Steve Levcoff and Karen Davis confer before closed meeting to discuss NBS's constitution.

Senate passes resolution expanding dorm safety

by Beverly Sheets
Staff Writer

In the Senate meeting on Tuesday night, Jackie Coleman, Senate president announced that a formal hearing concerning the challenge of the Neo-Black Society constitution is to be conducted. Miss Coleman stated that any information about the incident disclosed before her announcement should be regarded as unofficial.

Miss Coleman added that questions dealing with the issue should be presented to Leon Chesnut, coordinator of NBS, Karen Davis, spokesman for the challengers, or Rhonda Wilcox, chairman of the Committee on Classification of Organizations.

The Senate spent a large portion of the night considering a resolution presented by Senator Karen Davis concerning security in the immediate area of Cone dormitory. Miss Davis, senator from East Cone, proposed the resolution because of her concern for her constituents, one of whom was recently accosted behind Cone, carried off, and raped.

The resolution called for: (1) better, more frequent lighting in the area behind Cone; (2) a paved path from the parking lot behind Cone to the dormitory; (3) the installation of a well-lighted phone in the parking lot with a line directly to the campus security station; and (4) the institution of a campus policeman whose sole duty would be to patrol the area behind Cone, including the parking lot, the woods, and the access roads.

During discussion and debate, several Senate members expressed their desire to have this resolution cover the entire campus. There was a motion by Senator Karen Harris that voting on the resolution be postponed. This would allow time to work out the details necessary to broaden the resolution to cover the entire campus. After more debate on this motion and on

by Pam Wood
Staff Writer

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be on campus Tuesday, February 20, 3:00-8:00 p.m., and Wednesday, February 21, 10 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. The visit is again sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega.

Dave Rice, APO projects chairman, said there will be twice as many people working on medical histories to eliminate much of the waiting that was necessary last semester. There will also be nine nurses in the donor room instead of five as there were during the last visit. This will avoid the rush to get donors off the tables after they have given.

The men of APO will also be on hand to help.

Last fall, 796 pints were donated by the 910 students who showed up to give. Rice said a couple of years ago, less than 200 pints were donated. The men are hoping that 1,000 pints will be given during this visit.

The Greensboro area uses 900 pints of blood per month and in February there are fewer donations so the Bloodmobile is depending on UNC-G students to help out.

Donors must be 18 years old and weigh at least 110 pounds to give. Students who have had yellow jaundice, hepatitis, malaria, a diagnosed case of London flu or who are on daily allergy medication will not be accepted. Women taking birth control pills are able to give. Anyone that is unsure if he is eligible should come and let a doctor or nurse decide.

Rice encouraged all donors to eat something before coming.

A party for the dorm donating the most blood will be scheduled to suit the residents of the dorm.

Committee adjourns with issue unsettled

With all of the previous action against the Neo-Black Society nullified, the Committee on Classification of Organizations met until 11:45 last night.

At this meeting, the charges were supposed to be formally presented against the Neo-Black Society. However because of a procedural difficulty, the charges were not presented and the meeting adjourned.

Moore resigns from NBS investigation

In a statement released late last night, minutes before a meeting of the Committee on Classification of Organizations, Kevin Moore announced that he is in no way any longer connected with the students investigating the Neo-Black Society.

He stated, "Personal conflicts have become involved making it impossible for me to maintain any position on the subject. Because of these I am disassociating myself with the actions being taken against NBS."

Moore added that while he thinks the practice of investigating the appropriations of SGA funded organizations is worthwhile, this particular investigation has gone beyond the perimeters of appropriations.

"It is my sincere wish that the pending actions be carried out discreetly and tactfully and the matter be kept in proper perspectives by both parties involved."

The meeting, scheduled for Conference Room A at 10:00 was moved at the last minute as the committee spent at least a half hour searching for another room. It was then that the committee, meeting behind closed doors, made its decision that the charges could not be presented.

A statement by Rhonda Wilcox, chairman of the committee, issued last night said "the meeting could not proceed because three of the six accusing students were sick."

Humphrey speaks to electric co-operative on Nixon's administrative policies

by Cliff Mitchell
Staff Writer

Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota was in Raleigh Tuesday for a non political engagement where he spoke to a meeting of the North Carolina Rural Electric co-operative.

