuring talent—both local and national—to tickle the fancy and lighten the load. Well, gentle reader, we've come now to the Old Wing—Ground Floor. The new enlarged Bookstore will speak well enough for itself as you scramble for texts, notes and crayons. To speed things along this year, BankAmericard will be honored (also cherished and revered). At the other end of the Old Wing stand the Soda Shop and Dogwood Room—eateries catering to faculty and students at low prices and good times. The Town Students' Lounge is there, too. Go in, familiarize yourself with these people. They are friendly and often quite harmless.

Hot Zing! We're on second floor. Four bright lounges (two in Old Wing, two in New) await the weary physical form for rest or study—McIver, Sharp (with TV), Joyner, Alderman. Browse around this floor also. Note the quaint hand-carved student workers behind their information desks. Visit scenic Cone Ballroom—home of lectures, movies, study breaks, concerts, ad infinitum plus. Learn of the different offices: Old Wing—Dean of Students, President of Elliott Hall, International Student Advisor (& Asst. to the Dean of Students), Asst. Dir. of Elliott Hall in charge of Catering; New Wing—Director of Student Services, Asst. Dir. of Elliott Hall in charge of Reservations. Learn of the colorful native rituals: (1) Checking out a listening room for music or quiet study at New Information Desk. (Also cards and games.) (2) Buying stamps—N.I.D. (3) Reserving a lounge—N.I.D. (4) Duplicating services—N.I.D. (5) Posters printed—Old Information Desk. (6) Receiving refund money from vending machines (Coke, Pepsi, candy)—O.I.D. (7) Lost & Found—O.I.D.

Study carefully the open lounge in front of the New Information Desk, for it shall soon be magically transformed into a mini-gallery for artistic endeavors of all kinds. Last, but certainly not least on second floor, one should visit the Town Students' Club-Room in the Old Wing—once again very friendly, but maybe not so harmless.

CIRUNA OPEN TO STUDENTS

CIRUNA (the UNC-G International Relations Club) is open to all UNC-G students with an interest in international affairs. There are no dues, but there are many interesting activities.

Some of the activities CIRUNA took part in during the 1971-72 school year included UN Day, in cooperation with the Greensboro JCs; an international students retreat at Piney Lake; a trip to New York in the spring where members were addressed by speakers from the Soviet Union, Pakistan, India and the Congo; and many interesting lectures and discussions. Some of the topics discussed included African unity, its problems; Mexican music, racial prejudice in South Africa and China. Films on India and Africa were presented.

Proposed ideas for the coming year include the UN trip, of course, discussions on Bangladesh, Pakistan, Vietnam and Northern Ireland. An International Foods Festival has also been proposed.

Meetings are held monthly. Everyone is invited. Anyone desiring information about the club should contact Linda Revis, President, I-House or Dr. Claude Chauvigne, Faculty Advisor, 315 McIver.

I THINK IT'S IMMORAL.

SO THE QUESTION IS WHAT TO DO WITH THOSE THOUSANDS OF YOUNG MEN WHO THOUGHT THE WAR WAS IMMORAL YEARS BEFORE WE THOUGHT THE WAR WAS IMMORAL, AND DESERTED TO CANADA AND SWEDEN?

SHOULDN'T THEY BE GIVEN AMNESTY?

Atmosphere At St. Mary's

St. Mary's House is the Episcopal Student Center for the University, organized to provide an atmosphere where students and faculty can meet together to worship, participate in discussions or just relax.

A UNC-G girl supervises playground activity

To fulfill these needs, St. Mary's House sponsors weekly suppers and discussions and a variety of special programs, including such things as work with the elderly, tutoring on a one-to-one basis, and a nursery school. (Oreinted this past fall, this school is one in which university students participate in community outreach by instructing neighborhood children.) Participation in activities at St. Mary's House is not limited to Episcopalians, but rather is open to all interested students and faculty.

For more information call St. Mary's House at 272-4672 or Ceilia Felder at 379-5180.

Interfaith Council Cooperates

The purpose of the Interfaith Council is to foster understanding, cooperation, joint activity and the development of a sense of unity-in-diversity among the religious organizations connected with the University. The Council hopes to achieve this purpose through study, discussion, worship, social action, and community service.

