Please Call Our Hotline: 379-5041

WUAG frozen into silence

Ice Hampers WUAG Antenna

BY SHAWN WALSH Staff Writer

To all the loyal fans of WUAG who couldn't find us on your dial ast week, take heart.

No, it was not due to lack of interest or the usual administrative blunders. It was merely the natural result of freezing water. It seems that there are two thin antennae on top of the transmitter, and these froze in the recent ice storm.

On Thursday the added weight of their ice covering pulled the two together, shorting out the signal. The radio personnel, and especially the Executive Board, were at a loss

Building Occupied

Staff Writer

After several set-backs in construction the extension to the UNC-

G Life Science building has been occupied by the Department of Psychology. Originally scheduled consolidate all the teaching and researchfunctions of the department under one roof," said Dr. Robert Eason, Head of the Department of Psychology. "Our students will have the opportunity to take courses

as to what action should be taken. Several interesting alternatives were offered. Some of the ideas ranged from the absurd, such as "Send Joey Jackson (Program Director) up the tower to clear off the ice." to the totally rational, as in "Send Paul Cecere up the tower to chew off the ice."

The most realistic approach, however, was offered by the mass of the disgruntled D.J.'s, who felt that "since God put it up there, let God get it down." And sure enough, the voice of the unwashed masses was once again heard. By Friday afternoon WUAG was broadcasting normally again.

and observe research firsthand in facilities that were especially designed for that purpose-all the way from introductory work to doc-

The first floor of the building will house general classrooms and a toral studies."

HEW Pressures UNC System

Under pressure from the Department of Health Eduation and Welfare to eliminate or transfer programs within the school system, The University of North Carolina has decided to "stand firm" and "assert its right to maintain itself through the Board of Governors", according to UNC President William Friday.

The new guidelines issued by HEW would cause duplicate programs offered in both traditionally white and black campuses to be eliminated. Programs effected by the decision would include education, business, nursing, and journalism.

Under such guidelines, it is conceivable that the School of Nursing at UNC-G would be eliminated in favor of the nursing program at A&T State University.

HEW, in its attempts to desegregate the 16 campus UNCsystem, has given the Board of Governors until July 1st to decide which programs can be eliminated or transferred. At this time a report; including estimates of enrollment according to race, must be submitted to the federal agency.

"It vacates out long range plan," said Friday. "It has nothing to do with educational merits of the programs. It sets it aside."

David Tatel, director of HEW's Office for Civil Rights, issued a letter to President Friday asking university officials to "develop a new plan which would use transfers, terminations and reassignments of programs as the principal means of changing student attendance patter-

Friday, noting that such a request would impose major changes on the University System, said, "I believe we should stand our ground. It's clearly a question of control of our institutions."

Friday referred to the new HEW guidelines as "a device clearly intended to move people and programs and play a numbers

The UNC Board of Governors submitted a plan of desegregation to HEW in December. Tatel's letter was in response to the plan proposed by the university.

Friday plans to recommend that the Board refuse to accept the new guidlines from HEW. The UNC Board of Governors will meet on Saturday to review the new developments.

UNC President William Friday

Alumni Invited

Committee Plans Commencement

BY KATHY WLAZLO Staff Writer

The Senior Class Steering Committee has been working hard preparing for the commencement activities. The Senior Class Steering Committee works as a type of class government with Debbie Whitley as chairperson. Debbie, along with the help of the other members of the committee plan the various activities offered to the seniors.

The upcoming activities revolve around commencement and the weekend before. Seniors will receive, in the mail, a ballot to vote for the commencement speaker. They are encouraged to vote as soon as possible and put their ballots in the boxes provided in each dorm or in the box at EUC's information desk. Towards the end of February, seniors will receive a newsletter consisting of various dates and deadlines about the days to pick up invitations, to vote on Outstanding Senior and alumni officers, and information on caps, gowns, and ring

The other big activities planned by the committee are for commencement weekend. The committee is trying to make this year's weekend one of the best that UNC-G has had. One change for this year's is that the young alumni have been invited to join the weekend. Debbie feels that having the alumni to share commencement with the seniors will make then feel "more a part of the University" and that it will be a "time to remember."

The seniors are greatly encouraged to stay the whole weekend and participate in the various activities going on. Those activities are the Senior Dance on Saturday, May 13, the Chancellot's speech, a picnic and a formal reception. The graduates are welcome to bring parents and friends to the reception so they can meet the Chancellor and other administrators.

Debbie Whitley would like to thank Dean Shipton and the Dean's Council for all their help and cooperation and she especially wants to thank the members of the committee: Don Bridger, Debi Gering,

Amy Dickert, Alan Pike, Heidi Sapp, Susan Huck, Bill McBride, Elnora Anderson, Clarence Moore, Brian Greenwood, Paula Cogdell, Phil Anderson, and Laura Cook. Debbie states that everyone has "helped a great deal in trying to make this year's commencement one of the best."

On The Inside

Arts	Page 4
Editorial	Page 2
Letters To The Editor	Page 2
Sports Review	Page 5

Bill Chambliss, Chief of Community Planning And Development, addressing resid

for completion in February 1977, psychological library. Departmental construction was delayed by an unacoffices and conference rooms will be ticipated layer of bedrock which located on the second floor. The third, fourth, and fifth hindered the digging of the foundation, and the severe 1977 winter. contain specialized "For the first time, we are able to classrooms and laboratory space. The sixth floor has four rooms to house the department's laboratory animals.

An electronic wiring system allows data from all ten laboratory areas to be monitored by recording Psych Gets It Together computers stationed elsewhere.

> Two specially equipped operating rooms on the fifth floor feature pneumatic operating tables whose surfaces rest on air cushions capable of absorbing any motion which might affect the subject.

> The new building took almost two years to plan. The original design called for a seven story building. However, $2.5 million appropriated by the NC State legislature was not enough to cover the cost of construction. The building was therefore redesigned as a six story Aid from the Governors Executive Branch enabled the building to be completed.

College Hill Residents Consider Elimination Of Student Parking

BY RICH INNES

The parking problem in the College Hill area, east of the UNC-G campus, has caused residents there to consider enactment of a parking ordinance which would permit only resident to park in the area at certain times.

"If a parking ordinance were in effect, UNC-G and Greensboro College students would not be able to park on streets in the College Hill area during certain times of the day." said Bill Chambliss, Chief of Community Planning and Development, at a neighborhood meeting Monday night.

Lois McManus of the Greensboro City Council, also at the meeting, said, "I think its something that will have to come inevitably. I believe a study will show the feasability of

Using a parking ordinance in California as an example, McManus said, "It would be for a particular area or street. Residents would have stickers. Others would be ticketed or towed."

If the ordinance is put into effect, visiting friends or relatives will also need a sticker, according to Mc-

Chambliss pointed out that a parking ordinance in the College Hill area would transfer the problem to another area. "Its not going to do any good to drive the parking out of here and locate it somewhere else," he said. "You haven't achieved anything, you have just shifted the problem.

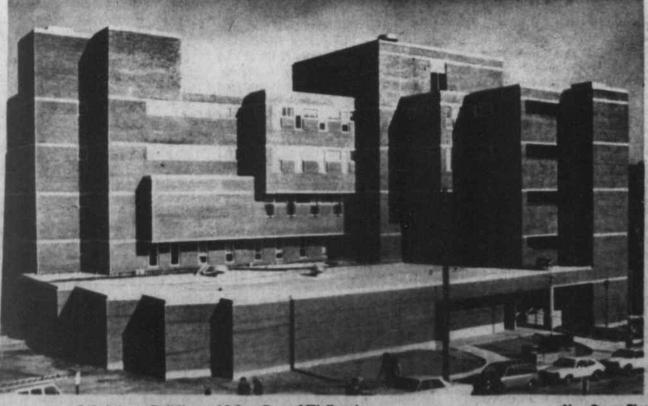

One resident said that the present ticketing of illegally parked cars in the area is ineffectual. "A dollar to park within two blocks of the University is a bargain," he said.

Mike Cowhig, of the Department of Planning and Community Development, said that the parking problem has dominated discussion of the neighborhood meetings. "The parking is so critical that the people would talk about nothing but parking at the Meetings."

Until recently a parking ordinance would have been illegal, according to Cowhig. A Supreme Court ruling has changed that, and several communities across the nation have since experimented with the Residents also discussed the possibility of forming a community organization to consider an historic designation for the College Hill area, and to negotiate with UNC-G. 'It would be beneficial to the University and to the residents if they could sit down and discuss mutual problems," said Chambliss.