The Senator had much to say about the present administration now occupying the White House. Sen. Humphrey dealt with the President's policy of impounding funds in great detail. He charged that the President was making a "contemptable lie by saying that Congress is fiscally irresponsible." He added that it was also "cheap political propaganda." The Senator backed up his statements by pointing out that Nixon has increased his budget every year since he has taken office by 10 to 20 per cent, and that it is Congress that trimmed 20 billion dollars off his budget. He said that the charges of Congress spending more money for increased social security benefits were groundless since the increases are paid out of the taxpayers money and not general revenues. Humphrey also said that the increase was rightfully theirs since they were like "somebody who has purchased an insurance policy."

The Senator said that there was a "serious constitutional problem arising from Congress letting some of their power drift to the executive branch," and added that it is "time for the pendulum to be put back where it belongs." He also said that Nixon had "violated the Constitution of the United States," by "failing to execute the oath of office that he swore to abide by."

Sen. Humphrey attacked Nixon's budget saying that it was "short on peoples' programs, and a little heavy on equipment and military." He also attacked Nixon for having a 2½ BILLION dollar fund hidden away for the expressed purpose of new weapons and military support for use in Vietnam.

Sen. Humphrey spoke on the Administrations recent decision to impound the funds of the Rural Electric Assistance Agency which helps bring electricity and telephones into the rural areas of the nation. He told those in the audience to "fight as you have never fought before" against the Nixon Administrations cutbacks in the programs that are in the best interest of the peoples in America.

Comment

The investigation of the Neo-Black Society and its constitution is still continuing with rumors about both sides flying. As soon as one hears about a charge that's supposedly been made, he hears a defense or countercharge following it.

And this condition may continue for an undetermined length of time because the meeting held last night to clarify everything was declared invalid just as the first one was. This time it was because of "procedural difficulties."

It occurs to us that there have been an extreme number of some sort of difficulties since the issue first surfaced. No one was really sure what was happening at the very beginning and apparently that condition still exists, even among the "knowledgeable parties" involved.

Though the Student Handbook expressly gives the procedure for investigation of organizations and possible constitutional violations, evidently those who need to read it most don't. The case has not been treated properly from the start, at least as far as that publication is concerned.

The first presentation of charges at the committee meeting was ruled invalid because the head of the accused organization was not allowed to be present. Now the second presentation has been nullified because three of the accusers were not at the meeting when attorney general interpreted the handbook as stating that five or more students are to be there. Since the time of the delivered charges is debateable, the 48 hour period for the accused to prepare a defense is not applicable, or if so it is at least confused.

In fact, there seems to be quite a bit of confusion in the matter. The committee cannot get together to have a valid meeting to hear the charges presented. The accusers had difficulty deciding which charges to present and how. In fact, they can't even seem to get together, period. One has already taken his name off the formal statement and declared that he is not associated with the investigation any longer.

Blindness, like misery loves company, but we fail to understand why everyone outside of the committee and the accusers is left in the dark about what is going on. But then maybe they don't know either. That certainly appears to be the case to us.

Letters to the editor

Act now to save youth fares

Dear Editor,

We are writing to ask students to take action to save airline Youth Fares, which have recently been abolished by the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Do you know that more than 5 million students traveled using discount fares last year? If every traveler affected does not act now, we may lose from 25 per cent to 33 per cent air fare reductions.

The Coalition to Retain Air Discount Fares (CRADF-413 East Capitol St., S.E., Wash., D.C. 20003, (202) 547-5500, or call Houston, Texas (713) 524-0569) which includes both student and senior citizen organizations, is placing advertisements in newspapers on every campus in the country urging students to write letters supporting Youth Fares. Many papers are running the ad a second time!

In the coming weeks, the National Student Lobby, I predict, will line up with the airlines against the CAB ruling. Mail from angry college students will flow into the Congressional offices by the sack load. The final result, I predict: the ruling will be revised to allow young people to continue using their special air fare cards." — Jack Anderson radio show January 10, 1973.

Jack Anderson will be right if we can encourage all of you to write your Congressman today, or use the tear-off letter on the CRADF ad, and send it to us so we can distribute them to key Congressmen.

Already this January, Senator Frank Moss (D-Utah) has reintroduced the Moss Percy (R-Ill.) bill (S. 181) authorizing youth and senior citizen discounts, which passed the Senate last September. In the house, Cong. William Keating (R-Ohio) introduced a similar bill (H.R.2698) on January 23, 1973.

