ORGANIZATION "PINE NEEDLES" AT WORK

Students Must Back the College Annual

A mysterious man has been seen on the campus carrying an artistic look and an enormous black portfolio. Not a count in disguise was he but merely a photographer with an eye on the "Pine Needles" business.

The "Pine Needles" staff has gone to work with a vim and has already gotten the annual plans well under way. Naturally nothing very definite has yet been done as to the real make-up of the book, but the business managers have been hard at work on the advertising end and guarantee that $1,500 worth of ads will be gotten. Several photographic concerns have bid for the picture making and the staff will see that the college gets the best work possible for the least expense. No contract has been signed as yet, but the picture deal will probably be closed early next week and the photographing begun right away.

The staff held a meeting Tuesday evening in Mr. Thornton's office and with the help of the faculty advisory committee discussed pros and cons of annual making. The staff is now complete, the final elections having taken place at the last Friday's mass meeting. As it now stands the staff is as follows:

The faculty advisory committee is composed of Miss Hope, Miss Barrow and Mr. Thornton.

The "Pine Needles" is the book that represents the college life. It is a part of every girl on the campus. It is an advertiser of what the college is—its aims, its achievements, its ideals. It should have in it the best of every one and it is deserving of every one's most earnest effort. The staff cannot achieve success without the student body wholly and solidly back of them. The student body owns the annual and it is their duty to make it a success. They must give financial backing, they must give spiritual backing. Any idea on any phase of the "Pine Needles" will be welcome. As the expression of the individu-

DR. FOUST OUTLINES PLANS FOR THE FUTURE DEVELOPMENT OF COLLEGE

Overcrowded Condition of All Colleges—Urgent Need For Relief

At the regular mass meeting in the auditorium on last Friday night Dr. Foust startled the students by the revelations made in his inspiring talk to them. He said that of the seven hundred and sixty students enrolled this year, three hundred and twenty-nine were new students. These, he feels confident, will appreciate their opportunities to the fullest, for there were three hundred other applicants against whom the college was compelled to close its doors, due to the utter lack of space. In addition to these there were one hundred and eighty-one who wrote asking to apply, but were discouraged in even doing this because there was no hope for them. All this, said Dr. Foust, took place in spite of the fact that the college does no advertising, and in spite of the fact that the word became scattered over the state that the college was not encouraging applications. In all there were nearly five hundred young women refused admission to this college this year. Many parents wrote, and even came in person, begging that their daughters be given a place; he told us that one mother was even willing for her daughter to stay in one of the basements or anywhere she could be stowed away.

This, Dr. Foust said, is not only the case with this college, but with the University as well; nor does it stop with the state schools. The denominational and private schools, too, are overcrowded and have been forced to turn down many applications. All need to enlarge their present plants, is the belief of Dr. Foust, and while he would be willing to work for all of them, his whole force and energy are united in the effort to bring about conditions rendering it possible that this college may

NEW HEAD OF BIOLOGICAL DEPARTMENT BEGINS DUTIES

At last the new biology head has come to definitely make his home at the college. Much interest has been manifested in the late arriving biological gentleman and everybody extends to him a most hearty welcome.

Mr. Givler arrived October 10, but was obliged to return to Camp Dix, N. J., to receive his discharge and then came back to N. C. C. W. on Wednesday. He has been in the army two years and two months in the departments of bacteriology and sanitation, where he received the intensive training given to officers being prepared for service overseas. Mr. Givler wishes it known, however, that he did not go to France, received no medal and is in no way a "hero."

Before going into the army Mr. Givler had ten years experience in teaching in colleges and universities. He taught at the Johns Hopkins summer school and in the University of Tennessee, and has done graduate work at Haverford college in New York City and in the American Mu-

INVITATIONS TO JOIN SOCIETIES ARE GIVEN

Much Joy and Interest Shown—New Girls Excited Over Initiation

The most exciting and altogether most wonderful time of the year came Monday when the new girls received their invitations to join the Adelpia, Cornelian and Dikean Literary Societies. At 5 o'clock they trooped into the auditorium, eager to see what Dr. Foust had to tell them, and when they saw what really was in store for them, they were "too thrilled for words." It seemed an eternity to the old girls waiting outside before the new girls finally made a mad rush for the street. Some were in tears, but most of them seemed to be supremely happy. Each one duly congratulated everyone else for being a member of her particular Society and each old girl wanted some new girl to wear her pin.