One resident, opposed to the historic designation, said, "Parking is still the root of the problem. Is an Historic Designation the way to for-ce the University to get the cars off the street?"

Life Science Building at McIver St. and Walker Ave.

The Carolinian

Rich Innes, Editor Kent Robertson, Associate Editor Beth Heathershaw, Managing Editor

News Editor
Elizabeth Hutchinson
Features Editor
Eric Ries
Sports Editor
John McCann
Photography Editor
Art Donsky

Business Manager
Gail Harrison
Advertising Manager
Richard Ferebee
Circulation Manager
Brian Gray

Paid for by student activity fees and advertising. The Carolinian is published twice weekly during the academic year by the students of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro except during holidays and examinations periods. Offices are at 201 Elliott Hall, UNC-G, Greensboro, N.C. 27412, telephone 379-5752. Second class postage paid at U.P. Post Office, Greensboro, N.C. All unsigned editorials express the opinion of the editorial staff, while

An unsigned editorials express the opinion of the editorial staff, while letters, guest editorials, and columns, represent only the views of the their individual contributors.

All Letters to the Editor must be signed and address included and limited to 300 words. Names will be withheld upon request.

The Corollaire reserves the right to

The Carolinian reserves the right to regulate the typographical tome of advertisments and to revise or return copy it considers objectionable.

copy it considers objectionable.

Admissions to, employment by, and promotion in the University of North Carolina and all of its constituent institutions shall be on the basis of merit, and there shall be no discrimination on the basis of race, color, creed, sex, religion, or national origin.

Advertising Policy Reviewed And Defended

The Carolinian operates through funding provided by the University Media Board out of Student Activity fees, supplemented by the income generated through sales of advertising space. The purchase of such space is open to all legitimate business concerns who are financially able to do

It is not a case of moral insensitivity that has let The Carolinian to establish such a policy. On the contrary, it is a matter of firm moral belief in the laws and policies that have been established by the citizens of this nation.

Research Assistance is a legitmate firm, licensed by the government to operate as a valid competitor within the American free enterprise system. They are entitled by law to the right to advertise their services to potential consumers. It is the responsibility of each individual consumer to decide for his or her self whether or not to support that business.

The appearance of Research Assistance ads in The Carolinian has no bearing whatsoever on the question of academic integrity. That, too, is a question which must be decided by the individual. Each student must determine the moral and practical implications of his actions.

At what point can a separation be made between "legitimate advertising and that which tacitly encourages Honor Code violations?" It is not possible for The Carolinian to make such a distinction. If we were to do so, would it not also become necessary for us to make other such distinctions? For example, we have recently begun running advertising on a local abortion service. We are aware that a great many of our readers firmly oppose abortion. Should we refuse to run this ad as well? We have also run ads for WUAG which expressed an "Anti-Disco" sentiment. Should we bow to the many students who enjoy Disco and refuse to run such an ad?

The Carolinian does not in any way condone the act of cheating, nor does it reccommend to students that they use the services provided by firms such as Research Assistance, which might cause them to compromise their academic integrity and deny them of a valid educational experience. If a problem exists in the use of such materials, then it would be more effectively attacked through instructional techniques and improved student-faculty communication. Attempting to regulate the content of Carolinian advertising would be akin to an act-of censorship, and might even be illegal.

Letters To The Editor

S.G.President Chided, Activity Fees Questioned

To The Editor:

I am writing as a student of the University who cares where and what my activity fee of $140 goes.

I have a couple of questions for you, Mr. President, in regard to your recent letter to the editor. First of all you state that "we (student government) should not in our opinion, be heavily involved in providing social functions for the campus." Why shouldn't student government be involved in social activities? Student government gets over 80,000 dollars, where does it go? You claim success in your administration by the initiation of the Central Committee. The Central Committee, you state in your State of the Campus Address, "...is the coordinating body for all University committees." That's fine and dandy, but what does that do for the average student? My basic point is, what have you done for the members of the University community? Have you encouraged participation of the student body in student government? No, you haven't! In fact, by the time this is printed a SG referendum will be in its last hours of voting. How many students will vote, 5000 or 7000, not very likely, probably 200 or 300. Why? Because most college students have a hard time finding any legitimacy in Student Govenment, they don't see any big name rock groups, for an example, coming to Aycock. Generally there's nothing to keep them here on weekends. Student Government doesn't provide the leadership or planning at all to provide for this very basic need.

I admit you can't do everything, and we shouldn't expect you to. But for the amount of money that Student Government receives ffrom our pockets, you damn well better deliver some services and start addressing the needs of the student body for a change. When was the last time .you went to a dorm meeting or a town student coffee break, asking the students what's on their minds. A Central Committee? What about the Student Government newsletter, where is it? What about the Government Gallery? Where is it? When you can legitimize your existence and do mething of note then maybe the students of the University will lend I a hand. Until then you are crying wolf.

If your concern not to get involved with social activities is the reason for your resistance to this area of student life, and you insist it's not your job, then of course 'we' the students can't place any blame on you or Student Government. Elliott University Council doesn't have the money or the power to do it all. Have you ever heard of passing the buck, copping out? Or maybe your claiming 'Executive privelege! Welcome to the club, Mr. Sides.

BY JAMES WILSON

Special to The Carolinian

styrofoam quarter pounder wrapper being chased by a huge metallic monster that was gnawing up everything in its path. Its growls and groans were the most terrifying things I had ever heard, and it was gaining on me. The only thing keeping me out of its crushing gullet was a real hat-snatcher wind. But directly in my path was a tall brick wall. Mercifully, as I hit the wall, I woke up. I was no longer a piece of styrofoam. I was a live, breathing

But the noise was still there, loud as ever. I shook my head, trying t o shake out the last of the dream.

but the noise stayed! Near panic, I sat straight up in bed, and then it hit me. It was Tuesday. Garbage collection day. With a sigh of relief, I collapsed back into bed. I knew the painful noise would be gone soon, and even better, I knew that thing out there wasn't after me. It only

I used to wonder what those smelly, noisy, old garbage trucks that came snarling down my street a couple of times every week did with all that stuff they picked up. As a child, I believed they fed off garbage. But no, they just throw it away like we do. Several times wanted my garbage.

It was a nightmare! I was a

Arthur Donsky

To the Editor:

We found the article concerning activity fees most interesting and informative. However, there are several points that we feel need clarification. We understand from the article that 10% of the total activity fees ($800,000) is required to be retained by the Accounting Office for use in case of emergency situations. We would like to know what constitutes an "emergency situation?" Furthermore, we would like to know what happens to that 10% if it is not used for an "emergency situation." Also, what happens to the interest that may accrue on the money retained?

Secondly, we would like to know what is the "Student Union Building Fund" referred to in the article. Is this for the purpose of paying off past building debts, present operating expenses, or future expansion plans?

Finally, we noticed in the article that the EUC officers were budgeted $3,200 to attend two conferences during the year. We would like to know how many officers attend these conferences and what happens to the balance of the $3,200 allotted, but not used for the conferences.

Respectively yours, Jimmy Butt Darrel Baker Kenneth Ellzey Kendrick Grimes

Honor Code

Dear Editor

I am writing to object to the regular appearance in The Carolinian of advertisements for "Research Assistance"—a firm claiming to offer "academic research" to any interested purchaser. The product, of course, is indistinguishable from a college term paper.

Purchased research papers have no place in an academic community, and their use by a student without citation is prohibited by UNC-G's Academic Honor Code. The reasons for this prohibition are sound ones: an academic community cannot function except in an atmosphere of mutual honest and trust. That The Carolinian would assist "Research Assistance" in its commerce is clearly contrary to the spirit of the Honor Code, and a gross disservice to any student who pays a considerable sum of money for a product that is detrimental to his pursuit of an education.

I am told by members of your staff that The Carolinian will publish "any ad, paid in cash, which is not illegal." If this kind of moral insensitivity is typical of today's students, then we have indeed come a long way from the 1960's when such a materialistic attitude was justifiable condemned by many students.

I understand that The Carolinian must earn advertising revenues to continue to exist. However, the sole purpose of a student newspaper is not—or should not be—to remain financially solvent. My point is that a distinction must be made between legitimate advertising and that which tacitly encourages Honor Code violations.

Steve Danford Assistant Professor

Wilmington₁₀

To the Editor:

Richard Griffith's article, "Hunt Bombs on 'Ten' Decision" was itself a bomb. By emphasizing the political effects of his decision on the Governor's career, he has completely missed the point behind the whole controversy and the decision: justice for the Wilmington Ten and the people of North Carolina.