Chairman Harley Staggers (D-W. Va.) of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee has indicated he may hold early hearings on the House bill. Possible cosponsors of Cong. Keating's bill are Cong. John Jarman (D-Okla.), James Harvey (R-Mich.), and John Moss (D-Calif.).

If you act now, there is still time for Congressional action before the CAB decision is enforced this spring. Please write today! It can make a difference.

Friends hold Piney Lake workshop

by Pam Leary

Forty concerned students gathered at Piney Lake last weekend for an intensive training session in preparation to work for "Friends," the campus crisis control organization.

Dr. McRae, Mrs. Payne, Doug Camp, and Dave Cavenous spoke to the group on subjects such as the pharmacology of drugs, sex and sexuality, abortion and contraceptives, first aid, depression and suicide prevention.

Between the lectures Terry McCaskill of ARA, furnished hot meals bringing them three times a day from UNC-G.

Many of the students thought the weekend was enjoyable, worthwhile, and successful.

"It was fantastic. I learned a lot about people and it surpassed my expectations," said one Friend.

"We've got a lot more people now. It's a step in the right direction," added another.

"I learned a lot. I didn't know half that stuff about drugs. I feel so much more comfortable with people," said a student.

"By having this retreat we have become real friends among ourselves and can really work together." Dr. McRae stated the reasons why he thinks "Friends" will work.

"We hear a lot about the needs of young people they indicate that there aren't enough people that care or understand or who are willing to help with problems that young people face. We also hear from a lot of students that they are seriously interested in helping and doing some good in the world and our society," Dr. McRae said.

"Friends" is our way of meeting that challenge and of trying to get it all together," he explained. "We hope it will work and it will if the previous statements are true and if the campus will give us a chance."

"We have an immediately available backup of professionals working on the team," he added.

"Friends" is a counseling service staffed entirely by students under the supervision of Dr. McRae. Distressed students at UNC-G may call (5084) or walk into the center which is located in the basement of the infirmary.

"Friends" is completely confidential!! All kinds of problems are handled by two students on duty from 7 p.m. — 7 a.m. Nurses are on duty upstairs and a doctor is on call if an emergency should arise with which the students need extra assistance.

"Friends care.

"Friends" can and want to help. Give us a chance.

"Friends" are here. What ever hour you come you will find light, help, and human kindness."

Friends such as Rob Grieser are ready to help 7 pm to 7 am.

Judy Lynn reads through a pamphlet on drug abuse.

Pixie to tour state

Pixie Theatre's Touring Company will begin its second season on Friday, February 16 with a musical comedy, PUNCH AND JUDY. Opening in Mooresville the production will be toured on seven four-day weekends during February, March, and April. The eight UNC-G drama majors who receive six hours of academic credit for the experience are: Skip Lawing, Junior from Winston-Salem; Rebecca Bean, a graduate student from Lenoir; Brenda Lunsford, a junior from Asheville; Uriel Menson, a junior from New York; Michael Lilly, a junior from Raleigh; Andy Morgan, a junior from Ether, N.C.; Sheila Glover, a graduate student from Middlesex, N.C., is the company manager and Mitchell Grayson, a senior from Thomasville is technical director for the tour.

Performances booked so far for the tour are to be given in: Mt. Olive, Randleman, Albermarle, Gastonia, Hickory, Mt. Airy, Goldsboro, Kinston, Chapel Hill, Graham, Madison, Misenheimer, Southern Pines, Granite Quarry, Kannapolis, Asheboro, Reidsville, Blowing Rock, Morganton, North Wilkesboro, Durham, Lumberton, and Stoneville.

A few open dates are still available. For further information contact Director, Tom Behm at Pixie Theatre for Young People, UNC-G, Greensboro, N.C. 27412.

Sculptor to give slide presentation

As part of the arts presentations this month the Fine Arts Committee of Elliott Hall is having a sculptor to discuss his work Monday, February 19, 1973. Tal Streeter, a visiting professor in the Art Department this semester, will give a short lecture and slide presentation of his work in McIver Lounge.

Though primarily an American sculptor, Streeter has just written a book, Japan's Flying Art, to be released by Weatherhill Lippincott in October which describes his experiences while living in Japan with traditional Japanese craftsmen. Streeter's last one-man exhibitions in Tokyo and New York featured large paper and bamboo kites. As a sculptor he is best known for his 67 foot high red "Endless Column" which zig-zagged up to the sky at 79th and Fifth Avenue.

