

THE LITERARY SOCIETIES ORGANIZE YEAR'S CLUB WORK

New Members Show Unusual Amount of Enthusiasm in This Work.

Last Monday afternoon the new girls of the Cornelian and Adelpian societies became full pledged members by attending the first society meeting after initiation. The purpose of the meetings of both old and new members was to explain and organize the club work for this year. The clubs are one of the most important features of society, their work being instructive and at the same time interesting. The annual amount of enthusiasm showed by the new members insure success in this branch of society work.

The Aletheians and Dikeans have not met with their new members, but have planned their departments quite fully and hope to organize them soon.

Ellen Owen, vice president of the Cornelian Society, is chairman of the club work. She explained the work of the different departments and called upon each for a stunt. The Public Speaking Department, headed by Edna Bell, gave the courtship scene between Captain John Smith and Pocahontas. Corrine Canady played the part of Captain Smith and Carrie McLean Taylor played Pocahontas. Besides these main characters there were several other representing the north wind, the apple tree, etc.

The Dramatic club presented "Maggie and Jiggs," a play in three scenes—the poker game, the scene of the actresses, the courtship scene of the daughter. "Skinnie" Deaton was "Maggie" and Estelle Mendenhall "Jiggs." Ethel Royal is the Dramatic Club Chairman.

Hermine Warlick as chairman of the Music Department presented a school scene. She was the teacher who had little control over her unruly class.

One of the most interesting clubs of society is the Travel Club. Last year the members took a "make-believe" Western town. This year they have not definitely decided where they will go, but it will be planned according to the desires of the new members. Their stunt was characteristic of their work, the chairs arranged like a train, and the girls were going to Washington.

The Literary Club has not definitely organized yet, but if enough girls are interested in writing and studying poetry, sketches, etc., they will be given an opportunity to develop themselves along these lines.

After the stunts the girls signed up in the club which they were most interested. The clubs will meet every Monday afternoon.

Margaret John, vice-president of the Adelpian society, is also chairman of their departments. She asked the individual leaders to explain the plans for the clubs. The Dramatic Club under Lucille Meredith will be divided into circles, the dramatic proper, the stunt, and a club for those who wish to help or coach plays. The dramatic proper will present longer plays and the stunt circle will present stunts on Monday afternoon and regular society meetings on Saturday night. They expect also to study the drama.

Mary Grady Cheers is chairman of the writing club. They have begun their work by writing Thanksgiving stories and poems. They are going to write short stories late, and hope to contribute some material for the Corrad.

The Debating Club, under the guidance of Julia Franck, is going to help with the fall debate. They will also work on queries for future de-

THE CHARM OF HALLOWE'EN PERVADES DINING ROOMS

Now, as a forerunner of Christmas, comes Hallowe'en with its many creeps and thrills. Goblins and witches are back among us, while jack o' lanterns assume the grinning demanor and wink shyly when we are not looking. Then come the thrill of darkened rooms with only soft ghostly lights to transfigure all objects into queer, fantastic shapes. Hallowe'en came to Spencer and West dining rooms in brilliant fashion

STUDENTS FALL SHORT ON THE RELIEF FUND

Only Seven Hundred of the Two Thousand Dollars Have Been Pledged

PREVIOUS YEARS GOOD

The girls of N. C. College have fallen far short on their record of previous years in contributing to the Foreign Student Relief Fund. The drive on the campus this year has been characterized by lack of interest and lack of spirit, as compared with the interest and spirit of previous years. N. C. College has pledged only seven hundred of the two thousand dollars for which the students were asked. Never before in the previous drives has the college fallen so far short.

In 1917, the students raised about six thousand dollars, and there were less than half as many students at the college as at the present time. This was the largest per capita gift of any of the contributing colleges. The money that year was used to aid student prisoners. Again last year, the student body pledged between fifteen hundred and sixteen hundred dollars, of which about thirteen hundred was collected. This pledge, too, was one of the largest per capita pledges among the Southern colleges.

The seven hundred dollars pledged during the present year will suffer in comparison with the pledges of other years, and will reflect on the spirit of the campus.

NUPTIALS OF MISS MARY POOLE ARE CELEBRATED

West Market Street Church the Scene of a Lovely Wedding on the Evening of October 30th.

Miss Mary Poole became the bride of Nicholas Holmes on the evening of October 30. Miss Poole was a member of last year's commercial class and will be remembered as a girl of great popularity.

The marriage service was performed by Dr. Barnhardt of the West Market Street Methodist Church. The bride's brother, James Poole, gave her in marriage. The church was beautifully decorated with white chrysanthemums and southern smilax.

The bride wore a white flat crepe gown gracefully draped on one side. The veil was of white silk tulle and was worn coronet fashion. She carried a bouquet of Bride roses and valley lilies.

