Woman's College Students Observe Founder's Day

M'IVER IS PRAISED

A Series of Five-Minute Talks Made by Alumnae on "The College and the Alumnae."

THE VESTED CHOIR SINGS

Mrs. C. W. Perry Presides Over Program; Miss Clara Byrd Introduces Speakers.

Words of encouragement and aims to higher achievements were brought by representative alumnae of Woman's College, speaking in celebration of the institution's 42nd birthday at Founder's Day exercises in Aycock auditorium, Friday, October 5, at 10:30 o'clock.

A series of five-minute talks on the general subject of "Looking Ahead—The College and the Alumnae" was the feature of the convocation.

Reference was made by the speakers to the debt due Dr. Charles Duncan McIver for his great vision, charity, and faith in the institution he founded 42 years ago. Honor was also paid Dr. Julius I. Foust, former president of the college, for his untiring loyalty and service to the students, the faculty, and the ideals of Woman's College. Hope was expressed for the future in Dr. W. C. Jackson, dean of administration.

Leading alumnae who made the principal addresses of the morning were: Mrs. C. W. Tillett, Charlotte; Mrs. Claude Morris, Salisbury; Mrs. R. O. Everett, Durham; Mrs. Julius W. Cone, Greensboro; Mrs. Joseph W. Johnson, Winston-Salem.

The recently organized college vested choir of 100 voices provided special music under the direction of Professor George M. Thompson.

The exercises opened with a series of processional hymns sung by the choir. The audience joined in singing "America." Miss Mary Gwynn, of Looksville, secretary of the Young Woman's Christian Association, gave the invocation. Dr. Jackson, in the opening address, welcomed the assembly and stated the purpose and theme of the celebration.

The necrology was then read by Dr. W. C. Smith, head of the English department.

"Lift Thine Eyes," from the "Elijah," by Mendelssohn, a special musical selection by the college choir, closed the first half of the session.

VIRGINIA THOMPSON IS ALETHEIAN MARSHAL

Society Elects Frances Upchurch Treasurer and Jane Costner Vice President for Year.

PRESIDENT SELECTS COMMITTEES

At the Saturday night meeting of the Altheian society, Virginia Thompson, of Wilson, was elected a senior marshal to take the place of Doris Poole, who was elected chief marshal in the recent election. Miss Thompson resigned as vice-president of the group to accept this office. Last year she was prominent as a Playmaker and played in the student production of "Cradle Song," and played the role of Joanna in "Dear Brutus"; she is a Masquerader and social chairman of the college.

Jane Costner, of Lincoln, was chosen vice-president. She has been an active member of the society and was a marshal last year. At present, she is secretary of the senior class.

Frances Upchurch, of Oxford, was selected to fill the vacancy of treasurer. She is Big Sister Chairman this year.

Christine Weeks, president of the society, appointed the following standing committees for the year: Program, Mary Sweet, chairman, with Anita de Monseigne and Selma Whitehead; music, Mildred Thompson, chairman, with Katherine Tate and Mary Neil Saunders; hall, Josephine Parham, with Linda Mitchell, Lella Victor, and Geradine Sparks; poster, Ruth Jackson, chairman, with Bright Hoyle and Martha Tyson; refreshment, Edith Aycock, chairman, with Evelyn Tart and Doris Wilkins; and robe, Josephine Tomlinson, chairman, with Frances Kernodle and Evelyn Sharp.

Miss Weeks announced that Betty Griesinger, inter-society representative, who has charge of the initiation, would announce her plans and committees later. At the close of the business discussions, the members were served ice cream.

DIKEAN SOCIETY HAS FIRST MEETING

Society Elects Mercer Reeves
and Alice Hutchinson
Senior Marshals.

LORAIN GRAY CHAIRMAN

The first meeting of the Dikean Society was held Saturday night. Martha Lockhart, president, read the members a letter from Barbara Lincoln, thanking the society for the copy of the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam presented to her last spring in appreciation of her services. Miss Lockhart read the resignations of Mary Lamb and Mary McFarland, senior marshals, and the society elected Mercer Reeves and Mary Alice Hutchinson to serve in their stead. At the conclusion of the business meeting, candy was served and members of the society enjoyed dancing.

Miss Lockhart's committee chairman for the year are as follows: Program, Julia Ullrich; contract, Grace Carmichael; advertising, Mary McFarland; publicity, Martha Spruill Everett; costume, Edna Earl Lee, chairman, serving with her Elizabeth Bryan and Hilda Dowdy; refreshments, Mercer Reeves; membership, Margaret Mayhew; and initiation, Loraine Gray.