His work called "Endless Smiles" is nearing completion in Seoul, Korea, and is the country's largest modern sculpture.

Streeter is also in the early stages of planning a sculpture, "Venus Sign," which incorporates a 40 foot high curving red steel line, a laser beamed from 1000 feet away to the top of the steel line, and where it is then reflected off toward the planted Venus.

Tal Streeter's sculptures are represented in many public and private collections, including the Museum of Modern Art, NYC, the San Francisco Museum of Art, the Wadsworth Atheneum, Hartford, the Arkansas Arts Center. He has been a visiting artist in residence and professor at Dartmouth College, Queens College, and Fairleigh-Dickinson University.

Streeter's lecture will trace a development from a concern with metaphor and organic forms, pure lines in space, symbolic relationships of objects in space, and his long assistanceship with Seymour Lipton. The lecture will be informal, and will be concluded with a slide and tape presentation and a question and answer session. He will speak in McIver Lounge at 8:00 p.m. on Monday, February 19.

Carowinds schedules final auditions

UNC-G students who sing, dance, act or do specialty entertainment are urged to attend Carowinds' final student talent auditions on Saturday, February 17.

Beginning at 1:00 p.m., auditions will continue until 9:00 p.m. at the Holiday Inn Woodlawn in Charlotte. An accompanist will be provided for students who bring sheet music.

Carowinds will have some 17 live shows and many positions are still open. Salaries for entertainers begin at $100 a week.

The musical calendar for the School of Music continues with several recitals this weekend and the following week. If you are staying on campus this weekend, try to attend one of the recitals, as they all promise to be fine performances.

As was previously announced, the Eastman Brass Quintet will perform in Curry Auditorium on Friday, February 16 at 8:15 p.m. There will be an admission charge for the public; but students may enter with their ID's.

Sunday, February 18 at 3:00 p.m., a joint recital will be presented by M. Brenda Arthur and Ms. Susan Miles. Ms. Arthur, who is a soprano, will be assisted by Donna Bagwell on piano, and Martha Lewis on flute. Ms. Arthur will present a group of songs by Dvorak and several songs by Hindemith. Ms. Miles, a bassoonist, will be assisted by: Cynthia Ellis, piano; Martha Lewis, flute; Constance Chaney, oboe; Caren Davis, clarinet; and Kathleen Rushford, horn. Ms. Miles will perform works by Ealliard, Hindemith, and Cambini. The recital will take place in the recital hall of the Music Building.

Monday night, February 19 should be an interesting evening, as the School of Music presents a recital of student compositions. These compositions will be performed by students from the North Carolina School of Arts. Also appearing that evening will be Dr. Jack Jarrett and Paul Thomas with a presentation of a few of their own compositions. Dr. Jarrett is director of the UNC-G Men's Glee Club, and Thomas is the instructor for Jazz History. The recital will take place in the recital hall of the Music Building at 8:15 p.m.

Also on Monday night, the Guilford College Art Series will present the Czech State Orchestra at the Greensboro Memorial Auditorium. The 113 piece orchestra has delighted audiences in Europe and now comes to intrigue America. The orchestra will be conducted by music director and chief conductor Jiri Waldhans, with Vaclav Hudecek as violin soloist.

Now if you're into jazz, we're sorry. There just aren't any jazz concerts around. BUT, there is a jazz album that will more than make up for it. It's called PRELUDE, by Eumir Deodato. If there is an album that would make you want to get into jazz, this is it. Deodato uses excellent personnel (Hubert Laws, for example) to make some of the best jazz sounds anywhere. What does he do though, you ask. Well, he takes music like "Also Sprach Zarathustra" (2001), puts a beat to it, and makes it look like child's play. Two other fantastic songs are "Baubles, Bangles, and Beads" and "September 13." This album has already sold out once at the Discount Record Center and will probably do so again. So, be the first on your hall to get this great album.

Guilford plans teach-in on oceans terminal

A teach-in entitled, "A MOTSU Teach-in or Gee Dad, I just got this thing running good—do I have to put it away?" will be held Saturday, February 17, 1973 at Guilford College. The event will be held outside the library, and in case of bad weather, in Founders Lounge.

MOTSU or the Military Ocean Terminal—Sunny Point, is the second largest war shipments base on the east coast, ships more than 20,000 tons of war ordnances weekly, all of it being either 2,000 or 5,000 pound bombs.