Activities planned include a homemade-ice-cream party, at which time information about religious activities on campus and opportunities and activities in the city of Greensboro will be provided. There will be some panel discussions on problems in the campus community. A Moravian Love Feast will be held later in the semester.

Voting members of the Council are elected by the members of the organized religious groups on campus. Each organization has two members on the Council. Members from non-organized religious groups on campus are entitled to one non-voting member on the Council.

The Council has four officers and two advisors. The officers are: President, Edith Eddleman; Vice-President, Caroline Fry; Secretary, Helen Kelly; Treasurer, Miles Thompson. Advisor from the faculty is Dr. Jack Jezorek; and advisor from the campus ministers is the Reverend Joe Flora.

Interfaith council meets regularly. The time and place will be posted on the IFC bulletin board located across from the new wing desk in Elliott Hall. Meetings are open to the entire student body.

WESLEY HOUSE ACTIVE

The Wesley Foundation of the United Methodist Church, directed by Rev. Doug Camp, seeks to be an active, liberating church on the campus. An active ministry takes place at the Wesley House where students gather for common worship, study, and fellowship.

Each week there is a program dealing with an issue, ethical concern, social problem, or some other vital topic that stimulates Christian growth and thinking. One week students may be participating in a simulation game regarding population problems and world resources, and another week there may be a movie on Eastern religions or a speaker dealing with educational reform. Worship is emphasized so that each person can contribute in some way to celebrate the Christian faith. Personal growth groups will meet each week to help a person become more aware of his own feelings and identity. Biblical inquiry and study are encouraged to help the student better understand the Christian faith and doctrines.

Not only does the Wesley Foundation care for the student's personal development but also challenges the student to be involved whether it be in campus politics, ecology club or dorm social committee. As an active concerned body of students, Wesley cares for the community and its needs. Students can participate in a tutoring program to help disadvantaged kids from poor families pr work in the neighborhood recreational program with kids from various backgrounds or raise money to aid foster children, or visit with elderly in the neighborhood.

Overall the Wesley Foundation cares for each person through programs, study, encounter groups, personal counseling and recreation, then it encourages each person to carry that love back into the greater community and university.

RA-- FOR RECREATION

The Recreation Association is set up to provide the students of UNC-G with enjoyment and relaxation in various forms of recreation. Since the organization is run on student activity fees, all students who have paid their activity fees are automatically members. As a member, any student is entitled to use all of the facilities and participate in any or all of the functions provided for fun and entertainment without having to be a champion.

Recreation Association opens up its facilities during Open Rec, Monday-Thursday nights from 7:00-9:00 and Saturday afternoon from 3:00-5:00, beginning Monday August 28. At this time, students may bowl, rollerskate, exercise in the weight room, and play basketball, volleyball, badminton, ping-pong and billiards. The swimming pool is open Monday and Wednesday 5:00-6:30, Tuesday and Thursday 6:30-8:00, and Saturday 3:00-5:00. The pool supplies the swimsuits and towels, students supply the bathing caps.

In addition to Open Rec, Recreation Association sponsors many clubs including folk dance, bicycling officials, softball, synchronized swimming, gymnastics, ski conditioning, archery and self-defense. Regular attendance is not required. An informal come when you please atmosphere is always maintained for the convenience and pleasure of the students.

Special Events during the course of the year are a major part of the Recreation Association. Tentative plans call for a Halloween Carnival, a variety of student-faculty events, and the annual Co-Rec Play Day.

The Recreation Association operates to please the students. If there are any activities that students would like to see RA provide, let them know. They welcome all suggestions.

A new Fine Arts Committee has been added to the programming, with hopes for a periodic Art Gallery to be set up in the Lounge outside the New Desk, between the desk and the music listening rooms. The Civic Music Association and Performing Artists Series are again open to all students who have paid their activity fee, free of charge with an I.D. Programs this year include:

- Oct. 8 Obernkirchen Children's Choir*
- Oct. 18 Harkness Ballet
- Oct. 25 National Theatre of the Deaf
- Jan. 17 William Dopppman*
- Jan. 30-31 Louis-Nikolais Dance Companies
- Feb. 12 Voices, Inc.
- Feb. 14 Marilyn Horne*
- March 7 Bamburgh Symphony Orch.*

No guest tickets are available to Civic Music* programs as the association sells season tickets only. This is a Greensboro organization with which UNC-G cooperates, while the Performing Artists Program is a University production.