The bridal party consisted of four ushers, four groomsmen, four bridesmaids, two dames of honor, the maid of honor and the bride and groom.

CORNELIAN BANQUET UNIQUE AND LOVELY

Is Declared One of the Most Elaborate Functions Ever Staged at the College

M. C. POWELL PRESIDES

One of the most elaborate banquets ever given at the North Carolina College for Women was that of the Cornelian Literary Society, given on Saturday evening.

The Spencer dining room, as though by some magic power, had been transformed into a beautiful garden. In the center of the dining hall was a huge fountain. This was throughout the evening. This was banked with moss and many ferns. Near the top of the fountain there hung a drop-light into which the water sprayed, giving the water the effect of beautiful crystals. Around the fountain the tables were grouped in triangular shape to represent the Cornelian Society pin.

From the drop-lights and from side walls gracefully hung twining Southern smilax. In the halls entering the banquet hall, many palms had been placed.

Behind the toastmistress' table were two huge candelabras of white, each holding seven lighted candles. On the tables were baskets of golden chrysanthemums, into which the smilax from the lights hung. About on the tables were placed blue triangles, holding lighted candles. The place cards were of blue and gold, and in the shape of triangles. They were ornamented with the coat of arms of Cornelia.

During the evening a lovely dance was presented by five girls. The girls danced "Diana's Hunting Party" to the music of "The Chase," played by Miss Celeste Jonas. The graceful dancers wore costumes of pale blue georgette and gold, carrying out the society colors. In their hair they wore gold bands. They carried gilded bows, their insignia as huntresses. Those dancing were Misses Lois Briggs, Mary Green, Lena Smith, Elizabeth Martin and Dawson Slaughter. A special request was made that the dance be repeated.

Miss Mary Collins Powell, of Tarboro, presided as toastmistress in a most charming manner. She was beautiful in her dress of flame silk, elaborately embroidered in black and milk crystal beads. In her hair she wore a carved comb. She carried a colonial bouquet of Ophelia roses, tied with peach ribbon and showered with tiny rosebuds.

Sitting with Miss Powell at the toastmistress' table were Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo C. Hall, Miss Margaret Martin, of Charlotte, president of the Cornelian Society; Miss Georgia Kirkpatrick, of Raleigh; Miss Susie Roberts, of Wilmington; Miss Grace

Plan of Study of American Writers
Outlined for Woman's Club of Greensboro

Several lectures have been given in meetings of Various Woman's Clubs in Greensboro by Mr. Leonard B. Hurley, of the Department of English of North Carolina College. Early in October, Mr. Hurley lectured to the Business and Professional Woman's Club on "American Humorists."

At the general meeting of the Woman's Club of Greensboro this month, Mr. Hurley outlined a plan for the study of American Literature, which the club women have adopted for the coming winter. The plan consists of a study of typical American writers as James Fenimore Cooper, Benjamin Franklin, William Cullen Bryant, Hawthorne, Emerson, Longfellow, Lowell, Holmes, Whittier, Poe, Sidney Lanier, James Whitcomb Riley, Bert Harte, Joaquin Miller, as well as other minor writers, in their logical relation to the geographical divisions of the country. "American Locality as seen in the American Short Story," was the subject of a lecture, which Mr. Hurley gave on October 23, at the home of Mrs. A. W. Flyer, 1015 West Market St., before the members of the William Sidney Porter Club.

During the absence of Dr. Foust, Mr. W. C. Jackson, vice-president of the college, has been acting president. While in office he has carried on the work very efficiently. His character and ability is attested to by his great popularity among the whole of the student body. Students, in regaining Dr. Foust, are very glad that they will retain Mr. Jackson on the campus as he goes back to his work in the History Department. He will also be an active assistant to the president until Christmas.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR PHYSICAL ED. BUILD'G

Is to the South of the Outdoor Gymnasium and is to be Entirely Modern

BIDS OPEN FOR CONTRACT

Swimming Pool, 2,500 Lockers,
50 Showers and 150 Dressing
Rooms and Parts

Plans for the new Physical Education Building for the college have been completed by the architect. These have been submitted to Dr. Gove, college physician, Miss Mary C. Coleman, head of the Physical Education Department, and Dr. Foust, college president, and have been approved by them.

Advertising for bids for the contract is now being made and it is hoped that contract will be let sometime in November.

The building is to face Walker Avenue, just south of the outdoor gymnasium. It is to be a large, very modern and well-equipped building. It will add much to the attractiveness of the campus as well as to the pleasure of both students and faculty.

The building is to have as its main room the gymnasium proper which will be equipped with modern apparatus throughout. It will also have some unique features made advisable by conditions and climate. The present outdoor gymnasium has been so satisfactory that it is planned for the new one to bring in as much of the outdoors as possible. The gymnasium will probably be more like a delightful sun parlor than a class room for physical education.