The purpose of the teach-in is to inform people about the functions of the terminal and how, through different groups, it may be closed down or converted to some other type of facility.

Anyone wishing further information or rides to Guilford should call Liz Wheaton at 292-8550.

NO MOVIE

Bob, Carol, Ted and Alice (Robert Culp, Natalie Wood, Elliott Gould, Dyan Cannon)

The story focuses on what transpires between two very close married couples, when one undergoes an important change. Bob (Robert Culp) and Carol (Natalie Wood) attend a secluded institute for group therapy simply to observe, but become so involved in the process that, after the weekend, they feel their marriage has taken on important new qualities of honesty. This revelation leads both to engage in adultery as a kind of experiment in new experience and tell one another about the results. Ted (Elliott Gould) and Alice (Dyan Cannon) are their close friends who are regularly informed of the Wood Culp latest sexual adventure. They are invited to liberate themselves via a four-way group session. The end implies that both the friendship and respective marriages will work better if all four occupy one marital bed.

Summer of '42 (Jennifer O'Neill, Gary Grimes)

A nostalgic excursion for some and an open door to a generation ago for others, it is for everyone a simple human comedy with a timeless feeling. The story is one of growing up, of three boys spending the summer with their families on an island, of their adolescent yearnings, their adventures, their hesitant forays into the mysteries of the opposite sex.

All campus weekend movies are open to UNC-G students, their guests, faculty, and staff. Students will be admitted by University ID (not meal card) and faculty, staff, and guests may purchase a $1.00 ticket from the desks in Elliott Hall.

Aycock Auditorium is reserved for as many movies as possible and the rest will be shown in Jarrell Lecture Hall in the basement of the Library, or Cone Ballroom in Elliott Hall. Jarrell seats only 375, so be sure to come early. There must be NO smoking in Jarrell, Cone Ballroom, or Aycock if the movie series is to continue.

Film festival to depict child's relation to world

by Joan Swint
Staff Writer

Throughout the winter of '73 a festival of films sponsored by the Excellence Fund concerning the child's relation to his world is being shown at UNC-G.

Two of the films, "Forbidden Games" and "The Search," have already been shown, but "Our Mother's House," "The Two of Us," and "The Wild Child" will be presented within the next two months.

"The Search," shown Monday, is a movie dealing with the emotional problems encountered by a mother and her son who are separated after their stay in a concentration camp during World War II. In their individual attempts to reunite, both mother and son go through dramatic learning experiences and encounter many personal difficulties. The movie suggests that children are the key to a better future, and if they are to build a better world, they must be treated with kindness and love.

Students, faculty, and townspeople interested in the portrayal of childhood through the art of film-making are invited to attend the following showings in Jarrell Lecture Hall in the library: "Our Mother's House" - February 21, "The Two of Us" - February 26, and "The Wild Child" - March 19. Admission is free and all films will be shown at 3:15 and 7:15 p.m. each day.

Troupe plans tribute to Moliere

The 1973 French Play at UNC-G will be Moliere's satire "Le Medecin Malgre Lui." "The Physician in Spite of Himself," as performed in French by a theatre group from Le Treteau de Paris.

The play, which is sponsored by UNC-G's Romance Languages Department, will be presented Friday, February 16 at 8:15 p.m. in Aycock Auditorium.

In addition to the play, the program will also feature a special tribute to Moliere to mark this year's 300th anniversary of his death.

The tribute will consist of "Hommage a Moliere," by P. A. Touchard, a former administrator of France's Comedie Francaise and now director of the National Conservatory of Dramatic Art in Paris; and performances of Scene I, Act I of "Le Misanthrope," and Scene I, Act II of "Don Juan."

This special presentation will precede "Le Medecin Malgre Lui."

The play, which was written in 1666, focuses on Sganarelle, a clown and buffoon who moves about the stage in half-drunken bouts, fits of anger bursts of song and comical disguises.

He masquerades as a doctor who "treats a young lady for a mock attack of muteness. The girl, Lucinde, is pretending her illness in an effort to weaken her father's opposition to her marriage to Leandre.

Sganarelle, lured by the promise of gold coins, becomes a willing accomplice to the girl and her lover.

The couple eventually get the father's blessing, but not before Moliere sends his characters through numerous antics which are designed solely to provoke laughter from the audience.

The play pokes generous fun at both doctors and their patients, who often cannot look beyond the robes and obscure language to distinguish between a real physician and a quack.