Loraine Gray, chairman of initiation, has announced initiation chairman: Formal initiation, Mary Glenn; music for informal, Grace Carmichael; formal decoration, Susan White; informal decoration, Justine Ullrich; program for informal, Miriam McFarland; dance, Mary Louise Myrick; costumes, Edna Earl Lee; refreshments, Mercer Reeves; invitations and favors, Marion McDowell; programs, Martha Spruill Everett; paper skull and cross bones, Mary Lamb; bowers, Rebecca Jeffress; and clean-up, Bootsie Swift and Willa Towne.

VESTED CHOIR TO SING AT CHAPEL ON TUESDAY

George M. Thompson Supervises Group;
Mercer Reeves Is President of Organization.

The College Vested Choir, a new organization of 100 voices, has been organized by Professor George M. Thompson. This choir will sing on every Tuesday morning chapel program.

The choir meets every Monday evening at 7:30 in the recital hall of the Music building. The officers are: President, Mercer Reeves; vice-president, Martha Thomas; secretary, Genevieve Corbett; assistant secretary, Margaret Thompson; librarian, Louise George; assistant librarian, Margaret DeVany; vestments, Gladys Black; Miriam MacFadyen, Elizabeth Drake.

For the Christmas program, on December 9, the choir will present Bach's "Christmas Oratorio."

Christine Weeks Wins Theatre Prize

Christine Weeks, a senior home economics major, who designed a dress for Norma Shearer in a local contest last spring, winning first place for Greensboro, was notified Tuesday, October 9, that she had won third place in the national contest and that she will get $40 November 1.

This contest was sponsored by the Carolina theater.

ELIZABETH YATES BUSINESS MANAGER

Susan White, Circulation Manager, With Mildred Swift Assisting.

NEW EDITORS ARE ADDED

Elizabeth Yates, of Greensboro, has been appointed business manager of the Carolinian. Miss Yates is a prominent member of the Day Students' Organization, is vice-president of the junior class, and is much interested in the Carolinian Society, of which she is treasurer. She has appointed as her assistants Carolyn Weill, Rebecca Jeffress, Kathryn Keister, Elyn Fowler, all of Greensboro. The advertising manager has not yet been chosen, but will be announced in a few weeks.

The following students have been added to the editorial staff: Elizabeth Winspear, of Buffalo, N. Y., feature editor; Bright Hoyle, of Charlotte, Open Forum editor; Christiana McFadyen, of Raeford, Bystander editor; and Nell Stallings, of Louisburg, sports editor.

Susan White, of Asheville, is the new circulation manager, and assisting her is Mildred Swift, of Red Bank.

The Open Forum is to be run on a different basis this year. Instead of being a column composed entirely of student contributions, the faculty are asked to make use of it so that it will develop into a column which will serve as a medium between student and faculty opinion.

COLLEGE LEGISLATURE DRAWS UP OBJECTIVES

Organization Plans Open Meetings for Students, and Faculty Groups Present Problems.

PAPER TO CARRY ANNOUNCEMENTS

To represent student opinion as it actually exists and to act effectively and judiciously on student problems, will be the object of the College Legislature for the coming year.

Meetings to which the student body and faculty are invited will be held by the legislative board, at which times the legislature will hear and consider any criticisms or suggestions which are offered.

The names of the legislature's committee members, who are concerned solely with such phases of student life as campus standards, rules and regulations, and legislative programs, will be published at an early date. Students are urged to go to these committee members with any problems upon which they desire action.

Campus organizations which desire to present problems to the legislature may do so by sending a representative to sit with this body at a regular meeting, or at a called meeting if action is imperative.

The Carolinian will make definite announcement, from time to time, in regard to scheduled discussion meetings.

LIBRARY HOLDS EXHIBIT; MRS. GERBERICH SPEAKS

Beginning Saturday, October 13, and continuing for a week, there will be a display of Russian costumes, dolls, textbooks, posters, and icons in the upstairs lobby of the library. These articles of interest were brought back to the United States by Mrs. Nora T. Gerberich, supervisor of French at Curry Training School, who spent the past summer in Russia. During the same week, books about Russia will be on display in the reading room. Mr. Charles H. Stone, who has charge of the library lectures, states that he hopes that at a later date Mrs. Gerberich will be able to give a talk on Russian life and customs.

CORNELIAN SOCIETY NAMES MARSHALS, COMMITTEE HEADS

Elizabeth Hewitt, Senior, and Catherine Proctor,
Junior, Chosen.

WELLS, INITIATION HEAD

Louise Bell Reports Proposed Plans for Many Social Functions;
Two Formal Dances.

The first meeting of the Cornelian Society was held Saturday evening, October 6, in the society hall. The meeting was informal.

The members of the society elected Elizabeth Hewitt as a senior marshal, and elected Catherine Proctor as a junior marshal.