There are about 118 new members of each Society and an average of five faculty members. The Dikean initiation was Thursday night; the Adelpian Friday night, and Cornelian initiation is to be Saturday night. The Adelpian initiation was followed by an elaborate banquet at which a great deal of joy was manifested. The Cornelian banquet will take place Saturday night.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Students who are 21 years of age and over are allowed to return to their homes for the purpose of registering.

That is really her duty. She must gain votes for her party. N. C. C. W. girls are at liberty to influence G. C. votes for either party, since the students of both colleges on November 4th will cast their votes together. The polls will be located half-way between the two campuses.

National Democratic and Republican conventions will be held the first part of next week, to organize more fully their party campaigns. Each party will have at least one person from off campus to speak on the subject "Why I Vote As I Do."

Let us enter this campaign seriously and not light-heartedly. And although our votes will not actually count in the big election we will have learned the all-important principle in politics, the honest and best way to vote.

Any upper-classman can talk to and influence any under-classman.

CORRECTION COLUMN

The query for the debate to be given during the week after Thanksgiving was misquoted in the last issue of The Carolinian. The question for the debate is: "Resolved, That the coal mines of the United States should be placed under complete national control."

Mr. Williams was misquoted in the last issue of The Carolinian. His "Get Rich" motto is:

Keep all you've got Get all you can,
Pay no debts and Trust no man.

In the Current Events column of the last Carolinian the proposed amendments were to the North Car-the United States constitution. The proposed increase taxation is a maximum of 15 cents on the hundred dollars and not on the dollar.

And every color turns to blue,
Then wake up yourself with this line
To tell the world you're feeling fine:

Just what a fellow ought to be;
Try thinking this and then they'll see
"Ain't it good to be alive!"

ALUMNAE

Miss Alice Vaiden Williams entertained for Miss Isabel Bouldin at the Y. W. Hut last Saturday afternoon at 3:30.

On arriving the guests were given long toasting sticks and gathered around the Hut fire-place to toast marshmallows. While attractive souvenirs in the shape of a Hut were being given out Martha Fry, a little relative of the hostess, entered carrying yellow and white chrysanthemums. After the flowers were presented to Miss Bouldin the announcement of her marriage to Mr. Edmunds, of Lynchburg, Va., on December the first was made.

The Hut souvenirs, upon which each person wrote ridiculous advice as to the correct way in which to manage a husband created a great deal of fun.

Fruit, cakes and coffee were served after which every one gathered the piano and sang. At five-thirty the happy party left the Hut.

Education

There was a meeting of the Parents' and Teachers' association of the training school on last Thursday at 4 o'clock. The feature of the afternoon was Miss Walker's interesting talk on "How to Study."

The class in school management visited the high school on Spring street this week.

Physical Education

All gymnasium work has been begun and things are going splendidly on the physical education department. All classes except theory will be held out of doors as long as the weather permits; hockey being the chief pursuit just at present.

The juniors have two periods a week, one of theory under Miss Coleman, and one of dancing under Miss Davenport. Several of the juniors are to help in coaching the freshman hockey classes and thus gain experience along the line of coaching.

The seniors take no regular gymnastic work, but those specializing in education are teaching physical culture, in the training school, under the direction of Miss Coleman.

They seem to find this more play than work; especially was this true when on last Saturday Miss Coleman and her Ford—commonly known as "Henry,"—took some of them on a picnic. Those who went were: Mary Blair, Evelyn Wilson, Willie Lou Jordon and Frances Black.

