Students fighting violence

By DALE LEONARD

Senior News Writer

The sixth annual March Against Violence was held on Tuesday, April 11.

"Every four hours, an African-American child is murdered. Every 6 hours, a white American child is murdered. The number one concern of every person in our neighborhoods is the fear of violence. It's a real fear and a real danger. There has been a steep increase in sex violence here in Greensboro over the last five years. The Governor's Report on Safety says that acts of violence have almost quadrupled in the last ten years... violence is at epidemic proportions," said Dr. Sheree Marshall.

The program and march began at the Plaza. The event was sponsored by Peer Helpers Advancing Sexuality Education (PHASE II), the Student Government Association, Campus Activities Board, Women's Leadership Coalition, Zeta Phi Beta sorority, Alpha Delta Pi sorority, Tobacco USA, and the Health Education and Wellness Center, which is part of the Student Health Center.

Marshall, of the department of Human Development and Family Studies, was the keynote speaker. During her address, she asked listeners to carefully consider how the public defines violence, and to think about the acts of violence that they have personally witnessed.

Marshall has been researching the causes and effects of violence in our area and said, "We need to understand the nature of violence in our community. Human development comes from a variety of factors, and we cannot understand violence without recognizing the influences of home life."

Marshall stated that her research was still in the early stages and that she is in the process of defining the problem and receiving input from community members.

After Marshall's address, Dr. Barton Parks and community activist Tracey Lucas conducted an interactive listening exercise with the group. Parks and Lucas asked listeners to pair up and take turns listening to one an-

Phi Beta Kappa inducts 29 students

By KERRIE KOSLOWE
Staff Writer

At UNCG's 61st annual Phi Beta Kappa initiation in the Alumni House on April 10, 29 new members received the Phi Beta Kappa key.

According to William Goode, vice president of the Epsilon chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, who explained the key's significance to the 29 new members, the Phi Beta Kappa gold key represents the love of wisdom and noble sentiments.

The induction ceremony was held to honor the achievements of the seniors graduating in 1995 who have demonstrated outstanding achievement in the liberal arts.

The new Phi Beta Kappa members are: Lawrence Dwayne Bowlin, Daniel Sinclair Burleson, Valerie Lynne Clark, Heidi Kristine Czerwicz, Wendy Lorraine Davis, Cescili Aurelia Drake, Amy Elizabeth French, Jesse Hughes Hastings, Tracey Louise Huckabee, Charles Brentley Johnston, Sangwon Jung, Kathryn Marie Kluttz, Catherine Elizabeth LaCava, Esther Rebecca Landis, Sara Marilyn Lauritzen, Darren Alan McDonough, Veaney Nichole McIrvin, Alyssa Rose Miller, Linda Scott Mills, Teena Marie Murray, Beverly Ann Pittillo, Richard Racz, Chesley von Ancken Schmidt, Rebecca Suzane Shouse, John Robert Smerznak, Jr., Darren Livingston Stelle, Rebecca Ann Sutorious, Brenda Gail Teaff, and Daniel Lennon Wood.

Only six institutions in North Carolina have chapters of Phi Beta Kappa: Wake Forest University, The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, North Carolina State University, Duke University, Davidson College, and UNCG.

Several of the new inductees said they were glad to be part of the event.

"It was an honor to be part of it," biology major and new inductee LaCava said.

"It was great to see so many people I came to college with [here]," Czerwicz said.

Provost Donald DeRosa congratulated the new Phi Beta Kappa members and said that initiation into the fraternity is "an opportunity to celebrate the traditions of the University and accomplishments made by the new members to help advance UNCG."

Chancellor Patricia Sullivan also congratulated the new Phi Beta Kappa members and said she is proud of their achievement.

"I hope you will continue to be scholars and find ways to enrich the total life of the community," Sullivan said.

Phi Beta Kappa was established at the College of William and Mary in 1776 and today has chapters worldwide.