E H Council

The student programming committee for the Union is the Elliott Hall Council, composed of a representative elected from every dorm on campus and the town students. Members-at-large are selected from the Council of the previous year by interviews, and the 8-member Executive Board selected in the same way as the members-at-large.

The election of Elliott Hall Council Members takes place at the beginning of Fall semester. Executive Board members will be visiting each dorm for an informative talk about the duties of a Council member. They will then return to interview students interested in a position as dorm representative to Council. Those names are then submitted to the dorm in an election.

Members-at-large, headed this year by Doris Peeler, work on all Elliott Hall committees and on Recreation. Executive Board members each chair a committee. This is the core committee of the Council, headed by the Elliott Hall President, Sandie Barnes. Board members and their areas of interest are:

Marcia McManus—Coffeehouse; Bill Messenger—Mini-Concert; Dianne Scott—Dances; Fran Garrison—Movies; Janie McIntyre—Social; Emily Wheatley—Fine Arts; Nancy Payne—Publicity; and Bebe Byrum—Public Relations.

At the last of September, following the election of the Council Members, an Activities Fair will be held in Elliott Hall so that students interested in working with Elliott Hall, yet with no position on the Council, can then come over and sign up to work with the specific areas as a committee member.

Activities for new students in Elliott Hall include the Open House, Friday, Aug. 25 from 2:00-5:00. During those same hours, the Elliott Hall Council will be manning a Bingo Bash in the Benbow Room. Prizes include Dunkin' Donuts, Pizza Hut certificates, Janus Theatre tickets, Jokers Three certificates, and Baskin & Robbins Ice Cream Cones! Come on out and give your Bingo luck a try!

Freshmen, if you finally think you are beginning to understand it all, remember Gen. William Westmoreland who, in 1965, reported that he saw the light at the end of the tunnel. Good luck!

THEATRE INVITATION

by Robert Rutland

Theatre is one of the few fine arts which requires a unified group effort. From the conception of a theatre piece to its final production before a live audience, the minds and hands of many people have united in a common love and dedication to the resulting art form.

Students of UNC-G who have such an interest in the art of theatre have an opportunity to participate in dramatic productions through the student theatre organization, The Masqueraders. To become a full member of Masqueraders, a student is required to work 400 hours in the UNC-G Theatre. The work includes any supervised work done in the performance or production phases of the UNC-G Theatre. Meetings of the Masqueraders are held once a month. All students, including those who have not yet attained the voting privileges of full membership, are welcome to attend. Once is attained, members are required to spend 75 hours per semester in the theatre to remain a member.

Besides becoming closely linked to the creative work of the UNC-G Theatre, members of Masqueraders are entitled to all the benefits of membership. Last year's members sponsored an open house at the beginning of the fall semester, a party at Christmas and another in the late spring. Also, trips to Washington, D. C., and the Southeastern Theatre Conference were sponsored by Masqueraders.

The Masqueraders offer much to any interested student at UNC-G. In turn, members of the Masqueraders offer much to the creative excellence of the UNC-G Theatre. It is the hope of the Masqueraders that each new student at UNC-G will take the time to visit Taylor Theatre and inquire about Masqueraders. It takes many dedicated minds and hands to operate quality theatre. The Masqueraders of UNC-G long to extend the influence of the theatre arts to all students. Our invitation to you is sincere; we hope you will join hands and minds with us, The Masqueraders, in hopes of supporting theatre excellence here at UNC-G.

TSA Busy

The Town Students Association is organized for the purpose of integrating the campus students with the town students through adequate communications, as well as for providing organized activities for town students.

Any undergraduate student living off campus is a de facto member of the TSA. Activities planned for next year include 1) publication of a Town Crier; 2) Book Exchange; 3) Luncheons for town students; 4) Mixers; 5) Tubing Trips.