In the building there will be space for 2,500 lockers, about 50 showers, and 150 dressing rooms. There will be offices, examination rooms, special exercise rooms for students needing corrective and remedial work, and a smaller supplementary gymnasium for the use of practice teachers in physical education.

The, perhaps, most-looked-forward to asset of the building is the swimming pool of regulation size for water sports and swimming meets. It is to have not only side windows but an adjustable overhead skylight, which will admit sunlight into the pool. Bathers entering the pool, after a required shower bath, will have to first wade through a shallow wading pool to get the dust off their feet before going into the pool. The pool is to be kept entirely sanitary.

Delighting the heart of the members of the Athletic Association is the meeting room designed especially for it. In this room trophies and photographs of champion team will be kept on display. Here all meet-

DR. FOUST RESUMES DUTIES AT COLLEGE

Students and Faculty Rejoice at His Return From Leave of Absence

Students, faculty, alumnae, and friends of the college will be glad to learn that Dr. Foust is back at his old place as head of the college. Old students find it very natural, not to say, pleasant, to see him at his office in Administration Building after an absence of six months.

Early in April last spring Dr. Foust was granted a leave of absence by the Board of Directors on account of ill-health. In June he went to Asheville, where he remained until his recent return to the campus. He comes back to his work restored in health and eager to resume his duties as president.

During the absence of Dr. Foust, Mr. W. C. Jackson, vice-president of the college, has been acting president. While in office he has carried on the work very efficiently. His character and ability is attested to by his great popularity among the whole of the student body. Students, in regaining Dr. Foust, are very glad that they will retain Mr. Jackson on the campus as he goes back to his work in the History Department. He will also be an active assistant to the president until Christmas.

C. E. WORKER SPEAKS AT VESPERS SUNDAY

Mr. Dendy Discusses the Work of Young People in the Church

"Get in touch with the young people in your town," was the outstanding advice of Mr. Dendy, of Gastonia, to the student at Vespers Sunday night.

Mr. Dendy, who has for two years been Field Secretary of the Christian Endeavor Society, has had the opportunity to obtain first hand information on the function of the work of the young people in the churches. He urged college women to take their share in directing the abundant energy of youth, so that it might not be wasted or turned into channels harmful both to the individual and to the organized society of the future.

Mr. Dendy especially stressed the contribution which youth can make to the church. Youth can exert real power by its indomitable courage and its faculty of adaptability as well as by mere physical strength. It is the purpose of the Christian Endeavor Society to so train these young people that the Church of the future may be more active vital in the spiritual life of the community.

Tonight Students See "Mr. Pim" Pass

The whole campus is looking forward with much anticipation, to "Mr. Pim Passes By," the first production of the new Dramatic Association. The play will be given by members of the Association tonight in the Auditorium. All efforts of the student and faculty directors have been centered on making this play the best, or one of the best of the many productions presented here. Much time and effort have been expended on making the setting realistic and accurate. New scenery has been painted and the services of an interior decorator has been secured to furnish the setting with period furniture, loaned through the courtesy of the Harlee Furniture Company of High Point.

The play is one of the greatest Broadway successes of recent years. Only two years ago it ran for an entire season in New York and has been given with much success by little theater and community groups all over the United States. Its dramatic technique is unexcelled. It bounds in dramatic situations and is replete with humor. The audience may expect to indulge in one unbroken and continuous chuckle, sometimes culminating in hearty laughter.

The actors and actresses selected from the student body are admirably fitted for the parts and have reached the point of excellence.

HIKING IS STILL AMONG MOST POPULAR SPORTS AT N. C. C.

Hiking is still holding its own, in spite of the slight decrease in hikes last week, which was due to the society initiation banquets. 13,068 miles were hiked by 500 girls through October 28.

Rula Dowd still leads in individual number of miles, having 246 to her credit. Laura Beth Gaylor has hiked 221 miles. Twenty-seven other girls who have hiked 100 miles are: Leata Allen, Ellen Baldwin, Blanche Dellinger, Winnie Barwick, Alpha Dickinson, Mary Moore Deaton, Montie Kimmel, Essie Call, Edwina Deans, Claudia Wilson, Louise C. Smith, Frances Hunter, Gertrude Tarleton, Willa Campbell, Lilly Gilly, Ellen Duval, Bryce Feimster, Margaret Praytor, Dixie Montague, Zada Wright, Florence Webb.

