School Has A Busy Schedule

by Yvonne Strader
Staff Writer

In the last 80 years customs and styles have undergone a complete change. The October 5, 1972 Founder's Day celebration is just as different from Dr. McIver's opening celebration on October 5, 1892 as styles and customs are.

However, things have changed slowly. Until almost 5 years ago, Founder's Day denoted a solemn occasion where dressy attire, attendance and long-winded speakers were mandatory.

With the relaxing of the social customs of the day, a change in Founder's Day has come. No longer is attendance required. Instead, events are planned to be inviting, relaxing and interesting to everyone.

The first event scheduled is a Happy Birthday Bar B Q between 4:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. in the Freshman Quad. The Alumni Association and the University Food Service are the hosts who will serve Bar B Q chicken and ribs and birthday cake. Rock music will be presented by the Panama Red Blues Band.

Casual dress is suggested for the Bar B Q and no change of clothes will be required to attend the convocation in Cone Ballroom, which is from 7:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. Dr. James Ferguson will preside and present the University Chorale, directed by Richard Cox. They will do a new arrangement by Jack Jarrett of "Litany of Commemoration."

The special theme of this Founder's Day convocation is the 50th Anniversary of the Theatre Program. Highlights of the program will be the McIver lecture, by Mrs. Ruth Mayleas, entitled, "Theatre in the Seventies: Politics and Patronage."

Since 1966, Mrs. Mayleas has been Director of the National Endowment for the Arts Program, a federal program. She is in charge of developing and administering grant-in-aid programs in the theatre arts on a nation-wide basis. She will reveal how appeals for support of theatre programs are dealt with within this national agency.

Student Accident Discussed

by Kate Steinert
News Editor

Much anxiety has been aroused by the Student Health Center's ambulance service on September 27 the morning of the accident in front of International House.

Witnesses reported the ambulance arrived fifteen minutes after the infirmary was notified and only one orderly was present while at least two men are necessary to remove the stretcher from the vehicle and return it carrying a patient.

In an interview Dr. William McRae, Director of the Health Center, explained many of the actions that immediately caused rumors.

Yes, the ambulance was 15 minutes late. But there is only one ambulance on campus and at the time of the accident was making another emergency call.

Due to insufficient funds, Dr. McRae said, the vehicle is not equipped with a radio. Thus the 15 minute lapse was the time it took the orderly to return to the infirmary and be notified of this emergency.

Many observers wondered why the county ambulance service arrived within 30 seconds of the school's ambulance. Reports show the county ambulance happened to be on Spring Garden Street and, being radioed of the wreck, was able to proceed to the scene immediately.

Nagi Lam was taken to Cone Hospital by the county ambulance service. Dr. McRae said that if he had been picked up by the school's ambulance, the student would still have been taken to Cone for treatment and observation.

It is true that one person is never to be dispatched to the scene of an accident, but the blunders in Wednesday's accident are twofold. According to the report Dr. McRae received, whoever called the infirmary stated that the county ambulance service had already been called. Thus the nurse on duty took it upon herself to dispatch our ambulance merely for assistance assuming one man would be sufficient.

Dr. McRae emphasized that two ambulance services are never to be called to the same emergency.

The nurse who took the call violated the regulations set forth by the infirmary

Maintenance Man To Rescue

by Tim Connolly

Controversy arose Wednesday when it was learned that the Health Center's maintenance man had been sent in the campus ambulance to pick up a student who had been hit by a car in front of International House.

Questions concerning the qualifications of the man as an ambulance attendant have arisen. Evidence available indicates that he is not properly trained in emergency first aid and several students are asking WHY he was sent to the scene of an emergency at all, much less alone.

Health Center reports state that the nurse who took the call reporting the accident was told that the county ambulance had also been notified. Therefore the campus ambulance was sent with one person to give assistance if needed.

Mrs. Carolyn Atwater,

the counselor in I House, called the Health Center to report the accident. She denies ever telling the nurse that the county ambulance had been called.