Any suggestions for other activities may be turned in to the TSA office Room 208 Elliott Hall, phone 5491. Any town student wishing to work with any of these projects is also urged to contact the TSA office or one of the officers. The officers are Mark Carpenter, President; Karen Harris, Vice-President; and Ann Anderson, Secretary-Treasurer.

Volunteers are especially needed for the Town Crier and the luncheons.

School Of Music Varied

The School of Music provides performance opportunities for all UNC-G students through participation in the various musical organizations on campus, both choral and instrumental. Non-music majors are encouraged to participate and should contact the director of any of the following organizations to arrange for an audition. Auditions are held prior to and during both fall and spring registration. (School of Music performance organizations offer the option of registration with or without credit.)

INSTRUMENTAL ORGANIZATIONS

University Concert Band: Raymond Gariglio, director; office, 257 Music Annex. Meets Monday and Thursday, 4:10 to 5:30 in Room 50, Music Annex. One hour credit. Performs literature from all eras, including contemporary works for this medium.

University Jazz Ensemble: Raymond Gariglio, director; office, 257 Music Annex. Meets Wednesday, 4:10 to 5:30 and Friday 3:10 to 4:00 in Room 50, Music Annex, one hour credit. Performance of literature encompassing all of the jazz idioms, with emphasis on contemporary compositions.

University Sinfonia: George Dickieson, director; office 208 Music Building.

Jaycees Is Service Group

The Collegiate Jaycees is a community and campus service group which works closely with the Greensboro Jaycees to help them with many of their projects. Several projects in the past year included the state-wide Environment Rally, a Christmas party for underprivileged children, McLeansville Prison book drive, March of Dimes Walk-a-thon, Cancer Society project and UNC-G Orientation Committee.

As one can see it was a very successful year and this year should be even better! Any student, male or female, is eligible for membership at anytime during the year. However, prospective members are urged to become involved as soon as possible. Collegiate Jaycees is a club for people who want to become involved and have a good time while helping others through their involvement.

Meets Monday and Wednesday, 4:10 to 5:30 in T.V. Studio, Carmichael Building. One hour credit. Fundamentally a string orchestra which occasionally utilizes a small complement of winds. Performs chamber orchestra literature of all periods.

University Symphony Orchestra: David Moskovitz, director; office, 206 Music Building. Meets Tuesday and Friday, 4:10 to 5:30 in Room 50, Music Annex. One hour credit. Full symphony orchestra, performing important works from the symphonic repertoire of the 18th, 19th, and 20th centuries.

CHORAL ORGANIZATIONS

University Chorale: Richard Cox, director; office 111 Music Building. Meets Wednesday and Friday, 12:10 to 1:00 and on Monday from 4:10 to 5:30 in Room 251, Music Annex. One hour credit.

The University Chorale is a group of 33-45 men and women, largely

NURSES LEARN

The purpose of the Student Nurses' Association is to aid in the preparation of student nurses for the assumption of professional responsibilities. Membership is open to all students in the nursing program and to all freshmen and sophomores who intend to enter the program on this campus. The meetings are held monthly and dues are usually paid early in the first semester.

At each of the meetings is a guest speaker, or sometimes a panel, to present topics the organization is interested in. In the past some programs have been concerned with abortion, nursing legislation, and family planning.

Each year SNA tries to participate in as many community projects as possible. This past year members collected for the Heart Association, sang Christmas carols to hospitalized children and visited with shut-in people in the community.

These are just a few of the ways members attempt to learn responsibility. If you have ideas, are genuinely interested in mankind, and want to enjoy the fellowship of others in your major, then SNA is the place for you! Please come to the meetings (signs as to time and place will be posted) and share ideas and energy. Do something!

upperclassmen and graduate students. In the past several years the Chorale has sung often with the University Symphony Orchestra, and occasionally with the Greensboro and the North Carolina Symphony Orchestras. During the 1971-72 season the Chorale appeared at the convention of the American Choral Directors Association in Tallahassee and appeared as the chorus in the world premiere of Jack Jarrett's opera Cyrano de Bergerac.

University Choir: Richard Cox, director; office, 111 Music Building. Meets Tuesday and Thursday, 4:10 to 5:30 in Room 251, Music Annex. One hour credit.