The following girls have hiked their initial fifty miles or more: Hazel Cochran, Elizabeth McCarty, Lucille Aycock, Naomi Alexander,

IS COMIC OPERA

Several Well-Known Artists of Opera and Concert Fame are Featured in Cast

EXCELLENT WORK BY CAST

The first number of the college concert-lecture course for the 1923-24 season was given on Wednesday evening, October 31, at the Grand Theatre. This number consisted of a comic opera, "Don Pasquale," by Donizetti. It was presented by one of William Wade Hinshaw's opera companies. The following is a short sketch of the story:

"Don Pasquale refuses his sanction to the marriage of his nephew, Ernesto, with Norina, a lovely young widow. The old man himself desires to wed, and his physician, Dr. Malatesta, proposed his sister, Sofronia, as the bride. The Don accepts, and Norina disguises herself as the doctor's sister, and the marriage contract is signed before a supposed Notary. Norina now behaves like one possessed of the devil, and makes life so miserable for the old man that he is delighted when he discovers that he has been duped. He relinquishes his desire for marriage and consents to the union of his nephew with Norina."

The cast includes several well-known and delightful artists, who have achieved fame in the world of concert and opera. These artists did their best work in the performance of the entertainment. Irene Williams, as Norina, and Judson House, as Ernesto, especially delighted the audience with their lyrical, sparkling voices.

The cast of characters was as follows:

Don Pasquale, an old bachelor, Pierre Remington.
Dr. Malatesta, Physician, Leo de Hierapolis.
Ernesto, nephew of Don Pasquale, Judson House.
Norina, a young widow, Irene Williams.
A Notary, Ellen Ramsey.

Music Faculty at Home to Students

On Thursday afternoon, November 1, from four-thirty to six, the Music Faculty was at home to the School of Music in Gray Building.

Miss Elma Hanco, of the Public School Music Department, greeted the guests at the door and introduced them to the receiving line. Those receiving, besides the Music Faculty, were Dr. and Mrs. J. I. Foust, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Jackson, Miss Nell Farrar, Miss Grace Lawrence, Miss King, and Mrs. Atkinson, formerly Miss Claire Henley, who was a member of the Music Faculty last year.

Miss Evabelle Covington and Miss Etta R. Spier gracefully presided at the tea table where dainty refreshments were served.

The sun parlor was attractively decorated in autumn foliage and chrysanthemums.

PARAGRAPHS

Some people find their most pleasant reflections in the mirror. Return picture proofs, however are not mirrors.

Walking periods seems to be another little device to encourage trade at the little store. That's where our money goes.

The down grade of McIver Building give most of us a sickly feeling at the last of the month.

True and false tests, otherwise known as plus and minus tests, are a new form of torture practiced by the faculty on the innocent student body.

What is it that makes Sophomores buy Junior sweaters and Juniors buy Senior rings? Ambition or forethought?

Sleep walkers were not uncommon on the campus the morning after the society banquets.

Opposition may be conflict, we would say that the latter is the type employed by college girls in boarding the street car.

Reading poetry aloud may be recommended by the English faculty but the library is hardly the place for it.

PINK PAPER SLIPS

A two-inch pile of pink paper slips pinned on returned checks has accumulated in the treasurer's office since September 11th, 1923. Think! in one month and twenty days more than $1000.00 has been drawn out by checks that have been returned and are waiting to be collected.

How did this happen? Over one-half of these checks were drawn by girls who did not know, apparently, the conditions of their own or their fathers' bank accounts. They seem to presume that bank accounts are like the fabulous pitcher which, whenever some of its wine was taken out, immediately created wine enough to fill itself again.

Drafts and scratched checks are drawn frequently. A girl who has not a check book is presumed to have no money in the bank. Carelessness enter here, too, or else some students do not know that banks can have various branches. For example, there is an Atlantic Bank and Trust Co. in Greensboro and one in Burlington. Either bank is drawn upon without discrimination.

The N. C. law reads: Section 4283. Obtaining property in return for worthless check, draft, or order. Every person who, with intent to cheat and defraud another, shall obtain money, credit, goods, wares, or any other thing of value by means of a check, draft, or order of any kind upon any bank, person, firm, or corporation not indebted to the drawer, or where he has not provided for the payment and acceptance of the same and the same shall not be paid upon presentation, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court. The giving of the aforesaid worthless check, draft, or order shall be prima facie evidence of an intent to cheat and defraud.

Banks have the right to "protest" a non-payment with a charge of $1.50. Even this protest fee must be made good by the college in case of non-payment.

One incident that happened in this connection may be cited as illustration; a young woman who is a teacher out in the state, on the last day of the second summer session, drew a check for $25.00. In due time it was returned with the statement that the woman's bank account aggregated the sum of less than one dollar and a half. By this time the college had paid out $26.50 including the protest fee made by the bank. After the college authorities had written the girl, she finally answered saying that she would make the check good as soon as she received her monthly salary. It is evident that she obtained the $25.00 to live on for the rest of the summer.

Or, another case may be described: a girl at summer school drew out a sum of money on about the first of August. The check was not made good at the bank. For three months the college authorities have pursued the girl and she has not yet been heard from. Eventually the money will be collected with law as a last resort.