"I did not even know the (county) ambulance had been called," she said. "I told the nurse that we needed an ambulance because a boy had been knocked off his bicycle by a car." She added, "They did not send anyone capable of making a decision how badly the boy was hurt, if he could be moved, or if treatment was necessary."

The Health Center staff has said they were told by Mrs. Atwater that the county ambulance had been called. She denies telling them that because she didn't know herself. Regardless of who is right or wrong, the fact remains that the maintenance man was sent with the campus ambulance to the scene of an emergency. Besides that, witnesses say that once on the scene, he did not show that he had any idea of what to do.

The General Statutes of N. C. state "Every ambulance... when operated on an emergency mission in this State, shall be occupied by at least one person who possesses a valid ambulance attendant's certificate from the Board (State Board of Health)." (130-233)

To be certified as an ambulance attendant, the individual must have had Standard and Advanced first aid training, as well as some form of additional training.

The records of the Greensboro chapter of the American Red Cross reveal that he has had only Standard first aid training. The instructor has said that, in his opinion, the man is not capable of administering emergency first aid by himself. The question then is WHY WAS HE SENT?

The Health Center has a full-time ambulance crew

Bomb Threatens

Campus police received a call at 3:15 a.m. Saturday morning stating that a bomb had been placed in International House and was set for 15 minutes.

The dorm fire alarm was sounded, the residents cleared out and moved to Rosenthal gym to wait while the hall was searched. Jim Blevins, Director of Campus Security, two other police officers and the counselors from I House and Hinshaw dorm then searched the building.

The group found nothing. The girls were informed of what to look for and were told to look also.

The police have speculations of the identity of the caller, but no names. Anyone with information is urged to go to the police. All names and information given will be held in strictest confidence.

Comment .....

As the two articles on page one indicate, there is considerable disagreement over the events, and reasons behind them, which occurred Wednesday morning in connection with the accident in front of 1 House.

Witnesses are questioning the actions of the Health Center and the attendant sent in the campus ambulance. We think the questions are highly in order and we want answers.

Health Center records, as well as witnesses at the scene, report that only one man was sent in the student ambulance to pick up the injured student. It is common knowledge that at least two people are necessary to handle a stretcher, especially with a patient.

Even were only one man needed he should be qualified to do the job. Evidence available indicates that the man sent by the Health Center does not satisfy the state regulations for ambulance attendants. That he is not trained or qualified to hold the position is not his fault. He has been through only basic first-aid training and tried to learn but could not. However, a man who is NOT certified should NOT be sent out in an ambulance to pick up injured people.

It is not that attendants are not available. There are five certified student volunteers, one of whom is available at all times, along with three more who have received training and are pending certification. That makes eight capable students who are on call.

The fault lies at the Health Center. There is an established procedure, for emergency calls requesting an ambulance. These calls are to be relayed to Dr. McRae so that he can dispatch the ambulance. That is part of his job. However, he was not consulted in the matter. The call never reached him and thus we do not hold him directly responsible for what happened.

We blame the nurse who answered the call. It was her duty to relay the call to Dr. McRae. Had it been her place to dispatch the ambulance anyway, she certainly should have called one of the student attendants instead of sending the maintenance man who is not qualified.

The issue comes down to general inefficiency in the Health Center staff. The students on this campus have long complained of inefficiency, but only seldom have been heard. Rather, only seldom have they MADE themselves heard. To register complaints one cannot tell his roommate and expect results.

Students who want to make changes must see the Dean of Students or the Chancellor. SEE them, TELL them. Inefficiency must be checked somewhere and this is the place. Don't wait until a student dies because the maintenance man is sent out with the campus ambulance.

FOUNDER'S DAY

Campus Democrats Attend Convention

by Martha Lowrance

Young Democrats from across the state of North Carolina gathered last weekend at the Jimmie Plaza on Wilmington for the 37th annual convention of the North Carolina Young Democrat Clubs.

