Student fee allocations

Part 1 of a 2 part series: Student Activity's Fees, Where do they they go and what do they do?

By JOEL ZIMMERMAN
News Editor

Is that swim at Piney Lake worth $102,335 of UNCG students' money?

According to the 1994-1995 Analysis of Student Fees document, Cultural Diversity Programs are allocated $10,000 from student fees, in contrast Piney Lake ranks as the eighth highest program in Student Activities in receiving funds from students.

Pam Wilson, director of Minority Student Affairs said, "[That money is] set aside for student organizations in assisting with events. Sometimes we run into situations when it isn't enough." The Cultural Diversity Programs received the least amount of money from Student Fee Allocations, but Wilson pointed out that the university has come a long way in recognizing the importance of cultural diversity. Wilson said "It was one of Chancellor Moran's goals to have money in place for multicultural events."

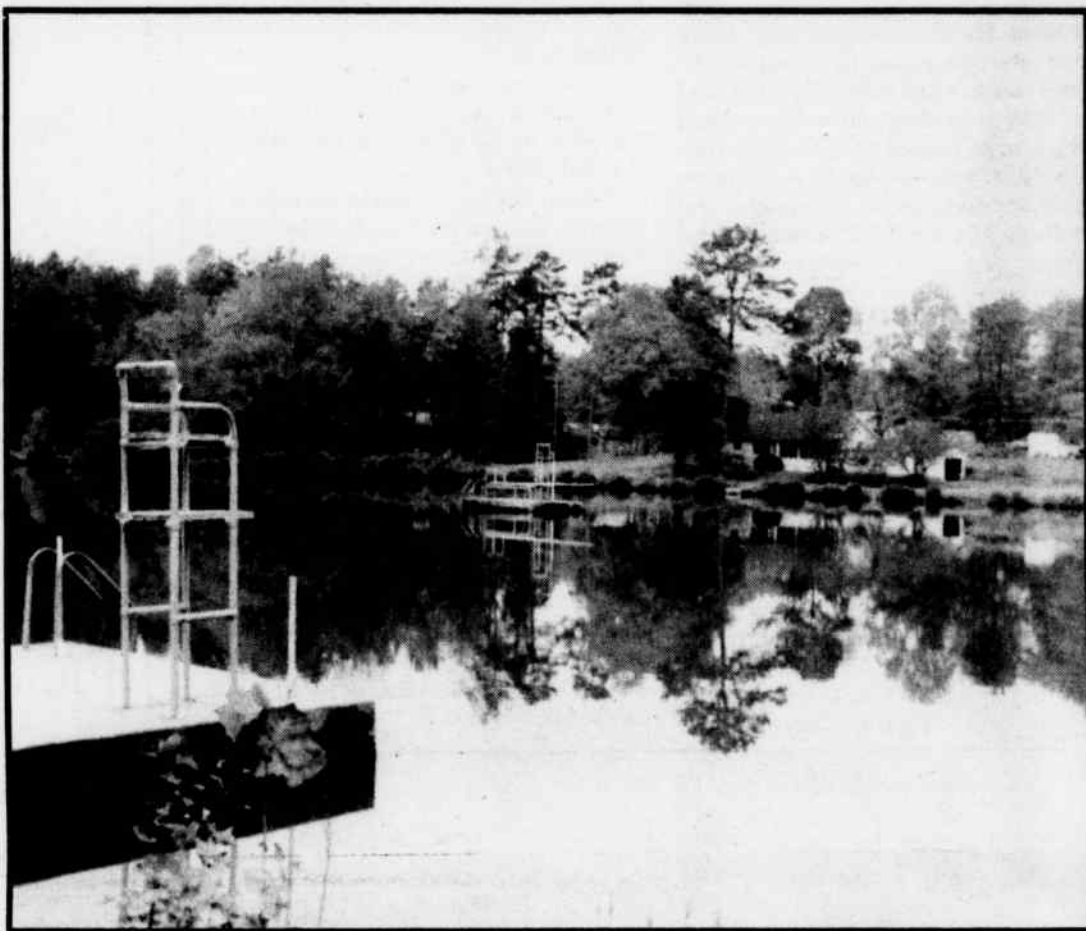

Michael J. Lazorchick, director of the Piney Lake Recreation

Center said that Piney Lake is separate from the university in regards to maintenance. "One reason Piney Lake is so high, is because we are self maintained," he said. Lazorchick also said that when there is a problem, the UNCG Physical Plant doesn't come out there. Lazorchick said with 40 acres of property "it takes a lot of people, material, and supplies to keep it maintained."