"Woman has no place in business" is continually flaunted in our faces. All of us, both girls and women become indignant and vow that we are as capable as men in managing economic affairs. Yet when we realize that such as described above goes on at our own college, we begin to argue a little vehemently. A noted banker of Cleveland said last summer:

"Woman has not yet shown her capacity to enter the financial world to any great extent; she has entered practically every profession but has not yet become a financier." The pile of pink paper slips seems to prove this statement.

THE POINT OF THE POINT SYSTEM

Points of work or points of honor—which is it that the college point system attempts to estimate?

On the face of it the question seems foolish, yet we hazard the opinion that not one per cent of the student body rightly interprets the point system and sees as its fundamental purpose the safeguarding of the student's time. It forms, for most of us, a convenient scale by which to measure the glory and honor of an office, and the girl who has the greatest non-academic points is adjudged the girl most highly honored. Regarded in this light the point system has no function; it has no place on the campus. To estimate the honor in which a girl is held by her fellow students is an impossible, if not entirely worthless, task. Honor, respect, admiration, love cannot be measured by points. Nor does the office make the girl. The intangible, powerful force of personality makes itself felt outside of office and outside of systems, and it is, after all, upon the basis of personal force that the value of a girl's work must be estimated.

Granted, then, that the point system has no function as a measuring cup of honor, what of its function as a measure of work? It may be clearly seen that without some system of restriction the greater part of the non-academic work on the campus would fall upon a few already heavily weighted shoulders. To protect, then, the girl who might be called upon to do more than her share of "outside" work, to insure her time to attend to her academic duties and in other ways develop herself to the fullest extent, this, together with the companion purpose of affording a greater number of girls the opportunity to engage in non-academic activities, is the chief aim of the point system.

It is clear, then, that if the point system is to accomplish its purpose, it must base its credits solely and exclusively upon the number of hours per week required to fill a given office. Honor and hours may not coincide—most probably will not. It often requires a high degree of ability to accomplish a task of a few hours' duration. And the point system must measure hours and not ability.

With the above stated purpose in mind a joint committee of faculty and students has begun work on a revision of the college point system in order that it may more adequately meet the need. It is sincerely hoped that when the results of this committee's investigation are made known, no girl will feel that honor has been taken away from her position because the points attached to her office have been lowered; and it is hoped, on the other hand, that no girl debarred by the point system from participation in some student activity will regard the point system in any other light than that of a safeguard to her health and time.

FIRST PRESIDENT OF Y. W. C. A. RESPONDS TO QUESTION, "SHALL Y. W. C. A. BE DISCONTINUED"

Mocksville, N. C.,

October 25, 1923.

To the Editors of the Carolinian:

Dear Friends: While I am to you an utter stranger, I have the right to call you friends. Your college is my college, I loved it and worked in it and for it before you were born. I shall love it until I die. In a very real sense, all N. C. C. W. students are "my girls" and nothing that is of vital concern to them can be foreign to me—and so I call you friends. In the words of a quaint epitaph in a well known cemetery, my creed is fairly expressed, "I believe in Almighty God, the doctrine of the Methodist Episcopal Church and the political principles of Thomas Jefferson."

I number among my most intimate friends a Jewess, a Theosophist, and a Socialist—and the dearest friend I own is the Socialist.

I was the first honor graduate of my class at the Methodist College of Greensboro in 1892. I was graduated at the State Normal and Industrial School in 1893. I was the first president of the Y. W. C. A. of your institution and for twenty years I was an active, though unsalaried worker in the Association. I was the editor and the chief financial "backer" of the first Y. W. C. A. handbook. In these twenty years of willing service I daily saw more opportunity of applying the principles of the Y. W. C. A. to my own life and to the lives of the students about me than I had physical strength to grasp.

I spent three summers travelling and studying in Germany, Sweden, and Norway.

My best German friend was the cultured wife of a University professor. My associates in Sweden were the intellectual and spiritual Aristocracy.

I so thirsted for a liberal education that I diligently pursued correspondence courses with Chicago University—with never a thought of raising my salary as a teacher. I regarded my profession as a high calling and I put my whole life into it. Had I loved my work less, perhaps I should have made more money and done less work. However that may be, I never neglected my scholastic duties for Y. W. C. A. tasks and I never ceased to observe the Sabbath Day of the laws of my church.

It is ten years since I laid down my college and associate works, though I am a student still. Many changes have taken place since 1893. It must be that the college association has changed with the student body.