Representing the fifty-one member club from UNC-G were Diane Allen, Laura Auman, Chris Jones, Rex Kennedy, Martha Lowrance, Jim McAbee, Kisten Nyrop, and Barbara Wall. Highlights of the convention were thought-provoking speeches by Alaska's Senator Mike Gravel and Mrs. Valere Kushner (a POW wife) and appearances by N.C.'s Democratic candidates for state-wide offices. Skipper Bowles, Jim Hunt, Nick Galifianakis, Robert Morgan, and Jim Graham attended the convention.

The purpose of the NC YDC is "to stimulate in young people an active interest in governmental affairs, to increase the efficiency of popular government, to foster and perpetuate the ideals and principles of the Democratic Party, and to attempt to provide for our people through the administration of their government the highest degree of justice, social welfare and happiness." As evidenced by its 37th annual convention, North Carolina Democrats have long been aware of the right of the younger party members to have an active voice in the Democratic Party.

On Friday night, the College Federation (a more specialized unit of the YDCs on the campus level) met for committee reports which included a lengthy discussion of the proposed platform of the NC YDC and election of officers for 1973. The officers elected were John Grant (N.C. State University, President), Nathan Sanders (Winston-Salem State University, Vice-President), Lyn Irving (Meredith College, Secretary), and Lynn Murphy (Appalachian State University, Treasurer). Barbara Wall was unanimously endorsed by the College Federation in her campaign for YDC Secretary.

Saturday was a full day of committee reports, the presentation of and debate on the platform, and election of officers for YDC. A very important resolution urging the defeat of the 26th Amendment, which will be considered at the polls November, was passed. The YDC felt that rather than enfranchising persons 18 to 21 years of age, it was precluding them from being able to hold an elective office. The platform of the NC YDC was submitted "as a position of its beliefs on the vital issues confronting our State and Nation. Our commitment is two-fold. First, giving Democratic candidates a fundamental commitment from the young people of our Party and, second, to insure our primary beliefs of equal opportunity, equal representation, the dignity of man, and to insure future generations with peace on earth." After much

Letters to the editor

More Landscaping

To the Editor:

I also have a response to the recent letters about landscaping (sidewalks, grass, etc.) on this campus. At the rate things are going it's going to take many years to accomplish what could be accomplished in a month.

I suggest: (1) Pull up all the trees and shrubs on campus (2) Put asphalt everywhere buildings are not. Thus, we could have what this campus seems to be evolving to a man-made campus. What's so wrong with a dirt path? So, maybe it does get muddy when it rains. There are already enough sidewalks to allow anyone to get where they're going on (beautiful?) cement, bricks, or asphalt when it is wet.

As far as groundkeepers work is concerned, I feel it is at least adequate. We could have the campus look like a well manicured golf course, but this would require more groundkeepers. So that doesn't matter. We could simply add this expense to the rising cost of education.

As for planting grass in the woods between Phillips-Hawkins and Cone, Grogan, and Reynolds, I feel this would be absurd. This is one area on campus that is still the least bit natural plus the fact that an undertaking of this sort would be very expensive.

If the grass on this campus were cut lower it would be totally burnt out. It's cut too often now

If indeed a faculty/student committee is formed, I feel it's interest should be to preserve what little natural beauty this campus still has left.

Abundant Living

Bible Gives Stepping Stones

by Mike Everette

In the Gospel of John 10:10 there is an intriguing statement ascribed to Jesus Christ. In the King James version it reads, "...I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." This verse of Scripture is startling.

Look around you at all the people you know. Many times, those who profess to be Christian are failing to show forth an abundant life. By contrast, the non-Christians often manifest more of an abundant, carefree life than those on the opposite side of the fence. But how can this be? Why is it, the, that Christian believers do not manifest an abundant life?

If Jesus Christ came that we might have life and have it more abundantly, either He told the TRUTH, or He LIED. If He lied to us at this point in the Word of God, then the best thing you and I can do is to throw away our Bibles. If it is not reliable here, how can we trust the Bible anywhere else?