Mary Wells, inter-society representative, is chairman of the initiation committee. She announced the chairmen of the sub-committees as: Informal initiation, Elizabeth Yates; sheets, Mary Fitzgerald; decorations downstairs, Louise Bell; decorations upstairs, Adelaide Porter; staircase, Catherine Proctor; tableaux, Lella Hooker; music, Gladys Black; refreshments, Julia Rice; cleaning-up, Elizabeth Barrington; and invitations and favors, Emma White Carlton. Anna May Smith will have charge of the Cornelian goat.

Louise Bell gave a report on the proposed plans made for the societies at the student government camp. These plans include two formal dances during the year for each society, an increased number of informal dances, formal teas, and other social functions.

Edythe Ellis, president of the society, named the following standing committees: Initiation, Mary Wells, chairman; program, Lib Pluck, chairman; Catherine Proctor, Julia Rice, Lillian Jordan, Kent Blair, Marie Palmer, and Dot Howard; hall, Lee Ona Hughes, chairman, Bessie Kellogg, Margaret Phillips, Phyllis Stewart, and Cordelia Lanier; social, Mary Elizabeth Bitting, chairman, Marie Torrey, Virginia Truslow, Mebane Holoman, Mary Gregory, and Frances Weathersbee; sports day, Nell Poole, chairman, Mavis Mitchell, Christiana McFadyen, Martha Boger, and Rosalie Ennes; publicity, Ruth Worley, chairman, Helen Jones, Bebe Knight, and Elizabeth Yates; membership, Emma White Carlton, chairman, Margaret Smith, Mildred Penland, Elizabeth Hewitt, Louise Bell, Hazel May, and Elizabeth Harvell; doorkeepers, Lois Sweet and Mary Withers; music, Gladys Black, chairman, Mary Elizabeth Sanders, Betsy Dupuy, and Marian Floyd.

S. M. BOUTON LECTURES HERE ON NAZI RULE

Prominent Journalist Has Spent Many Years in Germany — Is Acquainted With Hitler.

FORMERLY WAR CORRESPONDENT

S. Miles Bouton, internationally prominent journalist, lectured last night on "The Life Under Nazi Rule." He is well acquainted with life in Germany, having spent most of his time there since 1911. He was the Associated Press war correspondent in Germany, writing most of the time from the front lines. In 1922 he met Adolf Hitler and kept up his acquaintance, finally ying with him in 1932 during his election campaign. Recently he was asked to leave Germany because of his writings.

Mr. Bouton was born in Blockville, N. Y., on September 24, 1876. He was educated at Eastern high school, Washington, D. C., Albany Law School, and the University of Berlin.

While practicing law in Jamestown, N. Y., he met Frieda Kleinsang, who became his wife. Later he became connected with the Meadville Star and many other newspapers, which include Oil City Times, Buffalo Express, Baltimore Sun, Cleveland Plain Dealer, and the New York World.

He is a member of the New York Bar Association, Foreign Correspondents' Association, and the International Federation of Journalists.

ADELPHIAN SOCIETY NAMES NEW OFFICERS

At the meeting of the Adelpian society Saturday evening, October 6, Gertrude Hatcher, of Dashington, D. C., was elected a senior marshal. Miss Hatcher was president of her class during her sophomore class, is a member of Playfakers, and is business manager of the Coraddi this year.

Sarah Dalton, of Norton, Va., was elected secretary.

GUILFORD ALUMNAE ENTERTAIN SENIORS

Faculty and Others Are Guests at Founder's Day Banquet in South Dining Room.

DR. W. C. JACKSON SPEAKS

In celebration of Founder's Day, the Guilford Alumnae Association had its annual dinner Friday, October 5, at 6:45 o'clock in South dining hall. The faculty, their wives and husbands were present for the affair, and members of the senior class were special guests.

Receiving at the head of the stairs of South were the following faculty members: Miss Laura Coit, Miss Minnie Jamison, Mr. E. J. Forney, Miss Edna Forney, Dr. Anna Gove, Miss Viola Bodie, and Miss Mary Petty. At the entrance to the dining hall, the guests were welcomed by Mrs. Martha T. Hannah, chairman of the Guilford County Alumnae Association; Mrs. C. W. Perry, president of the General Alumnae Association; Miss Byrd, alumnae secretary; Miss Lillian Massey, chairman of the High Point association; Mrs. J. A. Keiger and Miss Deans, members of the arrangements committee; Margaret Moser, president of the senior class; and Helen Dagan, president of the Student Government.

Those seated at the guest table were presented by Mrs. Hannah. Talks were made by Mrs. Perry, Dr. Foust, and Dr. Jackson.

Mrs. James LeGwin, of Greensboro, accompanied by Mrs. Ralph Hodgins, also of this city, rendered several vocal selections for the entertainment of the group.

At the end of the evening, a moving picture was a surprise to all. The purpose of this was to show a few of last year's happenings on campus, such as Society Sports Day, May Day, and the procession of the seniors.