In light of the choices open to him, Governor Hunt's decision was the only fair one. The "Ten" were charged, tried, and convicted with conspiring and/or executing the firebombing of Mike's Grocery and firing upon firemen and policemen. These are not "political crimes," they are felonious crimes against private citizens and to refer to the "Ten" as "political prisoners" is foolish, no matter what their lawyers, civil right backers, the Russians, or President Carter might say. The political situation does not make these crimes "political crimes" either.

These crimes were tried under a judicial system which may not be perfect, but is the fairest one conceivable. They had the best lawyers. Various appeals through the system has concluded that, in a system that is supposedly uniformly fair, that the trial of the "Ten" was a fair one. For Governor Hunt to have pardoned the "Ten" would have opened the way for every criminal in prison with enough lobbying force and media coverage behind him to want to be pardoned for "political offenses," and would have made a mockery of our whole legal system. If one day it is discovered that the "Ten" were wrongly convicted, great retribution from the system would be due them, but no such substantial evidence seems likely now, and so we must follow the system for them as we would anyone

On the other hand when one considers the age of the defendents (most were in late teens or early 20's at the time), the fact that most had no prior criminal record, the tense situation in Wilmington at the time, and the fact that our judicial system, as it is supposedly set up, seeks to rehabilitate the offender rather than bury him in prison for the best part of his life, Governor Hunt's reducing the sentences of the "Ten" was both a generous and a fair move

Seldom does a political figure remain popular when he makes such a difficult decision, even if he is right, and Governor Hunt's situation is just that. He knew it would arouse ill feelings from both factions and not end the controversy and admitted as much. But in making the only fair and just decision he upheld his dignity and that of his office, which is something we could stand to see a few more of our representatives in public office do.

> Clyde Perkinson 202 Bailey

Where's Sally

entlemen:

I was truly saddened to hear of the possible discontinuation of the cartoon carried in last semester's Carolinian, the Adventures of Sally Highrise. Such a talent for humourous display of college life and college love should not be wasted. Several of the previous columns enjoy a prominent place on my bulletin board, and because of the comic I read more issues of The Carolinian last semester than during any other semester in the years I have been a student on this campus. Please reconsider your decision and return Sally Highrise to her rightful place in your newspaper and our

> Earnestly yours, Carolynn Hardy

(Editor's Note: We plan to continue Sally Highrise as time, space and money permit.)

Campus Thief Strikes

To Whom it May Concern,

I don't know who you are but right before Xmas break you took a duffel bag full of clothes and two pillows that were leaned against a gold car parked in the cafeteria parking lot. None of the clothes in the bag were expensive but for me they are irreplaceable. Even if I had the money to, I doubt if I could find anything to make for their loss. You managed to ravage a good percentage of my day-to-day clothes and caused me a good deal of grief and inconvenience.

I'm only using this letter as a last resort in hopes that you might see it and decide to return them. If you should want to give them back my address is below.

> Susan Hicks Box 856 314 Cotten Dorm 379-5124 or 379-5123

Students Unionize Nightmare Resolved by Recycling

(CPS)--Students at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst are attempting to form a union to represent students in collective bargaining negotiations with the university.

"When students pay tuition and fees, they enter into an implicit contract stipulating that the university provide certain services as advertised in school catalogues," explained organizer Mike Brennan. "With a union we could have more control over those services, and be backed by a legally binding con-

The Student Senate has declared 1977-78 the "Year of the Union" and has begun an all-out organizing effort, including a two day conference to introduce students to the concept of unionization.

UMass Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery, who spoke at the conference, made clear his stance oppossing a student union and urged students to use the "mechanism that now exists" to procure student demands.

But elected student representatives say they are powerless to deal with administrators who control the university. "Only with a union can we force the university to deal with the collective needs of the students," stated Student Senate Speaker Pat Whalen.

As proof of the collective power inherent in a union, Whalen pointed to the economics department, where students have formed a council and successfully negotiated to alter course offerings and the tutoring program within the department.

The Student Senate is encouraging similar actions in other departments and in dormitories by offering $200 in seed money to each new council. So far, eight councils have organized. The councils plan to eventually unite, forming the union, which will deal with campuswide issues.

Marvin Davenport, a member of one of these councils, explained his involvement in saying, "I went to school in 1968 and '69, and protested many different issues. But the real issue behind all those other issues was the lack of student power. Now I'm doing myself a favor; I'm involved in doing many things for other people but this is for myself."

THE CAROLINIAN

Needs devoted people to work Mon. or Wed. evenings on

NEWSPAPER PRODUCTION Learn practical skills of layout design.

Pay scale varies.
Contact: Rich Innes, Beth Heathershaw, or Kent
Robertson, 201 Elliott Hall or 379-5752.

everyday they are stuffed to the bursting point by those unhappy looking men who never say anything, and then they all meet down at the local dump and regurgitate all they've managed to

"But why?" I recall asking my

His timely reply, "Because we don't want all that stuff gunking up our backyard," was answer enough back then. Unfortunately, that answer can't work much longer. At the rate Americans throw things away, it won't be long before everybody's backyard gets all gunked up.

Certainly in a world as full of problems as ours, a gunky backyard may seem insignificant, but consider this: what are you doing about human rights, starvation, war, inflation, or energy? Nothing, right? But you can do something about the garbage question. You can recycle a lot of that gunky stuff, which in turn saves energy, which helps curb inflation, which could prevent a war, which is certainly better for the starving people of the world, (not to mention those merely discriminated against) and you might even make a few dollars in the process.

Granted, there are only a very few dollars to be made from recycling, because garbage just isn't worth very much. But the feeling you get from lessening the amount of waste that has to be put somewhere anyway is worth a great deal more than mere money. How else can you feel useful, make money, and help solve the problems of the world with such a small amount of effort?

Recycling is actually quite simple. You can keep a neat stack of old newspapers anywhere except near heat, since unexpected fires are a terrible waste of energy. Place two more containers beside your regular garbage can; one for glass and one for aluminum. I know that means you've now got three garbage cans and a large stack of old newspapers instead of one garbage can, but you still only have the same total amount of garbage you've always had. Only now, some of it is actually worth money.

The aluminum can be sold to Reynolds Aluminum for seventeen cents per pound. They will buy all you can bring to Four Season Mall any Tuesday or Friday between 11:30 and 1:30. I haven't been able to find a place to recycle other metals, but if there was a strong enough demand, I'm sure one of our intrepid leaders could come up with a solution. The stack of newspapers can be sold to Southern Waste Paper Company at 503 E. Washington St. for $1.50 per bundled hundred pounds. If you don't want to be burdened with an extra hundred pounds, you can give your papers to the Greensboro Jaycees. The Jaycees have pickup points at many of the fire stations around town and they also make periodic city-wide pickups.

Glass can't be sold here, but it can be recycled through the Jaycees. If you recycle glass at the same time you recycle aluminum you can save some gas and time, since the collection area for glass is at the end of Paschal St. which is only four blocks beyond Four Seasons Mall on High Point Rd.

If enough people cared about their environment to add the relatively minor inconvenience of recycling to their lifestyle it could possibly generate even more ways of saving energy. Other areas of the country do much more. The best example I know of is Oregon. Oregon doesn't allow any beverage to be sold in throwaway containers. There, all aluminum cans are worth a nickle. Who among you would throw away a six-pack of nickles? But that's in Oregon, and I like callin' North Carolina home. Ireally do. Perhaps some bright sunny day in our future a sane State Government will arise out of the chaos and act as though they too like living here. Meanwhile, it's up to us little fold and those mean nasty garbage monsters.

Junior Varsity

Dear Editor,

Recently a decision was made by someone-presumably Margaret Moody-to do away with Junior Varsity Teams at UNC-G. Why? The only reason I have heard is a lack of facilities. Well, the first sport affected by this decision is softball and since our Varsity Team plays at Lindley Park-not on campus-why not have a JV Team.

Even with the shortage of gym space our women's Varsity and JV Basketball teams have managed to work out practice schedules. There have been no visible problems with the men's teams, either. What, then, is the rationale for this decision? As far as I know, the coaches are more than willing to put out the extra effort to have JV Teams and I know the students want to have Junior Varsity teams, so, what gives?