The University Choir is a group of 70-80 sophomore, junior and senior women students. As the oldest established choral organization on campus, the Choir traditionally sings for such university functions as Founder's Day and Commencement. The Choir often sings joint concerts with men's glee clubs, such as in recent seasons the one from N. C. State University. In recent years the Choir has sung in such cities as Atlanta, Memphis, Daytona Beach, and New York.

Women's Glee Club: William McIver, director; office, 201 Music Building. Meets Monday and Wednesday, 4:10 to 5:30 in Recital Hall, Music Building. One hour credit.

The Women's Glee Club is a group of 80-85 women, 85 per cent of whom are freshmen. This group annually takes part in the Christmas concert at UNC-G and during the 1971-72 season was used as a demonstration group at the choral clinic for high school women held at the university. The high light of the spring semester was a joint performance of Brahms' Requiem with the Men's Glee Clubs of UNC-G and Hampden-Sydney.

Men's Glee Club: William McIver, director; office, 201 Music Building. Meets Tuesday and Thursday, 4:10 to 5:30 in Recital Hall, Music Building. One hour credit. The Men's Glee Club is the newest of the university's choral organizations. It is made up of approximately 25 members and has performed for the North Carolina Educator's Association as well as appearing on Christmas and Spring concerts at UNC-G. The chorus is designed to give both music and non-music majors the opportunity to sing some of the great literature written for male choruses.

Maypole Dance at International Festival at I House

I-HOUSE NOT JUST DORM

International House is not just a dorm. It is a group of interesting and interested people. All foreign students and those interested in International affairs are encouraged to live in I-House. There is a French floor, a German-Russian floor, a Spanish floor and an International floor.

Many activities center at I-House, including French, German and Spanish food festivals. Guest lectures are frequent and the residents are included in many special activities, such as entertaining all foreign performers who appear on campus. Anyone is eligible to live in I-House and everyone is welcome.

The biggest activity at I-House is the International Festival which is held each Spring, but don't wait until Spring to visit I-House, come visit now!

Math Majors In □○

The Square Circle Club is an organization whose membership includes all of the mathematics majors at UNC-G, though any other student with an interest in mathematics may also join the Club. One purpose of the Club is to enable the members to meet socially with each other and with the members of the faculty of the Mathematics Department. In this way, it is hoped that the student will get to know the faculty and the majors on an informal basis, and that professional information of concern to the student can be discussed in a more relaxed setting than may be the case in the usual student-teacher-classroom relationship.

The Square Circle Club meets three times each semester and the meetings usually consist of a program, followed by a social period and light refreshments. Programs are selected according to their potential interest to the average mathematics major. Past programs have featured talks by members of the faculty on mathematical topics, talks by members of the faculty on the curriculum and job-market in some areas of mathematics, and talks by people employed in mathematics-related positions in Greensboro. In addition, former UNC-G mathematics students have returned here after their graduation and have given talks describing their current jobs, and describing the relevance of their courses as students to their present occupations.

All mathematics majors are automatically members of the Square Circle Club any other student is cordially invited to attend any meeting.

NBS EASES PROBLEMS

The Neo-Black Society is a campus organization with the cause of futher the struggle for unity and equality for Black people of this and other countries. The struggle for these goals must first be started on this campus. In the past, Black students coming to this predominantly white institution have found that they have shared common problems. The formation of the Neo-Black Society has helped to ease their problems.

The Society carries out many projects throughout the year. These projects are aimed at the Black community and the betterment of conditions for Black people. One such project undertaken was a Christmas party given by the society for the orphans at Central Orphanage in Oxford, N.C. Small gifts were taken to the children and the event turned out to be a memorable experience for all involved.

The Neo-Black Society is presently composed of the Black upperclassmen who are enrolled at UNC-G. The membership is open to the student body. As with any organization on campus, there specific requirements that must be met by perspective members. Any freshman or transfer student interested in becoming a member of the Neo-Black Society should contact one of the officers or watch for an announcement of the first meeting and be sure to attend it.