DAY STUDENTS GIVE TEA IN DAY STUDENTS' ROOM

Dean Jackson, Miss Drinkwater, and Day Student Organization Officers Receive Guests.

The day students entertained at a tea Tuesday afternoon, October 2, in the day students' room from 4 until 6. Special invitations were issued to the faculty, new day students, and campus leaders. The tea was in charge of Frances Grantham, social chairman and vice-president of the day students' organization. Miss Bernice Draper, day students' advisor, poured tea. Those receiving the guests were Dean Jackson, Miss Geneva Drinkwater, and the day students' officers, Kate Wilkins, president; Frances Grantham, vice-president; Bebe Knight, secretary; and Helen Crutchfield, treasurer.

The chairmen of the different committees were as follows: Elizabeth Yates, decorations; Bebe Knight, refreshments; Emma White Carlton, reception; Elizabeth Buhman, invitations; and Lucille Hinton, service.

STATE TAKES PART

Purpose is to Help Teachers
Who Lack Musical Training
Ends in Contest.

WOMAN'S CLUB ASSISTS

College Faculty Present Recital; Students May Attend Meetings;
Announce Program.

Friday and Saturday of this week, October 12 and 13, there will be a conference on music appreciation under the direction of the public school music department of the college.

Working in co-operation with the college department are the state department and the woman's clubs of the state. Since this is the first conference of its kind in the state, the leaders have been working hard and are hoping for its success. Their main purpose is to help teachers of the sixth and seventh grades, who have had no training in music, to appreciate music, so that they will be able to teach music appreciation to their pupils. The culmination of this conference is to be a contest on music achievement, which will be held here in March.

The following is the schedule of activities for the conference:

Friday, Music Building

2:30—Registration.

3:00—First meeting. Miss Grace Van Dyke Moore, chairman. Speakers: Dr. W. R. Brown, Miss Hattie Parrott, Mrs. E. E. Randolph.

4:00—"Song Clinic" and demonstrations.

7:30—Recital by faculty of the music department.

8:00—"Song Clinic."

8:30—Story of the life of Mendelssohn, told by Mrs. Minnie Hussey.

9:00—Informal reception.

Saturday

8:30—Typical lessons and discussions at demonstration room of Curry, which will last all morning.

12:30—Luncheon in Home Economics
cafeteria. Speakers: Dean Geneva
Drinkwater, and Dr. J. H. Highsmith, of the state department.

After the luncheon a "Question Box" will be held.

Students interested in upper grade work are invited to any of the meetings, and all students are invited to the recital by the music faculty.

The recital program by the music faculty on Friday evening will be as follows: A two-piano number, "Waltz," by Arensky, played by Misses Allene
Richard Minor and Mary Lois Perrell; three vocal numbers, "Last Hour," by Kramer, "House That Jack Built," by Homer, "Hills," by LaForge, sung by Miss Edith Schugider, with Miss Dorothy Lee Clement at the piano; "Taratelle," by Liszt, a piano solo played by Miss Sue Kyle Southwick; and
"Concert Variations" for the organ, by Bonnet, played by George M. Thompson.

MAGAZINE EDITOR LISTS NEW STAFF OF CORADDI

Edythe Latham Serves as Co-Editor and Adelaide Porter as Editor of Short Stories.

MARY LOUISE STONE IS EDITOR

The Coraddi staff held its first meeting for the year on Tuesday night, October 9. At that time, Susanne Ketchum, editor-in-chief of the Coraddi, announced two changes in the staff. Edythe Latham will be the co-editor, and Adelaide Porter is to be the short-story editor. Other than these, there will be no further changes in the staff.

After these announcements, several new ideas for the magazine were discussed. One of these plans is to present a series of articles on interesting alumnae of this college and what they are doing now. Mary Louise Stone, essay editor, is in charge of this feature.

Adelaide Porter will be in charge of another unusual feature. This is to be a series of articles about the faculty. The series will be short stories or essays telling amusing little stories of anecdotes about the members of the faculty, using fictitious names instead of the real ones.

Training Course Well Attended

Sixty were in attendance at the officers' training course held at the Baptist Cottage Tuesday, October 2. All B. S. U. officers were in attendance.

PARAGRAPHS

Although it is really Ancient History, one member of the faculty was quite puffed up Thursday night because two of his former students had progressed as far as the speaker's table.

One promising young member of the junior class was rescued from going to the dogs only to decide she wanted to go to the goats instead.

There seems to be some rather complicated family relations going around on campus this year. Perhaps Clementine can explain.

Year before last there was a fire, last year an ice storm, this year a broken pipe. What can be in store for the campus next year. We'll hope it will be a star light Lantern Festival.

"Roses are red—"
So are handkerchiefs and neckties.

The athletic field is an ideal place to practice the Scout Trot—at ten o'clock on a dark and dewy night. "Heel and toe!" Especially heel.