Mary Sheek

Mrs. B. Defended

Gentlemen:

I am writing in response to the responses to Mrs. Brinkley's letter. I am appalled by the stupidity and disrespect of my fellow classmates. Mrs. Brinkley may have exaggerated and was a little harsh in her opinion of males, but at least she was writing because she was concerned about the welfare of her daughter. How many young people today complain that their parents do not care about them, have no interest in them or what they are doing, or are not concerned about their welfare? Just because Mrs. Brinkley came on a little too strong does not give any of you the right to be crude. After reading students' responses to herletter I am not at all surprised why older people have negative views of todays youth. It is the young people who gave them these negative views. Did your parents never teach you any manners? Did they never teach you to have respect for others even though their opinions may differ from yours? Each of you could have gotten your point across without showing your immaturity.

Open your eyes; open your ears. Mrs. Brinkley may not have known that there is a law prohibiting the use of state funds for beer, but neither did UNC-G until last semester. Where do you think the money came from to pay for the beer blast in the cafeteria during the fall semester of 1976? Where do you think the money came from to pay for the beer used during Spring Fling in 1977? Where do you think the money came from to pay for the 800 gallons of beer in the quad during the spring semester of 1977? Not your dorm fees!

Mrs. Brinkley exaggerated in her letter but so did everyone who responded to it. Just because sex parties are not advertised in The Carolinian does not mean they do not exist on this campus. By "sex" I mean actual coitus; by "party" I mean 3 or more active participants. I know of sex parties that have occurred in Hinshaw and in International House (Yes, Beth Heathershaw, I-House). I understand that Moore Dorm even has two girls on the first floor who could legitimately be called prostitutes. Any person with any decency about them knows it is uncouth to talk about their sex life in public, much less write a letter to the Editor and tell everyone how long you can maintain an erection. What are you doing, Mr. Dorsett? Advertising for sex partners or just bragging to

The Red Hat

(Oakhearst Shopping Center)

bar. Although the patrons are anything but educated, they are generally friendly. You can watch

Kelsey's (Elam and Walker) draws about an even mix of working types and students who cram into its small interior like sardines, on a busy night. Generally a good crowd except for a few gutter worms here and there. Tends to draw an older crowd (early twenties), not that the younger people are unwelcome but the maturing barhopper is likely to Logan's (across from Kelsey's) has become more of a pool hall than a tavern per se. For pool hounds and pinball freaks Logan's is the place to be. It also offers some respite and breathing air for barhoppers ruffeled in the Kelsey's

The Pick Wick (Next to Kelsey's)

Greensboro's oldest bar. If you're a burned out intellectual, an alcoholic professor or an over the hill bar hopper the Pick Wick is cerfainly a must. This was one of the duller bars that we found but if you're in the area or just plain

The Gallery

(Lawndale Shopping Center)

Piper our only advice to the manager here is to turn it back over to the gays. A discussion as to the fact that Anita Bryant is a crud would be perhaps the most exciting thing that could ever happen in this dive-bar. The $2.00 membership fee

LIVE ENTERTAINMENT

Can be very misleading.

Sometimes has good entertainment

but lacks the crowd it should draw.

Often, musicians who play there play too regularly and hearing them for the 15th time is nothing short of monotonus. The owner would do well to recruit fresh entertainment.

Bad nights are really bad, but don't judge the bar by a few bad nights.

Advertised dances are always lively.

Thurs, and Fri. are the best nights, watch for the "good entertain-

The Cop Out Club

(Off Walker Ave.)

Dark, smokey, loose and loud,

you can let it all hang out here.

Good bands that wail, you can danis, like the bar, a joke.

Aliza's Cafe (Tate St.)

ment."

Formerly a gay bar called the Pied by uy to see for yourself.

Since pool tables went in, Logan's feel more at home here.

crunch across the street.

Znnn...Znn.

them play foosball if you like.

Decidely a young working class boost a sagging male ego?

I agree with Mrs. Brinkley that we do not need 24 hour visitation-but for different reasons. I could not care less if girls on my hall have sex (whether they enjoy it or are being exploited: If it is outside of marriage it is a sin). But it is annoying when people go into the hall to do their socializing and partying. On weekends when the dorm is open to 2:00 a.m. there is a lot of partying and the music always gets too loud. It is difficult to study, much less sleep. If we had 24 hour visitation there would be no peace in the dorm from 5:00 p.m. on Friday to 8:00 a.m. on Monday. I would not feel safe if any male could come into the dorm any time he chooses (some of them walk right in through the side door without an escort everyday) and remain in there all night. I am sure the number of stolen items would rise drastically. Don't tell me a girl is just as safe on campus as she is off. During the 1976-77 school year there were 44 reported rapes ON campus. There is no telling how many went unreported.

I think Ronald Skenes and Alan Pike really showed their stupidity. No wonder Mr. Pike did not do anything important as president of SGA. Anyone knows that when one writes a general letter addressed to no one person in particular the heading should be either "Dear Sirs" or "Gentlemen" (not "Dear Editor"). Mrs. Brinkley wrote her letter to the Editor, not to the boys on this campus. Anyone living on campus knows they are not gentlemen. I would like to know what religion has condoned pre-marital sex? Not any Protestant religion! Not the Catholics! Not the Jews! I have been attending church regularly for 21 years and I have yet to hear the subject of sex brought up except to CONDEMN pre-marital sex, homosexuality, and adultery, much less attempt to change any misconceptions and misinformation that people may have. I believe you are misinformed, Mr. S. and Mr. P. because pre-marital sex is still a sin. I agree one should have a thorough and healthy knowledge of his body and about sex but it should be kept clean and wholesome like God had intended (between a married couple only). Just because the majority of students are in favor of or participate in pre-marital sex does not make it any less of a sin (whether you are a Christian or non-

It is clear that no one who responded to Mrs. Brinkley's letter was a Christian. A true Christian would have politely disagreed (or agreed) with Mrs. Brinkley and expressed their own opinion. They would not have raked her over the coals and made insinuations about her personal life. Do you think you have improved yourself by being disrespectful and trying your best to give the impression that you are better than her? I do not know Mrs. Brinkley or any of those who responded to her, but from reading the letters in the paper it is clear that what she lacks in open-mindedness and respect for each individual's right to choose their own way of life (including their sex life) you people lack respect for other people period! You also lack respect for others to express their opinions (especially if they differ from yours), common. sense (who wants to use the sink after someone has urinated in it?), maturity (you do not have to respond to immaturity with immaturity) and empathy (how would you feel if you were a parent? How would you feel if you were a parent and you read the letters students wrote to the editor?). Wait until you are 20-plus years older and you have kids in college. I am sure you will not approve of everything the younger generation does. Why don't you people think of others instead of only yourself? Why don't you people grow up??? Don't you think it is about time???

"Disgusted Fellow Classmates"

Name Withheld by Request

Cary Criticized

To the Editor:

After suffering through four issues of The Carolinian this semester. I have decided to write and express my objection to The Carolinian in general and the grade school journalism in particular. Instead of babbling in generalizations I will define the problems. Two concepts that one can learn in 10th grade journalism course are gutters and tombstones. A gutter is a column of white space which runs from the top of the page to the bottom between two columns of print that is unbroken by either a headline, picture or another story. A tombstone is when two healines run together side by side so as appear to be one; or when one story is directly under another both having the same size headline (i.e. both three columns wide). The phrase originated because one or both stories is killed (i.e. loses its impor-

In the first issue of The Carolinian this semester there were two gutters and two tombstones on the front page. On the second page the masthead was longer than the editorial; that says a great deal about the prominence of the two pieces and the staff's regard for themselves versus their opinions. Such a discontinuity of quantity versus quality further indicates this definition of the case. The Sally Highrise cartoon and the Ect. Column should be on the back page not in the first four pages. In the second issue there are two tombstones on pages 3, 6, & 7. In the third issue there was one tombstone and one gutter on the front page. There was a gutter and a tombstone on page 4, and two tombstones on page 5. This isn't all either, they end issue three with a record three tombstones on the sixth page. I must admit The Carolinian outdid themselves in the 4th issue, on the front page there were three tombstones and one gutter. I am anxiously awaiting Thursday's issue, laughter makes the food a lot better to eat.

In the January 19th issue, on the back page is "Greensboro Greets Vice-President Mondale." Where is your sense of good local news? You insult your readers' intellignece. We know he is Vice President. I expected something along the lines of "Fritz Meets Grits." I had to plow through two sets of cartoons before I could reach this one good article.