BUT — if Jesus told the truth — if He meant what He said when He declared that He came that we might have life and have it more abundantly — then surely there must be keys or signposts that will guide us into the understanding and receiving of this more abundant life.

My purpose in presenting this column is to make known to you those stepping-stones to the abundant life which Jesus Christ lived and which He came to make available to believers.

These keys enable you — everyone — to tap into the resources so you can manifest this abundance; to get rid of your doubts, fears, worries, hangups, and anything — that's right, ANYTHING — that's bugging you or keeping you down.

Wouldn't you like to know, when you get up in the morning, that you don't have ANY hassles waiting for you; that nobody's going to "get" you today? Well, you sure can! Want to know how?

There's a secret to it. And it's the GREATEST SECRET IN THE WORLD. That secret isn't complicated, really — here it is!!

THE BIBLE IS, IN TRUTH, THE REVEALED WORD AND WILL OF GOD.

That's right. For the most part, people today do not believe that the WHOLE Bible is the revealed World and Will of God. They will take one segment of the Word of God and drop another. They will pull verses out of context and use them to fit their own ideas or preconceived notions. But, to be logical and consistent, either the Bible is the Word of God from Genesis to Revelation or it is not the Word of God, and that the Word of God is the Will of God, is the beginning of POWER FOR ABUNDANT LIVING.

In Jeremiah 2:13 God tell us, "For my people have committed two evils; they have forsaken me the fountain of living waters, and

by Rorin Platt

Jesse Helms, Republican candidate for U.S. Senate, spoke to a group of College Young Republicans at Greensboro College on September 29. His talk proceeded a coffee hour held in his behalf at the Friendly Auditorium.

Helms initiated his GC appearance with a few comments about the campaign and then proceeded to answer questions from the audience.

The GOP candidate indicated his displeasure over certain Supreme Court decisions which favored criminals. Helms said that the courts should look after the law-abiding citizens and not the criminals. He also stated that the fight against crime began in the courts, where "swift justice and stern sure punishment would provide a deterrence to crime."

In regard to the controversial "drug ad," Helms indicated that he had not personally approved the ad and that any future ads would require his consent. He did note that Galifianakis had missed 4 out of 10 drug votes in the House and that he had

Bowles Explains Platform

Hargrove. "Skipper" Bowles spoke at UNC-G Thursday, September 28 as part of the Candidates '72 series sponsored by the political science department.

He explained many of his proposals including those on drugs, abortions, roads, and taxes. Speaking to approximately 75 people, many of them political science students, he drew scattered applause with his comments.

Bowles drew the most applause when he said he approves of abortions because he believes that a woman should have the right to choose whether or not she wants to have children.

Bowles also reiterated his pledge not to increase taxes. He also stated that he believes the construction of roads, in the past, has been politically motivated. He said if elected that he would judge the need for roads, not the basis of votes cast in the election, but on the needs of the area.

Skipper Bowles

Asked if he would support Senator George McGovern for President, Bowles said he "would vote for McGovern," but he had his own campaign to run. He added that he had taken a pledge to support the whole Democratic ticket.

on campus. He explained that there are many empty positions available in other Universities across the state that are presently opened and should be used by students.

Bowles did not endorse McGovern outright, nor has he indicated that he will in the future.

After the speech, Bowles attended a reception at the Presbyterian House where he answered more questions. He was asked there what his priority for the university would be. Bowles answered that he had not yet seen the proposed budget for the University system, but added that he would be opposed to building any new dormitories

USC Announces Jobs In Europe

Los Angeles, California — "Jobs for young people are available in Europe," remarked Dr. F. X. Gordon, President of Princeton Research, at the University of Southern California in an interview. Having just returned from Europe, he said, "the 300 million people Common Market is booming."

"On the other hand," he stated, "we foresee continued youth unemployment in the United States until at least October of 1973. U.S. Corporations are still cutting back personnel and are not planning for replacements. Although the improving U.S. economy will create some jobs, more young people are entering the job seeking market. In fact some 1,300,000 per year. 1973 high school and college graduates will face a long search."