In the Allocation of Student Fee document for 1994-95 the Student Union received $788,920 topping off the list under Student Activities, with Student Facilities receiving $600,660 and Campus Recreation receiving $341,521.

Wayne Moser, supervisor of the UNCG Postal Service said, "We get very little financial support from the U.S. Postal Service." The UNCG Postal Service is receiving $175,000 according to the 1994-95 Student Fee Analysis document.

Under the the Student Activities category Movies received $27,165 from Fee Allocation, while WUAG-Radio Station received $25,750.

Ade-tomiwa stresses communication

Student government president asks delegates for feedback

By NATALIE WATSON
Senior news writer

President Stephen A. Ade-Tomiwa stressed the need for communication between the Student Legislative Assembly and the student body at the weekly Student Government meeting on Tuesday October 31.

He asked the delegates questions such as, "How do you feel about your University?", and "is it a good school?", and he asked that they give him feedback on the questions next week.

Other issues were also discussed. The Public Relations committee announced plans to paint the rock on November 13, plans to paint the rock on November 13, to increase student knowledge about SGA meetings.

The current concerns committee brought forth the issue of what was priority-campus phones in all buildings or an electronic security system in Jackson Library.

After meeting with the provost, current concerns chairperson James Howard explained that although both programs would probably be implemented, the provost was just interested in knowing which issue the delegates felt priority.

Most of the assembly felt that campus phones passed a move immediate priority over a security system will involve tagging all the books to protect against theft.

School of Education student receives fellowship

Vanessa Richardson has been awarded the Josie Nance White Fellowship worth $1000 for graduate study at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. She is a graduate of East Carolina University where she majored in urban and regional planning. Since then, she has earned two master's degrees in safety and driver education and in 1992, in reading education, both of which were earned at N.C. A&T University. Currently, she is working toward her doctorate in curriculum and teaching in the UNCG School of Education.

Grad student receives academic fellowship

Heidi K. Czerwicz has been named as the Henry Weil Fellow for the 1995-96 academic school year. The fellowship, valued at $4500 was awarded for use in graduate study at UNCG and recognizes high academic achievement and service. Czerwicz graduated summa cum laude from UNCG last May. Currently, she is a graduate student in the Master of Fine Arts Creative Writing Program within the UNCG Department of English. Last spring, Czerwicz was inducted into Phi Beta Kappa and was a Katherine Smith Reynolds Scholar as an undergraduate.

Professor receives award from roundtable

Dr. Richard Nelson Current, University Distinguished Professor Emeritus of History at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, was awarded the 1995 Nevins-Freeman Award from the Civil War Round Table.

The prize is annually awarded to an individual who has made a significant contribution to the study and knowledge of the Civil War.

During the organization's meeting in October, Current received this award and also gave the Nevins-Freeman Address. His speech was entitled, "Rediscovering the Civil War."

Music's melting pot comes to Triad

By JUDY SMITH
Senior Features Writer

With such obvious walls around most musical genres these days, it is hard to imagine any one band willing to risk testing the waters of other denominations. Omaha band 311 is that band.

311's style of music incorporates everything but the kitchen sink. From rap to reggae to "grunge," it's all in there.

Their music is similar to that of fellow funk bands, such as the Chili Peppers and the Beastie Boys, but with a bit more rap.

311's first big break came in the form of the opening slot on a 1990 Fugazi show. While they do enjoy opening for others, headlining a tour is the preference.

"I personally like headlining in medium-sized places," said bassist P-Nut in a conversation with The Carolinian. "That way, the people that come are there to see us."

P-Nut does respect their recordings but feels that 311 is actually more of a live band. "Playing live is perfect," he said. "We are quite good."

While they have no plans of jumping on the "Unplugged" bandwagon, the band does take a breather during their show in the form of the more ballad-like "My Stoney Baby."

311 also recently lent their expertise to "Hempilation," a benefit album for NORML (the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws).

Their involvement in the project came about after they were "hassling 'High Times' [magazine] to be on a 'hemp tour.'"

Their contribution, "Who's Got the Herb?" was recorded in the famed Capitol Records building in Los Angeles.

On another note, P-Nut expressed a definite opinion about music being a contributing factor to crime.

"Music is very powerful," he said. "It can move people to do things. But people have to realize that it, like movies and TV, is not reality."

P-Nut also admitted that the band is not in the music business for the money but for escapism for both the fans and themselves. "I get a lot of frustration out just by playing on stage."

This Friday, 311 will perform in Winston-Salem at the Millenium Center. All are encouraged to come out and observe this "quite good" band.

When asked if he had any final thoughts to contribute, P-Nut replied, "You know, the fourth dimension is where the aliens are; that's why no one can find 'em." What?