I have one question to ask the editor. Your masthead states "All unsigned editorials express the opinions of the editorial staff, while letters, guest editorials, and columns, represent only the views of their individual contributors." Is "waltzing Memphisophele" a creation of the editor or the editorial staff? If not, why was it left unsigned, construing that fact. And if it is not, does this not border on plagerism? This occurs in the January 26th issue.

Let us look at this problem a little closer. In the January 26 issue there is an article "Baganz Charged in Hinshaw Hijinks." Does the Associate Editor have to resort to reprinting Campus Police records for the sake of journalism?

The biggest joke we have seen to date occured in the January 31 issue. On the Student Government Referendum Elliott Universty Center is misspelled. Elliott has two t's, not one; you ought to read the sign on the outside of the building, after all your office is there.

I probably would have never been prompted to write this letter until I heard how much money we were wasting. A rough estimate would buy $30,000 dollars a year. Not to mention the fact that The Carolinian is the only student organization with a separate escrow account which no one but The Carolinian controls. How much was deposited in that account last semester? Does the quantity of money justify the poor quality received?

> Respectfully, Kenneth R. Crumbley

P.S. If I can't get my money back, could you please use a softer grade

G'boro Entertainment

BY B.W. BARHOPPERMAN Special to The Carolinian

Now that on-campus entertainment is at its all time low, (thanksto the beer embargo), and weekend fun prospects may be divided between going home, getting stoned, or another dorm party (if you're lucky) perhaps it's time to look elsewhere for entertainment. Although Greensboro is no New York, there are many clubs that can offer an alternative to the often exclusive and narrow on-campus living. So with the boys in Bailey and the Cotten Cuties in mind, we conducted an exhaustive (and often wobbly) survey of Greensboro's bars and clubs, (and had a jolly-rot good time in the process too, by the way). So, without further ado, here is what we found out.

Camelot Club (Market St., downtown)

A small private club with the personal touch. Excellent service, friendly crowd, though a rather small seating capacity makes finding an open table hard. Interesting entertainment five nights per week. $3.00 per year membership fee, no cover for entertainment. You can't get in without your electronic membership card so just rap on the door until someone answers.

The Bench (Lawndale Dr.)

Great place to go if you want to drink beer and not see any people. You can spend the evening wondering how they sell enough to stay open.

Ham's (Friendly Rd.)

Not actually a bar but a great place to sober up. Good food, good atmosphere, strong coffee. (Also serves beer).

The Boar's Head (Across from Ham's)

Young college atmosphere, always a lively and optimistic crowd. Afternoon happy hour 25 cents a beer till 8:00, free juke box, free pretzels, can't be beat. 25 cents membership fee is a good investment, always bring your card. Lines form at the door around 9:00. Watch where you park!

Alternatives

ce if you like. Be on your best behavior however, the Cop Out draws some rough customers and a little rudeness could be punishable by five in the face or worse. Even mix of girls and guys, usually crowded. $1.00 membership, $1.50 cover, canned beer 60¢, 25¢ draft beer on Tues.

Not a had bar at all although were Fat City (Royal Villa) at a loss to explain why. Kelsey's Formerly the New York Scene, Fat City is perhaps the most spectacular club by appearance. It's clean and cool with a top notch atmosphere generated by its lush interior. In this stardust club you can pretend you're a world connoisseur even if you're only guzzling a Schlitz dancing is to live rock. .. Fat City is not a disco. However, being a new club its crowd may be sparce and unpredictable for a while. Ladies night on Tuesday (girls get in free), buys $3.00. Thurs. and Fri. $1.00 off with college I.D. No membership fee, canned beer 75¢, no draft beer (yet), brown bagging. Closed Sun.

Carolina Country-Music Club (West Market St.)

Formerly the Mardi Gras Disco the Country Music Club has been open for only a week (not long enough for us to comment on the crowd or the atmosphere). However, it has a very nice appearance on the interior and looks like it might be a good place to go, once it is discovered. Bands play country music on Thurs., Fri., and Sat. nights. $2.00 membership fee plus a cover charge when bands

Dadio's (High Point Rd.) Purely a disco club with lights, smoke, and loud records. To say that Dadio's is huge would be an understatement; the crowd is unbelievable. Draws exclusively young college and high school types. As a personal opinion this barhopper left unimpressed but if disco is your bag, "Dadio's is your bar $3:00 membership, $1.00 cover, canned beer 75¢, draft 65¢, brown bagging

Explored

The Board Walk (Down Town)

An excellent college crowd here usually, live entertainment is always good. Check the newspaper for who's playing. Membership fee is included in the cover charge which averages about $2.00 a night. Unlimited parking across the street in the city parking facility costs 25¢. 50¢ drafts, 55¢ for canned beer is cheaper than most bars offering live entertainment. Definitely one of the more lively bars in Greensboro.

We sincerely hope that this brief and perhaps inadequate guide to Greensboro's night spots will be of some help to those students who are sick of spending all their time on campus. If only by reminding you that UNC-G is not the only reality and that there are other things to do and enjoyable people to meet, then perhaps we have succeeded. At any rate the establishments listed above welcome all UNC-G students and on behalf of good barhoppers everywhere, we hope you will join

"Ladies, Welcome . . .

Nudity At Duke

The Chronicle

Dinnertime in the Trent Hall cafeteria was disrupted last night when a masked intruder entered the dining room, leaped onto a table and proceeded to completely disrobe.

More than 300 people, including the cafeteria staff and two sororities, witnessed the incident.

According to eyewitness reports, the stranger arrived on the scene wearing only a dark ski mask, a necktie, a bathrobe , combat boots and an athletic supporter. He was carrying a sign which read "Ladies, welcome to Trent."

The culprit quickly jumped on top of a centrally-located table and threw the bathrobe to the crowd that had gathered around him. He then took off the athletic supporter with the aid of a pocket knife while segments of the crowd applauded.

The intruder hastily made his exit through a rear door of the cafeteria, after leaping on another table and making his way through members and rushees of the Tri-delt and Chi Omega sororities. The girls offered no resistence.

Patrons of Gradeli's delicatessen, which is adjacent to the cafeteria, immediately flooded into the room upon hearing the commotion.

Unconfirmed reports maintained that the intruder received a $50 payment from anonymous sources to perform the deed. Others suggested that it had something to do with fraternity initiation.

Reaction from witnesses was mixed. While some offended observers used phrases such as "disgusting," "boring," and "a horrible body," others called the "wonderful," performance 'magnificent" and "100 short."

"They should do it every night, because the food's not too great over here," commented one female observer.

"I liked him more than the broccoli;" added another.

One male observer maintained, "If he had any guts, it would have been longer." Concluded another female eyewitness, "I'll have to have dinner here more often:"

THE RING MAN IS COMING!

February 8 Wednesday, 8-5 Benbow Lobby, EUC

Please bring balance and receipt

All other states: 1-800-438-4094

The Arts.

NBS Reveals The Real

by the NEO-BLACK SOCIETY

The Neo-Black Society presents The Black Arts Festival, annually to promote black awareness to the UNC-G Students and the Greensboro community. It is a week of activities that bring black performers from various aspects of black culture to UNC-G's campus. The festival comes under the Cultural Committee heading of the NBS.

Last year's festival's theme was "Our Message To You." It featured the Neo-Black Society Dance Group, Sounds In Motion, Guys and Dolls Fashion Show, NBS Gospel Choir, and the NBS Tallent Show. The speaker was the Reverend Martin Luther King Sr. An art exhibit was displayed in Joyner Lounge by G. Young and black movies and video tapes were shown on campus.

ing referencies, not in evening

11th. It features Black artists of the region and beyond.

This year the NBS brings H.M. Michaux to the Festival as it's featured speaker. Mr. Michaux, a prominent attorney of Durham, North Carolina, has been recently appointed as the U.S. Attorney for the Middle District of North Carolina by President Jimmy Car-

Two dance groups will perfrom in Cone Ballroom this year during the activity filled week. The NIA Dance Ensemble of Brooklyn, New York will provide artistic activities in African and Afro-Modern dance. The Neo-Black Society Dance Group, now in its fourth year of experience, will show varying black experiences through dance.

The theater is brought to campus through the Ebony Group and sing their version of the Balck experience.

Other highlights include a Talent Show, Fashion Show, Sickle Cell Testing Clinic, and the Annual Dance featuring "Chocolate Funk." Even the ARA participates with a "Soul Food" dinner in the dining halls.

Admission to these events are nominal (free), except for the Annual Dance, which is $1.00 and the ARA meal, which requires a punch from your meal card.