Mr. Thornton's class in journalism is taking about ten of the foremost dailies in America, representing the entire journalistic spirit of the country. Chicago, Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Kansas City and Dallas are among those cities represented.
These papers are on file in the upstairs of the library and any one is at liberty to make use of them.

double its plant and equipment in five years' time. If conditions continue to be in the future as they have been in the past, President Foust thinks that by the end of five years two thousand young women will be demanding entrance into the North Carolina College, and he hopes that North Carolina will render it possible for the college to receive them all. Heretofore, according to Dr. Foust, North Carolina's cry has been "poverty" when asked for appropriations for educational purposes; but this can no longer be used, for North Carolina's wealth has been rapidly increasing until last year, when she paid to the Federal Government for taxes more than any other two southern states. A state cannot afford to develop such great wealth and allow her young men and women to remain ignorant, for her power will be undermined. Therefore, North Carolina must awaken to her needs and answer the demands of her youth for educa-

All through his address Dr. Foust kept appealing to the student body to help him in this work by telling the people throughout the state of the present conditions. It is his belief that if the people only realize the crying need for a larger plant and more equipment, that adequate legislation will result. Are you going to do your part to bring this about?

"SPECIAL" NEWS

On Tuesday afternoon the Special class was organized and the following officers elected: President, Katherine Boyd; vice-president, Annis Smoot; Secretary, Thelma Cole; treasurer, Ann Eliza Grimes; cheerleader, Elsie Freedman; athletic manager, Mary Young Crowell.

Miss Mary Lena Casteen, a former special student, made an inspiring talk to the business girls Tuesday morning. Miss Casteen was one of the most brilliant students in the department and came here as a gold medal winner, having made the highest average during the whole four years in her high school at Goldsboro. She is now considered one of the most competent stenographers in her hometown.

The department is continually receiving letters from its former students telling of successful work in various fields. One of the most interesting of these is the following:

Oct. 15, 1920.

Mr. E. J. Forney,

N. C. C. W.,

Greensboro, N. C.

Dear Sir:

This is to inform you of the fact that the "red-headed dummy" of the upper class of 1920 is, and has been for some time working under the civil service and for the satisfactory services rendered is demanding $1,400 per annum and living on the expectation of a raise.

Respectfully yours,

ANNIE WATT,

seum of Natural History, where Dr. Gudger is now located. It will be interesting to know that he and Dr. Gudger are friends of long standing having first met in 1907.

Mr. Givler says that he comes not only to inherit the good things Dr. Gudger and his present colleagues have developed but also to further the work and carry it on to heights not before anticipated. He declares that although he is trained in scientific biology and interested in research work he is even more interested in the application of biology to human progress—to the upbuilding of the community. He believes that the big problems left by the war can in part be solved by the practical application of biology. The country, he says, needs a great deal of development in a social way and some American problems of democracy depend on the scientific knowledge of all people. The aim of biology is to help humanity by a wide distribution of scientific knowledge.

Mr. Givler has a definite program mapped out for the carrying out of his policy and has found Dr. Foust in perfect accord with his plans. He says that Dr. Foust has inspired him with confidence to go ahead with his program to the best of his strength and ability as well as has the splendid co-operation of the other members of the department whose excellent work he wishes to commend.

The proposed plans and ideals for furthering the biological work are as follows:

1. To carry on work as now planned.
2. To organize and develop health course.
3. To conserve ideals and material equipment of department.
4. To plan improvements for the future.

The health course is to be made good and thorough. It has two main objects:

1. To teach the principles of hygiene to our students.
2. To teach them to teach others and thus spread the gospel.

Biological part of health course is to be under the direction of head of biological department.

Plans for the course in medical laboratory work:

Project to train young women as laboratory technicians for doctors and hospital work in communities. There is a large field open in North Carolina in this.

Mr. Givler has expressed his pleasure at the reception given him by both faculty and students, and speaks with warmth of being able to be here. His wife and little five-year-old daughter, Genevieve, are now visiting in Pennsylvania, and will come to Greensboro about November 1. He also desires everybody to know the rest of his family is better looking than he is!

CLASS OF '24 ORGANIZED AT ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING

Margaret John First President

The class of 1920 held its first class meeting Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock in Curry Chapel. Mr. Forney has hitherto organized the freshmen, but this year the juniors asked permission to organize their sisters. There has never been such a freshman class as this one, and such enthusiasm has never before been exhibited. Every freshman came away from the class meeting with the idea of making her class the very best on the campus, and this college the very best in the south.