Magazine looking for unsigned bands

from staff reports

Musician Magazine is now accepting entries for its 1996 Best Unsigned Band Competition. Long considered the most prestigious competition of its kind, the program offers unsigned bands and artists the opportunity to get their music heard by people in the music industry, from top music critics and editors to established artists and producers.

Deadline for entries is December 31, 1995, and interested bands/artists can receive information, rules, and official entry form by calling 1-800-BUB-7096.

Musician's Best Unsigned Band Competition attracts thousands of bands and artists and a diverse range of musical styles.

Bands are judged on a two song cassette and winners are featured in the pages Musician Magazine and on Musician's Best Unsigned Bands CD. Top placing artists also receive several thousand dollars worth of live sound and recording equipment.

This year's winners will be decided by an all-star panel that features Pearl Jam guitarist Stone Gossard, music legend Steve Winwood, Adrian Belew, alternative rockers Juliana Hatfield and Matthew Sweet, jazz great Pat Metheny, and Grammy-winning producer Jimmy Jam.

Past judges have included Lou Reed, David Byrne, Chrissie Hynde, Wynton Marsalis, Don Was, Lyle Lovett, Sonny Rollins, and Elvis Costello, among others. This year's competition is sponsored by Musician Magazine, Disc Makers, and the EON Portable Sound System from JBL.

Project honors women

Phase II, UNCG's sexual assault education program, has announced that they are sponsoring "The Clothesline Project" as a way to honor women who have been victims of violence. There will be a clothesline hung up in front of Jackson Library where people will be able to hang decorated T-shirts which will symbolize victims of violence.

The purpose of the project, which will run Monday, November 6 through Friday, November 10, is to raise national and local awareness. According to Jeanne Irwin-Olson, coordinator for Phase II, "Sexual assault seems to be the biggest problem on this campus as far as violence against women is concerned. It goes unreported." Free T-shirts and paint will be available at a time which will be announced.

For more information, contact Jeanne Irwin-Olson at 334-3097.

Gamma Sigma Sigma

The Eta Pledge class of Gamma Sigma Sigma is sponsoring crib Quilts for AIDS babies. Group organizations can have their own quilt made for $10.

On November 8 - 10, individuals can purchase a quilt square which will have their initials placed on it. The cost is $1 per square. There will be representatives in the Atrium during lunch and dinner on these days to answer any questions and to take orders for the quilts. Proceeds and the quilts will be donated to children with AIDS.

Chi Omega

The Chi Omega's donated dozens of candy bags to Summit House children for Halloween last Friday. The Swing-a-thon to raise money for breast cancer was also a success. The sorority is planning several more projects to benefit the community in the near future.

UNCG finishes off Highlanders in preparation for BSC tournament.

By JOHNNY RICH
Senior Sports Writer

The UNCG women's soccer team handily defeated the Radford Highlanders Monday night at the UNCG Soccer Stadium by a score of 5-0.

The Spartans displayed their domination in the game by outshooting the Highlanders 33-2.

UNCG scored their first goal of the match 31 minutes into the game when freshman Sanna Rasanen scored on a header off a corner kick.

Senior Liz Wedemeyer was awarded an assist on the play.

Thirteen minutes later, the Spartans added to their point total when freshman Danica Baker scored on a header off a corner kick.

Rasanen received an assist off the goal.

After going into halftime with a 2-0 advantage, UNCG continued to dominate by scoring again in the 52nd minute.

Rasanen scored her second goal of the game when she took a pass from sophomore Shannon Carey and kicked the ball past the Radford goalkeeper in the box. Carey earned an assist on the play.

UNCG scored again in the 70th minute when sophomore Amy Gray headed in the ball off a cross from Carey.

Gray scored the final goal of the game in the 75th minute. Senior Penny Rich received an assist from that score.

"We did a great bit of finishing," Coach Jack Pollard said. "This should be a good springboard for the tournament. We need to score a bunch of goals, and the rest will take care of itself."

UNCG finished up their regular season with a 12-4 overall record, including going 5-0 in the conference. The Spartans finished up the season in first place in the Big South.

The Big South soccer tournament will take place this weekend at UNCG.

UNCG will play their first game Friday night at 7:30 pm against the winner of the match between Charleston Southern and Radford.

UNCG volleyball down App. St. in four games

By JASON GAERTNER
Staff Writer

The UNCG women's volleyball team downed Appalachian State in four games Monday night, 15-10, 15-10, 14-16, and 15-3, snapping the Mountaineers' five match win-streak.

The Spartans have now won seven straight and 20 of their last 21 matches.

UNCG's overall record improves 20-3, while ASU falls to 19-9.

Last week's seventh place in the NCAA District Three Poll is the team's highest rating in five years of Division I competition.