NBS Publicity Committeeperson, Linda L. Pridgen, said, "This year's Black Arts Festival is more dynamic than the last. It holds something for everyone. It is not only for those who enjoy the professional arts, but also for those who want to learn about and be around people."

the entire campus and community but for your own benefit you should personally become envolved. The Black Art Festival reveals the black experience through art, and art is

> SPECIAL PREVIEW

"These events should be seen by

"Slow Dance" Unveils Life

A scene from Slow Dance on the Killing Ground

(UNC-G News Bureau)- The guilty and distracted characters of three people are explored in "Slow Dance on the Killing Ground," a tense drama which will be presented Feb. 1-5 by the Studio Theatre of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

"The drama deals with some notso-pleasant issues that are universal constants: juvenile delinquency.

murder, capital punishment, abortion, and the scars of Nazi terrorism," says director Betty Jones, candidate for the master of fine arts degree in acting and direc-

The audience will follow the "slow dance" through three acts that reveal the details of the situations that plague and sicken the play's three characters: Randall, 18, a black boy who was killed his prostitute-mother; Glas, 65, an old Jewish man wo deserted his wife and child during the Nazi take-over of Germany; and, Rosie, 19, who loses her way while seeking an abortionist.

The trio meet by chance in the elderly Glas's candy store in Brooklyn's factory district on June 1, 1962-the day the world learned of the hanging death of Nazi war criminal Adolph Eichman.

"The drama is the ritualistic unveiling of life taking place in a candy store that is, itself, masquerading as a self-imposed concentration camp," Ms. Jones said. " 'Slow Dance on the Killing Ground' is an intriguing character study."

"The intimate nature of the Studio Theatre provides an arena setting that is sure to enhance the exploration of audience and actors into playwright William Hanley's real world of troubled people," Ms. Jones said

Randall, the young black man on the run from the law, will be played by Coleman Freeman of Winston-Salem. Freeman, a graduate

See Slow on page 6

CAROS

CONTOCORON THE Neo-Black Society brings song to the festival. The Neo-Black Society brings song to the festival the Neo-Black Society brings song the Neo-Black Society brings song the Neo-Black Society brings son

Tomorrow Will Be "OUTRAGEOUS" Day AT At Wings

This Year's Sleeper Suprise Hit! Moves Tomorrow to Janus Wings For Its 5th Marvelous Greensboro Week!

"ONE OF THE YEAR'S 10 BES"

Movie

7:20, 9:20 PM

DENTHOUSE SCREENING ROOM

Celebrate

GEOUS

Day

Admission

THE MOST UNIQUE ENTERTAINMENT COMPLEX ANYWHERE! Seven Luxurious Intimate Theatres plus the super-Luxurious lounge

chair comfort of the Penthouse Screening Room, featuring the area's finest 1st Run Movies. One can enjoy a fine wine, beer or other beverage while watching the movie in the Screening Room where, as another convenience, phone reservations can now be made by calling 272-1200. Tickets must be picked up no later than one hour prior to showtime

And-Before Or After The Movie-

Janus patrons may enjoy a selection of fine wines, beer, gourmet sandwiches, snacks, omelettes, crepes and deserts in the Janus Espresso Lounge, an intimate hideaway, adjacent to the Penthouse Screening Room featuring candlelight elegance, Giant Screen TV and bar Late Show Fri. & Sat.

使与世界教育 100

Frenchy! 4608 West Market Open Mon-Thurs. from 11:30-9:00 Fri-Sat. from 11:30-10:30 COUPON Bring this coupon and get in w line 1 free glass of wine per person. VALID MON.—THURS. 5:00-9:00 With This Coupon 2 for 1 Special Buy Any 2 Pizzas for the Price of One.

Offer Good Anytime Sun.-Set.

Daily Pizza Buffet 11:30am-2:00pm $2.25 with tax All the pizza you can eat plus tea or coffee.

1115 E. Bessemer Ave.

272-0177

LOCATED BETWEEN THE COLISEUM AND FOUR SEASONS MALL

One trip to the saled bar.

HOWDY PARDNERS 11

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK 2606 HIGH POINT RD GREENSBORO, N.C. 294-5399

FRESH ROAST BEEF SANDWICHES Homemade Hamburgers - Salad Bar Western Fried Chicken Apple Cheese Crisp dessert

Free Refills on all Large Drinks

HELP WANTED STUDENTS

Late evening Tues-Thurs.-Set.-Sun. Work 2, 3, or 4 nights Pay is $2.85 an hour urs to suit your scho

Apply Roy Rogers Restaurant High Point Rd.

* INTRODUCING * THE NEW DIXIE DOG HOT DOGS

100% Pure Beef No fillers or artificial coloring added.

DIXIE DOG 62¢ Mustard, Slaw, Chili & Onions THE DIXIE KRAUT DOG 694 Sauerkraut & Your Choice THE DIXIE CONEY ISLANDER 624 Mustard, Relish & Onions THE DIXIE PRESIDENTIAL 620 Peanut Butter & Your Choice THE DIXIE CHEESY 694 Cheese & Your Choice THE DIXIE FOOTLONG As above, but long Plus all kinds of delicious ice cream sundaes, sodas, malts, parfaits and floats, pies, brownies, meringues and desserts.

* GRAND OPENING SPECIAL * THE DIXIE DOG DEAL A Hot Dog, Ice Cream & Pepsi

Offer good thru Feb. 8, 1978

The Commons at Forum VI

UNC-G SPORTS REVIEW

Junior Varsity Goes 4 and 4

BY JOHN MCCANN Sports Editor

Being head coach of the ladies tennis team and being a tennis pro himself it would seem that Bob Maggard would have little time for an activity so far removed from the limelight as junior varsity basketball. To the contrary Maggard has led the Little Spartans or "Sparteens" to a 4 and 4 record midway through the season.

"I'm really pleased with the J.V. team. 4 and 4 is a good record considering the competition we have had." Maggard said tooking back over the early part of the season.

Maggard has had a few handicaps to deal with this year. One of the problems is that the junior varsity seldom has a chance to practice as a team unit. "Most of our time is spent going head to head with the varsity," replied Maggard when queried about practice sessions. Another fact is that each player is

UNC-G vs. State

BY KENT WILLIAMS

Staff Writer

State Wolfpack affirmed its No. 2

national ranking here on Tuesday night by downing UNC-G 77-50 on

The Pack showed signs of blowing the contest open right from the opening tipoff. State rammed through the first 10 points of the game before Anna Parker got the Spartans' initial basket at the 14:47

From that point forward, the State attack stalled. Coach Kay Yow quickly inserted five fresh players-they could fair no better against the UNC-G cager. Again

Coach Yow went to her bench. Five more players entered the game. The Wolfpack starters and the first five replacements watched in awe as the Spartans trimmed the visitors' lead to just jour points, 24-20 with 4:39

State added two buckets and, you guessed it, the starting five returned to the court. They received a rude greeting as Parker and Jan Gillean each tallied a basket for UNC-G to cut the State lead again to four, 28-

22. Both teams added two more points before the half and the Pack carried a slim 30-26 advantage into score to UNC-G's fine play.

Coach Yow attributed the close

"UNC-G played extremely well in the first half," she stated. "They were executing, going to the boards, and making good use of the time remaining in the half.

the dressing room.

clock.

a strong second period surge.

After a shakey first half, the N.C.

only allowed to compete in a certain number of games during the season. If a player competes in a varsity game then in a lot of cases his playing time with the junior varsity will be curtailed.

Injury was a factor in the beginning of the season. Junior Larry Moore had the misfortune of a broken hand during the opening weeks of the season. Larry is a junior college transfer from Mitchell Community College in Statesville. "Larry has a 19 point average and is out leading rebounder," Maggard said. In the two contests with Jefferson College, Moore had a total of 60 points with a high game of 36 points. Moore is 6'3" and alternates at center and foreward.

In the backcourt the team is short by no means. Kenny Bullock, brother of varsity standout Mark Bullock is currently averaging 9.7 points per contest. Indiana native Kyle Turner aptly fills the other backcourt slot.

Bob Maggard

Alternating between varsity and junior varsity duty are Dale Oliver, Bill Winfrey and Jim Stober. Oliver at 6'6" gets some playing time inside, and Stober and Winfrey are both assets according to Maggard. "Bill has really given us a lift in the last two games. At CCCC he had 16 points and bid the job "Commenting on Stober he added "Jim had added a lot of needed leadership to the jayvees."