Following the induction ceremony, composer George Rochberg, who holds six doctoral degrees, delivered an address titled "The Dance of the Polar Opposites: Symmetry and Asymmetry in Music."

One of the new Phi Beta Kappa members summed up the feeling of being inducted into Phi Beta Kappa.

"Now let's see if I can get into graduate school," said classical studies major Jesse Hastings.

Campus Briefs

MARY DALY TO SPEAK ON CAMPUS

Author and feminist philosopher Dr. Mary Daly will be on campus on April 27 to give a lecture titled "Recalling the Outrageous, Contagious Courage of Women." Daly's lecture will take place at 7 p.m., in the Cone Ballroom of the Elliott University Center. Daly, whose books include "The Church and the Second Sex," "Beyond God the Father," "Outercourse," and "Pure Lust," is a faculty member at Boston College.

PROFESSOR LISTED IN "WHO'S WHO IN THE WORLD"

Dr. Gilbert Gottlieb, an Excellence Professor of psychology, has been included in the latest edition of "Who's Who in the World." The book contains approximately 38,000 biographical entries. Gottlieb is recognized for his research in the field of developmental psychology and experimental behavioral embryology.

PROFESSOR NAMED FRENCH TEACHER OF THE YEAR

Dr. David A. Fein, a professor in the Department of Romance Languages, has received the French Teacher of the Year Award from the North Carolina chapter of the American Association of Teachers of French (AATF). Fein received the award on April 8 during the group's annual spring meeting, which was held at NC A&T State University. Fein has been at UNCG since 1976 and teaches courses in elementary and intermediate French, French conversation, composition, grammar and literature, and elementary and intermediate Spanish.

KRUEGER TO STUDY BIOGRAPHIES OF SAINTS

Dr. Derek Krueger, an assistant professor of religious studies, has received a $20,000 grant from the American Council of Learned Societies (ACLS) to write a book about early Byzantine biographies of saints. Krueger has been studying the literary devices that biographers used in their works, as well as references that the texts make to the Bible.

MUSICAL ARTS GUILD ELECTS OFFICERS

The Musical Arts Guild, which is the support organization for the UNCG School of Music, has elected Florence Young to be its president for the 1995-96 year. Other new officers are: Constance Kotis, president-elect, Anne Bodner, vice president, Marnie Ross, secretary, and Bob Carter, treasurer. Founded in 1971, the Musical Arts Guild has provided funds for the acquisition of a variety of musical instruments, rare books, and recordings, as well as scholarship money.

PASLEY SERVING ON NATIONAL COUNCIL ON FAMILY RELATIONS

Dr. Kay Pasley, an associate professor in the Department of Human Development and Family Studies, is serving as program vice president of the National Council on Family Relations. A member of NCFR since 1971, Pasley has conducted extensive research on divorce and stepparenting, particularly in the area of divorced fathers' involvement with their children's lives.

TANNENBAUM RE-ELECTED CHAIR OF FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY

Jeanne Tannenbaum has been re-elected chairperson of the Friends of the Library for the 1995-96 school year. Tannenbaum, a 1964 UNCG graduate, is also a member of the UNCG School of Nursing Advisory Board and the board of visitors at Greensboro College. Other Friends of the Library officers are: Mary Jane Bynum, Dr. Jane Gutsell, Annabel Link, Mildred Powell, and Liz Seymour, vice chairs; Doris Hulbert, secretary, Phil Richman, treasurer, and Dr. Richard Moore II, adviser.

"TEENAGE WASTELAND" AUTHOR TO SPEAK ON APRIL 24

Dr. Donna Gaines, cultural sociologist and author of "Teenage Wasteland," will speak at UNCG on Monday, April 24. Gaines' speech, titled "Teenage Wasteland: The Tour Diary," will be held in Room 250 of Eberhart Building, at 3:30 p.m., and is free to anyone who wishes to attend. Gaines' main areas of studies include tattoos, gun ownership, and rock 'n' roll.