The Neo-Black Society is headed this year by Jacki Morris as coordinator. The other officers are Leon Chestnut, co-coordinator, Carol Fox, Finance Committee Chairman, and Melinda Pennix, Social Committee Chairman. These officers are willing and able to serve the needs of the Society and keep it moving at a steady pace—ever progressing.

NBS PLANS MEETING

The Neo-Black Society will hold its first meeting of the year Wednesday, August 30, 1972 at 6:30 p.m. The meeting will be in Alexander Lounge of Elliott Hall. Any freshmen or transfer students interested in becoming members of the Neo-Black Society are urged to attend this meeting.

USHA- OPPORTUNITIES

USHA, the phonetic transcription for USHA, is the University Speech and Hearing Association.

The purpose of USHA is to create and to stimulate interest among UNC-G students in the field of Speech Pathology and Audiology. USHA offers varied learning experiences quite different from the formal course structure and helps to create a feeling of unity and fellowship among interested individuals.

USHA meets once a month in Elliott Hall. Any graduate or undergraduate student interested in speech and hearing may become an active member. The faculty of the Speech Department are honorary members and are invited to all meetings.

USHA is an excellent way to get acquainted with the Speech Department, its faculty and students. USHA offers its members informative programs with guest speakers, field trips, career information, and a lot of fun and good times, such as picnics at Piney Lake, the N.C. Speech and Hearing Association Convention and the National Convention.

Many USHA members become actively involved in volunteer work at the Greensboro Cerebral Palsy School, PATH School, or McIver School. Members are also presently at work on the newly formed USHA Scholarship, which will be awarded to a junior or senior speech major.

Officers for 1972-73 are as follows: President, Sarah Fleming; Vice-President, Debra Funderburke; Secretary, Robin Patton; Treasurer, Beth Moschler; and Parliamentarian, Pat Croom.

Students interested in the field of speech pathology and audiology should come to the September meeting—new members are always welcome.

AHEA HAS VARIETY

The student section of the American Home Economics Association is an organization affiliated with the state and national association comprised of undergraduate students enrolled in a home economics program.

A member receives the Journal of Home Economics monthly. Meetings are held once a month which are related to the various majors within home economics. Activities of AHEA have included Freshman Orientation Picnic, laboratory breaks, Christmas party for under privileged children, Senior Induction Picnic and Honors and Awards Banquet.

AHEA provides many opportunities for those majoring in Home Economics. Active membership is an excellent way of becoming involved in and knowledgeable about the home economics profession. One of the aims of the organization is to create a spirit of fellowship among home economics majors.

Any one interested in joining AHEA should contact Mrs. Mary Dickey.

Anyone interested in organizing a university Chess Club and team should contact Mike O'Doherty immediately at the Town Students Lounge 5090 or at 272-0631.

Buy and/or sell text books in room 210 Elliott Hall. Monday through Saturday from 1 until 5 p.m. Sunday 2 until 5 p.m. Exchange runs from August 25 until Sept. 15.

Forum Effective

by Nancy New

This is the year that could be . . . It's the year of catching the up and down swing of the curriculum changes; it's the year in which the students voice in academic matters will count. And it's the year the Academic Forum can prove to be an effective instrument for passing sound legislation for the benefit of the whole student body.

What is the Academic Forum you may ask, especially if you're a freshman or transfer student even a returning UNC-Ger. The Academic Forum, commonly referred to as the Forum, is a body of undergraduate students elected by individual departments within the University. The number of representatives is proportional to the size of the department.

The main purpose of the Forum is to research and discuss matters of academic policy and to make recommendations to the proper student/faculty committees. Examples of bill topics to be discussed at our weekly meetings this fall will include: a further investigation into the withdraw/failure policy, a possible extension of academic credit for field work in the city of Greensboro, and degree requirements for a minor degree. I've a lot more ideas but need your help. Discuss items of academic importance with your professors and department heads. Consider running for a seat on the Forum. Election procedures are now being worked out. These details will be posted close to the actual election date.

Interviews for an assistant secretary for Academic Affairs will be held beginning the week of Sept. 4th. This person will be responsible for the coordination of the Forum and chairing of the meetings. If you are interested contact Nancy New at 379-5616 for an interview.