"We have a program called Jobs Europe," he continued, "and we guarantee salaried jobs in Switzerland, England, and Belgium, for some 2,000 young people 18-29 years of age. These are summer, fall, winter, and spring jobs as general help (trainees) in hotels, restaurants, supermarkets, department stores, steward and stewardess on trains, etc.

"Board and room are usually provided and friends can work together if they apply together. Participants arrange their own bargain youth or student fare transportation and depart anytime to work 2-6 months or longer. "Over the past 12 years we have helped place more than 10,000 young people in Europe and England," Gordon concluded.

Alumni Group Sponsors Founder's Day Bar-B-Q

by Beverly Sheets
Staff Writer

UNC-G, but also with the current students of the University. Two committees, the Student Undergraduate Relations Committee, and the "Alumni Associates," work closely within the Association to coordinate ways of improving the University.

The first of the two committees is composed of alumni advisors and a student representative from each dorm. Some of the alumni advisors are Barbara Parrish, Brenda Meadows, Beth McAllister, and Pam Thompson. The other committee, the "Alumni Associates," was formed only last year in an attempt to bring the current students of UNC-G into a closer working relationship with the Alumni Association. The Student Undergraduate Relations Committee saw some campus problems such as lack of unity, student apathy, and others and wanted to do something about them.

One step in the direction of solving the problems, they felt, would be to get a group of students who were also concerned about the problems to work on a committee. Dorm presidents suggested interested people. These and others were contacted and soon a group called the "Alumni Associates" was ready to function.

Beth McAllister is the chairman of the committee and Barbara Parrish and Brenda Meadows also work closely with the group. The group hopes that an attempt can be made to plan and do the kind of things that can let the students of UNC-G know that the Alumni Association cares. In fact, the slogan of the Founder's Day Celebration is "UNC-G Alumni CARE."

The Founder's Day Celebration is, to some extent, a result of the May 2 "Playday" that was held this past spring. The social gathering of the spring was so successful that plans were put into motion to have a similar festivity in the fall. The result: A Founder's Day Birthday Celebration.

The Celebration is from 4:30 to 6:30 in the quad at the freshman dorms. These activities, including supper, are a prelude to a convocation in Cone Ballroom of Elliott Hall at 7:00 p.m. Ruth R. Mayleas, Director of Theatre Programs National Endowment for the Arts will conduct the program.

Everybody's invited, so come, bring your frisbees, and have a great time. Anyone that has crafts they would like to sell in the arts and crafts fair during the celebration can contact Gloria Rogers in Cone Hall.

Student Desires Professional Career

by Wilson Davis
UNC-G News Bureau

Sue Atherton is a talented, 22-year-old who wants to say yes to a career in professional theatre.

The difficulty, of course, is that hundreds of other girls across the land probably have the same idea. And cracking the big time in the glamorous field of show business is seldom easy.

But Sue, a senior at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, is determined to give it a good try. And she's different in her approach to a performing career from some of the other young starlets. With her it's more than a dream—it's a goal toward which to word.

And take it from Sue—she's working pretty darn hard. In addition to signing up for a full academic load so she can graduate in December, the auburn-haired Floridian is also taking voice lessons at the School of Music, studying ballet under Joseph Levinoff, UNC-G's ballet master-in-residence, and taking tap dance lessons off-campus.

Moreover, she is pulling double duty in "Musical Pizzazz," the big opener for UNC-G Theatre's 50th anniversary season. The production, which involves 140 cast members, is directed by Dr. Herman Middleton, head of the Department of Drama and Speech, and is scheduled to open Wednesday, Oct. 4 at 8:30 p.m. in Aycock Auditorium and continue nightly through Oct. 7. The play will have six portions from well-known musicals produced at UNC-G in earlier years, and Sue is choreographing "The Boy Friend" segment and also playing the lead female role of Maisie in that part of the production.