And oh, the irony of it all, when one of our pet dignitaries—the particularly prissy one—yoo-hoos at a young lady just in front of him. And did she yoo-hoo back!

"Fear the Greeks—"

What is it in Cotten that attracts cats? And that's putting it pretty bluntly. We just want to know.

We trust one of our well known faculty members will sometime get the whistle without the pig.

Some seniors are so bad off that they have decided to measure others' mentality. We wonder, do they use yard sticks or millimeter measurements.

There was one advantage in having no water. At least it gave the practice teachers something else to talk about.

Somehow red lies and white wings just don't seem to go together.

Hats and Hose

At the first house meeting of the year, the house presidents requested that students go to town wearing hose and hats. Either the request fell on deaf ears or else the students thought it was not to be taken seriously. The fact remains that on any afternoon, about half of the college can be seen uptown bare headed, wearing socks and perhaps having on no hose at all. Even if the students do not have pride enough to show the college at its best, it would seem that they would be sufficiently interested in their own personal appearance to make themselves at least presentable when they leave campus.

The New Open Forum Column

As an outcome of camp discussion, THE CAROLINIAN is this year planning to use the Open Forum Column not only for student opinion but also for the ideas of the faculty members as well. This column can be made of vital importance to the college, or it can be employed as a place to air all the petty differences on campus. It is not for the latter use, however, that this new column is being organized. Its purpose is to give both faculty and students a chance to present their opinions on problems that arise and a place in which intelligent discussion of them may be carried on. Since this column has been created at the request of both students and faculty, it is the duty of all to keep it entirely for its intended use and to make it the most powerful and popular column in the paper.

OPEN FORUM

Dear Students:

Is it necessary to whisper and rattle papers in chapel? Is there any reason why we can not go to chapel for half an hour twice a week and sit quietly while someone attempts to put an idea across? If we listened, we would probably get something worth while out of what is being said. Probably some of us have no desire to hear anything worth while; but out of respect to those on the stage and consideration of those who do desire to listen, we can at least sit with our faces toward the speaker or singer and feign an interest in what is going on.

A person who cares to be considered cultured, and I take it we all do, whether we admit it or not, is not rude. It just is not done.

A FELLOW STUDENT.

What's happening to us? Why, suddenly, do seniors wish they were freshmen again—why do we stand in line in the dining room and sing our throats raw for no apparent reason, and why do bull sessions turn automatically into pep meetings without our knowing how? How, finally, are we aware that college is a grand experience, and every day a challenge for living it fully? Shall I tell you why?

Last week's Carolinian published in an obscure corner an age-old quotation: "He that knows, and knows that he knows, is a leader; follow him." Doesn't it scream for recognition? Is it not the very keynote of our new electrified atmosphere? Two personalities on campus live and breathe and radiate Sincerity, and Courage, and Faith, because they know the path ahead. Two vital personalities look to us to accept their challenge—to prove that the goal is attainable, to work for the real end of education, to seek the light of learning and purposeful living with real enthusiasm while we're here, to start off with eager vigor along the brighter, broader road ahead. It's an irresistible, compelling force none of us can disregard, nor shall we.

Enthusiastic co-operation shall carry us above friction and antagonism; we shall catch the inspiration of these two who "know" and are confident in their knowledge; college shall have spirit this year, and more than a few times we shall tingle with the outward signs—singing our throats raw—and loving it!

BYSTANDER

Clay Williams, chairman of the N.R.B., is a North Carolinian, formerly president of the Reynolds Tobacco Company. Industry approves his appointment, but Labor, as represented by the A. F. of L., is violently opposed. President Roosevelt hopes that Williams and Whiteside, Labor's representative, and the other members will be able to work together for the good of all.

The Duke Power Company has transferred its fight against the Greenwood power project from the Federal Power Commission to the courts. Duke claims that the government has no right to enter into competition with them and prevent their millions of profit. What if their rates are so exorbitant that thousands of families are forced to do without electricity? Does Duke not go in for philanthropy in a big way? But a good many everyday people, paying twice as much as they should for electricity, feel that they should be given credit for any of the Duke Power Company's philanthropic acts.

Demand for small coins at the mint is greater now than at any time since December, 1929. In some circles, this fact is pointed to as a sign of improving business.

The Treasury's statement that income tax payments have risen in the last year is in line with the reputed 260 per cent increase in corporation profits. Or is it merely an indication of better methods of tax collection and fewer rebates?

Frances Perkins has assured the American Federation of Labor that a program for some sort of unemployment insurance and old-age pensions will be presented to the next Congress. Now if she would only assure them of the thirty-hour week, maybe they would be satisfied.

All signs point to the unanimous reelection of William Green as president of the American Federation of Labor. Looks as if they can't get rid of him.