The performance will be by a troupe from Le Jeune Theatre National, a dynamic young Paris based company which is an offshoot to the Comedie Francaise sponsored by the French Ministry of Cultural Affairs.

The production is directed by Jean-Louis Thamin, with scenery and costumes by Francoise Darne.

The French Theatre has been touring U.S. colleges and universities since 1958, presenting more than 200 performances of 31 plays. The tours are sponsored by the Association Francaise d'Action Artistique of the French Foreign Ministry, with patronage from the cultural counselor to the French Embassy in Washington. "Le Medecin Malgre Lui," is being presented at UNC-G by the Romance Languages Department in an effort to raise funds for an annual scholarship honoring a former head of the department, Dr. Meta Miller.

Tickets for the play are now on sale at the Romance Languages Department office, 319 McIver Building.

They are priced at $3.50 for adults and $2.00 for students, either high school or college. However out-of-town students who come to the play in groups of 20 or more will be given a special rate of $1.50 per ticket.

On December 7th, the Civil Aeronautics Board Abolished Youth Fares.

Please cut out and mail the letter below to let Congress know where we stand and that proper legislation is in order to correct this injustice now!

ACT NOW

Dear Congressman:

Please take action to save the Youth Fares and Discount Fares which have recently been abolished by the Civil Aeronautics Board.

I would appreciate it if you would also write the CAB and request that they delay enforcement of this decision until Congress has an opportunity to act on this important question.

Some 5-million students traveled using this discount fare in the past year. This contributed over $400-million to cover fixed costs of the airlines. These carriers can be presumed to have a full grasp of the marketing considerations involved and are, at least, as interested as the CAB in dropping any useless discount fares. Yet, an overwhelming majority of the airlines who participated in the CAB investigation are in favor of these fares.

Millions of students have purchased their Youth Fare identification cards with the belief that the cards would be valid until their 22nd birthday. Now the cards are being abruptly cut off by the CAB's decision.

As one of millions of young voters, I respectfully request that you act to pass legislation that will allow the CAB to discriminate on the basis of age by keeping Youth Fares. I will be anxiously awaiting the results of the coming legislation concerning this matter.

Committee examines security problems the resolution, Senator Harris withdrew her motion and Senate went into the committee of the hole in an attempt to iron out some of the disagreements.

Following the report of the committee of the hole, Senator Steve Levkoff presented a formal amendment to provide one campus policeman for each 500 dormitory students. These officers would patrol from legal sundown to legal sun-up. This amendment failed and Miss Davis' resolution passed with the addition of "effective immediately" following the word institution in the fourth point.

Later, a motion was made and passed that the Senate request the Student Faculty Committee on Campus Security to look into the security problems. The committee is to submit a written report to Senate in two weeks.

In other action, Senator Steve Shytte requested that the Senate not override the bill that President Steve Underwood had vetoed. Shytte announced that a compromise bill was soon to be presented.

Senator Cathy Krinick's by-laws change to designate the positions and duties of the Executive Cabinet was brought up for its second reading. Following the deletion of a portion of the bill by vote of the Senate and an attempt to further change it, Miss Krinick withdrew her proposed legislation.

The Senate approved the appointment of Debbie Gimmon, Attorney General Judy Arnn's choice for the Dorm Coordinators Reviewing Board. The body also approved Betsy Fulenwider and Julie Goodall as new members of Appropriations Board.

The National Center for Voluntary Action (NCVA) is a private, non profit organization based in Washington, D. C. NCVA's purpose is to get people to volunteer. To do this NCVA has established Voluntary Action Centers at the local level in many major cities across the nation.

A VAC operates as a private, non governmental organization designed to stimulate and encourage voluntary response to community problems. Local VACs serve to identify community problems as well as be coordinating centers which match people with projects commensurate to abilities and interests.

VAC activities utilize volunteers to respond to the needs of citizens regardless of income, race, sex, age, or lifestyle. Projects to raise community consciousness to the need for citizen involvement in community programs comprise a large part of VAC operations.

VAC is staffed and directed in large part by volunteers and administered by a volunteer board of directors which represents a cross section of the community.

In order to exist on a successful basis, VAC needs input from as many sources as possible, particularly the understanding and support of members of the community.

Although a VAC has not been established in Greensboro at this time, anyone interested in forming one should write to the National Center for Voluntary Action, 1735 Eye Street N.W., Washington, D. C. 20016.