UNCG owns ASU this year, having previously beaten the Mountaineers twice in 1995.

Before Monday's match, the defending Southern Conference champion Mountaineers had won 16 of their last 17, including a five-match win streak.

Robin Schuller led UNCG with 20 kills. Tammy Tindall had four kills and a .419 hitting percentage.

Tindall currently leads the team and the Big South Conference with a .344 hitting percentage. Stacy Meadows had 23 digs, along with 16 kills.

Ellen Gallagher and Julie Dingman had 18 digs a piece, and Deetra Bryant chipped in 17. Dingman also had a .357 attack percentage.

Gallagher averages 3.72 digs per game to lead the conference.

Senior setter Liz Gremillion had 57 assists and ranks second in the league with a 10.52 assists per game average.

UNCG jumped out to a 9-3 lead in a tenacious game one, on Schuller's unopposed tap for a kill.

Later, an unforced error by Schuller cut the lead to 13-10. ASU's Erica Bahry ended the game with an error to give UNCG a 15-10 victory.

Appalachian sprang out to a 9-0 lead behind athletic put-aways by the Mountaineer front line, and Jennifer Rumfeldt's pair of aces.

UNCG scored its first point on a Schuller kill. Ellen Gallagher slammed a kill over the left side of the net to help spark UNCG's rally.

The Spartans rolled off six straight points to pull within 8-9.

Freshman Starr Dyk had a kill to tie at 9-9. Tindall and Gremillion teamed up on a block to tie the score at 10-10.

ASU would not score again, and a Mountaineer error eventually ended the game at 15-10.

Appalachian swiped game three from the Spartans.

UNCG actually led at 3-0 on aces by Schuller and Gremillion. ASU later tied it at 5-5 on a Spartan unforced error.

The score would be tied five more times before the Mountaineers would finally prevail.

A vengeful UNCG went up 10-0 in game four, including three kills by Tindall and a Gremillion ace.

ASU's only three points were off Spartan errors. Dingman, Schuller, and Meadows each had a putaway to end the contest.

UNCG's Nov. 7 match at N.C. State has been cancelled. The last regular season home match is Friday against Coastal Carolina at 7 pm in Fleming Gym.

Three Spartan seniors, middle hitter Tammy Tindall, setter Liz Gremillion, and captain Stacy Meadows will all be honored.

Fleming Gym will host the Big South Conference Volleyball Tournament, Nov. 10-11.

UNCG could be the tournament top seed if they beat Coastal and hold on to first place in the league.

The winner of the conference tournament will travel to the winner of the Trans-America Athletic Conference (TAAC) tournament for a play-in match to the NCAA tournament.

Central Florida is currently in first place in the TAAC with a 26-9 record.

IM Football champs crowned at UNC

from staff reports

UNCG's top two men's intramural flag football teams participated in the North Carolina Collegiate Flag Football Championships in Chapel Hill last weekend.

Barone, UNCG's champion, advanced to the quarterfinals of the thirteen team tournament. Boo Qua's, UNCG's runner-ups, were bumped from the tournament in the first round of elimination.

Both teams played two games in pool on Saturday. Barone lost to the eventual champion Guts & Glory from N.C. State 22-0 in the day's first action at 8:30 am. Barone recovered, however, with a 30-2 victory over a team representing Johnson C. Smith later in the morning to finish second in Pool A.

Boo Qua's finished fourth in the Pool D with an 0-2 record. They lost to Biancalanas from N.C. State, 19-7 in their first action of the day. Boo Qua's dropped its second game in a heartbreaking overtime duel 6-0 against a team from Greensboro College.

The luck of the draw pitted Barone and Boo Qua's against each other in the first round of the single-elimination tournament on Saturday evening. In a replay of the UNCG championship game Barone prevailed again 27-18.

Despite a dramatic comeback, Barone fell just short in its quarterfinal loss to Biancalanas on Sunday morning. A controversial official's ruling nullified an apparent touchdown by Steve Matzyk early in the first half. A stunned Barone team was unable to recover and trailed 13-0 at the intermission. Dave Elder, a Barone defender said after the game, "The try for two was the right call. We just did not get it."

Guts & Glory defeated Sigma Nu from UNC Wilmington in the men's final. Two other crowns were taken by UNC Chapel Hill teams. The Pitts captured the women's title, while the Stormtroopers took the Co-Rec trophy.

UNCG's Brent Eason was decided on as the weekend's top official.

UNCG's Director of Intramurals, Richard Hammond said, "I thought both of UNCG's teams played very well. They did an excellent job of representing UNCG. I think they learned a lot of new things they can bring back to UNCG next year."