Margaret John was elected first president out of a long list of candidates, and Sara Virginia Heilig was elected vice-president. The other officers are as follows: Frances Jones, secretary; Maie Sanders, treasurer; Mary Braeme Jones, critic; Ina May LeRoy, cheer leader; and Loula Moody, athletic manager. The Lavendar and White standard has truly been raised on the campus.

Mavis Burchette spent last weekend in Winston-Salem.

Margaret Stroud is in Chapel Hill this week-end.

TO THE TUNE OF THE FIRE- GONG

Whether they had suddenly become ardent admirers of the sunrise, or whether they had come forth to help Chanticleer usher in the dawn, nobody knows. But at any rate the inmates of Spencer were seen draped gracefully on the outside of their building Monday for about a half-hour in the early hours of the morning.

The sun perhaps blinked his eyes in astonishment to find many up ahead of him, some throwing water on N. C. C. kitchen, one madly ringing the fire gong, and three or four hundred peculiarly clad girls rushing forth from all entrances and exits.

Many girls secretly hoped that the liver brarel was burning, and some, too sleepy to hope, leaned against the steps and took the first beauty nap of their lives when they were really be sprinkled with dew-drops.

To save our fire chief from the wrath of the mob, we wish to state that she had nothing whatever to do with the inconvenient blaze behind the kitchen stove. In fact (whisper it!) she would have slept soundly through it all, had not the inhabitants of another building, rudely awakened from their hard-earned slumbers, pulled her out of bed that she might go and plug the alarm.

Also we wish to commend the cooks who turned in the alarm, put out the fire, caused the excitement, which, like variety, is the spice of life; indeed, did it all, and then had our breakfast for us at 7:15 on the dot.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER CONFERENCE IS HELD

Convenes in Greensboro—Meetings at G. C. and N. C. C. W.

The State Student Volunteer Conference met at this college on Saturday, October 16, with representatives from Elon, Davidson, Trinity, Guilford and Greensboro college.

At the meeting of the executive committee on Saturday afternoon plans for the year were discussed. It was decided to divide the state of North Carolina into three districts, central, eastern and western; the colleges in each district working together. The main work for the year will be deputation work among the local churches and in the vicinity of the campus. Efforts will be made to organize Student Volunteer bands in all the colleges, and to get new members into those already organized.

This important business meeting was followed by a very enjoyable social in the Hut, and at a meeting of all the delegates on Saturday night the plans made by the committee were presented.

On Sunday afternoon at the Greensboro college, Miss Dobson, the traveling secretary of the Student Volunteer band, spoke to the conference on India. This talk was a stirring message from the foreign field, urging the volunteers on to further work, and showing the great need for such work.

THE POLITICAL CAMPAIGN ON THE CAMPUS

Is our political campaign that we planned and accepted so enthusiastically, working out as we hoped for it to do? We planned the campaign in order that we might gain information regarding the political issues. Instead of that, we are using the campaign to deface posters that have been put up by the different parties, and hooting at those who may not be in what you might call "the right party." We are acting more like a group of grammar school children than college students. Let's right about face, and make our political campaign mean what we intended that it should.

Miss King and Miss Mullen returned from New York Tuesday night.

ATHLETICS

Constructive plans for the athletic association were discussed Tuesday morning at an enthusiastic meeting. New officers of the association are: Jessie Rose, Sport-leader, Frances Singleton, Volley-ball sportleader.

Systematic hiking, which will make our recreation periods more enjoyable, has been planned. It was decided that hiking as other sports, would count in the athletic point system. Branson Price was elected hiking manager. In a few days, a schedule will be posted. Watch the bulletin board.

It was made a rule that every girl must have ten practices in basketball or hockey before she can become a member of a team. As the hockey tournament will be held on Thanksgiving Day, it is imperative that constant practice begin now. The basketball tournament will be played at the beginning of the spring term and practice must not be neglected because the team will be picked at the end of the fall term. The sport schedules have been posted. Come out for practice on the days that your class plays.

The new methods of physical culture are welcomed by all and a great impetus in athletics is anticipated.

If you have not joined the Athletic Association, don't neglect it any longer. Be the "Maximum" student.