The next game for the Spartans is at Chowan College on Feb. 10.

Spartans Crown Bishops

BY JOHN MCCANN Sports Editor

The program said North Carolina Weslyan College was affiliated with the Methodist Church, but there was nothing methodical about the type play the Bishops brought to Curry Gym Tuesday night as the home boys won handily 86-65.

The Spartans played a much more deliberate offense and a much more stringent defense than they have in the past. Andre Waller the 5'8" freshman out of Washington D.C. played by far his best game of the season. With a total of 15 points, most coming on the lead end of the fast break. Numerous assists from Waller kept the Spartans far ahead of their competitors.

Sherman Bowden, sporting a new haircut and much more poised offensive style was the leading scorer for the night with 17. Bowden tallied 12 of these 17 in the first half.

Another factor affecting the outcome of the contest was fine free throw shooting by the Spartans, missing only two from the charity stripe. Turnovers hampered the efforts of the Bishops. Coach Bill McCarthy urged his team on from the bench and was forced to take time out after time out to regroup and try to put some sense of purpose into his team. All efforts failed. Sophomore scoring standout Ronnie Duck did manage to bag 20 points, and lead his team in rebounding as well.

Coach Jack Mehl substituded freely throughout the contest leaving Jim Stober, usually a bencher, in the game a considerable length of time throughout the entire game. Stober was where the ball was, The 6'1" Cincinnatti native had more than his share of rebounds, and finished with 4 points.

Photo by Art Donsky

Spartans' Sherman Bowden sparkles at defense against Wesleyan.

The Spartans are now 5 and 9 for the year and hope to better that record at Greensboro College this Saturday night in a DIAC game to be held at 7:30. Despite the unimpressive record so far the Spartans are confident they will be ready for the Dixie Conference Tournament to be held at North Carolina Weslyan in Rocky Mount in only three weeks.

Ladies Fight Hard But Lose To #2Wolfpack

"We were playing UNC-G's ballgame. That caused us to make mistakes and not execute as well as we can," she added.

UNC-G scored the first point of the second half on a free throw by the second half on a free throw by Kim Morgan and the State lead was three. At that point the Pack erupted, and the fine play of freshmen guards Trudi Lacey and Ginger Rouse along with all-American center Genia Beasley, put State ahead to stay.

In the first 10 minutes of the second half, State outscored UNC-G 27-7. Rouse and Lacey each netted seven points during this period and Beasley chipped in five. The Wolfpack's lead never got any larger than the final 27 point margin.

Coaches Yow and Nora Lynn Finch were much more impressed with the play of their squad in the second half.

"We were concerned with the four-point halftime lead," commented Yow, "but we are concerned even if we are ahead by 20 points."

"Obviously we have to be more impressed with our play in the second half," added a smiling Finch. "We definitely went to the boards better and changing our defenses helped too."

Jan Donahue, the Spartan coach, was happy with her team's effort as well.

Saturday, Feb. 4

"I was extremely pleased with our play tonight," she said. "If we have that patience with the teams we play the rest of the season, I feel like the second half of our schedule will be much more successful."

With the win, State's record rose to 18-1 on the season overall and 6-0 in Div. I of the NCAIAW.

UNC-G's mark dropped to 4-7 overall and 2-4 in the conference.

The Spartans' next home contest will come this Saturday when they host Mars Hill College.

Outing Club Gets High In

BY JAY MELVIN

(Editor's Note: Melvin was a member of the Popo Expedition last year.)

Why would anyone want to leave domestic comforts and tranquility behind, particularly at Christmas, to go climb a volcano? Ask anyone of 13 UNC-G Outing Club members, or their advisor, because over the Christmas Holidays they traded their greenbacks for pesos, hot dogs and Billy Beer for tacos and tequila, icy weather for balmy sunshine, and embarked on a climbing expedition to Central Mexico.

Led by two Mexican expedition veterans, Outing Club president Linda Benedict and technical advisor Lynn Laycock, the group crossed the border at Laredo and pulled into Mexico City roughly 48 hours after departing Greensboro. From the polluted, busiling capital city the two vans headed southeast to the town of Amecameca, at the foot of snow-capped Popocatepetl. In light of the trek ahead of them, several members of the expedition thought it appropriate to visit the town church that dates back to the 16th century.

Mars Hill College at UNC-G

On the day of reckoning, the expedition split into two groups and began its approach at 4:00 in the morning. One group chose the well traveled Las Cruces route while the other went up the longer, more difficult Ventrillo. Both groups of climbers had to tread loose volcanic ash along steep inclines to reach the edge of the ice glacier that dips 4000 feet below Popo's crater rim. From that point it was a matter of sheer determination, as the climbers carefully traversed upward with ice axes and crampons.

At those altitudes carrying a day pack uphill over sand-like volcanic ash and across trecherous ice and snow gives you the uneasy sensation of pushing your body to its physical limits. By the time you reach the snow line, you are cold, hungry and tired. Before you get halfway across the glacier the thin air has made your head feel like someone is beating drums between your ears. Your feet feel like lead, your body hurts, and you're wondering why you haven't turned back. Was making it to the top so allimportant? Was it worth it? This time out the answer was yes for only nine of the fourteen who started.

Once you've caught your wind on top, however, the agony and doubts give way to an incredible feeling of cuphoria you realize that you have pushed yourself past previously unknown physical limits to gain a personal achievement few people ever dream about—to look down on the clouds from one of North America's highest peaks and know that, if only for a moment, you are one up on Mother Nature.

Reflections on the climb ranged from personal jubilations to simply "good," but the general feeling was summed up by Dale Caviness: "Physically, most of us thought that it was the hardest thing we've ever done in our lives."

After the grueling 15-hour climb, the expedition members headed for their first showers in days and some plain old R and R in the hamlets and towns sprinkled across the Mexican countryside far below.

To complete off their journey they visited the National Museum of Anthropology in Mexico City where they were greeted at the entrance by a 167-ton monolith of Tlaloc, the Aztec god of rain. Inside they viewed the 30-ton Aztec calendar stone and innumerable other relies from earlier ages.

In Puebla they visited the artisan markets that are famous for handwrought Talavera tile and fine pottery. In Tehuacan there was leather and onyx to buy, and woolen goods in Tlaxcala. And of course most if not all, of the purchasing done in Mexico is carried out on a bargaining basis.

Mexico

Eventually the group headed for the warm waters and sandy beaches of the Mexican coast. Acapulco turned out to be a real let down in several ways. The resort was dirty, commercialized and crowded. To top that off, while the travellers were at a restaurant one of their vans was broken into by Mexican thieves who made off with several cameras and some cash. According to the group, the Mexican police were of little assistance, a reminder of an earlier encounter with authorities in Mexico City. In the capital, the group had stopped at an intersection to ask directions from a policeman. The officer told them to go in a certain direction. When they did so another officer chased them and fined them 500 pesos for making an illegal turn.

Despite these hassles, howevers, (and Montezuma's Revenge,) the trekkers concluded, "it was a good trip." Eventually they made their way to a small coastal town above Acapulco called Zihautanejo. The warm waters and sunny beaches helped to sooth the aches and pains inflicted by the wird-swept slopes of Popo, temporarily erased the bad memories of the trip, and submerged thoughts of the long drive back to winter in Greensboro.

Upcoming Sports

Women's Basketball

Friday, Feb. 3 Western Carolina Univ. at HPC

Mens' Basketball

Saturday, Feb. 6 at Greensboro College 7:30

We Have Moved!

Our New Home Is 2805 Battleground Ave.

Greensboro, N.C. 27408

288-7477

Our stock includes the finest outdoor clothing available—parkas and vests, mittens, gloves, and hats. We have quality, lightweight, functional equiptment—the very best value for your money!

Hours: M.T.W.Sat. 10-6-TH, F, 10-8

House of Flowers

616 Dolly Madison Rd.
Phone: 292-7290 or 299-8259

Drive Our Cars ALMOST FREE to most U.S. cities

Auto Driveaway 919-272-2153

520 W. Friendly Ava.

Phyllis Tektonidis

and, above all, her enthusiasm,

Mrs. Tektonidis is a valuable asset to the community, the School of Music, her students, and anyone fortunate enough to spend an after-

As a visiting lecturer Mrs.

Tektonidis will be a member of the faculty in the School of Music for three semesters-she hopes to be asked to stay here permanently.

noon talking with her.