PROFESSOR CO-AUTHOR OF NEW SPORT PSYCHOLOGY BOOK

Dr. Daniel Gould, professor in the Department of Exercise and Sport Science, has co-authored a new textbook titled "Foundations of Sport and Exercise Psychology." The 544-page book includes chapters on topics such as, "Achievement Motivation and Competitiveness," and "Understanding Competition and Cooperation."

other.

According to Lucas, "It's valuable for people to talk with one another and to stimulate more honest conversation among you. Lack of communication causes distrust and fear among people and can lead to violence."

By hosting this event, sponsoring groups were hoping to raise public awareness of violence and to open lines of communication about violence in all of its forms.

"This year we're trying to increase communication and listening skills. By that, we hope to create common ground between people with differences and by doing things like this event, we hope to help stop violence," Jennifer Terrell of PHASE II said.

Many types of violence are not easily prevented but, according to Terrell, "a lot of violence that we see today, like hate crimes, racial violence, and violence between the sexes can be prevented by increasing lines of communication and getting people to see that they're not really so different from one another."

Exhibitions, collections curators announced

from staff reports

Two new curators have been appointed to Weatherspoon Art Gallery at UNCG.

Thomas H. Kochheiser of St. Louis, Mo., curator of exhibitions; and Dr. Douglas Dreishpoon of Tampa, Fla., curator of collections, were appointed April 1. Both were announced by Ruth K. Beesch, director of Weatherspoon Art Gallery.

"I am very impressed with the outstanding talent and expertise that Kochheiser and Dreishpoon bring to the Weatherspoon Art Gallery," said Beesch. "Their range of experience is perfectly matched to the Weatherspoon's collections, exhibitions, and programs. Dreishpoon has a strong research and publication background. Dreishpoon has organized major traveling exhibitions and is extraordinarily well-connected. As the curator of collections, Dreishpoon will be a tremendous asset as we work with donors and collectors to ensure the future growth of the Weatherspoon Collection. Kochheiser brings an excellent eye and ability to search out new artistic talent. The Weatherspoon's reputation is often attributed to our ability to identify and support emerging or under-recognized artists. In his role as curator of exhibitions, Kochheiser will have the opportunity to build on a superb track record as a curator who has that uncanny ability to sense where the art scene is going next."

Kochheiser has been director of Gallery 210 at the University of Missouri-St. Louis since 1985.

At the Weatherspoon, Kochheiser will plan and implement temporary and permanent exhibitions for the gallery.

Kochheiser succeeds Trevor Richardson in the position.

Earlier, Kochheiser was publicity coordinator and box office manager for the Oberlin College Department of Theatre and Dance from 1982-1983.

Kochheiser is a graduate of Ohio State University and holds a master's degree from Oberlin College.

As director of Gallery 210, he organized or presented numerous exhibitions, including works by Heide Fasnacht, Russell Crotty, Erika Rothenberg, M.M. Lum, Sue Williams, Hannah Wilke, Dotty Attie, and Holly Roberts.

Kochheiser's thematic exhibitions include "The Emblematic Woman: Contemporary Female Portraiture."

Dreishpoon has been curator of contemporary art at the Tampa Museum of Art since 1992. At the Weatherspoon, Dreishpoon will be responsible for the growth, preservation, and presentation of the gallery's permanent collection of more than 4,000 art works.

Dreishpoon succeeds Dr. Arlette Klaric in the post.

From 1982-1991, Dreishpoon was curator of exhibitions and research at Hirschl and Adler Galleries in New York City.

A graduate of Skidmore College, Dreishpoon holds his master's degree from Tufts University and a doctoral degree from City University of New York.

Art for all

All-Student Exhibition recognizes artistic talent of UNCG students

By MEGAN HERRMAN
Senior Features Writer

Through April 28, student art work will be on display in the McIver Gallery.

There are currently about 100 pieces of undergraduate and graduate art work on display for the annual All-Student Exhibition.

Professor A. Doren, who teaches photography, stated, "I collect the best work of my students throughout the semester to be included in the show."