SCORE COMMUNICATES

SCORE stands for Student Committee Organized for Research and Evaluation. The main purpose of SCORE is to try to improve communication between the students and the faculty and between the students and the administration. The two main activities of the organization are administering a campus wide Course & Teacher Evaluation each semester and conducting opinion polls throughout the year. SCORE also does research in areas of academic reform and is presently involved in selecting a new questionnaire to be used in the C & T Evaluation.

Any student interested in these areas is welcome to join. If you have any questions about SCORE, come by the office-Room 253-B Elliott Hall—during Open House on August 25.

Piney Lake is a recreation center owned by the University.

The center is open only to UNC-G students, faculty, staff and their guests. There is no charge for use of the facility. Admission is by University Identification. No alcoholic beverages are allowed.

Facilities at Piney Lake include swimming, boating, canoeing, sailing, sunbathing; recreational equipment, grills and picnic tables are available for your use. Overnight accommodations for university groups can sleep 64 in the cabin/lodge area and 24 in the big house.

Directions to Piney Lake (approximately 8½ miles from campus): Take Elm-Eugene Street or 220 South 1.3 miles South of I-85. Turn left on Vadalina and go 1-1.6 miles to dead end. Turn right on Pleasant Garden Road and go 1 mile (look for house). Turn left on Blumenthal Road and go 1 mile—Piney Lake is on the left—look for the fence and gate.

You are invited!

Pine Needles!

PINE NEEDLES—WORD AND PICTURE BOOK

The Pine Needles is the UNC-G yearbook which purports to record, pictorially and verbally, the events and institutions which give our university its character.

The 1973 Pine Needles will, we hope, be as graphically new and innovative as any yearbook published in this area. In words as well as design, the 1973 Pine Needles will achieve a level of uniqueness quite unlike that of any yearbook published on this campus.

Anyone who is interested in publishing a different concept in school history is welcome to join the staff at 206 Elliott Hall. The Pine Needles' and editor's phone number is 379-5407. Those students with previous yearbook experience are especially urged to stop by the office for a chat with the editors and staff. In simple terms, we need you.

We are especially in need of a darkroom technician to help carry out the graphics concepts planned for this book. If you are interested in joining a hard-working staff, do come by the office at 206 Elliott Hall. If no one is there, leave a note and we will get in touch with you.

do you (!) have any experience in darkroom laboratory work??

would you (!) like to serve the Pine Needles in a most valuable way??

if you are an experienced photographic laboratory technician, and are familiar with most black and white procedures (and hopefully some color), we would like very much to talk to you... come by the Pine Needles office (206 Elliott Hall) and leave your name and where you can be reached.

JOIN FORENSICS AND TRAVEL

The UNC-G Forensic Association will hold its first meeting on Tuesday, August 29 at 7:00 in Patterson Apts. across Spring Garden Street from the Administrative Building. Anyone interested, regardless of experience, is invited to come and find out what debate is all about. The CORADDI is the student literary magazine for UNC-G. its purpose is to develop a more involved appreciation for the fine arts and to encourage talented undergraduate students by publishing their work and other students work as examples of superior artistry.

Plans for this year include poetry and prose readings, art shows, lectures, and an Arts Festival in the spring. CORADDI is now accepting submissions for a Fall issue. The office of the editor is located in Room 205 on the third floor of Elliott Hall. For information, one should contact Liz Lustig, the Acting Editor, in the office or by phone: (379-)5572.

team will travel all over the United States meeting and competing with teams from all of the major colleges and universities in the country. Enjoy the thrill of verbal competition. Join the debate team and see America. For more information phone the Forensic office at 379-5562.

GERMAN CLUB TO OPEN

The German Club is open to all students interested in broadening their knowledge of Germany and its culture. Dues per semester are $5.75.

Some of the proposed activities of German Club for the 1972-73 school year include a talk by Dr. John G. Kunstmann about German folklore, an Oktoberfest, a trip to Old Salem in November, a German Christmas party emphasizing German culture, food, slides and carols.

Slides pertaining to Switzerland, Russia and Germany will also be seen throughout the year. Proposed affiliation with the National Federation of Students of Germany will be discussed.

Meetings will be every three weeks. Alle sind herzlich eingeladen!!