WORLD AFFAIRS

Spanish are revolting against the new conservative government. This makes the sixth major revolt since 1931. Alfonso must be terribly glad he isn't there.

The world's biggest aeroplane is being constructed in a secret factory in Moscow. The new plane accommodates 64 persons, and has a bathroom and a dining room.

British housewives are paying nearly $250,000,000 a year in various forms of food taxes. Food prices in England are almost as high as those in America, while wages in England are only about 60 per cent as high.

England is all excited over its first royal marriage in eleven years. Prince George had to get his father's consent by an order in council.

BOOKS

The Challenge to Liberty—Herbert Hoover.

Mr. Hoover sees in the New Deal an "eclipse of liberty." Regimentation is the burden of his theme. But offers nothing to oppose it except return to good old "rugged individualism." He believes that competition is a "unique American institution." Mr. Hoover either ignores or defends as good his own policies while President, and ex-coriates those of the New Deal. But the funny part is that the Democrats consider the book of timely assistance in the coming political campaign. Poor Mr. Hoover. Why, with the best of intentions, will he persist in doing the wrong thing?

New Frontiers—Henry A. Wallace.

Sir Willmott Lewis calls Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, a realistic idealist. He doesn't approve of every phase of the New Deal, but he sets you to thinking. If you have read "America Must Choose," you will read this book, too.

At the University of Southern California, when a man catches another man cheating, he begins stomping his feet. The whole class begins the stomping until the cheater stops his foul tactics. New dance step? "The cheater's stomp?"—Pioneer.

"Jack is so serious-minded. Always tells me I ought to be putting something away for a rainy day."
"Well, aren't you saving his letters?"—London Opinion.

Mouse Trap

Mice see lots of things—specially mice that are as small and quiet as I am, but I'm not telling all I see. There are some things though that I can't understand.

For instance, why is it that the upper-classmen have suddenly turned so primitive? I was sitting in the middle of the sidewalk in the sun the other morning, 'cause it's the warmest place I know, and I was cold. It was too early for any one to be going to breakfast; so I knew that I was safe. But now comes the part I can't understand: The door of Hinshaw opened and out came a girl in a bathrobe with soap and wash rag in one hand and a towel brush in the other and a towel over her shoulder. I ran under the bushes to wait until she got by and to try to figure out what she was doing. Then somebody else came out in the same attire. Then another came out of Bailey. I guess they were playing that they were at camp or somethin'—anyway, it was cold in the bushes, and they kept a comin'.

By the way, according to some of the freshmen who took the Student Government test, the functions of the legislature (I hadn't figured them out myself) are to see that we get balanced meals and to keep the dormitories clean and see that we have heat. I think that someone ought to ask them to see that we have water, too.

I wish someone would tell me what ipso facto means. The freshmen keep using it, and I would like to use it myself because it sounds so educated-like.

I guess everybody will sorta think that I am dumb because I can't understand so many things that I see, but I'm not really so dumb because I have figured out some things for myself; things like the artistic principle behind the decoration of the new dining room. You know that grocery store affair at the entrance to the dining rooms? Well, I think the artist must have been trying to paint a "grocery store during a depression"—you know, like an "A & P store feeling blue." I think that's what you call "modern art"—anyway, you have to be awful smart to figure out what he meant by it.

I think that somebody—the societies, maybe—ought to teach some of these people on campus some manners. I don't think it is a bit nice for people to tell you that your picture looks just like you, when it really looks like a peeled onion, or a modern painting of "an idiot in mourning."

And now I have a grievance to air. People have been so good lately about not walking on the grass that I was beginning to feel safe there; but the other day I came so near being stepped on by the new councilor that I haven't recovered yet. Won't someone do something about it? I do so hate to be stepped on.

I so facts yours,
THE MOUSE.

WOMAN'S COLLEGE STUDENTS OBSERVE FOUNDER'S DAY

which was under the direction of Dr. Jackson.

Presiding over the program after the choir's special number was Mrs. C. W. Perry, of High Point, president of the general alumnae association. In a short speech, Mrs. Perry brought greetings to the students and faculty from the alumnae, who are scattered throughout the globe. Mrs. Perry advised the students to build lives that will reflect credit upon the institution. She expressed the hope that the erection of the Alumnae House would be started during this school year.

At the request of the chairman, Miss Clara Byrd, alumnae secretary, introduced the principal speakers.

Mrs. Claude Morris, president of the Alumnae Association of Adult Education, spoke of the value of higher education to better equip the individual to meet everyday problems and to inspire a better life. The alumnae, she said, still look to their college for inspiration.

Mrs. Julius W. Cone, who wrote the words of the college song, spoke to the group as an alumna and member of the board of trustees. It is the aim of the trustees, she said, to keep a larger plan, a broader view, and a greater vision in dealing with the college. The board sees the three college units first, as a whole, then as three institutions, each having its particular necessities. Co-operation, not subordination, is the sentiment of the consolidation.