She's a real trouper. Before coming to UNC-G from Orlando, Fla. she participated in 15 to 20 musicals in community theatre. In addition, she has studied ballet for 13 years and jazz for five. In her three years with UNC-G Theatre she has had numerous roles, including Nicky in "Sweet Charity," Madge in "Picnic," Bianca in "Taming of the Shrew," and Zanetta in "The Music Man." Moreover, she has spent the last two summers at Parkway Playhouse in Burnsville and acted in quite a few productions up there. Two summers ago, she choreographed the Parkway production of "Oklahoma," and last summer she choreographed "Damn Yankees" at Parkway and also played the key role of Lola.

There are two big dance numbers in "The Boy Friend" segment of "Musical Pizzazz." The one sure to get the most attention, however, is "Won't you Charleston With Me?" In that dance, while about five couples are doing the Charleston on stage in Aycock Auditorium, other dancers will be going out in the audience to invite members of the audience to Charleston with them in the aisles.

By the time for the audience participation number, Sue hopes to have the whole audience eager to do the Charleston.

"This should be lots of fun," she laughed. "The dancers will go out into the audience and the guys will ask the girls to dance the Charleston and the girls will ask the guys. And if anyone else wants to get up and do the Charleston that's okay too. It should be pretty interesting."

The entire segment of the "The Boy Friend" which Sue will choreograph will be about 20 minutes long. In addition to the dances, in her role as Maisie, Sue plays opposite Mitch Grayson, of Thomasville, who is Bobby Van Heusen, and, at the end, with W.C. (Mutt) Burton, who lives in Reidsville.

Performing comes natural to Sue Atherton. Her interest in theatre started when she was first old enough to listen to records of musicals her mother had seen. "I would sit for hours and listen to them and I just fell in love with musical comedy," she said.

She always knew she wanted to major in drama, and she chose UNC-G after hearing about it from two friends, Kay Cortez and Chris Walsh.

Now, she is in her last semester and wants to move on to professional theatre. After graduation, she plans to go to New York in January and may enroll in the American Musical and Dramatic Academy "which specializes in musical comedy."

"I hope to go there," she said. "If not, I'll go to New York and audition for some dance jobs since I'm more proficient in that than anything else at this moment. If nothing turns out in that respect, I might go to California and try a TV show dance-wise. I think I have a better chance of edging my way in through dancing than any other way."

"I know it's going to be very hard, but I want to try it. I might end up teaching dance somewhere or going to a university and teaching dance. And I would probably find contentment in that after a while, but that is not what I want to do right now."

Obernkirchen Choir Performs Sunday

The Greensboro Civic Music Association will present the Obernkirchen Children's Choir as the first concert of the current series next Sunday night, October 8 at 8:15 in Aycock Auditorium.

This renowned children's choir, under the direction of Edith Moeller, has stolen the hearts of audiences in their annual tours of the United States. Since 1954 they have had ten sellout tours and presented seventeen concerts in New York, receiving high praise from music critics.

The poet Dylan Thomas called them "Angels in Pigtails" in describing these enchanting youngsters from Germany. Like the picturesque medieval town that it comes from the Obernkirchen Children's Choir — the thirty-six girls in traditional bright red skirts and velvet jackets and the boys in lederhosen — resembles an incarnation of a tale out of Grimm or Hans Christian Anderson.

The choir is a rare blend of innocence and musical sophistication. Its singing is first-rate by any standard, beautifully in tune and capable of complex part singing. Miss Moeller has brought her youthful vocalists to a high plane of musical discipline without spoiling the sweetness and freshness of their voices. An opportunity to hear these "Happy Wanderers" in concert is an occasion to cherish. The opportunity will be ours October 8th.

The Greensboro Civic Music Association subscription series is open to season ticket holders and to UNC-G students who have paid the entertainment fee or purchased a special events ticket.

hewed them out cisterns, broken cisterns, that can hold no water." God is talking to those in His fold here; first, they have forsaken Him the fountain of living waters.