What is the purpose of the Y. W. C. A.? I wish to know why "shrewd, straight and honest thinkers" believe it would be wise to discontinue the Y. W. C. A. "as it now exists?" Is the purpose of the present organization such that "shrewd, straight and honest thinkers" cannot adjust it to their daily lives? You say "the Y. W. C. A. wants everybody to talk; but, first, it wants them to know what they are talking about." Then the first question to be settled is: "What is the purpose of the Y. W. C. A.?" Surely it has a purpose, a political party must have a platform. Every woman must have a backbone. Is it possible that in its desire to reach great numbers and to "do" great things, the Y. W. C. A. has surrendered its originally high and perfectly practical purpose? I ask the question as an honest seeker after truth. I am in no position either to condemn or to commend any organization until I clearly understand its declared purpose. What is true of me is equally true of every member of your student body. "The Carolinian" should print in its columns, so that every reader of the "Carolinian" can read it and ponder over it, the avowed purpose of the Y. W. C. A. Not till this is done, can you hope for a fair and intelligent discussion of the next question: "Shall we discontinue the organization as it now exists?"

What next? "Many men, many minds." If each one of thirteen or fourteen hundred students goes to work with a will and "formulates a purpose that will be worthy of the organization and at the same time meet her own spiritual needs," is it quite certain that a better organization will result? Possibly a majority will vote for no organization at all.

There was a time in the history of the Jews when very man did that which was right in his own eyes and was not pleasing to Jehovah.

I gather from "The Carolinian" that every organization in the college "is functioning for only a limited number of students, but only the Y. W. C. A. cabinet has the courage, the sincerity, and the unselfishness to face that fact." Should the faculty resign in a body because they do not and cannot come into close touch with your tremendous student body?

Should the student government association disband, because of some of your members who have never been governed at home find it difficult to govern themselves in college?

Should the entire public school system of N. C. be "scrapped," because a large number of good citizens are not enthusiastic as to the wisdom and the methods of the Department of Education in Raleigh? Should the churches change their entire program because some N. C. C. W. students prefer blanket tossing to Vesper Services and Vaudeville to chapel exercises?

I pause to ask—still seeking information, is it true that a majority of the students of my beloved Alma Mater do not attend church and have

Proofs for Annual Create Sensation

Every profession is cussed out at one time or another—usually both. Photographers get theirs twice a year at N. C. C. W. and at present they seem to be at the depth of their degradation in the opinion of the students. Seeking for the reason, one finds that proofs of pictures for the annual has returned to their respective owners, though often these owners would rather not claim them.

For photograph proofs returned to the college students are invariably bad. Very often they look, in the opinion of the owners, like the—well, whatever be the cultured name for the ruling prince of the lower regions be, his wife or some member of that highly revered family. Not rarely they are characterized as like him before the dawn. Anyway, His Royal Highness, the Devil, seems rather popular on the campus at this time.

Sometimes one hears some student, looking upon another's supposed likeness remarks that it is "darling, cute" very like the owner. And this after the photographed one has already characterized her proof as like the aforesaid ruler of Hades, as the polite old Romans call it.

Which brings us to the point which the writer started to reach—namely, the proofs of the pictures for the annual have been returned.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NOTES

The "Hornet," the newspaper weekly of Furman University, appeared printed in living green in a recent issue. It was called the "Freshman Number" and was dedicated to the Freshman class and "its untold promise." After all, however, "you can only grow when you are green." In this copy it is announced that the next issue was to be printed in purple in honor of the college colors.

A handsome new Physics building is the gift of the Carnegie Corporation, and friends and Alumnae to Georgia Tech. It is now practically ready for use. The building cost $180,000. It measures 112 feet by 100 feet, 6 inches and is four stories in height. With the exception of the doors the entire plant is of steel.

Stephen Leacock, great Canadian humorist writer, and lecturer, is to visit Salem early in the new year.

The Salemite asks the new girls to submit letters expressing their opinions, likes and dislikes of Salem College to the newspaper staff.

Lenoir College opens this year with an enrollment of 255 in the academic department. She has the largest student body in her history.

The Freshmen and Sophomores at Agnes Scott College have an annual contest of wits. The winners get the coveted "Black Cat."

This year the Sophomores won it. Each class gave a clever stunt but it takes a "wise man to be funny."

Furman is becoming co-educational. This year two girls are regularly enrolled and three are taking special work. The question of rat caps seems to be disturbing the boys for both of the co-eds would require a special size. The Hornet declares that they would "look nifty in such decorations."

Intercollegiate tennis tournaments are held by Randolph Macon Men's College with Richmond University and other colleges.

The girls at Lenoir College recently built a huge bonfire in honor of the football team and the boys and girls joined in an Indian war dance.