Mrs. R. O. Everett, secretary of the board of trustees of the Stonehill Jackson Training School, summarized the economic problems of the day in the relation of their effect upon women. She believes woman has never had a more challenging call to solve serious conditions than she has today.

Mrs. C. W. Tillet, vice-chairman of the North Carolina League of Women Voters, expressed confidence in the college and the hope of higher education for all in North Carolina. She feels that loyalty to higher education

The Movie Fan

CAROLINA

Thursday, Friday, Saturday—Rise Out. According to the Greensboro Daily, it's as exciting as It Happened One Night and as clever as The Thin Man. Don't believe it, girls. You know, deep down in your hearts, that no picture can even be compared to them. But it is a good picture, and we 'spect you will like it. Montgomery is the big, bad racketeer from the city, and Maureen O'Sullivan is the farmer's daughter. Wait till you see the scene, sophisticated Bob milking the cows!

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday—The Last Gentleman—George Arliss and Charlotte Henry. Of course, if you wanted to be a little radical, one could say it was better than The House of Rothschild. That statement is no doubt admitting our plebian taste. But we did enjoy it more. We especially commend it for those who have never liked Arliss. You'll change your mind.

NATIONAL

Friday, Saturday—Friends of Mr. Sweeney. We haven't much to say about this one, except that we even got bored during the preview. But that's not all, gals. Charlie Mack presents "A Parade of Snafus." Twenty people, no more, no less! On the stage, of course. If you think you can stand it, stick up with peanuts and peppermints, and look to you!

Monday, Tuesday—Bonnie in the Rain—Roger Pryor, Heather Angel. Photoplay says it's handsomely mounted and uproariously funny.

Wednesday, Thursday—Twentieth Century—John Barrymore, Constance Talmadge. With this cast, any picture should be good. "Fast moving, hilarious comedy, satirically recondite." We liked it.

IMPERIAL

Friday, Saturday—Land of Missing Men—Tom Tyler, himself! A good old Saturday special, wild western, two-gun movie. For those that care, also Boris Karloff (Frankenstein, remember?) in a new serial, The King of the Wild.

Monday, Tuesday—Many Happy Returns—Guy Lombardo. The sweetest music this side of heaven. Need more be said? Yes! Well, Burns and Allen, Vela and Yolanda. We'll take the latter pair.

Wednesday, Thursday—Crimson Walk-out Passion—Claude Rains and "Margo, the Spanish Dancer." Another picture about the D. A. C. the old woman!

CRITERION

Friday—Tomorrow's Youth—Duke Moore, John Miljan, Martha Mierau. We think Dickie Moore is cute, do you? Saturday—Speed Wings—Tim McCoy. With his usual difficulties, Tim is winning the air and championship. You had all these westerns come on out only day off, isn't it?

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday—Out of the Lumberland—Marion Marsh, Louise Dresser, Ralph Morgan. If you like Gene Stratton Porter, you'll like this. But to us it's an old, old story.

Thursday—Your FFI Fall—Sponsored Tracy, Alice Faye, Helen Twelvetrees. To be perfectly frank, we wouldn't go see anything sponsored Tracy was in. But you might like him.

REALTO

Friday, Saturday—Strangers of the Evening. East Pitts, Eugene Pallette, Lucien Littlefield. We never heard of this one. Decide for yourself.

Monday—Is He Really in—Warner Baxter, Helen Vinson, Warner Oland. Not this one either. But we like Warner (Charlie Chan) Oland.

Tuesday—Music Range. South! The song, "Boulevard of Broken Dreams," was a hit. Constance Bennett is simply lovely, and Franchot Tone makes out, hearts go thud. The Bowdoin players, Tullio Carminetti are good, and it may be your last chance to see Gene Colburn. See it if you haven't already.

Wednesday—My Life Begins—John Boles, Lillian Harvey, El Brendel. We are not quite sure we remember this, but anyway we like John Boles.

Thursday—Moving Gopher—Katharine Hepburn, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Adolphe Menjou. Miss Hepburn won the prize for the year's best acting for her role in this. It's good, and she's marvelous. See it!

is meaningless unless it is translated to some service to education in the state.

Mrs. Joseph W. Johnson, chairman of the Fourth Alumnae Association, spoke of the rapid material progress of the college, made during the last decade. She saw the need of the college, the alumnae, and the state working together for the betterment of the institution.

Greetings from about alumnae were read by Mrs. Perry at the close of the program. The actresses were brought to an end by the singing of the college song.

Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the university, and Dr. Julius Faust were among those on the speakers' platform.

Has Field Ball.

STUDENT LEADS HIKING

Miss Ethel Martus Coaches Volley Ball;
Orchestra, Clogging Club, Dolphin
Hold Practices.