A fountain is an unlimited supply of fresh water. A cistern, on the other hand, is a cesspool. And its supply is limited by its capacity. Furthermore, God said those cisterns were broken — leaky! Too often God's people do this. Rather than stand on the Word of God, they hew out for themselves huge theological systems. They read this and

New Exhibition Opens In Gallery

An introductory exhibiton to a new North Carolina Gallery at the North Carolina Museum of Art will open at 9 p.m. Thursday, October 5.

The new gallery will be opened in connection with a reception to be held at the museum following the North Carolina Awards banquet at the Sir Walter Hotel. The reception will honor the recipients of the awards, the highest distinction the state can confer upon its citizens for their services.

The exhibition will be installed on the first floor of the museum in the area now occupied by the "Recent Acquisitions and Loans" exhibiton. That exhibition originally slated to be closed October 1 will be closed Sunday, September 24 to facilitate installation of the new show.

A selection of works by North Carolina Artists from the museum's collection will be in the exhibition. A permanent gallery for the display of works by North Carolina artist will be opened on the fourth floor.

The purpose of the gallery is to show, on a rotating basis, more of the work on North Carolina artists than has been possible before.

While the first works in the gallery will be from the museum's own collection, future plans call for loan exhibitions of North Carolina art.

The first exhibition will include artists from the 19th century to the present.

Student Researches

Miss Elizabeth L. Jones, a senior from Garner at UNC-G participated in a special Summer Honors Research Participation Program at Argonne National Laboratory in Argonne, Ill. before returning to UNC-G this fall.

She was one of 107 students from all over the U.S. who was selected to participate in the 10-week summer research experience. At the Argonne National Laboratory, she worked in applied math, using computers and numerical analysis.

Argonne National Laboratory is a national laboratory of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission. All of Miss Jones' expenses and an education stipend were funded by the Atomic Energy Commission and the National Science Foundation.

Miss Jones is a graduate of Garner Senior High School and came to UNC-G on a Katherine Smith Reynolds Scholarship.

debate, planks were adopted on Human Relations, Family Planning, Drug Abuse (with emphasis on treatment and rehabilitation), Legislative Reform (emphasizing a code of ethics for the General Assembly), Vietnam War, Education (with special concern for the physical and emotional well-being of children from kindergarten on up through college), adoption of the 27th Amendment, Limited Campaign spending, Tax Reform (repeal of the 10% maximum limitation placed upon the levy on income tax), and Absentee Voting (to be provided in the future for all N.C. elections). Planks concerning Labor, Law and Justice, Prison Reform, National Economy, Judicial Reform, Health Care, Terrorism and Air Piracy, Environment, Transportation, Domestic Economy, Rights of Privacy, and Consumer Protection were postponed due to lack of time until the next Executive Board meeting.

The election of officers followed the discussion of the platform. Nc YDC officers for 1973 are Tom Bamnger (Raleigh, President), Frida Ross (Greensboro, First Vice-President), Barbara Wall (UNC-G, Secretary), David Post (Salisbury, Treasurer), and Priscilla Hardel (National Committeewoman).

The Convention Banquet featured a speech by Alaska's Senator Gravel. His was a most provocative speech centering around an expanding non-elective executive bureaucracy and the fine line drawn between secrecy and concealment of vital information. John Powell, President of the Nc YDC for 1972 presided at the banquet and introduced the dignitaries.

All totaled, this weekend in Wilmington was time well-spent on engaging in practical politics. This article, due to the necessity of brevity, could not do justice to all the hard work and activity at the convention. Therefore, if anyone has any questions concerning the platform and its amendments please contact Martha Lowrance or Kirsten Nyrop.

Helms Speaks

On Campus

also missed 70% of all roll-call votes this past Spring.

When questioned whether or not he would be a lackey of the President Helms responded saying, "I disagree with the President on some things, and 'I'm not going to be a yes-man for anybody.'"