Music Lecturer "A Valuable Asset"

BY JOSEPH CARTER SPECIAL TO THE CAROLINIAN

From the snowbound winters of Rochester, New York, to the Sunbelt city of Greensboro, via an extended stay in Italy, is the route taken by the new visiting lecturer in the School of Music at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, Mrs. Phyllis Tektonidis.

A Rochester native, Mrs. Tektonidis received both her bachelor of music and master of music degrees from Eastman School of Music, where she first became acquainted with the distinguished reputation of the U.N.C.-G. School of Music. After she taught for one year at Lynchburg College in Virginia, however, "Europe was the place to go."

That was in 1960. For approximately the next fourteen years Mrs. Tektonidis, better known to European audiences as Margerita Rochow-Costa, toured the continent performing diverse operatic works with outstanding conductors and working in the company of celebrated singers, such as Richard Tucker and Renata Tabaldi.

When asked what her favorite role has been, Mrs. Tektonidis scanned the wall of her office, covered with a conglomeration of posters and pictures-of interest was a photograph of the immense Arena di Verona; and her eyes concentrated on a playbill of her performance in Verdi's REQUIEM, pronouncing it her favorite oratorio. But her cherished role is the mezzo-soprano in Verdi's AIDA:

With numerous classical musicians in her family history, she felt she was raised in a stimulating environment. Tektonidis related how four sisters in her mother's family performed lighter vocal works in performances in the Midwest earlier in this cen-

Most recently Mrs. Tektonidis made her debut for the Greensboro audience at An Evening of Poera held on Monday, January 30, 1978, at the Barn Dinner Theatre. Mrs. Tektonidis spoke enthusiastically of the program and noted the fine organization by Dr. Richard Cox. She appeared pleased by the size and reception of the audience and of the dining arrangements.

When asked about the role of a performing artist in an academic setting, she said that she notices faults in young singers that need to be corrected. But without instrucfrom colleagues, she said it would be impossible for instructors to properly direct students. Mrs. Tektonidis praised the exemplary behavior of the music faculty at U.N.C.-G. for sharing their knowledge with the students.

How is Mrs. Tektonidis struck by the city of Greensboro in the month she has resided here? She remarked on the expansiveness of the city, the lack of traffic congestion, and the helpful new friends. She awaits collecting branches of dogwood blossoms come spring.

With her cultivated charm, her knowledge and vast experience,

"Real Public Policy"

Internships Offer Experience

BY RICH INNES

The Political Science department at UNC-G is offering unique learning experience for students interested in government and politics. A summer internship program, designed to give students practical experience in public service, is open to students from Guilford College, Greensboro College, Bennett College, High Point College, A&T State University and UNC-G.

"The job has to be involved with dealing with real public policy," said Jim Thompson, professor of Political Science and co-ordinator of the program. "The jobs are not clerical by nature," he said. "They involve actually doing the work."

The program, which runs from May 22 to August 11, involves a weekly class meeting in addition to the actual work in the field. In return the student will recieve 6 hrs. credit and a stipend which could range from nothing to $130 per

The success of the program, according to Thompson, depends on getting superior students to do the work. "Some of our internships have turned into permanent jobs," said Thompson. "Some go on to graduate school."

Barbara Barnes, assistant coordinator of the program, cited an example of an intern who was placed in High Point. The student, on his own initiatives, successfully established a transport system for the elderly. Another student, after serving an internship in the North Carolina office of Congressman Richardson Preyer, went on to secure a full time job on the Congressman's staff.

The deadline for applications for the program is Febuary 28, Applications may be picked up in the office of the department of Political Science in the Graham building.

Additional internships in State Government are being offered by the North Carolina Internship Office and the Institute of Government. Interested students should contact Deidre Morton at the Academic Affairs office, or write to NCIO, 112 W. Lane St., Raleigh, N.C. 27603.

Jim Thompson

The Marathon Sale is our biggest, hottest sale of the year. 50 hours of super hi-fi discounting! Don't miss this limited sales opportunity on hundreds of top name brands . . . We're holding the line on 1977 prices! Doors open 10 A.M. sharp each day. First come, first served. Hurry before the '78 price increases! No dealers please! Sale ends Sat. Feb. 4th!

Special extended sale hours will be in effect on Friday only! Six hourly specials, beginning 9 P.M. until 3 A.M., will be placed on sale each hour. The hourly price specials will only be in effect for that particular hour.

Residents discuss problems

Continued from page 1

Initially residents would like to see the area designated as a Community Development Target Area. This would require the city to focus special attention on restoration and improvement of the area, including a stricter enforcement of the housing code requirements.

The Historic designation, sought by several residents at the meeting, would require that information on each home in the area be sent to the Department of Archives and History. According to Chabliss, it would take "at least a year" for the designation to go through.

Chabliss and Cowhig will present particulars of the College Hill Plan to the City Council on Feb. 6th at

"Slow Dance" at Studio Theater

Celebrate the Traditional

Way with Valentine

Cards.

Large Selection of

Assorted Gifts

Valentines

Continued from page 4

student, is director of drama at Livingstone College in Salisbury.

Charles E. Jeffers is cast as Glas. the elderly Jewish man who is haunted by guilt after deserting his wife and child. Jeffers, also a graduate student, is on leave of absence from his position as executive director of Hickory Community Theatre.

Rosie, the 19-year-old seeking an abortion, will be played by Cindy Lynn Jones, a junior from Winston-

Carl H. Lefko, a graduate student from Misenheimer, N.C., is lighting designer for "Slow Dance on The Killing Ground." James Cheshire, a junior from Winston-Salem, is stage manager. Buddy M. Barker, a senior, is costume designer, and Robert Ballard, a senior, is set designer for the play.

Ms. Jones also has served as head of the drama department at the Governor's School of North Carolina during the past two sum-

The play will be performed in the Studio Theatre of Taylor Building, Feb. 1-4 at 8:15 p.m., and on Feb. 5 at 2:15 p.m. The production is not included in UNC-G Theatre's regular season and a separate admission will be charged. Tickets are on sale at the Taylor box office. 379-9975, between 1:30 p.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays.

fa . 11 . 13 MARANTZ 2238 AM/FM STEREO RECEIVER. Has ole tone control and two $24988 SPARKOMATIC SK-6920C CAR SPEAKERS. 6" x Rear Deck Coaxials.

SHARP RT-1155 FRON

CASSETTE TAPE DECK.

Features exclusive Auto

LOADING STEREO

SANYO FT484 IN-DASH CASSETTE PLAYER AM/FM. Features full automatic stop and eject, locking fast forward and rewind.

$9900

EP: 120 LOUDSPEAKER SYSTEM. Famous checkrated system features 10" long traverse woofer and 1" Air Spring tweeter to deliver clean linear sound. Reg. $169.95.

JVC JRS400 MKII AM/FM STEREO RECEIVER. Features 80 watts per channel, with no more than 0.08% total harmonic distortion. Features built-in Graphic Equalizer, two power meters, dual-power supply and JENSEN C9945 CAR SPEAKER. The Best auto speaker money can buy! You'll hear sound never thought possible in a car, with these 6x9's, woofer midrange and tweeter for unbelievable frequency response. $5900 Reg. $114.95.

SUPERTUNER" AUTO CASSETTE. Look at these features . . . Fits "In-dash" locking Fast Forward/Rewind, superior AM/FM radio performance! Reg. $209.95.

HITACHI D410 STEREO CASSETTE TAPE DECK. Features Dolby Noise Reduction circuitry, front load, automatic stop on all functions, permalloy Super Life heads, chromium dioxide/normal switch, ferrite heads, and separate outputs controls.

SHURE M2270EH CARTRIDGE. A fine sound source that tracks at 1½ to 3 grams. It's an elliptical cartridge that will greatly improve the sound of your records at an excellent price! Reg. $49.95.

DUAL 1237 TURNTABLE. Offers a choice of manual start, fully automatic start and multiple play. Has a 10% inch platter with 6% pitch $000 control Reg. $134.95.

HARMAN KARDON 330C STEREO RECEIVER. Rated "a best buy" by leading test magazines. Will easily power almost any bookshelf speaker.

SENNHEISER HD-400 HEADPHONES. Excellent highend response, very good bass. Lightweight design reduces listening "fatigue". $2.40 Reg. $34.88.

KLH 300 SPEAKERS. A very good 2-way ported loudspeaker at a modest cost. Add a pair for your bedroom. Great speakers to get you into Real hi-fi. Reg. $69.95.

All merchandise subject to prior sale!

THE CORNER Tate and Walker Shop Early for Best Selection.