College students to influence athlete selections

The more than six million college students in the U. S. may be the deciding factor in a national balloting to determine the nation's outstanding athletes, according to Carl Lindemann, Jr., Vice President, Sports, for the National Broadcasting Company. "Studies of television sports fans indicate that college students are one of the most influential sectors of the viewing audience," says Mr. Lindemann. "They are interested not only in inter collegiate athletics but in all

Girls to begin volleyball intramurals

The meeting to organize the girl's volleyball intramurals was held Monday night in Coleman Gym. The rules of volleyball were also reviewed.

There will be two graduate assistants, Miss Turner and Miss Roberts, helping Miss Hielscher with the program. Three students, Diane Condor, Donna Friesen, and Fran O'Meara, will be working with the assistants.

The first game is scheduled for next Monday night, Feb. 19.

major sports, and the current national vote for the Gillette Cavalcade of Champions Awards is expected to reflect this."

The Gillette Cavalcade of Champions Awards will be voted by U. S. sports fans for the top names in seven sports categories plus an Outstanding Athlete of the Year Award. Voting ballots are now in supermarkets drug stores, and bookstores, and on adjoining college campuses, as well as in the February 12 issue of Sports Illustrated. The winners will be announced as a Bob Hope Special on NBC-TV, Tuesday, March 27.

In addition to the Cavalcade of Champions Awards trophy each award carries with it a Gillette grant of $5.00 to be presented in the athlete's name to a local or national physical fitness or youth program of his designation. Gillette will grant a total of $40,000 to these programs in the names of the winning athletes.

The nominees in Professional Baseball are: Dick Allen, Chicago White Sox; Johnny Bench, Cincinnati Reds; and Steve Carlton, Philadelphia Phillies.

The nominees in Professional Basketball are: Kareem Abdul-Jabbar Milwaukee Bucks; Wilt Chamberlain, Los Angeles Lakers; and Jerry West, Los Angeles Lakers.

The nominees in Professional Football are: Larry Brown, Washington Redskins; Franco

Harris Pittsburgh Steelers; and Earl Morrall, Miami Dolphins.

The nominees in Professional Golf are: Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player, and Lee Trevino.

The nominees in Other Male Professional Sports are: Muhammad Ali; Bobby Orr, Boston Bruins; and Stan Smith.

The nominees in All Male Amateur Sports are: Frank Shorter, Mark Spitz, and Bill Walton, UCLA Bruins.

The nominees for a Woman in Amateur or Professional Sports are: Chris Evert, Billie Jean King, and Mickie King.

In announcing the nominees made by Nominating Councils of more than 800 sports authorities, William G. Salatch, President of Gillette North America, said, "We feel it is appropriate to honor the athletes whose achievements have thrilled all of us during the past year by creating an award voted to each of them by the greatest number of fans. It is important to give American sports fans this opportunity to support directly those athletes whom they most admire."

happenings

All men interested in Varsity Tennis please attend an important meeting at 5:00 p.m. Friday, February 16, 1973, in McIver Lounge at Elliott Hall.

The 1972-1973 cheerleaders have been selected. Co-chiefs are Jamie Morris and Jane Whisman. Others are Susan Alexander, Dale Adams, Linda Sears, and Hope Willis.

Seniors may order Personal name cards for invitations on Tuesday, February 20, 1-5 p.m. in the new wing lobby of Elliott Hall.

Summer internships in Greensboro in government and politics are now available. For applications, brochures and information, come by the Carolinian offices.

For all people who aren't twenty yet: The Greensboro Teenage Talent Show, offering $1,100 in prize money, is now holding auditions.

Divisional winners will include: vocal solos, vocal groups, instrumental solos, instrumental groups, dance solos, dance groups, variety, art, photography, and "best of show."

For audition times and places and for more information, call GYC (Greensboro Youth Council) at 373-2174 between 1-5 p.m.

The UNC-G choir will sponsor a spaghetti supper Friday night, February 23, 5-7 p.m. at the Holy Trinity Episcopal Church. Tickets are $1 for students and $1.50 for adults. For tickets see any choir member.

Paid for by student activity fees and advertising, The Carolinian is published twice weekly during the academic year by the students of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro except during holiday and examination periods.

Offices are in 201 Elliott Hall, UNC-G, Greensboro, N. C. 27412. Telephone numbers: 379-5227, 379-5339.

Subscription rates: $10.00 per year; $5.00 per semester.