With a quick bully and a short pass they're off, to spend the best time of the day playing a game that finds its way to the hearts of all sport lovers—hockey. This year Miss Lucile Hutaff is the head of that sport, with the following staff of student coaches: Christiana McFadyen, Anna Mae Smith, Winifred Haddison, Raye Owen, Bee Westervelt, Susan Hamlin, Margaret Franks, and Myrtle Rowe. Mary Tyler is the student head of hockey. The classes are well represented on the field, and from the looks of things, the coming class tournament is going to be one of the stiffest yet.

Soccer, also a major sport, has as its head Miss Aldace Fitzwater, of the physical education faculty. Catherine Royster is the student head, and coaches are Jessie Bell Lewis, Emerald Reynolds, Aileen Pendleton, Ellen Sherwood, Elizabeth Drake, and Nell Stallings.

Miss Ethel Martus is faculty head of volleyball, and Dorothy Yarbrough, student head. Coaches are Doris Wilkins, Florence Nelson, Ernestine Johnson, and Anna Mae Smith.

Field ball is headed by Miss Grace Hankins. Alice Knott is the student head of that sport. Both volley ball and field ball are minor fall sports, holding practice for all classes on Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Field ball was tried out year before last as a minor sport and students liked it so much that it still remains as such. It is a combination of soccer formation and basketball technique, played on a field slightly smaller than a soccer field.

This year upperclassmen who wish to be allowed to go out for a major sport, or for a minor sport and one hour of regular gym in place of their usual gym class. They will get class credit, and, in addition to that, they will get the regular number of points, that is, 50 points for attendance of 60 per cent of the practices, 75 points for second team, and 100 points for first team.

These four sports are not the only fall activities. Hikes, led by Rowena Wilkenson, are held every morning at 6:15, starting from the gym.

Orchestra and Clogging Club are holding practices now previous to try-outs to be held soon, and Dolphin Club is planning an exhibition for Tuesday, October 23, so be on the lookout for it!

Camp Ahutforform Guests

Last week-end Camp Ahutforform was opened for the 1934-35 season. The A. A. Cabinet members were guests. Those present included Doris Poole, president of the association; Margaret Moore, Katherine Miller, Marie Torrey, Mavis Mitchell, Nell Stallings, Alice Dickinson, Christianna McFadyen, and Kate Urquhart. Miss Martus and Miss Davis, both members of the physical education faculty, chaperoned the party. All the members of the physical education faculty and Dr. Geneva Drinkwater were guests of honor at dinner Sunday.

Misses Phyllis Morrah and Dorothy Fitzpatrick attended the Duke-Clemson game in Durham on Saturday.

House Party

Mary Reeves very delightfully entertained friends at her home in Graham for the week-end. Her guests were Lib Polston, Sarah Ambrose, Carmen Austin, and Frances Boyette.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED BY COLLEGE ORCHESTRA

Places in Orchestra Are Filling Rapidly; Persons Playing Strings Invited.

ORCHESTRA TO GIVE RECITAL

The college orchestra held its first meeting Tuesday evening, October 2, in the recital hall of the Music building. All the places in the orchestra are filling rapidly; but anyone who plays oboe, bassoon, french horn, trumpet, and any string instrument is urged to come to the next meeting, which will be held in Students building Tuesday at 7:30.

The officers for the year are: President, Gladys Black; vice-president, Genevieve Corbett; secretary, Mercer Reaves; assistant secretary, Lois King; librarian, Bobbie Cuthrell; publicity manager, Betty Story.

Plans are being made for a recital in the near future with the Chapel Hill orchestra. If these plans are completed, the combined orchestras will appear here under the direction of E. A. Sloeum, the Chapel Hill orchestra conductor, and at Chapel Hill under the direction of H. H. Fuchs, Woman's College orchestra director.

Little Sisters Honored

Lily McEachern, Rosabelle Hinton, and Aileen Crowder were joint hostesses at a delightful bridge party in Gray dormitory last Thursday night in honor of their little sisters. The players included Vivian Dickson, Ruth Gill, Frances Misenheimer, Maxine Lowdermilk, and Katherine Baxter. Vivian Dickson won high score prize, an attractive boudoir novelty. Delicious refreshments were served.

MISS MARY PETTY GIVES INFORMAL TEA

College Chemistry Majors Reorganize Science Club and Make Plans for the Year.

Miss Mary Petty served tea for an informal meeting of the chemistry majors last week. After some discussion, it was decided to reorganize the Chemistry Club. A constitutional committee, composed of Alice Johnson, Frances Upchurch, and Mary Pierce, was elected, as well as a program committee, Genevieve Corbett, Kate Wilkins, and Rachel Stevens, whose work is to outline a general program for the year.

The first regular meeting of the Chemistry Club will be held at the home of Miss Schaeffer at 7:30 Thursday night, October 11.