The exhibition, which has been growing in size in recent years, invited students to submit one to three objects to be judged.

A panel of three faculty members, including Professors George Dimock (art history), Doren (photography), and Pat Wasserboehr (painting), reviewed over 220 pieces for both inclusion in the show, and for a number of awards.

There are two Chancellor's Awards, one for graduate, and one for undergraduate work. The awards go to the best piece at each level.

The pieces selected will not only become part of the Weatherspoon Art Gallery's permanent collection, but the artists will also receive cash awards.

Other awards include five UNCG bookstore awards, an Addam's bookstore award, a Carolina Camera award, and two faculty awards.

"We, as the faculty, think that students should be awarded for what they do throughout the year," said Doren.

For the past five years, the UNCG bookstore has donated award money to the show.

This year, awards total $750.

Tony Metcalf, the manager of the UNCG Bookstore, explained the bookstore's willingness to donate.

"We are basically supportive of the art department, and are hoping to encourage participation, and to gain entries into the competition," Metcalf said.

The show is an excellent representation of what UNCG's department of art has to offer, both two and three-dimensional.

Virtually all mediums are represented, including drawing, printmaking, photography, painting, and sculpture.

According to Doren, "It's a good looking show with excellent work. I have been with it for the past four years, and it has been growing each year."

The All-Student Exhibition is free and open to the public and may be viewed anytime the McIver building is open. A number of the pieces are also available for sale.

Award winners will be announced at a reception to be held on April 28 at 1 p.m.

Spartans extend streak to eight

By STEVEN HUNTLEY
Sports Editor

With the national polls set to come out on Wednesday, the UNCG Spartan softball team had one last shot at impressing the pollsters on Tuesday afternoon. The Spartans did so with a sweep of Metro conference rival UNC Charlotte.

The Spartans got another pair of superb pitching performances from Winn Hazelgrove and Erin Chandler to record the second pair of shutouts in four games for the Spartans, winning 6-0 and 8-0 respectively.

In the first game, UNCG used a four run first inning, all of them unearned, to seal the victory.

The final two runs came for the Spartans in the bottom of the fifth when Lori Lette connected on her first home run of the year.

The two-run shot to right center field was her first home run of the season.

Hazelgrove gave up four hits while picking up her 17th victory on the season, running her record to 17-7 this year.

In the second game, the Spartans jumped out to a 3-0 advantage in the first inning and got two more in the third and three in the sixth to secure the 8-0 victory.

Chandler gave up just two hits to win her 17th straight game and improve her record to 20-2 on the year.

Spartan designated player, Tara Steinhardt picked up a pair of hits and drove in three RBIs for the game.

Shonda Spagnola and Pam Houston both picked up two hits as well for the Spartans.

The Spartans improved their record to

UNCG	6
UNC Charlotte	0
winning pitcher, Hazelgrove (G)
UNCG	8
winning pitcher, Chandler, (G)

38-11 overall and are currently riding an eight game win streak. UNC Wilmington dropped to 13-40 overall.

The Spartans had hoped that 38 wins and the eight straight games won since the last poll was released would bring them into the top 25.

Last week the national poll listed the Spartans as the 26th best team in the nation and they were only one vote away from the Top 25. The Spartans received 17 votes for the poll.

The Spartans received only four votes and dropped out of the top 30 in the nation.

Several traditionally strong teams with .500 or slightly better records moved ahead of the Spartans.

With only four conference games remaining, UNCG is still in the race for the top spot in the Big South Conference tournament next weekend.

The Spartans lost to Canisius in the NCAA play-in series last year at UNCG after winning the Conference Tournament. UNCG will need to win all four of the remaining conference games to gain the top seed in the tournament.

UNCG will play again on Saturday when they will play host to Big South Conference rival Charleston Southern at noon on Campus Field.