The Florida Flambeau gives an account of the Sophomore Day recently held. It quotes from the Constitution which the Sophs ordained for the Freshmen. "Every Sophomore shall be privileged to dominate every mere green protoplasm for a period of twenty-four hours," etc. On a certain day the new girls had to wear every thing wrong-side outwards and backwards. The hair of the unfortunate being shall be powdered and worn down with no hair pins or bindings. Green caps shall be worn all day. Every beaming countenance shall be made ghostlike with several layers of powder; the aforesaid physiognomies shall be prominently speckled with freckles made with eyebrow pencil. The rats are not permitted to speak above a whisper all day except to faculty. Their method of progressing from place to place must be by skipping pigtoed.

5. Take a bath every day.
6. Drink six or eight glasses of water.
7. Take forty-five minutes of active exercise.
8. Rest alone (about) 20 consecutive minutes.

COMMUNITY OPINION Something is Lacking

Most of the old girls have felt something essential is lacking in our life at N. C. C. W. this year. A certain fineness of spirit is missing, and this lack has changed the atmosphere of the whole campus. We seem to have lost the spirit of cooperation, service, and self-sacrifice and to have gained one of indifference and self-interest in their stead.

This spirit of self-interest has been shown particularly in the attitude which we have taken toward the Student Friendship Campaign. Lack of imagination, which is only a form of selfishness, keeps us from realizing the suffering which is undergone by these European students, and if we give all, we do so grudgingly. We talk a great deal about our ideal of "Service" but we are unwilling to make any sacrifice, to give up even a few of our pleasures and luxuries in order to give to others the means of life itself.

We seem unable to realize our responsibility. One girl when asked to contribute gave this answer:

"Of course I understand that the students are dying in Europe. They were dying last year; they are dying now; and they'll be dying next year. Why should I give up my pleasures because of them?"

This in doubt is an extreme case and the spirit it shows is perhaps not general, but it does exist.

We should try to realize that those students are struggling for their existence and look to us for help. We should also realize that we ourselves need to understand and sympathize with their conditions. It is only by sacrifice that we can prevent our lives from becoming hard and caloused. Let us try to enter into the spirit of giving "For the gift without the giver is bare" and create anew the feeling of "World Fellowship" on our campus.

B. J.

Helen Asken, '19, of Ahsokie, who is teaching at Clayton, spent the week end on the campus.

$6,000 GIVEN TO N. C. C.

BY MRS. HENRY WEIL

To Establish Henry Weil Fellowship Fund—To Encourage Graduate Work

One of the hopes of the president J. I. Foust was realized when he received a check for $6,000 from Mrs. Henry Weil of Goldsboro to be used for establishment of a Fellowship Fund at the college. The fund is to be called the Henry Weil Fellowship Fund. According to the provisions of the donor of the money "is to be used as a reward to encourage graduate work, and is to be administered by the president of the college and a committee from its faculty."

Not only Dr. Foust, but other people interested in the college have felt that it would be a great progressive step to establish a number of fellowships in order that more scholarly graduates of the institution might be encouraged to continue their studies in some special field.

The founding of the Henry Weil Fellowship Fund is of keen interest not only to members of the senior class but also to the alumnae of the college to whom the fund will also be open.

For the present the award will be made for graduate work at one of the great universities of the countries. The interest accruing from the principle will constitute the amount of the fellowship, and the amount will be an outright gift to the person receiving it, no obligation attaching. The fund will be available beginning with September, 1924.

Born in Lennep, Prussia. Educated at Zurich. Awarded the Rumford Medal of the Royal Society in 1896 jointly with Philip Lenard for discovery of X-rays. Won the Nobel Prize in physics in 1901.

"I did not think— I investigated"

One day in 1895, Roentgen noticed that a cardboard coated with fluorescent material glowed while a nearby Pluecker tube was in action. "What did you think?" an English scientist asked him. "I did not think; I investigated," was the reply.

Roentgen covered the tube with black paper. Still the cardboard glowed. He took photographs through a pine door and discovered on them a white band corresponding to the lead beading on the door. His investigation led to the discovery of X-rays.

Roentgen's rays have proved an inestimable boon to humanity. In the hands of doctor and surgeon they are saving life and reducing suffering. In the hands of the scientist they are yielding new knowledge—even of the arrangement and structure of atoms. The Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company have contributed greatly to these ends by developing more powerful and efficacious X-ray tubes.

The General Electric Company manufactures everything electric—from fans to powerful locomotives, from tiny lamps to mighty power plants. Its products are used around the world.

"Training Time"— Healthier Girls

The apple man has stolen the trade of the Junior Shop. Girls pass by the later holding purse-strings tight, but when the apple man comes down College Avenue with his wagon full of forbidden refreshments, we buy him out. Then, coffee, tea, and coca-cola mean nothing to just five hundred of us. Bath rooms are being rushed for the daily bath. If you would like to have your candy to yourself, pass it to your friends between meals.

That's training. But training means more than that. It means healthier girls who go about their work with a better spirit, and who are well fitted to keep up this rather strenuous life we are living. It wouldn't be a bad idea for us all to go in training all the time.