Helms declared that criminals will get guns regardless of strict gun controls and that law abiding citizens would be without protection. But he defended the present gun control legislation and supported efforts to regulate the sale of "Saturday night specials."

Helms noted that "when it gets to spending, debt, and all the fiscal problems, the Congress is responsible 'because it makes it [funds] available.'"

Helms said that he "was perfectly willing to try a volunteer army" but that an inactive draft law should remain on the books in case of a national emergency. He defended Nixon's trips to Peking and Moscow and indicated that although "I don't trust the communists, I don't think that Nixon gave away the family jewels."

Student Ambulance

which is on call 24 hours a day. This crew is composed of eight students, five of whom are already certified by the state as ambulance attendants. The other three have completed the training and are pending certification.

Dr. McRae cites poor communication between the Health Center and the crew as the reason why they were not notified of the accident. Due to the fact that the students are housed in Hinshaw which does not have phones in the rooms and because the University refuses to have any installed in Hinshaw, they must rely on walkie-talkies for communications. Dr. McRae says that, due to a lack of funds, the Health Center cannot afford to purchase the power packs necessary to keep the walkie-talkies in operation around the clock. Therefore, the walkie-talkies are used only at night.

In 1969-70, the Student Health Center spent over $275,000, and the figure has increased since then. According to Lafayette Electronics, from whom the walkie-talkies were purchased, it would cost less than $35 to keep both units in operation on a 24 hour basis. It seems, then, that the only thing preventing the trained ambulance crew from being used to maximum effectiveness is an expenditure of less than $35 out of a total operating budget which runs in excess of $275,000.

This is possibly a matter for future consideration. However, that an uncertified person was sent to treat an injured student is an immediate fact. There is a trained student ambulance crew available which should prevent the necessity of sending the Health Center maintenance man to treat an injured student.

Attacks On Health Center Distress Member

concerning campus emergencies. She failed to notify a physician of the accident. Normally one physician goes along with the orderly (who is also trained in first-aid) to evaluate the injuries and administer the appropriate care if at all possible.

An emergency ambulance crew composed of male UNC-G volunteers does exist. The boys are equipped with walkie-talkies, but these instruments can only be used at night.

Why? The infirmary exists only on the student health fees collected at the beginning of each semester. Dr. McRae stated that a lack of funds makes better communication facilities, as well as a full-time ambulance crew, unfeasible. For example, a battery-charger cannot be purchased in order that the volunteer crew's walkie-talkie service be used to its maximum potentialities.

"Yes, the ambulance service is inefficient," declares Dr. McRae. "We realize what is wrong yet can do nothing about it at this time due to a lack of funds."

Dr. McRae makes no guarantee that such an error will not occur again. Yet all steps possible are being taken to prevent the chances.

A memorandum was issued Thursday, September 28, to all nurses and telephone personnel concerning emergency calls. All emergency calls are to be routed to a doctor—Dr. McRae, Anastasia, Dionne, and Westland, in that order. If no doctor is available, the nurse in charge will be informed.

If necessary, a doctor will go on the call with the orderly. If two attendants are necessary, a student ambulance driver will go with the orderly or meet him at the scene of the emergency.

If our ambulance is on another call or is unavailable for other reasons, the county ambulance service is to be called immediately.

Dr. McRae asks anyone to check on the ambulance service on any other college campus. "As far as I know, there is no such ambulance service. Most campuses use county ambulance solely or their campus security department."

Put a smile on that pumpkin

It's the perfect autumn day: sunny, but crisp and cool, with the smell of burning leaves and the colors of changing foliage. A great afternoon for getting into the mood of the season and carving out that pumpkin. And even though it's "that time" of the month, you're feeling really happy, with a smile as broad as the pumpkin's. Because you have the comfortable feeling of Tampax tampons' internal sanitary protection. And the confident feeling you get because Tampax tampons free you from irritation, odor and worries. Comfort, freedom and confidence are important to you and to women all over the world, so it's no wonder more women trust Tampax tampons to help keep them smiling.

Our only interest is protecting you.