Player of the Week

UNCG tennis teams quietly successful

By JASON GAERTNER
Staff Writer
and STEVEN HUNTLEY
Sports Editor

In deciding who to pick for the "Athlete of the Week" segment, The Carolinian sports department decided that it would be a member of the tennis teams at UNCG. We could not choose between all of the deserving athletes on each team so we decided to choose both the women's and men's tennis teams.

Both teams will compete in the Big South Tennis Tournament this weekend at Radford, Virginia.

The women's team is led by senior Rachel Matlin. The Hewlett, New York native has played in almost every slot for the Spartans, posting a 9-9 overall record and going undefeated in the Big South Conference.

Matlin was paired with freshman Emily Berger in the doubles category, and playing out of the number three slot, they posted a 10-3 overall record and 7-0 in the Big South Conference, leading the team in doubles competition.

Matlin also teamed up with freshman Kimberly Ledbetter from Marietta, Georgia. The Matlin-Ledbetter combination was 4-2 overall.

Perhaps the most exciting player on the team is sophomore all-conference selection Natalie Teague from Hickory, North Carolina. Teague was the Southern Conference Freshman-of-the-Year when she played at Furman in the 1993-94 season.

After joining the Spartans in the spring semester, Teague took over the number one spot and posted a 10-5 record overall and 6-1 in the conference. Teague and Maggie Berger went 4-3 in the doubles department even though they played in the number one spot.

When sophomore Jen Wisinski was paired with Teague, the duo had a 1-7 overall record. In singles competition, Maggie Berger went 8-4 in the spring season, but a 1-6 record in the fall dropped her below .500.

The Spartans finished with an 8-7 overall record in the spring and did not improve on last year's dual-match record of 11-7. Nevertheless, the Spartans did improve over last year's dual match conference record by two games, posting a 5-2 conference mark this year. UNCG was 5-4 last season. These wins included, on March 25, the first ever Spartan victory over Coastal Carolina.