ALUMNAE NEWS

North Carolina College Alumnae of Raleigh met Friday night in the High School Auditorium to organize the Raleigh chapter of N. C. C. Alumnae Association. Miss Edith Russell presided. Misses Virginia Terrell and May Sue Beam are very interested in the organization of the chapter.

Miss Clara Byrd, Alumnae Secretary, spent last week end in Gaston County, visiting the N. C. C. W. Alumnae. On Friday evening the Gaston County Alumnae held its annual meeting in Gastonia. The meeting assembled in the dining hall of the First Baptist Church. The meeting was presided over by Miss Fay Davenport, who is county superintendent of public welfare. Miss Byrd was the speaker of the evening. She carried a message of the growth of the college and talked of the developments of its Alumnae work in the United States. There were about fifty Alumnae present.

The regular monthly meeting of the North Carolina College for Women Alumnae Association of Norfolk and Portsmouth was held November 2 at the Y. W. C. A. at 3 o'clock. Mrs. John Hardison, president of the chapter, presided.

Mrs. Harrison stated that while there are about forty names on the list of former students living in Norfolk and Portsmouth, only about half that number have joined the Alumnae Association and it is most earnestly desired that all former students will join the association. Dr. J. A. C. Chandler, addressing the assembly of Tidewater Virginia Women at the Women's Club on October 15, spoke of the large appropriations made by the State of North Carolina to N. C. C. W. for maintenance as well as for permanent improvements.

MEETING IS HELD BY THE CLASSICAL CLUB

Ceres, Goddess of the Harvest, is Feature of Interesting Program Presented After Business Meeting of Club.

The Classical Club held its second regular meeting Tuesday night in Curry Chapel. Business, new and old was discussed, much interest being aroused at the suggestion of the club pin.

After the transaction of business an interesting program on Ceres, goddess of the harvest was presented. Gladys Baker attired in the flowing white robes of the Roman dress, carrying the "cornucopia" or horn of plenty, gave an interesting reading of the wanderings of Ceres in search of her daughter, Proserpine, who had been snatched away by the unfeeling Pluto.

Jesse Edwards, in relating the life and fate of Proserpine, recalled the oft-told myth of this maid and the pomegranate seed. As a result of which we have the four seasons, during one half of which Ceres is thought to be happy in having her daughter on earth with her. During the other half of the year, fall and winter, Ceres is unhappy in the return of Proserpine to her underworld husband. Hence, the autumn with its falling leaves and falling vegetation.

The stage was unusually beautiful with the appropriate decorations of autumn leaves and fall flowers. The timely program and the setting were entirely in keeping with nature's or Ceres' decree.

Address Read at Chapel Wednesday

For the first time since his illness, Dr. Foust was present at the chapel exercises on Wednesday.

Dr. Winfield S. Barney, head of the French Department of the college, conducted the devotional exercises on Wednesday and Thursday.

Dr. Barney read a portion of an address, which an expert had given to students in another university. The address was in the form of advice to college students upon their becoming adjusted to the new environment of college life.

He said that college is not the place where one is able to indulge in unrestrained thinking, or acting, but it is, rather, a place where an intelligent conscience must be exercised, with the view of keeping the ideals of honor, chivalry, thought and character ever present.

FEES NECESSARY FOR ACTIVITIES OF A. A.

Association Meetings to be Held Twice During the Year. Program to Follow Transaction of Business of Organization.

Since it is impossible to efficiently run an Athletic Association without the financial support of all who receive its benefits the following rule will apply to all students who have not paid their budget fee. No student may play on a class team, have hiking count for camping trips or monogram points, or have any athletic activity count for points unless she pays the fee of $1.00 to the association. Everyone enjoying the privileges of the association must be a member of it.

This year the Athletic Association meetings will be held twice a year at night. Due to the increased amount of work to be done, the meetings at chapel no longer suffice. A short business meeting will be held, followed by a program.

Anyone interested should be there to help decide how and along what lines the association is to develop, and to keep in touch with its activities. Fun lovers should be on hand to applaud for a program that will merit it.

Gladys Campbell will head the Music Department. At first they are going to work up shorter songs, then choruses. They have also planned to get up an operetta next spring. The Music Department will be glad to cooperate with the Dramatic Department whenever possible.

HOW ATHLETICS ARE INFLUENCING DRESS

Henry D. Curtis, writing in the Physical Education Review, expresses as in the ideal in dress that it "shall hamper physical activity and the circulation as little as possible and that it will not, through its concealments, remove all incentive to physical perfection." If we might bring our little girls up to wear knickerbockers, we should find that many of the ills from which women suffer would disappear, he says. This movement has already gone further than many of us realize as in some of our western normal schools, practically every young woman appears in trousers on Saturday, and almost no hikes or outings are taken in any other costume.