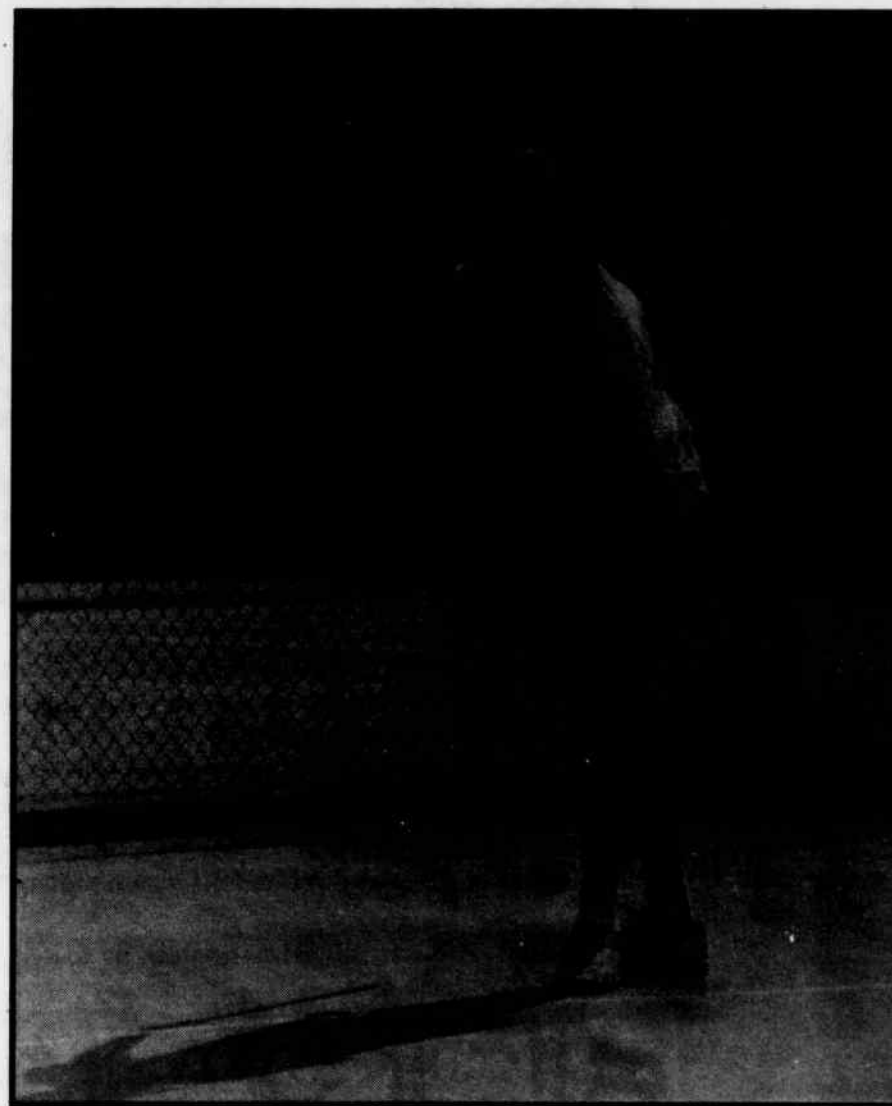

The men's team started out the spring season losing nine of twelve matches. Four of these were by only one point to teams such as South Carolina and Appalachian State.

The Spartans would then rebound to win eight of their last nine matches and post a perfect 8-0 record in the Big South Conference. Senior Adam Merrick, who was named All-Big South for this season posted an 8-12 overall record for the Spartans, playing out of the top spot.

Three other Spartans posted outstanding overall records. Sophomore Tyler Roberts posted a 15-10 overall record including an outstanding 7-0 mark in Big South Conference play. The Charlotte native played out of the number four spot for UNCG where he was 8-2 overall.

Another UNCG sophomore, Adam

Short posted a 15-11 overall record and also went undefeated at 8-0 in the conference. Short, a sophomore from Wilmington, Delaware, played number six for UNCG this season.

The final Spartan with a plus .500 record is sophomore Dan Cook. Cook was 12-12 overall, playing out of the number five spot where he was 9-2 in the spring. Cook also posted a perfect record in the Big South.

Short and Roberts combined to form the number two doubles team for UNCG, posting a 14-9 overall record and a 3-0 conference total. Sophomores Cook and Banks Bostian were the number three doubles team for the Spartans this season. The pair combined for a 10-6 record overall and a 6-2 Big South record.

According to head coach Paul Lubbers, the Spartans expected to be in this position at the end of the season, even though they have such a young team.

"If we get through the conference championships with such a young group," said Lubbers, "we can move on to bigger and better things later on."

Both teams began their quest for conference titles today at Radford Virginia. Each team won their first round matches with the Men's team defeating Liberty and the Women's team downing the University of Maryland Baltimore County.

The teams will continue play tomorrow and with a little luck and business as usual, the top-seeded men and the third-seeded women should be in a good position to capture the Conference title.

Help us HELP KIDS...*With DISABILITIES!PUSHAmerica

PI KAPPA PHI FRATERNITY

Many fraternities and sororities have national "philanthropies" to which they make annual donations. This helps them add greater meaning to their Greek experiences.

Since 1977, Pi Kappa Phi has had its own non-profit service organization which now helps thousands of collegiates experience a commitment to service. Through this organization, now called "PUSH America", Pi Kapps help raise money and awareness for children with disabilities. They also participate in "PUSH Camps" which bring together brothers from many different chapters to make entire playgrounds or campsites fully-accessable. The Greensboro Chapter of Pi Kappa Phi has raised over $60,000 since being chartered at UNCG.

Tightly associated with PUSH America, the "Journey of Hope" is a coast-to-coast bike ride which raises money and awareness for people with disabilities. Pi Kapp brothers must raise thousands of dollars and be willing to devote an entire summer to this adventure to be selected to participate. Good luck to Clint Ferrell and Corbin Dirks, who plan to represent the UNCG chapter during the ride this summer!

To make a contribution to PUSH America, or for more information, contact Corbin or Clint at (910) 274-2074.
